PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

JULY 25, 1963

This Town... That World

The Floyd County Board of Education drilled two water (?) wells at the site of the Middle Creek elementary school which now is under construction, and got only six gallons. That's worse than my record in the oil business. I usually got a barrel.

Dirt in the hands of a certain kind of individual can certainly make a mountain out of a molehill.

WHERE THE FISH ARE

The fact that men—and a few women—venture onto Dewey and other lakes, these scorching July days, in search of bass, is proof that you can't do anything about a confirmed fisherman, unless it would be to put him in a strait-jacket. If you want to catch fish, hit the dirty, old, cluttered-up, old Big Sandy. Johnny Ackerman has been slaying the smallmouth with Shysters, and still younger Michael Fannin landed a 19-inch walleye, the other day. All taken, a lone cast from City Hall.

AT LAST I LEARN

Larry Johnson writes from Lexington to fill me in on what those initials, E. D. E. N., in Mrs. Southworth's name stand for. Her full name was Emma Dorothy Eliza Nevitte Southworth. Just think—I began wondering about those initials 45 or more years ago, and along comes a youngster who learns all about them in a matter of minutes. Just goes to show me...

MORE ABOUT OLD BOOKS

And Mrs. Robert Martin, of Martin, writes to wonder why, if I know anything about them, I haven't mentioned her three all-time favorites, SCOTCH CHIEFS by Jane Porter, JOHN HALIFAX by Miss Mulock, and ST. BALMO by Augusta J. Evans. I missed the first, had a (See Story No. 6, Page 6)

7 DRAW JAIL TERMS, FINES IN BOOZE CASES

UNRELENTING PRESSURE SET BY GOVERNOR

Judge Stumbo Adds Peace Bond To Fines; Church People Attend

The heat's on bootlegging in this county.

Governor Bert T. Combs last week declared the pressure would be kept on till organized bootlegging is broken up, and Monday in quarterly court here juries convicted seven persons arrested in raids made July 3 by ABC agents and State Police, giving all but one the maximum penalty of 60 days in jail and a fine of $100.

Each of the seven defendants has filed supersedeas bond to appeal to the Floyd circuit court. But the $1,000 peace bond required of each for a period of 12 months by County Judge Henry Stumbo is non-appealable, it was said.

Those convicted and given 60-day jail terms and fines of $100 were James Slone, Melvin Click, Banner Burchett, Cora Slone, Riley Wells, Jr., and Paul Tackett. Mrs. Anna Dingus was fined $100 and given a 30-day jail sentence.

Trial of Ronald Jones, who was arrested July 3 in a raid on the Texaco Service Station at Banner, was continued till August 26. Benjie Branham, for whom a warrant of arrest was issued after intoxicants were found by state officers on the same day at the Shamrock Inn on Dewey Lake, had not been arrested, early this week, it was said at the County Judge's office. The warrant for Branham, placed with the Sheriff, was executed Wednesday.

The big crowd which almost filled the circuit courtroom was indicative of the interest of citizens in outcome of the trials. Ministers and church people, mostly from Allen, Harold and Betsy Layne, with some from Prestonsburg, sat through the day's proceedings. These were liberally represented on the six-member juries summoned to hear the cases.

One woman, summoned for jury service, was "excused" from sitting in the trial of Melvin Click when she said she was a Christian and was concerned about bootlegging, adding, "That's why we're here." Bystander juries were summoned for the first two cases by the Sheriff's department. Then, after request for the next jury had been made. (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

Student Here Wins Award

A Guy Hisle, Paintsville, Southern Bell manager, presents scholarship certificate to Miss Elizabeth Sue Tackett.

For the second straight year a Prestonsburg high school student has been chosen by the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company as a recipient of a full scholarship to the Institute of International Relations, International Center, University of Louisville.

Miss Elizabeth Sue Tackett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Tackett, of Prestonsburg, was this year's selection and is one of only three chosen from all Kentucky.

Southern Bell last year chose Kenneth Allen, a Prestonsburg student. The Floyd county girl and 36 other high school students represent-

JUDGE FINES TAXI DRIVER

Campbell Claims Whiskey Seized Here; Policemen, Deputy Sheriff In Raids

Ernest Campbell, taxicab driver, was arrested Sunday by Prestonsburg police and a deputy sheriff, charged with possession of whiskey in local option dry territory. The arrest resulted from a search of the taxi stand premises of Tom Lafferty on Lake Drive.

Found at the premises were seven half-pints of whiskey, vodka and gin. Campbell claimed ownership of the intoxicants. He pleaded guilty before Prestonsburg Police Court Judge Watt Hale and was fined $50 and $2.50 costs.

Another raid staged Sunday by the same officers at the property of Sam Adkins revealed no intoxicants. The raiding officers, led by Police Chief Bill Potter, included Policemen Ray Click and Woodrow Salyers and Deputy Sheriff Jay Salyers.

Two persons were arrested near the premises of Adkins Sunday and charged with drunkenness. The officers confiscated a half-pint of whiskey in the possession of one of the two.

Chief Potter noted that a total of 24 persons have been arrested to date in Prestonsburg for the month of July and booked for drunkenness. Twenty were arrested in June.

Others booked at the county jail within the last week were Paul V. Mollett, arrested by Trooper Larry Hatton and charged with drunken driving; Eddie Holbrook, parole violator, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Troy Mullins, was later released by Parole Officer James Duff; Herston Mayo, destruction of evidence, jailed by ABC Agent Claude Flanery, Deputy Sheriff Sam Hale and Lonnie Herald; Gary Miller, giggling fish from a boat, arrested by Conservation Officer Raymond Copley. Miller pleaded guilty before Magistrate Bryant DeRossett and was fined $37.50.

$1,250,000 AID ADDED

To Flood-Stricken Area By President Kennedy; Allocations Are Noted

President John F. Kennedy has informed Gov. Bert Combs that he has made available an additional $1,250,000 through the Office of Emergency Planning to meet federal aid claims arising from the disastrous March and April floods in Kentucky.

This makes a total of $3,250,000 in federal aid allocations, a figure described by State Civil Defense officials as "adequate" to meet the state's needs.

First word received here of the additional allocation was from Congressman Carl D. Perkins, who said that if further funds are needed, President Kennedy will make them available.

To date, a total of $590,985 has been approved for the first 18 Kentucky applications submitted for federal aid flood damage funds. Kentucky Adjutant General Arthur Y. Lloyd, State Civil Defense director, said most of the approved applications so far are in the heavily-damaged Eastern Kentucky area. The only exception is the $1,534 application of the city of Smithland, situated on the Ohio River near Paducah.

NEWSPAPERS DISAGREE ON TAX STAMP TOTAL

The Lexington Leader and The Courier-Journal do not agree on the number of persons and organizations holding federal alcohol-tax stamps in Floyd county.

The Leader listed 28 in its recent story which is being used by Louie B. Nunn, Republican candidate for governor, against Governor Combs. The Courier-Journal in its Wednesday morning edition listed 29. Nunn charged that, as of June 30 this year, "there were more holders of federal tax stamps in Floyd county than in 111 of the other counties of the state."

Of those holding stamps on June 30, one went out of business, July 12. He was listed as Effort Reynolds, Effort Reynolds Cave, Clear Creek road, Ligon. The 21st stamp was not issued till July 1, and that went to the American Veterans Club Post 27, Martin.

Those listed by The Courier-Journal as holding stamps on June 30 follow:

STATE PAPER CHARGES BOOTLEGGING RAMPANT

The Lexington Leader, in a signed news-story under a Prestonsburg dateline, last Thursday alleged that "one of the largest bootlegging operations in Kentucky is flourishing in 'dry' Floyd county, home of Gov. Bert Combs, and only token efforts have been made to stamp it out."

Some townspeople, the story said, blame the sheriff for lax law enforcement. Sheriff Henry C. Hale, in turn, was quoted as saying he would do more if the State Police and Alcoholic Beverage Control Board would cooperate with him.

Next day, Governor Combs issued the following statement to the press: "There has been evidence of organized bootlegging in Floyd county in recent months. Several weeks ago, I directed the Commissioner of Public Safety and the Commissioner of Alcoholic Beverage Control to send necessary personnel to Floyd county and take all other legal steps required to cope with the situation."

"Since then, more than 25 raids have been conducted and numerous arrests made. "I have also directed the State Police and the Alcoholic Beverage Control Department to keep the heat on in Floyd county until organized bootlegging is eliminated.

"The state officials want the cooperation of all local officials, and I am sure such cooperation will be forthcoming. I regret the circumstances which caused the sheriff to think the state officers did not cooperate with him sufficiently in the last raids. But the important thing is to stop the illegal whiskey traffic, and I have full confidence that, working together at the state and county level, this can be done."

Other striking items of the Lexington Leader story, which was written by Warren Schweder, include these statements:

- 1. Commonwealth's Attorney Holie Conley and Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill blame each other. (Judge Hill was in a hospital and was not interviewed. Statements ascribed to him were taken from primary election campaign literature.)
- 2. Unidentified persons were quoted as saying, "The people are just tore all to pieces, and they don't see any hope... Everyone's scared, afraid they'll wind up, face down, in the river."
- 3. A secret Committee of 100 has been formed, with the idea of patrolling themselves after the citizens' group which sparked the Newport cleanup. (Inquiry from investigators and others here failed to uncover any knowledge of such a committee.)
- 4. Files of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Louisville, show that, as of June 30, 29 Floyd county residents owned federal tax stamps for the sale of whiskey, an increase of 10 in the last four years. "The Courier-Journal, in its edition of Wednesday morning, this week, listed 20 as having the stamps). The stamps protect the seller of whiskey from federal prosecution.
- 5. Some Prestonsburg residents claim the record of stamps tell only half the story—that at least as many bootleggers are selling whiskey without stamps as are selling it with them.
- 6. It was estimated that at least 70 bootleggers are operating in the county—five from Prestonsburg to Dewey Lake, 11 from Prestonsburg to the Pike county line, with such a place at either end of Dewey Lake.
- 7. Food stamps are being accepted by bootleggers for whiskey.
- 8. Sheriff Hale was quoted as saying the lack of cooperation he has received from state agencies is the governor's way of discrediting him and other sheriffs of the state. (See Story No. 2, Page 6)

BOARD BUYS SCHOOL SITE

New Elementary Building Proposed On Left Beaver; Two Contracts Are Let

The Floyd County Board of Education, at its regular meeting here Saturday evening voted unanimously to purchase the John and Lula Jones property at the mouth of Bryant Branch, near Price, as a site for the construction of an elementary school building to serve upper Left Beaver Creek.

The proposed building will consist of 22 classrooms, four more than the John M. Stumbo elementary school building opened last year at Grethel. The plot of land being acquired from Jones contains 5.2 acres. The structure will take care of elementary pupils at Wheelwright grade and other upper Left Beaver Creek schools.

Superintendent Clark said the Board hopes to be able to advertise for bids on the structure, next spring. The Board awarded the contract for the construction of two additional grade school rooms at Betsy Layne to Gerald H. Ruffner on his low bid of $21,567.00. A contract was also awarded Saturday to Roneyn C. Dyer on his low bid of $11,159 to renovate the home economics department of the Wheelwright high school.

W. W. Burchett, board attorney, was authorized to negotiate with the Prestonsburg Water & Gas System to furnish water to the Middle Creek elementary school now under construction. The Board has had two wells drilled but both yielded only a capacity of six gallons. Burchett will report to the Board at the next regular meeting, August 3.

MARTIN P. O. JOB AWARDED

Department To Lease Building for 20 Years, General Day Announces

Construction of the new post office at Martin was further advanced recently with the announcement by Postmaster General J. Edward Day that a contract has been awarded to Alexander P. Kueller to build and lease the building to the Post Office Department.

"We are continuing to build new post offices where they are needed," Mr. Day said, "but we are constantly re-assessing our lease construction program to determine whether present buildings can be altered or remodeled to take care of our expanding volume of mail."

"The construction program is being concentrated in those areas where the need is urgent and suitable space cannot be obtained except through new construction."

Under the Department's Lease Construction program the successful bidder will construct the new building on the east of Main street between North and South Elm streets and lease it to the Department for 20 years, with renewal options running up to 20 years. A total of 11 bids were received by the Department's regional real estate office.

The Department's capital investment is limited substantially to postal equipment, while the building remains under private ownership, with the owner paying local real estate taxes.

The new post office will be constructed on a site containing 10,425 square feet, and is expected to be completed in approximately six months after the plans are approved. It will have an interior space of 2,946 square feet with an area of 5,583 square feet for parking and movement of postal vehicles. The present space will be made available for other purposes.

The new one story building will be air-conditioned. (See Story No. 3, Page 6)

FULL SLATE OF NOMINEES AT GATHERING

Industrial Training Urged by Breathitt; Waterfield Asks Unity

Harmony within the Democratic party was the keynote of the district organization meeting headed Tuesday evening at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, by Edward T. "Ned" Breathitt and Harry Lee Waterfield, the party's nominees for governor and lieutenant-governor respectively.

The two top men on the ticket were joined at the lodge by all Democratic nominees and approximately 500 officials and citizens of an eight-county area.

Both Breathitt and Waterfield pledged support of the Appalachian Regional Development Program proposed by President Kennedy. "Through federal and state assistance this mountain garden spot, I am convinced, can be turned into a prosperous region," Mr. Breathitt said.

Mr. Waterfield urged party unity and declared, "Party unity is higher now than at any time I can remember."

He pointed out that the election of a Republican governor and a Democratic legislature could result only in a stalemate which would be detrimental to Kentucky.

Pointing out the likelihood of no market existing in the next generation for unskilled persons, Breathitt said, "Kentucky must stand up to the problem by teaching more skills in its schools."

He said the state's schools must provide business and industrial courses in vocational education and not merely offer agriculture for boys and home economics for girls. "We must explore," he added, "the possibility of establishing extension courses in our schools so that vocational courses can be offered to youngsters during the day and to adults at night."

Foster W. Ockerman, Breathitt, Waterfield state campaign co-chairman, presided.

SCHOOL SETS OPENING DATE

Vocational Institution To Teach Five Classes; Adult Classes Viewed

The Mayo State Vocational School extension here will be discontinued August 19 when the use of the new facilities of the Floyd County Vocational School at Garth will be initiated, it was announced Wednesday by County Superintendent of Schools Charles F. Clark.

The new Garth institution will serve a total of 200 pupils daily in the five "shops" or classes in carpentry, machine work, electricity, drafting and auto mechanics.

Many of the problems of administration were worked out last week at a conference between George L. Ramey, director of the Mayo State Vocational School, Paintsville, and Superintendent Clark.

Because of current enrollment in the various Floyd county high schools, it was decided that the juniors and seniors from the five smaller high schools of Garrett, Maytown, Martin, McDowell and Wayland would be admitted one-half day, and the high school juniors and seniors from Betsy Layne, Prestonsburg and Wheelwright the other half day. The smaller school students would study in the morning and the others in the afternoon. Students who desire to take vocational training are urged by Clark to contact their principals immediately after the opening of school.

The Floyd County Board of Education will furnish transportation to Garth and return, Clark said. He added that it is not possible to enroll every prospective vocational student applicant for full-time study in the new Garth facility. "There just isn't enough room at the new facility for it," Clark said. "That's why we have staggered the attendance."

Clark explained that the daytime classes will be devoted to instruction of junior and senior high school students. Tax money can be used only for instruction of pupils between the ages of 6 and 18 years, or until the pupil graduates from high school.

It was said that Ramey has in-

A workshop on the five program areas of the M.Y.F. will be held Monday at 5:30 p.m., at the Allen Methodist Church, Each M.Y.F. group in the county is expected to be represented, and M.Y.F. presidents also will receive instruction. A pot-luck supper is planned.

LOUISVILLE C. of C. WRITER PRAISES JENNY WILEY PARK

"Jenny Wiley, the best managed, most comfortable and enjoyable park of all."

"All in all, we found Jenny Wiley the best managed, most comfortable and enjoyable park of all."

That is the judgment of a group of Louisville business men who recently completed a tour of a part of the Kentucky parks system, as reported in the Louisville Chamber of Commerce magazine.

This was the overall comment on Jenny Wiley State Park:

"Jenny Wiley was by far our favorite of the three we visited. The new lodge is a real beauty, with a big dining room overlooking the lake, spacious recreation rooms and bedrooms as well appointed as you'd expect in the newest plush motels. Each room has a private balcony overlooking the new pool or the lake and mountains. The dock supplies the fisherman; there is a golf course; and for those who like that sort of thing, the park offers a supervised recreation program.

"In the dining room at Jenny Wiley we were enchanted to discover that State Parks Commissioner Edward Fox is apparently liberalizing policy on serving hours. It used to be in the parks that you had breakfast between seven and nine or not at all, lunch between 12 and 2 and dinner between 5:30 and 7:30. It was irritating to tired vacationers to keep a schedule as rigid as that of a work-day. Now at Jenny Wiley, breakfast is served until 11, lunch till 3 and dinner till 9:30.

will be approved soon," General Lloyd said.

The first applications approved and the amounts they will receive are for the counties of Clay, $17,635; Johnson, $2,561; Knott, $30,081; Lawrence, $31,372; Leslie, $195,316; Letcher, $81,089; and Perry, $119,364; the cities of Catlettsburg, $1,236; Cumberland, $41,760; Harlan, $40,939; Jenkins, $7,919; Manchester, $1,221; Smithland, $1,534; and Whitesburg, $4,732; and the county school districts of Knott, $1,929; Clay, $3,273; Bell, $5,599; and Johnson, $2,875.

General Lloyd said that the aid money will be used for work such as repair of roads, streets and bridges, schools, clearance of debris and health and sanitation. The applications were processed through State Civil Defense headquarters in Frankfort to the Region II unit at Olney, Maryland, of the Office of Emergency Planning.

Altogether, 52 applications totaling $3,300,248 were made for Kentucky's areas affected by the disastrous spring floods. The largest single request was the $873,416 of the State Department of Highways for repairs. The largest county application was the $714,694 sought by Pike, a severely-hit area. Almost all of the requests are from Eastern Kentucky.

The application total included 15 counties, 18 cities, 14 county or city school districts, the Floyd County Gas & Water System, the Beaver-Elkhorn Water District, the State Departments of Health, Highways, and Education. In the education category, several county and city school-district requests of less than the $1,000 minimum were combined into one unit.

The county applications pending are from Floyd, Breathitt, Harlan, Henderson, Knox, Magoffin, Martin and Pike. City requests still to be approved are from Barbourville, Hazard, Beattyville, Paintsville, Uniontown, Prestonsburg, Pineville, Paducah, Pikeville, Martin and Neon.

Lancer Resident Retires From Utility Firm Job

A Lancer resident will retire from Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company August 1 after 30 years of service with a utility firm.

Roby Greer joined Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company in August, 1933, as a truck driver. He now serves as a skilled laborer. Mr. Greer attended Prestonsburg grade school and is a member of Local 3-510, OCAWIU.

Hunting and fishing rank as his favorite leisure activities. Mr. Greer and his wife Minta have two grown sons, J. S. Greer and Dewey Greer.

Miss Williams Weds Lt. Jett

Miss Jean Williams, daughter of Mrs. Ida Williams, of Printer, Kentucky, became the bride of Lt. Garland Jett, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Jett, Sr., of South Third Street, Richmond, Kentucky, in a ceremony performed May 16, at the First Presbyterian Church, Richmond, Kentucky. The Rev. Edward Overcash was the officiating minister.

The church was decorated with white mums and white candles. Miss Charlotte Sharp, of Williamsburg, Kentucky, was the vocalist, and Barbara Bunch, of Harlan, the organist.

Given in marriage by her cousin, H. G. Lee, of Richmond, the bride wore a full-length, white organza gown with a scooped neckline, with pearls and lace, and a bell-shaped skirt with a long train. Her veil consisted of a pearl tiara crown, which held an elbow-length veil. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, centered with an orchid.

Miss Judie Hall, of Louisville, served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Frances Williams, sister of the bride; Linda Bledsoe, of Manchester, and Carol Boneta, of Richmond. The bridesmaids and maid of honor wore bell-shaped, aqua silk organza dresses and veils. Their bouquets were white carnations.

The groom's father, Garland Jett, served as best man. Ushers were Tatt Terrill, Lexington, Hugh Robbins and Dick Boneta, both of Richmond.

A reception was held in the church parlor immediately following the ceremony.

Assisting were Connie Martin, Lexington, Shirley McCoy, Belfry, Ann Parker, Albany, and Martha Arbuckle, of Richmond.

The bride is a senior at Eastern Kentucky State College and Lt. Jett is a graduate of the same school.

THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES

Published Every Thursday by Prestonsburg Publishing Company

NORMAN ALLEN Editor

Subscription Rates Per Year: In Floyd County, $3.50 • Elsewhere in Kentucky, $4.00 Outside Kentucky, $5.00

Entered as second class matter June 18, 1927, at the postoffice at Prestonsburg, Kentucky, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE EXAMPLE HAS BEEN SET—LET'S ALL STAND TOGETHER

The Floyd County Times congratulates the court officials and members of the juries—it congratulates, in particular, those jurors—for the excellent account they gave of themselves at the liquor trials held here, Tuesday.

This was no "smoke screen," nor was it a political matter. Members of both parties, supporters of Breathitt and supporters of Nunn, and members of different churches stood together in common cause—and that cause was the welfare of Floyd county.

For this and other valid reasons, no attempt should be made to turn the fight on bootlegging and corruption into a grab for political advantage.

The Lexington Leader in its edition of July 18 published a story written by Warren Schweder, in which Floyd county was described as a center of "mammoth" bootlegging activities. It stressed the point that Floyd was the Governor's home county. It spoke of fear on the part of citizens, of a secret Committee of 100 which cannot be located or identified with any particular group.

Now, The Leader has a perfect right to send a reporter to Floyd county to "cover" this situation. But one wonders about the motive behind the story—particularly so when it is recalled that The Leader's circulation is largely urban, since it is an afternoon newspaper, and when it is recalled that that newspaper's previous interest in Floyd county in recent years has been expressed in three news-stories: one during the gubernatorial campaign four years ago, to write about Candidate Combs' fine home at Prestonsburg; the next, to write disparagingly of the Prestonsburg Community College—and now this latest effort.

Already this latest Leader story has been seized upon for political advantage. But The Leader can claim no credit for precipitating the war waged on bootlegging in Floyd county. For ABC agents and state troopers, at the direction of Governor Combs, made their initial crackdown in a continuing fight on the situation on July 3—15 full days before The Leader story was published and several days before The Leader reporter came to Prestonsburg.

The bootlegging situation in this county or any county where the law is being flouted—and there are many such counties—reflects no credit on any individual or group. We all share in the guilt. Then let us shoulder the blame and, following the example set by church-people and citizens with a genuine interest in law-enforcement and public morality, work together and shun, insofar as humanly possible, the sideshow of a political feud behind the "front."

No More Numbers, Please

(The Kentucky Labor News)

We are NOT going to learn any more numbers... The post office people that came up with these new long zone numbers can go soak their heads. We've had all the numbers we can tote. The new "zone improvement program" with FIVE new numbers with the Madison Avenue title ("Zip Code") is much too much...

For example, Louisville 2, Kentucky, becomes Louisville 40202. Kentucky, Shelbyville becomes Shelbyville 40065, Kentucky. Fort Knox 40120, Kentucky. Hardinsburg 40143, Kentucky...

Is this an "improvement" after postage has gone UP?? Indignation, night-sweats and nervous twitches!

We remember when the doctor's telephone number was 15. Pop's office was 25. Our house had a long number: 744-W!

Yesterday, we called a Congressman. The "area code" for Washington is 202. The telephone number is CA 4-3121. His extension 'phone is 3115. Our credit card number was recited to the operator with nine more numbers and one alphabetical letter.

Twenty-one digits and three letters, AND WHEN WE GOT THROUGH WITH IT ALL HE WAS OUT!

It started slowly, years ago. First, an army serial number had to be memorized. Then a rifle number. Then a pistol number and a troop number. Later a social security number. License plates SHOULD be remembered. And, of course, one should try to keep up with the latest changes in his telephone number and street number. The size of the furnace filter and tire sizes for the automobile are nice to know, together with recommended tire pressures and oil viscosity. The registration number of the car can be filed away in a hub cap.

Blood types, birthdays and wedding anniversary dates can be tucked away in a crevice in the old noggin for easy reference.

We tried—in vain—to keep up with it all... This latest shot from the post office was the coup de grace...

We will lead a revolution against it, in great NUMBERS... We may be reached at 594-3189. Our area code is 502!

HOME CANNING

Success in canning comes easy to persons who understand, accept and follow reliable rules—rules and procedures adapted after years of technical research.

Bacteria, molds and yeast are the home canner's invisible enemies. If these organisms are not destroyed, they grow in canned food and cause it to spoil. The spoilage may occur anytime from two days to several months after canning.

Molds and yeast are easily destroyed by boiling but some types of bacteria can resist boiling for many hours. This is why different foods require different times and different methods of processing.

All vegetables except tomatoes should be canned in the pressure canner. The temperature at 10 pounds pressure is 240 degrees or 23 degrees higher than the boiling temperature of 212 degrees.

The higher temperature will kill the bacteria which resists the boiling temperature.

Tomatoes and fruits are acid foods which can be safely processed in a boiling water bath canner. Bacteria which are found in them are destroyed by a temperature of 212 degrees.

The pressure canner requires attention to be used safely. It should be washed thoroughly in hot soapy water and rinsed thoroughly after using and after storage. The lid should not be submerged in water but washed with a hot soapy cloth. Rinsed and thoroughly dried.

The pit cock and safety valve should be removed and carefully cleaned.

4-H ELECTRIC AND WOODWORK EXHIBIT

GREENHOUSE SCHOOL

A plastic Greenhouse Vegetable Growers School will be held at the Robinson Substation, Quicksand, Kentucky, July 22. The meeting will start at 10 a.m. and close at 3:00 p.m.

The program will include discussion on heating and ventilation, plant growing procedures and varieties, soil and water management, insect problems and control, disease problems and control and grade packages and marketing.

Anyone that would like to start profitable enterprise should attend this meeting. Off season vegetable production in plastic greenhouses is one enterprise in which Eastern Kentucky farmers can compete with farmers from other areas. In fact we may have an advantage from the standpoint of cheaper heating cost and from available information. The University of Kentucky takes second place to no other state university in research in plastic greenhouses.

Garland Martin and Thurman Newman have a small greenhouse each in this county. This is a start.

4-H POULTRY CHAIN

The Floyd County 4-H Council met recently and selected ten members to receive chickens under the Sears Foundation project. Each member received 100 chicks and will return 12 pullets at County Fair time. Members receiving chickens were Dennis Hunter, Betsy Layne; Billy Hackworth, West Prestonsburg; Cecil Baldrige, Blue River; Kelly Shepherd, Jr., Dwale; Leslie T. Auxier, Emma; Janie Gibson, Langley; Billy Wicker, Amba; Archie Dale, Tram; Phyllis Kidd, Harold; Dennis Garrett, Stanville.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D. Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"BEES AND SUCH"

Before neighborhoods began to deteriorate, work often took the form of cooperative effort. Actual labor is as hard when folks work together as when they work separately, but to us country boys of a half century ago the working together seemed to lighten our loads. I know now that I paid back just about every help that was given me by neighborly "swapping work" but at the time I seemed to have advanced appreciably when the working was for our own farm. If I had taken exception to this system, I would have been branded as stingy, and there would have been plenty of room for such a judgment. After all, it was not the amount of work we got done but that we worked together.

The word, bee, was known to us at Fidelity only through books. We had our own terms: swapping work, corn-shuckings, tobacco-cuttings, log-rollings, barn-raising, quiltings, wood-choppings, etc. Our community work was never without its social side, for working men have to eat, and the women folks saw to it that we did. And young folks were romantic then, as they are always. No amount of hard labor prevented some exhibitions of strength when the crew stopped to eat, such as lifting heavy loads, wrestling, turning handspins, chinning poles. Any good acrobat, at Fidelity or elsewhere, always implies an audience. And, no matter how dirty or sweaty a fellow was, there was always a girl ready to cheer his showing off.

In other ways we had what is normally called, elsewhere, bees. There were spelling-matches, as we called them, either among the actual pupils at the school, or, occasionally, at the union church at night, with the whole neighborhood invited to attend and participate if it so desired. The one year I lived at Fidelity after I started to school that I did not go to Fidelity School was 1906, just before I sold my tobacco crop and went away to start my high school work in a private, so-called college. My self-importance never had any greater backset than I experienced that year, for I went to the community spelling-match and got turned down by a girl some years younger than I. Losing a battle to a smaller force could hardly have hurt a general any worse than that defeat hurt me. I wish I knew what the pesky word was, for I would frame it and put it above my desk, to remind me that life has downs as well as ups.

Every year we turned out to clean off the graveyards around our community. Most of our people were buried, after my day, in the Fidelity graveyard, the good and the bad, the poor and the poorer. Sometimes we did our work there in a few hours, especially if enough of us turned out; I can recall no occasion when we had dinner on the ground served by the women folks.

Certainly bee, as a term, could be applied to the neighborhood gathering to supply the three old-maid ladies up the creek with enough food and fuel to last through the winter. The people up the creek could not bear to see the "old girls," as they were called, sent to the poorhouse; this neighborhood occasion, which went on for years until age and infirmity and death overtook the three old ladies, brightens my memory of my childhood more than many another memory, for it reflects the ingrown kindness and neighborliness of the folks that I knew.

Sitting up with the sick or the dead might sound far-fetched as a bee, but there were elements of a bee in such occasions. Basically, though it was a sad occasion, neighbors gathered and were ready to help. Sometimes, away from the sick bed or the death bed, men chatted and told endless yarns, in quaint good humor, with no possible lessening of the seriousness of the occasion. One of the best yarns I ever heard came to me one night as I waited, out in Father's old office, to see whether my sister, who was seriously ill, would get enough better that I could sleep a little before driving back early the next day to my work. My sister recovered, and I gained a good yarn that I have often told since then.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK The Civil War in Kentucky By JOE JORDAN (Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week, Brig. Gen. John H. Morgan, with about 2,000 of his Confederate cavalry, crossed the Ohio River from Brandenburg, Ky., to the Indiana side and began an invasion of the North which took him eventually to a place near within 75 miles of Lake Erie. It carried farther into the North than any other thrust launched from Confederate territory during the Civil War.

Morgan had sent on ahead of the main body some of the Tenth Kentucky under Capt. Samuel Taylor and Capt. Clay Merriwether, to seize boats for the crossing. They had found a river steamer tied up at the Brandenburg wharf and, capturing and manning it, had cruised about until they captured a second steamboat. Two regiments, the Second Kentucky and the Ninth Tennessee, were put across without their horses to drive off a force of Indiana state militia and establish a beachhead.

Before any others could cross, a Federal gunboat appeared and began firing shells at both parts of the divided Rebel division, making it vulnerable if attacked by land on either side of the river. Morgan's artillery took the gunboat under fire and after about an hour it steamed away, and the crossing was resumed. By midnight the last of the Confederates had been put ashore in Indiana. One of the captured

STEPHEN P. HOGG

This column continues to copy biographies of prominent Eastern Kentuckians from Knifpen, Perrin and Battle's History of Kentucky.

"Stephen P. Hogg, county attorney of Owsley county, Kentucky, was born in Letcher county, Kentucky, at Whitesburg, October 24, 1831. His father, Hiram Hogg, a native of Culpeper Court House, Virginia, was born October 18, 1800, and was brought to Kentucky in 1802 by his parents, who settled where Whitesburg is now located. He followed farming and tanning all his life, and about 1848 he represented Letcher, Perry and Clay counties in the Legislature one term. In 1829

HON. HENRY B. HOGG

"Hon. Henry B. Hogg, attorney-at-law, was born at Bonneville, Kentucky, July 23, 1863. His father is Stephen P. Hogg and his mother Sallie A. Combs Hogg. Henry B. Hogg was brought up in Owsley county, and received his early education in Bonneville. In 1883, he entered the literary department of the University of Michigan and attended until 1888 when he entered the law department of the same institution and attended until 1889 when he was elected on the Republican ticket to the Legislature from Clay, Owsley and Jackson counties. He, at the time of his election, was only eligible to the office by about three or four days and is now the youngest member of that body. He is a young man of more than ordinary abilities and is well qualified to fill his position. He is a man of strictly moral character and an active member of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Bonneville and is a F. & A. M. In politics he is a Republican."

HIRAM HOGG

"Hiram Hogg, deputy revenue collector of Bonneville, Owsley county, Kentucky, was born in what is now Letcher county, Kentucky, near Whitesburg, November 15, 1833, and is a son of Hiram and Levina Polley Hogg. He was reared on a farm, educated in Whitesburg, and in early life followed farming. In 1852 he turned his attention to the tanning trade at Whitesburg which he followed there until 1862 when he joined the Confederate army, Company H, Tenth Kentucky Infantry, which was soon afterward made the Thirteenth Kentucky Mounted Infantry and he served until the close of the war. He then went to Charleston, Illinois, remaining there until 1868, when he returned to Bonneville, Kentucky, and has since been extensively engaged in tanning and timber business.

"December 29, 1859, he married Miss Virginia C. Snyder, a daughter of Jacob and Kernen Davidson Snyder, of Hawkins county, Tennessee. Three daughters and four sons were born to this union, viz: Ella, Edward E., Charles, George M., Ira G., Samuel T. and Laura P. Mr. Hogg is a member of the F. & A. M., is Democratic in politics and is a member of the Christian Church."

"In 1877 he was elected county attorney, serving one term and being reelected in 1886. He was commissioned postmaster of Bonneville in 1866 and held that position until 1877, January 1, 1859, he married Sallie A. Combs, a daughter of Jackson G. and Martha Crank Combs. Eleven children were born to them, eight of whom are still nodding acquaintance with the second. As for the third I echo Mrs. Martin's sentiments—"law me, there is a story."

Those books were written in the days when boys got told on and introduced to peach-tree tea for writing smutty words on walls . . . a time when grownups wrote, perhaps not always well, but clean—because men and women of the day didn't have their minds so cluttered up with filth that they demanded that books be filled with it, to match their minds.

Oh, well . . . it's too hot to argue the point.

Sheriff Henry C. Hale told County Judge Stumbo to get his own jury. Judge Stumbo named L. B. Moore, of Prestonsburg, special bailiff to summon jurors, and the court proceedings continued. ABC Agent Roger Crouch and various members of the State Police raiding party which struck 10 places in the county almost simultaneously, the morning of July 3, provided most of the prosecution testimony. None of the defendants testified. Some jurors served in the trial of more than one of the cases. Those seeing jury service during the day included Ethel Johnson, Berdell Cecil, Maude Snodgrass, Betty Fulks, Nellie Lafferty, Allie Parsons, Tom James, Sarah Laven, Maycie Davis, Euna Laven, Janice Thomas, Alka Hicks, J. The Leader reporter quoted Sheriff Hale to this effect: "Take a week or so ago, when they raided those ten places, ABC men were in here a week before the raids. They got their warrants, and they and the State Police made the raids without even telling me about them." Hale said. The sheriff said that he and his seven deputies patrol the county night and day. "But we can't get suspicion warrants from the county judge or the magistrates, so all we can do is try to keep trouble down." He said that the Combs organization had opposed him when he won election to the General Assembly and that it had opposed him when he successfully ran for sheriff. "They've always been against me," he said. "But there's no person at no time has ever brought a warrant in here and that I didn't get straight up and go serve it." Col. James Hughes said that the State Police would cooperate with any law enforcement agency that made the request. "If Sheriff Hale asked for our help, we'd give it to him," Hughes said. ABC Chairman Harold S. Moberly said that Hale had never asked for assistance. "If Sheriff Hale or anyone else asks for our help, we'll certainly give it to him," he said. The governor's press secretary, Ed Easterly, made this statement to the Leader writer: "Gov. Combs is out of the city today, but we are advised by County Attorney Barkley Sturgill and Commonwealth Attorney Hollie Conley that bootlegging is certainly not being tolerated in Floyd county. They report that earlier this month many places were raided and trials have been set for July 22. Mr. Conley, Mr. Sturgill and County Judge Henry Stumbo tell us that all cases will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law." The raid of Wednesday, July 3, netted 2,538 cans of beer and 348 half-pints of liquor.

Kentucky Opens Drive For Industrial Plants; Brochure Is Distributed

The Kentucky Department of Commerce has gone international in its drive to bring more and more industrial plants to the Bluegrass state.

A new departmental publication, "An invitation to European Industrialists to consider Kentucky for New Plant Sites," carries texts in German, French and Italian in addition to English.

The brochure is being distributed principally by Chase Manhattan Bank, New York, through its foreign branches and foreign correspondent banks, said James H. Nutter, Jr., commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Commerce.

Nutter added that "this is one of our first attempts at a general presentation of information about Kentucky's industrial attractions aimed specifically at European manufacturers."

After introductory paragraphs of Kentucky's charm and strategic geographic location, the brochure gets down to cases and discusses the state's excellent transportation facilities, abundant power and fuels, plentiful natural resources, availability of men and women for industrial jobs, well-balanced tax system (including sales tax exemptions for industry), the unusually wide variety of financing plans available to industrial concerns, and Kentucky's people.

Coal Group Names Board Chairman

SERVE CHICKEN COLD

If you're serving chicken at a picnic, serve it cold. Bacterial action takes place rapidly when chicken is kept warm for a prolonged period of time—and this can cause food poisoning. After frying the chicken, cool it thoroughly and keep it refrigerated until just before leaving for your picnic; then wrap it well with an insulated material.

Roosevelt Vows Push For Road Funds

HIGHWAYS SHARED THE SPOTLIGHT with other Eastern Kentucky programs when Gov. Bert Combs (left), State Highway Commissioner Henry Ward, and other State officials met with Federal officials led by Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. (right), at Jenny Wiley State Park, Prestonsburg. Roosevelt, named by President John F. Kennedy to head the new Appalachian Regional Commission, vowed that he will push in Washington for Federal funds needed to extend the Mountain Parkway beyond the Campton-Salyersville section now under construction. The freeway extensions will lead to Pikeville and Whitesburg. Commissioner Ward said that State funds for the freeways (shown on map above Roosevelt's hand) are available now but cannot be tapped until matching Federal funds are available. Over 100 other Federal, State and local officials added their ideas to the top-level conference.

SUGAR PRICES

Sugar prices are expected to level off in the near future; however, sugar prices have advanced about 50 percent in the last six months. About 1,000 items found in supermarkets contain sugar; for some time, these probably will continue to cost about four cents per pound more than a year ago. Manufacturers of gelatin desserts and candy are considering price increases and prices of soda beverages have increased in some market areas.

West-Martin Vows Said At Campbellsburg, June 10

Miss Carole Jeanette West and Mr. James Hill Martin were married at 3 o'clock June 10 at the First Christian Church, Campbellsburg, Kentucky.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Roy West, Sr., Campbellsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. McClellan Martin, Bedford, Kentucky, formerly of Martin. Mr. Martin is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Martin, of Drift.

Mrs. Martin is a graduate of Trimble County high school at Bedford, and was graduated "with distinction" from Transylvania College, Lexington, June 9. She is a member of Chi Omega social sorority. She will be a member of the faculty of Madison consolidated high school, Madison, Indiana, as a teacher of English.

Mr. Martin is a graduate of Martin high school, the University of Kentucky, and is now a graduate student at Ball State Teachers College, Muncie, Indiana. He has taught in California and for the past two years has been a teacher at the E. O. Muncie elementary school, Madison, Indiana. He will be an instructor of special students at Madison junior high school next year.

SUNNY WINDOW BOX

If you have a sunny window box or a garden corner near the kitchen door, you can use it to grow many delightful flavors of herbs. Chives, parsley, marjoram, rosemary, summer savory, sweet basil, and thyme all are suitable and need only well-drained, workable soil; weeding; and cultivation. Mint grows almost anywhere but likes damp soil and room for spreading. Sage grows rapidly in the dry, warm garden with some shade.

Mrs. Sarah T. Sturgill, Age 75, of Harold, Dies At Pikeville Hospital

Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Tackett Sturgill, 75, of Harold, died at 12:45 p.m. Thursday, July 11, at the Pikeville Methodist hospital after a long illness.

Born at Beaver, this county, she was a daughter of Jesse and Emma Elliott Tackett. She was a member of the Church of Christ.

Survivors include her husband, William Sturgill; four sons, Everett Sturgill, of Rensselaer, Indiana; Rufus Sturgill, of Harold; Samuel Sturgill, of Dunham, Kentucky, and Aner Sturgill, of Kopperstown, West Virginia; five daughters, Mrs. Artie Pearl Younce, of Stanfield, Kentucky; Mrs. Emma Fuller, of Napa, California; Mrs. Geneva Byerley, of Detroit, Michigan; Mrs. Verlie Jeanette Call, of Palm Springs, California, and formerly of Pikeville, and Mrs. Delpha Hale, of Harold; a brother, King Tackett, of Logan, West Virginia; 34 grandchildren; 33 great-grandchildren, and a step-grandchild.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sturgill were held at 2 p.m. Sunday, July 14, at the Church of Christ at Harold.

The Rev. Roy T. Doss and Rev. Junior Clarke officiated. Burial was in the family cemetery at Harold under direction of the Call Funeral Home.

IRONING WRINKLE-FREE?

If you're having trouble getting wrinkle-free ironing, maybe your ironing board needs repadding or covering. The padding should be smooth and from 1/4 to 3/8 inch thick. If the pad is any thicker, it will hold moisture and be too soft to give flat seams. You can buy pad and cover sets or you can use old wool or cotton blankets or heavy flannel to pad your ironing board. Unbleached muslin works well to cover boards.

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT Cr 4245

Winchester Francis, Plaintiff, Vs: NOTICE OF SALE Shelby Draughn, Defendant.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered and entered at the June term, 1963, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 27 day of July, 1963, at 10 o'clock, a.m., same being the first day of the regular term of the Floyd County Court, upon a credit of six (6) months, the following described property, to-wit:

Located in and around Garrett, Floyd county, Kentucky, consisting of a system of antennae, boosters, cables and electronic equipment.

Said property to be sold to satisfy judgment of $1,430.24 in favor of plaintiff.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Open House To Honor Retired Music Teacher

Open house honoring Miss Ora Mae Preston, recently retired piano teacher, will be held at the home of Mrs. William E. Garland in Paintsville, Sunday afternoon, July 28, from 2 until 5.

Friends and former students of Miss Preston are invited. In order that as many as possible may receive word of the event, former students are requested to notify others, especially out-of-town friends.

Former students, Mrs. Garland and Mrs. Robert K. Montgomery, assisted by the D.A.R. and other friends of Miss Preston, are giving the open house which will pay tribute to Miss Preston's 54 years of teaching piano in Paintsville.

Beginning her career with the opening of the old Sandy Valley Seminary, and continuing throughout the history of the John C. C. Mayo College, Miss Preston has taught privately in Paintsville since the close of the college. She has had numerous students from Floyd county throughout the years, and, in the early days of her career, she taught also in Ashland, Cadetsburg, Inez and Pikeville.

She estimates that she has taught more than 2,000 pupils and presented well over 160 recitals. Numbered among her former students are numerous church organists, pianists, choir directors and music teachers — some in colleges and others in private work.

On display at the open house will be scrapbooks containing all of Miss Preston's recitals from 1906 until the present.

Former students and friends in Floyd county are cordially invited to attend or send greetings.

FISH & WILDLIFE
by MINOR CLARK, Commissioner
Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources

When the difficult midsummer fishing begins varies not only with latitude and altitude, but can be very different in two lakes alongside each other, says Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. One may be shallow all over, easily warmed by the air; the other may have many deep spots, perhaps with those fine, sudden drop-offs from comparative shallows, water weeds along their edges. If you can, avoid the former kind in midsummer and fish the latter.

What if the only lakes available to you are very shallow? You might do well on bass by fishing after, say, about ten at night with a surface lure. Most anglers have a strong preference for mainly-black lures for night fishing, and perhaps bass do, too; anyhow, I think them always at least as good as those of any other color then—and top-waters perhaps always best at night for bass in a shallow lake.

Walleyes are even more inclined than bass to feed at night; maybe that's why their eyes look that way. Theoretically, they too are supposed to strike well on top-waters at night, but I've personally found mighty few occasions when they would; I could practically always catch far more on under-waters.

What of pike in warm water? Frankly, I expect to catch but few, and small ones then. Spring is the time to get most pike, including some good ones, and very late fall is the time to catch most really large pike.

Much of the same goes for walleyes. There are very few places indeed where a reasonable number of them, especially better ones, can be taken when the water is warm.

In some places crappie fishing holds up quite well through midsummer, when it can become poor, to remain so through fall.

Bluegills are the one game fish that are practically certain to afford sport fit for a king all season until late fall. They're reliable hitters if you work things right.

From all the foregoing, you may have deduced, correctly, that I consider bass the one larger game fish that you're likely to catch satisfactorily when the lakes are warm. But I'm warning you that—well, to put it mildly, you won't need to carry a baseball bat along to fight them out of your boat.

The opening of the hunting season is upon us, with squirrels first on the agenda. Now would be a good time to remind the hunters, though many of them do not need reminding, that this is a wonderful sport but is only as safe as the hunters decree it shall be. Each year, reports reach this office of the deaths of men and boys, and sometimes women, who died while squirrel hunting because they or someone else were careless. This is not only true during the squirrel season but of all seasons and of fishing, and of driving a car and of practically everything else that humans engage in.

We are not trying to point out the dangers of squirrel hunting, because it is not dangerous so long as everyone abides by the rules of safety. When these rules are relaxed someone surely will suffer. This is to remind hunters of the thing they have heard hundreds of times—be careful at all times and do not take needless chances. The harvest of a squirrel or of all squirrels for a season is not worth the price of one life.

And while begging for safety in the fields, let us also remind that at the time of squirrel hunting, often, the fields and the woods are dry and are a tinderbox for fires. Fires must be started, and, contrary to the belief of many, we think hunters are responsible for but few of these fires. Nevertheless, it would be well for hunters to appoint themselves as fire wardens while in the field and woods and in this manner they may be able to assist in reducing the tremendous costs levied each year by forest fires.

Indications are that the squirrel population this year is about average. There'll be enough for good hunting. Don't spoil this hunting by an accident and don't destroy your hunting terrain by a forest fire.

SEXTON IN GERMANY

U. S. Forces, Germany — Army Pfc. Mickey R. Sexton, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham L. Sexton, of Huesville, Kentucky, participated with other members of the 7th Battalion of the 8th Infantry Division's 18th Artillery during a tactical river crossing maneuver in Germany late in June.

During the training, members of Sexton's unit received instruction in methods of crossing water with portable bridges, pontoon rafts and make-shift rafts.

Sexton, a gunner in the battalion's Battery A in Germany, entered the Army in May, 1961, completed basic training at Fort Knox, Kentucky, and arrived overseas the following October.

ELIMINATIONS BEING PLAYED

The Martin-Maytown Little League All-Stars belted Paintsville, 21-2, in first round play of the Little League baseball eliminations at the grade school field here last Thursday. Last Friday, Prestonsburg fell before the Louisa-Fort Gay All-Stars, 4-3.

Garrett's All-Stars nipped Elkhorn City, 1-0, in their first tournament game but lost out to Pikeville, 9-2, last Saturday.

Wednesday, on the Prestonsburg field, Martin-Maytown will tangle with Louisa for the right to meet Pikeville in the Area 3 finals.

A U. of K. basketball coach was in Martin last Wednesday for a dinner meeting with Birchell Hall and Jones Tallent, fathers of Larry Hall and Bob Tallent, respectively.

Larry, a cage standout at Martin, will be a junior this coming season, while Bob will be a senior. He was the 15th region's leading individual scorer last season.

Carl Ray Fraley, one of Eastern Kentucky's leading golfers, had to settle for the championship of the first flight in the annual Paintsville pro-amateur golf tournament. He had previously won championships in the Wheelwright, Pikeville and Hazard events.

Leonard Meeks, 17-year-old Paintsville high school junior, won the amateur crown for the second consecutive year. Other local flight winners were Adrian Blackburn and Fred Dickerson.

Roger Gambill, head basketball coach at Blaine high school, for the past two seasons, has resigned to assume a teaching and elementary coaching position in Boyd county.

Incoming Prestonsburg high school football coach Bert Dixon has set August 5 as the opening date for fall practice.

Barkley Statue Planned For Kentucky Capitol Rotunda At Frankfort

Frankfort, Ky., July 20 (Spl.) — A life-size likeness of Alben W. Barkley will join Abraham Lincoln, Jefferson Davis, Henry Clay and Dr. Ephraim McDowell in a place of honor in the State Capitol rotunda.

The bronze statue of Barkley, for which the 1960 General Assembly appropriated $50,000, will arrive this month from Italy where the casting was made. The statue will be unveiled this fall.

Walter Hancock, of Gloucester, Massachusetts, executed the statue of "The Veep." It will stand on a base of Vermont marble.

Barkley, a native of Paducah, died in 1956 at the age of 77. His political career, which spanned over half a century, began with a judgeship in MaCracken county and reached its climax when he was elected vice-president in 1948. Barkley was first elected to the U. S. Senate in 1927 and later served as Senate majority leader.

Local fishing enthusiasts are searching vainly for the new Rapella bait, which is the newest craze for anglers. Finding the finished product is a major operation. "Black marketers" are asking a twenty-dollar bill for the cherished lure.

Floridian Is Appointed Physical Education Head At Pikeville College

Pikeville, Ky. — The appointment of Howard L. Yelverton, of Ocala, Florida, as director of health and physical education at Pikeville College has been announced by Dr. B. H. Jarman, president of the college.

Mr. Yelverton received his bachelor of arts degree from Birmingham Southern College and a master's degree from the University of Tennessee. He was formerly on the faculty of Asheville-Biltmore College and for the past year was at Central Florida Junior College, Ocala, Florida, as physical education instructor and coach of basketball and baseball.

Mr. Yelverton replaces Joe M. Butcher as athletic director at Pikeville College. Mr. Butcher resigned to teach physics and chemistry in Florida.

Tourism Specialist Added To Area Group; To Work At Quicksand

John S. Baxter, Lexington native and specialist in tourism and recreation, has been added to the team of resource development specialists with the University of Kentucky's Eastern Kentucky Resource Development Project at Quicksand.

Baxter assumed his duties July 15. He is the 12th man on the area team. His duties will be assisting and advising in developing a tourism and recreation industry in the 30-county Eastern Kentucky area.

He has just returned from an 18-month tour in the Virgin Islands where he was associated with a tourism and resort development project. Baxter graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1959 with a degree in commerce. He has done graduate work at the Kellogg Center at Michigan State University with emphasis on hotel and restaurant management.

Zone Signs Authorized At Herrington; Boaters, Fishermen Cooperating

Frankfort, Ky., July 19 (Spl.) — Boaters and fishermen are agreeing to co-exist on Herrington Lake.

That's the word received from Bill King, director of the Division of Boating. King says that his division has authorized zoning signs at Herrington Lake in two specific areas—the Cane Run Slough and the Red Gate Slough.

The signs were requested by dock owners and fishermen there.

The two areas are designated "no-wake" speed areas to give other persons a chance to fish with a minimum of interruption. The boating director stated the regulation "will be rigidly enforced by the water patrolmen."

King hastened to add, however, that the main body of water at Herrington is open to all water enthusiasts as usual, but the "no-wake" speed also still applies, by law, within 100 feet of moorage and designated swimming areas.

The term "no-wake" speed is interpreted as speed causing no damage to boats or other property by any type of boat.

Floyd County's First and Oldest Bank

VOCATIONAL TRAINING DISCUSSED—A group of federal and state officials met Saturday at Mayo State Vocational School and heard Congressman Carl D. Perkins outline the Administration's plan for retraining unemployed workers. Rep. Perkins said Kentucky may get as much as $9 million next year for vocational training if Congress approves the measure. This is triple the amount received this year by Kentucky for vocational training. Discussing the training plan with Governor Bert Combs, left, are Daniel Moynihan, assistant secretary of labor; Dr. Wilbur Cohen, assistant secretary of health, education and welfare; and Dr. Paul B. Hall, Paintsville, who was host at a luncheon following the meeting.

Kentucky's "new look" in vocational education became even more noticeable recently when a new $427,000 classroom building was opened at the Mayo State Vocational School in Paintsville.

The new facility which serves Floyd and 14 other counties is the second completion in a series of nine construction projects at state vocational schools. The vast improvement program, which began in 1960, represents an investment of about $4 million in teaching useful trades to Kentucky's youth.

The first project completed was the new Northern Kentucky Vocational School in Covington. The million-dollar facility, a complete new school, was opened last September.

The Northern Kentucky and Mayo schools are part of a network of 13 area vocational schools in the state. Others are at Paducah (two), Ashland, Lexington, Harlan, Hazard, Bowling Green, Madisonville, Owensboro, Somerset and Jefferson county. In addition the state has a working agreement with Ahrens Trade School in Louisville by which funds are provided to the school for conducting vocational education classes. Gov. Bert Combs has called this network "a model for others across the country."

Mayo's new classroom building is situated adjacent to other buildings on the school's eight-acre campus in the residential section of Paintsville. Its modernistic two-story exterior design is emphasized by a combination of smooth-faced, cream-colored brick and pre-cut stone panels.

On the inside, some 22,000 square feet of floor space has been divided into five laboratories, four classrooms, a visual aid room and a large combination library-auditorium with a seating capacity of 630. A part of the auditorium can be partitioned off to provide conference rooms.

The library is being stocked with 5,000 technical and industrial volumes with room for an additional 5,000 volumes in the future. It is open to both students and the public.

Included in the building are two electronics laboratories, a tool and die designing laboratory, a physical science laboratory, a technical chemistry laboratory and four classrooms for teaching subjects related to these fields. It is air-conditioned and fluorescent-lighted throughout.

George Ramey, the school's director, said the new building will enable Mayo to offer two courses never before taught at the school—industrial chemistry, and mapping and surveying.

The Mayo School, with an enrollment of more than 1,300, ranks as the state's largest vocational school. More than half attend classes in Paintsville while the rest attend one of Mayo's five extension centers. They are located at West Liberty, Prestonsburg, Belfry, Millard and Jackson.

The setup at Mayo is representative of Kentucky's area concept of vocational education for which it has received national acclaim. Under the area concept, one school serves the high school students, out-of-school youth, and adults of several counties.

The Paintsville school serves Pike, Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Lawrence, Magoffin, Breathitt, Owsley, Wolfe, Powell, Jackson, Estill, Menifee, Lee and Morgan counties.

These 15 counties have a total population of more than 250,000 and a school census of about 55,000 pupils.

The new building will result in a slight increase in enrollment when the two new courses are added to the curriculum, Ramey said.

More than 500 of Mayo's total enrollment are high school students who attend their high schools and the vocational school on a split-schedule basis. A maximum of four credits of vocational school training can be counted toward high school graduation.

Fees at the school range from $4 to $15 per month depending on the age of the student and type of course.

Ramey believes the state's vocational education system is responsible for influencing many students to further their education after graduation from high school. "Except for the current high school students in our program, about 80 per cent of all our students are high school graduates," he said.

The Mayo school was named after John C. Mayo, an early Johnson county financier. The state purchased the property in 1938 for $25,000 in order to establish a vocational school.

Today, the school owns eight buildings and maintains a full-time staff of 53 instructors and administrative personnel to operate the parent school and extension centers. Other part-time instructors are also used.

Included among the buildings are a men's dormitory that houses 70 and a women's dormitory with space for 20 girls.

In addition to the regular vocational program, the Mayo school is

Since weed control is the most important reason for cultivating, the work should be done at a time favorable for killing weeds. Weeds are most easily killed when they are small—before they become well established. Cultivation when weeds just begin to show through the soil is most effective; at this time, merely breaking the surface of the soil will destroy them. Destroying weeds when they are small also keeps them from competing with vegetable plants for moisture, nutrients, light and air.

EXPLOITATION VIEWED AS THREAT TO REGION

Deep in the southeastern section of the state, near the Virginia border, the people are as divided as they were 100 years ago during the Civil War. But this time the split is over the causes of the almost-annual devastating floods in the region.

Wednesday night, a special WHAS News television documentary spelled out the ravages of uncontrolled, mechanized logging, large-scale strip mining and forest fires in Eastern Kentucky.

The hour-long "WHAS Reports" showed films of extensive damage in a number of mountain counties and warned that, if critics are right, "We have less than a decade to halt these practices that are threatening to turn southeastern Kentucky into a desert within our lifetime."

The documentary, "The Ravaged Mountains," dramatized the effect these practices are having on the annual spring floods in the area.

Leader of the group opposing strip mining was Harry M. Caudill, former state representative and ardent conservationist. This group contends that in a single generation the filling of rivers caused by land erosion as a result of this mining process could cost the state and federal agencies millions of dollars.

On the other hand, strip mining operators contend that the land can be reclaimed. William B. Sturgill, of Hazard, formerly of Prestonsburg, and president of the Kentucky River

Coal Sales Company, spoke of experiments with fruit trees which indicate that, after mining is completed, the land might ultimately be turned into fruit orchards. Sturgill's firm operates the largest coal auger in the world in Perry, Letcher and Knott counties. He and his partner, Dick Kelly, emphasized that strip and auger mining are a powerful force in the area's economic picture.

Hazard banker Dewey Daniel agreed with this viewpoint. He pointed out on the Channel 11 show that without these mining efforts the region would be economically bankrupt and expressed disbelief that they are contributing materially to increasing severity of the annual floods.

But Springer Hoskins, editor of the Harlan Daily Enterprise who has watched and written about the problem for years, expressed firm conviction that logging and strip mining operations are indeed harmful to the area.

In general, the vote on "The Ravaged Mountains" appears to support the belief that something needs to be done, and done in a hurry. But there are those who contend that it's already too late.

Potter Urges Support Of Youth Employment, Conservation Bill

Police Chief Bill Potter this week issued an appeal to the people of this community to lend their support to President Kennedy's Youth Employment and Conservation Bill, sponsored by Senator Hubert Humphrey, which was passed by the Senate and is expected soon to go before the U. S. House of Representatives.

Potter said, "Common sense and justice compel establishment of this program which will give many thousands of currently unemployed young persons a chance to find employment, to be paid for their services, and to acquire skills and work experience that will give them a solid start in their working lives."

"Provisions in this legislation provide a practical means of attacking the high school drop-out problem and the juvenile delinquency associated with that problem."

Young men and women no longer in school constitute already 18 per cent of the total unemployment, although they comprise only seven per cent of the labor force. Idle youth create a host of problems.

A TIMES WANT AD GETS AMAZING RESULTS!

A young Ashland medical student at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Lexington, last week completed four weeks of studies in Floyd county and departed Monday for Iran.

Richard Geist, 24, med school senior, had the special project here of studying the organization of health services and resources, and the review and examination of 54 indigent rheumatic fever cases. He was particularly interested in those cases where the patient was on antibiotics.

Pointing out that his class was the first to go through the new medical center at Lexington, he said the work he did here was unique and was set up to give the student a working knowledge of community health services.

He was impressed with the job being done by the Floyd County Health Department.

"The Floyd county health service is doing a good and adequate job," he said. "The department has a tremendous overload of work but is coming through nicely."

His studies in Iran are being financed by a fellowship grant from a drug firm. He will do the same work in Central Iran as he did here. The Asian work will take 18 weeks.

Quick—which one of these men would make the best Phillips 66 dealer?

Your Phillips 66 dealer has to be a mighty versatile fellow. In fact, to be able to give you the first-class service for which Phillips is famous, he really has to be a sort of combination of all the men you see in the picture above.

He has to be a mechanic. He has to know cars inside and out. He has to be an independent businessman. He must keep his own books, run his own store, manage his own staff of station employees.

He has to be a night-and-day worker. He must be willing to serve long hours, day after day.

He has to be a public relations man—a man with a gift for making friends and getting along with people.

And, finally, he must be a community-minded man. (You'd be surprised how many Phillips 66 dealers find time to coach in the Little League, work for the United Fund and other community activities.)

Tall order, isn't it? Not many men have all these qualities. But your Phillips 66 dealer does. Stop in and see him soon. You'll find he not only offers you first-class service and first-class products... he's a first-class guy himself!
