Guilty Plea By Gibsons Ends Trial

Slayers of Conley Get 22-Year Terms; Sykes Case Delayed

James and Otis Gibson, Floyd county brothers, last Thursday entered pleas of guilty to the murder charge lodged against each for the shotgun slaying earlier this year of Ollie James Conley, and each was sentenced by Magoffin Circuit Judge Mann to a 22-year pen

The case was drawing toward trial in Magoffin circuit court to which it had been transferred on change of venue when Commonwealth and defense agreed on the sentences for the two in return for their pleas of guilty.

Court attaches said the 22 years given each man is the equivalent of life terms to the extent that eligibility for parole for any term above 21 years does not come until six years of the sentence has been served. (Parole eligibility on a 21-year term comes after four years.)

The trial scheduled here Monday on change of venue from Pike county of Robert Sykes, who is charged with the murder of Mrs. Boone Deskins, was continued last week when the defendant's counsel submitted a list of witnesses for the trial. These witnesses are in widely scattered federal prisons, and it became obvious that they could not be brought here in time for trial this week. The case was continued till the January court

In the shuffle of murder trials between Floyd, Pike and Magoffin counties the original cases of Eddie Jones and John Martin, charged with the murders of Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Conley and James Clayton Conley are in the Pike circut court. But new indictments naming the two men and Jones' father, Agnel Jones, as an accomplice remain in circuit court here.

Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J Stumbo indicated he would not oppose a shift of these cases to Pike county-since, he said, "if Eddie Jones couldn't get a fair trial in this county, as the defense maintained, there's no reason to believe his father could get one."

It is not known, however, if the defense will seek a change of venue on the new indictments.

Illegibility of a jail record caused The Times last week to list Bennie Branham as having been booked for drunk driving. This was incorrect. The charge was drunkenness. We apologize for the error.

Butler Slaying Inquiry Slated Here, Nov. 19th

County Judge Stumbo entered an order Tuesday quashing the subpoena served on Herbert Gene Salisbury, Jr. to appear at the court of inquiry here at 10 a.m., Nov. 19. Salisbury invoked the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination, and the judge held that he would not be required to attend the inquiry session, at the same time noting that "the court would recommend that he be present to protect his interests," Salisbury's $15,000 bond executed after he had waived the case to the grand jury remains in effect.

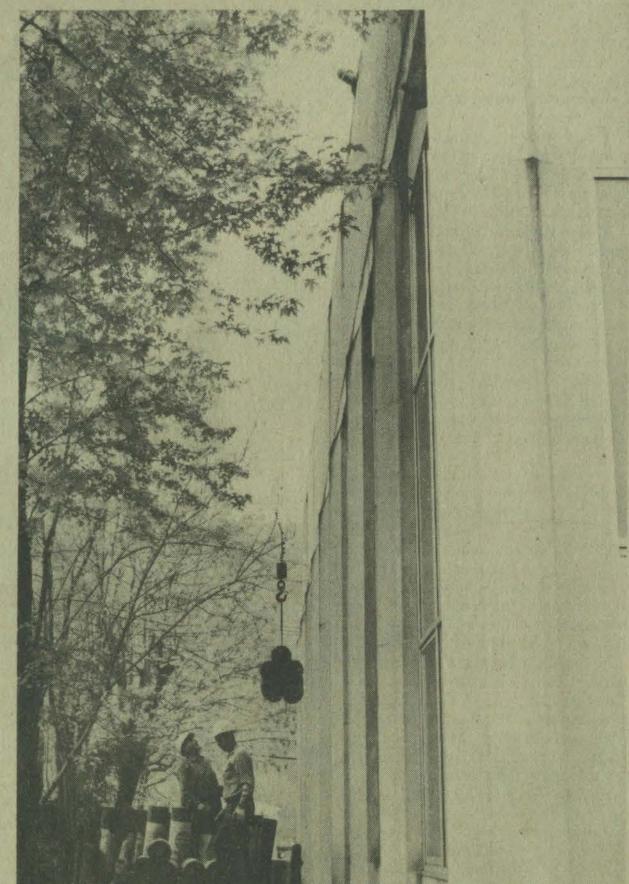

Because Edward Wright, the state's No. 1 witness, was in U. S. district court Tuesday as a defendant, the examining trial or court of inquiry set for that day by County Judge Henry Stumbo for Herbert Gene Salisbury, Jr. was again continued-this time, till next Tuesday, Nov. 19.

Salisbury was jailed here in the shooting death at his home of Crit Butler on Oct. 22. The first examining trial was postponed from Oct. 29 till the following day, then continued till the next day. Salisbury waived examining trial Oct. 31 and was freed on $15,000 bond.

It's less than 60 days till the Christmas bills are due.

It's just possible that another fishing season has done a fade-out on us . . . unless fishermen become as hardy as these golfers who think no more of wintry blasts than of summer heat. Of course, the golfer has some protection from the weather that the angler doesn't getfriendly copses of trees into which his ball slices, or deep ravines into which the pill was topped, for instance.

REGRETFULLY YOURS . . .

Thinking on my heavy portion of regret at seeing the leaves depart and become fit only for raking and sacking, etcetera, I'm reminded that the end of every season is no time for huzzas. There's spring and how sadly we exchange it for summer; and the long, growing summer days, golfing, fishing, loafing in the shade; then autumn and the beauty of wooded hillsides and the last flowers of the year to be lost. Then winter, and Christmas, the Tree finally to be carted out, another season such as never may be again, now gone.

So why mourn the passing of any season?-they're all great, as long as they last.

The most sickening spectacle television has brought my way was the scene, a few evenings back, when western farmers were killing their cattle and dumping them into a pit-and immediately after that, another scene: a child dving of starvation.

Justice Department Denies Three Bids For Project Funds

County Judge Henry Stumbo announced last week that this county's application for $9,563 assistance in Crime Council funds toward construction of a juvenile detention home in the proposed courthouse annex here has been denied by the state Department of Justice.

In a letter rejecting the application the department wrote on Oct. 18 that it has insufficient funds and that the application is not acceptable because it was submitted as a combination grant.

On the same date the department rejected two other Floyd county ap-County Attorney James R. Allen said plications. One was for $39,699 to finance a mobile crime laboratory. honored in Halls of Fame. Now, plans are afoot to found a Christian Hall of Faith to honor those who have lived and served greatly in the cause of Christianity.

Dr. W. E. Davis, of Paintsville, has set in motion work which is intended eventually to result in the construction of a permanent structure-hopefully, somewhere in Eastern Kentucky-which will mean as much to those of the Christian faith as Cooperstown and its Baseball Hall of Fame mean to followers of baseball.

The Christian Hall of Faith is planned to serve as a museum where the accomplishments of individuals or leaders. their portraits and religious mementoes will be enshrined.

And those who find their way into the Hall of Faith, says Dr. Davis, will not necessarily be a Billy Graham or an Oral Roberts. "The man or woman on the head of a little creek can in his or her small, humble way be as great in the faith," he commented.

"The reason we are designating it as the Hall of Faith, rather than a Hall of Fame, is because we feel there is no such thing as a famous or an infamous Christian," Davis added.

He added that the "whole purpose of the Hall of Faith is to recognize the Christian principles on which this country was built and the men and women who have been faithful to the

The construction will be financed through public contributions and, hopefully from foundation gifts. An advisory board composed of leaders or various denominations will be sought, and this board would determine who should be inducted to the Hall of Christian Faith.

Dr. Davis said the reaction of all who have learned of the plan has been favorable, even enthusiastic. Although the advisory board is by no means complete, he said three area leaders have already accepted places of service on the body. These are W. B. Hazelrigg, Paintsville attorney; O. T. Dorton, Paintsville banker and president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. L. James Black, of Pikeville.

Fiscal Court Denies Plea for Bond Issue

declined to vote the industrial bond issue of $1 million requested by the Brandeis Machine Corp., Louisville, to finance a repair shop and maintenance building in the vicinity of Banner.

The company, which had planned the installation to service its equipment in Eastern Kentucky, indicated the court's failure to act could spell the end of the project. A company representative said the shop would employ up to 90 on a permanent basis, "with as many as 80 coming from this county."

But County Judge Henry Stumbo held to the belief that if Brandeis should

The Floyd fiscal court last week default on the bonds, the county would have an obligation.

The magistrates present at the meeting agreed with him.

"I don't want to leave office," Judge Stumbo later commented, "and have the county with a bonded indebtedness except for such improvements as belong to all the people. Besides, I doubt if it is fair for the county to issue these bonds after private individuals have made huge investments of their own in establishing businesses without county help."

Thomas P. Dupree, president of Dupreee & Co., Lexington investment bankers, argued, "There is no way county funds could ever be obligated for this bond issue, no matter what happens."

He said that if Brandels defaulted on its rent of the property, the only obligation of the county would be to make "reasonable efforts" to lease it to another firm, and, failing in that effort, to ask that receivers be appointed.

Franklin P. Hays, of a Louisville bond firm, said about 500 bond issues of the kind sought here have been issued by Kentucky cities or other governmental units.

Floyd Gains Population In 3 Years

'Outmigration' Trend No Longer Affecting State Coal Counties

Floyd county is no longer beset by "outmigration." Instead, according to figures released by the U.S. Department of Commerce, the migration now is into the county, which as of last year had gained since the 1970 census 3,611 in population.

That report was made 16 months ago, and coal field counties such as Floyd have had a more dramatic growth since then, perhaps, than during the three years covered by the estimate.

Although the current population figures are not aavailable, it is believed by officials that Floyd is now past the 40,000 mark.

And they're still coming—some coming back home from farms and factories in other states for mining jobs, others migrating here for the first time, lured by the booming coal industry. In Prestonsburg for months now, there has been a housing shortage.

The state as a whole has in the threeyear period covered by the Department of Commerce estimate had a population increase of 3.8 per cent with a population of 3,342,000. Floyd county's population as of July 1, last year was placed at 39,500, as compared to 35,889 in 1970.

"The figures are significant for the state because they now show growth, and it's expected to be continued, solid growth," according to University of Kentucky Sociologist Paul D. Warner.

"Without a doubt, the coalfields, both in eastern and western parts of the state, are rapidly growing areas. But Eastern Kentucky is very definitely showing growth. Only Greenup, Elliott and Morgan counties showed population decline and that was very small.

"The other eastern counties show a large magnitude of increase, from five to 12 per cent."

He cited coal's revitalization, but also noted tourism, agriculture, and spread of industry into smaller communities helps

Order Thwarts Sale of Truck In Liquor Case

An attempt on the part of Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. The driver of the truck, Richard Alan Hicks, was arrested last July 13 by Floyd deputy sheriffs who confiscated 126 cases of beer and 13 cases of whiskey. The truck, said to have been the property of George Hicks, of Lexington, was im-

Richard Alan Hicks entered a plea of guilty, and County Judge Henry Stumbo, told that the defendant was a first-time offender, fined him $20 and costs. County Attorney James R. Allen said that at that time neither he nor Judge Stumbo knew of the size of the liquor haul or that the truck had been impounded.

Later, Commonwealth's Attorney Stumbo filed suit in circuit court to sell the impounded truck. Circuit Judge Hollie Conley last week dismissed the suit on the grounds that his court did not have jurisdiction

Meanwhile, George Hicks has been charged on "an information" supplied by the Commonwealth's attorney.

County Attorney Allen said that if the sheriff had asked a court order to sell the vehicle, to start with, the case would have automatically passed to circuit court jurisdiction.

Two sections of Kentucky Revised Statutes are cited by the Commonwealth's Attorney as governing, however. They read:

"When a peace officer discovers any person in dry territory in the act of illegally possessing or transporting alcoholic beverages in any vehicle, he shall at once seize the vehicle and all alcoholic beverages found in it and arrest any person or persons in charge thereof.

"Upon conviction of a person arrested under subsection 1 (the preceding paragraph), the court shall order the vehicle seized (to be) sold at public auction unless the owner of the vehicle proves that it is being used without his knowledge, consent or approval."

"If the courts will not let us sell this truck, I do not expect to try to sell any other vehicle found transporting liquor,' Sheriff Lewis commented.

Line Blast Cuts Off Gas Supply In Garrett Area

Approximately 300 homes in Garrett and surrounding area were without heat last Thursday night when the gas supply was cut off by explosions which destroyed portions of two Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company pipelines.

According to John Allen, of the Ohio-Kentucky Utilities Gas Company, which buys gas from Kentucky West Virginia to supply that section of the county, 250 families wers still without service Friday morning, and the 380-student Garrett Elementary School closed until service was restored.

The explosion, presumably caused by dymanite, damaged a 14-inch pipeline in the Steele's Creek section and ripped out a portion of a 10-inch line in Stephens

Begins Monday; Plan Dock Work

The Corps of Engineers' annual drawdown of Dewey reservoir, which began Monday, will result in a five-foot reduction from summer pool. A more drastic drop in the water level to facilitate proposed renovation work on the Jenny Wiley State Park boat dock will not be necessary, it was said.

Corpsman Wade Diddle, chief of maintenance at Dewey dam, said approximately one-and-a-half feet of water per week will be released through the spillway until around November 30 when the lake level will have dropped to an elevation of 640 feet, five feet below summer pool.

Jenny Wiley Park Manager George Barker said new plans which have been approved for dock construction will not necessitate any further lowering of the lake level as was expected.

The "new" plans referred to by Barker, which, he explained, are now being arranged into a final and complete blueprint by the architect, will provide for docks and boat slips to built along each side of Brandy Keg hollow, extending to the mouth of the hollow. Water and lights will be provided to all houseboat spaces. Additional parking along each side of the hollow which will result from large-scale landscaping work, will provide easy access to houseboats and ther craft. The renovation work, according to Barker and Dock Manager Henry O'Brian, will accomodate a much larger number of boats with special areas for state rental boats. Gas pumps will be located at the end of the dock, and Barker said it was hoped a repair station for boats and motors could be provided with the new

Referring to the proposed repair station, Barker said, "The way it is now, you just about have to know someone in order to have your motor or boat repaired. With the repair facility, mechanical problems could be resolved in a reasonable amount of time with no unnecessary complications."

Mr. Barker also said that the present launching ramp will be extended to facilitate launching boats even in periods of low water. The plans also call for construction of a building adjoining the "boat house" which would house a grill and sell supplies.

"We're waiting for finalized plans from the architect," Barker commented, "and work may begin sometime in February, although that's tentative." He said after work is completed that Jenny Wiley would have "as modern and serviceable a dock as exists in the park system."

Funds totalling $750,000 have been allotted for work.

Coordinator Lists Members of Group To Plan 2-Day Meet

Members of the Arrangements committee for the Dec. 5-6 conference on mental health problems of miners and mining families co-sponsored by UMWA Welfare and Retirement Fund and Mountain Comprehensive Care Center were announced this week by conference coordinator Robert L. Marsh in Prestonsburg. The meeting will be held at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Arrangements committees are Dr. John Painter, regional medical director, UMWA Welfare and Retirement Fund, Knoxville, Tennessee; Richard T. Stai, executive director, Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, Prestonsburg; Squire Feltner, district 30 president, UMWA, Pikeville; Dr. John Corcella, district medical director, Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, Prestonsburg; Ralph McCoigh, administrator, Peninsula Center, Knoxville, Tenn.; Thurston Taylor, program director, Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, Prestonsburg; George White, administrator, Saint Albans Psychiatric Hospital, Radford, Virginia; Patsy Johnson, district health planner, Comprehensive Health Planning Council, Prestonsburg; Dr. Henry Campbell, chairman, District Health Planning Council and director, Prestonsburg Community College; Dr. Mary A. Hall, family physician, Regional Medical Clinic, McDowell; Dr. Faye Allen, staff psychiatrist, Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, Paintsville, and Dr. Mary Fox, director, Pike County Health Department, Pikeville.

The arrangements committee will assist in the determination of objectives for the conference and in the initial identification of problem areas which conference participants may wish to discuss. Following the conference, the committee will assist in the determination of conclusions and recommendations of the conference and their publication.

Lake Drawdown Veterans of 56 Years Ago Recall First Armistice Day

On November 11, 1918, exactly 56 years ago Monday, Armistice became effective, ending the First World War. And no matter whether it's called Armistice or Veteran's Day, it was a wonderful day to a lot of people. It was, most obviously, a happy time for the countless thousands of men engaged in the brutal combat characteristic of the "Great War" including a number of then-youthful Floyd countians. Three veterans recalled Monday their situations and reactions at the moment they learned the war was

"I was under a haystack in Belgium sharpening my bayonet," said "Smoky" Joe Meadows, of Water Gap, who spent eight hard months in Europe with the army's 91st Division WW (Wild West). "We had withdrawn from the Argonne forest, Hill 255, to the Flanders front and that's where I was when we heard about Armistice." Meadows was one of 18 men out of an outfit of 250 to return to duty after fighting in the Argonne forest. "I was a machine gunner but so much of the fighting we did was hand to hand-with bayonets." Meadows said a great celebration followed the acknowledgement of Armistice. "We were all happy," Meadows recalled, "Germans, too."

W. B. Boyd, of Prestonsburg, was in Germany's Argonne forest with the 5th U. S. Marines when he heard the news of Armistice. "We were taking a hill. There were Germans and artillery all over that hill . . . it was a rough time," Boyd recalled. "No one would believe it after we heard about the Armistice," he said, "but after a while everybody just quit fighting." A celebration followed. "We went down to a farm and gathered eggs and cooked up a big stew," Boyd said, "and that night we all slept in some hay in a big barn." The German troops also celebrated and, Boyd said, "they were tickled to death, and everybody was having a good time together.'

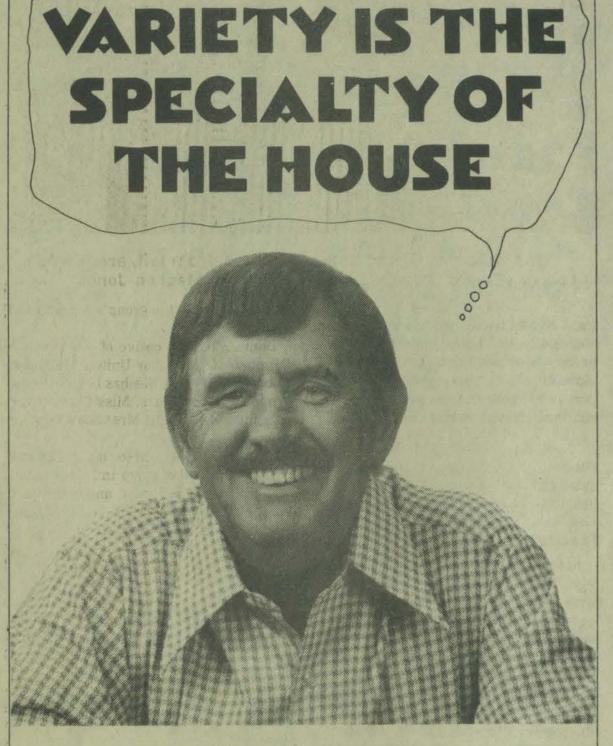

Another Prestonsburg man, Dick Roberts, with the 314th Field Artillery, was also on the "front" when the good news came. "We were in Stena, France on the front lines when the word came down," Roberts said. "We put a big blue ribbon on the old corned beef and celebrated." Of the Germans Roberts said, "They were happy boys too."

A tragic side of Armistice, according to the three veterans, developed because of

"God's Looking Glass," a gospel quartet originating at Morehead State University, will hold a week-end revival at the Allen United Methodist Church, November 15-17. Services begin daily at 7 p.m., on Sunday morning at 11 and will continue through Sunday evening.

"Looking Glass" member Chuck Cooper, of Cynthiana, will be the evangelist for the three-day meeting. He held his first revival in September at the Community Methodist Church in Prestonsburg.

Since its organization over five years ago, "God's Looking Glass" has traveled over much of the central and eastern parts of Kentucky with a testimony of song and word. Since the first of September the group has added revivals to its list of programs.

Rhonda Cooper, sister of the evangelist, has been with the group since its beginning and is the leader of the group. She is a graduate student at

Coal Men Give $188,700 Total On Cancer Unit

The fight against cancer in this area will soon be stepped up as a result of the Pikeville Methodist Hospital's recent fund drive.

Gifts totaling $188,700 were received from independent coal operators in Eastern Kentucky during the four weeks since the drive began. With other funds already obtained, the amount assures the hospital success in financing its $350,000 radiation unit for the treatment of cancer. As a part of the unit, the hospital also plans to purchase a device known as a "scanner" which will assist the physician in the diagnosis of cancer.

Funds obtained from other sources during the drive include $5,000 from each of Pikeville's three banks-Citizens, First National and Pikeville National. The Methodist Hospital Guild has pledged $40,000 toward the radiation unit and the Pikeville Model City Agency has earmarked $92,000 for construction of the unit's special building.

To receive radiation treatment patients now must travel at least 150 miles to Lexington or Louisville. In many instances, this is a financial as well as physical hardship which the planned facility at the Pikeville Methodist

Education—a National Problem

Kentuckians level their fire at educational failures in this state because Kentucky is in range, the first target that comes within their sights. But there are many other targets in many other states, and parents, even some educators, have zeroed in on

A recent editorial in U. S. NEWS AND WORLD REPORT attests to the fact that the problems of education are national, not merely local. This editorial quotes a University of South Carolina professor in a powerful jeremiad against the failures of innovative, "open" and oh-so-ultra-modern education. He speaks of young women and men with college degrees who can't spell or read or write intelligently or do more than the simplest

The editorial asks the question: "Can Teachers Teach?"

We maintain that they can, unless they themselves haven't been taught and unless the system itself is so determined to experiment with the minds and futures of the nation's youth that it will not permit them to teach.

All is not lost. The educational system isn't all bad. Not all the new that's in it is harmful or even neutral; some of it may have been needed. But to the degree that the basics of education, the proverbial Three R's, have been lost, to that degree education loses. Learning by rote may not be conducive to independent thinking but it gives the individual the tools with which to do this difficult thinking job. The lack of discipline of mind as well as conduct while the physical is disciplined for a select few to represent their schools on basketball courts and football fields must surely leave the conscientious teacher as frustrated as her neglected pupils.

To illustrate our point that Education's failure is not peculiar to Kentucky, we quote from the findings and conclusions of others. NEWSWEEK magazine, for instance, tells of Bowdoin College, in Maine. Five years ago, Bowdoin went modern, left the gate open, and announced that admissions procedures would be relaxed. It depended upon secondary school records and almost too late learned that "the fun and the relevant" in high school had not prepared the students for college.

"The result," said Bowdoin's admissions director, "is that a good many bright students are quite conversant with local, national and international problems, but they can't write three consecutive declarative sentences in the English language."

Says Dr. Kenneth Clark, social psychologist who heads the Metropolitan Applied Research Center in New York City:

"I do not see any substitute for the public schools' teaching reading, writing and arithmetic as the base upon which all other forms of education must rest. I don't believe a child can play any constructive role in this society if he is unable to spell or to read or if he does not have an elemental sense of grammatical

That's in the East. Turn to the West for another example of the rebellion against "open" education.

In Pasadena, Calif. there are two schools which are examples of the situation. In one, an "open education" school, there is individual freedom-no dress rules, few restrictions on behavior, the pupils deciding for themselves what they will learn, if anything (credit is given on leather work, gourmet cooking, weaving, what have you). There are no tests, no grades, almost no discipline of mind or body.

In the other Pasadena school—the John Marshall Fundamental School—the business of getting an education is a life-is-real matter. Its curriculum features the old math, reading drills in standard phonics, spelling, grammar. There are A's and B's and even F's issued for grades on regular exams. There is strict discipline as to pupil behavior and appearance. Even table manners are corrected in the lunchroom.

Which of the two schools is the more popular?

In the "open education," anything-goes school there are in the grades ranging from kindergarten through high school 550 pupils, with 515 on the waiting list in a heavily populated area. In the "old-fashion," fundamental school there are 1,700 pupils and more than 1,000 on the waiting list.

So runs the story, all across America-parents, often the children, and many school boards demanding a halt to all this experimentation (who's to blame?—the federal government and its financial gratuities?) and a return to the basics which made of the eighth-grade graduate of an earlier era better fitted for life than a great many college graduates of today.

President Ford Asks Delay On State Water Projects

Consumer Comments

By ED W. HANCOCK (Attorney General)

The furnace inspector who drops in to check your furnace free of charge may warm your heart, but he may not warm your house. Beware of phony furnace inspectors who may try to persuade you to have unnecessary work done on your

As the weather turns colder, consumers are reminded to have their furnaces inspected, cleaned and repaired, if repairs are needed. There are many reputable firms that will do just that.

There also may be others who want to sell you unnecessary parts or a whole new furnace, if possible.

To protect yourself against the unscrupulous ones, follow a few basic rules: Be cautious when approached by anyone who offers a free furnace in-

Don't let anyone take your furnace apart for inspection or cleaning unless you are sure that he is qualified to do so.

Don't take an inspector's word that he is qualified. Investigate every home improvement firm you deal with. Call the Consumer Protection Division, the Better Business Bureau, the National Home Improvement Council, the National Remodelers Association or a local home builders group. Ask around.

Investigate inspectors and dealers in advance, if possible. If there is ever a real danger of an explosion or of poisonous fumes, you will want to act quickly to have your furnace repaired. Advance checking can do away with the possibility that an inspector might use scare tactics to get you to panic and sign a contract too quickly-without checking past service or shopping for the best

During an inspection, watch carefully. A fraudulent inspector may bring hs own broken parts with him and pretend that they are yours.

After an inspection, get a second opinion. If you've been told your furnace is beyond repair, have it confirmed by a heating engineer. If an inspector recommends a particular heating engineer, it could mean that the inspector and the engineer are working together. Find you own.

Obtain estaimtes or competitive bids on replacements or major overhauls. But beware of unusually low bids.

As always, get any guarantee or warranty in writing.

If you have a consumer complaint, write to the Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division, Room 34, Capitol Building, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. Kentucky residents may use the toll-free hotline: 1-800-372-2960.

As part of his anti-inflation fight, President Ford has asked Congress to delay spending $2.55 million on seven flood control and water development projects affecting Kentucky, including projects in Lawrence, Johnson and Morgan counties and construction of the controversial Red River Reservoir.

The requested spending delay would lower the spending level on projects scattered throughout the state from Yatesville Lake in the east to two Mississippi River flood control projects in Western Kentucky.

Ford's spending delay, which goes into effect in a month unless Congress votes to disapprove it, affects flood control and general construction of public works projects of the U.S. Army Corps of The Kentucky cutbacks are part of an $82 billion nationwide package that Ford asked Congress to delay spending for a full year. Ford acknowledged the $82 million deferral would not by itself have an effect on inflation, but it was part of a series of actions he was taking to curb government spending in his anti-inflation

The President requested delaying the spending of $2.55 million of the $16.7 million in funds appropriated by Congress and signed into law on Aug. 28 for general construction of five Kentucky public works and two flood control projects. They are:

-$1 million out of the $9.85 million appropriated this year for the Uniontown locks and dam on the Ohio River. Construction of the dam was started in May, 1970, and is expected to end up costing a total of $92 million.

-$300,000 of the $1.5 million appropriated for the Yatesville Lake in Lawrence County. The estimated total of the project to the federal government is $39.4 million—but only $1.9 million has been allocated since the beginning of the -$250,000 of the $1.5 million appropriated for construction of Paintsville Lake in Johnson and Morgan counties. The federal government estimates the project will cost $31.6 million. So far, $3.74 million has been

-$250,000 of the $1.4 million appropriated this year for dam site work on Taylorsville Lake in Spencer, Nelson and Anderson counties. The federal government has thus far spent $2.3 million of the project's $37.1 million estimated total

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club held its November meeting at the Floyd County Library last Thursday evening. A program in slides was presented by Mike Wallace who directs the Appalachian Oral History Project at Alice Lloyd College which contributes much toward the preservation of our cultural heritage as part of the bi-centennial celebration. Members enjoyed viewing calendars which depicted life in Knott county 50 or more years ago. The pictures are part of the heritage collection of Alice Lloyd Hostesses for the meeting were Mesdames James Gardner, Marshall Davidson, J. W. Clifton, Gorman Collins, Willis Sparks, Betty Popp, Lena Blackburn, and Miss Christine Spradlin.

A.A.U.W. TO MEET

The Prestonsburg Branch of the American Association of University Women will meet Thursday, November 14th at 7:30 at the Library. Carolyn Francis, area representative for community problems, will have charge of the program and will have as her guests two members of the Prestonsburg Planning Commission. Mrs. Laura Weddle and Mrs. Becky Derossett will discuss the commission's work and ask for comments and suggestions from members.

All members are urged to attend.

Blackcat running back Danny Layne is shown here outpacing two Paintsville Tiger defenders on a 10-yard sweep into the end zone. The score was one of four touchdowns Layne picked up during Prestonsburg's 34-0 victory over rival Paintsville.

Layne in Scoring Rampage As Cats Rout Old Rivals

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON

team closed out its 1974 season Friday night by overwhelming their arch-rivals, the Paintsville Tigers, 34 to 0. The Blackcats closed out with a record of 7 and 5.

Again the Prestonsburg defense was outstanding. It was the fifth time the opposition had been shut out this season.

Ending his high school grid career, Danny Layne scored a total of 28 points and was almost unstoppable throughout the game. He scored four touchdowns and kicked four extra points for a season total of 141 points, tops in the region. Layne also picked up enough yardage to go over 1,000 yards for this season.

Mike Calhoun scored the other touchdown on a 13-yard pass play from Quarterback Del Jaggers. Layne scored his touchdowns on runs of four, one, ten yds, and five yards. The Blackcat offensive was explosive as Harry Lee Burchett and Steve Campbell carried the ball several times for much yardage. Dennis Walker and Del Jaggers had several key runs and a couple of key pass

The Blackcats spoiled Paintsville's The Prestonsburg Blackcat football homecoming, halted Paintsville's eightgame winning streak over the Cats. For the first time in 20 years, Coach Walter Brugh had a losing season.

The game ended Coach Eddie Radjunas' four years of coaching here. He has accepted a position at Ashland Community College. He leaves Prestonsburg with a 26-17-2 record. This season, his team scored a total of 276 points while holding the opposition to 139.

Turkey Bowl Seeks To Fund Scholarship

While the annual Turkey Bowl game remains a muddy monument of fun and frolic, a new note of worthy intent has been added this year. For the first time tickets are being sold for the event with proceeds slated for a scholarship fund which will be awarded to a deserving senior player on the Prestonsburg High School Black Cat football squad.

To date some 300 tickets have been sold with a goal of at least 500, Mark Howard, treasurer, said this week. Tickets are on sale at various businesses in Prestonsburg, or from Turkey Bowl members. Appropriately enough, two turkeys will be given away at halftime of the game, Thanksgiving Day.

Betsy Layne High Slates Homecoming

Homecoming activities at Betsy Layne High School will take place Saturday, November 16. Highlight of the night will be the crowning of the 1974 homecoming

Basketball players, managers and cheerleaders of the 1964 graduating class will be honored.

An invitation has been extended to all alumni of the school to join in the homecoming celebration.

Prestonsburg To Quit SVC

Prestonsburg High school announced at the annual Sandy Valley Conference football banquet held Monday night at Jenny Wiley State Park that it is dropping out of the two-year-old SVC.

In a poll taken by member schools as to whether they would remain in the SVC, Prestonsburg announced it would drop out, effective June 1, 1975. The other five schools in attendance moved to add a new school and keep the conference at its present six-team level.

Ed Radjunas, who just left his coaching duties at Prestonsburg, stepped down as president and Charlie Holsinger, presiding vice-president, took over his duties. . Wendell Wallen, of Johnson Central, was named the new vicepresident.

HIGH ADVENTURE AND A TRIO OF TROUBLE!

Two Rickey Roberts Star in Same Game

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON

Basketball in the 58th district this past week was spotty. Coach David Turner made his debut as head basketball coach at McDowell and his Daredevils won over Betsy Layne by a score of 87 to 71, and Allen Central traveled to Dorton and lost, 61 to 57. Wheelwright High participated in a Basketball-Arama at Pikeville.

The Dare Devils of McDowell got their big Ricky Roberts off to a good start as he scored 33 points against the Bobcats, but right behind him in scoring was the Bobcat scoring threat, another Ricky Roberts, who pumped in 28 points.

The Allen Central Rebels traveled to Dorton and played without Mike Howard, who had injured a finger earlier in the week. Dorton got a lead and kept it throughout the game.

Scores:

McDowell (87)-Ricky Roberts 33, Jeff Hall 13, Terry Tuttle 12, Larry Daughterty 9, Harold Tackett 8, Oscar Osborne 6, Mike Newsome 4, Phil Page 2. Betsy Layne (71)-Ricky Roberts 28, Clark 12, Hall 8, Brown 8, Stapleton 8, Newsome 7.

Allen Central (57)—Rick Pack 20, Wayne Scarberry 16, Keith Frasure 9, Brent Patton 4, Rick Prater 4, Stewart Bailey 2, Jamie Johnson 2.

Dorton (61)-Tackett 34, Goodson 15, Johnson 4, Smallwood 6, Bryant 2. This weeks's schedule:

Nov. 12, Salyersville at Prestonsburg, McDowell at Dorton; Nov. 15, McDowell vs. Salyersville, Feds Creek at Prestonsburg; Nov. 16-Allen Central at Betsy Layne (homecoming).

McDowell Wins Opener Over Betsy Layne, 87-71

Starring on both teams, Ricky Roberts zeroed in for 33 points for the McDowell Dare Devils and 28 points for the Betsy Layne Bobcats in the game played at McDowell Friday night. McDowell won its season opener 87 to 71. It was sheer coincidence that each team's high scorer is named Ricky Roberts.

This was Coach David Turner's first game as coach of the Dare Devils. The Betsy Layne Bobcats are led by Coach Tommy Boyd.

McDowell-Ricky Roberts, 33; Larry Daughterty, 9; Phil Paige, 2; Jeff Hall, 13; Harold Tackett, 8; Terry Tuttle, 12; Bubby Osborne, 6; Mike Newsome, 4.

Betsy Layne-Ricky Roberts, 28; R. Clark, 13; Lennis Newsome, 6; Mike Hall, 8; Howard Brown, 8; B. Spradlin, 4.

What The American Flag Means To Me

By CHERIE ANN HINCHMAN (The following is the prize-winning essay read at the Red, White and Blue Day observance here last month. The writer is a pupil in the Allen Elementary School.)

To me, the American Flag is a symbol of glory, honor and the freedom of our great country. Whenever I see it, especially waving in the breeze, it makes me feel proud that I am fortunat enough to live in our free and great country; the United States of America.

To me it should be treated with great respect; for it is the symbol of the hard work of the people who fought to make this land a free country.

It is a symbol of all the strength, honor and patriotism of the early settlers of our great country who fought to make this a free land.

How I feel the American Flag connects with some of the important events of our country.

To me it connects immensely with the Revolutionary War. It stands for the spirit, patriotism and the hardships of those who fought in the Revolutionary War. And for the spirit and strength of the men who suffered at Valley Forge.

Even though these men and women lived and died many years ago, it was their great love for our country that made it free. And it is this love that the flag stands for; the Flag of the United States of America.

Girls Get Season Play Under Way

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON

The girls' basketball season got under way in the 58th district as the Betsy Layne girls team split their two games this week, losing to McDowell by a score of 46 to 35 and winning over Prestonsburg, 49 to 27. Old-Time Remedies

By Rufus M. Reed

SASSAFRAS. The Indians named this tree "sassafras," which in their language means "smelling stick," from its rich, aromatic odor. They used the bark for almost any ailment common to their tribes. They made pultices of it for wounds and bruises. The Eastern tribes once carried on a brisk trade with the whites-selling the bark, which proved to be one of their most valuable commodities. In the days of the pioneers and later on, sassafras tea as a spring tonic was the prescribed treatment to tone up the system and "thin the thick winter blood." Supposedly, the tea with its many virtues had the power to drive the sinter miasma from the system. The bark from red roots is of the finest flavor.

Apparently sassafras is among the earliest forest trees of North America. Some scientists say the seeds were carried over here by winds from Asia. A scientific expedition once made an important discovery in the cold, bleak climate of Greenland. They excavated among the rock formations and uncovered the twigs and leaves of sassafras which had been imbedded in the rocks for untold ages. It was reported that "on the mainland of Greenland (so named from its once lush growth of vegetation) there once flourished the finest hardwood forest ever to have grown on this earth."

Dr. Nicholas Monardes, herbalist of the 16th century, once wrote that the Indians had not over-rated the virtues of sassafras, for "it cures many grievous and evil diseases."

In most of the earlier homes of Appalachia, sassafras tea was often served in lieu of milk and coffee, Another oncepopular spring tonic was sulphur and molasses spread on a slice of bread. This tonic was not too popular with the kids, nevertheless it stopped the winter coughs and killed any germs lurking in the system in the wake of winter cold.

One of the oldest and most unpopular remedies, but widely used, was to have the victim of measles drink "sheepnanny tea," to break out the measles. Dry sheep manure was sought and boiled to make the tea, which—so they claimed—soon brought the measles to the outside. Since sheep manure comes from the sheep's feeding on herbs of all kinds, it had certain medicinal value and was noted for its effectiveness in "sweating out the

To cure bee stings and insect bites, the Indians used a poultice made of clay and bound it over the wound. This quickly assuaged the pain and killed the poison. It was a popular remedy in the days of the pioneers, who used a mud pack when no clay was available. There seems to be healing elements in mother earth.

To cure poison ivy, the Indians used the juice from the hollow, jointed stems of Jewelweed, called "wild touch-me-not."

One of the best salves of the olden times, used to cure chronic sores or skin infections, was discovered by a pioneer family of Indiana. The salve was made from a mixture of turpentine, pine rosin, mutton tallow, beeswax and linseed oil. This salve proved so popular, the family soon made a good living making and selling the salve.

Another widely used salve for stubborn sores was made from the buds of the Balm of Gilead Tree. I've known oldtimers to ride for miles over the mountains in search of one of these rare trees.

Another widely used home remedy was sarsaparilla, which you could buy in bottles at most country stores. Its dried roots have a pleasant, aromatic flavor and the medicine was pleasant to take. It was used as a tonic and spring conditioner. It was also used to drive "scrofula from the blood;" it also had the power to cure ulcers and ringworm. I haven't seen a bottle of sarsaparilla in any country store for many years.

SCURVY.-This was a dread nutritional disease common to the Indians in times of famine, and sailors who dined mostly on fatback and cornbread. with no fresh vegetables. Scurvy is caused mostly by a lack of Vitamin C in the diet. In times of food scarcity, the Indians had to find remedies for scurvy, one of which was the cloves of garlic. The sap of sweet birch was also used as a cure. Other remedies for scurvy were the leaves of curly dock, skunk cabbage and wood sorrel (sour grass).

The most remarkable case of scurvy in pioneer times was that of Prince Alexander when he spent the winter at Ft. Clark. His winter diet consisted mostly of fatback, beans and cornbread. By spring, he developed a bad swelling in the legs and was barely able to walk. The fort's cook informed the prince that he had a bad case of scurvy. Friendly Indians were called in and they sent their youngsters to scour the spring woods in search of wild onions. They obtained a large supply, which the cook boiled into a "spinachlike dish," and the prince was advised to eat them in large amounts. In five days he was well of the scurvy.

Jacques Cartier, the explorer, and his men were once striken down with scurvy. The friendly Indians were called on for help; they made a tea for him and his men from the branches of fir trees, and it proved a highly effective remedy.

The number of employed adult women increased by 1.2 million between January and July 1974, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

To Study in India

BEREA, Ky.-Mrs. Marshia Austin Gologlu, a Berea College senior art major, has been selected to join a sixweek seminar in India sponsored by the U. S. Department of State. She is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Clifford H. Austin, of Route 1, Prestonsburg.

The group, which includes four students and one professor from Berea, will leave Nov. 23 for three weeks of study at the Ramakrishna Institute in Calcutta, then tour India under the guidance of the U.S. Educational Foundation in India. Representatives of Eastern Kentucky, Kentucky State and Transylvania University are also joining the party.

In addition to her interest in the art and architecture of India, Mrs. Gologlu has a special personal interest in the opportunity. "On the way home, I'm going to meet my husband's family in Turkey for the first time," she explained. "I'll stay with them in Ankara for a month, while I do independent studies on the archietecture there." Her husband, Adnon Gologlu, is a recent Berea graduate.

She has studied Indian, Islamic and Far Eastern art and last summer won two prizes enabling her to experiment with ceramic glazes. The glazed tiles, which are an important feature of Islamic architecture in Turkey, will relate closely to those studies and her future work in ceramics.

She is also interested in photography and plays the flute in the college band.

'If It's Union, No Work,' Says Feltner of Mine Strike

Does the coal strike which began at midnight Monday mean that all mines, including surface operations, will cease

Will operators be permitted to haul to tipple or market the coal stockpiled during recent weeks when a shortage of coal cars developed?

These questions asked Squire Feltner, president of the UMW's District 30, by The Times Tuesday received only this

"If it's union, no work."

The strike portends a production stoppage of at least two weeks that appeared likely to worsen the nation's economic plight and produce outright hardship for some industries and public

Negotiations for a new contract to replace the old one that expired at midnight continued through the day Monday without success, and Arnold Miller, president of the United Mine Workers of America, said it was a "virtual certainty" the strike would stretch at least two weeks. Mine owners and operators shared that estimate.

The strike, which was foreordained two weeks ago, will be a day longer for each day without a settlement. UMW constitutional rules require contract ratification-a 10 day to two-week process-before work can be resumed. With 120,000 miners idled and 70 per cent of the nation's soft coal production disrupted, secondary effects ranging from layoffs to plant closings promised to further weaken the limping economy with higher unemployment and lower productivity.

Government officials kept close watch

Opinions From Office Of Attorney General

James E. Welch, Sr., a social worker with the Department of Human Resources, requested an opinion on the fining of junveiles on drinking charges. Mr. Welch specifically asked whether such fining is legal and, if not, whether the court should repay fines already levied. The Attorney General's office expresses the opinion that fines or jail sentences may not be used in disposing of cases involving juveniles of 16 years or younger. Also, since any fine imposed by a juvenile judge is not properly collectable, individuals who have been wrongfully assessed reserve the right to begin proceedings for the recovery of those fines.

The Attorney General's office is withdrawing an earlier opinion to Bellefont lawyer John C. Vigor Jr. concerning the installation of traffic control devices on highways in school zones. The original reply stated that a city may decide whether to install such a device as long as the device conforms to the standards of the Bureau of Highways. However, under federal law, the state Department of Transportation has jurisdiction over the placement of traffic control devices installed on roads constructed or maintained in part by federal funding. The Attorney General's Office has been informed by the Department of Transportation that the location in front of the Bellefont School on Ky. 5 does not meet the required criteria.

Breckinridge County Judge James T. Stinnett requested an opinion regarding the purchase of a fire truck shelter without public bidding and about the legality of declaring an emergency to do so. It is the opinion of the Attorney General's office that the bidding requirement on public contracts need not apply if the county judge duly certifies that an emergency exists. However, an emergency must actually exist. No true emergency is present when the evidence indicates ample time to advertise for bids. In this particular case, there appears to be ample time. Glenn Treadway, assistant administrator of the Knox County General Hospital, has asked whether or not a nonprofit, county-owned, institution is liable for unemployment compensation taxes or contributions. The Attorney General's office wrote that a county hospital is not liable for such unless it elects to pay contributions or to become a reimbursing employer.

as talks continued but intervention seemed unlikely so long as there appeared to be progress, however small. Both sides have shunned government mediation.

The law provides that President Ford can, after inquiry, declare a strike to be a "national emergency" and seek a courtordered 80-day return to work while the labor dispute is negotiated. But miners traditionally have been unresponsive to injunctions, and there appeared little liklihood Ford would go that route.

Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan said in a television interview that the collective bargaining system should be allowed to work before government intervention.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton made no predictions of how long the strike would last, but expressed hope for an early settlement.

Miller, said that although there was some progress, "some progress is not enough to undo 40 years of indifference and neglect."

"The 120,000 working members of our union will mine no coal until they have a contract they can work under safely and live under with decency," he said.

"I hope for the nation's sake that the end comes soon. The coal industry in 1974 has never experienced a greater demand for coal or a more profitable future."

Marshall To Head ALC Trustee Post; Houghton Resigns

Pippa Passes, Ky.-Charles Hubley Houghton, chairman of the Alice Lloyd College Board of Trustees for 27 years, has resigned as board chairman. Houghton will continue to serve on the board as a lifetime trustee and chairman emeritus. Townsell Marshall, current vice-chairman of the board, will serve as interim chairman until a new chairman is elected next spring.

Houghton, 68, a resident of Lancaster, Penn., is stepping down because "he lives a great distance from the college and he is at an age at which travel becomes difficult," said William S. Hays, ALC president. "The needs of the college will require much closer co-ordination between the board chairman and the president. However, Mr. Houghton will continue to render invaluable service as a life-long trustee and chairman emeritus of the board."

Houghton worked at ALC, then known as Caney Junior College, from 1933 to 1938, serving as dean of the college and chairman of the English Department. He was appointed to the board of trustees as its chairman in 1947. He is presently custodian of the Hubley House Museum of 18th Century Antiques in Lancaster.

Mr. Marshall, the board's interim chairman, is a native of Floyd county. He is a 1941 graduate of ALC. After leaving Caney, he attended the University of Kentucky where he earned a degree in business administration. He is currently assistant vice-president for Administration and Planning, Steel Group, at Armco Steel in Middletown, Ohio.

RETURNS FROM MONTANA

Leona May Winkler has returned from a vacation in Butte and Helena, Montana. She visited her cousin Chester Harmon while in Butte and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Schutz in Billings, Mont. She also attended homecoming at Gettysburg, South Dakota. She returned by way of Toledo, Ohio and spent a week with her daughter Anne Conley there.

Official Election Vote Totals Given

Congressman Carl D. Perkins swept all 44 of Floyd county's voting precincts in last week's election, and Governor Wendell H. Ford led his Republican opponent for U.S. Senator, Marlow Cook, in 43 precincts, losing only Tickey on Mud Creek. That precinct gave Cook a 58-50

Letters to the Editor

TRIBUTE TO MRS. FOWEL

On Nov. 19 Prestonsburg and community will be losing one of the most gracious ladies it has ever been my privilege to know.

Evelyn Fowel came to us from her native Tennessee in 1970 as a worker in Christian Service ministry with the First Presbyterian Church here. She was here more than a year before returning to her home where she was seriously injured by a gas explosion in her home, but God had other work here for her, so He made her well and she came back to us for more of her work and inspiration.

She has worked with the folks in Drift, Highland Heights as well as Prestonsburg, and many, many families up our creeks and hollows will miss her visits. Not only did she help in making their lives easier, but always left spiritual strength wherever she went.

I know nothing of her earlier life but I am sure she had her share of grief and sorrow, but God has supplied her with extra strength and a bounty of love. When she smiles at you a beautiful soul shines through.

I'm sure every one who has known her will join me in saying, "Evelyn, we all feel richer from having known you and realize that our loss is Clarksville's gain. Thank you for sharing some of your time with us. We will pray that God will always care for you and we love you." CORA MAY

Kentucky Afield

By Hope Carleton Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

Those who hunt rabbits this fall may be in for a pleasant surprise since game management division reports indicate rabbit populations are up as much as 20 per cent in some areas and that only parts of eastern Kentucky indicate a slight decrease over last year's crop.

In general, the reports (from wildlife biologists and managers of Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' wildlife management areas) reveal that statewide the numbers of rabbits have increased over those of the last few years and, in certain areas, more rabbits will be found than in the past five years.

Just what these increases will mean to the individual hunter will depend, of course, on how often and how well he hunts, but even the sportsman who goes afield in search of rabbits no more than two or three times during the season should fare better than he did last season. And the novice hunter, too, will probably find he's spending more time shooting and less time looking for rabbits than he did last time out.

For the expert with the good dog, this season should be a banner one. Not only is the rabbit population up, but the extended season will allow him more days in the field.

The first phase of the rabbit hunting season will open Nov. 21 and continue through Dec. 6. It will then close during the gun deer hunting season, Dec. 7-11; reopen Dec. 12 and continue through Feb.

And there's been no change in Kentucky's liberal rabbit limits—six per day, and 12 in possession. The possession limit applies after two or more days of hunting and may not be held in the field).

Many of the state's most ardent rabbit hunters though aren't nearly as interested in taking the daily limit as they are in taking just enough for a good meal, spending a day out-of-doors and watching a good rabbit dog work. In fact, among my hunter friends, the favorite stories are more concerned with this or that dog and the way he ran than they are with the number of rabbits they brought home on any given day.

But none of us like to get "skunked" and come back empty-handed, and we have to admit the harvest is important, especially with the high price of food at the grocery stores these days.

So we should do everything possible to assure that the rabbits we harvest will reach our tables in the very best con-

To do this, the hunter should, immediately after shooting the rabbit, remove the head and intestines. This will cause the meat to cool quickly and insure its being well bled.

Before skinning the rabbit, soak it in cold water. This almost eliminates the problem of loose hair getting into the meat and works well with squirrels, too, by the way.

If the meat is not to be eaten immediately and you decide to freeze it, cut the rabbit into sections, place them in containers and cover with water. This will eliminate freezer burn.

Rabbit hunting is an excellent sport and provides many a good meal for Kentuckians. Make sure your rabbit hunting memories will all be happy ones by practicing good sportsmanship and, above all, good gun safety procedures. Good luck and good hunting!

Two Surrender In Arson Case

Randall Stapleton and Benny Lewis, of the Stanville vicinity, surrendered last Thursday to State Police Arson Investigator Ron Johnson and Deputy Sheriff Doug Lewis and charged with arson for their alleged role in the burning of the home of Mousie Dingus Conn at Stanville, on the night of September 1. Two other Stanville men, Graham Hurd, Jr. and Albert Hunt, were arrested shortly after the incident after confessing to setting fire to the home.

Coal truck drivers booked at the county jail here and cited in county court during the first two weeks of November have been especially numerous as state Department of Transportation Weights and Measures officers continue their surveillance of coal-hauling traffic. Paying fines of $25 plus $19 court costs, for escaping contents (coal spilling into roadway) were:

Plan Square Dance Weekend at Park

Thornsbury and Lawson.

A weekend square dancing program is scheduled to be held at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park here, Nov. 22-24. A similar program will be held at Pine Mountain State Park, Nov. 15-17.

Square dancing week-ends are held each fall in Kentucky state parks for both beginners and those who already enjoy the age-old dance. They annually attract people not only from Kentucky but from throughout the nation.

The week-end programs also draw local people who dance every week at several resort parks. On Hoedown Island at Natural Bridge State Resort Park, square dances are held every Saturday through the spring and fall.

Richard Jett, who is in charge of the weekly square dancing on Hoedown Island, said "We get a lot of young kids every week who dance here for years and sometimes even form eight-member square dancing groups."

One prime example of this development is the Rogers family, an assortment of brothers, sister, cousins, and in-laws who have been dancing one Hoedown Island for the past several years.

The Rogers group, who call themselves the Kentucky Mountain Hoedowners are, in Jett's words, a "sight to behold." They exhibit a little more verve in the varied steps and dances of square dancing, perhaps not discernible to the non-square dancer but apparent enough to the knowledgeable, to have earned them the title of world champions of square dancing for the past three years.

Not every participant in the park's square dancing programs ends up a tournament champion, but the fall programs have surely produced their share of competent dancers who can enjoy square dancing for a lifetime.

Floyd County Health Notes

CLINICS SET MONDAY

On Monday, November 18, the Floyd the woman or her doctor. County Health Department will hold two clinics. One will be held at Ethel Osborne's Store in Bypro, from 10 to 12 and 1 to 2 with the following services being offered: TB skin tests, blood pressures, immunizations, and diabetes

The other will be a Pap smear clinic from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the old high school building in Wayland. The public health nurse reminds all women that deaths caused by cervical cancer could be completely eliminated if all women had a yearly Pap smear. The services for both of these clinics are free and open to the public.

GLAUCOMA CLINIC, THURSDAY

The Floyd County Health Department will conduct a Glaucoma Clinic, Thursday, November 14, from 9 to 12 and 1 to 2. Glaucoma is a serious disease that can cause blindness slowly and painlessly in persons 35 and over.

Since early detection and treatment can prevent glaucoma, the public health nurses urge all persons over 35 years of age to take advantage of this free glaucoma screening.

"FEELING GOOD"

"Feeling Good", television's most ambitious attempt to convey health information through entertainment techniques, will premiere November 20, in prime evening time on the country's 250 public broadcasting stations.

The 26-week series is the first program produced for adults by the Children's Television Workshop (creators of Sesame Street).

A wide variety of TV techniquesincluding song, dance, documentaries and situation comedy-will be employed on the show to treat subjects ranging from nutrition and exercise and from hypertension to breast self-examination.

Primary target audience for the series is young parents who play major roles in influencing the health of their immediate families. Of particular concern to the producers are the health problems and attitudes of low-income families.

"Although surveys indicate that the majority of people look to either doctors or TV for the bulk of their health and medical information," he said, physicians too often don't have the time, and frequently lack the skills to effectively explain conditions to terms that a patient can understand. The information offered by TV is often either inaccurate or self-serving as in the case of product advertising.'

Dr. Buchanan said that "educational efforts of the kind planned by CTW are critically needed. Too many people have too little knowledge of the fundamentals of good health, and most people don't realize that their own actions play a major role in the kind of health they enjoy."

William Kobin, vice president of CTW's Future Works division and executive producer of the series, said that each show will usually cover several subjects and two or three different segments will be used to treat a single topic as a means of reinforcing the health message. Each topic will be treated several times during the six-month broadcast run of the series. The priority topics are: alcohol abuse, cancer, child care, dental care, exercise, the health and delivery system, heart disease, hypertension, mental health, nutrition, and prenatal care.

Dr. James Swinehart, research director for the Feeling Good series, said the series aims not only to inform but to motivate viewers to take some action for themselves or on behalf of others.

"Feeling Good" will be seen nationally beginning Wednesday, November 20 in an early evening time slot and most PBS stations will repeat the show on Saturday evenings.

Hatcher To Run For State Post

George Glenn Hatcher, of Frankfort, Kentucky, formally announced last week that he intends to seek the office of clerk of the Kentucky Court of Appeals in the May Democratic primary.

Mr. Hatcher's public service record has been established on both the local and state levels. A native Eastern Kentuckian, he began his political career as deputy county clerk of Floyd county and later moved on to the city clerk's position in Ashland. He served two terms as Secretary of State, being the first person to hold this elective office for more than one term. He also is a former assistant clerk of the Court of Appeals, appointed and served under the late W. B. O'Connell and the late Charles K. O'Connel.

Hatcher said that, if nominated and elected, he would pledge to the public "prompt and fastidious service in all matters pertaining to the business of the office and issue no excuses, but direct personal communication in these mat-

DIABETES DETECTION SIMPLE

Diabetes Mellitus, the sixth leading cause of death in Kentucky and the third leading cause of blindness in the United States, results when the body can't transform food, chiefly sugar and starch, into energy, tissue and bone. It is estimated that more than two million Americans are victims of diabetes without knowing it. These people are known as hidden

Find out for sure whether or not you're a hidden diabetic by having a simple blood test, free of charge, at the Floyd County Health Department.

James B. Goble, administrator, Floyd County Health Department advises all persons planning to construct and-or operate a mobile home park in Floyd county to be thoroughly familiar with the provisions of the law and regulations of the Commonwealth of Kentucky relating to mobile home parks including the issuance of permits, collection of fees, construction requirements, construction plan submission and approval, sanitary operations and penalties for noncompliance.

Unless mobile home parks are constructed, operated and maintained in a sanitary manner they constitute a threat to the health of the occupants of the park and to the health of the residents of adjacent areas. Questions as to compliance with the law and regulations should be directed to the Floyd County Health Department or to the State Department of Health, Frankfort, Kentucky.

"Mobile Home Park" means a parcel of land, under the control of any person, available to the public in which two or more mobile home lots are occupied or intended for occupancy by mobile homes quarter of a million persons moved into the Appalachian Region from 1970-1973, according to a study of current population trends released last week by the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Donald W. Whitehead, federal cochairman of the Commission, said that this represents a dramatic shift from the pattern of population movement out of the region in recent decades. From 1966 to 1970 nearly 350,000 persons left Appalachia at a rate of almost 90,000 persons per year. However, from 1970-1973, Whitehead explained, nearly 80,000 persons have migrated into the region each year. The new trend of net inmigration, combined with natural population growth, has increased the region's population by 600,000 since 1970 and reached a total of 18.8 million in 1973.

Appalachian in-migration, according to Dr. Jerome P. Pickard, senior regional economist for the Commission, appears to be a parallel movement to the emerging national pattern of population growth in medium and small-sized cities and rural areas. The nation is now exnationally Mr. Whitehead suggested that a variety of factors are responsible for population movement into the Appalachian Region since 1970. These include economic recession in many major metropolitan areas; a stagnation of employment opportunities in major cities and resultant return to Appalachia of people who had previously migrated to the cities; the return to Appalachia of people who had previously migrated to the cities; the return of Vietnam-era servicemen; the impact of the Appalachian Regional Development Program; the growth of industry and jobs in Appalachia; housing shortages in many cities and the desire of people to escape the problems of the cities; the attraction of vacation areas for retirement and residential living; the impact of highways such as the Appalachian Development Highway System and the Interstate Highway System.

Of the three sub-regions of Appalachia, Southern Appalachia has experienced the largest net gain of new residents-150,000-while Northern and Central Appalachia each experienced population gains of 50,000 persons. If present trends continue, the region's population will increase to 19 million by April, 1975 and to nearly 20 million by 1980. Mr. Whitehead noted that this new population growth offers increasingly favorable opportunities for public investment and regional development in the Appalachian

Columbia Gas Gets Allocation of Gas

A worsening natural gas supply situation has forced Columbia Gas of Kentucky to notify 50 large-volume industrial customers throughout Kentucky that their allocation of natural gas for the coming winter-already reduced 35 per cent during November-would be reduced an additional 25 percent beginning Dec. 1.

J. B. Bowman, manager for the company in the Ashland area, said that the additional reduction to industrial customers are necessary to assure that sufficient gas will be available during the coming winter to provide residential users with gas for home heating.

"We regret that this action must be taken," Bowman said, "because we are fully aware of the adverse financial impact it will have on the economy of our service area. However, it is necessary even though Columbia has not been taking on any new customersindustrial, commercial, or residentialfor more than two years, and has been limiting sales to industrial customers for more than four years.

The 60 percent reduction would extend through March 31, Bowman said, but he did not rule out the possibility that it may become necessary to reduce industrial allocations even more.

"Any change in this percentage of curtailment will depend upon temperatures experienced in our service area, the amount of gas conserved by our customers and possible further changes in the gas supply picture," he said.

Bowman said that the industrial allocations were reduced after "our supplier, Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., notified Columbia Gas of Kentucky and 86 other affiliated and nonaffiliated customers that curtailments would increase from 14 to 181/2 percent. effective Dec. 1."

Columbia of Kentucky was advised. Bowman said, that the increased level of curtailment was caused by continuing declines in the deliveries by nonaffiliated southwest suppliers and a reduced underground storage position as of November 1 resulting from a fall off in summer deliveries from pipelines, unseasonably cold weather in September and October, and a cutback in gas production inthe Gulf of Mexico during Hurricane Carmen.

The 18½ percent reduction by the transmission company means that deliveries to Columbia Gas of Kentucky will be reduced about 4.1 billion cubic feet during the five month period from Nov. 1 to March 31.

Even though the gas supply that is acquired from a Columbia System synthetic gas plant in northwestern Ohio will offset a portion of this deficiency, the company has a projected 3.2 billion cubic feet shortage of available supply during the coming winter. The 60 percent reduction in industrial allocation is designed to overcome this shortfall.

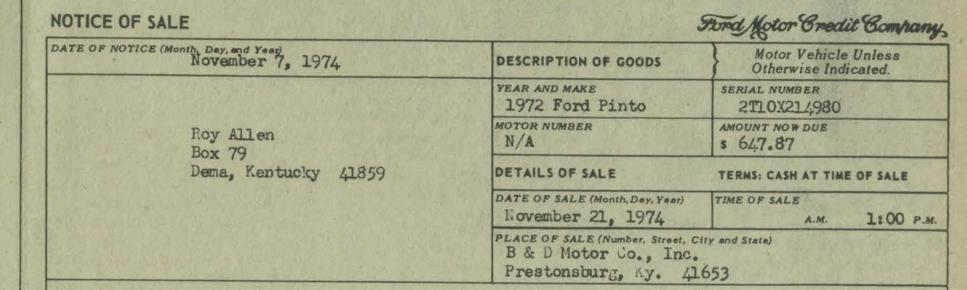

In explaining why industrial customers are being curtailed 60 percent when the curtailment by the supplying company is only 181/2 percent, Bowman said that the full impact of the cutback in supply must be applied to industrial deliveries in order to protect service to residential and commercial customers.

Bowman urged all customers to make every effort to conserve energy. "Last year our customers responded to our pleas to conserve gas," he said. "Their continued cooperation this year will make more gas available for industrial users and help protect the jobs of thoe who work in affected industries."

RESOLUTION

The following resolution is hereby adopted and made part of the permanent record of the Prestonsburg Water & Gas Commission, the purpose of this resolution being to honor the memory of William O. Goebel, Sr., Chairman of the Commission, who passed away on September 13, 1974.

William O. Goebel, Sr. served as Commission and as Chairman of this Commission for a period of ten years, beginning November 19, 1964. He was a man of unquestionable integrity. He served the citizenry of Prestonsburg with loyalty and a dedication to service beyond that expected of a public official. His sound judgment and sense of fairness to all who had cause to appear before the commission met the highest ethical standards.

Be it therefore resolved that a plaque, bearing a tribute to his memory be designed and placed in the office of the Prestonsburg Water & Gas Commission as an inspiration to those who serve and will serve in the capacity of a public official; that they too, may adhere to the high quality of leadership essential for the well being and progress for the City of Prestonsburg.

November—Hog-Killing Time

By GEORGE L. MOORE

During the days of my childhood, hog killing time was one event that all members of the family in the hill country looked forward to. It usually took place during the month of November, for by that time the previous year's supply of pork had been reduced to bean-cooking Some families would slice this fat pork, roll it in meal, and fry it in the same manner that fish is fried. The most common practice, however, was to cut it in small squares and cook it with soup beans or shuck beans. In those days there was no such thing as fresh meat on the farm during the summer months. On rare occasions, someone in the community would kill a beef in August or September. The word would be spread around the countryside as to the exact date when the butchering would take place. People would come for miles around to buy a mess or perhaps a couple of messes of fresh meat. The price was cheap, since it was impossible to keep warm weather.

primitive method of butchering hogs was followed for a surprisingly long time in the hill country. It was thought that the best method of heating the scalding water was to build a huge log fire and pile rocks on top. After the stones were heated, they were transferred to a wooden barrel by means of a long-handle shovel. The barrel was tilted at an angle, with the top usually resting on the top rail or a sled; the bottom was sunk in the ground a foot or so. After the water was heated and the stones removed, the hog was thrust into the barrel, head first. After being submerged for a minute or so, the hog was pulled back on the sled and the rapid process of scraping began. The most expert scraper was assigned to the head as it was a very difficult matter to remove the hair from this part of the animal. After the hair had been removed from this half of the hog, the other end was submerged in the barrel and the hair removed in the same manner. I think it would be well to note that a certain amount of danger was involved in heating the water in this manner. and blow the wooden barrel in all directions. When this happened, all available pots and pans were placed on the fire to heat the necessary scalding water. This must be done as quickly as possible, for, once the hair sets, it is virtually impossible to remove it.

In the early days, each community had its "hog shooter." This was a person who could kill the hog with a single shot of the rifle without making the animal squeal. He had a standard procedure which he followed meticulously. Facing the pig, he would raise the rifle to his shoulder and sight down the barrel. He would then call,

"Piggy, piggy, piggy." The instant the animal lifted hs head, the marksman sent a bullet through his brain. All that was left to be done was to insert a longbladed knife at the base of the neck and slant it toward the heart. This permitted the animal to bleed freely. People who did their own shooting would sometimes run into trouble; they would shoot the animal too low. This would happen without fail if the animal was looking down when it was shot.

I recall the time when my older brother told my father that there was no reason to get the usual shooter. He said that he could do the job as well as any shooter could. With the use of some feed the large hog was induced to come near the sled and scalding barrel. While the hog was still engaged in eating, my brother raised the rifle and fired. Pandemonium broke loose. The hog let out a terrifying squeal and dived under the sled. In so doing he fresh meat for any length of time in upset the barrel of scalding water which in turn increased and intensified the Even after the turn of the century, the squealing. Since the hog was taller than the sled, he began to dash about madly with the sled on his back. It was impossible to get off another shot until he was overtaken and the sled removed. Four or five additional shots usually brought the animal down but the squealing did not stop until sometime later. It is an unpleasant and horrifying experience to listen to the ear piercing squeal of a dying hog. Oldtimers will tell you that it is virtually impossible to kill a mad hog in a short period of time. According to them, the meat is tough and no good when the hog is slaughtered in this

On hog-killing day, all members of the family had some part in the work. The men did most of the heavy work such as hanging and dressing the carcass, cutting it up and carrying the heavy pieces to the smokehouse. The parts to be salted down were the hams, the shoulders, two blanket-size pieces of side meat, and the jowls. When three or four 500-pound hogs were slaughtered at the same time, this was no small task. The backbones, the ribs, the livers and the hearts had to be Sometimes a heated stone would explode consumed first. If you killed no more when it came in contact with the water than three hogs this presented no problem. It was a time-honored custom of the region to give all your neighbors a mess of fresh meat at slaughtering time. It was the backbone, the liver and such that you gave away. The jowls were salted down and kept until the following spring to cook with poke sallet.

The farmer's wife looked after the making of the sausage. Like the ancient Egyptian art of enbalming, the making of sausage as the old time housewife made it has become a lost art. The modern packers, however, come close to imitating it. The stuff you get, put up in fancy packages, is tasteless in comparison with grandmother's sausage. The head of the hog was cooked until the meat fell off of the bone. It was then collected, put through a grinder, mixed with assorted pickles and spices. It was then made into a large loaf and sliced in the same manner that bread is sliced. This concoction was called souse. My grandmother was a champion sousemaker. Despite her lavish praise for the product, I was never convinced that it was fit for human consumption.

None of the hog was wasted. The entrails were ripped, washed and hung up to dry. Later they would be converted into brick-size squares of lye soap. Lye soap was not only a first rate detergent; it was a standard remedy for all skin ailments that afflicted the human

Transy Student Named To University Who's Who

Marilyn Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Rose, of Prestonsburg, was one of eleven seniors from Transylvania University selected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." Students are selected for this honor on the basis of scholarship, participation and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities, citizenship, service to their school, and potential for future achievement.

Rose is a senior theatre arts and music education major concentrating in voice. She is currently assistant conductor for the Transylvania Choir, and is soprano soloist for the Transylvania Choral Union. She sings in the Madrigal Group, a select ten-voice choir, and is a member of the choir board. She also plays flute in the pep band. Last year she received the Sigma Kappa Award for musical excellence, and served as president of the Musicians' Guild. She is also the conductor for the Morrison Chapel Choir.

Public relations chairman for Phi Mu Fraternity, a social sorority, and a member of the student recruitment club, she has served on both the Academic Affairs and the Student Welfare Committees of the Student Government Association. Presently she is staff writer and Center Events Editor for the Rambler, Transylvania's newspaper.

Last year Miss Rose was inducted into Lampas, which is a leadership honorary, and was elected to the position of vicepresident. The student body elected her as junior representative to the T-Day Court of Honor. She has been on the Dean's List each quarter of her career at Transylvania.

Spencer-Akers Vows Said

Mr. and Mrs. Reed Spencer, of Tullehoma, Tenn., announce the marriage of their daughter, Sandra Dianne, to Larry Allen Akers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Akers, of Anderson, Ind., formerly of Floyd county.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert Richards in Avalon Harbor, Santa Catalina Island, California.

The bride's long dress was of white "sheer delight" voile with eyelet embroidery and was lined in a pale-blue voile, with long, puffed sleeves and a fullgathered skirt and white satin sash. The bodice had a slightly off-the-shoulder neck line with a wide ruffle. She wore a wide-brimmed white hat and carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid. The maid of honor, Miss April Parr, wore a turquoise-blue "sheer delight" voile dress designed in the same style as the bride's. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and red rosebuds with turquoise blue ribbon. Mr. Bert Schopp served the groom as best man. Lisa and Karen Schopp were ringbearers.

The mother of the bride wore a light blue and white double knit jackett dress.

The groom's mother wore a navy blueand white double knit dress. Both mothers wore large purple orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Akers are living in Torrence, California and plan to visit relatives in Floyd county and other parts of Kentucky during the Christmas

Mr. Akers is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Elna Akers, of Banner

By CLARENCE E. SHEPARD Samuel Vincent Hale was born July 13.

1847 and passed away July 9, 1923. His father was Smith Hale, a son of John Hale and Sarah Mosley. His mother was Elizabeth Mosley. Smith Hale and his wife, Elizabeth Mosley, died one day apart and are buried in a common grave on Bull Creek, a branch of the Big Sandy River, just south of Prestonsburg. John Hale, grandfather of Samuel Vincent Hale, is believed to have been one of the four sons of Joseph Hale who died in Patrick county, Virginia in 1803. John came to Floyd county, between 1810 and 1820. He was engaged in a law suit with the heirs of Hiram Spurlock at the time of his death in 1835. Samuel V. Hale was married at Willard, Kentucky on October 24, 1878 by the Rev. James Reeder to Miss Ada Church, daughter of Gabriel Church and his wife, believed to be Mary Musselwhite, who came from Wise county, Virginia. The only child of Samuel and Ada Hale not in the picture is John William who was born October 31, 1879 and died December 12, 1887.

The family picture here reproduced was made at Aden, Kentucky on Sinking Creek in Carter county in 1903. This family moved back to Floyd county in

Burton Not To Spend Year's Aid Allocation

The town of Burton has elected not to spend the funds allocated to it through the 1974-'75 Municipal Aid Program. The city officials asked that the Bureau of Highways retain its anticipated allotment of $656 to be added to future allocations to allow for a more substantial program.

The Municipal Aid Program, which became effective July 1, is supported by a one-half cent per gallon gasoline tax. The funds derived from this tax are distributed among the incorporated and unincorporated areas according to the terms of a formula chosen by the General Assembly in 1972.

"In the Saddle" Gives Glimpse Of East Kentucky, Circa 1875

By HELEN PRICE STACY

Back in 1875 a Greenup editor and businessman, K. B. Grahn, mounted his horse and on a cold afternoon began a journey through Eastern Kentucky. His subsequent writings, "In The Saddle," left personal glimpses of a region wealthy in timber, ore and coal and descriptions of villages and people who made history though they were never glorified in books.

The purpose of the long journey was to feel out the need for a railroad and to promote such a venture.

Starting from Willard, where the Eastern Kentucky Railway came to a sudden end in the middle of a well-fenced cornfield, Grahn wrote that the road's charter would allow them two choices for continuing the line, one via Paintsville and the Big Sandy to the West Virginia line or via West Liberty and up Licking River. He believed the Paintsville route would be chosen.

The most extensive landowner along the way was the Ironton Company with 12,000 acres of valuable land. This acreage extended to Cherokee Gap, "where the proposed railroad line requires a tunnel of 1200 feet length." The gap had become notorious due to an area man "who was represented as being inclined to dispatch lonely travelers into the eternal hunting grounds on short notice." However, a family living nearby provided guard service to travelers through the gap, a service that also provided the family "large and easy wages."

Grahn also describes the old-fashioned hospitality of his friend Berry Fuget, who was in charge of the Cherokee post office.

"Many nights have I passed under his hospitable shelter, and often have I thought of the pleasant hours passed there in front of the blazing wood fire whilst his daughter and son entertained me with the pleasant music of the dulcimer."

The traveler noted wide valleys and splendid farms as he neared Big Blaine. "Farms long since abandoned are resurrecting and instead of going West, as has been the sad ambition of our mountaineers for years past, people turn to work at home where industry will carry them as far as in the Western or any other part of the globe."

On arriving at Hoods Fork, a main trading center on the railroad line, Grahn compared the area with beauty spots in Elliott and Carter. "... the same wild and romantically beautiful appearance of the Cracker's Neck, Caney, Clifty, Sinking, Laurel, head of Paint country. The same fantastically shaped cliffs, the same bold precipices, suddenly sloping into patches of rich meadowland, the same vegetation, the laurel evergreen, holly and dwarf pines surround us."

Grahn also describes his impressions of Paintsville.

of Paintsville.

"This little town (Paintsville) lies about one mile above the mouth of Big Paint, a point at which the Big Sandy river connects Paintsville with the rest of the world, i.e. during high water when small steamboats convey men and chattel between Catlettsburg and Pikeville; during the low water season, 'pushboats' do the carrying business between these points."

Grahn told of brick dwellings in the Johnson County seat, brick courthouses and both Southern and Northn Methodist churches. "The law is well represented by Fru Stewart, Brown & Preston, W. W. Brown and others, all men of ability. Two hotels, the Preston and the Henry House furnish both to man and beast all necessary comfort and shelter. The merchants of this town, Joe Borders, W. W. Brown, S. P. Hager, J. D. Preston and D. Davis are enjoying a good trade and we believe deserve the confidence of their friends."

His Paintwville stay was pleasant, but Grahn could remain only a few hours before he and his horse once again were on their way through the beautiful hills and valleys of Eastern Kentucky, enjoying the hospitality traditional in mountain towns and homes.

VISIT IN HAWAII

Mr. and Mrs. George Prater, of Charleston, W. Va., and Mrs. Everett Hager, of David, have returned from a vacation of two weeks with Mrs. Hager's daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Garrell, of Waialva, Hawaii. Warrent Officer Garrell is stationed at the Schoffield U. S. Army base in Hawaii.

Parkway Receipts Drops in September From August Tolls

Frankfort, Ky.—Toll receipts on Kentucky's parkway system totaled $1,775,677 for the month of September, 1974, according to statistics released by the Department of Transportation.

That figure represents a decrease of $8,349 from last year, when parkways and toll facilities received $1,784,026.

For August of this year, toll receipts came to $2,332,583. The following figures represent cash received by each toll facility individually for the months of September and August, 1974: Shawneetown Bridge, $32,091 for September, $39,860 for August; Kentucky Turnpike, $625,776, $883,095; Mountain Parkway, $144,652, $170,642; Mountain Parkway Extension, $56,150, $67,511; Western Kentucky Parkway, $256,086, $336,634; Western Kentucky Parkway Extension, $15,430, $21,931; Blue Grass Parkway, $171,567, $223,402; Jackson Purchase Parkway, $38,740, $47,562; Pennyrile Parkway, $134,309, $171,403; Sebree Bridge, $3,856, $4,091; Audubon Parkway, $43,500, $53,489; Daniel Boone Parkway, $45,457, $46,978; Green River Parkway, $129,287, $163,101; and Cum-

"FUEL COSTADJUSTMENT"

What is it? Where did it come from? When will it go away?

The "Fuel Cost Adjustment" is that devilish little line on your electric bill that annoyingly spotlights your rising costs.

It allows a utility whose rates are based on (among other things) normal fuel costs, to pass on to its customers increases in the cost of fuel.

It's not new.

It's been part of our approved rate tariff for many, many years. But because fuel costs were stable, it was rarely necessary to use the adjustment clause.

$4.25 to $5.25 a ton. Then, a year or so ago, along came our "friends" in the Middle East with their oil embargo and the whole world of fuel and energy was turned upside down.

Coal costs exploded.

Today, the price is more like $30.00 a ton. That's an increase of about 600%.

So, thanks in large part to the Arabs, you have a whopping big "Fuel Cost Adjustment" charge on each bill.

Incidentally, there is something we hope you understand:

Not one cent...not a single penny of the money you pay for fuel adjustment is retained by us. It goes directly to our fuel suppliers.

We're caught in the middle.

And many of our friends and neighbors who we've tried to mad at us about something that is beyond our control.

When will it go away?

When this country stops being so dependent on foreign fuel. And starts using our own natural resources to the fullest. America has half the world's known supply of coal. But it's not worth a thing until we get it out of the ground.

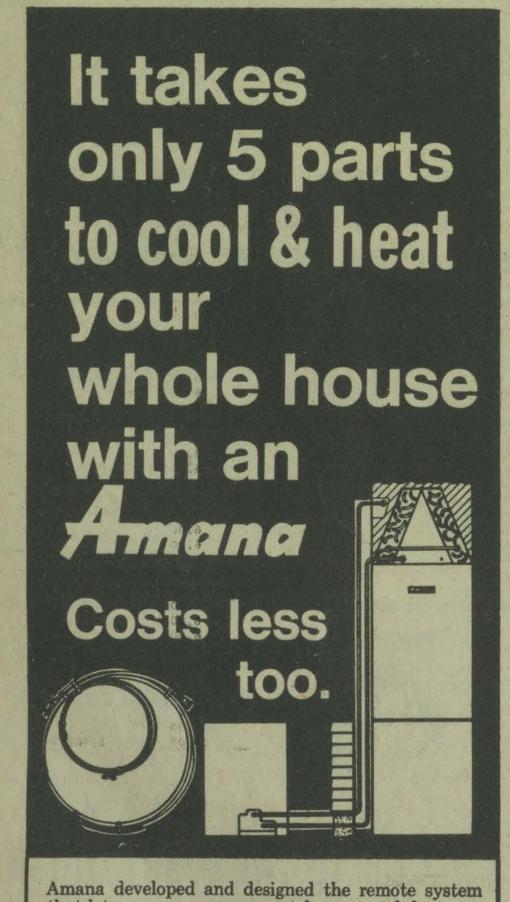

If we in America dig enough, the price of coal will come down.

If we can save on the cost of a ton of coal, you'll save on your electric bill.

Because the "Fuel Cost Adjustment" works both ways you know.
