SHOP TALK

What became of the headline? That's been the question around this office all week. Kentucky West Virginia's announcement last week was big news for us, as to almost everybody else in the county. This was what we had been waiting for, all these months. H. L. Ley, of the gas company, had made a special effort to see that we got at least an even break with the dailies on the story. We were going to slap a streamer on this one.

Well, the headline was written; but, as they say, there's many a slip 'twixt here and there. It disappeared between (or on) this desk and the composing room. If anybody finds that missing scrap of paper, any place but on this desk, please report to me. The line on it read: GAS COMPANY TO BUILD $9,000,000 PLANT.

A story in the morning paper says a blind man and his seeing-eye dog were killed Wednesday in Detroit by an automobile. You can say this about a seeing-eye dog: he won't send you where he is afraid to go, himself.

FISHERMEN ALLOWED

"Is This Floyd County Fish & Game Club liars' contest closed to professionals?" a reader inquires. We have checked with the proper authorities on this and have learned that professionals aren't barred. If they were, we were told, all fishermen would be excluded.

CENTER GETS BOARD HELP

County Board Executes Deed To Interest in Lot; Structure Being Planned

The Floyd County Health Center here drew a step nearer reality last week when the Floyd County Board of Education executed a deed for its interest in a lot for the building.

A site has been approved by the State Building and Properties Commission on the grounds of the present Prestonsburg high school, and the County Board's deed was to its interest in a parcel of those grounds fronting 100 feet on Second avenue.

The City Board some weeks ago adopted a resolution agreeing to deed to the Health Center its interest in the lot. The City Board will meet next Monday and may formally execute its deed at that time.

Plans for the structure are now being prepared by G. L. Shannon, of Prestonsburg, in cooperation with a Winchester architect. Local plans have envisioned the expenditure of $100,000 on the project, with state and Hill-Burton federal funds added.

FLOYD NATIVE NAMED WORLD COURT HEAD

Green Haywood Hackworth Becomes Court President; Jurst Born on Middle Cr.

Green Haywood Hackworth, native Floyd countian, has been named president of the International Court of Justice (the World Court), it was announced Wednesday from Geneva, Switzerland.

Judge Hackworth, famed authority on international law and a member of the World Court since 1946, will end his term on the Court in 1960.

The appointment marks the rise to the top spot in international law of the man who left his native community, the Spurlock Forks of Middle Creek, as a boy of 10.

The 72-year-old jurist, for 20 years the quiet legal genius who was legal adviser to the State Department and who has visited most capitals of the world with U. S. diplomatic missions, was born near what is now Dock postoffice, the son of Jonathan T. and Lydia Haywood Hackworth. When he was quite young his mother and his eldest sister died at Goodloe, on Middle Creek, and till he was 10 he stayed at the home of his maternal grandparents, Robert M. and Sarah J. Haywood, on Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek.

Then when his father went to Greenup the boy went with him. Since that time he has visited Floyd county on only one occasion, and that was when he was a stripling of 17. He now is 72.

To the late Congressman John W. Langley, also a native of Spurlock Fork, perhaps belongs most of the credit for Hackworth's start in the law. Hackworth had attended the old Willard (Ky.) Normal School and Valparaiso University at Valparaiso, Ind., when the Congressman took him to Washington with him. In the capital while working as a government clerk Hackworth attended Georgetown University Law School and, later, George Washington University.

It is said that Judge Hackworth began his government service in 1909 and that he worked seven years before he earned a salary of as much as $2,000 a year.

"Who's Who" says Judge Hackworth was admitted to the District of Columbia bar in 1912; became attorney for the State Department in 1916, and from 1918 to 1925 was solicitor for the State Department. From July, 1931 to March, 1937 he was legal adviser to the State Department, leaving that post to succeed Elihu Root as a member of the

COUNCIL GETS $2,000 GRANT

Mandt Receives Check For Retarded Children During Radio-TV Show

The Floyd County Council for Retarded Children received a $2000 grant Sunday from funds contributed last November during the WHAS Crusade for Children it was announced this week.

A. H. Mandt Manton coal operator and president of the Floyd Council received the check for $2000 Sunday afternoon from a member of the panel on the Moral Side of the News during an hour-long radio and television program Sunday afternoon over WHAS Louisville.

The grant was earmarked for these purposes: "To help launch the Council's work; to underwrite the costs of a clinic screening the handicapped youngsters of Floyd county to determine the nature of their illness and the treatment required, and to purchase hearing aids and eye glasses for indigent children who need them to enter school."

It was the only grant made to any group east of Lexington, and the award was hailed as a real material gain in the move to bring to retarded and handicapped children the special care and training that have been denied them in the past.

The Floyd County Council for Retarded Children was chartered barely in time to qualify for a grant from the WHAS fund. The move to bring aid and training to the retarded was launched a few months ago in the county by the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Martin, of Martin. Others became interested, and one clinic already has been held at Martin, with Dr. Leet, Lexington psychiatrist, as its head. A second clinic will be held within the next few weeks.

Ultimate aim of the council is to employ one or more special instructors to train retarded children.

Little League Baseball To Go On, Rimmer Says; Participants' Ages Set

Little League Baseball will definitely continue next summer, W. C. Rimmer, member of the Prestonsburg Athletic Association, announced this week.

The rules regarding the ages for participants will be the same as last year, when the boys had to come between the ages of eight to twelve to qualify for play. There will be at least four teams in the league.

Gordon Moore, last year's Commissioner of the Little League, informed the Times that there has been tentative plans of constructing a playing field for the Little League and a Junior League, which would accommodate boys in the ages of 13-16 and 17-20, to be organized in the future.

He emphasized that there is a great amount of laxness on the part of the parents who have failed so far to back this year's program. He concluded that if the parents do not help in the preparation for this coming season, there is danger of the Little League and its many benefits folding up.

SEVEN JUDGES VACATE BENCH

For Ruling on Discipline Cases Against Attorneys; Lewis Issues Statement

Chief Justice Brady M. Stewart announced Tuesday that all seven judges of the Court of Appeals have declined to sit in judgment on disciplinary cases against attorney Jesse K. Lewis, Lexington, and Commonwealth's Attorney Burnis Martin, Prestonsburg.

Chief Justice Stewart issued the following statement after the usual Tuesday conference of the Court of Appeals: "The Board of Bar Commissioners of the Kentucky State Bar Association has filed its findings and recommendations in each case and these two attorneys have 20 days in which to respond. They have been notified in the routine manner to file their responses."

"So much atmosphere has been built up in this case, and certain implications have gone out to the effect that these two men will not receive a fair and impartial hearing."

"Therefore, in order to dispel these implications, I am authorized by the court to state that every member of it has decided to vacate the bench and I, as chief justice, will certify this fact to the Governor on February 9—that we decline to sit or act in the determination of any phase of this proceeding against these two attorneys."

Governor Wetherby has been away on a Florida vacation and Lieutenant-Governor Beauchamp is serving as acting Governor. Although Wetherby is expected to return to his office "sometime this week", it is uncertain whether a special seven-judge Court of Appeals to hear the Lewis-Martin case will be appointed immediately by Beauchamp, or whether the appointment will be deferred until Wetherby returns.

Jesse K. Lewis issued a statement in reply to action of the State Board of Bar Commissioners recommending suspension from law practice for six months of Lewis and Burnis Martin.

The statement read: "In the first place, I want to assert that I am not guilty of any violation of law, legal ethics, or rules of court and that I will resist with all my strength the efforts which are being made to destroy me. "We requested that the hearing be held where the public could see and hear. This request was denied. We confidently assert that if the press would examine all the evidence in the case and publicize it, it would become readily apparent to all that I have done no wrong. (Although he used the word we, he said he spoke only for himself.) "I specially request that the press publicize the testimony of Judges (Bert) Combs, (James W.) Cammack, (Porter) Sims, and Lawrence (Grauman). A reading of their depositions will demonstrate conclusively that I was faithfully representing my clients. And this proof will clearly vindicate me. (All disciplinary proceedings against lawyers before the Board of Bar Commissioners are required to be secret by rules of the Court of Appeals. The records in such cases become public only when action by the commissioners is filed with the Court of Appeals.)

"Many men much more important than I have been persecuted, condemned, and crucified for speaking out against the evils which they saw

HEARING RESULT HOLDS TWO ATTORNEYS GUILTY OF UNPROFESSIONAL CONDUCT; MARTIN SAYS HE WAS DENIED REQUEST FOR AN OPEN HEARING

MAY POISON LAKE, FEB. 15

Tentative Date Is Set For Attempt To Reduce Dewey Shad Population

Next Tuesday is the date tentatively set for Operation Poison at Dewey Lake, members of the Floyd County Fish & Game Club were told at Allen Monday night.

The poisoning undertaking over the length of the lake will be made by airplane, and is designed to kill off the top-heavy population of large shad in the impoundment.

Although John W. Redwine, Seventh district conservation supervisor, said the Feb. 15 date has been tentatively agreed upon, the weather could cause a postponement. A water temperature of 50 degrees is considered ideal for the operation, and freezing weather could set the work back a matter of days or even weeks.

Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources biologists decided on the poisoning of the impoundment after the pressure of large shad in great numbers were detected during a study of the lake last year. It is held that these large shad have had the effect of reducing the normal shad spawn and that as a result of large rather than small shad being in preponderance crappie have had such a poor supply of food that they have not developed as they should.

Two shipments of deer have been added to the Dewey Lake game refuge within the last month, bringing to 46 the total of adult deer liberated there. Deer released there last year have done well, and the known loss of these was two. One deer in a recent shipment was an arrival here, and a second died a few days later.

Fund Raised By Pupils Honors Two Who Survived The Disease

Tom Montgomery, 6, recovered polio victim, smiles at the March of Dimes contribution of his fellow pupils at the Forks of Middle Creek school. The Valentine has $9.10 in contributions pasted on it.

Pupils of the Forks of Middle Creek school, in contributing dimes to the polio fund this week, did so in honor of their playmates who have recovered from infantile paralysis and are now back in school. The two so honored were Birdie Brown, 11, and Tom Montgomery, 6.

The pupils, and their teacher, Mrs. Frankie Best, made the traditional Valentine box but instead of putting hand-made Valentines in it decided to paste dimes for the polio fund on a huge heart-shaped Valentine. Tom and Birdie's pictures were pasted in the lower corners. Around were attached, by the 44 pupils, a total of $9.10.

Since the pupils dispensed with their usual Valentine party at the school Mrs. Best decided to give them one honoring Tom and Birdie, at her home, next Monday evening. At this party the usual Valentines will be distributed. Tom and Birdie, along with the others, will thoroughly enjoy out against the evils which they saw

The Kentucky Board of Bar Commissioners recommended Monday that Commonwealth's Attorney Burnis Martin, of Prestonsburg, and Jesse K. Lewis, Lexington attorney, be suspended from the practice of law for a period of six months.

The recommendation, made to the Court of Appeals, was made after the Board had adjudged both men guilty of unprofessional conduct. The vote to recommend suspension was 13 to 0.

Pointing to his request for a public hearing, and the refusal of the Board of Bar Commissioners to grant such a hearing, Commonwealth's Attorney Martin said here this week this denial of his right was arbitrary. Although the statutes provide for closed hearings by Bar Commissioners, the Board may order a public hearing, and it was its duty to do so, he added.

Mr. Martin said his office will automatically become vacant if the Court of Appeals holds him guilty and suspends his right to practice, as recommended by the Board. Whether the vacancy would exist longer than the six-month suspension period, he could not say. He declined to make further comment on the case at this time.

Some question has been raised here as to the prosecutor's loss of his office in the event the Appellate Court takes the action recommended. The situation that would result might be without precedent in Kentucky, and there was considerable difference of opinion. Some held that Martin would lose his office only through impeachment proceedings, even though the high court did temporarily suspend his right to practice law.

All judges of the Court of Appeals announced Tuesday they would disqualify for the hearing, and a special court will be named by the Governor, or in the Governor's absence from the state by the Lieutenant-Governor.

Martin and Lewis accused of making scurrilous statements directed at Judge Porter Sims, when he was chief justice of the Court of Appeals in 1953, and at Jefferson Circuit Judge Lawrence S. Grauman, Louisville, who served in 1953 as special judge of Floyd circuit court.

Complaints against the two attorneys stemmed from the filing of several lawsuits late in 1952 by members of the Floyd County Good Government Taxpayers League.

The suits accused county officials of misapplying county funds. The defendants were members of the opposing Democratic faction who were expected to seek election, or reelection, in the county election of 1953.

Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill disqualified himself and Judge J. W. Cammack, then chief justice of the Court of Appeals, appointed Lawrence Speckman, Louisville Republican and former Circuit Judge, to hear the lawsuits as special judge.

Judge Speckman, in the first case to come before him ruled in favor of the Taxpayers—holding they had a legal right to bring their lawsuits. Meantime, a second group of Taxpayers suits against the county officials was filed early in 1953.

For the trial of these latest suits, Judge Speckman was replaced by Judge Grauman, a Democrat, who was appointed by Appellate Judge Sims, who had become Chief Justice January 1, 1953.

Judge Grauman's appointment was made despite a law—since changed by the 1954 legislature—apparently forbidding judges of courts of continuous session, such as Jefferson's, to serve as special judges.

Judge Grauman ruled against the Taxpayers in several of the cases, dismissing their suits on the ground they had no legal right to bring them.

The day of the ruling, however, Lewis, as attorney for the Taxpayers, moved to disqualify Judge Grauman on the ground he would not give his clients a fair and impartial trial.

To support this motion, Lewis filed an affidavit which in effect, charged that Judge Sims and Judge Grauman had entered into a politically-inspired conspiracy to have the latest cases decided in favor of the County officials.

Commonwealth's Attorney Martin, meantime, paid for publication of an advertisement in The Floyd County Times on April 23, 1953 in which he said, in part:

"It appears that these men, through their political links and secret contacts, have brought pressure to bear upon the chief justice of the Court of Appeals to force the Hon. Lawrence Speckman, Judge out of the last five Taxpayers cases, after he was appointed, qualified, came to Prestonsburg, and after he had held hearings in the cases, and even after he had told the 'Court-house' defendants that he wanted to try the cases and told these men that he would resign only if the chief justice forced him to..."

"They have fired the honest judge. They have discharged the elected Commonwealth's attorney over his protests. And only God knows what they will do next..."

The State Bar Association contends that this statement, and Lewis' affidavit, constitute unprofessional conduct.

Three judges of the Court of Appeals testified before the Bar

CITY RENEWS GAS CONTRACT

Mayor Says Pact Gives Assurance of Low Rate; Council Talks Program

Prestonsburg's City Council last Monday night signed a contract with the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company whereby Prestonsburg is guaranteed for the next five years an adequate gas supply at no change in price.

"As a result of this contract," Mayor Curtis Clark commented, "Prestonsburg will enjoy one of the lowest gas rates in the eastern part of the United States."

The new contract also assures Prestonsburg 15% more gas than the heaviest volume used during any preceding year. The winter months, Dec. 1, 1952 to March 31, 1953, saw the heaviest use of gas here—104,000,000 cubic feet.

Commenting on the heavy population growth here, Mayor Curtis Clark said consumption of gas indicate Prestonsburg has almost doubled its size in the last five years. In 1950, he said, only 81,000,000 cubic feet of gas were burned the whole year.

Informed that opposition to the city's improvement program will be removed if it is held within a $500,000 limit and restricted to a water plant and sewers, the Council took steps toward what it hopes will be actual work. A committee composed of three Council members—Dr. Edward B. Leslie, W. O. Goebel and Paul C. Combs—was named to inspect the work of engineering firms that have submitted proposals that have supervised projects. When the committee report is in, the Council plans to employ the best engineer available to make preliminary plans.

Final plans will follow, then the sale of bonds to finance the work. Mayor Clark, who was recently nominated by President Eisenhower for the post of U. S. Marshal for the eastern district of Kentucky, did not tender his resignation as Mayor at Monday's meeting, as expected. He said this week he will not take that

Harold Postmastership Examination Scheduled

An examination for Postmaster at Harold, Ky., $3,019.00 a year, will be open for receipt of application until March 1, 1955, the Civil Service Commission announced today.

Applicants must take a written test. Those who pass will be assigned final ratings on the basis of this test and on their experience, ability, and character. There is a one-year residence requirement and applicants must be at least 21 years of age and must not have passed their sixty-third birthday.

GAS COMPANY OPTIONS LAND AS PLANT SITE

Floyd Court Acts To Aid Clearance for Big Plant Planned Near Maytown

The Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company lodged for record at the County Clerk's office here Wednesday an option from the widow and heirs of Miles Gibson on a tract of land between Maytown and Eastern on which the company proposes to build a $9,000,000 hydro-carbon recovery plant.

The tract of approximately 20 acres will be bought, if the option is exercised, for $28,500. The option is for six months, but Kentucky West Virginia announced last week it hopes to begin construction of the plant immediately upon approval of the project by the Kentucky Public Service Commission and the Federal Power Commission.

While this was being done other developments apparently cleared the way for the big construction project. An agreement was reached with Creed B. Martin for the purchase of less than an acre of land from him which would be used for a railway siding, and when this transaction is completed little further delay is expected.

County officials are giving full cooperation to the gas company, aware that building of the big plant, laying of pipe lines and installation of machinery will help pick up the employment slack in the county, and that employment at the plant after it is in operation will be a big long-range asset.

SMOKING QUIZ PLANS MADE

Floyd Census Survey Slated Next Week, Director Announces

A national survey of the smoking habits of the American people will be conducted during February by the U. S. Bureau of the Census as part of its Current Population Survey, according to Supervisor Selma D. Johnson, of the Census district office at Cincinnati, Ohio, which will participate in the collection of the information.

The Floyd county survey will be conducted next week by Mary K. Mitchell, of Allen.

Special questions on smoking are to be asked at the request of the U. S. Public Health Service. The information collected will be used in connection with the government's research program on the possible relationship between smoking and various types of diseases.

The questions will cover cigarettes, cigar and pipe smoking. Persons 18 years of age and over who are members of the 25-thousand-household panel of the Current Population Survey will be asked about the number of cigarettes, cigars or pipe-tips of tobacco smoked daily, the maximum number ever smoked regularly each day, the number of year they have smoked and other related question, as to the numbers of smokers and nonsmokers by age, sex, color and other characteristics for each of the major religions of the United States.

The questions on smoking are in

Two Homes Are Burned Over Week-end; Nothing Saved from Either, Said

Two homes burned in the county last week-end and nothing was saved from either.

Saturday night, the home of Robert Boyd on Mare Creek, burned down while he was away from home. His wife and only child were in bed, but Mrs. Boyd was awakened by the flames and escaped with the child in her arms. The house, belonging to Mart Spradlin, was unusable because of a defective chimney was the cause of the fire.

Sunday night, the home of Willie Clark at Betsy Layne burned. Mr. Clark had moved recently to Pikeville and, although the house was unoccupied, no furniture or furnishings had been removed. The Betsy Layne volunteer fire department was unable to save the house but did prevent adjacent buildings, particularly the home of James H. Loar, from burning. Estimates of the loss were not given but was considerable, it was said.

SAVE $4.00 PER TON

ON SOUTHERN STATES FORMULA FEEDS DURING FEBRUARY

On Purchases of 1/2 Ton or More

- Southern States Cooperative has again taken the lead in helping farmers ease the squeeze between dwindling farm income and continued high costs in producing milk, meat, and eggs. Southern States and Cooperative Service Agencies have joined in arbitrarily slashing prices on formula feeds during February at the rate of $4.00 per ton under current bag-of-100 prices, on orders of one-half ton or more at one time (one or more feeds may be included in total order). This reduction applies on all feeds except (1) Southern States Drought Emergency Dairy Feeds; (2) Southern States feeds supplied under contract feeding programs; (3) scratch grains; (4) grain foods; and (5) ingredients.

Though prices have been cut sharply, there has been no reduction in the usual high quality of Southern States feeds. They will continue to give you the most for your feed dollars.

Look What This Means to You

- 20 cents saving on every bag of feed you buy.
• $20.00 more profit in raising 1,000 broilers.
• About 1 cent more profit in producing eggs (about 25 cents a case).
• $30.00 more profit per month in feeding a herd of 50 dairy cows.
• $17.50 more profit for each 200 pounds of weight gain in hogs.
• $45.00 more profit in raising 1,000 Beltsville White turkeys.

MARTIN

By Betty Preflatish

Mrs. Aaron Justice is spending a vacation with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Justice, at their home in Detroit, Mich.

W. H. Tackett left Thursday of this week for Miami, Florida to spend his winter vacation.

Rev. Anthony Kraft, of Hazard, was a business visitor in Martin this week.

Mrs. Della Pitts and son, Virgil of Kensington, Ohio, spent the week-end here visiting her mother, Mrs. Rebecca Frazier, and other relatives.

Mrs. Alice Wright, of Kinsington, Ohio, spent the week-end here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Barnett.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Goodman and children, of Marshall, Mich., have been the guests here this week of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Rebecca Frazier, and other relatives.

Rev. George W. Nerbonne left Sunday for his home in Pennacook, N. H., where he will spend a short vacation with his mother.

The Altar Society of St. Juliana Church held its meeting at the home of Mrs. A. H. Mandt, Tuesday. The members enjoyed a luncheon prepared by their hostesses. They sewed linens for the altar after the business was discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Skeans and daughter, Linda Kay, and Betty Preflatish were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Miles Beverley at their home near Hueysville, Saturday night.

Miss Florine Dings, who is employed in Lexington, spent the week-end here with her mother, Mrs. Hazel Robinson.

Mrs. George Jones, who has been seriously ill in St. Joseph's hospital, Lexington, for several weeks, is home and doing fine.

Several people were from Martin and vicinity attended the funeral Saturday of Tom Conn at Salisbury. Friends of the family extend their deepest sympathy.

Mrs. Elbert Caudill is recuperating nicely at her home near here.

Lawrence Osborne and Algie Osborne, who are employed in St. Mary's, Ohio, have been visiting their home here.

Bennetts To Conduct Services At Church Here, Feb. 14-Feb. 26

The Rev. Paul Bennett, pastor of the Highlawn Church of Christ, Huntington, W. Va., and Mrs. Bennett will conduct a series of evangelistic services at the Arnold Avenue Church of Christ here, beginning next Monday night.

The services, to be held nightly at 7:30, will continue through Feb. 26. In addition to the sermons of the Rev. Mr. Bennett, the services will offer special music, chalk pictures and illustrated hymns; the pastor, the Rev. Clarence E. Mansfield, said.

The public is invited to attend each service.

Williamson, W. Va. Man, Former Floyd Countian, Invents Loading Device

Invention of a loading device by a former Floyd county man, Harrison Maynard, of the Johns Creek section, promises to be a boon to building contractors, loggers and general haulers. Maynard, now a resident of Williamson, W. Va., is presently seeking a patent from the U. S. Patent Office at Washington.

The new device, which is rather simple in design, was conceived by Maynard while watching the loadings of heavy materials onto trucks. Maynard has a small-scale model of his invention which is workable and demonstrates the principle.

Maynard's device works from a wench, which is standard equipment on many of the larger trucks designed for general hauling. It consists of a steel framework to be erected on the rear portion of the truck's bed. This framework would hold a crane-like lifting device. The cables running from the wench through the framework to the crane are fastened to the object to be loaded into the truck. Cranking the wench lifts the object upward. Maynard's plans call for a clamp to be attached to the cables and when these clamps hit the top of the framework, a spring automatically is set off which moves the crane backward and places the loaded object into the desired position in the truck's bed.

Thomas Lee Conn, 72, Of Printer, Succumbs At Martin Last Friday

Thomas Lee Conn, 72, of Printer, died at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin, at 1:30 p.m., last Friday. Mr. Conn suffered a broken leg two years ago in an auto accident and had never thoroughly recovered. He was seriously ill for the last two months.

He was a son of the late Parker and Lillis Smith Conn and was married to Molly Gannell Conn, who survives. Surviving sons and daughters are Woodrow and James Conn, both of Martin, Mrs. Edna Sloan of Raccoon, Ky., Mrs. Marie Conn and Mrs. Elsa May Conn, both of Printer, and Mrs. Ruby Jean DeRosset, of Martin; surviving brothers and sisters are Mrs. Sarah Maynard and Mrs. May Robinson both of Pikeville, and C. Conn, of Raccoon.

Funeral services were held at the home, at 10 a.m., Sunday, the Rev. Robert Martin officiating. Burial followed in the Halbert cemetery under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

Mrs. Alfred Gum of Estill county made and sold 16 purses and 12 hats following a training school for county leaders of homemakers clubs.

NOTICE

Pursuant to an order of the Fiscal Court the undersigned Special Commissioner will, at the hour of 1:00 p.m. on the 21 day of February, 1955, at the front door of the Courthouse in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, offer for sale a franchise or privilege authorizing the purchaser, successors and assigns, for a period of 20 years to erect, build, place, operate, repair, replace, reconstruct, change and alter pipe lines, meters, regulators and other apparatus, on, along, across and under the public roads and highways in the area on Left Beaver Creek including Wheelwright Junction, Melvin and Weeks-bury and the area adjacent to and between said points. All work done in connection with the erecting, building, placing, operating, repairing, removing, replacing, reconstructing, changing and altering of said pipe lines, meters, regulators or other apparatus on, over and along the public roads and highways of Floyd county shall be done under the supervision of the Road Engineer of Floyd County, or some one designated by the Fiscal Court and in such manner as not to obstruct the ditches or drains of said public roads or highways or to destroy or injure said public roads or highways; and said pipe lines, meters and regulators and other apparatus shall be built, operated, or maintained on, over along or under the said roads or highways in such manner as will not interfere with the free use of public travel on, along or over said road and highways, or the improvements or maintenance of any such public road and highways and the purchaser of said franchise or privilege shall always leave the said public roads and highways in as good condition as they were the time said purchaser began work on same. The purchaser of said franchise or privilege shall, at all times, in any work that it may do on, along, over or under said road or highways, see that same shall be in as good condition after said work as they were before said work and in doing said work, said purchaser shall not unreasonably interfere with the free use and travel of said public roads and highways.

This 8th day of February, 1955. CLIFFORD MARTIN, Special Commissioner

Mutiple 4-H Activities For Last Year Are Told By Extension Service

A resume of the 4-H Club activities for last year, issued by the local Extension Service office, was released recently. It included the following:

Twenty-two communities had organized clubs; 250 people attended Spring Rally; 273 club members received training in some phase of agriculture and home economics during Rally Day; 16 Rally Day champions attended District Rally and Elford Case was chosen district champion; six club members and one leader attended 4-H Week in Lexington; 48 club members and three leaders attended J. M. Feltner 4-H Camp in Johnson county; one medal and two star campers were selected from Floyd county; four club members represented Floyd county at the State Fair in poultry judging. The team placed sixth in the state.

Five club members were selected district champions; Donald Lowe was selected state champion in the Farm Labor Service project, and received an all expense paid trip to National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago; one club member attended a week's Forestry Camp in Breathitt county; one International Farm Youth Exchangee, Miss Hildergard Specks, from Germany, spent two weeks with the Hudson Salyers family, of Eastern.

Twenty five members of the 4-H Club Council raised $330.00 to start a 4-H pig chair; 841 club members received training in holding meetings, singing, record keeping, and working and playing together; seven club members had health examinations as a result of club work; 53 radio programs were made on club work; 841 club members grew seven acres of corn, eight acres of fruits and vegetables, 2,900 chickens, 13 dairy heifers, 10 beef calves, 61 pigs, and 24 rabbits. The girls prepared 1,800 meals, canned 1,700 quarts of food, froze 200 quarts of fruits, vegetables, and meats. They made 1,176 clothing articles and 588 garments.

BIDS INVITED

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 8—The State Department of Highways called for bids to be received February 18 for improvement of 60 miles of roads in Bourbon, Montgomery, Floyd, Johnson, Henderson, Henry, Hopkins, Letcher, Lewis, McCracken, Pike, Todd, Adair, Clinton, Cumberland, Harrison, Pendleton, Rockcastle, Russell, Warren, Washington, and Wayne counties.

In addition, it sought bids for new floors for bridges in Carroll, Carter, Greenup, Harrison, Knox, Harlan, Bell and Franklin counties.

No gasoline—no, not a single one— has higher octane than

New 1955 GULF NO-NOX

This lamp is burning the "DIRTY-BURNING TAIL-END" of gasoline which GULF refines out

This lamp is burning NEW SUPER-REFINED GULF NO-NOX, the clean-burning super-fuel

Always remember: Octane alone is not enough. Only a gasoline that burns clean can make its full octane power really work for you mile after mile. That's why, instead of trying to fight harmful deposits with so-called "miracle additives"—inside your engine—Gulf believes in preventing them from forming in the first place; removes the cause—the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline, at the refinery, to bring you new NO-NOX. Just look at the plates in the photo above and see what a difference Gulf super-refining makes!

but octane alone is not enough...

That's why new Super-Refined No-Nox is specially made to burn clean—to protect your engine—to give you thousands of extra miles of full engine power.

Fill up with new Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX and feel the difference, right from the start, in full engine power that lasts! You'll get:

- More complete engine protection than with so-called "miracle-additive" gasolines.

- Extra gas mileage in the short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most.

- Stall-proof smoothness... instant starts... fast, fuel-saving warm-up.

- No knock, no pre-ignition—even in today's high-compression engines.

This is GULF'S PLEDGE to the motoring public

- We at Gulf make this promise to America's motorists. We will not permit a single competitor—no, not a single one—to offer a gasoline superior to our own superb No-Nox.
- It is our sincere belief that No-Nox is the finest gasoline on the market today, and no matter what others do or say we will keep it the finest—in power, in performance, in engine protection.
- This is not a boast, not a claim. It is a pledge to you, the motoring public—a pledge backed by the resources—and the integrity—of the Gulf Refining Company.

Apologia

How long will a broken-down sidewalk or a wornout street last? Will a sidewalk or street in this state of decrepitude remain a sidewalk or street as long as one that was never improved and which for that reason cannot rightly be called either? Those questions are pretty involved, we admit, but are no more devious than the routes one follows about Prestonsburg afoot or mounted on rubber tires, seeking safe passage or at least a spot where the water is low enough to ford without plunging in and swimming or getting out and wading.

Sidewalks that were broken last year, and wherein grass would have grown but for the scuffing of many feet, are just a bit more broken this year. They are listing just a little more to port or starboard, as the case may be. They're good (?) for a long time yet, if pedestrians can develop a surefootedness that has been more or less missing in previous years. Of course some people, who probably are chronic worriers anyhow, will worry about the visitor who hasn't been brief on how he must dig in which his lower foot here, or walk at other points with his body more nearly horizontal to the ground than perpendicular. These unhappy folk will not only worry about the safety of the visitor but also about what the visitor will say about us when he gets home and catches his breath.

Which gets us to, or should, to the question of which will last longer, a wornout street or one that wasn't a bonafide street to start with. There was a time when we thought the decrepit street would stick it out longer, but now we aren't certain. We are aware of the fact that motorists will get to dodging these broken-up, broken-down streets, and that the resultant drop in traffic will give the street a breathing-spell, so to speak. But it follows that when a car drops through a surfaced street it makes a mighty nasty hole, while such a minor mishap on an unpaved—er, let us say, throughfare,—makes no hole at all. The mud just closes back over, and there you are with a street as good or bad as it ever was.

You don't have to put a fence rail in a hole in an unpaved street as you do on surfaced streets to warn motorists to steer clear. You you post a sign, reading, "Please don't come in till I get out."

(For every exaggeration contained herein we humbly apologize. We also apologize for the sidewalks and streets.)

Let Roads, Not The Children, Wait

THE TIMES cannot reconcile with sound thinking any policy of the federal government which envisions a gigantic highway construction program but which at the same time hedges at a plan for federal aid toward construction of school buildings.

The Eisenhower administration last year shield so far away from federal aid to education that such help for the schools was a lost cause from the onset of the first Congressional hearing. It is believed to be more in sympathy now with the educational program, but there still is a feeling nothing will be done at this session of the Congress to that end while highway construction is receiving top-level support.

If that happens—if the plan for nationwide road-building is carried out while that of school-building is further delayed for one reason or another—we will be straying far from the basic needs of the country.

There, of course, is a great need for more and better roads. But this is a thing that could wait. The country is not yet one big traffic jam; millions of cars and trucks still are getting where they want to go; the auto industry is not suffering for lack of roads, nor is the man that buys the cars.

On the other hand, the race to put roofs over school children's heads is being lost. At the present rate of construction and at the current rate of school population growth, the United States is failing by 70,000 classrooms a year to meet the needs of the children. And these are things that will not wait, if equal opportunity for an education, or anything approximating an equal opportunity, is to be afforded.

The schools, somebody has said, is short on everything but children. Which means that more hundreds of thousands of children every year will be denied the opportunities in future life that education could offer, unless something is done, now, by the federal government. The states already have failed, and their failure just now is beginning to show most distressingly.

If the federal government is to make an investment of public funds in one or the other of these projects, we would say the sounder investment would be in the people's children.

DEAD PATIENT VISITS

On June 2, 1941, Jimmy Kilgore, in his way from his office to the courthouse, told me this story:

"Fifty-seven years ago," said Jimmie, "it's been. Hit was when the flux was raging in this country. My uncle, Dr. Jerry G. Wells, was going everywhere doctoring the flux."

"One of his patients was William Kennedy's wife. Kennedy lived in the Valley, or maybe it was the Wildcat. She died; and, at about the same time, Uncle Jerry's son, Taz Wells, took it and died, too. He was a schoolteacher."

"Now I've heard Uncle Jerry tell this, and I've heard other folks tell it. Said Uncle Jerry's wife was working a night about Taz, afraid that he was lost."

"So, one night, Uncle Jerry was coming home, way long in the night, from seeing someone who was sick. He got right close to where William Kennedy lived; and was saying down some drawers, to take his horse through, when he heard something behind him. He wheeled around and there stood William Kennedy's wife, just as plain as he'd ever see her in his life."

"She said, 'I just wanted to tell you that you need not worry about Taz. He's saved; and all the people who died around here, with the flux, are saved. So don't worry any more about Taz or any of us. We are all happy and better off.'"

"Well Uncle Jerry went on home, and his wife noticed there was something the matter with him, by his actions. She asked him what was wrong and he told her he couldn't tell her then; that he didn't want the children to hear it. The next morning, while she was getting breakfast, he went in the kitchen and told her what he'd seen and heard him, and he told it to some of his playmates. It got round, and then Uncle Jerry told it, himself. He also told how Mrs. Kennedy had said, in conclusion, 'You read in the Bible that the Lord is a Spirit. So am I. You cannot touch me.' He reached out his hand to see if he could touch her and there was nothing there."

HOW DO YOU RATE YOUR TOWN?

At last Thursday's meeting of the Kiwanis Club here members used a score sheet such as is reproduced here to rate their community.

Mayor Curtis Clark gave Prestonsburg 78½ points out of a possible 100. The average score stood at about 50.

The score sheet used by Mayor Clark follows, with a space added for you to write your own score. How would you score Prestonsburg?

COMMUNITY SCORE SHEET

Education —Does your town make modern education available to every child, youth and adult? Are its schools uncrowded, properly equipped and in good physical condition? Are the teachers highly qualified and well paid?	Mayor's Score	9	Your Score
Housing and Planning —Is every family decently housed? Is there continuous planning for improvement of residential areas, parks, highways, other community essentials? Are parking, traffic transportation problems under control?	7
Religion —Is full opportunity for religious expression accorded to every individual in your community? Are your Churches strong and well supported?	10
Equality of Opportunity —Do people of different races, religions, nationalities have full chance for employment and taking part in community life? Are dangerous tensions kept at a minimum by avoidance of discrimination and injustice?	10
Economic Development —Are good jobs available? Do labor, industry, agriculture, and government work together to insure the sound economic growth of your community?	5
Cultural Opportunities —Are your citizens' lives strengthened by ample occasion to enjoy music, art and dramatics? TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE
 By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.
 Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"A MOTHER IN ISRAEL"

With the passing of my mother in 1929 passed one of the few remaining elderly women of Fidelity, women who in their lives tied us back to long-ago times before the Civil War. In her way she was unusual as Father, the country doctor whom I have so often mentioned in this column. Mother was, in Biblical phrase, a "mother in Israel." She was the quiet, unassuming influence in our home and in our neighborhood. Her voice was low, but what she said had weight. In her hands Father was an obedient, sometimes provoking, child. Without her care he would have ridden off in a pouring rain without his slicker and his overshoes. When she scolded us, it was with a strangely gentle voice, never a rough, loud one. But it had its effect. For she knew that Father would take over when we did not heed her. And none of us liked to have Father administer his swift, stinging justice. This same calm that she used in the home was a part of her life as a woman in the neighborhood for she was not the excitable kind. More than any one else whom I have ever known, she embodied the calm of an inner strength that did not need loudness to carry its weight.

Most women of her age were denominationally regular, sometimes to the point of being a bit obtrusive in their religious convictions. Mother, a member of a church that had no congregation in our part of the world, fitted in with whatever religious group she associated with. That does not mean that she was without opinions, for she was basically the most tolerant person I have ever known. She was above the bickerings of our quarrelsome denominations but gave no satiric public demonstrations of her dislike of narrowness. Always there was an undercurrent of faith in the individual, a feeling that even the lowliest had enough sense to do the right thing, whether told to do or not. She was not a church woman; she remained at home to answer calls for the doctor; at least, that is what she said. I am inclined to believe, a half century later, that her faith was stronger than that of most of our most ardent church people and that the vigorous attacks that we heard at our little church upon all the other denominations of the world just did not accord with her spirit of tolerance. In her old age she discussed with me deep spiritual philosophy that I wonder- ed at, for she had had only a meager education and no travel into what the world calls cultured areas. But in her remote neighborhood, mothering her big family and looking after absent-minded Father, she had done some wonderful thinking, thinking that made me slightly ashamed of my diplomas and degrees.

To the end of her eighty-one years she was the head of the household and remained the veritable mother in Israel. She never stayed back in a corner or cried over things long past, like many old women whom I have known. Life was still to be lived; she never said, as so many insincere people have said, that she would be glad to die and leave this world, with its troubles. She did not deny that there were troubles; she met them as part of the endless struggle that had made her life eventful and even happy. It would be hard to tell the younger generation just how the old-fashioned woman like her could remain the head of the household, even though all the children were grown and there were grown grandchildren. She was in no sense bossy, but her wise counsel at least made you think before you rushed headlong into some act that you would later regret. And she was individual enough to regard individualism in others as sacred; none of us lost caste with Mother if I honestly followed our own best ideas, whether they agreed with hers or not. And in the neighborhood she was asked many a time to help adjust troubling things, and always she used the same calmness that she used when straightening out our childish affairs in our own nervous, busy home.

prevalent in their society and for rising up in the defense of the people whenever and by whomever their rights and freedoms have been threatened.

Testament Taken From Pike Prisoner-of-War In Austria Is Returned To Him After 10 Years

A pocket-size New Testament taken from a Pikeville prisoner-of-war in Austria during World War II has been returned to the Pikeville Christian Church after a lapse of more than 10 years.

The Testament did not bear the name of the owner, Edgar Lee Anderson, member of an American bomber crew who was shot down during his first mission over Austria, but it did bear the name of the church which sent the book to the Pikeville church, which in turn forwarded the Testament to Anderson.

The letter accompanying the Testament follows:

"Dear Christian Church! "I send to you this New Testament. The owner of this book is the American soldier Edgar Lee Anderson. My friend got it from a German soldier, who has been during the war in Yugoslavia (Balkan). But he does not know the name and address of this German soldier. The unknown German soldier only told to my friend, that he got some personally documents from an American flyer, whose plane damaged. Please have you the kindness to give this New Testament to the parents of this American comrad. I should be very thankful to you, if I got an answer from you, because I am very interesting to know any more about this American friend.

"Very sincerely yours, Klaus Kruse, Bad Eins, Germany Belchstrape 64."

AMENDMENT VALID

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 8.—The phrase, "Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky," vital to laws passed by that body, is not applicable insofar as Constitutional Amendments are concerned, Assistant Attorney General M. B. Hollifield has ruled. Hollifield held that a proposal to submit to the voters the question of reducing the voting age from 21 to 18 is valid.

After passage of the amendment through the General Assembly that the usual enacting clause was not included. Hollifield held that this did not invalidate the proposed amendment.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt appreciation for the many kindnesses shown us upon the occasion of the death of our mother and grandmother, Mrs. Emma F. Osborne. Particularly we want to thank the Rev. Ted Green for his comforting words, and the Auxier Singers; also, we are thankful for the fine service of the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

Mrs. Bessie Banks, Mrs. Cosby Snipes, and Children.

Many Lewis county hillside trees steep to farm will be set to locust and pine trees.

The Preacher and the Devil Were Cousins

An additional letter from Mrs. Guy Schuler, of Wyandotte, Mich., relative to research on the Hatfield family, is interesting aside from the genealogical information. It follows, in part.

"I have done considerable genealogical research concerning the Hatfields and I have most of the story by word of mouth but as you know, in this cynical age, proof is necessary, even for your ancestry. It is quite difficult to obtain these proofs as Kentucky is notoriously negligent in the preservation of vital statistics. This, I feel, was partially due to laxity in laws requiring the recording of marriage licenses, birth certificates, etc., and particularly to carelessness in the county offices in preserving records that were filed.

"For instance, in the Pike County Court Clerk's office, there isn't a single will on file from 1848 to 1851. We all realize that somebody who owned property died during this three-year period. But what happened to the wills? Nobody knows. I have run into so many dead-ends, they're countless. The same thing is true in Floyd county which included Pike until 1821. There were Hatfields galore in that period but no marriages or wills are recorded for the family in Floyd county. The ministers were very negligent, of course, in filing reports.

"But enough of that. The problems that are uppermost in my mind now are these: Does anyone have proof of the marriage of George Hatfield, born 1804, and Nancy Whitt, born 1805 and do they have proof of their place of birth in Virginia? In the Pike county census of 1850, George, then 46 years of age, and Nancy gave their birthplace as Virginia. This George and Nancy were the father and mother of Preacher Anse, as he was known during the American Vendetta. Since you have written about the feud, you will be familiar with him as a man respected and trusted by both Hatfields and McCoy's. Preacher Anse was my great-grandfather. His wife was Polly Grundy, a member of another old Kentucky family.

"Ephraim Hatfield, born approximately 1765, and the first Hatfield to come to Kentucky, known as 'Big Eaf', died June 16, 1855. Does anyone have any records concerning his ancestry? He is the progenitor of several different branches of the family, including Devil Anse and Preacher Anse. He was twice married and the father of at least five children.

HEALTH NOTES

By Floyd County Health Department

February is a month filled with days of remembrance—Lincoln and Washington's birthdays, Mr. Cupid's Valentine Day, maybe a special birthday or anniversary in your family. February is also Heart Month but it is well to remember your heart every day of every month; heart disease caused 8446 deaths or about one-third of the total of all Kentucky deaths in 1952.

"Have a heart," says M. V. Clark, administrator, Floyd County Health Department. "Don't overwork your heart. You only have one so by taking a few precautions, your life possibly will be longer, happier and more productive."

1. Avoid overeating, and keep your normal weight.
2. Get adequate rest (and that includes periodic rest—part of a lunch hour or afternoon, even if it is just a few minutes of relaxation).
3. Take moderate exercise. . . . have fun; it's good for you, but don't overdo.
4. Stop working or playing before you are overtired.
5. Avoid emotional upsets.
6. See your family physician for regular check-ups.

Mr. Clark added that health information on guarding your heart is available through films and pamphlets from the Floyd County Health Department.

BY WILMAY
 (The views expressed herein do not necessarily reflect the views of The Times.)

But a dark world for families described in The Courier-Journal article on Feb. 3 about the Kentucky mountains. In it, Dr. Welch, Dean of U. K., discussed mountain people and problems. For years leaders here have said the same things he did about our low-income groups.

Statistics he cited should make all who question the existence of such facts think twice before doing so again or before scoffing at individuals who try to help, often to encounter resentment from others who should be helping instead. The first step towards improvements is always to admit the truth, even when it is unpleasant. The biggest handicap in the mountains today is that many refuse to take that step. Dr. Welch spoke so plainly all of us should realize the handouts provided for these needy people by our taxes are only temporary.

The article said that in 1950 children constituted 27 percent of U. S. population, but in Eastern Kentucky children represented 35 to 45 percent. National average of education of persons past 25 in 1950 was 9.3 grades. In 31 Kentucky mountain counties the average fell one to three grades lower. In 1945 the median U. S. income was $2,619. Wages here then were at an all-time high because of the last war, but still they ranged from $719 to $2,219, and since the recession are now much less.

Will some citizens still maintain conditions are no worse here than elsewhere?

Random quotes from the C.-J. story: "There is a diffusion throughout the whole nation of ignorance and of low levels of living areas characterized by this way of life. Youth migrate from these areas to all parts of the country. They carry with them the education levels, the mind-set, and the habits of living to which they have become accustomed. Such families are to be found everywhere, but their difficulties are conspicuously typified in the southern Appalachian region, which is one of the well-known focal points of poverty in America."

Will the Courier-Journal story arouse enough citizens to mobilize the home front and help these people in a permanent sense? Sometimes prospective industry figures, "Why locate in the mountains, where many intelligent people are unconcerned about the others? Where not enough care sufficiently to insist upon clean river banks and public restrooms, and courtroom floors free from tobacco juice stains. If some do call attention to these practices numbers resent that."

Correction is so hard our progressive people give up because of indifference. One county leader says we must wait for another generation, but older people recall doing this a long time. Ignorance, poor sanitation, superstition and prejudice can be eliminated when good citizens give such problems priority. The Times editor, WPRM manager, countless community leaders, some teachers, ministers, missionaries and others keep struggling with it.

Too many consider employment the sole solution. High incomes during the last war proved work is not the answer. No higher percentage is self-sustaining now than previously. There is one thing some families need worse than jobs. It is the desire to be industrious, the determination to be independent, the resolve to improve their living conditions.

8. Which of the disciples did the Devil "desire to sift like wheat" but Jesus prayed that his faith might not fail?
9. To whom did Jesus say "This hour salvation has come to this house"? (Clue to answer, sycamore tree)
10. What five year old boy was dropped by his nurse fleeing to save his life? (Son of David's best friend)
11. Who was "lame in his feet" called himself a "dead dog", and was invited to eat at a king's table the remainder of his life?
12. A common saying is "Hung higher than Haman." How high, and who built this scaffold?
13. Who was rich in cattle, silver and gold, and was called a "friend of God"?
14. Who "feared God and eschewed evil", and was the "richest man of all the east"?
15. To whom did Jesus say "Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee"?
16. What is the story of a beggar who wanted only the crumbs that fell from the table of a rich man?
17. Complete "in-as-much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."
18. What is the story of a man whose big debts were forgiven but jumped on a poor man and choked him and threw him in prison because he owed him a little?
19. What example did Jesus set for us for not wasting food? (fragments, than nothing be wasted)
20. Who came down to earth to show us what God was like?

Permanent Court of Arbitration, the Hague, Holland. For years he was a member of Harvard Law School's advisory committee on research in international law, and in 1930 he was a delegate from the United States to the Hague to the Conference for Codification of International Law.

His connection with the State Department sent him to the momentous Dunbarton Oaks conference and many other international parleys, including the Moscow conference where he was advisor to Secretary of State Cordell H. Hull.

He was named to the World Court in 1945. Judge Hackworth married the former Clara E. Christy, of Huntington, W. Va., whose father at one time resided here. The late Will Haywood, who for many years was postmaster at Dock, was his uncle.

tions, the intention to save for a rainy day. Some families do much better than others whose incomes are two and three times as great. It is because they recognize the value of decent living standards and maintain them regardlessly. Theirs are the children who remain in college even if Dad does go jobless a while. A costly premium is attached to shiftlessness, which can be overcome without having a label attached!

Formal education for these adults now would be less valuable than instruction in home management, which can be provided if enough of us care for the needy. DO WE, when Floyd county is the only county in the state having no home demonstration agent? Last year a missionary from Japan told several he had never seen such poverty anywhere in the midst of such plenty as he saw here. He referred to the poor masses most of us see daily, see and forget!

Last week a friend soliciting for a poor family said she will show the little woman how to use what they do have. Her mission will succeed because she will go in the "right spirit" and her services will be worth more than a thousand dollars because of lasting value. Other places conquer these problems!

Discarded hosiery and lingerie can be made into rugs and handbags at tiny expense. Native clay makes gorgeous pottery. Honeysuckle and willow are plentiful for beautiful baskets. Cornshucks make clever souvenirs. Empty buildings make ideal places for unemployed women to learn crafts and skills, which yield a good income wherever kind people start small industries to help the less fortunate. This can happen only when enough care more for others than for self.

ELOQUENT PICTURE
We nominate for the Picture of the Year award that snapshot appearing in the newspapers this week of the dog with a white rat leaping from its cage, missing said rat's nose by a matter of inches. If you saw it, perhaps you see the discomfiture—yep, terror—of the dog: the open mouth, the one visible rolling as much as an eye can roll in a still picture, and flapping wildly to the rear, the reaction the dog's feet doubtless ready to take him.

My own phobia regarding rats whatever color perhaps made the picture more outstanding in my estimation than it otherwise would have been. Looking at it, I kept wondering about what I would have done had I been there in place of the dog. I caught myself looking for a tree to climb. Then I decided what I would have done—I simply would not have been there. They haven't yet made a camera shutter fast enough to catch me in such a situation.

IN JEFF DAVIS' AIR FORCE
Being one of the half-dozen or so men of my age in the state who aren't Kentucky Colonels, I have on occasion taken a dim view of that honorary rank and have been known to make snide remarks about honors of this sort.

But this week I became downright envious. This outfit I would like to belong to. It's the Confederate Air Force, in which our fellow-townsmen, H. D. Fitzpatrick, Sr., has been commissioned a Colonel, sub. Along with his commission came this identification card:

"This card will serve to identify Col. H. D. Fitzpatrick, Sr., C. A. C., who has attained this distinguished rank by virtue of his unusually high regard for blackeyed peas, turnip greens, hog jowl, sowbelly, potliker, grits, chitlins, and corn squeezins. As officer of the Corps he will praise the glories of the Deep South, pay homage to our lovely Southern Belles, save his Confederate money, harass the carpetbaggers and always remember that damyankee is one word."

Prestonsburg Firm's Drilling Business Needs Virtually Start New Williamson Industry

A Prestonsburg man has virtually started a new industry in Williamson, West Virginia, where Martin Lee May, of the Rainer and May Gas Drilling Co., impressed upon T. V. Maynard the urgent need of large strawboard filler wheels for Ideco and a National Supply gas and oil drilling rigs.

Mr. Maynard, the owner of the Maynard Machine and Electric Co., of Williamson, apparently was impressed by the information which Mr. May presented to him. It was disclosed that the source of these wheels had gone out of business some time before. The original manufacturer of the wheels had sold their machinery for junk when they went out of business.

After Maynard had received all the information regarding the plight of the industry he immediately planned on building the wheels in conjunction with his mine machine repair business.

The filler is a sort of a clutch arrangement that works against a steel wheel. The assembly lifts the drilling bits and they drop by force of gravity, the drop of performing the actual drilling operation.

May agreed to furnish a wheel to Maynard so they could study its construction and make measurements. For the present the firm will be able to make two or three fillers a week and expects to distribute the fillers all over the country.

Wallace Breaks Records In Junior College Ball; Is Betsy Layne Native

Pikeville Ky., Feb. 8 (Spl.)—Betsy Layne's Grady Wallace continued to be the hottest thing in Kentucky junior-college basketball last week.

The Floyd scoring ace for the Pikeville Junior College Bears broke another handful of records as the Bears racked up four victories on their six-game, eight-day road trip in western Kentucky, falling to only two opponents—the towering Western Kentucky State College freshman squad and weariness.

Fatigue was the sixth man on the Cumberland College team which nosed Coach Walter Hambrick's Bears, 79-76, Saturday night in the last game of their punishing excursion. It showed in the circles under their eyes, in fumbles by glue-fingered Bobby McCoy, and in the way Wallace's jump shots kept bouncing back from the hoops. In spite of a meager 20-point score, his lowest this season, Wallace pushed two Kentucky junior-college conference scoring records higher.

Since starting the trip he had broken the loop's marks for scoring in both conference games and all games by a player in the Kentucky circuit. The total of 378 points he has scored to date against conference foes beats the 347-point mark established last year by Hiram Wilkins, of Bethel College, and his 743 tallies against all opposition to top the record 672 posted a year ago by Woodrow Preston, Wallace's teammate on the Bears last season.

Hitting with less than half his customary accuracy, the big Betsy Layne boy showed the ravages of the eight-day endurance test with only seven field goals on 28 shots in the rough-and-tumble Cumberland game, which snapped Pikeville's 19-game winning streak in conference contests. The 20 points, with his average 30.2 in the five previous games, gave Wallace a 28.5 average for the entire trip, and brought his season average to 32.3 points per game.

Already holder of the conference's one-game free-throw-shooting mark after hitting 14 for 14 gratis tries against Lees College, January 14, the big Bear upped it in the opening game of the recent trek by sinking 16 to 16 at Lindsey Wilson College. Both performances came in the midst of a record-shattering string of 52 points on 52 free throws, including 38 successive good gratis tosses in conference games. The series, beginning in the North Greenville (S.C.) Junior College match January 14, extended through games against Tusculum, Lees, Ashland, and Lindsey Wilson, and was broken with Wallace's second toss against Bethel College January 31.

Measuring themselves by a big stick, the Bears came off second best, 110-76, against the undefeated freshman squad of Western Kentucky State College February 3. The Hilltopper frosh were headed by six-foot seven-and-a-half inch Ralph Crosshwaite, also a varsity player who paced Western with 13 points against Dayton University two nights previously.

In three conference games which opened their eight-day travail, the Hambrickmen downed the Blue Raiders of Lindsey Wilson Junior College, 94-88, January 29; the Bethel College Crusaders 106-86 January 31, and the Campbellsville Tigers 65-64 in a loudly but ineffectually disputed decision February 2. Wallace bucketed 37 as they took a non-conference win over Skinner's College at Corbin, Ky., February 4.

After their scheduled meeting with the Tusculum College Pioneers Tuesday night of this week, the Bears will entertain the Sue Bennett Green Dragons Friday in their last home conference game. They will meet National Business College, of Roanoke, Va., on a neutral floor at Richlands, Va., Saturday, and close their home season as they play host to the Mountain State College Blues, February 14.

Aged Bull Creek Woman, Succumbs at Residence

Mrs. Victoria Gray DeRossett, 92, of Sloan, died last Saturday, at 5 a.m. at home. She was the victim of the infirmities of age and had been in ill-health for the last year.

Mrs. DeRossett, one of the county's oldest women, was the daughter of Joe Gray and Elizabeth Sammons Gray. Her husband, James DeRossett, preceded her in death 20 years ago. Mrs. DeRossett was a member of the Regular Baptist church.

Surviving sons are Frank and John DeRossett, both of Watergap, Clell DeRossett, of Martin, and Lum DeRossett, of East Point. Also surviving are 61 grandchildren and 110 great-grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted Monday at 10:30 at home, the Rev. Sam Thomas and George Wright officiating. Burial followed in the DeRossett cemetery on Bull Creek under the direction of Moore Funeral Home.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to take this means to extend my most sincere thanks and gratitude to the good nuns, the doctors and nurses in Our Lady of the Way hospital, for their wonderful treatment of me during my recent stay there; for the skilled handling of my operation, for the excellent care they gave me and especially for all the kindness shown me while there.

Leary and Humphreys Will Head Chandler Campaign; Hopkins To Assist Combs

Former Governor A. B. Chandler's campaign for Democratic nomination for governor of Kentucky will be managed by two of his long-time friends and political associates.

Serving as cochairmen of the former baseball commissioner's comeback bid will be Robert Humphreys, chairman of the Democratic State Central Executive Committee, and Joseph Leary, former assistant Kentucky attorney general.

Leary, 47-year-old attorney, will be in active charge of Chandler's state campaign headquarters to be opened about February 15 at the Watterson Hotel, Louisville.

Leary, a native of Williamstown in Northern Kentucky, also plans to travel widely in behalf of Chandler's anti-Administration candidacy.

Humphreys, 60-year-old druggist will remain in Frankfort much of the time because of business reasons. Formerly of Mayfield in the Democratic stronghold of Kentucky's First Congressional District, he operates two drugstores here.

Humphreys managed Chandler's previous successful campaigns for governor, also waged against an administration in power, and for United States senator.

Chandler, of Versailles, was in West Kentucky last week-end with Clifford E. Smith, Leary's law partner, of Frankfort.

Although an organization for Judge Bert T. Combs has not been completed, John Calvin Hopkins, Prestonsburg native, will serve as publicity director for him. Hopkins has been with a Lexington paper for sometime. J. W. Howard, Prestonsburg attorney and friend of Combs, will set up a temporary organization for him at Frankfort to serve until the regular organization begins to function.

Christian Youth Council Meet Is Well Attended

Fifty-three youngsters attended the first meeting of the Prestonsburg Christian Youth Council last Saturday night at the First Methodist Church. Miss Joy May, vice-chairman of the council, stressed the oneness that Christians have in Christ. "We go to school together, engage in sports together, and yet cannot worship together." This venture of community fellowship, Miss May declared is not an attempt to do away with any local church fellowship, but rather an attempt to show that understanding and fellowship, to be a grown-up product, must grow with youth through Christ.

An impressive candlelight service was the highpoint of the worship period. In this part of the worship service representatives from the several churches, lighted candles symboling their church from the central candle, symbol of Christ. Fellowship candles were lighted by representatives of the Assembly of God, the Irene Cole Baptist Church, the Arnold Avenue Church of Christ, the First Methodist Church, and the First Presbyterian Church.

The council, made up of representatives from each church and its pastor, will meet Thursday, Feb. 17, at the grade school building to plan for the next community meeting.

PROFIT UP

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 8—The Kentucky State Fair reported it returned a net profit in 1954 of $101,400, the largest profit in the 51 years of its existence. The profit for the 1953 Fair was $94,000 and the profit has increased steadily since 1950 when the figure was $61,000.

The 1955 fair is to be held at the present site. Construction on the new State Fair and Exposition Center is now under way.

'Give God A Chance,' Revival Theme Here; Rev. Coleman, Speaker

What does it mean to give God a chance in your life? That is a question that will be answered in the Stewardship Revival to be conducted this week-end at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, according to an announcement made by the pastor, the Rev. Ira McMillen, Jr.

The special services, to be conducted by the Rev. L. E. Coleman, Sr., of Louisville, will be held at 7:30 on Friday and Saturday nights and at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. on Sunday. Mr. Coleman, who is now Baptist Brotherhood secretary for Kentucky, was a successful attorney in Arkansas before devoting his life in more recent years to the preaching ministry. He comes to the local church after successful stewardship campaigns over the state where he has also been actively engaged in organizing men members of Baptist churches in the Brotherhood program. While here the guest speaker will show two stewardship films, "How Much?" and "My All for Him," in connection with his messages at the Friday and Saturday night services.

"Prove Me" Day is the designation given to Sunday in the church, Rev. McMillen also stated. At this time it is suggested that every member of the church bring a tithe (one-tenth) of his income for one week in keeping with the words of God in Malachi 3:10. Churches that have tried this Scriptural plan of giving have often seen their contributions increase from three to ten-fold on the one day and continue in that manner in the following weeks, the pastor added.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone in the county to attend these special services.

Woodworking Course Added to Mayo State

A new course, wood working, has been added to the Vocational Shop curriculum here this semester. It was announced Tuesday by Chalmers H. Frazier, superintendent of Prestonsburg schools.

The Vocational Shop offering now consists of the following courses: Machine shop practice, gas and electric welding, mining science, mechanical drawing, electricity, wood working.

The Prestonsburg High School Vocational Shop is administered jointly by the Prestonsburg Board of Education and Mayo State Vocational School.

Plans are being made to add auto mechanics and plumbing to the course of study.

SENIOR WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club met Feb. 3rd with Mrs. Zella Archer on Central avenue. Assisting were Mrs. Ike Lockwood, Mrs. W. V. Bunting, Mrs. Wall Hamilton, Mrs. R. V. May.

During the business session, Mrs. J. H. Keenon, president, announced the district music and art contest and exhibit, Feb. 28, at the grade school auditorium in Prestonsburg. She encouraged club members to enter original paintings or arts and crafts which have not been previously exhibited.

Mrs. Keenon also approved a committee to assist in the local polo drive.

The members voted to have a bake sale soon and to contribute funds to help send Allied Youth delegate to the first state conference group which will be held in Cumberland Falls, Feb. 23-25. Delegates will be chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Layne and Mr. and Mrs. Claybourne Stephens.

A generous contribution towards the operation and maintenance of the Kentucky bookmobile units was made.

Mrs. Frank Layne, program chairman for the evening introduced Mr. and Mrs. Arkady Weber, of Pikeville.

Mr. Weber, who is instructor of music at Pikeville Junior College, played recordings of some of his own compositions, the outstanding one of which was, "The Spring Will Come But Not For Me". He also played his own arrangement of a group of Russian Gypsy songs, which were well received by the group.

Mrs. Weber, instructor of French at the college, told of their life in China before coming to the United States. Wearing a Chinese jacket which is more than a hundred years old, she told about the physiognomy, personality, dress and customs of the Chinese people.

Dessert plates were served to those taking part in the program and the following members and guests: Mesdames Winnie F. Johns, James Donohoe, Ed Music, Clifford Baldrige, W. H. Brown, W. W. Wallen, Robert Regan, John Hale, Victor Hale, Tom James, H. L. Ley, E. A. Smith, and Miss Alice Harris.

Nearly three-fourths of the strawberry growers in Monroe county mulched their patches this winter.

Rasnick Is Appointed
Maytag Sales Manager

The Maytag Company has announced the appointment of John Rasnick, of Elkhorn City, as regional sales manager in charge of 20 counties in Kentucky.

Mr. Rasnick was formerly associated with the Kentucky Power Company at Pikeville. He is a native of Pikeville and attended Pikeville Junior College, and later the University of Kentucky.

He married the former Pauline Preston, of Paintsville. The Rasnicks have a daughter, Frances, and a son, Walter.

Included in Rasnick's territory are the following counties: Floyd, Bell, Breathitt, Clay, Harlan, Johnson, Knott, Knox, Laurel, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, McCreary, Magoffin, Martin, Owsley, Perry, Pike, Whitley, and Wolfe.

Association's Trial Committee
Investigates Complaints

The trial committee which investigated the complaints. They were Judges Sims, Cammack, and Bert T. Combs, Prestonsburg.

The trial committee of Marion W. Moore, Covington, and Lorimer W. Scott, Newport, reported to the bar commissioners that Judge Speckman, sometime during the proceedings in the spring of 1953, indicated that he could not devote the time to hear the last five cases orally, as desired by the county officials.

The trial committee report said: "Council for defendants, who claimed to want the cases disposed of before the 1953 primary elections, made their desires known to the Court of Appeals, perhaps through Judge Combs or maybe Henry Harned (at that time sergeant-at-arms of the Appellate court).

"Judge Cammack seems to have taken a hand in the matter about this time as during a dinner given by Mr. Wilson Wyatt at his home in Louisville during the State Bar convention in early April of 1953, he approached Judge Grauman about going to Floyd county as special judge to replace Speckman.

"It seems that Judge Grauman was receptive, provided it was cleared with Chief Justice Sims, who had already asked him to sit as special judge in Christian county.

"Judge Sims, when approached, was reluctant to send Judge Grauman to Floyd county unless he was sure that Grauman could take care of the Christian county designation as well.

"It was finally settled the next day when Judge Cammack took Judge Grauman to Judge Combs' hotel room, at the time when he was feeling out Judge Courtney Wells, of an adjoining district, about going to Floyd county.

"Considerable correspondence between Justice Sims, council on both sides, Judge Grauman, and Judge Speckman ensued. . . . Which would indicate that Judge Grauman, a judge of a court of continuous session, was designated despite an apparent prohibitive statute KRS 22.220, overlooked until too late, and proceeded to hearings early in April of 1953.

"Although denied by Lewis, there is testimony that no objections to oral hearings were made by him until Judge Grauman had made some adverse rulings in the case.

"Some misunderstandings as to a later trial date resulted in Judge Grauman setting June 29 at a time when Lewis could not be present.

"In the meantime, Lewis received a letter, purportedly from some of his clients, but signatures thereon were only typed, suggesting to him to do something about getting rid of Judge Grauman, and which letter contained some serious accusations against Judge Grauman.

"Lewis testified that between the time he received the letter and the filing of the affidavit, he discussed the contents thereof with only Martin, who it appears, was also a member of the Taxpayers League and was in Lewis' corner.

"Lewis prepared the affidavit out of which complaint is made and either took it or sent it to Prestonsburg to be filed on June 29 because he was not to be present on that date. It was filed or handed to Judge Grauman on June 29, 1953, by someone other than Lewis, perhaps the clerk of the court. . . .

"Despite disavowal of any evil intent on the part of its author, your committee feels that a fair interpretation of its import is that Chief Justice Sims removed Judge Speckman because of his unfavorable ruling as to the defendants, and through corrupt pressure brought on Judge Sims by unnamed persons, he selected Judge Grauman to replace Judge Speckman and that Judge Grauman agreed before accepting that he would decide in favor of the defendants.

"Other accusations of misconduct were charged against Judge Grauman, including some mysterious and clandestine late-at-night actions of his. We, who know Judge Grauman, must take a dim view of any allegations of nocturnal peccadilloes on his part.

"Much of the record is devoted to evidence touching on the contents of the affidavit and why Lewis made certain accusations, or caused them to be made, without first inquiring into their verity.

"Much of its contents is mere innuendoes without any substance in fact and his testimony on close examination falls short on the same score.

"When called upon to prove the allegations of the affidavit by being specific as to names, dates, and other details, he could not do so other than by very broad generalities, or by falling back on the old bromide that he relied on information furnished by his clients.

"The actions of Lewis in this case seems to follow a familiar pattern and a course of conduct on his part ascribing evil motives on the part of those who do not agree with him or rule adversely to his cause.

"He sees nonexistent spooks lurking in every corner and employs a rather quizzical manner in his attempts to eliminate them.

"No doubt politics did play an important part in the whole affair. We strongly suspect that politics was the reason behind the bringing of the suits in the first place. If not, why the hue and cry over their being disposed of before the primaries? Wasn't the electorate entitled to know before voting whether the defendants were guilty or innocent of the alleged defalcations?"

"Your committee feels that Lewis was not justified in filing . . . the affidavit in question containing such scurrilous remarks and impugning the integrity of Chief Justice Sims and Judge Grauman, despite his strong feeling that politics in its ugliest form was the motivating force behind the change in judges.

"Politics may have motivated the litigations in Floyd county, but your committee is convinced that neither Justice Sims nor Judge Grauman would or did lend themselves to any political shenanigans.

"Moreover, Lewis has chosen the wrong forum for relief. If he believed to be true what he put in the affidavit, he should have taken the proper steps to have the guilty parties impeached."

Turning to Commonwealth's Attorney, the trial committee said: "The respondent, Martin, admits in his testimony that he caused the article appearing in The Floyd County Times to be published, and admits that he paid for the cost of such publication.

"He testified that Judge Speckman stated he would try the cases unless forced out by the chief justice, but Judge Speckman specifically denied that such a statement was ever made by him.

"Martin admits that the article was written for political purposes, even though he was not then seeking political office and neither Justice Sims nor Judge Grauman were then seeking political office, but Martin seeks to justify his action on the ground that he was assisting his political proponents.

" . . . Martin, by his testimony, sought to correct the statement 'they have fired the honest judge,' by saying that the original article, as presented to the newspaper, was written 'they have fired an honest judge.'

"This committee can see no difference in the implication resulting from either of such statements. The inference was clearly meant that Judge Speckman was honest and that Judge Grauman was dishonest.

"The respondent, Martin, admits by his testimony that he went too far in the article, that he used language that was too strong, that he was mad when he wrote the article and that it was purely a part of a political campaign.

"The respondent was the duly elected, qualified, and acting Commonwealth's Attorney in Floyd county and it was his duty to show the utmost respect to the bench, the bar, and to himself, and instead of publicizing statements or rumors which he testified at length to as the 'talk on the streets' he should have sought to have upheld and not to impugn the integrity of the courts."

Fugazzi School Plans
Extension Branch Here, Is Announcement Made

The Fugazzi School of Business will start registration of pupils next Monday at the Turner Hotel for its extension school to be founded here, Robert Wilkenson, registrar, announced this week.

The Fugazzi School of Business is one of the oldest in the state of Kentucky. It will offer courses in secretarial work and general business. Speedwriting also will be made available.

There will be a limited number of students that the extension school can accept. Wilkenson said 30 would be ideal.

The instructors will be sent from the central school in Lexington. The Fugazzi School of Business, Wilkenson said, has long been interested in branching out, and hopes that response to the venture will be good.

The huge plant will be capable, it is said, of producing about 10,000,000 cubic feet of butane, methane, propane and gasoline in liquid form. This product will be piped from the Floyd plant to chemical plants in the Charleston, W. Va., vicinity, for sale under a long-term contract with the Carbide & Chemical Company.

Completion of the plant is expected in time for operation to begin about Jan. 1, 1957.

Junior Chamber Here Thanked for Its Part In Olympic Fund Work

The Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce this week received wires of thanks from the publisher of LIFE magazine and the president of the U. S. Olympic Committee for participation in the Olympic Fund drive.

Kenneth L. "Tug" Wilson, president of the U. S. Olympic Committee, said in his wire to the Prestonsburg Jaycees that the $100,000 raised throughout the nation in a drive of civic organizations, sponsored by LIFE magazine and spearheaded by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, would go far towards assuring full representation of the Pan-American games in Mexico City next March.

"This money which Jaycees chapters in all 48 states have presented us represents new public backing for our cause."

The Olympic drive started last fall with the proclamation of National Olympic Day, October 6, by President Eisenhower, and continued through last month. Kentucky ranked fourth in the nation for the most money raised per Jaycee.

In another wire of congratulations to the Jaycees, Andrew Keiskell, LIFE publisher, praised the Junior Chamber of Commerce for spearheading the fund-raising campaign on the community level and for their ingenuity in devising Olympic appeal activities.

Former Prestonsburg Hi Athlete Stars On Texas Air Force Basketball Squad

John "Dicky" Dixon, former Prestonsburg high school grid, basketball and track star, is now lending his hardwood talents to the Copters of Gary (Texas) Air Force Base, the American service team which was selected recently to play a three-game series in Mexico with that country's entrant to the Pan-American Olympic games.

"DICKY" DIXON
... youngest Gary Cager

Airman Second Class Dixon is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Dixon, of David, parents of four who are prominent in athletics—Dicky at Gary AFB, two in Prestonsburg high school and Glenn, Jr., at Kirtland Air Force Base.

The following story from the Gary AFB service publication tells how Dixon is continuing his athletic career in Air Force uniform:

Dixon stands an even six feet and tips the scales at 182. He plays his guard position with terrific speed and deception, and although he is not usually a high scoring threat, he is rather consistent in coming through with eight or ten points for his teammates.

His services are used best on defense and in passing the ball in an offense. He has shown his capabilities as a defensive player more than once this year by putting the "pressure" on his opponent and stopping numerous scoring threats.

Dixon is playing his first year of service basketball and is doing remarkably well. He has shown improvement with every game. The indoor game is not new to him, however. He hails from a basketball playing capital—Kentucky.

He graduated from Prestonsburg High School in Prestonsburg, Ky., in 1953. In high school he lettered three years in basketball, two in football, two in baseball and one in track. He was voted the most valuable player award his senior year for excelling at the line-backer position on the gridiron. He has run the 100 yard dash in 10.4 seconds which probably explains his ability to race around the court in his usual fashion.

Dicky is only 19 years old and has not yet reached the peak of his athletic capabilities.

An airman-second-class, Dixon is assigned to the Air Police squadron at Gary. He enlisted in the Air Force in November of 1953 and completed basic training at Sampson AFB, N.Y. From there he was sent to Parks AFB, Calif., for Air Police School, and then to Lowry AFB. At Lowry he served as an Honor Guard to President Eisenhower.

SPORTS CHATTER

By Gordon Moore

TO OUR EDITOR:

The fishermen often jeers at his wife because she carries a few extra items in her purse—like some odd buttons of a couple or recipes—but the little old woman never quips about the old man's tackle box.

If he boasts of his pride in it at its peak on his fishing skill, the quicker the counter-attack of his wife will shut him up.

All properly equipped fishing tackle boxes are designed to serve the owner's needs—mostly for a few hours on the waters of Dewey Lake, but some experts could survive out of theirs for months. The best tackle boxes are very light, but that is a misnomer.

They hold a hodge-podge of stuff. More than a ton seems to be the average estimate necessary to tackle box equipment, particularly after you carry it in one hand and from the car on every fishing expedition.

The editor's and others' tackle boxes try to distract you with their pretty lures arranged in neat compartments of trays that spring up when you open the box. But beneath those trays is a bottomless maw, wherein every fisherman hoards his most treasured possessions.

He must have spare reels, and spare parts for reels, and tools to install them. He must have lubricants, and line dressing and spare lines and leaders. He must have a gadget to recover hooks, and a stone to resharpen them, a stringer to confine any fish he may catch (if he ever does) and scales and a ruler to weigh and measure them (then forget the measurements). Then he must have tools to clean them.

He must have a depth gauge and a water thermometer and a kit to patch his boots. If he has sense as well as experience, he will have a razor blade and long-nosed pliers to take drastic action in case a wayward cast hooks his neighbors' or his own, ear. He must have, in the same ominous connection, a mirror and a first-aid kit. Then, too, he must have a waterproof container for matches, and a compass.

If he seeks the larger game fish (as all of us do), he will have a deadly weapon there, too—something like a blackjack, or a small cannon.

After all, a man who expects to come in direct and violent contact with anything as heedless of human fingers as a musky needs something on his side in addition to logic.

These items are in addition to about 100 lures of various sizes and hues. This figure is not an idle one; it is about what the average man can keep track of without stabbing himself everytime he reaches in the box.

And these items are the things he must have, or run the risk of being under-equipped. They are the minimum. The maximum is what the weakling can carry.

SPORTS AFIELD

When a man's fly or plug casting is consistently bad, there's a good chance that the trouble lies not with the tackle but with himself—that he hasn't learned the proper technique of casting. But spinning is so intrinsically simple that if after your first couple of hours at it you're still having trouble, it must be the fault of wrong tackle, not of anything you're doing.

The unfortunate fact is that there are on the market some spinning reels, and some rod-and-reel combinations, of erroneous design. Fortunately, it is a simple matter to avoid buying a misbegotten cross between a spinning and casting reel. Jason Lucas, angling editor of Sports Afield magazine, points out that with a properly designed spinning reel the spool does not revolve in retrieving; there is a device to wrap the line back around the spool in the exact opposite of how it came off, so when the line is all back on it's as straight and untwisted as before. You cast. You just make sure, when selecting a spinning reel, that some pickup gadget is wrapping the line back on and that the spool does not revolve.

In spinning reels Lucas prefers manual pickup to automatic. He thinks one with manual pickup is much simpler and more pleasant to use after you get used to it.

As for rods, most who are experienced with this type of fishing seem to prefer the seven-foot length, although many advocate shorter ones. The rod must be flexible enough to bend well in casting lures from one eighth to one quarter ounce. Bamboo and hollow glass rods work about equally well for spinning. Solid glass rods are fine in lengths up to around six feet, but in longer lengths they tend to become top heavy and slow in action.

Some experts maintain that it's a trifle easier to learn spinning with braided line, but practically all that I know now use monofilament. For really good casting with fresh-water spinning lures, one shouldn't use line over four-pound test.

Baptist Home Wins State Dairy Contest

Homeland Farms, owned by the Kentucky Baptist Children's Home, Glendale, was named winner of the 1954 Dairy Production Contest at the Farm and Home Convention at the University of Kentucky. The farm, received a plaque and $75 for winning the contest, which was open to the 340 members of the Kentucky Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

Awards were made by the National Dairy Products Corporation to the three association members who showed the most improvement in dairy operation during the past four years. Contestants were judged on dairy feeding, management, sanitation and feeding programs and the amount of increase in their herds' production of milk and fat.

With 26 cows on D.H.I.A. test last year, the herd at Homeland Farms averaged 13,998 pounds of milk and 471 pounds of fat a cow. The average income over feed cost per cow was $407.76.

Second-place winner, receiving $50 and a plaque, was Robert M. Stuart, Jr., Owensboro. His 36 cows on test produced an average of 10,388 pounds of milk and 388 pounds of fat with an average income over feed per cow of $305.50.

Rowland T. Burns, Louisa, third-place winner, received $25. His herd of 17 cows averaged 10,955 pounds of milk and 494 pounds of fat. The average income over feed cost per cow was $356.79.

Five D.H.I.A. supervisors also received awards at the luncheon. Recognized for outstanding work as herd testers were C. M. Smith, Oldham and Jefferson No. 1 association, first-place winner; W. T. Ross, Dix River, second; Willard Lovan, Logan, third; Charles Snyder, Spencer county, fourth and R. K. Smith, Washington county, fifth.

RABBI AT RUBINSTEIN'S FUNERAL CALLS HIM A PSYCHOPATHIC MONEY SEEKER

Watkins Asks Interested Kentuckians Participate In Foundation Program

All Kentuckians interested in the medical welfare of the state are invited to join the Kentucky Medical Foundation and to participate in its activities, J. Stephen Watkins, Lexington, Foundation president said this week.

Watkins said invitations to enroll in the Foundation are being mailed this week to more than 6,000 farm, business, medical and civic leaders in Kentucky.

However, he explained, the organization is interested in expanding its mailing list and has invited all interested citizens to submit their names to receive information on progress of the Foundation's work.

The mailing address is Post Office Box 618, Lexington.

Membership is open to those who subscribe to the general purposes of the organization. There are no membership dues. Funds for operation are raised by voluntary subscription, the president said.

The Medical Foundation was organized Sept. 8, 1954, by a group of Kentuckian citizens. It is a non-stock, non-profit charitable organization.

Its purpose is to lend public support to the following six-point program:

1. Co-operate with the Governor, the Legislature, medical institutions and other officials and citizens in providing better medical services to the people of Kentucky.

2. Focus public attention on the health problem of the state.

3. Work for the establishment of a state-supported medical school at the University of Kentucky to train physicians and allied personnel.

4. Endow chairs in the medical college to attract higher caliber teaching personnel.

5. Accept gifts to supplement public funds to assure a superior medical college.

6. Obtain better distribution of physicians in the state.

"For nearly a half century the trends for adequate medical care and opportunities for education in medicine have been running against the people on Kentucky," Watkins stated.

He pointed out that although the number of physicians has been increasing steadily in the nation, the number has been declining steadily in Kentucky.

"Repeated shocking indictments have been made against the Commonwealth's medical situation, and studies made by leaders in medicine, government and education show there is ample justification for the public's concern with this problem," the Foundation president asserted.

Watkins pointed out that the citizens who formed the Foundation have reached conclusions—based on studies conducted over a 30-year period—that Kentucky needs more physicians and allied medical personnel.

More Red and Alsike Clover Seed Needed

Farmers must decide within the new few weeks how best to meet the problem of short supplies of red and alsike clover seed, say U. S. Department of Agriculture agronomists. The seed supply of these two legumes is the smallest in years.

Reduction in seeding rates offers one solution to the problem, explain the agronomists especially if coupled with good seeding methods along with proper liming and fertilizing. They point out that reducing the amount of red clover in seeding mixtures has been used in other years of shortage to stretch seed supplies.

Substitution of other legumes for red or alsike clover is another solution under many circumstances, say the agronomists. Fortunately, seed supplies of Ladino white clover and most alfalfa varieties are abundant enough to help fill in where supplies of alsike and red clover seed are short. There is more than twice as much certified Ladino seed on hand this year as used in any previous year. Alfalfa seed supplies are at record levels and well above anticipated domestic consumption. However, export demand for both alfalfa and red clover seed has stepped up in recent weeks to the point that the combined domestic supply will not greatly exceed last year's total domestic consumption.

The agronomists say that while Ladino is most widely used as a pasture legume, experiments show it is efficient in fixing nitrogen and can be used in many cases as a green manure crop. In Iowa, for example, during two years of favorable moisture, corn yields following Ladino turned under were higher than corn yields following other legumes in the test. Yields after Ladino were higher than yields from corn receiving 51 pounds of nitrogen per acre.

The agronomists urge farmers to consult their county agents early for specific recommendations on suitable legume mixtures that can be planted this spring for hay, pasture or green manure.

ELLIOTT'S BEST CROP
Tobacco yields in Elliott county may average 2,000 pounds an acre, one of the best crops ever grown in the county.

DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS

Frankfort, Kentucky

New York, Jan. 31 — Serge Rubinstein was indicted even in death today in a startling funeral sermon labeling him as a friendless, psychopathic money seeker who refused to serve the country he claimed to love.

The final words about the 46-year-old financier and playboy who was strangled in his bed last Thursday were uttered by Rabbi Julius Mark, senior rabbi of Temple Emanuel.

His frank oration fell on the shocked ears of 350 persons—many of them curiosity seekers—who attended the final rites for Rubinstein. Only 55 went on to the cemetery.

Detectives, still searching for the slayers and even for a motive for the murder, mingled in the throng of well-dressed men and mink-coated women gathered in a Park Avenue funeral home near Rubinstein's Fifth Avenue home.

Police announced they had found a woman's white glove—for the left hand—in Rubinstein's bedroom and were trying to find the owner. Fingerprint prints found in the room were being checked against those of about 1,000 female cabaret entertainers whose prints are in police file.

At least two of the many women in Rubinstein's life paid their final tribute to him, and his former wife sent a sprig of myrtle that was placed in his $6,500 casket and went with him to his grave.

"The word, paradox best describes the ambiguous, complex, and psychopathic character of Serge Rubinstein," Rabbi Mark told the mourners. "He had a genius for acquiring wealth, but never learned the lesson that money is a good servant but a harsh master."

"He was frustrated because he wanted friends but never had them. He wanted love, but never learned that it must be won and not bought. He called America the greatest land, but ignored the pleas of his friends to serve it."

"He wanted security, but lacked inner security. He feared death because he had no faith."

Mark delivered the oration at the request of Rubinstein's 78-year-old mother, Stella, who is a member of the rabbi's reform congregation.

The rabbi said Rubinstein was "a devoted son and a doting father."

Only Car at its Price* . . .

So Smart! So Big! So Powerful!

*You can buy a big, powerful Pontiac for less than many models of the lowest-priced cars!

Whatever you want most in a car—beauty, size or performance—you get it in extra measure in a Pontiac. In fact, when you choose Pontiac the decision comes very easily—because Pontiac alone, at its price, gives you everything!

For example, take Pontiac's distinctive smartness. Certainly there is no question on this point. Pontiac is the one car that stands apart from all the others.

If it's size and big-car sure-footedness you want—Pontiac's your car! Pontiac's long wheelbase—124 inches in the Star Chief, shown here, and 122 inches in the 860 and 870 series—is the plus wheelbase that provides the roominess, the comfort, the satisfying road-hugging security that only a big car can supply.

As for performance—once you get behind the wheel you have all the proof you need that Pontiac is way ahead in this department, too. Pontiac's spectacular performance starts with the most modern engine of all—the powerful new Strato-Streak V-8—specifically designed for Pontiac's all-new chassis to give you balanced performance. That means smooth, eager getaway in traffic; power to spare on the open road; and even more of Pontiac's traditional economy, dependability and long life.

All this adds up to a wonderful car and—with Pontiac's remarkably low price tag—a very wonderful buy. Come in soon and talk dollars and cents. If you're in the market for any new car, you'll discover you can easily afford all the pride and pleasure of a big, powerful, luxury-loaded Pontiac.

Trend in Kentucky Is To Larger Schools

More than 80 per cent of the pupils in Kentucky's public school system attend schools with four or more teachers, Superintendent of Public Instruction Wendell P. Butler said this week.

A new study quoted by Butler shows: The total enrollment of 582,451 pupils, with 20,406 teachers, includes 471,316 pupils enrolled in 1,182 schools having 16,344 teachers. These are the schools with four or more teachers.

There are 56,446 pupils enrolled in 2,238 one-teacher schools; 37,652 pupils enrolled in 645 schools having two teachers, and 17,937 pupils enrolled in 178 schools having three teachers.

The number of one, two and three-teacher schools has shown a gradual diminution, during the last few years, according to the study. Since 1946-47 the number of single-teacher schools has dropped from 3,573 to 2,238 for the present year; the two-teacher schools have dropped from 866 to 645 and the three-teacher schools have fallen from 190 to 178. Schools with four or more teachers have risen from 1,062 to 1,180.

The total number of school plants dropped from 5,691 to 4,241 in the same period.

Berea College, U. of K., Faculty Members Will Judge Music Festival

Pikeville, Ky., Feb. 7 (Spl.)—Members of the Berea College and University of Kentucky faculties will serve as judges for the Pikeville Regional Music Festival, March 31-April 2, it was announced today.

Rolf E. Hovey, head of Berea's music department, will judge vocal solos and groups in the annual meet at Pikeville Junior College. He also will conduct the All-Festival Chorus concert with which the regional festival traditionally is closed. Dr. A. A. Page, college president, said.

William Worrell, professor of music education at the University of Kentucky, will be judge of all instrumental events except piano, and director of the All-Festival Band. Piano performances will be rated by Ford Montgomery, instructor in piano at the University.

Some 1,000 Eastern Kentucky school students annually take part in the Pikeville festival, competing for the right to proceed to the state festival later in the spring. This year no ratings will be given at the regional levels unless specifically requested, but all entrants will receive the benefit of the judges' criticism and advice, Dr. Page said.

Where Pride Leads to Economy!

This gasoline station isn't accustomed to being ignored by the cars that pass its way. For it resides at the edge of a great desert—and it is many, many miles to the next fueling point.

But the big, handsome automobile you see here swept by without so much as a sign of recognition! For it is a new 1955 Cadillac—and its owner knows that he can travel from his morning's start until his evening's stop without a single refueling.

Of course, when a motorist decides to order his first Cadillac, he isn't usually aware that the car is so economical to operate—and so practical to own.

He wants a Cadillac for what it is and represents—and for the great pride and pleasure it will bring him.

But it isn't long before he discovers where his pride has led him!

He discovers it first when he prices the Cadillac of his choice. Invariably, he is surprised at its relatively modest cost. Not infrequently, he finds that it actually costs less than the car he is currently driving.

And then, once his Cadillac is delivered into his hands, he discovers how frugal it is with a gallon of gasoline. He finds, as we said, that a full tank is usually sufficient for a full day's drive.

Next, he learns of Cadillac's extraordinary dependability. In fact, he often has to be reminded when the time has come for routine service.

But not until he surrenders his Cadillac to its second owner does he discover the full wonder of Cadillac's economy. For then he learns how amazingly it holds its value—and how little a year's service affects the public's regard for the car.

All this is to say, of course, that you don't have to follow your pride to the "car of cars." You can, if you prefer, make your decision solely on the basis of economy—and still buy a Cadillac!

Come in soon—and see for yourself! We've got the facts—and we'll be delighted to see you at any time!

Most Outstanding Farmers Of Conservation Districts To Receive Recognition

Third annual national program to provide recognition of each state's outstanding soil conservation district and most cooperative farmer or rancher was announced today (Thursday) at San Diego, Calif., by A. H. Settle, director of Soil Conservation Awards program for Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

Speaking on behalf of Goodyear, sponsors of soil saving competitions for eight years, Settle told members of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts, assembled at San Diego for their annual meeting, that the Akron rubber firm's second annual program ends on April 30 and the new program begins on May 1.

Competition in the awards program is conducted on state levels. Judging is done by state committees of outstanding leaders in soil conservation. Goodyear provides awards to stimulate interest competitively in sound soil practices.

Grand award in the yearly contest is a vacation trip to Arizona's luxurious winter resort, the Wigwam, at Litchfield Park, each December. Winners also receive bronze plaques at regional meetings of NASCD.

Arizona vacation trips go to one hundred of the nation's top soil conservationists, two from each of 50 competing units. The country is divided equally for competition purposes into 50 balanced sections rather than follow strict state lines. Grand award winners in each unit are the outstanding farmer from the best district and one member of first place district governing body, selected by voting members.

Notice to Warrant Holders:

Floyd fiscal court warrants No. 776 to 925, are hereby called for payment. Interest on same ceases Feb. 15, 1955.

Miss Flannery, Bride Of Lt. James Waddell

Mrs. Katherine Stratton, of Banner, announces the marriage of her daughter, Mildred Katherine Flannery, to Lt. James W. Waddell, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Waddell, of Hutchinson, W. Va.

The informal wedding ceremony was performed by Chaplain John H. Dunstan, of the Army Air Force, at 4:00 p.m., January 12, in the Chapel at James Connally Air Force Base, Waco, Texas, where Lt. Waddell is stationed.

The bride was attired in a street length dress of white faille trimmed with rhinestone-studded lace, and carried a white Bible. The maid of honor was Miss Mark K. Spencer, of Akron, Ohio. The best man was Lt. Edwin E. Clesson, who is also stationed at the Waco Air Force Base.

The bride attended the University of Kentucky, from which she was graduated in medical technology, in January, 1954. Lt. Waddell also attended the University of Kentucky, where he was a member of Alpha Sigma Phi social fraternity. Lt. and Mrs. Waddell now reside at 214 North 9th Street, Waco, Texas.

North of a dogwood; N 55 30 W 170 ft. to a dogwood, a corner to Ollie Glen; thence down the hill, N 47 E 107 ft. to a large beech; N 69 15 E 432 ft.; S 85 E 140 ft. to the C & O Railway right of way; thence with said right of way to the beginning.

TRACT No. 2. Also a lot in the bottom, beginning at a stake at the road a corner of Mattie Winfrey's land; then across the bottom with Mattie Winfrey's line, S 12 45 W 135 ft. to the branch; thence down the branch, S 72 E 139 ft. to lot No. 2; thence across the bottom, N 12 45 E 135 ft. to the road; thence up the road, N 18 W 135 ft. to the beginning, containing 5 acres, more or less, being the same land conveyed to Mattie Belle Griffin by deed of division recorded in Deed Book 129, page 179, Floyd County Court Clerk's Office.

Said property will be sold, or a sufficiency thereof, to satisfy a judgment in the above styled action for the sum of $134.00 with interest from May 22, 1950, and the costs of this action.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 5th day of February, 1955.
J. B. CLARKE
Master Commissioner
Floyd Circuit Court.

MAYTOWN

The Maytown W.S.C.S. held its regular monthly meeting in the church basement last Tuesday evening, with Mrs. Thurmal Click and Mrs. Howard Ramey as hostesses. Mrs. Raymond Hopson was program leader on the topic, "The Driving Power." Linda Sue Maggard read the scripture taken from Matthew. Others on the program were Mesdames George Patton, Raymond Hopson, Henry L. May, James Allen and Thomas Patrick. Mrs. Patrick presided over the business meeting, asking for the officers and committee reports. Following the business meeting, Mrs. Jones Tallent conducted a Bible Quiz, with all members taking part. The hostesses served refreshments to Mesdames James Allen, Elizabeth Allen, Arnold Cassidy, Raymond Crum, Rebecca Hayes, Arnold Mazzard, Baisden Osborne, Henry L. May, Thomas Patrick, Charles Patton, George Patton, Howard Ramey, Jones Tallent, Manor Manuel, John Ison, Amy Begley and Misses Bonnie Hopson and Linda Sue Maggard.

Attendance pins were given at the Maytown Methodist Church recently. Those receiving pins were Bobby Tallent and Rebecca Hayes—6 years; Linda Sue Maggard, Doris Maggard, Sharon Patton and Catherine Patton—5 years; Jimmy Ison—4 years; Larry Maggard, Paul Osborne, Danny Jack Hicks, Randolph Hicks and Ray Osborne—3 years; Lynn Halbert, Ralph Manuel and Mrs. Baisden Osborne—2 years; and Paul Patton—1 year.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Halbert have moved into their home which they recently purchased from Curt Hicks.

Mrs. Augusta Carter and Ronda Rowe, of Columbus, Ohio, spent several days here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rowe, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gibson have moved into the David Reed house which Delbert Ison recently vacated.

Mrs. Manor Manuel honored her daughter, Mrs. Mildred Lenhoff, with a household shower in the Maytown lunchroom, Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Lenhoff received many lovely and useful gifts.

Miss Gwendolyn Gibson, who is attending nursing school in Lexington, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Champ Gibson.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore "Pete" Martin moved into one of the Ed Sutton houses this week.

DRIFT

Mrs. Joe C. Moore, entertained to dinner Sunday the Moore and Turner family, in honor of her husband's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Damron were guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cook, Sunday.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Reed have been quite ill with colds.

New Welding Methods Studied by Harmon Who Will Hold Clinics

Mack Harmon, of the R. V. May Company, dealer for the Lincoln Electric Company, manufacturer of arc welding equipment, has returned from Cleveland where he spent a week in an intensive training course to learn the latest welding developments and how to conduct welding clinics.

Mr. Harmon cited new hard surfacing material as one new development of special interest. Machinery of all types, it is claimed, can be given a long service life by putting hardsurfacing weld metal at the right place at the right time.

Harmon said he went to the Cleveland course to be able to serve better the welding needs of this area in making and maintaining machinery in both farming and industry. The course included, in addition to new welding developments, training in all types of welding operations and other uses for welding equipment such as soldering, brazing, cutting, gouging and hardsurfacing. Special emphasis was put on how to conduct welding clinics, several of which Mr. Harmon plans to have in this area.

PART-TIME AUXIER TRAPPER WINNER OF TOP SEARS AWARD

An Auxier farmer and part-time fur trapper has been named the winner of $200 weekly cash award in the Sears, Roebuck Co.'s 25th National Fur Show recently conducted. H. H. Haslar, manager of the Williamson Sears store announced.

A five-pelt muskrat fur shipment of Charles L. Harmon who traps mostly on the week-ends, was adjudged the best prepared of all shipments received at any of the six Sears fur receiving stations during the week of Dec. 12, 1954.

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon attended a luncheon meeting with the Sears store officials in the Mountaineer hotel at which time the $200 check was formally presented. The shipment of the Floyd county man also is eligible for competition in another fur show, top winner of which will receive $1,000 cash.

A fur trapper for 20 years, Mr. Harmon finds this outdoor hobby both fun and profitable. Mr. Harmon, his wife and their two sons, ages 12 and 9 years live on a 30-acre farm near Auxier, about three miles from Harmon Station which played an important part in the early life of Eastern Kentucky. At one time during his life the Floyd county man operated a mink farm. His trapping is done along the Big Sandy river in the vicinity of his home and his catches aside from muskrat include skunk, opossum, raccoon and other fur bearing animals that inhabit the area.

Mr. Harmon's $200 cash award is one of eight special awards made during the eight weeks duration of Sears National Fur Show, Nov. 22 to Jan. 15, to encourage large shipments of fine skins.

RATES RAISED

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 8—Commissioner of Motor Transportation John M. Kinnaird has approved higher rate schedules for less than truck load rates on iron and steel commodities hauled intrastate by truck.

Rates on such shipments have been 40 per cent of first class rates, and will be raised to 50 per cent under the new schedule.

Income Tax Refunds Will Be Made Soon

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 8 (Spl.)—Many Kentuckians will receive their 1954 state income tax refunds shortly, Commissioner of Revenue Robert H. Alphin announced today. The first refund authorizations have been sent to the State Treasurer's office and checks will be mailed as rapidly as possible.

These are the first refunds under Kentucky's new pay-as-you-go income tax law. Even those taxpayers who are due a refund of only a few cents will receive checks.

The refunds are being made to those entitled to them in the same order as the income tax returns are filed, Alphin pointed out. Early filers will receive their refund checks sooner.

Taxpayers who file their returns before the April 15 deadline will receive their refund checks within a few weeks from the time the return is filed.
