Getting Down To Basics

Preparing to resurface US 23, workmen from Mountain Enterprises began scraping layers of bumpy blacktop off the section of road near the US 23/KY 1428 intersection in Prestonsburg last week. The cost of repaving or road construction in Eastern Kentucky is generally double that of other parts of the state, officials say. Resurfacing, for instance, averages about $98,600 per mile in this area. The cost of a new road here is more than $3.5 million per mile.

Improvements Costly In Area

by Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

Despite allegations of political cronyism and regional stepchild status, building a road in Eastern Kentucky costs twice as much or more than building one in the state's less hilly areas.

A modern, two-lane road with wide shoulders and smooth surface costs about $1.25 million per mile to construct in central Kentucky, said Philippi Jeffers of KDOT.

In Eastern Kentucky, the cost for the same road escalates to around $3.5 million per mile, she said.

And that figure includes only the actual construction. Added on are the costs of acquiring the land to build on, sometimes relocating houses, and survey and engineering work—all of which are toted up before the first spadeful of dirt is turned.

The biggest cost-adding factor is the mountain terrain, according to engineer Gary Howard of Bizzack Brothers Construction Co., one of the state's largest road builders.

"If you have to cut through a mountain, you have a large volume of material that has to be moved, and that's costly," said Howard. Moving the mountain requires drilling and explosives, both of which are "quite expensive," he added.

The greater number of creeks that gravity forms at the base of hills results in the need for construction of more bridges than in flat areas, which contributes to the high cost, Howard said.

The price of new road construction is also affected by the higher costs of transporting materials into the mountain region—over largely inadequate roads, according to Terry Adams, a superintendent at Adams Construction Co. in Paintsville.

Nor is resurfacing an existing highway an inexpensive undertaking. The average cost to resurface, according to Doug Wright of the Pikeville office of KDOT, is well over $98,000 per mile in Eastern Kentucky.

The resurfacing cost, based on figures from recent projects, includes digging out "failures," making them stronger and recovering the road with blacktop, Wright said.

Adams pointed out that extra expense is incurred in grading and draining along roads to be resurfaced in the highlands. "Getting the road

Politicking Alleged In Schools

by Anne Chaney,
Editor

State education officials are continuing an investigation into alleged politicking during school time by E.P. "Pete" Grigsby, administrative assistant to Superintendent Ronald Hager.

Grigsby allegedly spoke to district employees on at least two campuses and, at one school, discussed the county attorney's race and sought support for incumbent David Barber.

Grigsby declined to comment, referring questions to his attorney, Robert Rowe, of Prestonsburg.

According to Gordon Nichols, spokesman for the state Department of Education, numerous calls were received by state officials between Friday afternoon and Tuesday morning. He said the calls were "from people in Floyd County willing to be interviewed about other alleged incidents" apparently involving Grigsby.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction John Brock will attend the Floyd Board of Education's Wednesday, June 7 meeting at Prestonsburg High School to discuss the matter with the local board. Brock is also expected to discuss the state's takeover of the local district under the academic bankruptcy law.

Nichols and three other state officials were in Floyd County last week investigating the accusations against Grigsby, 52, a former county superintendent.

Nichols said Grigsby reportedly campaigned at McDowell and Maytown elementary schools. Grigsby has said he was at the two schools, as well as Martin, helping organize an in-service program for teachers.

At Maytown, Grigsby allegedly interrupted CTBS state-mandated testing to speak with two teachers, according to Nichols.

According to Hager, who denied involvement in the incidents, Maytown Elementary School principal Lorena "Sis" Chaffin contacted him about Grigsby's May 16 visit. Chaffin declined to comment.

At McDowell, Grigsby reportedly discussed the county attorney's race with Jimmy Hall, a maintenance worker.

Grigsby reportedly told Hall that he had been sent by Hager and board chairman Dr. James D. Adams to "make a list of people against David Barber," according to Hall, who supported Barber's challenger, Jim Hammond. Hall said Grigsby told him a list of people "against" Barber was being made, and was "what the county is going to use to hire off of next year."

Hall, who has been employed by the district for 11 years, said he felt "very, very intimidated by the discussion."

Although there is no state law forbidding campaigning during school hours, the local board's new policy manual, adopted in March, strictly prohibits such activity. In addition, interruption of CTBS testing may be in violation of

Two Die In Crash Sunday On US 23

A two-car collision on US 23 near Stanville claimed the lives of two Floyd County men Sunday evening.

Gordon Garrett, 55, of Emma, and Fred Bennie McCoy, 46, of East Point, died as a result of injuries they sustained when the car they were riding in collided with a car driven by Carolyn Carroll, reportedly of Betsy Layne.

Kentucky State Police were apparently unable to determine which man was driving when the accident occurred about 7:05 p.m. The victims' vehicle was apparently crossing the southbound lane to turn onto the Tram road from the north lane when the two cars crashed, according to police reports.

Garrett, a retired coal miner, was pronounced dead at the scene.

McCoy, a self-employed painter, died a short time later at St. Mary's Hospital in Huntington where he was taken after the accident, according to the Floyd County coroner's office.

No information on Carroll was available from the KSP Pikeville post.

Trooper Greg Roberts was the investigating officer.

No seat belts were in use, according to police.

Funeral services for McCoy are set for Thursday at 1 p.m. at Floyd Funeral Home, with burial to follow in the McCoy Family Cemetery at East Point.

Garrett's funeral is also scheduled for 1 p.m. Thursday at Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home, with burial in Richmond Cemetery.

Talking About Ticks . . .

by Anne Chaney,
Editor

The nasty little critters seem to be out in droves this year, perhaps because of a relatively mild winter.

But for most Floyd County residents, the problem lies not in the number, but the danger.

Wood ticks, also known as "dog ticks," comprise the bulk of the tick population in the area. They can be carriers of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, according to Joy Moore, nurse supervisor for the Floyd County Health Department.

Cases of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever have been reported in the county, and there has also been one suspected case of Lyme disease, another tick-borne illness.

Generally, says Moore, ticks are abundant in weeds, trees and areas with heavy brush.

"People should be careful about allowing their children to play in those types of areas," Moore explains. "Parents should check children's heads and clothes. If they do find a tick, when they try to pull it out, they should be very careful."

Moore said it is important to make sure the entire tick comes out, and that its mouth parts are also removed. "If the head stays under the skin, and the tick is carrying Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, it can still be contracted," she warns.

The bacteria causing illness can incubate for three to 14 days. Moore says general symptoms include sudden onset of moderate to high fever, which can persist for two to three weeks. Also present may be deep muscle pain, severe headache, chills, and a rash on the extremities about the third day. The rash can spread to the palms and soles of the feet. In addition, blue, patchy areas known as "petechiae hemorrhages" are common.

According to Moore, the fatality rate from Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever is about 15 to 20 percent, unless medical attention is sought.

Moore cautions that the fever cannot be directly transmitted from person to person.

"People should search themselves all over three to four hours later for attached ticks if working or playing in infested areas. When removing ticks, protect your hands," she adds.

Graduation Ceremonies Slated

Area seniors will say goodbye to their high school careers during commencement exercises scheduled at each of the county's five high schools in the coming week.

Graduation ceremonies, all of which will be held in the school's gymnasium, will be:

Allen Central High School: Graduation ceremonies Thursday, June 8 at 7 p.m., for 136 students. Baccalaureate services will be Sunday, June 3, in the gymnasium.

Betsy Layne High School: Graduation ceremonies Thursday 8, at 8 p.m., for 127 seniors. No baccalaureate services are scheduled.

McDowell High School: Graduation ceremonies Tuesday, June 6 at 7 p.m., for 70 graduates.

Prestonsburg High School: Graduation ceremonies Tuesday, June 6, at 8 p.m., for 160 graduates. Baccalaureate services are Sunday, June 3, at Community Methodist Church. The Honor Choir will perform.

Wheelwright High School: Graduation ceremonies Friday, June 9, at 7 p.m., for 62 seniors. Baccalaureate services are Sunday, June 4, at 2 p.m., site to be announced.

Recount Nets Same Results

No changes will be made in the primary election sheriff's race results, following a recount of precinct tallies Tuesday morning by the County Clerk's office.

According to Wilma Haley, chair of the county board of elections, all precincts were recounted, as were absentees. No errors were found.

In a separate race, at the request of candidate Barkley Sturgill, Jack's Creek precinct votes in the Court of Appeals race were also recounted. Originally, 103 votes were reported for Sidney Douglass; in fact, Douglass received three votes. Haley said the difference was a recording error made the night of the election.

Counterfeit Bills Reported In Area

While counterfeit $20 bills have been found in Louisa, apparently none of the fake money has yet found its way to Floyd County.

Representatives of the county's three banks said recently that no counterfeit bills have been received.

According to Judy Curnutte, security officer for the Bank Josephine, merchants can often tell by the feel of the paper whether a bill is legitimate. The print quality, as well as portrait etching, often tip off business owners that a bill is counterfeit.

Pat Flannagan of First Commonwealth Bank says the bills may or may not find their way to Floyd County.

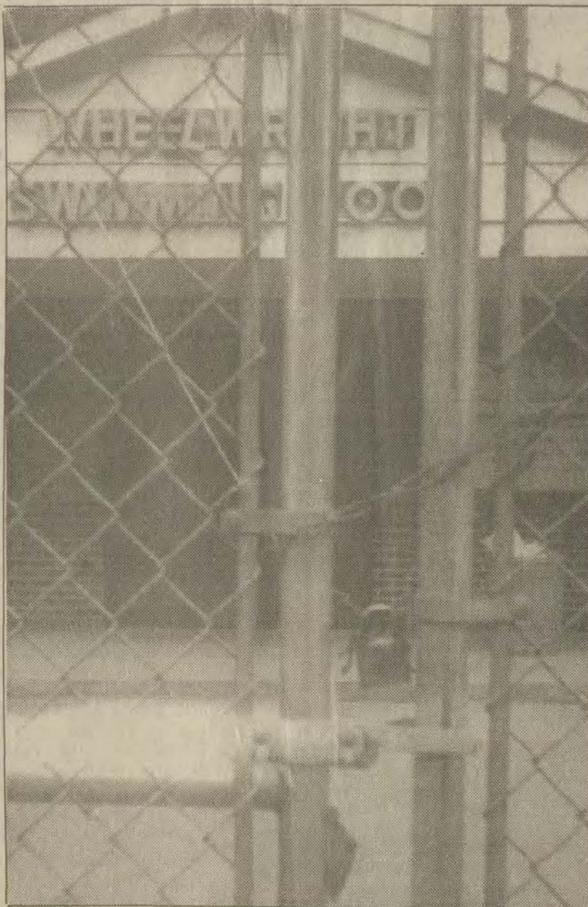

"It just depends on what trail they're using (the counterfeiters). They could be traveling right down US 23."

Flannagan says it doesn't take long for counterfeit bills to turn up, although they are usually passed at smaller, rural businesses.

"Bank tellers would know by the feel that the bill is fake," he adds. "It would be very hard for one to be passed across the counter at a financial institution."

Flannagan said the $20 counterfeit bill seems to be most popular, attributable, in part, to the fact that they are less conspicuous than $50 or $100 bills.

Terry Sizemore of First Guaranty Bank in Martin suggests merchants look for at least two things if they suspect a counterfeit: hairline red and blue fibers, part of the paper on which money is printed, can be seen with close scrutiny. Also, he said, merchants can take a bill and rub it against a white sheet of paper; if ink comes off, it is counterfeit.

Locked Up

A locked gate at the Wheelwright Youth Center tells area children that CAP has closed its southern Floyd County facility. Just below the lock hangs the barely visible remnant of a burst balloon, left over from a party before the May 19 closing.

Wheelwright's Youth Center Closes; CAP, Sponsor, Cites Budget Problems

by Pam Shingler,

Nine-year-old David Caudill was among a group of youngsters who learned to plant a garden on the grounds of Wheelwright Youth Center last month.

"I helped start a garden," Caudill said proudly. Now the boy can only watch the weeds grow up around his efforts through a locked chain-link fence.

The center, which served between 35 and 40 children a day for the last three years, was closed May 19 by Christian Appalachian Project, apparently because of funding cutbacks at the charitable agency, headquartered in Lancaster.

"We'll really miss it," said Gina Hall, a working mother whose two children and 13-year-old sister were regulars at the center. Hall's family generally stopped at the center after school for academic tutoring, hot food and a variety of activities. After work, Hall joined them, serving as a volunteer.

"Where we live the only place to play is the road," Hall said. "When school is out there'll be nothing for the kids to do. I'll have to get a babysitter."

Sheila Walker said her two children also went to the center every day. "They learned so much," she said. "They learned how to get along

Today and tomorrow, temperatures are expected to hover around 90, with high humidity, dipping into the mid-60s at night, according to the US Weather Service at Jackson.

The extended forecast for the weekend calls for partly cloudy skies, temperatures in the 80s, with a chance of thundershowers each day.

RTCC Meeting Set

The Prestonsburg Recreation, Tourism and Convention Commission will meet at 5:15 p.m. Monday, June 5, at the Municipal Building in Prestonsburg.

The commission will be looking at the proposed 1989-90 budget.

Board To Meet

Wayland's Town Board is slated to meet Saturday at noon at the town hall. On the agenda are updates on the proposed slate dump clean up and animal licensing ordinance.

No Driver's Exams

No written driver's tests will be given Friday morning, June 2.

According to Ethel Sammons, license examiner, road tests will be given in the morning only. Written tests will be given at 1 p.m. Friday.

First Lady Digs In

Kentucky First Lady Martha Wilkinson proved her physical prowess Sunday as she participated in groundbreaking ceremonies for the new David School building. "If ever there was an example of getting involved instead of just making excuses, it's the David School," Wilkinson told the crowd of students, parents, David residents and others. The first lady also informed school director Dan Greene of the governor's recommendation to the Appalachian Regional Commission that ARC provide $150,000 in matching funds for the school's growth. ARC administrator Winnie Pizano was also present for the groundbreaking. "Together I know we're going to see the development of the David School," Wilkinson said. The school is a private, alternative school that serves dropouts through a regular curriculum in grades 7-12 and through GED and literacy programs.

One Injured In Head-On Collision On David Road

A Buckeye man was seriously injured Thursday when the Chevy Blazer he was driving collided head-on with a Brooks Oil Co. diesel fuel tanker near David.

The accident took place on Route 404, about a mile off of the Mountain Parkway, according to Larry Adams of the Prestonsburg Fire Department.

Slone, who was thrown from his vehicle, was flown from Highlands Regional Medical Center to Huntington, W. Va. A spokesperson for Cabell-Huntington Hospital said Slone has been moved from intensive care, and is listed in satisfactory condition.

Adams said that the driver of the tanker, Darrell Francis, was "shaken up and probably suffered some whiplash injuries, but nothing serious."

According to Adams, the tanker was carrying about 4,500 gallons of fuel, 2,100 of it lost when the truck was turned on its side from the collision. He said that the fire department built a dirt barrier around the spill to soak up the fuel. He added that there was no danger of the fuel getting into the creek.

State Department of Transportation employees dumped sand on the spill to absorb more of the fuel; additional clean-up will be done by Brooks Oil, said Adams.

Adams said there was no danger of explosion, explaining, "diesel fuel is a combustible liquid and it must be heated above 100 degrees Fahrenheit to give off any vapors."

Hospitals Get Energy Grants

The US Department of Energy has awarded grants totaling $48,377 to two Floyd County hospitals, according to an announcement from Kentucky Sen. Mitch McConnell.

Highlands Regional Medical Center, near Prestonsburg, was awarded $44,150, and Our Lady of the Way hospital in Martin received $4,227. The two are among 19 facilities in Kentucky to receive matching funds through the Energy Department's Institutional Conservation Program.

HRMC's grant will go toward the replacement of heating and air conditioning controls, according to Russell Briggs of the hospital staff. Briggs noted that this is the third such grant

HRMC has received.

The project at Highlands will total between $80,000 and $90,000, Briggs said, adding that the government funds are allocated on a matching basis. He said the changes being made at HRMC will "enable us to be more energy efficient."

The grant to Our Lady of the Way will help pay for a feasibility study on ways the hospital can conserve energy, according to hospital administrator Sr. Mary Fanning.

Legislators Investigate Tourism, Economic Issues

A proposal for a welcome center on Mountain Parkway at Slade aroused the interest of members of the state Legislative Task Force on Economic Development and Tourism, meeting last Friday at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

The center, which would offer information to visitors to Kentucky's eastern counties, was proposed by Roger Recktenwald, director of Big Sandy Area Development District, and Percy Elkins, director of Kentucky River ADD, headquartered in Hazard.

Task force members, representing both houses of the state legislature, agreed to draft a resolution calling for a feasibility study on the proposed center.

Taken by the idea, Rep. Paul Mason of the 91st district, was ready to push the center. "Let's just do it. Forget the study," said Mason, who represents parts of Pike, Letcher and Perry counties.

Rep. Jim Maggard of Breathitt County also introduced a resolution asking the Transportation Cabinet to build exit and entrance ramps at the proposed center site.

Chairperson Dottie Priddy of Louisville instructed the task force secretary to draft resolutions to be sent to all members of the committee in preparation for the 1990 General Assembly session.

Lead off speaker for the regional hearing of the task force was Mary Ray Oaken, Secretary of the state's Tourism Cabinet. Oaken told the legislators that tourism is the state's second largest employer and that her mission is to "get people to realize that we have more in the state than horses and white fences."

Oaken introduced the legislators to the state's regionalized advertising campaign, designed to point up attractions throughout the state. Of Eastern Kentucky, Oaken said, "This area has a world of possibilities. Every place I travel I am more impressed by the beauty of this region."

Oaken said her office has contracted with the University of Kentucky for a master plan for tourism development of the state's three geographical regions. The first part of the plan, she said, will address needs and programs for Eastern Kentucky.

"The only thing worse than no development is unplanned development," she said, explaining the rationale of the UK contract. The study, she said, will analyze each region's infrastructure and requirements for a capital improvements program over several years.

Oaken and task force members agreed that development of roads and water systems is critical to tourism planning in the Appalachian counties.

Rep. Ray Preston of Johnson County pointed out that a potential tourist attraction in that county is the birthplace of country music superstar Loretta Lynn. "But you can't get there," Preston said, referring to the lack of adequate roads.

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta was asked by the task force to explain the impact of the city's restaurant tax on tourism development. "The tax is the most important thing to happen here in years," Latta told the legislators.

"I have seen the cycle of poverty here," she said. "Now I'm beginning to see a cycle of economic growth. I beg you not to tamper with the cycle and to support it."

Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre director Jim Deaton introduced the task force members to the theatre, which, he said, is the second largest summer theatre in the state. Deaton said attendance has increased 78 percent in three years.

Also appearing before the task force were Burl Wells Spurlock, member of the Regional Airport Board, and Harding Dawahare of the Pikeville Chamber of Commerce.

The task force met other area citizens with an interest in economic development during a reception Thursday evening at the park. The Friday morning hearing was part of a series of such hearings being held across the state by the legislators.

two state statutes, according to school officials.

Hager said the local board is also investigating the allegations, and that he has talked with both Grigsby and Chaffin.

"I sent no one and no employee of this school board to campaign for any candidate, and certainly not on school time," said Hager.

Rowe, Grigsby's attorney, said he has not received specific information about the allegations, adding, "I fully anticipate that it will be resolved by the school system as a local internal matter."

Rowe said if the topic of politics did arise in Grigsby's conversations with school employees, it was in "casual context."

"If politics arose in the context of casual, normal conversation, that's a matter that we can admit. . . . I think it's just mountain politics," said Rowe.

ready for the blacktop just takes more time and money," Adams said.

He also said availability of materials jacks up the total bid price. Blacktop, he explained, is made of limestone which has to be brought in from Letcher County on the Virginia border since local hills are largely sandstone.

Oil, which is added to the limestone to make blacktop, comes from the Ashland Oil Refinery in northern Kentucky, he said.

The Adams company has the contract to resurface the Johnson County portion of the Prestonsburg-Paintsville stretch of US 23, while Mountain Enterprises in Martin has the contract for the Floyd County side.

Bob Bell of Mountain Enterprises said Tuesday he could not estimate a completion date for the local resurfacing project.

Ticks

fect ticks pass the disease to humans via bites. Contracting Lyme disease "can do a lot of damage," says Moore.

Carrie Branham, a nurse at the Health Department, notes that those who have been bitten by an infected tick often develop fever, fatigue, have arthritis-like joint ailments and heal slowly. In many cases, she said, victims develop a bulls-eye rash, a circular skin rash that can expand up to 27 inches in diameter and last for days or months of not treated.

Other symptoms, according to the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, include abdominal pain, chills, vomiting, nausea, and a sore throat.

NON-ASPIRIN PAIN RELIEVERS
 Acetaminophen is a drug often used as a substitute for aspirin to relieve pain and reduce fever. An analgesic, it relieves moderate pain of headaches and muscle or peripheral nerve disorders, but not intense pain or the pain caused by spasms of smooth muscles (such as the muscles lining the digestive or urinary tracts). Its virtue as an aspirin substitute is that it does not upset the stomach as aspirin sometimes does. However, it does not have the anti-inflammatory and antirheumatic properties of aspirin. Acetaminophen is frequently recommended for infants and children as an aid in reducing fever. It is available in liquid form, in chewable tablets for children, and in tablets and capsules for adults. When extra pain relief is needed by adults, the physician may prescribe acetaminophen with codeine.
 A wide array of quality over-the-counter medications and health care items line the shelves of COOLEY APOTHECARY. When it comes to your health care needs, we have them fully covered. If you are having difficulty selecting the correct item, please ask us for assistance. You can rely upon our knowledge and expertise to help you make the best purchase possible. Learn for yourself why your friends and neighbors already rely on us at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9:5-3:30, Sat. 9-3.

For a decade or so, the people of the southern rim of the county have been learning about closings — closings of mines, buildings, stores, other businesses. Most remember bustling times when the deep mine coal companies flourished and made sure their people did, too. Being cut off from the county seat by mountains and poor roads didn't seem so bad when you had your own movie houses, department stores, restaurants and recreation centers.

A few weeks ago their children got a good lesson in closings when the Christian Appalachian Project shut down its Wheelwright Youth Center. Many children got help with their school work, many learned new skills such as gardening and crocheting, many got their best meal of the day there, many found a safe place to play out of the range of fast cars and scary dogs.

Their mothers, many of whom are forced to work outside the home, could do their jobs with peace of mind that their children were safe, cared for and stimulated by activities other than television cartoons.

CAP, which has probably done more unselfish good throughout Eastern Kentucky than any other charitable organization, cites budget cuts as the reason for the closing. The Wheelwright City Commission cites an almost nonexistent municipal budget as the reason it cannot fund reopening of the center, which it owns.

Sometimes, it seems there's a heart-break every day in Eastern Kentucky, and the closing of the youth center has filled my quota for several weeks running. But I have some hopes for the situation.

First, I hope that, as CAP's people contend, the closing had nothing to do with recent problems between CAP staff members and the city commissioners over the city swimming pool. I witnessed a fiery exchange last month among commissioners, Wheelwright Utilities officials, CAP officials and area citizens during a city commission meeting.

The meeting reminded me of how I used to describe my family to flatland friends. "My people are so stubborn they'd shoot themselves in the foot just to make a point," I'd tell them. Unfortunately, my family probably represents all of Appalachia.

Tempers were high at the meeting over what seemed basically to be simple misunderstandings all around. Someone would start a sentence and before waiting to hear the end of it, someone else would counter without knowing what the gist of the statement was.

Mayor Larry Mullins tried to conciliate, but his voice was drowned out.

What is it about us, I wonder, that causes us to abhor compromise and peaceful negotiation and to focus on divisiveness and one-upmanship? Do we Appalachians have some sort of mutant gene that keeps us from listening to one another and working together?

Second, I hope CAP will reconsider, even with a modified program, the continuation of the center. Funds are obviously tight; there's no denying that point. Philanthropic organizations across the country are feeling the pinch. But maybe somewhere out there is an angel with a little bit of money to make a difference in some children's lives. Too many children in this area have too little opportunity, too little tending to, too little support, too little intellectual stimulation, too little just about everything.

Third, if CAP absolutely cannot come through, I hope the people of the Wheelwright area can come up with some sort of alternative programming. The building is there. Several parents have expressed interest in volunteering their time. The area is full of retired persons who need to be of service, who have many skills, and who are full of love.

But this third hope will require organization, big doses of dedication and commitment, and a ton of cooperation. And it will probably require some compromises along the way, subordinating "my" way in favor of "your" way occasionally. Above all, it will require listening, really listening, to one another — and to the children.

Maybe, some day we can create a miracle or two, in place of the continual heartbreaks. Maybe we can learn as much about openings as we know of closings.

Proposed annexation of additional territory to the City of Prestonsburg was met this week by a move on the part of residents of Cliff to incorporate their own community and thus forestall annexation plans. The possibility exists, it was later learned, that the Prestonsburg Gas and Water Commission will be asked to discontinue water and gas service to all consumers who do not reside in the corporate limits of Prestonsburg. . . The case of the people of the Big Sandy section vs. the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company in relation to the company's proposal to discontinue its passenger train service on the Big Sandy division was being heard in the federal court, Pikeville, with the Kentucky Railroad Commission sitting as judges. . . The Sandy Valley Coal Company, Water Gap, Floyd County's oldest coal operation and among the first in Eastern Kentucky, may not reopen following the miners' annual holiday period the last of this month. Mr. J.R. Hurt, secretary treasurer and general manager, said this possibility is due to dwindling of the present 48 inch coal seam. . . A contract was entered into Monday between the Rural Highway Division and the Floyd fiscal court allocating $64,980 to county aid in a program of maintaining Floyd County's roads. . . Contract on the construction of the eight room brick school planned for the community of Melvin was awarded Tuesday by the Floyd County Board of Education to Mitchell Preston, Pikeville contractor, on his base bid of $139,626. . . Settlement of Sheriff Dial Salisbury with the Floyd Fiscal Court on collections of 1938 taxes revealed that $385,027 had been collected in actual cash for the county treasury alone. This amount does not include consolidated school taxes. Largest of Floyd County taxpayers, as usual, was the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company which paid $119,000. . . For being "forced" to work out a $10 misdemeanor fine on the streets of McDowell with mattock, shovel and hoe, and thus being subjected to "public ridicule and embarrassment" as probably the first Kentucky woman ever to "work out" a court fine, a 51-year-old mother of 10 children Friday filed in the Floyd Circuit Court a $25,000 damage suit against the town. . . Proposed increases of Prestonsburg's gas rates were refused Thursday by the Public Service Commission after Prestonsburg officials appeared at Frankfort in protest against the Federal Public Service Corporation's petition for a raise. . . Letters To The Editor

Missing Records: In Prestonsburg?

Dear Editor,
In the "Festival of Faces" section of the May 10, edition regarding an article found in the Times, dated October 13, 1938, that "City records prior to 1907 are unavailable, having been lost during the tenure of the late police judge."

I found among old files in our offices, over the old First National Bank Building, several years ago, a ledger covering resolutions and ordinances made between 1902 or 1903 through about 1907, which apparently had been used as evidence in an old lawsuit in which my father, B.F. Combs, and my uncle, A.B. Combs, were involved as attorneys.

The streets in Prestonsburg were designated as First, Second, etc., Cross-Streets. I turned the ledger over to the mayor and city clerk following a council meeting in the old bank opposite The Bank Josephine, which the city had purchased. The clerk, in my presence, placed the city ledger on a shelf in the front vault of the bank. Later, I took a friend to see the old ledger and resolutions, some of which were very descriptive of Prestonsburg in the years they were kept. References were made to the town marshal; to hiring of Epp Laferty to put new flag (?) stones at the intersections for people to cross the streets without wading through the mud and to place them so that the horses and wagons could drive between them; and to repair the wood sidewalks. I was told that the city ledger, which is actually city property, was missing.

I suggest that this missing ledger, which is a valuable piece of Prestonsburg history, and the city records described in your newspaper article are still in existence here and should be returned to the city. If they are turned in, the city will take special care in order to avoid them being lost or taken. There were not many pages in the ledger, but what was there was some of the most interesting reading I have ever had the opportunity to see.

The Prestonsburg minute book is likely in Prestonsburg now. If anyone has information as to the whereabouts of this old minute book, it should be delivered to Mayor Ann Latta or me, and either of us will place it in safe keeping as city property.

Very truly yours,
Paul C. Combs

Enjoys Local Culture

Dear Editor,
Although I do not live in Prestonsburg, I enjoy the pleasure of subscribing to your newspaper. I look forward each week to receiving the latest news from your area.

My father was born on Middle Creek. Though his family moved away when he was young, dad always loved going back to Prestonsburg and spending his leisure time at the old home place where he was born. He has since passed away but he left with us a gift of fond memories of the times he spent at the old home place.

My husband and I now enjoy coming to Prestonsburg for visits. I look forward to coming again soon to spend a few days. I have met so many nice and helpful people in your community.

I see in your newspaper that you have a "Poetry Corner" - I enjoy writing poetry and I would like to submit two poems for possible publication. Although I am not a direct resident of your community, I would like to keep the warmth of dad's love for Prestonsburg flowing within my family by extending my hand in friendship to you and participating where I can in the community of Prestonsburg.

Thank you for considering my submission of poetry.

Sincerely yours,

Waste Disposal Warning Given

Dear Editor,
For many, many years, the people of Kentucky have faced an enormous problem with massive amounts of garbage.

Slowly, steps have been taken that have put Kentucky in a proper direction in waste disposal. Now we must cautiously define our attempts to upgrade and expand our facilities.

We must also recognize the fact that garbage buried beneath our soil does not always guarantee the end of the garbage problem. In far too many cases, leakage from disposal areas has seriously polluted our streams and underground water supplies.

To lessen the threat, we must recognize that our best bet is to have a minimum amount of waste disposed. To do this and get rid of our garbage, we must maximize recycling efforts and say "No" to out-of-state garbage. When we achieve a proper balance with our own waste disposal and recycling efforts, we will have a cleaner and more livable environment. If we fail, we will have only moved our garbage out of sight and into an even greater area of concern, by underground pollution.

Sincerely,
Marion A. Taylor

Remember Father's Day

Dear Editor,
As we approach the Father's Day season, we older set of mountain folk are apt to remember the typical "father's little farm" in the mountains of Floyd County and Appalachia, in general.

Father's handwork, integrity, love of God, family and neighbors took place using his little farm as a base of operation.

This reverence and recalling good memories are fit and proper, however, we need to pray for and seek to understand modern mountain fathers, who are caught up in present day high-tech arenas with peer pressure, excess worry, frustration and life's daily uncertainties.

God in his infinite wisdom appointed fathers, initially, to nurture children in his ways, however, these days mothers must share in this all important divine requirement.

I would say happy Father's Day to all living fathers, and ask everyone to make Father's Day a special day for dad, mother and family as well.

Sincerely,
Joe Damon Jr.

High Winds Cause Damage

High winds in the Martin area caused a tree limb to split from its parent trunk and come crashing down on the carport of Lovell Hall's Friday morning. Cendia Hall said she and her daughter, Ronda, were sleeping when the locust tree branch fell on the carport roof, adjacent to their bedrooms. Neither was injured. The winds also broke a window and felled a flagpole in the yard of their neighbors, Spencer and Dorothy Nutter.

P'burg Council Tosses Bids, Accepts One By Local Firm

After calling last month for rebidding of the city's annual audit contract, Prestonsburg City Council agreed last week to stay with its former auditor.

Council accepted a high bid from Allen, England and Hensley of Prestonsburg to continue to audit city books. The local firm's bid stated the cost of the annual audit would "not exceed $4,500" with a monthly auditing service fee of $310.

Rejected was a bid from Burchett and Bottoms of Water Gap, which called for an annual audit fee of $3,750, with a monthly charge of $275.

"I don't think we should change," said Councilman Adrian Blackburn. "If the system's not broke, let's not fix it."

He also added that consideration should be made that the bid by Burchett and Bottoms is located in the city. "I can't see taking (the business) out of the corporate limits."

Council agreed to accept the higher bid on a motion made by Blackburn and seconded by Charles Hale. Also voting in favor of the motion were Michael Vance, William Callihan and William O. Goebel III. Councilman Danny Hamilton abstained.

Council also rejected a bid from Ed Walters Motor Car and Truck Co. for a pick up truck. Although council members appeared to agree that the bid of $11,150 was a fair price, questions over whether the bid was turned in on time and properly were raised.

City manager Fred James said the envelope containing the bid had been slipped under Police Chief Dickie Campbell's office door apparently after the close of regular city hall business hours. Campbell, whose name was on the envelope, opened the envelope later, apparently not knowing that it contained the bid.

No other bids were received. Hale moved, with a second by Callihan, that the bid be rejected and that the city re-advertise.

In other business related to bids, council agreed to advertise for a jaws-of-life mechanism for the fire department. The device is to be used for extracting victims trapped inside automobiles. Goebel made the motion and Hamilton seconded it. A motion by Callihan, seconded by Hamilton, authorized James to advertise the Harkins Estate property on Trimble Branch for sale. The 30 acres or so of land were deeded to the city on the condition that the property or the proceeds of its sale be used for youth activities or recreation.

The need for bidding on new communication equipment was addressed in a motion by Hale, seconded by Callihan. Council instructed James to check with a consultant on what equipment will best serve the city and to advertise for bids.

Senior Citizens Survey Scheduled In Wayland

Wayland area senior citizens (individuals over the age of 60) are asked to participate in a survey to determine the need for services in Wayland and the Right Fork of Beaver Creek in Knott County, according to Bonnie Hale, representative of the Big Sandy ADD.

She said some of the services addressed in the survey will be transportation, group setting meals, home meal delivery for the homebound, friendly visiting, outreach, telephone reassurance, recreation, health promotion and information and referral.

Discussion of the survey will be a topic during a second organization meeting at the Wayland Grade School, Thursday, June 1, at 6:30 p.m. Other discussion will include incorporating the program and locating a suitable site from which to base service delivery, Hale added.

She encourages all interested residents to attend. For more information call Big Sandy ADD 886-2374.

Royal Arch Chapter To Meet Saturday

Prestonsburg Chapter No. 182, Royal Arch Masons, has changed its regular meeting date to the first Saturday each month, immediately following the meeting of Zebulon Lodge.

The election of officers will be conducted Saturday evening, June 3, and all Royal Arch Masons are invited to attend.

tin. Martin L. Osborne of Francis, Kazee and Francis law firm said the first post office in the area now known as Martin was established at Buck's Branch, a tributary of Beaver Creek, in 1910. Next, he said, the community was renamed Smalley for Smalley Crisp, a local landowner.

In 1915, Osborne said, Martin Van Allen was appointed postmaster and the place began to be called Martin. The post office name was not officially changed until 1926, he said.

Mary Stone of McDowell confirmed that the town was named for the postmaster Martin Van Allen.

This week's name origin posers are Bosco, in the southwest part of the county, and Harold in the eastern section. If you know where these names came from, call The Times at 886-8506 or mail your written answer to the newspaper, Box 391, Prestonsburg 41653.

Fiscal Court Receives Grants For Mud, Middle Creek VFDs

The Floyd Fiscal Court met in regular session Thursday, and received two $5,000 grants for volunteer fire departments, and two bids on the South East/Weeksbury Fire Department.

The court received two $5,000 grants from the state for equipment for volunteer fire departments in Mud Creek and Middle Creek. Also, two bids were received on the Weeksbury/South East Fire Department: Hall Concrete Products of Allen, for 3-foot metal doors, $260.09; and Pikeville Overhead Doors, for overhead doors, $2,364.

In other business, the court heard from a number of county residents: — Rita Davis of Dwale returned to the Court to follow up on residents' petition to get a new access road. She asked County Judge-Executive Judge John M. Stumbo to proceed with his suggestion to set up a meeting for the citizens and state government officials in Frankfort. Stumbo agreed, adding that he may be able to get the officials to come to Prestonsburg, since there are other citizens which have similar problems.

— Rita Sammons, a resident of Hunter, presented the court with 200-signature petition to get a new bridge. She said that the low-water bridge is regularly impassable during and 10 to 12 hours after water rises over the bridge. School buses, she said, must let the children off on the far side, and they have to wade through the water to get home. Stumbo invited her to present this to state officials, as well.

— Earl Johnson requested that the court notify him if anyone petitions the court to make the road on top of Mead Hill at Justice Branch a public road. This road is on his property, he said, adding that he had only sold an easement to the power company, so they should be the only ones allowed access.

— Earl Collins, representing others from Mare Creek, attended to follow up on a petition to receive blacktop for the three miles of dirt road in the community. The court approved one mile, and Collins said it was a good start, but that he would "be back until we can get the whole three miles."

The court moved to pay all primary election expenses, when the clerk presents the listing, to include voting machines, printing and mileage.

Hired as summer workers by the court were Krystal Chaffins, David Layne, Kimberly Osborne, Robin Johnson, Casandra Slone, Tamatha Tackett, Missy Curry, John Alan Wright, Kevin Adams, Trey Reed, Jamie Lawson, Jesse Osborne, Kenny Lawson, Ronda Moore, Dwight Newsome, John T. Combs, Earnie Tackett, Robbie Click, Brian Hall, Richie Fraley, Carolyn T. Layne and Leslie Ousley. Lifeguards will be paid $3.60 an hour and others will receive $3.50.

A check for $626.25 was submitted to the county from William Kendrick, Floyd County electrical inspector, as its share of the $2,505 he collected, and the court moved to transfer funds within budgeted accounts due to the emergency in some of the line items to pay the monthly bills.

A separate budget amendment was made to reflect the increase of the Local Government Economic Assistance fund by $306,965, to include unbudgeted revenues from Mineral Tax and Cash Balance.

with other kids. My daughter learned to crochet and cook. They both miss it a lot already.

"There's nothing for kids to do here," Walker said. "They just play in the roads, and that's dangerous."

"I guess I'll just stay at home now," said Dede Farmer, 14, who added that she went to the center almost every day. "That's all there is to do."

The center served hot meals to children after school, offered tutoring services, provided supervised games and programs, and gave young people a place to congregate. The center also sponsored field trips and camping trips for area youngsters.

"We anticipated a revenue increase for the coming year," said CAP spokesman Glen Taul from his Lancaster office. "But it did not materialize."

"We had to cut back 10 percent in our workforce and restructure some of the programs to fit the budget," Taul added. The organization, he said, relies on donations from direct mail appeals and from corporate sponsors.

Also chopped in the rebudgeting were an industry for handicapped adults in Stanford, a home for special needs children and a home for unwed mothers, both in Mt. Vernon, and a second-hand store in Somerset.

Taul said CAP will "try to provide transportation to kids in the Wheelwright area who want to come to programs at the CAP youth center in Martin."

CAP Eastern coordinator Mike Sanders told Wheelwright City Commission members last month that the youth center was budgeted at about $60,000. At that commission meeting, Sanders, city commission members and Wheelwright Utilities Commission members had a heated discussion over funding for opening the swimming pool. Taul said the exchange had no bearing on the decision to close the center.

Katie Newsome, who coordinated the Wheelwright center, likened her feelings about the closing to grieving for a loved one. "These kids and parents are not just people I worked with. They were my friends, really special."

Newsome said the center served primarily children 9-14 years of age. "Younger children could come with their brother, sister or parent," she said. Older teens often came to the center to help with younger children, she added.

"We'll see the good effects of the center for years and years," said the former center director, who is being transferred to CAP's Camp Shawnee operation.

Newsome said the organization donated "a lot of its inventory" to the City of Wheelwright, including appliances, crafts tables and pool tables.

The building where the center was located is owned by the City of Wheelwright and was originally built as a recreation center for area residents by Inland Steel, which formerly owned the city along with its extensive coal operation.

The building site, which includes a swimming pool, apparently was vacant for several years before CAP took over. CAP had not opened the swimming pool for the past two years because of the expense.

Wheelwright Mayor Larry Mullins said Monday he sees "no way the city could have the money to keep the center open." Mullins has two sons who went to the center regularly.

"At the next city commission meeting, we'll try to get suggestions from citizens," Mullins said. "I don't know if the community can get anything going, but I hope we can."

The next scheduled meeting is June 15 at 7 p.m., although Mullins said a special meeting will have to be called before then to address the 1989-90 budget. The mayor said he will have to consult with other commissioners on a date for the special meeting.

Several parents, including Hall and Walker, indicated they would volunteer their time if the center could be reopened.

"I wish there was something I could do," said Walker. "I worry about the children. Having the center open may save some lives."

Presbyterian Church Homecoming June 4

On Sunday, June 4, the First Presbyterian Church will hold its 10th annual homecoming and observe its 90th year as an organization.

A feature of the celebration is the dedication of the Seville organ, donated by Mary Elizabeth Powers of Indianapolis, Ind. Her brother, P.D. Powers, also of Indianapolis, will make the presentation on her behalf.

Additional activities include special music by the choir, directed by James Ratcliff, at Sunday services, 11 a.m., with a homecoming dinner following.

Mike Conley, instructor of music at Prestonsburg Community College, will perform an organ recital, accompanied by Mary Grace Garland of Paintsville, on the piano, at 2 p.m.

Also, a dedication of the church renovations and a plaque will be presented in memory of Barbara Sturgill Frost and Angeline Chaloupka, whose families have had long association with the church.

Pre-Registration Prepare your child for KINDERGARTEN

State law requires that children must attend Kindergarten before entering 1st grade. Children 5 years old before October 1, 1989 are eligible for Kindergarten. Screening for Kindergarten readiness will be held on Closing Day at your school.

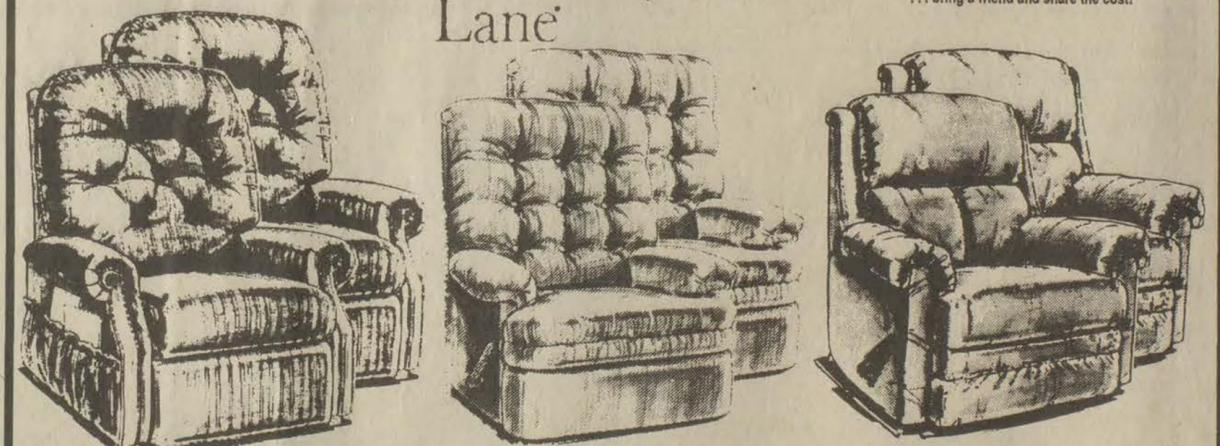

Parents are to pick up packets containing entrance requirements at this time. See your Principal for Closing Date and designated area.

Floyd County Mine Permits Approved By State

The Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals issued 11 permits for mining projects in Floyd County or initiated by local companies during April.

Branham and Baker Coal Co. of Prestonsburg was given three permits. An underground site involves a little more than 151 acres, and a surface mine site includes more than 900 acres. The third permit listed in the DMM announcement was for a haul road in Magoffin County, involving more than 17 acres. Total bond for the three sites amounts to more than $2 million.

Blackstar Enterprises, with a Huysville address, received a permit for underground mining on sites of more than 154 acres. A bond of face/auger project.

National Mines Corp., listed at Wayland with a Knott legal structure, was granted an underground permit for a 148 acre site, at a bond of $40,100.

$28,800 was required for the corporation with a Knott County listing.

A Prestonsburg address was given for a permit for Chloe Creek Development on an underground site of more than 1,000 acres. The company, with a Pike County legal structure listing, paid a bond of $23,800.

Laurel Creek Coal Co., which has a Paintsville address and a Floyd corporate listing, was given permits for two acreage parcels, totaling more than 200 acres. A bond of more than $400,000 was required for the sur-

Old Style Mining of Prestonsburg received a permit for underground acreage of more than 240 acres. Bond was $10,000.

With a Floyd corporate listing,

Richardson Fuel of Richardson was given a surface permit for a 126-plus acre site. Bond was $29,800.

Standard Elkhorn Minerals, with a Prestonsburg address and Pike legal structure, received a permit for an underground site of more than 280 acres. Bond was $24,700.

Wilgar Land Co. of Virgie, with a Floyd and Pike corporate listing, was granted a permit for surface/auger/underground mining on 886.3 acres. Bond is $31,000.

No site locations were specified on the department listing.

Theatre Companies Featured At Festival

Nearly three dozen theater companies from around Kentucky are scheduled to appear Saturday, June 3 at Theatre Kentucky!, the first statewide drama festival, including Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre, according to Jim Carroll, member of the Tourism Cabinet.

"Governor Wallace Wilkinson came up with the idea for a statewide drama festival last summer after touring a number of outdoor dramas around the state," said Carroll.

"Tourism Secretary Mary Ray Oaken said Theatre Kentucky! promises to be a festive showcase for Kentucky theatrical talent," he added.

"We're excited about Theatre Kentucky!," Oaken said. "We have professional, community and collegiate theater companies from all regions of the state taking part in this free festival."

According to Carroll, Theatre Kentucky! will be staged on the Capitol grounds in Frankfort. Each theater company will perform a 20-minute segment on one of three stages to be set up around the Capitol and Capital Annex. Participating groups will host exhibition booths where visitors can buy season subscriptions, enjoy video and slide presentations, obtain information about upcoming theater seasons and purchase items like T-shirts and mugs, he added.

Utility Cases Decided

Three Floyd County utility cases were decided by the Public Service Commission recently, according to Mary M. Mulloy, state official.

Cases were:
— B&H Gas Company, Inc., was sold by John M. and Debbie Bradley to Ulice Bud Rife Jr., on May 17;

— The Auxier Water Company received approval to increase rates and increase its revenues by $84,912 annually; the average monthly bill will go from $22.10 to $31.05, retroactive to May 18;

— The Mike Little Gas Company was granted a purchased gas adjustment to reflect a $20,536 increase in wholesale costs from its supplier; the average annual increase per residential customer is $44.78, effective June 7.

One moment of clarity changed his life. Tom, 31, started in junior high, mixing vodka with his fruit punch. But as an adult, mainly drank beer. A case a day. Watched his dad die from cirrhosis. Frightened, switched to cocaine. After a $3,000 "White Christmas", returned to alcohol. Immediately went out of control. Soon needed a pint of bourbon to stop the morning shakes. Finally, on a binge, raised his fist to hit his wife. Suddenly flashed back to his childhood. Realized like father, like son. Broke down, asked for help.

"I went into the CareUnit dead inside, beaten. They gave me unconditional love. They gave me my life."

Tom's been sober 2 years, has kept his family together, and says his life has completely turned around.

Particularly Plush Pea Patch Promises Pecks

With 14 rows of salad peas all in bloom, Bob Crum of West Prestonsburg is in for a bumper crop in a few weeks. Crum says he planted the seeds in January and February when very few Floyd Countians were thinking of gardening. He expects to outdo last year's crop of 27 pecks of peas. On a riverbank plot, Crum also grows corn, beans, strawberries and other fruits and vegetables. When he isn't gardening, the 70-year-old mows lawns and delivers newspapers.

Cholesterol Testing Available at Blood Center

The Central Kentucky Blood Center will perform a cholesterol test on each unit of blood donated during the month of May, and results will be sent to each donor, according to Tim Thompson, blood center representative.

"We have listened to our donors and good health seems to be an important issue for everyone these days," Thompson said. The mini physical performed prior to a donation also includes a check of blood pressure, pulse, temperature, and hematocrit (iron level).

According to Thompson, the cholesterol testing has been added to the exam because "scientific evidence clearly shows that reduction of blood cholesterol levels will reduce the risk of heart attack in the future."

The center is open Tuesdays from 11 a.m.-7 p.m., Thursdays and Fridays from 10 a.m.-6 p.m., and is located on the second floor of the Municipal Building. For an appointment to donate, call 886-1557.

Thompson urges residents to "please come in during the month of May and donate a unit of blood-it will not only make a difference to the health of patients in our area hospitals, it could make a difference in your health as well."

Landscaping with Laurel Farms

MULCHING

A mulch is an insulating layer of material that is spread over the ground. There organic and inorganic materials help to hold moisture in the soil thus cooling the plant in hot weather & warming the soil in cold weather.

Organic material: wood chips such as pine or cypress; leaves, lawn clippings, straw, ground corn cobs. As these materials decompose, they improve the soil. Apply these mulches 2 to 6 inches thick. A thick mulch also controls weeds, but use mulches that are free from weed seeds & have not been treated with herbicides.

Inorganic material: rock, gravel, and coarse sand. These materials are more expensive but more permanent as they do not decompose.

Thanks To All The Voters

In District 2 for electing me to represent the democratic party in November. This makes me feel good about the last 3 1/2 years of hard work that we have done in district 2. I carried 7 out of 10 precincts and gained votes in all 10 precincts. So we ARE doing the job that people wants.

I want to invite the people of district 2 and anyone else (regardless of where you live) to attend me Victory Celebration and Kickoff Campaign for the November Election at Allen Park-Sunday, June 4th from 2:00 p.m.-5:00 p.m.

Good Food-Good Friends-No Alcohol

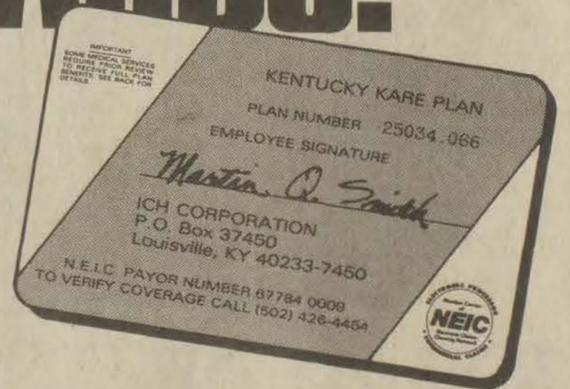

Bring the Kids.

P.S.-I want to thank all the voters of district 2 for being smart enough to see through the money and vote cutters and sticking with me so that I Can keep the good work up. We done it in May and TOGETHER we can do it in November.

Paid for by the candidate.

HIGHLANDS REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER WELCOMES ALL KENTUCKY KARE PLAN MEMBER CARDS.

When you joined Kentucky Kare or Kentucky Kare Select, you were given a list of designated hospitals. Because Highlands was not listed, many of you assumed that you could not receive plan services here. Fact is, you can. And this means more options, more services and more value for your plan membership. As an unofficial provider for Kentucky Kare, Highlands offers you access to our full range of healthcare and hospitalization services. Our billing procedures will vary from those of designated hospitals in two ways. First, unless you can demonstrate that your initial annual deductible has been satisfied, the deductible will be reflected in your Highlands bill. And, under certain circumstances, we reserve the right to request a deposit on your deductible. Second, your customary fifteen percent co-insurance is increased to twenty percent at Highlands, which may or may not effect your total cost for services depending upon a comparison of charges among alternative providers.

If you have any questions about available services or coverage, please call Highlands and ask for extension 500 at (606) 886-8511 or

CAP Offers Books To Area Agencies

The gift of a quarter-million books to the Christian Appalachian Project by a Tennessee publisher could prove a boon to area non-profit agencies and church ministries.
The books, with an estimated worth of more than $1 million, were given to the Lancaster-based organization by Thomas Nelson Publishers in Nashville, according to Charles Deaton, manager of CAP's Operation Sharing program.
"These books are being made available to Christian ministries and non-profit agencies that work with the poor in Appalachia," Deaton said.
He added that the books are not to be resold.
All considered religious or inspirational, the books include works by Robert Schuller, Norman Vincent Peale, Kenneth Taylor, Pat Robertson, Denis Waitley, Tim Latta, Peter and Barbara Jenkins and Walter Wangerin Jr.
Organizations interested in the books should call Deaton at 792-2636 or write him at 322 Crab Orchard Rd., Lancaster, 40446.

TO ALL FLOYD COUNTIANS AND FRIENDS OF MAGISTERIAL DISTRICT 4

I, E. E. Tackett, Democratic candidate for Magistrate in District 4, would like to take this opportunity to personally thank you for your support in the May primary election. I look forward to being your Magistrate and ask for your continued support in the upcoming November election.

Sincerely,

Harry Brookover

Harry E. Brookover, 65, of Slick Rock at Prestonsburg, died Tuesday, May 23, at Highlands Regional Medical Center following an extended illness.

Born Jan. 9, 1925 in West Prestonsburg, he was a son of the late Ira and Anna Hamilton Brookover.

He was a retired truck driver with Dealers Transit and a Navy veteran of WWII. He was, also, a member of the Fitzpatrick Baptist Church, the International Brotherhood of Teamster Union Local #135 and the first charter member of the VFW, Eagles Club.

His first wife, Sue Robertson, preceded him in death.

Survivors include his second wife, Lou Endicott Brookover; one son, Harry Edward Brookover Jr. of Ft. Myers, Fla.; one stepson, the Rev. John Henry Woods of Prestonsburg; four sisters, Marie Waddle and Lois Faye Potter, both of Prestonsburg, and Cynthia Campbell and Eileen Conn, both of Ft. Myers, Fla.; and two step-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Friday, May 26 at 1 p.m. at Floyd Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. John Henry Woods officiating. Burial followed in the Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel.

Serving as pallbearers were John Clinton Woods, Danny Daniels, Michael Hughes, Charles Slone, Bobby Johnson, Orville Shepherd, Sid Richardson and Lon I. Slone.

Honorary pallbearers were Curtis Reed Burchett, Graham McGuire, Eddie Akers and Irvin Slone.

Fork United Christian Church with the Revs. Sterling Bolen and Bethel Bolen officiating. Burial followed in the Duff Cemetery at Hueysville under the direction of Hall Funeral Home at Martin.

Grace Conley

Grace Harmon Conley, 86, of Prestonsburg, died Sunday, May 28, at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Born May 2, 1903, in Bonanza, she was a daughter of the late Pat and Katie Frazier Harmon.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church of Prestonsburg and a teacher of the Fidelis Sunday School Class. She was a retired school teacher, a member of the Miriam Rebekah Lodge #31, the Floyd County Retired Teachers Association and the honorable order of Kentucky Colonels.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Otis G. Conley.

Survivors include two sons, Ben Conley of Ada, Ohio, and Donald Conley of Chantilly, W. Va.; one brother, Albert Harmon of Ada, Ohio; one sister, Virginia Music of Ada, Ohio; two grandsons and three great-grandsons.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday (today), May 31, at 10 a.m., at Carter Funeral Home with the Rev. Dan Heintzelman officiating. Burial followed in the Conley Family Cemetery at Abbott Creek.

Gordon Garrett

Gordon Garrett, 55, of Emma, died Sunday, May 28, at Tram from injuries sustained in a car accident.

Born March 8, 1934, in Floyd County, he was a son of the late John Lee and Florence Miller Garrett and a retired coal miner.

Survivors include three sons, John Gordon Garrett of Hunter, Jamie Lee Garrett and Kevin Garrett, both of Emma; two daughters, Margie Berry of Rio Grand, Ohio, and Della Sue Perry of Gallipolis, Ohio; three brothers, Dallas Garrett and Ronnie Garrett, both of Emma, and Joe B. Garrett of Chelsie, Mich.; two sisters, Gracie Leslie and Launa Collins, both of Emma; and nine grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Thursday, June 1, at 1 p.m. at Nelson-

Frazier Funeral Home with the Revs. George David Garrett and Jack Howard officiating. Burial will follow in the Richmond Cemetery at Prestonsburg.

Jake Halbert Sr.

Jake Halbert Sr., 66, of Langley, died Friday, May 26 in the Central Baptist Hospital, Lexington, after a short illness.

Born May 18, 1923, at McDowell, he was the son of the late Garner and Nannie Stewart Halbert.

He was retired from the Ford Motor Company, Ypsilanti, Mich., and a member of the American Legion and AmVets.

Survivors include his wife, Ella Craft Halbert; six sons, Hubert Halbert, James Dean Halbert, Jake Halbert Jr., Garner Halbert and John Glen Halbert, all of Langley, and Greg Halbert of Prestonsburg; one daughter, Judy Halbert Dye of Printer and one step-daughter, Garnell Miller of Ypsilanti, Mich.; one brother, Palmer Halbert of St. Mary's, Ohio; one sister, Emma Grace Billips of Martin; 11 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services were held Sunday, May 28, at 1 p.m. at Hall Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Bob Varney officiating. Burial followed in the Lucy Cemetery at McDowell.

Pallbearers were Stephen Halbert, Mike Banks, Pat Banks, Wesley Halbert, Stuart Halbert, Warren Halbert, Nick Halbert and Pete Holbrooks.

Honorary pallbearers were Mickey McKinney, Denver Spurlock, Denzil "Hoss" Halbert, Adam Ousley, Carl Humble and "Wild" Bill Stumbo.

Fred McCoy

Fred Bennie McCoy, 45, of East Point, died Monday, May 29, at St. Mary's Hospital in Huntington from injuries resulting from a car accident.

Born May 23, 1944, in Thomas, he was a son of Bill McCoy and the late Daisy Sellars McCoy.

He was a self-employed painter and an US Army veteran. He is preceded in death by his wife Emma Jean Ousley and his brother Glenn McCoy.

In addition to his father, he is survived by one daughter, Glenna Setser of East Point; two stepsons, Bobby Joe Ousley of Martin and Terry Morgan of East Point; two step daughters, Diana Calhoun of David and Debbie Coltre of Ohio; five brothers, Bill J. In Memory of Lawrence Tackett
Nov. 10, 1914 - June 1, 1988

A year has passed since that lonesome day,
When God came and took our hearts away.
The reason you left—we'll never know,
But as people say, only the best seem to go.
Our home isn't the same without your kind, loving voice,
We wanted you to stay, but it wasn't our choice.
I know He picks only the best, for heaven to bring,
So, if I were God, I would have done the same thing.
Our hearts are so heavy, we miss your sweet love,
But I know you are watching over us, from somewhere above.
We'll miss you more as each day goes by,
We'll think of you fondly, yet with a tear in our eye.
You'll be with us forever, if only in our hearts,
I know we'll meet again, someday where we'll never have to part.

Local Opinions Vary On Wildcat Sanctions

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Everyone in Kentucky is aware of the sanctions imposed by the NCAA on the University of Kentucky basketball program.

Those who aren't have either been living in a hole in the ground or are not here. Here they are: three years probation, two year sanction on post-season tournament play, one year ban on live TV, and limited to three scholarships for the next two years.

We recently asked some local fans to their reaction to the sanctions imposed on Kentucky by the NCAA? Were they fair or unfair sanctions? Would you like to see Rick Pitino as the next UK coach?

Opinions were varied — from yes, they were fair, to "I don't like basketball."

Here are some of the responses we received.

Leo Music, Prestonsburg: "The sanctions were tough. I was hoping for a lesser penalty. It will hurt recruiting at UK. I personally believe they went back to the first investigation (improper recruiting) and penalized Kentucky for that."

Dana Smith, Allen: "It could have been worse. We've could have gotten the 'death penalty' (no basketball program at all). The thing is that the recruiters didn't get penalized."

Marty Backus, Prestonsburg: "Considering the money that is brought in through the basketball program, the NCAA is going to have to open up and allow players full scholarships, apartments, and I believe the sanctions are too tough."

Burchell Duff, Hueysville: "I was afraid they would do that to us. They wanted to show the other schools they were serious in this investigation. The other schools were watching the NCAA on this one. I think the sanctions were too severe, just petty stuff. I would like to see (Rick) Pitino come to UK."

Tess Whitmer, Van Lear: "I don't really like basketball anyway. I believe they got caught doing what other schools are doing. That's how they all get the players to play for them anyway."

Bob Castle, Auxier: "The sanctions are inappropriate because of the time lapse since the investigation began. The NCAA should have been more lenient because of the cooperation of UK."

Don Shannon, Drift: "The sanctions could have been stiffer than they were. They could have given UK another year probation on live TV. UK is a big-name school and they made an example out of them. I would like to see Pitino come to Kentucky. A million dollars a year is hard to turn down compared to $450,000 that the Knicks pay him. He is a good recruiter and they will be back in three years."

Pam Shingler, Van Lear: "Considering what they are paying the professors to teach at UK, offering Pitino this much money ($750,000 a year) is not right."

Steve Ousley, Martin: "Kentucky got caught with their hands in the cookie jar. They all do it. I played college ball and saw the $20 handshakes, under the table stuff. I think they got off light. The problem is that they will lose some good people because of it. Pitino will do a great job if he comes to UK; he'll bring them back."

David Fitch, Martin: "Ahh, they're not going to be any good next year anyway. It doesn't matter."

Walt Lee, St. Mary's, Ohio: "It will make things rough for them the next three years. No TV will hurt their recruiting."

Bobby Spencer, Prestonsburg: "I think the sanctions are unfair. They are too tough for the cooperation they gave. I believe that Rick Pitino will come to UK."

Pat Lemaster, Prestonsburg: "The sanctions against Kentucky are the pits. It's too hard. If the truth is known, it's happened to other schools."

Little League Umpire, Prestonsburg: "I really haven't followed it. But why root for a team like Kentucky when you have a team like Louisville playing like they are?"

Gordon Craft, Prestonsburg: "They got caught. The sanctions will hurt their recruiting."

Ed Taylor, sports editor: "With Kentucky basketball tradition, one cannot doubt that UK will rebound from this setback. Whether the university is guilty or not isn't of importance anymore; rebuilding is. The school has been investigated, judged and sentenced by the lords of the NCAA. Three years of probation, along with the sanctions, are in front of them. Even though this is a heart-break to many loyal Kentucky fans, let it also be a learning process.

"There will be many young men in the next two years, eager as ever to get the chance to play for the 'big blue' at Kentucky. Let's not be 'fair weather fans,' but loyal fans, stick with the 'Cats through this ordeal."

Unknown Umpire
"... follow Louisville"

Tess Whitmer
"... I don't like basketball"

Bobby Spencer

Big Sandy Senior Games Draws 97-Year-Old Entrant

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Jenny Wiley State Resort Park was the setting for the Big Sandy Senior Games recently, as 450 senior citizens registered to take part in the games.

"Everybody had a great time," games director Margie Allen said. "The temperature was just right and it was a lot of fun for all of them."

The games were for ages 55 and over. Gold, silver, and bronze medals were presented to first, second, and third place finishers.

At 97, George Music was the oldest participant. He took first place in softball toss and spin casting in the age category of 80 and up.

Games results are as follows: One mile walk, men and women first place finishers: 80 and up, Sid Case and Maude Slone; 75-79, Commodore Griffith and Josephine Hill; 70-74, Orville Cooley, Troy McKenzie, tie, and Belle Harless; 65-69, Henry Jarvis and Lillian Hammer; 60-64, George Elste and Eula Ferguson; 55-59, Herbert Slone and Ilene Howard.

Horseshoes, men and women first place finishers: 80 and up, Carl Adkins and Della Wagner; 75-79, James

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Martin Liquors won four games over the weekend to capture the Minnie Softball League's Memorial softball tournament at the Minnie Park.

The Martin team bested the Blitz 15-5 in game one on Saturday. Darren Conn and Robbie Fraley homered for the winners, with Doug Derossett getting the victory on the mound.

Martin scored six times in the second inning and four times in the fifth in advancing to the second round of the tournament.

In game two, Martin defeated Jimmy Jones' team 20-9, collecting 26 hits, scoring 10 times in the top of the seventh to put away a close game.

Terry Boyd homered twice in the game, both coming in the seventh inning as the Martin team batted around, and Charlie Collins had three triples in the contest.

Jones' team held a 5-1 lead after the first inning, and claimed a 8-6 at the end of the third. The score was tied 9-9 at the end of the fourth. Martin picked up a run in the fifth and 10 in the seventh to win 20-9. Derossett got the win for Martin.

Martin walked past Tri-County T.V., 13-2, in game three Sunday afternoon. Brian Turner had a home run in the game for Martin. Martin scored four in the second and five in the seventh to win the game.

The two teams had to play a second game in the double elimination tournament.

Martin scored seven times in the first inning and got a home run from Darren Conn to defeat Tri-County T.V. 9-6 to win the title game.

Martin was leading 8-1 in the bottom of the fourth when Tri-County scored five times to come to within two runs at 8-6. Martin scored a single run in the fifth to win 9-6.

Shane Robinson had a double for Martin, and Robbie Fraley had two triples. Doug Derossett got the win for Martin.

Martin Rangers Lead League, Beat Padres 8-5

The Martin Rangers remained atop the Martin Pee Wee League with an 8-5 win over second place Martin Padres. Both teams were 4-0 going into the contest at Martin.

Kyle Robinson had two doubles for the winners. John Patton and George Thornsby each had a double.

The Rangers scored three runs each in the second and third innings to erase a 4-0 Padres lead. The Rangers are 5-0 while the Padres drop to 4-1.

Cubs Beat Reds, 4-3

The Garrett Cubs scored two runs in the top of the fourth inning to hand the Martin Reds a 4-3 setback in a good Little League game last week at the Martin ball park. Each team scored two each in the first inning as a pitchers' battle developed between Brad Allen and Toby Robinson. The Cubs plated two runs in the fourth and the Reds could only manage a single fourth inning run. Each team had five hits in the game and played errorless baseball. Allen got the victory in going all the way and he had 11 strike outs. Robinson suffered his second defeat this season but had a big game with 15 strike outs. Toby Robinson had a two-for-four game with two RBI's. Kevin Allen also had a two-hit game including a double for the Reds. Jeremy Hall went three-for-four and he drove in three runs in the game. The Garrett Cubs are 5-0 while the Reds go to 2-4.

Wallen Takes Bronze During State Track Meet

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Brian Wallen, a sophomore at Allen Central High School, placed fourth in the discus throw at the state meet in Lexington Saturday, with a throw of 138.2 feet.

Jamie Neltner of Newport Catholic placed first with a throw of 147.8. Quincy Browner of Cavemia High School took the second position, and Scott Fifter of Lexington Catholic placed third. Browner had a throw of 139.6 and Fifter threw 138.10.

Wallen was the only sophomore in the state finals, and had to throw against more experienced participants. According to Wallen's tutor, Forrest Hughes, Wallen lead for the first four rounds.

"I thought he was going to win it," Hughes said. "He was beaten in the last two rounds. Coach (Dewey) Jamerson and I are very pleased with the way Brian finished. Rarely does a sophomore ever make it to the state finals. It's always junior and seniors."

"Class A Discus Throw was the toughest in the state. It was rougher than Class AA or AAA," Hughes relates. "He had to throw against some big boys and he realized that the competition was stronger at the state level."

"Brian threw the discus as well as he could throw," track and field mentor Jamerson said. "He finished 15 inches out of third place. He can hold his head up."

"I am extremely proud of him," Jamerson stated. "He could have won the state meet and I wouldn't be any prouder of him than I am now."

"He told me after he lost that he was going to win this thing. He was a little nervous," the coach added.

Wallen finished in the top eight in the state in winning the region competition last week at Clay County. At Lexington he had to compete against the best in Kentucky.

"Brian will be working on his speed — lose some weight and he will be ready next year."

Wallen hopes to enter the Junior Olympics this summer and defend his title in the meet. He also plans to enter the Bluegrass games later in July.

Wallen's coach expects him to be able to add 5 to 10 feet on his throws next year.

"Our goal is to get rank in the Track and Field News by the time he is a senior," Hughes explained. "The Track and Field News is the Bible of the best high school discus throwers in the state."

McDowell Blows Lead; Wheelwright Takes Game, 9-8

McDowell, leading 7-0 against Wheelwright in the Floyd County Babe Ruth League last Saturday, gave up five runs in the fifth and four in the seventh and allowed Wheelwright to take a 9-8 come-from-behind victory.

Jimmy Helton, 1-0, allowed McDowell just three hits, but four errors were committed. Wheelwright collected 10 hits in the game. Charles Johnson had a triple for Wheelwright.

Dale Hinkle took the loss for McDowell.

high school golf meet held at the Paintsville Country Club last week. Two other local schools, Prestonsburg and Allen Central, also took part.

P'burg Places 12th, McDowell Earns 14th In Regional Golf Meet

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Paintsville Country Club was the site of this year's Regional High School Golf Meet last week. Of 22 schools entered in the tournament, Prestonsburg claimed the number 12 position and McDowell finished 14th.

Allen Central was penalized for having a three-man team, as one did not show up, and Betsy Layne was penalized for failure to turn in a score card. A high school must have four players to field a team in the meet. However, it can enter individual players.

Prestonsburg finished with a score of 414, McDowell shot a 481. Although the Rebels had only three players, they collectively shot a 328 but did not qualify as a team. Betsy Layne totaled 322.

The Regional Meet was won by Boyd County and Rowan County finished in the runner-up spot.

Team and individual scores are as follows:

Prestonsburg, 414: David Marcum, 99; Jamie Howell, 100; David Layne, 107; and Thomas Nairn, 108.

McDowell, 481: Henry Webb 107; Derrick Akers, 113; Scott Shannon, 129; Chris Turner, 132.

Allen Central (three players, disqualified): Todd Duff, 88; Kevin Webb, 95; Robbie Sexton, 145.

Betsy Layne (only three score cards turned in, disqualified): Adam Gearheart, 95; Neal Justice, 113; Darren Gearheart, 114. Toby Newsome played but no score card was turned in.

The scores are for 18 holes.

Just Walking In The Rain

Three participants of the Big Sandy Games braved the rain in the one mile walk, an event in the games, last week at the Jenny Wiley State Park. According to the game's officials, the "weather was just right".

Martin Leads Team Past Harold

John Martin, 1-0, struck out 17 batters and Travis Martin went three-for-four at the plate, including a run-producing double, as Garrett defeated Harold 10-9 in a close encounter at Allen Park Saturday in extra innings.

Garrett held a 4-0 lead, but Harold scored three runs in the second and third innings, and plated one run in the fourth to lead 7-5. Garrett scored two in the fourth and one in the fifth to lead 8-7. Garrett pushed across a run in the bottom of the seventh to send the game into extra innings. Harold failed to score in its half of the eighth, and Garrett scored the winning run in the bottom of the eighth.

Garrett improves to 3-1 on the season and Harold falls to 1-2.

Robbie Sexton, Jamie Martin, and Nathan Moore each had doubles for Garrett. Steve Clark and Jeff Mitchell had two-baggers for Harold.

Brian White, 1-1, suffered the loss for Harold.

Garrett collected 11 hits while Harold managed five.

Jerk Bait: Effective Lures In Early Summer Bass Fishing

Bass fishermen have given nicknames to many of the types of lures they use, including such designations as "slush baits," "stick baits," and "jerk baits."

Of these, the "jerk baits—the long, thin, minnow imitation plugs that float at rest but dive when pulled or "jerked"—can be among the most effective lures to use for spring and early summer bass.

"The lures are hard to use," explained Evinrude Pro Staff member Denny Brauer. "I believe that's why more anglers don't use them. The lures have to be worked with a hard, constant jerk of the rod at the same time you turn the reel handle. It's the same way you work certain topwater lures, and after a while fatigue sets in."

When jerked, says Brauer, the lures dart forward erratically like injured minnows. They are particularly effective when fishing for suspended bass, although the Evinrude pro has used them successfully along the edges of grasslines, around points and on the ends of deep bluffs.

"Throughout the spring months we use these lures as we follow bass in from deeper water to the spawning areas," he explains. "Then, after the spawn, we follow the fish back out. I really think these lures can be used year round if an angler can work fairly shallow water with heavy cover."

Brauer's favorite fishing technique with jerk baits is to make long cast and reel the lure down to its working depth. Then he uses a two step cadence to work the lure. He snaps his rod tip twice in rapid succession to make the lure jump forward twice. His favorite depth is between five and eight feet.

"The best thing a fisherman can do when learning to use these lures is practice working them in a swimming pool so he sees what the lure does," says the Evinrude pro. "The jerk baits are just like any other types of lures in that they can be retrieved a number of different ways."

The more familiar an angler is with these lures, the more effective he will be in using them."

Another technique Brauer uses, especially around isolated cover, is to keep the lure working in basically the same spot over and over. This is done by snapping the rod once to jerk the lure forward, then giving back slack line so the lure actually floats backward. Another quick jerk moves it forward again, and the slack line lets it float back once more.

"At other times you'll see bass actually stalking a jerk bait," adds Brauer. "When that happens, a quick jerk that makes the lure look like it's trying to escape often triggers a strike."

P'burg A's Fall To P'burg Mets, 13-3

The Prestonsburg Mets bested the Prestonsburg A's in the Prestonsburg Youth League, 13-3 at Archer Park Monday evening.

The A's, upset winners over the first place Yankees earlier, just couldn't put things together against the Mets, leaving men on base in much of the game and committing six errors in the field.

Thomas Ratliff was the winning pitcher while Kevin Farling was the loser. Ratliff had a double and triple for the Mets. Kevin Farling and Ca-trell Farling each had doubles for the losers.

Ratliff fanned 10 A's batters, while Farling whiffed nine. The Mets had eight hits, and the A's collected six.

Wayland Stays Perfect; Defeats McDowell, 9-7

The Wayland Dodgers, 7-0, remained undefeated, in the Beaver Creek Little League with a 9-7 victory over the McDowell Stars last week.

Donnie Combs ran his personal record to 4-0 in pitching a one-hitter against the Stars. Combs had control problems in the top of the fourth and needed relief from Matthew Crawford in the fourth. Crawford picked up the save for the Dodgers. Combs struck out nine batters and Crawford fanned three in two innings of work.

Dodgers with a three-run homer. Combs also had a solo shot for Wayland.

Terrace Slone was the losing pitcher, but had 10 strike outs in the losing cause. C. Cornette managed the only hit for the Stars.

WMDJ owner Dale McKinney lines a base hit to right in softball action at Archer Park Monday night. WMDJ defeated Salyer Coal 4-3.

Garrett Pirates Outscore Mets

The Garrett Pirates scored all the runs they needed in their three run second and went on to defeat the Maytown Mets 4-1 in the Beaver Creek Little League.

Chris Martin had a run-producing double to drive in the only Maytown run. B. Lyons secured the win for the Pirates in striking out 11 Mets batters. Jason Moore, who was hit on the hand and had to leave the game in the fourth, was the loser. Moore struck out 6 batters. He was relieved by Nick Hagans.

Martin Colonels Best Martin Tigers

The Martin Tigers collected 28 base hits in scoring a 18-2 victory over the Martin Colonels last week in the Martin Pee Wee League.

Brandon Sizemore had a two run homer for the Tigers in the top of the third with George Hall on base. Samantha Allen and Adam Hutchinson were four-for-four for the Tigers.

Melissa Mullins and Ann Hall tripled for the Martin Tigers. George Hall, Shannon Mynhier and Samantha Allen each had doubles for the winners.

The Martin Tigers are now 4-1 on the year.

Keepers!

By Chris Altman

If you are looking for a great place to spend a few fishing days this summer, you owe it to yourself to consider West Point Lake.

Located primarily in Georgia, West Point covers nearly 26,000 acres at summer pool, and has a shoreline which winds its way through 525 miles of Georgia and Alabama. This impoundment of the Chattahoochee River was completed in 1974 by the US Army Corps of Engineers and has since matured to become one of the finest largemouth lakes in the country.

Of the lakes that I have fished from New York to Florida, West Point is unquestionably my favorite. While your chances of catching a 10-pound bass are not quite as good here as they might be in Florida, the lake does produce scores of fish bettering the 10-pound mark. Last year, Rick Clunn caught a 14-pounder. Gordon Elkins, a superb tournament angler from LaGrange, Ga., landed a 13-pound bass there a few years ago. Bud Williams, widely regarded as one of the finest bass anglers in Pikeville, caught a bucketmouth bettering the 11-pound mark from a rip-rapped bridge point. This lake is so good, in fact, that many of the touring pros on the BASS Tournament Trail rate West Point second only to Florida's Okeechobee!

A STRUCTURE FISHERMAN'S PARADISE
"West Point is one of the best structure lakes in the country," says Gordon Elkins, a former lake guide turned tournament pro, with obvious reference to the enormous amount of productive, under-water acreage here. "Too, it is relatively easy, as far as structure fishing goes, because you really don't have to fish too deep. Twenty-one feet is a magic depth at West Point, especially in the summer and winter."

The river feeding this impoundment is relatively cool, and when it is pulled through the lake during power generation, it keeps West Point cool and well oxygenated throughout the summer. Thus, when the bass in most Southern lakes seem to be suffering from heat stroke, West Point's bass are still feeding aggressively.

Ron Savage, perhaps the finest guide on the lake, says, "The hot weather never truly affects these fish adversely. If you can stand the heat, you can catch fish. And you do not have to resort to fishing at submarine depths. You can catch fish all summer long at depths of 10 to 15 feet."

DEADLY TRIO
Anglers venturing to West Point can reasonably extract the lake's full potential with just three lures: deep diving crankbaits, do-nothing worms and jigging spoons.

Because of the near infinite number of long points stretching into the creek and river channels, as well as the abundant humps and channel ledges, West Point is tailor-made for crankbait enthusiasts.

Gordon Elkins has created a remarkably effective system utilizing a set of ultra-deep diving Mann's 20+ and 30+ crankbaits. Concentrating primarily on main lake river channel structures, Elkins does not utilize the baits to their fullest depth capacity, but relies on their near-vertical diving capability to provide a very slow retrieve while keeping in touch with the structure.

Pikeville's Bud Williams limits the majority of his fishing time at West Point to bridges, and with a couple of West Point bass over 10 pounds to his credit, he obviously does it quite well. Williams fishes underneath the bridge with a Model 7A Bomber in a Fire Tiger pattern. He believes that the bass hold in the old river channel under the bridge and make brief feeding forays up onto the rip-rap several times through the day. Thus, he will patiently sit for hours on end, casting continuously, until the fish move up to feed.

Ron Savage, a West Point guide with a decade's experience on the lake, has created a unique Carolina-rigged worm which is rapidly becoming one of the hottest tournament lures across the country. Basically, the Savage Worm is a 6 or 7-inch (five different versions) worm rigged with two hooks in the head and a 42-inch monofilament leader. When packaged, the worms are bent double and wrapped with the leader, and a special additive in the plastic causes the worm to retain that bend when unwrapped.

When fished, the worm spirals through the water, providing far more action than the original stick-straight do-nothings. The worm is rigged most often with a 3/4 or 1-oz. worm weight, followed by a plastic bead and then a swivel, all of which are tied to the terminal end of the line. The worm's leader is then tied to the bottom ring of the swivel. (For more information on the Savage Worm, contact Ron Savage, PO Box 2602, LaGrange, Ga 30240, phone 404/884-6232.)

In the spring and fall months, when the fish are shallow or holding in the grass, Savage shortens the leader to about 24 inches and switches to a half-ounce weight. Most often, however, Savage utilizes the full 42-inch leader to probe the deep water structures.

The third lure which comprises the deadly West Point trio is the jigging spoon. Because these bass tend to school in relatively deep water throughout the year, vertical jigging is a deadly technique once a school is located.

HOW TO GET THERE
West Point is located approximately 60 miles southwest of Atlanta, Ga. From Atlanta, follow I-85 South and watch for LaGrange, Ga. exits or West Point Lake exits.

WHERE TO STAY
The town of LaGrange, Ga., typically serves as a hub for anglers visiting West Point. For more information, contact LaGrange Chamber of Commerce, PO Box 636, LaGrange, Ga 30241, phone (404) 884-8671.

At this time, Highland Marina is the only facility on the lake offering on-the-water lodging (cabins). This full-service marina also offers a campground (with full hook-ups and cable TV!), a restaurant, boat rentals, out-board repair, etc. During the summer, Highland has a kid's program. For more information, contact: Jack Baytos, Owner, Highland Marina, PO Box 1644, LaGrange, Ga 30241, phone (404) 882-3437. Because Highland Marina is one of the most popular facilities on the lake, be sure to make reservations well in advance of your trip.

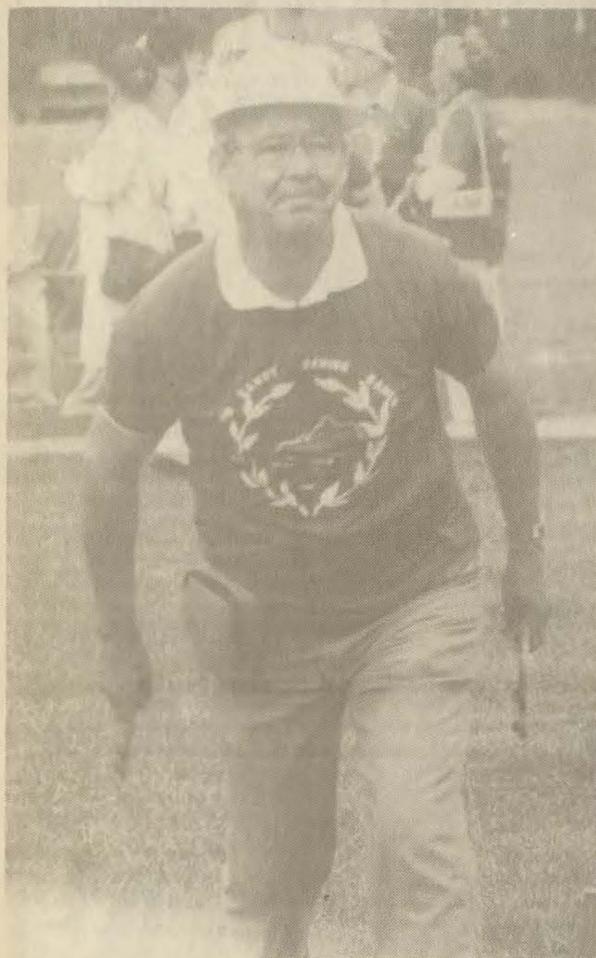

The Corps of Engineers operates several campgrounds around the lake, many of which accept reservations. They can also provide West Point maps, and a brochure listing all of the lake's resources and facilities.

For more information, contact: West Point Lake Resource Manager, PO Box 574, LaGrange, GA 31833, phone (404) 645-2937.

LICENSE FEES AND GUIDES
Because most of West Point lies in the state of Georgia, a Georgia fishing license will allow you to fish the entire lake. The fees are as follows: resident annual: $7.50; non-resident 5 day: $5.50; non-resident annual: $20.

For a full run-down on the rules and regulations governing West Point angling, contact: Department of Natural Resources, Communications Office, Floyd Towers East, 205 Butler Street SE, Atlanta, GA 30334. Ask for the "Georgia Freshwater Sport Fishing Regulations" brochure.

If you need a bass guide, I'd recommend Ron Savage, Professional Guide Service (guides Ron Savage, Jimmy Jones and Bubba Smith), phone (404) 884-6232. If you need a hybrid guide contact: Jim Curtis (404) 882-5570.

Lafferty Hurls, Bats Rangers Past Indians

Jerry Lafferty pitched and batted the Prestonsburg Rangers past the Prestonsburg Indians, 14-2, in the Prestonsburg Youth League Monday evening at Archer Park.

The win enabled the Rangers to tie for second place with the Indians in the league standings. Both teams are 4-2 for the season.

Lafferty had a two-run homer in the third inning in going three-for-five. He struck out eight batters in the game. Rick Lemaster relieved Lafferty in the fifth and recorded five strikeouts. Lemaster also went three-for-five in the contest including a triple and double. Jason Hackworth had a run producing triple for the Rangers.

Irvin Osborne suffered the loss for the Indians.

Fishing Report

Fishing activity over the Memorial Day weekend ranged from light to heavy, according to the state Department of Fish and Game.

Black bass, white bass and crappie were reported most active. Surface water temperatures ranged between 66 and 77 degrees. The lake-by-lake report:

Dewey: Kentucky bass were hitting crankbaits and plastic worms in less than five feet of water along shore line cover, crappie were taking minnows and jigs around brush 5 to 10 feet deep; clear to murky, stable at summer pool and 68 degrees.

Paintsville: Limits of rainbow trout were being taken in early morning and evening on red worms, wax worms and cheese and corn 25 to 30 feet deep in open creek channels; clear, stable at summer pool and 72 degrees.

Fishtrap: Bluegill were hitting wax worms and meal worms in less than five feet of water over submerged trees; largemouth bass were taking crankbaits and plastic worms in less than five feet of water along shoreline cover; murky, stable, at summer pool and 74 degrees.

Hall Fires One-Hitter In 22-0 Shutout Against McDowell

The Betsy Layne A's, leaders of the Floyd County Babe Ruth League, collected 16 hits in scoring a 22-0 victory over the McDowell Crazy A's Monday night at the Allen Park.

Keith Hall recorded his second win of the season for the A's as he struck out eight batters. Craig Case, Stuart Hall, and Steve Robinson each had two-baggers for Betsy Layne. Hall limited the Crazy A's to one base hit in the game. Barry Hall and Craig Case went three-for-four in the contest for the A's.

The win improved the A's record to 5-0; McDowell falls to 1-3.

Garrett Topples Martin Expos, 21-4

The Floyd County Babe Ruth League was busy over the holiday weekend as Garrett was hosted by the Martin Expos at the Allen Park last Saturday.

John Martin was perfect at the plate for Garrett, including a two-run double as Garrett topped Martin 21-4 in a runaway game. Garrett scored six runs in the third and seven in the fifth in collecting 16 base hits.

Joey Brown was three-for-three including a double. Robbie Sexton and Chris Murrill each had doubles for Garrett.

Sexton, 1-0, got the win with some relief help from Nathan Moore. Sexton allowed the Martin team only two hits. Hubert Likens, 0-1, was the loser.

Trout Dance To Midnight Masquerade

Anglers who have never tried nighttime trout fishing, may want to start now. Actually, from May 1 through the last of August, anglers can catch a daily limit of trout, provided they go to the right fishing holes.

According to Carolyn Lynn, Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife, the best places to go for nighttime trout fishing in Kentucky are Paintsville Lake in Johnson and Morgan counties and scenic Laurel River Lake, surrounded by forested hills and rock bluffs in McCreary and Laurel counties' portions of the Daniel Boone National Forest.

She said both impoundments, stocked annually by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, are deep-water lakes fed by cold-water streams. These factors, in combination, provide year-round, cold-water habitat that rainbows need to survive and thrive.

Lynn reminds anglers that light-sensitive trout are more active at night when they move up from the lower depths in search of shad for supper. During their nighttime feeding, trout tend to congregate in a cold-water band 25-50 feet deep.

"Remember the warmer the air temperature feels to you, the deeper the trout are likely to be and anglers may have to experiment with several lines at varying depths to locate the fish," she said.

Trotting crankbaits or still fishing live bait for trout should produce good results, says Lynn, "and don't forget to try dropping a line near some of those cold-water inlets. Suggested live baits include red or meal worms, nightcrawlers, salmon eggs, corn and cheese."

There's no size limit on rainbow and brown trout. The daily creel limit is eight "and no more than eight may be held in possession after two or more days of fishing," said Lynn.

Brook trout are under 10-inch size limit; the daily limit is two and the possession limit is two. "Special regulations apply to some brook trout streams as designated by signs," she added.

"Don't forget a fishing license and trout stamp ($3.50) when trying nighttime trout fishing," says Lynn. Trout stamps provide funding for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' trout stocking program."

Kentucky Offers Annual 'Free Fishing' June 10, 11

With June 5-11 proclaimed as National Fishing Week, the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife is offering two free days of fishing on June 10-11 across the state.

No license will be required for residents or non-residents. All other laws will still be in effect. Fishers will not be able to keep an undersized bass or exceed the limit on walleyes, according to a department spokesperson.

National Fishing Week has a two-fold purpose: To call attention to the second most popular outdoor sport in Kentucky - fishing and to encourage everyone to introduce a child to the sport. Sportsmen's Clubs throughout the state will host events aimed at bringing kids and fish together.

Locally the Corps of Engineers, in cooperation with Dewey Lake Fish and Game Club, will conduct a Fishing Derby for kids 16 and under.

"We will be conducting some five minute talks," Ed Carroll of the Fish and Wildlife Division at the lake says. "We'll brief them on different types of fish."

"We are all working together on this derby," John Lafferty of the local fish and game club says. "There will be a casting contest. Registering will begin at 8 a.m. They will go out about 9 a.m., and then we will have weighing in the afternoon. We will be weighing in bluegill, crappie, and catfish. Anything except bass."

According to Dean Murray of the Corps of Engineers the derby features a free fishing tournament, with trophies for the heaviest fish caught in each of three age groups. There will be demonstrations by the areas fishing experts, and games with prizes.

Children must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. Bring the whole family Murray says. You may preregister by calling the Corps of Engineers at 886-6709 or 789-4521 or register on the day of the derby.

"Fishing is Eastern Kentucky's greatest pastime," Murray states. "Learn young and have fun for a lifetime."

The activities are for youngsters ages 2 to 16. Remember Free Fishing on Derby Day - June 10-11.

Safe at Second

A player from the Rangers Little League team slides safely into second base Monday night at Archer Park against the Indians. The Rangers won the game to move into a tie for second place in the league standings.

Reed Finishes 72nd Of 152 Runners In Race

Andrew Reed of Martin finished 72nd in Rocco's Restaurant 5K run this past Saturday in Ceredo-Kenova, W. Va., with a time of 21:23 among 152 participants. This was only Reed's second race.

Reed has been under the tutoring of Rick Roberts, who works with other would-be competitive runners. Reed has taken up running to keep in shape, according to Roberts. He has just been running for the last three months for recreation.

At the encouraging of Roberts,

Reed entered the 5K run and will have a chance to take part in the Rail City Run By The River in Russell on June 10.

"This race is the second oldest 5K run. It will be the 11th year of running," Roberts stated. "The Apple Run is the oldest. There will be 238 runners in the Rail City run."

Reed is also a lumber jack competition enthusiast. He takes part in lumber jack contest throughout West Virginia.

Hurls, Bats To Victory

Jerry Lafferty pitched and batted the Rangers to a 14-2 victory over the Indians at Archer Park Monday night. Lafferty also had a two-run homer in the game.

THANK YOU

I would like to thank each of you that helped to get me re-elected as "your" county clerk.

I thank those that voted for me:
 I thank those that supported me with their prayers;
 I thank those that supported me with their monies;
 I thank those that campaigned for me and never wanted anything in return, only a good county clerk;
 I thank those that called on others and asked for their vote and their support for me;
 I thank each and everyone that helped me (in any way that you may have contributed.)
 I thank all my friends and relatives for their support.
 I thank my mom and dad, Patty and Ballard G. Robinson for their support and their understanding.
 I thank my two sons, Steven and Patrick, and my husband, Joe for putting up with me during this campaign.
 As your county clerk I will continue to give you the courteous, efficient service that you deserve. We will continue to improve your county clerk's office.

Again, Thank You For Your Support.

School Dispenses Diplomas, Awards, Large Dose of Caring

by Pam Shingler, Assistant Editor

All seats in the tiny gym were taken. Family members lined the walls, sat on the stairs or leaned over the upstairs railing.

Day long temperatures in the 90s, along with high humidity last Wednesday, trapped the warm, moist air in the room, wilting men's starched shirts and streaking women's make up.

But no unhappy soul was to be found.

The David School was graduating its seniors, giving certificates to successful GED students and honoring other students.

Marie Shepherd of David beamed as daughter Jenny walked forward to accept an award for having perfect attendance.

Harmon Leedy couldn't help but give a speech when he accepted his GED certificate. "When I was young I went right into the construction business, thinking I didn't need an education," said Leedy, 48. "Then a few years ago I lost my eyesight and I wasn't sure I could read to get my GED, but these people helped me do it."

Leedy had other reasons to be proud. His daughter Harmalena was among the school's 10 regular high school graduates. The daughter also earned an award for student activities leadership, and Leedy's wife Betty was recognized as an outstanding supporter of the school.

One woman, so finely dressed as to seem out of place, came to see a friend receive her GED certificate. As the regular high school graduates filed by in cap and gown to receive diplomas, she rose to take pictures like a beaming parent.

"I don't know anyone here except my friend," she said, her eyes teary, "but I just think this is wonderful."

For the students involved, the occasion was wonderful. For most, the event marked a second chance. Nearly all of the students, from teens to middle aged adults, had been school dropouts. What happened last Wednesday symbolized their jumping back into the mainstream, better prepared, better educated.

The school, termed a private, alternative school, has addressed the needs of students with economic and academic problems since its inception almost 20 years ago. With an average class size of about seven, the school offers concentrated and individualized instruction to students who have dropped out of or been unable to cope with public education.

In addition to regular classes leading to a high school diploma, the school sponsors a far-reaching program of instruction for persons who are studying for the GED.

Among those being honored last week was the school's founder Dan Greene. A representative of Reader's Digest was there to present the school with a check for $10,000 as a result of Greene's being chosen Reader's Digest American Hero in Education.

Greene announced the money will initiate the school's new building fund.

Guest speaker for the event was John Brock, Kentucky Superintendent of Public Instruction, who began his talk by clarifying why a spokesman for public education was addressing private school students.

"Public education cannot do everything that needs to be done," Brock said.

"As educators, our commitment is not to private or public schools but to every student in the commonwealth."

The superintendent told the graduating seniors, "You've had a special opportunity here because this school teaches values, and no one can take that away from you."

He admonished them to remember five things. "Don't expect life to be like TV," he warned. "Think; don't believe everything you hear."

He also requested that they work and learn to value work, that they read every day, and that they "remember to thank your teachers."

"We're proud of you in Frankfort all across the state," he said.

Brock also expressed pride in the GED students. "You have no idea of the impact you have," he said. "The message you are sending to your children is about how important education is."

"The single most important task in Eastern Kentucky is to emphasize how important education is," he added.

The graduating seniors are Leedy of David, Terry Baize of Royalton, Shane Maggard of Hippo, Lisa Pritchard of Garrett, and Virginia Carpenter, Perry Crider, Gloria Endicott, Dale Johnson, Lesia Maines, Tina Miller and Ella Pennington, all of Prestonsburg.

Eighth grade graduates include Michelle Parsons of Ivel and Eric Ratliff and Angela Tackett of Prestonsburg.

Other David School students honored were Tonya Sparks of McDowell, English award; seniors Maines and Endicott, Extraordinary Commitment; senior Carpenter, Leadership Award; Shepherd and Okie Thompson of David, perfect attendance; William Marsillett, Most Improved Student.

Parents also recognized for their support were Oattie Rice and Vicky Poe.

The students also had awards for their teachers. Mary Myron was named Best Teacher, Cathy Hanon received the Love for Learning Award, and Marty Green was recognized for community service leadership. The students presented principal Emma Kriz with a bouquet, and shop students gave director Greene a table they made.

And just about everyone there got a hug or two.

Graduation Congratulations

State Superintendent of Public Instruction John Brock presents diploma to David School graduate Gloria Endicott of Prestonsburg. Principal Emma Kriz supervised the Wednesday ceremony.

Academic Recognition

Harold Elementary School seventh grade students Steven Sturgill, Brock Harmon and Mike Newman, right, recently participated in the Talent Identification Program (TIP) sponsored by Duke University, and will receive state recognition for their performance on the ACT test. The test is designed primarily for high school juniors and seniors who plan to attend college. The seventh graders received high scores on the test. Sturgill is the son of Mary and Ronnie Sturgill, and is the grandson of Minnie and Leonard Dotson and Rush and Mary Bell Sturgill. Harmon is the son of Shirley and Tom Harmon; his grandparents are Marcella and Darwin Goble and Dolly and James Harmon. Newman is the son of Ruby and Jim Newman. His grandparents are Elvia and Pearl Spears, and Melvina and Thurman Newman.

Three Local Students To Receive CAP Awards

Three Floyd County high school seniors have been awarded Community Service Scholarships by the Christian Appalachian Project.

Malissa Mae Hall of Wheelwright High School, Sonya Rae Holman of Betsy Layne and Patricia Gayle Tackett of McDowell will receive $500 each in recognition of their work in the community. The money will be sent in their name to the school of their choice, according to Glen Taul of CAP's Lancaster headquarters.

Each of the students has been active in community service projects through their churches and civic and school organizations, Taul said.

Hall, the daughter of Gary and Marlene Hall of Bypro, has participated in or been a leader in community clean up campaigns, leadership training, gathering food and clothing for needy families, and tutoring. She has also worked in anti-drug campaigns and programs for children and the elderly.

The daughter of Edward and Brenda Holman of Allen, Holman has been active with Girl Scouts, community clean up, church youth groups, senior citizens and fundraising for Muscular Dystrophy.

Tackett has been involved in anti-drug groups, UNICEF, blood drives, literacy programs, leadership training and Students Against Drunk Driving. She is the daughter of Donald Ray and Shirley Tackett of Hi Hat.

The scholarship program was started by CAP "to reward young people for contributing time and talents" to activities to help their communities and to help them get started in college or vocational school, Taul said.

Graduating seniors in 25 counties will receive the awards this year, he said.

Area Students Named To EKV Spring Dean's List

Three Floyd County students have been named to Eastern Kentucky University's spring semester dean's list.

They are Monty Scott Frazier of Banner, Sharon A. Harris of Lily and Karen Coleman Salisbury of Richmond.

To be eligible for dean's list recognition at EKV, students attempting 14 or more credit hours must achieve a 3.5 grade point average out of a possible 4.0. Students attempting 12 credit hours must earn a 3.75 GPA, and students attempting 13 credit hours must earn a 3.65 GPA.

"We are always happy to recognize outstanding academic achievement at Eastern Kentucky University," said Dr. John D. Rowlett, vice president for academic affairs and research and dean of the faculties.

"These students have worked hard to earn Dean's List honors here at Eastern," he said. "We share their pride in achievement and wish them well in their further studies."

For the spring semester, EKV named 920 students to the Dean's List. Of this number, 261 or more than 28 percent, earned a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

BLHS Beta Club Hosts Banquet

On Tuesday, May 16, the Betsy Layne High School chapter of the national Beta Club held its annual banquet to honor officers and members. This year the BLHS academic team was also honored for its work. The Beta Club sponsors planned the catered banquet, which included Raetta Dameron singing "You Light Up My Life."

This year's officers are Brad Barker, president; Roy Kidd Jr., vice president; Stacy Brewer, secretary; and Lela

Conn, treasurer. They were presented with a plaque in appreciation for their hard work in the past season.

The outgoing officers challenged the new elected officers to accept the responsibility of their upcoming posts. The officers, in turn, presented the sponsors with a plaque to express their appreciation.

The banquet was closed with the junior varsity and varsity academic team members receiving plaques commending them for being charter members of the founding academic team.

This was BLHS's first year year to compete in the academic conference play. The team coach said she was proud of her players' performances this year and expects them to become a much stronger team. She also thanked Caroline Clark, Beth Jones and Sylvania Newman for their help and support they have given to the team in the past year.

A special thanks was also extended to Sharon Clevinger, math instructor at BLHS, who has donated time tutoring math skills. The following people donated funds in order to buy the team awards: Blake Burchett, Brent Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Brooks and Dr. Malempati.

Johnson Among Morehead Freshmen Receiving 1989-90 Governor's Scholar Awards

Gina Lynn Johnson of Bypro will be among Morehead State University freshmen students receiving a Kentucky Governor's Scholar Award for the fall semester.

Johnson, daughter of Billy G. and Jimmie Lou Johnson, is a graduate of Wheelwright High School. She is listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students" and the "Society of Distinguished American High School Students."

Participants in the Kentucky Governor's Scholars program are automatically eligible for the Governor's Scholar Award. Valued at $1,000 per year, the award is applied to residence hall fees.

The award is renewable for four years if the student maintains a minimum cumulative 2.75 grade point average.

A MORE EFFECTIVE SOLUTION

'Studying' Before The Next 'Final Exam': Finding A Job

Thousands of young Kentuckians who are graduating from high school and college this year share a central topic that dominates their thoughts — finding a job.

Some are looking for temporary work. Others are searching for the job that will help build the foundation for a long career. All have one thing in common: they need to know how to "sell" themselves to prospective employers.

"The first thing every applicant needs to do is take some time to develop a plan," said Margaret Whittet, acting commissioner of the Department for Employment Services, which helped more than 83,000 people find jobs last year.

Whittet, who began her career with the department as a job placement specialist, said, "People who spend time getting organized for the job search will, in the long run, save time looking for work. A job does not necessarily go to the best qualified person, but to the applicant who does the best job of presenting his or her qualifications to an employer."

An applicant needs to identify the skills he or she has to be qualified for a particular job. "All experience counts, whether you were paid for it or not," Whittet said. "We especially encourage young job seekers who probably don't have extensive paid work experience to think about neighborhood and volunteer work and things they have done in school.

"For example, can they use a typewriter, word processor, computer or calculator? If they had vocational classes, what tools did they learn to use? Often people do not realize how many skills they have that they can use in a job," she said.

"We can't emphasize too much how important it is to identify your skills before you begin preparing a resume," Whittet said, "and that (resume preparation) should be done before someone begins looking for work."

A resume should be an outline of the applicant's education, experience and goals. It should be used as a marketing tool. References, who may be teachers, neighbors and/or former employers, should be listed on a separate page, said Sparks.

Thousands of Kentucky employers list job openings with local Employment Services offices, she said. Other good sources of "Help Wanted" notices are newspaper classified ads and bulletin boards.

Make telephone calls and write letters in an effort to get job interviews. "Once you have scheduled an interview, try to arrive on time or a few minutes early," advises Whittet. "Your punctuality will make a good impression, because if you get the job, the employer will want you to be at work on time.

"Before the interview, try to find out as much as possible about the specific job for which you are applying. During the interview, be prepared to give more details about the experience you listed on your resume. Explain to the employer how this experience will help you be an asset to the company." Another tip: after the interview, write a note to the employer, thanking him or her for taking time to talk with you. "Successful job applicants put time and energy into the search," Whittet said. "It's no longer adequate just to be available."

She added that competition is fierce in today's labor market, and an employer may take six months to fill a position. It may be necessary for an applicant to find temporary employment to provide an income source while he or she is looking for more suitable work.

Free Preschool Evaluations Offered

Floyd County Schools, Floyd County Head Start and Mountain Comprehensive Care are sponsoring screening for 3- and 4-year-olds in language, vision, hearing and developmental functioning, according to school board officials.

Anyone who thinks their child may be delayed in any of the areas can call 886-2354, extension 34, for an appointment.

The locations, dates and school districts for screening, for 3- and 4-year-olds only, are:

Thursday, June 1: Osborne Elementary School for children in the Osborne, McDowell, Drift, Stumbo and Melvin school districts.

Friday, June 2: Betsy Layne Elementary for children in the Betsy Layne, Harold, Allen and Prater School Districts.

Thursday, June 8: Maytown Elementary for children in the Maytown, Garrett, Wayland and Martin school districts.

Friday, June 9: Prestonsburg Elementary for children in the Prestonsburg, Clark and Auxier school districts.

Orchestra Class Offered By PCC

A beginners class and individual lessons will be taught in a summer program at Prestonsburg Community College for those interested in learning to play the violin, viola, cello or string bass.

Those who already play a string instrument may also participate in a string ensemble which will be conducted by the instructor, Harold L. Blair, music professor at Morehead State University, member of the Lexington Symphony Orchestra and performer in a chamber group.

The program will take place on Saturdays. Probable dates are June 17, July 1, July 8 and July 22.

Those interested call the office of Continuing Education at PCC, 886-3863 ext. 215.

Todd Nairn Accepted By College Of Medicine

Todd H. Nairn has been accepted into the University of Kentucky Albert B. Chandler College of Medicine, and will begin his studies in August.

Nairn is a 1984 graduate of Prestonsburg High School, where he was among the top academic students; he also participated in sports.

While at Prestonsburg, Nairn lettered four years in three varsity sports — football, basketball and baseball. He maintained a 3.97 grade point average, graduating fifth in a class of 165. He was also treasurer of the school chapter of the National Honor Society, vice president of the Beta Club, and was elected an outstanding senior by the high school faculty.

Nairn is a 1988 graduate of Emory and Henry College in Emory, Va., where he was active in campus affairs. He served as treasurer of Tri-Beta Biological Society, alumni secretary of Phi Gamma Phi social fraternity, vice president of the health professions club, president of the Blue Key national academic honor fraternity, a member of the student activities committee, and the student judicial committee.

Nairn has also been named to the "National Dean's List" and "Who's Who Among American College Students."

While at Emory, Nairn also played intramural football, basketball and softball for four years, and was a two-year member of the varsity football and baseball teams.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Nairn of Prestonsburg.

UK Special Collection Documents Wheelwright

The Wheelwright Collection, an extensive archives documenting the history of Wheelwright, is open and available for public research at the University of Kentucky Libraries' Department of Special Collections and Archives in Lexington, according to Kate Black, UK official.

Black gives the following as a history of Wheelwright:

Wheelwright, located in Floyd County, is a town created by the coal industry. Elk Horn Coal Corporation developed Wheelwright as a coal camp in 1911 — the same year the railroad line into town was completed.

In 1930, the Inland Steel Company bought Wheelwright because the coal seams there were rich with metallurgical coal necessary for making steel, and for the next 35 years, Inland Steel mined coal and developed the town into what many have called a "model" company town. By 1966, when Inland sold Wheelwright to Inland Creek Coal Company, the town properties were showing signs of physical deterioration. Within 11 months, Inland Creek, keeping the mines, sold the town to Mountain Investment Company.

The cohesiveness of the Wheelwright community was severely tested during the Mountain Investment years. The buildings and grounds further deteriorated during that company's ownership in the early 1970's, leaving Wheelwright with a severe employment crisis.

"More importantly, the residents of Wheelwright, past and present, will have an archival collection which documents a part of their history, and which is a testament to their endurance as a community."

— Kate Black of UK

In 1979 Mountain Investment sold the town to the Kentucky Housing Corporation, a state agency, whose aim was to revive the town and transfer ownership to the residents.

The Wheelwright Collection contains records from the last three companies who owned Wheelwright: Inland Steel, Island Creek and Mountain Investment. These documents create a vivid picture of company town life from the company's perspective, Black said.

Containing everything from blueprints to photographs and building maintenance record files to office files, the Wheelwright Collection is a valuable resource for a wide range of scholars who specialize in social, economic, labor, architectural and business history, Black said. Researchers in Appalachian and community studies will find the Collection rich in details of coal town life, she added.

"More importantly, the residents of Wheelwright, past and present, will have an archival collection which documents a part of their history, and which is a testament to their endurance as a community," said Black.

McCray: First Woman To Join Kiwanis Club Breaks Local Tradition

by Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

Sixty-five years of tradition were put aside recently when the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club admitted its first woman member.

The decidedly feminine face of Lou McCray is becoming a fixture among the beards and balding heads of the former males-only club, which meets every Thursday evening for food, fellowship and service activities.

"I'm interested in history," said McCray, manager of Prestonsburg Holiday Inn, "and this gave me an opportunity to be a part of history in the making. I found the idea of being the first woman in the club very appealing."

The national Kiwanis organization, along with most other exclusively male clubs, were ordered by the US Supreme Court a few years back not to exclude women.

"We thought Lou would make a great addition to our club," said Kiwanis president Paul Branham. "She's already been a big help in the short time she's been a member."

McCray becomes one of 32 members in the local club, according to Branham.

A native of Prestonsburg, McCray left the area, like many of her contemporaries, to begin her professional career. She returned last year to manage the 118-room convention hotel.

Much as with Kiwanis, her chosen field of hotel management has historically been male dominated. But, unlike being asked to join Kiwanis, she had to work her way up the career ladder.

She was with Universal Hotels for 17 years before returning home from Alexandria, Va. During that time, she rose to the position of vice president for administration with the chain.

Along the way, she has tallied other professional credentials. She earned the Certified Hotel Administrator designation from the Educational Institute of the American Hotel and Motel Association and is working on requirements to become a Certified Tour Professional through the National Tour Association.

While managing the Howard Johnson Hotel in Alexandria, she was named manager of the year for the chain.

At the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn, McCray is breaking ground in involving the facility and its staff in a variety of community service projects and coming up with ways to promote tourism in the area.

"I was really honored to be asked to join the Kiwanis Club," said McCray, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Goble. "It is a special honor to be the first woman in the club."

Making History

Joining the previously all-male Kiwanis Club gave Lou McCray a sense of "being a part of making history." McCray, manager of Prestonsburg Holiday Inn, recently became the local club's first woman member.

'Old Buzzard' Has 70th Birthday

James E. Goble was honored by his family and friends Friday, May 19, on his 70th birthday, with a surprise "Old Buzzard" party at the Holiday Inn, Prestonsburg.

Among the friends and family members attending from out of town were: Lynn and Cliff Schornak and son, Michael, of Marietta, Ga.; Lana and Joe Slaughter and son, Benjamin, of Louisville; Mrs. John R. Baldrige, of Warco; Daniel L. and Ginny Goble, of Etawah, Tenn.;

Dari and Tom McLaughlin, of Furlong, Pa.; Ebbie and Rick Jenkins of San Carlos, Cal.; Kerri and DeWayne Leslie and daughter Rachael, of Annandale, Va.; Debbie and Wayne Cottle, of Lexington; and Ken and Pam Mason of Lorton, Va.

Local family members attending were his wife, Marie Goble, his son, Edward Goble, and daughter and son-in-law, Lou and Connely McCray.

Approximately 150 guests attended the celebration and enjoyed entertainment provided by the Gum Branch Heartbreakers.

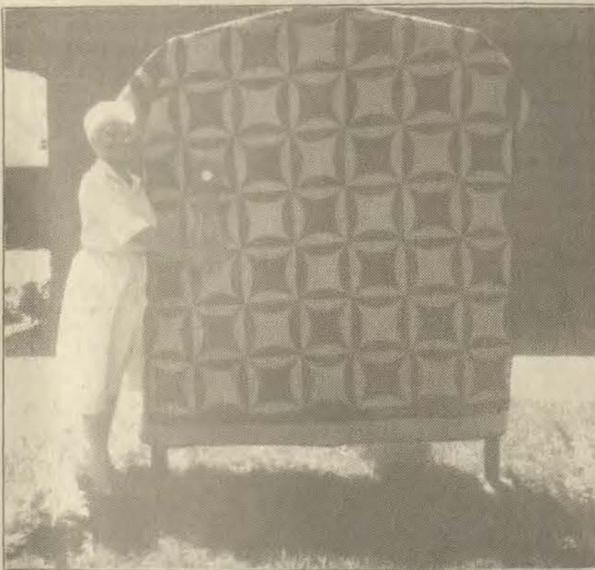

Goble Celebrates 70th Birthday

Among those attending James E. Goble's 70th birthday party were members of the Floyd County Times staff, from left, Gene Iredale, Brenda Crouch, Pam Shingler, Willie Conley and Michael Burke. Goble has worked for the Times since 1939, "retiring" in September 1988, but still contributes his time to the newspaper. Goble, standing, is also pictured.

Watson Wins In Quilt Show

Jean Watson, a Floyd County homemaker, is shown with the quilt that was judged best over-all in the Johnson County Quilt Show. Watson does sewing and alteration for an occupation, but does quilting and other handmade work as a hobby. Her work is used in decorating throughout her home, said Francis Pitts, Floyd County Cooperative Extension Service agent. "As busy as she is, she is never too busy to stop and give some one helpful suggestions that can be used in sewing and quilting," Pitts said. Watson is a member of the Martin Homemakers Club.

Hales Receive Award From National AARP

Harmison and Eva Hale recently received a National Community Service Award from the American Association of Retired Persons; the award was presented to them at a recent AARP meeting by Delmas Saunders, treasurer of the local chapter.

It was signed by the AARP national president, Louise D. Cooks.

The Hales, who are members of the Jenny Wiley Chapter No 3528, AARP, were selected by the chapter's or RTA's board of directors for their outstanding volunteer contributions to the community.

Some of their volunteer contributions to the community include:

— Conducting and coordinating "55-Alive" defensive driving classes for senior citizens under AARP sponsorship as a Jenny Wiley Chapter No 3528 project;

— Organizing and coordinating joint IRS-AARP sponsored income tax return preparation for senior citizens, at no charge, as a chapter 3528 project;

— Providing leadership in the chapter's annual health fair held in cooperation with the Highlands Regional Medical Center;

— Chairing the committee responsible for the Jenny Wiley Chapter #3528's annual donation of gifts to residents at the Jenny Wiley Nursing Home; — Active participants in all of the Jenny Wiley 3528's activities and projects.

The AARP award was established to coincide with National Volunteer Week, April 9-15, and to recognize the contributions of thousands of volunteers in nearly 2,600 local units of retired teachers associations and 3,700 AARP chapters nationwide.

Graduation parties are a time for celebrating, and there's nothing like an assortment of delicious, nutritious hors d'oeuvres to get the party off to a good start.

One hors d'oeuvre the graduate and guests are sure to enjoy is sausage-stuffed mushrooms. The zesty combination of pork sausage, mushrooms, cheddar cheese and spices are pleasing to the palate and offer a healthful mix of essential nutrients.

SAUSAGE-STUFFED MUSHROOMS

- 1 lb bulk pork sausage
- 1 lb fresh mushrooms
- 1 clove garlic minced
- 2 Tbsp parsley, chopped

1 1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese chopped pimento (optional)

Fresh snipped parsley (optional)
Rinse mushrooms and pat dry, remove stems. Chop stems. Combine stems, sausage, garlic and chopped parsley in a medium skillet; cook until sausage is browned, stirring often. Drain pan drippings. Stir in cheese, mixing well.

Fill mushrooms caps with sausage mixture. Place in a 13x9x2-inch baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Garnish with pimento and add snipped parsley, if desired.

Makes about 24 hors d'oeuvres.

Another way to add zest to a graduation celebration is with a popular and novel snack, "buffalo chicken wings."

These tasty tidbits began as a spur-of-the-moment concoction in a New York state neighborhood bar more than two decades ago. Today, they are a national favorite.

According to legend, buffalo chicken wings were first served in 1964 at Frank and Theresa's Anchor Bar. Theresa was in search of something to serve to friends who had stopped into the bar, and she came across a batch of chicken wings on a platter with blue cheese dressing and a few celery sticks. They were an instant hit.

They can be served as an hors d'oeuvre or finger food at parties, or even as a main dish. They are an excellent choice whether one's the hostess, or the guest who has been asked to bring something.

BUFFALO CHICKEN WINGS

- 2 lbs broiler-fryer chicken wings
- 1 egg
- 1 cup soy or corn oil
- 1/2 tsp pepper
- Cayenne pepper to taste
- 1 garlic clove, crushed
- 1/8 tsp nutmeg
- 1/8 tsp celery seed
- Dash coriander
- Dash ground cloves
- Celery sticks

Blue cheese salad dressing

In medium bowl, beat egg; add oil and beat again. Add vinegar, pepper, cayenne, garlic, nutmeg, celery seed, coriander and cloves; stir well. Cut chicken wings in half at joint; remove wing tips and reserve for later use (chicken stock).

Dip wing drumettes into sauce and place in shallow roasting pan. Bake about 10 minutes at 500 degrees, turning and basting with sauce several times until wings reach desired crispness.

Remove from oven, drain and remove to warm platter garnished with celery sticks. Serve with blue cheese salad dressing for dipping.

One more quick and easy snack food for a party, easy apple blocks, can serve as both a desert and something for the dieters at the party.

EASY APPLE BLOCKS

3 envelopes Knox Unflavored Gelatin

- 1 1/2 cups cold apple juice
- 1 1/2 cups apple juice, heated to boiling

In medium bowl, sprinkle unflavored gelatin over cold juice; let stand 1 minute. Add hot juice and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Pour into 8 or 9-inch baking dish; chill until firm. To serve, cut into 1-inch squares. Makes about 6 dozen blocks.

Beulah Hite Ratliff Marks 95th Birthday

Beulah Hite Ratliff, of Lackey, celebrated her 95th birthday on Thursday, May 18.

She is the daughter of the late Winnie Sexton and Will Fannin and was later raised by her mother and stepfather, George Berry. Ratliff was born in 1894 in Rush, Carter County.

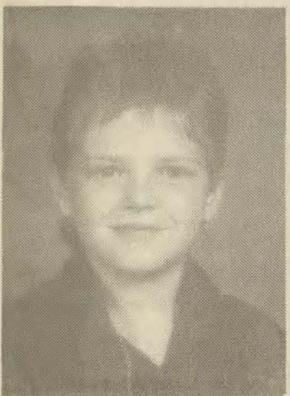

Ratliff has survived two husbands, Garfield Hite and Jim Ratliff. She and Hite parented seven children, four of whom survive. She also has 26 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Family and friends helped Ratliff celebrate by sharing her birthday dinner, which she helped prepare. She made, from scratch, apple pie and chicken and dumplings. Her daughter, Neval Jones, prepared the remainder of the meal.

Dr. Mary Fox Discusses Breast Cancer With Club

"One woman in 10 in Kentucky will have breast cancer, and one in four of these women will die," said Dr. Mary Pauline Fox, Pike County Health director, speaking to the members of the GFWC/KFWC Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club, May 6, in the home of club member Marsella Bradley in Garrett. Fox said breast self-examinations and regular mammograms can save many lives, adding that women between the ages 25-35 are more liable for breast cancer; women from 35-55 for cancer of the cervix and ovaries; and those 55 and older for lung and skin cancer. She reminded her listeners that "grandma" was smart enough to use a sun bonnet, long sleeves and a long dress when going into the garden. She pointed out that often times melanoma, or skin cancer, develops later in life from exposure to direct rays of the sun received at an earlier age. She urged all women to have Pap smears regularly and to be thoroughly checked for ovarian cancer, which is becoming more prevalent. She also stressed the dangers from oral cancer from chewing tobacco or smoking a pipe. In closing, Fox advised that cancer is now treatable if discovered in time, and many cases can be brought into remission, if not actually cured. She urged anyone who is diagnosed as having cancer to be optimistic about it and to stay cheerful and to never overlook the power of prayer. She answered questions and passed out booklets on health care for women. Marsella Bradley gave the devotional, and after the pledge to the flag was repeated a buffet-style "country" breakfast was served. Ruby Akers of Drift, former Seventh District Governor of KFWC, performed the installation ceremony for the newly elected club officers. She gave each officer a satin book mark and a ribbon-ties scroll on which were written the duties of her respective office. Installed were Jo Ann Hall, president; Marsella Bradley, vice president; La Faye Hughes, treasurer; Vera Allen, recording secretary; Libby Martin, corresponding secretary; and Marie Mullins, parliamentarian. A "President's Pin" was presented to the new president by the outgoing president, Louise West. West announced that the club's entry in the student art division of the KFWC Convention held recently in Louisville, won first prize. The winner was Kathi Keen, a senior at Allen Central High School. Her entry was a pastel.

Mother-Daughter Banquet A Success

Sheri Sparks, left, co-anchor for WYMT-TV's evening news, and her mother, Mary Ann Sparks, were guests of honor at the Mother-Daughter Tea at the First Presbyterian Church on Sunday, May 7. About 100 people attended to hear Sparks' presentation and the girls from the Prestonsburg Honor Choir. The event emphasized family as part of the Festival of FACES, and was sponsored by the Presbyterian Women's organization and the church's outreach committee.

Hospital Hosts Awards Banquet For Employees

Highlands Regional Medical Center held its seventh annual employee awards banquet recently at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park's May Lodge to honor employees with five, 10, 15 and 20 years of service.

Edward R. Nairn, chairman of the board of trustees, served as Master of Ceremonies.

Clarence Traum, HRMC administrator, commended all employees on their commitment and loyalty to health care and to Highlands.

"Our people are the binding force of our institution and the means for Highlands maintaining its position as Eastern Kentucky's preeminent health care provider," stated Traum.

Ruth Calhoun, supervisor in the central sterile department, was this year's only recipient of a 20-year award pin. She came to HRMC from Prestonsburg General Hospital in 1968. Through the years she worked primarily in the recovery room before moving to the central sterile department.

Employees honored for 15 years of service were Margaret Bays, Lois Burchett, Cathy Goble, Pearl Goble, James Griffith, Donna Harvey, Donald Hicks, Vina Nuckles, Mosaleete Patton, Deborah Ratliff, Marlene Webb, Rebecca Wells and William Wilkerson.

Honored for 10 years of service were Lou Allen, Beatrice Bickford, Londa Conners, Thelma Fraley, Doris Hackworth, Deborah Hall, Nancy Hall, Emma Hunt, Rose Mary Isaac, Lillie Kestner, Brenda Meade, John Meade, Martha Murphy, Debbie Ousley, Joyce Ousley, Beulah Price and Thelma Watson.

Those honored for five years of service were Bonnie Blair, Rhonda Branham, Jolita Burchett, Christine Furman, Pauline Hampton, Twana Hickman, Karen Kester, Timothy Kretzer, Doris Murphy, Teddie Ratliff, Terri Ratliff, Mary Roberts, John Sparks and Don Willis.

Immediately following the banquet, Highlands hosted a private party which was open to all HRMC employees and their guests.

Having dinner at a local restaurant with the Johnsons were their son, Jerry Wayne Johnson, and his wife, Sherlene, of Nicholasville; their daughters, Heather and Tina, of Nicholasville; another daughter, Georgia Cantrell, her husband, David, and children, Daniel Jr. and Beth, all of Winchester. The Johnsons were married May 10, 1949.

Miss American Pre-Teen Finalist

MELANIE JO KLINGLESMTIH

Melanie Jo Klinglesmith, 10-year-old daughter of William and Melanie Klinglesmith of Prestonsburg, has been accepted as a state finalist in the Miss Kentucky American Pre-Teen pageant, June 17-18 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Lexington.

The winner of the pageant will receive a cash award and will represent her state at the national pageant, which will be held in November, according to pageant officials.

Klinglesmith was crowned Miss Big Sandy recently. She won first place in beauty, sportswear, western wear and swim wear divisions and Miss Model Portfolio and high point.

Veterans' Questions & Answers

Question: What happens when payments are not made on a VA-guaranteed home loan?

Answer: Failure to make payments on the loan may lead to foreclosure and loss of the home. In addition, if the government is required to pay a claim as a result of failure to repay the loan, the veteran will become indebted to the government for the amount of the claim.

Question: Is tutorial assistance available under the Montgomery GI bill?

Answer: Yes, up to $100 a month for 12 months.

Question: How do I apply for a government-issued headstone for my husband's unmarked grave?

Answer: Application forms are available from any VA regional office, most service organizations, the local cemetery operators or funeral directors. Send the completed application to Monument Service (42), National Cemetery System, Department of Veterans Affairs, Washington, D.C. 20420.

The Bank Josephine.....Plaintiff
VS: NOTICE OF SALE
Roger Martin and Gladys Jean Martin.....Defendants

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the May 9 term, 1989, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court-house door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 9 day of June, 1989, at 10:30 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of sixty (60) days, the following described property, to-wit:

Being the same property conveyed to Roger Martin and Gladys Jean Martin, his wife, from Allen R. Whitt and Ida Mae Whitt, his wife, by deed dated April 13, 1983, of record in Deed Book 274, page 515, in the office of the Floyd County Clerk, and being a certain tract or parcel of land located on Stumbo Hollow of Left Beaver Creek, Floyd County, Kentucky, which is more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at a hub 35' from the center of railroad siding, along Stella Martin's line; thence up the drain with Stella Martin's line 143' to a hub in the drain; thence along side of County Road 263' up Stone Coal Branch to a hub in a slate dump; thence 100' back 35' from center of railroad siding; thence 326' down 35' from center railroad siding to the beginning.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $32,256.30 with interest thereon at 11.55% annually from the 12 day of January, 1989 until satisfied and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 22 day of May, 1989.

MARSHALL DAVIDSON,
Master Commissioner
5-24-3t.

HOROSCOPE

June 4 through June 10

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Life seems topsy-turvy this week. Go with the flow and don't fight it, or everything will drive you crazy. Tell those who waste too much of your time to go fly a kite.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

You will be involved in an embarrassing situation this week, handle it with tact. Family members will need your assistance with financial matters.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

Your health will be a matter of concern this week. Take time for some rest and relaxation. A loved one will move on to a very positive relationship.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

Your feelings of disappointment will ease soon. Lean on friends for moral support and fun. Remember to keep your priorities straight.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

It is time to get off your tail and get going. Career opportunities are awaiting you. Spruce up your wardrobe with some summer cottons.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

A loved one needs some financial help. Do what you can, but don't lend them too much money. You will never see it again. Travel is just around the corner.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

Arguments abound this week in your work and domestic environments. Use tact in settling all disputes and don't let the world get you down.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

Your partner will attempt to play head games with you this week. Don't buckle under to the pressure at work, authority figures are watching you.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

Loved ones will most definitely go against your bidding this week. Be positive or close relations could be in trouble. Children need your special attention.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Leave your financial problems to the experts. Apologies are necessary to keep things copacetic on the home front. An elderly person needs your affection.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Concentrate on your family this week. They need your love and attention. Hold off purchasing large ticket items this week.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Your financial picture looks a little bleak this week. Try your best to set up a long-term savings account. This money will come in handy later on.

Stephanie Kramer likes the fact that her role as Dee Dee McCall on Hunter is as strong as the male lead played by co-star Fred Dryer.

Stephanie Kramer relishes her 'Hunter' character

By Linda Sparkman

"I knew from the time I was a very little girl that I wanted a career in show business," said Stephanie Kramer (Hunter's Detective Sgt. Dee Dee McCall). "My mother was an artist and a fashion model, and my father was a classical violinist, so there was a strong element of the arts in my background."

And when Kramer enrolled at the University of California at Northridge, it wasn't long before she realized that perhaps she wasn't pursuing the proper course of instruction.

"I dropped out of Northridge and enrolled at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts/West. I wanted professional training, and I found I wasn't getting it at the college level."

With this oneness of purpose, Kramer was spotted by an agent from the William Morris organization as she performed on the day of her graduation. He immediately signed her as a client. Schooled in singing and dancing, Kramer is a mezzo soprano who has performed in scores of regional theater presentations and musicals. She was also a member of the Francis Farmer Memorial Players, a repertory group formed by fellow members of her class at AADA/West. She performs and writes "country rock 'n' roll" and has played several clubs with a back-up band.

The unusual spelling of Kramer's first name is not the original. Named Stephanie Kramer by her parents, she changed the spelling to Stephanie when she learned that there was already a Stephanie Kramer enrolled with the Screen Actors Guild.

When offered Hunter, Kramer jumped at the opportunity to play the female partner of a male cop. "I liked very much the fact that the female lead was just as strong a character as the male, but just happened to be a woman," she said. "I liked her determination and her focus."

TV Q&A

Martin Kove moves from 'Cagney & Lacey' to sci-fi

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I would like to know about Martin Kove. You never hear about him. You see him a lot. I really like his acting. —Pamela Ramsey, DuBois, Penn.

A: Martin Kove, who is now starring on CBS' Hard Time on Planet Earth, was born on March 6, in Brooklyn, N.Y., where he attended elementary and high school. He began his career in New York, eventually arriving in Hollywood. He made his film debut in The Wild Party, followed by Mr. Billion, The Karate Kid and Rambo: First Blood Part II. In addition to his role as Detective Ispecki on Cagney & Lacey, his TV credits include Code Red, We've Got Each Other, The Edge of Night, Captains and Kings and Cry for the Strangers. In his spare time, Kove participates in celebrity tennis tournaments, playing racquetball, skiing, and training his horse. He lives in the West Hollywood area with his wife.

Q: I would like to know how I can write to Ed McMahon, host of Star Search, regarding a tie-breaking system that I've put together instead of the current semi-final format that he has. —Mark Revere, Hopewell Junction, N.Y.

A: Write to Ed McMahon, c/o Star Search, Television Program Enterprises, 875 Third Ave, New York, N.Y. 10022

Q: I recently watched a salute to Gregory Peck but they never showed any part of a movie with Greer Garson that I loved. It was called Steel Town. Greer Garson's mother worked as a housemaid for Peck's family and she would come and help her mother at the house. Please tell me if I can rent the movie. —Elene Hodges, Lexington, N.C.

Martin Kove

A: The movie you are seeking is not called Steel Town. You are looking for The Valley of Decision, starring not only Garson and Peck, but Lionel Barrymore, Donald Crisp, Marsha Hunt and Preston Foster. It was released in 1945 by MGM. Check your video store.

Q: I recently saw Donnelly Rhodes on The Golden Girls. Is he the same actor that played Phillip Chancellor Sr. on The Young and the Restless? I had heard he died years ago in a car accident. This is my first time to write about any star and I am a grandmother of three. Please answer. —Lee Grubb, Manteca, Calif.

A: For a grandmother of three, you have very sharp eyes, a good memory and hooray for you—you are willing to try something new. Yes, that was Donnelly Rhodes on The Golden Girls. He was written off Young and Restless when his character died in a car crash on the series. Currently he is starring on the Disney Channel series Danger Bay.

Family Federal Savings and Loan Association Plaintiff VS: NOTICE OF SALE Clyde Edward Hurt, Jackie Hurt, Floyd County, Ky., and Security Pacific Defendants

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the December 8 term, 1988 and May 3 term, 1989, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 16 day of June, 1989, at 10:30 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of three (3) months, the following described property, to-wit:

A certain tract or parcel of land, lying and being in Floyd County, Kentucky, on the Big Sandy River, and being more particularly described as follows: Being Lot No. 3, Cliff Heights Subdivision, Prestonsburg, Floyd County, Kentucky, as shown by Map or Plat of said Subdivision, based on survey of Edward R. Ward, on December 28, 1979, as filed in the Floyd County Clerk's Office in File No. 1-1-105, which property is more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at point on corner between 12 feet alley and 20 feet street located in the Subdivision, which point is 207.56 feet from the existing 12 feet right of way; thence N 57 14 W 75 feet; thence S 32 46 E 100 feet; thence S 57 14 W 75 feet to the street; thence with the street N 32 46 W 100 feet to the point of beginning.

A five foot utility easement across front of said lot is excepted and not hereby conveyed.

Being the same property conveyed to Clyde Hurt and Jackie Hurt by Deed from Family Federal Savings and Loan Association, Paintsville, Kentucky, dated November 8, 1985, recorded in Deed Book 296, page 681, Floyd County Clerk's Office.

The purchaser shall be responsible for payment of the 1989 and subsequent years Floyd ad valorem taxes.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $53,687.15, with interest thereon at 12% annually from the 3rd day of May, 1989 and the principal sum of $9,658.22 with interest thereon at 12% annually from the 3rd day of May, 1989 until satisfied and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale. If the purchaser is other than the plaintiff, they shall make a cash deposit of $1,000.00 on the day of sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 26 day of May, 1989. MARSHALL DAVIDSON, Master Commissioner 5-31-3t.

FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT 84-CI-839

Bonnie Tackett Plaintiff VS: NOTICE OF SALE Tony Tackett Respondent

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the April 16 term, 1986 and May 4 term, 1989, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 16 day of June, 1989, at 10:00 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of three (3) months, the following described property, to-wit:

Those two certain tracts of land, lying and being situated on the waters of Big Mud Creek, in Floyd County, Kentucky, as shown by deeds recorded in the Floyd County Clerk's Office, as follows:

TRACT NO. 1

Beginning at a marked stone near the creek bed at Effie Tackett's line; thence up the hill to a planted stone near a poplar tree; thence around the hill to the Mill Hollow; thence down the hill to the creek or water; thence down Big Mud Creek and back to the planted stone at the beginning.

Being the same property conveyed to Bonnie Tackett and Tony Tackett by deed of conveyance from Effie Tackett, Winston and Eura Mae Tackett, Emmitt and Maggie Howell, Elza and Loula Mae Newsome, Georgie and Cassie Tackett, by deed dated January 22, 1972, and recorded in Deed Book 224, page 612.

Legals

TRACT NO. 2

Beginning at a ditch at Effie Tackett's line near Big Mud Creek water; thence up the hill to the old fence line; thence 70 ft. around the hill to an iron pipe; thence down the hill to the Big Mud Creek water; thence across the road and back to the ditch of beginning.

Being the same property conveyed to Bonnie Tackett and Tony Tackett from Randall Lee Tackett and Tammy Lynn Tackett by deed dated June 1, 1976 and recorded in Deed Book 225, page 506.

These parcels will be sold together as one tract as they are adjoining parcels.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall include the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 26 day of May, 1989. MARSHALL DAVIDSON, Master Commissioner 5-31-3t.

FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT 89-CI-158

The First Guaranty National Bank Plaintiff VS: NOTICE OF SALE Edward K. Martin, Patricia L. Martin, his wife, and Floyd County, Kentucky Defendants

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the April 28 term, 1989, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 16 day of June, 1989, at 11:00 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of three (3) months, the following described property, to-wit:

That certain tract or parcel of land, lying and being on the waters of Right Beaver Creek, near Garrett, Floyd Co., Ky., being the same land conveyed Edward K. Martin and Patricia L. Martin, wife, by deed from Nello Francis and Gladys Francis, by deed dated February 2, 1987, and recorded in Deed Book 308, pg. 615, Floyd Co. Clerk's Office, being more particularly described as follows:

TRACT ONE: Beginning at the old drift mouth where the Wells Elkhorn haul their coal out across from where I live, and going a straight line to the top of the hill to the line of Talmadge Allen; thence going down Beaver Creek with the Talmadge Allen line to Millard Martin heirs' line on to Roy Duncan's line; thence down the hill to the Tram Road crossing the Tram Road to Minta Conley Bailey and Lurly Allen Bolen's line on down to the upper side of the Tom Martin Bottom; thence going down with parties, Minta Conley Bailey and Lurly Allen Bolen, to Roy Duncan's line; thence down Beaver Creek with Roy Duncan's line across the gap in the above the power pole approximately 20 feet to the Charles Clark line; thence going down the low gap with the rock quarry and big elm tree with the low water gap as it runs into Beaver Creek where the low water bridge was in and to the center of Beaver Creek; thence going up Beaver Creek with the center of Beaver to opposite old mine opening of Wells Elkhorn Coal Company; thence up the hill a straight line to the old drift mouth and the beginning.

TRACT TWO: Beginning on a stake on the lower side of Tram Road about 200 feet to Tom Martin's line; thence down the hill with Tom Martin's line about 76 feet; thence with Tom Martin's line down the creek about 200 feet to elm stump; thence up the hill to tram road to a stake and the beginning.

These parcels will be sold together as one tract. The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $2,000.00, accrued interest of $210.87 and interest thereon at 12% annually from April 28, 1989 until satisfied; and the additional sum of $28,934.50, accrued interest of $1,089.92 and interest thereon at 12% annually from April 28, 1989 until satisfied; and the additional sum of $2,720.01 with interest thereon at 12% annually from April 28, 1989 until satisfied, and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 26 day of May, 1989. MARSHALL DAVIDSON, Master Commissioner 5-31-3t.
