

Jury Fails To Convict For Slaying State May Abandon Case vs. Johnson; Sykes Case Is Next

The Commonwealth may be despairing of success in its attempt to convict Carlos Johnson of the slaying of Roy Dean Ray after a jury last Thursday for the second time failed to agree as to his guilt or innocence.

The jury reportedly stood 11 to 1 for acquittal in the second trial of the case. Ray was fatally stabbed at the Johnson home, but the defendant claimed he was attacked and that he acted in self-defense.

Robert Sykes was slated to go on trial next Monday for the Pike county murder of Mrs. Boone Deskins, but the trial has been continued till Nov. 11. The case was transferred to the Floyd circuit court from Pike on a change of venue. Mrs. Deskins' husband and two others have already been convicted of the woman's slaying.

Trial of Richard Tackett, charged with the murder of Claude Hamilton, is docketed for Sept. 26. Hamilton allegedly suffered a broken neck when struck by Tackett and died later in a Lexington hospital.

Motion and grounds for a new trial for David Grigsby, who was convicted Sept. 11 on a charge of illegal possession of obscene material for distribution or sale to the public, have been filed. Grigsby was fined $5,000 and given a jail term of six months and a day. His grounds for a new trial claim that he was tried in

Cooley To Fill Council Vacancy

Hansel Cooley was named to the Prestonsburg City Council at last Thursday's Council meeting to fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Dr. N. Roger Jurich. Mr. Cooley's term of office is to continue till the November, 1975 election when a member of the Council will be elected to serve for the remainder of the term.

Also appointed by Mayor Goebel was C. J. McNally, to the Prestonsburg Water & Gas Commission. The appointment was made necessary by the recent death of William O. Goebel, Sr., chairman of the commission and father of Mayor Goebel. Other members of the commission are Phillip Damron and Blaine R. Hall.

A decision was reached at the Council meeting to make permanent the one-way designation of Dingus street from US 23 to its intersection with Central. This serves to permit traffic to leave the highway and enter Dingus but prevents traffic from entering onto US 23 from that street.

Mrs. Pitts Receives National Distinguished Service Award

Jayne Frances Pitts, Floyd county extension agent for home economics, will be recognized for her accomplishments in home economics Extension education during the annual conference of the National Association of Extension Home Economists (NAEHE) in Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 23-27.

Mrs. Pitts will receive NAEHE's Distinguished Service Award at a Thursday night banquet, Sept. 26. Two other Kentucky extension agents, Catherine C. Thompson, Fulton county, and Martha Lee Stamper, Owen county, will receive similar recognition.

A native of Malone, Ky., Mrs. Pitts has been in this county since she began extension work in 1958. She has both BS and MS degrees from Morehead State University and is active in both the Kentucky Association of Extension Home Economists and the Kentucky Home Economics Association.

Since Mrs. Pitts came here the Homemakers organization has grown from four clubs to 11, with a membership of 200. A Homemakers Council has been organized and leader training meetings held. Currently, several Floyd county Homemakers hold positions of leadership with the area Homemakers organization.

In addition, Mrs. Pitts has served as adviser to the Northeast Kentucky Homemakers officers and has helped other extension agents in the area with Homemakers Club organization.

Feud Days Scene, Feature at Fair

A tableau of feud days, featuring the Hatfields and the McCoy's, fashioned by students of Carlos Neeley, Prestonsburg art instructor, perhaps drew more attention at the Floyd County Fair than any other exhibit. Using papier mache freely in the work, they constructed a rugged setting for the scene, complete with bridge spanning the Tug Fork which separated the two clans along the Kentucky-West Virginia border.

Exhibits from Farm and Home, School Feature 20th Floyd Fair

The county fair, which has become a kind of institution in this and numerous other rural Kentucky counties, concluded a four-day stand at Archer Park Saturday as exhibits were packed away in the afternoon, followed by the dismantling of carnival rides and game booths later that night.

The fair, which opened at the park last Wednesday, provided youngsters the usual carnival entertainment and, more significantly, perhaps, allowed Floyd countians of all ages to display products of their handiwork, artistic dexterity and gardening skills.

A total of 2,030 exhibits were entered

New Pic-Pac Store Opening Here Today

Prestonsburg's newest store, Price's Pic-Pac Supermarket, is opening today (Wednesday) in its new building off US 23 in the northern (lower) section of town.

The business is owned and operated by Taylor Price and son, Carl Price, of Prestonsburg. Its air-conditioned building has a floor area of 10,200 square feet and the parking area will accommodate about 100 cars.

and exhibited in this year's display area and included varied examples of garden produce, home canning, woodworking, needlecraft, weaving, flower arranging, antiques and hobby craft. County 4-H clubs provides 1,153 exhibits; FHA, 322, and 125 exhibits were entered by the FFA. Adult entries included 100 canning displays, 107 textiles and 134 examples of field crops. The exhibits were ranked by white, red and blue ribbons.

Among special groups entring exhibits, Mountain Manor Nursing Home won first place for the second consecutive year and Mountain Comprehensive Care's Day Care Center took second place. Winning first place in the consolidated elementary school division was Clark Elementary with Osborne and Prestonsburg Elementary taking second and third, respectively. Bonanza grade school won on its exhibit in the rural school category.

First in high school competition was Prestonsburg high's art department for its papier mache reconstruction of a Hatfield-McCoy feud scene. Winners of the two bicycles which were given away this year are Martha Blackburn, of Dwaile, a fifth grader at Allen grade school, and Sue Goble of Hippo, a first grader at Maytown elementary.

The commercial section of the exhibit area was termed the "biggest and best yet," with displays including boats, motorcycles, a mini-greenhouse and Floyd Health Department nurses administering free blood pressure tests.

County Extension Agent Jack Friar said this year's number of exhibits were about the same as last but he noted an increase in garden and canned goods exhibits which, he believes, indicates that more Floyd countians are gardening in response to increased grocery prices. Friar also said that, despite high potato prices, potato exhibits were better and more numerous this year than last.

Citizen Group May Buy Town

Members of the David community heard last Wednesday the report of the David Development Corporation's negotiations for the purchase from Woodrow Branham of the town of David.

The corporation, a non-profit organization composed of local citizens, announced the signing of a $3,000 eight-month option and quoted Branham's selling price at $110,000.

The David Development Corporation is presently negotiating for a water system and exploring funding possibilities for purchasing the town. At last Wednesday night's meeting more than $1000 was pledged.

WEATHER REPORT

To those who have strayed away to balmy climates such as Florida, Texas and points between, we report, dear hearts and gentle people, there was frost in dear, old Floyd county this week. . . As the drunk said after lying out in the open through the chilly night, there was frost on the punkin-head.

REMEMBER?

Next week, if nothing pops, we hope to print a picture that has a fair measure of nostalgia about it. It's what we used to call an "evaporator" but which is fairly well known, these days, as a molasses or cane mill.

Remember when teacher would let school out, a bit early, so that all the "scholars" could go the cane mill? And

Bankruptcy May Be Next Stage For Auxier Firm

The 30-day receivership granted by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley for the debt-ridden Princess Manufacturing Company, of Auxier, has ended and bankruptcy proceedings may be next in line, it was indicated here this week.

Stefan Magura, a former Princess executive, and John G. Heinze, of Prestonsburg, were named receivers after employees had filed mechanics' liens to collect wages due, the Bank Josephine had lodged a heavy claim for loans made to the company, and both state and federal tax departments had sued to collect unpaid taxes.

One of the major tasks facing the receivers was to get the garment manufacturing plant back into operation. They ran into a flock of difficulties. The contract with the U. S. government for apparel for the military needed renegotiating because Princess' bid on the work was too low—that, or a reduction in workers' pay while the contract was being fulfilled. But neither plan developed.

A Boston firm expressed interest in taking over the plant and operating it but lost interest when it learned Princess was unionized.

One of the last acts of the receivers was to file suit in circuit court here last week against NuLook Fashions, seeking to collect $13,272.30 for 951 coats made by Princess, allegedly at the request of defendants. Last July, Nu Look sued Princess, alleging that the Auxier plant

Island Cr. To Shift Second Unit To Area

The shift of Island Creek Coal Company's mining headquarters from its original Holden, W. Va. location to Eastern Kentucky was further emphasized last week with the announcement that a division complex will be built south of Paintsville to join the division headquarters already under construction in that vicinity.

The complex will be equipped to provide specialized and centralized services for various Island Creek mining operations in Kentucky and West Virginia and reportedly will deal with mining equipment.

Employment at the centralized facility will eventually reach 75 to 100 employees. Although a number of the jobs there will require highly skilled workers who will be transferred from other areas, company officials indicated that the facility will offer local employment opportunities.

Announcement of this second shift of Island Creek's activities to Johnson county was made late last Tuesday by Governor Wendell H. Ford and Island Creek president, Stonie Barker, Jr. The announcement followed by about two months the company's decision to move its divisional administrative staff from Holden to Johnson county.

The 30-acre site for the centralized "shop" facility is so near Paintsville that it is being annexed by the city. It will be served by city utilities. Access roads connecting the site with KY 40 are being built by state, federal and local governments. A building covering approximately one acre will be erected on this site as soon as possible.

The divisional office structure now under construction is about three miles south of Paintsville and will serve as headquarters for the division president, managers of mines, and the departments of safety, engineering, preparation, industrial relations, industrial engineering, accounting and purchasing.

The move to this section followed large-scale development of Island Creek coal properties in Martin county.

Island Creek's executive office is in Lexington. It is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Occidental Petroleum Co., Los Angeles, California.

FIRST-PRIZE EXHIBIT. This Mountain Manor Nursing Home display of patients' handicrafts won the top award in its category at the Floyd County Fair last week.

Sports at a Glance

By C. OLLIE ROBINSON

Prestonsburg's outstanding runner and kicker, Danny Layne, has pulled out in front in the individual scoring race in Eastern Kentucky. Layne scored on a field goal, touchdown and kicked three extra points in the Wheelwright game and in five games Layne has a total of 51 points for an average of 10.2 points per game.

Coach John Gordon Goble's Prestonsburg Grade School football teams split their doubleheader with Oil Springs Grade School last Wednesday. In the fifth and sixth grade games the Little Blackcats won, 12-6, as Randy Chaffins scored both touchdowns. Coach Goble used boys from the first grade all the way through the sixth; however, the seventh and eighth grade teams found that Oil Springs had a potent runner as halfback Fairchild scored four touchdowns to lead his team to 28 to 6 win over the Little Blackcats. Jack Goodman, scatback for Prestonsburg, registered the lone touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Thursday (tomorrow) the Prestonsburg teams will face Wayland at the Blackcat field. The fifth and sixth grade game will start at 5:30 p.m., and the seventh and eighth will follow.

Scores from last week's play: Boyd Co. 16, Belfry 3; Ashland 14, Ironton, Ohio 13; Johns Creek 40, Phelps 0; Raceland 29, Morgan Co. 0; Mullins 52, Virgie 22; Paintsville 9, Jenkins 8; Johnsons Central 7, Pikeville 6; Russell 27, Greenup Co. 0; Hazard 51, M. C. Napier 8; Elkhorn City 19, Fleming-Neon 6; M. M. I. 14, Breathitt Co. 12; Maysville 46, Louisa 8; East Carter 38, West Carter 0.

Cats Win County Football Title With Victory over Wheelwright

By C. OLLIE ROBINSON

The Prestonsburg Blackcats rolled to their fourth straight win and the Floyd county football championship Friday night when they defeated their only county rivals, the Wheelwright Trojans, by a score of 24 to 6.

It was a long, penalty-plagued ball game. Prestonsburg was penalized 13 times for 182 yards; Wheelwright, penalized five times for 75 yards. The game lasted two hours and 25 minutes.

Danny Layne was starred for Prestonsburg. Layne kicked a 25-yard field goal, kicked three extra points, scored a touchdown on an 18-yard run and led the Cat rushers with 162 yards on 19 carries. Quarterback Del Jagers scored on a one-yard run and Jerry Fannin scored on a 20-yard interception return to close out the Prestonsburg assault on the goal line. Steve Campbell followed Layne in rushing with 58 yards on 10 carries. Jagers had a good night in passing as he completed three of six for 48 yards. The Blackcats had 16 first downs; Wheelwright, 12.

The Wheelwright duo of Little and Jamerson kept the Blackcat defense alert throughout the game as the two were the team's leading ground gainers. Wheelwright's eighth grade quarterback, Joe Tackett, was very impressive with his handling of his team. Wheelwright scored when a punt bounced off a Blackcat player into the end zone, where Wheelwright's Jamerson fell on it for his team's lone score.

Jamerson was injured on what would have been the last play of the game. Jamerson, one of the county's most promising athletes, broke a small bone in his left leg and will be out for about six weeks. He is a sophomore and plays all sports at Wheelwright.

Friday, the Blackcats will travel to Russell. Saturday, Wheelwright will go to Lewis County.

Friday's schedule: Prestonsburg (4-1) at Russell (4-1), Leslie County at Breathitt county, East Carter at Rowan County, Boyd county at Portsmouth, Ohio, Johns Creek (3-1-1) at Paintsville (3-1), Hazard at Evarts, Jenkins (1-5) at M. C. Napier (4-1), Phelps (0-2) at Mullins (3-2), Greenup County at Raceland, Virgie at Burch, W. Va.

Saturday games: Fleming-Neon (3-3) at Pikeville (2-2-1), Johnson Central (3-2) at Belfry (3-2), Wheelwright (1-4-1) at Lewis County.

Thanks All Who Helped In Cystic Fibrosis Drive

Mrs. James R. Allen, Cystic Fibrosis Foundation chairman for Floyd County, this week expressed appreciation to all those who contributed to the Breath of Life Campaign, and to the volunteers who gave of their time and untiring efforts in the Campaign. These volunteers include the Co-Ed-Y of Prestonsburg High School, and members of the Lancer Baptist Youth group.

Over $800 was raised in this areas, which will support National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation programs for diagnosis, treatment, research, and public education.

Two Schools Ask Exemption From Girls' Basketball Law

At its September meeting, the state Board of Education elected its chairman, vice-chairman and secretary for the coming year. Rev. Bob Brown, pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church in Lexington, was elected chairman. Dr. David C. Asher, a physician in Pineville, was elected vice-chairman. Sam Alexander, deputy superintendent of public instruction, Frankfort, was elected secretary.

Despite the hue and cry about the girls' basketball bill passed by the 1974 General Assembly and signed by Gov. Wendell H. Ford, only two schools requested exemption from participation.

Estill County sought exemption for financial reasons and Dawson Springs because only four girls were interested. Both were granted one year exemptions by the board.

In his report to the board, Dr. Lyman V. Ginger said that the lawsuit filed recently by State Representative Larry Hopkins, R-Lexington, and Albert Christen, Louisville, finance commissioner in former Gov. Louie B. Nunn's administration, is a "real shocker" and one that "would hit education very, very hard indeed" if it is upheld. The lawsuit challenges the authority of the legislature to give the governor the power to spend surplus funds.

Dr. Ginger said that every school system in Kentucky will have a deficit budget if surplus funds are lost that have been allocated to cover a 2 per cent increase in current expenses.

Other areas of education that would be affected if the lawsuit freezes or revokes surplus funds include: free textbooks for grades 1-8; construction projects at vocational schools; construction and expansion at the School for the Deaf in Danville; staffing, equipment, materials and a subregional library for the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped; and a computer service that will simplify record-keeping for schools throughout Kentucky.

Warren County School Superintendent, Robert Gover, described a financial problem his school system shares with all but two of Kentucky's 185 school districts. The source of the problem is two sets of figures used in property tax assessment by the state Revenue Department.

Local property taxes are collected on the basis of assessments made by local property valuation administrators, but the amount each school district must contribute to receive state money through the Minimum Foundation Program is based on a different set of figures. The second set of figures is the Department of Revenue's estimate of property value based on surveys of property sales in the area.

In almost every case, the second set of

Ky. Arts Exhibit Featured At PCC

The Kentucky Arts Commission is sponsoring an exhibition of photographs of historic Kentucky structures at the Prestonsburg Community College library which is open from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Friday.

The aim of the exhibition is to cast light on Kentucky structures made by man before 1900. Emphasis is on personal interpretations of the photographers, and how these structures interact with their human and physical environments.

Photographs were selected by Bill Strode of the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times and by Herb Greene, Professor of Architecture, University of Kentucky, on the basis of photographic creativeness and quality. Selections were not influenced by the historic or aesthetic significance of the subject.

figures is higher, so local school districts have problems coming up with their required shares. The board decided to ask the Revenue Department to use one set of assessment figures.

In other action, the board gave its permission to the Ashland school system and the Fayette County school system to contract with private companies to computerize attendance records. Dr. Ginger said that the Department of Education hopes to have a computer system available for all Kentucky schools, without charge, by September, 1975.

The board directed the Department of Education to contract an outside agency to conduct an in-depth study of its Bureau of Rehabilitation Services and Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. The board also heard a personnel matter in executive session. The matter involved charges which Mrs. David Lisle made against the Bureau of Rehabilitation Services. The board decided unanimously that her charges were without merit. The board did not specify the charges.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for Dec. 3-4.

Five State Buildings Named as Historic

Frankfort, Ky.—A 100-year old library without a front was one of five Kentucky buildings added to the National Register of Historic Places this past August. According to Mrs. Eldred W. Melton, acting executive director of the Kentucky Heritage Commission, three courthouses and a church were the other additions.

Chartered in 1877 in the Old Library Building in Maysville, served for a while as a museum. The first librarian was interested in natural history.

Until recently the library had no front; however, efforts of local citizens have made possible the addition of a front in keeping with the old design. The structure will be dedicated later this year. When in operation, the Old Library will serve Maysville as a genealogical library, museum and art gallery.

The three courthouses are in London, Ky., Adair County and Clark County. Built in 1909, London's Federal Building-Courthouse was the scene of the 1938 Harlan County Conspiracy Cases Trial in which 47 men and 22 corporations engaged in coal mining were prosecuted by the federal government for conspiring to prevent coal miners in Harlan County from organizing for collective bargaining. This trial was the first attempt in the courts to establish a precedent of punitive penalties under the 1935 Wagner Act.

A four-sided clock in the tower of the Adair County Courthouse is a landmark. This late-Victorian courthouse, designed in 1886 by McDonald Brothers of Louisville, was built by William Henry Hudson. Hudson was so proud of his work that he had his portrait carved in a capital (the top of a column) on the porch; a figure presumed to be his wife faces him from the capital opposite.

The present Clark County Courthouse was built in 1855. The first permanent courthouse in Clark County was a two-room log structure erected in 1794 for a total cost of $16. The first brick courthouse was built in 1797 and replaced in 1821.

Aside from being an architectural landmark of the Greek Revival style, the Clark County Courthouse houses an unusually extensive archive of county records dating back to 1793. Henry Clay made his first speech in the earlier courthouse, and his last one there in the celebrated Quisenberry Will case shortly before his death in 1852. At one time in the late 19th century, the courtroom was even used as an opera house.

The present Sacred Heart Church in Campbell County has played an essential role in developing and preserving the character of the Bellevue community. Herz Jesu Kirche, as the German immigrants originally called their house of worship, was designed by noted Cincinnati architect Louis Pickett to recall the native German churches of so many of its parishioners.

REA Leaders To Attend 7-State Meet in Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga., September 23—Over 1,300 rural electric cooperative leaders from seven southern states will gather here September 25 through 27 for a meeting of rural electric power matters with officials from their national organization and the federal government.

Sponsored by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, (NRECA) this combined meeting of Region's II and III is the fourth of nine such regional meetings to be held this fall. The three-day meeting brings together managers, board members and other state and local rural electric leaders from Florida, Georgia, and South Carolina in Region II and Alabama, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee in Region III.

NRECA is the Washington-based service association of the nearly 1,000 rural electric systems serving over 20 million consumers in 46 states.

The 171 NRECA-member systems in the seven-state Region II and III area serve over 7.5 million rural consumers.

did you ever master the art of enjoying the juice of a joint of cane by the bite, twist, suck and slurp method?

Now that required timing. First the teeth into the cane, then the twist of the stalk to extrude the juice, the twister meanwhile deftly removing the tongue to a safe distance, then returning it as the twist ended to claim the juice. After a while all this became almost automatic, but until you got into the rhythm of the process there was a very good chance you would come to learn what it really means to be in a pinch.

THE LUCK HOLDS BAD

I will not tell a lie about this fishing trip Neil Allen and I took last week, but I may skip some of the truth. I will repeat, however, and without fear of contradiction, that he and I constitute twin Jonahs and the luck is so putrid that buzzards hover.

First of all, we arrive at this boat dock on Cherokee Lake, just before dusk, and some character dashes in to announce that "they're breaking, right up there." Right up there was only a hundred yards or so above the aforementioned dock, but we do not have our fishing licenses. Because I had no desire to make a conducted tour of the local pokey, I restrained myself, long enough to make myself legal, and by that time it's dark, the fish have gone to the bottom, and those other crazy people are coming into port.

Next afternoon, we're sitting squarely on top of the spot where those rockfish tore the water up. And the fish moved a half-mile or more up-lake to do their calisthenics, that afternoon.

The next day, we position ourselves in what they used to call a coign of vantage, at a spot where we could see both spots where the fish had "broke." We even cruised around a bit, farther up and down the lake. The confounded fish didn't surface at all, that day.

Now for the untold truth, see me later.

ON THE NIXON PARDON

A friend who lives in Texas and who doesn't care about publicity has one of the soundest reasons I've heard for President Ford's pardon of Mr. Nixon. He views the matter with commendable compassion, in these words:

"Since I find it impossible to defend that which is indefensible I take no position on Richard Nixon. However, I hear all this about no man being above the law and that he should be treated the same as any other criminal, and this thought does occur to me: Dean and other aides, when they have served their time, can go most any place and be swallowed up in the crowd with little notice. But where on this earth can an ex-President hide? Any place he goes for the rest of his life, he will be subject to ridicule and insults. If I were in his shoes I would prefer to spend my remaining time in prison and isolated from public scorn.

"Maybe President Ford is right when he says he has suffered enough, but I think he will always suffer. Especially one with his ego."

I am open to suggestions about when I should discard this straw hat. Why not a national Straw-Hat-Taking-Off Day?

HE YIELDED

Lenna Moore reports with his usual accuracy on a highway mishap. Says this driver of a car-haul outfit had trouble with the lights on his truck, this pitch-black night, and was running along on the lights of one of the cars on the top deck. He did all right, but not the driver who was meeting him. This unfortunate took one look, left the highway, passed through a three-strand barb wire fence and wound up 25 yards away in a fodder shock.

The truck-driver stopped, determined that the driver of the car wasn't hurt badly, then inquired why he wrecked.

"Well," said the man, "I saw this thing comin' down the road, and I decided that if it was as wide as it was high the only safe place for me would be in this corn-field."

had completed 825 jackets which it had failed to produce and deliver. At that time Nu Look said it was filing its suit "as a debtor of Princess, and is ready, willing and able to comply with all the terms of its contractual agreements."

A month later, two other firms were granted an injunction permitting them to recover from the plant their materials which were there for processing.

The receivers were granted permission by the court last Thursday to sell 171 sport coats and 17 suburban coats on hand at the Auxier plant. Since the receivership no longer exists, Circuit Judge Conley designated Mr. Magura to handle the sale on commission.

Floyd Student Cast In Alice Lloyd Play

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Dalton Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Howard, of Hueysville, has been cast in "See How They Run," by Arthur Phillip King, the smash hit London comedy. First performance of the play has been set for ALC's Homecoming, Oct. 12.

Ken Baldrige, ALC drama instructor, who will be directing the play, said it was selected by ALC's drama students because "it was the funniest play any of them had ever read."

Before The Slicing

absentia at a time when he was a hospital patient.

Two liquor trials within the last two weeks have failed of a conviction. Paul Tackett was acquitted Sept. 11 of a transporting charge. The jury failed to agree in the trial of Clarence Martin, of Drift on a possession charge, and a second indictment on the same offense was quashed.

Reon Slone pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of knowingly receiving stolen property and was given a one-year pen term. The same charges against Everett Johnson and Keith Day were dismissed after Slone claimed he had no accomplices in the crime.

After the charges of shooting with intent to kill and shooting into a dwelling house had been reduced to shooting and wounding in sudden affray, Raymond Little, Sr., Raymond Little, Jr. and Roger Dale Little entered pleas of guilty and each was fined $100.

Circuit Judge Ben Mann, of Salyersville, has been designated trial judge in the murder cases of Amos and James Gibson, who are charged with the slaying of Ollie Conley. He was named after Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, a nephew of the slain man, had disqualified. Judge Mann is scheduled to hear motions in the case Friday, and he is expected then, or soon afterward, to set a trial date.

Sen. Cook Reaffirms Opposition To Red River Dam Project

State Senator Marlow W. Cook this week reaffirmed his opposition to the proposed construction of a dam on the scenic Red River in Powell county.

Cook also expressed regret that a conference committee had included funding for the controversial project for the 1975 budget after the Senate had voted to drop appropriations for it.

On July 11, Cook requested a formal audit of the Red River Lake project by the General Accounting Office, the investigating arm of Congress, because of alleged contradictions in the figures presented to justify the project. On August 9, the Senator asked the Council On Environmental Quality to turn down the Corps of Engineers' Final Environmental Impact Statement because, Cook said, it presented a grossly inaccurate assessment of the project's economic, social and environmental impacts.

The results of an annual questionnaire conducted by Cook revealed that only 18 per cent of the 22,000 Kentuckians polled this summer supported the project. Those opposed totalled 50 per cent while 32 per cent said they were undecided.

The project, which Cook has opposed particularly because of the severe disruptions it would cause for the scenic Red River Gorge and the homes of area residents, still could be stopped if an adverse GAO or CEQ report prompts further Congressional action, if legal action is brought successfully by interested groups or if the governor of Kentucky withdraws support for the project.

A record number of Americans—almost 4.3 million—were "moonlighting" in May 1973, according to the U. S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Butler-Nellipowitz Vows Said

Wedding vows were exchanged at 6:30 Saturday evening, August 17, in the First Church of God in Paintsville by Miss Shelia Lynn Butler and Mr. David Thomas Nellipowitz.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Earl Butler, of Hager Hill, and the groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Paul James Nellipowitz, of Silver Springs, Md.

The Rev. Tommy Reynolds performed the double-ring ceremony before an arched candelabra, and arrangements of white gladioli and yellow carnations decorated the altar. A program of nuptial selections were presented by pianist, Miss Diana Marshall, and Mrs. Louise Cooper, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white imported English lace over white satin. Double rows of baby pleated organza edged with cotton beading accented the empire waistline, fitted wrist-length sleeves, mandarin neckline and the flowing A-line skirt which ended in a cathedral train. The bride's French silk veil was held in place by a Juliet cap of white satin edged with matching cotton beading. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and baby's breath.

Miss Earlena Mae Butler, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her yellow empire gown was fashioned with a jewel neckline and long tapered sleeves, trimmed with white daisies. She wore a matching picture hat, and carried a bouquet of yellow daisies and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Miss Deder Erwin, a cousin of the bride, Miss Jeanie Baldwin, Miss Teresa Arms and Mrs. Mike Williams. Their gowns were of yellow floral print styled with empire waistlines and long puffed sleeves. They wore matching picture hats and carried bouquets similar to that of the maid of honor.

Mr. Mike Williams served Mr.-Nellipowitz as best man. Ushers were Mr. John Roger Bowlin, cousin of the groom, Mr. Larry Maggard, Mr. Mike Dillion and Mr. Bill Montgomery.

Miss Suzette Johnson, of Hager Hill, was flower girl. She wore a gown like that of the bridesmaids and carried a basket of yellow daisy petals. Rusty Preston, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Butler chose a peach polyester gown, and the groom's aunt, Miss Mary Fern Lemaster, of Washington, D. C. wore an aqua polyester gown. Their corsages were of white daisies and baby's breath.

The ceremony was followed by a reception in the church recreation room with Mrs. Carroll Pelphrey, Miss Carroll Jean Pelphrey, Mrs. Russell Preston, Mrs. Tony Arms and Mrs. Otto Hyden, Jr., assisting. Guests were registered by Mrs. Larry Maggard.

After returning from a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Nellipowitz are residing in Paintsville.

Out-of-town wedding guests were Lynn C. Missich, of Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Daniel, of Fairborn, O., Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Erwin, Deder and Hall, of Vermillion, O., Mr. Howard Branham and children, Barry, Craig, Todd, Bettina and Selena, all of Ragland, W. Va., Mr. and Mrs. Chester Tackett, Mr. and Mrs. Everette Adkins, all of Richmond, Mrs. Halleck Hamilton, of Vermillion, O., Stanley Brobeck, Sr., of Lorain, O., Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carr and son, Bryan, of Ypsilanti, Mich., Mrs. Ellen Louise Conn and family, of Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Williams, of Ironton, O., Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hyden, Jr., of Raceland.

Floyd County Health Notes

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH
(Health Educator)

The Floyd County Health Department will conduct a glaucoma clinic Sept. 27 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Glaucoma is a disease which can slowly and painlessly cause blindness and it usually strikes persons over 35 years of age. The public health nurses urge all persons over 35 to take advantage of this free clinic, because when detected and treated in the early stages glaucoma can be prevented.

SLATE PAP SMEAR CLINIC

Cervical cancer is the second leading cause of cancer deaths in women, but it is potentially curable if caught early enough. Cancer experts believe that these deaths would be completely eliminated if all women would get a yearly pap smear.

The Floyd County Health Department will hold a pap smear clinic Sept. 26 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Patients will be seen by appointment only. If you need an appointment, call the health department at 886-2788, Monday through Friday.

HOW PARENTS CAN HELP

For most young people September brings an important event, the beginning of a new school year. It is a time for making resolutions—to study hard, to do all the homework assigned, to get good grades and to have a good time.

"But if these resolutions are to be kept, parent will have to help, for only a healthy child can do well in school."

To be healthy, a child must eat well. A good breakfast is a "must" for a profitable day. No matter how peppy a child may seem when he sets off for school, he'll be listless and inattentive before mid-morning if he hasn't had enough food of the right kind for his breakfast.

A good breakfast provides about one-third of the food needed for the day. It should include fruit, fruit juice or tomato juice; cereal or an egg, or both; bread and butter or margarine, and milk or cocoa.

Good food keeps the body strong to resist illness and the mind alert for lessons, which in turn makes a happy and successful year.

CHEVROLET FOR 1975. CARS THAT MAKE SENSE FOR TODAY.

Nova LN Sedan

Monza 2+2

MONZA 2+2 The small car of tomorrow will probably be a little more powerful, handy and comfortable than ever. The 1975 Monza 2+2, shown above, offers this today. It has advances like rectangular headlights set in a soft front end, fold-down rear seat, and a new 4.3-litre V8 engine available.

CAMARO Our sensibly sporty compact. It looks like a million and drives like it looks.

IMPALA America's favorite car continues to provide the room many families need plus plenty of quiet and comfort. Still the great American value.

WAGONS Big ones, small ones, in-between ones. Practical wagons that make sense for America. And you.

CHEVELLE Mid-size, easy to drive, room for six, mid-priced, strong reputation for value. America's most popular intermediate.

MONTE CARLO Its special ability: making you feel good. About the way it looks and drives. About your own taste and judgment.

CHEVROLET'S NEW EFFICIENCY SYSTEM FOR 1975

It's the key part of a program aimed at helping our new cars run leaner (more economically), run cleaner—and save you money every mile.

The Efficiency System is standard on all 1975 Chevrolets with V8 or 6-cylinder engines. It's a series of significant engineering improvements working together for the very first time.

Components include High Energy Ignition, catalytic converter, Early Fuel Evaporation and steel-belted radial ply tires. In sum, the System is designed to heighten the pleasure and lower the cost of driving a 1975 Chevrolet—to bring you a better running car in many ways, along with improved fuel economy, more miles between recommended maintenance and an engine that stays cleaner internally because of no-lead fuel.

Your Chevrolet dealer will gladly give you the details and answer your questions. See him and the sensible 1975 Chevrolets starting September 27.

The Ups and Downs of Coffee

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
UK College of Agriculture

Many, many years ago, according to legend, an Arab chieftain was visiting in Persia. While in that country, he became desperately ill but was summarily cured by a Persian physician with a drink brewed from some berries growing wild in the fields. Impressed with this treatment, the legend continues, the Arab carried home and planted some of these wonderful berries and thus introduced coffee into Arabia and subsequently to the world.

Whether or not there is any truth to this story, some botanists believe that Arabia and Abyssinia (now Ethiopia) were the original homes of the coffee tree, the source of a beverage that over the years has been both praised and damned by the clergy, by doctors, and even by governments.

To cite an example of its praise, a "family doctor book," written about 1819, speaks of it in this manner: "Coffee accelerates digestion, corrects crudities, removes colic and flatuencies, mitigates headaches, cherishes the animal spirits, takes away listlessness and languor, and is serviceable in all obstructions arising from languid circulation.

"It is a wonderful restorative to emaciated constitutions, a powerful antidote to the temptation of spirituous liquors, and highly refreing to the studious and sedentary."

About the same time, it was the opinion of another medical man that the use of coffee brought on "sleeplessness, palsy of the hands, indigestion, high blood pressure, and palpitation of the heart."

These are rather strong statements and, according to some modern medical practitioners, the truth lies somewhere between. With coffee drinking, as with everything else, the modern medical injunction is: "Be moderate."

In any case, coffee has an interesting history. One authority states that the Arabs, aside from using it as a beverage and a medicine, also used it in their religious ceremonies for its "intoxicating" effects. Some claimed that the Angel Gabriel gave the coffee plant to Mohammed; others claimed its use was forbidden by the Koran.

Coffee reached Europe in the 1500's and was widely acclaimed for its religious and medicinal virtues. It gave rise to coffee shops and an early version of modern "coffee breaks" where people got together, drank the beverage, and weighed and assayed events of the day. Fearing that these establishments would serve as breeding places for rebellion, authorities repeatedly tried to prohibit coffee drinking and coffee houses by imposing stiff penalties—even the death penalty—but failed in the effort.

In 1675, Charles II of England ordered all coffee houses closed but the uproar was so great that he countermanded the order 16 days later. A few years later, Scandinavia also tried prohibiting coffee, but there, too, the outrage was so great that the order was rescinded and a tax placed on coffee instead.

By 1700, coffee drinking had become popular in America and still remains so today. In many old and long-abandoned homesteads, there still remains faint odors of coffee boiled "strong enough to float an axe-head"—the way most early Americans liked it. Truly, coffee has long been an important beverage and millions of people the world over now consider no meal complete without it.

Medical authorities say a cup of coffee temporarily stimulates reasoning power, whips up tired muscles, and leaves no depressing after-effect as many other stimulants do. Therefore, they say, a good cup of coffee or two a day is not harmful to the average adult.

COMPLETES ARMOR COURSE

Army Second Lieutenant Charles F. Curry, Jr., whose parents reside at Wheelwright, completed a nine-week armor officer basic course at the Army Armor School, Ft. Knox, Kentucky.

His wife, Mary, lives at the MSU Trailer Court, Morehead, Kentucky.

Hayes-Boatwright

Mrs. Ellen Hayes, Lexington, announces the engagement of her daughter, Ella Faye, to Dr. Roy E. Boatwright. Miss Hayes is the daughter of the late Hurshel Hayes. She is a graduate of Georgetown college and the Southern Baptist Seminary, served Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church as educational secretary for 12 years, and is presently employed as director of Religious Education at Gardenside Baptist Church, Lexington. Dr. Boatwright is director of the Sunday School Department of the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

The wedding will be solemnized Friday, October 18, at 7 p.m. by the Rev. James E. Heard in Gardenside Baptist Church, 1667 Alexandria Drive, Lexington. The gracious custom of open church will be observed. A reception will follow in Fowler Hall.

Coast Guard Academy Appointments Open

Washington, D. C., September 18.—Today Congressman Perkins announced that the United State Coast Guard Academy is now accepting and processing applications for appointment as Cadet, U. S. Coast Guard, Class of 1979. Appointments to this academy are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition.

The high school graduate must be unmarried and must have reached his 17th but not his 22nd birthday by July 1, 1975.

Any young man interested in a career as a regular Coast Guard officer should write directly to: Director of Admissions, United States Coast Guard Academy, New London, Connecticut 06230.

Walk into just about any automobile showroom and start asking some questions. Like:

"Does the car come with electronic fuel injection?"

"No."

"What about just fuel injection?"

"Forget about electronic."

"No."

"Can I get a timed preheater?"

"Sorry, but . . ."

"Four-wheel independent suspension?"

"Nope."

"Steel-belted radials?"

"Sure. But you've got to pay extra."

"How about the Owner's Security

"The what?"

"With Computer Analysis?"

"With what?"

Our point is simple:

When you buy a Volkswagen 412, you get everything you've just asked for. For nothing. That's right. You don't pay anything extra for the "extras."

And since our car is a luxurious Volkswagen, it also comes replete with plush seats, thick carpets, big windows, flo-thru ventilation, two trunks, and room, plenty of room. Also at no extra cost.

Getting anything for free these days is a luxury in itself.

Siltation Threat Causes Permit Denial

Frankfort, Ky.—The state division of reclamation's denial of a strip mining permit near the wild river section of the Little South Fork of the Cumberland River in Wayne county, was upheld in a hearing Friday, on an appeal by West Coal Corp., of Oneida, Tenn.

Hearing officer James Boyd, a Frankfort attorney, sustained the denial following testimony, during which a witness for the coal company agreed that the proposed method of operation would result in silt reaching the river.

The company's application to strip mine approximately 80 acres, one and a half miles from the Little South Fork, was denied because the disturbance would "adversely affect" the wild river. Warner Ford, a reclamation engineer in the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, testified that a section of a haul road on the proposed site "would not be controlled as far as silt is concerned." He also said the two proposed silt structures "could possibly" control silt from a portion of the mining area but "not all of it." The uncontrolled silt could cause problems in the river, Ford said.

Testifying for West Coal Corp., Dan Jasper, a civil engineer from Somerset, agreed with Ford that runoffs from the proposed road could reach the river.

A Boating Inspector's Day at Dewey

Water Enforcement Officer Cornelius Freeman conducts a safety inspection of a fishing boat anchored near the shoreline of Dewey Lake in Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. State boating officials advise fishermen (who will account for an estimated 75% of the boating activity on Kentucky waters from now through next Spring) to make sure they have the safety equipment required by state law on board their boats. Equipment should be in serviceable condition before use on the water.

JENNY WILEY STATE RESORT PARK—The sun settled on Dewey Lake's tree-fringed horizon on a recent September day as Cornelius Freeman throttled down his patrol boat and drifted alongside a fisherman whose boat was anchored near a point.

While securing a hold between his boat and the other, Freeman stated his business, "Sir, I'd like to give your boat a safety check."

As an inspector with the state Division of Water Enforcement, Freeman made over 800 safety inspections last year while alternately patrolling the two lakes to which he was, and is, assigned—Dewey and Fishtrap.

The first thing the inspector asks during an inspection is to see the boat operator's boat registration papers.

"Many people," said Freeman, "forget to get the registration papers to carry with them when they borrow a boat which belongs to a friend or another member of their family. And, of course, some people don't remember to bring the registration papers along when they're using their own boat."

"The requirement that the operator have the boat registration papers on board is for the boat owner's own protection. It is a deterrent to boat theft as anyone operating a boat in Kentucky will probably eventually be asked to show the boat's registration papers."

There was not much traffic on Dewey Lake this day. Most of the boats encountered and inspected were fishing boats anchored near points.

"From now through winter," said Freeman, "the majority of the boats which will be on the lakes here in Eastern Kentucky, and throughout the state as well, will be fishing boats."

Since most fishing boats are under 16 feet in length, their operators generally equip them with the cushion type life preservers which are the minimum requirements (one for each person on board) for boats under 16 feet.

"After the cushion type life preservers have been sat on for two or three years," said Freeman, "the foam compresses and gets matted together and the cushions lose their shape."

"Anyone who has a cushion preserver on board their boat that has lost its shape in this manner, probably has a cushion preserver that won't keep them afloat if they ever need it in an emergency."

"Neither will such a cushion pass a safety inspection," advised Freeman, "and its detection would result in a boater being grounded until the cushion is replaced with a serviceable one."

In addition to the registration papers and personal flotation devices (requirements vary with length of boat), Kentucky law also requires that a motorboat operating on Kentucky waters have the boat's registration number painted clearly on both sides of the bow and have the following on board: a U. S. Coast Guard approved fire extinguisher, bailer or pump, anchor and line, paddle or oar. A horn device also is required for all boats over 16 feet.

How do people feel about having their fishing or other boating activity interrupted for a safety inspection?

"We try to get across to the people by our manner that we are on the water to insure their safety," said Freeman, "and people seem to realize this and almost always respond with a cooperative attitude."

At one point during the day, Freeman pulled his boat alongside a boat occupied by a single fisherman.

The fisherman pointed at the inspection sticker on his boat's windshield and said with mock weariness, "You like me, don't you. This is the third time in the last two weeks you've checked me."

Freeman smiled and said, "I thought I recognized you. And, yes, I do like you. I like you well enough to keep checking you to make sure you're safe."

Freeman gave the boat and its equipment a quick check and it was all in good shape.

"By the way," said Freeman, "are they biting?" Both men smiled as the fisherman hoisted a wire basket containing half a dozen "keeper" crappie out of the water.

Movie on Prophecy Slated At Salisbury Church, Sun.

"A Thief in the Night," a new color film, will be shown at Salisbury United Methodist Church, September 29, at 7 p.m. A motion picture about Bible prophecy, it shows what can happen when Jesus Christ returns. This exciting story centers around Patty, an average girl caught up in living for the present, with little concern about the future. What happens when this thinking finally catches up with her provides an action packed, unforgettable drama.

More than 60 million workers in at least 5 million workplaces are covered by the Occupational Safety and Health Act, according to the U. S. Department of Labor.

SEE OLDSMOBILE '75

Introducing Starfire—the little Olds you didn't expect. It's a sporty little four-seater that's smaller than a compact... easy on gas... but abounds in Supercoupe in looks, features and spirit on the road!

Delta 88—our full-size family car never looked better—but it's more than just another pretty car. It's really built for the long miles. 7 models, including a convertible, with room and comfort for a growing family.

Meet Omega Sedan—our luxurious compact for drivers who like the looks and comforts of imported touring cars. It's got the touches you like—but at an Olds price. Choice of three models.

Toronado—America's first contemporary personal luxury car with front wheel drive. It pulls you around turns and along straightaways with outstanding traction. Toronado and Toronado Brougham models.

Cutlass Supreme—now our "little limousine" is big on luxuries, yet it offers improved operating economy. One of eleven mid-sized Cutlass models—including wagons—that are right for the times.

'88 Regency (below)—The most comfortable, most thoroughly luxurious Oldsmobile ever built. Magnificent "house-cushion" look interiors, and a distinctive new look in both six-window sedan and coupe models.

IT'S A GOOD FEELING TO HAVE AN OLDS AROUND YOU.

We raised the gas mileage in every 1975 Olds model.

Every '75 Olds has a new Maximum Mileage System that helps make it a better car in several ways: Our best mileage in years. Smooth-running engines. Fewer tune-ups and less routine maintenance.

And—better exhaust emission control. The System represents the most advanced engineering and technology we can build into a '75 Olds. It includes a new catalytic converter (see below)—and a lot more.

There's a new high-energy ignition, for a hotter spark and improved ignition performance. Also, Olds engineers adjusted shift points in transmissions. Installed low-ratio economy axles. And made GM-spec steel-belted radial tires standard.

As you can see, we've done a lot to improve the gas mileage capability of every 1975 Oldsmobile.

New Catalytic Converter—designed for long life.

This "pod" full of platinum-palladium coated beads provides a new way to reduce most emissions—after combustion in the engine. It does a more effective job—and it eliminates some of the gas-robbing, combustion-stage controls of the past. Best of all, it allowed Olds engineers to re-tune the engines to run smoother and give better MPG than last year.

INTRODUCING THE NEW FORD

ELEGANCE IN A NEW, EFFICIENT SIZE.

THE DESIGN: Granada is designed to help deal with such problems as crowded roads, increased fuel cost and maintenance. Granada is about two feet shorter and a half ton lighter than most standard size cars. So you can expect excellent gas mileage. Yet there's family-size room inside with plenty of head room and trunk space. THE ECONOMICS: Granada's base engine is a Six with solid state ignition that's economical and easy to maintain. And it comes with gas-saving radial ply tires. THE CONSTRUCTION: Granada is put together to stay together. Precision machinery holds body parts in tight alignment as they are welded into a solid unit. The feeling inside Granada is solid and secure; it hugs the road. It has about the weight of a Mercedes 280.

Vandals Twice Hit City Hall; Reward Posted
Mayor William O. Goebel, Jr. said Monday that a reward of $100 will be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who on two successive nights last week-end broke windows in City Hall.
The first window was broken Friday night, and the vandalism was repeated the following evening. Across Lake Drive, in the same vicinity, the cashier's window of the Strand Theatre was smashed.
A reward of $100 also was posted this week for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those who broke into the Allen Central High School during the week-end. A school official said the looters raided a refrigerator, drank some of the milk supply and left the remainder outside to spoil. The school has experienced previous breaks, it was said.
Sheriff Joe W. Lewis said a break into the home of Mrs. Rosie Tackett, near Drift, was reported and that he will make an investigation. He had not learned Monday Mrs. Tackett's loss.
Odis Rife, 26, of the Trace Fork of Licking River, Magoffin county, was arrested Saturday in connection with the recent burglary of the Allen Slone store at Blue River. Rife was jailed here by Sheriff Lewis and Deputies Green Slone and Linzie Hunt.
"Little A" Slone, owner of the Blue River store, estimated $2500 worth of groceries and other merchandise was hauled away in a truck by the thieves.

National Health Insurance Delay Seen by Speaker
Addressing board members of the Big Sandy Area Development District here last week, Robert McQueen, executive assistant to Senator Walter Dee Huddleston, told the board that while it is unlikely that Congress will enact a national health insurance program this year, some form of national health care protection is inevitable.
At the meeting, part of a two-day health planning seminar held Monday and Tuesday at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, McQueen said the federal government "must play a role in guaranteeing quality health service to every American, but we must not remove the freedom of a doctor or patient to choose where and how they will give or receive health care."
McQueen praised the recently passed Health Services Act of 1974 which, he explained, extends and modifies four major programs and continues health revenue sharing for one year "giving the states more flexibility in the use of health service monies." He added that another bill recently reported out of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee would provide incentives to increase the number of family physicians in areas now facing a shortage, including Eastern Kentucky.
A presentation by Katherine Peden and Ted Broida for a five-county industrial development study came in the form of an application for Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) funding as a demonstration project.
Mrs. Peden had presented a much larger program at the board's August meeting which would have required that a major part of county severance tax funds be allocated for the acquisition, development and promotion of industrial sites. This earlier proposal gained little support because officials in the five counties of Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Magoffin and Martin had, for the most part, committed severance tax money to other projects.
The revised proposal came after representatives of the ARC expressed interest in funding of an industrial development study for the five-county area which would deal particularly with determining ways for making sites where no sites are presently available, including the possible use of former strip mine areas.
The proposal was referred to the executive committee for study and recommendation and a final decision by the board is expected at the next meeting in October.

Kentucky Receives Research Grant
Kentucky has received a preliminary grant of $253,700 from the National Science Foundation (NSF) for research on new technology to estimate real estate values and maintain land records.
Revenue Commissioner John Ross announced the grant last week, stating that his agency competed for the grant with 30 public and private organizations. Ross also said that Fayette County will be the chief laboratory in this state for testing new methods. Two other metropolitan areas outside Kentucky will be picked for similar NSF grants.

Funds derived from the show will go to the air-conditioner project at the school.

Bicentennial Ball Set For December

The marble halls and floors of Kentucky's state capitol building in Frankfort will echo with the sounds of an orchestra and the rustle of dancers as the 1974 Kentucky Bicentennial year comes to a close with its most dramatic and glamorous event, the Bicentennial Ball.

The ball, to be held on Dec. 14, will be preceded by champagne receptions and tours of old historic homes in Frankfort, which will be opened especially for the occasion.

The dance music will be provided by a 60 piece orchestra with nationally prominent entertainers. Gov. Wendell Ford and other honored guests will arrive at the Capitol in horse drawn carriages.

Invitations to the ball will be reproductions of one sent in 1824 to a ball given in Frankfort in honor of the Marquis de Lafayette. They will be printed in Williamsburg, Va. on a press as old as the Commonwealth of Kentucky. The invitations will be issued in a very limited number and will become collector's items.

Honorary chairman of the ball, Steve Wilson, whose company, J. S. Wilson and Assocs., is under contract to plan Lexington's Bicentennial celebration next summer, says that no state funds will be spent on the ball and that he is being paid only for expenses incurred during the planning of the ball. All costs will be paid by admission charges and sponsors.

Mrs. Paul Westpheling, executive director of the Kentucky Historical Events Celebration Commission, says, "We in the Bicentennial Commission have worked hard to commemorate the year of our first settlement and our proud heritage. Our last event of the year will be the grandest and most magnificent ball that has ever been held in the state of Kentucky."

OLD KENTUCKY RESTAURANT is giving away at noon Dec. 24, 1974 a genuine 1.20-Carat Diamond Ring. (Value $800, from Abby's Gift Shop) or a Round-Trip Air Fare for two to Disney World, plus $250 cash, or you can accept cash instead of the prizes.

HERE'S HOW: A free ticket is given for every $2.00 purchase. Thus you will be getting a delightfully good meal at no extra cost, with a chance to win the wonderful prize of your choice.

We have all kinds of good eats.

Our breakfast is out of this world. It's genuine good, oldtime Home-Made Biscuits (not the store-canned kind) with real mouth-watering, good country ham, country eggs and "Mountain Dew" coffee. Or any other good breakfast you may choose.

Also delightful meals from the steam table, with good fresh vegetables, well prepared, just like dear old mom fixes at home. We also have delicious sandwiches.

For our evening meal we serve delicious steaks, sea foods of all kinds or from the steam table. Also big, thick home-made pies that melt in your mouth.

All these good eats at very reasonable prices.

Don't forget Wednesday night is Steak Night Special—big 16-oz. steaks going for $4.95. Friday night is Sea Food Special Night—a big saving on Sea Foods. This is all hard to beat. You can't miss. Come and see us.

Hall-Bradbury Vows Said

Miss Ramona L. Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hall, of Allen, and Philip N. Bradbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bradbury, of Inez, were united in marriage, August 11, at the Allen Baptist Church. The double-ring ceremony was solemnized by Rev. Earl Waugh before an altar decorated with ivy and spiral candelabra holding lighted tapers.

A program of nuptial selections was presented by Mrs. Walter Frasure, organist, and Mr. Harvey Turner, of Gracey, Kentucky who sang "One Hand, One Heart," "The Wedding Song" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of Maracain jersey and Venice lace. The shirred bodice had a keyhole neckline and a wedding ring collar of lace. Full bishop sleeves extended to cuffs of lace and the empire waist was banded with wide lace which held the softly gathered skirt that swept to a chapel train edged in matching lace.

She wore a Juliet cap edged in Venice lace that held the silk illusion fingertip veil edged in matching lace. She carried a white keepsake Bible with a cascade bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. Ruth A. Fairchild, matron of honor, wore a blue formal matte jersey floor-length gown. She carried a cascade bouquet of blue miniature carnations with matching head band.

Miss Susan Watts was maid of honor in a green formal gown matching that of the maid of honor. She carried a cascade bouquet of green miniature carnations with matching headband.

The bridesmaids, Misses Rita and Elizabeth Hall, sisters of the bride, Miss Barbara Bradbury, sister of the groom, and Miss Sally Music, all wore rainbow colored gowns identical to that of the maid of honor.

Billy P. Fairchild served as best man, and ushers were Nick Clark, of Mt. Sterling, Harvey Turner, of Gracey, Ky., David Harrington, Greg DeRossett and Ronald Wallen.

Mrs. Hall chose a blue floor-length knit dress and wore a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Bradbury wore a pink floor-length gown with matching jacket, and wore a white orchid corsage.

Guests were registered by Miss Susan White, cousin of the bride. The wedding was co-ordinated by Mary J. Meade.

Mrs. Helen Wells, Mrs. Ronald Wallen, Mrs. George Archer and Miss Helen Francis assisted with the reception at May Lodge immediately following the ceremony.

After a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the couple will be residing at Richmond, where both are students.

Robert Spradlin, local agent of Kentucky Central Life Ins. Co., has been named the leading agent in the consumer savings division for the month of August. He is a member of the Highlands Area Agency in Prestonsburg and won this award in competition with other Kentucky central agents throughout the state. During August, Mr. Spradlin placed over $500,000 of Life Insurance on Floyd countians. His professionalism was rewarded with an engraved plaque and recognition in the company magazine. He and his wife, Mickey, and two children, Tim and Lisa, reside at Owens Mobile Home Court, West Prestonsburg.

Goble-Roberts News

Mrs. Goldie Woody and family, of Columbus, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Edgille Fouts and children, of Galion, Ohio, were here last week-end for the funeral of their sister, Mrs. Goldie Jones, of Melvin. While here they spent their time with their sister, Loretta Rainey, and sons, Gary and Willie.

Mrs. Zennia Jones visited Mrs. Ray Burchett last Thursday.

Cora May spent a few days recently with her sister, Jessie Cline, of Inez. While there she visited many of her old friends. Mrs. May lived in Inez before coming to Prestonsburg, 14 years ago.

Mrs. Evelyn Fowel visited the Mays last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Cisco, of Falmouth, visited her mother, Rebecca Burchett, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Domain Griffith and son Chris and Mrs. Birdie Wells are enjoying a camping trip this week, near Ft. Knox.

The family of Grace Jones wishes to extend thanks to the Merion Funeral Home, the Baptist ministers, the friends who sent flowers and the ones who furnished the food.

Practical Skills Among Classes Offered at PCC

Sister Mary Pineau will teach a community service course in Simple Handloom Methods at Prestonsburg Community College on Wednesdays, Oct. 2-16, 6:30-8:30 p.m. The class will meet in the Commons Room of the Martin Student Center. This basic weaving course will cover the mechanics of simple types of handweaving on the Inkle loom, the frame loom, and the needle or stick loom for the making of belts, purses, pillow tops, wall hangings, and bookmarks. Sister Mary has taught this course numerous times in the community service program at P. C. C. Those interested should contact the community service office, 886-3863, ext. 208.

Two other courses which have been offered before will begin Tuesday, October 1, 7 p.m.: Residential House Wiring, taught by Ted Nairn, will meet in Room 113 of the Pike Technology Building, and Social Dancing, taught by Toby Weaver, will meet in the Student Center.

Another class which may be of interest to many of our residents is a course in speed reading and comprehension which will begin Oct. 7 with meetings on Monday and Wednesday evenings, 7 p.m., in Room 104 of the Pike Technology Building.

Inmates Donate To Kidney Fund

By HERB BROCK

Frankfort, Ky.—The inmate Jaycee chapter at the Kentucky State Penitentiary at Eddyville recently donated $150 to the fund-raising efforts of the Central States Kidney Foundation.

Presentation of the donation took place at Lourdes Hospital in Paducah during a ceremony which was attended by a number of Jaycees and hospital officials. Harold Jenks, hospital administrator, accepted the $150 check and announced it would be applied toward the purchase of a kidney dialysis machine for the hospital.

"These men have not permitted their status as prisoners to lessen their concern for the plight of others," said Jenks, who reported that the full cost of a dialysis machine runs close to $3,500.

Robert Gordon, inmate chairman of the Eddyville Jaycee chapter, said the chapter is launching a drive to rally other inmate Jaycee chapters in Kentucky—there are six—to raise the additional funds.

"This is 'Project Help' and we would like to see all the other chapters involved in helping to raise the needed money," Gordon added.

According to Charles Morton, a leader of the Eddyville chapter, the Jaycees decided to start their fund-raising project after viewing a television program entitled "Accent," which stressed the need for kidney dialysis machines in hospitals in the Western Kentucky area.

Only two months earlier, the Bureau of Corrections gave a check for $1,000 to a state-wide charity. It was a record donation for that charity and was comprised largely of inmate contributions.

"It's the mark of a man or woman who, when faced with enough problems of his own, will give of his meager savings to help another person," said state Corrections Commissioner Charles J. Holmes.

While figures have not been firmly compiled, Holmes estimated that inmate donations to charities and other humanitarian causes in the past few months has topped $3,000.

"I couldn't think of a better place to invest my money," said Morton.

Lecturer To Speak On Colonial Art

Dr. William Booth, head of the Art department at Morehead State University, will be the October 3 speaker for the Prestonsburg Woman's Club at the Floyd County Library. Dr. Booth will show slides of, and discuss, the art of early Americans—how they wed, how they commissioned portraits of themselves and their families, what design they used for their furniture and homes. The speaker has been guest-lecturer at many art centers in Wisconsin and Ohio, has spoken before the Wisconsin chapter of the American Institute of Architects and has lectured on Rembrandt at the Rijks Museum in Amsterdam, Holland.

Dr. Booth is a native Kentuckian, a graduate of Eastern Kentucky University and received his Ph.D. from the University of Georgia.

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club and several patrons of the arts are pleased to present the program on the "Arts of Colonial America." Members of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club may invite guests. The lecture will be at 8 p.m.

ROPES Board Schedules Meeting September 26

The Board of Directors of ROPES Region Eleven will meet on September 26, at 9:30 a.m., at the ROPES Region Eleven Office, according to Reo Johns, executive director.

James P. Melton, Assistant Superintendent for Administration and Finance, will address the Board concerning school financing.

In addition to regular board business, the board is expected to approve final arrangements for the regionwide inservice meeting to be held on October 7. The meeting, involving school personnel from six local school districts in Region Eleven, will consist of a general assembly at Johnson Central High School and consultants, exhibits, and films at Paintsville High School. Instructional media exhibits are being coordinated by the Kentucky Educational Media Association. Jim Andrew, president of KEMA, has promised at least forty exhibits for the meeting. Consultants and exhibits will also be provided by the Kentucky Department of Education and Kentucky Educational Television.

ECOLOGISTS REPORT "ACID" RAIN

Used to be that normal rainwater had as much acidity as a potato. Now it has as much acidity as a tomato. And, in some cases, as much as pure lemon juice.

In the last two decades, report two ecologists, the rain falling on the eastern United States and in Europe has increased in acidity from 100 to 1,000 times normal levels. The ecologists—Dr. Gene Likens, an aquatic ecologist at Cornell University and Dr. F. Herbert Bormann, a forest ecologist at Yale University—say that acid rain seems to be stunting the growth of forests and farm crops, producing fish kills in lakes, and accelerating corrosion to man-made structures.

ROPES Advisory Council To Meet September 30

The ROPES Region Eleven Advisory Council will meet September 30, at 1 p.m., at the ROPES Region Eleven office, Prestonsburg. Reo Johns, executive director, ROPES Region Eleven, and William R. Conley, chairman of the council, announce that the program will include distribution of the program for the regionwide inservice to be held on October 7th and discussion of the ROPES Region Eleven Quarterly ARC Report.

Program speaker will be Dr. James V. Bolen, of Morehead State University. Dr. Bolen organizes and conducts extension classes for Morehead in Regions Eleven and Twelve and serves as counselor for Morehead's graduate students in the two regions. Dr. Bolen may be reached at the ROPES Region Eleven office on Tuesdays and Thursdays (phone number 886-8586).

Sturgill and Evans Reappointed by Ford

Two Lexington men, both former Floyd county residents, have been reappointed to educational and industrial boards by Governor Ford.

William B. Sturgill was named last week chairman of the University of Kentucky board of trustees, and George E. Evans, Jr. was reappointed to the Kentucky Board of Examiners for the Certification of District Mine Inspectors. Mrs. Sturgill, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy B. Sturgill, is beginning his second term on the UK board of trustees. Mr. Evans will represent the coal industry on the board of examiners.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Goble, of Auxier, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Wanda, to Mr. John Anthony Gilbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Gilbert, of Fairborn, Ohio.

The wedding is scheduled for October 26 at the Auxier Free Will Baptist Church. The gracious custom of open church will be observed.

Prayer Breakfast To Be October 2

Frankfort, Ky.—More than 600 civic, business, labor and religious leaders are expected to attend the second annual Governor's Leadership Prayer Breakfast on Wednesday, Oct. 2, 8:30 a.m., at Frankfort's Convention and Sports Center.

The nondenominational and non-partisan breakfast is patterned after the National Prayer Breakfast, held annually in Washington, D. C., for the past 22 years. Laymen from all sections of the Commonwealth comprise the sponsoring committee, headed by O. T. Dorton, Paintsville. Dorton, president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, will preside over the breakfast.

Featured speaker at the breakfast will be General Harold K. Johnson, who from 1964-68 was Chief of Staff of the United States Army and now is vice chairman of Financial General Bankshares.

Johnson is a survivor of the infamous Bataan Death March, surmounting more than three years in Japanese prison camps, aided, as he phrases it, "by the power of prayer."

He has been active in the International Christian Leadership movement and has received the Benemerente Award from Pope Paul VI for his contributions in the spiritual field.

He also is director of Genesco, Inc., General Employment Enterprises, Inc., Financial International Corporation, the First National Bank of Washington and the Research Analysis Corporation.

The General, 62, is chairman and a director of the George Olmstead foundation, which provides opportunity to outstanding young military personnel for study abroad. He is a trustee of the Association of the U. S. Army, the Association of Graduates of the United States Military Academy and of Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

Additionally, Johnson is a member of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America, a consultant to the National Security Agency and a member of the board of visitors of the Defense Intelligence School.

He and his wife live in Arlington, Virginia.

Gov. Wendell H. Ford also will participate in the program, as will Lt. Gov. ulian M. Carroll; former U. S. Senator and Ambassador designate to East Germany, John Sherman Cooper; former Governor and U. S. Senator, Earle C. Clements; and State Senators Eugene Stuart and Tom Garrett.

Choral arrangements will be performed by the Kentucky State University Concert Choir, directed by Carl H. Smith.

The purpose of the program, according to the governor's invitation, is: "We will meet this year in a critical hour of our nation's history, as Americans everywhere earnestly seek God's guidance insolving the many problems that beset us, confident that He will respond to our prayers."

Allen Golf Tournament Slated This Week-End

A golf tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Allen Golf Course. Trophies will be awarded in all flights. For further information, contact Roger Reynolds at the Allen Golf Course or phone 874-2111.

Junior Club Holds First Meet of Year

The Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club held its first regular meeting of the year September 19 at the Floyd County Library with Mrs. David P. Allen presiding. Opening ceremonies included a piano solo, "America," by Mrs. Bruce Spradlin and a unison response of the Junior Pledge.

Earlene Spears, recording secretary, presented minutes of the April and May meetings, read resignation letters from Mrs. Jess Stover and Mrs. Jack Stumbo, leaves-of-absence letters from Mrs. Jerry Leslie, Mrs. Fred Setser and Mrs. Dean Ward, and issued the roll call to which 71 per cent of clubwomen responded. Mrs. Edward Radjunas, corresponding secretary, read letters from the Prestonsburg High School Co-Ed-Y, Calico Corner, and Miss Floyd County, Sharon O'Quinn. Reports were heard from chairmen of the following standing and special committees: Conservation, Education, Home Life and the Arts Departments, Membership, Pageant and Dance Advisory Boards, Bike-a-thon, CIP, Contests and Rebate.

In the business session, the following executive board proposals were adopted: to support the GFWC Junior Project—children with learning disabilities by distributing literature regarding learning disabilities at the Floyd County Teachers in-service day, October 8; to support the KFWC Junior Project, "Oh, Say Can You See," by assisting the Floyd County Health Department in vision screening programs; to support these department projects: Conservation—to place park benches on city parking lots and on the courthouse lawn, to place bike racks on city streets and at Prestonsburg Elementary; Education—to support RIF and the mentally retarded; Home Life—to support the Blood Bank and to purchase a mobile isolette for Highlands Regional Medical Center; the Arts—to have an arts and crafts show and to organize and hold a crafts workshop for clubwomen; International Affairs—to hold a seminar on CARE countries for area high school students; Public Affairs—to have a self-defense program for clubwomen, to aid in writing a section of the All Kentucky City Report, to serve as band coordinator for the Red, White and Blue Day, and to contribute the club's share to a "Welcome to Prestonsburg" sign.

The club also voted to contribute to the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad, cystic fibrosis and the Floyd county unit of the American Cancer Society. The Miss Floyd County Pageant, the New Year's Eve dance and a Bike-a-thon were voted as money-making projects. It was also decided the club would present an Outstanding Community Service Award. The proposed budget was also adopted and the club's flower fund motion refined. A blood bank volunteer was secured to work at the Blood Bank booth at the fair, Sept. 20th. The club's meeting time as changed from 8 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. The club budget would provide departments with operating funds. The kidney foundation candy distribution date was set for Sept. 20, and additions were made to CIP committee, Pageant and Horse Show advisory boards.

Hostesses for the meeting were Betty Allen, Rita Campbell and Carolyn Greer. Clubwomen attending were Betty Allen, Janice Allen, Rita Allen, Jeanne Brown, Rita Campbell, Carolyn Greer, Geraldine Hall, Marty Hicks, Martha Johnson, Helena Johnson, Joann Johnson, Thelma Lafferty, Nell Lawson, Della Ormerod, Becky Radjunas, Rosalee Rose, Jean Rosenberg, Earlene Spears, Nancy Spradlin, Shirley Thompson, Susan Wallen and Jackie Ward.

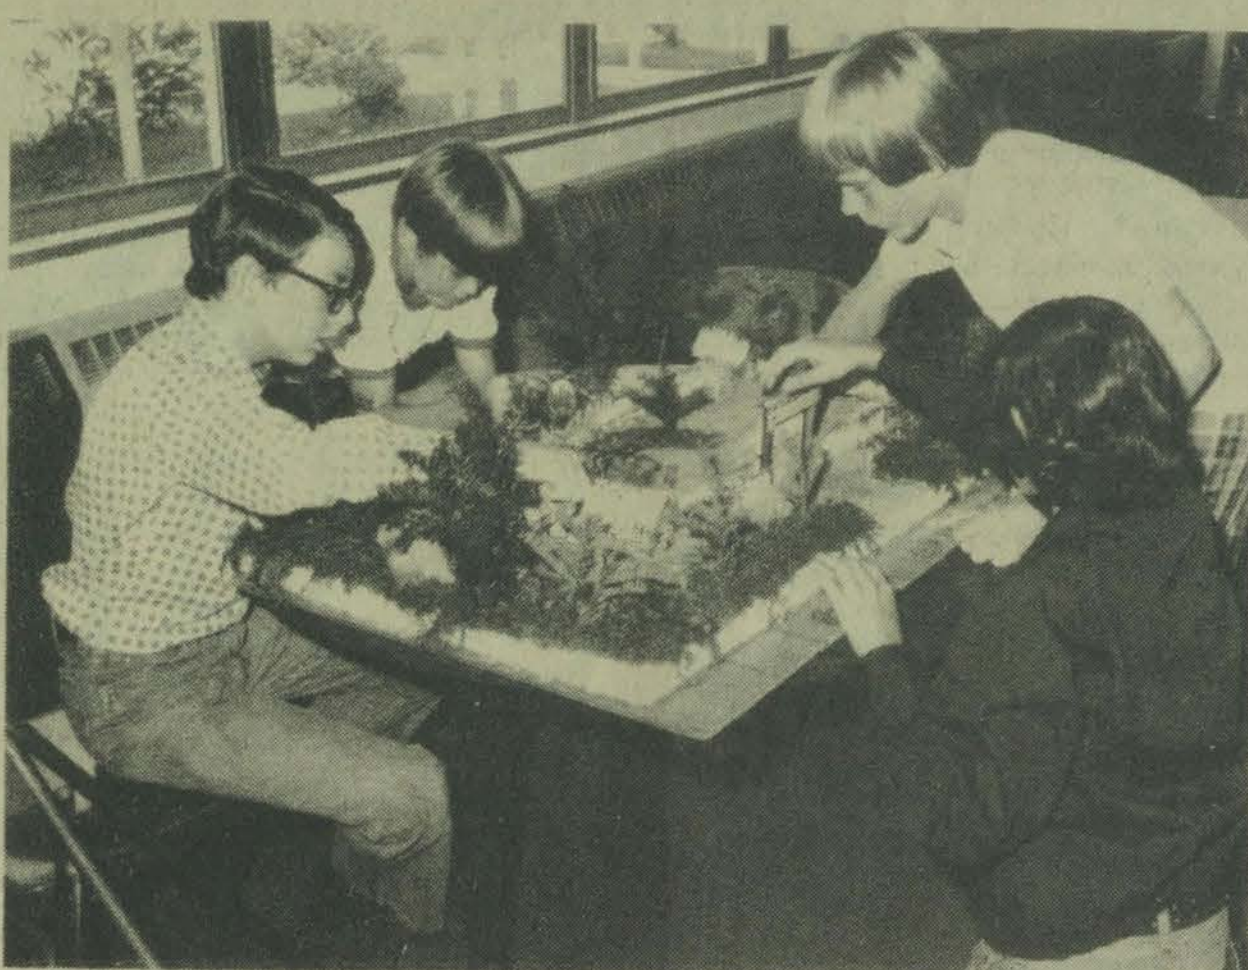

Prospective members present included Carol Susan Burchett, Rhonda Burchett, Suzanne Frazier, Pam Goble, Peggy Fraley, Leah Hicks, Rhonda Jupin, Peggy Kidd, Daisy McGuire, Hilda McKinney, Delilah Vaughn, Jan Wells, and Sharon Watson.

LPN MEETING SET

An LPN meeting will be held Thursday evening at 7 p.m. at the Archer Memorial Clinic.

In the next 12 months the estimated 479,000 legally blind in the U. S. will increase by nearly 45,000 persons—or, someone going blind every 12 minutes. A compound tragedy, says the Kentucky Society for the Prevention of Blindness, because at least half these cases, whether due to disease, accident, neglect or ignorance, could be prevented with medical knowledge and techniques now at hand.

County Fair Winners at Work

A replica of Fort Boonesborough was constructed at Clark Elementary School last week in preparation for the Floyd County Fair. These Junior High boys assisted the fort project while other classes and individual children made charts, pictures, and books to exhibit. The work done by the groups resulted in being chosen as a first place winner at the annual fair.

Final In-Service Meet Of 'Right to Read' Held

With the last of funds for the Right To Read Program being expended and no more to be made available, the final staff in-service meeting was held last month at Clark Elementary School.

As funding ended, teachers at the school were learning new techniques to motivate children to want to learn, to help them become more creative in their school work, to improve the self-image of both children and staff, and new ideas toward program development.

Past in-service meetings for the three-year program have been concerned mainly with learning better ways to teach reading in a school-wide program. With funding ended, it was felt that some time should be spent on ways to motivate students as well as maintain high staff morale.

Soon after the beginning of school, remaining money was spent to pay for released time for several other teachers in the county to spend a day observing developments of the program. In this way, it is hoped that ideas and methods developed in the Right To Read Program at Clark might be used by other schools where applicable. This is in line with the Right To Read Program's purpose of helping to solve the problem of illiteracy in the United States.

Webb, Lois Martin, Marvin and Zeda Martin, Maude and Jewel Hagans, Ethel Presley, Sandy Moore, Glenda Hicks, Linville Hagans, Bud and Chris Hagans and Merita Vanderpool.

Mrs. Mary Slone, Patricia and children and Junior Slone spent a week in Wabash, Ind., due to the serious illness of Mrs. Slone's brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Hagans moved next door to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hagans on Turkey Creek last week.

Jewel and Maude Hagans and Sadie Hayes were shopping in Paintsville, Saturday.

Mrs. Bill Hagans underwent recent surgery at Our Lady of the Way Hospital and is now recuperating at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton Adkins accompanied their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Adkins, Jr. to their home in Hezibah, Ga., where they spent two weeks visiting and sightseeing.

Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Bailey are spending a month in Pensacola, Fla. visiting Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Click and children.

The county landfill on Turkey Creek, near the Green Hamilton residence, is near completion and will be in use soon, it is reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Duncan have returned from a visit with relatives in Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Baldridge, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Burchett and Mrs. Irene Clark visited Dexter Baldridge at Veterans Hospital last Sunday. Mrs. Mike May spent several days in Lexington to be near her father, also Mrs. Baldridge.

Lower Quality Education Seen As Schools Hit By Inflation

By MARK HUNTWORK

Frankfort, Ky.—While the national rate of inflation today is 7.1 per cent according to the Kentucky Department of Commerce, some Kentucky school superintendents and finance officers are citing much higher rates of increase of prices of essential school supplies and services.

The rising costs of paper products, fuel and food, for example, hit the school systems as hard, if not harder, than they hit the individual consumer.

James Wood, finance officer for the Bowling Green Independent Schools, reported that the costs of instructional supplies for his district are up 21 per cent over last year.

Under the category of instructional materials are such teaching essentials as construction paper, scotch tape and duplicating supplies.

The cost of paper alone has risen 17 per cent over the 1973 figures for Clark County, according to Superintendent Ernest R. White Jr.

Finance officer Ernest Grayson of the Jefferson County schools listed several other products for which prices have skyrocketed during the past year: tempera paint—up 30 per cent; mimeograph paper—up 63 cents a box to $1.51; duplicating fluid—up 136 per cent.

Newsprint, a formerly inexpensive paper with a multitude of uses in art classes and elementary activities, costs 200 per cent more than it did in 1973, Grayson added.

Both Grayson and Wood commented on some costs to the schools that the public generally overlooks—supplies for vocational education and laboratory classes. Wood said that metals, parts for welding and wood products are among the supplies getting more and more expensive every day.

According to Grayson, the cost of the silver nitrate used in chemistry classes has increased 1,000 per cent, from $9.50 a pound in 1973 to $105 for the same amount today. "Needless to say, we'll be doing fewer experiments with silver nitrate this year," Grayson added.

Gasoline prices have elevated school transportation budgets across the state. Wood said that Bowling Green's transportation budget, $53,000 two years ago, has risen to $74,000 this year.

In Jefferson County the cost of gasoline

Pike Co. Pushes Coal Severance To Aid Truckers

Pike county coal truckers have been granted a 60-day extension of time in which to make answer to the approximately 500 suits filed by the state alleging overweight coal loads, and in the meantime both the county and coal operators have suggested a plan which might permanently relieve haulers of the hazard of legal action against them.

The county-operators plan is to impose a county severance tax on coal, creating a highway improvement fund. Backers of the tax, which would be the first local levy of its kind in Kentucky, hope the tax will net $2-$5 million a year for construction and maintenance of roads used by coal trucks.

Although legality of the proposed tax has been questioned by the Attorney General's office, proponents insist a way can be found to legalize it under Kentucky's "home rule" law.

The county tax would be imposed in addition to the existing state severance tax on coal.

Spurring the proposed county tax is a suit filed Aug. 29 in Pike circuit court by the state Transportation Department. The suit seeks to prevent 504 coal operators and truckers from running overweight coal trucks on 23 roads in the county. The state's suit also asks $3,059,000 from the defendants for damages allegedly already done to the roads by coal trucks.

Circuit Judge E. N. Venters signed an order Friday extending until Nov. 19 the time that the truckers and operators have to reply to summonses. The order stipulates either a 60-day delay or 20 days after serving a summons, whichever is longer.

Some coal operators believe that the real intent of the state's suit is neither to obtain an injunction nor to recover damages, but rather to compel county and coal industry officials to work with the state to help maintain roads used for hauling coal. A local coal tax would raise money for such an effort, they claim.

These sources say the state wants a road-maintenance agreement with the coal industry before the state implements Kentucky's 1974 coal-truck law, which permits the Transportation Department to raise weight limits on state roads to a maximum of 82,000 pounds. The current legal maximum is 73,280 pounds.

"The suit creates a dangerous situation in that we're in the precarious position where somebody could pull the trigger on us, but I don't believe that's the intention of the state," Paul E. Patton, Virgie coal operator, said.

"I'm optimistic this (the suit) will lead to a solution that will let us maintain the roads and let us haul coal the way we have been."

Pruitt-Fultz

Mrs. Henry Edward Pruitt, Jamestown, Ky., announces the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Miss Margaret King Pruitt, to Mr. Jerry Allen Fultz, son of Mrs. Ada Mosley and the late Charley Fultz, Wayland, Kentucky. Miss Pruitt is the daughter of the Late Henry Edward Pruitt.

The wedding will take place October 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the Jamestown Christian Church.

The bride-elect was graduated with high distinction from Morehead State University where she was selected to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. She served as president of Zeta Tau Alpha social sorority and was a member of Phi Kappa Phi and CWENS honor societies. She has recently met the requirements for the master's degree of public health from the University of Tennessee.

Mr. Fultz has a B. S. degree from Calvary College where he served as president of the Student Government Association and played varsity basketball and baseball. He has a B. A. Degree from Morehead State University where he held membership in the Phi Alpha Theta history honorary. He presently is teaching and coaching his second year at Deming High School, Mount Olivet, Kentucky.

Girl Scout Council Meets at May Lodge

The Area 4 meeting of the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council was held at May Lodge, September 18. Mrs. Charles Van Hoose, chairman, called the meeting to order at 10 a.m. Mrs. Kathleen McGraw, executive secretary, and Mrs. Betty Cowherd, also of the council office, attended. Reports were given and discussed. Mrs. Sandy Patton, of Langley, Area 4 Field Representative, reported that the area had 14 troops in 1972, 20 in 1973, and will have close to 40 troops registered for 1974. Training which will be offered this fall includes outdoor camping, Brownie and junior girl scout leaders. It was announced that the local cookie drive will be held in January.

Tour-day camps were held in the area during the summer and week-end camping is now being held at Jenny Wiley. The annual Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council meeting will be held at the Hilton Inn, Lexington, October 16.

Those in attendance included: Mrs. Lila DeRossett, Delores Smith and Sue Frost, of Allen, Colleen Reffett, of Garrett, Doris Fannin, Lorraine Burchett, Barbara Manderville, and Marty Ward, of Hager Hill, Deloris Conley, Lurlene Ratliff, Betty Ratliff, Sophia Hays, Jeanette Robinson, Barbara Wagner, Bootsie Mandt, Edith Mae VanHoose, Dorothy Odom, and Kaye Baird, all of Pikeville, Alice Charles, of Johns Creek, Mary L. Dairs and Billie Sue Bilter, of Robinson Creek.

Class of '65 To Meet For Reunion Planning

There will be an organizational meeting of the members of the class of '65 of Prestonsburg High School to plan a class reunion. The meeting will be at the high school lunchroom at 7 p.m., Sunday, October 6. All members interested in this reunion may call Mrs. Lenny Harris at 886-6657 or 886-2467.

Caudill To Speak
On "Black Lung"

Whitesburg attorney and author Harry M. Caudill will address the Kentucky Thoracic Society's annual dinner on October 4, at 7 p.m. at the Holiday Inn East, on Hurstbourne Lane, Louisville. Caudill's topic will be "A Lawyer's Look at Black Lung."

The KTS dinner will be a part of the society's annual fall scientific conference, a continuing education function provided for members. The topic of the two-day seminar is, "Control and Management of Pulmonary Infectious Diseases."

Nature Trails

By Rufus M. Reed

Poisonous Plants of Our Region

1. THE CASTOR BEAN. This plant is also called "dog ticks," as the mature seeds look precisely like a bloated tick seen on a dog. The name is quite fitting. The plant is highly poisonous, but from its seeds is processed castor oil—a dose often given to kids, who shivered and squirmed when swallowing it. It was a highly effective purgative.

Eating any part of this plant causes uremia—blood poisoning. All parts of it are poisonous, yet it is a tall and stately ornamental,—with large leaves each having nine lobes with coarse teeth. The flowers and stems are a showy reddish-purple, and the plant often grows ten feet high in gardens. The seeds are also used to make lubricating oil. The botanical name, ricinus, is for the tick shape of the seeds. The castor bean plant is a member of The Spurge Family.

2. FOXGLOVE. The foxglove grows around lawns and in gardens and is also called digitalis. From it a powerful heart stimulant is made. An overdose of this stimulant can prove fatal, especially to the kids. The tubular flowers are pinkish-purple and contain nectar which is tempting. Foxglove is a member of the Figwort family. In open woods of the tri-state, we have two kinds of wild foxglove, both blooming in September and bearing light-yellow flowers. One of these has leaves like a fern and is called Fernleaf Foxglove.

Foxgloves poisoning causes nausea, stomach pains, fast heart and convulsions.

3. MOUNTAIN LAUREL. This lovely evergreen shrub is called "ivy" by most countrymen. All its parts are poisonous. A lot of children have been killed for sucking the flowers or chewing the leaves. The Indians used the poison to commit suicide. Mountain laurel is a beautiful shrub but dangerous. The evergreen leaves are thick and leathery and the flowers are pinkish; they come out in May. They have the shape of a shallow bowl with a fringed border. Mountain laurel grows high on the hills in strictly acid soil and prefers the same habitat as that of trailing arbutus. Many animals, especially sheep, are poisoned in the spring from eating the young leaves. The poison causes slobbering, vomiting, blindness, stupor and coma. Antidote for the poison—raw linseed oil, mineral oil and lard.

This beautiful but deadly shrub was named Kalmia latifolia, in honor of its discover, Pehr Kalm, who sent specimens to Linnaeus for identification.

4. SPRING LARKSPUR. This is one of the poisonous delphiniums and is called

"staggweed" by cattlemen. Cattle, hungry for green things in the spring, of ten eat spring larkspur. A big bait of it gives them the "blind staggers." It also causes constipation, bloating and blindness. Remedies for stock are: Epsom salts, phenobarbital and chloral hydrate. "Larkspur lotion" is an old remedy to kill lice on stock or humans. Spring larkspur is a lovely plant, with dark blue, spurred flowers and finely dissected leaves. Children should be taught to recognize the wild larkspurs and to avoid tasting the spurred corollas.

5. BLUE MONK'S HOOD. This exotic flower is a cousin of the larkspur and buttercup and is popular as a garden flower. Each flower is decked with a cone-shaped hood, adding much to the beauty of the flower. Blue monks-hood also grows in the wild. Unfortunately this lovely wild flower wearing its hood like an old monk is dangerously poison. If kids suck the nectar out of the flowers, they soon become violently sick. Eating any part of this wild flower causes vomiting, diarrhea, spasms, paralysis and finally death.

Blue monk's hood grows in shady soil along streams, but it is not common in the tri-state region, except as a flower for the garden.

Voter List Posted
For ASCS Election

A list of the names of all persons to receive ballots in the upcoming annual ASC committeemen election is available in the Floyd county ASCS office, it was announced this week.

ASCS, an agency of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is responsible for farm program administration. On the local level, ASCS operates under a farmer-elected committee system. This year's election will be by mail ballot between Nov. 18 and Dec. 2.

Anyone who meets the following requirements is eligible to vote in these farmer committee elections: any individual of legal voting age with an interest in a farm as owner, tenant, or sharecropper who is eligible to participate in any ASCS program.

Persons not of legal voting age who supervise and conduct farming operations on an entire farm are also eligible to vote in ASC elections. No persons can be denied the right to vote because of race, sex, color, religion, or national origin.

Several general provisions relate to ASC voter eligibility. A wife who operates a farm with her husband can vote if her name is on the deed of conveyance. A youth under 18 years of age can vote if he runs a farm, and a legal guardian who runs a farm for a child can vote for the child.

A person may cast a ballot in any county in which he is an eligible ASC voter, but he or she can not vote in more than one community in the county. If an eligible voter has separate farm interests in more than one community in the same county, special care will be taken to see that only one ballot is issued to that voter.

Foresters Hope For More Rain
As Fall Fire Season Approaches

Frankfort, Ky.—During a recent training session on forest fire control, state foresters were unable to start a fire because rainy weather had left the area too damp to burn. The foresters would like to see the wet conditions remain throughout autumn to hold down the number of forest fires during Kentucky's fall fire season.

But they don't know if the current weather will continue during the official fire season which runs from Oct. 15 through Dec. 15. Ironically, heavy spring and summer rains may have increased the possibility of forest fires during the coming fall. Harry Nadler, director of the Forestry Division in the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said heavy foliage produced by the spring rains is a "perfect fuel" for fire during an extended dry period.

Nadler's crews began preparing the fall forest fire season early. The foresters have been visiting residents near Kentucky's 11 million acres of timberland to warn them of potential fire hazards.

This preventative program has proven successful in recent year, Nadler said, 13,392 acres burned in 1973 compared with 54,000 acres in 1969. The director agreed that weather is the most important factor in fire prevention, but he said "people are more aware of the danger now than in years past and are more careful."

The state Forestry Division experienced its best year of fire control in 1972, when less than 900 fires were reported. However, the second lowest number of fires was reported in 1973, which Nadler described as "only an average year" for rainfall.

Nadler said people "who don't exercise caution with matches and flammable materials" create the biggest problem for foresters during a fire season. Most forest fires in Kentucky are caused by fires which get out of control when people burn debris. Arsonists account for 25 per cent of the fires. Less than 1 per cent of the forest fires are caused by lighting, Nadler said.

The division has added 265 people to its regular staff to work during the fire season. They will aid the foresters in manning watchtowers and firefighting. If an emergency situation were to develop, the director said more people would be hired. Volunteer help also is available from local residents.

In addition to the traditional watchtowers, airplanes are used for fire detection. A flying service has been hired to make daily reconnaissance flights during the fire season.

There have been approximately 1,000 forest and grass fires so far this year. But Nadler added, "The criteria for 1974 is not here yet. We don't know what will happen, because we are entirely dependent on the weather. If wet weather continues we should have no problems, but if dry weather comes . . ."

Carroll To Address Ky.-W. Va. Meeting

The Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company Chapter of the National Management Association will hold its regular monthly meeting, Friday, September 27, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Speaker for the meeting will be lieutenant-governor Julian M. Carroll. Born in McCracken county in 1931, Carroll attended Paducah Junior College after graduating from Heath high school. He graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1954 as a political science major and received his law degree from the University of Kentucky in 1956. Carroll supported his college education by working for the Fayette County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office. After being discharged from the U. S. Air Force, he returned to Paducah to open a law firm.

Carroll first entered a public service career at age 29 in 1961 when he ran for state representative of his home county, McCracken. Since winning his first political race, he continued to serve three other terms in the House, and, in 1968, while serving his fourth consecutive term, was elected by the members of the House to the highest position of leadership—Speaker of the House. He was reelected to that post in 1970, building a reputation of active leadership in the Legislature. Carroll has been an outspoken advocate of a qualified, well-informed and active General Assembly. He was inaugurated as Kentucky's Lieutenant-Governor on December 7, 1971.

Sorghum Festival To Feature Country, Old-Timey Atmosphere

By HELEN PRICE STACY

Everyone who has a sweet tooth that can't be satisfied should mark Oct. 11-13 as the date for the annual Morgan County Sorghum Festival in West Liberty. A highlight of this Eastern Kentucky event is a mule-powered cane mill set up on Main Street and enough short stalks of cane for all who want to dip into the warm, thick syrup for a taste.

Country sorghum, freshly ground cornmeal, pumpkins, squash, corn, shuck beans, calico by the bolt and even plug tobacco will be offered for sale.

Also, more than 100 craftsmen will display home-made articles.

Morgan county women have been working several months putting together quilts to sell during the festival. These vary from old-fashioned designs made from every available scrap of cloth to cross-stitch, applique and briar-stitched bed covers.

Mrs. Minnie Johnson, of Cow Branch will be back with dozens of bonnets. And Mrs. Carrie Shaver, of Mordica will show everyone how to card and comb sheep's wool and then spin it into yarn.

Craftsmen from throughout Eastern Kentucky will demonstrate the making of fine furniture from walnut, maple and other native woods and will have hand-made furniture for sale.

Others will sell antiques and sell or trade knives, guns and maybe even a hound dog or two.

Henry Sexton from Ditony Ridge in the Blaze community will sell handsome baskets of many sizes, homemade brooms and short-handled whisks he makes from a length of sapling.

Mrs. Roy Tyler, of West Liberty has been sewing and crocheting since last year's festival to stock up enough pillow cases. And Mrs. Bonnie Cox, of Cottle will have yards of tatting for sale, as well as stationery which she decorates with sprigs of tatted flowers.

There will be cornshuck dolls, dried-flower arrangements, hand-made clothing, wood carvings, original paintings, afghans, tacked comforts and hundreds of authentic mountain-made craft items for sale.

An old-timey, country-days atmosphere will prevail at the festival. In addition to the many quality crafts to be displayed, visitors will have the opportunity to enjoy bowls of soup beans, cooked with chunks of side meat in iron kettles set in the courthouse yard. Along with the beans will be onions and cornbread. Other food booths will have country ham sandwiches, pies, cakes, cookies and many foods based on use of Morgan-made molasses.

West Liberty is a few minutes drive from both Mountain Parkway and Interstate-64. Located on US 460, the county seat is ready to welcome festival visitors from near and far.

SPECIAL 4-NIGHT REVIVAL

There will be a special 4-night Revival beginning September 24 through 29 at the Betsy Layne United Methodist Church, Betsy Layne. Rev. Kenneth Lemaster, the pastor, will be the evangelist. There will be special music each evening. Services will begin at 7 p.m.

Extend Welcome to Homecoming

Rev. Moses Kitchen, pastor of the First Church of God, North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Kitchen have been in Christian service serving the people of Eastern Kentucky for forty years as of October. He and the church invite everyone to a Homecoming service, Sunday, October 6. Morning service at 10:40. Dinner will be prepared for all. A song fest in the afternoon. Come prepared to stay all day.

Moses and Grace Elkins Kitchen began this Christian work in Van Lear. Two children were born to them there; a daughter, Bonnie Jean, married to Ernest Culey, who have four daughters and one son. A son, Robert (Bobby Jo), married to Ruby Martin who have three sons. Brother Kitchen's father and grandfather were ministers of the gospel. His son, Robert, is also a minister of the gospel, now pastoring in Tennessee.

Brother Kitchen has preached hundreds of funerals and performed numerous marriage ceremonies with never a charge on any of his Christian work. By the help of the Lord Jesus Christ and the people, Brother Kitchen has built five churches in Eastern Kentucky, preached in eight states and ministered to thousands.

Once again, we would like to invite everyone to come and enjoy the services.

Colorful Past Contributes To State Historical Interest

By PAULA ALEXANDER

Frankfort, Ky.—A recent survey released by the American Association of Historical Societies revealed that at 10,000 strong the Kentucky Historical Society has the largest membership in the nation.

Gen. William R. Buster, director of the Kentucky Historical Society, said the Maryland office mailed a questionnaire to the 15 leading state societies and received 12 responses.

The survey reported that annual membership fees in the Kentucky Society are $5 per person, compared to a high of $35 in New York for joint membership. It also was revealed that state funding in Kentucky for the Society was $321,000, while Wisconsin spent $2.3 million, the highest figure, and was third in membership.

Kentucky reported the third largest number of adult visitors to its facilities (150,000), although the museum has since been closed for the massive restoration project of the Old Capitol and Annex.

General Buster attributed Kentucky's leadership to the society's sale of sought-after print reproductions as well as the Commonwealth's colorful history.

"The Register," the state's oldest periodical, and "Kentucky Ancestors," a genealogical magazine, are mailed quarterly to members. Several additional publications are available to patrons at a special discount price.

The Society not only oversees the many historical markers that dot Kentucky's highways, but they also sponsor the Commonwealth's Young Historians' Clubs. Their Historymobile, a traveling tractor-trailer chronicling the state's colorful heritage, further promotes interest in Kentucky's past.

Only 900 people belonged to the Historical Society in 1959, General Buster said, but under the leadership of the former director, Col. George M. Chinn, the roll increased to its present status. Colonel Chinn recently retired to the position of deputy director.

The Kentucky General Assembly has created a new public information office in conjunction with the Legislative Research Commission. The purpose of the new office is to increase contact with public and measure public opinion on legislative activities. Director of the office will be Gary Luhr, former reporter for the Associated Press.

Road Builders Learning To Suit Roads to People

By CELIA BREWER

Frankfort, Ky.—You might have learned in plane geometry years ago that the shortest distance between two points is a straight line. But that principle just doesn't hold when it comes to building modern highways.

In fact, according to E. B. Gaither, director of the Bureau of Highway's Division of Design, the old idea of getting from one place to another as the crow flies can't apply very well to modern road construction.

"More and more, highway engineers and transportation officials are learning to integrate road systems into the total human environment instead of forcing the road onto the land," Gaither said.

During National Highway Week, Sept. 22-28, the Kentucky Department of Transportation is joining other state transportation agencies across the nation in promoting public awareness of the importance of the quality and safety of our roads.

Today, according to statistics, the United States had 120 million motor vehicles using 1.5 million miles of paved roads. In Kentucky alone, over 25,000 miles of roadways are maintained by the state.

"Considering how much we rely on these roads," Gaither said, "it is not surprising to learn the depth of research and planning that goes into them; the overall environment must be considered so that roads are built to serve man, and not the reverse."

"In short," Gaither said, "we must consider the total picture."

For Kentuckians, this picture may be as varied and colorful as the different regions throughout the state, from the Western Waterways to the Cumberland Mountains in Eastern Kentucky, or as diverse as the mineral resources in the soil; there are regions of clay and shale, limestone and dolomite, coal, petroleum, natural gas and sand, gravel, and sandstone.

Gaither said several recent projects throughout the state attest to the consideration that environmental factors are given. For example, the Riverside Parkway in Louisville planned for the riverfront, rail industry, street transportation, local development and Ohio River traffic.

The I-24 project through Paducah considered the Calvert City industrial complex and Land Between the Lakes traffic and allowed for access to Paducah Community College and a new hospital on Lone Oak Road.

In the Pikeville area, the Model City Cut-through, hopes to free the city from its almost peninsular geography by cutting through the mountains, channeling the Levisa River through them, and routing the railroad and US 23 on opposite sides of the channel. This should give Pikeville ample room to expand and develop.

Perhaps one of the most outstanding of recent projects has been the new bridge on US 27 over the Kentucky River. For several years the people of Jessamine and Garrard counties have needed a better way to get around the Camp Nelson Hill and cross the river. This project eliminated a stretch of hazardous highway. It also involved building a special box culvert to preserve a local limestone spring, which could have been altered or destroyed by construction. As a result, a distillery on the river could continue a contract which stipulates the use of water from that spring in its operations.

The U. S. Employment Service, through a nationwide network of about 2,400 local offices, places about 6 million people in jobs every year, according to the U. S. Department of Labor.

"THOSE CRAZY EPISCOPALIANS"

do the "roman collars" label them catholics?

Episcopalians and Roman Catholics and Presbyterians and Baptists and Methodists ...these and countless other denominations exist because of the differences between men.

It's the similarities between men that produce Christians.

Episcopalians are proud of both their differences AND their similarities to other denominations. You can call them anything you like. They're Protestant because their forebears were among the leaders of the Protestant Reformation in 16th-Century England. But the word "Catholic" means "universal, whole, or complete" ...and, certainly, Episcopalians are proud to embrace all the traditions of Christ's "universal church."

In short, they don't feel that heaven is reserved for those who agree with the Episcopal viewpoint. They say, "There's only one God. Let's share. OK?"

By the way, would you believe that the "backward collar" was not a Roman-Catholic invention? It was introduced by a priest of the Church of England, parent of the Episcopal Church in the United States. He devised it as a mark of identification during his ministrations to the London Dock area.

It's surprising how often people new to the Episcopal faith discover that its "peculiarities" help them appreciate the universality of the Christian religion. Think about that.
