

Two-City Water Hookup Studied

But HUD Slow In Its Response To Funds Plea

If the federal support which was first sought a few months ago were given, Prestonsburg's worries about present and future water supplies would be over for the foreseeable future, William O. Goebel, Sr., chairman of the Prestonsburg Water & Gas Commission, said this week.

The request involved Housing and Urban Development Administration (HUD) financing of the linking of the Prestonsburg and Paintsville water systems, the enlargement of each city's water plant to a capacity of 3 million gallons per day and extension of service to rural areas and perhaps to the city of Salyersville.

The plan was first officially discussed at a May Lodge meeting of HUD and other representatives with mayors of Prestonsburg and Paintsville and members of their utility commissioners.

HUD representatives expressed an interest in the plan at the time, and an informal request for consideration was made by letter, but no action has been taken.

Mr. Goble said HUD officials expressed an interest because the two systems would thus be able to extend service to rural sections of both counties as well as into areas in neighboring Martin and Magoffin counties.

It was also pointed out that the linkup of the two systems would assure uninterrupted water service in the event that one system was beset by mechanical breakdowns.

Rum Violations Charged to Two, 1 for Firearms

Liquor law violations are charged to two men arrested over the week-end, and at least one other man faces a federal firearms count.

Ronald Gayheart, of East McDowell, was charged with transporting intoxicants after his arrest Friday night by Deputy Sheriffs John D. Martin and Denver Newsome, who found eight cases of beer in his car. The vehicle was impounded.

Darryl Keathley, of Galveston, was named on a possession count after 19 cans of beer were found in his possession Friday afternoon by Deputy Sheriffs Doug Lewis, Green Stone, Linzie Hunt and Roland Howell.

County Help On Dog Pound May Be Asked

Prestonsburg's City Council may send representatives to the next session of the Floyd fiscal court to seek county help toward the founding and maintenance of a dog pound which would serve both city and county.

The decision to seek county cooperation followed a discussion of the dog situation here at last Thursday's meeting of the Council. A motion to establish a city pound was defeated.

Mayor William O. Goebel, Jr. later indicated his interest in working out a plan which would be practical, offer protection to pets which might stray from their owners' premises and yet reduce the number of stray dogs.

"The problem is no worse this year than last, but the truth is, it has been a very serious problem for several years," the mayor commented.

(Unwanted dogs are often hauled here from a distance and released to wander the streets, raid garbage cans for food, and because they are seldom immunized against rabies to present a serious health hazard.)

In other action the council approved the appointment of Gene D. Wright to the Prestonsburg-Paintsville Airport Board, to succeed Paul Phillip Hughes whose term has expired, and reappointed Leo Weddle to the Planning Commission.

Ten youths were put to work on the city cleanup project, with Ed Radjunas, Prestonsburg High School football coach as their supervisor.

Martin, Floyd Army Man, Retires To the Quiet of a Bookshop

Wyatt Martin in a book-lined room of his home at Allen.

Wyatt Martin has always loved books—ever since the first illustrated "storybook" he can remember as a boy. And since his retirement in 1947 from a 20-year career as an officer in the U. S. Army, he has dealt in them—collecting, buying, selling—so that now he shares his large, two-story house at Allen with some 75,000 volumes contained in 15 rooms.

"I have a little something on everything under the sun—history, fiction, the occult—about everything you can think of," the 69-year-old Martin commented. Martin sends out general listings he compiles every few months to a mailing list and he reports that orders come in from all parts of the United States and Canada with some requests for certain volumes coming from as far away as Morocco and Spain.

"Some collectors and book 'scouts' have told me I have the best collection between Atlanta, Cincinnati and Chicago," he said.

Martin, who was born on Beaver Creek, "above Wayland," said after retiring from the Army as a first lieutenant he returned to Allen where his mother and sister were residing and while there noticed in a publication he was browsing through a request for a certain book. "Some fellow from New England was writing, inquiring about a book and I happened to have a copy of it," he recalled. The book, "The History of Witchcraft in Europe," was the first Martin ever sold.

"It was after this that I decided to really go into the business," Martin recalls. He then began buying books from California and soon discovered the New England states to be a particularly rich source of books, especially in the areas of religion, Civil War history and slavery. Book "scouts," people who concentrate on locating hard-to-get volumes, also supply Martin with a number of books.

"My main scout," Martin said, "brings me about 300 books each time he visits, and most of those are out of print." Included among his volumes are a large number of very old, out-of-print works as well as several first editions.

"I started out very early in life reading," Martin said. "I remember 'Jack the Giant Killer' was the first book I ever owned, and I read and reread that book." The retired lieutenant still takes great pleasure in his reading and has for the past several years concentrated on 14 century European history and Egyptology. He also enjoys a variety of classical music and he plays a Mozart selection "just about every day."

"There's not that much money in it," Martin reflected in a discussion of his book business. "but it's interesting, and it keeps me busy all the time."

W'wright Working To Preserve Its 'Model Mining Town' Image

Whatever its future, Wheelwright does not intend to become a slum neighborhood operated under absentee ownership.

Its mayor, Elmer Ferguson, and City Council moved last week to preserve what was once hailed nationally as "a model mining town" and to encourage its people to remain there, proud of their community.

The action, part of long-range community planning helped along by a University of Kentucky development planner, was represented by a series of city ordinances, one of which created the office of building inspector and another establishing a city housing code. "Wheelwright is not going to serve the company that owns it as a tax writeoff," Mayor Ferguson said this week.

Coal Tax Funds, Work on Roads Among Benefits

Governor Ford last week allocated $40,382,500 of surplus state revenues to various categories, and Floyd county will benefit in three of these, in particular:

1. It will share in the $5,500,000 in surplus severance tax revenues according to its coal tonnage, as provided by the so-called "Mountain Amendment" adopted at the 1973 legislative session.

2. The county will share in the $10 million earmarked for construction and maintenance of roads and bridges used by overweight coal trucks and other haulers of industrial materials, as authorized by Senate Bill 332.

3. The Prestonsburg district reclamation office of the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection will receive the lion's share of the $261,000 set aside for the employment of an additional 20 strip-mine inspectors, plus equipment needed in the administration of land-reclamation laws. Thomas O. Harris, secretary of the department, said he expects most of the new men to be assigned here, since this district has had the biggest increase in strip-mining. In the five months of the year the number of strip mine permits increased to 489—more than twice the number issued in the same period of 1973.

Jenny Wiley Theatre To Open Its 10th Anniversary Season

Work has begun for the 1974 Tenth Anniversary season of the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre, which will offer three of the most entertaining musical productions ever to hit the stage:

"Fiddler on the Roof," "West Side Story," and "Funny Girl."

"Fiddler on the Roof" running June 26 through July 14, Wednesday through Sunday, is hailed as the world's most acclaimed musical, having won just about all of the prizes and awards possible at the end of its first New York season, including the New York Drama Critics Circle Award and nine Tony Awards.

"West Side Story," which will run July 17 through August 4, Wednesday through Sunday, is the New York version of "Romeo and Juliet." Its songs include "Maria," "I Have a Love," "One Hand, One Heart," "Tonight".

"Funny Girl," scheduled for August 7 through August 24, Wednesday through Sunday, is a musical Valentine to Fanny Brice. Its great songs include "People," the humorously defiant "Don't Rain on My Parade," the bluesy "Who are you Now?" and numbers evoking the great Ziegfeld Follies production scenes.

Opinions from Office Of Atty. General

Among opinions released last week from the office of Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock were the following:

In response to a question submitted by Ray Corns, Department of Education, Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock has stated that teachers who have a continuing contract in one district and are transferred to another may be subject to one year's probation. If the teacher is then reemployed for the second year he acquires continuing contract status in that employing district.

To a question from Judge Pat Tanner, of Daviess County, Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock replied that the city of Owensboro or Daviess county, or both jointly, may not hold a referendum on the Sunday closing law. Kentucky statutes grant the legislative body of any city and the fiscal court of any county exclusive power to enact ordinances and resolutions regulating retail sales on Sunday. Consequently a referendum may not be held.

Terry A. Sturgill, city councilman of Neon, asks if a mayor who changes his legal residence and moves outside the corporation limits disqualifies himself from office. Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock said no person shall be eligible to hold any office in the city unless he is a resident and qualified voter in the city. Thus, if the mayor moves his residence out of the limits he has disqualified himself.

The Kentucky Association of Criminal Justice Educators and the state Department of Justice are jointly sponsoring a conference on criminal justice and training in Frankfort June 13-14.

Regional Offices To Open Soon

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Lyman V. Ginger says the Kentucky Department of Education hopes to have regional offices open soon in each of the state's 15 Educational Development Districts (EDDs).

Speaking to the Association of Regional Education Agencies (AREA), Ginger explained Kentucky's method of regionalizing education services to AREA representatives from 11 states.

"We think of this as a service delivery, not an administrative system. Instead of having a program director located in Frankfort, we have a coordinator, a person who serves as a liaison between the regional staff and my office. We are not trying to dictate to the regional groups, we are helping them provide services for students and teachers in their regions.

"In general, the concept has been very well accepted," Ginger said. "It has been in operation for only one year and I am inclined to brag about its accomplishments.

"Local superintendents are pleased with the regional concept."

Ginger said that through the regional offices, superintendents are able to use cooperative purchasing for everything from duplicator paper to school bus tires.

"This can result in substantial savings, in some cases it has been enough to pay for the cost of operating the entire regional office, Ginger said.

School districts also can pool their money to buy special services for their students—reading specialists, math specialists, psychologists. Through the regional offices some of the districts are working together on the problem of juvenile delinquency and crime prevention.

"One reason for the program's success is its dependence on local ideas," Ginger said. "The local superintendents help select the regional director and local people decide which programs are needed by that region. Northern Kentucky has different problems than Floyd county, so it has different programs."

"In the years ahead, if one region has a good idea, we will package the idea here in Frankfort and deliver the information to all of the other regions. Some of the regions have moved faster in developing the regional concept than others.

A Helping Hand for Mr. Hancock

(An editorial in The Courier-Journal)

The voice of the turtle finally has been heard in the land—or at least in Eastern Kentucky. The state Transportation Department at last has filed suit in Clay County, seeking injunctions against overweight coal hauling, and has promised more suits in other counties. Apparently this is the long-awaited evidence that the Ford administration is willing to support Attorney General Ed Hancock in his struggle against the illegal trucks.

Mr. Hancock and Assistant Attorney General David Short have invested a good deal of time and effort in a breakthrough on the truck issue, which has frustrated state and local officials for at least a generation. With the help of such judges as Pleas Jones and Don Ward, they have made some progress. Now the Attorney General's office believes it is time for the proper state agency, the Transportation Department, to add its weight to the effort.

This is not a question of punishing the coal industry. It's a question of forcing the coal industry to play by the rules, and to accept the consequences when the rules are broken. The taxpayers of Kentucky should not have to pay the estimated $625,192 in damages that the coal truckers have inflicted on public roads in Clay County, particularly at a time when coal is selling for mind-bending prices. If they're paying as much as $30 per ton for coal in Clay County, the operators can afford to pave just about everything from Spivey Branch to McRoe Hollow, which is just about all of the county's 474 square miles.

Clay Circuit Court ought to be a good place for the Transportation Department lawyers to seek strong law enforcement. Judge Clay Bishop was elected as a law-and-order man. During his first months on the bench he bemoaned the fact that "the administration of justice has traditionally been lax in mountain counties, particularly in this one." Back when he was a coal operator himself, Judge Bishop testified in federal court against what he felt was lawlessness in the organizational activities of the United Mine Workers. Now he has a chance to crack down on the destructive illegality of the coal industry's truck transport system.

It would not be fair to prejudge the case being made against 137 owners and drivers of coal trucks in Clay County. But it is not unfair to expect that just and forthright treatment of this case will produce the kind of changes the department seeks in Clay County coal-hauling.

Certainly the Clay County case should be followed with suits in other counties where illegal hauling is casually tolerated by local officials. Pike County is a particularly inviting target, since the combination of enormous mineral wealth and powerful vested interests has made this mountain bastion especially hostile to the simplest notions of social justice. Having stuck its neck out in Clay County, the Transportation Department cannot retreat into its shell in Pike County and other counties where illegal trucking is an everyday fact of life.

ALC Faculty Member To Study Reaction to ARC Projects

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Alice Lloyd College students from the area will be interviewing Eastern Kentucky residents this summer to find out how people feel about development projects financed by the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC). The students will be working under the supervision of William Weinberg, director of the College's Appalachian Learning Laboratory.

Weinberg said the students will be talking to people about projects in the Big Sandy and the Kentucky River Area Development Districts. Specific projects to be studied will include highway construction, a vocational school and a comprehensive health care project.

Purpose of the study is to help find ways in which the ARC can be more responsive to the needs of area residents when planning new projects. "We're trying to find out why some projects work while others seem to get people upset," said Weinberg.

Weinberg was hired as a consultant by the Commonwealth of Kentucky to do the research. The state is operating under a contract with the Appalachian Regional Commission.

The interviews are only one aspect of Weinberg's research. He has been asked to compile an annotated bibliography of research articles, books and other materials which deal accurately with the feelings and attitudes of Eastern Kentucky residents. He will also make recommendations on ways his research can be used to improve the state's planning process for Eastern Kentucky.

Nature Trails

By RUFUS M. REED

The catalpa trees of our region are among the finest ornamentals. During June, many may be seen in showy white splendor along the highways and borders of woods. This lovely tree is no doubt the most neglected of all, despite its striking appearance and superb beauty when in bloom.

Perhaps the main reason for the neglect to plant catalpas as ornamentals is their frequent attack by the large hornworms of the Catalpa Sphinx Moth, one of the larger hawk moths, almost as large as a hummingbird. Here we see one of the rare adaptations of nature. Just as the monarch butterfly lays her eggs only on milkweed plants, so does the female catalpa moth lay her eggs only on the leaves of catalpa, usually the smaller tree. The female lays large masses of white eggs on the underside of the huge catalpa leaves. The eggs hatch in a week and produce the green and striped hornworms, which have a sharp horn at the rear. These greedy hornworms soon devour every leaf on the catalpa, leaving the tree as naked as a "picked bird."

Fortunately, these hornworms have three bad enemies, or they would soon destroy every catalpa tree. They are regarded as choice fish bait by many anglers, especially as bait for catfish and bass. Some fishermen gather large numbers of these hornworms and put them in the freezer for future use.

The most effective enemy of these hornworms is a bird—the yellow-breasted chat, called "yellow mockingbird" by many. The hornworms have such a terror of the chat, the moment this bird lights in the infested catalpa to feast on them, they let go all at once and shower down, then crawl frantically into weeds and grass in a frenzied effort to escape the chat. The voracious bird keeps after them until his crop is full and running over. It seems what the lover of the catalpa trees needs is more yellow-breasted chats.

Another bad enemy of the catalpa hornworms is the tiny braconid wasp, which lays its eggs on them. These soon hatch and bore into the worm to devour it completely. The larvae of this little wasp spin white cocoons, which they attach to the carcass of the hornworm.

To return to the beauty of the catalpa: The large, inflated blooms are two-lipped, bell-shaped and fringed on the border like fancy needlework. The blooms are formed in large clusters, which are white and showy. The beauty of the blooms inside must be seen to be appreciated. The throat of each blossom is decorated with a splash of yellow, dotted with purple; the lower lip of the flower is speckled with orange.

The blooms produce large clusters of slim "stogies,"—beans which hold the winged seeds. Each seed has two fringed wings for flying away in the spring winds, when the beans open. The dry beans hang in clusters during the winter and rustle in the wintry wind. They are over a foot and one-half long!

Catalpa was a favorite tree of the Indians, who named it "catalpa," the tree with the big leaf. The leaves are often a foot or more broad, and some are as large as a man's hat.

The catalpa is a native of the southern U. S. It was first discovered in South Carolina in 1726 by an old white settler named Catesby.

The catalpa is a member of the Bignonia family, which was named after a French abbe and scholar, Jean-Paul Bignon. This family also includes the famous evergreen cross-vine of our region, which has flowers similar to the catalpa and produces slender bean pods. Catalpa is also called "the Indian Bean tree;" in times of food scarcity, the Indians ate the seeds of the beans.

For its beauty as an ornamental, the catalpa deserves a wider planting, along roadsides and in parks. If no chats come to devour the hornworms, they can be destroyed by spraying with sevin or malathion.

Kick-Off Rally Set Friday by Democrats

A Seventh Congressional District kick-off rally, leading up to Telethon '74—the Democratic Party's nationally televised fund-raising appeal set for June 29-30—is scheduled this Friday at 8 p.m. at Greenbo Lake State Park.

Featuring U. S. Senator Dee Huddleston and Seventh District Congressman Carl D. Perkins, plus local officials from all over the District, the rally is one of seven scheduled across the state that night, with the wind-up from 9-12 p.m. at Louisville.

Hershel Joseph, Floyd County chairman for Telethon '74, urged all local Democrats to attend the rally and make their pre-telethon pledges and contributions.

The 21-hour marathon program, to be televised live over CBS-TV, with nationally-known entertainers and political figures, from 9 p.m. June 29 to 6 p.m. June 30, is the third such venture for the Democratic Party.

Mrs. Polly Vicars, State Chairwoman for Telethon '74, said two-thirds of the funds raised in Kentucky prior to the program, and two-thirds, less national expenses, of funds raised during the telethon will be returned to the State Party for use in Kentucky.

Groups Co-Sponsor 2-Day Training Here

ROPES Region 11, in conjunction with the Kentucky Department of Education, the Kentucky Division of the American Red Cross, the Rowan County Chapter of the American Red Cross, and the Health Development Association of Northeast Kentucky, will sponsor a two-day training session in standard multi-media first-aid to the injured here, Thursday and Friday this week, according to Reo Johns, executive regional director.

The training session, which is open to designated representatives of local school districts in the region, will be conducted by Dave Bolt, EMS program director for the Health Development Association of Northeast Kentucky. Mr. Bolt is an authorized instructor trainer in multi-media first-aid. Representatives of participating local school districts, upon successful completion of the 16-hour course, will be certified as instructors. This will enable them to train as many local district personnel as necessary to meet the new OSHA requirements.

The training session will be held at the Prestonsburg High School cafeteria from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. each day. In order to complete the course, it is necessary to attend both days sessions.

Court Supports Water District On Sewer Plan

The Floyd fiscal court last Wednesday went on record as supporting the Beaver-Elkhorn Water District in its application for funding of a study of the feasibility of a sewage disposal system for the district and adjacent areas.

Application has been made by the water district to the Environmental Protection Agency for funding of the study, which is known as the 201 Project Facility Plan. The court resolution assured its participation in the planning process.

The study that is being sought followed rejection by Judge Stumbo of an earlier plan which provided only for a sewerage system to serve the town of Wayland, with service possibly to extend as far downstream as Lackey. Judge Stumbo insisted that such a system should include the entire water district.

The court last Wednesday approved continuation of the clothing center operation at Drift for the benefit of the poor and employed Rose Floyd to maintain and operate it at a wage of $2 per hour. The clothing center decision had been postponed from an earlier meeting of the court.

County Judge Stumbo, County Attorney James R. Allen and Claude Swiney were named by the court to negotiate for long-term lease or outright purchase of land for possible recreation areas in the county.

Other items of business transacted during the session:

Voted the reopening of a Betsy Layne street from the corner of Dick Layne's property to the school, a distance of about 400 feet.

Authorized HOPE Industries, Inc. to collect paper for recycling.

Authorized George Barnett to construct a coal conveyor across the county road near Hite, Barnett to construct the conveyor so as to prevent coal spillage and not to interfere with the flow of traffic on the road.

Employee Garnishment Protection Increased

The amount of a worker's earnings not subject to garnishment automatically increased when the new $2.00 minimum wage went into effect on May 1.

Assistant Regional Director for Employment Standards James E. Patching, Atlanta, reminds employers and workers that, since May 1, an employee must earn more than $60 in disposable earnings in a workweek before his earnings are subject to garnishment. Previously it was $48.

"Disposable earnings" is the amount remaining after mandatory withholdings for federal, state and local taxes and for Social Security. "Earnings" generally include wages, salaries, commissioners, bonuses, and payments made under pension and retirement plans.

Optional withholdings, such as for life and health insurance, union dues, or savings bonds are "disposable earnings" and not exempt from garnishment.

If an employee's disposable earnings are more than $60 but less than $80 in a workweek, only the amount above $60 is subject to garnishment. If he earns more than $80 in a workweek, no more than 25 percent of disposable earnings over $80 can be garnished.

The earnings of any individual which are pay for personal services are protected, whether or not the individual is covered by the minimum wage law.

The federal wage garnishment law was passed in 1970 as part of the Consumer Credit Protection Act. It not only limits the amount of pay that can be garnished, but also protects the employee from being fired because of garnishment for a single indebtedness.

Three instances in which the federal restriction on garnishment does not apply are: court orders for support of any person; court orders under Chapter XIII of the Bankruptcy Act; and debts owed for federal or state taxes.

Most states have wage garnishment laws of their own. When these laws conflict with the federal provision, the law resulting in smaller garnishment applies.

Consumer Comments

By ED W. HANCOCK (Attorney General of Kentucky)

All of us at one time or another use credit—be it for an emergency, the purchase of a car, appliances or a personal loan. If your budget is already overextended as a result of today's rising costs, a personal loan can cause additional personal financial hardship.

Some banks, and other savings and loan institutions will offer to help with planning your budget. If stronger measures need to be taken there is bankruptcy court and the filing of Chapter 13. Many Commonwealth residents do not wish to pursue such measures.

More recently in Kentucky, a new nonprofit agency has opened its doors in Louisville to aid in financial planning for those individuals in drastic need of assistance.

ACCEPT is not a loan company, but, they do encourage consumers to come to them for assistance in finding a method of paying debts. Consumers can be aided free of charge when calling on ACCEPT, located in the Heyburn Building, Louisville.

ACCEPT works by planning and counseling with consumers for the best possible way to pay outstanding debts while maintaining a good standing with creditors and wisely budgeting for those weekly and monthly normal expenses.

The ACCEPT counselor will call the creditors and discuss a method of payment without borrowing larger sums of money to pay these debts, which usually causes a hardship. The budget planned with the counselor will be a stiff one, but it will aid consumers who are tied between "the fence and the gatepost."

Louisville and other Kentucky businesses are working with this organization to help consumers pay debts with the income you now have available.

If you have financial problems, before borrowing more new money to pay old delinquent debts, try to call or write ACCEPT for counseling and financial planning. ACCEPT, Heyburn Building, Louisville, Ky., phone 502-583-3626.

For answers or suggestions to aid in consumers problems Kentucky residents may call on the Attorney General's toll free consumer hotline at 1-800-372-2960; or write Division of Consumer Protection, Room 34, Capitol, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Perkins Accepting 1975 Academy Applications

Washington, D. C., June 6, 1974. It was announced today by Congressman Carl D. Perkins that he is accepting applications for nominations to the Naval, U. S. Military, Air Force, and Merchant Marine Academies for the classes entering in June 1975.

Any young man from the 7th Congressional District, between the ages of 17 and 22, who wishes to be considered for appointment to one of the service academies should notify Representative Perkins, Room 2365 Rayburn Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20515.

Gov. Wendell H. Ford announced that Kentucky's local manpower programs will get approximately $28 million in federal funds starting July 1. This means the state's unemployed or underemployed will have more classroom and on-the-job training, basic education counseling and job development before being placed in jobs. Ford also announced that Kentucky's 1974 summer youth job program will get $7.4 million in combined federal and state funds.

Letters to the Editor

Not the Dwale Dump

Editor, The Times:

I read in the Floyd County Times of May 22, 1974 that the Allen Woman's Club thought the "Dwale Dump" should be cleaned up. First of all, I would like to know when did this become the Dwale Dump? I thought it was the Floyd County Dump, and was centrally located between Dwale and Allen.

I agree, the dump should be cleaned up, but, first of all, the people of Allen and all over Floyd County should stop dumping their garbage there. The many years that I traveled that road, I saw more people from Allen there dumping than I did from Dwale.

BETTY JO HUMBLE Dwale, Ky.

Open to Suggestions

Editor, The Times:

Surveying a recently constructed school building in our county, as a citizen I ask the school people:

Why don't you take better care of public property?

As a teacher in the Floyd county school system for more than twenty years I know we have failed to teach respect and responsibility for public property. It is never too late to learn. If you, the reading and concerned citizenry, have any suggestions as to how respect and responsibility can be taught the youngsters of our county let me know—I'll try.

40 ways not to be fuelish.

Give your furnace an efficiency check-up, to make sure it's not wasting fuel.

- 1 Adjust your home thermostat to the recommended fuel-saving temperatures: between 65 and 68 degrees during the day. Down to 55-60 degrees at night.
2 Make 50 miles per hour your top speed when driving. On the average your best mileage happens around 35 mph.
3 Turn off lights, electrical appliances and TV sets when you're finished with them. Unplug instant-on TVs.
4 Start or join a carpool. And when you use your car, use it efficiently. Combine trips to the supermarket, the drug-store, the bank, etc., and make one clean sweep.
5 Drive at a steady speed, accelerating and slowing gradually. Especially avoid "jackrabbit" starts. They really eat up gas.
6 Don't idle your engine more than two minutes.
7 Avoid congested traffic. That kind of stop and go driving consumes gas quickly and adds to air pollution. Plan trips for off-hours.
8 Have your home's heating system checked to make sure it's operating at peak efficiency.
9 Install a humidifier on your heating system. Humidified air is comfortable at substantially lower temperatures than dry air and healthier for you.
10 Close off any areas of your home that don't require heat all the time. Guest rooms, for example.
11 Don't waste fuel heating the garage.
12 Keep windows near thermostats closed. Otherwise the cold air will cause a lower reading, and your furnace will run longer but not make you any warmer.
13 When you're not using your fireplace, make sure the damper is tightly closed so heated air won't escape.
14 Weatherstrip or caulk around drafty doorframes and windows.
15 Install storm windows. You'll cut down heat loss by 10-15%.
16 Close draperies at night. Keep them open during the day. Closed, they'll act as insulation. Open, they'll let in additional warmth from the sun.
17 Move furniture that blocks forced air registers.
18 Keep the area near your furnace free from obstructions, especially the space around air intakes.
19 Check the color of the burner flame in your gas furnace. If the flame is yellow, instead of blue, there's too much air in the combustion mixture. A repairman can fix you up in a jiffy.
20 Clean or replace furnace filters regularly.
21 Eliminate outdoor decorative lighting, such as spotlights, floodlights and lights lining driveways.

- 22 Turn off your gas yard light. It's a real gas gobble.
23 In the kitchen, try to cook all foods for a meal in one area of the range—on top, in the oven, or under the broiler. For cooking small quantities of food, use a portable appliance like an electric skillet.
24 If you cook with gas, don't use more flame than necessary. Flames should just touch the bottom of cooking utensils.
25 A clear blue flame on a gas range means the burner is operating properly. If the flame is yellow, have a repairman make adjustments.
26 On electric ranges, turn off burners several minutes before the end of the proper cooking period. The heating element will stay hot, and your food will finish cooking without using additional fuel.
27 Do not preheat ovens more than a few minutes. And don't set the temperature higher than you need.
28 Run full loads in the dishwasher, so that you can run it less often. Don't use it between 4 and 8 p.m.
29 Run full loads in the washer and dryer. Same reason.

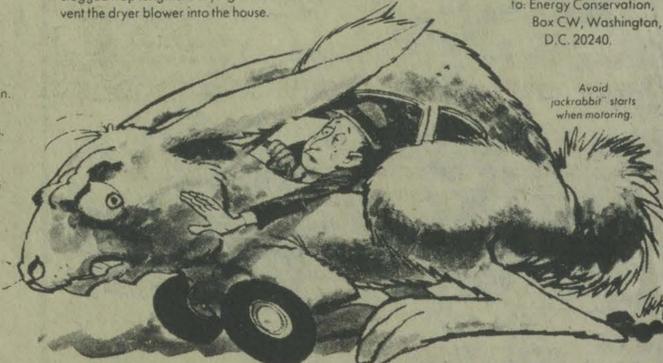

Turn off lights and appliances the minute you're through with them.

Dial your thermostat down to 68 degrees or lower.

- 32 Once a month, flush the sediment out of your hot water tank by draining a couple of buckets of warm water from the faucet at the bottom of the tank. If allowed to build up, this sediment insulates the water from the heater.
33 Make sure the temperature on your water heater isn't set excessively high. 110 degrees is about right. Wrap hot water lines with insulation.
34 Repair leaking water faucets—especially hot water faucets.
35 Take showers instead of baths. You'll use a lot less hot water.
36 Make sure your home is adequately insulated. It should have at least 6 inches of insulation in the attic, 3 inches in walls and under floors over crawl spaces.
37 Wrap heating ducts that go through cold spaces with fireproof insulation. And while you're there, check ducts for leaks.
38 Seal air leaks from living spaces into the attic—around ceiling fans, electrical fixtures, heating ducts, and pull-down stairways. (But don't seal off ventilation in the attic. You need that to prevent moisture buildup.)
39 Before summer comes, have your cooling system checked to insure efficient operation.
40 Right now, write for a free booklet with these and more tips on how to save fuel. Just send your name and address to: Energy Conservation, Box CW, Washington, D.C. 20240.

Avoid "jackrabbit" starts when motoring.

Don't be fuelish.

Clerk Makes 12th Refund to County

The recent refund to the county of excess fees by County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson is said to have been the 12th time in the history of the county for such payment to be made.

County Clerk has completed his 12th year as county clerk.

Excess fees returned to County Treasurer W. J. May this week by Robinson amounted to $3,199.89.

Mr. Robinson said that during his three terms as county clerk he has returned more than $125,000 to the county and is the only clerk in the history of the county to do this.

Also paid to the county treasurer was $4,069 for taxes collected on recording deeds; $1,798.23 for delinquent taxes collected for the year 1973; $5,076.85 for occupational license, and $4,009.40 paid to the Floyd County Board of Education for its share of delinquent taxes.

Robinson said all the money he had returned remains in the county and does not go to the state.

An additional $1.6 million to local schools for capital outlay expenses in the next fiscal year.

A 2 per cent increase in the current-expenses category of state aid to local schools, a total of $1,074,500 in the next fiscal year.

An additional $2 million for construction of a facility for the "multi-handicapped" at the state School for the deaf in Danville, making a total of $4 million for the project.

An additional $1.3 million to the "student growth pool" for state universities and colleges for the next fiscal year. The institutions may draw funds from this pool if their enrollments increase.

Ford's action leaves unallocated about $65 million in surplus expected during the coming fiscal year.

"I am going to be as cautious, prudent and conservative as in the past in order that we do not fall into a trap of overspending," Ford told a news conference. "As programs are fully reviewed, additional priorities will be given . . ."

Two items under "intensive review" for possible funding are textbooks for public-school pupils and local library books and facilities, Ford said.

Ford attributed the surplus to inflation, which particularly affects saletax revenue; a state economy that has remained stronger than the national economy; lifting of the Mideast oil embargo sooner than predicted; prudent management of state funds, and conservative revenue estimates originally.

as retaliation for the tenant's action and shall be void.

Jim Hammonds, of Prestonsburg, is Wheelwright's city attorney.

"We're going to do everything in our power to keep this town going," Mayor Ferguson said this week.

Although Island Creek Coal Co. no longer operates its mines there, it has a big operation not far away, at Price, and other coal firms in the area provide employment for the Wheelwright men who have "always worked in coal." Mayor Ferguson himself is employed by the Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Co., across the mountain in Knott county.

Besides, the town is not without prospects. Rumors persist that a company with coal affiliations is interested in it. General Battery Company has shown an interest in locating a battery repair plant in the old "shop building" there, and that could employ 20 or more men.

And, in addition to all that, there is the hope that recent core-drilling into the thick seam of coal which in other parts of the county lies near the mountain tops will result in a slope or shaft mine in the nearby Weeksbury vicinity.

The firearms charge was lodged against Ed Wright, Jr., of Drift, who was arrested, Sheriff Joe W. Lewis reported, while in possession of a shotgun and an automatic .22-calibre rifle. He had earlier been charged with grand larceny and knowingly receiving stolen property, and these charges, it was explained, made his possession of firearms a federal offense. His brothers, James and Homer, also were jailed by Deputies Lewis and Slone, and were held for possible federal investigation. James Wright was charged with carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

Two searches of Stumbo Hollow and the area between Stumbo Hollow and Drift on two separate days last week uncovered 13 cases of beer but no owner. Deputy Sheriffs Howell and Slone found 4 1/2 cases last Wednesday. Next day, Deputies Lewis and Slone found 8 1/2 cases.

Sheriff Lewis says he knows the owner of the beer but can't prove that he does. "If anybody needs a drink and can't pay for it, just look along the road up there and you'll find it," he said.

David Akers, of Mud Creek, was jailed Saturday by Deputy Sheriffs Martin and Newsome on charges of shooting and wounding and cutting and wounding. He was accused of slashing his mother, Mrs. Love Akers, on her neck.

The sheriff's office was investigating Monday the break made Sunday night into the part of the Faith Bible Church, near Martin, which is used for classes for retarded children. Interior of the classroom was vandalized, and a note threatening to burn the building was found.

Other arrests, names of arresting officers and charges against each defendant follow:

Ronnie R. Howell, drunk driving, by State Trooper Leeman Bevins; Curt Goodman, drunk driving, by Constable Bob Hackworth; Clarence Slone and Gary Allen, obtaining money under false pretense, by Sheriff Lewis; Roy Rogers, no operator's license, by Deputies Slone and Howell; Bobby Ousley, no operator's license, by Deputies Martin and Newsome; Billy Tackett, drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Troopers Castle and Estep; Clifford Young, drunk driving, by State Trooper Castle; Thelma Stewart, drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Trooper Bevins; Andy Hall, no operator's license, by Trooper Bevins; Roger Dale Bevins, reckless driving, by State Trooper Webb; Teddy B. Tackett, drunk driving, by State Trooper Estep; Charley Blankenship, no operator's license, by Deputies Martin and Newsome; Donald Robinson, drunk driving and no operator's license, by Constable Hackworth; Dye Hayes, drunk driving, by State Trooper Castle; Ladonna Sword, adultery; Tommy Nelson, child desertion; Henry C. down or damage by flood or other cause.

The cost of such a system would range between $9 and $11 million, it is estimated, but the entire cost, if HUD approves the project, would be federally financed.

The Prestonsburg water plant is not at this time under undue pressure, Mr. Goebel said, but its peak load has in the past approached 750,000 gallons a day, with only a total capacity of a million gallons.

"As the plant now is, we have so many requests for water that we can't fill," Goebel remarked.

Besides natural growth inside Prestonsburg itself, there is the water which will go to the new Middle Creek Water District and the unfilled request by the Bull Creek District for water when its system is completed.

For some months now Bell Engineers, of Lexington, have been studying a filtration method which is within the financial reach of the Prestonsburg system and which could increase the capacity of the plant here by at least one-third and conceivably by 50 percent without the purchase of costly additional pumping equipment. But, even after Bell's approval, it would need the O. K. of both state and federal governments.

quarters that the old coot is living in the past.

Well, I may be. If I am, I'm in much more pleasant country than the present.

I VIEW WITH ALARM . . .

They say there's nothing new under the sun. I wouldn't know, but I suspect that if you stick around long enough you'll find that what was once new to you will bob up again. Long hair and mustaches and sideburns, for instance. Wouldn't be surprised to see, any day now, some dandy sally forth with his hair in a stock, pomaded and perfumed, with a length of silk stockings showing beneath his knee-length breeches, and all this topped by a cocked hat. The only thing that worries me about styles and fashions coming full circle is the awful possibility that they'll bring in English Walker shoes again, and I haven't fully recovered yet from the first round.

One of the most revealing reports we've read is the one which is said to have issued after a New Jersey courthouse was broken into. It read:

"Nothing was taken but next year's election returns."

When OEO first sent youngsters into this county to do social work, a few years ago, among those who came was a student from one of the Ivy League colleges. He got on right well with us "natives," and one day was out in the country palavering with an old fellow whose hearing wasn't what it once was. They began exchanging information about themselves, and finally the oldest got around to asking the younger man where he had gone to school.

"Yale," said the student.

"Yell, you say?—I said, WHERE DID YOU GO TO SCHOOL?" the oldtimer roared.

Dedication Speaker

Rev. Robert Jones, director of Mountain Missions for the Kentucky Baptist Convention, will be one of the major speakers at the dedication of the Maytown Baptist Chapel, Sunday, June 23, at 3 p.m. Rev. Jones, who was instrumental in getting the work launched there, is a graduate of Georgetown College and Southern Baptist Seminary, has pastored churches in Kentucky and West Virginia, and has served in his present position for several years, promoting the work of missions in 16 counties of Eastern Kentucky.

Chapel pastor, Lawrence Baldrige, of Pippa Passes, is in charge, and Rev. Earl Waugh, pastor of the sponsor church, First Baptist of Allen, will deliver the welcome. The public is invited to attend and tour the new building whose main floor has recently been completed.

Staff Summer Inservice Begins

Further Right to Read staff development began last week for teachers at Clark Elementary School when Morehead State University conducted an Instructional Development Institute for teachers of the region. The institute enrolled approximately 60 people involved in teaching situations from the region and Southern Ohio, and met for five days at Clark school.

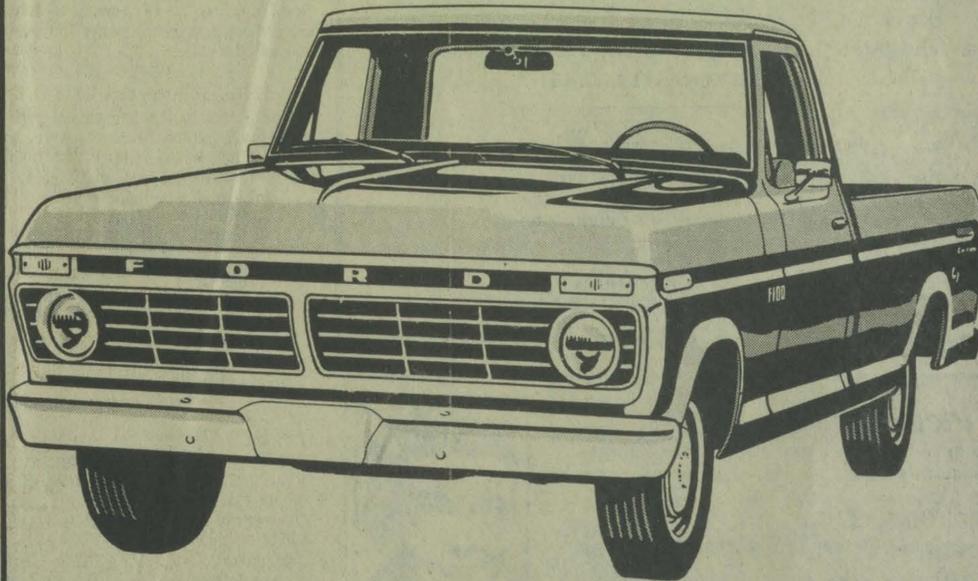

Once enrolled, and after several problem-solving techniques had been introduced and role-played, the group was broken into teams of four to nine people each to work on the specific instructional problem it had defined through the preceding activities.

Included in the institute were nine staff members from Clark, who were broken into two teams. One team, consisting of Edna Davis, Gladys Shepherd, Pauline Hicks, and Delphia Hicks, chose to correlate reading and social studies for primary grade children. The other team, consisting of Edith Jones, Shelby Draughn, Jack Music, Earl Ousley, and Larry Jervis, correlated reading and career occupations for all grades at the school.

Other in-service is scheduled at the school this summer. Topics to be covered range from keying programmed materials to the basal reader series being used, to how work with the very slow or fast child, to studying and building materials or supplies to use with children for growth in the effective domain, to record keeping. A total of 18 days will be used before the beginning of school this fall, and will involve consultants from as far away as Minnesota.

Dooley Finds Men 'Do-Less,' Two Women Come To His Aid

When Worley Dooley, retired miner, contracted recently to slaughter and dress two hogs for Beula Collins, of Lackey, he qualified the agreement with an "if"—if he could find anybody to help him.

And for a time it was a big "if." He searched the vicinity for a man to help and found none. Just when he had decided that nobody wanted to work and that the job was off, two women, Zelda Terry and Bessie Handshoe, volunteered for the work.

Dooley was, frankly, skeptical as to the ability of the women to do the work but in desperation he took them on as helpers. And they did such a good job—from scraping the bristles from the hogs to hanging them for dressing, to cutting them up for storage—that Dooley declared they were the best workers he had ever had, and he has butchered hogs for years.

After proving their ability, one of the women remarked that "most men aren't worth the powder and lead to kill them with."

To join in having "a hog-killin' time" wasn't for his helpers a case of Women's Lib—it was just a case of two women who weren't afraid of work, even man's work when there are no men around to do it. Mr. Dooley maintains.

Floyd County Among 12,000 Communities Out of Program

The Federal Insurance Administration is accelerating the process of identifying and notifying the approximately 12,000 non-participating communities of their flood prone status, and Floyd county is among the non-participants.

Congress imposed this requirement on HUD in the 1973 Flood Disaster Protection Act. Communities so identified by HUD are given a year thereafter to enter the program. Failure to do so would mean the loss of virtually all forms of Federal assistance for building purposes in areas of special flood hazard.

Maps are supplied by HUD to the communities, tentatively identifying the hazardous areas.

Should a community disagree with the designation given by HUD, it can, within six months of notification, submit satisfactory evidence that it is either not seriously flood prone, or that it has corrected such flood hazards as may have existed. HUD Secretary James T. Lynn has the final word, however, in deciding the existence or extent of a flood hazard area.

At any event, the communities formally identified by HUD as flood prone must be in the program by July 1, 1975. After that deadline, Mr. Bernstein said, no federal officer or agency shall approve any financial assistance for acquisition or construction purposes in the identified danger areas of those communities which decline to qualify.

To be accepted in the program, the community must specify in its application how it proposes to regulate construction in its hazardous areas in order to avoid losses from future floods. As part of the application the community must adopt minimum land use regulations, such as a simple building permit system.

Although the initial land use requirements are minimal, they are enforced. Regrettably, the citizens of Hattiesburg, Miss., were left unprotected by insurance when the recent floods hit it. The town was suspended from the program in January, 1973 because its officials didn't take the necessary measures it promised, and failed to heed the warnings of the Federal Insurance Administration.

Particularly for the benefit of lending institutions, FIA has installed two toll free telephone lines in its HUD Washington offices. The numbers are: 800-424-8872, and 800-424-8873. The lines are open Monday through Friday from 8:45 A.M. to 5:15 P.M. Eastern Daylight Saving Time.

Pollution Violation Draws Penalty

Frankfort, Ky.—Officials of an Eastern Kentucky coal washing plant have agreed to pay a $10,000 penalty to the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection for violations of state pollution laws and will begin immediate remedial action to prevent further discharges of coal solids in Pond Creek in Pike county.

According to an attorney for the department, a complaint was issued against Eastern Coal Corp. when inspections of the company's facilities, near Stone, indicated the company was illegally discharging coal washing residue into the creek.

Eastern Coal Corp. has agreed to designate one person per working shift to monitor all disposal pumps and discharges at the plant at least once an hour. The company is also required to maintain a daily log and monthly status report recording all operations which may affect water quality.

The company has two weeks to "clean all ponds, ditches, preparation plant, tipple and refuse bin areas" to prevent any further discharging of blackwater.

Bible Club Has Annual Program

Carla Martin and Deborah Johns presenting a check of $105 to Miss Harriet Handloghten, of Venezuela, who is now working with Spanish people in a northern state. The contribution was made on behalf of the Joy Bible Club.

The Joy Bible Club of Eastern presented its 13th annual Achievement Program, May 25. A large number of parents and friends attended.

The program, staged entirely by the boys and girls of the club, consisted of two children's choirs, memory work, solos, piano duet, Bible verse quiz, Footprints of Jesus, "Crowns", visualized lessons and slides of Petra, the Tribulation Period and an illustrated lesson on "Is your heart too small?"

Highlighting the program this year was the participation of Miss Harriet Handloghten, former missionary to Venezuela. Miss Handloghten now works with the Spanish speaking people in Michigan. The audience was captivated by her presentation of the work in Venezuela South America. She shared her slides, curios, music and language. A feature of the program was the presenting of $105 to Miss Handloghten by Carla Martin, president of the Joy Bible Club. This special gift was given by all the children and is one of many gifts these children have provided for missionary endeavor in past years. A few other areas have been Haiti, Alaska, Ecuador, Japan, Africa, Mexico and the Dominican Republic.

The annual gold trophy cup was won by Deborah Johns, and the runner-up was Andrea Wicker. Stephen Halbert won the silver cup as champion of the Thursday class. Elizabeth Halbert won the banner for the Bible verse quiz, with Dorthy Woodrum as runner-up. Deborah Johns won top award of the year. Partial camp awards were presented to Tammy Martin and Connie Grey. Camp awards also were made to Jeff Wicker and Creed Acree. Other awards were presented to Carla Martin, Stanley Martin, Andrea Wicker, Teddy Meadows, Connie Grey, Angela Rowe, Della Scarberry, Marsha Scarberry, Linda Gobel, Beulah Prater, Don-Don Braham, Elizabeth and Stephen Halbert, Wesley Halbert, Dana Bradley, Kristy Orsborn, Biddie Hamilton, Dorothy Woodrum and Beulah Prater.

Tammy Martin, Beulah Prater, Dorothy Woodrum, Elizabeth Halbert, Kristy Orsborn and Deb Johns were honored for excellence in Bible memorization.

The Bible clubs are held in the home of its teachers, Miss Barbara Wynsma and Miss Lois Holmquist, at Eastern on Route 80. All children are invited when the clubs begin again in the fall.

The 'Death' of an Eastern Ky. Stream

A section of Middlefork Creek, Martin county, polluted by the blackwater release of March 25.

State fisheries director Charles Bowers (left) turns over check from Island Creek Coal Company to Harold Wallace, Fish and Wildlife fiscal control director. The $8,500 check will be used to restock the polluted streams. This pollution settlement was one of the larger ones in recent years.

Frankfort, Ky. (Special)—In the early morning of March 25 black water began its deadly way down Honey Branch into Middle Fork, down into Rockcastle Creek. As the inky water advanced, fish began to surface. At first, they gulped for air. Later, they floated belly up into eddies and backwaters. Wherever the current slowed, it deposited its cargo of dead and dying fish.

The worst fish kill in Martin county is now history. The dead fish are gone from the stream now—collected by county residents or washed out into the Big Sandy. What remains is the story of the fish kill and the facts which make this particular pollution incident one of the more significant and unusual of recent years.

One of the most important things about this fish kill was that, despite Martin county's long association with the coal industry, this was the very first major kill on Rockcastle Creek. As such, it brought swift reaction from the public—concern, dismay and anger. Within a short period after the pollution began, county Conservation Officer Hayse McCoy received more than 70 phone calls. County Judge Ray Fields said the complaints to his office were "too numerous to keep track of."

Fish kills, black water and chronic pollution are nothing new to the eastern coal region. In the minds of many sportsmen in other parts of the Commonwealth the eastern section has little or nothing to offer the angler. The image is one of degraded streams and poor fishing. Yet Rockcastle Creek was a high quality fishing stream. Not only was it one of the best in eastern Kentucky, it may have been one of the better streams in the entire state.

When Department of Fish and Wildlife biologists arrived at the scene, the fish kill was already "total." But there were no fish to be seen, only thick black sediment coating the stream banks and vegetation. The high water had washed most of the dead fish downstream or had lodged them in the thick bottom sediment. Many fish had been captured by local residents as the fish began to show signs of distress. Some people tried to salvage the larger and better game fish, such as the bass, by placing them in small clear feeder streams. For a few hours these attempts seemed to work, but the heavy coal coating on the fish's gills proved too much and the fish died. Many simply began collecting as many large valuable food fish as they could.

Determining the exact source of pollution and the number of fish killed are two important tasks in fish kill cases. In the Rockcastle Creek incident the first task was rather easily accomplished. Local officials and countless witnesses described how the black water was first noticed in Honey Branch, on land owned by the Island Creek Coal Company. Further investigation revealed that this discharge, according to McCoy, originated at a holding pond at the Island Creek tipple on the headwaters of Honey Branch.

Assessing the total fish count was more difficult. The biologists could make only an estimate based on previous population studies of the stream. The final total came to more than 82,000 fish killed. Their total weight exceeded 3,300 pounds. As these numbers appear, they are believed to be quite conservative. Chief pollution investigator on the project, fisheries environmental biologist, Lee Evenhuis, notes that the extent of the kill was probably far greater. One reason for this is that early spring is the time of the annual sucker run out of the Big Sandy. Thousands of these fish are normally found in the stream from March through April. After the fish kill it's believed that most of these fish sank to the bottom or were carried away by the current.

Island Creek Coal Company was cited by Hayse McCoy on March 25 for the blackwater release. McCoy had issued a citation less than a week before on March 21 and Island Creek was fined $200 for pollution then. The March 25 case was taken to Martin county court where County Judge Fields charged the coal company with water pollution and imposed the maximum fine under his jurisdiction, $500. County Attorney John Kirk issued an order that the company pay for the fish killed. He further requested an explanation on the nature of the release. As of late May, Island Creek had not responded to this latter request.

The total dollar value placed on the fish kill, including cost of conducting the investigation amounted to $8,570.41.

One of the problems of fish kills is that the total number of fish can never be replaced by stocking alone. Nor can the size of fish stocked equal that of the fish killed. Nor can the exact makeup of a fish population be duplicated with artificial stocking.

The more than $8,500 settlement, one of the larger ones awarded the Department of Fish and Wildlife in recent years, falls far short of replacing the stream fishery as it was, according to Evenhuis. Many species which were killed out, particularly the suckers, are not available from state, federal or commercial fish hatcheries. Hopefully, these species will reappear in the streams through "recruitment" from unpolluted waters.

The Department of Fish and Wildlife began its restocking of Rockcastle Creek, May 25 with 30,000 smallmouth bass fry from a federal hatchery in Arkansas. Larger smallmouths were not stocked because the state does not raise this species in its hatchery, and federal hatcheries, because of great demand for the fish and limited rearing facilities, can offer only fry and fingerling fish. Larger smallmouth bass may become available for Rockcastle Creek, according to Division of Fisheries sources. But these would have to be obtained from commercial hatcheries where the cost per fish could run to more than $3.50 per pound for smallmouth bass. To replace even one of the 18-inch smallmouth killed in the pollution incident would cost as much as $12.00—if a source of supply could be found.

The variation between assigned value of a fish and actual replacement cost is something that disturbs many fishery scientists and sportsmen alike. The dollar values placed on fish were put together by the Southern Division of the American Fisheries Society in 1970. What the scientists sought to do was to establish a list "for a fair and reasonable assessment of a fish's value for collecting compensation for the destruction and (or) loss of fish due to water pollution." Their monetary formula is the one used by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and all other states in the Southeast. But the list is falling behind the pace of inflation in the last four years.

Although the fine against Island Creek was the largest ever imposed for water pollution and a fish kill in Martin county, many residents are not satisfied. Some wonder if $8,500 fines can be effective deterrents to Island Creek or any other coal operation from releasing black water in the future—whether or not the releases are intentional or accidental.

A fish kill is always a complicated problem. Restocking fish offers only a partial solution to the situation. Many people would like to see stronger safeguards against further pollution and stream degradation. County Judge Fields summed up the feelings of many of his constituents regarding coal-related pollution and the legal consequences: "I'm limited to a $500 fine in my court. But it (a pollution charge) could go to circuit court, and the fine could be much greater."

In the meantime, Conservation Officer McCoy continues to write citations for water pollution and continues to answer questions from county residents about the recovery of Rockcastle Creek. Judge Fields and County Attorney Kirk continue to prosecute polluters.

Any number continue to wonder if coal and a relatively clean environment can co-exist in Martin county, especially in these days of energy crises.

Flood Insurance Program Questions and Answers

Q. What is the National Flood Insurance Program?

A. It is a federally-subsidized program authorized by Congress in 1968 to protect property owners who up to that time were unable to get coverage through the private insurance industry. The program, for the first time, made flood insurance available to individuals at affordable rates. In return for the federal subsidy, state and local governments are required to adopt certain minimum land use measures to reduce or avoid future flood damage within their flood-prone areas.

Q. Has the program been changed since then?

A. Yes. In December 1973 Congress passed the Flood Disaster Protection Act, greatly expanding the available limits of flood insurance coverage and imposing two new requirements on property owners and communities.

Q. What are the new requirements?

A. First, after March 2, 1974, property owners in communities where flood insurance is being sold must purchase flood insurance to be eligible for any new or additional federal or federally-related financial assistance for any buildings located in areas identified by HUD as having special flood hazards. Second, all identified flood-prone communities must enter the programs by July 1, 1975.

Q. What happens if a property owner fails to buy the required insurance, or a community fails to meet the deadline?

A. Federal and federally-related financial assistance for buildings in the flood plain will be unavailable to any community or property owner that does not comply with the act.

Q. What is generally meant by federal and federally-related financial assistance?

A. All form of loans and grants, including mortgage loans and disaster assistance loans, from either a federal agency such as FHA, VA, or the Small Business Administration, or banks or savings and loan institutions.

Q. Who is eligible to purchase flood insurance?

A. Any property owner in a community that has had its application approved by HUD.

Q. Where can a property owner obtain a policy?

A. From any licensed property and casualty insurance agent or broker.

Q. How does a community become eligible for the program?

A. By submitting a completed application to the Federal Insurance Administration, HUD Building, Washington, D. C. 20410. As part of the application the community must certify that it is requiring building permits for all construction, and it must also adopt certain minimal measures to regulate building in its flood-prone areas so as to limit damages from future floods.

Q. Must a community adopt zoning ordinances for the entire area within its jurisdiction to initially qualify?

A. No, HUD does not require comprehensive zoning. The minimal land use measures required may be in the form of a resolution adopted by the community as part of its application. At a later date, additional land use measures must be enacted for the flood-prone areas. These could be either made part of existing codes or ordinances or incorporated into new ones.

Q. How can a property owner find out if and when his community qualifies for the program?

A. Once the community's application is accepted, usually within a week of receipt of a complete application, notice of eligibility is announced publicly through the local press media. That information is also available from your insurance agent or broker, the nearest HUD office, local and state authorities, or from the insurance company that services your State.

Q. When can a property owner buy his individual policy?

A. Policies are effective immediately upon purchase for the first 30 days after the community qualifies. After that there is a 15-day waiting period for the policy to be effective.

Q. What recourse does an individual have if his community fails to take steps to qualify, thereby depriving him of coverage?

A. No recourse is specifically available under the Act. But in at least one community residents who suffered uninsured flood losses filed suits against local officials who failed to take action to enter the program.

Q. What type of structures are eligible for coverage?

A. All types of buildings and their contents.

Q. What type of losses are covered?

A. Losses caused by (1) a general and temporary flooding condition of normally dry land areas or (2) erosion resulting from abnormally high water levels in conjunction with a severe storm, or (3) flood-related mudslides involving a mudflow.

Q. How much coverage can I buy, and what will it cost?

A. Under the expanded program the limits of subsidized coverage are doubled, tripled, or more, while rates have been substantially reduced. For example, the homeowner may purchase $20,000 of flood insurance coverage for as little as $50 a year. Property owners already protected under the original program can greatly increase their coverage at a very low cost. If you live in a community where HUD has already completed a rate study, you can further increase your protection by paying the actuarial (non-subsidized) premium rates for the additional amounts of coverage.

Wheelwright Public Library Draws Support of City Board

Wheelwright, Ky., June 7—The City Board of Wheelwright has appointed a Library Committee to assist in the continuing development of the recently opened Wheelwright Area Public Library, a branch of the Floyd County Library system.

The city's action, on the suggestion of Homer L. Hall, regional librarian, will insure quality library service for the Upper Left Beaver area of the county. The library building, donated to the city by Paul Gearheart, president of the Harold Telephone Company, presently houses some 7,500 volumes, (2500 hard-bound books, and 5000 paperback books; complete with reading room and children's room.) The city has agreed to maintain the building and provide for utility services as its share in this cooperative venture.

The many services made available through the Floyd County Library and the Regional Library staff have contributed to the success of the Wheelwright Library. In particular, the inter-library loan which makes virtually any book in the state system available to the library user in the Wheelwright area, not to mention films and recordings, is a much-used and welcome service to the area.

The newly appointed Library Committee includes Richard E. Allen, Mrs. Margie Blair, Mrs. Mae Branham, Mrs. Alta Burga, Mrs. Ruth Daniels, Mrs. Joyce Johnson, Mrs. Treva Newman, Mrs. Doris Osborne and Mrs. Myra Salisbury.

Forestry Contest Begins

The 1974 Tom Wallace Farm Forestry Awards competition, sponsored by The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times, is now under way throughout Kentucky and in 31 Southern Indiana counties. Kentucky and Southern Indiana farmers and woodlands owners nominated by their district or service foresters are eligible to compete for the $1,000 in cash prizes that will be awarded for outstanding management of woodlands.

Three top winners will be named in the competition and awarded cash prizes of $500, $350 and $150. The winners, their families and foresters will each receive an all-expense-paid trip to Louisville for the annual Farm Awards Luncheon in March, 1975 where the prizes will be awarded.

In addition to the top three prizes, special recognition will be accorded each nominee for the awards, and forestry district winners will each receive a handsome, personalized plaque. Nominees within the districts will be judged for district awards, and the district winners will vie for the top awards.

Woodland owners in all Kentucky counties are eligible for nomination, based upon the determination of nominees by Kentucky Division of Forestry district foresters.

The nomination process of entry in the Tom Wallace Farm Forestry Awards was introduced to the competition in 1972. Previously, woodland owners had entered themselves in the contest.

Woodland owners who wish to have themselves considered for nomination for the awards should contact their district or service forester, county agricultural or forestry extension agent, or district soil and water conservationist.

The deadline for nominations in the 1974 Tom Wallace Farm Forestry Awards competition is August 15.

Further information concerning the contest may be obtained by writing to the Public Relations Department, The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times, Louisville, Kentucky 40202.

Med Scholarship Fund Offering Incentive Plan

Dr. G. L. Simpson, chairman of the board of trustees of the Rural Kentucky Medical Scholarship Fund, announced this week an incentive program for young physicians to establish practice in rural areas.

The Fund will loan up to $5,000 to a physician going into practice for the first time in an approved rural area of Kentucky, which includes over 100 counties in the Commonwealth. Forgiveness features apply to 26 counties which are considered most in need of a physician. The counties with these features are: Bath, Breathitt, Bullitt, Butler, Carter, Clinton, Crittenden, Cumberland, Edmonson, Elliott, Estill, Meade, Gallatin, Hancock, Jackson, Lee, Lewis, McCreary, Menifee, Metcalfe, Owen, Pendleton, Powell, Rockcastle, Wolfe and Trimble. Otherwise, the loan bears an interest rate of two percent per annum.

The board of trustees has also announced the approval of 18 renewal loans and nine first loans amounting to $94,500 for the coming year. Of the following new recipients—Chris McCoy, Glasgow; Jeffrey Rice, Tollesboro; Philip Lawrence, Lexington; Grant Stevenson, South Portsmouth; Nancy West, Stearns; Judith Powell, Murray; Sara Bull, Bowling Green; Barrett Bernard, Russell Springs; and Janice Bright, Cunningham—five will be attending the University of Louisville School of Medicine and four will be attending the University of Kentucky College of Medicine.

Noting the success of the program over the past 28 years, Dr. Simpson said there are now 190 recipients practicing in 87 counties, with 22 practicing in critical counties and two in the Public Health Service. He also expressed particular appreciation for the assistance of Governor Wendell H. Ford and to the members of the Kentucky General Assembly.

Times Want Ads Pay!

Are you a buyer who needs a family-sized American car?

(In other words, your family's too big for anything smaller. You want comfort, quiet, and luxury. Then, step up from a small car.)

THE DODGE BOYS HAVE THE ANSWER:

DODGE MONACO.

- Q: Do I have to get your biggest V8 just because I'm buying a full-sized Dodge?
A: Certainly not. Dodge Monaco comes in a range of modern, efficient V8 engines. And they all run on regular gasoline. Come in and see for yourself.
- Q: What about fuel economy in a big car?
A: Many buyers, seriously considering smaller cars, have discovered they're not ready to give up room, comfort, and luxury. They're willing to plan more efficient use of driving errands and lower driving speeds.
- Q: What's so "money-saving" about Monaco's ignition system?
A: All 1974 Dodge Monacos have an advanced Electronic Ignition System. There are no points or condenser to wear out (or get wet). It can also mean fewer tune-ups along with continuing engine efficiency.
- Q: What kind of a deal can I get on a Dodge Monaco?
A: One brief visit to our showroom will prove that we Dodge Boys have the answer that's right for today's economy! We think you'll find there's never been a better time to get a Monaco deal!

The Bonds are issued pursuant to KRS Chapter 58. The maturity and redemption provisions, places of payment, and other details are set forth in the Official Notice of Bond Sale.
 Bids may be submitted at not less than par value for the entire issue of Bonds. Bidders shall stipulate the interest rates for said Bonds, in multiples of 1/8 of 1 percent or 1-10 of 1 percent, none to exceed 5 percent, only one coupon rate per maturity, no proposal that interest becoming due on any Bond at any interest payment date be represented by more than one coupon; and the difference between the highest and lowest interest rates in any bid not to exceed two percentage points. For the purpose of determining the lowest bidder, calculations of net interest cost will exclude the bid of the United States Department of Agriculture, Farmers Home Administration ("FHA"). These Bonds will be secured, in common and on a basis of parity as to security and source of payment with the outstanding bonds of the City's "Water, Sewer and Natural Gas System Revenue Bonds, Series of 1969"; but subject, however, to the acknowledged pledges of the City (a) as to water revenues and sewer revenues, for the security and source of payment of certain bonds issued under date of November 1, 1962; and (b) as to combined water, sewer and natural gas system revenues, for the security and source of payment of certain bonds issued by the City dated November 1, 1963. Details are set forth in the "Official Notice of Bond Sale," to which reference is herein made. The Bonds offered for sale are being issued to provide funds for the construction and installation of additions, improvements and extensions to the City's combined and consolidated Water, Sewer and Natural Gas System. FHA will submit a bid at par at a single interest rate of 5 percent for all Bonds, providing bids are not received from other purchasers for the Bond issue, on the terms hereinabove indicated. Good faith deposit by cashier's or certified check payable to the City of $3,150, except in the case of a bid submitted by FHA. The successful bidder or bidders will be furnished, without cost, the approving legal opinion of Grafton, Ferguson, Fleisher & Harper, of Louisville, Kentucky, and customary closing documents including No-Litigation Certificate. Right to reject bids and to waive minor informalities and irregularities in the bidding is expressly reserved.

"HIDDEN DIABETICS" NUMEROUS IN FLOYD COUNTY

Diabetes Mellitus, the sixth leading cause of death in Kentucky and the ninth leading cause of death in Floyd County, is a disease that results when the body can't transform food, chiefly, sugar and starch, into energy, tissues and bones. This disease is more likely to occur in people who have diabetic relatives.

There are approximately 293 people in Floyd County who have diabetes without knowing it. These people are known as "hidden diabetics". You could be one of them. Find out for sure by having a simple blood test free of charge at the Floyd County Health Department.

THREAT OF TETANUS GREATEST IN SUMMER HEALTH DEPARTMENT WARNS

Public Health workers spend a lot of time telling people how to protect themselves and their families against diseases preventable by immunizations. They find themselves saying the same things over and over, but as long as some people think, "It can't happen to me," they'll keep on warning them of the risks involved in ignoring disease protection.

Summer is a time to be especially careful to avoid Tetanus. Increased outdoor sports raise the odds for suffering cuts, abrasions, or burns that may be infected with Tetanus germs. Tetanus is a severe, often fatal disease caused by certain soil bacteria which usually enter the body through a skin wound. The fatality rate ranges from 35 to 70 percent and all persons not immunized with tetanus vaccine are subject to infection.

The Floyd County Health Department offers the Tetanus vaccine, free of charge. This vaccine is highly protective and is generally considered our best vaccine because of its safety and long duration of protection. People who are not actively immunized and who have been injured should have a preventive injection of anti-tetanus serum. The need for protection against Tetanus is something that you never outgrow!

ORDINANCE HOUSING CODE

WHEREAS, there exist in the City of Wheelwright numerous structures which are unfit or may in the future become unfit for human habitation, occupancy or use; and

WHEREAS, such conditions adversely affect the public health, safety and morals; and

WHEREAS, protection of the public welfare demands immediate corrective legislation;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WHEELWRIGHT, KENTUCKY:

Section 1. The Chief Building Inspector may determine that a structure is unfit for human habitation, occupancy or use if he finds that conditions exist in such a structure which are dangerous or injurious to the health, safety or morals of the occupants of such structure, the occupants of neighboring structures or other residents of the City or County. Such conditions may include the following (without limiting the generality of the foregoing): Defects increasing the hazards of fire, accident, or other calamities; lack of adequate ventilation, light, heat, or sanitary facilities; dilapidation; disrepair; structural defects, uncleanness.

Section 2. The Chief Building Inspector is hereby further authorized to exercise such powers as may be necessary or convenient to carry out and effectuate the purposes and provisions of this code, including the following powers in addition to other herein granted:

a) To investigate the structural conditions in the City in order to determine which structures therein are unfit for human habitation, occupancy or use;

b) To administer oaths, affirmations, examine witnesses and receive evidence;

c) To enter upon premises for the purpose of making examinations; provided, that such entries shall be made at reasonable times, and in such a manner as to cause the least possible inconvenience to the persons in possession;

d) To fix the duties of such officers, agents and employees as he deems necessary to carry out the purposes of this code, subject to the authority of the mayor and the city council; and

e) To delegate any of his functions and powers under this code to such officers and agents as he may designate under his jurisdiction.

Section 3. Whenever a petition is filed with the Chief Building Inspector by a public authority, or by at least five residents of the City charging that any structure is unfit for human habitation, occupancy or use, or whenever it appears to the Chief Building Inspector (on his own initiative) that any structure is unfit for human habitation, occupancy or use, the Chief Building Inspector shall, if his preliminary investigation discloses a basis for such charges, issue notice to the owner that if the enumerated repairs are not made within the specified time, such time not to exceed thirty days, the owner will be called to appear at a scheduled meeting before the Chief Building Inspector; except where the health, safety or morals of the community are in immediate jeopardy no such prior notice need be given.

Where the health, safety or morals of the community are in immediate jeopardy, or where a reinspection of the premises discloses that the enumerated repairs have not been made within the specified time, the Chief Building Inspector shall issue and cause to be served upon the owner and parties in interest in such structure, including any person residing therein, a complaint stating the charges in that respect and containing a notice that a hearing will be held before the Chief Building Inspector (or his designated agent) at a place within the City of Wheelwright at a time fixed not less than ten days nor more than thirty days after the serving of said complaint. The owner and parties in interest shall have the right to file an answer to the complaint and to appear in person and give testimony at the place and time fixed in the complaint. The rules of evidence prevailing in courts of law or equity shall not be controlling in hearings before the Chief Building Inspector.

Section 4. If, after such notice and hearing, the Chief Building Inspector determines that the structure under consideration is unfit for human habitation, occupancy or use, he shall state in writing his findings of fact in support of such determination and shall issue and cause to be served upon the owner thereof an order. In such an order, the Chief Building Inspector shall enumerate the violations and the repairs or improvements necessary to bring the building into compliance with this code.

If the owner of such a structure does not make the necessary repairs or improvements enumerated in the Chief Building Inspector's order within thirty days from the date of the issuance of the order, the Chief Building Inspector shall subsequently issue an order for the removal and/or demolition of said structure. In the event of such removal or demolition order by the Chief Building Inspector, all material removed or demolished shall become the property of the City of Wheelwright to serve as partial payment for the costs incurred by the City. The City shall also have the power to obtain a lien against the real property on which such costs were incurred.

Section 5. The Chief Building Inspector may cause to be posted on the main entrance of any structure, which he deems necessary, a placard with the following words: "This building is unfit for human habitation, occupancy or use; the use of occupation of this building for human habitation, occupancy or use is prohibited and unlawful."

Complaints or orders issued by the Chief Building Inspector of the City of Wheelwright pursuant to this code shall be served upon person either personally or by certified mail, but if the whereabouts of such person is unknown and the same cannot be ascertained by the Chief Building Inspector in the exercise of reasonable diligence, the Chief Building Inspector shall then have the power to make out an affidavit to that effect, then the serving of such complaint or order upon such person may be made by publishing the same one each week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper which serves the City and surrounding area. A copy of such complaint or order shall be posted in a conspicuous place on premises affected by the complaint or order and shall also be filed with the city clerk's office.

Section 7. No tenant shall be evicted for electing to seek the benefits of this code, and it shall be rebuttably presumed that any attempt to evict such tenant or raise such tenant's rental payments for any reason other than non-payment of rent, within six months after determination by the Chief Building Inspector that all violations have been corrected, is an eviction or raise in rental payment done in retaliation for the tenant's election to seek the benefits of this code, and shall be void.

Section 8. Where it is determined at a scheduled hearing before the Chief Building Inspector that a structure or any individual dwelling unit therein is unfit for human habitation, occupancy or use and where the owner has failed to comply with the lawful order of the Chief Building Inspector to vacate, repair or demolish said structure or any dwelling unit therein, the owner shall for every offense be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars and each day's continuance of such violation shall be considered a separate offense.

Section 9. It shall be a misdemeanor for the owner of any structure to lease such structure or dwelling unit therein for human habitation, occupancy or use, when such structure is (a) unfit for human habitation, occupancy or use in violation of this code at the time the structure is leased or rented, or (b) through the fault or neglect of the owner said structure or dwelling unit therein subsequently becomes unfit for human habitation, occupancy or use in violation of this code. Any owner found guilty of such an offense shall be subject to imprisonment not to exceed thirty days and/or a fine not to exceed one hundred dollars.

Any provision of a lease or other agreement whereby and provision of this code for the benefit of a tenant, resident or occupant of a dwelling is waived, shall be deemed against public policy and shall be void. No remedy provided by this code shall be excessive of any other remedy provided by law.

Section 3. Plans.) Section 13. Previously operating pools.) Any swimming pool open for public use in the City of Wheelwright at the time of the adoption of this ordinance shall have a grace period of ten days before the first inspection by the Chief Building Inspector.

Island Creek Coal
Makes Contribution
Pledge of $50,000

The Island Creek Coal Company and its parent firm, Occidental Petroleum Corp., have pledged a $50,000 contribution to Appalachian Regional Hospitals, Inc., it was announced last Thursday.

An initial check for $25,000 was presented in Lexington Thursday to Jay Coberly, ARH executive vice-president, by James Rouse, Island Creek's manager of personnel services. An additional $25,000 will be contributed in 1975.

Rouse noted that the gift was a joint effort of both firms and represented their desire "to further the work of Appalachian Regional Hospitals." ARH maintains a network of community hospitals in Island Creek's area of operations.

Coberly said the gift was a result of efforts begun earlier this year to secure a total of $3.5 million from various sources to strengthen the financial condition of the ARH system.

ARH, managed from central offices in Lexington, owns and operates 10 community hospitals in Eastern Kentucky, Southern West Virginia and Virginia.

Island Creek recently moved its corporate headquarters to Lexington from Cleveland, Ohio.

PIKE CO. BOARD OF EDUCATION

Employment Prospects Improved

By PAULA ALEXANDER
Frankfort, Ky.—Despite the energy crisis and the annual spring flow of graduates seeking jobs, the employment picture in Kentucky appears bright, according to Norman Willard Jr., commissioner of the Bureau for Manpower Services for the state Department for Human Resources.

He cited March figures showing the state's unemployment rate at 4.6 per cent, compared to a national average of 5.3 per cent. A 6.5 percentage is considered a depression warning sign, while three per cent illustrates a labor shortage, Willard explained.

The commissioner said his office is hopeful that the rate will gradually decline to a healthy four per cent, adding that some unemployment is normal due to relocations or workers between jobs.

The energy crisis not only has left little impact on the state, but in Kentucky has reversed the initial nationwide trend of layoffs with a renewed emphasis on coal production, Willard said. The industry now employs more workers and had a need for additional people with some knowledge of equipment maintenance.

Willard said college graduates will face better job prospects this year than before since 32,000 new positions are expected to open during 1974. However, he cautioned that many "will have to adjust if they are to obtain employment since there is a trend toward specialization in the labor market."

He explained that many graduates enter the market with a general degree and no specific skill, while there is a demand for technicians. So, some soon enroll in special courses to make their resume more enticing.

The commissioner added that those who major in the fine arts or hope to teach will be harder to place. He said that the health services and data processing fields are "wide open" for prospective technicians.

"The labor market is also more competitive due to the great influx of married women during the 1960's and 70's," Willard said.

He explained that the trend really began during World War II when women were encouraged to fill industrial jobs vacated by men entering combat.

"Inflation has also forced many women to work outside the home," he said, adding that the labor market once contained only 20 per cent women. The figure has now risen to about 40 per cent.

Willard noted that women majoring in business education now are actively recruited by companies seeking to come under federal guidelines since "women just don't exist in any numbers in business schools."

He said that field was slower to open to women than law or medicine.

"Although there is a shortage of college-trained blacks, the pressure on hiring them is not as great as a few years ago, while veterans and handicapped persons continue to receive priority. Veterans deserve some special consideration since, as a result of their service to their country, they have missed opportunities which many citizens take for granted."

Willard said that Kentucky once was losing about 400,000 people every 10 years, but now is actually receiving residents from neighboring states.

"Our bureau, in cooperation with the Department of Commerce, is constantly searching for areas of the state from which people are reluctant to move or to which former residents readily return. Such areas contain a labor pool, which is the first thing potential industries verify before deciding to locate in a region," he concluded.

ENERGY CONSERVATION TIP

Enjoy electricity throughout your house, but use it sensibly—you'll get the best results and save yourself money too.

Flourescent lighting costs considerably less than incandescent bulb lighting for the same amount of light. This might make it worth consideration where lights are on for long periods of time, such as the kitchen.

Turning lights off in unused rooms can result in savings. Contrary to some popular beliefs, turning a light on and off does not use more electricity than leaving it on. But in the case of flourescent lighting, the life of the flourescent tube is shortened about two hours each time it is turned off and restarted. With an incandescent bulb there is little effect on the life of the bulb.

Let's unmask the old bugaboo.

The fact is: coal-burning power plants are not hopeless polluters.

The damaging misconception that a coal-burning power plant can't be a good neighbor — can't be compatible with the environment — has caused many to write off coal, our most abundant most available fuel.

The fact is that only two things are necessary. First, a willingness to invest millions of dollars in pollution controls. Such as high efficiency electrostatic precipitators to eliminate fly ash emissions.

And cooling towers where needed to safeguard water quality. To eliminate the discharge of heat into adjacent waterways.

The second is the availability of low-sulfur coal. Like the gigantic reserves the U.S. Government owns in the West.

Release this clean low-sulfur coal — the people's coal — and power plants equipped with available controls can meet today's stringent environmental standards.

More electricity can then be generated by coal instead of precious oil and gas.

And electricity can be used to perform many tasks currently the unnecessary burden of short supply oil and gas.

Coal is an important key to the solution of our energy problems. The low-sulfur coal in the West is an important key to scotching the mind-closing misconception that coal-burning power plants always pollute.

Because they don't!

America has more coal than the Middle East has oil. Let's dig it!

Computer Fails Floyd Drivers, Clerk Reports

Kentucky's new, computerized motor vehicle licensing system will work, eventually, but it isn't doing the job now, and Floyd Circuit Clerk Frank DeRossett is returning, in part, to his own methods.

The trouble lies, mainly, in notification from Frankfort to drivers that their licenses are due to expire. Drivers simply aren't getting their notices.

"We have had cases of these notices to Floyd county drivers winding up at Warsaw, Ky. Others go to neighboring counties," Mr. DeRossett said. "Drivers fail to check for themselves the expiration date of their licenses, and as a result many operate on expired licenses."

So DeRossett is returning to the system which he introduced. "I'm going to send out notices to drivers, just as I did before the state took over," he said this week.

The new licensing system became effective April 1. It provided that Frankfort would notify drivers that their licenses would expire at a certain date and that their pre-printed licenses could be picked up at the circuit clerk's office.

The licenses arrived at the clerk's office, all right, but too many vehicle operators didn't get the message that they were there awaiting them, the circuit clerk says.

Kentucky Afield

Without a doubt, spring and fall are two of the most productive fishing seasons in Kentucky. However summer, too, may be a very exciting time especially for those who are aware of some of the techniques that will almost always put fish on the stringer or in the portable ice box.

Some of the best black bass fishing of the year occurs during this time, especially for those anglers who ply their skills of casting the banks and dropoffs at night.

Night bass casters usually rest during the day then head to the lake near dark, as the waters calm down from the boating activities of the day.

Spinner baits and the artificial nightcrawlers are two of the top producers during this period.

Many of the night anglers will locate a school of feeding bass off the deep dropoffs or rocky points, and as a result of their fish-finding efforts, they may even harvest a limit of fine bass.

Night casting is fine for some but there are many who choose fishing action during the daylight hours. Then a good choice is either casting the shoreline in early morning or late evening for black bass with surface lures, or head to the open water and await the jumps.

Jump fishing, when it's right, is about the most exciting type of sport fishing that one may ever get into. Both white bass and black bass are taken from the jumps, as schools of these fish feed on surfacing of shad.

Jump fishing most often occurs in calm water, especially in early morning and late evenings. Anglers must be accurate in their casts to the target areas where the schooling fish are feeding. At peak periods this type of angling will produce a fish or a strike with every cast.

Still fishing also has its place during the summer, especially for the bluegill. Many of the best strings or coolers of bluegill are to be taken during the hot summer.

Many of the pro bluegill fishermen drift the deeper banks or steep walls with worms or crickets and pick up endless numbers of these fine sunfish during the entire day.

Some anglers are missing a good bet during the summer by not trying for rainbow trout that the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources has stocked in 27 streams, seven tailwaters below the major lakes and in four state-owned lakes and two major lakes.

Trout are stocked in the streams four to eight months a year, whereas the tailwaters are stocked seven times annually, state-owned lakes are stocked three times, and the two major lakes receive their fish all at one time. (Trout fishermen need a trout stamp in addition to a valid fishing license.)

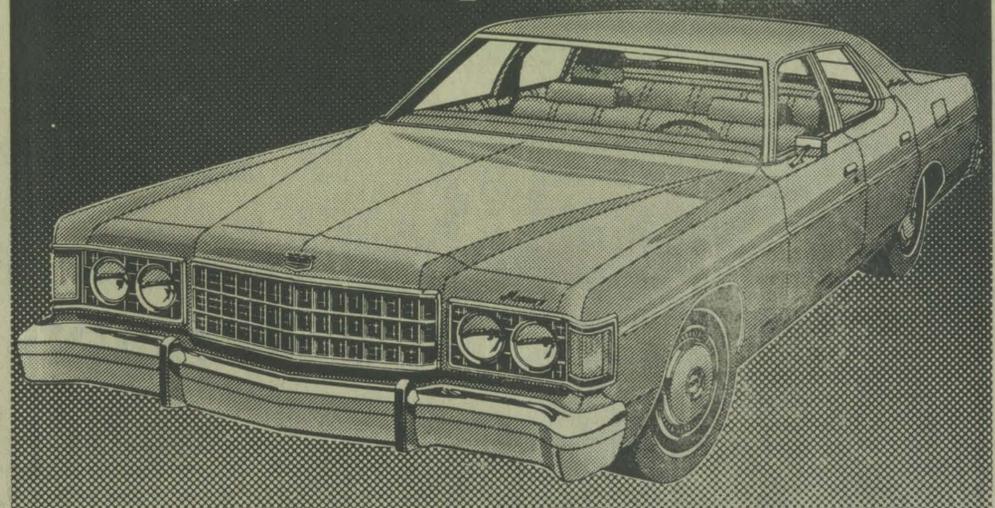

For further information write to the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Capital Plaza, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 and ask for the trout stocking pamphlet.
