

THAT COZY FEELING comes to Jenny Wiley State Park campers as their own little circles of firelight push back the night. Labor Day week-end marked the "last fling" of the year for an army of campers who have utilized the park's camping facilities.

Head-On Crash Kills Three at Bevinsville

An automobile driven at high speed went out of control Saturday afternoon on KY 122 at Bevinsville, smashed head-on into an approaching car, killing three persons and sending three others to hospitals.

Killed were the driver, 18-year-old Roy Lee Hall, of Wabash, Ind., formerly of Wheelwright; his aunt, Mrs. Neva Hall Burgess, 54, of Wheelwright, and James W. Lewis, 45, also of Wheelwright.

Mrs. Kathryn Johnson, 28, of Bypro, driver of the second car, was reported in serious condition in St. Joseph Hospital, Lexington, suffering head and possible internal injuries. Her daughter, Trina, and another passenger in her car, 17-year-old Sandy Miller, was reported in favorable condition.

Hall had returned from Wabash to the Wheelwright vicinity, only a few days prior to the tragedy. His car was said to have created considerable excitement in the Bypro-Bevinsville area, earlier in the day, after it had hit the ditchline or the side of the hill and on one occasion had narrowly missed gasoline pumps.

State Trooper John Goble, of Melvin, investigated the crash. He could not be reached for an official report, and a State Police spokesman at Pikeville said it had not been established that Hall was drunk. This source said Hall "simply was driving too fast and lost control of his car."

Hall, who died at the scene of the collision, was a son of Mrs. Edna Mae Hall Hooks, of Wabash, and was employed at Peru, Ind. by a furniture manufacturer. Besides his mother, he is survived by his step-father, Lou Gene Hooks; four brothers and four sisters, Lou Gene Hooks, Jr., Roger Hall and Zora Wayne Hooks, all of Wabash, John Robert Hooks, Logansport, Ind., Mrs. Shelby Jean Taylor and Miss Patty Sue Hooks, both of Wabash, Mrs. Carol Ann Wharton and Mrs. Elic Hall, both of Keokuk, Iowa.

His funeral was conducted at 10 a.m. Tuesday from the First Baptist Church of Wheelwright, the Rev. John Adams officiating, and burial was made in the Buckingham cemetery.

Mrs. Burgess was a daughter of Mrs. Merky Blackburn Hall, of Wheelwright, and the late Richard Hall. Survivors include one son, Ernest Meadows, and a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Hamilton, both of Keokuk, Ia.; two brothers and one sister, Zora Hall, Wheelwright, Ora Hall, Keokuk, Ia., and Mrs. Edna Hooks, of Wabash.

The funeral of Mrs. Hall was conducted this (Wednesday) afternoon from the First Baptist Church at Wheelwright, by the Rev. Adams.

Mr. Lewis was an employee of American Standard, near Paintsville. Arrangements for his funeral were incomplete Monday afternoon, and names of survivors were unavailable.

The Merion Funeral Chapel was in charge of the three funerals.

Troopers Seize Processed 'Weed'

A sizeable quantity of marijuana has been confiscated over the past two weeks in the county by state troopers.

Twenty-five bags (about $400 worth) of processed marijuana were seized Tuesday from a juvenile at Eastern by Troopers Don Weedman and Danny Stumbo. The officers, who charged the youth with trafficking in marijuana, also confiscated rolling paper, incense and other paraphernalia related to marijuana use.

A week earlier, Trooper Weedman charged Curtis Rogers with possession of marijuana after discovering 84 marijuana plants growing near Rogers' residence on Toler Creek.

Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and Deputy Sheriffs Doug Lewis, Randall Lewis, Hunt, J. D. and Melvin Martin arrested Thomas Edward Bixler Saturday night on a possession charge after they seized a total of 302 12-oz. bottles and cans of beer and a half-bottle of wine which Bixler had

What Are Youngsters up To? . . .

Come, Learn at Fair Four Days Next Week

Those interested in knowing what some Floyd county youngsters have been up to this year may find out by attending the Floyd County Fair at the fairgrounds in Archer Park here the last four days of next week.

For these—members of 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers, Future Homemakers and school children—will provide the greater number of exhibits at the fair.

Adult exhibits are being sought, and are expected, too. Together, young and old are expected to display evidences of excellence on the farm, in the kitchen, garden, with the needle, flowers, vegetables, canned goods, handicrafts and the like.

The fair, the 22nd to be held, will begin next Wednesday with the entering from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. of all exhibits except flowers, livestock and poultry. The judging of these entries will be made after 5 p.m.

Flowers will be entered for exhibit on Friday, Sept. 17, from 9 a.m. till 12 noon, and they will be judged at noon. The day has been designated Kid's Day, with reduced prices on all rides at the Kissel Brothers carnival from 3 p.m. till closing time.

Saturday will feature high school bands. Livestock will be entered that day between 9 and 11 a.m., with the judging following the entry deadline. At 5 p.m. two bicycles will be given away to as many lucky youngsters.

Although the calendar for Thursday is not filled, the carnival will be operating that day and every day of the fair.

This Town...That World

The late President Truman was not one of our most erudite Presidents, but on occasion he had a knack of getting said in the most effective language what he wanted said. For example, "If you can't stand the heat, stay out of the kitchen." And "The buck stops here." And this one:

"If you tell Congress everything about the world situation, they get hysterical. If you tell them nothing they go fishing."

FAREWELL TO SUMMER

The calendar says summer will hang on till September 22, but every indication is that another year is winding down. The wine in the glass sinks low. Every patch of shade seems a little darker. The swimming pools are closed, the campgrounds are no longer jammed. The songbirds are preparing for the flight south. The cardinals are moulting, and all the jays want to do is scold. And there's the chilling thought that only a few more weeks of weather fit for fishing remain in the year.

But the marigolds have a brighter sheen, these days; there are football and basketball to stir the blood—and on ahead, to entrance the eye, will be that riot of color that is autumn in the mountains.

One thing the Corps of Engineers has never been accused of saying and that is, "This country ain't worth a dam."

CARING MAKES THE DIFFERENCE

I may be a bit old to undertake reading youngsters' minds, but I have an idea that if I were young again and this permissive society, which would include parents and teachers, didn't care what I

AA Meeting Slated At Library Saturday

Busy Term Under Way For Court

Grand Jury Begins With Investigation Of Recent Slayings

The Floyd circuit court convened Tuesday morning for what could be one of its more memorable sessions, with three slayings to be investigated by the grand jury and several murder trials possible.

The grand jury began work, immediately after receiving Circuit Judge Hollie Conley's instructions, with the investigation of the knife-slaying here of Gerald McBrayer and the fatal shooting of Mike Williams, of Salyersville, immediate tasks.

Judge Conley admonished the grand jury against discussion outside the jury room of cases under investigation or of the testimony heard. "What you do in the grand jury room should remain in the grand jury room," he said.

All 66 cases already on the docket prior to further action by the grand jury have been set for Thursday and Friday, this week, when definite trial dates will be designated.

Next week has been kept open on the court docket for the murder trial of Eddie Jones, unless a new effort to win a change of venue to another county is successful. If the trial is held, as now scheduled, it will last at least the full week, court officials predicted.

The murder trials of Bobby Workman and Mary Sue Couch Flannery and the voluntary manslaughter hearing of Richard Franklin Spencer are also on the docket for the court term.

Defendants are listed on a variety of charges. Three are booked for violation of the narcotics laws, five for possession or sale of intoxicants, 24 for grand larceny, burglary and knowingly receiving

Funds for David Sewer Job Now Total $125,000

The David Development Corporation has $125,000 at hand for the construction of a sewer system and sewage treatment facility for the community of David, with the last $25,000 of that total announced Friday by Senators Huddleston and Ford.

The latest addition to sewer project funds, the senators said, was a Farmers Home Administration grant of $25,000. An earlier grant of $25,000 was made by the Appalachian Regional Commission, and the remaining $75,000 derives from a $75,000 interest-free loan from the Housing Assistance Council.

The sewage collection system and treatment plant will initially serve 32 customers. The package treatment plant will include sewage aeration and disinfectant facilities to state and federal meet water quality standards.

The David water district was recently revived, and operation of the sewer system will be allied with that of the water distribution. A date for sewer system construction had not been set this week.

"People all over the country have heard about the efforts of the residents of David, who are buying their town and making it into a fine place to live in," Congressman Carl D. Perkins commented. "They can set an example for other communities," he said.

Harvey Claims Three Planned To Pen Jones

Special Judge Caswell P. Lane, who has been designated to preside in the murder trial of Eddie Jones, will hear testimony tomorrow (Thursday) on a supplemental motion for change of venue filed Saturday morning for the defendant by Lester Burns, of Manchester, third and newest member of the battery of lawyers representing Jones.

Main thrust of the new plea for a change of venue from Floyd county lies in an affidavit made by Dave Harvey to the effect that a federal agent and two Kentucky State Police officers proposed to him an "entrapment proposition" to cause Agnel Jones, father of the defendant, to be imprisoned on the elder Jones' federal probation and thus prevent him from helping his son defend himself. (Agnel Jones' federal pen term for violation of the Federal Firearms Act was probated, earlier this year.)

The trial of his son has been scheduled to begin Monday, Sept. 13.

The petition named the officers as ATA Agent Dale Bean, KSP Lt. Ellis Ross and KSP Detective Gary Rose. It alleged that

Two Facilities Named For Former Coaches

Two athletic facilities which have been completed as parts of a $2,720,000 building and school improvement program were named by the Floyd County Board of Education at its monthly meeting last Wednesday in honor of two former athletic coaches.

The $354,000 physical education building which has been completed at Martin was named the Denzil "Hoss" Halbert Gymnasium, and the new Wheelwright Athletic Center was named in honor of Assistant Supt. of Schools Ray Brackett. Both designations were recommended to the board by Superintendent E. P. Grigsby, Jr.

Mr. Halbert was for 25 years coach at Martin High School, and during that time the school's teams won 500 basketball games. Mr. Brackett was football coach at Wheelwright High seven years and led the school in an outstanding program. Both men continue in service to the school system.

The Wheelwright facility consists of the complete renovation of the football field, with new fencing and lighting, bleachers to seat 750, and a pressbox. The new field, which will accommodate football, baseball and track, will be dedicated Friday night when the Wheelwright Trojans will play Pikeville High and the 1966 class will have its reunion. The facility was completed at a cost of $20,000.

The gymnasium at Martin is a new building. Complete renovation of the old high school building there to meet elementary school needs is still under way and will cost $358,000. This phase of work there is considered half done and completion is expected by Jan. 1.

The swimming pool, last of the facilities provided in Phase II at Allen Central High School, is nearing completion. The gymnasium-auditorium part of Phase II has already been completed. Overall cost of the work is $1.5 million.

The McDowell lunchroom is expected to be opened within the next few weeks. The gymnasium built there in a development program costing $578,000 is already in use, with work on an addition for storage of equipment and locker space ready to begin.

Order Prohibits Magoffin County Right for Trial

A writ of prohibition forbidding the removal from Floyd to Magoffin county of accused slayer Dallas Fletcher was granted last week by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, and this county has at least temporarily established jurisdiction in the case.

Fletcher, as Magoffin county deputy sheriff, is accused of shooting and fatally wounding on Aug. 29 Mike Williams, Salyersville policeman. Williams died the following day at the Highlands Medical Center, and Fletcher was brought to jail here. The legal fight for jurisdiction in the case followed.

County Attorney Harold J. Stumbo filed the petition for a writ of prohibition to prevent Fletcher's return to the Magoffin quarterly court for arraignment on the murder charge. That round won by Floyd county, Fletcher was arraigned before County Judge Henry Stumbo last Thursday. He waived examining trial and was placed under $20,000 bond to answer to the action of the Floyd circuit court grand jury which convened Tuesday. The bond was executed.

Stumbo pointed out that, after the arrest of Fletcher by a state police officer, Walker Howard, Magoffin county judge pro-tem, issued a warrant which was served on Fletcher, although the Floyd quarterly court had already accepted jurisdiction and had set the defendant's hearing for Sept. 2. It also was claimed in the petition for writ of prohibition that when the warrant issued by the Floyd county judge was taken to the county jail here to be served on Fletcher it was found that Fletcher had been removed from jail without the knowledge of the judge here. The warrant, however, was later executed on Fletcher prior to issuance of the Magoffin court's warrant, it was claimed.

"It is the feeling of the father of the victim and others," the petition said, "that if the hearing is allowed in Magoffin county adequate bond will not be set and there will be very little prosecution."

Status of Girls In Slaying Here Still Undecided

Juvenile Judge Richard E. Fitzpatrick had not decided at noon Tuesday if the daughters of John Henry Newsome, who are charged with the fatal stabbing August 23 of Gerald McBrayer, shall be placed under the jurisdiction of circuit court or if they shall be given trial as juveniles.

The hearing of the two girls was held last Saturday morning. The public was excluded from the hearing, and those permitted to attend, which included witnesses, members of the victim's family and officials, were warned by Judge Fitzpatrick not to divulge any information relating to the proceedings.

Only testimony from the Commonwealth was heard during the lengthy court session.

If the girls are convicted under juvenile law, they will serve a maximum of six months in a detention center. If the case is transferred to circuit court for trial, they would either win acquittal or be sentenced to prison terms.

The case of their father, who also is charged in the McBrayer slaying, was expected to be one of the early investigations made by the grand jury after it began work Tuesday morning.

PSC Approves Columbia Gas Rate Increase

Frankfort, Ky.—Columbia Gas of Kentucky, Inc. has received approval from the Kentucky Public Service Commission to increase its natural gas rates to its customers.

The increase, effective Sept. 1, is estimated to increase the income of Columbia Gas of Kentucky by some $2 million.

This will offset, in part, its supplier's $3,041,000 increase in wholesale rates and charges, according to company manager Michael Barna of Lexington.

He added that the rate increase will also be used to partially offset the firm's increasing operating costs, including the cost of labor, supplies, construction and taxes.

Barna said that the new rates will mean an increase of about 3.6 per cent, or approximately 76 cents a month, in the gas bill of the firm's average residential consumer.

The new residential rate is $3.535 for the first 1,000 cubic feet; $1.935 per 1,000 for the next 49,000 cubic feet; $1.895 per 1,000 for the next 50,000 cubic feet; $1.865 per 1,000 for the next 100,000 cubic feet; $1.845 per 1,000 for the next 800,000 cubic feet and $1.825 per 1,000 for all over 1,000,000 cubic feet. The minimum monthly charge is set at $3.50.

Columbia Gas of Kentucky serves approximately 115,700 residential, commercial and industrial customers in the Commonwealth and supplies gas to seven other gas companies for resale in Kentucky.

Historic Places May Qualify for Grants

Frankfort, Ky.—Applications for state restoration grants are now being taken for next year by the Kentucky Heritage Commission, announced Mrs. Eldred W. Melton, executive director. The deadline for applications is Nov. 1, 1976.

Properties must be listed on the National Register of Historic Places to be eligible for a grant. In all cases, the Kentucky Heritage Commission has the final authority to determine whether the proposed projects qualify for a grant under KRS 171.381, Mrs. Melton explained.

These funds have been appropriated by the Kentucky Legislature for either stabilization or authentic restoration projects. According to Mrs. Melton, these applications can also be considered for federal matching grants from the National Park Service, Department of the Interior.

Further information about the state restoration grant program may be obtained by writing to William J. Hearn, Restoration Grants Coordinator, Kentucky Heritage Commission, 104 Bridge St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call Hearn at 502-564-4452.

In order for a property to be placed on the National Register and qualify for a grant, it must be historically, architecturally or archaeologically significant, stated Mrs. Melton.

Flower Pots On Country Porch Give History Of Family Life

By HELEN PRICE STACY

If there is someone in the country you have not seen for a while now is the time for a visit. Pack some city foods in a basket to share with your host, get the children and your neighbor in the car and start out. You first will travel an interstate highway or a parkway, then a highway links that feed into back country roads and farm driveways.

It is these rural homes, their yards and fences, their flowerbordered paths and lanes on which you must feast. City porches and yards are lovely in their symmetrical furnishings, and stylistic plantings of hedges and shrubs, but a country porch and yard are the sweet tones and words in a folk song, the briar stitching around a hand pieced crazy quilt.

Here along vine-covered woodlands and honeysuckle rows are the wire-fenced yards with old wash tubs of marigolds making sunshine in corners; here beside weathered siding or white-painted boards are long rows of scarlet sage; here beside a stone step clumps of dahlias make giant flowers. These are bits and pieces of bloom that together make an important part of the good life.

As you and your family travel through the Commonwealth seek out these homes that still have front porches, porch swings and maybe a well in the yard. Here you will discover part of the beauty that began with the first homesteaders. From the pots, kettles, buckets and now rust stained and dented, brought tomatoes from the garden and ears of corn. It had carried water fresh from the well to hayfields to slake thirst of threshers and farm hands.

A white enamelware pan still with its handle edged in red but showing a strip of rag where a hole had been mended, is as elegant as a china vase with its bright red geranium bloom. Dark green circles of foliage droop over the edge where sweet syrup once dripped. On cool autumn mornings for many years this enamel pan warmed stomachs and hearts of school children as syrup bubbled with its amber sweetness to pour over buckwheat pancakes.

In Memoriam

In memory of Delza Boyd, who passed away Sept. 5, 1972:

Four long, lonely years ago today
God made his call upon us
And took our dear father away.

We miss you so very, very much;
Your smile, your voice, your laughter,
But, most of all, your touch.

Our nights are dark, our days are long,
But we know, you're much happier
Where the air is full of peace and song.

Sadly missed by wife,
EMMA BOYD
Children and Grandchildren

pan around porches can come the history of living. The large kettle that now is filled with petunias once knew the winey scent of apples and the stirring of an apple butter paddle.

A bucket, still with its bail, had a full life before. It had held feed for the pigs, oats for the horse and water for the family milk cow. When it was shiny and new, it went to the blackberry field where sun-browned hands filled it with purple sweetness that later would be cooked on a country wood fire to make jelly and jam for winter goodness. This same bucket, Zinnias of many colors make a splash of beauty in a large aluminum kettle that like the other "make-do" flower pots also had its life in days now past. This kettle was the nucleus of farm life and kitchen food, for in it had been cooked many pots of beans and side meat, many plain potatoes that were dishd out, sprinkled with a bit of salt and pepper and laced with country butter, or green beans tasting of garden freshness.

In the yard and along the fence rows are giant cannas, mums, marigolds that, together with the flower pots and pans on the porch, make up a life history of a farm family. The containers are quite like a country quilt that has been put together with scraps from a baby's dress, a romper suit, a checked shirt, a Sunday school dress and a wedding gown.

The Threat to the Printed Word

There are those who will in all seriousness assure you that the continuing postal increases imposed on newspapers and magazines is a deliberate move to deny the American people the printed word and thus deprive them of the opportunity of weighing issues through the reading and rereading of information.

We are not so convinced, but if the current trend continues, the result could be the same.

This newspaper, for instance, at one time had an annual expense for mailing to subscribers of around $200. This year, that cost will rise to more than $7,000.

And the end is not in sight. Another postal rate increase is due in January.

If the day ever comes when the cost of mailing becomes so prohibitive that the expense cannot be absorbed by the publications themselves and their readers, all news, opinion and informative material will go out by radio and television, to vanish without permanent record. That will open the land to demagoguery and control of the national thinking by the cleverest falsifier of events or by the glibest tongue.

The air cannot be depended upon for a permanent record.

U. S. Senator Wendell H. Ford recently had something to say about the matter. His remarks are excerpted from the Congressional Record:

"... once again the Congress has been confronted with the necessity of bailing the U. S. Postal Service out of its latest financial crisis. As we consider what course of action to take, I want to remind my colleagues of a small but important group that will be greatly affected by our actions—the small daily and weekly newspapers of this land.

"Rising postal rates have had a disrupting impact on Americans of all walks of life, but nowhere has this impact been greater than on the publishing field. The larger newspaper and magazine enterprises, because of their volume and diversity, are better able to cope with the new and additional mailing costs than the smaller operations who now find their very existence threatened.

"In Kentucky alone, more than 160 small daily and weekly operations are dependent on the mails to deliver the paper to subscribers.

"We are witnessing a trend among the larger metropolitan papers to devote less space to coverage of news in small towns and rural areas. For many papers, this is a matter of simple economics.

"Yet, as this occurs, a greater responsibility falls on the small daily and weekly papers—the community press—to transmit the news of local events.

"Those of us with roots in small or rural areas have strong feelings about the community press and recognize how a small daily or weekly paper can serve to tie together the various elements of a community.

"That is why I am disturbed about the impact and implications of yet another hike in postal rates.

"In the first 6 months of 1976, it has not been unusual for postage expenses to increase between 30 to 50 percent over the first half of last year. These added costs of production are, of course, shared by the subscribers, and it is the very real fear of those editors and publishers that the cost of subscribing to their papers might soon become prohibitive.

"I, for one, hope that day never comes. I cannot imagine it being the intent of our Founding Fathers, who went to such great lengths to insure a free and strong press, to see a time when the citizens of this land could not afford the costs incurred in the dissemination of news.

"I strongly support a moratorium on postal rate increases as well as a moratorium on the closing of small post offices."

ORAL VACCINE?

Neighbor George Brown has an argument to pick with "Ask Andy." Andy was asked recently what to do about poison ivy, and part of the answer, as it appeared in the syndicated column, was, "The best way to deal with this unpleasant pest is to avoid it. Don't touch it, don't burn it, and, for heaven's sake, don't eat it."

Mr. Brown tells of two members of his family who were highly allergic to poison ivy. There was the excruciating itching, the swollen features, all the things that can make life miserable. They were rather regular visitors to the nearest doctor until an old woman prescribed for them. "Eat some of the leaves," she said. Leaves of poison ivy were rendered palatable by being placed inside biscuit.

They not only suffered no ill effects from eating the leaves, George Brown will tell you, but neither has ever again suffered from contact with poisonous ivy at a cost of $110,000, and work on eight has been completed. There are about 12 jobs yet to be done.

The board of education declared an emergency exists in the shortage of certified substitute teachers, and the state department was asked to issue emergency permits for others.

Resignations of four teachers were accepted and their successors were employed. Those who resigned and teachers named as replacements are:

Roberta Fugate as teacher at Garrett Elementary, with Joyce Ann Case, of Garrett, employed; Steve Ratliff, art teacher at Osborne Elementary, Sandy Slone, of McDowell, named to the post; Buford Huff, teacher at Melvin Elementary, succeeded by Freddy Hall, of Price; Bobby Spears, Wheelwright High band director, with Dallas Faye Sammons, of Prestonsburg, employed in his stead; Johnny Martin, assistant basketball coach at Allen Central High, succeeded by Roger Lee Johnson, of Bevinville.

At the request of the State Department of Education the board added October 15 as a pupil holiday to permit teachers to attend EKEA. The day will be made up, and this will change the ending of the school term from May 25 to May 26.

The board adopted the state department's Career Education program, integrating Career Education with the school curriculum, and also officially complied with the new state open records law.

A leave of absence was granted Charles Goodman at Stumbo Elementary.

Letters to the Editor

No Water at Emma, Visitor There Reports

I came from California to Emma two weeks ago to visit my relatives and my grandfather who is very ill. Upon arrival I was very tired and felt a nice, hot bath would be refreshing, but to my dismay there was no water, not even enough for a glass of water. Two weeks has passed and there is still no water!

Talk about unsanitary conditions!—Well, I wonder what the Allen Water System calls this.

Of course, all these Emma residents will be billed for a service they have not received, and I think this is terribly unfair and unjust.

If there is a problem, then why not correct it in a reasonable length of time? Of course the gentleman at Allen who collects for this great service is never around to talk to you about the problem.

VISITING RELATIVES

Mrs. Anna Laura Boulds, of Lexington, is here visiting her relatives, the Davidson family, of First Avenue, and Mrs. Willie Mellon, on Maple Avenue.

Questions the Shortage Of School Buses

I would like to know what goes with the money we pay in school taxes? This section of Floyd county never gets any new buses, or enough buses. We don't have enough school buses to haul our children to and from school.

Our school bus on the Right Fork of Middle Creek has only 22 seats and over 90 children are on one run.

Is it going to take another school bus accident like the one in 1958 to make our school officials spend money on school buses instead of indoor swimming pools?

ANNIVERSARY SURPRISE

on the night of August 27 the officers stopped Harvey and informed him that they needed his help "in the disposal" of one witness Eddie Jones would have, or the person who was helping Jones, and identified that person as Agnel Jones. The plan, the motion claims, was for Harvey to sell a truckload of alcoholic beverages and for the settlement between Jones and Harvey to be taped, or "bugged" so that Agnel Jones' probation would be revoked before the trial date.

In an accompanying affidavit Harvey said he was threatened with revocation of his own parole. He said the officers stopped him near the Porter sawmill and took the gun which he had as a night-watchman. Attached to the petition for change of venue was also a slip of paper on which had been written the office and residential telephone numbers of each of the officers.

Harvey concluded his affidavit with this statement: "I am willing to be strapped alongside these three officers of the law in a dozen lie detector chairs or anything else to show that I am telling the truth."

Accusing the officers of advising Harvey that if he did not cooperate, he as a convicted felon would be arrested for possession of a gun, the petition claimed this allegation was proved to be true by the fact that Harvey was arrested Aug. 31 by the federal agent and taken before U. S. authorities in Lexington.

"This strangely and passingly happened after the attorney for Mr. Harvey wrote the superiors of the three officers," Burns wrote in the supplemental petition.

The petition also pointed out that on the occasion when the alleged crime occurred Eddie Jones was accused of having a firearm, and it added: ". . . and it is passingly strange that word has been received, reliable word, that Eddie Jones has been indicted or charged in U. S. court for violating the Federal Gun Law Act, all on the eve of his trial."

Another point made in support of the plea for change of venue was the $10,000 peace bond which Eddie Jones was required to execute and the contention that "to be explicitly certain that he does not breach nor break this bond it has been absolutely necessary to keep Mr. Eddie Jones out of the Commonwealth of Kentucky," causing him to engage in a used car business outside the state and to be denied the right to assist in the preparation of his case.

Jones is slated for trial for the slayings of Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Conley at Garrett and James Clayton Conley, near Wayland.

Judge Lane overruled an earlier motion for change of venue.

Sawfly Attacking Area Forests

Frankfort, Ky.—Oak sawflies are again defoliating a large area of forest land in eastern Kentucky. According to Harry Nadler, director of the division of forestry in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, the insect causing the damage is a small, slug-like larva. The larvae feeds on the underside of leaves causing them to turn pale brown to red in color. Oak sawflies usually feed on the foliage of pin, white and red oaks. Beginning its attack in the upper crown, the insect progresses downward until the entire tree is stripped.

Last year, the insect was reported in 24 counties containing more than four million acres of forest land. The forestry director said that aerial surveys conducted by the division of forestry found that 1.5 million acres of this area were infected by the insect.

Nadler added that the preliminary surveys conducted this summer indicate that the area infected this summer is about the same as last year. Reports from neighboring states of Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia show that they are also experiencing serious outbreaks of the insect.

The area infected by the oak sawfly has increased tremendously since it was first reported in Pulaski county in 1973. According to Nadler, this sudden increase is typical of most defoliating insects. Defoliation may continue for three or more years with continual increase in population; however, weather conditions, starvation, disease or parasites, and predators could cause a population to collapse.

Nadler said that the oak sawfly is not considered a serious forest pest. It is a late summer defoliator and in most cases causes little tree mortality. The insect, however, may cause growth loss on heavily infected trees.

Funds Pledged For Mine Safety

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian Carroll has assured members of his Deep Mining Safety Commission (DMSC) that he will find adequate funding to implement the mine safety program that they are to recommend and for his and the state General Assembly's approval.

DMSC chairman Sen. Kenneth Gibson (D-Madisonville) relayed Carroll's message to the group at the commission meeting Aug. 26, saying the governor was "willing to support the program financially as best he can."

The chairman noted that the amount of money needed to implement the program will be considerably less than the projected $8 or $9 million required for the maintenance of the fully implemented plan. He said the funding for the plan after it becomes effective would have to be provided for in the 1978 biennial budget.

"It is necessary that this be a phased implementation, a step-by-step program. As we are able to find and employ the men, the governor has pledged that he will find the funds to pay them," Gibson said.

In the same vein, the commission approved a resolution requesting that Congress make funds available to the states for the purpose of establishing safety training for miners.

The resolution cites the fact that the mining industry in the Commonwealth is largely composed of small and medium-sized mines that are frequently unable to provide uniform and effective training.

Copies of the resolution are being forwarded to the appropriate congressional committees, in addition to the state's congressional delegation.

In other action, the commission discussed the use of the proposed corps of safety analysts in the Department of Mines and Minerals.

The group agreed that the analyst would function primarily as an evaluator of work habits, advising and assisting both the individual miner and the management force in correcting unsafe, careless or potentially hazardous conditions.

However, members disagreed on the implementation of the plan.

Freeman said the analysts should be assigned on a resident basis. Freeman said his formula for assigning analysts to mines on the basis of the number of people employed by the mine should be the goal. "It is a guideline to abide by, something to try to achieve."

Commission member Paul Patton, a Pike county coal operator, proposed that the analysts remain at the mine only until a significant improvement is made then move to another mine with a poor safety record.

Cloyd McDowell, a Harlan county coal operator and member of the commission, offered a compromise which the group accepted.

According to McDowell's proposal, the analyst program would be implemented adhering to Freeman's formula, but beginning with placement in the high-risk mines.

The commission also reviewed the proposals of the task force on Miner Training, Education and Certification which have already been drafted into legislative form.

Ted Haley, chairman of the task force, estimated that the initial cost, including capital expenditures, of implementing the plan would be $76,000. He added that $311,000 per year would be needed to continue the program in subsequent years.

The commission touched on a number of other subjects but delayed final action until their Oct. 4-5 meeting here.

The meeting will be held to finalize the recommendations that the DMSC will submit to Gov. Carroll. The governor will then propose a package of legislation to the General Assembly for consideration during the special legislative session to be held later this year.

Historical Society To Meet Sept. 18th

The fall meeting of the Big Sandy Valley Historical Society will be held at Pikeville College Saturday, September 18, beginning with a noon luncheon in the Gold Room, according to society president Robert E. Kennedy. The program, scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. in the Christian Auditorium, will include a musical presentation arranged by Dr. Leonard W. Roberts, society secretary, and the main address by Prof. Wallace J. Williamson, III, of Ashland.

Williamson's address, "Sounds from the Mountains," will be a study he has made of the ancestry, speech, customs and other characteristics of the mountain people. In addition to having been the society's first president, Williamson is a former professor at Yale and Princeton Universities and also holds degrees from those institutions.

Persons planning to attend should notify Dr. Roberts by letter or telephone by September 15.

Others beside Kennedy and Williamson to participate in the program are Henry P. Scaif, Emory L. Hamilton, George A. Pruner and Edward R. Hazelett.

Life membership certificates will be presented to several members. There will be a display of Appalachian publications for sale.

The U. S. Labor Department's Employment and Training Administration has available 16 one-page consumer fact sheets which describe its major programs.

What To Do in September

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD (UK College of Agriculture)

Since it partakes of the character of both seasons, summer and autumn, September has been called "transition" month with "Summer's best of weather and autumn's best of cheer."

And indeed it is. In the southern part of our nation it is one of the warmest months and, even in the North, hot days are frequent. Nights, however, are likely to be cool and fine for sleeping. Then, too, there is often just more than a touch of that nostalgic blue haze that makes the later autumn days of October so hauntingly beautiful.

On the farm and in the garden, September is a busy month. It is the harvest period for many crops—a period when corn is cut and made into shocks or ground into silage, when potatoes are dug and the last green tomatoes gathered for storage. It is a time when "tanned farmers labor without slack" to harvest and store away the "rich fruits of the field."

In the calendar of Charlemagne, September was called the harvest month, and in some countries it still bears that name. In their choice of a name for this month the Anglo-Saxons were more specific. They called September the "barley month."

Many of our months have undergone changes in their number of days, but since old Roman times, September has been limited. It has always had thirty days, but it hasn't always been the ninth as it is today.

Before the calendar was revised by Julius Caesar, it was the seventh month, and its name stems from the Latin "septem," meaning seven. When the month was shifted in the Julian calendar to the ninth place, the name was not changed.

Aside from being the "harvest month," and the "barley month," September could very well be described as the "inspirational" month. Immortal poets and artists have been stimulated by the month to complete immortal poems and paintings. For, as Longfellow once wrote, in effect, in "September the earth is beautiful as if newborn. There is nameless splendor everywhere, wild exhilaration in the air, that make passers in the city street congratulate each other as they meet."

September is a month in which to live and enjoy life and, according to University of Kentucky horticulturists, orchardists, and other specialists in the art of rural living, to renovate the lawn) clip hedges for the last time in the year; plant daffodil bulbs; bring in houseplants; transplant evergreen shrubbery; harvest and store white and sweet potatoes; sow lettuce in cold-frame; sow cover crops in vacant garden areas; pull, dry, and store onions; water plants in places such as under eaves where normally they do not receive enough water; and gather materials for fall flower arrangements—milkweeds, foxgloves, bittersweet, sumac, hydrangea, okra, teasel and others.

But above all, plan to spend some time outdoors in September and enjoy all the "lovely tokens" it has to offer. It will be a long, long time before the month will come again.

Libraries Invite Public

Frankfort, Ky.—Have you visited your local public library lately? If you haven't, you are in for a surprise. You will find more than books there. In fact, it's a whole new library.

"Records, cassettes and framed prints can be borrowed from the local public library," said Charles F. Hinds, director of the Kentucky Department of Library and Archives. He added that even sets of Paul Sawyer prints have been placed in all of Kentucky's 110 local public libraries for lending.

Today's public libraries have become more people-oriented, according to Hinds. Many have meeting rooms which can be used by civic and social clubs; movie projectors and films are loaned to civic and church groups, nursing homes, and community centers, and independent learning programs are offered.

Entertainment is another offering of today's libraries with puppet shows for the youngsters and movies for all ages. Many libraries have art or photography exhibits scheduled throughout the year, usually highlighting local artists and craftsmen.

Public libraries can add to your enjoyment and knowledge said Hinds. "Visit—you will find it's a whole new library," said Hinds.

FIVE MINUTES of your life may be all it takes to prevent blindness. Ask your eye doctor for a test for glaucoma, the 'sneak thief of sight'.

By LARRY BURKE

Just about every day we hear someone ask: "What is this generation coming to?" The question that should be asked is: "How did we get here?"

There are a hundred different places that could be blamed, but don't overlook the home.

Happy is the man who believes that the training of his children in the way of truth and righteousness will secure for his nation the stability that is so needed in this modern day. The puritans and the Pilgrims built a nation centered about the family, and no matter what may be said about the blue laws of New England, America has not suffered by them. It is the laxness of all law that is filling our reformatories and prisons with lawbreakers scarcely out of their teens.

Maybe we should take a long look at "old-fashioned" tactics in our "modern" world.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: "One seldom rises above the leadership."

Reading Council To Meet Sept. 14

What is your particular reading interest? Are you supervisor, principal, teacher, parent or student? The Jenny Wiley Reading Council will devote a large portion of time to a panel discussion concerned with reading instruction from different viewpoints on its first meeting of the year at the Floyd County Regional Library Tuesday, September 14, at 7:30 p.m. Larry Jervis, guidance counselor in the Floyd county schools, will direct the discussion group composed of two students, a parent, teacher, principal, and supervisor.

Council President Kathleen Keithman has stated that she knows of no better way to further reading than with a discussion of goals and objectives of reading skills by those directly involved. All interested persons are invited to this meeting.

Membership in the council is open to all persons engaged in the teaching or supervision of reading at any school level, to parents, and to all others interested in the purposes of the council which is an affiliate of the International Reading Association.

Johnson Co. Woman Killed in Mishap

Sandy Hook—A Johnson county woman was killed in a one-vehicle accident at 3 p.m. last Wednesday five miles north of here on KY 173.

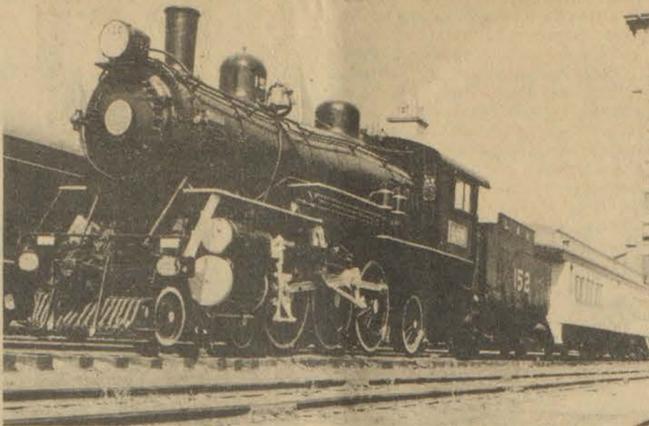

Mrs. Victoria Kennard, 29, Hager Hill, was dead at the scene. Mrs. Kennard was traveling south on KY 173 when she lost control of her car on a rainslick curve. The car then struck a large rock and overturned, Kentucky State Police Trooper Barry Bradley said.

Mrs. Kennard was born April 5, 1947, in South Dakota, a daughter of Niles and Frances Stillman.

Surviving in addition to her parents are her husband, John Kennard; a son, John David Kennard at home; a daughter, Miss Jennifer Kennard at home; three sisters, Mrs. Roberta Medeaugh, of Roseville, Mich., and Mrs. Kay Paft and Mrs. Karen Grose, both of Ann Arbor, Mich., and a brother, Niles Stillman, of Ann Arbor.

Funeral services conducted Friday at the Jones-Preston Funeral Home in Paintsville. Burial was in the Highland Memorial Park at Staffordsville.

Listed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1974, Engine No. 152 will become fully operational next spring. McDowell Regional Gets Accreditation

McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital has been accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH), according to Edward V. Collins, administrator.

The accreditation, which covers from May, 1976 to May, 1978, is the result of an on-site survey made by field representatives of the Joint Commission's Hospital Accreditation Program (HAP). Accreditation indicates that the hospital has chosen to operate according to standards set by JCAH and that the facility has, in the main, met these standards.

The standards, published as the Accreditation Manual for Hospitals, set forth optimal achievable goals of excellence against which a facility can measure itself and be measured by the Joint Commission's survey.

McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital is one of approximately 4800 general hospitals throughout the United States that have earned this recognition. There are approximately 7150 hospitals in the U. S.

A NUMBER OF RESIDENTS in the Middle Creek area who visit the Stumbo Family Cemetery at Stumbo Hollow on Middle Creek have protested in recent months to conditions resulting from the abandonment of a strip mined area in the hollow which, residents say, make access to the graveyard next to impossible during wet weather and difficult at other times. Residents say the company promised to rebuild the original access road to the cemetery which followed the creek and presented only the slightest grades but left only a steep haul road which, as the photo shows, is breaking away in places. Officials of the state reclamation office, company officials and others have been contacted with little success as yet.

Floyd County Health Notes

Thursday, September 9, the Floyd County Health Department will be conducting a pap smear clinic from 9 to 11:30 and from 1 to 2.

The health department would like to remind all women that cancer of the cervix is one of the most curable of all cancers if it is detected in the early stages and that most doctors recommend that all women should have a Pap Smear at least once a year.

Also available at this clinic will be a six-minute film regarding the detection of breast cancer. This clinic is a free service and all women are welcome to attend.

Monday, September 13, a community health nurse will conduct an outpost clinic in the basement of the Methodist Church at Wayland. This clinic will last from 10 to 12 and 1 to 2 and the medical services available will be immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening and blood pressures.

All persons in the Wayland vicinity are welcome to take advantage of these free medical services being offered in their community.

The Floyd County Health Department will sponsor a health booth at the Floyd County Fair, September 15 through September 17. The community health nurses will be screening for high blood pressure and will also be doing weights.

Since high blood pressure (also known as hypertension; and excess weight are two major factors in heart disease, the health department urges all Floyd countians to visit the health booth and to take advantage of these free screening services.

The health booth will also be supplied with free literature on cancer, immunizations, dental health, glaucoma, diabetes and many other aspects of health.

Did you know that children who are eligible for medical assistance can get a free physical examination once a year until they're 21 years old?

This screening program, referred to as early, periodic screening, diagnosis and treatment program or EPSDT, is provided by the Floyd County Health Department and is designed to detect abnormalities that require additional medical care. These exams include tests for vision and hearing, routine blood tests for anemia and diabetes and tests to detect urinary problems. The community health nurses also look for obvious physical defects or trouble with ears, nose, mouth, teeth or throat, Tuberculin skin tests and needed immunizations are given, and a development assessment is also done.

If the results of any of these tests indicate that a child needs further medical care, the nurses tell the parents how to go about getting the needed treatment.

All persons who are eligible for medical assistance and are interested in having their children receive this free medical examination should call their social worker in the Bureau for Social Services at 886-2949 so that they can give you an appointment. Also, if transportation is a problem be sure to mention this when you call.

Johnson County Voters To Decide Gov't Type

Paintsville—Johnson county voters may have the opportunity to voice their opinion in the November election on whether the county should be governed by the present commissioner-type system or switch back to the magistrat-type system.

Denver Wells, of Boonscamp, filed last week with the county court clerk a request for the question to be put on the ballot. Wells' request was backed by a petition containing 178 signatures.

The wording for the question on the ballot reads: "Are you for or against having a fiscal court composed of three commissioners and the county judge of the county court?"

Johnson county switched from the magisterial form of government in 1973. Most of the surrounding counties are still governed by that system.

County Judge James Witten was to be presented the proposal and petitions when he returned from Washington last week.

"Gifted" Program Possible Without Increased Spending

By SALLY WILSON
Frankfort, Ky.—For some time, the special needs of gifted-talented students largely have been ignored, both in Kentucky and nationwide.

"This is partially due to the myth that the gifted can take care of themselves," said Chairman Sperling, state coordinator of gifted-talented programs for the state Department of Education.

"Another problem is that many educators have viewed giftedness only in terms of intellectual ability. They felt gifted students needed nothing more than being rewarded by good grades."

These myths simply aren't true, Sperling said. "Some educators haven't thought at all about the kids they're turning off, or losing, or whom they have forced outside the schools."

Although there has been "no legislative push" for gifted education in Kentucky, Sperling does feel that Kentucky "has made a bigger commitment than many other states" by hiring a full-time coordinator.

"There's a strong democratic justification for gifted education," Sperling said. "A school system should meet the needs of all students. The recent interest in special education is based on the same philosophy. And there's a special justification in terms of wasted human talent."

Also, she said, gifted education "can have a substantial effect on the entire system by communicating techniques, strategies and ways to work with children. This can be very valuable in every classroom."

Sperling emphasized that even a good gifted program doesn't necessarily require additional funds. "This may be hearsay," she said, "but it seems to me that the politics of implementing special provisions often means demanding more and more money. Although more money would encourage larger, more substantive programs, there are many, many productive things you can do without it."

For example, she said, a teacher could:

- Work out a contract with a child which would allow time for a special project;
- Structure questions and activities which would challenge the gifted child;
- Order materials that would be of particular interest or importance to a gifted child;
- Make arrangements for a child to spend part of the day with someone who knows something about the child's particular interest or who is talented in that area.

"What we need is to infuse the entire school system with an awareness of the needs of gifted-talented children," Sperling said.

When asked how difficult this might be, she said that the response to awareness sessions held in various school districts has been good. In fact, she has already received letters from teachers who have developed programs for their own classes.

"The teachers were particularly interested in specific things to do in the classroom," Sperling said, adding that resource materials and bibliographies can be obtained from the Department of Education's resource center.

"It would be nice to have a well-funded program," Sperling concluded. "But I definitely believe every school can do something—even without increased spending."

Sometimes this tissue grows outside of the womb, and this condition is called endometriosis. While it can cause internal bleeding and it can sometimes be painful, endometriosis is not cancer, nor does it lead to cancer. Naturally, you should be under the care of a physician.

A worried father writes: "My son is 17 and he recently put himself on a Zen diet of some sort. He is practically living on cereal alone. He tells me that if my father, his grandfather, had followed that kind of diet, he would not have died of cancer last year. What can you tell me?"

ANSWER line: The Zen Macrobiotic Diet is one of the most dangerous your son could have chosen. It has been condemned by the American Medical Association and leading experts on nutrition as a serious health hazard. A woman in New Jersey died of starvation after following this diet for nine months. You might tell your son that after careful review, the American Cancer Society has published a statement noting that this diet, "is not beneficial in treating cancer." It is a cruel deception to suggest that such a harmful diet could have saved his grandfather.

A college student writes: "I am interested in behavior modification, and I think it could be of help to people who want to quit smoking cigarettes. Has it been tried?"

ANSWER line: Behavior modification is one of the techniques used in smoking withdrawal groups including those sponsored by the American Cancer Society. The potential quitter discovers that smoking is a learned habit which he or she can consciously unlearn. One of the ways that is accomplished is to make the smoker strongly aware of when he or she smokes, and why. If, for example, a smoker automatically lights up with coffee at the end of a meal, there is benefit in changing that double pattern of behavior by, for example, leaving the table and having coffee elsewhere, or using both hands to hold the cup—anything to break the chain of habits, thereby modifying behavior.

A union member asks: "Is there any way of estimating how many workers will get cancer? I am trying to convince my membership to try some preventive health measures, and this information would help."

ANSWER line: In terms of a rough estimate, 21 million of the more than 85 million Americans in the work force today will develop cancer sometime in their lives. However, there are some preventive measures, such as regular medical checkups, and heeding the seven warning signals, to find cancer early when it is most curable. Your American Cancer Society Unit would be glad to help you plan a program to help safeguard the health of your union membership and their families. The ACS can provide such programs free of charge.

Coal Severance Board in Meet

The Floyd County Coal Severance Economic Aid Board held a public meeting last Tuesday morning in the county courtroom.

After the board had discussed with the public the legislation and regulations relating to the allocation and expenditure of the coal severance tax allotted to the county, several project applications for expenditures were submitted for consideration. But some confusion was apparent in regard to the filing of applications with the board.

The board voted to extend the meeting and to reconvene on September 21, at 9 a.m. to allow project applications to be filed with the secretary and to allow those who have already filed to add more complete information and cost estimates to their applications.

Project applications, it was explained, should include a description of the capital project, including a general cost estimate, a statement of the benefits to be derived from the project, the location of the project, the person or agency proposing the project, including the name of person or organization, address, type of business, occupation, or office of applicant. All applications should be signed by the applicant, if individual, or an officer of an organization or municipality.

Project applications are available in the County Judge's office and should be filed before September 21 with James Reed, secretary, Floyd County Coal Severance Economic Aid Board, P. O. Box 7537, Drift, Kentucky 41619.

P'burg W'wright Teams Win In Weekend Gridiron Play

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON

The Prestonsburg Blackcats and the Wheelwright Trojans remained undefeated this week after Trojans had rolled to their third straight win by whipping Phelps, 40 to 16, and Prestonsburg had spotted the Pikeville Panthers a 14-0 lead in the first quarter and rallied gamely to down the Panthers, 26 to 20.

The Trojans in their win remain undefeated in the Class A, Region 4, District 2 race, with a record of 3-0. Wheelwright exploded for 40 points in the first half against Phelps. Randell Johnson started the scoring as he tackled Estep in the end zone for a safety and from there on in the first half it was a running game for the Trojans. Darren Little scored the first touchdown on a 24-yard run and also scored the extra two-point run. Dewey Jamerson scored on a 50-yard touchdown pass play from quarterback Joe Tackett. Again Darren Little scampered over for the two-point conversion. Darren Little picked up his second touchdown of the game on a 36-yard run and Ricky Thornsbury crashed over for the two-point conversion. Dewey Jamerson scored his second touchdown of the game on another 50 yard sprint, and Darren Little scored the 2-point conversion. The final scoring for the Trojans came in the second quarter on a 50-yard run by Tony Hall. This time the Trojans failed to score on the run.

The Phelps Hornets did their scoring in the second half on a 10-yard run by Randy Hager. Kelly Estep scored the two-point conversion, also capped off his team; scoring with a nine-yard run and the two-point conversion at halftime with Wheelwright leading 40 to 16. Coach Don Daniels substituted freely in the second half.

Pikeville was leading, 14 to 0, at the end of the first quarter but was stopped in the next two quarters by the Blackcat defense, while Wm. O. Goebel, 170-pound senior running back, turned in an impressive offense performance, pounding out 198 yards in 22 carries as the Cats outrushed the Panthers, 325 yards to 252. Goebel also scored two touchdowns on runs of 10 and 16 yards. Both touchdowns came in the second quarter.

After the first touchdown the Cats failed on the conversion, but on the second they tied the ball game up with a two-point conversion on a run by Thomas Slone. Alvin Hall made a key interception for the Cats in the second quarter to a Pikeville drive.

The Cats went ahead in the third quarter when Terry Slone scored on a 3-yard run. The Blackcat defense was put to a real test in the closing minutes of the third quarter and at the opening of the fourth, but it stopped Pikeville cold on the 2-yard line.

In the fourth quarter Ricky Morgan scored on a 15-yard run, but the conversion run failed.

Quarterback Greg Dixon had a good night as he connected for several passes, and he kept the Pikeville defense dizzy with his ball handling. With Prestonsburg leading 26 to 14, Larry May galloped 70 yards for a Pikeville touchdown to put his team within striking distance with six minutes left. Prestonsburg took the ensuing kick-off, however, and ran out the clock by driving 52 yards in 11 plays. Prestonsburg will face Johnson Central (1-0) Friday night, and Pikeville will go against Wheelwright in a district game at Wheelwright.

Last Beaver Valley Tourney Believed Best in Its 45 Years

What may have been the last tournament to be held on the Beaver Valley golf course at Allen was its most successful. Sixty-five golfers participated in the meet held Aug. 27-28.

The tournament at match play was planned as "farewell" event for the nine-hole course in its present form, with sand greens, as work is expected within the next few months to convert the grounds and adjacent land into a countywide recreation center. Beaver Valley has been operated about 45 years.

The tournament winner was Carl Ray Fraley, of Wayland. Although he and other tourney leaders received handsome trophies, two senior golfers, Ray and Fred Fraley, Wayland brothers, were honored especially with an award for having contributed most to golf in the history of the Beaver Valley Golf and Country Club.

Runnerup to Carl Ray Fraley in the championship flight was Tommy Boyd, of Betsy Layne. Medalist qualifying honors were won by Clyde Woods in a playoff with Clinton Reed, both whom shot the nine holes in 69.

Other flight winners and runnersup: First flight—Ronnie Caudill and Jeff Conn; second—Bert Duff and Junior Cecil; third—Bill Damron and Bill Hoppman; fourth—John Phillip Sammons and Roy Curry; fifth—Day Crisp and Wendell Wallen; sixth—Larry Hall and Van Ray Slone; seventh—Larry Woods and Joe Roberts.

The trophy awarded the golfer whose tee shot came nearest the hole went to John Phillip Sammons.

Also presented were these "fun" awards:

"Weeping Willie award, Terry Sizemore; longest drive, Bill Hoppman; "Minus Jim Ison" award, Van Ray Slone; biggest around the middle golfer, Marvin Tackett.

Aircraft Crashes Claim 41 in State

Frankfort, Ky.—Thirteen persons died in 41 aircraft accidents in Kentucky during the last fiscal year.

According to state Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts, only five deaths and 29 accidents occurred during the 1974-75 fiscal period.

Roberts cited the growing popularity of flying as one major reason for the higher number of accidents and fatalities. "There are more than 1,500 private aircraft registered in Kentucky this year as compared with about 1,400 in 1975," he said.

Francis Stores Tourney Winners

Francis Stores' softball team won the Labor Day softball tournament held at the Drift ball park. The championship was gained by victories over Weeksbury (11-1), West Prestonsburg (12-0), Wayland (10-0), Price Bondo (15-5), and Garrett (12-9 and 18-3).

The team was led in hitting by Tim Shepherd who had an amazing 20 hits in 25 at bats. Four players were named to the all-tournament team; Ronnie Blackburn, Larry Crum, Mike Yates, and Garland Colegrove. Other players who contributed to the tourney wins were Carl Hall, Roy Conn, John Chafin, David Chafin, Rodney Osborne, Caner Hall, Craig Shepherd and Wilburn Samons.

Greenbo Work OK'd

Frankfort, Ky.—State Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts has authorized improvements to the road leading to the boat dock at Greenbo Lake in Greenup county. The work will involve grade and drainage improvements and gravel surfacing, beginning at the boat dock and extending east 2 mile. Roberts said that state highways personnel and equipment will do the work. The project is scheduled for completion during November, and will cost an estimated $6,100.

Red River Gorge Glider Crashes Claim 2 Lives

The week-end's second fatal hang-gliding accident in the Red River Gorge Sunday took the life of Daniel K. Ballas, 24, of Cincinnati.

Ballas' kite was about 100 feet above the Raven Rock landing field when, according to one witness, it "plunged straight downward."

Ballas was dead on arrival at Clark County Hospital in Winchester.

On the preceding day Allen Kling, 27, also of Cincinnati, was dead on arrival at the same hospital after his glider dropped about 400 feet.

A third flyer, Tim Belcher of Columbus, Ohio, broke his foot in another fall Saturday.

Several fellow contestants in the Raven Rock Open Hang Gliders Tournament blamed the wind currents in the area for Ballas's crash.

"The only time this place is safe is when the wind doesn't blow," said Jim DeBauche of Encinitas, Calif.

DeBauche said he thought the Raven Rock area was a "very dangerous place" for hang-gliding.

But DeBauche also said the accident was partly caused by a design problem in the glider, which Ballas had built himself. Like most of the other gliders in the competition, it was a large, moth-shaped triangle fitted with bars.

Brian Porter of Merced, Calif., who won this year's World Open hang-gliding competition, said that "a lot of hang gliders are homebuilt. His might not have been as stable as it could have been."

But more flyers talked about the "squirrely" wind conditions in the area. They said that the hills around the landing field create up-winds and down-winds that make control of the gliders difficult.

Randy Alfred of Jeffersonville, Ind., said that competitive flying is more dangerous than free-flying, because the flyers are trying to execute specific patterns.

Several individuals pointed out that each contestant is responsible for his decision to take off.

"You have to make sure everything is right when you do it or you're literally taking your life in your hands," said Steve Bader of Louisville, a member of the Cincinnati Hang Gliders Association which sponsored the competition.

Bader said he had flown for a year and had never seen anyone hurt.

Not long after Ballas's kite crashed and competition had been suspended in the fourth round, Bader said he expected there would still be some free-flying—flying without any attempt to follow a pattern.

"There are guys up there (on Raven Rock) who would go off a telephone pole if you'd let them," he said.

And a little more than an hour after the accident which killed Ballas, Gettelfinger's red, white and blue kite swept off Raven Rock.

The earliest authenticated strike of workers in the United States occurred in 1786 when Philadelphia printers gained a minimum wage of $6 a week, reported the U. S. Department of Labor's "Important Events in American Labor History, 1778-1975."

Company Wins Reinstatement As Road Bidder

Frankfort, Ky.—Hoover, Inc., of Nashville, Tenn., and its subsidiaries have been reinstated as qualified bidders on state-funded highway projects in Kentucky, Kentucky Department of Transportation (KyDOT) Secretary John C. Roberts announced.

The firm had been banned from bidding for a period of one year, effective June 28, because they failed to respond to the transportation department's demand for payment by last July 27 of a claim similar to one they previously had with the federal government.

Roberts said he restored Hoover's eligibility as a qualified bidder upon receiving their offer and subsequent payment August 30 of $25,000.

Hoover Inc. was one of four firms which, together with four of their officers, were indicted by a federal grand jury in 1973 for conspiracy to defraud the United States.

The conspiracy charges involved bidding on Interstate 64 for construction projects in Rowan and Carter counties.

The other firms were Standard Slag Co. of Portsmouth, Ohio, East Kentucky Paving Corp. of Grayson, and Hot Mix, Inc., of Nashville.

In September, 1975, Hoover Inc., East Kentucky Paving, and Standard Slag entered "no contest" pleas to the federal action and were fined $10,000 each. Later, they also paid a total $500,000 to settle a federal civil suit for damages.

Charles against Hot Mix Inc. and the four company officers were dropped.

Following settlement of the federal actions, KyDOT last June 28 demanded that the three companies pay the Commonwealth $55,555.55 as the state's share of the I-64 construction costs. Interstate construction is funded 90 per cent federal, 10 per cent state.

Hoover Inc. was asked for $25,000, Standard Slag for $19,444.44 and East Kentucky Paving for $11,111.11. East Kentucky made prompt settlement. The other two were suspended when they failed to do so.

Standard Slag met KyDOT's demand on Aug. 5. Now that Hoover Inc. has paid its $25,000, the state's ban against all three firms has been lifted.

Roberts pointed out that all three firms still are barred from bidding on federal-aid projects because of a ruling handed down by the Federal Highway Administration. Under the ruling, they originally were banned from bidding on federal-aid projects for three years beginning last April 1. That was later reduced to six months which will expire Sept. 30.

Roberts said that no further punitive action is contemplated against any of the three companies in question since all three have met the demands of the department.

Farm ponds owners—your time is running out!

The deadline date is getting closer and closer for 1976-77 farm pond stocking applications which must be received in the Frankfort office of the Department of Fish and Wildlife by Oct. 1.

Those who miss the deadline will have to wait another year—until next October—for bluegill and channel catfish and until the following spring for largemouth bass.

This once-a-year deadline is necessary, according to Pete Pfeiffer, assistant director of fisheries, because forage fish (the bluegill) should be stocked first. But the fish themselves don't cooperate.

Bass spawn first, usually in April, and bluegill spawn later in the summer. To stock both bass and bluegill in the spring, it is necessary to hold the bluegill over the winter and through the preparation and spawning period the following spring, taking up valuable hatchery space which could be used for other purposes.

So the bluegill are stocked in October along with the catfish (another summer spawner), and the bass are delivered the following spring. Since no bluegill are available in April when the bass are stocked, and since the bass need bluegill for forage, only those ponds which have been stocked in the fall can receive bass the following spring.

But so much for the biology lesson and now down to the immediate details: If you have a pond you want stocked, contact your county fish and wildlife conservation officer. He must inspect the pond and make recommendations about the number of fish needed and any pre-stocking treatments the pond might require.

Only ponds without existing fish populations can be stocked, either new ponds or those in which the existing fish have been eradicated. This is necessary because stocking fry or fingerlings into a pond with larger fish only accomplishes one thing: it feeds the larger fish for a few days.

If you have a pond that's been stocked in the past but which is offering poor fishing, the CO might recommend that you eliminate the fish in the pond and start over. This often is the easiest and fastest way to improve fishing in a pond that's producing poorly.

The CO can give you advice on this or on other pond management techniques when he inspects your pond. There is still time, if you act now, to renovate an old pond before the stocking deadline for this year.

Pond owners who receive fish from the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources are under no obligation to open their ponds to the public and they may place creel or size restrictions more limiting than statewide regulations on their ponds.

This is perhaps the most common misunderstanding about the department's farm pond stocking program, so let's repeat it: Any pond on private property stocked with fish and wildlife remains under the sole control of the property owner and he is under no obligation to allow public fishing on his property unless he chooses to do so.

Of course, many pond owners do let others fish their ponds, usually those who are polite enough to ask permission and who don't litter, try to catch all the fish or generally make themselves obnoxious. With a recent survey showing that over 25 per cent of Kentucky's fishermen prefer fishing in a pond of under five acres, fish and wildlife's farm pond program is serving close to a quarter of a million fishermen throughout the state, both those who own ponds and those allowed to fish them.

Pfeiffer says that the fisheries division stocks around 1,500 ponds each year and that the Oct. 1 deadline is necessary to complete planning for the distribution and delivery of the fish.

Pond owners who have requested fish will be notified when and where to pick up their fish, which are packed in plastic lined boxes containing stocking instructions. No further action on the pond owner's part is necessary for him to receive bass the following spring, when he will again be notified of delivery dates.

So if you've been putting off getting that pond stocked, start tracking down your county conservation officer. If you don't know his name, a call to the county clerk's office should provide you with that information or contact the Division of Law Enforcement, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Capital Plaza, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, phone 502-564-3176.

Radio Operators Organize Here for Emergencies

A group of Floyd citizens moved toward full local emergency preparedness as 20 operators of citizens' two-way radios held an organizational meeting here Aug. 29.

Each operator automatically became a volunteer, participating member of the Floyd County REACT Team, which is a part of a current nationwide movement to provide emergency two-way radio service on the highways.

REACT has organized one or more 24-hour emergency citizens two-way radio teams in more than 500 American communities, giving residents better protection and quicker service in time of emergency. The coordinating independent non-profit organization, REACT International, Inc., is headquartered in Chicago.

Those attending the meeting here were Jean Hickman R29, Maude Franko R 63, Dan Heintzelman R 19, Jerry Stricklin R 147, Brenda Stricklin R 148, Kal Franko R 62, Victor Hickman R 1, Charles Branham R 68, Frank Sumpter R 16, John Neeley R 20, Donnie Goble R 168, John Hurd R 8, Danny McCoy R 74, Samuel Hatcher R 18, William Miller R 27, Jack Hopson R 66, Jan Mullins R 129, Douglas George R 3, Kelly Franko R 93, and Selton Mullins R 115. Jack Hopson, president of the Floyd county team, said the group has two primary objectives: 1. To provide Floyd county with an efficient, round-the-clock system of radio communications instantly adaptable to emergency situations; 2. To promote correct and efficient use of citizens' two-way radios.

The board of directors for the Floyd county REACT team will meet Sept. 11 at 6 p.m. at Archer Park.

Big Sandy Report Now Under Review

A report containing recommendations for water and related land projects and programs for the Big Sandy and Guyandotte River basins is now being reviewed by the governors and heads of cooperating federal agencies within the Ohio River Basin. The report was prepared under the leadership of the Ohio River Basin Commission and contains information furnished by the states and federal agencies directly influencing the two basins.

Recommendations for implementation during the next five years include improved municipal waste treatment facilities 29 communities. The report also recommends the construction of six USDA-SCS watershed projects and one Corps of Engineers' reservoir in the basins. The state members of the Commission recommend that funding for abandoned mine drainage abatement and state water quality enforcement programs be provided on an 80 percent federal-20 percent local cost-sharing basis. Additional federal funding is also recommended for recreation on lands adjacent to federal water resource projects.

Copies of the report may be obtained from the Ohio River Basin Commission, 36 East Fourth Street, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202. Comments on the report are requested by September 15.

Hayes-Salyer Vows Spoken

The wedding of Miss Rebecca Lee Hayes and Mr. Phillip Alan Salyer was solemnized on August 14 at the Second Baptist Church, Ashland, Ky.

The double-ring ceremony was performed at 6:30 p.m. by the Rev. B. D. Nisbet, Jr. A program of piano and organ selections, including "Brian's Song", "Theme from Summer of 42" and "The Lord's Prayer" was presented by Mrs. Harriet Payne.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hayes, Jr., of 4917 Williams Ave., Ashland, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude B. (Buddy) Salyer, 3624 South 29th St., Ashland.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white tulle over taffeta fashioned with a high ruffled neckline, empire bodice accented with white satin ribbon and long bishop sleeves extending into wide cuffs edged with self ruffles. The princess skirt was enhanced with a deep ruffle at the hemline. Her chapel-length mantilla of silk illusion was attached to a puffed cap accented with lace rosettes and she carried a nosegay bouquet of miniature carnations, sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath trailing miniature bouquets tied with blue velvet ribbon.

Miss Juda Curnutte was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Sandy Hayes, sister of the bride, Miss Debra Barber and Mrs. Connie Mann. They wore identical gowns of blue dotted swiss styled with a sweetheart neckline, short puffed sleeves, tie sashes and a deep ruffle at the hemline. Their headdresses were white picture hats trimmed with bands matching their gowns and they carried nosegay bouquets of miniature carnations, sweetheart roses and stephanotis tied with blue satin streamers.

Brian Salyer served his brother as best man, and ushers were Gergory Salyer of Louisville, brother of the bridegroom, Robert Bates and William Rutherford, both of Lexington.

Other members of the wedding party were Misses Amy Elizabeth and Andrea Lynn Cossett, flower girls. They wore gowns of blue dotted swiss with blue satin ribbons in their hair and carried tiny nosegay bouquets.

Assisting at the reception in the social room of the church following the ceremony were Mrs. Tom Scalf, Mrs. Fred Chatfield, aunts of the bride and groom, Mrs. Robert Queen, Mrs. Charles Daniels, Mrs. J. D. Baer and Mrs.

Stephen Christian, sister of the bride. The guests were registered by Miss Lynn Hayes, sister of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Paul Blazer High School and is employed by the J. D. Penney Co. She will be a nursing student at Ashland Community College.

Mr. Salyer, also a graduate of P.B.H.S., attended Ashland Community College and the University of Kentucky. He is employed by Ashland Oil, Inc.

Following a wedding trip to Jenny Wiley State Park, Mr. and Mrs. Salyer are residing at 1005 Stella Drive, Apt. 7F.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hagans, David and Lynda, of Langley; Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Allen, Mrs. Warner Willis and Alan Hagans, all of Prestonsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Greg Salyer and Wes, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Sterling, of Louisville; Mrs. Tom Strong, Indianapolis, Inc.; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Scalf, Kevin and Lisa, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Marie Stelbasky, Mrs. William Tipkemper and Jessica, Cincinnati, Ohio; Mrs. Alene Cottle, Tim, Dan and Matt, Portsmouth, Ohio; Miss Pam Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sterling, of Lexington.

The new Mrs. Salyer is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hagans, of Warco, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Marion (Bud) Hayes, Sr., of Langley.

Pike School Supt. Elected EKSA Head

James T. Dotson, superintendent of Pike county schools, was recently selected to serve the 1976-'77 school year as president of the Eastern Kentucky Superintendents' Association (EKSA).

He was selected to fill the term of Oran C. Teater, superintendent of the Paintsville city schools. Teater resigned as president of EKSA in order to serve as the chairman of the board of directors of the Eastern Kentucky Education Development Corporation.

Dotson has been superintendent of the Pike county schools since July, 1973. Prior to becoming superintendent, he served the Pike county schools as a teacher, principal, and supervisor over the past 30 years.

During Dotson's career as an educator in Pike county, he has also been an active pastor of the Blackberry Interdenominational Church at Ransom. He has also been active in civic and athletic affairs.

Half of Permit, Acreage Fees Returned To 43 Coal Counties

Gov. Julian Carroll announced last week that payments totaling $836,685 are being sent to 43 coal-producing counties, representing half of the permit and acreage fees collected by the state in fiscal year 1975-'76.

Floyd county received $10,305. Each year, one-half the strip mining acreage and permit fees collected by the division of reclamation are returned to the counties where the mines are located. The other half is placed in the state's general fund.

The largest check, $64,740, went to Whitley county, Grayson county's check for $237.50 was the smallest. A law passed by the 1972 General Assembly states the county fiscal court may use the funds for its general purposes.

Following is the list of the amounts received by other Eastern Kentucky counties:

Bell, $42,120; Boyd, $7,070; Breathitt, $29,327.50; Butler, $16,950; Carter, $18,087.50; Clay, $14,150; Elliott, $7,117; Greenup, $6,000; Harlan, $32,157.50; Jackson, $8,587.50; Johnson, $50,155; Knott, $17,065; Knox, $41,782.50; Laurel, $50,752.50; Lawrence, $16,322.50; Lee, $3,437.50; Leslie, $31,195; Letcher, $9,735;

McCreary, $4,817.50; Magoffin, $35,355; Martin, $43,310; Menifee, $522.50; Morgan, $11,247.50; Owsley, $11,140; Perry, $48,225; Pike, $55,295; Pulaski, $4,185; Rockcastle, $4,372.50; Wolfe, $2,947.50.

At Festival of Faith Luncheon

Rev. and Mrs. Ken Johnston joined to give some Bicentennial flavor with their attire at a luncheon at the Capitol beginning the Bicentennial Festival of Faith. The Johnstons, of the Olivet Branch Missionary Baptist Church in Hanson, were among 4,000 clergy received by Gov. Julian Carr and wife Charlann (right) at the event.
One of three regional religious services is scheduled at Jenny Wiley State Park amphitheater at 3 p.m. Saturday, October 2. The festival, to last three months, will culminate in Louisville November 22 with an ecumenical meeting featuring Rev. Billy Graham.

State Takes No Chances In War on Mosquitoes

Frankfort, Ky.—The state isn't taking any chances this summer in its yearly fight against mosquitos and viral encephalitis.
Tom Harris, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, announced in a press conference at Freedom Hall in Louisville Saturday that three or four spray planes and two fogging trucks, used around breeding grounds for mosquitos, will be contracted by the state.

Although no cases of viral encephalitis, carried by the culix species of mosquito, have been reported, Harris said that five cases have been confirmed in Tennessee and one case has been reported in Illinois across the Ohio River from Kentucky.

Equipment owned by the state's agriculture department has been involved in spraying larva breeding grounds in Western Kentucky since the beginning of the mosquito season. "We have at present two fogger trucks and one wet spray truck, in addition to the airplane, that are going full time," Harris said.

"The last two nights the foggers have been going all night. Last night we sprayed the city of Hickman."

Harris added that the Department of Agriculture has approximately 600 gallons of concentrated malathion, the pesticide used against mosquitos, that will be used to spray 50,000 acres by groundfoggers or 18,000 acres using the airplanes.

The agriculture department has contacted the supplier of the pesticide and has been assured that adequate supplies are available. Harris said that arrangements have been made for a four-hour delivery if necessary.

Martin Retires from Vo-Ed Position

Dr. James Graham, state superintendent of public instruction, has announced the retirement on Sept. 1 of Fred Martin, native Floyd countian.

The 62-year-old Martin, senior member of the Department of Education, has served as state director of Trade and Industrial Education for 21 years. He has been involved in education for 38 years and worked with vocational education for almost 35 years.

"Fred Martin has an enviable record of contributions to vocational education, Graham said.

Those contributions include serving as a vocational teacher, an area vocational school coordinator, and as assistant director and director of Trade and Industrial Education. He was a founder of the Kentucky Industrial Educational Association and was instrumental in expanding Kentucky's vocational education program.

Specifically, during the mid-60's, Martin helped formulate the plan which brought local vocational schools under a statewide system. He was also largely responsible for the concept of vocational extension centers, which made vocational education easily accessible to all Kentuckians.

"Fred Martin's leadership and contribution to vocational education in Kentucky is not only significant, but in trade and industrial education, is unparalleled," said Secretary of the Education and Arts Cabinet Wendell Butler, former superintendent of public instruction.

Martin also has received recognition for his national leadership in vocational education and has served as first president of the National Association of Trade and Industrial Educators.

Martin, who is a son of Mrs. Vassie A. Martin, of Hueysville, and the late James Martin, lives on a Franklin county farm where he pursues his interests in horticulture, dogs and saddle horses.

Recreation Half the Reason for Corps-Built Reservoirs

(Ashland Daily Independent)
Recreation must account for 50 per cent of the justification for the U. S. Corps of Engineers to construct lakes, Carl Walker of the recreation planning office of the Huntington District told Ashland Lions Tuesday. The policy has been in effect 10 years.

The balance of justification is flood control and water supply. The corps only acts after a cost-benefit ratio study is made, he added.

The Huntington district, responsible for corps work in Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina and Kentucky, currently has 31 lakes under its jurisdiction and five more lakes under construction.

Before a lake is built, petitions must be made to Congress which then authorizes a study by the corps.

Walker said recreation study is made to determine availability of camping, picnicking, fishing, nature study, hiking trails and related activities. His department looks at the land use potential.

Much of Appalachia covered by the Huntington district is hilly or mountainous terrain, he pointed out, and this causes difficulty "in development for recreational purposes."

The corps includes in its studies the number of lakes within a 50-mile zone and other recreational facilities already available. It also tries to determine the demand, the population served and road access.

Walker told Lions most lakes have a million or more visitors each year with 75 per cent of that number visiting from May through September.

Walker said lakes currently under construction include Paintsville and Yatesville in Kentucky and Beechfork, near Huntington.

Corps of Engineers projects are coordinated in Kentucky with the departments of parks, fish and wildlife, forestry and recreation. They also are coordinated with county governments, city officials and regional planning agencies. "We try to get all the involvement we can," Walker said.

He told Lions that in 1965 Congress enacted Public Law 8972 requiring non-federal government cooperation in cost sharing, operation and management of lakes on a 50-50 percentage arrangement.

Kentucky has a cost sharing rate of 50 per cent for recreational development at Yatesville and Paintsville, Walker said.

Kentucky will operate the lake and area as a state park. The engineers will operate water control.

Walker told Lions many problems develop at federal lakes. He cited vandalism, overusage, dumping of trash and irresponsibility by users.

Vandalism has increased so much that "good, close management is necessary, particularly May through September." Engineers maintain gate surveillance; and rangers, both federal and state, are assigned to patrols.

Overusage is a problem at Grayson Lake, Walker said, adding that on the second Sunday in June he visited the marina and observed the parking lot was overflowing.

In many instances such as Grayson Lake, engineers return to expand needed facilities, he said.

Dumping of trash is a major problem during lake construction. It also occurs on creek banks and overflow carries the debris into the lakes. Walker said engineers seek to overcome the problem by working with government officials to establish landfills.

Fishtrap in Pike county is often referred to as "Trashtrap," he said, because of the debris in the lake. Trash causes "monumental problems" and it "costs a small fortune to clean lakes." Grayson Lake has no trash problem, Walker said.

Irresponsibility occurs mostly by swimmers "doing their thing" in boat launching areas. Ramps are designed for boat launching; not as "concrete beaches," Walker commented. He told Lions it is illegal for swimmers to use the ramp areas and a law against it has been enacted in Kentucky.

"We are trying to provide swimming areas at our lakes," Walker said.

He told Lions, visitations at lakes climbed from 11 million in 1953 to 74 million in 1975 in the Ohio River division. Walker invited Lions to visit the lakes whenever possible to enjoy the outdoor facilities.

1977 Historymobile To Feature Mining Industry in Kentucky

Frankfort, Ky.—The Kentucky Historical Society has announced a preview of the 1977 Historymobile exhibit at the temporary gallery of the Old State House in Frankfort this fall. The theme of the exhibit is a comprehensive history of the coal industry in Kentucky.

Tom Gatewood and Dan Zwyer, curators for the mobile museum, have been traveling in Kentucky's coal counties designing the display to show "the evolution of mechanization in the (coal) industry, and the effects of this mechanization on the industry itself and on the Commonwealth."

The exhibit will include photos and artifacts from the following five phases in Kentucky mining history:

1) Father-Son Period in which mine operations were small, family-owned businesses and the pick and shovel were the implements of operation.

2) Industrialization Period will include the effect of tools of the Industrial Revolution on the industry, the coming of the railroad, and the role of people buying the land and the mineral rights.

3) Paternalistic Period in which large companies began building towns that often isolated coal people. Mechanization was slowed down during this period when compared to other industries in the country. This was the pre-unionization time.

4) Corporate Industrialization Period when more sophisticated machines and tools were introduced, bringing on an unemployment problem in mining camps.

5) The Future of Coal which looks at the short and long-time future of the industry in terms of energy and by-products. Display photos of newer and bigger machinery, large scale strip mining after World War II and efforts and economics of the present will be included with speculations about future directions.

The exhibit will open in October in Frankfort and will be placed in the Historymobile for statewide display next spring.

The Marvels of Bird Migration

September is the great month of bird migration. On any moonlit night during this month, if you stood on a high mountain you could see multiplied thousands of black specks moving swiftly toward their winter quarters. Most birds fly all the way to South America to winter; multiplied thousands stop in Central America or Cuba. Some birds, the purple martins, which fly to faraway Brazil migrate rather early. On Aug. 10 we sighted a flock of several thousand martins heading south. The flock included all the young reared in the central states.

Among the later migrants are the wild geese, also the chimney swifts. On any night, about the middle of October, you may hear a flock of wild geese heading south at about 60 miles an hour. From above will come their haunting cry; oldtimers claimed they are saying, "Farewell," and I have heard them recite a bit of verse called "Wild Geese Talk," somewhat as follows:
 "Farewell to the ice and snow,
 And the cold north winds that blow."
 The chimney swifts invariably fly south, October 3. Thousands of them gather from all parts and practice flying their young to give them strength for the long flight to distant Peru. They arrive there about mid-November.

The cuckoo is also a late migrant and flies south about the first of October. But September is the month of migration for the warblers, thrushes, vireos, orioles and tanagers. By October 1 all the song birds are gone and a grim silence settles over hills and valleys. The woods are suddenly bleak and lonely. The nests hang empty, deserted. The bird houses are forlornly vacant, their doors gaping wide as if to call back their tenants.

It is regrettable that all the finest song birds go south, leaving behind a lonely land, one that cries out for song and joy. The cold winter months grow bleak and lonely without bird-song; it is a time when this old world needs the good cheer of bird music, but they are gone for six months—and who can blame them? It is a matter of survival; the songsters are mostly insect eaters, so they have to fly south or perish from starvation.

The non-migratory birds left behind are a hardy breed, but they are poor singers. The cardinal is too cold and miserable to sing in winter; only the song sparrow may be heard singing a burst of good cheer even when snow and ice cover the land. The bluejays spend the winter here feasting on acorns and scolding other birds. The owls are non-migratory but their deep and mournful hoots on cold winter nights are not calculated to cure one's winter blues.

Migrating birds led Columbus to a new determination to find land. On October 1, just as his men were plotting to throw him overboard and turn their ships back toward Europe, a large flock of warblers flying south over water suddenly swooped down out of the sky and covered the masts of the three vessels. The birds were tired and apparently welcomed this chance to stop and rest.

"See these little birds!" Columbus shouted to his men. "God has sent them from land not far away, to tell us we are near our goal!"

Suddenly the birds burst out in a happy song of gratitude, and Columbus thanked God for sending them. His men were cured of their mutinous thoughts and sailed on with a new hope. Then on the night of October 3 they saw a light shining in the distance and knew they were approaching land.

On this, our Bicentennial year, it is well to think of this marvelous event and how the little birds played a role in the discovery of America.

Art Museum Seeks Kentucky Artists

The staff of the new art museum at the University of Kentucky wants to know more about the work of professional artists throughout the state.

So it's asking Kentucky's professional painters, sculptors, print makers, photographers and artist-craftsmen to send slides of their works to the museum.

"The slides will allow us to become familiar with the scope and variety of work being done in the state," Priscilla Colt, director of the museum, said. "We are exploring various programs for exhibiting the best of Kentucky contemporary art when our new building is completed."

Mrs. Colt and her staff are busy organizing the museum operation in anticipation of the opening of UK's fine arts center on the Lexington campus in early 1978. The art museum will be an important part of the new center.

Until the new museum is ready, UK collections and loan exhibitions will continue to be shown in the art gallery of the Fine Arts building on Rose Street.

Mrs. Colt emphasized that the staff is interested in learning about the work of professional artists, whom she defined as artist-teachers in colleges, universities or independent art schools, and independent artists who have shown work in juried exhibitions or in one-man or group shows in museums or established galleries.

"We suspect that professional artists in Kentucky are widely scattered and not as well known to the public as they could be," Mrs. Colt said. "We hope to find ways to bring their work together and show it within a broad context of the art of the past and present."

Mrs. Colt said the art museum would like to maintain a file of slides of the work being done, but asked artists who want their slides returned to send postage and self-addressed mailers.

Slides should be sent to University Art Museum, 105 Fine Arts Building, University of Kentucky, Lexington (40506). Resumes and other supplementary material also are welcomed.

Two Floyd Men Badly Burned In Tank Blast

Two Floyd men were among six reported as having been seriously burned Sunday when a 5,000-barrel oil storage tank owned by the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company exploded near Hazard.

They were listed as John D. Webb, 50, of Allen; Vernon Slone, 54, of this county; Grant Slone, 18, and Gleason Watson, 25, both of Pippa Passes, and Lowell Roark, 40, of Perry county, and Taylor Roark, brother of Lowell.

The cause of the explosion had not been definitely determined Monday morning, it was said here. The gas company has a contract with Sid Williams, of Knott county, to clean the bottoms of its oil storage tanks, and the men reportedly were using a pump in the cleaning process when the explosion occurred. The tank was destroyed by the blast.

Webb is district supervisor at Maytown for Kentucky West Virginia, and the Roark brothers also are employees of the company, but none was working for the company at the time of the explosion, a company representative said.

Webb and the Roarks were taken to the Albert R. Chandler Medical Center, Lexington; the others, to the Appalachian Regional Hospital at Hazard.

The Law-Enforcement Future Viewed in KSP Master Plan

Frankfort, Ky.—Public attitudes toward the police is one of the most important aspects of the future in law enforcement, according to a master plan released by the Kentucky State Police.

The 250-page report, compiled over the last 16 months, investigates sociological factors that will affect future law enforcement needs and breaks down all operations within the Bureau of State Police.

Capt. Edgar Moss, director of programming for the bureau, said the plan should serve "as a roadmap for everybody. It shows the resources we have and what resources are projected to meet the problems of the future."

The plan stated that despite varied attitudes toward police, trends now are toward more public support and citizen involvement in crime prevention, contributing to increased police effectiveness.

Other projections made in the plan are:

- Expenses will increase in the prevention of "white collar" crime, including embezzlement and privileged information leaks. The expense would result from prevention training and in the security required following computerization of criminal and justice information.
- Traffic offenses will drop because of fuel shortages and the 55-mph speed limit, but improved public transportation will increase the mobility of the criminal and closer cooperation between the state police and inter and intra-state law enforcement agencies will become necessary.
- The state police should expect a long-range financial crunch. The report says that federal funds will diminish in the next few years.

According to Moss, the plan will be updated yearly. "In this way," he said, "we will be able to see how accurate the first two, four and 10-year projections really area."

Consumer Conferences For Handicapped Set For Four Locations

Frankfort, Ky.—The first consumer conferences for handicapped individuals are coming up this fall. Planning began in spring when Gov. Julian M. Carroll appointed a 19-member committee, chaired by William Henry Nichol, Jr. of Hopkinsville, to prepare for a national meeting in May, 1977.

Kentucky's White House Conferences on Handicapped Individuals will be held in four different locations. They will take place at the Eastern Kentucky Rehabilitation Center in Thelma, near Paintsville on October 8 and 9; the Continental Inn in Lexington on October 29 and 30; the Drawbridge Motor Inn in Fort Mitchell, near Covington on November 12 and 13; and at Murray State University in Murray on November 19 and 20.

A toll-free hotline, set up through the Department for Human Resources' Ombudsman, will be open for people who are unable to attend their area conference, explained Mrs. Mary Louise Sandman, staff director for the conferences. Mrs. Sandman is executive secretary of the Committee on Employment of the Handicapped in the Department for Human Resources.

Concerns which are called in will become part of the state's report and recommendations to the national conference. People in Eastern Kentucky should call in their concerns on October 9, in Central Kentucky on October 30, in Northern Kentucky on November 13 and in Western Kentucky on November 20, dates that correspond with each region's conference. The number to call is 1-800-372-2973.

Just because there's plenty of coal, doesn't mean there'll be plenty of electricity.

By now almost everyone knows what a great resource America has in its vast coal reserves. And how important it is in making electricity.

But just having the coal doesn't make it electricity.

It has to be mined, first. Then we have to convert that coal into electricity and get it to your homes and factories.

Without facilities to do all that, all the coal in the world wouldn't generate the first kilowatt of electric power. The lights wouldn't burn. And the machines that help us do our jobs wouldn't run.

Unfortunately, the cost of building these facilities has gone up drastically. For instance, building a power plant today costs five times as much as it did 15 years ago. And it was costly, even then.

On top of that, building new facilities takes time. And it takes the cooperation and understanding of the people who will benefit from them.

You might say it's a kind of power partnership between you and us that takes a realistic approach to the needs of today. And tomorrow, too.

Without your help and understanding about the needs and the cost, facilities may never get built.

And coal, which can become electricity, will just stay coal.

The Bureaucrats Will Get You If You Don't Watch Out

By GEORGE L. MOORE

The American Heritage Dictionary defines a bureaucrat as any official who insists on rigid adherence to rules, forms, and routines. I would like to add—and has no compassion for the ordinary mortal and little or no commonsense.

My first encounter with the bureaucrats was in the field of agriculture. When I retired from the school administration to the farm, I was appalled by the vast amount of land that was completely unproductive. I don't have the exact figures but I am sure that well over 80 pct. of this once fertile soil is now a wasteland. In most instances, after the hill land was "corned" to death, it was left to grow up in a worthless thicket. It produced no income for the owner and little or no revenue for either the state or the county.

I soon discovered why so little of this land was not restored to its original fertility. The cost was prohibitive. The small farmer could not afford to hire a bulldozer and buy the seed, lime, and fertilizer to establish a permanent pasture.

I wrote a letter to the Secretary of the Agriculture and attempted to explain the situation to him. My letter was passed from bureaucrat to bureaucrat until it reached the state level. I received a long letter saying that I must not be familiar with the cost-sharing program of the federal government in helping the small farmer. They said, "Why, we pay 50 percent of the cost." This sounded too good to be true—in fact, it was not true. As I looked further into the program, I was informed that the "feds" would pay 50 percent of the cost up to $10 per acre.

My second encounter with the bureaucracy concerned the regulations that the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare were forcing upon the funeral homes that resulted in the discontinuance of ambulance service provided by such establishments. If one took a poll of all the citizens of the mountain counties of Eastern Kentucky, he would surely find all would have agreed the most helpful and satisfactory service for the poor people was the ambulance service that was provided by most of the funeral homes throughout the region.

Just as soon as HEW began to move in, the service began to deteriorate and all the funeral homes were forced to discontinue this much-needed service. I wrote the United States Senators and Congressmen from Kentucky, most of whom contacted HEW about the matter. I began to get reams of mimeographed material about the matter and finally, believe it or not, they sent a representative to see me.

He began to tell his story. I listened attentively as he described the poor ambulance service provided by the funeral homes throughout the whole of the Appalachians. He said the ambulances used were, in most cases, little more than bread vans. The drivers were ill-trained and poorly educated. It was obvious that he was totally ignorant of the local conditions.

After he finished, I asked for him to listen to my side of the story. I told him of the past winter when my wife had a heart attack. Fifteen minutes after calling an ambulance from the Henderson Funeral Home in Olive Hill, the ambulance arrived at my front door. The patient was quickly placed in the ambulance and an oxygen mask was hooked up. In a couple of minutes we were on our way to the hospital. When we reached the foot of the mountain, the boy who drove the ambulance said the oxygen supply had been exhausted. There, in total darkness, he attached a new tank of oxygen, and, I am sure, saved the patient's life. I never asked how much education the driver had, nor did I care. One thing for sure—he knew what he was doing.

I think the statement, "The bureaucrat has no compassion for God's creatures, and little or no commonsense", is best illustrated by an editorial written by Stewart Alsop for Newsweek Magazine, just prior to his death of cancer.

He told of being placed in a hospital with a number of patients with terminal cancer. He said that many of the patients were needlessly suffering agonizing pain. A rule had been established many years previously, that a patient could receive a pain-killer only at certain intervals, regardless of the suffering involved. This seems inhuman, as the patient had but a short time to live.

Mr. Alsop took this matter up with a number of Senators, but when they started dealing with HEW they threw in the towel and called it quits.

OUTDOOR LORE

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD (UK College of Agriculture)

Dependent upon the authority consulted, there are somewhere between 20 and 60 different species of sunflowers in the United States. They range from a few inches to as much as 20 feet in height. Some of the wild ones have flower heads the size of a half dollar; others of the garden variety may grow heads larger than a dishpan.

But wild or domesticated, nearly all sunflowers are yellow and take their generic name, Helianthus, from the Greek—helios, the sun, and anthos, a flower.

The enormous garden variety of sunflowers is supposed to be a native of Peru, and in the mythology of ancient Peruvians, it occupied an important place. As mentioned by an early botanist, it served as a sacred and artistic emblem. It figured in the symbolism of both Peru and Mexico, where the Spaniards found it being employed as a mystic decoration in ancient sculpture and jewelry.

American Indians found a more practical use for the sunflower. Somehow or other, they found they could boil the crushed seed and separate an extremely tasty and nutritious oil. They used this oil in cooking and, in a manner of speaking, as a substitute for butter. Sunflower oil was also one of this continent's earliest hair oils.

Sunflower seeds were also used in early medicine. Pioneer doctors regarded the seeds as diuretic and the entire plant as an antimalarial. The roots were boiled and the hot liquid utilized as a form of liniment. A poultice of the leaves crushed and soaked in milk was used to treat poisonous snakebite and a strong extract from wild sunflower roots was one of the original baths used to allay the excruciating itching that often results from contact with poison ivy.

Many centuries ago the flower buds of many of the wild varieties of sunflowers were boiled and eaten with butter like artichokes.

One authority on Indian lore states that these early people roasted and dried sunflower seed, pounded them into a fine meal, and then baked it into a nutritious bread. Nowadays, meal is largely ground from corn, but sunflower seed remain in good demand. They can be purchased in shelled, salted, and roasted form in many grocery stores for between meal snacks and in large bags as bird feed. Attesting to their goodness, most wild birds will go half out of their minds over the seed.

A sunflower, oddly enough, is not one flower, but a whole community of flowers. In the floral line, as Edwin Way Teal once wrote, it is "one of nature's last and most successful creations."

He said death appeared to be from natural causes with no appearance of foul play.

Regional Crime Lab Opens in Ashland

Frankfort, Ky.—Regional crime labs in Ashland were put into operation this week by the Kentucky State Police.

The labs, together, will serve 29 Kentucky counties.

Commander of the lab units, Tom Easterling, said, "Initially the facilities will be used for drug identification. By October 1, they should be able to handle blood alcohol determinations, and, as time passes, caseloads increase, and budget permits. The regional centers will provide a full line of lab services."

Easterling said the regional labs were originally set up "to provide faster service on a local level" and partially in response to the Controlled Substance Act of 1972. He cited the speeding up of due process in cases of drug charges that are misdemeanors as an example.

Police Commissioner Truett Ricks said the local facilities should enable the Central Laboratory at Frankfort to devote more time to serious investigations which are beyond the scope of regional labs.

There are now four regional crime labs in the state. A lab in Madisonville and another in Louisville were opened last year. Easterling said the bureau hopes to open facilities in London and Bowling Green in 1977.
