

WHILE COAL has always held the fortunes of the Eastern Kentucky economy in its fickle grasp, there have been moments of hope in the long term promise of the establishment of alternative manufacturing plants in the area. The Kentucky Appalachian Industries (K.A.I.) building at West Prestonsburg, however, stands as a sad monument to one particularly disappointing failure in that direction. The structure, built through the efforts of a group of Prestonsburg business people, housed a manufacturing operation for a time which produced sewn goods for the U.S. military. Empty now, however, for more than a decade, its thousands of square feet of space are occupied only by broken glass, fallen ceiling sections, and a few resident rats.

Dana Man Slain, Accused Spouse Freed on Bond

A Dana woman was charged with murder Monday following the shooting of her husband at the couple's residence Saturday evening.

Geraldine Jarrell, 43, posted $10,000 bond in Floyd District Court to guarantee her appearance at a May 1 arraignment on a charge of shooting Jackie Lee Jarrell, 48. Jarrell died in their home at the mouth of Akers Branch of Prater Creek around 8 p.m. Shortly after, William Conn, the accused woman's brother, notified police of the shooting.

State Police Det. J.A. Rederick said Jarrell was struck by four shots—three in the upper torso and one in the leg—from a .22-caliber semi-automatic pistol. The shooting apparently stemmed from a family dispute, he said. The couple, who have two grown children, lived alone in the house. One report said Mrs. Jarrell had a history of mental illness.

Born Feb. 19, 1936, a son of Mrs. Ella Conn Jarrell, of Mt. Clemons, Mich., and the late Kellie Jarrell, the victim was an engineering technician for the Columbia Gas Company. He was secretary of the John W. Hall Masonic Lodge at Martin, of which he had previously served as master.

Federal Grant Helps with Job Seen Next Year

Wheelwright can look to a major overhaul of its leaky water system next year, as the result of a federal funding commitment sealed last week.

Mayor Elmer Ferguson and representatives of the Farmers Home Administration met Thursday to sign a $190,000 loan agreement, as part of a package which also includes a $495,000 grant. The money will enable a complete reconstruction of the town's water system, which was built about 50 years ago by Inland Steel, operator of the Wheelwright coal mines at that time.

Plans call for the drilling of two wells deep into an abandoned mine; erection of two 50,000-gallon storage tanks and repair of an existing 100,000-gallon tank; replacement of the existing distribution lines and the installation of meters.

Although the new system will be more streamlined than the company-built system, it will still owe much to the foresight of Inland Steel engineers.

As the coal firm mined the Wheelwright hills in the 1930's and 1940's, the mined-out sections were turned into a series of dams to impound the crystal-clear water draining into the mines. Pumps lifted the water from one impoundment to another and finally to a water treatment plant on the surface.

The new system will bypass much of the existing system by drilling directly down to one of the original impoundments—a cave 150 feet long, 50

Applicants' Attorney Blasts Rum Decision

A decision handed down last week by the Kentucky Court of Appeals caught his clients in a classic "catch 22" dilemma, according to an attorney for 30 unsuccessful applicants for liquor licenses issued here in 1982.

The court upheld a Franklin Circuit Court ruling that the group lacked legal grounds to contest the license awards of the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

Citing the appeals court finding that "there is no evidence...of any misconduct" by Distilled Spirits Administrator Michael Davidson or the ABC board and that the disgruntled applicants consequently had no right to a due-process hearing before the administrator or board, Gary Johnson sharply criticized the argument as trapping his clients in a no-win situation.

"It is the height of sophistry for one court to say we had no right to come to court and present our case and then for a higher court to say we had presented no evidence of misconduct," Johnson said.

The appeals court ruling "ignores the findings of the special grand jury," said the attorney, in reference to a special Floyd Circuit Court grand jury which announced last May 5 that it had found "ample evidence that liquor licenses were issued as a result of political influence at both local and state levels."

"It's got to be fundamentally unfair to say that we have no right to come to court and prove these allegations," Johnson said. He will seek a review of the appeals court decision by the Kentucky Supreme Court, the attorney said.

After the county voted wet in June, 1982, liquor licenses were issued to 21 of the 137 who had applied for them.

Several licenses went to relatives of county officials, prompting charges of political favoritism and a request by unsuccessful applicants for a hearing before the ABC board.

When the board denied them a hearing, 30 of those who didn't get licenses and another 11 "concerned citizens" filed suit against the board, Davidson and the successful applicants.

The suit alleged that licenses were awarded arbitrarily and sought to have them voided. It also sought licenses for all the other applicants and a court order requiring the ABC board to set guidelines for issuing liquor licenses in future.

The three-member appeals panel said a letter sent to all applicants by ABC Commissioner Edward A. Farris adequately set out the criteria according to which licenses would be awarded.

Citizens who joined them in the suit were Vickie Sheffield, Franklin D. Boyd, C.C. Hall, James B. Burchett, Freddie Powers, Jr., Amanda N. Hall, John Philip Sammons, Lon Gibson, Roy L. Compton, Steve Bishop and Ashland Joseph.

QUESTION OF THE MONTH: How much was your last gasp bill?

THE RESPONSE

Last week, this column recorded highlights of Lenna Moore's complaint that he had been damaged by the rather unprepossessing image that appears on his driver's license. This week, Circuit Court Clerk Frank DeRossett comes to the defense. He writes:

"On behalf of the great State of Kentucky, the Circuit Court Clerk's Office, and the people who work so hard issuing driver's licenses, I feel I must object to Mr. Lenna Moore's remarks concerning his personal appearance on his driver's license. Mr. Moore is just going to have to be content with the old adage that beauty is in the eye of the beholder and hope that everyone who looks upon his face will be impressed.

"However, I too must adhere to an old adage, which I tried to convey to Lenna the day he renewed his license, that adage being the camera does not lie. (Sorry, Lenna.)"

TRA-LA!

And now—at last!—Spring.

Not every sign is one of regret. The one you just heard was a sign of relief.

One whose acquaintance with spring is so long that it has gone out of his step should be excused now for, as they say these days, fantasizing about the burgeoning situation. Now that the voice of the peepers is heard in the land, you don't have to close your eyes to dream up lambs gamboling, stiff-legged, over verdant hillsides, or Easter bunnies behind every bush, or a new flower bursting onto the scene every minute.

Yet the stern facts of life remain with us. So it must be remembered that bet-

Lyn Branham

It was rhythm that pulled Lyn Branham, 14, ahead of the pack in this year's county spelling bee. For "rhythm" was the word the Harold Elementary eighth grader spelled correctly to beat Betsy Layne eighth-grader Tammy Johnson, 13, in the district competition sponsored by the Huntington Herald-Dispatch and held Feb. 16 at Allen grade school.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Branham, of Betsy Layne, Lyn will represent Floyd county in the Tri-State Spelling Bee in Huntington, March 31. The winner of that event will participate in a national bee in Washington, D.C., May 28-June 2.

The runner-up is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Johnson, of Betsy Layne. Other participants, their ages and schools, were: Stevie Newsome, 10, Stumbo Elementary; Dawn Rowe, 13, Martin; Charles Akers, 14, Prater; Martha Paige, 13, Wayland; Ronnie Baldrige, 13, Clark; Tonya Goble, 9, Garrett; Bonnie Slusher, 14, Drift; LaDonna Frasure, 12, Bonanza; Kenneth Blackburn, 13, Home Branch; Mark Hall, 12, Allen; Darnella Bradley, 11, Maytown; Tonya Shepherd, 10, Garrett; Melissa May, 13, Prestonsburg; and Sherry Lewis, 14, Daniels Creek.

Director of the bee was Anna Sue Stumbo, Floyd schools supervisor. Philip Dingus was pronouncer and Betty Flannery, Edith Hopkins, and Debra Rollins were judges.

Slain Youth Not Party To Dispute

None of the guns recovered from the house of Alice Wright, of Drift, was used in the shooting of Robert Gene Shepherd, a state police detective confirmed this week.

Nor had the dead youth argued with the man accused of killing him.

While a rifle similar to the .303 believed to have been used in the shooting was recovered from Alice Wright's home, it was not a .303 and was not the murder weapon, which has not been recovered, said Det. Keith Scott.

Drift grocer Harlos "Baldy" Hall, 41, has been charged with murder in connection with the shooting on Old Drift Hollow.

The shooting allegedly stemmed from an argument between Hall and Jack Shepherd—Robert Shepherd's uncle—about a bill the uncle owed. The Times erroneously reported last week that the younger man was involved in the dispute.

Meeting at Martin To Mark First Step on Way to Convention

A week from Saturday, any registered Floyd Democrat who wants a say in picking or being a delegate to the party's national convention in July should turn out at the Martin grade school auditorium, county Democratic Chairman Morris Isaac announced this week.

That is when the Floyd Democratic caucus will be held, the first round in a selection process which will eventually decide on 63 delegates—half of them men, half women—to represent Kentucky at the 1984 Democratic national convention to be held in San Francisco, July 16-19.

Next week's caucus here is not to be confused with another party event scheduled for April, in which the county's Democratic executive committee is chosen—and in which Isaac's position as county chairman is expected to be warmly contested.

The Floyd caucus, which will be duplicated in all the state's 120 counties next week, replaces the presidential primary which was abolished in Kentucky two years ago. Voting in the caucuses will determine how many delegates to the national convention are pledged to each Democratic candidate for president and how many are uncommitted.

Gov. Martha Layne Collins, who will chair the national convention, has indicated she would like as many of the Kentucky delegates as possible to be uncommitted.

When Floyd Democrats gather at the Martin grade school gym at 2 p.m. March 31, they will be asked to move to one of four designated areas, depending on whether they have a preference for one of the three Democratic presidential candidates who have filed in Kentucky—former Vice-President Walter Mondale, Colorado Senator Gary Hart, or Rev. Jesse Jackson—or remain uncommitted.

Thirty-four delegates, divided according to the preferences indicated, will be elected to represent the county two weeks later at the Seventh Congressional District convention, which will be held at Prestonsburg High School.

The state's seven congressional district conventions scheduled for April 14 will elect 36 delegates—including six from the Seventh District—to the national convention. Another 27 delegates, divided according to the preferences indicated at the district caucuses, will be selected by the state Democratic central executive committee on June 11.

Party officials have expressed hopes that at least half of the state's 63 delegates will go to the national conven-

City Water System Wins Award

Prestonsburg Utilities Superintendent Bill Harvey Howard, right, and Asst. Supt. Seldon Horne display the plaque they received recently on behalf of the city water system. The award was presented by the East Kentucky Water and Wastewater Operators Association at a convention in Owensboro last week.

At the same conference, Holly Leach, a water specialist with the Big Sandy Area Development District, received a certificate of achievement on behalf of the ADD and its subsidiary, the Water Resources Assistance Corporation, for their assistance to smaller municipal and rural water systems.

The Prestonsburg system received a maximum score earlier this month after an inspection by the state Division of Water. The top performance rating will stand Prestonsburg in good stead when it applies for government funds in the future, Howell said.

John Collins and Bobby Joe Lewis, operators of the city water and sewage plants, were also on hand for the awards ceremony last week.

Defense Makes Gains In Mine Case Trial

By the time the government wound up its lengthy case last week against Edgar Jones and 17 others—they are accused of using strong-arm tactics in 1982 to drive the Ray-Mac Coal Co. out of business—it was apparent that at least some of the counts against some of the defendants would not stick.

Prosecutors conceded their witnesses had not placed Austin "Bo" Moore or Eugene Tackett in the hills overlooking the Ray-Mac stripmine on Feb. 17, 1982, when they were said to have been among those shooting at Ray-Mac workers and equipment; nor had it been shown that Benny Caudill was among those allegedly firing on Ray-Mac the following day.

In response to defense motions, U.S. District Judge G. Wix Unthank agreed Wednesday to dismiss several counts against the three defendants, all of whom nevertheless still face other charges.

Witnesses called in the first few days of testimony for the defense have lent some support to the argument that Jones and those who mined coal for him were not out to menace a too-successful competitor by violence and extortion, as the prosecution holds, but were strong UMWA supporters who became fearful and angry when a big operator who wanted nothing to do with the union moved into "their" territory.

"It was all union property over there," said Willie Moore, 52, a disabled miner and one-time president of UMWA Local 5967 at East McDowell. "Everything was going smooth and then there come one company wanting to tear it all to pieces."

Moore said that a meeting of Local 5967 on the Saturday preceding the week of violence at Ray-Mac agreed on his motion to "go back Monday and talk to Ray-Mac (workers) about joining the union." Of the dozen or so at the meeting, "about everyone raised his hand" in support of the organizing effort, he said.

Questioned by defense attorney Bernard Pafunda, Moore described Edgar Jones and another defendant, Drexil Moore, as "good union men." Although Jones, as an operator, was not eligible to join the union, he was once a member and remained sympathetic to the union, Moore said.

Shutting down Ray-Mac "would not have benefitted the union," Moore said, adding, "We didn't go back there to threaten them boys but to talk good to them and see if they'd join the union."

Although the organizing effort was not authorized by the international UMWA, the East McDowell local was loosely organized, had no by-laws, and could properly act on its own, said Moore, who

Speaker Predicts 1984 To Be Better for Farmers

"Nineteen-eighty four is not going to be a boom year for farmers but is expected to be substantially better than any of the previous three years," says Robert W. Bryan, Southern States Cooperative representative.

"Agriculture should return to a more normal year—if there is ever such a thing," Mr. Bryan reported to farmers at a regional board meeting held by Southern States here recently.

Board and committee members and young farmers attending the session from this area were Charles Hicks, Blue River, Joe Hicks, Blue River, Billy Merritt, Prestonsburg, and Ernest Prater, David.

Video Tapes for Use In Trial of $3 Million Suit Made at Garrett

A Mississippi lawyer came to this county last week-end to set the stage for the trial of a $3 million damage suit filed by survivors of a Floyd county man who was killed in a plane crash two years ago.

One of three who died in May, 1982 in the wreckage of a light plane in Mississippi was John E. Howard, 25, formerly of Garrett.

Last Sunday Roy Parker, Tupelo, Miss., attorney for Howard's widow and children, came to Garrett to make video tapes to depict the victim's family background and the environment in which he lived. The tapes made there by a professional photographer contain photographs of, and recorded interviews with, Stacia Raney Howard, widow of the victim; his children; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hager Howard, of nearby Rock Fork Creek; and his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Draughn, of Garrett.

"Since we couldn't bring the trial jury to Garrett, we're trying to take Garrett to Tupelo," the attorney explained. Tupelo, Miss. is the site of the coming trial of the case.

A 'Ripper' That Should Be Ripped

A "sleeper" added to a bill in the Kentucky Senate will save, it is estimated, a million dollars a year, at the expense of state newspapers and to the detriment of the public which needs to know what official actions affecting the people are being taken.

This refers to State Senator R.P. Moloney's amendment tagged on to a bill on parking violations. It would, in effect, eliminate the advertising of city audits, financial statements and budgets.

The Moloney amendment, which was hailed as a "ripper of the Kentucky Press Association" and by his colleagues as a personal triumph for the Lexington Democrat, would merely require a city to submit the audit or financial statement to the newspapers for publication in whole or in part without charge, if they cared to do so.

That would, or could, result in one or more situations:

1. The sense of the legal instrument could be altered to suit the feelings of the newspaper toward it.
2. Only the matters considered by the newspaper to be important might be listed.
3. The wording of the newspaper report would depend upon the ability of the writer and his or her desire to convey the true sense of the action.
4. Or, in cases when other paid advertising demanded the space, the report or reports on the official actions submitted for publication could not be published at all.

This newspaper makes no pretense of being wholly unselfish in its opposition to the Moloney bill. Legal advertising is a part of its income. Yet we insist that the money spent on this advertising is directly related to the government's responsibility for its acts and to the right of the people to know what is being done for, or to, them by their elected representatives.

If this amendment passes the House and is signed by the governor, a city council could operate behind a veil created by law in disregard to basic rights of those who pay the bills.

ween this day and the merry, merry month of May not every breeze that stirs will be a zephyr. In fact, there may be times yet when we'll be commenting so wittily about how April is waiting on May to lead her into the sunshine. But what'er betide, May 1 is not too far away. A great day, May 1, and not because it's May Day. That's the day when mothers have for generations turned the young'uns out to go barefoot. But do children go barefoot, any more?

'WORKING' THE ROADS

Anybody attending a fiscal court session or just showing up occasionally for the daily meeting of the Chew, Spit and Whittle Club can tell you of what they've heard about the horrendous condition of rural roads.

Both county and state, they also may have heard, are pretty well strapped, financially, and the situation isn't encouraging.

Which reminds me that there was a time when the only work done on roads was by the men-folks living in the areas served by them, and that for free.

In those days there usually was a road overseer appointed by the magistrate or county judge, and it was his job to "warn" every able-bodied male of voting age to appear on a given date to do his bit. A sizeable proportion of the male population suddenly developed a racking cough or crippling rheumatism at that time, but for one or two days a year the roads were "worked."

It didn't achieve much, this crude effort to keep the roads open for travel, particularly for horses, mules and oxen to pull wagons over, but it was a community effort of a sort. Equipped only with mattocks, shovels and hoes—sometimes a public-spirited farmer would donate the use of his wagon and team—they tackled only the worst mudholes, draining them and filling them with rocks and dirt.

The rocks piled into the mud disappeared almost overnight—some declared they melted—and within a week teams were stuck as hopelessly as before. One of those mudholes, it might be recorded here, was said at one time to have been distinguished by a sign reading, "Don't come in till I get out."

But bad roads in those days mainly affected only those who traveled or transported materials by horse or wagon. It didn't bother us pedestrians a lot. We didn't use the road, anyhow; we took to footpaths around the hillsides. Or stayed home.

Over 170 million tons of toxic chemicals, such as lead, arsenic and cyanide, are discharged each year into the nation's waterways, says National Wildlife magazine.

was president of the local from 1970 to 1973.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Randy Kehrl sought to draw from Moore an admission that he had threatened Lloyd Ray, a Ray-Mac employee, after the first day of picketing. "Isn't it true you told him not to come back... If he returned there'd be trouble... There would be shooting from the hills... because Mac Mining had underbid Edgar (Jones) $3 a ton and Edgar lost orders?" Kehrl demanded.

"Absolutely not," replied Moore. Douglas Tackett, 33, a former UMWA organizer, said the union conducted a survey of the Mac Mining Company's five sites—including the Ray-Mac job on Bill Hall Branch—in late 1981. But no organizing drive was approved and no strike or picketing was authorized at Ray-Mac the week of Feb. 15, 1982, he said.

Under questioning by the prosecutor, Tackett conceded he had never known a union organizing drive to be undertaken at a mine at the request of a rival coal operator. But, in reply to a question by defense attorney Bernard Pafunda, Tackett also acknowledged that not all operators are unsympathetic to mine workers.

tion uncommitted to any particular candidate.

Republicans began a similar process last Saturday to select delegates to that party's national convention in Dallas. Interest in the selection process is limited, however, since President Ronald Reagan is the party's only serious candidate for president.

While some party regulars are said to favor the caucus system because it gives them better control over the nominating process, Isaac said he will be glad to return next presidential election year to the customary primary ballot. The primary encourages wider public participation, he explained.

Moreover, the local caucus involves "a whole lot of work" for the county Democratic organization in return for scant influence in the total nominating process, said Isaac, who noted that Seventh District counties will send 400 delegates to the district convention, of whom only six will go to San Francisco.

The Broad Form Deed

A recent law passed and signed by Governor Collins would seem to give control of the surface of the land in Kentucky back to the people who own it. A similar bill was passed a few years ago and prevented from becoming law by the Kentucky Court of Appeals when it declared the law unconstitutional. The same thing will probably happen to the recent law.

Broad form deeds are common in Ohio, West Virginia, Tennessee, Pennsylvania and several other states. The courts in all these states, except Kentucky, have recognized that under the broad form deed the mining companies cannot destroy the surface owner's land by strip mining without his consent and without paying him fair compensation.

Unfortunately, only Kentucky interprets the property rights of the surface owner under the broad form deed as merely a license to live on the land and pay the taxes until the mineral owner decides to destroy the surface by taking the minerals, and that the mineral owner is not liable to the surface owner unless the mining is done in a "Wanton, malicious or arbitrary manner."

If he sees your grandmother's casket sliding down the hill and shouts, "Oh, oh," he has completed the requirements of the law. My grandfather, Sol DeRossett, was dug up after he had been buried more than thirty years and taken to my cousin's house on the Conley Fork of Spurlock and buried in his backyard. It was the only place we knew he would be safe from strip mining.

In 1956, the case of Buchanan vs. Watson, the Kentucky Court of Appeals ruled that the mineral owner could remove his minerals by strip-mining and could not be held responsible for anything unless he was trying to destroy the surface or buildings and so forth on purpose.

How can all the states involved but one rule one way on something that important and only Kentucky hold out all these years in protecting the mining companies or strip miners?

Not all coal companies are this destructive. Some respect the rights of people long after the courts have said they don't have to—or that it isn't necessary.

As long as the people will stand by and let it happen, it will happen. You're going to have to do it yourselves. I cannot even help you, except perhaps a letter to the editor.

Any library should be able to give you the name and address of all the newspapers in Kentucky. Now is a good time to let everybody concerned know how you feel about being a tenant and paying taxes on your land while the mineral owner pays nothing and decides everything. You do not have to be a professional writer to write a good letter to the editor of a newspaper. In fact, it's probably better that you are not a professional.

feet wide and 20 feet high, containing a pool of water that never dips below five feet in depth. Tapping the source directly from the surface will mean utility workers will no longer have to go back into the abandoned and dangerous mines—which are ill-ventilated and subject to roof falls—to maintain the system.

Also, because of the clarity of the water drawn from deep underground, the new treatment plant will be only a fraction of the size of the present plant. Classified by state water officials as groundwater, the mine water is not subject to the same treatment processes required of the surface water sources more commonly tapped by public water systems.

One feature of the rebuilt system that will be new to the town's 383 customers is the water meter. Unmetered, Wheelwright residents have been able to use as much water as they like for a flat fee of $6 monthly. When the new lines are laid, customers will be billed at a proposed rate of $13 for the first 2000 gallons they use and $5 per thousand for the next 3000 gallons.

Inland Steel, which bought the Wheelwright mines in 1930, sold them to the Island Creek Coal Co. in 1965. Shortly thereafter, Island Creek sold the surface property—including the water and other utility systems—to the Mountain Investment Company and the property was allowed to deteriorate. With the help of a grant from the federal Department for Housing and Urban Development, the city of Wheelwright purchased the utilities from Mountain Investment in 1979. Island Creek shut down its Wheelwright mining operation in 1972.

Engineering for the new system, which is being done by Kenvirns, Inc., of Frankfort, could take as long as six months. Bids will probably be advertised later this year and construction is expected to begin next spring.

During February, the Daughters of the American Revolution recall the heartwarming and definitive statement of John Adams in a letter to his wife, Abigail, "I am apt to believe that July 4, 1776, will be celebrated by succeeding generations, as the great anniversary festival... It ought to be solemnized with Pomp and Parade, with Shews (shows), Games, Sports, Guns, Bells, Bonfires, and illuminations from one end of this Continent to the other from this Time forward forever more." Indeed it is!

Children, the Losers

Now that House Bill 92, the unmined mineral tax bill, has been tabled and the utilities tax for our schools has been withdrawn, it raises some serious question in my mind, "where do we go from this point?"

First House Bill 92 was to bring $17.3 million to the state, $14.1 million to the counties and $14.7 million to schools, according to the Interim Joint Appropriations and Revenue Committee, November 1983.

I strongly suspect it was tabled because of strong organized coal interests and politicians that are in the coal business or have mineral owners for clients and our own tax money being used to support this lobbying which I have records from one of our counties here in Eastern Kentucky. The absentee mineral owners own 81 percent of our mineral here in Eastern Kentucky. Their taxes are set at 1/10 of one percent per $100 value so that they will not be in violation of Section 3 and 172 of the Constitution of Kentucky.

The Supreme Court ruled in a case in 1965 that the Constitution meant precisely what it said, that property must be assessed at 100 percent of its true value. Who else pays one penny for ever thousand dollars their property is value at?

I have great faith in the people of Floyd County and I am sure they signed the tax petition in good faith. But let's look at the facts. Kentucky is ranked 49th in the United States in education and is 7th from the bottom in the state of Kentucky. For the 83-'84 school year the local taxes pay only $690,544 of a school budget totalling $13,780,183. This is $485,954 short of the cost of transporting our children to school.

The votes have been counted and our schools remain the same with overcrowded classrooms, obsolete buildings, inadequate transportation, classroom supplies and materials in short supply. The people has spoken; they do not want to pay any more to our schools. The politician has decided with the absentee mineral owners that if we have better schools we must pay more taxes to the state, where the people will have no control of it, without them paying their fair share.

The utility tax was earmarked 50% for new school buildings and repair of existing building, 25% for transportation and 25% for classroom supplies and materials. The personnel of the school system will still receive the same pay with or without the utility tax, as they deserve. Our children are the losers. So the serious question is when are we the people going to exercise our right given to us under Section 4 of the Bill of Rights, our state constitution and say we have had enough? A child's mind is a terrible thing to waste.

Compassion in Action

So often the news is bad and we overlook or forget to report the countless kind deeds that occur daily, as beautifully illustrated Friday (March 9) when Dr. Don Parks, of the Potter Clinic, insisted upon accompanying little Scottie Bradley, younger son of Daryl and Glenna Robinson Bradley, of Eastern, to U.K. Medical Center in Lexington following the two-car collision just beyond Lackey. In the ambulance with them were Mr. Bradley, Nurse Gloria Parks and Timothy Harmon, respiratory therapist of the clinic.

Brain surgery was performed on the youngster, whose mother was detained at Highlands Regional until physicians there were confident that her injuries were minor. Mrs. Bradley and her sister, Carla Robinson Boyd, left for Lexington as soon as she was released. The seventeen-months-old baby had no feeling in his right side until late Saturday afternoon when he moved the hand and foot. Countless prayers for their recovery are still being made throughout the county.

Jack Shepherd and his nephew were nearing home in Shepherd's wrecker on Saturday morning, March 10, when Hall, who was visiting at the nearby residence of Ed Wright, flagged the vehicle down and argued with Jack Shepherd about a $400 bill, police said.

The Shepherds were said to have been towing a disabled vehicle toward their lot, which is several hundred feet above the Ed Wright residence. When the elder Shepherd, who was driving, continued on up the hollow, Hall allegedly fired a shot through the wrecker's rear window, striking the younger Shepherd in the head.

Shortly after, Ed Wright was said to have taken some guns to the nearby home of his mother, Alice Wright, which led police to believe—incorrectly, as it turned out—that the murder weapon might be among them.

Hunger And Politics Probed On 'Frontline'

Several months ago the Presidential Task Force on Food Assistance in America submitted its controversial report. "Frontline" examines the commission's findings and takes a look at the evidence presented by private groups or "Bread, Butter, and Politics," air Monday, April 9, at 8:00 p.m. on KFSB.
At the center of the controversy is a number of people facing starvation in America. A pitched debate has raged in the press, beginning with Edwin Meese's December 9 comment: "Some people go to soup kitchens because the food is free and...that's easier than paying for it." On December 11, the Chicago Tribune responded: "More than one million residents in the Chicago area suffer from severe hunger and often go to bed unsure whether they have food for the next day."

President Reagan, in an effort to solve the dilemma, appointed a special commission to explore the problem of hunger in America. Several private groups have criticized the commission's findings and its blue ribbon sponsors as being grossly inaccurate.

"Frontline" is a production of WGBH, Boston.

Highlands Hospital Gets March of Dimes Grant

Highlands Regional Hospital has been awarded a $1,500 grant by the Goldenrod Chapter of the March of Dimes for a nursing warmer for its newborn infant Department.

Mrs. Deborah Massengale, chapter executive director, said, "Highlands Regional was selected for the grant because of the support shown in Floyd and Johnson counties for the work of the March of Dimes in eliminating birth defects. I hope this award will enhance the ability of local March of Dimes volunteers to be even more successful in future fund raising activity."

Goldenrod Chapter of the March of Dimes covers 19 counties in Eastern Kentucky. It is based in Ashland.

The word "volume" comes from the Latin word volvere, meaning "to roll," because in ancient times, books were written on sheets rolled on a pin or roller.

- HOUSE BILL 311—Prohibit city, urban-county or county firearms control ordinances.

- HOUSE BILL 486—Establishes a child sexual abuse and exploitation prevention program. Also establishes a missing children program. Creates as a class D felony the crime of unlawful transaction with a minor in the first degree where the minor is caused to engage in illegal sexual, drug, gambling, or criminal activity.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Elder Herbert Slone on his 75th birthday, March 20, 1984. He passed away November 18, 1982. He will always be remembered, because he was so well loved, and it's difficult to bear the loss of one, so very dear. But may it help me to know that loving thoughts are near, and may the treasured memories help me to know. The one I loved so much is still very close to me. Sadly missed, Wife, Nora Slone

"14-1" Bass Size Applies In Reciprocal Waters

The new "14-1" bass size limit now in effect on Kentucky and Barkley lakes will apply to those anglers possessing Kentucky fishing licenses in the reciprocal area of Kentucky Lake.

The area between the Engers Ferry Bridge in Kentucky and the Highway 79 Bridge (also known as the Paris Landing) in Tennessee is a reciprocal zone in which either a Kentucky or Tennessee fishing license is valid.

According to the agreement between the two states, anglers with Kentucky licenses must abide by Kentucky fishing regulations, while fishermen with Tennessee licenses must obey the rules of that state.

This means that a Kentucky resident who has a Tennessee non-resident license in his possession may fish under Tennessee rules in this zone, according to David Loveless, regional law enforcement supervisor for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Under Kentucky's new "14-1" bass size limit law, fishermen may keep one bass under 14 inches long. All other black bass (largemouth, smallmouth, Kentucky and Coosa bass) must be 14 inches long or longer. The daily creel limit on bass is 10 fish, with a possession limit of 20 after two or more days of fishing.

This new regulation is now in effect on the Kentucky portions of Kentucky and Barkley lakes.

Baseball Leagues Seek Supporters

Gray, McNally Ask New Trial

Prestonsburg auto parts dealer C.J. McNally and former state Cabinet Secretary James E. Gray, convicted of conspiracy and mail fraud by a federal court jury two weeks ago, have asked for a new trial.

Attorneys for the two men claim that prosecutors changed their argument in the course of the trial, so that the case made against McNally and Gray during their U.S. District Court trial in Lexington departed from the charges on which they were originally indicted.

In effect, they were not given notice of the charges against which to defend their clients, the attorneys claim. Accordingly, the two men's convictions should be voided, they argued.

The dispute centers on the prosecution argument during the trial that Seton Investments, a company that received $200,000 in state insurance commissions after it was set up by Gray in 1975, was owned by Gray and former Democratic state Chairman Howard "Sonny" Hunt. Defense attorneys claimed McNally owned the firm and said prosecutors initially agreed with them on that point.

No hearing date has been set for the two defense motions, one seeking to nullify the jury verdict, the other seeking acquittal. Sentencing was set earlier for April 9.

Admiral Dewey Festival Is Set

A committee representing Floyd, Johnson, Pike and Magoffin counties met this week at Martin, to plan the activities for the first annual Admiral Dewey Boat Parade and Festival.

The festival will be held at Jenny Wiley State Park, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 18-20.

A giant flotilla of boats of all kinds will "parade" from the terry boat dock to the state boat dock, near May Lodge. In addition to the boat parade, which will be held on Sunday, boat races featuring all classes of boats will be held on Saturday. Exhibitions of skiing will also be a part of the Saturday program. A special blessing of the boats will take place on Sunday.

A special open house will be held by all the houseboat owners at the state dock. The public is invited to inspect all the boats.

Besides the water activities, there will be a boat show featuring dealers and manufacturers from the Eastern Kentucky and Lexington areas. New boats, motors and trailers will be on exhibit. Travel trailers, campers, and vans will also display their wares. A large selection of these vehicles will join the boats as part of the recreational show.

Fishing exhibits and contests, archery demonstrations and old-fashioned firearms will be a part of the festival. Special entertainment will be a part of each day's activities. Contests and concerts by various groups will enliven the three-day affair.

There also will be craft booths and flea market stalls throughout the grounds, and antique cars of all kinds will be on display.

(For additional information contact Mike Sanders or Rodney Hutchinson at P.O. Box 1119, Martin, Ky. 41649 or call 285-9888.)

Inservice Days Listed For Schools in County

The last day of inservice for school personnel will involve testing and instructional personnel from the Kentucky Department of Education. Activities will include utilizing results of the CTBS/U test, teaching by objective, instructional planning, and classroom management. To enable the state consultants to work with small groups, a flexible inservice program will be needed. Instead of a system-wide inservice day, different school's personnel will participate in inservice activities on different days. While the staff of some schools will be participating in inservice activities without students being present, other students will be in regular session. The schedule will be as follows and will begin at 8:30 a.m. and conclude at 3 p.m.

Tuesday, March 27—Wheelwright High School, Melvin Elementary, W.D. Osborne Elementary, McDowell High and Elementary, and Drift Elementary will meet at McDowell High School.

Wednesday, March 28—Allen Central High, Wayland, Garrett, Maytown and Martin Elementary will meet at Allen Central High School.

Thursday, March 29—J.M. Stumbo, Spruce Pine, Daniels Creek, Harold, Prater, Betsy Layne Elementary and Betsy Layne High School will meet at Betsy Layne High School.

Friday, March 30—Auxier, Bonanza, Clark, Home Branch, Allen and Prestonsburg Elementaries will meet at Prestonsburg Elementary.

Prestonsburg High School will have an alternative inservice program since the staff has already participated in the proposed activities.

Tree Crops, Source of Revenue

Trees don't stand at the top of many farmers' crop lists. Yet, trees are a suitable crop on soils that are too poor, too steep or too rocky for traditional agricultural crops.

And well-managed tree stands can provide a good source of revenue for the landowner, notes Douglas McLaren, Extension forestry specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"Many of the existing forest stands found in Kentucky are allowed to continue to grow because they are the best suited crop to the area," said McLaren, who is headquartered at Robinson Substation-Quicksand.

He says many fields throughout Kentucky which were abandoned in the early 1950s have reverted to forestlands. Investigating these stands, one will find economically valuable stems of yellow poplar, walnut and oaks established, according to McLaren.

The specialist says with proper management, these unplanned stands of timber can continue to increase in value. "Trees, as any other agricultural crop, need proper and consistent management to become economically merchantable," said McLaren.

In addition, he recommends establishing unused pastureland, eroded or unproductive croplands in a properly chosen species for a future forestland.

"There are incentives for individual landowners who wish to establish new forests or manage those already established," notes McLaren. Several government incentive programs provide money for eligible landowners that will, in part, pay for not only the planting of tree seedlings, but also the preparation of the site to be planted.

Individuals who have forestlands that are established and in need of forest management work, such as thinning or timberstand improvement, also may apply to these government incentive programs, according to McLaren.

Establishment and management of forestlands result in economic benefits for landowners as well as the entire forest industry, and provide a constant supply of wood for the country, notes the specialist.

Nearly one-fifth of Boston's water is lost due to leaky pipes, says National Wildlife magazine.

Wednesday, March 21, from 5 until 7 p.m., a panel of students from Alice Lloyd College will appear on WSGS Radio's program, "Talk-Back." The students will be discussing and answering questions about looking ahead to the year 2000 and what will life be like at that time. Students participating in this panel discussion will be Andy Dotson and Darrell Bentley, of Pike county, Grover Arnett and Brenda Minix, of Magoffin county, Rena Holbrook, of Floyd county, and Rita Adams, of Knott county.

★ Cancer Hopeline

Q. The last couple of times I went to the dentist he examined my tongue and the inside of my mouth for cancer. He said it was a routine exam for mouth cancer. He also said that because I'm a pipe smoker it's especially important for me to have these exams regularly. Can I do this exam myself? What should I do and what should I look for?

A. Yes, you can examine your mouth for signs of cancer. A complete examination includes several steps, but is easy to do. All you need is a mirror and good lighting.

1. FACE—Inspect your face, neck and lips. Look for any changes in the color of your skin, any lumps or sores. If you wear glasses, remove them when you examine the areas where they may rub or cause irritation.

2. OUTER CHEEKS—Press lightly against the outside of your cheeks feeling for any lumps or areas of tenderness.

3. NECK—Move your fingers lightly over both sides of your neck feeling for any lumps or areas of tenderness.

4. ROOF OF MOUTH—Tilt your head back and open your mouth wide, checking the roof of your mouth for any lumps, sores or areas of discoloration.

5. TONGUE—Checking for these signs, extend your tongue and look at the top surface. Next, place the tip of your tongue on the roof of your mouth and look at the underside. Finally, using a piece of gauze, hold your tongue with your fingers and gently move it so that you can look at both sides.

6. INNER CHEEKS—Use your fingers to open the sides of your mouth so that you can examine the inside of each cheek. Look for any lumps, sores or patches that appear white, red or darker than the rest of the skin.

7. LIPS—Pull your lower lip down and look for any of the above mentioned signs. Use your fingers to feel for any lumps. Repeat with your upper lip.

Stanton Allen Is Killed In Wreck

FOUR GIRLS INJURED AS CAR PLUNGES INTO CREEK NEAR MARTIN

Charles Stanton Allen, 15 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen, of Northern, was instantly killed, his neck broken, and four girls injured when the car in which they were driving plunged over an embankment into Beaver Creek near Martin Saturday afternoon.

The injured girls are Nancy and Betty Stapleton, of Allen, and Maude Callison and Maxie Clifton, of Dwale. Betty Stapleton sustained a broken arm and bruises, while the other girls injuries were confined to cuts and bruises.

The accident took place at the upper of the "twin bridges" just above Martin, the car leaving the highway near the bridge approach.

According to one of the girls who was riding in the car, the tragedy was caused by the boy's hat being blown over his face. The girl said she looked at the speedometer just before the car went over the embankment, and it was making 50 miles or less per hour. Witnesses however, claim the car was traveling at a much higher rate of speed; so fast, in fact, that it was impossible for the young man to negotiate the curve at that point.

Young Allen, it is said, was thrown through the window of the car into the water and his body was not found until almost an hour later, when a searching party, dragging the waters of the creek, located it about a hundred feet below the scene of the accident.

Two of the girls, Maude Callison and Betty Stapleton, who were riding in the back seat of the car, were thrown through a window as the car struck the water and swam to safety, despite the fact that one of them sustained a broken arm. The other girls, in the front seat, were taken from the car by a Mr. Gregory, who was a witness to the accident. The car, a Chrysler sedan, was almost completely under water and was demolished.

POSTAL RATES MAY BE LOWERED SOON

KENTUCKY REPRESENTATIVES PLAN TO SUPPORT MOVE NOW UNDERWAY

Representatives in the National Congress from Kentucky have stated they would lend their support to a move now under way to reduce postage rates from three to two cents. In explaining their stand, they pointed out that the three cent rate worked a hardship on many people, especially those who have a large amount of mail to get out each day.

It was denied that the lowered rate would bring about a deficit in the post office department—on the contrary, it was stated, it would add to the revenue of that department, because of the fact that in the larger cities mail order houses and business institutions have been in the habit of employing trucks to deliver their mail, thus depriving the government of revenue. It was further stated that small mail users have been holding their output of mail at a minimum, thereby depriving the department of millions of dollars in postal revenue, which they would receive under the two cent postal rate.

FRANK LONG DIES FROM PNEUMONIA

FUNERAL HELD AT HOME ON BUCK'S BRANCH, TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Frank Long, 48, of Buck's Branch, near Martin, died Sunday morning of this week, a victim of pneumonia, from which he had suffered only one week. He was a miner, employed at the Beaver Coal and Mining Company.

Surviving him are two children, Elmer Long and Mrs. Elsie Frazier; three step-sons, Otto Stratton, Bert Stratton and Bill Stratton; one sister, Mrs. Grace Bevins, of Williams, W. Va., and his father, L. P. Long of Eggleston, Va. His wife preceded him in death about four years ago.

Funeral services were held at the home Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock and interment made in the Buck's Branch cemetery under the direction of G. D. Ryan, undertaker.

Original Serpent Still Has Representatives

Ever since the days of Adam and Eve, in the garden of Eden, the human race has been fighting snakes. That old serpent that beguiled Eve still has his representatives in the form of two-legged human beings, seeking to deceive and devour whom he may. He seems to be well entrenched in our good old County of Floyd at this time—and if our good people do not join in on the Lord's side, and bring this Demon under subjection, he will be still better entrenched four years from now.

So now is the time to join on the side against this evil power, in the coming campaign to elect our district and County officers. This fight must be a centralized fight by ALL the good and liberty-loving people. It is no time to be selfish and split up among ourselves. Let the strongest candidate, one for each office, run, and the weaker ones get behind these, in order to be sure to win. There should be some plan resorted to, to bring this about at once; because this serpent in the person of the Kingfish Judge Dr. Walk Stumbo is purchasing every influence in the county that is for sale. He is not only using your money, our money, the taxpayers' money that he has robbed the county of, to do this; but he is using the Kentucky R. F. C.; the Red Cross and even trying to purchase influences by liberal contributions to churches. I say that he is not sincere in his contributions to churches, because I know his past

MAN DIES IN CRASH

BETSY LAYNE WOMAN DRIVES CAR STRIKING MAN, HELD BLAMELESS

His neck broken, Ewell Osborne, 35 years old, of Harold, died instantly after being struck by a car driven by Mrs. W. R. Lewis, of Betsy Layne, last Thursday evening.

According to reports reaching here, Osborne was walking on the wrong side of the highway, and the car, traveling toward Pikeville, swerved aside in an effort to avoid striking him. Apparently excited, the man stepped toward the car and was struck by the spare tire on the side of the machine, which hurled him several feet, breaking his neck. With Mrs. Lewis in the car were Mrs. F. A. Maggard and Mrs. A. E. Clutts, both of Betsy Layne. Mrs. Lewis was held blameless in the accident.

The accident took place near the bridge at Harold, and according to witnesses, the man died before medical aid could be summoned.

Osborne is survived by his widow and four children. Funeral services were conducted at the home Sunday and burial made at Ivel.

"JACK" PASSES

Jack, seven years old, a dog belonging to G. D. Ryan, of Martin, holds a unique distinction—one which he gained in a manner perhaps little to his liking—by death—and by being interred in a manner befitting a beloved member of the family.

Jack contracted pneumonia, and after a short illness, passed away to the Elysian fields of good, juicy beef bones—or wherever it is that all good canines go.

He was buried by members of the family, after last communion services were held in his honor, in an expensive casket on the hill in front of the Ryan home.

PARALYTIC STROKE FATAL TO HERALD

"JIM TOM" HERALD SUCCUMBS FRIDAY MORNING AFTER FEW HOURS' ILLNESS

J. T. Herald, familiarly known as "Jim Tom", of Cow Creek, died Friday morning of last week after having suffered a paralytic stroke the night before. He had been in ill health for some time.

A member of the Methodist church Mr. Herald was one of the best and most widely known citizens in the county. He had been a farmer all his life.

The deceased is survived by his widow, one son, Lonnie Herald, and three daughters, Mrs. Sophia Mosley, Mrs. Minta Harris and Miss Laura Belle Herald, all of Cow Creek; one brother, William Herald of Greenup county, and one sister, Mrs. Bill Sherman, of Emma.

Funeral services were conducted at the home Sunday afternoon by Rev. H. B. Simms, of Dwale; Rev. John Lafferty of Water Gap; Rev. Isaac Stratton, of Banner, and Rev. Herald of Greenup county. Burial was made in the Mosely cemetery under the direction E. P. Arnold.

TWO MEN INDICTED ON MURDER COUNTS

GRAND JURY ADJOURNS AFTER NINE-DAY SESSION; 108 WITNESSES EXAMINED

Adjourning Wednesday after a nine-day session, the grand jury at Prestonsburg returned 63 indictments after having examined 108 witnesses.

Two of the indictments were made on charges of murder, one against Lonnie Robinson, charged with the slaying of Sally Nelson at West Prestonsburg, who died a short time ago from a gunshot wound, said to have been inflicted by Robinson; the other against McKinley Osborn, of Ligon, for the fatal shooting of Den Chaffins a few days ago. According to first reports, Osborn, a youth of 14 years, shot in defense of his life, but later reports say he shot Chaffins while the latter was begging for his life to be spared.

MINES AT TORCHLIGHT MAY BE OPERATED AGAIN IN NEAR FUTURE

Plans of a coal mining company in Cincinnati, if completed, will bring back operations reminiscent of pre-railroad days on Big Sandy with the operation of steam boats and coal barges hauling coal from Torchlight, near Louisa, to the Ohio.

The locks in Big Sandy River, necessary in the operation of large boats and barges, have been kept in condition to be operated, but for several years have not been in use.

High rates for transportation of coal by rail have necessitated the suspension of many of the mines on Big Sandy, but with the resumption of barging, those of the mines with access to the river and near enough to the locks to take advantage of navigable water will be able to ship coal at rates far below those charged by the railroad.

The past decade has seen the passing of steamboating on Big Sandy River. Old timers in this section can remember when boats traveling up and down the river were common occurrences—but the last boat to navigate the stream was that of Captain Davis, carrying a load of bay and...

Even then steam boats were such rarities that people came from miles around to see it. Long before the visit of this boat the channel had become filled, and navigation was possible only because of unusually high water.

Dredging of the channel will be necessary before boats can again travel the upper part of the river, and according to information received here, U. S. Engineers have been inspecting the locks, which may, perhaps, mean that Big Sandy will again become a truly navigable stream.

20 GREAT YEARS.. AND GROWING COMMUNITY COLLEGE SYSTEM • UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

Ear Tags Can Give Good Insect Control

When ear tags containing synthetic pyrethroid insecticides became available, cattle producers found them to be the solution to a pesky perennial problem.

"They were beautifully effective against horn flies and face flies. They were very stable and remained effective for a long time, and they could be used safely on cattle and calves, including lactating dairy animals," said Dr. Chris Christensen, Extension entomologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Christensen says it seemed like the ultimate insecticide delivery system—the ultimate pasture fly control system—had been developed.

However, a proverbial "fly in the ointment" was found. It became obvious to researchers and Extension entomologists in the deep Southern states in 1982 that the pyrethroid ear tags were not always doing the job.

Said Christensen, "They were finding herds here and there that had poor horn fly control using insecticide impregnated ear tags. Evaluation of these horn fly populations indicated they were resistant to the pyrethroid insecticides."

The problem intensified in 1983, and to date, resistant horn fly populations have been documented in Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska. No such herds have been identified in Kentucky, according to Christensen.

The specialist explains who an initially effective treatment can lose its effectiveness.

"When an insecticide is introduced into the fly population, it is initially very effective because the majority of the insects are susceptible to its effects," said Christensen. "However, in a large population, there may be two or three flies that can somehow live in the presence of this insecticide."

If a male and female with these characteristics mate, the entomologist says their offspring often have the ability to resist the effects of the insecticide as well. And as the life cycles move along, the susceptible offspring are killed and only the resistant individuals are left to breed.

"Thus," explains Christensen, "eventually you have a fly population that is very resistant."

The development of this situation can be slowed or perhaps prevented if certain steps are followed, according to the specialist. He recommends this approach:

—Use two tags per animal on all animals. This provides the best face fly control, plus, it helps ensure the insecticide dosage level is effectively high toward the end of the fly season.

—Don't put ear tags on until shortly before fly season starts. Some cattle producers have been tagging calves at birth in February, March or early April, according to Christensen. He says this is well before the fly season starts, and since ear tags release the insecticide most efficiently during the first two months after application, much of the insecticide is gone before the first flies show up. In Kentucky, ear tags should be applied in late May, said Christensen.

—Remove old ear tags. "Don't use one old tag and one new tag when retagging cattle in the spring," cautions the specialist.

—Use alternate fly control methods. For example, if you used a fenvalerate tag in 1983, use a permethrin tag in 1984 or use forced-use dustbags or sprays of an organophosphate insecticide.

Christensen says switching types of tags probably is not as effective as returning to dusts or sprays because it appears that flies resistant to one pyrethroid are cross resistant to others. He adds that rotating insecticides delays resistance buildup, but in most cases does not prevent it.

In insecticide impregnated ear tags, the insecticide is mixed with plastic and then the mixture is molded into an ear tag. The insecticide slowly "blooms" to the surface of the plastic and is rubbed off on the animal's hair as the animal grooms itself or another animal. Flies are killed when they encounter the insecticide.

A study conducted by Extension specialists in Clark County in the summer of 1983 to evaluate the efficacy of three different insecticide impregnated ear tags and an ear tag tape showed all ear tags and tapes gave excellent horn fly control, but face fly control was variable.

The study also showed that: two tags per animal gave the best longlasting face fly control; synthetic pyrethroid impregnated tags gave better face fly control than Ectiban tapes; permethrin ear tags were comparable in effectiveness to fenvalerate ear tags, and Permethrin strips break off the animals at a high rate.

Directory Assistance Charges Change

The Kentucky Public Service Commission recently approved changes in how Kentuckians pay for local and long distance Directory Assistance calls. Art Willett, local manager for South Central Bell, explained the changes:

As before, callers can make up to five local Directory Assistance calls each month at no extra charge, Willett said. There's now a 30-cent charge for each local call after the first five.

An additional 30 cents is charged if you dial "0" and ask the telephone operator to connect the call to Directory Assistance.

All long distance Directory Assistance calls within Kentucky are 30 cents each. Also, long distance calls to numbers within Kentucky no longer "cancel" charges for long distance Directory Assistance.

"We handle about 125,000 Directory Assistance calls in Kentucky on an average weekday," Willett said. "Obviously, there is an expense involved in handling these calls. Up to the first of this year, revenues from in-state long distance calls helped pay the expense of long distance Directory Assistance."

"With the split-up of the Bell System, we handle a lot less in-state long distance, and those revenues have shrunk. But we still have the expense of providing Directory Assistance, and the best way to cover that expense is for those who use it to pay for it. That's why the charges are set up as they are."

There is no charge for Directory Assistance calls made to other states, or for calls from hotels, motels, hospitals or public telephones, Willett said. He added that handicapped customers are still exempt from Directory Assistance charges if they file a form for exemption, available by contacting South Central Bell.

Hank Williams, Jr. To Appear at MSU

Country musician Hank Williams, Jr. is scheduled to appear in concert at Morehead State University's Academic-Athletic Center, Wednesday, March 28, at 8 p.m.

Hank, the son of the late Hank Williams, was born in Shreveport, La., in 1949. Growing up in the limelight of his father's success, he began to play the guitar at the age of eight, mostly performing what he referred to as "reincarnations of his father's music."

Disgruntled with the role, Hank, Jr. decided to begin performing his own music. He left Nashville and moved to the town of Cullman, Ala. There he met an old fishing buddy who later became his manager, and in 1975, he released his album "Hank Williams Junior and Friends."

According to a Warner Brothers' press release, the album aided in his "proclamation of emergence from his father's legendary shadow and his determination to play music his way."

Shortly after the album climbed the charts, Hank, Jr. suffered a tragic accident. While climbing in the Montana Rockies, he fell. The fall nearly killed him; it did kill his spirit temporarily. After a brief time, his belief that he would never perform again turned into a personal goal of "I will perform again." As soon as he could sit up after the accident, Hank Williams, Jr. propped a guitar in his lap and set out to prove a point to himself.

Admission to the show is $10 for the general public and $2 for MSU students with a valid ID card.

Tickets are available at the MSU Student Association office, located on the second floor of the Adron Doran University Center; Underwood Music on East Main Street in Morehead; or D.J.'s Clothier for Men, at the Trademore Shopping Center.

The scheduled opening act is the Bama Band.

All of the ephedrine class of decongestants have one great common disadvantage. They can cause an "after congestion." They can even produce chronic congestion if used for an extended period of time. This is to say that if one of these compounds is used in the nose, it will provide relief for a period but then a rebound will occur. The rebound congestion can make the original problem worse. If nasal decongestants are continuously used over a number of days, the nasal decongestant itself will start to aggravate the congestion that it is attempting to fight.

Alcohol: Nation's Most Abused Drug

A nationwide survey of American drinking practices showed that more than two-thirds of adults drink alcoholic beverages at least occasionally. Adding younger drinkers to this population means over 100 million people drink alcohol.

Alcohol is our oldest mood-altering drug. The presence of wine and beer is shown in the archeological records of the oldest civilizations and in the diets of the most primitive peoples. The basic characteristic of alcohol beverages has remained much the same throughout the centuries. Historically, alcohol has been used with meals, at social gatherings, in religious ceremonies, to celebrate, and for medical purposes. Like any drug that affects the mind, alcohol has the potential to be abused and is the most abused drug in the U.S. today.

Many people who drink alcoholic beverages have little understanding of the way the beverage is affecting them. The same may be true of their non-drinking families and friends who may be concerned about why the drinker behaves as he or she does.

Alcohol is a depressant, not a stimulant, as is commonly understood. The rate that alcohol is absorbed into the bloodstream of an individual depends upon many factors. Weight, how fast one drinks, when one has last eaten, one's drinking history, and body chemistry all play into the effect alcohol can have on a person's body.

Drinking larger amounts of alcohol over long periods of time seems to change the sensitivity of the brain to the effects of alcohol. More alcohol is thus required to produce the same effects. This is called "tolerance" which shows up in the chronic use of all addictive drugs and is thought to be the basis of "dependence" or "addiction".

The effects of alcohol on the alcohol-dependent person differ from those on the moderate or heavy drinker. The alcohol-dependent person may drink very large quantities without showing signs of drunkenness. However, later in the chronic state, tolerance decreases and the alcohol-dependent person may become intoxicated on relatively small amounts of alcohol.

An individual's vision is affected as alcohol reduces resistance to glare. The eye requires longer to readjust after exposure to bright lights, producing a period of relative blindness that can be hazardous for driving. Tests of muscular control or coordination show that intoxicating doses of alcohol impair most types of performance. There are numerous other effects that alcohol has on an individual's attention, memory, emotions, sexuality and sleep.

There are five general stages of intoxication: firstly, an individual is "happy", talkative, sociable and relaxed; there are fewer worries and inhibitions and there is some loss of judgement and efficiency. In the second stage, the drinker may get very excited, emotional and erratic. Thinking is impaired, reactions slowed and judgement poor.

The next stage is characterized as "confused," as the drinker is staggering disoriented, moody, displaying exaggerated fears or anger, perhaps with slurred speech or double vision. In the fourth stage, the drinker is in a stupor; one is unable to stand or walk, barely conscious, and apathetic. The last and sometimes final stage is when the drinker is in a coma, completely unconscious, with few or no reflexes, which could end in death from respiratory paralysis.

Drinking alcohol in small amounts for some people does not seem to harm the body. However, when taken in large amounts over long periods of time, alcohol can reduce both the quality and length of life.

This is the fifth article of a series provided by Mountain Comprehensive Care Center which operates the Layne House, a 28-day residential treatment program for people who have problems related to drug and alcohol dependency. For more information, please call: 886-8572.

The family of Andrew Ratliff takes this opportunity to thank everyone for their help in the loss of our loved one. We want to thank all who sent food, flowers, prayers or just spoke words of comfort. A special thanks to the ministers, Belmont Johnson and Virgil Hunt, and to the Hall Funeral Home for being so helpful.

Break Ground for Daycare Center

In a departure for the customary groundbreaking ceremony—complete with civic dignitaries, speeches and silver-plated shovels—these pre-schoolers did the job themselves one Saturday recently. Armed with spades and garden trowels, a dozen youngsters from the Floyd County Developmental Daycare Center operated by Cleda Wells Lawson out of an Arnold Avenue cottage since 1977 broke ground on the Highland Avenue site where a larger facility will be built this spring. Construction of the new daycare center, which is designed to house 60 three-to-five-year-olds, is being financed by a $99,500 loan from the Farmes Home Administration and a $75,000 Appalachian Regional Commission grant.

Community Club 'In the Clear'

Members of the Cow Creek Community Development Club gather around as flame is touched to a $5,000 note which was paid off last month through various club fund-raising activities. The money helped toward completion of a modern structure for club meetings and to house trucks and other fire-fighting equipment for the community's 28-member volunteer fire department. In its two years of existence the club has recorded an impressive list of accomplishments and has depended almost entirely on community fund-raising activities for financing its projects.

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of Virginia Bates.

It's been twelve months since she passed away, Now her body lies mouldering in the clay.

But the spirit she possessed was given by the Lord, Someday they'll both reunite on just one accord.

The wealth and heritage the sweet lady left behind, Were the unsearchable riches only a child of god can find.

Oh! the grave site on the hill stands great and tall, That's where the body rests until the Lord delivers His call.

We know wordly existence shall never be no more, For she left behind friends that are numbered in score.

All the brothers and sisters of the church gathering crowd, Remembers her final departure as she wore the shroud.

We thank the McDowell Hospital and its wonderful staff, For trying to revive her on the families behalf.

But the Lord was her Savior and in His Kingdom she now reigns, With the christian soldiers that suffer no more pain.

Russian Roulette Victim Critical

A Drift man remained in critical condition this week after he reportedly shot himself in the head while playing "Russian roulette."

Police said Dana Browning, 42, apparently shot himself around 3 a.m. Saturday in a guard shack on Spewing Camp Branch at Orkney. Browning and three others were reportedly in the shack drinking prior to the incident. The injured man works as a night watchman for the Gina Coal Company.

Browning was taken to McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital and later transferred to the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

P'burg Businessman Accused after Owner Buys Back Stolen Item

When Bill Barker bought a new microwave oven from a Prestonsburg pawn shop last week, the oven turned out to be one of those stolen earlier from Barker's mobile home lot, according to a state police report.

Edward M. Kuss, who operates a downtown hairdressing business and a motel as well as the pawn shop on North Lake Drive, was arrested Friday and charged with knowingly receiving stolen property. Kuss has denied the charge.

In seeking a warrant Friday to search The Hock Shop, the Sandy Valley Motel, and an adjoining residence occupied by Kuss, Dt. Kenneth DeBoard said he had earlier seen Kuss sell a Magic Chef microwave oven to Barker, who operates Barker's Mobile Home Sales at West Van Lear.

State and city police officers later recovered three microwave ovens and two stereo systems from the motel-pawnshop premises, items police said were stolen from Barker's Mobile Home Sales, Mountain Mobile Home Sales and other businesses.

Kuss was released under a $5000 property bond.

IN MEMORIAM

To the memory of my father Reynold Nelson for his 64th birthday on March 15, 1984.

(The Legend of the Raindrop)
The Legend of the Raindrop has a lesson for us all.
As it trembled in the heavens, questioning whether it should fall.
For the glistening raindrop argued to the genie of the sky,
"I am beautiful and lovely, as I sparkle here on high,
And hanging there I will become part of the Rainbow's hue.
And I'll shimmer like a diamond, for all the world to view"...
But the genie told the raindrop, "do not hesitate to go,
For you will be more beautiful if you fall to earth below,
For you will sink into the soil, and be lost a while from sight,
But when you reappear on earth, you'll be looked on with delight;
For you will be the raindrop that quenched the thirsty ground
And helped the lovely flowers, to blossom all around.
And in your resurrection you'll appear in kingly clothes.
With the beauty of the lily and the fragrance of the rose;
Then when you wilt and wither, you'll become part of the earth.
And make the soil more fertile and give new flowers birth"...
For there is nothing never lost or eternally neglected,
For everything God ever made is always resurrected;
So trust God's all wise wisdom and doubt the father never
For in this Heavenly Kingdom There is nothing lost forever.
By daughter,
PHYLLIS DAVIS

Businesses Here Hit By Burglars

Burglars struck businesses on U.S. 23, just north of here, on successive mornings this week.

Prestonsburg Police Chief William R. "Dickie" Campbell said intruders broke into Jerry's Restaurant early Monday morning and stole an 800-pound safe containing an unknown amount of money. The break occurred between 2:30 a.m., when restaurant workers left for the night, and 4 a.m., when the chef, Wayne Chaney, of Middle Creek, reported for work.

Campbell estimated it would have taken at least four persons to lift the heavy safe.

A day later, two men wearing ski masks held up the night manager of the Git 'n' Go Food Mart, taking an unknown sum from the cash register and office.

Dwayne Lykins, 18, told state police the two entered the all-night gas and food store around 1:30 a.m. Tuesday, one of them armed with a pistol, the other with a knife. After rifling the cash register and office, one of them struck him on the back of the head.

A nurse not long off duty from Highlands Hospital entered the store soon after with her husband and they took Lykins to the hospital, where he was admitted for treatment of a head injury.

There are no suspects in either of the burglaries.

Farm Slowdown Seen in Census

Preliminary reports of the 1982 Census of Agriculture show that the number of farms in Floyd county have decreased from 114 to 111 since the 1978 census. All land in farms totaled 13,325 acres in 1982, an average of 120 acres per farm. Four years earlier, the acreage total was 14,555.

The Census Bureau defines a farm as any place from which $1,000 or more of agricultural products were sold or normally would have been sold.

Woodland dropped during the four years from 9,518 to 7,781 acres. Land from which crops were harvested decreased to 1,169 acres since 1978.

The county's farmers sold $421,000 in agricultural products according to preliminary reports from the 1982 Census of Agriculture. The 1982 sales figure represents an average of $3,789 for each of the county's farms.

The census reports that $314,000 or 75 percent of total sales were for crops, while $107,000 or 25 percent of the total came from the sale of livestock, poultry, and their products.

Preliminary data indicate that expenditures for feed for livestock and poultry were $25,000; total farm energy costs were $73,000; fertilizer costs were $27,000, and seed costs were $31,000.

Of the total farms in the county, two had gross sales of $40,000 or more; 106 reported sales of less than $10,000. Farms operated as sole proprietorships represented 97 percent of the total. In 1982, the average age of farm operators was 57.1 years. The proportion of operators reporting farming as their principal occupation decreased from 36 to 23 percent over the four-year period.

Data in the report for 1978 and 1982 are directly comparable for acreages and inventories. Dollar values have not been adjusted for changes in price levels.

Castle in Jail Here In 6-Year-Old Case

Gary Lee Castle, 37, a former Drift man who was convicted of robbery and assault here six years ago but never served his sentence, was lodged in the county jail this week, pending a hearing on his request to have the sentence thrown out.

Convicted in 1978 of robbing and shooting a gas station attendant, Castle was sentenced to concurrent pen terms of 17 years for assault and 11 years for robbery. An appeals court directed that he be re-tried on the assault charge but upheld the robbery conviction.

Prosecutors then agreed to drop the assault charge and Castle, who was free on bond pending his appeal, was never brought in to serve his sentence for the robbery. That fact reportedly came to light only when the Martin county coal firm for which Castle once worked began exploring its obligation to pay him workers' compensation.

In a motion filed last week in Floyd Circuit Court, Lester H. Burns, Jr., Castle's attorney, asks that the pen sentence be vacated on grounds that his client was not ably represented during his trial and appeal and is now being subjected to "cruel and unusual punishment."

A hearing on the motion has been set for this Friday.

IN MEMORY

Of Charles Mitchell

It has been four years since you went away. So much has happened. Your father and grandfather, your grandmother, two uncles, two nieces and a niece's husband are all gone. We miss you all very much. We go to the graveyard often; it is a lonesome place to go. Charles, you are missed by all who knew you.

Written by your broken-hearted mother.

D.A.R. CHAPTER MEETS

John Graham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met Tuesday afternoon, March 13, at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center, with Mrs. Carl Horn, vice regent, presiding.

A birthday card, to be sent to Mrs. Edith James, was signed by those in attendance, and members who were ill were also remembered with cards.

Mrs. Ray Brackett, regent, reported that three members of John Graham Chapter, Mesdames Olga Preston, Virginia Goble and Brackett attended the Kentucky Society D.A.R. conference, held at the Marriott Hotel in Lexington, March 6-8.

During the meeting the Sixth district director, Mrs. James B. Goble, gave a report on all her meetings with district chapters.

She also reported that Mrs. Martha Joyce (Joy) May Hager, formerly of Prestonsburg, now of Berea, has been accepted by the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, and that she will become a member of John Graham Chapter.

The regent reported that John Graham Chapter had met the honor roll of the Kentucky Society NSDAR, and had received a blue ribbon on the new yearbooks.

Mrs. Frances Pitts, county home economist, was the guest-speaker for this meeting. Mrs. Pitts used as her topic, "Conservation of Money."

The publicity chairman, Mrs. Norma S. Stepp, was joined by other members in thanking the following persons for helping to make it possible for this chapter's press book to be acclaimed during the Kentucky State Conference as having the most complete coverage of any in the sixth district: Norman Allen, of the Floyd County Times; Mrs. Carl Woods, society editor of The Times; Gorman Collins, owner and manager of Radio Station WDOC, and Keith Chafin, manager of Radio Station WPRT.

Hostesses and leaders for Tuesday's meeting were Miss Maurine Mayo and Mrs. Margaret M. Spradlin.

The next meeting of the chapter will be Tuesday afternoon, April 10, at 4 o'clock at this same location.

Participating students are: Beth Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glennis Hall, of Melvin; Nawonia Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hall, of Kite; Kathleen Salisbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Salisbury, of Wheelwright; and Tony Stiltner, son of Mrs. Evelyn Stiltner, of Melvin.

TO VIEW PLANS FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT

There will be an organizational meeting March 30 at 7 p.m. at the Chestnut Grove Church, on the Middle Creek Road to establish a volunteer fire department to serve the Middle Creek and Upper Abbott Creek area. Residents are urged to attend.

Today's Mountain Climbers Face Himalayas Alone

For more than 20 years, most climbs up the Himalayan mountains looked like Cecil B. DeMile, productions, with hundreds of climbers, porters and porters for the porters.

Now the trend is toward smaller expeditions of four to six people—a return to the earliest foreign climbs of the Himalayas, according to the current issue of International Wildlife, a bi-monthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

The Himalayas, in Nepal on the north-east border of India, were not open to foreign climbers until 1949. Those early climbs were daring and solitary, usually with fewer than 10 climbers.

The Himalayas gradually became a popular place for climbers from all over the world, especially after Sir Edmund Hillary climbed Mount Everest in the late '50s. The sport became so commercial that some climbers began to carry and endorse products, generating lucrative book, television and equipment-advertising tie-ins.

An example of the extravagance of these climbs was a 1973 climb of Mount Everest by an Italian team which included 44 climbers, 70 Sherpas (Nepalese high-altitude porters), two helicopters with 10 crewman, five radio technicians and hundreds of porters.

These overstuffed expeditions were so outrageous that Sir Hillary said, "For God's sake, leave the poor mountain alone."

By the mid '70s, a few hard-core European and American mountaineers began doing some solo ascents of the biggest peaks of the Himalayas, including two men who went up the mountain without oxygen and another who climbed Mount Everest alone from the Tibetan side.

Though two climbers vanished on solo climbs, these mountaineers encouraged a new breed of climber to try the sport. Instead of looking at the climb as a commercial conquest of a peak, they have embarked on a personal challenge, with few barriers between them and the mountain, according to International Wildlife.

Now it is typical for less than half a dozen climbers to make a climb, with eighty low-altitude porters carrying several weeks' worth of food and fuel to the base camp. The climbers themselves carry the food and fuel between the high camps on the mountain; once past base camp, they are on their own.

As one climber says, "Small expeditions like ours are best. Everyone knows everyone else, their strengths, limitations, habits. It is a great advantage..."

With additional peaks opening up every year, and the Chinese opening up more and more of Tibet to foreign climbers, the Himalayas seem "practically endless." And they are sure to remain a test of personal conquest and challenge.

Math Teachers May Vote In Text Adoption Process

The Floyd county school system is in the process of adopting mathematic textbooks to be used from 1984 until 1990. In accordance with local board policy, each certified teacher actually teaching mathematics will have a vote as to the textbook he or she recommends to be adopted. The textbook publisher receiving the highest number of votes will be considered first choice and will be recommended to the superintendent as the choice of the teachers. The textbooks receiving the highest number of votes will be placed on display at the board's administrative building for two weeks for public comments, beginning on Monday, March 19. The comments will be forwarded to the board members prior to their actual adoption of mathematic textbooks, April 4.

The following is a list of mathematic courses for which textbooks will be adopted:
ELEMENTARY: Elementary Mathematics (K-8), General Mathematics

(7-8), Pre-Algebra (8), Introduction of Algebra (8), and Fundamental Mathematics (8).
SECONDARY: Fundamental Mathematics (9), General Mathematics I (9-10), General Mathematics II (10-12), Introduction to Algebra I (9-10), Introduction to Algebra II (9-11), Algebra I (9-10), Algebra II (10-12), Geometry (9-11), Industrial Geometry (10-12), Advanced Geometry (10-12), Trigonometry (11-12), Analytic Geometry (11-12), Mathematic Functions (11-12), Probability and Statistics (11-12), Introduction to Computers (10-12), Computer Mathematics I (10-12), Computer Mathematics II (11-12), Consumer Mathematics (10-12), Calculus (12), Business Mathematics (10-12), Functional Mathematics I (9), Functional Mathematics II (10), and Functional Mathematics III (11).

New Farm Service Premieres On KET

Kentucky farmers and anyone interested in farming can get the latest weather reports, market prices, and farm news briefs by tuning in to KET throughout the day, thanks to a new information system provided by KET and the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

The innovative system, called "Agtext," takes up-to-date agricultural information from a computer at UK and transmits it statewide through a television signal from KET. Anyone who has a telecaptioning-adaptor or whose television set contains a built-in closed captioning decoder can turn to KET to receive a "rolling scroll" of agriculture news.

Viewers can read capsule reports covering livestock and crop prices, weather, pest and disease outbreaks and control, economic forecasts, engineering developments, crop and animal production recommendations, and news of state agriculture meetings.

The "Agtext" system employs closed captioning television technology used by the hearing impaired, but does not interrupt scheduled programming for the hearing impaired. According to Al Korn, KET's director of operations, "This innovative technology will be of tremendous value to the agribusiness people of Kentucky, as well as anyone else interested in receiving news from U.S.D.A. wire services, the State/Federal market wire, the National Weather Service, or UK's Extension Specialists."

Documentary On Career Of Native Kentuckian

Native Kentuckian Paul Rudolph, from Elktion in Meade county, is a controversial contemporary architect. Inside and out, architecture becomes space and his buildings become vessels shaping the exterior and interior into abstract design.

"Spaces: The Architecture of Paul Rudolph" takes a look at Rudolph's career, which spans 200 buildings and four decades of creativity. The program will air Monday, April 9, at 7 p.m.

The half-hour documentary traces Rudolph's pursuit of his art through some of his most important buildings—from small houses in Florida to highrise office buildings in Texas. The Southern Methodist University Campus and the Tuskegee Institute Chapel provide two unique buildings that are examples of Rudolph's contribution to 20th century architecture.

The film also explores the conflicts that arise between designer, sponsor and user, focusing on the final design phase of the Emory University Chapel. Here, the architect's concepts collide head-on with the clients' demands.

Cliff Robertson narrates the special, which has been nominated for a 1983 Academy Award for documentary short subject. "Spaces: The Architecture of Paul Rudolph" is produced by Bob Eisenhardt.

WOULD YOU SPEAK BEFORE OUR GROUP?

The answer is "Yes."

Educational lectures and informal question-and-answer sessions with community groups about death-and-dying are some of the contributions we are pleased to make to help prepare individuals to better handle a death in the family.

We extend this invitation not only to ministers, doctors, hospital staffs, convalescent home directors, nurses and teachers, but also to men's and ladies' social clubs and church groups.

We want our community to be well-informed on funeral service and the many aspects of death. I'll be glad to help, making use of literature for groups, and providing access to films and other discussion-provoking materials.

If you or members of your group are interested in knowing more about funeral services and procedures, grief-counseling or other pertinent subjects, please call or stop by.

By now we can tell where the grass is greener—on our lawns, or our neighbor's or maybe nowhere. It may be that the only green is obnoxious weeds that forgot to die during the drought.

Many people delayed lawn renovation in the fall fearing rain would never reappear. If there are dead, damaged or thin areas in your lawn, be it fescue or bluegrass, attend to them right away. According to Dr. A. J. Powell, University of Kentucky Extension Turf Specialist, if new seeding is done any later than mid-April, weed competition and moisture heat stress will greatly reduce your success.

There are pro's and con's for using either bluegrass or tall fescue. But whichever you select, do not blend these two together. Blends of two or more cultivars (named types) of bluegrass

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

A nurse from the Health Department will be in Wheelwright on Monday March 26 from 10:00 until 2:00. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, anemia screening, blood pressures, and immunizations. This clinic is a service of the health department and the public is welcome.

The family planning clinic at the Floyd County Health Department offers many choices of birth control. The program is staffed by doctors from the area who help individuals coming into the clinic make decisions about which form of birth control is best for them.

Federal regulations require that family planning clinics charge a fee for services given in their clinics. A sliding fee scale based on family income and size is used to determine the amount paid by each individual.

The family planning program is open to all people regardless of sex, race, color, or national origin. For more information about the family planning program call 606-886-2788, and ask for the family planning program.

Parents To Consider Dyslexic Program Here

An organizational meeting for parents of dyslexic children, or parents who think their children may be dyslexic, will be held Thursday, April 12, at the Floyd County Library at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Ann Latta, Prestonsburg, a supervisor in the Knott County Reading Research Program, which offers one-to-one tutoring for dyslexic children, said anyone interested in seeing a branch of that program started in Floyd county should attend.

Dyslexia is a learning disorder which makes it difficult for otherwise normal children to learn to read or write.

"Their most common error," Mrs. Latta said, "is to read or write letters backwards, or to reverse words."

"However, there are many other symptoms which add up to a dyslexic child. To be certain, a child must be screened."

The next screening for the Knott county program is scheduled April 26-27 at Hindman.

There are currently eight Floyd county children enrolled in the program at Hindman, which is conducted under the auspices of the Kentucky Association for Specific Perceptual Motor Disabilities.

In order to start a branch here, there would need to be 20 students who had been screened and would participate.

"It is estimated that as much as 15 percent of the total population is dyslexic," Mrs. Latta said, "so I feel sure that there are more than eight children in this county who would benefit from the program."

In addition to Floyd county, a branch program here could also serve Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, and Pike counties.

The Knott county program was organized by Mrs. Lois Combs Wienberg, of Hindman, and has been in operation for four years. There are two 13-week semesters per year, plus a summer program that is conducted by the Hindman Settlement School.

The children go one day a week, for three and a half hours, Mrs. Latta said. They receive two hours of instruction in reading, plus an hour of auditory work and a half-hour of a social values class.

"The success of the Knott county program has been outstanding. The children have gained an average of about one year in reading per semester."

Anyone interested in more information about the program may call Mrs. Latta at 886-6100. All interested parents are urged to attend the April 12 meeting.

Pastures May Need Renovating in Spring

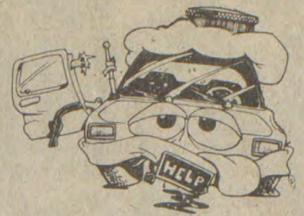

Spring is here and some Floyd County pasture managers may be thinking of renovating their pastures. Renovation of pastures is merely adding legumes (clover, alfalfa, etc.) to an existing grass stand in a pasture. This can be successfully done by the following five easy steps:

Graze or mow the grass closely before attempting to renovate; take a soil test and apply the needed nutrients such as lime, phosphate, and potash; disturb 40-60 percent of grass for sowing clover and 80-100 percent for alfalfa; sow certified seed of adapted legumes at the rates recommended for seeding alone. Be sure that the seed is inoculated with the correct/healthy bacteria strain. Keep the renovated fields grazed short until the livestock start eating off the young legumes.

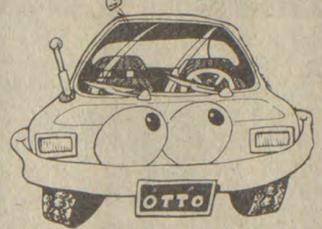

Grass stands renovated by interseeding a legume will yield more pasture or hay per acre than grass alone, even after fertilizing the grass with nitrogen. Legumes add nitrogen to the soil when properly inoculated with the correct strain. Alfalfa can fix 200-300 pounds of nitrogen per acre each year. Ladino clover can fix 100-150 pounds of nitrogen per acre each year. An acre of vetch, lespedeza, and other legumes can fix 75-150 pounds of nitrogen each year. Generally legumes will yield higher quality feed than grasses. When grasses and legumes are harvested at the correct stage of growth, the legumes are usually higher in digestibility, proteins, minerals, and vitamins. For all these reasons Floyd County residents that graze livestock should take a serious look at renovating their pastures.

The local conservation district will be glad to answer any questions concerning renovation. Free technical assistance is also available for other conservation practices. Please call 886-3128 for information.

Meet a Columbia customer whose switch to natural gas is saving $1 million.

"I'm a Columbia Gas serviceman, and my truck has been converted to run on economical CNG (compressed natural gas). I'm also a Columbia Gas customer, paying the same rates as any other customer for using natural gas in my home. So I appreciate the savings to Columbia and all of its customers that the switch to CNG is fueling — over $1 million in less than ten years. CNG reduces maintenance costs, and costs about 25¢ a gallon less than gasoline to buy. So far, nearly 200 Columbia cars and trucks have been converted. Through this program and others — and through the efforts of thousands of Columbia employees — Columbia is working to hold down costs. The more economical we all can be, the more we'll all save. Now, and down the road."

The most interesting part of Jennifer Burke's recent trip to England was an independent study of the different layers of civilization and their contributions to British life.

Miss Burke, a junior at Centre College, is the daughter of Harry and Barbara Burke, of Prestonsburg. She is a member of the Delta Delta Delta sorority at the College.

While participating in Centre College's winter term off-campus program, Miss Burke took two courses. One was her independent study in which she used books written by Winston Churchill. She studied the monarchs from Alfred I to Queen Victoria. As an English major, she says she had a "first hand look at the literature—setting, characters." She also says her government minor is related as her "independent study drew so closely from the English monarchs and system of government."

The second course of study was Medieval Literary History. This course was directed by Dr. Paul Cantrell, professor of English at Centre College, who took the 20 students to gain hands-on experience with the places and things they have studied about. London, Salisbury, Canterbury, Stonehenge and Chester are only a few of the places which were visited as part of the study.

The off-campus program in England was one of four off-campus trips which took Centre students to the Bahamas, France, England, and Denmark.

'Locusts: War Without End' To Air On KET, April 10

Called the "teeth of wind," locusts plagued man for thousands of years. NOVA examines the latest attempt to stop the age-old enemy in "Locusts: War Without End," airing Tuesday, April 10, at 8:00 p.m. on KET.

The flight of the desert locust, captured in slow-motion photography, is a graceful dance. But its ability to travel long distance makes this insect a major international threat.

The locust's flexible eating habits—frugal during droughts, gluttonous when food is plentiful—are a marvel of adaptability. But they also make the locust a dangerous and resilient enemy of humanity, one which can be knocked down but never wiped out.

NOVA reveals both the beauty and terrifying power of this species which has plagued man since the beginning of time and still devastates 60 countries occupying one fifth of the earth's land surface.

This program explores the private life of the locust, much of it never before revealed on film. It documents the most recent war between humans and locusts which lasted from 1977 to 1979 in East Africa, the Middle East, and the Indian subcontinent.

NOVA is produced by WGBH, Boston.

As of March 1983, about 70 percent (6.8 million) of all women maintaining families were white, 29 percent (2.8 million) were black, and less than 10 percent were of Hispanic origin, according to an article in the Department of Labor's Monthly Labor Review.
