Incinerator protests prompt statements from Medisin

Part 2
by Pam Shingler
Editor

On a poster at the front of the church where citizens met last Saturday to discuss concerns about medical waste incinerators at Highlands Regional Medical Center was a listing of persons said to be on the board of directors of Medisin Inc., the private corporation that operates the incinerators.

Barney and Phyllis Walker, two of the estimated 75 area residents who met at Horn's Chapel last weekend, said that Medisin vice president Robert Ford had not been able to tell them who the directors of the company were. The Walkers said they had found out the information through other sources.

The list included, in addition to Ford, Robert McAninch of Floyd County Solid Waste Commission, Highlands administrator Clarence Traum and businessmen Ted Nairn, Don Pelphey and Burl Wells Spurlock.

The poster with the names generated speculation among those gathered about the motives of the incineration operation. Some implied that the admittedly profit-making company meant more money into select pockets.

Retiree Dallas Sammons questioned what he called "misleading terms" as to what is profit and non-profit. "They came in and took out our timber. They came in and took our coal. Now they think they can make Floyd County a dumping ground," said Sammons, referring to the area's industrial and environmental history.

Ford, in a Tuesday interview, was quick to dispel the rumors and insinuations. Medisin, which operates the two incinerators, Ford said, is a subsidiary of Consolidated Health Systems, the community-owned, non-profit holding company that also operates HRMC, Floyd County's largest hospital, also non-profit.

"Medisin profits go directly back into the hospital," Ford said. "It's an arrangement referred to as a private enurement where there are no personal profits and no personal stockholders."

The incinerator operation, Ford said, is one way the hospital can be assured of having enough money to function. He added that costs of modern equipment, medical supplies and other necessities of health care have been increasing dramatically and that all hospitals are feeling the financial crunch. Cutbacks from private and government insurers have also contributed to the financial plight of hospitals across the country.

Medisin's directors do not profit from the company, Ford said. The company has only three employees of its own and purchases computer time, some personnel and other services from Consolidated Health Systems, the parent company of both HRMC and Medisin, he said.

Invited to Saturday's meeting because of her involvement in an eight-year battle against chemical waste dumping in Lawrence County was Patty Wallace of Louisa, formerly of Floyd County.

"You could be in for a long haul, but you can't wait for Big Brother to do it. Nobody's going to do it for you," Wallace said, referring to the possibility the group will decide to continue its protest of the incinerator.

She also encouraged the residents to join Kentuckians For The Commonwealth, a community action organization headquartered in Prestonsburg. She said she became

Family posts reminder of cruelty to pets

by Tim B. Preston
Staff Writer

Persons driving out of Campbell Branch near Prestonsburg can't help but notice a strongly worded sign dedicated to the memory of "Moe and Bear".

More than a year ago, Sabrina DeBoard, 18, painted the sign which still stands. More than a year ago, the family pets were poisoned, her family says, by one of the residents of their neighborhood. The sign, they say, is to be a reminder to the culprits.

"Moe was truly the brother I never had," said Katrina DeBoard, 14. "There isn't anything that I remember doing as a child, that Moe wasn't right there with me."

"Moe" was given to Dennis DeBoard's daughters by their grandparents more than 11 years ago. Bear was a stray who had adopted and been adopted by the family.

Even though Moe was given to the girls, it was the father who developed the strongest bond with the animal.

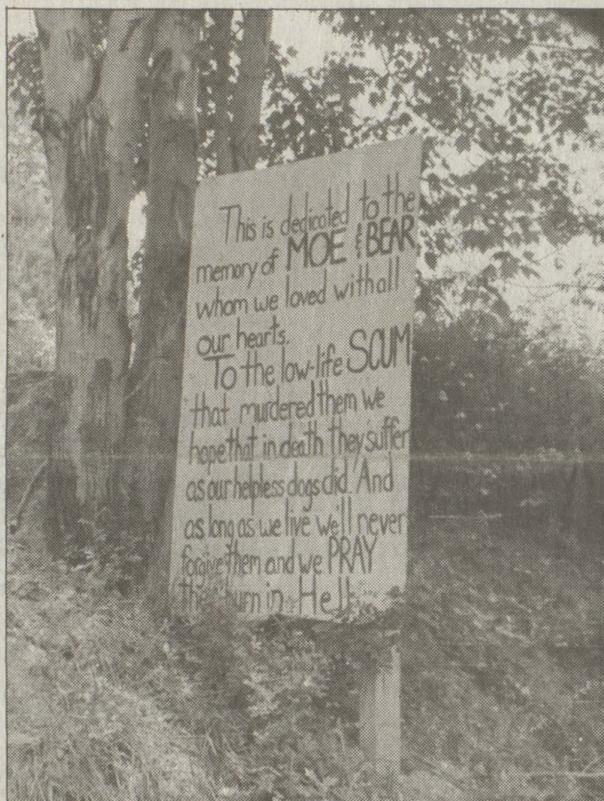

"Anyone in Floyd County that knows me, they knew Moe," said DeBoard, "and to me, someone who could do this to my dog could just as easily kill one of my children."

The poisoning occurred one Saturday afternoon in September. Both animals suffered for two days before dying. Bear, who seemed to be in more serious condition was left with the veterinarian, who thought that

Coal Camp Kids, Part 10

Though far ranging, veterans of coal camps remember home

Elk Horn today is held in scorn and many feel Wayland and other coal camps were left holding the bag. Yet, coal camp kids who have moved away and established other physical homes continue to think of the camps as home, some bitterly.

"It has long been a wish of mine," Jack Rollins wrote, "that I could have been with the first white settlers to have entered that area. To have seen it as God made it before the coal companies and their callous individuals scarred the land while processing the mineral wealth it possessed."

"Man, in search of a living, dumped his products back into the creeks and along the roads leading to the hollows, and man discarded waste and trash anywhere he pleased."

"A great part of this problem was, and still is, the methods used to process the valuable resources and disposal of the resultant waste. One of the biggest problems, though, for all the coal camps, was absentee ownership of the mineral rights — the coal moguls. Persons and companies owning those resources mined the coal and cut the trees without regard to the effect upon the environment or the people in the area and, without regard for where they dumped the waste. Parts of Floyd County are a scattered garbage dump."

"Another burden to bear in that area and time was the weather. The heat in latter July and August was unbearable when we were gardening and doing the chores and hired out for day work. The sultry days were sometimes over 100° and without even a faint breeze. I remember going into the creek just to cool off."

"Then came the cold, overcast days of winter — the sleet, the rain, the snow — followed by the winds of March. I was always miserable in the cold and knew I had to go to a warmer climate. As soon as it was feasible for me to do so, I moved. That area, and others like it, is especially bad for respiratory problems. The cold, damp fog combined with the slate dumps, the iron sulphur water and the hazard of mining and its damage to the lungs."

Though the tipples are gone, though the population has decreased at an alarming rate, the problem still exists, for profiteering prevails. God's word says, The love of money is the root of all evil, yet He made all of us the guardians of His creation.

Burglars nabbed in West P'burg

An investigation by Prestonsburg City Detective Jeff Stumbo led to the arrest of two Floyd County men this week on charges of burglary.

Police arrested Steve Barnett, 21, of West Prestonsburg on charges of criminal conspiracy to commit burglary, along with Eddie Dmitruk, 22, of Corn Fork on charges of first degree burglary.

According to Det. Stumbo, the two men broke into the West Prestonsburg home of Rose Meeks about two weeks ago. Stumbo said the subsequent investigation led to the arrests. Stumbo said that the break-in was the second burglary attempt made on the home within the last six months.

Two arrested for drug sales

Members of the Prestonsburg City Police Department arrested one adult and one juvenile Tuesday on charges of trafficking marijuana within 1000 yards of a school.

Jerry Roberts, 21, of Prestonsburg was arrested for complicity to traffic marijuana, along with a 17-year-old juvenile who was charged with first degree trafficking in marijuana within 1000 yards of a school.

Roberts was also charged with a second offense, second degree unlawful transaction with a minor.

The marijuana sales were conducted in and around the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center.

Performances begin Tuesday at JWSMT

by Tess A. Whitmer
Assistant Editor

The spring in Eastern Kentucky always brings the same question from musical lovers: "What plays will the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre be presenting this year?"

As the summer nears, expectations grow, and JWSMT hasn't disappointed audiences in 26 years.

Each year brings three new, exciting plays along with the traditional "Jenny Wiley Story." This year is no exception. The season kicks off with the popular "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," beginning Tuesday, June 5.

In this performance, Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Weber (Phantom of the Opera) have taken the Old Testament story of Joseph and his coat of many colors and created a modern, upbeat musical. The viewer is treated to a variety of music from calypso and rock and roll to pop and country. Joseph has splendor, dancing, comedy, and the kind of music and story that will appeal to the whole family.

The second show of the agenda is "The Jenny Wiley Story," opening Tuesday, June 12. This is the story of the brave pioneer woman of Kentucky who was held captive by Indians in the late 1700s. Narration, music and action tell of the hardships, the hope, the suffering and the faith of Jenny, her family and her friends. It has been a favorite of theatre goers for many years.

Opening on Tuesday, June 26, is "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying." From the first coffee break to the last elevator ride on Friday night, office life is never the same once J. Pierrepont Finch, the hero, settles in for the ride to the top of the corporate ladder. With him, in this wonderful musical satire, is his long-suffering girlfriend who hangs on through all the obstacles and pitfalls of his corporate journey.

The final play of the season will open on July 10. "Grease" captures the look and sound of the 1950s in a rollicking musical that salutes the rock and roll era. While hip Danny Zuko and wholesome Sandy Dumbrowski resolve the problems of their mutual attraction, the gang sings and dances its way through a pajama party, the prom and the drive-in movie.

The performances of the four plays

Quite warm, maybe wet

The next few days will be warm to hot, with chance of rain ranging from 0 to 40+ percent.

Friday, mostly sunny, high in mid-80s. Friday night, mild with 30 percent chance of thunderstorms, low 65-70.

Saturday, very warm and humid, 40 percent chance of thunderstorms, high 85-90. Saturday night, mostly cloudy, lows in 60s.

Sunday through Tuesday, partly cloudy, with chance of thunderstorms Sunday and again Tuesday, highs around 80, with lows in 60s.

Allen parents to meet

At a meeting on Wednesday, June 6 at 7 p.m., Allen Elementary parents will discuss the new law on site-based management and how it will affect the children at the school. Superintendent Ron Hager, Assistant Superintendent Gary Frazier, Principal Daniel Branson and the staff at Allen Elementary will be present to answer questions. Parents are invited to come to the school lunchroom and voice their concerns and opinions.

Raising funds for sight

The McDowell Lions Club is sponsoring its annual fish fry Saturday at 11 a.m. at the Minnie Park. The price is $3 with proceeds going toward eye glasses for the needy. Included in the meal will be fried fish, cole slaw and cornbread.

Councils to meet

City councils of both Wayland and Allen are scheduled to meet Monday, June 4, at 7 p.m. at their respective town halls.

Not what you might think...

Local billboards declaring the danger of Radon contamination have apparently been misunderstood by many local residents. According to a spokesperson from Unisign Inc., many complaints have been received from area residents who thought that unsafe Radon levels were present in the area around the sign. Upon closer examination, however, you will see that the billboard is actually saying that Radon is dangerous in the chest area of the human body, having been linked to lung cancer. The sign is sponsored by the Environmental Protection Agency and features a telephone number for the National Radon Hotline. For more information call 1-800-SOS-RADON. (Photo by Tim Preston)

US Attorney announces convictions

LEXINGTON — Six Letcher County men were convicted in federal court for operating a "chop shop" involving stolen trucks. Vernon Mullins, Charles Tackett, Jeffery Howard and Timothy Howard each received three-year sentences. David Fleming and Michael Mullins each received six-month sentences. In a separate case, Henry Anthony Hall, 27, of Jackhorn pled guilty to possessing a pickup truck knowing that its ID number had been changed and possessing nine stolen ATVs. Hall could face up to 20 years in prison and a fine of up to $500,000.

Jury selection slow in Magoffin case

SALYERSVILLE — Extensive pretrial publicity of a Magoffin County sexual abuse case brought jury selection to a crawl Wednesday. The trial of Herbert "Hub" Gipson, 43, of Mason Creek is scheduled to start today once 13 additional jurors are selected. He is charged with eight felony counts involving sexual abuse of three girls and a boy. Magoffin Circuit Judge John Morgan excused 23 jurors, many of whom formed an opinion after extensive TV and newspaper coverage of the case. (The Courier-Journal)

Commission approves annexation ordinances

PIKEVILLE — The Pikeville City Commission approved the second reading of the ordinances calling for the annexation of eight tracts of land adjacent to the current city boundaries. The proposed annexation will about double the city's size and triple its population. The annexation areas include Buckley's Creek, Cedars Gap, Ratliffs Creek, Chloe, and parts of Shelbiana, the North Mayo Trail, and Mossy Bottom. Residents of any area slated for annexation in opposition have 60 days to file a petition with the city. If 55 percent of the property owners of the area in question sign the petition, the issue will be placed on the November ballot for a public vote. (Appalachian News-Express)

Denver teen wounded in drive-by shooting

JOHNSON COUNTY — Johnson County Deputy Sheriff Charles Adams reported that Billy Ratliff, 18, was walking along KY 825 at 1:30 a.m. last Thursday when shots were fired from a passing car. One shot struck the teen in the left shoulder. Ratliff was treated for the gunshot wound at Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center and released. Adams said no motive had been determined for the shooting, adding that police were searching for a white, early '80s model Monte Carlo. (The Paintsville Herald)

Knott Countians favor abolishment of magistrates

HINDMAN — According to a recent poll, Knott Countians overwhelmingly favor abolishment of the magisterial form of government and are critical of the recent attempt to raise magisterial salaries. In the telephone poll of 203 randomly selected residents, 61 percent favor abolishment of the present system and the adoption of a commission form of government. The discussion on changing the government began after magistrates voted to more than double their salaries. Following public outcry, the magistrates rescinded their raise two weeks after they approved it. The magistrates said that they were not interested in the raise, but simply wanted more control over county finances and the road program. (Troublesome Creek Times)

Letcher miners lose jobs

WHITESBURG — Dozens of mine workers have been laid off at coal operations in Letcher County over the past month. Blue Diamond Mining Co.'s Scotia operation at Owen Fork has accounted for the "furlough" of 80 miners. Another 36 have been laid off at South East Coal Co. mines. The companies have cited drops in production and sales. However, the layoffs at South East reportedly came a few days after the UMWA petitioned the National Labor Relations Board to schedule a "representational election" for the company's 650 hourly employees, following company reductions in medical insurance benefits. Blackey man arrested for Perry robbery

VIPER — Paul A. Caudill, 35, of Blackey was arrested Tuesday on charges that he robbed a grocery store in Perry County, according to state police in Hazard. Caudill is alleged to have taken an undetermined amount of money from Frank and Jene's Market early that morning. He was reportedly armed with a pellet pistol. (Lexington Herald-Leader)

Another Wilkinson?

FRANKFORT — First Lady Martha Wilkinson formed a committee Wednesday to raise money for her possible gubernatorial campaign, but a final decision on running appears to be months away. Wilkinson filed papers with the Registry of Election Finance to form the "Martha S. Wilkinson for Governor Committee." That step was necessary in order for her to raise money under state law. Some of the other declared Democratic candidates said that her entry might make it tougher to raise money but that they did not intend to change their campaign plans. Frank Shoop, chairman of Wilkinson's committee, said that her first fund-raiser would be June 13 at the Scott County farm of Jim Thornton, owner of Thornton Oil. He said it would cost $1,000 per couple. (Lexington Herald-Leader) (Compiled by Michael Rosenberg)

Cruelty To Pets

Moe, who was older and stronger, would recover. Moe was allowed to go home with the DeBoards.

"For over 11 hours my family and I tried to nurse Moe back to health," said DeBoard, "and if the person who poisoned the dogs could have seen the physical suffering that Moe went through, all I can say is that I hope they die in the same cruel horrible way that Moe did."

"Moe went into convulsions almost every 60 seconds," said Sabrina. "He would try to crawl to where dad was even though he was dying."

During the nursing period, Dennis DeBoard said that he became so infuriated that he tied down the air horns of the four tractor trailer rigs parked at the family garage. State police were summoned to the home within minutes of horns being blown, and the horns were shut off by the officers.

Moe died within seconds of the horns being turned off. It was during that episode that a local veterinarian called to tell the family that Bear, their other dog, had died.

"This place was kind of crazy for a few months after that," said Dennis. "None of us could talk, eat, or do anything that we would normally do. It was just as if one of us had been murdered by a close friend."

The sign was erected shortly after the death of the two dogs. "I just wanted the person responsible for the murder of my friends to have to face what they had done every time they drive out of this hollow," said Sabrina.

"One of our neighbors, who all claim to be religious people, did a horrible thing," added Katrina, "and that person would not admit it or offer to help the family."

Of the sign that marks the entrance to the DeBoard's driveway, the family says that they have received criticism.

"Personally I think we should put a light on it so that whoever committed the act will be slapped in the face whenever they drive by," said Sabrina. "We even had one man tell us that we could not get into heaven until we forgave the people who affiliated with the group during her protests against Pyrochem, which proposed waste disposal in Lawrence County. "You have to learn to play politics," Wallace said.

Denying accusations about environmental dangers posed by Medisin's two 150-pound per hour

District 2, Owens said he is concerned about "out of county garbage."

The magistrate said he has started a petition against acceptance by Floyd County Solid Waste of any more out-of-county garbage and hopes to get the question on the ballot for citizen voting in the fall.

incinerators, Ford issued a press release Thursday in which he reiterated his claims that the operation meets all guidelines.

"Our incinerators have been inspected twice since January by the Kentucky Environmental Protection Agency, Kentucky Air Quality Agency and the Kentucky Division of Solid Waste and found to be operating substantially within the Clean Air Standards," he said in the release.

He also said the company has requested a federal EPA inspection to confirm state findings.

"Our incinerator operates at up to 2400 F in a high technology design that not only destroys solids, but afterburns in a second chamber. No fly-ash escapes and emissions of hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxides are mere fractions of more common airborne pollutants," he said.

"For instance, a wood burning stove produces 2-1/4 times more carbon monoxide and 64 times more hydrocarbons than both of our incinerators combined, according to a federal EPA study," Ford said.

Jackie Edford Owens, District 2 magistrate, said he attended the residents' meeting Saturday because of his interest in waste disposal. Though the hospital area is in magisterial

His remarks were prompted by a resident's concern that residue from the burning of medical wastes in the incinerators goes to the Floyd County landfill where danger to groundwater is a possibility.

Ford, in his prepared release, countered the charge that disposal of the ash poses a hazard. He said the ash is "routinely treated with Clorox, then compacted for shipment to the landfill."

"After burning at up to 2400 F, that ash is cleaner than your dinner plate," he said. "It's sterile. Adding Clorox would be silly and so would compacting it. Our ash is far and away the most sanitary material in the landfill."

Ford further contended that incineration is the safest method of disposing of medical wastes, such as needles, medicine bottles, gloves, masks, body tissue and blood — all of which Medisin processes.

"We are here to assure that unprocessed medical waste does not end up in dumpsters, creek beds or landfills where it can pose a danger to public health and safety," Ford said.

He also explained that one of Medisin's functions, besides incineration, is to educate health care professionals about proper waste disposal. "We provide extensive training to clients to assure that medical waste is properly handled in places like hospitals and clinics to protect health workers and their patients," Ford said.

The Medisin vice president added that he has had hospital personnel from Lexington, Louisville and other areas request information or to see the local facility because of its "state-of-the-art" system.

All present alternatives to the incineration of medical wastes are unsatisfactory, Ford said. "The only process recommended for destroying all pathogens is incineration."

Ford reiterated that Medisin has "no intention" expanding its acceptance of medical wastes beyond Eastern Kentucky. "We just want to handle the needs of the area," he said, stressing that by industry standards, both of Medisin's incinerators are very small. "We have no intention of bringing in a larger incinerator."

Participants at Saturday's meeting expressed concern that the incinerators were installed at the hospital and in a residential area. "The reason we didn't locate elsewhere is that we had nothing to hide," said Ford, who also advised that there are no state requirements concerning placement of incinerators in relation to residential areas.

The administrator said the facility plans to have an open house this month to allow citizens to see for themselves. "We also have an open door policy. I am always glad to show people what we do."

According to Ford, some local residents have toured the facility.

"By not coming in and by speculating on how things are done, the rumors proliferate," he said.

The hospital also distributed a press release Thursday in response to concern about air emissions or fumes from the incinerator. In the release, HRMC environmental services director Mike Scott said that no reports or complaints have been filed with the hospital or government agencies regarding air quality either inside the hospital or on its grounds.

Scott countered rumors that emission from the incinerator are sucked into the hospital through the air conditioning system.

"The hospital air conditioning which utilizes cooling towers is a closed water system, that is, it has no air intakes or vents," Scott said. "Air quality is well within federal guidelines and state licensing requirements and the maintenance of the air handling system routinely passes state and Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organization inspection."

The area residents who met last Saturday agreed to schedule another meeting for tonight (Friday) at 7 p.m. at Horn's Chapel. At that time, they expect to discuss the future of the protest.

At last week's meeting, leaders distributed fliers urging area residents to call the governor's office, the Secretary of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, state Division of Air Quality and members of the hospital board of directors. They also are encouraging the writing of letters to The Floyd County Times and newspapers in Lexington, Louisville, Ashland and Paintsville.

Prenatal nutrition

On Wednesday, June 6, Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin, will hold its monthly prenatal nutrition class for pregnant women (husbands are welcome also).

Debbie Patton, RD, MA, hospital dietician, will conduct the session with the objective being to provide nutritional guidance during pregnancy. The target audience is women in early pregnancy due to the importance of sound nutrition throughout the pregnancy.

The prenatal class will be held at 11 a.m. in the Health Education Building and is free and open to the public.

Gas prices fluctuate

Continuing the trend of other local gas companies, B&H Gas has also increased its rates. Due to an increase of $11,533 in wholesale costs from the supplier, Kentucky West Virginia Gas, B&H Gas was granted a purchased gas adjustment by the Public Service Commission.

The average annual increase per residential customer is $50.71, retroactive to May 18. The order was also entered on May 18.

Another local gas company was recently granted a purchase gas adjustment from the Public Service Commission. Mike Little Gas Company was given a decrease in wholesale costs from its supplier, Ky/West. The average annual decrease per residential customer is $56.84, retroactive to April 1. The order was entered May 22.

Tragically, research has shown that older people have substantially less cash income than those under 65. The net worth of people aged 65 and over is approximately $18,800 per household. As a result, for many Alzheimer's sufferers and their families, the financial hardships of this illness can be as devastating as the disease itself.

murdered Moe and Bear and took down the sign."

Forgiveness will not come soon to the person responsible for the death of the animals. The DeBoard family does not feel any need to extract revenge upon those responsible, however, forgiveness seems far from the hearts of those who knew and loved the dogs as their own children.

"I don't wish any harm on anyone who did this," said Dennis, "but, I do pray that when they die, they must suffer as Moe did, and I truly hope that Moe is there to greet them when they get to the other side."

problems or the scarred and junked landscape, but I keep going back." Why do we keep going back?

"All people, regardless of where they come from, have a certain range," Frank Music said. "Like a deer will make a circle, maybe a mile, others will have a circle of maybe 15 miles and they leave a trail so if you want to pick up this deer in hunting season, all you have to do is find his particular trail. Sit and wait and he'll show up."

"I'm not too sure about our hill people of Kentucky, of how far they travel but I know that when the mines shut down and truck mining started, most boys went to either Chicago or Detroit, to work in the factories. As for myself, my range has been just about anywhere in the world. I have been all over."

"I lived in Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Boston, Atlanta, now in Florida but I still own property in Georgia; I have been overseas, both sides, and I go to Mexico, I've been to Australia. I don't know what my particular range is, but I dare say that the old hard-shell people don't venture too far outside Ohio, Indiana or Kentucky. Occasionally one of them may find his way down here to Florida to enjoy the beaches and do a little fishing. Yet," Frank concluded, "many of us keep going back, or are pulled back."

Like Frank, my range, through marriage, has been broad. I lived in Kentucky, Florida, Ohio, Mississippi, California, Georgia, and for seven years, North Africa was home. While there, we spent our vacations traveling and I saw almost all of Europe. I yearn to travel, but before going overseas again, I want to see all of America and Canada, too.

Patty Hicks Wilker sees it this way. "We lived many places, but Kentucky always had a pull on our hearts and, Wayland, Kentucky, will always be the home of my heart."

Throughout the year and without fail every Labor Day weekend, the Prestonsburg radio stations and others in the area, play a song written by Frank J. Gregory, "I'm Going Back To Beaver Creek." The words and music strike a chord within all us coal camp kids — because they speak of the "home of our hearts." The Beaver Creek coal camps, made up of blood, mud, soot, poverty and grime, are our roots.

We were born in the coal camps, doctored by "physicians" who were not always capable, and medicated with home remedies, and many of us died in the coal camps.

Ticket prices for adults range from $7-$9, depending on the night and seating section. Children are admitted for $3-$5 and senior citizens/students for $5-$8. This year, the theatre may be facing some financial hardships. But with the help of local people and donors its fate may not be so glum. Thanks to Frank Fitzpatrick, the actors now have an exclusive place to practice. He has donated the old Dollar General Store location for the performers to rehearse in.

Also, Branham and Baker Coal Company has lent the use of the old Brown's Store to construct the sets in. These two locations will allow the theatre workers and actors to "do their thing" rain or shine.

Speaking of rain, the theatre does give rain checks should a performance suffer inclement weather. But there are no refunds available. Many times it may be raining in the area where a person lives but not at the theatre, so patrons are encouraged to come anyway. Most times, if its just a light drizzle the play will continue.

For 26 seasons, the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre has entertained locals and travelers. It is the only cultural event of its kind south of Ashland and is well worth the travel.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Julia Bradley Moore wish to thank all of those who were so kind and considerate during our time of grief. We want to thank those who sent flowers and gifts of love. We especially want to thank Rev. Banner Manns, the Regular Baptist ministers, Stone Coal Regular Baptist Church and the Hall Funeral Home for being so kind. All your kindnesses were greatly appreciated.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Loretta Blair gratefully acknowledge the kindness and sympathy shown to us during her illness and upon her passing away. To those who sent flowers, food or just came to be with us, we thank you. To Hospice of Big Sandy, Sister Margaret and Sarah, Dr. Mark Caruso, who made it possible for her to remain at home under their excellent care and guidance and gave unselfishly of their love and time. To Rev. L.P. Tussey, Rev. Rudolph Lewis, Rev. Bill Campbell and singers of the Free United Baptist Church, Roger and Sandy Nelson of Nelson Frazier Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service. To anyone who helped in any way, we will never forget your kindness. May God bless each and everyone of you.

A large incinerator for medical waste?

NOT IN MY BACKYARD!

Just like you, we don't want a large medical waste incinerator in Eastern Kentucky. In fact we wonder how anyone got such an idea or why.

The fact is, Medisin, Inc., is on the leading edge of the industry utilizing advanced state-of-the-art technology and innovative management of regulated medical waste. We're a budding, young Eastern Kentucky enterprise. Our roots are here and we have a responsibility to our neighbors and our families to do everything we can to protect the people and the environment of this region.

If you have a concern, talk to us. Call us and plan to attend our Neighborhood Forum on Thursday, June 28. We are encouraging our neighbors to form an advisory committee that may meet with us to obtain the facts regarding our operation and to gain a clear understanding of our future plans.

Downtown

Manager, Main Street Program

The results of the FACES Festival window competition were as follows: Ritches' Hallmark, first place; B.F. Casuals, second place; and Hall of Frames, third place.

Jenny Wiley Florist has now been in its new location for seven weeks. They are located across from the new FoodLyon II. The expansion of Jenny Wiley Florist cost about $30,000. It has all new equipment and lovely new glass shelving ($4000) and is completely redecorated. The new location has plenty of spacious parking, easy access and is conveniently located in Downtown Prestonsburg, making added convenience for the many employees in the downtown area.

The new owner, Andy Dye, has been in the florist business for seven years and also owns Dye's Florist in Martin. Dye said that this is an extra special advantage for the customer because he can now buy in bulk and pass on special savings to his customer. Prices are now much lower than before, he said.

Jenny Wiley Florist's new professional designer is Jim McGee who has many years experience. McGee used to work for Patty's Green Florist in Pikeville. McGee also put special effort into designing beautiful window displays.

Hall of Frames is redesigning its store front on Court Street next to the Bank Josephine. Tammy Moore, owner, requested design assistance from the State Main Street Architect. The building Hall of Frames is located in is an early 20th century office building with a most unusual design. Moore is using colors of blue and asrical to bring out its character. The steps leading to the door have been marblized and a most unique sign will soon be up.

Fighting a tendency to go on and on about one subject (sometimes admittedly running it into the ground), I have the need to bounce around today.

Above all, I recommend to you Floyd County's future, spotlighted in today's Academics section. Tonight is the Academic Banquet, the annual salute to the top students in our schools.

Take a good look and then let's vow to do everything in our power to encourage, support and assist them. Let's promise to sacrifice our money—even with higher taxes if necessary—to help them realize their full potential as intelligent, questing young people. Let's spend whatever it takes—not for their clothes or their cars or their looks, but for their brains and their humanity.

Let's also strive to make it possible for them to have a fulfilling career and a full life here when their formal education is completed. Let's give them a chance to make this a better place than we've been able to do. Let's replace our legacy of good-old-boyism and exploitative greed with one of fairness, openness and sensitivity to their fellow human beings.

And let's take that a step further and do it for all our young people, from the top of the class to the bottom. It's the surest investment any of us can make for our own futures.

Congratulations to Floyd County's graduating seniors. Congratulations to the academic elite. Use your gifts more wisely than most of your elders have.

The situation that appears to be brewing between the operators of the incinerators at Highlands Regional Medical Center and residents of the area is in bad need of good old-fashioned discussion across the coffee table.

I don't claim to be omniscient (despite what some folks think I think). All I know is what both sides of the controversy have told me. What I do believe is that the players on both sides seem concerned, sincere and decent individuals.

At the risk of being tried for heresy by my colleagues in the media, I have to say that waging campaigns on newspaper pages or over the airwaves is seldom an efficient or satisfying way to solve a controversial problem.

The surest way to dissolve a controversy or misunderstanding is for the different sides to sit down together in a spirit of goodwill and compromise with an open mind and a willingness to listen to what each person has to say. This also requires a willingness to share, to be honest and to trust.

There's a disturbing trend these days to seek solutions to all kinds of problems by calling in the media. Sure, this a good way to call attention to a problem, but it results, too often, in a one-dimensional view of the problem and a polarization of the parties involved.

Frequently, it also results in a waste of money as the combatants rush to buy advertising space and time to present their one side of the issue. In most cases, the cost of a pot of coffee and some donuts as the groups meet for negotiation and information-sharing is money better spent.

Also part of the disturbing trend is that too often individuals or groups who hold the key to solutions ignore potential problems until the media get involved. For instance, how many times have we seen a road problem addressed by appropriate officials only after the problem is spotlighted by the television camera or on the front page of the newspaper. The opportunity for prevention is replaced by the need for crisis management.

The best way to solve a problem remains the one in which all parties discuss the issues and negotiate a solution. That's what's needed now with the incinerator controversy.

Shame. Shame. Shame. Only a third of Floyd County's eligible voters bothered to vote last Tuesday. That means that two-thirds of voters ceded their democratic rights to the minority one-third of us. If those two-thirds don't like the way things turned out, that's tough. They had the opportunity and they blew it.

Essentially, the minority rules. Isn't that the way it is in some of those countries where Americans have tried to impose democracy? Unfortunately, some of those folks didn't have a choice. We do have a choice, but unfortunately, too many folks don't use it.

The country singing group Alabama has a hit-home song out now that's worth all of us listening to and taking to heart. Called, I believe, "Pass it on down," the song deals with the environment and the dastardly things we're doing to it, such as destroying the ozone layer, killing our waterways and junking up our land.

It could have been written with Eastern Kentucky in mind. For we are on the verge of passing down to future generations a wasted and worthless Earth. What a horrible legacy for us to leave.

Certainly we can do better. We must do better.

Kim's Korner

By Kim Frasure

This column may seem somewhat of a repeat to those of you who read The Post. I just couldn't help but write about this subject yet once more.

Hillbillies. Some of us more so than others. Yet all of us here in Eastern Kentucky are considered Hillbillies and most are proud of it.

Our slang seems to be most popular to those who are foreign to our language. For instance, some of you may have noticed the "poo" opened this weekend and they're even "open-a-nen" new "ars" while "schoo" is still in session.

It's been five or six years and I'm still havin' trouble convincing a relative that my youngest daughter will split a "creek" wide open if one's near. He still says it's pronounced "crick". And, I still say a "crick" is what I wake up with in my neck after sleepin' on the couch all night.

The other day a few of us here at the office were discussing a good idea for supper. Tess, being from Ohio, didn't seem to be enjoying our conversation.

Soup beans, fried taters, corn bread, a slice of those Vidalia onions (you may have seen on sale here and there) were soundin' so good our tongues were nearly slappin' our brains plum out.

"Yuck!" she said as she headed back toward her office. You sure can tell she's not a hillbilly, huh?

It's hard to find a hillbilly who doesn't like soup beans. I just hope everybody who cooks them looks them before doin' so. Otherwise, there could be some chipped teeth out there.

I don't mind being labeled a hillbilly. Not at all. I am.

I do mind that because of where I was born, raised, married, gave birth and raised my own children, outsiders view me as less of a person than themselves.

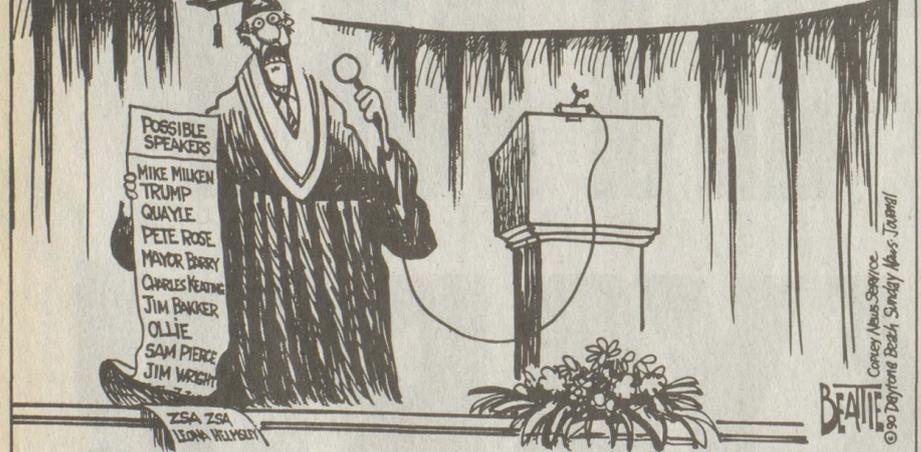

It's not our language, the way we pronounce our words or what we eat. It's what we make of ourselves and only we can succeed in making other believe in our Eastern Kentucky.

While livin' in Lexington, which, by the way, is made up of hundreds of born and bred Eastern Kentuckians, I was constantly asked if I was from Georgia. After two and a half years I came to know my neighbors; it sure doesn't take that long here. I missed the hills. I had no idea Lexington was so flat.

I missed friends, relatives going from knowing all kinds of people to just a handful. No, big city life's not for me. Floyd County's where I'd rather be.

I'll take the down home, good natured, wholesome-hearted hillbillies any day. Don't get me wrong, I love Lexington. Visiting though, not to live there. And, no offense, Tess, I love ya' northerners too.

NO NEW TAXES

Over the past several weeks, rumors from Washington have spread that a tax increase is right around the corner. Doom-sayers in Congress are pointing to the massive national debt and predicting a recession that will throw thousands of people out of work.

They hope that by applying this kind of pressure to President Bush, he will go back on his promise of "no new taxes." As a fiscal conservative, I categorically reject the idea of solving the debt crisis by saddling Kentuckians with more federal taxes.

In a non-leap year, the middle day of the year is July 2.

Earlier this month I signed a letter along with 25 of my Senate colleagues urging the President not to raise taxes. We also promised to sustain his veto of any new-tax legislation passed by the Democratically-controlled Congress, and with good reason. Today the federal debt stands at almost $3 trillion. In order to put this massive amount of money in perspective, imagine a stack of dollar bills reaching from the earth to the moon and back, then circling the earth. Just to pay the interest on the debt takes 25 cents of each tax dollar collected.

The only way to gain control of this fiscal nightmare is to cut government spending and thin-out our bloated bureaucracies. Although a hiring freeze is in effect at many federal agencies, there is a tremendous need to consolidate and streamline government services for maximum efficiency. Pushing against this deficit-reduction theory are the liberals who advocate a tax increase.

The hypocrisy of new taxes can be seen in a recently-released study that shows exactly how tax increases are ultimately self-defeating. For example, every dollar in taxes raised in the postwar period (1946-86), Congress turned around and spent $1.58.

Although the debt picture is grim, there are some rays of hope. The apparent collapse of Communism in Eastern Europe means that we can carefully reduce our military spending and create a "peace dividend" which can be used to focus on domestic priorities. I have a plan in place that would use some of this money to fund a comprehensive health-care program to provide relief to low- and moderate-income Americans from skyrocketing medical costs. The rest of the peace dividend should go directly to reducing the debt.

The US faces many economic challenges in the 1990s. If our country is going to remain a top competitor in world markets, then we must get our fiscal house in order. That means holding the line on spending and no new taxes!

Dear Editor,

I am looking for family roots and hope that someone will be able to help me. The problem is that I have had great difficulty in tracing my grandfather and grandmother.

My father was Stumbo Johnson, born Oct. 7, 1885, Jacks Creek, Floyd County. My mother was Rosaney Issac, born Oct. 2, 1887, Dry Creek, Ky. They were married April 15, 1905.

My uncle was Bud Johnson, Weeksbury, Ky.

Two former department heads in the Prestonsburg Mine Reclamation Office appeared before a federal grand jury last week. The grand jury is investigating reports Gene Stewart and Nevard Wells had been ordered to "hit" Martin County mines whose ownership did not support Terry McBrayer in the 1979 race for governor. Stewart and Wells allegedly received word from Gene Brandenburg, who was commissioner of the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement. Thirteen mines were on the "hit list"...Two bodies were recovered in the space of two days from the Big Sandy River. Robert Wayne Newsome drowned May 2 after a fishing boat capsized. Newsome's body was discovered this week by two fishermen. Charles Lee Hall drowned Friday after his boat capsized. Hall was discovered Saturday about 300 feet downstream...In a recent press release, Gov. John Y. Brown defended his gas tax revision and the economic assistance plan which replaces the former coal severance tax allocation. Floyd Judge-Executive Bill Wells made his misgivings of this action clear. According to Wells, the new funds come with fewer restrictions as to how they can be spent, but the additional $258,870 yielded by the two programs needs to be weighed against the $700,000 lost to the county...The average teacher's salary in Floyd County was $13,864 according to State Department of Education figures. This salary ranks Floyd County 83rd out of 181 city and county school districts...The investigation of the blaze which destroyed the home of Grant "Duke" Newsome led to four arrests. State arson investigator James McKenzie issued warrants for Grant "Duke" Newsome, Larry Newsome, Danny Newsome, and Estelene Newsome on second degree arson charges...There died: Eliza Jane Hall, 82, of Weeksbury, at her home; Brack Craft, 88, of Garrett, at Riverview Manor Nursing Home; George W. The one and only bid offered on construction of the Right Beaver school at Eastern was made last Friday by Akers and Akers, Dana contractors, who asked $1,018,780 for the work. The bid, opened by the Floyd fiscal court as agent for the Floyd County Board of Education, was $125,450 above the low bids submitted when the project was first advertised in early 1969. Commenting on the increase in bidding, Supt. Clark said, "The additional $125,450 is a matter of concern, because that is money that could be well spent at Martin, as well as at other schools in the county. It probably would have paid for the complete renovation of the high school building in Martin..." Contract for surfacing 36.5 miles of KY 122 from Allen via Martin and Left Beaver Creek to Virgie as a detour route while construction of the New four-lane US 23 is under way between Allen and Pikeville was awarded to Bush Contracting Company. The contractor will be paid $2,498,639...A second damage suit was filed last week as an aftermath to the recent wreck on the Mountain Parkway outside Prestonsburg in which a young Salyersville couple was killed and a Prestonsburg woman was injured. There died: Marshall Mahan, 56, of Prestonsburg, at Prestonsburg General Hospital; Jack Dempsey Abrams, 37, of Chicago. He was a son of James William and Mary Vanderpool Abrams, of Wheelwright; Viola May Stewart, 72, of Langley, at her home; Lulu Ousley Brown, 70, of Langley, at Our Lady of the Way Hospital; Jimilee Powers, 84, of Van Lear, at a Paintsville hospital; Louberta Dawson Allen, 59, of Prestonsburg, at Mountain Manor; Watt Conley, 76, of Prestonsburg, at Prestonsburg General Hospital.

Voters may opt to alter state constitution

For the first time in history, Kentucky voters will confront four different constitutional amendments when they step into the voting booth for the Nov. 6 general election.

The amendments were approved during the 1990 legislative session and, like all constitutional changes, are subject to voter referendum.

One of the four amendments creates a process allowing the General Assembly to call itself into special session. To do this, two-thirds of the membership of each chamber of the legislature would have to petition the speaker of the House and the president pro tem of the Senate to call an extraordinary session.

Any such call would specify the subjects to be considered, as is currently the case when the governor convenes special session.

Under current law, only the governor has the power to call the General Assembly into special session.

Currently, 29 states have some type of mechanism allowing their legislatures to call themselves into session. Indiana and Missouri are the only two states bordering Kentucky that do not grant such authority.

The measure originated in the House of Representatives. Historically, there has been an informal understanding between the Senate and the House allowing each chamber to propose an equal number of changes to the state constitution during each session.

A 1979 amendment to the Kentucky Constitution, sponsored by former House Speaker William Kenton of Lexington, increased from two to four the number of amendments that could be offered at any general election. However, the legislature has never before submitted more than two amendments at any one time.

The other measure offered by the House of Representatives provides for increased legislative oversight of the process by which administrative regulations are adopted.

Under the current system, the legislature can reject those regulations only when it is in session — and is therefore powerless to act on regulations promulgated between sessions until it meets again.

Under the new proposal, the interim legislative committee that has jurisdiction over the subject matter would be able to nullify the regulation if it chose to do so, regardless of whether the legislature is in session.

If the amendment is approved it would give the legislative branch more oversight and control over the administrative regulatory process, which has mushroomed dramatically in recent years.

Of the two amendments that originated in the Senate, one would provide "home rule" for cities, while the other would provide certain tax exemptions for religious organizations.

Under the cities amendment, the existing city classification and tax system, as prescribed in the state constitution, would be repealed. However, both the classification structure and the taxing system are expected to remain in place statutorily for the time being.

Essentially, the proposed changes would delete most specific constitutional references to cities — such as occurs in the classification system — and empower the General Assembly to provide for the creation and dissolution of cities by statute, rather than constitutionally as is now the case.

Many constitutional experts have long criticized the state charter as being overly detailed, thereby limiting its ability to adapt to changing times. The amendment would help rectify that situation where cities are concerned.

The measure would also remove limits on local debt — strictures that now require two-thirds approval by voters for any local government debt that exceeds the city government's annual revenue.

The proposal also allows cities to grant broader tax exemptions and would let the legislature extend the terms of certain elected city officials from the current two years to four years.

Under the "home rule" amendment, cities would be allowed to pass any measure to meet the needs of city government, provided the measure does not conflict with state or federal law. Supporters contend that the amendment would allow cities to pursue more innovative solutions to the myriad problems facing them — problems such as overcrowded local jails and solid-waste disposal.

The religious-organization tax-relief amendment exempts all church property from taxation except for real estate that is not occupied by the institution. The current tax-exemption applies only to churches and parsonages.

Included as church property under the proposed change would be church offices as well as intangible church assets such as pension plans and retirement systems.

The measure would effectively exempt all property owned by churches from taxation, except for real estate not occupied by the institution.

The measure was prompted by problems arising from the state's current taxing of pension funds and other intangible property and efforts by the city of Louisville to attract the national headquarters of the Presbyterian church to locate there.

While the national church organization did locate in Louisville, it chose to place its pension offices across the Ohio River in Indiana because of concern about the tax situation in Kentucky. Supporters contend that any loss in state tax revenue is likely to be offset by increased economic development.

Constitutional amendments can be approved by the General Assembly only during regular legislative sessions and are not subject to gubernatorial veto. Changes to the state charter can only be approved by Kentucky voters in general elections.

To celebrate 50th anniversary

Kenneth Stevens (inset) of Betsy Layne will host an open house for his grandparents, Hobert and Leona Hoskins of Hurricane Creek Road, Pikeville, on their 50th wedding anniversary, Sunday, June 3, from 2-6 p.m. The Hoskins were united in marriage in New Tazwell, Tenn., in 1940. He is a retired UMWA miner and she is a housewife. They have five children and 12 grandchildren. Their grandson extends an invitation to all family, neighbors and friends to join in the Golden Anniversary celebration at the Hurricane Creek home.

Program aids in housing

Gov. Wallace Wilkinson's chief housing expert recently released details on the administration's new rental housing program to assist low income Kentuckians.

John G. Martinez, executive director of Kentucky Housing Corporation, described the program, called Rental Deposits Surety, to 450 housing managers attending the annual housing management conference in Louisville.

The Rental Deposits Surety Program will help low income families pay for utility and security deposits so they can move into decent, affordable housing. Deposits required prior to move-in often total several hundred dollars and can effectively keep many families out of the rental marketplace.

Kentucky Housing Corporation will act as an intermediary between low income tenants and property owners and utility companies to (1) guarantee the payments of deposits to owners and (2) allow families without adequate savings to secure decent, affordable housing on a timely basis.

The Rental Deposits Surety Program will allow families to move in immediately but take six months to pay the required deposits to KHC. The property owners will be guaranteed the required deposits by KHC without the paperwork, bookkeeping and delays associated with collecting and disbursing deposits.

Families or individuals interested in participating in the Rental Deposits Surety Program can apply for the program by contacting the manager of the apartment they wish to rent, or by calling KHC toll free at 1-800-633-8896 (voice) or 1-800-247-2510 (TDD for hearing impaired only).

Eligible applicants for the Rental Deposits Surety Program are families and individuals with incomes at or below 50 percent of the US Department of Housing and Urban Development median income for the county.

Licenses granted, denied

Two hearings were brought before Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo regarding entertainment licenses Thursday. One was granted, the other denied.

On the recommendation of County Attorney Jim Hammond, Russell Johnson was given approval to operate D&W Camerom in Weeksbury. The establishment will sell no alcohol or food.

The second in front of the judge was not given the county attorney's recommendation, and consequently was not given the entertainment license.

James Roscoe Pennington of Flat Gap appeared before the judge asking approval to open the Royal Eagle Lounge in Harold. The business would sell beer by the glass and carry-out and have live music.

Citizens of Harold had filed a petition against Pennington for both a beer and entertainment license. Pennington said he had to go to Frankfort for the beer license hearing, not one of the 146 petitioners showed up, and he was granted his beer license.

But since the petition was lodged against Pennington, and Hammond's investigation showed that Pennington had a public intoxication incident against him in Flat Gap in 1983, Hammond "could not recommend that a permit be issued on this matter."

Pennington pointed out that he also had a petition asking to be allowed to open the establishment signed by over 200 people and "some of the same people signed (his) petition as did the ones against."

When asked if he cared to file his petition with the court, Pennington replied, "No, I'll let my attorney take care of that."

Hammond noted that Judge Stumbo did not have to follow his recommendation, but he was glad the judge has such faith in him.

Giving up

Rotarian Kevin Shannon enthusiastically gave his blood for the "Battle for Blood" last week which pitted the Prestonsburg Rotary against the Jaycees. Jaycee Tess Whitmer and a Central Kentucky Blood Center worker tended to his needs. The Rotarians were the victors over the Jaycees by more than a 2-1 margin. But between the two groups, 101 pints were collected and the battle will be waged again in the fall. Winning the drawing for the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre season passes were Christina Compton and Stephen Sanders. The winner of a portrait from Porter Studios was Brian Ousley. Electronic voting machines make for smooth election day in Johnson

by Tim B. Preston
Staff Writer

Johnson County voters were presented with a new method of voting in Tuesday's primary election.

Electronic computerized voting stations were purchased by the county prior to the election, and officials said that the machines helped make the election process "very smooth."

Larry G. Ward, Clerk of Johnson County, said that the machines made the voting process easier for voters because it features larger print for candidates' names as well as showing only the voter's party's candidates during the primary.

"The machine makes it much easier for the voter," said Ward, "because it eliminates a lot of the confusion some people have experienced while voting. It also makes it easier for the person setting up the machine because the new units only weigh 52 pounds where the old ones weighed about 867 pounds."

The machines were purchased by the Johnson County Fiscal Court after repeated reports of trouble and malfunctions of the older voting machines. Ward explained that the machines feature both a computer memory and a printed tally in case of power failure.

"There is really no chance of losing any votes because the machine does have the built in backup. Also the machines will work just as well from a standard car battery if power is lost at the polling place," Ward said.

Joe Bolton of Kentuckiana Election Services, the company that provided the new machines to the county, said that the computerized voting machine was "basically foolproof, with enough backup power to cover any situation."

Bolton then demonstrated the alternate power supply capabilities of the machine by hooking an old car battery to the system. "No matter what happens," said Bolton. "If the power goes completely out, a battery can be installed, and the system has both internal memory and a hard printed copy of the votes which have been made so that if a power failure did occur the votes would not be lost."

Staff members at the County Clerk's office said that they were apprehensive about the new machines until election day morning.

"We all were a bit afraid that the election officers around the county might have problems at the last minute," said Debbie Daniels. "But there were no calls and none of our precincts had any problems throughout the day."

"The voters of Johnson County really seem to love it," said Jane Bailey, an election officer at a Paintsville precinct. "We haven't had any problems all day long."

The computerized devices work in a very simple manner. The names of candidates appear in large type with a small flashing light beside them. Voters simply press the button and make the light next to the candidate of choice stay on. When all selections have been made, the voter pushes a large button near the bottom of the ballot to lock in his or her choices.

"People are sometimes a little bit afraid when they hear the word 'computer', but after they have seen how simple the machine is to operate, they will never want to go back to the old style voting booths," said Ward. "It is just a good all around thing, it makes it easier on the voter, easier on the officers at the polling place and easier to tabulate the votes at the end of the day."

Appalachian crafts offered in workshops

Morehead State University's 14th annual Appalachian Celebration will take place June 24-30 on the university's campus.

Sponsored by MSU's Office of Regional Development Services, the event is campuswide and includes a variety of activities that will appeal to a broad range of ages, education backgrounds, and interest levels.

Among the highlights are workshops devoted to the development and preservation of the skills and traditions handed down from generation to generation by Appalachian mountain people.

Workshop class sizes are limited and pre-registration is required. The deadline for registration is June 18. Participants may register by calling (606) 783-2077, MSU's Office of Regional Development Services.

The workshop schedule includes:

Academic achievement takes center stage tonight

Young people from across Floyd County will be in the spotlight tonight for their classroom accomplishments during the seventh annual Academic Banquet, sponsored by the Board of Education.

The event is set for 6 p.m. at Prestonsburg High School cafeteria. Honored will be valedictorians and salutatorians from the senior classes of the five county high schools. The 10 achievers are designated the All Academic First Team.

Not to be left out are academic leaders in grades 8-11. Top students in junior, sophomore and freshman classes will be recognized as the All Floyd County Academic Second Team.

The top eighth graders will be designated the Junior Team.

Guest speaker for the event will be Dr. John Duncan, professor at Morehead State University.

ACADEMIC FIRST TEAM

The students deemed valedictorians of their graduating classes are: Staphanie Moore, Allen Central High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Moore of Garrett; Kimberly Ann Hamilton, Betsy Layne High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hamilton of Craynor; David Thompson, Prestonsburg High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thompson of Martin; Janice Wright, Wheelwright High School, daughter of Sherry Wright of Halo and Earl Wright of Drift.

McDowell has co-valedictorians, rather than a salutatorian. Sharing the MHS spotlight are Jose Mari Ilagan, ward of Clarita V. Vicher of McDowell, and Gregory Brian Dye, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rabon Dye of McDowell.

Salutatorian honors go to Susan Mayo, ACHS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Mayo; Michelle Leah Depoy, BLHS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mert DePoy of Allen; Dustin Haley, PHS, son of Wilma Haley of Prestonsburg, and Toby H. Weingarten, WHS, son of Glenda Hall of Bypro.

ACADEMIC SECOND TEAM

Representing the junior classes at each of the high schools are Robyn Williams, ACHS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Williams of Martin; Willis Newman, BLHS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Newman of Grethel; Stacy Hall, MHS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lanny Hall of Emma; Mark Blackburn, PHS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Blackburn, and Marcha Wilson, WHS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson of Wheelwright.

Sophomore representatives are Chris Ousley, ACHS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Ousley of Langley; Stephen Clark, BLHS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Clark of Honaker; Carla Michele Shepherd, MHS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Shepherd of McDowell; Jody Miller Wallen, PHS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Wallen, and Andy Little, WHS, son of Mr.

and Mrs. Frank Little of Melvin.

Heading the list of freshman achievers are two from Allen Central: Heather Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Watson of Garrett, and Jessica Wade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wade of Martin. From the other schools are Melina Hall, BLHS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Corb Hall of Grethel; Lisa Deneen Hobson, MHS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hobson of Ligon; Chris McKinney, PHS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale McKinney of Prestonsburg, and Chad Allen, WHS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Allen of Melvin.

ACADEMIC JUNIOR TEAM

The Junior Team, composed of top eighth grade students at the county elementary schools, features Eugina Dawn Fields, Allen Grade School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Fields of Allen; Jerry Lafferty, Auxier Elementary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Greg Kretzer of Auxier; Dawn Watson, Betsy Layne Grade School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Watson of Betsy Layne; Jessica Lea Allen, Clark Grade School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Allen of Pyramid;

Susan Leann Francis, Garrett Grade School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Francis of Garrett; Mark Reed, Harold Grade School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Estill Reed of Betsy Layne; Deborah Ann Conn, Martin Grade School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Conn of Martin; Kevin Martin, Maytown Grade School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Martin of Langley; Rhonda Lynn Thornsberry, Melvin Grade School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Thornsberry of Weeksbury;

Ryan Jones, McDowell Grade School, son of Glenda Hopkins of Price and Rodney Jones of Paintsville; Jimmi Lou Rainey, Osborne Grade School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Rainey of Bevinville; Amy Samons, Prater Grade School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Samons of Banner; Tonia Hale, Prestonsburg Grade School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Durward Hale of Prestonsburg; Amanda Hamilton, Stumbo Grade School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Hamilton of Beaver, and Bethany Slone, Wayland Grade School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Slone of Wayland.

Trophies for tonight's awards presentation are being provided by First Commonwealth Bank.

Also in keeping with the emphasis on classroom achievement, the Board of Education and the Floyd County Education Forum last night sponsored the annual Young Authors awards ceremony at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. Appalachian author Jim Wayne Miller was the guest speaker, and students from throughout the county who participated in the writing competitions were honored.

Next Friday's Academics section of The Times will carry the photos of the Academic Junior Team, as well as coverage of the Young Authors program.

Local students awarded UK scholarships

CHARLES S. BURKE

EARL DAVID THOMPSON

Four graduating seniors from Prestonsburg High School have been awarded academic achievement scholarships to attend the University of Kentucky.

"UK now awards more than $2 million a year in scholarships based on merit," said UK Interim President Charles T. Wethington Jr.

"This year's scholarship winners were selected from almost 700 of the best students applying for scholarships this fall," he said.

The Floyd County students are ranked in the top 92 percent of all graduating seniors in the nation, based on their college entrance test scores.

Earl David Thompson, son of Earl and Debbie Thompson of Martin, received both a Presidential scholarship valued at about $7500 over four years (in-state tuition) and a Commonwealth scholarship valued at $10,000 over four years.

Three other students each received Chancellor's scholarships valued at $4000 over a four-year period. They are:

— Charles S. Burke, son of Charles E. Burke and Patricia Ann Burke of Prestonsburg;

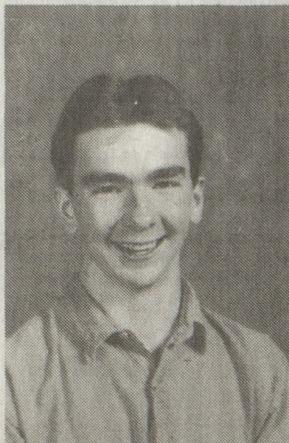

— Michelle D. Mullins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Mullins, Prestonsburg; and — Brian C. Stewart, son of Kenneth and Glenda Stewart of Langley.

In addition, James Allen Burchett, son of Jim and Charlotte Burchett of Lexington, was awarded a Chancellor's scholarship valued at $4000 over four years. A senior at Lafayette High School, he is the grandson of Ola Wells of Auxier.

Crider honored by newspaper

Byron Crider, a senior at Prestonsburg High School, has been named to The Independent's 1990 All-Area Academic Team. Crider is one of 11 students throughout 13 counties to be honored by the Ashland newspaper.

Also nominated from Floyd County were Heather C. Watson of Allen Central, Joella Jones and Leigh Ann Smith of Betsy Layne, Jose Ilagan of McDowell and Ernest Croot, Dustin Haley and Stacey Webb of Prestonsburg High School.

The Independent introduced the program in 1988 as a way to honor excellence in academic competition in the same way it had long honored student athletes in basketball, football and track. This is the third year for the program, which has been approved by the Kentucky Academic Association.

The names of the team members and coach were announced Monday, May 28 by Wickliffe R. Powell, editor of the newspaper.

The team consists of 11 high school students and a Coach of the Year, all selected by academic coaches at accredited high schools in the newspaper's circulation area. The 34 high schools in these counties were invited to participate: Boyd, Carter, Elliot, Floyd, Greenup, Johnson, Lawrence, Lewis, Magoffin, Martin, Morgan, Pike and Rowan.

Eligible for nomination were any students who participated in academic competition of any sort, including, but not limited to, quick recall, future problem solving, public speaking, English composition, speech and drama, foreign language translation, math problem solving and science projects. Eligible for nomination as Coach of the Year were any school faculty and staff members involved in preparing students for competition.

Members of the team and the coach were selected on the basis of the total number of votes received. The academic coaches who voted were not permitted to vote for students or other coaches at their own schools.

The 11 team members were from a field of 48 nominees, and the coach was selected from a group of nine nominees.

Members of the All-Area Academic Team and the Coach of the Year will receive framed certificates of recognition from the newspaper and each nominee will receive a certificate. In addition, each school represented on the team will receive a certificate of recognition.

David graduates

Eight students received high school diplomas and six earned eighth grade certificates at graduation ceremonies at The David School on May 24. Posing on the school steps after the activity are, front, l-r, David Hamilton of Eastern, Paul Green of Garrett and Diane Marsillett of Prestonsburg; second row, Sean Shepherd of Prestonsburg; Linden Lantz of West Prestonsburg, Melissa Porter of Wayland (8th grade), Shawn Johnson of Prestonsburg and David Collins of Wayland; top, Steve Frazier of Hueysville, Shane Hicks of Garrett (8th), Scotty Gibson of Wayland (8th) and Mike Patton of Martin (8th). Literacy program gets state computer grant

The Floyd County Adult Literacy Council has received $18,000 in computer and video equipment to help fight the battle against illiteracy. The grant was one of 80 received by community programs throughout the state.

"The money is divided up according to number of students the program has," said Ann Greene, council president. "We did really well with the amount of funds we received."

Presently the local program has 40 active literacy students and about 20 tutors.

The program purchased five Tandy lap-top computers and two IBM PC2s, as well as a TV/VCR combination and video materials and software.

"We had a choice of what equipment would be best for us. Since many of our tutors don't come to a central location and tutor from local churches, schools and businesses, we thought the lap-tops would work best," Greene said.

According to Greene, the two IBM units will be at the office to assist in filing and record keeping. "Right now we have everything on filing cards and ledgers. This will be a great improvement."

She also noted that the lap-tops will assist the tutors in handling more students each. The trainers would be able to have one student using the computer while he/she worked hands on with another.

"We should be able to reach more people with the computers and it will make it a little easier on the tutors as well," Green said. Training sessions will begin in June for those tutors who will be using the computers.

About $438,000 in federal funds are being made available to the state's local literacy programs to purchase computer hardware, video cassette recorders and monitors and related equipment to be used in training eligible job applicants whose reading skills are below levels required by many employers.

The equipment purchased is part of an $829,870 contract between the Kentucky Literacy Commission and the Cabinet for Human Resources for reading skills services provided to Kentuckians eligible for assistance under the federal Job Training Partnership Act.

Kentucky First Lady Martha Wilkinson, who heads a statewide drive to encourage non-high school graduates in Kentucky to pursue general equivalence diploma (GED), was cited by program officials as being instrumental in the development of the contract.

Literacy Commission Executive Director Audrey Haynes said the computers and other equipment will have an almost immediate effect on the literacy programs.

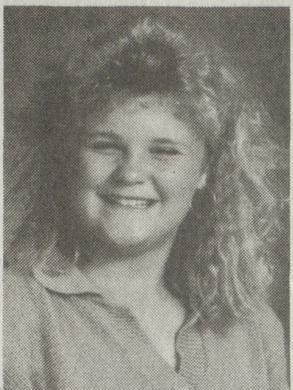

"Our overall goal under the JTPA contract is to advance eligible clients by one full grade in reading and comprehension," Haynes said. "The computer software is specifically designed to increase reading capabilities, test the student's comprehension of what is on the screen and help them learn by practicing their own developing skills."

Human Resources Secretary Harry J. Cowherd, MD, said the joint effort is aimed at meeting a primary demand of Kentucky's employers.

"When we screen job applicants, the very basic qualification most employers are looking for is a 12th grade education or CED reading and comprehension level," Cowherd said. "Many of our JTPA-eligible clients fall far short of that level, and require remedial assistance before any effective job training courses can be of benefit to them."

"Our joint work with the Literacy Commission and local programs should help as many as 1200 clients to advance their skills and employability this year."

"The goal is to make Kentucky's workforce book and trade manual literate. It is a pure, but important bonus to be able to add more computer literate job applicants to that workforce," Cowherd said.

Is an Explorer

Amy Samons, daughter of Dan and Ada Samons of Banner, has been selected for the Appalachian Explorers Program. She was one of 24 selected out of 150 applicants for the program which runs from June 17 to June 30 on the University of Kentucky campus. An eighth grader at Prater Elementary School, Samons has been a 4.0 student throughout her school years.

Receives scholarship

Lisa M. Schmidt, daughter of Andrea Twela and John Schmidt, both of Baltimore, Md., and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Wright of Prestonsburg, recently was selected as a President's Scholars Award winner from the University of Maryland, Baltimore County campus. A graduate of Seton-Kerough High School in Baltimore County, she will receive a $2500 scholarship each academic year, provided she maintains a 3.0 or better grade point average.

NKU graduates

James D. Allen of Prestonsburg and Jimmy Charles Webb, also of Prestonsburg, were recently graduated from Salmon P. Chase College of Law, Northern Kentucky University.

Sloane appointed

Gov. Wallace Wilkinson has appointed Ogie Sloane of Ligon to membership on the State Advisory Panel for Exceptional Children.

Sloane, whose term will expire in 1992, is an administrator with the Floyd County School System.

Students exhibit art at festival

During the FACES Festival each high school selected 15 artists to present their work in the Floyd County School Art Exhibit. This selection process was done individually at each school.

The students winning from each school were presented a medal at an awards ceremony held during the display of their work on Friday of the festival. These students were available for discussion of their work and to meet everyone who viewed the exhibit.

Also recognized were the 10 students selected as All-County Artists. They were awarded a trophy during the concert given by the All-County Band and All-County Chorus on Thursday night of the festival. On Friday these 10 people were given ribbons for their work selected as best in order to be eligible for judging they were required to produce three works of any media to qualify as all-county artists.

The Floyd County School Art Exhibit was on display in the former Hobbs building from Wednesday through Saturday. The art teachers in the county set up the show and were there as monitors.

They were Caralita O'Quinn from Allen Central, Lizzie Hamilton of Betsy Layne, Johnny Stumbo of McDowell, Glenora Montgomery of Prestonsburg and Billie Jo Stegall of Wheelwright.

The 10 all-county artists are Barron Allen, Misty Dixon, Teresa Frasure, Thomas Gearheart, Jennifer Goble, Jena Hall, Martin Thomas Hall, Dale Hamilton, Cotton Parsons and Crystal Vaughn.

Graduates with honors

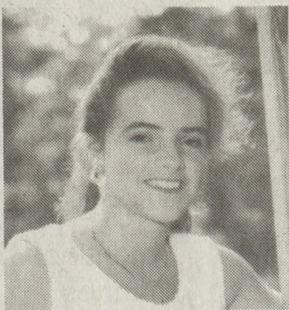

Robin Alana Cool, daughter of George and Terri Waggoner of Grayson, granddaughter of Jeff and Jenny Wells of Auxier and great-granddaughter of Malta Miller of Auxier, is graduating from East Carter High School.

During her four years of high school, she has maintained a perfect 4.0 grade point average, while working toward the Commonwealth Diploma and will graduate as class valedictorian. She has also been involved in various school activities, such as Beta Club, Academic Team, FHA, FBLA, SADD, German Club and FCA.

She has been a member of the varsity track team for six years, was a cheerleader for the East Carter Raiders and was named "Raider of the Year" for three years.

Cool was chosen as 1989 Governor's Scholar and as a senior salute. Her other academic awards include Who's Who Among American High School Students, National Honor Roll, All American Scholar, National Leadership Merit Award and a nomination for Congressional Scholar.

After graduation, Cool plans to attend the PEPP program at the University of Kentucky to begin her pre-medical training. In the fall, she will attend Denison University on a Heritage Scholarship.

Kids saying no to drugs
Students at John M. Stumbo School used Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, Snoopy and a variety of other ideas to create colorful art work. Their purpose was to let others know they chose to say "no" to drugs. Their teacher, Mrs. Reynolds, believes that getting students involved in projects such as these serves as a reminder to students to make wise choices. One poster allowed the students to sign their name on it if they chose to be a "Champion Against Drugs."

Top club
The Chapter business team from Mayo State Vocational Technical School took a first place prize at the recent Kentucky State VICA Skills competition.

State VICA officers
Six out of the seven state VICA officers are from Mayo State Vocational/Technical School, Paintsville. The new 1991 officers are: David Isaac, president; Tony Spears, vice president; J.T. Marshall, secretary; Anthony Turner, treasurer; Jeff Bartley, parliamentarian; and Harold Tackett, chaplain.

Mayo VICA brings home awards

On May 9-12 students from Mayo State Vocational Technical School represented their school and the Big Sandy region at the Kentucky State VICA Skill Olympics in Fort Mitchell. Mayo brought home more honors than it has in two and one half decades.

The honors were: National voting delegate, Jonathan Wells; Kentucky Statesman Awards, David Isaac, John Salvito, Brett Huff, Todd Webb, John Byers and Warnie Short; First places: Tommy Deel, residential wiring; Chris Coleman, display; Chapter business team, parliamentary procedures. The team consists of Ray Marcum, Stacy Coleman, Gary Taylor, Salvito, Wells, Byers, Dwayne Moore (of Floyd County), Gene Bell, Huff and Webb; Second places: Roland Spears, computer aided drafting; Dwayne Cole, general miner; Brad Crider, job skill demonstration high school; Tim Case, display high school; Bretta Nickell, job skill demonstration post secondary; and Chris Coleman, mine maintenance; Third places: Marcum, air conditioning; Vickie Stepp and Wilma Hale, cosmetology; Ikey McCoy, industrial electricity; Rudy Doderer, machine drafting; and Mayo Opening and Closing Team, leadership; Honorable Mentions: Steve Hale, diesel mechanics; Fariel Wilson, auto body; Mark Wireman, welding; and Cecil Cook, electronics; Senators and Representatives: Wesley Fleming, David L. Maynard, Daniel Hansley, Bret Huff and John Byers; ship awards. Mayo received 10 of these awards. Class membership in VICA was 100 percent in: Adam's Diesel Mechanics, Stewardson's Auto Mechanics, Cantrill's Air Condition, Burton's Industrial Mechanics, Jenkins' Electricity, Crider's Electricity, Conley's Electricity, Lewis's Electricity, Campbell's Construction Equipment Repair and Pelphrey's Auto Body. Thirteen students will represent Mayo and the state of Kentucky at the National Skill Olympics in Tulsa, Okla., on June 25-30. They will be competing in club business, residential wiring, display and representing the state as voting delegates. "We wish them the best of luck. These students have made VICA's 25th anniversary truly a shining silver one for Eastern Kentucky," said Mayo VICA Advisor Linda Lyon.

Bike-a-thon for St. Jude

Lancer Bike-a-thon coordinator Joyce Mitchell asked Lancer and nearby residents to join the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital "Wheels For Life" Bike-a-thon slated for Saturday, June 9, at Lancer behind the VFW building.

This ride honors Ellen Marie, a solid tumor patient at St. Jude. "With every turn of the wheel, riders become 'spokes' persons for all the kids with cancer, like Ellen Marie," Mitchell said. "This ride is a vital part of the fight against childhood cancer at St. Jude. Riders are really needed. They make or break a Bike-a-thon."

Riders sign up sponsors who promise to make a donation based on each mile completed. All riders turning in money will receive a certificate. Those who raise $25 receive a certificate and a St. Jude T-shirt. When $75 is raised, the rider receives a barrel tote bag, a T-shirt and a certificate. Pick up sponsor forms at various locations.

"The general plan is to have a good time while helping a wonderful group of children counting on our support," Mitchell said.

Contact Joyce Mitchell HC 69 Box 645, phone 886-9658 for details on riding or sponsoring a rider.

ICHS' Conley tosses in 30

Future Wildcat leads Kentucky Jr. All-Stars with 21

Before a sparse crowd at Johnson Central High School Wednesday night, the Kentucky Junior All-Stars rode the 21-point performance of Chris Harrison to a 150-113 win over the 15th Region All-Stars in their first exhibition game before going to Europe later in the month.

The Kentucky All-Stars got together for the first time Wednesday afternoon for a short practice before taking on the 15th Region's best in the evening encounter. Being familiar with each player on the team wasn't a problem for the best of the junior crop in Kentucky.

Harrison, who has already verbally committed to play basketball at the University of Kentucky in 1991-92, led the Junior All-Stars in scoring with his 21 points. Harrison seemed to score at will against the 15th Region All-Stars with his drives to the basket and long jumpers.

Rick Conley of Johnson Central took game scoring honors with 30 points. Conley was unstoppable underneath the basket as the senior took some nice feeds for the crowd pleasing "stuff" shot. Conley will be playing his basketball at Alice Lloyd College next season.

The game started out close with the 15th Region All-Stars holding their own with the Kentucky group. Brian Wilson, Pikeville, scored the first two points of the game on a jumper. Jody Salisbury, Johnson Central, tied the game with a turnaround for the Kentucky team, and Harrison's 15-footer gave the juniors a 4-2 lead.

The future Wildcat hit a three-pointer and the lead jumped to 13-8. Keith Shelton, McDowell, had an eight foot jumper and Bobby Hood, Wheelwright, tossed a free throw to cut the lead back to two, 13-11.

An 11-0 run by the Kentucky All-Stars made it 27-11, led by 6'6", Williamson player Bryan Milburn's stuffed baskets.

The 15th Region players showed some of their own scoring ability late in the first half. Trailing 45-28 with 6:01 remaining, the 15th went on a 11-2 run behind the scoring of Conley. Conley hit a stiff shot to get things going for the 15th. He then took a Chris Slone pass for a spinning turnaround basket. On the next trip down court, Slone hit a 10-footer to make it 45-34. Bryan Station's Robert Hammonds jammed the ball through for a 47-34 lead. Wilson hit a three-pointer and Conley's "stuff" made it 47-39.

Down 51-41, Pikeville's Steve Bailey, who will be going to Marshall in the fall, hit a "trej" to cut the lead to seven 51-44. Greg Butler, Graves County, led a late first half surge that gave the Kentucky All-Stars a 65-49 first half lead.

The Kentucky All-Stars opened up a 22-point lead, 77-55, early in the second half as they pulled away. Salisbury, Johnson Central's big 6'10" center, looked impressive before the home folks. The junior all-star tossed in 16 points in the game and hauled down six rebounds. Keith Willard of Tates Creek and Hammonds both finished with 16 points. Victor Saunders had 18 points in the game for Kentucky.

Sam Stewart and Brian Wilson each had 12 points in the contest. Worth McGuire, who was replacement for Johnny Hale, tossed in 10 points. Adrian Fairchild, Johnson Central, also had 10. Hood and Slone each contributed eight points.

Bryan Milburn and Chuck Marshall hauled down nine rebounds and Conley had eight to lead the 15th Region. The Kentucky All-Stars out rebounded the 15th, 62-38, in the battle for the boards.

Harrison had four three-pointers in the game for the Kentucky All-Stars. Betsy Layne's 6'5" Sam Stewart, Berea bound, hit three "treys", two back to back. Fairchild had two three-pointers.

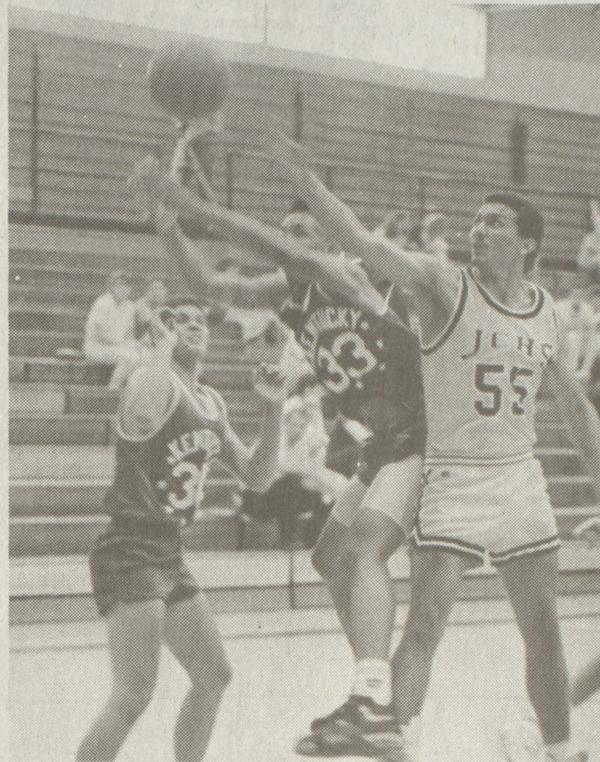

Talent wasn't in shortage in this game. The players are having to learn to play by the international rules. The free throw lanes are wider and the referee doesn't have to handle the ball on out of bounds play. The game was also played in two 20-minute halves.

The Kentucky All-Stars are coached by Curtis Turley from Henderson County and assisted by Union County's Tris Kington. Coach Gordon Parido and McDowell's Johnny Ray Turner guided the 15th Region All-Stars.

The Kentucky All-Stars will be leaving for a tour of Europe with games against teams in Yugoslavia, East Berlin, Holland, Russia and other international places. They will be taking part in tournaments also while in Europe.

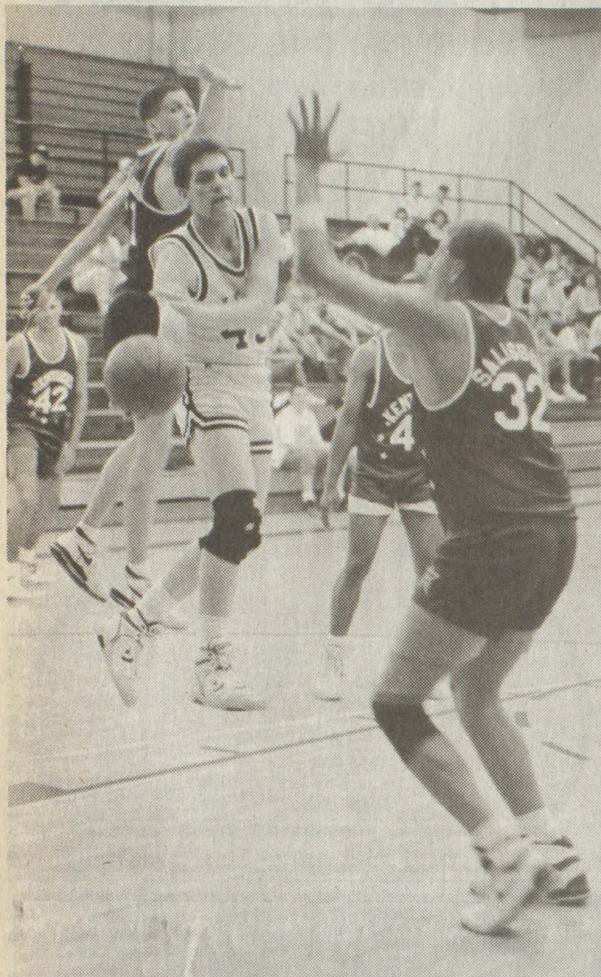

15th Region All-Stars (113): Worth McGuire, 10; Sam Stewart, 12; Bobby Hood, 8; Adrian Fairchild, 10; Mike Rowe, 4; Keith Shelton, 4; Steve Bailey, 9; Brian Wilson, 12; Rick Conley, 30; Chris Slone, 8; Kermit Belcher, 4.
KY All-Stars (150): Bryan Milburn, 12; Chuck Marshall, 10; James White, 12; Robert Hammonds, 16; Victor Saunders, 18; Charley Broughton, 4; Jody Salisbury, 16; Keith Willard, 16; Chris Harrison, 21; Chris Martin, 8; Greg Butler, 13.

Hammonds vs Stewart

Robert Hammonds, Kentucky Junior All-Stars, battles Sam Stewart of the 15th Region All-Stars for the basketball in the All-Star exhibition game played at Johnson Central High School gym Wednesday night. The junior all-stars took home a 150-113 win over the 15th. Stewart had 12 points, including three "treys" in the game. (Photo by Ed Taylor)

Shelton hands off!

Keith Shelton, McDowell, dishes off a pass around Jody Salisbury (32) in the all-star exhibition game at Johnson Central Wednesday night. Salisbury tossed in 16 points in his team's 150-113 win over the 15th Region. Shelton will be playing ball at Berea next season. (Photo by Ed Taylor)

Allen Astros win two in play with Cubs & Mets

It was a good week of baseball for the Allen Astros Little League team as they won two games. One game was an extra inning affair with the Mud Creek Cubs.

In the first game, the Astros handed the Cubs a 4-2 loss when James Jarrell sent a 2-2 fastball over the center field fence to drive in Gary Elliott, who had doubled with two out in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Rocky Newsome started the game for Allen and went the first six innings, all that he was allowed, and Jonathan Burchett came on in relief, pitched the top of the seventh and got the win. Both Newsome and Burchett combined for a four-hitter against the Cubs.

Newsome had a double in the contest in the fourth inning. Also in the inning, Mike Collins hit a drive to center field that went to the wall for a triple, and he scored on an error. Marcus Hamilton took the loss for the Cubs. Hamilton struck out nine batters in the contest. Hamilton also had a triple in the game. The Cubs scored their two runs in the fourth on a base hit by Chris Newsome and a walk to Hamilton. Both runners pulled off a double steal and scored on an Astro throwing error.

The win improved the Astros record to 14-4.

In game two, the Astros had an easier time with the Mets as they won 17-3. Mike Collins had a three-run home run for the Astros in the second inning. Brandon Castle went four for four at the plate and teammate James Jarrell had three hits, including a two run single.

Rocky Newsome was three for three and Jim Isaac collected three hits with a double. Jonathan Burchett also had a double.

Matt Rose drove in a run for the Mets with a single. Eric Cecil and Mark Tackett also had RBI singles.

Connors, Macy, Masters take on local talent at Pike

Three former University of Kentucky basketball greats will take on local talent in a three-on-three basketball contest in Pikeville on Tuesday, June 5, at 1 p.m. at the Pikeville

High School. This is part of a seven-city press tour June 5-6 for Bluegrass State Games.

Kyle Macy, Jimmy Dan Connors and Jim Master will challenge local basketball players. Radio personality Ralph Hacker will provide play-by-play.

The public is invited to attend the exhibition games and meet the athletes. A basketball signed by the athletes will be given away.

Connors, a 1975 graduate of UK, won the UK team leadership award in both his freshman year (1972) and in his senior season (1975). Connors was the second leading scorer his senior year, averaging 12.4 points per game while leading Kentucky to a runner-up finish in the NCAA championship (a 92-85 loss to UCLA).

Connors is a member of UK's illustrious 1,000 point club with 1,009 career points—good for 35th overall. Connors led the cats in assists as a

Page's 2-run triple sends Stars past Giants, 9-7

Jonathan Page's two-run triple in the fourth inning drove the winning runs for the McDowell Stars of coach Terry Mullins. The Stars defeated a good Drift Giants team, 9-7, in Beaver Creek Little League action Wednesday night.

Drift scored three first inning runs on a double by Patrick Bryant and a triple by T.T. Pack. Bryant's hit drove in two runs for the Giants. McDowell scored two in the bottom of the first inning on a two-run double by Pete Dawson with Brian Adams and David Turner on base.

The Stars then went ahead 5-3 with two more in the bottom of the second when Jason Collins hit a double to drive in two runs.

Drift tied the game with two in its half of the third as the two teams played double or nothing. In the inning Pack got his second triple of the game with a teammate on board. Pack then scored on a wild pitch to tie the game at 5-5.

McDowell, on the strength of Nick Little's two run double in the third, took a 7-5 lead.

In the McDowell fourth, Page tripled to drive in two runs to give the Stars a 9-5 lead. In the Drift fourth inning, Steve Hamilton doubled for the Giants but was picked off third base erasing a Giant threat.

However, Drift made it close with two more runs in the fifth inning by scoring on a two-run single by Marcum.

Terrance Mullins was the winning pitcher and Bryant took the loss. Pack started for the Giants and Bryant came on in relief in picking up the loss. Bryant and Pack combined for nine strikeouts. Mullins fanned 10 in six innings of work.

The game was more than just another ball game, as it became a battle for second place. With the win the Stars move into the runner-up in the league standing with a 7-2 record.

Samons fans 15 in 4-3 win by Little Astros

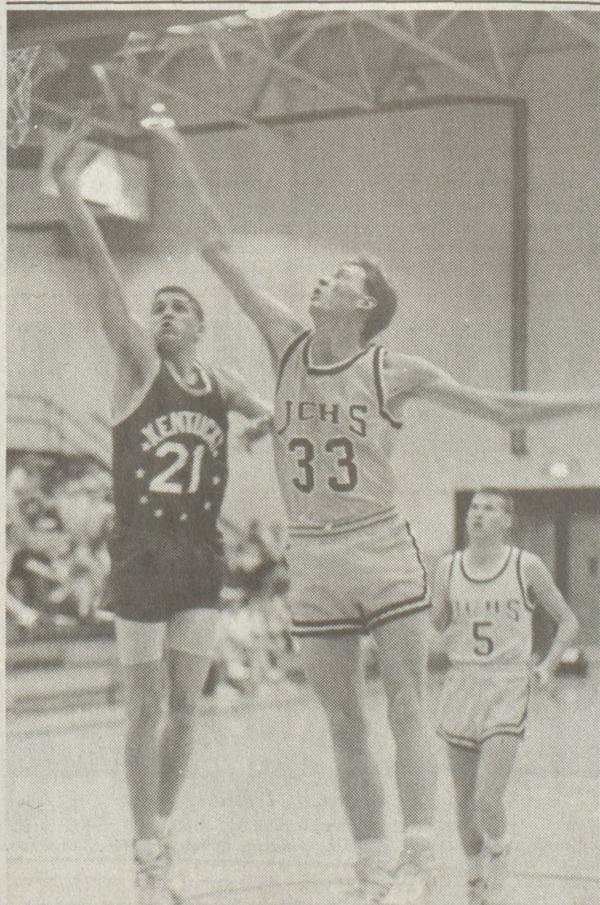

They may be little, but they are loud. That can be said of the Allen Astros Minor League team as they battled the Mud Creek Cubs minor league team to a 4-3 extra inning victory.

Wesley Samons took to the mound for the undefeated Astros of coach Jackie Day Crisp and fanned 15 Cub batters in the outing. The score was tied at 3-3 going into the bottom of the seventh inning when John Ortega got his bat out and tripled to center field.

However, the scrappy second baseman wasn't satisfied with a triple. He wanted a run. So, he stole home with the winning run.

Chris Holbrook had a double for the winning Astros that plated two runs. Chris Newman got the loss for the Cubs. Newman had two hits in the game and teammate Brad Reynolds singled in a run also. Stewart Hall's base hit was good for two RBIs.

The victory kept the Astros intact with a perfect 11-0 record.

Harrison scores!

Chris Harrison (21) of Tollesboro High School scores two points over the outstretched hand of Johnson Central's Avery Fairchild (33). Harrison tossed in 21 points to lead the Kentucky All-Stars to a 150-113 win over the 15th Region All-Stars. Harrison will become a University of Kentucky Wildcat after his senior year. NATIONAL

JOHNSON FIRED AS METS MANAGER

Cincinnati — The New York Mets, looking to revive what once was a contending baseball club, took a step in that direction and gave manager Davey Johnson the axe after the Mets and Reds were rained out Monday night. Former Met and third base coach, Bud Harrelson, will handle the club the remainder of the 1990 season.

Johnson has been at the helm of the Mets longer than any other Mets manager. The firing came three hours before the Reds-Mets game.

LAKE KELLY CALLS IT QUILTS AT AUSTIN PEAY

Nashville — One time UK assistant coach Lake Kelly of Austin Peay called it quits, citing "security for his family" as reasons for resigning at the Tennessee school. Kelly will become part of the advertising department with television station WKYT in Lexington.

Kelly coached 11 years, including two stints at Austin Peay. He had a win and loss record of 189-122. Don Devoe, former Tennessee coach and former interim coach at Florida, is being mentioned as a possible replacement for Kelly.

PININELLA GETS GOOD NEWS ON DUNCAN

Cincinnati — Cincinnati Reds manager Lou Pininella got some good news about the return of Reds second baseman Mariano Duncan, who has been out of action since May 14. Duncan suffered pulled muscles in his right side. Duncan could be off the disabled list and back at second base in the Los Angeles Dodgers series.

Also back for the Reds is Rick Mahler, who suffered pulled thigh muscles. He is eligible to come off the disabled list today (Friday). However, Pininella said that Mahler will be sent to Nashville to make a start for the Sounds.

STATE

MILLER SAYS PHILLIPS HAS CREDENTIALS TO PLAY

Pleasure Ridge — Pleasure Ridge High School head baseball coach Bill Miller says that if anyone in the state of Kentucky has the credentials to become Kentucky's Mr. Baseball, it is his shortstop Chris Phillips. Phillips, a senior, is batting .520 for the season in 38 games with 52 hits, 14 home runs and 60 RBIs going into sectional play.

Miller says that Phillips needs a stronger arm to be a more complete ball player and if pro ball came his way he may have to move to second base.

A LOT OF WRONGS MAKES FOR BUMPY CAREER

Madisonville — Claiming he went to the wrong college, took lessons from the wrong teacher and turned professional at the wrong time, Madisonville native Brad Fabel's golf career has become very twisted. Each backward step required a recovery period setting the 34-year old pro behind most other golfers his age.

Fabel also claimed that he hired the "wrong instructor" to overhaul his swing. Fabel has more than $300,000 in career earnings. Something must have been right somewhere.

MENDY ROBINETTE

Is Solo Champ

Mendy Robinette, 9, of Harold recently won the title of Kentucky State Solo Champion in the Kentucky State Championships in Lexington. Robinette, who will compete at the Nationals in Indiana, has won 32 twirling trophies and 10 medals. She has been a member of the Harold Dazzlettes for five years and a member of the cheerleading squad for four years.

Even though twirling seems to be her thing, she has also the privilege of making the baseball all-star team. She is also a basketball player at her school.

Robinette has been an honor roll student at Harold every year. She made the gymnastics team this year and made all county elementary chorus. She is the daughter of Myles and Menette Robinette and the granddaughter of Goletta Robinette, the late Donald Robinette and Doyle and Catherine Meade.

Cheerleader camps scheduled at MSU

Morehead State University will be a host site for three Universal Cheerleader Association (UCA) camps this summer.

The camps are scheduled for June 19-22, July 24-27 and July 30-Aug. 2.

Instructors for the camp will be provided by the UCA. The camp is open to all high school, junior high school and middle school cheerleaders.

Participants will receive indepth instruction in new cheers, sideline chants, pompoms, tumbling, conditioning and safety. There will be private coaching sessions each day.

Special seminars for cheerleaders as well as sponsors are also planned for the camps.

Additional details about these camps may be obtained by calling toll-free at 1-800-238-0286.

sophomore and senior. He finished with 264 assists at UK which was good for eighth on the all-time list. Drafted by the Virginia Squires of the old ABA, Connors played one year in the ABA with the Kentucky Colonels.

Macy is a 1980 graduate of Kentucky and won UK's Leadership award all three years. Macy led the team to the 1978 NCAA Championship. He also was the team's assist leader during his three years at UK. Macy is third on UK's all time assists list with 470 assists. He is 15th on Kentucky's 1,000 point club list with 1,411 points while shooting an as² tounding 52.1 percent from the field. Macy is number one on UK's single season free throw percentage list, shooting 91.2 percent from the line in 1980 (also a SEC record). Macy led the team in scoring his junior and senior seasons. Macy was a 1979 Academic All-American. He was drafted in the first round of the NBA draft by the Phoenix Suns. After several years with the Suns, Macy played for both the Chicago Bulls and Indian Pacers.

Masters, graduate from UK in 1984, finished 24th on UK's All-time scoring list (1,000 point club), with 1,283 points. His best season scoring wise was his sophomore season when he averaged 13.4 points per game. Masters averaged 9.6 points his senior season in helping the Cats to their last Final Four appearance, a 53-40 loss to Georgetown in the 1984 semifinals.

He finished second to Macy on the UK single season free throw percentage list by shooting 89.6 percent from the line in 1982. Masters tied with Connors with 264 career assists. He was drafted in the sixth round of the NBA draft by the Atlanta Hawks.

The purpose of the seven-city tour is to create an awareness of the sixth annual Bluegrass State Games on July 27-29 in Lexington. This is the third year of the press tour which is sponsored by Valvoline Inc., one of the founding sponsors of the Games.

On Tuesday, June 5, the tour will start in Lexington at the Valvoline Headquarters. The athletes will travel to Somerset, Pikeville and Ashland. On June 6, they will visit Louisville, Hopkinsville and Bowling Green.

The Bluegrass State Games provides Kentuckians the opportunity to test their skill and competitive spirit in Olympic-style tradition. The Games are open to all ages, skill levels, abilities and disabilities.

Nineteen events are offered: archery, three-on-three basketball, bowling, canoeing/kayaking, croquet, cycling, diving, equestrian, fencing, gymnastics, horseshoes, shooting, soccer, softball, swimming, table tennis, track and field and volleyball.

Last year 14,000 Kentuckians from 111 counties participated in the Games. Games organizers hope that this year's press tour will generate an even bigger interest in the Games.

Persons interested in participating can get an entry booklet by calling toll free, 1-800-722-BGSC.

Kentucky Afield

By Carolyn Lynn

It's 2 a.m. Do you know where your dog is?

Dogs allowed to roam freely continue to be one of the biggest threats to Kentucky's deer populations.

Though a statewide problem, free-ranging dogs are of great concern in Eastern Kentucky where whitetails are making a comeback. (The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources plans to release deer in this portion of the state for another four or five years.)

Dogs pose an extra threat to deer at this particular time of year, because fawns are about to be born. Since most does produce twins, the death of one pregnant doe can lower deer numbers by three.

Contrary to popular opinion, dogs that chase deer for the sheer thrill of it are not particularly large animals, nor are they hungry, homeless mutts. Dogs that harass deer are usually well fed family pets that aren't confined, especially at night. Many times, owners are unaware of their pets' dirty deeds.

I know it's difficult to imagine your dog ripping hunks from a deer's hindquarter, leaving the animal to die a slow, painful death, or running deer until the heart bursts. The fact is a family pet, if not confined, can join other free ranging dogs for a night romp in the woods and cause a great deal of destruction to wildlife.

It happens. Last February, the message came home loud and clear to fish and wildlife employees in Frankfort. In the cold, wee morning hours, two small dogs killed five deer held in display pens on the Game Farm. The tragedy of this kind of loss is it's preventable.

MUD CREEK PEE WEE LEAGUE

CUBS VS PIRATES

Kenneth Johnson had a solo home run, and Nicholas McKinney and Scott Collins each had two run triples for the Mud Creek Cubs in the Mud Creek Pee Wee League to lead the Cubs to an 11-7 win over a good Mud Creek Pirates team.

The Cubs scored five in the second and four in the fourth enroute to their win. The Cubs held a 7-2 lead until the Pirates mounted a comeback by scoring four times in the top half of the third.

Brent Mitchell got the win for the Cubs with Kenneth Johnson getting credit for the save.

PIRATES VS REDS

The Mud Creek Reds scored all the runs they needed in the first inning as they pushed across five runs and went on to defeat the Mud Creek Pirates 11-3 last Friday.

Ryan Hall had a double that drove in one run. Teammate Derrick Martin had a two-bagger also and an RBI. Two runs crossed home plate for the Reds on Timmy Evans' two-run double.

Kevin Bentley and Dougie Kidd each had doubles for the Pirates. Ryan Hall was the winning pitcher for the Reds with Anthony Tackett getting the save.

REDS VS SMURFS

In a close one, the Smurfs defeated a game Mud Creek Reds team 3-2 in Pee Wee action Wednesday night. Justin Akers and Shawn Little had the big bats for the Smurfs as they doubled for the winners.

The Reds had taken a 1-0 lead with a single run in the first inning. The Smurfs of Paul David Tackett tied the game with a run in the second inning and took a 3-1 lead with two more in the third.

The Reds scored a single run in the bottom of the fifth and fell a run short. The winning pitcher for the Smurfs was Shannon Williams. Brent Tackett and Anthony Tackett each had doubles for the Reds.

He can pass the ball too!

Chris Harrison (21) shows that he can not only score but can also dish off the assists as he passes around Pikeville's Brian Wilson. Harrison scored 21 points to help the Kentucky Junior All-Stars to a 150-113 win over the 15th Region All-Stars. (Photo by Ed Taylor)

Martin Dodgers defeats Cubs

The Martin Dodgers won their first game of the season with a thrilling 13-12 win over the Martin Cubs in the Martin Pee Wee League Wednesday night.

The crowd was really into the game as Maranda Combs pulled off an unassisted double play in the game. Combs caught a pop up and tagged the advancing runner.

With the scored tied at 12-12 in the bottom of the fifth inning and Dusty Stephens on third base, Cheryl Combs sent a base hit to center field to score Stephens from third with the winning run.

Kyile Halbert and Dusty Stephens had doubles for the victorious Cubs. Combs had a triple in the game along with Jeremy Hayes.

The record for the most gold medals for Olympic swimming is held by American Mark Spitz. He won a record seven in 1972 as well as two in 1968 and of these, eight were won in record time. He also holds a silver and a bronze from 1968.

Kentucky's Fishing Report

Fishing activity over the Memorial Day weekend was light to moderate on most of the major lakes. Water temperatures ranged from 68-72 degrees. Largemouth bass, crappie and bluegill are being caught primarily around shoreline cover. The lake-by-lake report:

HOROSCOPE

June 10 through June 16

By A. Murphy

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

When wondering how to fill up a quiet day or evening, seek to fulfill your body, spirit and your mind. Take a walk, read, write and make decisions after careful contemplation.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Pay close attention to your emotions. Do not involve yourself in what you know is dangerous and bad for you. Remember that many people could use help and comforting.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

The more you remain a quiet observer, the more you will learn. Don't discuss the problems of your environment until you have walked around in it as a first-hand observer.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

Demonstrate your appreciation to those who have helped you, whether financially, emotionally or simply by listening when you needed it. The best gift of all is friendship.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

Make surprise visitors feel at home in your house, but do not allow yourself to be used or stepped on. Agree on details right from the start. Take a walk to relieve tension.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

Allow yourself to be freed from forces which cause you great pain, suffering, or guilt. It may well be time to put that all behind you and move into a much brighter future.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

Don't allow yourself to lose your temper over small incidents like traffic slow-downs. Instead, examine your own need to be wherever you are going in such a hurry.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

Use your imagination to prevent long-distance friendships from diminishing. Hand-make a special card. Send cookies or a cassette tape to keep in touch.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

It is normal and healthy to have fantasies about what you would do with three wishes. Keep your dreams alive, but make sure that you work toward real goals as well.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Find comfort in the idea that you need not live under the rules of your childhood forever. Seek help if you feel pressures that you don't understand.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Don't hesitate to sing out loud when you feel like it. As long as there is no serious danger, it is OK to let a child learn from experience. Memory is built that way.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

When you are feeling needy, very likely, there is someone nearby who is feeling giving. Letting another help you is not a selfish act. Both of you will find comfort.

TV PIPELINE

Robert Blake would act if right role came along

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Could you please settle a disagreement. One says Robert Blake is no longer acting. One says he is still acting. Do you know what role he played in Our Gang? One says it was Spanky; one says it was Alfalfa. Has he done any other movies besides Coast To Coast and Big Trade? —M.M., Anchorage, Alaska

A: Robert Blake would act if the right role was offered him and a network was willing to take a chance on him. In the past he has caused producers and executives much grief insisting that the "show" be done his way. He was a regular in the Our Gang series for five years. His character's name was Mickey Blake. His movies include: Treasure Of Sierra Madre, The Purple Gang, The Greatest Story Ever Told, In Cold Blood, Tell Them Willie Boy Is Here, Blood Feud, Electra Glide In Blue and Second Hand Hearts.

Q: Why did they cancel Top Of The Hill and Dolphin Cove? Is William Katt Barbara Hale's son? I really enjoyed those shows. —M. Brick, Grants Pass, Ore.

A: The programs Top Of The Hill and Dolphin Cove were canceled because of poor ratings. Yes, William Katt is the son of Barbara Hale and Bill Williams.

Q: Could you please tell me the locale/site of the city portrayed in Hill Street Blues? I am not referring to where it is filmed on location, unless of course, it is the same place. —L.M. Temple, Omaha, Neb.

A: The city depicted on Hill Street Blues, I was told by the producer, could be any large metropolitan city in America. For obvious reasons they thought it unwise to name a city.

Q: Both my wife and I think the show Life Goes On

is by far one of the finest shows on TV today. Could you please tell us where to write the producers to let them know our feelings? Also, over a year ago I wrote asking you the location of the building used as the inn on the Newhart show. —Mr. & Mrs. Roy Watt, Claremont, N.H.

A: Write to: Life Goes On, c/o Warner Bros. Television, 4000 Warner Blvd., Burbank, Calif. 91522. Since you have patiently waited a year for an answer to your question, I will give you a full answer. The sitcom has been filmed in Hollywood, but shots of the Waybury Inn of East Middlebury, Vt., were filmed on location. The inn, on state Route 125 East, was established in 1810 as a stagecoach stop. The 14 guest rooms ($80-$100 per night), decorated with antiques, require reservations. Call (802) 388-4015. The inn's restaurant specializes in Vermont roast leg of lamb and seafood, and the pub serves 131 varieties of beer. I am sorry I didn't answer sooner.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant To Application No. 836-5222, Major Rev. #1
1. In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Kodiak Coal Company, Inc., P.O. Box 551, Paintsville, Kentucky 41240 has filed an application for a major revision to an existing underground coal mining and reclamation operation. This major revision proposes to delete 0.50 acres of surface disturbance for a total proposed permit acreage of 424.36 acres located 2.50 miles East of Drift, Kentucky in Floyd County.

2. The proposed major revision area is approximately 2.50 miles West from State Route 979's junction with Frasures Branch County Road and located on Lower Wolfpen Branch. The latitude is 37° 28' 48". The longitude is 82° 42' 17".

3. The proposed major revision is located on the McDowell U.S.G.S. 7.5 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be affected by this major revision is owned by Vannie Kidd. The proposed major revision will underlie land owned by Vannie Kidd. This major revision proposes to add to the permit area facilities for washing coal on-site and necessary dewatering ponds.

4. The major revision application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections, requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow Complex, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. 5-25-4tFpd.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

NOTICE OF BLASTING SCHEDULE

Pursuant to Permit Number 836-5221
In accordance with the provisions of 405 KAR 16:120, Section 4: (a) (b), Coal-Mac, Inc., P.O. Box 3428, Pikeville, Kentucky 41501, phone (606) 432-0171, Permit Number 836-5221, proposes the following blasting schedule. The blasting site consists of approximately 5.65 surface disturbance acres located approximately 0.2 miles southeast of Drift in Floyd County. The operation is further located approximately 0.16 miles southeast from State Route 1011's junction with Simpson Branch Road. The latitude is 37° 28' 40"N. The longitude is 82° 41' 02"W.

Blasting operations shall be conducted during daylight hours (one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset) except by special permit issued by the Department of Mines and Minerals. Said permit to be issued on the basis of safety. Detonations of explosives are proposed to occur from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Entry to the blasting area will be regulated by signs or barriers. An authorized company representative will prohibit access to the blasting area by unauthorized persons at least 10 minutes before each detonation. The warning signal shall consist of three (3) short air horn or siren blasts five (5) minutes prior to detonation and two (2) short blasts one (1) minute prior to detonation. The all-clear signal will be one long air horn or siren blast following an inspection of the blasting area.

If, due to emergency conditions where rain, lightning, or other atmospheric conditions arise, or the safety of the operator or public requires a detonation at a time other than that specified above, residents within 1/2 mile of the blasting site will be notified by the company of the situation and all normal precautions will be conducted. 6-6-4tW.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant To Application Number 898-0198, Amendment 1
(1) In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Prater Creek Processing, Incorporated, Box 170, Tollage Creek Road, Pikeville, Ky. 41501, has filed an application for an amendment to an existing surface coal mining and reclamation operation. This amendment proposes to add an additional 138.0 acres of surface disturbance and underlie an additional 0.2 acres for a total proposed permit acreage of 428.2 acres located 1.3 miles west of Justell in Floyd County.

(2) The proposed amendment area is approximately 1.7 miles southwest from Justell County Road's junction with U.S. 23 and located 0.2 miles south of Hunts Fork. The latitude is 37 degrees 33 minutes 18 seconds. The longitude is 82 degrees 39 minutes 10 seconds.

(3) The proposed amendment is located on the Harold U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed by this amendment is owned by Industrial Fuels Mineral Company, Grady Watson, Bonnie Cassady, Green Kidd, Leonard & James Hall, Joe Jarrell, Lee Kidd, Fed Conn, Clark Akers, Mont Gibson, Fred Akers Heirs, Willie Akers Heirs, Mart Boyd, Mrs. A.A. Boyd & Juan Boyd, and the John W. Boyd Heirs. The proposed amendment will underlie land owned by Industrial Fuels Mineral Company and the John W. Boyd Heirs. The operation will use the area, contour, and auger method of mining. The operation will affect an area within 100 feet of the Hunts Fork County Road. The operation will not involve relocation of the public road.

(4) The amendment application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653-1397. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow Complex, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. 6-1-TFN.
