

THE BOSS Norman Allen can't be blamed for this column this week. He is somewhere in the wilds around Norris Dam fishin', or, if those three healthy youngsters of Mr. and Mrs. Allen are doing as usual when they get their daddy in the country, he will be playing more games and giving little time to the rod and reel.

THE QUIET PRIMARY The quiet primary should make it possible for a quick healing of what few "wounds" there were. Not many harsh things were said, at least not so much but what a pat on the back and a few handshakes will cure.

A FRIENDLY TIP Congressman A. J. May might let himself be heard from just a wee bit oftener in the matter of a certain Senator Wheeler of Montana as well as the same Senator's pal, an ex-Colonel Lindbergh.

OUR ENEMY? Certain individuals who just don't agree with anything the administration does are trying to make much ado over the fact that for the time being we are on the side of Russia. These are the same people who have been telling us we had just as well let Hitler have what he wants. Time was when such people could reasonably be allowed the benefit of doubt as to their real intentions. That time is now past, any sane person can't help but know what is happening. There is only one decision to be made - BE AN AMERICAN, OR ELSE.

WORLD WAR I AND 2 Why all the complaint about the young men remaining in the army for a longer period? If we do not have any actual fighting they can come to no harm. If it should become necessary for us to defend ourselves in case of actual combat they will be well trained. The young men who now resent a short time in the army should hark back to World War I and remember if it had not been for their own fathers serving in the army under much more severe conditions, they probably would not have the privilege of defending free America today.

PLEASE, MOTHER To Carl Horn. Will you please put a sign on your warehouse telling people where your office is. They just can't believe THE TIMES is not where you should be. We will admit there are advantages of being next door to the warehouse - especially in hot weather when several truck loads of cabbage begin "hollering" for release from captivity.

NO CONSTABLE Since Woodrow Branham ran on a platform of, YOU HAVE TRIED 4-YEARS WITH A CONSTABLE, NOW TRY FOUR YEARS WITHOUT ONE, we are wondering whether we should place him on our list of successful candidates we expect to remind occasionally of the many promises they made.

MIDDLE CREEK WOMAN AT 59 MAKES FIRST VISIT HERE TO PLEAD FOR HER SON

If Adolph Hitler had stayed at home, it's almost a cinch that 59-year-old Suveela Nolen would have stayed at her home up on Beech Branch of Middle Creek and would never have come to Prestonsburg. Or eaten a bite of ice cream. Mrs. Nolen, mother of eight, who was born and reared on Beech Branch, 12 miles from here, came before Draft Board 44 last Wednesday to intercede in behalf of her son, Kelly, 24, who has been examined for possible military service. Till last Wednesday, though she had spent a few months on Salt Lick and Beaver Creek, this country, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. May Moore, she had never seen the horse never got the instant echo over

HALE SLAYER RUNS AMUCK, JAILER HURT

"I WANT TO KILL," GUNMAN SAYS IN STATEMENT

With the statement that he just wanted to kill a man, Joe Hall, ex-convict, recently released from the penitentiary, nonchalantly explained to Commonwealth's Attorney John Allen his reason for striking Famer and James Halbert over the head last Saturday at the county jail.

Famer, son of Jailer Will Halbert, was taken to the Paintsville hospital with a fractured skull on the upper-left side and slight paralysis of the left arm and leg. James, grandson of Mr. Halbert, received only scalp wounds.

The weapon used by Hall was a pin ball hammer, which, he stated to Mr. Allen, he found under his mattress. He disclaimed any knowledge of how the hammer got into his cell. It was rumored it was brought in by a cellmate, Earl Miller, who had been lodged in jail only a few days previously on drunk and disorderly charges.

The attack occurred at noon Saturday when Famer and James Halbert were feeding the prisoners. They were carrying a stack of trays and had just entered Hall's cell. Famer with his back to the prisoner. When Hall knocked Famer down James went to his rescue. Hall says he first struck James in the jaw with his left fist and then hit him with the hammer.

the hilltops. She was accompanied here by her husband, William Nolen, who joined her in telling draft board officials that Kelly, their only son, was their only means of support. Too, she pointed out, he is physically unsound. Neither she nor her husband is able to work, she said. Mrs. Nolen has been in ill health for 22 years and during that time she has not "seen the cornfield to strike a lick."

"We own our own home, but it's a little, rough farm," she explained, "and Kelly just works at whatever he can get to keep us up. And he's such a good boy," solicitous, motherly tones added.

The Nolens came to Prestonsburg in an automobile, but the Beech Branch road is not a route to entice the motorist. It's more "fitten" for travel afoot or on mule-back, Mrs. Nolen declared.

As the visitor sat at a window in the draft board office, eagerly watching for a glimpse of the passenger train, due shortly up-river, a cone of ice cream was brought her. She bit into it like a boy going for a ripe apple. "Ooh!—that's cold," she exclaimed, but continued eating with relish.

She then told of never hearing a radio, of not reading the newspapers on account of poor eyesight. "You must be a happy mortal—content to stay at home, away from trains and automobile, not concerned about radios and such things," a bystander commented.

Mrs. Nolen smiled her assent. "I'll be so happy if I can keep my boy at home," she murmured.

P'BURG SPLITS TWIN BILL

HEAVY HITTING FEATURES WIN BY P'BURG

After a runaway first game in favor of Prestonsburg, Wayland came back to win the second of a double-header at Wayland Sunday. In the first game the boys from Wayland just couldn't seem to get down to the business of garnering hits. In the second, they made up for the loss of the first by excellent team play, with only one error, while Prestonsburg came through with four.

Table with columns: Team, A, B, R, H, P, O, A, E. Rows include Wayland, Adkins, Imes, W. Ratliff, Jr., J. Ratliff, Sr., Martin, Noe, Staggs, Moore, Stephens, V. Patton, and Totals.

Table with columns: P'burg, Roark, Crum, Heinze, P. Butcher, Wiggins, B. Butcher, Salisbury, Damron, Vanhooze, May, C. Patton, Prater, Branham, and Totals.

Summary: Earned runs—Prestonsburg 11, Wayland 3. Runs batted in—P. Butcher 4, Branham.

TO THE PEOPLE OF FLOYD COUNTY:

Regardless of what I may say it would be impossible for me to express in words my appreciation for the support given me in the primary.

To those candidates who opposed me, I extend thanks for the clean manner in which they conducted their campaigns. They, like myself, fought their own battle which left no scars.

We will march shoulder to shoulder for a sure victory in November. I promise you, the people, that during the next four years, you shall be proud of the job I will do as your Jailer.

No one, absolutely no one, had any promise from me in any way which could lead any one to believe the office of Jailer would be "split."

I AM UNDER NO OBLIGATION TO ANY ONE EXCEPT YOU, THE CITIZENS OF THIS GREAT COUNTY.

Your sincere friend, GUY HORN

Mrs. Moore, Victim Of Heart Attack

Mrs. May Moore, 33, wife of Monroe Moore, Orkney, died suddenly of a heart seizure Wednesday, July 30. Mrs. Moore collapsed on the lawn of their home while bathing one of her children. She had seemingly been in good health up to this time.

Besides her husband she is survived by six children: Willis, Ernest, Wilburn, Walter, Eliza Jane and Georgia.

Funeral services were conducted from the home on Friday, the Revs. Lens Mosley and M. C. Wright officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery under the direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

WALLEN JAILED AT LEXINGTON

CLAIM EXCESSIVE FEE CHARGED BY ATTORNEY

A fugitive for 18 months, William S. Wallen, 55, Prestonsburg attorney, was recently arrested and is being held in jail at Lexington facing a federal grand jury indictment. Wallen was charged with violation of a federal law in charging an excessive fee for collection of a World War risk insurance claim.

The alleged offense occurred December 21, 1939, when Wallen contracted for and received a fee of $5,630.34 from Marion Hall for collection of a World War Risk insurance policy on Hall's son, Robert S. Hall. Marion Hall received $13,786 as the beneficiary.

The federal penal provision prohibits charging more than $10 as attorney fees on any claims arising from a World War Risk insurance policy.

A complaint charging Wallen with the offense was filed with United States Commissioner William Martin at Lexington last February 28 and the federal grand jury indicted Wallen March 24.

Wallen, an attorney for 30 years, is held in Fayette county jail in default of $2,500 bond set by the United States district court at the time the indictment was returned.

THINK TAX BILL TO BE REVISED; HOUSE TO VOTE ON MEASURE

Washington—The huge $3,206,200,000 defense tax bill, which would give the government its biggest cut of the national income, went to the Senate this week bearing a thumping House approval, but almost immediately there was talk that it might yet undergo major revisions.

It passed the House by a vote of 369 to 30 after it had first been stripped of a provision for requiring all married persons to file joint income tax returns. This provision had been counted on to raise about $323,000,000 in additional revenue by compelling many married persons to pay higher surtaxes.

The defeat of the joint return clause—by a 242 to 160 vote—was attributed to a great extent to the criticism voiced by President Roosevelt who wanted it modified to exempt the incomes actually earned by either husbands or wives.

Members of the Ways and Means Committee, who balked at recommending the President's proposal, were joined by other legislators in warning that further increases in individual income taxes would be necessary to make up the lost revenue.

At the other end of the Capitol, Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Finance Committee, expressed belief the Senate would not seek to reinstate the controversial provision but would try to make up the deficiency elsewhere, possibly by revision of the income tax brackets to broaden the base. He said his committee would hear an explanation of the bill by treasury experts and begin a two-weeks public hearing on Friday.

Sudden Death Takes Miner On New Job

Just eight days after he had returned to work at the Utility Elk-horn Coal Company, after a lay-off of two years, Cassy Jones, 27, Martin, was instantly killed when run over by a car in the mine, which, it is understood, crushed his chest. The accident occurred Thursday, July 31.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Roxie Chambers, and two half-brothers, Macon Mosley and Harry Chambers, all of Martin.

The body was taken to the old homeplace in Knott county, and funeral rites were conducted at the Dema cemetery on Sunday, the Rev. Rice officiating. Burial was made under the direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

To the People of Floyd County:

By a majority of 2,267 you have nominated me for a second time to the office of County Judge. For your votes and support I am thankful and shall not forget my loyal friends and supporters. I shall be anxious to show my appreciation in the future.

To those of you who opposed me, I want to say I have not the least of prejudice or ill will. You opposed me honestly, believing you were right. If I am elected and serve you the next four years, I shall not consider whether you supported me or not. I will be the County Judge of all the people, and I do not want you to hesitate to call upon me for any service.

My opponents have fought hard and gentlemanly, and I congratulate them for their sportsmanship. I think my large majority is not a reflection upon either of my opponents, but the expression of appreciation for the hard work I have done during the past three and a half years.

I solicit your support in November, and I know you will not fail. I pledge my honor and my word to work hard, take care of your tax money, and give you a sober and able administration.

Thankfully yours, EDW. P. HILL

SATURDAY'S PRIMARY, QUIET

LIGHT VOTE POLLED DESPITE HECTIC CAMPAIGN

Floyd county just went through one of the quietest primary elections in its history. Headline hunters from out of the state had to look to Boyd, Harlan and into what is normally "just another election" Blue Grass section.

In the county seat of Boyd the Mayor of Catlettsburg and a candidate for re-election landed in jail, accused of cutting a candidate for County Attorney.

On election day there were rumors of shootings and the same rumors had at least six people killed. They turned out to be nothing more than the over-worked imagination of morbid thrill seekers.

The following tabulation is subject to correction as to the total vote. Any deviation which may be shown from the totals to be taken from the election books will in no wise affect the winners as given below. Next week THE TIMES will publish the vote by precincts.

Floyd High School Girl Has Letter Published In "Point of View"

A "Letter to the Editor" written by Edna Hayes, 15-year old daughter of W. P. Hayes, Fed, was published in the August 3 edition of The Courier-Journal under the title "Third Term is Successful." Miss Hayes, a junior in the Wheelwright high school, is now attending the Breckinridge Training School of the Morehead State Teachers' College during the ten-weeks summer term. The "Letter to the Editor" was written as a part of her regular work in an English class she is taking at Breckinridge.

Also attending Breckinridge from Floyd is Edna's brother Carl, another junior from Wheelwright high school. Carl and Eda are living with their mother, Mrs. W. P. Hayes, in Morehead until August 22, the end of the summer session, at which time they will return to their home at Fed.

Blackleg Appears In Ky. Herds

Reports of Blackleg in cattle are being received at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. The disease has been especially prevalent among young calves in the central counties. In suckling calves, blackleg often is not accompanied by the usual swelling, and so sometimes is not recognized.

The remedy for blackleg—or rather the prevention—is blackleg vaccine, says Dr. W. W. Dimock, head of the department of animal pathology at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics. Farmers who have valuable calves, upon which they expect to make money at some future date, should consider vaccinating them as insurance against blackleg, Dr. Dimock pointed out.

College Suggests Drying of Peaches

Large quantities of peaches should be dried, as well as canned, suggest food specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. Food prices are rising. It is hoped, says the statement, that every family that possibly can will dry, can or otherwise preserve large quantities of peaches. The college, through its extension service, is waging a statewide campaign to encourage home use of a large part of the peach crop.

Suggestions for drying peaches, offered by Miss Florence Imlay and Mrs. Pearl Haak of the college's home demonstration department, follow:

Use firm, well-ripened peaches. Handle carefully to prevent bruising. Wash, peel, remove stones, and hold 15 to 20 minutes in a solution made of a tablespoon of salt to a quart of water. Arrange in trays. Cover tightly with screen. Place trays in the sun or a very slow oven, about 125 to 200 degrees. If dried in the sun, take into the house at night. Process complete when handful of slices has elastic stringy feel, and separates when pressure is removed. The peaches should be thoroughly dried. Store in tin boxes or glass jars with tight fitting covers or put in paper bags and tie tightly. Keep in a cool place.

Enthusiastic? Sure she is! And no wonder—the beauty of this new Maytag Master Washer is almost sensational.

Streamlined throughout, with gleaming, high-bake enamel finish, it's the handsomest washer we've ever seen—and you'll say the same. It's handsome in performance, too—the larger cast-aluminum tub provides 50% greater washing capacity. Powered for city or farm homes. Easy to own, on easy terms. Come in and see it—or phone for a free trial washing in your own home.

WE DID IT

THE primary election is over. Floyd county may well be proud. Not one shooting scrape, hardly an argument; and the indications are the majority voted according to the dictates of their conscience, irrespective of the many thousands of one dollar bills that were supposedly floating around.

There were rumors of chain ballots and money by the bucketfuls, but these were mostly rumors or else any effort at chain balloting and buying of votes was broken up early in the day. The votes cast were approximately half of the number expected. It was a beautiful day, not too hot, and the interest seemingly keyed to the highest pitch. Something went wrong (for some of the candidates), too many people stayed away from the polls and it would seem those who did turn out voted their sentiment, nothing else.

Whatever the reason for the honest vote, whether it was because certain candidates "crossed" each other at the last moment, whether the "floating" vote doubted the existence of the money, whether there was fear in their hearts of a grand jury investigation, whether the strikers made suckers of those candidates who had the money, or whether the reason was all these combined, it does not matter. What does matter is that the people of Floyd county can hold their heads high and for the first time in many long years sit on the sideline and smile while the press in distant cities literally gnashes its teeth at the loss of the best customer it had for exciting headlines on election day.

All will not agree that the best men have been nominated. The good, old red-blooded American in these parts believes his kin-folk is the best man, but the very fact that we are all 100 per cent Americans we believe our neighbor has the same privilege as ourselves in selecting the candidate he wishes to represent him. We know if we do not allow this privilege to our neighbor, he will not allow it to us.

The time will come when voting machines will be accepted universally because of their accuracy and speed. With them the public will demand the polls be roped off according to the law and no one except the qualified officers of the election and the persons actually casting their votes will be allowed inside. The majority of citizens are honest and would be willing for a fair vote as long as they were assured it was fair on all sides. More candidates would rather take their chances on an honest vote—the trouble in the past the most of them could not believe such a thing could happen.

While our hands may not have been lily-white in the election just past, they were clean, and many the father and mother may look proudly toward the horizon and see the shining face of their child rising with tomorrow's sun when the individual and not the dollar will be the controlling factor in an election.

Nearly 1½ million officers and men of our armed forces were transported by the Railroads during the first six months of 1941! This required 2,861 special trains and also many special routings—without the slightest interference with other traffic! Yes, the Railroads are meeting the extra demands of National Defense and taking them in their stride!

Who operates the world's greatest laundry? No, it's not the Chinese—it's the Pullman Co.! Their laundries wash an average of more than one-half million pieces of linen for each work day!

The highest point reached by a railroad in the United States is the summit of Pike's Peak in Colorado, 14,109 feet above sea level, reached by the Manitou & Pike's Peak (cog) Railroad.

Imperial Salon Coaches on Chesapeake and Ohio's famous trains, THE GEORGE WASHINGTON, THE SPORTSMAN and THE F. V., have deep-cushioned reclining seats, carpeted floors, individual reading lights, modern lighting, free porter service, and many other features... all at the same low coach fares!

Ever wonder why coal from mines along the Chesapeake and Ohio has that extra heating power? It's because coals from this region have a low ash and moisture content and just the right combination of hydrogen and carbon!

Conservation Textbook Ready for Distribution

Frankfort, Ky., July 31 (Spl)—Kentucky's first "semi-textbook" on the conservation of natural resources and wildlife has gone to the printer and will be ready for distribution the latter part of August. This handbook for teachers is being made possible by the joint cooperation of the Division of Game and Fish, the League of Kentucky Sportsmen and the State Department of Education.

The first printing order calls for 7,500 copies of the 350-page handbook for teachers. John Brooker, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, has agreed to distribute 6,000 copies of the book in the state's four rooms and up. The League of Kentucky Sportsmen will distribute 1,500 copies in smaller rural schools during Wildlife Week in October.

The "Handbook on Conservation" will contain extra-curricular classroom lessons in conservation for pupils beginning in the first grade and extending through high school. There will be approximately 125 pages of pictures dealing with wildlife, both game and fish, state forests, trees, state parks, state fish hatcheries, quail rearing and holding units, and numerous other interesting pictures. The index will contain a complete and up-to-date list found in Kentucky waters compiled by Minor Clark, superintendent of hatcheries for the Division of Game and Fish; a list of birds, both resident and migratory, by Burt L. Moore, state ornithologist, a list of mammals as furnished by Prof. W. R. Allen of the University of Kentucky, a list of the more common trees, and other interesting facts and information.

the livestock capacity of pastures. Treated pastures required an average of slightly less than two acres to carry 1,000 pounds of livestock, while untreated pasture required 4.29 acres. The tests were made in demonstrational work supervised by the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

IT HAPPENED IN OUR TOWN

NEARLY every week of my life I have been told some tall tale and assured of its being true, for "it happened in our town." Often elaborate backgrounds are built up, with genuine character touches of celebrities that the narrator actually knew. Then comes the tale, and I must—for the sixteenth time—look astonished and laugh or migrate or look disgusted, whatever is expected of me. Not then but later I may pass the yarn on to some one else and explain that it is a folk yarn, old as the hills and therefore widespread in distribution, only to have another tall-tale spinner match it with another from his home town.

Just how literally these yarns are believed I have no way of knowing. Some people have felt hurt when the tall tale was questioned, for they had been assured by Father or Mother or Uncle Ben that thus and so was a fact! Of course, political speakers and professional entertainers, even in Fidelity, told yarns we had heard before and showed by their mimicry that it was fiction, but many of us wondered where the visitors had learned our true stories.

One of the most valuable courses I have ever had dealt with the folk tale and its allied forms: jokes, yarns, fables, fairy stories, illustrative moral anecdotes. As a project I took the "That reminds me" type of story and read many of the mediaeval stories written in German and French and Latin. To my surprise I found many of the true stories of Fidelity, ones authenticated by our most truthful yarn-spinners, reposing in mediaeval joke books in another language, already old and bearing the marks of having been told hundreds of times to open-mouthed audiences. Many of them, I must confess, were of the sort that we do not tell in mixed audiences. Taste has changed since they were written down, but the same old yarns appear over and over wherever men assemble, being given each generation a new locale, a new set of characters.

And here is the funny thing about this whole genre of folk tales: the setup or motif is such that probably many of the stories have actually been eacted hundreds of times during their long history. All my life I have heard of the lazy, good-for-nothing fellow who asked for some corn to take to the mill and would not accept it because it was not shelled. The yarn was spun so many times that I began to suspect that it could not have happened in the first place. And then came 1914, when I was a witness to its being enacted in the flesh. When I was visiting my parents-in-law in the summer of that year, a little girl who lived in a tenant house nearby come over and asked whether my folks had any tomatoes. "Lots of them," said my wife's mother. "Just go out into the garden and get all you want." "Oh, I thought they was picked," rejoined the little girl. And the sequel is that she went away sorrowful, like the rich young man in the Bible, minus tomatoes. That experience has made me think that every dumbbell yarn must have been acted out once or more.

Many literary scholars have worked on a tabulation of situations that can or may occur. Undoubtedly some of these situations are so full of folk elements that they are repeated over and over again, in every generation. It is barely possible, then, that your Uncle George DID take refuge in a country church during a rain and was grabbed by something, that he did escape without his coat and went back in broad daylight, properly attended, only to find the church the refuge of a crazy woman who had so frightened him.

I WAS A CANDIDATE . . .
And now I am free.
I am a DEFEATED CANDIDATE . . .
But I am not forlorn.
FOR—

On the voyage up Salt River, even if there is no yacht to bear me, I will be drifting idly, comfortably along, enjoying sweet surcease from fortune's and politics' tides.

On deck there will be an easy chair for me —from MORELL'S.

If I have a yen for fishing, there's my tackle with bait—from MORELL'S.

If there's a bit of cooking for the little woman to do—yes, I expect to take her along with me—the fine stove and all those pots and pans I bought FROM MORELL'S are the best.

The squirrel season's not far away, you guys who won should remember—and I'll be shootin' 'em out of the top branches up there on the good, old Salt. I'll be shootin' while the rest of you guys bicker and argue and contest, maybe. AND MY AMMUNITION—I warn you, squirrels!—it's good, IT CAME FROM MORELL'S.

And when this voyage is over, when my ship comes in at home port from the nether reaches of the Salt, there'll be the good, old home a-waitin'. Home . . . the easy chair, the mellow light, the quiet of an evening at home with the family—all of us comfortably seated, later to be luxuriously bedded, SINCE WE BOUGHT AT MORELL'S.

No, boys and girls—it's no major tragedy to lose under conditions such as these.
