Howell Tells Court Floyd Loses by Severance Split

Counties like Floyd would be in better financial shape if they got a fixed percentage of coal severance taxes, a state financial advisor told members of the fiscal court Friday.

Rather than the existing formula—by which the state shares severance taxes with coal counties only after $177.6 million has been funneled into state coffers—the counties “need a monthly check based on actual coal sales,” said Al Howell, field officer with the state Finance Cabinet.

The fact that surplus severance taxes must be shared among counties “impacted” by coal as well as those actually producing it also works a hardship on coalfield counties, said the state official. Citing his native Franklin county, Howell said “There’s not a coal truck runs our county roads but we got $50,000 (in coal severance funds) this year because an interstate highway passes through the county.”

Not only need Floyd expect to see no more coal severance money this year but, when final coal production figures are in, it will probably turn out that the county has been paid more than it is entitled to. In anticipation of severance tax receipts amounting to at least $186.2 million statewide this year, $4.3 million was distributed to the counties last July. At the present rate, receipts are not projected to exceed $183 million, however, which means that coal counties will get little or no money from the severance tax fund in the new financial year.

In response to charges by Magistrate Kenneth Roberts that the county’s solid waste agency is being mismanaged, Howell said he would inspect and report on the agency’s financial situation. Roberts repeated charges that Bob McAninch, president of Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc., has used an agency vehicle and gasoline on private business—a charge McAninch has denied—and said that, as a fulltime law student at the University of Kentucky, McAninch should not be drawing an $800-a-month salary from the agency.

Persons doing electrical inspections in the county without authorization will be instructed to stop doing so, according to a fiscal court decision. William Joe Kendrick enjoys an exclusive franchise to conduct such inspections, it was explained.

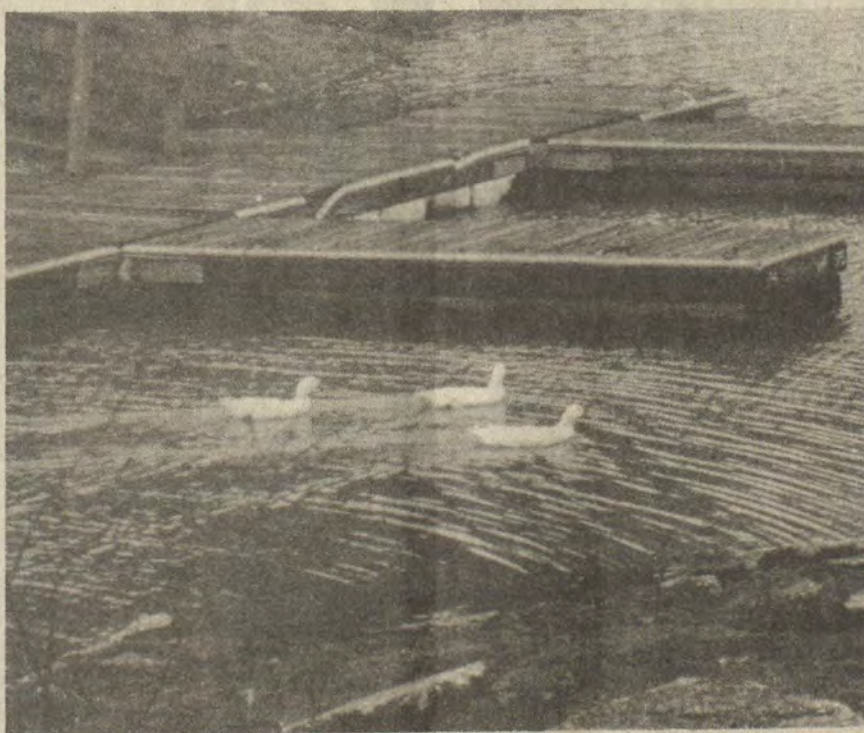

He has a commitment from state Transportation Secretary Floyd G. Poore that the state will put up 80 percent of the cost of replacing a bridge on Mink Branch of Mud Creek if the county comes up with the remaining 20 percent, James McKinney, of Craynor, told the court.

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said he had talked to coal operator Arnold Turner, Sr. about the possibility of raising local funds. Cost of the bridge is estimated at $160,000, of which 20 percent is $32,000.

Waterworks and Industrial Supply Co., of Huntington, was awarded the contract for water lines to serve the Ford Gap community at Auxier. Bid price was $11,409, the bulk of which will come from Area Development funds.

Harp Enterprises, of Lexington, was awarded an $846 contract to print ballots and furnish other supplies for the next election. Bids on setting up the voting machines will be studied and a contract awarded at the court’s next regular meeting.

In response to an appeal by Allen Frasure, an employee in the District Court clerk’s office, the court decided to reserve some parking spaces in the lot behind the courthouse for the use of courthouse workers.

NEITHER SNOW NOR SLEET nor rain nor any of March’s whimsies can stop these ducks who make their daily rounds of inspection at the Dewey Lake dock area.

THE HOMESICK SEASON

The sugar trees already are running, early flowers are daring snow and frost to do their worst, and soon the redbud and dogwood will be in bloom. It’s little wonder that expatriated Kentuckians are letting their yearnings lean in this direction.

One such is former Kentuckian Judd Arnett, retired Detroit Free Press columnist who yet contributes a column twice a week. We are indebted to Elmer Prater, a native Floyd countian who now lives in Westland, Mich., for this bit of Arnett’s nostalgia:

“Strange about Kentucky. Have been thinking of it lately and missing the hills. Have powerful yearning to go to Ashland and stand, hat in hand, in front of the graves of mother, father, brother, sister-in-law. We are approaching St. Patrick’s Day, when the Irish will weep and blubber all over the place, but the truth is that a Kentuckian, as far as sentiment is concerned, is just an Irishman turned right side out.

“Besides, Kentuckians know Kentucky or they wouldn’t be Kentuckians, whereas the average Irishman hereabouts has to make do on what he has read or seen on the telly or heard from his kinfolk, who are inclined to stretch things more than a trifle.

“Usually transplanted Kentuckians do not get the bluegrass fever until early spring, when the dogwood and the redbud start busting out all over, but it has come early to this house this year, maybe because your diarist has been reading ‘Hunter’s Horn’ by Harriette Arnow, a marvelous piece of writing (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

School Board Gives Up On Utilities Tax Plan

On a split vote, the Floyd Board of Education chose Wednesday to withdraw its proposal to levy a 3 percent utilities tax to finance county schools.

In the face of a strong appeal by Board Chairman Dr. J.D. Adams to press ahead with a general vote on the tax in November, board members Fred Newsome and James A. Duff said a referendum petition bearing 9380 signatures was all the evidence they needed that Floyd voters did not want the tax.

Dr. Mary Hall, saying she was undecided on the tax, supported a proposal by Adams to delay for a month any further action on it. But Ray “Shag” Campbell voted with Newsome and Duff to scuttle the levy.

Hall, Newsome and Duff are expected to be themselves facing the voters in November, when they come up for re-election.

Attorney David A. Barber said the law is silent as to whether the board could withdraw the tax once voters have asked to have it put on the ballot. But an attorney-general’s opinion supported the board’s right to withdraw, he said.

If they backed down on the tax they would be abandoning “the most progressive thing this board has ever done,” Adams told his colleagues. Voters could be persuaded to accept the levy if they were told in detail what it would mean for the schools in their district, he said.

“The only way we can pass this is to show the people exactly what we want to do with their money. So far we have only told them in generalities,” Adams said.

But “the petition makes it pretty clear what people want,” Duff replied. The board “should have compassion for the elderly,” who would be hit hardest by the proposed tax, he said, adding, “I have yet to hear anyone in favor of it except people connected with the school system.”

“We’re at the end of the road on the utilities tax,” said Duff. Newsome, who replaced John M. Stumbo on the board when Stumbo was named county judge-executive, said Gov. Martha Layne Collins’ proposed tax increases—which were announced only days after the Floyd board adopted its utilities levy—doomed chances of passing the Floyd tax in November.

Supt. E.P. Grigsby, Jr. said he would ask the task force which originally recommended the utilities tax as the best means of boosting school district finances to come up with some alternate proposals. Board Member Duff said the panel might consider a construction bond levy to be added to the annual property tax bill.

Schools Go Overtime After Snow Delays

For the next five weeks, Floyd youngsters will be in school an extra 72 minutes each day in order to make up for some of the time lost on account of winter snowstorms. In addition, classes will be taught on four days previously set aside for a spring break and one day earmarked for a teachers’ meeting.

Because of time lost to snow this winter, the schools were not scheduled to finish up until June 21. The calendar changes approved by the Board of Education at the urging of school principals last Wednesday will allow students and teachers to finish the school year nine days earlier, on June 8, assuming that no more time is lost on account of the weather.

The board voted also to adopt two snow schedules, one delaying the start of classes by one hour, the other by two hours. In either case, school would finish at the usual time and the lost hours would be made up later, it was explained.

About 55 percent of those who began high school four years earlier graduated from Floyd high schools last year, Asst. Supt. Ronald L. Hager told the board. Across the state, 66 percent of students stayed the course.

Of the 472 Floyd graduates, 170 (36 percent) are in college, 111 (23.5 percent) entered trade school, 83 got jobs, 45 are unemployed, 38 are listed as homemakers, and 11 joined a branch of the armed forces.

The Floyd school district’s Headstart program will assume responsibility for 80 youngsters formerly enrolled in the Kentucky Youth Resource Center program. Parents of the children complained to federal Headstart authorities when the KYRC program, which operated in the lower end of the county, folded at the end of last year. The preschoolers should be back in class by March 15, said Charlotte Collins, director of the Board of Education’s Headstart program.

Under a program sponsored by the Kentucky Task Force on Exploited and Missing Children, schoolchildren here will be fingerprinted if their parents consent. The parents only will receive a copy of the fingerprints, which could be used to locate a child later reported missing, said Dr. Ira Potter, Floyd task force chairman.

Six grade schools will participate in a state-sponsored program of environmental education. The “Waste in Place” program sponsored by the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet will visit Betsy (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

We Goofed,—Again

The Times apologizes for failing to identify Mrs. Eloise Hall as one of those taking part in the ceremony marking the retirement of the $51,000 bond issue that financed construction of the Floyd County Library, here. Mrs. Hall is president of the local library board, president of the Big Sandy Library Board of Trustees which covers Floyd, Magoffin, Martin, and Pike counties, and is vice-president of the Kentucky Library Board of Trustees.

And while we’re at it, R.V. May was identified as R.B. in the same picture, and we’re sorry about that, too, Bob. Some days it doesn’t pay to get out of bed.

Drift Man Held Here in Slaying Of 17-Year-Old

Harlos Hall

Drift grocer Harlos “Baldy” Hall, 41, was being held in the county jail here in lieu of a $300,000 bond this week, following his arrest Saturday on a charge of murdering a 17-year-old youth on Drift Hollow.

Robert Gene Shepherd died at 11:05 a.m. Saturday of a single gunshot wound in the head. Hall was arrested at his store shortly after the shooting. A British .303-caliber rifle was later seized, together with several other weapons and a quantity of ammunition, from the Drift residence of Alice Wright.

According to state police, the grocer had confronted Shepherd about a bill he owed. When the youth climbed into a wrecker owned by his uncle, Jack Shepherd, Hall allegedly fired a rifle through the truck’s rear window. A bullet struck the youth just behind the right ear and he was pronounced dead at the scene.

Shepherd worked for Shepherd’s Wrecker Service, which was operated by his father and uncle.

City To Provide 4th Parking Lot; TV Cable Eyed

Prestonsburg will get a new parking lot, may get a new fire truck, and could get a new cable TV operator.

The city council voted Monday to advertise for bids to build a 65-space parking lot on the river bank behind the Playhouse restaurant and the R.H. Hobbs store. In providing off-street parking for store employees and other downtown workers, more on-street parking would be available for shoppers, said Councilman Bill Ray Collins, who presented the plan on behalf of the Prestonsburg Business Association.

The concrete lot will be built at an estimated cost of $30,000 on property leased for 30 years from the H. and H. Realty Co. for a nominal sum. Construction will be financed by a 20-year bank loan which will be paid off by renting the spaces at a $7 monthly rate, it was explained.

The council was less certain about how it might pay for a $215,000 ladder truck that Fire Chief Tom Blackburn said the city needs.

As it is, there are six or seven buildings which are beyond the reach of the city’s existing fire trucks—including Highlands Hospital and a high-rise housing complex for senior citizens—and it is just a matter of time before insurance (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

FORTUNATELY NO ONE WAS AT HOME when this trailer belonging to Clive Case was destroyed by fire, Thursday night at Hunter. The Martin Fire Department, joined by the Left Beaver Rescue Squad and Fire Department, were hampered in their efforts when fire hose nozzles froze.

MSU, 12 Area School Districts Seek To Upgrade Reading, Math

Morehead State University and 12 Eastern Kentucky school districts aren't waiting for truckloads of money before tackling the drought in quality education.

In a program initiated last fall, educators from MSU and the regional systems have formed a partnership to upgrade the reading and mathematics test scores of area high school students.

The "Partnership with the Public Schools" began with a daylong workshop at MSU which included nationally-known experts, MSU faculty members, and regional secondary school staffers.

Dr. George Troutt, MSU's coordinator of teacher in-service, said the partnership approach was meticulous.

"We invited the chairpersons of the English and mathematics departments and the high school principal from each school system," said Dr. Troutt. "We also invited members of each department so that the teams from each school had four or five members."

Ten school systems attended the first workshop and two have joined since. Presently included are Bath, Carter, Fleming, Greenup, Lawrence, Magoffin, Pike, Rowan, Montgomery and Morgan County school systems, and the Fairview and Russell independent systems.

"We probably will end up with a partnership of more than 20 districts," said Dr. Troutt.

Many of the problems the school districts identified were similar, some nearly word-for-word.

"More mathematics for the students," said several. "Need a placement-type test for the students preparing for college," said others. "Need assistance in teaching use of computers as a remedial tool in math and reading," said one school system. "Workshop during the summer on reading," said some.

Solutions to the problems are coming.

Dr. Glenn E. Johnston, head of MSU's Department of Mathematical Sciences, and Dr. Ben V. Flora, professor of mathematics, are working with senior high school mathematics faculties in each of the partnership systems. Upgrading teaching materials and methods are the goals of their weekly in-service work.

The department is also developing a senior math course to extend skills of students preparing for college.

For computer instruction, the Department of Mathematics uses 12 transportable microcomputers. The machines are used to introduce secondary faculty to computers as a mathematics teaching tool.

"Many school systems have their own computers, but we have these for those who don't," said Dr. Johnston.

Solutions are also surfacing on the reading side of the dilemma, according to Dr. Troutt.

"We are planning three regional conferences this spring," he said. "One at Carter Caves States Resort Park, another at Greenbo Lake State Resort Park, and the third at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park."

Dr. Diane Ris, associate professor of education, has made plans for reading-in-the-content-area projects with the partnership schools.

"At the regional conferences we will meet with representatives from the schools and find out what they want, whether it's in-service classes on occasion or a regular content area class at their school," said Dr. Ris.

Concentrating on improving reading abilities offers tangible results, according to Dr. Troutt. He cites the example of Colleta Grindstaff, assistant professor of education, and her work with pilot projects at Salt Lick and Haldeman elementary schools.

"Colleta Grindstaff has helped raise reading scores at those two schools by four grade levels, in some instances," said Dr. Troutt. "The entire faculty teaches reading; even physical education teachers teach for one hour a day."

The long-range goals of the partnership should not be set in stone, according to Dr. Troutt.

"We will continue to collect needs and suggestions from teachers and build a pool of varying strategies from there," he said. "The only goal we have overall is to raise the skill level of math and reading in secondary schools. Scores will rise in those areas."

Choose Durable Wood For Decks, Porches

Early spring is the time many people, suffering from winter's confinement, start thinking about outdoor projects. One of the most popular outdoor construction projects is the addition of a deck or porch to the house.

Before heading out to buy lumber and nails, consider some advice from a forestry area Extension specialist at the University of Kentucky.

Douglas McLaren, who is headquartered at Robinson Substation-Quicksand, says to make sure you purchase lumber chemically treated for resistance to weather and insects. "If the lumber is not treated, expect a constant replacement cost for materials after the initial installation," he warns.

Chemically treated wood usually bears a green cast which is a result of the preservatives used, according to McLaren. He says many of these woods will gradually weather to a more pleasant gray tone, but an outdoor stain can be applied if an immediate color is desired.

"The color stain also will add further protection from moisture and insects," McLaren noted.

An alternative to chemically treated lumber is wood which is naturally resistant to moisture and insect damage. Redwood and cedar are naturally resistant species.

"These woods are very attractive and useful in their natural state for outdoor projects, but can be more expensive than treated wood due to their availability in Kentucky," McLaren said.

He offers one additional tip for weekend builders: use an aluminum nail which is specially treated for outdoor projects to prevent the unattractive staining of wood which happens with common construction nails.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

It has already been reported that many birth-control pills can increase the risk of heart disease. This is especially true if the patient is over thirty-five, overweight and/or smokes. A new survey of pill formulas that contain combinations of the hormones estrogen and progestin, stresses that it is not only the brand, but the formula that makes the difference. The survey, conducted by The Medical Letter on Drugs and Therapeutics, concludes that pills containing more than 20 and less than 50 millionths of a gram of estrogen, plus a low-potency progestin, "may offer the best combination of effectiveness and safety from serious cardiovascular complications."

When you rely on COOLEY APOTHECARY as your family drugstore you can feel confident we can meet your total prescription needs. ## Diagnostic Help For Heart Patients

Dr. Syed Akhtar, cardiologist at Highlands Regional Medical Center, interprets data from the new holer monitoring scanner as Zina Goble, cardio diagnostic supervisor, selects strips to be stored in the computer and printed.

Much more information can be given to physicians about the condition of their patients with heart problems, due to the new holer scanner and printer in the Highlands Regional Medical Center Cardio Diagnostic department.

This diagnostic equipment is the latest technology of its kind. In half the time of previous studies, it provides comprehensive, computerized reports showing a complete picture of how the electrical system of the heart is functioning. The holer scanner gives a detailed analysis of heart rhythm abnormalities on a 24-hour, two channel tape. Whereas the old equipment showed one heartbeat on the screen, now each heartbeat in a 24-hour period can be viewed. The computer also creates graphs to show the heart rate trends and abnormalities.

The holer monitor itself is a small cassette recorder with five electrodes that are attached to the patient's chest. After a heart attack, inpatients have a holer monitor scan to see if they are arrhythmia-free prior to discharge. Outpatients can wear the holer device and go about their usual daily activities for 24 hours. A scanning report is then printed to show the heart's function. The holer monitor scanning service is available for use by any area doctor with results given the same day the tape is brought to Highlands.

The new holer scanner's computer capabilities give physicians the information they need to make medication adjustments and other medical determinations. The scan prints out a computerized report and supporting EKG strips. The report shows hourly minimum and maximum heart rates, the number of beats, abnormal and premature beats, a breakdown of the types of abnormal beats, and an index of symptoms.

There are other holer scanner studies that will be available in the near future such as pacemaker analysis. This will add even further information for cardiac care. Technology in this field is growing quickly and the HRMC Cardio Diagnostic Department is keeping pace with these new developments.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lafferty, of Dwayne, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Sheila, to Mr. Greg Tussey, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Tussey, of West Prestonsburg.

The wedding will be solemnized Friday, March 16, at 7 p.m. at the Free United Baptist Church, at West Prestonsburg. The gracious custom of open church will be observed.

Floyd Catholics Plan Open House, March 18

Sunday, March 18, the Catholic people of Floyd county will hold an open house in their new church facilities on Kentucky Highway 3 near Lancer and the junction of 3 and 1428. The church was recently acquired from the Water Gap Freewill Baptist Church.

There will be a special mass at 5 p.m. at the church. Priests from Paintsville, Pikeville, Hazard, and surrounding areas will concelebrate the mass with P. Ralph W. Beiting, pastor of the church.

After the mass, tours will be conducted to show the classroom area as well as the fellowship hall. Additional land has been acquired next to the church, and future plans for expansion will also be explained.

The tours will be followed by a spaghetti supper served in the church hall.

This open house is not only meant to introduce the new parish facilities to the Catholics of the area, but to celebrate the Holy Year which the church is presently observing. The Holy Year honors the 1950th anniversary of Christ's death on the cross and his resurrection.

All Catholics are invited. No invitations are necessary. Another open house to welcome the non-Catholic friends of the parish is planned for later in the spring.

DETAILED REQUEST

Writes a contributor:
Modern man's version of the Lord's Prayer runs along these lines: Give us this day our daily bread—and make it sliced, toasted, buttered and placed on a small place alongside a bigger plate of meat, potatoes, vegetables and salad. And, a little later, some hot coffee and dessert, please.

Religion, it says here, is the best armor but the worst cloak.

END OF PURSUIT

This may or may not date back to WPA days. Anyway, it relates to the two workmen (?) who were leaning on their shovels and enjoying a chat when one suddenly wheeled and smashed a tiny snail on the ground behind him.

"Why did you do that?" his companion inquired.

"D—thing's been followin' me around all day," said the other.

DAMAGING PHOTO

Lenna Moore was in, the other day, seeking legal advice. Wanted to know if in order to sue the state he would have to go to the Legislature for permission. For want of actual knowledge, I surmised that maybe he would. Then I got down to cases. "Why do you want to sue the state?"

"Because it has damaged me," Moore said. "If you don't think so, just take a look at this picture they made of me when I went to renew my driver's license."

Jury Clears Man Of Burglary Count

A Floyd Circuit Court jury took only 12 minutes last Wednesday to acquit a 35-year-old Wayland man of a charge of burglary.

James Jacobs was found not guilty of a charge that he had broken into Nick Shepherd's Chevron station in Wayland in October, 1982, and taken tools and cigarettes.

Called to testify by Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Albert A. Burchett, Don Hughes said Jacobs had told him of the burglary while both men were lodged in the county jail. Jacobs' nephew, Ray Woods, said Jacobs had tried to sell him the stolen tools.

But, under cross-examination by Public Defender Ned Pillersdorf, Woods conceded he had chronic memory problems stemming from an automobile accident. The defense attorney further suggested that Hughes' knowledge of the burglary—he led police to the stolen tools—may have come from his own participation in the burglary rather than from his jailhouse conversation with Jacobs.

Hager Plan Would Reward Teachers on Work Record

Floyd teachers with good attendance records would be sent off with a bonus as well as the customary speeches when they retire, according to a plan proposed last week by Assistant Superintendent Ron Hager.

The proposal is included in a plan for improving Floyd schools which Hager promised "would affect the school system more than anything I've seen in 20 years in the profession." Elements of the plan were recommended by a state Education Department task force which was invited to help Floyd and other lagging school districts improve their scores on academic achievement tests.

In an effort to reduce the "high absenteeism rate" among Floyd teachers, retiring teachers would receive a bonus based on their unused sick days, according to Hager's proposal. Days missed by regular teachers not only disrupt the learning process but cost the school district $100,000 annually in substitute teachers' pay, the school official noted.

The Board of Education approved in general outline the "school effectiveness program," for which $20,000 in state funds is available this year. Specific proposals will be voted on by the board as the details are worked out, it was said.

Under the plan, all board employees will have a job description, will be periodically evaluated, and will know where they stand in the school system's chain of command. "We need to know who is responsible to whom," Hager explained.

The skills that students should learn in each subject and grade will be listed; a lesson plan format will be developed as a guide to teachers; and a system will be devised for reviewing lesson plans, Hager told the board.

As well as seeing that nothing encroaches on the six hours of mandatory daily instruction, efforts will be made to minimize classroom interruptions and Layne, Clark, Harold, Stumbo, McDowell and Prestonsburg schools.

Two Betsy Layne High School students narrowly missed expulsion, receiving reprimands instead, when the Board divided over how to deal with them. A 17-year-old junior and a 19-year-old sophomore, both of whom were twice suspended previously, faced expulsion on the recommendation of Principal Russell M. Frazier—one on a charge of disrupting a study hall, the other for smoking—but the board split 2-2, with one abstention.

Hired were:
Sylvia Lois Marshall, teacher at Prestonsburg High School; Teresa Jo Frazier, Irma Fish, Jane Webb Jones, James O. Spurlock, Ricky Lester Hackney, Wanda L. Hutchinson, and Gary Branham, certified substitute teachers; Teresa Justice, Jamie C. Adams, Sheila J. Rowe, Belvia D. Kazee, and Patricia Martin, emergency substitute teachers; Willie Goodman, James Sheldon Roberts, and Libby Hall, substitute bus drivers; and Klein D. Stumbo, maintenance worker.

Hall was convicted of assault in 1977, when he was accused of striking Clyde Shepherd, of Hunter, on the head with an ax. The Floyd Circuit Court jury recommended a 90-day jail sentence but court records do not indicate whether or not the sentence was imposed. At the same time, he was acquitted of a charge of shooting Larry Shepherd with a shotgun.

Three indictments naming Hall were dismissed last year on a recommendation from the Commonwealth Attorney's office. Hall was indicted for assault for allegedly shooting and injuring Tanzil Martin and Jack Castle, and for wanton endangerment, for allegedly shooting at Harold B. Howell. The charges were dismissed last June 13.

In 1981, the Drift storekeeper himself faced a charge of being behind on a debt, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley ordering that some of his property be sold to settle a $1542 bill he owed the Jackson Wholesale Company. He ran unsuccessfully for District 3 Constable the same year.

He was judged in district court this week to be without means and Public Defender Ned Pillersdorf was appointed to represent him at state expense.

The shooting victim was born June 24, 1966, at McDowell, the son of Steve and Mary Bray Shepherd, of Hunter. Besides his parents, he is survived by two brothers—Mont and Larry Michael, of Hunter—and three sisters—Tina Carr, of Dwale, and Mary Frances and Tammy Shepherd, of Hunter.

Funeral services are scheduled for today (Wednesday) at 11 a.m. at the Cow Creek Freewill Baptist Church, Dave Garrett officiating. Burial will be in the Garth cemetery.

improve teacher efficiency; teachers will be recognized for outstanding service and will be encouraged to honor deserving students; and a district-wide procedure will be spelled out for parents wishing to visit the schools, the administrator said.

Among other features of the plan: a handbook will be prepared for students, showing all course offerings and requirements; all students will receive a copy of the school system's code of conduct; and efforts will be made to ensure continuity between grade school and high school.

The state Department of Education required adoption of the plan by March 15 in order for the school district to qualify for state funds. Floyd is one of 10 Kentucky school districts participating in the School Effectiveness project. The districts were chosen on the basis of low test scores and strained economic conditions.

Local Artists' Work On Display at Library

The work of Iris Caudill, of Martin, is on display at the Floyd County Library, here, in an exhibit which opened March 2 and will continue through Friday, March 16.

For the most part, self-taught, she has taken a few classes at Prestonsburg Community College to help define her skills. The exhibit include oils, pen and ink drawings, pencil and colored pencil work. A drawing in the latter category, "Mountain Lilies," won an award at the Artists' Winter Weekend held at Jenny Wiley State Park. Although a comparative newcomer in the art field, the artist has won awards for her work in every competition she has entered for the last two years.

The public is invited to view her work at the library, here.

Gun Dealer Role Draws Interest In Jones Trial

Nearing the end of their five-week presentation, government attorneys in the trial of coal operator Edgar Jones and others on federal conspiracy charges focussed this week on the part Maytown gun dealer Donahue Halbert is alleged to have played in the scheme.

U.S. District Judge G. Wix Unthank and attorneys on both sides also argued Monday about the use prosecutors would be allowed to make of statements made to government agents by defendants Eugene Tackett and Tim Milan.

The prosecution alleges that Halbert was the source of guns and ammunition used by demonstrators to fire on workers at the Ray-Mac stripmine near East McDowell in February, 1982. Jones, president of the rival JRM Coal Company, put the demonstrators up to it in order to drive Ray-Mac out of business, the government alleges.

On Monday, Assistant U.S. Attorney Thomas L. Self questioned Frank E. Eddy, special agent with the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, in an effort to substantiate charges that Halbert sold guns and ammunition to Phillip Dale Moore, Teddy Kinney and Morris Ray Hall on two days when shots were fired at Ray-Mac workers and equipment.

According to evidence presented earlier, some of the ammunition was paid for with checks drawn on the Calamity Coal Company, operated by Phillip and Pearl Booth, Mrs. Booth testified that Jones assured her he would reimburse her for the purchase of the weapons and ammunition.

On one of the days he bought ammunition from Halbert, Kinney, who was president of UMWA Local 5976, cashed a $3000 check drawn on the union local, the government claims.

Eddy said Halbert, who once worked for Jones as an endloader operator, appeared "extremely nervous" and "not completely candid" when questioned about the gun and ammunition deals. Moreover, some of the transactions were not recorded according to law, he said.

Cross-examined by Halbert's attorney, however, the government agent conceded the sales were not illegal and that dealers are allowed a week to enter gun and ammunition sales on their permanent records.

After a ruling by Unthank, the jury heard only edited versions of statements made to government agents by Tackett and Milan, who admitted participating in the violence directed at Ray-Mac, named others they said were involved, and indicated they were acting under orders from Jones.

References tending to implicate their fellow-defendants were excised from the two men's statements before being presented to the jury, under a court rule that prohibits one defendant from implicating another in multi-defendant trials.

Both men are accused of being among those shooting on the Ray-Mac mine from the surrounding hills in what the government says was a plot masterminded by Jones to put a stop to an operator he thought had underbid him on an important contract. The defense claims it was a union effort to organize a non-union operation that had intruded a few months earlier into traditional union territory.

inspectors insist on the city's having an aerial ladder if it is to maintain its insurance rating, the fire chief explained.

City Manager David Evans said revenue-sharing funds could be tapped to meet payments on the ladder truck, which a representative of East Kentucky Mack reckoned at $39,800-a-year for seven years. The council decided to consider the matter further at its next meeting on March 26.

Cabletelevision, Inc., which enjoys a city franchise to provide cable television services, "is milking this town for every dime they can get out of it," charged Councilman Collins. "They're not going to make any improvements until we hold their feet to the fire," he said.

Representatives of the firm agreed to meet with the council April 9 to discuss what improvements they could make and, some council members believe, to see what rate increase they can wrest from the city.

City Attorney Larry Brown was instructed to study the franchise agreement and city records to see whether the firm has breached its contract, Councilman Paul Hunt Thompson explaining that "we need to be able to tell them (on April 9) whether or not we're going to let them stay in."

The council authorized application for a $38,500 state grant to build a new footbridge and make other improvements at Archer Park, on the understanding that the park board would be responsible for coming up with the 50 percent required by the state in local matching funds.

Tony Meade was hired as city mechanic at an hourly rate of $5.25.

Dumping the Utilities Tax...

A Failure of Nerve

By RON MARSTIN

What am I bid for compassion? Going cheap...a heartwarming feel for the poor and elderly. Last chance...genuine pity for the masses. Low, low cost...

Mr. Duff led the bidding. Doc Adams put his two nursing homes on the line. Doc Hall weighed in with a specialty in geriatrics...none wanting to be outdone in their devotion to the oppressed.

Granted, it was the low point in a Board of Education debate that wasn't all silly and even had its moments of authentic feeling. But to frame the argument about the proposed utilities tax as a choice between the compassionate and the steely-hearted—as Duff did—was to invite the moral posturing that followed.

The same has to be said about some board members' newfound sensitivity to "the wishes of the people"—always a handy slogan for fearful politicians wanting to appear high-minded. Duff, Hall and Fred Newsome—the three board members facing re-election this year—all hauled out that tired old saw at Wednesday's board meeting.

The worth of a utilities tax to support the schools is not a question of being for or against compassion. It's the considerably tougher question of striking a balance between compassion for the children struggling for an education in one of the state's sorriest school systems and compassion for the poor and elderly who would be most hurt by the proposed remedy.

The issue of whether to withdraw the tax or test it in November is not a question of being for or against "the wishes of the people"—a referendum would put that question to rest—but whether to encourage further discussion of the issue or to kill it before it can do any more political damage.

Because the utilities tax is a knotty question—not a choice between good and evil, but a choice between two evils—it is at least worth kicking around until November. Apart perhaps from the wet-dry vote of two years ago, it is hard to think of a decision in recent years with greater potential impact on the county.

Chairman Adams argued at Wednesday's board meeting that in eight months, if board members were prepared to tell people exactly what they would be getting for their money, the tide could be turned in favor of the tax. The parents of 277 Prestonsburg grade schoolers would buy it if they knew it would get their children out of the basement; similarly concrete commitments would win the hearts of citizens in other districts too, he contended.

By the same token, the poor, the elderly and their advocates could demonstrate more convincingly how many of them would be hurt and just how badly. "Chop off the tail of a lizard and it can always grow another one," one grizzled senior said this week about the board's decision to drop the tax. "In November we could have chopped off its head."

A majority of the 9000-or-so who petitioned to have the tax put on the ballot might be assumed to oppose it. They did not ask to have the tax dropped, however. They asked to have it voted on.

On January 19, five board members thought the tax vitally necessary for the schools. A month later, though it was clear it would be tougher sledding than they had anticipated, most of them said it should at least go to a vote. By last Wednesday, the board chairman was alone in thinking the tax worth fighting for.

Duff, Newsome and Campbell, who voted to abandon the tax proposal, and Dr. Hall, who wanted more time to think about it, can attribute their change of heart to compassion or respect for their constituents. But the legitimate objections people raised about the tax deserved debate, not capitulation. What we have witnessed here is simply a failure of nerve.

The Board of Elections still has to say whether the tax will appear on the ballot or not. By letting the people vote on it, they could strike a blow for democracy. It wouldn't hurt compassion any, either.

Slate Financial Aid Workshops at Pikeville

The Pikeville College Financial Aid Office will conduct workshops for students planning to attend college beginning the fall semester, 1984. Bobby Price, director of Financial Aid, and Lucinda Potter, administrative assistant, will work with students on completing the Kentucky Financial Aid Form (KFAF) before the April 1 priority deadline. Students should bring copies of their 1983 tax forms or a statement showing non-taxable income (social security, black lung, pensions). Workshops are scheduled for Saturday, March 17, at 2 p.m., Thursday, March 22 at 11 a.m., and Monday, March 26 at 7 p.m. in Chrisman Auditorium. For further information call 432-9322.

VA Counselor To Aid Claimants at Armory

Jack B. Clark, veterans' benefits counselor, will be at the National Guard Armory, near here, from 10 until 3, Friday, March 23. He will assist veterans or their dependents in filing claims for benefits. He asks that those wishing to file claims bring documents with them.

Asks Public' Support On Rate Increase Fight

I am writing you and your readers to encourage support of legislation which would control unwarranted utility rate increases and enhance the quality of utility service for all Kentuckians.

At a press conference on February 16, I outlined 10 bills which, if passed by the Kentucky General Assembly, would go a long way toward accomplishing this goal. Since that time I am pleased to say that four bills have passed both chambers, two are now in the Senate Energy committee for their consideration and four bills have just been introduced.

I would invite you and your readers to consider the purpose of the remaining six bills and if you feel as I do—that they are important to all Kentuckians—join me in urging their passage in the remaining days of the 1984 session.

Senate Bill 253 provides that the Public Service Commission (PSC) may take a utility company's quality of service, efficiency of operations and quality of management into consideration when setting rates. This option is not available under current law.

Senate Bill 254 would prohibit customer access charges for intrastate long distance telephone service in Kentucky, except under specifically demonstrated extraordinary circumstances.

House Bill 1014 would require the PSC to conduct periodic statewide studies of electrical service, future needs, and conservation methods to ensure the most efficient and economic provision of such service to Kentucky consumers. The study would also include considerations of the lower cost alternatives of sharing power among companies versus generating more power.

House Joint Resolution 109 would establish a policy to assure that telephone rates for rural customers would be maintained at a reasonable level.

House Bill 876 would prohibit the inclusion of construction work in progress costs in a utility's rate base except under extraordinary circumstances, thereby removing the incentive for over-construction among investor-owned electric utilities.

House Bill 890 would amend present law to permit rural electric cooperatives and municipal systems to purchase the cheapest electricity available. Present law prohibits municipally owned electric systems for buying or selling excess power to each other.

If you are interested in seeing any or all of the above items passed by the General Assembly, I would encourage you to notify your legislators either in person, by letter, or by calling the toll-free legislative message line in Frankfort at 1-800-372-2985.

Thank you for your interest and support.

Thanks for the Melody

Having lived in large cities of Ohio and more recently in Lexington, Ky., I have always had a love for music, especially the old fifties type...Not too long ago while switching stations I ran across a station that, as they say, "plays the music America grew up on". After listening for several months now, I must say this station has blended the best of modern country with those oldies I love so much to make me start to like country music which I never thought I would do. I can honestly say no station I've ever heard anywhere can compare with the spirit and enthusiasm of this station...to all the folks at WMDJ radio, Thanks for bringing us the music America grew up on.

Help for Veterans

Are you on the record? If you were injured or disabled by illness during military service—from World War One through today—be sure that you have it on Veterans Administration records. The longer the time lapse, the more difficult it becomes to prove your case. And, as the years go by, substantiation of claims becomes more difficult. Don't make the same mistake thousands of other Veterans have made. Get yourself on the record.

Your D.A.V. State Service Officer, Earl D. Francies, will be at the National Guard Armory, Thursday, March 15, and Tuesday, March 20, from 9 a.m. till 4 p.m. in Prestonsburg. If you, as a Veteran or a Veteran's dependent need assistance, I want to help.

Marks Anniversary

This month is a very significant anniversary, because it is the 10th year that Jean Rosenberg has taught prepared childbirth classes in Floyd County.

My husband and I were very fortunate to be in the first class in 1974, and to learn ways to make our birth experience more comfortable. This was held in Jean's living room. She taught two more couples that year, and each year the number grew until the attendance began to snowball. Then the classes were moved from her home to become community service courses at Prestonsburg Community College.

During the ten years of Jean's leadership, more than 880 couples have taken the classes. They have spread into Pike, Johnson, and Magoffin counties, as well as other parts of Floyd County. At least sixteen other teachers have been trained in childbirth education. To support and extend the effort, the Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association was formed. Outgrowths include prenatal classes, and breastfeeding and parenting support groups.

The success of these groups is due to a large volunteer effort, and to the commitment of Jean Rosenberg to humane childbirth. Happy Anniversary!

On Child Support

I am a mother of three children. I would like to express the anguish and the embarrassment I have had to deal with in trying to seek child support for my children. Also the money I have spent on a lawyer trying to get help.

In many past attempts of going to court, I felt like giving up, that the law was on the father's side. Not only was it upsetting to me, but the children suffered also. Is that really fair?

To me, as many others agree, it is nothing but right that the fathers support their children and not leave it up to the state. It is their responsibility.

As of today, after fighting and struggling through courts and lawyers, my children gets a monthly check. (Not A.F.D.C.). But how long will it last?! I hope other mothers have an easier time than I have had.

So all you mothers, stand up and fight for what is right.

More On Child Support

I believe that child support laws should be enforced at local level. I have watched many television programs on this subject. They have reported how many parents who have the custody of the children and cannot collect the full amount of child support or no child support at all.

I do collect a partial amount of my court-ordered child support. It is not nearly enough to pay for even just some of the things two growing girls need or want.

I haven't yet tried to collect all the back pay that is owed to my children. I feel as of right now the way the laws are being handled so lightly I cannot afford to fight a battle I know I could not win.

Gov. Collins Writes

In January, I proposed the most sweeping school reforms in the history of the Commonwealth.

The decision was the most difficult I ever made. I thought about it, I wrestled with it and I prayed. I did not want to raise taxes. It was the most politically unpopular thing I could do. But I am not Governor to look out for myself. When I took the oath of office, I took on the responsibility of doing what is right for Kentucky.

It was a tough decision. But if Kentuckians are to have a brighter future, it was the right decision. For too long our people have been denied a wider range of jobs and other opportunities because our schools have not measured up.

I agree with many of you that money alone is not the answer for our schools. But many things needed to improve them do take money. And the important thing about my proposals is that they offer much more than more money.

They call for unprecedented accountability from teachers, administrators and school boards. They focus on achievement in the classroom. Our children will learn to read, write, handle numbers and think.

Kentuckians can be assured that they will get a better return on their education dollar. The additional money I am requesting will go for things that make a difference in the classroom.

Many people have asked whether I knew about the state's finances when I was campaigning. Indeed, I knew as much about them as anyone could in these uncertain times.

I knew the budget was tight. But I also knew it was reasonable to assume that as the nation came out of the recession, state revenues would increase so we would have enough money. In fact, revenue projections were relatively optimistic.

But those estimates changed drastically. They were reduced by $130 million from the time I was campaigning for Governor to the time I had to put the budget together.

And now, without new revenue, we face another serious round of cuts in all state services—not just education. We will not even have enough money to keep up our roads—which have already suffered during four years of budget cuts.

What we are really talking about in all this debate is what kind of state Kentucky will become. Traditionally, we have lagged behind, economically and educationally.

Today, a sound educational system is the necessary foundation for a thriving economy. If we want better jobs and better lives for our people tomorrow, we must have better schools today.

I care deeply about Kentucky and its people. I have faith in them. They are good people. They work hard. They are dedicated to their families, to their churches, to their communities.

They want to see a better way of life for Kentucky.

Our proposals require some small sacrifices. But my tax plan is truly a reform. It shifts responsibility away from those least able to pay, toward those who can more afford to pay. It also eliminates unfair tax breaks.

I know Kentuckians will do what is necessary to ensure a brighter future for their families, their communities, their state.

I need your help. Let your legislators know you want better schools now. Without them, we run the very grave risk of falling further and further behind and closing off opportunities for our people.

MARTHA LAYNE COLLINS
Governor

Outstanding Young Woman

Jerrl Ward Turner, of McDowell, has been selected as an Outstanding Young Woman of America in recognition of outstanding ability, accomplishments, and service to the community. Her name and biographical summary will be added to the awards' volume, Outstanding Young Women of America, along with other winners who were chosen from thousands of nominations submitted by respected business and civic leaders throughout the country.

Mrs. Turner, member of the Drift Woman's Club, received her B.S. degree at Pikeville College and is now employed by the Floyd County Board of Education.

RAX NAMED MOST POPULAR VARIED FAST FOOD CHAIN

Rax Restaurants has been named the most popular varied fast food restaurant in the country according to Restaurants & Institutions magazine. The result was announced last month in the publication's annual "Tastes of America" issue. Rax scored the highest with consumers, based on responses from Americans who actually have eaten there.

Rax currently has 282 restaurants in 27 states.

We have examined the combined financial statements of the City of Martin, Kentucky, as of and for the year ended June 30, 1983, as listed in the table of contents. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and, accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

As described in Note 2, the combined financial statements referred to above do not include the General Fixed Assets Account Group which should be included to conform to generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, except that the omission of the financial statement described above results in an incomplete presentation, the combined financial statements referred to above presents fairly the financial position of the City of Martin, Kentucky as of June 30, 1983 and the results of its operations for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that preceding year.

Our examination was made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the combined financial statements taken as a whole. The supplemental information listed in the table of contents are presented for purposes of additional analysis and are not a required part of the combined financial statements of the City of Martin, Kentucky. The information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the examination of the combined financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the combined financial statements taken as a whole.

CITY OF MARTIN, KENTUCKY
NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
for the year ended June 30, 1983

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

The accounting policies of the City of Martin conform to generally accepted accounting principles applicable to governmental units. The following is a summary of the more significant accounting policies.

Makes Donation To Christian Academy

Edgar Jones, grandfather of four Mountain Christian Academy students, is shown here giving a donation for the school to Father Ralph Beiting, founder and board member of the Academy.

Mountain Christian Academy is a non public school which strives to provide for the education of the whole person and to prepare the students for Christian leadership.

Located on Hwy. 80 near Martin, the school was founded in the fall of 1982. At present it offers infant care beginning at six months, thru preschool, kindergarten, 1st-9th grades. Next fall, grade 10 will be added, with a year being added until the 12th is reached.

Child Support Group To Meet March 22

The Organization for Child Support Enforcement will meet at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, March 22, in the building formerly occupied by Janie and Cleo's Sewing Center. Membership is free, and a representative of the group said that anyone with child support collection problems is urged to join and work with the group.

Those interested may call 886-8909 for further information.

Miss Springtime Pageant, Majorette Competition

The Betsy Layne Band will sponsor a majorette and Drill Team Competition at the Betsy Layne Fieldhouse, Saturday, March 31 at 10 a.m. There will be first, second and third place trophies given in all age divisions. There will be also a Miss Springtime Pageant held the same night starting at 7 p.m. with modeling for all age groups.

For more information call Billie Jean Osborne, 478-2343.

A. Fund Accounting

The accounts of the City are organized on the basis of funds or account groups, each of which is considered to be a separate fiscal and accounting entity. Each fund is accounted for by providing a separate set of self-balancing accounts that is comprised of its assets, liabilities, reserves, fund equity, revenues and expenditures or expenses, as appropriate.

Governmental Fund Types are those through which most governmental functions are financed. The governmental fund measurement focus is upon determination of financial position and budgetary control over revenues and expenditures. Proprietary Fund Types are used to account for operations that are financed and operated in manner similar to business enterprises - where the intent of the governing body is that costs of providing services be financed or recovered primarily through user charges.

The following funds are used by the City of Martin.

Governmental Fund Types

General Fund - The general operating fund of the City is used to account for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund.

Special Revenue Funds

Revenue Sharing Fund - A special revenue fund used to account for revenues received from the U. S. Treasury under the federal revenue sharing program.

B. Basis of Accounting

Basis of accounting refers to when revenues and expenditures or expenses are recognized in the accounts and reported in the financial statements. Basis of accounting relates to the timing of the measurements made, regardless of the measurement focus applied.

CITY OF MARTIN, KENTUCKY

B. Basis of Accounting (continued)

All governmental funds are accounted for using the modified accrual basis of accounting. Under the modified accrual basis of accounting, revenues are recognized when they become measurable and available. Expenditures are generally recognized under the modified accrual basis of accounting when the related fund liability is incurred. Exceptions to this general rule include: (1) accumulated unpaid vacation and similar amounts; and (2) principal and interest on general long-term debt which is recognized when due.

C. Budgeting

The City follows the procedures established pursuant to Section 91A.030 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes in establishing the budgetary data reflected in the financial statements. Budgets for all funds are adopted on a basis consistent with generally accepted accounting principles.

Budgeted amounts in the financial statements are as adopted by ordinance of the City.

D. Other Accounting Policies

Investments are stated at cost, which approximates market.

General fixed asset purchases are recorded as expenditures in the general fund and revenue sharing fund at the time of purchase. Such assets should be capitalized at cost in the general fixed assets group of accounts except for certain improvements including roads, bridges, curbs and gutters, streets and sidewalks and drainage systems. No depreciation has been provided on general fixed assets.

Deferred revenues represent grant revenues received but unearned. Revenues are recognized when eligible expenditures are incurred.

Total columns on the combined statements are captioned Memorandum Only to indicate that they are presented only to facilitate financial analysis. Data in these columns do not present financial position, results of operations, or changes in financial position in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Neither is such data comparable to a consolidation. Interfund eliminations have not been made in the aggregation of this data.

for the year ended June 30, 1983

2. Scope

The City has not maintained an adequate record of its general fixed assets, therefore the combined balance sheet does not include the General Fixed Assets Account Group, as required by generally accepted accounting principles.

The scope of our examination did not include the Martin Water Works which is administered by a separate commission that is autonomous and self-perpetuating.

3. Judgement Payable - Wage Claim

The City of Martin was ordered by Floyd Circuit Court on March 23, 1982 to pay the Chief of Police $20,192.50 plus interest of eight percent per annum as compensation for the City's failure to pay overtime to the Chief of Police in violation of K.R.S. 337.285.

4. K.R.S.42 Compliance

Kentucky Revised Statutes Chapter 42.455 requires each recipient of Local Government Economic Assistance (LGEA) funds to conduct a proposed use hearing, budget hearing, file an annual use report and to spend at least thirty (30) percent of the funds to maintain local public highways. We found no evidence of compliance with these requirements for the year ended June 30, 1983.

First Birthday

Pageant Winner

Michala Michelle Walters celebrated her first birthday, February 24. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Walters, of Prestonsburg, and her maternal grandparents are Epp and Ruby Lafferty, of Prestonsburg, and the paternal grandparents are Lois Walters and the late Marvin Walters, of Johnstown, Ohio, formerly of Betsy Layne.

Jessica Jean Jackson, 21-month-old daughter of the late John Michael and Kim Jackson, was second runnerup in the Sunburst Beauty Pageant held in Springfield, O., recently, and will compete in the state pageant to be held in Cincinnati in June.

She is the granddaughter of John K. and Nora J. Jackson and Gene and Joyce Mader, all of Springfield, O., and is the great-granddaughter of Anna Adams, of Galveston.

Miss Hopkins, Mr. Hall To Wed in Paintsville

Billy Ross and Vada Hopkins, of the Lake Road, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Pamela Sue Hopkins to Mr. Phillip Dean Hall, son of Mrs. Louise Hall, of Auxier.

The couple will exchange vows Saturday, March 24, at 6:30 p.m. at the First Church of God in Paintsville.

The gracious custom of open church will be observed, and all relatives and friends are urged to attend. A reception will be held following the ceremony.

Named Ky. Colonel

Governor Martha Layne Collins has designated Joe Risner Layne the full benefits and responsibilities of a Kentucky Colonel in honor of his outstanding achievements. Mr. Layne was born in Prestonsburg in 1913 and is now retired in Phoenix, Arizona. His favorite activity in retirement is traveling and to date he has toured more than 100 countries. He is an active member of the Kentucky Club of Arizona.

You may remove a red-wine spill on your rug with club soda. Leave on until the stain is completely absorbed, then vacuum.

Cancer Hopeline

Q. I'm a nurse for a large employer and we are starting a smoking cessation program for our employees. Are there any figures on industry's health care costs due to smoking?

A. The "costs" to the employer are measured in terms of lost workdays, decreased productivity and smoking related medical care. A National Center for Health Statistics report estimated that 17 billion dollars is lost each year to these expenses. Smoking related illness or disease costs the United States 77 million workdays lost, and 88 million days spent in bed. In 1979, the American Cancer Society reported that these figures had risen to 81 million days lost from work, and 145 million days spent ill in bed.

For men between the ages of 45 and 64, more than 25 percent of the number of days of disability are associated with cigarette smoking. Women who smoke spend 17 percent more days in bed ill than women who have never smoked.

It has been estimated that more than 10% of all hospital and medical costs in the United States are tobacco related.

George Hansford

George Hansford, aged Wayland resident, died last Thursday at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital following a long illness. He was 94 years old.

Born November 18, 1889 at Alpine, Ky., he was a son of the late William and Belle Barnett Hansford. He was a retired miner and had been a member of the Martin Branch Free Will Baptist Church for 27 years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Bernice Sloan Hansford; eight sons, Charles Hansford, of Hueysville, George R., Orville, Donny, and Byron Hansford, all of Wayland, Homer and Coye Hansford, both of Columbus, O., and Donald E. Hansford, of Cleveland, O.; two daughters, Mrs. Judy Roope and Mrs. Teresa Scott, both of Wayland; 22 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 11 a.m., Sunday, at the Martin Branch Free Will Baptist Church at Estill by ministers of the church, and burial was made in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

Woodrow W. Greenwade

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. today (Wednesday) in the chapel of the Carter Funeral Home for Woodrow Wilson Greenwade, 70, of Prestonsburg, who died Monday at Highlands Regional Medical Center. Although Mr. Greenwade's death was unexpected, he had been in failing health for several years.

Born April 27, 1913 at Cliff, he was a son of the late William M. and Fannie Hager Greenwade. Before retirement, Mr. Greenwade owned and operated the Greenwade Motor Company, here.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Edna Carol Price Greenwade; one daughter, Mrs. Katie Sullivan, of Lexington; a sister, Mrs. Buretta Spradlin, of Prestonsburg, and three grandchildren.

Dr. Ted Nicholas will officiate at funeral rites, and burial will be made in the Hereford cemetery at Cliff.

In lieu of flowers, the family has requested that contributions be made to the First United Methodist Church.

Active pallbearers will be William O. Goebel, III, Winston Ford, Jr., Hansel Cooley, Shag Branham, William Gordon Francis, Jerry Fannin, Ralph Davis, Jr., and Charles Wells.

Glen Nelson

Glen Nelson, 63, of Lackey, died Sunday at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Lexington, following an extended illness.

A retired coal miner and veteran of World War II, he was a son of the late Mort Beckenhammer and Rudy Nelson, and was born in Paintsville, September 3, 1920.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Wanda Hatfield Nelson; eight sons, Ray, Luther, and Jackie Nelson, all of Ligonier, Ind., Gary, David, Ricky, and Ronnie Nelson, all of Lackey, and Larry Nelson, of Millersburg, Ind.; eight daughters, Patricia Huff, of Wayland, Gloria Faye Ratliff, Brenda Shearer, and Joyce Wright, all of Ligonier, Ind., Rose Taylor, of Hindman, Bonnie Burke, of Millersburg, Ind., and Barbara Conley, of Salyersville, two brothers, three sisters, and 29 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted today (Wednesday) at 11 a.m. at the United Baptist Church at Salt Lick with Elder Joe Howard officiating. Burial will be made in the Triplett and Conley cemetery at Jones Fork in Knott county under direction of the Floyd Funeral Home.

Former Magistrate Dies

Former Magistrate Derl Bryant DeRossett, 50, died Monday at Highlands Regional Medical Center after a short illness.

Born September 5, 1933, he was a son of Alex and Loma Warrick DeRossett, of Water Gap. He was elected magistrate in 1962, and at that time, is said to have been the youngest official ever elected to public office in this county. He was employed by the Island Creek Coal Company for several years in this county and in Martin county, and also worked with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service. Later, he was associated with the Moore Funeral Home, here, of which he was a stockholder. He was a member of the United Mine Workers of America and attended the Lancer-Water Gap Free Will Baptist Church. At his death, he was owner and manager, with his wife, of the Parkway Interior Decorating Center.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Cleo Montgomery DeRossett; two daughters, Mrs. Caroline DeRossett Patrick, of Salyersville, and Mrs. Tammy DeRossett Hill, of Prestonsburg; one brother, Magistrate Gerald DeRossett, and a sister, Mrs. Lucille Garrett, both of Water Gap, and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday) in the chapel of the Floyd Funeral Home with the Revs. Bill Campbell, Jack DeRossett, and Wallace Calhoun officiating. Burial will be made in the family cemetery on the right fork of Bull Creek.

Active pallbearers will be John K. Pitts, Earl D. Ousley, Charles Gray, Bill Nelson, Jimmy Sword, Henry Setser, Clyde McGuire, Durwood Patrick, and Estill Lee Carter.

Mrs. Lula Hackworth

Mrs. Lula Dotson Hackworth, 94, of Brainard, died Sunday at the Mountain Manor Nursing Home after a long illness.

A daughter of the late Richard and Helen Stanley Dotson, she was born November 5, 1889 at Wise, Virginia. She was preceded in death by her husband, Charlie Hackworth in May 1960.

Survivors include six sons, Wayne, Therman, and Junior Hackworth, all of Brainard, Elmer and Vernice Hackworth, both of Stockbridge, Mich., and Vernal Hackworth, of North Manchester, Ind.; three daughters, Mrs. Roxie Risner, and Mrs. Maxie Patrick, both of Homer, Mich., and Mrs. Ona Manns, of Akron, Ind.; a sister, Mae Hackworth, of Riceville, 46 grandchildren, 99 great-grandchildren, and six great-great-grandchildren.

Elders Wallace Calhoun and Delmon Stanley officiated at funeral services conducted at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the Carter Funeral Home Chapel. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Brainard with grandsons acting as pallbearers.

Vocational Education Support Ok'd By House

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 9—The House of Representatives last night approved by an overwhelming vote of 373 to 4 legislation sponsored by Congressman Carl D. Perkins (D-Ky.) to continue federal support for vocational education for another five years. The bill now goes to the Senate.

"This bill will help states modernize and expand their vocational programs for youth and adults, and I am pleased the House agrees we need to move in this direction," said Perkins, chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee and author of the original Vocational Education Act of 1963, the law extended by Perkins' bill.

The new legislation removes the funding cap placed on Federal vocational education programs in 1981 as part of the Administration's new budget-cutting efforts. As a result of that budget cap, Federal funding for vocational education has declined from $784 million in fiscal year 1980 to $742 million in fiscal year 1984.

First Birthday

Daniel Herby Nichols, son of Charlene Nichols, celebrated his first birthday, February 6, at the home of his grandparents, Herby and Pauline Nichols, of Stone Coal Creek, Pikeville, and on February 8, at his home at Staffordsville. More than 30 guests attended both parties, and a Bugs Bunny theme was used in decorations at both parties. Cake and ice cream were served.

Danny's maternal great-grandparents are Icy Nichols and the late John Nichols also of Pikeville.

Vigilance Gets Results But Fewer Headlines

EDB. Sulfites. Glass slivers in bottled drinks. Those topics and others make headlines when government agencies issue warnings and recalls related to potentially unsafe foods.

Not so dramatic, but certainly as important, is the day-to-day activity that protects the public from food-related problems and makes those warnings and recalls rare enough to be newsworthy.

Kentucky's Cabinet for Human Resources coordinates a statewide network that systematically monitors the food industry, from production to point of retail sale. The industry includes manufacturers and packagers, shippers, warehouses, wholesales, supermarkets, neighborhood stores, restaurants, hotels and motels, youth camps, state and county fairs and any other concern that makes or sells food—even the ubiquitous vending machine.

Here are some of the problems that didn't make headlines because on-going work by the state network caught them before they could threaten public health:

—100,000 bushels of corn destined for human consumption were suspected to be contaminated with aflatoxin, a carcinogenic chemical produced by mold in grain. State inspectors held this potentially hazardous corn from the market until testing proved the corn acceptable to reenter the marketplace.

Candy made in Kentucky for children to sell in school fundraising projects contained paint chips, rodent hairs and other filth. Human Resources waged a three-year legal battle resulting in a Kentucky Supreme Court injunction against the company.

—Acting on a consumer complaint, a sanitarian found that petroleum distillates were getting into soft drinks. Officials of the bottling plant had been unaware of the problem but corrected it immediately and destroyed contaminated beverages.

It's a never-ending job, working to ensure that all food sold in Kentucky meets state and federal standards. Irving Bell, director of the Human Resources Cabinet's Consumer Health Division, says the three levels of government—federal, state and county—have worked out a system that maximizes protection while minimizing cost.

"Kentucky's regulations on sanitation, purity and labeling apply statewide and are in harmony with federal requirements," said Bell. "County, state and federal governments do the necessary inspections using the same criteria and share their inspection reports with each other. That way, we avoid costly duplicate inspectors that sometimes happened in Kentucky in the past and still happen in some other states."

He said the state agency has turned most of the site inspection responsibility over to district and county health officials and now concentrates on approving local program plans, monitoring local health department activities, and providing training and consultation to the inspectors.

"The local sanitarians are the backbone of the system," said Bell. "They do 34,000 or more inspections per year, and their work is respected at the national level. In fact, the Food and Drug Administration contracts through this office for Kentucky's local health sanitarians to do certain food manufacturing inspections for the federal government."

In Kentucky the goal is at least one inspection per year in each food manufacturing plant and retail market selling only prepackaged foods and two per year in restaurants and other food establishments, plus follow-up inspections as required. As a result of last year's inspections, almost 120,000 pounds of food that did not meet minimum standards were condemned through the courts or voluntarily destroyed. In 1981-82, that total exceeded 1 million pounds.

"We feel certain there are countless pounds of food that do not become contaminated simply because the on-going local inspection programs are so effective," said Bell.

While inspectors watch for filth, contamination, spoilage and other potential health hazards, they also look for basics like misbranding and false advertising. For example, the state has a federal contract with FDA to analyze certain honey and syrup-type products that may not be such sweet deals for consumers.

"For example, some manufacturers are adding corn syrup to sorghum and labeling the product as pure sorghum," said Bell. "The difference in appearance and taste is almost imperceptible. The product won't hurt anyone who eats it. Still, this constitutes economic fraud and there are state and federal regulations against it."

Allen Central Students Hold Art Exhibit Here

The Allen Central High School Art Department presented an exhibit in the Floyd County Regional Library February 13 thru 17.

This was the second major show for the "Rebel Artists." The first was held earlier in the year during a home ballgame. Drawings, pen and ink, pastels, water colors, oil pastels, colored pencil, and acrylic paintings were exhibited. About 50 students participated.

The works shown in the library were selected from Art I, II, and III students. A limited number represented the school in the various media. Students participating in the show were Guy Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgel Brown; Paul Combs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adron Combs; Sherry Dingus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.O. Dingus; Tony Griffith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Griffith; Tim Lawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rondal Lawson; Rodney Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan Martin; Dan Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Budge Moore; Brent Ousley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Ousley; Dwayne Ousley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ousley; Paul Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rice; Freddie Ridener, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ridener; Mike Rister, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Rister; Troy Samons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Green Samons; Cassandra Slone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Slone; Andrea Wilks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilks; Darrin Wiley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Wiley.

The program was under the direction of Mrs. Carolita O'Quinn.

GUESTS OF WALLACES

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace had with them for lunch Sunday at their home on Riverside Drive their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wells, of Paintsville. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wells are teachers in Johnson Central High School.

The Equal Payment Plan.

A convenient way to budget for your electric bill.

Some household expenses are fairly steady throughout the year. But your electric bill varies from month to month because your electric usage fluctuates with the changing seasons. The bill is usually higher in the winter. It dips a little in the spring months, then, for most people, rises during the air conditioning season, before dropping again in the fall.

We can't do anything about the weather, but we can help you smooth out the ups and downs of your electric bill. And that's by offering you our Equal Payment Plan.

With the Equal Payment Plan, we bill you a fixed amount each month based on your average usage.

Every six months we'll review your account so you'll know whether your electricity costs are going up, down or staying about the same. The bill at the end of the twelfth month is the "settle-up" bill.

Many of our customers are already taking advantage of the Equal Payment Plan. If it sounds like a good idea to you, simply contact us. We'll take it from there.

Perkins, Major Drawing Card At School's Fund-Raiser

(In The Lexington-Herald-Leader)
WASHINGTON—The Hindman Settlement School, the 82-year-old institution at the forks of Troublesome Creek in Knott county, managed to do something last night that no one else has ever accomplished. It got U.S. Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Hindman, to do a little fund raising.

"This is the first thing of this type I've ever been associated with," said the 71-year-old Perkins, who rarely seeks donations to his own congressional campaigns. "I didn't really want to do it at first, but then I said, 'Go ahead.'"

And that's exactly what the school did last night at a $200-a-person reception at the Daughters of the American Revolution headquarters across the street from the White House. According to the reception's organizers, Perkins proved to be a major drawing card for the drive, which is nearing the $350,000 mark.

Mike Mullins, the school's director, said he hopes to raise $1 million during the next several years to establish a permanent endowment to help the school meet its $350,000 annual budget.

The Hindman Settlement School provides a variety of programs for children in Knott, Letcher and Perry counties. It reaches about 3,200 children a week through programs at its Hindman campus and visits to public schools. The school also operates a program for about 100 dyslexic children, and the campus houses the Knott County Library.

Mullins said the school's board of directors came up with the idea of an endowment fund more than a year ago, and board member Al Smith, a London newspaper publisher, suggested naming the fund after Perkins. At first, Perkins declined, Mullins said, but after several more pleadings—and after Mullins proposed naming the fund for Perkins and his wife, Verna, a retired teacher—Perkins agreed.

March 20 Named Agriculture Day

March 20, the first day of spring, has been proclaimed National Agriculture Day in Kentucky and across the nation.

"I sincerely hope many Kentuckians will join in this celebration as we begin a new farming season," said state Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell.

The Agriculture Department has planned special activities in Frankfort, March 20, to promote the meaning of the theme for National Agriculture Week, March 16-22—"Agriculture: It's Your Heartbeat, America."

"I particularly like this theme because it is another way of saying Kentucky soil touches all of us," Boswell said. "Each Kentuckian has a direct interest in our food and fiber system. It is vital to us all. It keeps us fed, clothed and working."

Agriculture is Kentucky's Number 1 industry. Agriculture is also the state's Number 1 employer, employing more than 100,000 people last year on farms and in agribusinesses across the state, Boswell pointed out.

Those figures don't even begin to include all of the income or people involved in related industries which process, package, market and transport the farmers' raw materials, he added.

"In this time of tight budgets, we should also note that agriculture directly produces approximately $3 billion to the Commonwealth's economy," Boswell said.

Kentucky's agriculture is also important nationwide. The Commonwealth ranks first in burley tobacco production and is second only to Texas in white corn production.

Kentucky ranks in the top 20 states in producing soybeans, corn for grain and silage, sorghum for grain and silage, hay, popcorn, winter wheat, barley, cheese, milk, cattle and hogs.

Nationally, agriculture has assets on almost $100 billion and provides jobs for 23 million people.

"In terms of jobs, productivity, exports and fighting inflation, a stronger agriculture means a stronger America. That's the message I want to get across on National Agriculture Day," Boswell said.

PUBLIC NOTICE

On January 30, 1984, B & H Gas Company notified the commission that it will not have sufficient gas to supply its customers during January, February and March 1984, and requested approval to make emergency purchases from Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company ("Kentucky West") for a period of 91 days, and to recover the additional cost of the emergency purchases by applying a surcharge to customers' bills on a usage basis.

After reviewing the notice filed in this case and being advised, the commission is of the opinion and finds that: B & H has filed adequate information in requesting emergency purchases and a surcharge to recover the cost. B & H does not have sufficient gas to supply its customers' needs at the present time. Its request for emergency deliveries of natural gas from Kentucky West is in the best interest of the customers and should be approved.

Any Corporation, body politic or person may request leave to intervene and may request that a hearing be scheduled by the commission. Motion shall be submitted to the Public Service Commission, 730 Schenkel Lane, P.O. Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602, within 30 days after notice of the proposed surcharge is given and shall set forth the grounds for the request and the interest of the party.

"I think I kind of encouraged it," Mrs. Perkins said last night. "I thought it would be a good thing after all the Hindman Settlement School had done for us."

Both Perkins and his wife attended the school as children.

To carry its message to Washington, the school hired a Lexington public relations firm owned by Donna Moloney and Pat Brown. The result was a slick media event complete with a Bluegrass band, an Appalachian quilts exposition and enough tiny cucumber and creamcheese sandwiches to satisfy the 400 lobbyists, congressmen, educators and businessmen who crowded into the DAR hall. House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill, D-Mass., dropped in to tell everyone how Perkins, who is chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, had been involved in every major education bill during the past 30 years.

Other guests included John R. Hall, Ashland Oil Inc. chairman, whose company led the donors' list with a $50,000 contribution; University of Kentucky President Otis Singletary; and former Gov. Edward T. Breathitt. The National Education Association was second among the list of major donors, contributing $30,000.

GREGORY STUMBO STATE REPRESENTATIVE 95TH DISTRICT

We are now in the final days of the 1984 session. No new bills may be introduced in accordance with the rules of the House of Representatives. I am listing below some of the measures that I have sponsored during this Legislature so that you can see what I am doing.

- HOUSE BILL 32—An act relating to the statutory construction of mineral deeds. This is the Broad Form Deed Bill that was signed by Gov. Collins on February 23, 1984.
- HOUSE BILL 135—An act which would require the Public Service Commission to be elected rather than appointed. This would have one commissioner elected from each Congressional District. In states that have elected Public Service Commissions, the utility rates are 20% lower.
- HOUSE BILL 177—Would authorize the county to put a 2% gross receipts tax on the sale of alcoholic beverages.
- HOUSE BILL 219—Establishes a consumer Utility Intervention Division in the office of the Attorney General. This measure is an effort to combat the high rate increases of utility companies.
- HOUSE BILL 221—Requires the Public Service Commission to compile consumer complaints and to use every means at its disposal to resolve such complaints. Also provides for consumers to call in complaints.
- HOUSE BILL 244—Purpose to amend the constitution to provide the homestead exemption to any person classified as totally disabled by any public retirement system.
- HOUSE BILL 311—Prohibit city, urban-county or county firearms control ordinances.
- HOUSE BILL 424—Would make the drawer of a dishonored check liable to the payee for treble damages if, after 30 days of demand for payment by the payee, payment has not been made.
- HOUSE BILL 486—Establishes a child sexual abuse and exploitation prevention program. Also establishes a missing children program. Creates as a class D felony the crime of unlawful transaction with a minor in the first degree where the minor is caused to engage in illegal sexual, drug, gambling, or criminal activity.
- HOUSE BILL 518—Requires utility companies to provide service to volunteer fire departments at one-half the usual rate.
- HOUSE BILL 559—Repeals the weight distance tax on trucks.
- HOUSE BILL 595—Delete the prohibition on the use of public funds for in-vitro fertilization.
- HOUSE BILL 600—Establishes a division of consumer utility intervention in the office of Attorney General. Establishes a nine-member utility consumer board to advise and assist the Attorney General.
- HOUSE BILL 614—Establishes a tax credit for businesses that convert or replace an oil fired boiler to a coal fired boiler.
- HOUSE BILL 665—Directs the Board of Energy to issue $30,000,000.00 in revenue bonds to Kentucky Industries for the installation of coal fired boilers.
- HOUSE BILL 787—Relates to the Teachers Retirement System and provides an increase for those receiving teachers retirement benefits.

Alice Lloyd-Bellarmino To Talk Nurse Program

Bellarmino college officials will meet March 21-22 in the McGaw Library and Learning Center, Pippa Passes, for the purposes of answering questions concerning the nursing program and to register interested students in the new program. The program was announced at a December press conference in which Dr. Petrick, president of Bellarmine College, and Dr. Davis, president of Alice Lloyd College, disclosed the mechanics of the joint effort in upgrading nursing education in Eastern Kentucky. Bellarmine officials will advise students on Wednesday, March 21, from 2 p.m. until 4:30 p.m., and on Thursday, March 22, from 8 until 10 a.m. and from 3:00 p.m. until 5 p.m.

Wednesday, March 21, at 4:30 p.m. Bellarmine and Alice Lloyd officials will hold an open meeting in the Ralph Edwards Auditorium for the purpose of discussing the cooperative nursing program.

Those interested in enrolling in the first nursing course to be offered in June 1984 should plan to attend one of the advising sessions to discuss their program objectives with the Bellarmine nursing staff.

Bonanza Man Faces Multiple Charges

Robert Kenneth Rice, 22, of Bonanza, was booked and lodged in the county jail Thursday on multiple charges of burglary, theft and arson.

According to warrants sworn out by state police arson investigator James B. McKenzie, Rice broke into the home of Etta Jane Horn Nov. 5, stole a painting, and then set the house on fire.

He is accused also of burning a barn belonging to Josie Stanley on Dec. 14, a building at the Auxier road greenhouse operated by the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center on Jan. 6, and a barn belonging to Letha Little on Feb. 8. District Judge Harold Stumbo ordered that he be given a psychiatric evaluation.

Besides McKenzie, District 1 Constable Linzie Hale also investigated the incidents.

Sentenced in district court, following guilty pleas or verdicts, were:

Jack R. Marcum, Harold, drunk driving, attempt to elude police, $147 in fine and court costs, to attend Alcoholic Driver Education (ADE); Darrell Hunter, Printer, drunk driving, ADE; Edward Short, Topmost, drunk driving, $137.50, ADE; Keith Hyden, Prestonsburg, drunk and disorderly, $67.50; Dean Coleman, Lookout, cold check, $37.50 and restitution of $50 to Dan-Dee Market; Becky Kendrick, no address listed, shoplifting, $62.50, restitution to Heck's; Harold Thornsby, Eastern, cold check, $37.50 and $80 restitution to Martin's Bestway Market; Shirley Chester, Prestonsburg, drunk, carrying concealed weapon, $87.50, weapon forfeited.

Breastmilk Is Better For Babies' Health

We have heard many times that breastmilk is the best food for babies. What does breastmilk contain that makes it so beneficial.

The liquid part is water. Water is necessary for the body's cells and to prevent dehydration. About 1.2% of breastmilk is protein. Breastfed babies use all the protein in breastmilk while formula fed babies use about half the protein in formula. This makes breastmilk easier to digest. The fats in breastmilk are important in the development of the outer nerve coatings. Anti-infective substances that help fight infection such as dysentery and typhoid bacteria are also present in breastmilk. Breastmilk is also composed of carbohydrates, minerals, vitamins, hormones, and enzymes. With such important ingredients it's easy to see why breastmilk is the right start for babies.

For more information about breastfeeding, call Pat Hites at 886-8786.

ALLEN WOMAN'S CLUB NEWS

The March meeting of the Allen Woman's Club was held at the Allen Park, Tuesday, March 5.

President Hollie Blanton called the meeting to order with the Pledge to the Flag. Belle Conn read a devotion by Joan Browning. The minutes of the February meeting were read by Mary Hinchman, secretary.

During the evening, club members prepared letters to be sent to Allen area residents on behalf of the Allen Volunteer Fire Dept.

Members voted for the "Club Woman of the Year", and she will be announced at the annual installation dinner. New officers selected for the club year are as follows: President, Joan Adams; Vice President, Mary Hinchman; Secretary, Janie King, and Treasurer, Judy Hester. President Blanton informed the members of the 89th annual convention to be held in Lexington, and of the 7th District Spring Meeting and student contests to be held in Pikeville, March 24.

Club members approved a $50 donation to the Drama Association of the Jenny Wiley Summer Musical Theater, and agreed to assist with the St. Jude's Bike-A-Thon which is scheduled Saturday, April 14 in Allen.

Co-chairwomen Judy Hester and Hollie Blanton for the Little Miss Floyd County Pageant announced the pageant to be at the Betsy Layne School High School gymnasium, Saturday May 12, at 7 p.m. Those interested in the pageant may call the entry committee members, JoAnn Adams 886-6833; Diana Reed, 874-9528; Carolyn Branham, 478-9351, or Judy Hester, 874-8177.

Members present were Joan Adams, Hollie Blanton, Belle Conn, Pat Derossett, Judy Hester, Mary Hinchman, Janie King, and Denise Queen.

Blair Completes Training at Keesler

Airman Daniel L. Blair, son of G.C. and Sarah W. Blair, of Tram, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force electronic computer and switching systems course at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss.

Graduates of the course were taught to inspect, operate and maintain electronic computers and related equipment, and earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Blair is scheduled to serve with the 11th Tactical Control Group at Elmendorf Air Force Base, Alaska.

His wife, Jeanne, is the daughter of Allen and Jeanne Guthrie, of Du Bois, Pa.

He is a 1980 graduate of Betsy Layne High School.

CIRCLE MEETS

The Annie Allen Circle of Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church met March 5, at the home of Mrs. Vivian Fraley. The president, Mrs. Ruby Garrett, presided. The goal for the Annie Armstrong Easter offering was set at $500. It was decided that this group would furnish a carton of food per month, for an indefinite period, for the Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry here. The announcement was made that some of the clothes, donated by members of the local church, for students and their families at the Clear Creek School, had been taken there by a truck sent here by that school, and that persons who may still wish to donate clothes may take them to the basement of the church.

The W.M.U. Associational meeting and dinner, to be held here Tuesday evening, March 27, were discussed, as were the W.M.U. annual meeting, to be held at the Emmanuel Baptist Church, in Lexington, March 29-31, and the fellowship luncheon following morning worship, at the local church, on Sunday, April 1.

Mrs. Garrett led the evening's program, the theme of which was "Visions and Frontiers."

The hostess, Mrs. Vivian Fraley, introduced her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arch Burke, of Frankfort, who were visiting with her. A dessert course was served to Mr. and Mrs. Burke, guests; and members, Mesdames Ruby Garrett, Rebecca Rasnick, Patsy Evans, Myrtle Allen, Lucy Regan, Zella Archer, Ora Bussey, Pat Minns, Dorothy Osborne, and Eva Collins.

The next meeting will be Monday evening, April 2, at 6 o'clock at the church.

REBEKAHS MEET

The regular meeting of Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 was held March 6, with Miss Kelly Sue Moore, noble grand, presiding.

Several members were reported to be ill, and cards to be sent to them were signed. Plans were made for the dinner which was served during the Odd Fellows' district meeting, on March 10.

Members were reminded of the Rebekah District meeting, to be held Saturday, March 17, beginning at 6 p.m., at the Paintsville R.E.C.C. building. A memorial service for members who passed away during the past year will be held at that time.

It was decided that a donation to the Oleika Shrine Circus Fund for tickets for underprivileged children would be made. The circus is scheduled to be in Prestonsburg next month.

Mrs. Mary Zemo was appointed by the noble grand as color bearer, and was installed for the current term.

Birthday greetings were extended to Mesdames Mary Zemo, Dorothy Osborne and Norma Stepp.

Present for the meeting were Kelly Sue Moore, Nancy Duff, Norma Stepp, Theckley Short, Sue Moore, Myrtle Allen, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Violetta Wright, Mary Zemo, Paulena Owens, Lorena Wallen, and Dorothy Osborne.

The next meeting will be next Tuesday evening, at 7 o'clock.

THREE HONORED

Flowers, placed on the altar of the First United Methodist Church Sunday morning, were for Capt. Ted Nicholas II, on his birthday, from his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ted Nicholas; in honor of Shelley Price, on her fifth birthday, from her family, and in honor of Walter Snively, on his birthday, from members of his family.

NEW HOMEMAKERS

New Floyd County Homemakers, and the clubs to which they have recently been welcomed, are Mesdames Honey May, North Prestonsburg; Sylvia Heintzelman and Lila DeRossett, Allen; Clara Bardbury, Prestonsburg Day; Bessie Marshall and Kathy Marshall, Abbott, and Libby Flannery and Vanessa Adkins, Maytown. Members-at-large who have recently been welcomed are Mesdames Katherine Poe, Susie Poe, Lillie Parker, Lorraine Frasure, June Yates, and Carl Hencye.

Martin Resident To Go To Egypt With Team

Bill Flanery, son of Herschel and Betty Flanery, of Martin, will be traveling to Egypt this summer as part of the summer missions program of Oral Roberts University, Tulsa, Oklahoma.

A junior at ORU, Flanery is studying business. A graduate of Allen Central High School, he will travel with a team of three other students for eight weeks of mission work. ORU will be sending 160 students to 24 countries this summer.

Flanery says the team is excited about this opportunity because they will be working with young people at the Lillian Thrasher Orphanage in Asyat, Egypt.

GRETHEL

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Grethel Homemakers Club met March 5. The response to the rollcall was made by naming a vegetable beginning with first initial of each homemaker's name.

Arietta Hall, Shirley Hamilton and Christine Crisp displayed their "Chicken Scratch" pillow tops.

The lessons, "Fraud and Crime Prevention," and "Mixing Food and Drugs," were taught by extension Agent Frances Pitts.

The next meeting will be held April 2 at 6:30 p.m., and each homemaker is to bring two pieces of 8 by 8-inch fabric, embroidery hoop, needle, thimble, white thread, and scissors for the Traupunto lesson.

Annual Potluck Held

The Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association (BSF-CEA) held its annual winter potluck at the home of Pat and Tim Hites on March 3. Approximately 60 people attended.

The group honored Jean Rosenberg for 10 years of service to The Big Sandy Family and presented her with a gift and a cake for her dedication to the organization. Mrs. Rosenberg has been active as a childbirth educator, a BSF-CEA board member, officer, member of support groups and an advisor. Many of the families attending were former students of Mrs. Rosenberg.

National Award Winner

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Patty Johnson has been named a 1984 United States National Award winner in science.

Miss Johnson, who attends Betsy Layne High School, was nominated for this national award by Melvin Cooke, a counselor at the school. Her biography will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

She is the daughter of Willard and Laura Johnson, of Teaberry, and her grandparents are Carrie Newsome, of Beaver, and the late Milford and Minne Johnson, of Teaberry.

METHODIST WOMEN MEET

The Community United Methodist Women met March 5 at the church, with the president, Mrs. Drema Osborne, presiding. During the business meeting, the luncheon planned for senior members and friends of the church on March 11, was discussed. Plans for participation in the Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry, sponsored by the Local Churchwomen and the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association, were made.

Mrs. Judy Biggs, who gave the devotionals, told about the recent trip she and her husband, Rev. Biggs, made to the Holy Land, and spoke of the joy they felt in being where Jesus was born, lived and died, and where he performed miracles.

The hostesses, Mrs. Jean Burke and Mrs. Sue Spradlin, served refreshments to Esther Ward, Debra Burke and little daughter, Phannor, Eleanor Robinson, Drema Osborne, Christine Simpson, Mabel Hopson, Sherry Tucker, Linda Smith, Judy Biggs, Connie Cooley, Ernestine Collins, Nancy Tackett, Anna Jean Howell, Sandy Howell, and Josephine Herald.

The next meeting will be Monday evening, April 2, at 7 o'clock, at the church, with Mrs. Drema Osborne and Mrs. Connie Cooley as co-hostesses.

Celebrate Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tackett, of McDowell, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, February 24, with an open house and dinner with family and friends at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Shirleen Elliott, of McDowell. They are the parents of three daughters, eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. The open house was given by their children and spouses, Shirleen and Francis Elliott, Vivani and Arnold Akers, all of McDowell, and Thelma and Litten Dye, of Price. Also sharing in the celebration were Annie and James Johnson, Andy and Ethel Hamilton, Veda Tackett, Anna Sue Tackett, Jimmy and Sharon Hall, Renie Tackett, Ruby B. Smith, Ethel Meade, Brandy Ridgway, Clinton Moore, Jeff, Diana and Jeffrey Francis Case, Janie Tackett, Donna Akers, Edward Akers, Lee and Polly Tackett and Lona Martin, all of McDowell; Ocie and Tramble Mitchell, Woodrow Dye, Gleda Johnson, Lucy, Amanda and Carrie Reynolds and Monica Gates, all of Printer; Judy, Miranda and Kevin Looney, of Pikeville; Don, Sue and William Parker, Matthew and Melissa Dye, all of Price; Jimmy Yates, of Grethel; Louise Case, of Drift, and John and Hattie Burke, of Bevinville. Mr. and Mrs. Tackett expressed their appreciation to all who attended and those who sent cards and gifts.

On northern tundra caribou can run as fast as 40 miles an hour; wolves, a slower 30 miles per hour. But the February Reader's Digest declares that the caribou are no match for the wolves, whose superior endurance usually wins out.

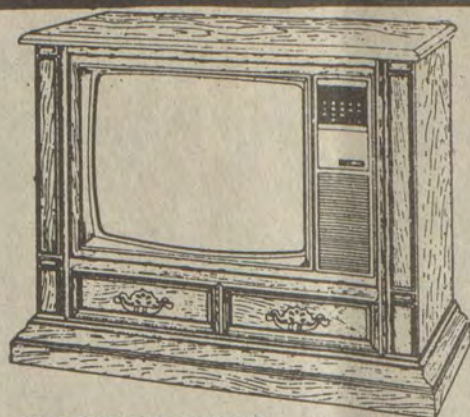

Teaching may be one of the most important professions, but it's hardly the best paid. According to the February Reader's Digest, the average salary for a beginner with a B.A. degree is $13,366—about $5300 less than a fledgling accountant can make.

IT WAS NOT for want of determination that the Wheelwright Lady Trojans lost to Sheldon Clark in the girls' semi-finals, Monday night, at Virgie.

Girls' Teams Go To Semi-Finals

Floyd county's girls' teams, the Wheelwright Lady Trojans and Betsy Layne's Lady Bob Cats, advanced to the semi-finals of the regional tournament at Virgie, Monday night, before feeling the lash of defeat.

Wheelwright defeated Pikeville in the first game last Monday night, and in the second game, last Tuesday, Betsy Layne won over Johnson Central. Each then advanced to the semi-finals where Wheelwright bowed to Sheldon Clark in a game where one point spelled the difference between victory and defeat. It was Sheldon Clark by 64-63.

The scoring ran neck and neck in the first half of play with neither team holding more than a six-point lead. At halftime, Sheldon Clark led 32-38.

In the second half, Wheelwright got both offense and defense going to come back from a four-point deficit to a six-point lead with five straight baskets by Missy Justice. But in the fourth quarter, Sheldon Clark came on strong, taking advantage of Wheelwright's missed free throws which allowed them to cut the Lady Trojans lead to one point. Then with 10 seconds remaining in the game, Wheelwright's one shot rolled off the rim as if it had a curse on it, and Sheldon Clark advanced to the finals.

In the second game, Betsy Layne lost to sixth ranked Belfry Pirates in a game which saw the Lady Bobcats displaying an impressive defense. The first quarter ended in a 16-all tie, and at the half, Belfry led by five points, 40-35. Betsy Layne came back in the third quarter all fired up but Belfry's offensive drive put the Pirates ahead with a 12-point lead.

In the fourth quarter, the Lady Bobcats began to rally, cutting the Pirates lead to two points at one time. The game ended with Belfry winning a 73-70 victory.

Individual scoring was as follows in the two games:

Wheelwright—Evelyn Boyd, 22; Missy Justice, 20; Mia Jones, 16; Natalie Johnson, 5.

Sheldon Clark—Debbie Scott, 20; Tammy Dalton, 16; Sue Crum, 14; Tammy Fannin, 6; Carla Dalton and Rhonda Conrad, 4 each.

Betsy Layne—Raquel Keathley, 28; Cassandra Keathley, 18; Christina Grose, 9; Kris Lawson, 8; Kim Tackett, 5; Wendy Kaylor, 2.

Belfry—Sabrina Tussey, 18; Kathy Spinks and Cindy Stewart, 16 each; Tammy Tussey, 14; Rhonda Charles, 9.

Deer, Small Game Seasons Set

The state Fish and Wildlife Commission last week approved deer and small game regulations for 1984 which are very similar to those of recent years.

The statewide gun deer season will open the first Saturday in November (Nov. 3) and will run for three, five or 10 consecutive days, depending upon the hunting zone. The deer bow hunting season opens Oct. 1, runs through Nov. 1, reopens Nov. 14 and continues through Dec. 31. Crossbows may be used only during the Nov. 17 through Nov. 26 portion of the archery season.

Squirrel season will open the traditional third Saturday in August (August 18), while quail, rabbit and grouse seasons are set to begin on the equally traditional third Thursday of November (Nov. 15).

Squirrel season will continue through Oct. 31, then reopen Nov. 15 and continue through Dec. 31. Rabbit season will run through Jan. 31, quail season through Feb. 10 and grouse season through Feb. 28.

Small game and deer bag limits remain unchanged from last year, but another deer hunting zone was added, bringing the total number of zones to seven.

In Zone 1 gun hunters may take antlered or antlerless deer for the entire 10-day season; zone two hunters are limited to antlered deer for eight of the 10 days, while those hunting in zone three may take antlered or antlerless deer only on the 10th day of the season.

In Zone 4 hunters are limited to bucks only for all 10 days, while those hunting in zones five and six are limited to bucks only for five and three days respectively.

Bow hunters in Zones 1, 2, 3 and 4 may take antlered or antlerless deer during the entire archery season, while archers in Zones 5 and 6 are limited to bucks only.

Zone 7, which includes Floyd, Knott, Knox, Magoffin, Letcher and Perry counties (except the Dewey Lake wildlife area), is closed to all deer hunting.

In other action, the commission approved the issuance of permits for landowners in Nelson and Bullitt counties to control excess deer that are causing crop or property damage and voted to close the special commercial netting season at Kentucky and Barkley lakes at the end of February beginning with the 1984-85 season.

Morehead Eagles Win NCAA Berth

Morehead State, winner of the Ohio Valley Conference tournament, will play MEAC champ North Carolina A&T in the opening round of the NCAA tournament next Tuesday in Dayton.

Morehead goes into the tournament with a 24-5 record; North Carolina A & T, 20-6.

The Eagles won the conference with a win over the Eastern Kentucky Colonels. A combined crowd of over 7000 watched Morehead defeat Murray and Youngstown State to win the OVC tourney.

The Eagles are seeded No. 12 in the Midwest Region along with two other Kentucky teams, No. 5 Louisville and the No. 1 seeded Kentucky Wildcats.

Girl Scouts Hold Indoor Winter Games

Four Girl Scout Troops in Floyd County held their Gold, Silver and Bronze indoor Winter Olympic Games, Feb. 24.

Troops represented were Wheelwright, Troop 433; McDowell, Troop 633; Prestonsburg, Troop 355, and Prater Creek, Troop 1035.

Fifty-five girls attended the event and stayed overnight at Jenny Wiley May Lodge along with their mothers and scout leaders. After a pancake breakfast the next morning, the Scouts enjoyed a nature hike through the park and visited other Girl Scout camp sites.

Events and winners are as follows:

Indoor Javelin—first place, Tonia Hale, Troop 355; second, Tena Goble, Girl Scout camp resident; third, Dana Akers, Troop 1035. 100 Meter—first, Shannon Hunt, Troop 1035; second, Georgie Branham, Troop 433; third, Jenny Samons, Troop 1035. High Jump—first, Sonja England, Troop 1035; second, Jennifer Miller, Troop 433; third, Michele Isaac, Troop 433. Standing Broad Grin—first, Selina Castle, Troop 433; second, Kristen Omerod, Troop 355; third, Marsha Johnson, Troop 433. Marble Broad Jump—first, Regina Perry, Troop 433; second, Tonia Goble, Troop 355; third, Carmen Blackburn, Troop 433. One-Yard Dash—first, Valeria Boyd, Troop 1035; second, Virginia Mead, Troop 433; third, Crystal Martin, Troop 433. Indoor High Dive—first, Gina Johnson, Troop 433; second, Betty Cooper, Troop 633; third, Shane Branham, Troop 355. Ring Toss—first, Tonia Martin, Troop 433; second, Erica Branham, Troop 355; third, Tina Kidd, Troop 1035.

P'burg, Betsy Layne Lose in Semi-Finals

There will be no team from Floyd county among the Sweet Sixteen meeting in the state basketball tournament in Lexington next week.

Both Prestonsburg, district champion, and Betsy Layne, runnerup, lost in first-round games of the regional held last week at Virgie. Wednesday night's play saw the Betsy Layne Bobcats pitted against Belfry. This was the first big disappointment for Floyd county fans as the game ended with a Belfry win of 64 to 53 over Betsy Layne.

The Blackcats fared no better the next night against Johnson Central as the eventual regional champions rolled to an 81-65 victory, going on to defeat Johns Creek, Friday night. In the championship game, Saturday, Johnson Central and Magoffin County played it right down to the wire with Johnson Central winning a nerve-racking two-point victory, 62-60.

Individual scoring in the Prestonsburg-Betsy Layne game was as follows: Prestonsburg—Kelly Cecil, 18; Marty Minix, 17; Todd Nairn, 12; Tony Whitaker, 4; Jody Hackworth, 4, and Richie Slone, 4.

Johnson Central—Mike Hall, 14; Morris Hall, 19; Harry Meek, 22; Roger Fairchild, 16; Les Trimble, 8, and Richard Johnson, 2.

In the Betsy Layne-Belfry game, individual scoring was for Betsy Layne—Levi Hamilton, 16, Jeff Campbell, 6; Lester Newsome, 10; Chris Conn, 5; Jimmy Parsons, 7; Brett Meade, 2; Duran Hall, 2; Dwayne Kidd, 2; and Davy Mitchell, 3.

For Belfry—Mike Hatfield, 12; Todd Ball, 12; Chris Barker, 4; Donovan Slone, 2; Benny May, 10; Glen Jude, 22; Marty Williams, 2.

Cautious Optimism About The Future of Waterfowl

By MADELEINE JACOBS

"The sight of a migrating goose flock represents far more than a simple measure of the passing of seasons: It is an unwritten testimony to dogged persistence in spite of adversity..." Paul A. Johnsgard, Waterfowl of North America, 1975.

Long before the official start of spring, the nation's skyways begin to fill with the sights and sounds of millions of ducks and geese heading northward to their breeding grounds. The graceful V-formation of a flock of canvasback ducks, the haunting call at nightfall of a skein of Canada geese, the undulating waves of snow geese alighting on a marsh—all stir something deep in the human psyche.

Perhaps, as one wildlife expert suggests, these migratory travelers are a symbol of determination, of the will to survive.

At times, the odds against survival must have seemed formidably high.

In 1849, explorer Howard Stansbury gazed across a vast expanse of Utah's Bear River delta and wrote: "The marshes was covered by immense flocks of wild geese and ducks. ... Thousands of acres, as far as the eyes could reach, seem literally covered with them."

Yet, even as Stansbury wrote those words, millions of acres of prime waterfowl habitat—wetlands consisting of swamps, marshes, bayous, bogs—were being drained to make way for agricultural, industrial and urban development. The remaking of the American landscape accelerated at a dizzying pace throughout the 19th century.

Overhunting and such recurring natural disasters as drought and disease further took their toll on the nation's waterfowl. By the turn of the century, waterfowl populations, as well as many other populations of wildlife, had suffered drastic declines.

Today, however, many wildlife managers and biologists share the outlook of Harold Duebber, who has devoted 25 years to the management and research of waterfowl and declares himself "cautiously optimistic about the future of America's waterfowl."

Duebber is a wildlife biologist at the Northern Prairie Research Center in Jamestown, N.D., one of five major wildlife research installations of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. To bolster his view, Duebber points to long-established federal programs for preserving and acquiring waterfowl habitats—especially high-quality breeding areas in the northern prairie region—that have helped to maintain desirable population levels for a number of species.

Moreover, Duebber and other specialists say, years of research on the basic biology of these birds and their habitats have begun to yield payoffs, leading to better management of existing habitat and populations.

The turnaround came slowly. The first federal wildlife refuge was established on March 14, 1903, when President Theodore Roosevelt, an ardent conservationist, issued an executive order that set aside a 2½ acre tract in Florida for brown pelicans.

One by one, additional parcels of land and water were taken out of federal lands, donated or bought to protect waterfowl, waterbirds and other wildlife. From such modest beginnings, the Interior Department's National Wildlife Refuge System was born.

There are now 418 National Wildlife Reguges, located in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and every state except West Virginia. Most provide a haven or nesting ground for North America's 43 native species of ducks, geese and swans—some 80 million birds.

Harrod Amphitheatre Schedules Auditions

Local auditions for "The Legend of Daniel Boone" and "Lincoln" have been set for Saturday, March 24, at 10 a.m. They will be held at the Harrodsburg High School auditorium. Auditionees are asked to bring pictures and resumes, along with a prepared two minute monologue.

Rehearsals will begin May 16, and the season opens Saturday, June 9. "Boone" will be showing Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday, while "Lincoln" plays on Tuesdays and Thursdays. All performances are at 8:30 p.m.

Sisters Celebrate Birthdays

Lora Lynn, 8, and her sister, Jamie Lynn Tackett, 2, celebrated their birthdays with a party at their home at Beaver Feb. 25. Those attending were Ginger Dawn, Jennifer Lynn, Dino Tackett, Patrick and Kandice Robin Tackett, Marsha Tackett and Pam Tackett. Cake and ice cream were served, and they received many nice gifts. They are the daughters of James and Juanita Tackett, of Beaver, and grandchildren of Hatler and Myrtle Tackett and Lilly Mae Hall, of Beaver, and the late Milford Hall.

Contest Winner

Timmy Hatfield, eight-year-old son of Randy and Debbie Hatfield, of Water Gap, won a Coleco table top Pac-Man game when he purchased a box of Pac-Man cereal at the Piggly Wiggly store, here, February 15.

Timmy is in Mrs. Howard's second grade room at Prestonsburg Grade School and is a member of the Tiger Scouts. He is the grandson of Lowell and Senia Erwin, of Olive Hill, and Mrs. Sarah Hatfield, of Water Gap, and the late Joe Wheeler Hatfield.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Marie Hancock takes this opportunity to thank everyone for their help in the loss of our loved one: those who sent food, flowers or just spoke comforting words. We deeply appreciate you all. A special thanks to the staff and nurses of Our Lady of the Way Hospital, the ministers and singers and to the Hall Funeral Home for being so kind.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 436-5188

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Wheelwright Mining Inc., address, Box 7, Price, Kentucky, has filed an application for a permit for an underground mining operation. The proposed operation will affect a surface disturbance of 2.2 acres and will underlie an additional 290 acres located 2 1/2 miles southeast of Orkney in Floyd county.

The proposed operation is approximately 2 3/4 miles southeast from Hwy. 122 junction with Spewing Camp Road and located 2 1/2 miles south of the Left Fork of Beaver Creek. The latitude is 37° 24' 25". The longitude is 82° 43' 10".

The proposed operation is located on the McDowell U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed is owned by Wheelwright Mining Inc. The operation will underlie land owned by Richard Stumbo, McDowell, Kentucky, Teddy Frazier, McDowell Kentucky, Dee Howell, McDowell Kentucky, Sam Martin, McDowell Kentucky, and Wheelwright Mining Inc., Price Kentucky.

The operation will affect an area within 100 feet, of a public road of Spewing Camp. The operation will not involve relocation of the Public road.

The existing premining land use was forest land. For the postmining land use it will be revegetated and restored into pasture land.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 431 South Lake Drive. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

EXPRESSION OF THANKS

We would like to thank everyone for the help that we received while our daughter, Kayla Renee, was in the hospital following her premature birth, January 28. She had to be flown to a Louisville hospital, where she stayed for more than a month. We want to thank everyone who donated money and remembered her in their prayers, because Kayla is truly God's work and He saw fit to work a miracle with her. We're glad to be able to tell everybody that our prayers were answered and Kayla is now home and doing great!

UNDERGOES HEART SURGERY

John Mullins recently underwent open heart surgery in Detroit, Michigan. He is recovering at his home and would enjoy hearing from his friends and relatives here. Friends may write him at Box 148, Claypool, Indiana 46510.

"The first forty years of life give us the text; the next thirty supply the commentary on it."

Schopenhauer

FAME

Robert Young

MEDICAL MIRACLE — Robert Young will reappear on network television later this year on "The Return of Marcus Welby, M.D.," a special, two-hour ABC-TV movie. Young will recreate his role of dedicated general practitioner Marcus Welby, M.D., and Elena Verdugo will reprise her role of nurse Consuelo Lopez. The Emmy-award winning show, which ran from 1969-1976, was one of the biggest hits in ABC's history.

DANCING DOG — First, he was a dashing World War I fighter pilot chasing the Red Baron. Then he was Joe Cool. Now, Snoopy is burning up the dance floor, as the "Peanuts" gang star in their first animated musical special, "It's Flashbeagle, Charlie Brown," airing Monday, April 16 on CBS. Charlie Brown, Lucy and Peppermint Patty will sing, while the intrepid beagle develops a secret life as king of the disco. The strenuous activity, however, will take its toll on Snoopy's relationship with his master, Charlie Brown, who laments, "Some kids have

PSYCHO THRILLER — Yvette Mimieux will star in "Obsessive Love," a CBS-TV movie about a shy, introverted woman whose fantasies about a love affair with a handsome star of daytime drama envelops three people in a tragic situation — with devastating results. Simon MacCorkindale, most recently seen on "Manimal," will co-star.

FUTURE STARS — ABC-TV, in an attempt to develop the new faces of tomorrow, has re-signed two stars and added 13 new actors and actresses to its Talent Development Program. The goal of the project is to place the up-and-coming performers in recurring roles in daytime and prime time series. The program has already achieved success by developing such current stars as John James, Ann Jillian, Lydia Cornell and Donna Dixon. Among those recently signed are Julie Campbell, Winnie Gardner, Danny Pintauro and "Webster" star Emmanuel Lewis.

By Joan Crosby

SEX AND MURDER — ABC will air "The Calendar Girl Murders," a TV movie about — not surprisingly — models who pose for a calendar and then get bumped off. Tom Skerritt, Barbara Parkins and Robert Culp star.

BIG BOMB — Meanwhile, NBC will air "Time Bomb," a TV movie about a gang of terrorists who attempt to hijack a vehicle carrying nuclear fuel. Morgan Fairchild plays the leader of the gang. Billy Dee Williams, Joseph Bottoms and Merlin Olsen also star. They are the good guys, carrying the fuel.

A READER — Kim Fields taped some radio spots for the American Library Association and the TV star now holds a bronze universal library card. She is proud of it, too.

NICE LADY — Deborah Raffin has been named Goodwill Ambassador and board member of the Make a Wish Foundation, an organization dedicated to granting wishes to terminally ill children. The organization was formed in 1980 and now has chapters in 29 cities. The group has granted wishes to more than 100 terminally ill children, including trips to Disneyland, and visits or telephone calls from famous stars and athletes.

Miss Gibson, Mr. Moe To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Gibson, of Wayland, Ky., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorian Helen Gibson, to Mr. Thomas Francis Moe, son of Sharon Marie Moe, of Seattle, Washington.

Miss Gibson is a 1980 graduate of Allen Central High School. Mr. Moe, a 1979 graduate of Shorecrest Senior High, is a field engineer employed by Great West Business Systems.

The wedding is planned for Sunday, April 29, at 3 p.m. at Jenny Wiley State Park, Prestonsburg, Ky.

They will reside in Seattle, Washington.

MAYTOWN NEWS

(Last Week's Correspondence)

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Goins recently attended the funeral of his uncle in Corbin.

Mr. and Mrs. George Patton spent last weekend visiting Mr. and Mrs. George V. Spencer at South Point, Ohio. Mr. Spencer is in ill health.

Our sympathy to Mrs. Dixie Campbell, of Auxier, whose husband, Jim Campbell, passed away last Sunday. The funeral was conducted at the Bethel Regular Baptist Church last Tuesday.

Mrs. Anzie Martin has been a patient at Highlands Medical Center.

Relatives, here, of Mrs. Fannie Hyden, of Nashville, Tenn., formerly of Maytown, have received word that she underwent major surgery at a Nashville hospital and is recovering nicely.

Sympathy to the family of Claude Layne who passed away suddenly Tuesday night at his home.

Wesley Halbert underwent surgery at Highlands Medical Center last week. Jim Wells, of Cumberland, formerly of Maytown, passed away last week.

Mud Creek Clinic Founder To Receive Berea Honors

Eula Hall, founder of the Mud Creek Clinic, is among those to be presented with Berea College Service Awards tomorrow (Thursday).

Mrs. Hall, who has lived most of her life in Floyd county, began working to improve life in the Mud Creek section of the county in the mid-1960's as a VISTA worker and with the Appalachian Volunteers. After a 1972 University of Kentucky summer health program medical team brought to light the serious health problems existing in the county, Mrs. Hall began a fund-raising drive which led to the establishing of the Mud Creek Clinic. The clinic burned in 1982, but has obtained a $320,000 grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission and raised matching funds to build a new facility.

Mrs. Hall received a U.S. Public Health Citation in 1974 in recognition of her work, and in 1982 received one of the first Wonder Woman Awards given to honor women over 40 who have exhibited the traits of compassion, honesty, courage, strength and wisdom.

The Berea awards, given to individuals who in their daily lives and service to mankind have exemplified the Berea commitments, will be presented during a 3 p.m. convocation program in Phelps Stokes Chapel on the Berea campus. Others receiving the awards are Galen Martin, executive director of the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights, and 4-H workers Rush and Ruby Butcher, of Braxton County, W. Va.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Minnie Hall wishes to thank all who were so kind and considerate during our time of grief. We want to thank those who sent food, flowers, prayers and words of comfort during this time of sorrow. We especially want to thank the nursing staff and doctors of the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital and the Hall Funeral Home for being so kind and efficient.

THE HALL FAMILY 1t.

PCC Classes To Begin

Cash Flow Analysis taught by Paul Campbell will be featured at the Business Seminar, Thursday, March 15, at 7 p.m. in the Pike Technology Bldg., Room 216. Learn to analyze your own situation, conserve your cash flow and use other people's money. Cash flow as a part of tax planning will also be covered. Paul Campbell is a CPA with his own firm in Huntington, and is a Boyd county native and a UK graduate. His business works primarily with small businesses and frequently acts as an unofficial controller.

FOODS & BEVERAGES

Foods & Beverages International will be held Tuesday, March 20, in Pike 216 at 7 p.m. and will feature Southwestern (Mexican) cuisine and beverages. This class, taught by Becky Short and Ron Hayden, will feature burritos, enchillada, and tacos. Ron Hayden will discuss the various vintages and lagers appropriate for these foods.

RACQUETBALL & JOGGING

Racquetball and jogging begin at PCC, March 20 and March 22. Jogging is taught by Ron Carter, Tuesday from 5:30-6:30 p.m. in Martin Student Center, Room 110. This is a beginning class for "out of shape" individuals who have never jogged and would like to begin. It includes various stretching exercises, and selection of proper footwear in addition to actual jogging.

Racquetball begins Thursday, at 5:30 p.m. at Archer Park. This class is taught by Greg Slone and is a beginner class. Students will learn game play, scoring, regulations and racquet positions.

CAKE DECORATING

Cake decorating taught by Shelba Phillips begins at PCC on Thursday, March 15, in Pike 216. Learn to make borders, rose designs, and holiday and birthday cakes. Class is limited so register early.

DRESSMAKING

Dressmaking begins Wednesday, March 14, in the Magoffin Complex-Building C. This class is taught by Helen Burchett. Fitting techniques will be included in this limited enrollment class.

Call Continuing Education at PCC to register - 886-3863, Ext. 215.

Infant Car Seat Program To Begin

The Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association, in cooperation with Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin and Highlands Regional Medical Center in Prestonsburg, is in the process of organizing an infant car seat rental program for our area.

Kentucky has passed a law stating that all children under 40 inches tall must be restrained by seat belts or infant car seats while in a car. For this reason, a car seat program is vital. It would allow families to have their children ride safely, and within the law without the expense of purchasing car seats.

The hospitals have agreed to oversee the program by handling rentals, instructions, and returns if the Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association, local businesses and local community organizations purchase and maintain the seats. In order to do this we need your help!

Anyone who would like to volunteer their time in helping get this program started, or who has a car seat to donate, may do so and receive tax credit for the value of the car seat. The seats must meet all Federal Safety Standards (FAA approved). For more information, contact Ann Slone or Vikki McGuire at 886-3863, Ext. 213.

Job Corps Trains In Forest Fire Work

Forty members of the Prestonsburg Job Corps Center were given forest fire suppression and safety training, recently. Volunteers from the center are given this training before each spring and fall forest fire hazard season. This year's session was conducted by Kentucky Division of Forestry personnel, Bill Phillips, Steve Brackett, Joe Ferguson and Rick Conn.

Under an agreement between the Job Corps and the Division of Forestry, students from the Center have assisted with forest fire control the past two years. Due to an unusually large number of fires the week of February 19, the Job Corps was called upon to assist with the control of four forest fires in Floyd and Magoffin counties. Their assistance was greatly appreciated by officials of the Division of Forestry in its efforts to bring these and other fires under control.

Little Miss Appalachia

Lealice Lynn Wright, nine year old daughter of Randall and Linda Wright, of Auxier, won the title of Little Miss Appalachia of 1984, Saturday, March 3, at the Highland House. She also won the title of Little Miss Appalachia Photogenic of 1984.

Sunday, March 4, Lealice won the title of Little Miss Shamrock Churchwear of 1984, and Little Miss Shamrock Photogenic of 1984 at Allen Central High School. She is the granddaughter of Russell and Alice Shelton, of McDowell, and Raymond Wright and the late Hattie Howell Wright, of McDowell. She is the great-granddaughter of Eddie Shelton, of Drift.

UK Tuition Increases To $562 Per Semester

Undergraduate students at the University of Kentucky will pay tuition and fees of $562 a semester beginning this fall.

The executive committee of the UK Board of Trustees today (March 6) confirmed the raise in tuition rates set by the state Council on Higher Education. The student activity fee will remain at this year's rate—$13.25—which is included in the per-semester tuition of $562.

One dollar of the student activity fee is dedicated for Student Government Association use in expanding the association's services to the campus.

Tuition and fees for undergraduate students at UK for the current school year are $509 per semester.

By state law, the Council on Higher Education sets tuition fees for the state universities. The new tuition rates were designed to bring UK's fees closer to its benchmark institutions—those schools outside the state similar to UK in size and scope.

Tuition and fees for undergraduate students from outside the state were raised from $1,443 per semester this year to $1,601 per semester effective next fall.

Semester fees for graduate students will be $614 compared to $556 for the current school year. Non-resident graduate students will pay $1,757. Non-residents this year paid $1,583.

Increased tuition rates were also confirmed for law, medical, and dental students and non-resident pharmacy students.

Students at the Lexington Technical Institute, one of UK's 13 community colleges, will pay the same per-semester fees as students on the Lexington campus.

Tuition and fees charged students at UK's other community colleges will be $234—up from the current rate of $207. Non-resident students at the community colleges will pay $701 per semester—up from the current year's $621.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

Glaucoma is the second leading cause of blindness among adults in the United States. One out of every seven blind persons is a victim of glaucoma. Chronic glaucoma usually has no symptoms and occurs generally in persons over the age 40. Since there are no symptoms, it is important that persons in the high risk age group be screened regularly for the disease.

The Floyd County Health Department is having glaucoma screening clinics on Friday March 16 and Monday March 19. These clinics are free services of the health department and are open to people of all ages, but those persons age 40 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this free service.

There will be a pap clinic at the health department today Wednesday March 14 from 8:30 until 11:30 and from 1:00 until 2:00. This clinic is a free service of the health department and is open to women of all ages, but those women age 45 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this free service since this is the high risk age for cervical cancer.

MSU SPRING BREAK BEGINS THIS WEEK

ORDINANCE NO. 3-84

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG PERTAINING TO FIRE SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

WHEREAS: The City Council of the City of Prestonsburg has realized that there is a great need for fire protection in the area surrounding Prestonsburg; and,

WHEREAS: The City of Prestonsburg is well-equipped and able to provide for local fire protection; and,

WHEREAS: The City is desirous of aiding and assisting the non-city residents in their great need;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1: The City of Prestonsburg hereby establishes a Fire Subscription Rate for residents of Floyd County within five (5) road miles from Prestonsburg Fire Station No. 1.

Section 2: The City of Prestonsburg agrees to respond to fire calls in the county within five (5) road miles of station No. 1 with the 260 gallon capacity mini-pumper and/or one of the City's 500 gallon front line trucks. The City will respond to calls only when the safety and well-being of the residents of the City of Prestonsburg will not be jeopardized. The City will respond up to a maximum of six (6) firefighters to residential fires and up to a maximum of ten (10) firefighters for a business fire.

Section 3: The subscription rates are hereby established as follows:

1. Residential Fires $12.00 Bi-Annually
2. Business Fires *
a. 1200 square feet or less	$45.00 - bi-annually
b. 1200-2000 square feet	60.00 - bi-annually
c. 2000-4000 square feet	75.00 - bi-annually
d. 4000-8000 square feet	90.00 - bi-annually
e. 8000-12000 square feet	105.00 - bi-annually
f. 12000-16000 square feet	120.00 - bi-annually
g. 16000-20000 square feet	135.00 - bi-annually
h. 20000-25000 square feet	150.00 - bi-annually
i. 25000-40000 square feet	180.00 - bi-annually
j. 40000 or above	375.00 - bi-annually

All businesses that store volatile materials on their grounds will be charged Rate I under the Business Fire Rate.

All subscription fees will be paid bi-annually and all fees will be paid in advance. If the fees are not paid in advance, the City will not respond to a fire. The names of all subscribers will be posted in the fire station.

Section 4: The City of Prestonsburg Fire Department will respond only to residential and business fires and will not respond to vehicle fires except in matters where life is involved.

Section 5: Subscription fees will be payable six (6) months in advance to the City Clerk of the City of Prestonsburg. Fees will be due by the 15th of the month preceding the six month time frame.

*Square footage of business will be the total square footage of the total building including all floors or appendages.

Section 6: The City of Prestonsburg reserves the right to refuse potential subscribers for good cause if it would be unreasonable to service the residence or business or if it would jeopardize the safety of the residents of Prestonsburg.

Section 7: The funds realized from this subscription fee service will be used to pay for the fire related services of a fire call. All surplus funds will be placed in an Escrow Account for the future purchase of a fire truck and fire fighting equipment to provide for additional coverage for city residents and county subscribers.

Section 8: All potential subscribers shall be required to have their property inspected for approval by the City's Fire Inspector. The fire chief shall make a recommendation to the City Administrator as to the desirability of offering the subscription to a potential subscriber. It shall be the duty of the City Administrator to approve or disapprove the potential subscriber based on recommendation.

Section 9: The City of Prestonsburg does not assume any responsibility for any damage that might be done in responding to a fire on the subscribers property.

Section 10: All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby expressly repealed to the extent of such conflict.

Section 11: This ordinance will be in effect and carry the full force of law upon adoption and publication.

As I grew up I was often told to behave like a lady and mind my P's and Q's. Well, I know what the P's were. They were those little round green veggies I liked but my sister hated. But to this day I can't figure out what the Q's are. If anyone knows, please educate me.

Well, anyway, back to the peas. A whole article about peas? You bet! This quiet, unimposing vegetable has undergone some amazing changes during the past few years due to the efforts of plant breeders nationwide. Pea plants are getting shorter, losing their leaves, and we now eat pods and seeds as one.

First, pea plants have shrunk in size. Where we used to grow them near chain link fences to support four to six foot vines or were forced to construct supports of chicken wire or brush for seeking tendrils to grab, we now have peas with vines a modest eight inches tall (yes, less than one foot). We've gotten used to patio tomatoes and bush cucumbers in flower pots or boxes, but now we can also do it with peas. Succession planting in a flower pot—now that's efficiency. Try Gurney Seed and Nursery Company's dwarf variety "Patio."

Now, what about peas losing their leaves? Has fall come early to the garden or are peas going bald? No, instead of leaf tissue developing into expanded leaves it is developing into more tendrils which are actually modified leaves. You might call them "super-tendrils" peas. I grew them last year and was amazed to see a mass of tendrils weave together as each plant supported its neighbor. They grow about 18 inches high.

This reduced leaf condition enables maximum sun and air movement to reduce pest problems. It also allows more plant energy to go into production at early-maturing, flavorful peas that are easy to see at harvest time. Look for "Novella" from several seed companies and "Lacy Lady" from Musser Seed Company.

Now to eating rounded pea pods and pea seeds unseparated. Where there once were two basic types of peas, the English peas (we just eat the seed) and the edible-pod, Chinese snow or sugar pea (we eat mainly a flat pod with very underdeveloped seeds)—we now have third type of pea—the snap peas (we eat well developed sweet round pods and fully developed seeds as one).

The snap peas appeared for the home gardener in 1979 with the introduction of a rare gold medal All American Selections award winner—"Sugar Snap". Sugar Snap produces delicious pick-from-the-vine/pop-in-the-mouth pods and seeds, with one big problem—tall vines needing support. Additional breeding now gives us shorter, earlier and heavier yielding plants. In addition to Sugar Snap, look for Sugar Ann, Sugar Bon, Sugar Mel, Super Sugar Mel and several others.

Whatever peas you decide to grow—the 1982 Gardens for All survey showed that 40 percent of all home vegetable gardens include peas—remember that they are legumes. Legumes are low-nitrogen requiring plants that, via a cooperative or symbiotic solid bacteria, convert atmospheric nitrogen into plant-usable nitrogen. To insure adequate nitrogen-fixing bacteria in your soil, coat your pea (and bean) seeds with a commercially available inoculum just prior to planting.

One final pea tidbit—if you only find one pea, or as many as nine, in a pod, good luck should befall you.

Timely Tip: Want some free flowers to perk up a dreary January? Cut branches of spring flowering trees and shrubs—pussy-willow, forsythia, quince, crabapple, magnolia, red bud, wisteria—bring indoors, place stems in warm water and force yourself a bouquet.

The Daughters of the American Revolution urge you to study and enjoy reading about our American History. Benjamin Franklin was constantly in the forefront of the American Revolution. He was not a young man, but without his help, we never could have succeeded in all our goals for independence.

John C. Hall
Founder
Hall Funeral Home

Why Have I Been Getting So Much Unordered, Unwanted Mail?

After a funeral it is not uncommon for unscrupulous persons to attempt fleeing you and thus adding money to their own pockets. These dishonest, cold-hearted individuals may send unauthorized, unwanted collect packages or fraudulent bills through the mail.

The people attempting these hoaxes will try to indicate that these items had been ordered before the death occurred.

Remember: collect packages do not have to be accepted; payment need not be made for items sent or billed without authorization. Statements and invoices should be checked carefully to be sure they are authentic.

If any questions arise, contact your attorney, the Better Business Bureau or the post office.

We just might be helpful in alerting you to other schemes we've heard of and which may be tried. Feel free to stop by or call us.

State Republicans Slate Conventions

Republicans throughout the state will be meeting at the county seats of all counties March 17 for the purpose of electing delegates and alternates to the district and state Republican conventions.

"I encourage all Republicans throughout the Commonwealth to participate in their county mass conventions on March 17," said Liz Thomas, chairman of the Republican Party of Kentucky.

Following the county conventions March 17, seven district conventions will be held between May 5 and May 11, with the state convention slated for Saturday, May 12 at the Heritage Hall in the Lexington Center.

At each district convention, three delegates and three alternate delegates will be chosen for the Republican National Convention in Dallas, Texas, beginning August 20.

At the state convention, 16 at-large delegates and alternate delegates will also be chosen for the National Convention, rounding out the Kentucky delegation for Dallas in August.

Since the beginning of this century, the U.S. population has increased about 200 percent, while per capita water use has increased 500 to 800 percent.

The "most-affordable" Peugeots

To Peugeot, "affordable" doesn't mean "stripped."

So even the least-expensive Peugeots are well-equipped Peugeots.

Power steering and power brakes are standard equipment. And reclining bucket seats. And a tachometer. And Michelin steel-belted radial tires. Even little touches like remote-controlled outside mirrors that de-ice themselves.

The Peugeot GL sedan.

And the Peugeot GL station wagon—

a wagon so roomy that, with its rear seat up, it has more cargo space than any other wagon available in America.*

Perhaps the most comfortable "affordable" automobiles in the world today.

Views of a Preacher's Kid

Dressed in a chambray shirt and high-back overalls, the little boy attempted to keep up with his father as they walked over the high mountain. They traveled by way of Flatwoods, a winding path to Allegheny Church. The walk over the mountain wasn't nearly as tiring as the long walk back home after the long church service. Sometimes the older man carried his son part way back, just as his dad had made life easier for him in every way that he could, many years before in the very same mountains.

When they arrived at the meeting house, the people from up creek and down creek were filling their seats on the old weather-beaten benches. How good it seemed to the little boy to sit on the sturdy, hard seats and visit with cousins and neighbors' children that he hadn't seem for a long time. The children dangled their tired feet and legs as the members began singing the old mountain ballads. Many owned their own little Baptist song books with printed verses but no music brought from the Old Country by ancestors.

Often one male voice would boom out to be heard over the others to "line" a song. The first line of the song was read, loud and clear; "While all the world goes free?" Voices again sang the third line. "And there's a cross for me. "On and on it went.

Some educators proclaim that "lining" a song is a dying art. But not to worry for as long as there is one Appalachian church of the Old Regular Baptist or United Baptist faith, it will continue.

Allegheny was not the only church the preacher man and the little boy regularly attended; sometimes they walked in other directions, to Caney, Dorton, Shelby Gap, Pilgrim's Rest or Little Nancy Church. Often they ate a dinner meal with friends or relatives along the way back home. This all happened yesterday, and yesterday is gone.

The chambray shirt in the early days cost 59 cents, while the last one I bought was $18.95! The laced back blue jeans of yesterday had a cross section laced with a white shoe string for a good fit. The legs were cut straight, so the fashion was to cut a 12-inch slit at the outside seam of each pants leg, then have mama splice in a bright red or orange triangle of cloth to make flashy, bell-bottom trousers. It was along about then that manufacturers learned just what a country boy really wanted in clothes. Essentials for them soon became the dress code for their city cousins and their guitar pickers everywhere.

Gradually the old Baptist churches went from log house to weather boarded houses, then to block or brick houses. Their buildings and modes of transportation changed, but their doctrine remained the same.

No matter how many hurt feelings or Association controversies, the oldtimers remain adamant.

Homecooked country meals are synonymous with the Baptists. For all the good meals and my strict Baptist upbringing, I'm glad I was raised by caring parents DOWN HOME!

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Estill Prater would like to thank everyone for their help in the loss of our loved one. Thanks to those who sent food, flowers and or just spoke words of comfort. We deeply appreciate you all. A special thanks to the ministers and to the Hall Funeral Home for being so kind.

Observe 35th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Walker Hall, of Beaver, observed their 35th wedding anniversary, January 22. They were given a surprise party by their children at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Hamilton and received many nice gifts from their family and friends. Approximately 70 guests attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall, who were married January 22, 1949, have five children and eight grandchildren. They expressed their appreciation to all who attended and those who sent cards and gifts.

Annual Art Exhibit Scheduled at MSU

The Kentucky Watercolor Society's annual watercolor competition and exhibit, "Totally Transparent IV," is possibly the most important art exhibit this year at the Morehead State University Claypool-Young Art Gallery, according to Gallery Director Dr. Bill Booth.

"This is the first time the society has chosen a public university to host the exhibit," said Dr. Booth, also the show's juror. "Until now, the event has always taken place in public museums."

"The show has been more than a year in planning and will be one of the most impressive shows in the gallery this year," he said. "It is a great honor for us to be asked to sponsor the show."

The competition will attract about 150 paintings from native Kentucky professional and amateur artists. They will compete for 75 juried spots in the exhibit.

Awards will be given for the first, second, third, merit and best of show prizes.

Merit and purchase awards total $2,000. First place award is $200; second, $125; third, $100; and fourth, $75. Dr. Booth has been authorized by MSU to make purchase awards of up to $1,500 for the university's permanent collection. Many of the watercolors will also be for sale to visitors.

The exhibition is open to the public from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., weekdays through April 20. The awards ceremony will be Sunday, March 25, at 3 p.m., with a reception set for 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. the same day.

TAX REFUNDS HELP WILDLIFE

If you're like most folks who are entitled to a tax refund, you hurry up and get your returns filed as soon as possible, then just sit back and wait for the check to arrive.

But in your haste to get that refund, don't overlook line 21a of your Kentucky tax form. This is the line that asks if you want to donate a portion of your refund to wildlife.

This program is now in its fourth year and some patterns are beginning to emerge. The total contributions, which are divided equally between the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and the Nature Preserves Commission, have averaged around $80,000 annually, with just over one percent of those eligible to contribute actually doing so.

Of the 12 states which have had similar programs long enough to make a comparison, Kentucky ranks dead last in the percentage of contributors. However, our average contribution, at $7.20 in 1982, was second from the top.

So it looks like those who do care about non-game wildlife care enough to give generously, while the remaining Kentuckians either don't know about the program or don't care.

But it looks like everyone should care enough about the fellow creatures who share Kentucky with us humans to give at least $1.00. Since there are between 800,000 and 900,000 citizens who get a tax refund each year, these single dollars would soon add up to a quite sizeable sum.

The money from these tax refund contributions is used to conduct scientific research or management programs which benefit non-game wildlife and to acquire critical pieces of wildlife habitat.

These funds are financing an osprey restoration project. Ospreys, large birds of prey which feed exclusively on fish, were wiped out in Kentucky by pesticide poisoning—the last reported nesting was in 1949 at Kentucky Lake.

To restore breeding populations of these birds, it is necessary to take young birds from the wild, put them in artificial nest boxes and feed them fish for several weeks until they are able to fly and feed themselves. The birds then migrate to South America, but around three years later, when they make the journey back north to breed, they remember where they were raised and return to the same spot to produce their own families.

Six birds were transported from Florida to Kentucky in 1982, and an additional 14 were stocked last year. After a few more years, we should be seeing results from this first use of tax refund contributions to restore a once-native species to Kentucky.

Tax contributions are also being used to finance the implementation of the Fish and Wildlife Information System (FWIS) in Kentucky. FWIS is a computer based service which will collect, organize and disseminate information on around 1,000 different species of wildlife including the rare, threatened or endangered species in the state.

Once the system is in place, biologists will have instant access to facts which it now sometimes takes months to find. This readily available information will aid greatly in assessing the environmental impact of alterations of the landscape, either by governmental or private concerns, and could allow biologists to recommend steps to save a species which otherwise might disappear because of habitat destruction.

These are just a couple of facets of Kentucky's non-game program. Its continued existence and expansion depends upon you. So if you are getting a refund this year, please don't overlook wildlife. You won't miss the dollar or two that you give, but that small amount, if everybody gives, will add up to a whole lot of help for wildlife.

NOTICE

It has come to the attention of the Prestonsburg City's Utilities Commission that persons are using fire hydrants that have been set out in the county for their own personal use, such as watering their cows, filling swimming pools, filling their wells, washing down their business places, parking space and sprinkling water in front of business places and homes to keep down dust. In the future we ask all people to report anyone using fire hydrants for any unauthorized use other than fighting a fire. An estimate of over 300,000 gallons of water was used to fight the fire at the Allen Lumber Company on Saturday February 25, and the water and fire hydrant used belonged to the Prestonsburg City's Utilities and without this water and hydrant many more business places and homes could have been lost. The Prestonsburg City's Utilities has to maintain these hydrants from now on at no expense to the property owners. Also, the water used to fight fires is not charged for as this is a free service to the Community. In the future if this practice of unauthorized use is not stopped we will remove the fire hydrants. The Prestonsburg City's Utilities Commission is not required to furnish any fire protection or fire hydrants out of the City limits of Prestonsburg. Thank you.

"Profits In Risk"

A Saga in Synfuels

From its beginning in the Energy Crisis of the 1970's to the current plan to strip mine 4,000 acres in Montgomery, Bath and Menifee counties, oil shale development in Kentucky has ridden a roller coaster of speculative fever and public outcry. Appalshop's new documentary, Profits In Risk, to be telecast on the Kentucky Educational Television network, tonight, February 15 at 9 p.m., portrays the struggle between the developers and conservationists in a battle whether to mine or preserve the Knob lands of Kentucky. Written and directed by Joe Gray, Jr., and narrated by Bob Edwards, the voice of National Public Radio's "Morning Edition," Profits In Risk responds to both entrepreneurs and environmentalists by introducing new data into the debate.

HEALTH HAZARDS DOCUMENTED

"Fugitive leaks of phenols, amines, ammonium polysulfides and other cancer-causing compounds will exit the plant site attached to the water droplets in the millions of gallons of steam leaving the plant daily," says Edwards, describing one path pollutants take in escaping from an oil shale retort. Citing a U.S. Energy Department commissioned analysis of the risks of oil shale development, Edward tells us that 73 premature deaths a year may result among the sparsely populated western shale region if a full-fledged oil shale industry were to develop there. The higher concentration of sulphur in eastern shale (4 percent by weight compared to 1/2 of 1 percent in western shales) means the water that percolates through waste piles will be acidic, carrying with it even more dangerous trace elements.

"The impact we have observed most frequently from metals that come from oil shale are high levels of embryonic mortality," explains Dr. Wesley Birge, a biologist at the University of Kentucky, describing the effects of experiments with trout larvae. "For a significant fraction of the organisms that survive, they end up being teratogenic, in other words they bear rather gross deformities."

COSTS MULTIPLY

"The hidden costs of oil shale development multiply," reports Edwards. The first documented occupational disease in history was traced to the shale oil lubricating the looms of the early English cotton industry. The British Health Service still issues printed warnings to oil workers describing the symptoms of the disease, skin lesions on the limbs and groin. In the Soviet Union where a much richer shale is mined to produce electricity, an increase of one and half to two and half times the normal rate of stomach and lung cancer has been noted among workers. A risk analysis of the development of oil shale in this country warns that the silican dust inhaled during mining and crushing operations "acting in synergistic fashion with other elements in oil shale may cause respiratory ailments distinct to the oil shale industry, creating a 'mahogany lung' problem similar to that of black lung in the coal mining industry."

INDUSTRY REPORTS FABRICATED

"Even the developers' own reports confirm that environmentalists' concerns," says Edwards, pointing to the $350,000 feasibility study done for the Buffalo Trace Area Development District by the Cleveland engineering firm of Davy McKee. By using the best available pollution control technology, admitted Davy McKee's computers, it was not possible for their plant to meet Kentucky's process gas emission standards for air quality.

Environmental consultant Kevin Markey questions the economic feasibility projected in the report. He says the findings are based on a nonexistent technology. Charging a conflict of interest in the preparation of the study (Davy McKee is the construction engineer for one of the firms whose process they were evaluating), Markey concludes, "They were trying to sell a bill of goods to the people of Kentucky to make them believe that oil shale is just around the corner."

STATE BYPASSES REGULATIONS

"When the Department (Cabinet of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection) first came out with their regulations they were quite strong," says Tim Murphy of the Kentucky Rivers Coalition. "But then it went through a hearing process (which) was used as a public relations stunt by some in the industry in questioning 'the over-reachiness' of these regulations."

Eugene Mooney an attorney for American Syncrude Corporation which tried, without success, to parlay 100,000 acres of oil shale leases into a $230 million federal subsidy to construct a retort in Fleming County says the original permit term was inadequate. "You would have two years to pay back several millions of dollars." Asked what would prevent routine renewal of the permit Mooney, a former secretary of the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, says merely, "one doesn't know."

"If he is going to have trouble with these permit terms," replies Mark Morgan an attorney from the shale belt in Casey County, "he's telling me he's going to have trouble complying with the regulations. They come in, tear up the land, tear up the groundwater, tear up the spring, tear up the pasture, and then they are gone and the people are left to clean up the mess. They scream they are bankrupt, reincorporate and they're gone," predicts Morgan, "because it is an experimental industry with no money to start with."

The future is left for the audience to decide. Profits In Risk concludes with Morgan, Murphy and the citizens of Hope, Kentucky nabbing Southern Pacific Petroleum and Kentucky government violating their own permit procedures for mining oil shale.

"I'd say the royalties on this could be little or nothing," Morgan says. "If you start talking about ad valorem taxes, some people's property taxes are going to be higher than they get in advanced royalties and you are going to end up paying them to do this to you and your land. If you are not careful."

Prematurely born babies spend their early days in the intensive-care nursery at most hospitals. At St. Joseph's Hospital in Marshfield, Wis., they are treated to the soothing sounds of Bach and Brahms and recordings of ordinary sounds that full-term babies would hear within a few days of birth. According to the March Reader's Digest, research has shown that preemies gain weight faster when exposed to friendly voices and quiet music.
