17th Red, White & Blue Day Set for Weekend in Martin

Red, White and Blue Day, Floyd county's longest-running patriotic celebration, will see its 17th annual observance, Friday and Saturday, at Martin. The two-day schedule of events this year honors Korean veterans and the Statue of Liberty.

The fund-raising bike-a-thon for St. Jude's Hospital will be held from 4 until 7 p.m., Friday. This will provide a prelude to Saturday's agenda beginning at 9 a.m. with the 5K run starting at Finance Hollow, followed by the Antique Car Show at 10 a.m. Owners of these vintage machines come from Virginia, and Tennessee, as well as from over the state.

Flag-raising ceremonies, sponsored by chapters of the Disabled American Veterans, will be conducted by D.A.V. members with Amvets, American Legion, and Veterans of Foreign Wars members also participating. State and national officers of these organizations are expected to be on hand for the flag-raising as will Martin Mayor Raymond Griffith, Grand Marshal Marchelous Stacy, of Estill, a Korean veteran, who will lead the parade, and Mrs. Marcella Bailey, founder of Red, White and Blue Day. Congressman Chris Perkins and other state and local officials are also expected to be present.

With a break for lunch, festivities will begin again at 1 p.m. with the Antique Car Show where Model A's, Model T's, maybe a Bentley or Cord in mint condition will be exhibited to show what a real car look like.

Highlight of the day will be the parade at 2 p.m. Almost every high school in the county will be represented by marching bands and majorettes. These include Allen Central, Betsy Layne, McDowell, and Wheelwright, with Millard and Owsley County and other high schools expected. Among the floats will be one from Louisville sponsored by the Jefferson County Masonic officers and that of the Amvets depicting a military theme. Smokey the Bear, the Forestry Division's most popular representative, will be present as well as the perennial favorite, Uncle Sam, better known at Martin as Vernon Crisp. Shriners, members of Hillbilly Clans 1 and 31, will entertain the crowd, and beauty queens, including the newly crowned Miss Red, White, and Blue, will add to the parade's attractions.

Throughout the celebration, there will be booths and concession stands to provide sustenance to those attending the two-day event.

Stamp collectors will be able to get first day of issue cancellation service at a temporary philatelic station from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Saturday, and for those who like a memento of each Red, White, and Blue Day, the Amvets Department of Kentucky and Amvets Post 27, of Martin, will be handing out flags along the parade route.

IT WAS A SLOW TRACK at the Turtle Trots, here, Saturday, but that's the way 'tarpons like it. Some of these were a mite confused, or else, they just didn't care where the finish line was.

Blanton Wins $108,764 Case For Damages

The absence of a defendant emerged as a central issue in the Floyd Circuit Court trial last week of a damages suit arising from the collision of two coal trucks on the Mud Creek road.

It was a rainy August 5, 1982 when the laden coal truck driven down Mud Creek by Danny Lee Blanton, of McDowell, met an empty truck driven up the creek by Lonnie G. Hall, of Tolers Creek. The trucks collided on a blind curve at the crest of a hill, about a mile south of Grethel.

Blanton said he was close to the guardrail and that the truck driven by Hall crossed the center line before it struck him, a circumstance also noted in a police report of the incident.

The plaintiff, represented by attorney Dan Rowland, claimed that Hall initially accepted responsibility for the collision. In a later deposition, however, the defendant said he didn't know if he had crossed the center line.

Blanton and his mother also claimed to have smelled alcohol on Hall's breath shortly after the wreck.

Pikeville attorney James B. Todd, representing Hall, angrily disputed the allegation that his client had been drinking, noting that there was no such inference in the report prepared by state police Det. Danny Stumbo and that the charge never surfaced during the long trial preparation. "This was something they made up yesterday. It made me mad," Todd told the jury Thursday, the second day of the two-day trial.

The defense attorney used photographs of the scene in an attempt to cast doubt on his client's liability for the accident. He also disputed Blanton's claims of injury, saying they were unsupported by the voluminous medical evidence presented in the

P'burg Sets Limits For Trick-Or-Treat

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta has imposed the following three restrictions on trick-or-treating this Halloween: (1) the celebration will be limited to one night only, Thursday, Oct. 30, between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m.; (2) no one over 12 may wear a mask of any kind; and (3) a 9 p.m. curfew will apply to anyone engaged in trick-or-treating.

Martin Jailed on Charge Of Scalding Two-Year-Old

A Wayland man, still free after recently pleading guilty to manslaughter in the deaths of two Estill brothers, was accused yesterday (Tuesday) of scalding his reputed girlfriend's two-year-old son.

Charles Martin, 42, was lodged in Floyd county jail on a charge of second-degree assault after social workers reported that Ricky Younce had suffered injuries to the feet, legs, back, and face.

The toddler, who was admitted to King's Daughters' Hospital in Ashland with "first-, second-, and possibly third-degree burns," had been held in hot water according to a complaint sworn out by Deputy Sheriff Anthony Castle.

A RECENT RAID on a marijuana plot on the Floyd-Knott county line netted a trunk full of plants ready for harvest. The raid was made by Detective Danny Stumbo, of the State Police, and officers of the Sheriff's Department.

MCCC Reins Are Returned To Area With New Board

After acting under a state-appointed caretaker since January, when the previous board resigned, the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center here has a new 18-member board of directors. Commissioner Dennis Boyd, of the Kentucky Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services, announced Friday.

The appointment of a new board completes the management shakeup which began with the resignation in August last year of former executive director David E. Bell amid charges of mismanagement, and the resignation of the former board of directors when it appeared the agency would end the fiscal year with a $400,000 deficit.

Stephen E. Schenck, 39, was named in July as the mental health agency's executive director. The new board met for the first time last Wednesday.

The new panel, which includes five Floyd countians, will be "actively involved" in center operations through the committees each member will sit on, said Boyd. The former board was criticized by state investigators as being too uninvolved in the operation of the agency.

In turning back to a local board the reins she has held since January, Deputy Commissioner Burnice Ransdell noted that the agency is now

Hard Questions Put To Board By Floyd Education Council

"I want to see those involved brought before this board and explain why all children do not have textbooks," Board of Education Chairman Dr. J. D. Adams said at a meeting of the board Wednesday. The warning followed the board's adoption of a plan to eliminate delays which have left some Floyd students without books eight weeks into the school year.

The new policy spells out the responsibilities of all those involved in ordering and distributing textbooks and establishes a schedule for placing book orders. In future, orders will be made on schedule and the whole system will not be held up for the sake of a few tardy schools or classes, said Asst. Superintendent Ron Hager.

The policy asserts flatly that "within one week (five school days) after the opening of school, all students are to be issued appropriate textbooks."

One cause of textbook delays that will not easily be resolved, Hager said, is the tendency of publishing houses to serve their biggest customers first. In competition with the huge textbook orders of states like Texas and California, states like Kentucky get left behind, he said.

The textbook issue was one of a battery of questions put to Wednesday's Board of Education meeting by representatives of the Floyd County Citizens Education Council, one of three groups to address the board.

"Approximately $34,466 was over-spent on textbooks (in 1985-86), yet we have heard time and again the past month that there continues to be a book shortage in many grade and high schools. Why?" asked Joyce Everly, whose group has done a study of the school budget. Other questions put by the group:

—Why does the school district need four superintendents, whose salaries last year amounted to $182,334?

—Why is E. P. Grigsby, Jr. paid $47,117 annually to fill a position as executive assistant for which there is no written job description?

—Why were the $10,000 salary raises given to principals this year not tied to job performance?

—Why is a night watchman employed at the school bus garage while the garage supervisor lives rent-free on the site?

—Why does the financial report show overspending of $239,033 in the category of instruction and $26,071 on instructional travel and expenses?

—Why does the district have a deficit of $403,278?

Karen Marcum, another member of the group and a Prestonsburg insurance agent, asked why insurance premiums more than tripled between 1985 and 1986, rising from $24,064 to $78,089.

Under board procedures, the questions are supposed to be answered at the board's next regular meeting.

Another citizens' group, the Floyd County Education Forum, pressed its longstanding request that administration, teacher, and parent representatives meet to draft a policy on parent-teacher conferences.

Marie Conn, a member of the group, said nothing was better calculated to advance children's education than meetings between parents and teachers. She was "saddened," she said, by a directive on newly-designed report cards that appears to discourage parents from approaching teachers directly.

Superintendent Ray Brackett said the directive—requiring parents to schedule all conferences through the

Fletcher Resigns Amid Rumors of 'Falling Out'

At her request, Fletcher has agreed to continue as acting police chief until Jan. 1, 1987, Mayor Ann Latta said.

A member of the city council has vowed meanwhile to go to the public in an effort to see that the police officer is kept on the job permanently.

In announcing the chief's resignation, the mayor said Fletcher cited "personal reasons" as the cause of his decision to step down. In response to a question by council member Harry Ray Porter, however, City Administrator Fred James acknowledged that Fletcher had subsequently handed him a written request that the resignation be withdrawn.

To Porter's question, "Isn't he entitled to a second chance?" the mayor replied simply, "I accepted his resignation when he submitted it." Mrs. Latta later declined comment on rumors that she and the police chief had had a "falling out."

Councilman Porter said he intended to circulate a petition Tuesday seeking support for the police chief. "We'll see if she (Latta) will try to go above the people," he said.

Monday's council meeting, twice stymied for lack of a quorum as different members absented themselves, was also marked by angry and humorous suggestions from some of those who remained.

The meeting had barely begun, with a scant five-member quorum in attendance, when business was halted by the unannounced departure of Dr. Gary Brown, a dentist, reportedly in response to an emergency. After a

Named MSU Recruiter

Dr. Randall L. Wells, professor of education at Morehead State University and a Floyd county native, has been named to coordinate MSU's student recruitment and related activities.

The appointment was announced by MSU President A.D. Albright who described Dr. Wells as "an enthusiastic and experienced educator who understands student recruitment in eastern Kentucky."

As MSU's coordinator of school relations, Dr. Wells is responsible to Dr. Albright primarily for oversight of the University's admissions activities in the 47 high schools and four two-year colleges in the University's 22-county service region. Included will be programs to involve local alumni and other MSU supporters in student recruitment.

In addition, he will monitor the professional staffing needs of local school districts and advise MSU's academic program planners.

Dr. Wells will remain a member of the MSU faculty where he has served since 1968. A two-time graduate of MSU, he holds a doctorate from Union Graduate School. Dr. Wells also is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School.

"This new assignment represents a tremendous challenge and I am pleased to have this opportunity to help our University and the people of my home region," Dr. Wells stated. "All of us are committed to MSU truly becoming Kentucky's university of the mountains."

Well-known in education circles, Dr. Wells has been a consultant to the Kentucky Department of Education and to the state Advisory Committee on Dropout Prevention.

A former supervisor with the state Department of Education, he also has been a Harrison County elementary school principal and band director at Rowan County High School.

He is a member of the Commonwealth Faculty and a certified trainer for the Beginning Teacher Internship Program. Dr. Wells is active in numerous professional organizations including Phi Delta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi and also wrote an inservice teacher training manual for the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity.

Dr. Wells, who is a charter member of the Floyd County Hall of Fame, is married to the former Sue Shackelford, of Morehead, also an MSU faculty member. They are the parents of a daughter, Troy Lynn, who teaches at Haines City (Fla.) High School. He is the son of Mrs. Sam Wells, of Prestonsburg.

Stats Give Profile Of Typical Murder Victim

A newly-released study of murder, published by the Kentucky State Police, shows that the typical murder victim in Kentucky is a white male between the ages of 20 and 50, killed by a relative or acquaintance during an argument.

The report, entitled "Focus on Murder", analyzes 370 criminal homicides which were investigated by state and local police from January 1985 through June 1986. The report excludes traffic deaths due to negligence as well as suicides, accidental deaths and justifiable homicides.

According to the analysis, there were 25 different circumstances surrounding the 370 murders reported. In 60 cases, the victim was murdered during the commission of another felony, predominately robbery (37 victims).

In 40 cases, the circumstances were unknown to the police when the homicide report was submitted. Seventy-seven percent of those murders, not classified as "felony type", involved arguments with acquaintances (93 victims), family quarrels (84 victims) and arguments among lovers or ex-spouses (31 victims). Another 30 victims were killed as a result of drunken or racial arguments, homosexual lover arguments or other fights.

The relationship between the victim and the offender is most often of an acquaintance nature (180 victims) or is a spouse/fiancee, immediate family member or relative (99 victims). Only 33 percent of the victims were murdered by strangers.

Guns are the most frequent weapon used in murders. A firearm was used in 257 of the reported murders, handguns accounting for 70.4 percent of those murders involving firearms. A knife, or other sharp instrument, was used in 14 percent of the murders.

More murders occur in rural areas of Kentucky than in urban locations. Fifty-eight percent of the murders occurred in rural areas. Of Kentucky's 120 counties, 92 reported murders during the 18-month period.

Although young and middle-aged adults are the most frequent murder victims, over half of the victims killed during the course of a robbery or burglary were over 55 years of age, the majority of these victims being 65 years or older.

Nine children under the age of 13 were murdered, and eight of those nine were killed by a parent who was teenage or a young adult.

More than half of the murder victims were murdered by a male offender. One in 10 victims were males murdered by a female. Three of every four victims in Kentucky were white persons killed by another white person. Nineteen percent of the victims were black persons murdered by another black.

Because most murder victims were either related or acquaintances of the offender, law enforcement officials cleared most murder cases by arrest. Of the 370 reported murders, 312 (84.3%) were cleared.

For the calendar year of 1985, Kentucky's murder rate was seven victims for every 100,000 citizens. The nation, in 1985, averaged eight victims for every 100,000 citizens.

A SHORTCUT TO THE COMFORT OF GAS HEAT: NO CHIMNEY.

Good news...you can have gas heat without a lot of expensive home alterations.

That's because some of the new high-efficiency gas furnaces vent through the wall, and don't need a chimney. So they can be installed easily—and in so little time, you can have it done on a cold winter day and never feel a chill.

Sound good? It gets better. A new high-efficiency model uses as much as 30% less energy—even as it keeps your home warm and cozy.

Check with a heating dealer on availability of these new side wall-venting units. You may find there's a welcome shortcut to having the comfort, efficiency and dependability of gas heat in your home.

The Special Choir Anthem, "Till the Storm Passes By," was dedicated to Mrs. Allie Spradlin, and the benediction was by Rondal Sexton. At the First United Methodist, the message was brought by Maynard Miller, of Nicholasville, whose topic was "Love is More Than a Feeling." Mr. Miller is campus director of the Methodist Home and vice chairman of the Kentucky Conference Volunteers in the Missions Program. Other laymen taking part were Tom Price, who gave the welcome address; Rose Glenn, who led in prayer, and Paul Messer, who gave the benediction. A large crowd was in attendance during both services.

principal—was intended as a "crowd control" measure and was not meant to displace the less formal mechanism already in operation in many schools. The district's teachers are currently being polled, he said, to see how many would be available for parent-teacher conferences outside their paid work hours.

Board Chairman Dr. J. D. Adams and member Ray "Shag" Campbell agreed to meet with a negotiating committee of the Floyd County Education Association, a teachers group, within two weeks. The meeting, which was requested by FCEA representative Eugene Blackburn, was hailed by Brackett as "a healthy start to good communication." The superintendent's endorsement drew applause from a few of about 35 teachers present.

At the request of FCEA president Patricia Barnette, classes scheduled for December 29, 30 and 31 and January 2 will be cancelled and those days will be made up at the end of the school year. Mrs. Barnette cited the high absentee rate when classes are scheduled over the Christmas holiday period. She also noted pointedly that teachers had not been involved in planning the calendar, despite an administration pledge that they would be consulted. Supt. Brackett acknowledged the oversight and pledged to "work better with (the teachers') group in the future."

REBEKAHS MEET

Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 met in regular session, Tuesday, October 7, with the Noble Grand, Mrs. Sue Moore, presiding. The regular routine of business was taken care of, and those who were on the sick list were noted. A report on the District meeting held in Pikeville, September 20, was given by Mrs. Mary Zemo.

Birthday greetings were extended to Mrs. Venelia Rinehart.

Members were reminded that during the next meeting, October 21, the installation of officers will be held.

The secretary presented a gold key to those who had brought in new petitions this year and new members were given silver keys. # Bits and Pieces

WOULD YOU BELIEVE?

Would you believe that I was once a 98-pound weakling—96 pounds, actually. No? You probably wouldn't believe 94, either. Oh, well, I am becoming accustomed to such scepticism.

Sticks and stones may break my bones, but sniggers never hurt me, so let's go a step or two farther beyond the bounds of belief.

People used to say, "Do you feel all right?" And one I cherish from a tactful underclassman, "You look so ethereal." That means almost not there. I looked it up, and never could decide whether she was referring to my physical or mental state.

Well, 38 long ones later, the happiest day I have had in recent years is when my bathroom scales went on the blink—and no, I do not want new ones.

I would not want to go into the details of such a weighty question, but suffice it to say I am often late to work, because everything has shrunk—again and overnight, yet!

Then, there's the sad fact that clothes just aren't what they used to be. They rip, tear, split in the most embarrassing places for no reason at all these days. Tsk, tsk.

I did learn, somewhere along the line, that if Mother said, "You look so healthy," it was time to watch it.

I guess I'm now in the pink, and I just figured out what happened to those scales. They didn't go on the blink. They broke.

I wish someone would tell me a joke I could print.

THE UNVARNISHED TRUTH

And that reminds me of the best T-shirt message I've seen. A few years ago at Myrtle Beach, I saw all kinds proclaiming to the world at large the wearer's hometown, state, or region with reasons not to be denied as to why each was the true garden spot of the world. But the one I remember said, "Podunk, Ky., known for absolutely nothing."

Comments Board

I should like to comment on Buford Slone's letter in a recent issue of the Times.

Just to set the record straight, Mr. Slone, the people of Garrett and Wayland are not and have never been "feuding" over where the new consolidated elementary school should be built.

The right-thinking people of both Garrett and Wayland want only for the new school to be built on high ground, safe from the floodwaters of Right Beaver Creek. Many of Garrett's citizens, for this reason, signed our petitions asking for a better site than the one at Garrett where the current school is located.

I feel that the citizens of both communities can now feel satisfied that the Board of Education has come up with an alternate site, as announced in a recent issue of the Times. I commend the Board and Mr. Brackett on listening to the "united voice of the people".

Former Clerk Not Liable For Deputy

As long as he hired skilled staff, a former Floyd county clerk cannot be held responsible for the criminal act of one of his deputies, the Kentucky Court of Appeals ruled Friday.

The case on appeal was brought by a Prestonsburg finance company, which claimed that John Spradlin, a deputy under County Clerk Thomas Lafferty, Jr., obtained a loan by fraudulently claiming his car was paid for.

The Kentucky Finance Company claimed that Spradlin and his wife, Sharon, took out a $4085 loan in May, 1984, putting up their 1982 Oldsmobile Cutlass as security.

To prove there were no prior liens against the vehicle, the Spradlins produced a certificate of title and registration which indicated that a lien held by General Motors Acceptance Corp. had just been released. The certificate bore Lafferty's signature.

In fact, GMAC still had a lien on the car, which it later repossessed. The Spradlins filed for bankruptcy. Kentucky Finance sued them, Lafferty, and the clerk's bonding company, Fidelity and Deposit Co. of Maryland, to recover its loan.

In Floyd Circuit Court, Spradlin was found to have "committed the criminal act of forging Lafferty's name to the certificate without the clerk's knowledge." Lafferty and his bonding company were held not liable.

The appeals court upheld the ruling. "We realize that our view affords little protection to the public generally and GMAC particularly when a dishonest public servant issues a false certificate, but we can only suggest a central filing system as exists in other states," Judge Charles Lester wrote in the unanimous ruling.

Lester said Lafferty's duty was to hire employees with suitable skill, "and if he does so he is not responsible for their negligence."

As for the bonding company, the court ruled that the "illegal or criminal act was not contemplated under the terms of the bond."

Presbyterian Meet To Mark 200th Year

Presbyterians from Eastern and Central Kentucky will gather at the First Presbyterian Church in Lexington at 2:30 Sunday afternoon to observe the bicentennial anniversary of the founding of the Presbytery of Transylvania, the regional governing body of Presbyterians in this area.

Two hundred years ago on October 17-18, at the direction of the Synod of Virginia, five Presbyterian ministers and ruling elders met at the court house in Danville to form the Presbytery of Transylvania, the ninth formed in America and the first west of the Alleghenies. It included not only all of Kentucky but also the settlements around Nashville, Tennessee, those on the Miamis in Ohio, and all the West—an unlimited area. These pioneer Presbyterians represented 12 Presbyterian churches in the area, eight of which are still active.

Following a fellowship hour, there will be a service in drama and music composed of historical vignettes on early events which shaped the Presbytery.

The service will conclude with the singing of the Bicentennial Hymn, "As Pioneering Saints of Old," written by the Rev. Timothy Jessen, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, here.

$100,000 Utilities Payment Eases City's Cash Crisis

While past city councils have been wasting money, at least the city utilities system has been in provident hands, Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta told members of the city council Monday. Her assessment came as she accepted a check from the utility to pay the city's bills and ease its cash-flow crisis.

The $100,000 contribution to the city's general fund represented an initial payment by the utilities commission of a total sum yet to be determined. As long as the utilities commission operates at a profit, the city can expect to receive a payment annually, the mayor said.

The utility commission's largesse is not exactly of its own choosing.

This week's windfall came as the result of a suggestion by council two weeks ago that the city approach the commission for a loan. A review of the relevant state statute revealed that the utility is in fact bound to turn over to the general fund any monies left over after it has met its operating and maintenance costs, depreciation and debt service, the mayor said.

Neither the city administration nor the utility had been aware of this requirement, said the mayor, who noted that it was not enacted as law until 1960, three years after the utilities commission was established.

Nor did the utility begin making enough money to turn any over to the general fund until the past few years, said the mayor, who attributed the utility's present profitability to the prudent management of commissioners C. J. McNally and John Burke, who have served in that capacity since 1973 and 1974 respectively, and of superintendent Bill Harvey Howard.

"The Prestonsburg Utilities Commission today, thanks to those men, is the best run, best operated utility system in eastern Kentucky and probably, for a city our size, in the entire state of Kentucky," Mrs. Latta said.

"Due to its investments and interest it has accrued on earnings over the past few years, the commission will be able to turn over a sizeable amount of money this year to the general fund for past revenues due," the mayor said. The exact amount to be turned over will be known by the council's next meeting, she said.

Management of the utilities system by McNally, Burke and Richard Earl Martin, who has served as commissioner since 1984, "has allowed the city of Prestonsburg to avert an almost certain financial crisis," the mayor said.

"I want to further pledge to those gentlemen, and to the people of Prestonsburg, that this administration will make every effort to use these funds as wisely as the Utility Commission has done in the past," the mayor said.

"You are all painfully aware that there has been inefficiency and waste in city government," the mayor told the council. "We must continue to eliminate it as we have been doing the past few months. We must continue the work we've started to get rid of money-losing operations. We must continue to watch every penny that is spent."

Part of the $100,000 initial payment will be used to "clear up old bills and try to resolve our cash-flow situation," the mayor said. As soon as possible, she and City Administrator Fred James will present to the council a budget plan for the remaining funds, she said.

The Trots...Businesses Are Racey!

By JEANNE SPURLOCK

The fifth annual Terrapin Trot held during the Jenny Wiley festival in Prestonsburg is officially over.

The businesses did it all this time, beating the groups, banks, doctors and kids on a slow track. (The time was 1:49!) Under the wire first was "Wilkie," No. 165, owned by Piggly Wiggly, of Prestonsburg. This guy really held on as No. 140, "Wally World," owned by Wal-Mart, Prestonsburg was a close second. With all four claws dug in, and moving in high gear was No. 103, "Knothole Joe," owned by VanHoose Lumber, of P'burg-Paintsville. Congratulations to these super fast businesses! Each received a trophy, ribbons and $100, $50, and $25, respectively.

Turtles of all shapes, sizes and speeds were gathered together for several hours doing their thing for mankind Saturday. Mingling in the crowd, one might pick up all kinds of good information on turtle lore.

"Is this a boy turtle? His eyes are brown!" (No) "My turtle just ate half of a candy apple. Will it hurt him?" "(Not if he liked it)." "I gave my turtle a bath and he can run faster". (A clean car always did run better)." "How can my turtle run with my finger in his mouth?" (Run with him). Oh, well... The turtle trot committee, again consisting of whoever shows up to work, thought this was a very good turnout considering the terrible early morning weather. The weather cleared for a beautiful day, and despite some mixups and mishaps, and some very slow heats, the races went very well.

The businesses and groups were the first to race in Heats No. 1 through No. 9. Up to twenty terrapins ran in a heat. These heats were called the Derby. The winners of each heat ran back in the final race of the day, the SWEET-STAKES. Blue ribbons went to the following businesses or groups.

Heat No. 1-3, NOXXE GAS CO., Prestonsburg, "Northeast," (3:12); Heat No. 2-22, ANONYMOUS, "The Green Machine," (1:53); Heat No. 3-52, HIGHLAND TIRE PRODUCTS, of Paintsville, "Sweet Cheeks," (1:41); Heat No. 4-78, HOBERT'S PIZZARIA, Prestonsburg, "Reddy-To-Go," (8:57); Heat No. 5-94, EARL CASTLE'S JEWELRY, Prestonsburg, "Emerald Earl," (2:00); Heat No. 6-103, VANHOOSE LUMBER, Prestonsburg/Paintsville "Knothole Joe," (1:51); Heat No. 7-140, WAL-MART, Prestonsburg "Wally World," (6:46); Heat No. 8-160 HIGHLANDS REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER, U.S. 23, "Trauma," (55); Heat No. 9-165, Piggly Wiggly, Prestonsburg, "Wilkie," (2:41).

CONGRATULATIONS!

Creeping up next on the Race Day Agenda was the class for banks, bank branches, and loan offices, etc. The winner of this heat received a turtle trophy paper weight and ribbon. They also ran in the final race.

The winner was No. 183, First Commonwealth Branch Bank, of Martin with "Marty," (1:24).

The Sawbones Classic was designed for all our good doctors in mind. This included MD's, dentists, veterinarians, chiropractors, etc. The winner was No. 208, Dr. Keith Leslie, DMD, Prestonsburg, with "Lady Ashley," (1:20).

Lets not forget our schools! We had two big entries. (Shame on you Schools! Next year, lets get a bigger turn out. Yay!). The winner was No. 87, 7th and 8th grade, Our Lady of the Mountain School, Paintsville, with "Retro-Burner," (3:24).

Last, but not least, was the Claiming Race. These Heats look in all the families and single entries. The winners were Heat 13-No. 224, Becky Goble, "Speedball," (:49); Heat 14-No. 238, Shawn Gwinn, "Runner," (1:11); Heat 15-No. 249, Brian Berger, "Oscar," (1:14); Heat 16-No. 266, Chris Hicks, "Copper," (:48); (Chris Hicks also held the 1986 Track Record with :48).

There were many more entries but just too many to mention everyone. We appreciate you all!

The Turtle Shoebox Contest was a new addition to the trots this year. For a $2 entry fee, folks could doll up a shoebox anyway they liked to be judged as "the best shoebox a turtle would like to live in." A $50 savings bond was given by the First Commonwealth Bank for the best box. Little Brenden Chandler, went home with a big grin. Congratulations!

Keeping the Turtle Trots "fairly" organized is a big job for the committee and we certainly hope everyone had a good time.

Should anyone have any suggestions to better the trots, feel free to call 886-3160 or write: Turtle Trots % First Commonwealth Bank, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. We'll see what we can do!

Thanks a million!
See you next year.

T. T. COMMITTEE

P.S. The turtles (135 of the little dears) were turned loose at Jenny Wiley State Park. That was a race and a half."

Older Day-Care Workers Have Less Job Burnout

Older women who have raised several children of their own experience less job burnout as day-care attendants than do younger, college-educated day-care staff, says Kim F. Townley, a professor of child development in the College of Home Economics at the University of Kentucky.

Townley and Kathy R. Thornburg, a professor of child and family development at the University of Missouri-Columbia, conducted a study of job satisfaction among 207 day care attendants in privately- and community-sponsored programs in Kentucky, Ohio, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

Caring for these infants and toddlers is a labor-intensive job which can lead to burnout, notes Townley. In the survey, those experiencing the most burnout were between the ages of 25 and 34, had a college degree and fewer than two children of their own.

The group showing the least burnout were 50 or older, without a college degree and had raised two or more children.

"But this doesn't mean that older caretakers necessarily give better service—only that they experience less burnout," says Townley. "In some cases, those who are least interested in the job may suffer the least burnout."

This older group "would not experience the conflict between educational, idealistic expectations and reality," says Townley. "Also, they've had hands-on experience with children going through growth and development and have probably developed skills to alleviate burnout."

Townley and Thornburg's study also indicated elements which can improve general job satisfaction among day-care personnel. "Job satisfaction improves with adequate workspace, positive feedback from parents and having input in administration of the day-care program," says Townley.

Taking breaks away from the children during the work shift is also a simple way to relieve stress, she says. Yet many programs do not provide breaks for the attendants.

"If we can lower these workers' stress levels the children will benefit from better care and interaction with the adults," says Townley.

Direct Deposit Advantage Underscored by PO Break

The recent robbery of the Eastern post office is another good reason why people receiving Social Security checks should consider direct deposit, Jim Kelly, Social Security District Director, said this week.

Almost 100 Social Security and Black Lung checks were stolen, causing no small problem for the intended recipients, Kelly said. However, those beneficiaries who had direct deposit of their Social Security checks were not affected as their Social Security payment had already been credited to their checking or savings account.

With direct deposit, checks are sent directly to a checking or savings account in a bank, savings institution, credit union, or other financial institution, rather than to the post office of a person's home.

Some advantages are:

1. A person does not have to be home to get the check. The money will be immediately available in an account.
2. There is no worry about the check being lost or stolen.
3. There is no need to stand in line to cash or deposit the check.
4. It is safer to keep money in an account rather than at home or on one's person.
5. A checkbook provides a written record for keeping track of one's money.

To arrange for direct deposit, a person should contact their bank or other financial institution and request direct deposit. They will complete the necessary form for you.

A person's Social Security check contains all the information necessary to complete the form. A person should check to make sure how the institution will handle the account.

It is very important for people with direct deposit to continue notifying Social Security of any address change so they will receive any notices sent about their benefits.

"More than 50,000 Government checks are stolen every month throughout the United States. Don't let your check be one of them," Kelly said.

More information about direct deposit can be obtained at the Big Sandy Area District Social Security office, located on U.S. 23 between Paintsville and Prestonsburg. The telephone number is listed in the local phone directory under U.S. Government.

There's mounting evidence that disposal sites receiving toxic wastes cleaned up from abandoned dumps with Superfund money are becoming hazardous themselves, says the National Wildlife Federation. Rather than moving toxic waste to new landfills that eventually leak, National Wildlife says longer lasting solutions, even if they cost a little more in the short run, should be preferred under Superfund law.

Possom Pumpkin

This possom pumpkin, which weighed approximately 100 pounds, was grown by Fleming K. Stiltner, of Hippo.

BABYLON

God said I will call my two son's out of Babylon.

Now think about that, why didn't God call two sons that were not in Babylon?

According to the Bible there was no one that wasn't in Babylon. In another scripture God said I called but no one answered. God said they were all hid in holes and prison houses.

These scriptures are talking about now, the end time when the Lord came looking for someone He could use to announce that the end time had come, the end of the mysteries of God. It was prophesied that it would be prophesied in Dan and published from Ephraim.

In a vision I was shown how people are put in prison. I was standing inside a building, I was looking down the aisle to the altar, I saw people crying at the altar, one man started to leave, when he got to me I took him by the arm and led him back down the aisle to the altar I told the man in charge to put him in prison, he said he couldn't. He said the man wasn't drunk enough yet.

Then I was caused to know he didn't believe the doctrine these people had at that church, and he wouldn't promise them that he would support it.

Then I was taken into the prison part of this building and shown the spirits of the people who believed their doctrine there, and the prison cells were over crowded and these people in these cells didn't seem to know it was better outside, and when they wanted to know something they would ask the people who looked after them.

Then I considered how they got in that prison. Seemingly without knowing it, (Isaiah 10:20)

Now it's important that a man hear the word of God and believe and repent and I started to say be baptised, but the spirit showed me to not say that, and I stopped to consider this. What is going on?

Then I considered those people in prison again. It was a church prison, spirit prison, and those people had got in that prison through their baptism. The devil has used the Lord's baptism as a means of tricking people into joining churches. What a terrible thing it is. (Rev. 17:8)

Now the church will say they don't baptise you into their church. In my lifetime, I joined three different churches, all three baptised me. My grandpa had a saying, I don't believe my own lies much less someone elses.

In visions I was caused to know to write letters and ask for my name to be taken off all three of those church record books. My wife did likewise and the Lord blessed her.

That prison was the devils prison, and those people that are in there, if they don't use wisdom and escape they will go to outer darkness with the devil (Isaiah 14:17)

The devil got a third of the angels of heaven, but this is his stamping ground. He's going to do a lot better here.

(Zachariah 13:8) says two parts in all the land shall be cut off and die, and one part shall remain.

I keep having to go to the Old Testament to get references about the time we are living in and the judgement, and how we are to worship God in the future. Who are those people that say we don't use it any more.

In a vision I saw when the Lord came to earth the first time, the devil had the people in prison (men's doctrine) and the Lord didn't have any money to buy them out with, so He gave His blood so they could go free, then He went on a long trip, and when He came back the devil had them in prison again, and the Lord didn't have any money to buy them out with. He didn't even have any blood left, He had given it all the first time.

But the devil had some strong beasts holding these people in prison, so the Lord had those strong beasts killed. But the Lord cannot make the people come out.

In a vision I saw a man that was elected to a high office, and because his two sons were in prison he let the whole prison go free. But hardly any came out, they liked what the devil fed them there.

The devil created a spirit and deceived a third of the angels with it. If you want to feel it, play some gospel music. It makes you feel like you are on your way to heaven, when the fact is the Bible teaches you are going to the judgement to suffer and die (Rev. 20:4,5,6.)

We are living in the time when the Lord said He would listen to what we are saying and make a record.

Remember to keep God's Holy Seventh Day, Sabbath. It's called Saturday on the devils calendar.

In (Rev. 18) you will find that the blood of the prophets and saints was found in Babylon. If you search the Bible you will find that church people killed them. They also had Jesus Christ put to death.

The churches are Babylon. It's time for Babylon to burn. Goodbye, Babylon. (Isaiah 13:19-22)

The Bible says the carnal mind isn't subject to the spirit of God neither indeed can be. Now the mind controls the body, that is why our spirits were taken to the judgement world for the tribulation.

The Bible says for the abundance of milk every man shall eat butter and honey. Let us look now and see why all that milk, (Isaiah 7:15). We have a Bible prophesy concerning Christs first coming, and it says butter and honey shall He eat that He may know to refuse the evil and choose the good. Now stop and think about his, the one who is now Lord of all the host of heaven, when He was here on this earth, had to eat butter and honey so He would know how to refuse the evil and choose the good.

Now look at all the world's religions. Do you really believe they are smarter than Jesus Christ. Then why aren't they eating butter and honey? It's because they are so deep in the evils of this world that they don't believe in butter and honey.

The Bible says talking about spiritual leaders, they promise them liberty while they themselves are the servants of corruption. That's the reason those people's spirits were in the devils prison, those servants of corruption had captured them for the devil, through their joining them to be baptised.

Now what this is saying is that the evil spirits have taken over the plan of salvation and is using it to capture the world with. In fact they already have read the 17th and 18th chapters of Revelations over and over.

God said cursed is the man that keepeth not the Sabbath Day holy, cursed is aging, aging is in outer darkness.

Week To Foster SIDS Awareness

The dictionary defines "grief" as "intense mental anguish; acute sorrow." But words could never express parents' feelings when they lose a child.

About 100 deaths of Kentucky babies will be attributed to Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, or SIDS, this year. SIDS, more commonly called crib death, is the most frequent cause of death in infants after the first month of life. The governor has declared Oct. 13-18 "Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Awareness Week" in Kentucky.

The syndrome shows no symptoms and cannot be prevented. These factors contribute to parents' natural grief. "When somebody dies, we always search for a reason and ask why," said Ida Lyons, R.N., coordinator of the SIDS program in the Department for Health Services. "With SIDS, there is not a 'why.' Doctors can't tell us why."

"Parents usually feel guilty—they think that the death was caused by something they did or did not do," said Lyons. "This just is not true."

Parents and families who lose a child to SIDS need special understanding and care to help them cope with grief and guilt that follow the death. The Health Services SIDS program conducts seminars all across the state for social workers; police officers, the clergy, coroners, funeral home directors, emergency medical personnel, nurses, doctors—anyone who might come into contact with a grieving parent.

"The purpose of the seminars is to acquaint these people—who might be among the first to confront a parent who has lost a baby—with information about SIDS and how they can help parents," Lyons said.

Kentucky has a network of SIDS counselors for all 120 counties. When counselors, who are usually on the local health department staff, learn of a SIDS death, they contact the family and ask for an appointment to talk about SIDS.

"These counselors can help parents understand the death and explain to them that a SIDS death cannot be prevented, even by a physician. They try to relieve some of the guilt feelings that parents have by telling them the facts," said Lyons. "Counselors also try to answer questions from the family."

It's important that older brothers and sisters get attention during this difficult time, she said. "Older children are sometimes jealous of a new baby and may even wish that the baby would go away. When that baby dies, they believe that their wish came true."

"Sometimes older children are afraid to go to sleep because they think they will die. The brothers and sisters need special attention, which grieving parents might not be able to give," said Lyons. "So counselors try to talk to the children as well."

Although research has prompted a number of theories about the cause or causes of SIDS, no one knows why it happens or how to prevent it. In one case, SIDS occurred in a healthy baby who had been examined by a doctor just a few minutes earlier.

QUESTION: I am aware that there is much research going on using animals in the scientific studies of cancer treatments. It seems unfair to subject animals to these conditions if there is any other way to do research. Why are animal experiments so essential? Why can't the research be done using just test tubes and chemicals?

ANSWER: Nonanimal experiments are encouraged and used whenever possible. Many times, however, the use of animals is vital to cancer research.

Cancer research involves many techniques, some using test tubes and chemicals (basic research), some using animals (laboratory or animal research), and some using humans (clinical trials). Research on possible cancer treatment methods begins in basic research, which gives information on how a method works outside of a living organism (like a test tube or beaker). However, it cannot predict how a treatment will react in a living organism. Therefore, treatments which show promise in basic research must be tested in a living organism, to account for any unexpected problems or side effects. For public safety reasons the law requires that testing be done on animals first, to see what problems and side effects may occur, and whether or not they are too severe for humans. This law was designed to protect humans from treatment methods which may be more harmful than helpful.

Select animals are used to research possible cancer treatments. The animals chosen for research have desirable characteristics such as their small size and short life spans. Because their lifespans are short compared to humans, test results can be seen more quickly. The most promising treatments can then be moved to the first phase of human testing in clinical trials.

Guidelines for the care of animals used in research have been established by the Department of Human Services. All animal research funded by the National Cancer Institute must obey these guidelines. Animals must have clean, comfortable housing, and must not be caused unusual discomfort. Anesthesia and/or painkillers must be given to animals if the research is to involve excessive pain or discomfort.

Humans have benefited because of knowledge gained through animal research. Animal research has given us valuable information about the causes and treatment of cancer and other diseases.

For more information on any cancer related subject call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER or write to the CIS, McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Community Cancer Program.

Philip Morris Offers $15,000 in Essay Contest

In an effort to focus national attention on the importance of the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution, Kentucky writers are invited to submit essays on the value of the First Amendment to American business.

Philip Morris Magazine is sponsoring the contest which will award $1,000 to the best essay submitted from Kentucky. The state's winning entry will then be judged with top essays from 49 other states for a national first place award of $15,000. The second place national prize is $7,500; third place is $5,000 and fourth place is $2,500. The best essays will be published in national publications.

Citing the purpose of the contest, Guy Smith IV, vice president, Corporate Affairs for Philip Morris U.S.A. and publisher of Philip Morris Magazine said, "A real threat exists today to commercial free speech in this country. The husbandry of the First Amendment has been the occupation of writers and scholars, journalists and politicians. But it has also drawn the grateful attention of business leaders as it protected the country's commercial words, promising as it does that flow of information about goods and services will not be damned by government or by mindless interpretation of what deserves to be heard."

Essays must be received by Philip Morris Magazine by January 1, 1987. The documents must be less than 2,500 words and include reference to the following topics: censorship of expression in American life; defense of the first amendment's application to American business; and the negative ramifications of a ban on cigarette advertising.

The contest, which will be judged by an independent panel, is open to anyone 21 years of age or older and not a Philip Morris employee. The typed essays should be submitted directly with the author's name and address to Philip Morris Magazine, 120 Park Avenue, New York, Y.Y. 10017.

Grant Made To Study Honduran Artifacts

University of Kentucky anthropologist Kenneth Hirth has received a National Science Foundation grant of $60,059 to study ancient artifacts recovered from an archaeological site in Honduras.

Included in the collection are several jade artifacts—mostly beads, pendants and other jewelry—which may have been associated with agricultural fertility by the ancient inhabitants of the area, says Hirth.

"These pieces appear to have been used by the elite members of society," Hirth said. He added that because jade is not native to Honduras, the pieces indicate the existence of a long-distance trade network.

He said several of the pieces were recently photographed by the National Geographic for possible inclusion in an upcoming article about jade.

The more than 3,000 carved jade, jadeite and marble artifacts, dating from about 300 B.C. to 900 A.D., comprise one of the largest such finds ever in the New World, said Hirth.

The archaeological finds are not limited to jade. Hirth said the four-year project also uncovered numerous artifacts of daily life, including cooking vessels, tools, and building foundations. The excavations took place at the site of a regional capital believed to have been populated by several thousand ancient Lenca Indians.

Like many South and Central American cultures of the time, their society was relatively advanced in comparison to North American cultures, with evidence of complex religion, large buildings, and organized trade.

The excavation—a project of UK and the Honduran National Institute of Anthropology and History—has been supervised by Hirth since it began in 1980.

For additional information contact Dr. Hirth at 606-257-6921.

Conference Highlights Change In Child Support Enforcement

Collecting child support in Kentucky can be a slow process sometimes, but a new program being established in the Department for Social Insurance will help speed up collection procedures.
The new program is one of many changes that will be discussed at the Kentucky Child Support Enforcement Conference, which will be Oct. 14-17 at the Ramada Inn East Convention Center on Hurstbourne Lane in Louisville.

"Beginning in March, we will be able to issue an administrative order to set a child support obligation without going to court if paternity is not an issue," said Director David Cathers of the department's Division of Child Support Enforcement. "Currently, everything has to be referred to the judicial system before we can act on it. The 'administrative process,' as it's known, will eliminate that step in some instances."
The conference also will feature presentations on the tax intercept program, criminal non-support legislation, processing paternity and collection suits in the military and a study on how the "administrative process" program has worked during the 10 years it has been in effect in Virginia.

"Most of these changes were approved during the 1984 General Assembly and will be implemented statewide," said Cathers. "The changes will make it much more difficult for a parent to avoid paying court-ordered child support and much easier for us to collect past due payments."

One of the most publicized changes is the law that allows delinquent child support payments to be withheld from federal and state income tax returns and unemployment insurance benefits.
"Even if a responsible parent lives outside of Kentucky, we can begin mandatory wage and tax withholding procedures if they fall behind in child support payments," said Cathers. "The federal government has declared that all states participate in this program, so these procedures can be implemented regardless of the parent's residence."

The conference will feature several guest speakers on child support enforcement, including Wayne Stanton, Director of the Office of Child Support Enforcement in Washington, D.C.; Judge June Rose Galvin of the National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges, Toledo, Ohio; and Major Charles W. Hemingway, an instructor in family law and chief of the U.S. Army's Judge Advocate General School in Charlottesville, Va.

A registration fee is required for the conference. Interested persons may contact Pat Niceley or Leslie Durso at (502) 564-4621.

About half (50.6 percent) of Hispanic mothers of children under 18 years of age were in the labor force in March 1985, compared with 62.1 percent for all mothers, according to "Women of Hispanic Origin in the United States Labor Force," a publication of the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Proclaim Liberty!
What Is The Hamlin Institute?

Several readers have asked about the Hamlin Institute, which sponsors the national syndicated column "Proclaim Liberty!"

The inquiry is sound, for the air is full of flying "fronts" these days. Both political and religious groups have, over recent decades, perfected the strategy of launching organizations with an obvious public purpose to attract and eventually corral new members.

Since I founded the Hamlin Institute, with the help of a few friends, and perhaps also because I have been a Methodist clergyman for 53 years, I shall answer the question in a more personal way than usual in the column. Wesleyans (among some others) are obligated to give a personal testimony when the situation calls for it.

My primary center of concern, as a preacher and a professor, has been the issue of religious liberty and persecution. Since 1936 I have written some two dozen books and several hundred articles, almost all of which deal in one way or another in praise of the politics of liberty and self-government and in condemnation of despotisms and dictatorships. The center of the Federal Constitution is the Bill of Rights. The cornerstone of the Bill of Rights is the First Amendment. And the heart of the First Amendment is religious liberty.

I also spent nearly ten years as an officer in the American occupation of Germany after World War II. This gave me a special understanding of the price that is finally paid for a politics of bureaucratic arrogance, for a society in which the state is dominant over all other institutions, and for the spiritual destruction that impends when the churches become dull and uninteresting and politics becomes "spiritual" and millennial.

In totalitarian societies the Party becomes the "church," and the churches that are allowed to survive in crippled form are simply adjuncts and tools of state policy. This is debasing to true religion and destructive of good government, both. The churches (including synagogues, religious societies and associations) should be the centers of ultimate concern and commitment, and the agencies of government should be limited. Religion should be exciting and elevating. Politics should be pedestrian, problem-solving, and carried on in a low tone of voice.

The totalitarians expect the state to accomplish everything. Citizens of republican principles and democratic practice demand that the government stick to its business, which is to help make life a little more liveable. The totalitarians, some of whom get into office in free societies too, are always dreaming up new ways to control citizens. Citizens who cherish freedom are always fighting power-conscious aggressors on the one hand and teaching active participation and support in government on the other.

As the bicentennial of the Virginia Bill of Religious Freedom approached (1985), a good many conferences and seminars were sponsored by churches and universities to celebrate the blessings religious liberty has brought to both churches and governments. It came to me that, with the bicentennial of the Federal Constitution and its First Amendment approaching, the time span 1985-1991 has enormous meaning for alert Americans. And it is a very good time to alert those Americans who may have grown complacent about the liberties that our ancestral fathers and mothers won for us—in the case of all five liberties listed in the First Amendment, at great cost of suffering and loss of life.

The Hamlin Institute lives "off the land" like many non-profit units, from private and foundation gifts. It supports seminars and conferences, and now this column. I hope you find the column interesting and useful. Franklin H. Littell, The Hamlin Institute, POB 2147, Philadelphia PA 19103.

Respiratory Therapy Week Noted at HRMC

The Respiratory Therapy Department of Highlands Regional Medical Center celebrated National Respiratory Therapy Week last week (October 5-11) with an employee Open House.

The Respiratory Therapy Department at HRMC plays a major role in the care of patients with respiratory problems. They perform diagnostic tests such as pulmonary functions and arterial blood gases, which help doctors diagnose patient problems. They can also administer many types of therapy to aid patients in clearing their lungs.

The department also has an active Respiratory Rehabilitation program. This program, consisting of six weekly visits, shows a patient how to live with his or her breathing problems and enjoy life. The rehabilitation program is not designed as a cure for lung diseases, but as an educational program.

Those who would like more information about the Respiratory Rehabilitation program at Highlands may call Rick Roberts, technical director of the program, at 886-8511 or 789-6548, or ask your family doctor. A physician referral is needed in order to be admitted to the program.

UK Joins Group Asking Better Teachers' Ed

The University of Kentucky announced recently that it is joining the Holmes Group, a national consortium of education deans from about 40 universities that has called for changes in the way teachers are trained.

Two universities in the state—UK and the University of Louisville—were invited to join along with 121 other major research universities. U of L also announced today its intention to join the group.

"Our colleges of Education and Arts and Sciences have both recommended to me that we join this group," said UK President Otis Singletary. "We are, therefore, announcing today that we will move expeditiously to arrange for that membership."

A major thrust of the Holmes Group has been to make teacher training a five-year program. Students would earn a master's degree at the end after concentrating on studies in both arts and sciences and education. This would replace the present four-year undergraduate program in teacher education.

Edgar L. Sagan, dean of the UK College of Education, said his faculty does not endorse all of the specific recommendations of the Holmes Group.

"We will, in fact, consider the kinds of changes that are desirable for this institution and that suit the unique needs of Kentucky," Sagan said.

Said UK President Singletary: "We fully intend to continue the close cooperation with teachers, school administrators, the Kentucky Department of Education and the other teacher-preparation institutions in Kentucky."

Singletary added that UK will join the group "in full support of the organizational general goals," which are:

- To make the education of teachers intellectually more solid;
- To recognize differences in teachers' knowledge, skill and commitment in their education, certification and work;
- To create standards of entry to the profession—examinations and educational requirements—that are professionally relevant and intellectually defensible;
- To connect our own institutions to schools;
- To make schools better places for teachers to work and to learn.

Singletary said that he expected UK and U of L to be "mutually supportive" as members of the group.

School Board Addresses Multi-Faceted Agenda

Among the items on a crowded Board of Education agenda last week, Dr. Mary Hall again lashed out at the practice of using the schools as polling booths . . . a Paintsville dairy was dropped as supplier of milk and fruit juice for eight Floyd schools . . . the board gave a carefully circumscribed endorsement to a program for preventing teen pregnancies . . . and a brother-in-law of former superintendent E. P. Grigsby, Jr. was hired as construction manager for two planned schools.

"It's not fair," Dr. Hall said, that church and civic organizations should be charged $5 an hour to rent school buildings while the county Board of Elections uses them gratis each polling day and is not even required to clean up afterward. Dr. Hall has often argued that the schools should not be used for elections.

Superintendent Ray Brackett said county authorities had few alternative places suitable for conducting elections and no money to rent them. Also, those schools with outstanding bonds were technically leased by the board from the Fiscal Court and, in any event, the main elections this November are the two Board of Education contests—"The county is paying for what is basically a board race"—he said.

The Floyd judge-executive has offered to consider alternative sites in the future, the superintendent said. In the meantime, use of the schools for elections is "for the benefit of the public," he said.

On a recommendation of Wayne Ratliff, assistant food service director, the board voted to cancel a contract with the Dairy Delicious Milk Co. to deliver milk and juice to the Auxier, Bonanza, Clark, Maytown, Garrett and Wayland grade schools and to Prestonsburg and Allen Central high schools.

Since the beginning of the school year, the schools had complained of receiving warm and spoiled milk. Ratliff said, and cartons of orange juice he showed board members appeared to be contaminated by a fungal growth. Some children complained of feeling ill after drinking chocolate milk at one school, he said.

The Paintsville firm had been warned repeatedly but to no avail that its service was unsatisfactory, said Ratliff, who speculated that the milk and juice were being delivered in unrefrigerated trucks. The board voted to give the contract to Lafferty's Food Service, which is already supplying other Floyd schools.

A social worker with the Johnson County Health Department was authorized by the board to contact Floyd principals with a view to involving high school students in an essay contest on the importance of preventing teenage pregnancies. Board members endorsed the writing project enthusiastically—it is part of a state-funded program aimed at reducing the teen pregnancy rate here from the current 24.2 percent to 18 percent over the next five years—and urged organizers to make it available to seventh- and eighth-graders as well.

School administrators and board members appeared to distance themselves from other aspects of the five-part program, however, not even mentioning them in the course of discussing the essay project. Among the other methods proposed by the health department for reducing teen pregnancies was a "brown bag condoms" program currently available through the five health departments of the district.

Social worker Carol Holbrook said in a phone interview later that, under the program, three condoms are distributed in brown bags to teenagers requesting them. "We have to recognize the fact that some teenagers are sexually active," she said. "We can't ignore that if we are to deal with the problem."

The construction of a high school, a middle school and two grade schools in this county will be done under the supervision of two construction managers, who will be paid a total of $717,571 for their services, according to a board decision.

Smoke, Space At Issue In Board Meeting Site

A policy touted by the Floyd Board of Education a year ago and hailed by citizens as a step in improving the board's accessibility to the public has been partially revoked.

In response to repeated complaints by citizens and at the urging of state Department of Education investigators, the board voted last fall to schedule some of its monthly meetings out in the county and to hold its Prestonsburg meetings in the spacious Prestonsburg High School cafeteria in order better to accommodate the public.

Last Wednesday's meeting reverted to the conference room of the Board of Education offices on Arnold Avenue, where about 60 citizens were crammed into the small, smoke-filled room and many strained to hear the proceedings from adjacent rooms.

Pressed by a citizen for the reason for the reversal, Supt. Ray Brackett said he was following a board instruction. Board meeting audiences had dwindled since the days when overflow audiences made a larger meeting place desirable, he said.

The practice of holding some meetings out in the county remained unchanged, he said.

Hired to oversee construction of the Prestonsburg Middle School and Allen Elementary School was Dana contractor Ervin Akers, who will be paid $205,000 for the middle school and $133,440 for the grade school. Construction of a high school on Left Beaver Creek and a grade school on Right Beaver will be managed by Sam Martin, Jr. of Martin, who will be paid $206,422 for the high school and $172,709 for the elementary school.

The hiring of Martin, whose sister is married to former superintendent Grigsby, raised questions among some members of the school board audience, including Karen Marcum, who said later she intends to inquire about Martin's qualifications for the job.

Brackett defended the choice of Martin, whom he described as "a good contractor," who recently completed construction of a Hindman shopping center and earlier built the First Guaranty Bank and Baker Mine Service buildings in Martin. As far as he knew, Martin and Akers were the only qualified persons interested in the management contracts, which will almost certainly pay them less—and cost the school district less—than if they had successfully bid for the jobs as contractors, Brackett said.

As a personal service contract, the hiring of a construction manager is not subject to competitive bidding. The manager's responsibilities were defined as: to coordinate the input of board officials, architects, and builders; to control costs; and to forecast and resolve construction problems that might arise on account of design changes. The fee—which in this instance represents five percent of the construction cost plus a flat $15,000 for pre-construction planning—is less than the profit margin a contractor could be expected to build in under the usual bidding arrangement, Brackett said.

In other business, the board approved a change order by which Appalachian Glass Co. will be paid an additional $3900 to replace windows at Prestonsburg Elementary School. The firm, which originally contracted to do the job for $49,225, claimed that it would be necessary to cover wooden strips bordering the windows, a detail not included in the initial contract specifications.

Reciprocal contracts with neighboring school districts were approved. Supt. Brackett explaining that 10 Johnson county students, 34 Knott students, and 48 Pike students are currently enrolled in Floyd schools, while 52 Floyd students are attending schools in the Johnson county school district.

three in Knott, two in Magoffin, 24 in Paintsville Independent, 19 in Pike county schools, and 26 in Pikeville Independent. The reciprocal contracts provide for the exchange of ADA funds among the districts.

The school tax rate was amended from 34 cents per $100 assessed valuation to 32.4 cents, following a revised calculation by the state Department of Revenue. The schools' portion of the motor vehicle tax remains unchanged at 26.8 cents.

Janie B. Smith was hired as fulltime Headstart director. Others hired were: Teachers Regina Holliday, Prestonsburg Elementary; Ora Mae Allen, Allen; Geneva Bailey, Maytown (temp.); Stephen E. Reynolds, Auxier; Billie J. Osborne, Betsy Layne Elem. (temp.); Robert Fugate, Melvin (temp.); Bertha H. Ousley, EMH teacher at Osborne; Judy Wood, temporary replacement for Chessie Cornett at Betsy Layne High School. Transferred were Kenneth Caldwell, from Auxier to Allen, and Jamie Madden, from Allen to Martin.

Alice Williams and Adrian Jean Charles, certified substitute teachers; Christina Compton, Regina Lynn Dye, Deborah Kay Slone, Mary Beth Chitwood, Mercedith Turner, Billie Jean Hall, Donna Combs, and Judy C. Smallwood, emergency substitute teachers.

Tammy Adkins and Daisy Hamilton, substitute cooks; Hershell Conn, maintenance worker; David Caudill, part-time pool cleaner at Allen Central; Oneida Watson, janitor at Auxier, Sonia Johnson, janitor at Osborne; Robin Henson, contract driver aide; Tammy Adkins and Sherry L. Case, substitute janitors; Peggy Compton and Susan Bailey, teacher aides.

Adult education personnel: Cosetta Newsome, director, Charlotte Stumbo, bookkeeper; Madie Joyce Hall, para-professional, and Marie Reynolds, Ramona Kay Auxier, Neil Watson, Goldia Mae Derossett and Willie Elliott, teachers.

Lisa McNeely, Della S. Brown, Deborah Vanhorn Ousley, Cecelia Turner, Gina Vannucci Owsley, Veronica Ward, Patricia Osborne, and Sharon Kaye Mullins, special education substitute aides.

IMPRESSIVE WITH EACH GAME: Betsy Layne quarterback Bud Newsome continues to roll up impressive stats while leading his Bobcats to their first ever winning season.

Bobcats Secure Successful Season

Before this high school football season began the Betsy Layne Bobcats set a goal, to become the first Betsy Layne football team to ever record a winning season.

Now, only seven games into their schedule the Bobcats have assured themselves of having a winning season in 1986.

That assurance came Thursday night when Betsy Layne, obviously putting all phases of their game together, soundly defeated a strong Whitesburg squad 34-20 on the Yellow Jackets' home turf.

"We had a good game, probably the best effort we've had all season," head football coach Jack Hall praised.

Quarterback Bud Newsome threw for 144 yards and two touchdowns and Todd Sturgill ran for two more to enable the Bobcats to secure their successful season and now Betsy Layne is faced with establishing some new goals.

"We'll have to re-set our goals," Coach Hall explained. "I don't know what they are right now. It may be eight wins or it may be nine wins. I let the players set their own goals."

Along with the large 34 point output the Bobcats moved the pigskin up and down the field to the tune of 421 total offensive yards and 28 first downs, 23 of which came on the ground.

With the win Betsy Layne improves to 6-1 on the season and Coach Hall, in his second year at the Bobcat helm, is proud of that feat.

"It pleases any coach when you can go against the schedule that we have and produce a winning season," Hall said. "It's good for the school and it's good for the community."

Although the Bobcats have reached their previously set goal Coach Hall and crew isn't ready to call this season a successful one yet.

Betsy Layne continues to entertain hopes of a playoff position and if those hopes are to remain alive the Bobcats will need a victory over sub-district foe Wheelwright this Friday night, and hope some folks from Pikeville can give them a helping hand.

Already having lost to Paintsville in their season opener, the Bobcats can't afford another district loss and at the same time Pikeville will have to upset Paintsville this week but Jack Hall isn't worried about what happens between the Panthers and Tigers. What does worry Coach Hall though is the Wheelwright Trojans and a Betsy Layne let down.

"I know that they have a good kickoff return team and I know that they have a middle linebacker who is as good as anybody," Hall said of his competition this Friday.

"They've got some good backs and one that can fly and they are capable of beating anyone they play," Hall continued.

"We certainly can't have a mental let down," Coach Hall revealed. "It's easy to have a let down after a big win but we'll just have to remind our kids that we do have a football game Friday night and a big game for us."

Coach Roger Johnson, head man at Wheelwright, said his team would have to shut down Betsy Layne's potent passing game which produced two long scoring tosses last Thursday.

Quarterback Bud Newsome was regarded as one of the top passers in this area and the senior southpaw has done little to deny that. In Thursday's contest Newsome hit Matt Conn with a 40-yard touchdown strike and later dialed the familiar number of John Bush for a 33-yard score.

To compliment the Bobcats air attack Coach Hall calls on talented runners such as Todd Sturgill, 13 touchdowns this season, Bush, and a host of other talented runners.

the defense played well," Coach Johnson said. "It wasn't pretty but we'll take it."

"I thought we should have scored a couple more times but we fumbled twice inside the ten yard line," Johnson added.

On their way to victory Wheelwright ran up 301 total yards, most of which came on the ground. Doug Little led the offensive way with 126 yards on 10 carries, including a 76 yard touchdown tote in the fourth quarter.

Tailback Tony Hutton also broke the 100 yard rushing barrier, running 16 times for 101 yards. The other tailback, Handy Jackson, made his mark with 54 yards on six carries.

The 13 points Wheelwright scored brought their season total to 55 but while relying on a strong defense, the Trojans may need to put more points on the scoreboard if they hope to even their

Prestonsburg Denied Playoff Position

What Prestonsburg head football coach Chuke Williams feared most became a reality Thursday night and as a result there will be no 1986 post season action for his Blackcats.

Turnovers, something which has plagued Prestonsburg all season, was a part of their game that Coach Williams hoped the Blackcats would play without but to the tune of five, Prestonsburg lost possession of the football, with the final one being a game loser.

Time after time offensive mishandlings put pressure on the Prestonsburg defense and time after time their defense responded but the final fourth quarter turnover proved to be more than the young Blackcats could successfully respond to.

Leading by a single point, Prestonsburg took offensive control of the football on their own 37 with 5:42 remaining in the game.

Following a three-yard run from Johnny Ray Harris, Prestonsburg attempted a pass play which fell harmlessly to the turf. Now facing a third down and seven from their 40 the Blackcats experienced a mixup in their backfield, leading to the loose pigskin and a Lawrence County recovery only 28 yards from paydirt.

From the Prestonsburg 28 the Bulldogs began to grind out tough ground yardage, moving just inside the 10-yard line before the Blackcat defense strengthened.

Facing a fourth down and two, Lawrence County coach Billy Goldsmith decided to call on kicker Kenny Horne to try a 26-yard field goal.

After hitting more dirt than ball on his only extra point try, Horne split the uprights to give Lawrence County a 9-7 victory and their first ever sub-district title.

With 44 seconds left Prestonsburg had one last hope, the left arm of quarterback Steve Hyden.

Hyden, who has emerged as the Blackcats designated passer, had earlier given Prestonsburg their only lead when the southpaw sophomore hit Derrick Johnson with a 19-yard touchdown pass earlier in the final frame.

Four plays before the touchdown toss Hyden had connected with Johnson for a first down on the 10. The play, as did the scoring play, came on fourth down after Hyden had eluded a strong Bulldog rush.

On fourth and goal from the 19, the young quarterback scooped up a low snap, lobbing a pass in the direction of Johnson.

At first glance the play looked like a lost effort because Johnson had slipped down in the end zone but lying on his stomach the lanky end looked skyward and from the lights came the football, settling comfortably in the arms of Derrick Johnson.

With less than one minute to work with Blackcat fans hoped the strong armed youngster could once again weave his touchdown magic.

After taking over on their own 37 Hyden misfired on a long passing attempt then gained 13 yards on a desperation up-the-middle sprint. But with time running out Hyden found Jimmy Jo Crace over the middle. Unfortunately for Prestonsburg, while Crace was busy breaking tackles to the 35, time ran out on Coach Williams and his Blackcats.

With the victory the Lawrence County Bulldogs, under first year coach Billy Goldsmith, improves to 3-4 on the season with two of their three wins coming against sub-district foes.

I hope you took my miscue, what I like to call a slip of the typewriter, easier than I did.

Let's all look at it this way. Our readers got a good laugh and I got a, well, a story from it. So, see there, it wasn't as bad as everyone thinks.

Actually, the mistake was made in an effort to see just how many people read our sports section. The way it was to work was if people brought the error to our attention then this particular article was being read, but if no one complained then we were to remove it from our pages.

If you believe this then I have some off-shore land in Florida for sale. Maybe you might be interested in it?

Honestly folks, it is our goal to give the best sports system the best sports coverage. So for every step backward we have to counter with two steps forward. Just watch us walk now.

SHORT SPORTS

The New York Yankees this past week gave manager Lou Piniella a two year extension on his contract.

Many rumors had been circulating throughout baseball that the first year manager may not be back for his second season but New York owner George Steinbrenner apparently liked what Piniella gave to his Yankee team.

In his initial managing season Piniella directed New York to a second place finish in the American League East but it was a distant finish behind the Boston Red Sox.

Houston Astros right hander Mike Scott set a playoff strikeout record Sunday when he fanned five New York Met batters.

Add the five strike outs to his 12 in the playoff's initial game and Scott has a total of 19, one better than the former record held by Toronto's Dave Stieb.

Not only did Scott set a record by recording the most strike outs in a single playoff series, the big righthander accomplished it in only two games. It took Stieb three games to roll up 18 in last year's championship series.

The 1986 World Championship Series will begin this Saturday, pitting the best from National League against the best of the American League.

This year's series will feature the alternation of the designated hitter but not according to fashion of years past.

In recent series' play the designated hitter has been used in a year in year out deal but this time around it will alternate between cities.

When the American League representative is at home the designated hitter will be used but in the home of the National League rep the pitcher will have to go to the plate.

Pittsburgh Steeler place kicker became the most prolific kicker in the history of the NFL when he connected on a second quarter field goal.

Anderson, who already had the best percentage, earned enough successful kicks to make him eligible for all time records.

With the kick Anderson replaced former Kansas City kicker Nick Lowery on top of the NFL's list of highest percentage kickers in the field goal department.

With the victory the Lawrence County Bulldogs, under first year coach Billy Goldsmith, improves to 3-4 on the season with two of their three wins coming against sub-district foes.

Bulldogs their first ever sub-district title while advancing to post season action.

For Prestonsburg, who drops to 1-6 on the season, it waits until next season for another shot at a playoff position.

Prestonsburg will probably use their final two games as experience time for a host of talented youngsters. The Blackcats have struggled this season but with their strong freshman team and some talent returning should once again be one of this area's top double A teams come 1987.

The Blackcats have an open date this Friday but will return to action October 24 at home against Pikeville before playing their final home and season game with Morgan County, October 31.

Rebels Give Hazard Strong Test

The Allen Central Rebels went into Hazard Friday as a winless first year varsity football team but to the Bulldogs, Allen Central didn't look like a rookie second.

The Rebels controlled the first quarter clock offensively but yet trailed 7-0 when the initial stanza came to a close. Hazard claimed possession a total of 13 seconds in that opening period but 13 seconds was long enough for the Bulldogs to score.

Hazard continued their scoring ways on two of their first three drives of the second quarter before Allen Central stiffened both offensively and defensively.

With just over one minute left before halftime the Rebels cut into a Hazard 22-0 lead when quarterback Darrin Conn's pass, intended for Greg Ison, bounced off the receiver's hands into the arms of Robbie Click who raced into the end zone with a 50 yard touchdown reception.

After a scoreless third quarter Allen Central trimmed the Bulldog lead again. With eight minutes left in the game Charlie Martin recovered a Greg Ison fumble in the end zone to cut Hazard's lead to 22-14.

Following an onside kick, which the Bulldogs recovered, Hazard proceeded to put the game out of reach but for a short time Allen Central coach Donnie Daniels thought his Rebels might come away with their first win.

"If we could have recovered that onside kick then I believe we could have sent the game into overtime," Daniels said. "They couldn't stop our offense. We controlled the ball most of the game and the only time we were stopped was by the officials or we stopped ourselves."

Led by Greg Ison's 109 yards on the ground and Conn's 109 through the air Allen Central rolled up a total of 268 offensive yards but lost two scoring opportunities due to crucial and controversial calls.

"They got by with a lot more than we did," Coach Daniels said. "It seemed like every time we got in two down territory they would throw a flag on us."

Although Coach Daniels admits Hazard is a tough football team and didn't say his Rebels lost due to bad officiating, the coach did experience what most other coaches have complained about this season, the tough calls recieved at Hazard.

"It's a bad situation when a team from this area goes over there to play a football game and get this kind of calls," Daniels admitted. "When they come over here they get decent officiating. If they received the kinds of calls here that we get there then it would even things out."

Unfortunately, for Allen Central on this particular night, officials have the final say but, although Coach Daniels was upset with the officiating he had nothing but praise for the young Rebels.

"I'm proud of our kids," Daniels said. "We told them to give us an opportunity to win in the fourth quarter and they did that. They don't have anything to be ashamed of."

"I thought we played a heck of a game," Daniels confirmed. "If you count the two drives that the officials took away from us and take away their last score which was a gift then you have a tie game and that's not counting the extra points."

"If we would have played as well all season as we did in the Hazard game then I think we would have won probably half of our games," Coach Daniels continued.

Instead the Rebels are still searching for that ever elusive first victory which Donnie Daniels thinks will come either this week at Frankfort when they take on that Single A school or October 25 when Allen Central travels toward Tennessee to take on Lynn Camp.

MAKING THE GRADE AND THE TEAM: Former McDowell forward Brad Hall, playing defense here, will be a member of this Fall's Bera College JV team.

Little And Little Team Leads Wheelwright To Big Victory

Senior receiver Steve Little hauled in a second quarter touchdown reception and junior fullback Doug Little ran in with a fourth quarter score as the Wheelwright Trojans upended Virgie 13-3 Thursday night.

After the Virgie Eagles lit up the Brackett Field scoreboard first with a Ray Jones 24 yard first quarter field goal the Trojans gained the advantage when quarterback Bobby Hood hit Little on a three yard scoring toss.

The scoring play came with 1:18 showing on the halftime clock and gave Wheelwright a lead their defense didn't give up.

With the win the Trojans improve to 3-4 on the season and although Coach Johnson says the game wasn't a thing of beauty the Trojan coach is glad to get another mark in the win column.

"We moved the ball pretty good and

Morehead State Takes Winning Ways Into Ohio Valley Conference Play

Only once in this decade had Morehead State University won their Ohio Valley Conference opener and only once since 1937 had the Eagles began a season with five consecutive victories but as of Saturday, October 11, 1986, another number was added to both of these.

On the strength of a 21 point second half outburst MSU earned their first conference victory of the season, 27-10 over Austin Peay, but it didn't come without a struggle.

After MSU denied Austin Peay points on two scoring opportunities in the first quarter, once on fourth and goal from the one and again on a long field goal try, the Governors finally broke through the Morehead defensive wall when quarterback Dale Edwards hit receiver Dean Edwards with a touchdown pass early in the second period.

However, with less than one minute remaining in the first half Jonathan Cage went up and over the Austin Peay defense for the Eagles first score but a missed extra kick left Morehead State one point shy at half time.

The failed extra point loomed large, especially when Tom McMillian booted a 34 yard Austin Peay field goal with 10:23 remaining in the third but in keeping with a comeback reputation developed this season the Eagles retaliated in classic style.

Led by defensive tackle Tony Sergeant, who recorded five tackles for loss, the Morehead State University defensive squad denied Austin Peay any additional scoring while handing their offense a golden opportunity to give MSU their first lead of the afternoon.

After the Eagles recovered an Austin Peay fumble on the nine yard line Morehead State claimed the lead for good when D. D. Harrison bulled in from four yards out.

The MSU defense, which has yielded a total of 17 points in second half play this season, once again handed that all important pigskin back to the offense when, on the Governors first play from scrimmage following the touchdown, linebacker John Gilliams batted an Edwards pass in the air and the big hands of Sergeant hauled the football in.

Although offensively the Eagles failed to move on this particular possession, MSU had achieved the one thing they wanted to, make it to the fourth quarter with a lead and let the defense take over.

Since their season opener with Marshall, Morehead State has not allowed a single point in the final frame but on this particular Saturday the fourth quarter belonged to Adrian Breen and MSU's offense.

The senior quarterback directed his Eagles down field on a drive which covered 74 yards on 17 plays, eating up almost half of the fourth quarter clock. Breen himself capped the drive off with a two yard touchdown keeper.

On the afternoon Breen, having an eternity to choose a receiver, threw for 190 yards, ran for one touchdown, and caught a pass from Harrison for yet another.

The Harrison to Breen scoring toss came after the Eagle defense recovered a Governor fumble on the visitors 30 and with a seven yard toss MSU turned the turnover into a touchdown.

With the Homecoming victory,

Morehead State improves to 1-0 in the Ohio Valley Conference and 5-0 overall. The Eagles could also improve their number four ranking Division 1AA.

Eagle football has drawn attention, not only from Kentucky but nationally and they will be out to prove this Saturday that they deserve the attention received when they travel to Cookeville, Tennessee to tangle with Tennessee Tech.

The Golden Eagles defeated MSU 59-6 last year and with 10 starters returning on offensive that tough Morehead State defense will face possibly their strongest test yet.

With a victory over OVC rival Tennessee Tech the Eagles could better their 1964 start of 5-0 and win their first two conference games, the first time since MSU defeated Middle Tennessee and Murry State to open OVC play in 1977.

Those two victories represented the only ones for Morehead State that season but now the Eagles are considered as a possibility for an OVC championship.

The next mildstone in this record breaking season is the best Eagle start ever. That came in 1937 when Morehead opened with seven consecutive wins. The seven wins then are still the most ever recorded in Eagle football history.

In and around Morehead State University the favorite saying is "boy we're glad this state finally has a good college football team," and who would have thought it. This good team used to be that bad team who everyone picked to bring up the rear in the OVC standings.

Kentucky Fishing Report

"FREE" DEER TAG PROCEDURE CHANGED

Landowners, senior citizens, disabled veterans and others entitled to hunt without a license or deer permit will no longer have to obtain a free deer tag before hunting, according to this year's deer regulations. Instead, the deer will be tagged when the hunter has it checked at a check station or by a conservation officer.

Hunting regulations stipulate that all deer must be checked, even if the hunter taking the deer does not need a license. Once the deer is tagged by the conservation officer or check station operator, it may legally be transported, processed or left with a taxidermist.

Those exempt from licensing requirements are resident landowners, their spouses and dependent children hunting upon their own property; tenants and members of their immediate family hunting upon lands where they reside and work; and Kentucky residents 65 years old or older, provided they have obtained a free card (available at county court clerks' offices) showing their age and residency status.

Also exempt are military personnel on furlough of more than three days who hunt in the county of their legal residence before joining the service, providing they carry papers showing their furlough status and residency.

American veterans who have at least a 50 percent service-related permanent disability are also exempt, but must carry a permit (obtained from the Division of Law Enforcement, Department of Fish and Wildlife, Frankfort, Ky. 40601) showing their disability status.

Archery deer season opened Oct. 1 and will run through Dec. 31, while the gun season is scheduled to open Nov. 8 and run for three, five or 10 consecutive days, depending upon the hunting zone.

Angela Lawson, of Prestonsburg Community College, was honored at the University of Kentucky 1986 homecoming ceremonies on the Lexington campus.

Lawson and her escort, Jimmy Anderson, were honored at Commonwealth Stadium during pre-game activities of the UK-Southern Mississippi football game Saturday, Oct. 4. She was among 15 representing UK's community college campuses.

The daughter of Emmitt and Velma Lawson, she is a freshman majoring in counseling at Prestonsburg.

Former Daredevil Makes Berea Trip A Successful One

When it came time for McDowell High School senior Brad Hall to choose a college he selected tiny Berea, not because of its basketball tradition but because of their highly regarded academic status.

You see, Brad Hall was interested in a Business degree instead of continuing his basketball life but fortunately, in Hall's case, things do not always go as planned.

Of course the former McDowell star is enthusiastically pursuing his educational career but at the same time Hall has an opportunity to play basketball.

After being seen in a pick up game the Berea coaching staff invited Hall to try out for their basketball team and the mild mannered student suddenly became a member of the 1986-87 Berea College squad.

In his senior season at McDowell Hall averaged 18 points and 13 rebounds per contest while being named team most valuable player, received all-District and all-Conference, and led his Daredevil team in blocked shots.

Now the former Floyd County athlete will give his best basketball efforts to the Mountaineers' junior varsity team.

"He has made the final cut and right now we're looking at him as a JV player," head coach Roland Wierwille confirmed.

"I've seen him in some pick up games but right now I can't really assess his abilities," the coach continued. "We're just in conditioning now but we will use him on the JV team and see how he improves."

Hall is expected to see considerable playing time in junior varsity action but due to several lettermen returning from last year's team, JV action may be as far as the McDowell native gets this season.

The Berea Mountaineers return eight upper classmen from a year ago, including four starters, when Berea College finished 19-9.

Due to all of this talent and experience coming back the Mountaineers is one of the favorites to capture a KIAC crown and although Brad Hall isn't in Berea's immediate varsity plans the talented leaper could make his mark on Mountaineer basketball before graduation.

However, don't forget, Brad Hall chose Berea College for an education, not a continuation of a basketball dream.

7UP SUPER STARS SPORTS TALK

Jim Plunkett

Earl Campbell, Tony Dorsett, Billy Sims and Jim Plunkett all won it. So did Terry Baker, Gary Beban, John Huarte and Pat Sullivan. Archie Griffin won it twice. National Football League greats like Jimmy Brown and John Unitas and Gale Sayers and Walter Payton never came close.

It is the Heisman Trophy, awarded annually to the nation's outstanding college football player. One of the most respected and highly sought trophies in American sports, it is also one of the most political, where 98 percent of those athletes eligible are eliminated before they ever put on a college football jersey.

If you plan on winning the Heisman Trophy today, or in the near future, you'd better play for a major college football team that is in the midst of a very good senior year, and last year's season. It doesn't have to be a great season, as indicated by 1980 winner George Rogers' South Carolina team, but it can't be too mediocre. It helps to be an upperclassman — until now only Roger Staubach of Navy, Griffin of Ohio State and Billy Sims of Oklahoma have won as juniors—although that is no longer essential either. You'd better play in the offensive backfield and it helps to be a running back. The last 10 Heisman Trophy winners all played that position, including the 1981 winner, Marcus Allen of Southern California.

The voting is done by sportswriters who regularly cover college football. Many are parochial in their vote, often favoring a player from their region, and many have seen few of the top players in competition. Athletes who play with greater exposure—more national television appearances—and who perform for teams with big football traditions—Southern California or Oklahoma, rather than Cornell or Eastern Michigan—have a big advantage.

Politics not withstanding, the Heisman is still the greatest honor a football player can receive.

"It capped off my football career," said 7UP Super Star Jim Plunkett, the 1970 winner. "Winning the Heisman, the victory in the Rose Bowl (27-17 over Ohio State in 1971) during my senior year, and last year's Super Bowl win (27-10 over the Philadelphia Eagles), are the three biggest thrills I've had in football."

"By the same token, it can also be a curse of sorts. From that day on, people always expect a little more from you. A lot of people can't always deliver once they get to the NFL."

While Plunkett has had a good career, filled with its share of peaks and valleys, and players like Campbell and Dorsett and Sims are enjoying sensational ones, there are more than a few athletes with Heismans in their den who have never lived up to their early billings. Baker of Oregon State (the 1962 winner), Huarte of Notre Dame (1964), Beban of UCLA (1967) and Sullivan of Auburn (1971) failed to make it in professional football. Other recent winners like Joe Bellino of Navy (1960), Steve Spurrier of Florida (1966) and Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska (1972) fared only slightly better.

"It's really no surprise that winning the Heisman doesn't always translate to making it big in the NFL," said Plunkett. "Some players are just more suited to the college game than the pros. The scouts know this as well, which is why the Heisman always guarantee being chosen early in the NFL draft."

Plunkett was the top choice of 1971, as were Campbell and Dorsett several years later. In 1979, Charles White of USC won over Billy Sims, when both were seniors. Sims, however, always considered a better pro prospect, was drafted much higher. The year that Huarte won, he outpolled another pretty good quarterback whom the pros found attractive—a fellow named Joe Namath.

The first Heisman was awarded in 1935 to Jay Berwanger of that old football powerhouse, the University of Chicago. Larry Kelley of Yale, one of only two non-backs to win a Heisman, was chosen the following year. A black didn't win until 1961 when Ernie Davis of Syracuse eclipsed all of Jim Brown's records en route to the trophy. Davis was the No. 1 pick in the NFL draft, but never played a single game in the league. Stricken with leukemia the summer after his graduation, he died a year later.

Notre Dame is the school with the most Heisman winners with six. The Fighting Irish, however, have been shut out since 1964. Ohio State can boast of five Heisman winners. Southern Cal now has four, and Army and Oklahoma have three apiece.

Game Meats—Taste Good And Good for You

By A.G. SPENCER

What with squirrel and dove seasons going strong, bow season for deer getting in gear, and rabbit, quail and grouse seasons just around the corner, now is an ideal time to map out those techniques and recipes for putting delectable fare on the table.

I have often heard people say, "I don't care for wild meat. It tastes too 'gamey.' No doubt it did, too. Anything would be 'gamey' if its carcass had been dragged through dirt and rocks, baked in the sun with the hide on, and then poorly cut and plopped in a skillet with no real care or imagination. This happens all too frequently, not because sportsmen are indifferent to fine food, but rather as a result of little or no background in the preparation and care of these delicious meats.

Make no mistake—game meat is truly superior fare. It is so outstanding in flavor and nutrition that many university studies have ranked it ahead of domestic meats. Game meats are categorically high in proteins, high in vitamins, and relatively low in fat and cholesterol. In fact, they are so low in cholesterol that many persons on restricted diets can often partake of game meats when their physicians direct them to avoid beef and pork (if you are on such a health-mandated diet, be sure to consult your doctor before adding wild meats to your accepted foods.)

It may surprise some adherents of various pollsters that a recent study conducted by Yale University indicated that over 80 percent of those polled approved of hunting for meat. Those questioned in this $450,000 study directed by Dr. Stephen Kellert were not, incidentally, pro-hunting. Indeed, 85 percent of the respondents stated their opposition to trophy hunting.

Even more significant is a 1972 study conducted by the University of Alaska, Fairbanks, concerning the nutritional values of wild meats. For example, researchers found that moose is 12 times less fat-laden than beef and that caribou is 23 times less fatty than our domestic bovines. Coincidentally, beef was found to have far greater caloric content than wild meats. As health conscious as we are all becoming, these are facts which should not be ignored.

At this point, you might be pondering the remarkable dearth of moose and caribou in Eastern Kentucky. Not to worry—the meat of whitetail deer has very similar nutritional properties.

Be aware that most of what fat exists on game animals is located in the upper part of their shoulder region rather than marbled in their flesh. There are two points to consider here. One is that you can strip off as much of this surplus as you wish. Additionally, you may even want to add some beef fat. You don't necessarily need the meat to be completely lean. Indeed, a little bit of beef fat can contain important vitamins and minerals, as well as providing excellent flavoring for your dish.

Of course, some folks are just prejudiced against wild game because of not having tried it or having been raised around it. A nice couple I am friends with were over for dinner one night a couple of years ago. Just after the lady finished condemning the dry, stringy, tasteless qualities of some game meat she had tried at her uncle's years before, the husband, right on cue, complimented me on the "beef stew" I had thrown together. When I informed them that they were actually dining on rabbit, squirrel and dove all at the same time, they were astonished! I pointed out to them that the keys to preparing great game dishes are field care, forethought and creativity. More on the influence of all three of these factors on the care and preparation of game meat in next week's column.

Beginning with this week's effort, a game recipe will be included at the end of each "OUTDOORS WITH ANDY" column. Here's one of my favorites:

Ingredients—two cottontails, two squirrels, and the breast meat from several doves or quail (turtle may be substituted for any of the aforementioned); carrots, whole potatoes, celery, pearl onions and mushrooms.

Directions: Bone and cut meats into small, bite-sized pieces and soak them in light salt water for 1½ to 2 hours. Put in Dutch oven with diced and whole vegetables, add three quarts of water, a teaspoon of table salt, a light sprinkling of garlic salt, ½ cup of cooking sherry, a few bay leaves and some sweet basil, one large can of peeled tomatoes, a small can of lima beans, a can of corn (drained), a quarter teaspoon of freshly ground black pepper, and flour (for consistency). Cook for 1 hour, then simmer for an additional half hour.

First Annual Waterfowl Festival Set

The first annual Bluegrass Waterfowl Festival, sponsored by the Bluegrass Waterfowl Foundation, Inc. will be held October 23-26 in Paducah, Kentucky.

Several events scheduled during the four-day period will be of interest to anybody who enjoys waterfowl hunting, waterfowl art or simply watching ducks and geese as a hobby. Among the many people who will be either displaying their work or leading seminars during the festival is artist Ray Harm. Harm, nationally known for his wildlife paintings, was selected to do Kentucky's first duck stamp print.

Other featured guests will be Beebe Hopper, a top decoy painter, George Nelson, an expert wood carver, and Bob Winship, a bronze sculptor. These specialists will showcase their talents and work for beginners and lovers of waterfowl reproduced on canvas and from wood.

The Bluegrass Waterfowl Festival is the place where the National Goose Calling Championship will be held, beginning at 10 a.m. on Saturday, October 25. The top three callers will be awarded in mouth and mechanical calling, receiving cash and prizes and a chance to compete in the world championship in Easton, Maryland. The Kentucky State Goose and Duck Calling Championship, hosted by Ducks Unlimited, will also be on Saturday starting at 1 p.m.

One other highlight of the first festival will be a taxidermy competition. The Regional Waterfowl Competition, in addition to judging the best single and habitat waterfowl mounts, will recognize the favorite mount as selected by the public attending the festival.

Seminars on taxidermy will be held by competition judges Ken Asproth and Jeff Compton Saturday and Sunday.

Admission to the Bluegrass Waterfowl Festival will be $5 per day, or $15 for the entire four-day event. Advance tickets will be sold until October 10 for $4 per day and $13 for four-day passes. For information concerning events, guest speakers and admission, contact Bluegrass Waterfowl Foundation, Inc., Rt. 3, Box 39-A, Paducah, Kentucky 42001, or call (502) 898-3828 or (502) 554-3141.

Opening activities at the Executive Inn in downtown Paducah are scheduled to start at 12 noon on Thursday, October 23. Waterfowl experts and other personnel from the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources will set up a booth to answer questions and offer advice on waterfowl regulations and hunting in the state.

The same weekend, at the other end of the state, the United Squirrel Dog Registration (USDR) World Squirrel Hunt will take place in Hoskinston, Kentucky. Over 300 squirrel dogs will compete for trophies and cash in the competition slated to begin at 7 a.m., October 25 at Greasy Creek Park, just outside Hoskinston in Leslie County.

For information and directions to the World Squirrel Dog Hunt, call (606) 374-5938 or (606) 858-4710. This is the first hunt of this kind in Kentucky. Registration will take place between 5:30 a.m. and 7 a.m. Saturday morning, with an entry fee of $20. According to sponsors of the hunt, any dog that can tree a squirrel may be entered in the competition.

Historical Highlights Presented By 7-Eleven Stores,
A Major Sponsor Of The 1984 Olympic Games

OLGA KOR BUT—Munich, 1972

Olga Korbut! The name still conjures up one of those rare moments when an Olympic event captures the imagination of the entire world: the elfin-like Russian, 4-11 and 84 pounds, bursting into tears after missing a routine on the uneven parallel bars at Munich, a slip that cost her the gold medal and, in the very same instant, projected her as the darling of television viewers around the globe.

Ironically, it was this failure rather than success (she would later win three gold medals) that made her a household name. Through the magic of television, the tiny Russian girl's tragedy, and her ultimate triumph, gave a new human dimension to women's gymnastics and, indeed, provided a turning point in the evolution of the sport. Olga, the charming little pixie from Grodno, Byelorussia, became a folk hero overnight, a role model for young girls in every nation. Gymnastic clubs were springing up in cities and towns everywhere, almost before the cheers and the tears from Munich had faded away. Mothers packed their young daughters off to beginners classes by the tens of thousands. The day of anonymity for women gymnasts was at an end, and it was Olga Korbut who was the apostle of the new movement. Her gold medal-winning performances on the balance beam, in the floor exercises and in the team combined event at Munich had shown the world the beauty and artistry of women's gymnastics, just as her sobbing, emotional breakdown had tugged at the hearts of everyone who watched that day.

People related to Olga's failure, and they shared in her eventual triumph. Gymnastics suddenly was seen as a sport of not only form and execution but as a very human experience with tears and heartache and disappointment. Reaching out to her audience ("Medals do not interest me; I need the love of the public!") with the poise of a showbiz veteran, Olga Korbut had touched millions of people—and had written herself a place in Olympic history.

Shooters Needn't Sacrifice Hearing

By William C. Graham, M.D.

Every shooting enthusiast knows at least one old-timer who doesn't need ear protection any more.

Every muzzle blast causes a small amount of hearing damage. And that damage is permanent and progressive unless proper preventive measures are taken.

Modern hearing protection devices are available in two basic forms: ear muffs and ear plugs. These differ in terms of efficiency, comfort and cost.

Ear muffs very efficiently reduce noise and are the most effective. However they are bulky and more expensive than plugs. They may interfere with stock positioning on rifles and shotguns, and are impractical for use in the field.

However, muffs provide the best protection for handgun users, particularly during indoor shooting. During an indoor meet more than 500 rounds may be discharged in an hour, so maximum protection is needed.

If you use muffs, make sure they fit snugly. Safety glasses can make the muffs less effective by breaking their seal. If any shot startles you or causes you discomfort, the muffs aren't doing 100 percent of what they're meant to do.

Insertable ear plugs are generally less expensive and more comfortable to wear. They don't interfere with hats, glasses or stock positioning, and are ideal for field, trap or skeet shooting.

Plugs made of compressible foam or other synthetic

JENNY WILEY FESTIVAL '86

A MINI-ENCAMPMENT on the courthouse lawn gave an idea of Civil War days.

HEAP BIG INJUNS and a few hardy pioneers vied for honors in the costume competition.

MISS JENNY WILEY, Cathy Horn, had a smile for those along the parade route.

THIS YOUNGSTER put a lot of concentration into a deadly aim as he prepared to dunk his target.

SOME SAID BILL RAY COLLINS made the biggest hit, or was it splash, of those who braved the dunking tank.

VISITORS FROM PAINTSVILLE, representing the Eastern Star, rode in the parade.

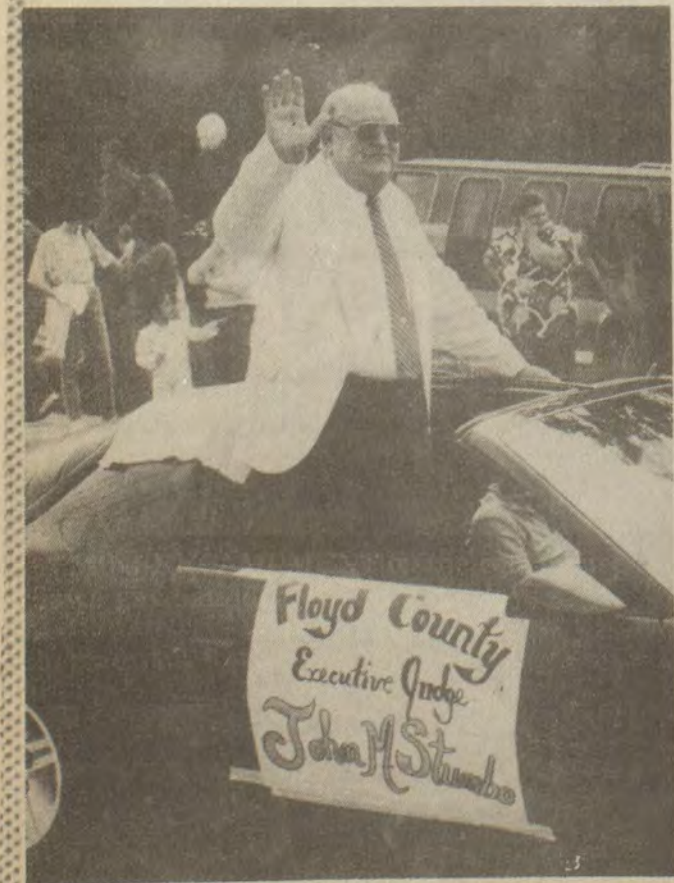

THIS LONESOME TERRAPIN is either a front-runner, or so far behind that it didn't really matter.

CITY MANAGER Fred James, former Turkey Bowl Star, came prepared for the dunking. Note the goggles.

ANOTHER EASTERN STAR member drew attention with this novel idea.

JUDGE-EXECUTIVE JOHN M. STUMBO was among the dignitaries in the parade.

THOSE EASTERN STAR gals went all out with this float that added a lot to the day.

COUNTY CLERK CARLA BOLTON waved to the crowd.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my sweet mother, Dahlia Johnson, who passed away Oct. 31, 1968.

Oh how lonely was that Oct. day
When God called my sweet Mother away
How lonely and sad, I will never forget
She still lingers in memory yet.

Mother you have left us here below
But I hope in Heaven I will see your face
glo.

You were so loving kind and always sharing
Your love for others, and always caring.

Mother you lived the life God wanted you to
And always trying to sing and pray
That God's will be done on earth
And that all would meet again some day.

Sleep on Mother I pray some sweet day
In Heaven I will meet you at the end of the way
Mother I loved you, I would have done anything I could
And I am sure Daddy misses you as he should.

Daddy and I often talk about you and how kind you were
But never on earth can we see your sweet smiling face
Some day we will meet you by God's mercy grace
Where the family reunion never break up or fade

We miss your smile we miss your talk
We miss you coming in, we miss your walk
Sleep on sweet Mother we will meet you above
Where his little children will never grow old.

Written by your broken hearted daughter, Hattie Mae Burke.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Alafair Setser Boyd who passed away seven years ago, Oct. 23, 1979.

Death beckoned her with outstretched hand
And whispered softly of an unknown land
But she was not afraid to go
For though the path she did not know
She took death's hand without a fear,
For He who safely brought her here
Had told her He would lead the way
Into eternity's bright day
And so she did not go alone
Into the valley that's unknown.
She gently took death by the hand
And journeyed to The Promised Land.
Sadly missed by daughters, Zella, Myrtle, Nina and Opal.

IN MEMORIAM

LITTLE ANGELS

When God call little children
to dwell with Him above,
We mortals sometime question
the wisdom of His love.
So when a little child departs,
we are left behind
Must realize God loves children.
Little Angels are hard to find.
We love you forever.

HOW DO I CHOOSE A CASKET?

Whether you plan in advance for a funeral, or are selecting a casket for a loved one who has passed away, the choice is a highly individual one. We will present for your inspection a variety of quality caskets. The decision is entirely yours, and you make the choice of a final resting place in a calm and unpressured atmosphere.

Caskets generally come in three types. First, there are softwood and cloth-covered caskets. Second are solid hardwood caskets. Finally, there are caskets made of metal: sturdy steel, copper, or bronze. The three types differ in appearance and individual features, such as structural strength, color and ornamentation. These differences make the choice of a casket one which should be made after careful consideration and consultation with your funeral directors.

We can provide information on types of caskets and costs to help you make a responsible choice. As funeral directors, we are committed to serving your best interests in making these important decisions. Please call us or stop by if we can help you in any way.

Playing two wasn't always easy for Ellen Wheeler

By Marie Michaels

For more than a year, Ellen Wheeler has been playing a dual role — that of twins Marley and Victoria Love on "Another World." Now Wheeler, who probably will not renew her contract with "Another World" at month's end, speaks frankly about how portraying a dual role can affect an actor's own life.

Ellen Wheeler

"When I began playing Victoria as well as Marley, I had to learn to remove myself from both characters," explains Wheeler.

"The competition between Marley and Victoria started affecting my personal life. Even though the two characters loved one another, their rivalry over their mutual love interest, Jake McKinnon (played by Wheeler's real-life husband, Tom Eplin), was very strong. While I was creating that, I began developing a strong love/hate relationship within myself," says Wheeler. "At the time, I couldn't understand why I would come home feeling so uneasy. Now I'm able to distance myself from the problems of my characters."

Wheeler and Eplin, who also plans to leave "Another World," will be celebrating their first wedding anniversary on Dec. 20. They were married less than a year after Eplin joined "Another World," and they have been inseparable since they began performing opposite one another on the show.

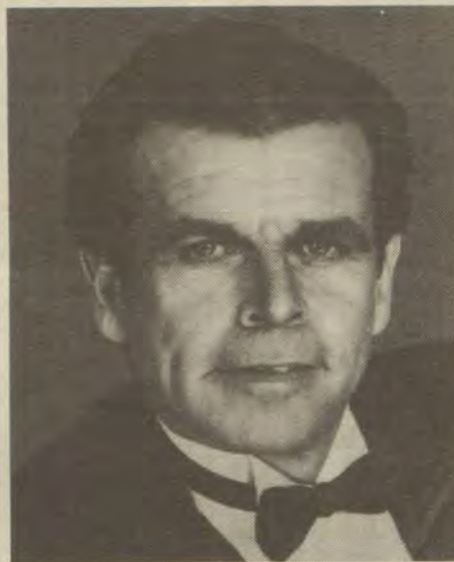

Wheeler says that it's hard to pinpoint when their friendship turned to romance. "Tom and I have a lot of things in common and a lot of the same desires in life," says Wheeler.

Since their marriage, Wheeler and Eplin have formed their own production company, which is geared toward producing feature films. The two are currently reviewing scripts for future projects.

Does all this together-ness agree with Wheeler and Eplin?

"I feel sorry for the husbands and wives who can't be with one another all day," says Wheeler. "When people ask me if I get sick of being with Tom all the time, I realize that the question stems from the fact that they haven't found somebody that they want to spend 24 hours a day with."

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: Is air pollution a cancer risk?

ANSWER: The air in some locations may contain emissions from industrial plants; car exhaust, and other substances linked to cancer. However, in most places, the air does not have high levels of cancer causing substances. In fact, the strongest link between air pollution and cancer is found among smokers who inhale cancer causing substances in tobacco smoke.

The rate of lung cancer is higher in cities than in the country. Scientists feel the cause is linked mainly to lifestyle, cigarette smoking, and workplace exposure rather than air pollution.

The air in some workplaces has been found to pose a cancer risk. One known cancer causing substance is asbestos. The air levels of asbestos are highest near asbestos mines, mills, waste dumps, and manufacturing plants. Asbestos may be in some buildings as fireproofing. If found, it is generally safer to seal the asbestos than to try and remove it.

For more information on asbestos call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER and ask for Asbestos Exposure: What it Means, What to Do. Or write the Cancer Information Service, McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536.

How the Tax Reform Act Will Affect You

By G. STEPHEN PACK, CPA

The Tax Reform Act of 1986, the most sweeping revision of the tax code in its seventy-three year history, reduces the top tax rate paid by individuals from 50% to 28%, the lowest maximum rate since 1931 as well as the lowest rate among major industrial nations. The top tax rate for corporations is reduced from 46% to 34%. In order to pay for these lower rates, the law eliminates many credits and deductions for both individuals and businesses.

The law has been designed to provide true tax reform—to remove over six million of the working poor from the tax rolls and to end preferences that allowed profitable corporations and wealthy taxpayers to pay little or no tax.

Many taxpayers will see little change in their tax bills and may wonder what all the “reform” and “simplification” talk was about. The big change will come in how tax liability is calculated. Income that was not taxable under prior law becomes taxable; items that were deductible no longer are. And the phase-in and phase-out rules for many of the law’s provisions will complicate both tax planning and tax preparation during the coming years.

The tax rules have changed, and it is important for those who wish to minimize their taxes to become familiar with the opportunities that exist under the new law, especially during the transition periods.

PROVISIONS AFFECTING INDIVIDUALS

Most of the provisions in the Tax Reform Act of 1986 go into effect January 1, 1987. Your 1986 tax return—the one you will be filing by April 15, 1987—will be filed under the old tax law (with some important exceptions).

Individual Tax Rates

Prior law, still effective for 1986, has 14 and 15 tax rates running from 11% to 50%. Effective in 1988, there will be two tax rates, 15% and 28%, with a 5% surtax on certain amounts of higher income.

In 1988, when the new rates are fully phased in, married couples will pay 15% on taxable income up to $29,750 and 28% beyond that. Singles will pay 15% on taxable income up to $17,850 and 28% on taxable income beyond that.

The 5% surtax actually creates a phantom 33% marginal tax rate. As the old law is structured, every taxpayer has his first layer of income taxed at the lower tax rates, with each additional layer of income being taxed at a progressively higher rate until the maximum is reached. The new law phases out the 15% rate on taxable income from $43,150 to $89,560 for singles and from $71,900 to $149,250 for couples.

The personal exemption deduction is also phased out after taxable income reaches $89,560 for singles and $149,250 for couples, with the 33% rate continuing until the tax benefit of any personal exemptions is eliminated. Then the marginal tax rate (the rate paid on each additional dollar earned) drops back to a flat 28% on all additional income.

1987 will be a phase-in year for the new tax rates, with five tax brackets ranging from 11% to 38.5%. The top bracket will apply to income above $54,000 for singles and above $90,000 for couples. The law specifically states that the top capital gains rate for 1987 is 28%.

Standard Deduction

Taxpayers who do not itemize their deductible expenses are allowed a standard deduction. Prior law called this standard deduction the “zero bracket amount.” In 1986 the standard deduction is $2,480 for singles, $3,670 for couples, and $2,480 for heads-of-household. For 1987, the 1986 standard deduction will be used after adjustment for inflation. Beginning in 1988 the standard deduction changes to $3,000 for singles, $5,000 for couples, and $4,400 for heads-of-household.

Personal Exemptions

In 1986, the personal exemption is $1,080, indexed for inflation. In 1987 the personal exemption will be $1,900; in 1988 it will be $1,950; and in 1989 and thereafter it will be $2,000, indexed for inflation.

The additional personal exemption allowed for the elderly or the blind is repealed in 1987. Instead, the standard deduction is increased for the elderly or blind by $600 (joint) or $750 (single).

Medical expenses were deductible when they exceeded 5% of adjusted gross income. Effective in 1987, they must exceed 7½% of AGI to be deductible.

Mortgage interest, which was fully deductible will, under the law, be deductible only for a taxpayer’s personal residence and a second residence and then only for loan amounts up to the cost of the home plus improvements. Loans exceeding these limits must be used for medical or educational expenses or the interest is not deductible. Investment interest under prior law was deductible to the extent of investment income plus $10,000. The new law removes the $10,000 buffer and makes investment interest deductible only to the extent of investment income. Other personal interest, such as on credit cards and car loans, was deductible under prior law but will not be deductible under the new law. The consumer and investment interest provisions have a four-year phase-in.

State and local taxes were deductible under prior law. Beginning in 1987, property and income taxes are deductible but sales tax becomes non-deductible.

Unreimbursed employee business expenses, investment expenses and other miscellaneous itemized deductions will, under the new law, be deductible only to the extent they exceed 2% of adjusted gross income.

Cost of work-related moves was deductible under prior law whether you took the standard deduction or itemized your deductions. Effective January 1, 1987, such moving expenses will only be deductible as an itemized deduction.

Under prior law both non-itemizers and itemizers could deduct charitable contributions. Beginning January 1, 1987, only those who itemize can deduct charitable donations.

Under the old law, working couples could take a deduction of 10% of the lesser of their two incomes, up to maximum of $3,000. This deduction is eliminated under the new law.

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT CONTRIBUTIONS

Under prior law and still in effect for 1986 tax returns, every working taxpayer could deduct up to $2,000 annually for contributions to an IRA, with an additional $250 for a non-working spouse. Under the new law, no IRA deduction is available for those covered by a company pension plan (or with a spouse covered by a pension plan) if income exceeds $50,000 (joint) or $35,000 (single). Those covered by an employer plan can still make a fully deductible contribution if taxable income does not exceed $25,000 (single) or $40,000 (joint); the deduction is phased out between these income limits.

Long-term Capital Gains

Effective until January 1, 1987, 60% of the gain from the sale of a capital asset held longer than six months is excluded from taxable income, creating a top tax of 20% on long-term capital gains. Under the new law, this capital gains exclusion is eliminated. All of the gain will be taxed as ordinary income, creating a top tax rate of 28% on capital gains (30% where the surtax applies).

Children’s Taxes

High income taxpayers, under prior law, could use a strategy called income-splitting to have some of their income taxed at lower tax rates. This was done by shifting income-producing assets to children, either directly or through a Clifford trust (in which assets were transferred to a child for 10 years and then reverted to the parent). The new law curtails income-splitting by taxing income resulting from such parental transfers at the parent’s tax rate when the child is under age 14 and the income exceeds $1,000.

Minimum Tax

The minimum tax requires an alternate tax computation which brings preferentially treated items back into taxable income. This second tax calculation produces an alternative tax liability, and the taxpayer is required to pay the larger of the two. The minimum tax rate under prior law was 20%; under the new law it will be 21% with new preference items added.

Company Retirement Plans

Under the old law, the contributions to a 401(k) company plan were deductible up to a $30,000 limit. Effective in 1987, the deductible limit is $7,000.

Tax Shelters

Tax shelter investments have been used by wealthy taxpayers to reduce or eliminate tax liability. Investments in such tax shelters often created tax losses and credits well beyond the actual dollar amount invested. Under the new law, such “passive” losses can only offset income from other “passive” sources; they cannot be used to offset wages, active business income, or portfolio income such as dividends and interest. There is a transition period that will allow losses from investments prior to enactment of the new law to offset non-passive income at a reduced amount until 1991. Phase-in requires that deductions be reduced by 35% in 1987, 60% in 1988, 80% in 1989, 90% in 1990 and eliminated altogether after 1990.

Other Miscellaneous Provisions

The new law increases the amount of tax that must be prepaid by those who pay taxes through quarterly estimates. The minimum estimated tax that had to be paid under prior law was the lesser of 80% of the current year tax liability or 100% of the prior year. The new law increases the 80% to 90%. The IRS, under the new law, will now pay 1% less interest on overdue refunds than it charges on overdue taxes. The new law requires information reports on real estate transactions. It also requires, beginning in 1988, that taxpayers show tax-exempt income on their returns and report the social security numbers for dependents over the age of five. Unemployment benefits will be fully taxable. Scholarships, which have been generally excluded from taxable income, will now be taxable to the extent that they cover room and board. The prior law dividend exclusion of $100 for singles and $200 for couples is eliminated effective January 1, 1987. The new law eliminates deductions for travel as an educational item and investment conventions and seminars.

Next week, the ways the Tax Reform Act affects businesses will be discussed.

The History Corner...

Jenny Wiley and Harman's Station

By A.G. SPENCER

The saga of Jenny Wiley is a story familiar to almost every man, woman and child in Eastern Kentucky. Most of us have, at some point in our youth, sat at the knee of a favorite aunt, uncle or grandparents, staring in wide-eyed, slack-jawed wonder at the story-teller as they recalled the tale. Uneasy mental pictures formed in a six-year-old mind, pictures of hostile Cherokees and Shawnees, as shadows across the floor to begin to move suspiciously, little sounds of the wind blowing outside in the darkness becoming oddly like the stealthy footsteps of a marauding Indian. Never mind that there haven't been any marauding Indians spotted around these parts in some years, you are sure that they have picked this very moment to return. Questions begin to flicker through your young mind as to what is going to happen when you turn out your light and climb in bed when the story is over, and why did you have to ask Aunt Betsy to tell you this story, anyway...

What is it about this tale that touches the consciousness of all who hear it, young and old, woman or man, college graduate or grade school drop-out? What is it about this comment on the human condition and human nature that keeps this story relevant to those who hear it, even after nearly 200 years have elapsed?

Well, for one thing, the story happens to be true. At least, historians have proven it to be mostly faithful to what actually transpired. Like any really good mountain tale, there has been a substantial amount of embellishment. This week's column is one stab at separating fact from fiction.

Another appealing side to Jenny Wiley's saga is that an ordinary person is rudely taken out of her normal life and displays extraordinary courage and resourcefulness in coping. This sort of "everyman" character is one that we can all relate to, as we convince that we aren't so different from her in what hope and dream for ourselves and our families.

Certainly, Virginia Sellards Wiley had no inkling that anything was amiss on October 1, 1789. It was a dark, dreary day on Walker's Creek as Mrs. Wiley wove on a loom that had belonged to her mother and which had been brought from Pennsylvania to Walker's Creek by her Irish father, Hezekiah Sellards. Her four children were with her on that day, as was her 15-year-old brother. Her husband, Thomas Wiley, had ridden off to market that morning with a load of dried herbs the clan had gathered. As the rain continued to fall and the afternoon wore on, she heard a footstep on the threshold. It turned out to be her brother-in-law, John Borders, who had come to warn Jenny that he had heard owls hooting all afternoon, which seemed unusual both because of the early hour and because of the rainy weather. He asked Jenny and her family to come to his cabin until Thomas Wiley returned that evening.

Jenny, cognizant of the ever-present Indian threat in that border country and of John's canniness of woodlore, readily agreed. She would bring her family over to John and her sister's cabin as soon as she could pack a few provisions and gather her family together. Unfortunately, she never had the opportunity to reach safety for the Indians attacked just after John Borders left her cabin. As she was picking up her youngest, she saw a dark figure loom in the doorway. Within seconds, her brother and three eldest children were slain by the savages.

Jenny later learned that the band of several different tribesmen had thought they were raiding the cabin of Mathias Harman, their old enemy whom they had traveled from the Ohio River country to destroy. After going only a short way, a fierce old Cherokee killed Jenny's baby (on the third day of the abduction) after it was learned by the troupe that the dreaded Mathias Harman himself was on their trail in an effort to recover his neighbor. The mixed band, which had been perfectly willing to assail Harman when the element of surprise and the numbers favored them, held fierce old Mathias in such abject terror that they wanted no part of him when he was hunting them!

Indeed, the scout who was watching their back-trail for them came up the path yelling, "Harman, Harman!" in an effort to warn his companions of their pursuer. This so frightened the Indians that they swam the flood-swollen Tug Fork of the Big Sandy, pulling Jenny across, one on each arm, as they swam across. The little band continued to hide in caves and under rock cliffs, abandoning trails and paths in an attempt to elude Harman and his group. The Indians continually questioned Jenny about "Old Skygusty," "Little Devil with a Big Nose," both of which were names they had given to Harman.

Meanwhile, Harman and his followers found the body of Jenny's child and buried it in a shallow grave. They had to abandon their pursuit, however, when they encountered the flooded banks of the Big Sandy and couldn't get their horses across. This was as terrible a blow for Mathias as for anyone, as he was no shrinking violet and probably regretted not being able to engage the Indians as much or more as the failure to gain the release of Jenny Wiley. As he and his followers returned to the mouth of John's Creek to begin construction of Harman's Station, Jenny and her captors couldn't cross the Ohio, as it proved to be even more seriously flooded than the Big Sandy. For most of her six months of capture, Jenny and the Indians camped at the mouth of the Little Sandy River (incidentally, the point on the Ohio which they attempted to ford was opposite the present location of Portsmouth.) During the months that she was held, Jenny was a general camp servant and she also gave birth to a son. Authorities believe that Mrs. Wiley was with child when she was abducted. Eventually, she was able to slip away. Several times she lay hidden, her pursuers passing within feet of her. She waded down Little Mud Lick and Big Mud Lick until she finally reached Big Paint Creek. Despite the raging, flooded torrent, (it seems to have been a banner year for rains) she knew that the only way they could avoid laying down a trail was to wade downstream. Jenny eventually made it to the mouth of Jenny's Creek, named in her honor.

At dawn on a morning in either March or April of 1790, the men from the fortress surrounding Harman's Station, having encountered no Indian problems for a few days, left to hunt for food. Henry Skaggs remained at the fort with the women and children. After about an hour, he decided to walk down to the river (Big Sandy). There he heard a voice calling, "Henry Skaggs! I am Jenny Wiley. Don't you know me, Henry?" "Problem: she was on the other side of the Big Sandy. Skaggs lashed three logs together with grapevines, went across the river and retrieved Mrs. Wiley. They were barely out of gunshot range when the Indians chasing Jenny came to the shore. She was taken to Harman's Station until her husband and she could be reunited. Odd, that Jenny Wiley should find safety at the fort, especially after her ordeal because of the Indians mistaking her cabin for that of Mathias Harman.

Snake In The Basement Is No Reason To Get Rattled

Fall slid silently into most of Kentucky last month. For some it slithered.

"Fall has taken the shape of a snake in the basement for many Kentuckians," said Craig Huegel, Extension wildlife specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"It happens every year when the temperature starts to drop. Snakes begin moving about more than usual in search of a warm, quiet place to spend the winter. For many snakes that turns out to be somebody's basement," Huegel said.

When encountered in the yard or garden, Huegel said, snakes should be left to go about their business.

"The vast majority of snakes found in Kentucky are not poisonous. They do a lot of good by eating harmful insects and rodents. Given the choice, and sometimes this is the choice, I'd rather have a snake or two around than rats or field mice. Snakes may bother some people by their appearance, but they don't carry diseases the way rats and mice do," Huegel said.

Snakes in the house, however, should not be left alone. They should be captured and removed. One question most people want answered before they make any attempts to capture a snake is whether it is poisonous.

The poisonous snakes most common in Kentucky are copperheads and rattlers. They can easily be distinguished from non-poisonous snakes by their triangular heads and the fact that the pupils of their eyes are slits," Huegel said.

Non-poisonous snakes' heads are usually no bigger than the rest of their bodies, and the pupils of their eyes are round.

The best way to get a snake out of a house is with the use of a glueboard, available at most hardware stores.

"There are no snake repellents on the market, and poisons don't generally work since the snake didn't come into the house to eat in the first place. Glueboards are the best bet," Huegel said.

Glueboards should be placed on the floor against the walls of the basement.

"Snakes prefer to slither along walls rather than across open spaces in the middle of the floor. The glueboard will trap snakes that attempt to crawl across it," Huegel said.

The captured snake can be removed from the glueboard, once it has been placed some distance from the house, by pouring vegetable oil over it.

"Or, if the captured snake is a poisonous species and the homeowner wants to kill it, the glueboard will facilitate that choice also," Huegel said.

Help in identifying snakes, and more tips on getting them out of homes can be gotten from any county Extension office.

IS OUR SCHOOL SYSTEM BETTER OFF NOW THAN IT WAS FOUR YEARS AGO?

Let's Look At The Facts:

—Our school deficit is $403,278.30

—The school principals were budgeted an approximate $10,000 per year raise

—Our school system is ranked 178 out of 180 school districts in K.E.S.T. testing

—School taxes were increased by approximately 70%

Is this good management? Is this

MAY GOD BLESS

...all of you who loved and cared for my father, Willard Hicks and my mother, Thelma Allen Hicks.

Thank you for every kindness you showed; to all the "horsetraders" who were a big part of my Daddy's life, and to the Maytown First Baptist Church family who were important to my mother.

There are so many people who showed they cared in many ways, I cannot begin to name you all, but please know my family appreciated everything.

'Thunder In The Mountains' Is Republished By Author

THUNDER IN THE MOUNTAINS, a book by Lon Savage about West Virginia's mine war of 1920-21, is being republished and is now on sale in West Virginia stores.

A dramatic, true story of the Battle of Matewan and the march of 10,000 armed coal miners across southern West Virginia in 1921, the book has been unavailable in recent months, despite a heavy demand. It originally was published in 1985 by Jalapam Publications in South Charleston, which incurred financial reverses and ceased operations earlier this month. Two printings of the book sold out within a short time.

Copies of the new edition, improved with the addition of a map on the inside cover, are now available in bookstores or by mail order. Copies may be ordered by mail from Northcross House, P.O. Box 357, Elliston, Virginia 24087.

Dr. John Alexander Williams, of the National Endowment for the Humanities, eminent West Virginia historian, described THUNDER IN THE MOUNTAINS as "a good book, more than a good read," with "vigorous, readable prose, colorful vignettes, and suspenseful narration."

Ken Hechler, West Virginia Secretary of State, said the book "combines accurate research with dramatic presentation." Goldenseal, the magazine of West Virginia history, described it as "a powerful story, told in a powerful way." And the Bluefield Daily Telegraph called it "the best story yet written of the dramatic but infamous mine wars that rocked southern West Virginia in the early 1920's."

The Kentucky Inheritance Tax

By Attorney General David L. Armstrong

Kentucky law states that inheritance tax must be paid by all heirs and beneficiaries of property, both real and personal. The inheritance tax is based on the gross value of the estate, including real property, stocks, bonds, notes, cash, and so forth, minus certain deductions such as funeral expenses, debts and mortgages.

Generally, the tax will be paid and the return filed by the taxpayer's personal representative (the executor or administrator). If there is no administration, a return must be filed by the beneficiary even though no tax may be due.

The law requires that a return must be filed within 18 months from the date of the person's death. If the tax is paid within nine months of death, there is a 5 percent discount.

Inheritance tax returns can be obtained from the state Revenue Cabinet in Frankfort by calling (502) 564-4580. The return number is Form 92A120, or for small, uncomplicated estates Form 92A120-5. This return can only be used in certain instances. These are:

Where no federal estate tax return was filed; the gross estate is six items or less; land is reported at fair cash value; no gifts or transfers were made within three years of death without full consideration; no real or personal property was transferred with a retained life estate; the decedent did not possess any power to appoint any real or personal property; and the decedent had not received any real or personal property from another decedent within five years and paid inheritance tax on property.

Once the taxable value of the estate is determined, the tax due from each beneficiary must also be determined. This will depend on two things—the distributive share of the estate received and the relationship of the beneficiary to the decedent. The distributive share will depend on whether or not there is a will. A will generally sets out the distributive share. If there is no will (or if the will is renounced by the surviving spouse), then the law will determine the distributive share and the order of distribution.

The law also provides for exemptions of inheritable interests up to certain amounts depending on the beneficiary's relationship to the decedent. For persons who have died after August 1, 1985, the total inheritable interest of the surviving spouse is exempt. Infant children (by blood or adoption) receive a $20,000 exemption. A child by blood or adoption who has been declared mentally disabled by a court of competent jurisdiction is entitled to a $20,000 exemption.

There are other exemptions. A parent, adult child by blood, adult child adopted during infancy, stepchild, grandchild who is an offspring of a child by blood or of a stepchild or of a child adopted during infancy receive $5,000. A brother, sister, half-brother, half-sister, nephew, niece, half-nephew, half-niece, daughter-in-law, son-in-law, aunt or uncle, receive a $1,000 exemption. All others receive an exemption of $500.

If you have questions concerning Kentucky's inheritance tax law, contact a competent attorney or the Office of the Attorney General, Capitol, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, (502) 564-7600.

Galapagos Featured In Nature Series

A unique wildlife paradise in the Pacific Ocean will be explored in "The Galapagos," when it airs as part of the popular "Nature" series beginning Saturday, November 8, at 8:00 p.m. on KET. "Nature" repeats Sundays at 7:00 p.m.

"How They Got There," the first of three episodes in "The Galapagos," looks at the origin of the islands and the theories behind how and why the variety of wildlife came to inhabit this archipelago over 600 miles off the coast of Ecuador.

The menagerie here has developed into the strangest and most fascinating collection of creatures found anywhere in the world: giant tortoises weighing up to 400 pounds, marine iguana lizards measuring 4 feet in length, flightless cormorants and woodpecker finches.

When the first men set foot on the Galapagos, they noted the remarkable tameness of the creatures found. Even today, these animals and birds have little or no fear of man.

"Cold on the Equator," the second episode airing November 15, takes a look at animals which thrive in the surprisingly cold waters which surround these equatorial islands. Part three, "The Ocean Travellers" which airs November 22, examines the birds which inhabit the island and also looks at the changing relationship between man and wildlife on the Galapagos Islands.

Fantasy Classic On "Wonderworks"

The story of a shy young boy who finds friendship with the new girl in town is told in "Bridge to Terabithia" which airs as part of the "Wonderworks" series Saturday, November 2, at 11:00 a.m. on KET. "Wonderworks" repeats Saturdays at 7:00 p.m.

"Bridge to Terabithia" is based on the children's classic by Katherine Paterson and stars Julian Coutts as Jesse Aarons and Julie Beaulieu as Jesse's new tom-boy friend, Leslie Burke. Annette O'Toole also stars as Miss Edmunds, Jesse and Leslie's teacher.

As their friendship grows, Jesse and Leslie decide they must have a special place just for themselves. Together the new friends create Terabithia, a magical land of fantasy. In Terabithia, located in a forest near their farms, Jesse and Leslie explore their most secret hopes and dreams.

The special love and friendship that develops between the two 11-year-olds helps Jesse cope with an unexpected tragedy in the end.

"Wonderworks" is presented by the PBS Children's and Family Consortium: WQED/Pittsburgh, KCET/Los Angeles, KTCA/Minneapolis-St. Paul, South Carolina ETV Network and WETA/Washington, D.C.

Mortgages Offered Elderly Homebuyers

Kentucky Housing Corporation (KHC) has allocated $1,000,000 in low-interest mortgages for qualified, elderly homebuyers. The Senior Homeownership Program is a statewide program targeted to homebuyers age 62 and over.

"In 1984, there were 536,407 elderly persons throughout Kentucky, and that number will increase," stated KHC executive director F. Lynn Luallen. "Based on this information, KHC staff saw a need to initiate a housing program to meet the unique needs of senior citizens."

Eligible homebuyers may have liquid assets (cash, securities, equity in real estate, etc.) of up to $50,000. Other requirements are:

—The applicant may not own other residential property at the time the KHC loan is closed.

—Maximum allowable household income is $25,000 plus $1,500 for head of household status, if applicable, plus $1,500 for each dependent (normally a child) living in the household.

—Maximum purchase price for an existing house (previously occupied) is $53,000, and a new house is $56,000 or $58,000, depending upon location.

—The loan must be a new loan—no refinancing.

For more information on KHC's Senior Homeownership Program, contact a participating lending institution or call KHC toll-free at 1-800-633-8896.

No Floyd banks are listed as participants. Citizens National Bank and Family Federal Savings, of Paintsville, and Pikeville National Bank are participants.

Letcher County First In Series On Gas Fields

Natural gas production from Devonian shales in Letcher county is the subject of a new report from the Kentucky Geological Survey at the University of Kentucky.

The report is the first in a series that will determine the geologic factors that control gas production in Eastern Kentucky. KGS researchers say the knowledge gained will be a valuable tool for developing future gas production and maximizing production from existing fields.

The study is being funded by the Gas Research Institute, a private, Chicago-based organization that promotes research and development in gaseous fuels and their use.

Gas has been produced from the Devonian shale in eastern Kentucky since the early 1900s, and these rocks continue to be a major source of gas production. These shales, deposited about 350 to 400 million years ago, are also known as "oil shales" elsewhere in Kentucky where they occur at or near the surface.

In addition to describing the general geology of Letcher county, the new report discusses the history of gas exploration and drilling activity in the county, compares the results of different well-stimulation techniques, and considers the effectiveness of various geologic tools for predicting the occurrence of gas.

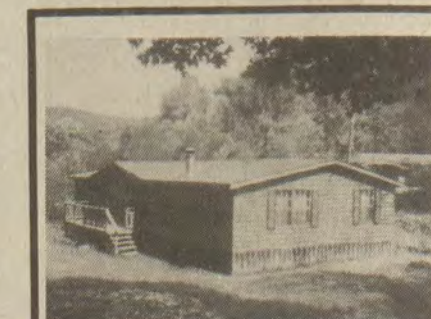

The report contains a series of 1:100,000-scale maps showing well locations, structure, shale thickness, and isopotential for gas production. It also includes a series of structural cross sections and a tabulation of data for all 279 gas wells drilled into the Devonian shale of Letcher county.

Future reports will investigate gas production in Knott, Floyd, Martin and Pike counties.

Copies of the Letcher County report are available for $10 each, fourth-class postage included. Order from: Kentucky Geological Survey, Publication Sales, 311 Breckinridge Hall, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky. 40506.

Betsy Layne H.S. Is "Challenge" Contestant

The Betsy Layne team (left to right) includes faculty advisor Brenda Porter; Stephen Branham (captain), son of Mrs. Pam Branham, Betsy Layne; Lisa Akers, son of Vance Akers, Banner; Joey Cecil, son of Jimmy Cecil, Stanville; faculty advisor Janet Akers; and host Bill Myers. Alternates are Vanessa Stratton, Alisha Parsons, and Janet Caudill.

One hundred seventeen high school teams throughout Kentucky will converge on the KET Network Center again this year to compete in the fifth season of "KET Scholastic Challenge," which airs Sundays at 1:00 p.m. on KET.

The program was developed by KET five years ago to help promote interest in education in Kentucky. Sally Jackson, producer of "KET Scholastic Challenge," says, "KET is pleased to be able to show to the viewers across the state the young people who will make a difference in Kentucky's future. 'Challenge' is a high-energy, quick-recall game the whole family can enjoy following together."

Each hour-long program consists of two games, with three high school teams competing per game. Each game has five rounds of questions in the areas of English, history, math and science, with one round devoted entirely to questions about Kentucky.

Bill Myers returns as host for his second year. Myers is a veteran of 30 years broadcasting experience in the Cincinnati area, formerly as anchor man and weather forecaster.

The winning team in the championship will win $500, and the two runner-up teams will each receive $250. The money is donated by the Friends of KET and goes to the libraries of the winning schools.

Among the schools competing on the October 19 broadcast is Betsy Layne High School.

Two Floyd Students In MSU Production

Floyd county residents Doug Salisbury and Tracee Buchanan took part in Morehead State University's production of "The Thread That Runs So True," an adaptation of Jesse Stuart's book by the same name.

Salisbury, a communications graduate student, served as lighting designer. He is the son of Fred and Myra Salisbury, of Wheelwright, and a member of the MSU Players and Theta Alpha Phi, a national honor theatre fraternity.

Buchanan, a senior communications major, played the part of Celeste. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Buchanan, of Prestonsburg, and a member of Theta Alpha Phi and Alpha Epsilon Rho, a national honor organization for broadcasters.

The performance of this play was MSU's contribution to the 80th birthday celebration honoring the late Eastern Kentucky author and was seen in Morehead, October 9-11.

Additional performances, sponsored by the Jesse Stuart Foundation, will be held at the Paramount Arts Center in Ashland Friday, Oct. 17, at 7:30 p.m., and Saturday, Oct. 18, at 2 p.m. Additional details are available by calling the Center at (606) 324-3175.

Blacktop Your Driveway? Be Cautious, AG Advises

Kentucky's consumers should carefully check out the credentials of any person coming to their neighborhood offering to blacktop their driveway, Attorney General David L. Armstrong said today.

The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division has received several complaints from consumers about such fly-by-night businesses recently.

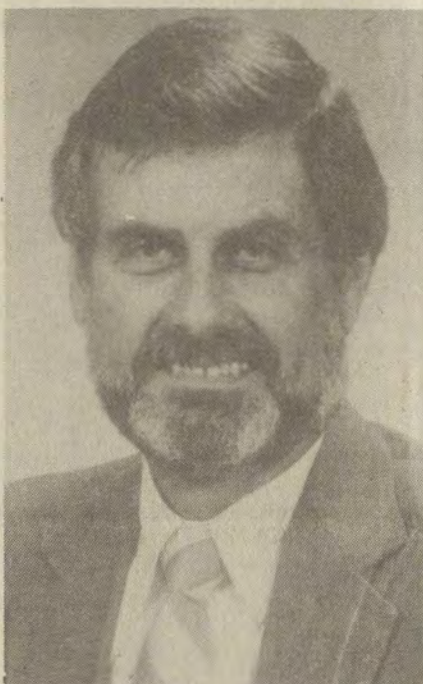

"The complaints all relate to the same general pattern," Armstrong said. "Someone comes to the consumer's home and offers to blacktop their driveway for a supposedly reduced price because they just happen to be in the neighborhood and have some blacktop left over from a previous job. The job is completed quickly before the consumer has the opportunity to investigate the company or obtain other estimates. Then the consumer is given an inflated bill and is often left with a poor quality driveway. The business has often left town with the consumer's money, and he or she had no way of contacting the business or recovering the loss."

Consumers should protect themselves

from this type of fraud by following these suggestions:

- (1) Be skeptical of unsolicited approaches by people with unmarked vehicles or out-of-state license plates. Demand that they provide you with the name, address and phone number of the company. Also get the name of the person soliciting you as well as their drivers license number and the license plate number of their vehicle.
  - (2) Check the credentials of any firm before you do business. Talk with other people who have had work done by the company. Ask for references. You may also want to check with the local Chamber of Commerce, Better Business Bureau or the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division.
  - (3) Many of these companies will tell you to sign now for a special discount price. Beware of this pressure tactic. Take the time to get two or three signed, written estimates from reputable businesses for any repair work to your home. Make sure the estimates include the total cost of materials and labor and state a date of completion.
  - (4) Read all contracts and guarantees before you sign, and make sure you understand exactly what they mean. The terms and costs of the contract should be clear, and all guarantees should be in writing. If they are not in writing, they are worthless.
- Armstrong advises that consumers should exercise caution before having such repair work done. This is your best protection against home repair frauds.
- If you have a consumer complaint, write the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call the Consumer Hotline at 1-800-432-9257.

Heads College Program

Dr. Alban L. Wheeler, professor of sociology at Morehead State University, has been named MSU's director of undergraduate regional programs.

In announcing the appointment, MSU President A.D. Albright said:

"We have called upon Dr. Wheeler to use his considerable administrative talents in the organization and coordination of our new regional program of upper division level course offerings at two-year campuses."

Dr. Wheeler, who will continue to teach, will report to the president in his newly-established position.

Described as an expansion of the Appalachian Consortium, the program was launched this fall at Ashland, Maysville and Prestonsburg community colleges and Lees College at Jackson.

Dr. Wheeler, former dean of social sciences, has been at Morehead State as a faculty member and administrator since 1972.

October Designated Spina Bifida Month

In an effort to increase public awareness and to promote better opportunities for those with spina bifida, Congress has recently passed legislation designating October as National Spina Bifida Month. The Spina Bifida Association of Kentucky is a nonprofit organization whose purpose is to inform, enhance, educate, and support families of and persons with spina bifida. During the month of October, a number of events will take place aimed at drawing attention to the unique problems connected with this birth defect.

Spina Bifida is a birth defect which involves malformation of the spine and results in permanent damage to the spinal cord. It is the No. 1 disabler of newborn children in the United States today. Every hour of every day, 24 hours a day, a child is born with this serious birth defect—and yet, to most people it remains a secret, a mystery, a virtual unknown! The incidence in the state of Kentucky is twice as high as the rest of the country, occurring approximately once in every 500 live births, and is thought to be caused by a combination of environmental and genetic factors.

The damage resulting from this severe birth defect will vary from partial to total paralysis, muscle weakness, complications with bowel and bladder, loss of sensation, and hydrocephalus. As recently as 15 years ago, 90 percent of these children did not survive in infancy or early childhood. Today, however, as a result of medical advances, 90 percent of these children not only grow to adulthood, but they lead active, fulfilled and productive lives well into their senior years, if they receive appropriate, aggressive medical intervention.

Anyone wishing to make a donation can do so by sending a check or money order payable to the Spina Bifida Association of Kentucky, 5284 Julia Road, Louisville, Ky. 40258. More information can be obtained by calling (502) 935-5553.

In ancient Egypt, nail color indicated a woman's social rank. Only the palest shades were permitted lower class women, and woe was the woman who painted her talons brighter than the Queen's.

Host Families Needed For Foreign Students

The Youth Exchange Service (YES) is presently seeking families interested in having an intercultural experience by hosting a foreign exchange student. Students come from Europe, Asia and Latin America. These students go through a rigid process of selection and, therefore, are bright, mature, and most of all, very enthusiastic to become the best Ambassadors to the United States possible by sharing their culture with their host family and friends. Our next group of students is due to arrive in December, 1986/January 1987 and are to stay until the end of the school year. The host family's responsibility is to provide room, board and love. In return, the student is expected to try and assimilate to the U.S. lifestyle and to become a part of the family. Students have excellent medical insurance and bring their own spending money. The host family may also claim a $50 deduction for each month that they host. If you are interested in having a rewarding experience and would like more information, please contact: Youth Exchange Service (YES), World Trade Center Building, 350 S. Figueroa St., #257-P, Los Angeles, CA 90071, phone: 1-800-848-2121.

Feel like acting, Pisces?

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 21) You'll be even more egocentric than usual this week, but it may put money in your pocket. This would be a good time to take a look at the family insurance and investment programs. The Full Moon should ease relations with the spouse. You will be energetic this weekend and it would be great for civic activities.

TAURUS (Apr. 22-May 22) This is the week to devote your energy to career matters, spectacular things can happen. The partnership deal you've been working on could come through this weekend. You won't take any lip from the loved one now but if you get into a fight during the next month, it will never end.

GEMINI (May 23-Jun 21) Watch for a strange communication and don't toss it without taking a second look. Keep dreaming and allowing your mind to run free. You may have to work late Friday but it could be a good thing professionally. You will feel good this weekend and could win a tournament of some kind.

CANCER (Jun 22-Jul 20) You will be very aggressive this week and not just in a crabby fashion. There will never be a better time to work out marital problems than now. If you want to rejuvenate your love life, plan a romantic get-away. A Taurus is going to invite you to a religious meeting and you should accept.

LEO (Jul 21-Aug 20) Great time to collect all your friends and organize that project you've been working on. You may have to arbitrate a family dispute you'll be able to see both sides but will you be able to make a decision? Don't allow the Full Moon to get you off track and deeper into debt. Personal problems could spoil a public event this weekend.

VIRGO (Aug 21-Sep 22) Don't give up on your dreams, their realization could be just around the corner. Plan a party and invite the neighbors, you may find one more interesting than you'd thought. The Full Moon will increase your interest in financial arrangements. You will meet a new romantic figure this weekend.

LIBRA (Sep 23-Oct 23) You will be working to make your life utopian this week. Problems with relatives are favored - why can't you use some of those diplomatic talents at home? Decline any unusual invitations for the weekend, you won't be able to "afford" them. However the Full Moon may make it impossible to say "No."

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 23) A wonderful week for all relationships, especially personal ones. You are getting all kinds of new pressures from many different directions. This could be your lucky weekend, buy a lottery ticket go to the races, or at least play bingo. One of your deeds could come to the attention of the public.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 24-Dec 21) You'll be searching for the love of your life this week. The Full Moon is going to put you in the mood for social activities. You'll be in a funky mood this weekend and should go off by yourself so you don't get into arguments. An exaggerated concern with love or money is not in your best interest.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 17) Someone may send your pastor around to have a heart-to-heart talk with you. In the process you may make a substantial donation soothing your conscience? A Taurus could offer you the time-of-your-life this weekend. And you may not have to leave home to take advantage of it.

AQUARIUS (Jan 18-Feb 16) A good week to start a group to promote one of your crazy ideas. The most unusual party of the year is coming and you'll be right at home. Wind up the week on a high note, a financial break is in the works. You may have a problem with your mother this weekend and it will be your fault.

PISCES (Feb 17-Mar 20) This would be an excellent week to join an amateur dramatics group. Get all your work done early so you can take advantage of personal invitations. Forget financial plans and concentrate on your love life this weekend. A neighbor is going to do her/his best to get you involved in something disreputable.

Test Scores: What Do They Mean?

By ALICE McDONALD, Superintendent of Public Instruction

The KEST is up.
The ACT is up.
The SAT is down.
What does it all mean?
The KEST, the ACT and the SAT are standardized tests. KEST is the Kentucky Essential Skills Test. It measures student mastery of the essential skills needed for learning at the next grade level. Those scores are up.

ACT is the American College Test, which is taken by students who are heading toward the state's public universities. Those scores are up, too. SAT is the Scholastic Aptitude Test. It is also a college-entry test, but because it is not the one required by Kentucky's public universities, it generally is taken only by those planning to go out of state to school or by those angling for scholarships or entry to private schools for which it is a specific requirement.

More than 60 percent of Kentucky's graduating seniors have been taking the ACT. With so many test takers involved, an increase in scores is hard to obtain, and noteworthy when it is obtained.

Traditionally, only 6 percent of Kentucky's graduating seniors have been taking the SAT. A falling-off of scores here may just be following a national pattern, may be a one-year aberration, may reflect a greater number of total students taking the test. At any rate, even at the reduced levels of this year, the scores are still higher than in previous years.

The real story of test scores lies in the student data and in the demographic data.

The girls don't do as well on the math portions of the tests as the boys. Why? Are girls just not as good at math?

Don't they take as many math courses?

Don't they realize the new fields opening for women in math and computer science, finance and banking?

Are there not enough teachers to meet the demand for math classes?

Is a subtle equity issue still at work, the "oh, you'll be happier in history than in calculus" sort of thing that can be said by anybody but that can have an affect on a young girl that is far greater than the speaker might expect or intend?

Since math was my best subject, I don't believe that girls aren't as good at math as the boys. That myth ought to be laid to rest.

But if the answer to any of the other questions listed above is "yes," we have a problem to address in our local schools.

Another story of the test scores lies in the variation from school to school, from district to district, from region to region.

Generally speaking, the highest test scores come from the districts that have the best financing and the highest percentages of educated adults.

But that is only generally speaking. Since the passage of the Minimum Foundation Program in 1954, and the legislative mandate in 1984 that all districts must levy minimum amounts of local taxes, the differences that money can make in quality of education from district to district are less sharp.

Shrewd management of resources, inspired recruiting of good teachers and determined parental pushing can all compensate for relative differences in dollars.

The real geographic story these days lies in the improvements that school districts are making in their overall programs and their students' performance.

It demonstrates just how much effort is going into making improvements. Everybody is striving. Everybody is achieving gains. No district can afford to rest on laurels earned in previous years.

During American Education Week in November, Kentucky will have a chance to observe just how much progress is being made.

On Nov. 12, the Kentucky Educational Foundation Inc. will sponsor the Flags of Excellence-Flags of Progress program.

The first Flags of Excellence were handed out in 1984. Only 46 schools qualified.

In 1985, Flags of Progress were added, to recognize schools that were making outstanding progress toward excellence. That year, 61 Flags of Excellence and 146 Flags of Progress were awarded.

In 1986, the foundation will award 98 Flags of Excellence and 278 Flags of Progress.

That is real progress, and it is statewide. From Meade County to Lawrence County, from Gallatin County to Clinton County, schools can take pride in their ability to win a Flag of Excellence.

And what rural Kentucky schools far from the awesome tax bases of Lexington and Louisville can achieve, all Kentucky schools can achieve.

Good teaching is a pearl beyond price, but there is no magic price tag that can guarantee it. Neither is there a single magic kingdom that confines good teachers within one boundary.

Good teachers are everywhere. So are good principals and good school boards and good parents who support their local schools.

The key to excellence is in the striving toward an academic goal that is high enough to be worthy of your child, and my child, and all the children of Kentucky.

Pharmacy Footnotes

ASPIRIN AND THE STOMACH

There has been much ado in advertising campaigns lately about gastric upset caused by aspirin. Consider, however, that no more than five percent of people who take aspirin get an upset stomach. It occurs most often in people who take aspirin on an empty stomach. Others take a type of aspirin that breaks up into relatively large pieces in the stomach. If aspirin is taken with milk, the incidence of stomach upset is somewhat less than the usual five percent. Otherwise, one may wish to pay a little extra for aspirin combined with buffering products. There also is a very fine particulate aspirin available that provides a more adequate dispersal in the stomach.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY you are not just another number. We have built our reputation and our pharmacy on serving the individual needs of our customers. Everyone of you is important to us so it is our sincere desire to serve your needs with the utmost professionalism and understanding.
