

Goble Br. Camp Area Work Seen This Year

Access Roads, Facilities Cost Set at $530,299

Development of the Goble Branch area on Dewey Lake as a camping area at a cost of $530,299 will begin this year, Commissioner of Parks Ewart W. Johnson has notified Dr. George P. Archer, mayor of Prestonsburg.

The assurance came shortly after Dr. Archer had filed with the new parks commissioner a status report on the camping project which had been prepared by Joseph L. McCauley, director of the Big Sandy Area District Development Office. The briefing on the long-delayed facility was made in the hope that Mr. Johnson would get action under way.

In response Mr. Johnson wrote that the Department of Highways, which must first build access roads into the area, is cooperating in every way, and he personally assured Dr. Archer that "all possible red tape is being cut."

Road construction will cost an estimated $222,000, with the Appalachian Regional Commission supplying $156,000 of that total and the state of Kentucky the remainder. The camping area will cost $308,299. Of this amount, the Economic Development Administration (EDA) will provide $126,688, the U. S. Corps of Engineers $40,000 and the state $141,611.

EDA, Corps of Engineers and Appalachian Regional Commission funds have already been approved. The sole source of delay is seen in the fact that the Environmental Impact Statement submitted by the Kentucky Department of Highways to the Federal Highway Administration and the Federal Department of Transportation must win approval before access road construction can begin.

Once this statement is approved, a formal contract with a consultant for the utilities will be executed, and access road work will be begun. Upon completion of the road, a survey of the area will be made so that design plans for the utilities may be completed. Then, when final plans for the project are approved by the various agencies involved, bids will be asked.

Woman Sues City For $20,000 Damages

Suit asking $20,000 damages was filed in Floyd circuit court Dec. 23 against the City of Prestonsburg by Mary Yvonne Castle, who claims she suffered permanent injuries at Archer Park last May 21.

The plaintiff alleges that the city through its employees negligently and carelessly permitted a deep hole to be placed and to remain in the park and that while playing softball there she fell into the hole.

Veteran mail-carrier "Cal" Robinson, now bedridden, welcomes visitors during Christmas party at Golden Years Rest Home.

Yet There's Room for Cheer

Calvin Robinson, who in 3 years of mail-carrying rode horseback an estimated quarter of a million miles over mountain roads in all weathers, now lies paralyzed in the Golden Years Rest Home, near Lackey.

As a young man he rode the mail route from Elmrock on Quicksan Creek in Knott county to Hueysville in Floyd, round trip, day after day, and he is yet remembered by older residents of the area as "the best mailman we ever had." Only flooded creeks stopped him; otherwise, the mail went through — mud, snow, ice, storm, regardless.

Now 77 years old, and confined to his bed at the rest home, he must wait for the mail

Ky. Coal Company New Name of Firm

The Potter & Walters Coal Company announces that it began its Floyd county operations on Jan. 1 under the firm name, Kentucky Coal Company, and under the supervision of Hobert E. Potter.

C. Kilmer Combs, of Pikeville, attorney for the firm, said the change in the name of the firm was made in its becoming incorporated. Its operations are on Buck's Branch, near Martin, and on Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek.

Holiday Period Passes Quietly; Arrests Listed

On the whole, the holidays were quiet in Floyd county.

Nobody was shot, and there was only one reported attempt at shooting. From the few highway accidents that occurred no fatalities resulted.

And the number of those jailed did not reach the usual seasonal high.

Yet there were those who did more than over-indulge.

One of those arrested was Bill Hinton, policeman at Allen, who was charged with possessing fireworks for the purpose of sale. Hinton was arrested Dec. 21 by Deputy Sheriff Arvel Nelson, who said he found fireworks in Hinton's station wagon. The officer executed bond.

Kentucky law does not provide a penalty for possession of fireworks. Shooting or selling them, however, are subject to penalty.

Two employees of Radio Station WPRT were jailed on complaint of the station-owner, D. C. Stephens, who accused them of stealing tapes from the station. Held in jail are Jim Pease, of Ohio, and Mark Kitchen, whose address was given as Rhode Island. Mr. Stephens said six of a large number of tapes taken from the station have been recovered. Pease and Kitchen were arrested by Policemen "Hack" Thornsburg and Darrel J. Conley. Sheriff Frank Leslie said he has been told by Columbus, O. authorities that Pease is wanted there on four worthless check charges.

Junior Wells, of the Auxier road, near here, was jailed twice on liquor charges during the period, and his father, William Riley Wells, Sr., was booked on a charge of selling intoxicants. The first arrest of the younger Wells was made Dec. 24 by Lt. Lykins, State Detective Chester D. Potter and State Troopers Stumbo and Stansbury, who confiscated at his premises four pints of whiskey.

Audit Cleared ARDF, Lawyers With Group Say

Attorneys connected with the Prestonsburg-based Appalachian Research and Defense Fund (ARDF) say they emerged from a Congressional audit with a "clean bill of health."

The audit admittedly was made at the request of Congressman Carl D. Perkins, but the congressman denied that it was ordered because the ARDF had threatened legal action against the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Program. ARDF maintained that OEO had grossly misused funds in the handling of the health program.

"I presume I asked for the examination," Congressman Perkins was quoted as saying, but he added that he has requested several audits of OEO legal services programs and denied that the audit begun here last summer had any connection with the ARDF criticism of the health program and OEO's handling of finances.

The first ARDF audit was completed, early in the summer. Then a second examination to assess ARDF performance was made. This work was completed, early last month.

ARDF Director Paul Kaufman, Charleston, W. Va., quoted the examiners as saying his program complied with the conditions and specifications of the grant made by OEO.

Johnson Death At Price Marks First Fatality

Floyd county's first mine-connected fatality of the new year occurred Monday, the first work-day of the year, when Edward Johnson, 45, of Bypro, car repairman at the Price No. 1 mine of the Island Creek Coal Company, was crushed to death beneath a supply car on which he had been working in the company's repair shop.

The accident occurred at 8:40 a.m., and Johnson died less than an hour later at the McDowell Memorial Hospital. His head and shoulders were crushed as the full weight of the car fell onto him.

The tragedy occurred after Johnson had completed repair of the car which had been lifted by an electric hoist and partially supported by a safety jack. The chain hoist had been attached to an eyelet which normally was used to hold a safety chain linking the car with another, and it was this eyelet which broke as Johnson sought to move the safety jack from beneath the car.

The victim, a son of Willie Johnson, of Ligon, and the late Anna Johnson, had been a mine employee since age 18 and was a member of Wheelwright Local Union 5899, UMWA. In addition to his father he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nellie Johnson; a son, Eddie L. Johnson, of Bypro, and three daughters, Mrs. Linda Justice, of Hi Hat, Mrs. Katy Johnson, of Wheelwright, and Mrs. Sheila Dusina, of Bypro; two brothers and two sisters, Harve Johnson, of Teaberry, Bill Johnson, Mrs. Mossie Eades and Mrs. Falsion Johnson, all of Bypro; a half-sister, Mrs. Vertie Wright, of Ligon, and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1 p.m. today (Thursday) from the First Baptist Church, Wheelwright, the Rev. Archie Everage officiating. Burial will be made in the Johnson cemetery at Bypro under direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel.

Ex-Superintendent Succumbs Monday

John Stephens, during whose eight years as superintendent of Floyd schools the county school system saw its greatest building program, died Monday at the Prestonsburg General Hospital at the age of 89.

Mr. Stephens, who had been ill three years, was removed from his home at Water Gap to the hospital last Friday when his condition worsened.

Superintendent of Floyd schools from 1926 to 1934, he served in the county educational system as teacher, supervisor and superintendent more than 40 years. During his eight years as superintendent 14 schools, including all the high schools in the county, were built. The first gymnasium in the county was built at Betsy Layne during that time.

A son of Morgan Greenville and Melinda Hale Stephens, he was born at Water Gap Sept. 19, 1882. He was educated in the county schools, the old East Kentucky Normal School, Pikeville College and Morehead State College. Mr. Stephens was a member of Trimble Chapel Methodist Church on Bull Creek.

His wife, Nola Baldrige Stephens, preceded him in death. Survivors include a son, Claybourne Stephens, of Prestonsburg, three daughters, Misses Elsie and Linda Stephens and Mrs. John Wallen, all of Water Gap, six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted at 1 p.m. Wednesday from the First United Methodist Church here, the Revs. Harold W. Dorsey and William Pope officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Water Gap under direction of the Carter Funeral Home.

Active pallbearers were: Curtis Hatfield, Paul Messer, Les Wallen, Otis Wallen, Ollie (See Story 4, Back Page, Sec. 1)

None Summoned For Jury Duty To Be Excused

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley announced his New Year's resolution in open court here Monday.

"After only a third of the 90 persons notified for jury service had appeared and several of those on hand had indicated they wanted to be excused from duty, Judge Conley announced:

"After this term, I will not excuse anybody from jury service, for any reason."

"If we don't do this, we won't be able to hold court," he added.

He spoke of the widespread move to avoid jury service, told of the stream of calls received by him after the names of those drawn for service were published. Sunday, day before opening of the term, he said, his daughter logged the phone calls made by persons seeking to be excused. Twenty-three calls were made after 11 a.m., when he left home, and after his return Sunday night three others appeared in person.

"If any of you can tell me a solution to this problem," he said, "I will appreciate hearing from you."

Judge Conley sought again to emphasize (See Story 5, Back Page, Sec. 1)

State Parks Lose Money—Jenny Wiley Most

Every Kentucky state park except one lost money during the fiscal year ending last June 30 — and Jenny Wiley State Park was the biggest loser of them all.

Figures contained in an audit made by the office of State Auditor Mary Louise Foust for the period, and sent to then-Governor Louie B. Nunn late in November, showed that the 16 parks lost a total of $1,380,643. Of this amount Jenny Wiley's loss was $184,524.

After studying the audit, new Parks Commissioner Ewart Johnson announced that the state is calling, at least temporarily, a halt on building big, swanky resort-type parks and that there will be some layoffs of employees in the parks system in an effort to cut labor costs.

In a Courier-Journal story David V.

Hawpe reported on the audit and plans to improve the financial picture:

Commissioner Johnson, currently involved in a study of the financial position of each park, said "We've got all the parks we need for now. We want to start right here and clean up, improve and expand the ones we have."

He said it appears at least 50 cents of each dollar is being spent for labor costs in Kentucky's state parks. He added, "That could never be allowed to happen in a private business."

So the new state administration is embarking on a program in which, according to Johnson, "We're looking at food costs and labor costs, and we're going to try to bring these things into line with costs in similar operations in private industry."

Figures tend to bolster Johnson's argument that the parks are not paying their way.

The 16 state parks with overnight accommodations had $7,105,121 in sales, fees and commissions last year, the audit shows. But costs at the 16 parks totaled $8,485,764.

By far the biggest portion of the cost was salaries, which totaled $4,766,809.

There are 29 other state facilities, including non-accommodation parks, shrines and crafts shops. These had $745,796 in revenue, but costs totaled $1,571,523. So these facilities lost $825,827.

The only resort park making money was Kentucky Dam Village, which showed a balance of $108,201 to the good. The only (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

This Town . . . That World

Yes, I know it's no longer 1971. Just give me a couple of weeks longer, and I'll make the changeover.

BAH! HUMBUG!

This fellow isn't exactly what you'd call a misanthrope, but he was pretty miserable. When somebody chirped, "Happy New Year!" he grumbled, "What's happy about it?" and then began listing various and sundry woes. They ran something like this:

Christmas bills . . . Taxes . . . Automobile tags . . . Inflation . . . The Legislature . . . Congress . . . And his shoes, a Christmas gift, were a size small.

FAIR WARNING

The funniest thing I saw in Texas, except when I took a peek in the mirror, was this sign along the highway, near Canyon Reservoir. It was painted, glazed and lettered so neatly that it appeared to be an official highway sign. But its wording raised some doubt. It read:

DRIVE SLOWLY AND SEE THE DAM.
DRIVE FAST AND SEE THE DAM JUDGE.

(And a hundred yards or so on down the road was a Justice of the Peace sign.)

OUR TWIN!

THIS TOWN — THAT WORLD has been this newspaper's particular property until recently. Now we note that The Somerset (Ky.) Observer has adopted the same name for a column. Wish the Observer would write ours while it's on the subject.

Holcomb Group Would Tax Only Surface-Mined Coal

PIKEVILLE, Ky. — Floyd county would get a financial windfall in excess of $75,000 a year if the plan for a coal severance tax proposed by a group of Eastern Kentucky small coal operators were to be made into law by the Kentucky General Assembly.

The proposal calls for a tax on surface-mined coal only, at a rate of 20 cents a ton. While the state would impose and then administer the collection of the tax, the proceeds would be split three ways.

One-third of the money would go to the Kentucky general fund, one-third to the county from which the coal was extracted and the balance to a special Frankfort-based land-use commission for the restoration of abandoned spoil banks and general reclamation.

The potential Floyd county yield of $75,328 is based on production figures for 1970 when 1,129,919 tons were extracted by stripping or augering, according to the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals. It is regarded as a minimum because of the increase in surface mining during 1971, but figures for the year just ending will not be released for some time.

Floyd county ranks 12th in the state (1970 figures) in terms of dollars it would get back from production of surface-mined coal. Muhlenberg county, the nation's largest coal producer, would get a return of nearly a million-and-a-half dollars. At the other extreme, Lee county in Eastern Kentucky would receive $8.35. In between are 35 other coal-producing counties.

The proponents of the plan point out that however large or small the amount each county gets, it should be considered as "seed money" for a vast number of county projects that are eligible for matching federal funds.

The counties could pyramid these annual receipts up to ten times the original amount, according to Robert Holcomb, president of Coal Operators and Associates of Pikeville, who is looking for legislative sponsorship of the plan.

"The only limit to parlaying this money is the imagination and ingenuity of local county officials," Holcomb said. "There are millions of dollars in Washington waiting to be tapped for schools, housing, roads, medical facilities, sewage and water treatment plants and other necessary improvements in each of these coal counties."

Holcomb pointed out that in Eastern Kentucky particularly there has never been enough local money available to take full advantage of matching funds offered through a wide variety of federal programs.

Using 1970 as the base, the money to be returned to the counties in proportion to surface coal production would total well over $4 million. An equal amount would go to the general fund and to the reclamation of the "orphan banks".

"This would virtually put an end to abled-bodied unemployment in Kentucky," Holcomb said. "That four million dollars is eligible for another twelve million from Washington, earmarked specifically for cleaning up the environment. We've got 70,000 acres of unreclaimed spoil banks and acid water impoundments and it could take up to ten years to get this job done."

"We are at least giving coal a chance to clean up its own mess, even though the present operators are not responsible," he said. "It seems that everybody wants to talk about the orphan banks, but to my knowledge no one has yet come up with a plan to do something about them. This is it."

Holcomb's plan has not been endorsed by any other segment of the industry except the small operators. Asked why he did not recommend an across-the-board severance tax on all coal, he said underground operators couldn't stand any more expense.

"The Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969 has put too many of them out of business already," he said. "Adding a severance tax to the present high cost of producing coal underground would be the death of the industry."

Re-Reducing Will Highlight Busy '72 Legislative Session

By JIM WARREN
State News Bureau
FRANKFORT, Ky. — In just a few days Kentucky's legislators will be back in business here tackling a stack of new legislation and at least one big headache. The legislature's 14 interim committees have been busy exploring new bills and at least 20 have been prefiled for introduction. The list will have grown to nearly 100 by the time the session opens.

So in the early days of the session there will be more than the usual backlog of business that develops because the General Assembly meets only once every two years.

The biggest headache for the lawmakers will come in developing a new reapportionment plan, realigning Kentucky's congressional, legislative and judicial districts to conform as much as possible with recent population shifts. The legislature tried it before — last March — and the plan was thrown out by U. S. District Court for straying too far from mathematics equality. Now it must redraw the districts.

U. S. District Judge Mac Swinford has ruled three per cent the maximum allowable deviation in population for redrawing the districts. They currently are about 35 per cent out of line. The Fourth District is about 25 per cent above the desired norm while the Fifth District falls 10 per cent short of the magic number.

That means the legislators will have to borrow from some districts and give to others to achieve equality and meet the "one man, one vote" rule. It's a task which no doubt will cause the burning of much midnight oil and much frustration.

They also will consider several other bills which, if passed, would effect Kentuckians in more direct ways.

One group of bills, now in various stages, includes an amendment to Kentucky's Workmen's Compensation Laws and an increase in the state minimum wage. The workmen's comp amendment, now being studied by the Legislative Research Commission, would increase benefits for black lung victims and raise burial benefits. The proposal to boost the minimum wage to $1.30 per hour statewide has been endorsed by the subcommittee of the Interim Committee on Labor and Industry. It has not yet been approved by the entire committee.

Kentucky's current minimum wage, for small businesses not affected by the federal minimum, is 75 cents in Louisville and 65 cents over the rest of the state.

Farmers and cattlemen would benefit from two bills being proposed by the subcommittee on agriculture. One proposal would require labeling of commercial feeds, licensing of feed distributors and registration of all feeds with the University of Kentucky Experimental Station. The second bill would require licensing of commercial pesticide applicators and standardized pesticide services, and would promote proper use of the chemicals to avoid bans resulting from misuse.

The state Insurance Department plans to introduce legislation protecting policyholders if an insurance company goes bankrupt. Another bill would require insurance companies to give reasons for refusing to renew policies.

One of the largest pieces of legislation will be the Kentucky Crime Commission's 12-bill revision of the state criminal code.

If approved it would group similar crimes into related classes, assign penalties by felony and misdemeanor, allow prisoners to work outside prisons or jails and provide probation and parole for those convicted of misdemeanors.

The legislators also will have to consider creation of a new environmental super-agency, a severance tax on coal, appropriations to state agencies and possibly removal of the sales tax on food.

For the lawmakers, the public and the news media alike, this session should comprise 60 interesting days.

Holcomb Promoted

W. J. Rigby, general manager of Allied Chemical Geismar Complex, Gonzales, La., has announced the promotions of E. H. Holcomb to manager of production and F. R. Yeide to manager of engineering and maintenance services. Both promotions became effective November 24.

Mr. Holcomb joined Allied Chemical in 1943 as an assistant chemist shortly after he had graduated from Marshall University with a Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry. Prior to his transfer to the Geismar Complex in 1966, Holcomb held various managerial positions at three of Allied's major installations throughout the country. A son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Holcomb, he formerly resided here. His wife is the former Madge Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Boyd, of Prestonsburg.

BEIRUT — Authorities of Baghdad, Iraq, have put a 70-cent bounty on stray dogs and cats, the Iraqi weekly Alef Ba magazine reported.

Cities Can Make Up Homestead Tax Loss

Kentucky cities may increase their general fund tax rates to offset revenue lost under the new Homestead Amendment according to an opinion released by the attorney general's office.

The Homestead Amendment, passed by state voters last November, exempts from taxation up to $5000 of the assessment on the personal residence of persons 65 or older.

Local property tax rates still are under restrictions imposed by the 1965 "roll-back" law but that regulation permits rates which will produce the same amount of tax revenue raised in 1965.

Thus, as property is dropped from the tax rolls due to the Homestead exemption, higher rates may be placed on the remaining property to produce the same amount of revenue.

Greenhouse Schools Scheduled In January

LEXINGTON, KY. — Anyone who owns a greenhouse or wants to build one is invited to attend a greenhouse school in January. The one-day schools, scheduled for various locations in the state, will be sponsored and conducted by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture's Cooperative Extension Service.

Greenhouse structures, environmental control, flower crop and vegetable crop production, insect and disease control, and soil testing will be discussed at each of the greenhouse schools. UK specialists in horticulture, agricultural engineering, plant pathology, and entomology, will present the information on these topics.

Growers who attend the schools are urged to bring samples of soil from their greenhouses for soluble salt and pH tests. Testing equipment will be available to provide this information to growers as they watch. The soil samples should be air-dried before they are brought for testing.

The greenhouse schools will be held at the following locations:

Jan. 5 — RECC Bldg., Paintsville; Jan. 6 — American Legion Bldg., Hindman; Jan. 12 — Public Library, Morehead; Jan. 18 — Kenbar Inn, Kentucky Dam Village, near Benton.

Each school will begin at 10 a.m. local time. For more details on any of the schools, contact your county Extension agent.

The Proposed Severance Tax And a Diversity of Ideas

There is a danger that such a diversity of thinking, or the lack thereof, may develop at Frankfort within the next few weeks that the move for a severance tax will be lost.

Already the variance of opinion exists. One legislator provides some sort of example with a plan to tax coal at a varying rate for each company producing it; i.e., if the company is paying the full property tax, tax its coal lightly, and if another is cheating on its property tax get even with a stiff severance tax on its coal — and so on to the edge of utter absurdity by laying down the draw-bars to all sorts of chicanery, cheating and impossible bookkeeping.

Then there is the idea entertained by a Pikeville-based group that the tax should be levied only on strip-mined coal because it causes most of the damage. To pursue that thinking far enough, one might arrive at the conclusion that strip-mined coal, then, should not be subject to the UMW royalty, since miners aren't used in its production.

Governor Ford wants the tax on coal only, and the revenue to go to the general fund, none to the counties that are deprived of their irreplaceable resources and otherwise are losers.

Others — and this newspaper is in this group — hold that the severance tax should be levied on other natural resources, including oil and gas, as well as coal, and that the counties which supply these resources should share in the revenues.

We do not want the coal industry to be the whipping-boy. Coal is as important to the economy, industry and the country as natural gas or oil. It should not be placed in an unfair position, competitively, with other fuels.

The Times has been, and still is, critical of certain aspects of the coal industry — notably, surface mining. We, frankly, are horrified by some of the things that are done in violation of individual human rights and to the environment. We also are aghast at the callous disregard of existing laws governing the industry, especially so when that contempt of the law is shown by those whose sworn duty is to enforce the law.

But these reactions to destruction and injustice do not make of us an enemy to the coal industry, per se. We hold that it must exist wherever it does not threaten human rights and existence. It is of prime importance.

That is why we have added our whisper to the babel of tongues with the contention that this severance tax would more justly be applied nationally, by federal law, thus removing from Kentucky coal the disadvantage of competing with coal from other states where no severance tax is levied.

So runs the diversity of thinking, or the lack thereof.

Ky. Health Dept. To Close Dumps

The Kentucky Health Department announced it will take legal action to close all open garbage dumps in the state after Jan. 15.

A 1968 law ordered a June 1968 closing date for open dumps but the Health Department says many still are operating.

Sam Johnson, director of solid waste disposal for the Health Department, said county health departments are helping track down owners of the open dumps.

facilities among the shrines, non-accommodation parks and crafts shops that made money were My Old Kentucky Home ($42,164) and the handcraft shop at the Shepherdsville exchange on the Kentucky Turnpike ($460).

In the audit's narrative comments, there is this notation: "Please note the disproportionate relation of income to personal services (personal services is a category of costs composed mainly of salaries)."

The audit also said, "It was apparent to us (the auditors) that there were employees on the payroll who were being paid salaries for full-time work, but to whom full-time work was not assigned. A consolidation of job assignments and elimination of non-productive hours would be a businesslike approach to operations."

The audit also suggested that the parks system's records were not maintained in sufficient detail to determine the amounts invested in such properties as land, buildings, furniture, equipment and other fixed assets. The auditors proposed a complete, perpetual inventory be kept on such property.

Johnson, who said he intends to bring the parks system back into businesslike operation, conceded that the parks have an impact beyond their direct financial intake: "My own staff has come up with figures to show that (about $42 million in) tourists' tax money went into the general fund last year . . . There is no way to completely measure what a park does for a community."

But he said the state has to insure that the parks system is run in the most businesslike way possible.

One problem he said he faced, immediately after taking office, was a backlog of seasonal employees still on the payroll. The peak period for these seasonal employees usually is in July, and this July there were 1,185 hired. By the end of November there were 935 still on the payroll.

By contrast, in 1970 the seasonal employees peaked at 1,437 in July, and by November the number was down to only 374.

"That number has been substantially reduced, and after the Christmas season we're going to cut back some more," Johnson said.

Former Parks Commissioner Shirley Palmer-Ball took exception to the figure of 50 cents from each dollar going for labor. He said, "I don't feel this is the case for every facility. I think that probably he (Johnson) is trying to make an average . . ."

He admitted, however, "Had I returned (following a Republican victory last November), I would have gone to work to reduce costs, yes, but this would have been done through organization, and a revamping of the duties of maintenance and construction workers particularly." He said he too opposes more resort lodges and "costly" cottages. "Our concept" was going to be to go to the modular construction of cottages, at a cost of $10,000 to $13,000 each, instead of spending $35,000 to $45,000 for cottage facilities as had been done."

Palmer-Ball said of the lodge at Lake Barkley State Park, "That thing at Barkley is a monument to somebody, but my grandchildren will probably be paying for it."

He rejected the idea that the retention of seasonal employees into November had political implications. He said the parks in many cases were kept open longer, to take advantage of excellent fall weather. Also, he said construction workers were kept in anticipation of the allocation of funds from the federal Emergency Employment Act, to work on some special projects.

"This did not materialize, except in the E. P. Tom Sawyer Park in Jefferson county, where 33 men were put on," Palmer-Ball concluded.

Both Johnson and Palmer-Ball say the emphasis in the future should include development of more camping sites, as money becomes available for them.

As to the audit's charge that people were on the payroll who were doing no work, Palmer-Ball noted that Gov. Wendell Ford made that charge during his campaign. "I checked into this and found nothing," he said.

Expenditures exceeded income for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1971 at the following state parks with overnight accommodations, according to the audit:

Audubon, $59,158; Buckhorn Lake, $130,796; Carter Caves, $114,384; Cumberland Falls, $91,234; General Butler, $70,698; Greenbo, $153,434; Jenny Wiley, $184,524; Kenlake, $69,872; Lake Barkley, $46,748; Lake Cumberland, $17,222; Natural Bridge, $91,535; Pennyrite Forest, $102,386; Pine Mountain, $131,459; and Rough River, $69,736.

Barren River, which did not begin operation as an accommodation park until July 1971, showed a loss of $115,642 during the preceding year.

Panel Will Decide Court Map Question

U. S. Judge Rhodes Bratcher ruled a panel of three federal judges should hear arguments over whether the state Court of Appeals should be reapportioned.

The action resulted from a suit filed Oct. 18 by Louisville lawyers who charged Kentucky's urban population is not fairly represented on the high court and that it should be reapportioned along "one man, one vote" guidelines.

Judge Bratcher said a three-judge panel is required because the suit questions whether the court's districts violate the "due process" clause of the 14th Amendment.

No date has been set for convening the panel.

Letters to the Editor

IMPORTANT FRANKFORT MEETING ON AIR POLLUTION STRESSED

Dear Editor:

What do you have in common with the following newspapers? — Pike County News, Salyersville Independent, Paintsville Herald, Jackson Times, Breathitt County Enquirer, Knott County News, Mountain Messenger, Beattyville Enterprise, Leslie County News, Thousandsticks, Whitesburg Mountain Eagle, Letcher County Community Press, People's Journal, Hazard Herald, Wolfe County News, Manchester Enterprise, Harlan Daily Enterprise, Tri-City News, Jackson County Sun, Barbourville Advocate, London Sentinel-Echo, Mt. Vernon Signal, Corbin Daily Tribune-Times, Whitley Republican, Independent Review, Ashland Daily Independent, Knoxville News, Knoxville Sentinel.

Your papers circulate in the same air pollution control region.

The future of that region and all the others of Kentucky's nine regions goes on the line January 11 at a public hearing in the State Health Department in Frankfort.

The hearing covers laws and air pollution plans which you'll be living with for many years. It's the first time the state's air pollution control regulations have been given a regional slant. Every region is listed as Priority I, II or III. What laws go into effect in your region depends on the priority classification and what comes out of the January 11 hearing.

These proposed regulations could prohibit burning leaves in some cities in your area. This type regulation has caused many administrative problems in Louisville, the only Kentucky area with a leaf burning ban now.

Another law could allow prosecution for visible auto emissions on public roads. This could curtail some large trucking operations until they're cleaned up. Under the proposed regulations, violators could be brought to Franklin Circuit Court rather than to the local county court.

Another regulation could close down an industry or prevent it from constructing a plant if the air in the area already exceeds ambient air quality standards. This would apply even if the plant in question was not responsible for the bad air and would not contribute substantially to increased air pollution in the area.

Another regulation would remove the present requirement that a violation of air pollution laws be proved willful. In the future, if an air pollution violation is seen it will be assumed to be willful. If willful violation is proved, a criminal penalty can be placed on top of the civil penalty. Presently, the willfulness of a violation such as an open burning violation by a city is hard to prove. This change could result in increased fines for city government as well as for industry.

The plan is loaded with regulations and proposals that could substantially effect the health and economy of your community. I fear few persons are aware of the implications of the plan.

I ask your help in informing your readers of this plan and encouraging testimony at the hearing. Testimony may be sent to the KAPCC executive secretary, Ralph C. Pickard, in triplicate before the hearing. It will be entered in the record.

I am not asking that you support the plan or sections of it. The important thing now is that you and your readers be aware of it and of their opportunity to change it. After the hearing, it will be too late.

Copies of the five-page plan are available at the county clerk's office and county health departments in Ashland, Bowling Green, Covington, Elizabethtown, Hazard, Henderson Lexington, Louisville, Maysville, Paducah, Pikeville, Pineville and Somerset. A limited number of copies are available from the KAPCC office.

If you have any questions, don't hesitate to contact me. I'll answer all questions I can and will forward any detailed questions to whomever is most informed on the subject. If you wish interviews with the director or any of his staff or commissioners, I will try to arrange that or put you in touch with them.

Question: Who Paid the Taxes?

Editor, The Times

Once upon a time there lived a man known as Nicholas II. He was Tzar of all of Russia and also was the greatest landowner of modern times. His personal holdings consisted of one million square miles and he had his land populated with serfs who paid him millions each year from the products of their labor.

Now things are changed. The Tzar is no more. The land is still there, but the people no more own it than they did while the Tzar lived. It now belongs to the state, and the state can do anything it wants without asking anybody about it. It is claimed that if a family has to give up its home the state moves that family to another with the understanding that all lands belong to the state.

Here in America we boast of our right to own land, to sell it and to use it any way we wish, even to the extent of keeping other people off it as we wish. Is this true in your community? Is it not a fact that coal corporations have the right to move on any land in Floyd county and to destroy it in the process of mining coal? Has the coal corporation paid any taxes on the land during the last hundred years?

If any tax has been paid on this land, who paid it? If the natives thought they owned it and paid the taxes on it but now find out that they don't own it at all, is it wrong to ask that the people be refunded these taxes, not only during their lifetime but for all taxes since the coal corporations acquired it? Is a person to be treated dishonorably, as though he is a second-class citizen, merely because he lives in the mountains of Kentucky?

I know a lawyer who is studying the question about back taxes on this coal land, and you may hear more about it later.

Sees Russia As the Winner

Now that the smoke and dust has begun to settle over the India-Pakistan tragedy, the following hard facts are beginning to emerge:

With the help and connivance of Russia and a plentiful supply of war-making munitions the East Pakistan people were encouraged to revolt. The American press was specifically invited to accompany the revolutionaries; thus all of the horror, photographs, etc. of the Pakistan government's attempt to maintain law and order and the status quo.

Because of this propaganda furnished to the American people, the American government could not honor commitments to Pakistan, thus another huge hunk of strategic real estate and millions of people fall under the yoke of communistic Russia.

Blackwood Singers To Perform Here

The Blackwood Singers from Nashville, Tenn. will appear here Friday, January 14, at the Prestonsburg high school gymnasium at 8 p.m. under sponsorship of the Floyd County Council for Retarded Children. The council is attempting to raise enough money to keep its school at Martin open until the end of the spring term.

Floyd Trooper-Cadet's Wife Faces Up to Her New Role

By SHANNA COLUMBUS
FRANKFORT, Ky. — Graduation time is quickly approaching for Ralph Hall, Jr., of Nicholasville, married and a father of two young children.
And graduation also will mean a 28th birthday for the Floyd county native on Feb. 25.
But for Mrs. Hall, the time will be one of mixed emotions — pride, apprehension, reserved acceptance — for her husband will be one of 44 cadet troopers graduating into the Kentucky State Police.
For the past two months her husband has been preparing for this graduation, undergoing part of 15 weeks intensive training at the State Police Academy. Initial training for Hall and the cadets means 730 hours of study focusing on such courses as traffic and criminal law, Kentucky geography and history and first aid, along with the development of personal policing skills.
During this time, however, Hall, a former employee of General Telephone Co. in Lexington, has not been the only member of his family preparing for the change in his occupation.
For Mrs. Hall the past weeks have meant finding a job at a sewing factory in Wilmore — her first in their eight years of marriage — lonely nights while her husband has been living at the Police Academy and adjusting to the fact that her husband is going to be a state policeman.
"I was totally shocked when Ralph came in with his application," Mrs. Hall said.

After the Halls received from the Public Safety Department his letter of acceptance, Mrs. Hall said she applied for her first job at the Wilmore factory to offset the decrease in pay brought about by her husband's new job.
"I really don't mind working though," Mrs. Hall insisted, "as long as my husband is satisfied with his job. He had said a few years ago that he wanted to be a trooper so now he's going to have his wish and I'm going along with it."
Mrs. Hall has even been getting in on some of her husband's training when he comes home on the weekends.
"That's all we talk about from the time he comes home until he returns to the academy," she said. "He's excited about what he's been learning and tells me about courses like fingerprinting and firearms training."
Though such training doesn't interest Mrs. Hall as it does her trooper-to-be husband, she doesn't worry unduly about the possibilities that arise from his carrying a firearm.
"I don't like the idea of his actually shooting someone," she said. "I understand that there are many other steps that a trooper learns to take before actually firing his weapon."
"I don't believe being a state trooper is quite as dangerous as being a city or county policeman."
Mrs. Hall recalled being told by a co-worker about the recent shooting of 35-year-old Bowling Green State Trooper William Barrett.
"She asked me if I weren't worried about my husband being shot, but I reminded her that many lay citizens get killed."
"For instance, her husband works in a gasoline station. Look how often you hear about gasoline attendants being robbed and shot."
"Anyway, I've always worried about my husband a little — that's just sort of natural, I think."
After Hall graduates from the cadet training program, he and his family will be assigned for a year to a probationary post. Mrs. Hall has indicated they are looking forward to moving to a location in Eastern Kentucky where they both were raised.

OBSERVE 73RD ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marshall quietly observed their 73rd wedding anniversary, November 21, at their home in Elk City, Oklahoma.
Frank Marshall and Mintie McGuire were married by her Methodist minister father at her parents' home near Prestonsburg, November 21, 1898. All five of their children were born in this county and that family has a unique record — there has never been a death of a direct descendant from this marital union of 73 years.
The couple have five children, 15 grandchildren, 42 great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren — a total of 66 descendants. The only deaths occurring in the family have been that of a son-in-law and a daughter-in-law.
Mr. Marshall is a brother of Mrs. E. L. Hopson, of Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Marshall is the sister of Mrs. Walker Spears and Mrs. J. G. Porter, of Prestonsburg, Mrs. Fanny Spradlin, of Lexington, and Mrs. Lula Epling, of LaGrande, Oregon. Both are widely related in this county.
Mrs. Marshall's family dates back to 1720 when they immigrated to America from Scotland.
The Marshalls rode the train from Kentucky to Elk City in 1909 with their five children. Earlier, several Kentucky families, including the Spradlins who met them at the Elk City station, the Elliots,

41 at Open House Held at Community Center, December 13

Forty-one persons enjoyed fellowship, refreshments and a sharing of social needs at the West Prestonsburg Senior Community Service Center at 1 p.m. December 13. Serving as an open-house day, the meeting also marks the first of planned monthly community meetings at the site. Handicrafts on display prepared by women working in the center evoked favorable comment. Some who previously were unaware of this type of recreational service in the area declared their intention of returning.
Begun in October, 1968, the Senior Community Service Center is maintained by three recreation supervisors, enrollees in the Senior Community Services Program sponsored by Big Sandy Area Community Action Program, Inc. The supervisors are Mrs. Stella Shepherd, Mrs. Esta Crum and Mrs. Nora Blackburn. The building and utilities are provided by Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, which occasionally use the site for Bible schools. Besides being open each week-day from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. for recreational activities for the elderly, special projects to benefit the disadvantaged are conducted with the assistance of Community Action outreach workers. This Christmas, used clothing and toys were gathered, repaired and distributed.

Would you like to visit the Center? It is located in West Prestonsburg in the old "Happy Hollow" school building, just above the KAI factory. Don't have transportation? Call 886-3697 or 886-6200. Invite a friend and stay all day! You don't have a phone? Drop a card to Big Sandy Area CAP, P. O. Box 126, Prestonsburg, Ky.
Attending the open-house were: Malta Watson, Ruth Pitts, Vonda Slone, Grace Litteral, Mrs. Wanda Rodebaugh, Norma Stepp, Sallie Clark, Nettie S. Adkins, Lula Elkins, Lura Moore, Willie B. ANNOUNCING A NEW "BABY"

By WILMAY

What will you, I and America do with the infant called 1972? Will we become better informed about what's going on in our land, and why?

Millions do not know the U. S. owes a dime, although our debt exceeds $400 billion, when for decades the government has operated in the red for all except a few years, regardless of which party was in power, when most citizens vote a straight ticket, often knowing little and frequently caring less about candidates and platforms. Will people who work continue to support thousands of able-bodied persons who refuse to, and to re-elect or elect, in both parties, many men who would do ANYTHING to get votes? Will we elect to jobs and high offices policemen and others who accept bribes, kick-backs, or gifts from patrons seeking favors and contracts, when countless candidates from each party at ALL levels of government spend many times what the offices pay, to be elected, and still claim to be honest men?

Will we keep silent as communism and other "isms" or ideologies destroy our government and ideals? Are we too busy to see that ultra-liberalism leads to socialism, often to atheism, and on to communism, for many, too busy to defend the freedoms provided by our forefathers? Edmund Burke said the surest way for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing! Will the U. S. keep disarming unilaterally, while those sworn to bury us increase arsenals? Will we keep trusting countries that have broken over 90 per cent of their treaties? Will our confidence be in military might or in the Creator who wants America to become righteous again? Will we participate in more wars, with no attempt to win, sacrificing thousands of young men? Will we treat helpless nations as we have Hungary, Taiwan and Vietnam, until none will believe or help us? Will we forsake our commitments?

Will the U. S. keep squandering billions to study the origin of the moon and other planets, when the good Book gives the simple answer for all who can read, and when millions of aged, disabled, and deprived people who are truly worthy need that money? Will we help provide better opportunities for minorities? Or will we let radical revolutionaries, exploiting racial and other tensions, destroy the U. S. because of our apathy? Will we keep spending far more annually for liquor, tobacco or gambling, than for education, or for Christianity at home and abroad, and still beg God to bless us? We pay fabulous salaries to sports, state, screen and TV stars, but most states half starve many teachers, and do even less for countless ministers and missionaries. Preachers and churches are used for weddings and funerals by multitudes who never contribute to them. The same ones would not permit friends to pay their grocery bill! Aside from the dollar, isn't Pleasure the chief U. S. god, despite I Tim. 5:6: But she that liveth in pleasure is dead while she yet liveth. (Spiritually dead.) Amusement places are jammed, God's house almost empty! Next to Pleasure ranks the beloved goddess, Fashion, before which women kneel, even when we all know skirt lengths are a disgrace, and although forced rape in the U. S. increased 67 per cent during the first five mini-skirt years! No wonder Dr. Graham says America is saturated with sex. I Tim. 2:9 does not matter. Will millions keep preferring a watered-down social gospel, now preached by so many that America is almost a carbon copy of ancient Rome and Israel before they fell?

What will we do with the New Year? Will we attend church only at Easter, donate a dollar at Christmas for the retarded, veterans, orphans, needy, aged, or rest-home patients, to save our consciences, while we devote many more hours to good times and recreation than to God's work and suffering humanity? Or will we, as individuals and groups — like S.S. classes, missionary societies, brotherhoods, the fishermen, etc., adopt Bob Hope's slogan: "Give a little of yourself. I've found it will come back in carloads."

Floyd Man Taken As Transporter

State Troopers Keith Scott, Jr. (left) and Gary Rose with a part of the haul of beer and whiskey taken at Van Cleve, Breathitt county, from Donald Gene Akers, of Honaker, this county. The troopers reported they confiscated 7,200 cans of beer, 48 half-pints and 12 "fifths" of whiskey. Akers pleaded guilty to a transporting charge and was fined $20, plus costs, by Breathitt county Magistrate Woodrow Salyers. The 30-day mandatory jail term was probated.

Winter Driving Plays Havoc With Unwary Motorists

By DAVE THOMPSON State News Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Winter is a wonderland. For artists, fresh snow is a delight . . . for small boys and girls, a joy . . . for motorists, a pain in the neck.

That is, if you take driving on the snow and ice the wrong way. If you'll use the right precautions and skills, you'll find that winter can be a wonderland . . . even for motorists.

December and January are tough months for motorists. The days grow shorter and homeward-bound traffic continues into the night. Add holiday travel to freezing rain, sleet and snow and it's easy to understand why these months are most likely to cause serious difficulty for drivers.

But there are some pointers to practice that may help master poor driving conditions.

Skidding is the most frequent occurrence on icy roads. If the rear wheels are skidding to the left, steer left; if they slide to the right, steer right. Don't turn the steering wheel abruptly — a gentle turn will correct most skids.

Start gently on ice and snow. Otherwise, wheels spin, melt the ice and cut traction in half. With a manual shift, use second gear.

The front wheels should be straight before starting. If you have to start with cramped wheels, give the steering wheel a couple of turns back and forth. This will help smooth a path.

Stopping is one of the most dangerous aspects of winter driving. When you have to brake on slippery surfaces, apply your brakes quickly for an instant, then release them for an instant. Repeat this "pumping action" to a stop, and you'll be able to maintain control.

The braking distance at 20 miles per hour on glare ice for regular tires is 195 feet. Snow tires and chains are the common-sense answer to braking problems. Regular snow tires will halt a car at the same speed in 174 feet. Add chains to the tires, and it requires only 99 feet to stop, almost a 100-foot difference from regular tires. Reinforced snow chains are even more effective — then only 77 feet is needed to stop safely.

These figures do not include braking reaction time. It takes 3/4 of a second and another 22 feet before you apply pressure. When a storm approaches, get your car off the highway in a safe place — for you and the car. Give the highway department a chance to clear the roads for the benefit of all drivers.

Most drivers tend to expect too much of a car. While most would think twice before running a foot race over the ice, traffic plunges on, slippery roads not withstanding.

The best winter-driving tip is: start out with a car ready for treacherous journeys. Check the antifreeze, battery, brakes, mufflers, tires, chains, windshield wipers and lights, and don't forget to use the seat belts. Make certain you carry a flashlight and flares for after-dark emergencies. A bag of sand can also be carried to increase traction under wheels.

Winter has its special driving dangers. Use the skills, the precautions that are required. And don't go driving in a winter "blunderland."

"Lest We Forget . . ."

The reality of man's forgetfulness is proved by the fact that some names of Floyd county boys who died in World War I are not available now from the War Department, which should be the best source of this information.

The names of those who died in World War II already are becoming more difficult to learn.

A few years longer, and the names of many will be lost to all except a few of their relatives.

Indeed, we will have forgotten, unless the names of these honored dead are preserved in permanent form.

The Floyd County War Memorial at Archer Park, Prestonsburg, will list in bronze (guaranteed to last 200 years) the names of these we would not forget.

Help make this War Memorial plaque possible. Send your tax-deductible contributions today to:

the importance of jury service. He pointed out that the jury commissioners are always instructed to place in the jury drum the names of good citizens — "people you would trust to hear your own case and render justice, if you were on trial" — and that when the name of a citizen is drawn for jury service it follows that at least one of the jury commissioners regarded the prospective juror as a good citizen.

Three or four were granted relief from service when they offered excuses after appearing in the courtroom. Two were denied. A number failed to appear without asking to be excused.

Bill Would Set Coal Tax Based On Property Levy

One proposed coal severance tax would give a break to mine operators who pay other taxes properly.

The bill, introduced as House Bill 12, is sponsored by Rep. Brooks Hinkle, D-Paris.

It would allow amounts paid in local property and state corporation tax to be credited against the severance tax.

Mrs. Clifford Herrick, of Lexington, a member of the League of Women Voters who are backing the bill, said a major purpose of the bill is to increase the payment of local and state taxes which she said are now often being evaded.

She charged many coal producers now do not pay their fair share of taxes because of underassessment or other reasons. Many of these companies are based in other states, she said.

of whiskey, a "fifth" of whiskey, 12 pints of gin, two pints of vodka, three pints of wine, two cans and five bottles of beer.

A second raid on the Wells premises Dec. 30 failed to uncover any store of intoxicants, but he was arrested on a selling warrant. Troopers Rose and Tucker and Lt. VanHoose, of the State Police, made the arrest.

A pre-Christmas raid on Clarence Martin at McDowell by State Trooper Williamson and Deputy Sheriff Claude Flanery netted three "fifths" of whiskey and a case of beer. The intoxicants, the officers said, were found in an auto.

Fred McCoy was jailed, Christmas Day, by Lt. VanHoose, Troopers Rose and Tucker on a charge of shooting into an occupied vehicle. T. J. Kendrick was booked at the jail Dec. 23 by Deputy Sheriffs Claude Flanery, Frank Vaughan and Tom Blackburn on a charge of attempted arson. He was accused by Oma Ealey of attempting to burn her Bull Creek home.

Marion T. Murphy was jailed Dec. 21 on a hit-run driving charge, and Jerry Greathouse was booked on an auto theft count Dec. 30 by Wayland policeman, Troy Mullins.

Others jailed were involved in traffic offenses. These included:

David C. Johnson, drunk driving and no operator's license, arrested by State Trooper Bevins; Ely Hall, reckless driving and failing to stop for emergency vehicle, by Deputy Sheriffs Hamilton, Rackley and Howell; Bill Harold Ward, drunk driving, by State Trooper Allen; Charles Arnett, drunk driving, by State Trooper Williamson; Homer Hall, drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Troopers Williamson and Bevins; Chester Green Jarrell, drunk driving, by State Trooper Allen; Charles E. THE TRANQUILLIZER

Say what you like about Mr. Claus, call him a fake, a fiction, a fantasy, what you like. But there never has been a flesh-and-blood child expert yet who has been able to make as many good, little boys and girls as this old gent. And he has never lifted a hand or threatened to smack somebody over into the next county.

HONEST ELECTION LAW

If the Legislature really wants to put honesty into elections, let it now enact a law forbidding any candidate to promise a reduction in taxes.

How long since you were in school?

For those of us who are old enough to have children in school, it's a little difficult to realize how demanding and complex a teacher's job has become.

Things have changed since we were under the teacher's eye. Subjects are tougher, wider ranging. Today's student is getting into the ideas behind the facts at an age when we merely were learning facts.

Now the classroom is a place for education through thought instead of education by rote. And the teachers who meet the challenge day after difficult day are rather special people.

Dedicated? The word probably embarrasses them. Even so, it is dedication to duty that's most common to all the men and women who become — and remain — modern teachers.

How else can you describe whatever it is that makes a good teacher keep working, keep studying ahead, after the last bell of the day, the last bell of the semester, has rung?

This they do. And it's enough to know, with or without fancy words that pinpoint their motives. Enough to earn our respect, our appreciation and all the help we can give them.

The Bank Josephine is assisting Floyd County area youngsters obtain a college or trade school education. We're the only financial institution in Floyd County participating in the Federal Insured Student Loan Program. We are actively lending to students right now. But we'd like to do more. You see, we're out to make more loans to more students, but we need your help to do it. We'll earmark your money for our "Education Unlimited" loan fund. The "Education Unlimited" Savings Certificates we'll issue you in return will pay off magnificently — in excellent bank interest for you, and in better educations for our own boys and girls.

Floyd County has always been blessed with more than its fair share of citizens who willingly give more than they have to give — of their time, their energy, their cooperation — to keep our county out front in all the things that matter. While outstanding teachers are seeing to it that our youngsters get the best education possible, countless other people are working every day to meet the county's growing cultural and social needs.

Crime Council Backs 'Package' For Legislature

The Big Sandy Regional Crime Council, composed of members from Pike, Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, and Martin counties, has announced its support of a legislative package which the Kentucky Crime Commission will recommend to the 1972 General Assembly. The recommendation relates to the structure and operation of Kentucky's police, courts, and correctional agencies.

The legislative package that will be introduced by the Crime Commission includes numerous bills, among which are the following:

1. A police training and educational incentive bill to provide local city police with a 15 per cent salary supplement if they meet minimum recruit level and in-service training standards.
2. A state matching fund bill which will appropriate $6.3 million from the state's general fund to enable Kentucky to obtain $19 million in federal funds for anti-crime programs.
3. A criminal law revision bill which will revise all of Kentucky's substantive criminal laws, realigning in a systematic way the crimes and severity of penalties attached to the crime.
4. A public defender system which will provide compensation for attorneys assigned to defend indigents in criminal cases.

5. A pre-trial release on conditions bill which will permit other alternatives than posting bail for those charged with a criminal offense rather than detaining them unnecessarily in jail.

6. A probation of misdemeanants bill to authorize the Department of Corrections to provide services to misdemeanants.

7. A parole of misdemeanants bill to authorize the Department of Corrections to provide parole services for misdemeanants.

8. A work and educational release for misdemeanants bill which will permit carefully selected misdemeanants to leave jail for brief periods to attend school, to work, or to receive medical care.

9. A supervision conditional release of felons bill to assure that all felons released from institutions receive supervision from the Department of Corrections as they return to society.

10. A work and educational release for felons bill to allow the establishment of community correctional centers where convicted offenders may take part in educational, medical, and work programs.

The Big Sandy Regional Crime Council announced that senators and representatives from the region will be urged to support this legislation.

Bill Would Prohibit Stripping Without Landowner's Okeh

State Rep. Raymond Overstreet (R-Liberty) has asked the Legislative Research Commission to draft a bill prohibiting strip mining operations without the consent of the landowner involved.

The bill would require applications for surface mining permits to be accompanied by written consent from the surface landowner.

It would get around the controversial broad form deed which now enables the owner of underground mineral rights to get the mineral any way he wants without the surface owner's permission.

The broad form deed has been upheld in the Court of Appeals.

"The people should decide whether they want their land stripped, not some governmental agency and not some conservation group," Overstreet said. "This bill would allow the people who are affected to make this decision."

MAYTOWN NEWS

MAYTOWN CLUB REVIEWS HOLIDAY ACTIVITIES

The Maytown Woman's Club began its holiday activities, Nov. 18, with the Thanksgiving meeting held at the home of Mrs. Roland Burchett. A program on conservation was presented by Mrs. Shirley Stewart, president. Mrs. Stewart showed a film explaining why we must save our natural areas and wildlife, and why they need to be preserved for our children and for the generations to come. At this meeting, committees reported on the homecoming activities that were being held the same week-end, and a date was set for the lighting of the annual Christmas tree. Names were exchanged for Christmas. The Club sponsored its annual Homecoming, Nov. 19, honoring former Homecoming Queens and attendants, also the former state basketball champions of Maytown high school. A dance followed the Homecoming ball game. Dec. 6, the Club sponsored its annual lighting of the community Christmas tree. Because of rain, the festivities took place in the Maytown lunchroom. Santa gave sacks of candy to all the children who attended. Dec. 14, the holiday activities ended with a dinner and Christmas party at May Lodge. Gifts were exchanged and members sang Christmas carols, accompanied by Mrs. Elisha Crisp at the piano. Members attending were: Miss Sissy Hall, Mrs. David Reed, Mrs. Paul Borders, Mrs. Roland Burchett, Mrs. Elisha Crisp, Mrs. Eloise Hall, Mrs. Ed Stewart, Mrs. Peggy Gibson, Mrs. George A. Patton, Mrs. Hubert Halbert, Mrs. Thomas Ray Flanery, Mrs. Roy May, Mrs. Mike May, Mrs. Kenneth Blevins.

The World's Most Interesting Mammals

THE AFRICAN ELEPHANT, MOST INTELLIGENT OF ALL MAMMALS OF THE WILDS. Many naturalists claim that the African bull elephant should be called "The King of All Beasts." He is the largest land mammal known and is regarded as the most intelligent. The male stands 11 feet high at the shoulders and weighs 6 tons. He flaunts great tusks eight feet long! His huge ears are almost as large as a barn door and his powerful head is set high upon the body. He is lord and master of his domain, the leader and defender of his herd, which may consist of 30 members. He guards them from attack by lions or other predators and fears no lion, leopard or man. With the help of his herd, he digs holes in dry river beds to find water during a drought; he knows that his herd must have water on their thick, naked hides to keep cool. He leads his herd to the "elephant wallows" so they can smear mud on their naked skins as a protection against biting insects.

Elephants belong to a class of animals called pachyderms, which are animals with thick, naked hides, no hair. The hide is too thick and tough for hair to grow. The elephant has a huge brain, which is a good indicator of his native intelligence. Those who have seen elephants perform at the circus are often amazed at their intelligence. Although one may weigh tons, he can be trained to lie down on a circus performer without doing any bodily injury. The elephant is more popular at the zoo or circus than even the tiger or lion, and I, for one, feel that he should be called, "The King of Beasts." It is said that elephants hold memorial rites for their dead and mourn over their passing.

THE MOST INTELLIGENT OF THE APES. The chimpanzee, called "chimp," is regarded as the most intelligent of the apes. He is a member of the anthropoid apes, which means resembling a man in ways or looks. The facial expression of the chimpanzee is almost human and the mouth wears a peculiar quizzical expression. This ape can be taught to draw pictures and has a crude sense of color and beauty. Many have seen the chimp that used to appear at times on Marlin Perkins' WILD KINGDOM, and have marvelled at its good behavior and childlike devotion to its master. Chimps live in the forests of Central Africa and mostly eat fruits and nuts of many kinds. At night they build beds of twigs and leaves and each member of a family has its own bed. Most of the time the beds are built in trees. These apes supplement their diet of fruits by eating termites. They know how to take a stick and punch the termites out of their nests. They "talk" to one another by various calls, each with a different meaning. They also use facial expression as a means of communication. Among the human-like traits the chimp shows are: facial expressions to express emotion, curiosity, and the ability to reason about simple things.

THE WILDEST AND MOST BEAUTIFUL OF MAMMALS. The zebra of Africa, a member of the horse family, is so wild and fierce it cannot be domesticated with any degree of success. A zebra simply rebels at being tamed or imprisoned in a stable like a mule. These animals are lovers of the freedom of the plains of Africa, are wild and fleet of limb. Their bodies are completely striped black and white from the tip of the nose to the tail and down the legs to the hooves. Their stripes are called "shadow stripes" as they break up the bodily form of the animal and fool the eyes of predators. The stripes lend this animal a beautiful, artistic color pattern; the stripes are wider toward the rear and form a beautiful "gridiron pattern" on the rump. The legs never have warty growths, as are seen on the legs of mules; the mane is short, stiff and stands erect on the arched neck. It is noted that the stripes follow the pattern of being vertical on the body and horizontal on the legs. Zebras have keen eyes and sharp ears and on the first sight of a lion or other predator, the whole herd breaks into pellmell, fast flight. Those in the know say: "The vicious temper of the zebra renders it unfit as a beast of burden." Its worst enemy in the wilds is the African lion, which stalks the zebra in order to capture it. Certainly Nature has given this animal one of the most artistic color patterns found among wild animals.

THE KANGAROO, KING OF THE MARSUPIALS. The red kangaroo, which lives on the vast plains of Australia, is the king of the marsupials and the largest one in the known world. It is also one of the most popular mammals seen at the zoo.

The face of the kangaroo wears an innocent, lamblike look, which expresses its amiable disposition. A fully grown male sometimes grows to a height of 7 feet and may weigh over 200 pounds. When resting, the kangaroo forms a tripod for the support of his heavy hind quarters. This tripod is formed by the two hind legs and the long tail, which rests on the ground behind the legs. The tail forms a crook when it rests on the ground as a part of the tripod.

The kangaroo could easily win any broad jumping contest, as it can easily jump a distance of 25 feet and can leap over a fence ten feet high. The animal can run 30 miles per hour and can escape most of its enemies. Wild dogs of Australia sometimes run down and catch a young kangaroo to eat.

The adult kangaroo is a fighter when cornered by wild dogs or other predators. It rears up on its stout tail and kicks out savagely with its large hind feet.

The kangaroo develops its own built-in comb on the hind legs, which is formed between the second and third toes. The comb is used for grooming the fur.

The red kangaroo is one of the finest examples of a marsupial. It may often be seen carrying its young in the pouch on the belly, with the head of the youngster sticking out. The mother can leap a long distance with the young one in the pouch. The kangaroo is strictly a vegetarian and uses its short foreleg for grasping the leaves and branches of trees, as it feeds solely on plants of many kinds.

Australia, the home of the kangaroo, is often called "the cradle of the marsupials," as it has many hundreds of different kinds of these animals. North America has only one, the lowly opossum.

Bill to Curb Broad Form Deeds Asked

FRANKFORT, Ky. — State Rep.-elect Raymond Overstreet, R-Liberty, asked recently that a bill be drafted to prohibit strip-mining operations without the consent of the landowner involved.

Overstreet's bill, submitted to the Legislative Research Commission, would require applications for surface mining permits to be accompanied by the written consent of the surface landowner affected.

The effect of the bill would be to get around the controversial broad form deed which Kentucky courts have interpreted as meaning that anyone with a deed to mineral rights could get the mineral any way he wanted. Most of the deeds were signed around the turn of the century, before surface mining was widely used.

"The people should decide whether they want their land stripped, not some governmental agency and not some conservation group," Overstreet said as he submitted his proposal for drafting. "This bill will allow the people who are affected to make this decision."

"After all," he asked, "wasn't this country founded on the principle that those affected should be involved in the decision-making process that affects their lives?"

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our gratitude to all who extended sympathy at our time of sorrow on the loss of our beloved husband and father, Basil Mullins. We wish to extend a very special thank you for the generous offering of food and flowers, to the ministers and singers and for the kind and efficient service of Carter Funeral Home. Last but not least, our deepest gratitude goes to Dr. Adams and his staff who stood by so faithfully.

God Bless each and every one of you.

Kentucky's Record Fish, Pound and Ounce

FRANKFORT, Ky. — If you should catch a 13-pound, 9-ounce largemouth bass or a 13-pound, 13-ounce rainbow trout from Kentucky waters you would have a state record in each instance by the margin of one ounce.

Or, if you should exceed the state record smallmouth, which weighed 11 pounds and 15 ounces, you would have not only a state record but also a world record.

This is not to say that all fish grow large in Kentucky but they do grow fast here, and overall state records for the many species of fish caught in Kentucky compare favorably with the records of any other state.

Of course, the title with which Kentucky fishermen are most pleased is the one for that world's largest smallmouth bass caught from the waters of Dale Hollow in 1955 by a Leitchfield, Ky., man. It is a world record that has held up against all competition for 16 years.

Kentucky's Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is the custodian for the record list of all species of fish caught from Kentucky waters by pole and line. Perhaps larger fish have been caught than those recorded, but it is doubtful. If a fisherman is lucky enough to tie into one of the big ones he's pretty apt to let it be known and to reveal his record or near record, properly verified, to department personnel.

To be eligible for the record list the fish must be weighed on acceptable scales and measured in the presence of two additional persons who, along with the fisherman, must sign an affidavit as to the authenticity of the claim. In that manner all records can be kept legal and valid.

To give fishermen something to shoot at during the upcoming season, a partial list of Kentucky's record fish follows:

- Kentucky bass, 7 pounds 10 ounces from a Nelson county pond by A. E. Sellers, Louisville.
- Smallmouth bass, (world record), 11 pounds 15 ounces, from Dale Hollow by David L. Hayes, Leitchfield.
- Largemouth bass, 13 pounds 8 ounces, from Greenbo Lake by Delbert Grizzle, Flatwoods.
- Rainbow trout, 13 pounds 12 ounces, from below Wolf Creek Dam by Danny Antle, Louisville.
- Muskellunge, 39 pounds 14 ounces, from Green River by Willard Parnell, Edmonton.
- Rockfish, 44 pounds 4 ounces, from Herrington Lake by James Fugate, Burlington, and Ronald Warner, Burgin.

Health Dept. Notes 90 Per Cent Drop In Medicaid Overuse

The state Health Department has reported success in its program to curb overuse of Kentucky's medicaid program.

The project was begun with some 86 patients in 10 counties who were considered to be overusing the program, averaging 19.4 drug prescriptions and five visits to a doctor's office per month.

Since the project has been underway costs of drugs and visits to doctors have been cut from a per-person average of $91.56 per month to $10.43, nearly a 90 per cent decrease.

Dr. Howard Bost, chairman of the program's advisory council, said the figures will require "further analysis," but the potential of the program "is tremendous."

By "locking-in" medicaid recipients to just one doctor and one pharmacist instead of allowing them to "shop around," prescriptions were reduced to 6.3 per month and doctors' visits to four per month.

James Rogers, director of the program for the Health Department, said about 3000 other persons are potential candidates for the program, but further analysis will be done before more are added.

He added that investigations show the quality of care patients receive has not suffered under the program.

Bomhoff To Retire As Gas Executive

Equitable Gas announces the retirement of W. C. Bomhoff, of Pittsburgh, Pa., formerly of Ashland, Ky., as executive vice president of the Pittsburgh-based utility, effective Feb. 1.

He will remain as consultant and member of Equitable's board of directors. Bomhoff has served in various capacities since joining Equitable in 1926. Beginning as a gas measurement clerk, he advanced through the ranks, and in 1953 was named vice-president and director of Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Co., Ashland, an Equitable subsidiary. He became vice-president and director of Kentucky Hydrocarbon Co. at Langley, another Equitable subsidiary, in 1955, and was named vice-president and general manager of both companies in 1957. He became executive vice-president of Equitable Gas in 1967.

Mrs. Davidson To Coordinate PCC Program

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of Prestonsburg Community College, announced last week that Mrs. Colette Davidson has been added to the staff of the college as coordinator of nursing in preparation for the nurse training program which PCC expects to initiate, early next year.

Mrs. Davidson, who has been on the staff of the University of Florida and has spent two years coordinating a two-year associate degree nursing program at Santa Fe (N. M.) Junior College, will begin work with Prestonsburg Community College, April 1. Beginning this month and continuing through February and March, she will serve the college here as a consultant in preparing for the beginning of the nursing program in January, 1973.

To facilitate some of the details and contracts that must be cleared between the college, the medical and nursing professions and the hospitals and nursing homes of the area, a meeting of those concerned will be held in the auditorium of the college at 1:30 p.m., Jan. 13. Miss Pat Tipton, coordinator of nursing at Somerset Community College, and Miss Marie Piekarski, who serves in the same capacity the University of Kentucky's Community College System, will participate in the meeting.

Queen urged to pay taxes
LONDON—The New Statesman magazine says Queen Elizabeth should pay income taxes. "Not a penny of income tax or surtax is ever paid on the private fortune of either the queen or the prince of Wales," the magazine said.

Big Brother Week

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Gov. Wendell H. Ford has proclaimed Jan. 1-9, as Big Brother Week in Kentucky.

In a proclamation signed recently, Governor Ford asked all Kentuckians to recognize and appreciate the splendid work being performed by Big Brothers, Inc. "Kentucky can take pride in the many community projects conducted by Big Brothers, Inc.," the governor said. "Its purpose is to promote spiritual, mental and physical well being. "All Kentuckians should support the persons and organization which is committed to protection and development of Big Brothers."

1/4 Ton Gasoline Model Price, Chassis Only, $1500

GENERAL MOTORS COMPANY TRUCKS

Have the Service Built In

Our prices are lower than other high grade trucks, because we have increased our production and decreased our overhead by eliminating the extravagant methods that still obtain in many factories—methods which increase the cost without adding to the quality. We are price reducers not price cutters. Our service is more than conversation—it is built into the truck and written in the order, it is the service that satisfies. We perform all we promise. If you need trucks it will be to your interest to investigate GMC trucks and GMC methods before you place an order. Satisfy yourself—our competitors might not have first hand information. We make a truck to fit your business.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mrs. Virgie Lee Akers, of Banner, wish to thank her many friends for the acts of kindness during her recent illness and death. We will forever remember those who took her to the hospital, called and visited, sent flowers and cards, brought food to the home, and other acts of kindness.

We especially wish to thank Dr. Adams and Dr. Cook and the nurses at Prestonsburg General Hospital for the attention they gave her, Hall Brothers' Funeral Home, the neighbor men who dug the grave, the ministers for consoling words, Bro. Fred McGinis, Bro. Earl Waugh, Bro. Talmage Allen and Bro. Willie Rice, and all who contributed in any way to make her passing easier to bear.

May God bless all of you.

Sons and Sisters

Christmas on Jan. 6? Not a Bad Idea!

WEST LIBERTY, Ky. — Christmas has now been relegated to the attic until another year and New Year's celebrations given a place in memory's file.

But for some Christmas once came twice on the calendar — Dec. 25 and Jan. 6 — and New Year was not until March.

In the long, deep hollows in the Kentucky mountains it is said there are some who follow the Gregorian calendar as a part of family tradition. Others observe Old Christmas in order to keep the custom part of a life that is too bent on hurrying to the next season.

Centuries ago Twelfth Night — Jan. 6 — marked an end to Christmas festivities and any decorations left hanging in the house were invitations to goblins and gremlins to come inside and dwell.

One writer said the day was a time to be . . .
"Down with the rosemary, and so
Down with the Baies and Mistletoe;
Down with the holly, Ivie and all
Wherewith ye dressed the Christmas hall."

For many years in the Floyd county hills a mountain woman has kept alive the traditions of Old Christmas. Mrs. Edith James, of Prestonsburg, an authority on highland lore and legend, is director of the Jenny Wiley Chantresses who do not sing the ancient songs, but chant the words to carols and hymns.

There still are a few mountain homes where old ones claim a special spiritual presence fills barns and sheds of animals on the Eve of Old Christmas. At midnight, it is told, the animals are given the power of speech and, whether understood by man or not, some claim to have heard the animals and their strange sounds.

It was considered an omen of bad luck to go to a barn or animal shed on the Eve of Old Christmas to witness the animals.

An Eastern Kentucky poet wrote . . .
"At Old Christmas when Spirit fills each barn and shed
And holy auras hover round a donkey's head;

The animals are given voices there in the hay
To speak words of praise as they kneel to pray."

Old Christmas continues to be kept in the mountain fastnesses, but a New Year that comes in March is not so well remembered.

A few hundred years ago the Gregorian calendar gave March 25 as the New Year and this custom was brought across the ocean to some of the New England states.

The day was marked with a holiday from school and if there was not a deep snow or bitter cold, games were played on the commons or sons and fathers enjoyed a special day of hunting in the forests near the villages.

In those early days young girls wore garments similar to those worn by their mothers — tight-waisted, full-skirted, long dresses with white pinafores and matching white caps.

Usually the mother spent part of New Year spinning flax on the wheel while the girls pieced quilts and the grandmother knitted in a warm corner near the open fire. Sometimes a grandson had carved wood knitting needles from wood and would present these to his grandmother.

If March 25 was a day that ocean breezes were warm and snow was off the ground, annual Training Day was combined with New Year. Men and boys would practice shooting skills and compete in other contests.

Food, while not fancy, had been put away from the last harvest. There would be Indian corn for bread, carrots, turnips and other vegetables that had been placed in holes and covered with sand.

Powdered (salted) beef and ham had been held over and there would be fresh meat from the hunt. Apple cider, fruit preserves and homemade cheese would round out the holiday table.

Customs change as do calendar dates for holidays. It would be well if people the world over observed the spirit of Christmas on Dec. 25, Jan. 6 and many other days throughout the year.

The love and spirit of sharing which characterizes Christmas should not be limited to two days out of 365. The more Christmases, the better.

Invitation To Bid

The Floyd County Board of Education will offer for sale to the highest bidder until 12 noon January 8, 1972 its equity in the following properties:

EDA Approves Grant For Hindman Work

Approval of a $620,000 grant to help create immediate jobs for the unemployed in Knott county, was announced last week by Robert A. Podesta, assistant secretary of commerce for Economic Development.

The grant is a part of a $50 million Public Works Impact Program ordered by President Nixon to create new and useful jobs in areas of high unemployment.

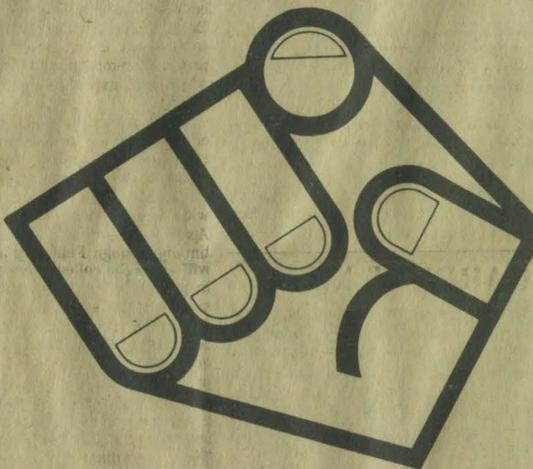

The City of Hindman is the applicant for the funds from the Economic Development Administration, U. S. Department of Commerce. The funds will be used to expand the community's water and sewer systems.

Local officials expect work to get under way within 60 days. The project is expected to provide 35 jobs for persons from the area for up to nine months.

The federal funds will pay the total cost of the project.

The funds were approved under an amendment to the Public Works and Economic Development Act, which authorizes grants for projects that will create immediate construction jobs in areas of high unemployment.

THE DODGE BOYS THINK ABOUT YOU.

we think you ought to test-drive a car before you buy it!

test-drive POLARA!

When you take Polara on the road, you'll find out what "the ride with quiet inside" is all about. Polara's Torsion-Quiet Ride isolates you from road and engine noises. It also gives Polara those great handling characteristics. What's more, our big, strong Polara has been completely restyled this year to give you a fresh choice in the big-car field. So test-drive a new 1972 Dodge Polara. You'll be impressed.

test-drive CHARGER!

With last year's Charger sales up 75 percent, you know that a lot of people think Charger is the car for them. Most people are initially attracted to Charger's great-looking shape. But when you take a new Charger for a test drive, you'll discover other reasons for Charger's success. Like the real family-sized room of Charger. If you want a real family sports car—get a '72 Charger. Take one for a test drive soon!

test-drive CORONET!

Bring your whole family down to the showroom and check out the real convenience of Coronet's four big doors. Easy in. Easy out. On those long vacations, the kids won't be crawling over you every time you stop. And your wife will like Coronet's new styling. So before you buy your family a new car, bring them all down to your local Dodge Boy's. And take a ride in the new 1972 Dodge Coronet.

test-drive DART DEMON

See for yourself how our lowest priced Dart proves that an economy car doesn't have to be a little car. Dart Demon has a very compact price, yet offers more room than the new mini-cars. It seats five comfortably, has a big 15.9 cubic-foot trunk, and Six or V8 power. Size up Dart Demon yourself.
