Special panel to be seated

by Susan Allen Staff Writer

A special grand jury is expected to be seated today (Wednesday) to assist the state attorney general's office in an investigation of alleged government corruption in Floyd County.

Special grand jurors are not expected to hear any evidence on their first day, Larry Fentress, an assistant attorney general in the Division of Special Prosecutions, said Tuesday.

Wednesday's session will begin at 9 a.m. with the selection of jurors. Jurors are expected to be asked some questions concerning their responses on juror qualification sheets, Fentress said. The questioning of the jurors is not expected to be extensive, he added.

When asked if jurors would be questioned individually, Fentress said that that issue "still needs to be discussed with the judge." Circuit Judge John David Caudill will seat the jurors.

On their first day in session, Fentress will discuss legal and scheduling issues.

"It will be more of an organizational meeting," Fentress said. "I will also explain the law to them."

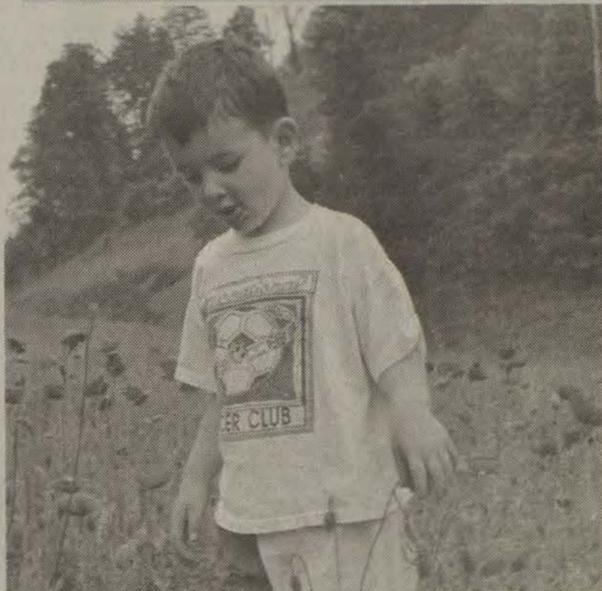

Fentress requested that a special grand jury be seated to hear evidence related to a probe of alleged government corruption; alleged vote fraud; the county's solid waste department; the delays in implementing an E-911 service; and monies reported missing in the sheriff's department.

Last year and earlier this year, two separate Floyd County grand juries requested that the attorney general's (AG's) office investigate allegations that were apparently presented to them.

Look, but don't touch

Please don't pick the poppies

Three-year-old Kyle Herald, son of Michael and Karen Herald of McDowell, stepped gingerly around the poppies Saturday at the top of Abbott Mountain. He simply touched the petals and then smelled the flowers. Many residents are angry because numerous boxes of poppies have been removed from the site. (photo by Janice Shepherd)

Poppy fields drawing unwelcome attention

by Janice Shepherd Managing Editor

When three-year-old Kyle Herald spotted the rows of red poppies along the roadway at Abbott Mountain Saturday, he suddenly became excited, pointed his finger and yelled, "flower, flower."

So his grandparents stopped the pickup they were in, and Gail Herald led her grandson into the blooming field to let him smell the poppies.

The toddler, a son of Michael and Karen Herald of McDowell, was not alone in his admiration but, unlike Kyle, many people take that admiration a step too far and yank the flowers out by their roots — many individuals have been taking home boxes filled with the flowers.

Gail Herald said Saturday she thinks many of the individuals pulling up the flowers are hoping they can transplant them, but that won't work. The poppies can't be replanted; they must be seeded, Herald said.

She's right, according to Denton Bilitier, chief district engineer with the Department of Highways in Pikeville. Bilitier said the poppies are part of the transportation cabinet's wildflower program and must be reseeded annually.

The wildflowers planted on Route 23 cover approximately 1.25 acres, Bilitier said. The area was seeded in November 1994 with Corn Poppies, Cornflowers, Shasta Daisy, Black-eyed Susans, Plains Coreopsis and Cosmos. The only species currently present are the poppies and cornflowers, Bilitier said.

The planting was sponsored by the Big Sandy Resource, Conservation and Development Agency (R.C.D.) and coordinated by Clark Allison.

The wildflower planting is a first in Floyd County, Bilitier said. He explained that the planting was experimental to "see how it worked out."

"It hasn't worked out too good," he explained. "People won't leave them alone. It's a shame people would do that here."

Bilitier's office has received quite a few complaints. Residents and travelers in the Abbott Mountain area have reported seeing people leave with large bouquets of the poppies.

"That's the price of success," said Allison, whose agency will purchase the seed for organizations.

The state Transportation Cabinet's Division of Maintenance will be responsible for the site preparation and seeding, and participants will be responsible for minimal maintenance, consisting of "hard weeding and debris removal," according to the Wildflower Establishment Program's guidelines.

For more information about the wildflower program, call 437-1791 or Allison at (606) 789-7706.

The first annual Levisa Cup canoe race Saturday was a success with 34 boats entered in either the Governmental Agency Division or the Open Division. Fannin, Meyer, P'Burg firemen win river boasts

by Alisa Goodwill Staff Writer

The first annual Levisa Cup canoe race ended with Prestonsburg sweeping the competition in the Governmental Agency Division.

In the mayor's cup challenge, Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin and councilman Robert Allen beat their competition including Paintsville Mayor Robin Cooper's team.

In the county judge-executive's cup challenge, Floyd County Judge-Executive Bob Meyer and Willie Barrowson beat Pike County Judge-Executive Donna Damron's team.

In the fire department cup, Prestonsburg Fire Department representatives John Bryant and Johnny Shepherd came in first.

The overall Levisa Cup winner in the Governmental Agency Division went to Jerry Durham and Frank Truitt, both of the Carl D. Perkins Rehabilitation Center at Thelma.

Other racers included Prestons-burg Public Works and several representatives from Johnson Central High School. However, they did not receive trophies because there wasn't any competition in their divisions.

County's 911 board to discuss options

Floyd County's E-911 board will meet today (Wednesday) to discuss how to get the emergency service system on-line in the county.

The 11-member board will discuss what agency will be responsible for operating the system and where it will be located.

The board will also discuss which vendor the equipment will be purchased from; election of officers on the board; regular meeting dates; and will review the county's E-911 ordinance.

The E-911 board is made up of the judge-executive, the sheriff, a magistrate, the mayors of each city, the state police commander, a member of the 911 advisory council and a citizen at large.

The 911 Advisory Council is made up of members from local law enforcement agencies; fire protection agencies; ambulance services; and other emergency service providers. The meeting begins at 4 p.m. at the courthouse annex.

Bevinsville home is lost in Sunday morning fire

by Alisa Goodwill Staff writer

A home near Bevinsville on Ky. 122 was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning.

The fire was fully involved when Southeast Fire Department arrived at the scene, said Assistant Fire Chief Gary Tackett.

Tackett said the department received the call at 5 a.m. and arrived at the scene at 5:10 a.m.

He said a couple of garages were in danger, so the department concentrated on those structures since the house was destroyed.

Tackett said no one was at home at the time of the fire and there were no injuries. The home is owned by Bill Johnson.

Southeast was assisted by Wheelwright Fire Department.

Respond gets okay for service expansion plan

A certificate of need has been approved for Respond Ambulance Service which enables the company to add two ambulances and one back-up vehicle to its existing fleet.

Approval for the addition was granted by the Interim Office of Health Planning and Certification, which is a division of the state's Cabinet for Human Resources. The addition of the three vehicles is estimated to cost $26,715.

Auxier man injured in collision with train

Bobby Peters of Auxier escaped serious injury Monday after the vehicle he was driving collided with a train. Auxier fireman Harley Sturgill said Tuesday that Peters was released from Highlands Regional Medical Center Tuesday morning. The accident is under investigation by the Kentucky State Police. Floyd man is killed in crash with ambulance

A Floyd County man died and a Floyd County woman is listed in critical condition after an accident Sunday in Johnson County.

Milton Earl Mahan, 44, and passenger Janet Gayle Meek Parsons, both of Harold, were traveling on KY 1428, Hager Hill, to have lunch with Mahan's mother when an ambulance driver lost control of her vehicle and struck Mahan's car.

The ambulance, owned by River City Ambulance Service and driven by Peggy J. Goble, began sliding when Goble applied brakes while going through a curve.

Goble was transporting a patient with emergency equipment activated at the time of the accident.

Mahan was pronounced dead at Paul B. Hall Medical Center by Johnson County Coroner J.R. Frisby.

Parsons is listed in critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital, Huntington, West Virginia.

West Van Lear Fire Department, Johnson County Rescue Squad and Kentucky State Police responded to the accident.

Trooper Billy Hall is investigating the accident.

Funeral services for Mahan, a furniture and antique dealer, are set for 11 a.m. today, Wednesday, at the Jones-Preston Funeral Home Chapel in Paintsville.

Kentuckians for Better Transportation

Burl Spurlock, Prestonsburg, second from right, was in Washington recently with Kentuckians for Better Transportation to ask the Kentucky Congressional Delegation to get more of the special taxes paid by airway and highway users dedicated to improving airports and highways. Presently 6.8 cents per gallon of the federal motor fuels tax is diverted to deficit reduction. Kentuckians through taxes on motor fuels are paying $170 million annually to help reduce the federal deficit. Others, from left, are Calvin Grayson, Lexington, Transportation center; Congressman Hal Rogers; and Britt D. Rhodes, Louisville, Rogers Group, Inc.

Mazola Salmons named director of PCC's Pike County Center

Mazola Salmons, associate professor of business at Prestonsburg Community College, has been named director of the Pike County Center, effective June 1.

In announcing Salmons' appointment, Deborah L. Floyd, PCC president, said, "I think Mazola is an excellent choice for this position. I have the utmost confidence in her ability to continue the progress we have made on the Pikeville campus.

"I think she has the ability to work well with students, faculty, staff and administration on both campuses to make a smooth transition into her new position and to hit the ground running," Dr. Floyd said.

Dr. Floyd said Salmons takes the reins of the Pike County Center at a crucial time in its development. The college recently submitted a proposal for a federal grant that will help create a distance-learning facility on the Pikeville campus and upgrade and expand the Alternative Learning Center at the library in Pikeville.

As director of the Pike County Center, Salmons said, "I hope to further enhance the students' capabilities of completing a two-year degree within the prescribed time frame.

Plans are already being made to prepare a two-year course schedule so students may do planning.

"Another focus," she said, "will be the business and industrial community of the Pike County area, and creating cooperative academic efforts between businesses and the Pike County campus.

"Community issues will receive a great deal of attention and efforts will be made to bring the community into a closer relationship with the college," she said.

Salmons began her career at PCC as a secretary to former president Henry Campbell before being named a full-time instructor of secretarial courses. Since then, she has served as coordinator of business programs, coordinator of student activities, Division Chair of Social Services and Related Technologies and an officer or member of numerous state boards and committees. These range from being a member of the Kentucky Vocational Association to being president of the Kentucky Business Education Association. She also was appointed by former Gov. Martha Layne Collins to the Kentucky State Police Personnel Board.

She has also made presentations to the state and national Phi Beta Lambda Association, organized the PCC chapter of Phi Beta Lambda and founded The Theatrical Experience, in cooperation with Aaron Girlinghouse, an actor from New York. She also has served as faculty advisor to, and sponsor of, the PCC Student Congress.

State vocational education council visits PCC

Members of the Governor's Council on Vocational Education were guests of Prestonsburg Community College April 20 for a luncheon and tour.

Deborah L. Floyd, president, and 12 other PCC representatives attended the luncheon and accompanied the Council members on a tour of PCC's main campus. During the luncheon, Council members watched a video concerning PCC's "Partners in Progress" campaign and listened as Dr. Floyd told them Kentucky's community colleges deserve a larger share of state money for vocational education.

"We're going to miss the boat on education reform if we only think in terms of funding for grades K through 12," Dr. Floyd said. "Where vocational education is concerned, the 13th and 14 years are critical."

Before taking Council members on the campus tour, Dr. Floyd described PCC's needs for financial assistance with specific vocational, technical and career programs, especially in areas of health, business and technology.

Council members visiting PCC included Executive Director Shafter Bailey, Chairman Ishmael Stevens of Ashland, Dale Meyer of Covington, R.L. Owens of Corbin, Bernard Delph of Bedford and Judith Branham of Pikeville.

The Council members left PCC for Jenny Wiley State Park, where they attended committee meetings later in the day and held a public hearing the next day.

Newly-elected bar governors will be sworn-in June 9

Chief Justice Robert F. Stephens will swear-in the newly elected Bar Governors of the Kentucky Bar Association on June 9, during the KBA Annual Convention in Louisville.

Marcia Milby Ridings, of London, is elected the first woman President of the Kentucky Bar Association. Norman Hamed, of Bowling Green, will take the seat of President Elect, and Lexingtonian Robert L. Elliott will serve as Vice President.

Also being sworn-in as Bar Governors are: J. Daniel Kemp, Hopkinsville; John W. Stevenson, Owensboro; Garrard County Attorney Mark Metcalf; R. Kent Westberry, Louisville; Beverly R. Storm, Covington; and Randall S. May, Hazard.

Representatives of the House of Delegates are Chair Marie Alagia Cull, Frankfort; and Linda Thomas (who will be ratified as Chair-Elect during the meeting of the House of Delegates on Tuesday, June 6, at 1:00 p.m.)

The Board of Governors is the governing body representing the membership of the Kentucky Bar Association. The newly elected members will begin their terms on July 1, 1995.

In the Open Division, Jim Hedges and Phil Hedges came in first, Daryl Shepherd and Phillip Harless came in second and Matthew Kay and Royce Knight came in third.

Overall, there were 34 boats racing — 32 canoes and 2 kayaks. Of the 34 boats, 10 were in the Governmental Agency Division. All participants received tee shirts.

Prestonsburg Tourism Director Fred James said that most canoes were racing, but overall everyone was floating for fun.

James said there was a father and daughter team, several father and son teams and quite a few college kids learning the ropes.

"It was a tremendous success that should be the starting point of more organized boating activities," said James.

The Levisa Cup was sponsored by the Rivers and Stream grant to help promote recreation and non-point source pollution education program, James said.

He also thanked the Paintsville and Prestonsburg fire departments and Floyd County and Johnson County rescue squads for their help.

Future activities include a 4-leg 100 mile canoe race from Elkhorn City to Louisa in October and next year's Levisa Cup, James said.

Grand jury Clarification

Floyd Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson asked the attorney general's office to investigate his office because approximately $25,000 cannot be accounted for.

Earlier in May, Fentress said "we do believe there is a need for a grand jury (to be seated)" and jurors "will be hearing quite a bit of evidence."

The AG's findings from the investigation in Floyd County have been delayed because special audits into the sheriff's office and the solid waste department were not completed by the state auditor's office.

The special grand jury is expected to serve a 90-day term.

A story in last Wednesday's Times concerning the Floyd County Fiscal Court meeting quoted court members who said that a road at Big Branch was closed by Floyd Skeans. Skeans says that the road was closed by a mudslide, not by him.

Let logic, voters decide

by Scott Perry

The debate that appears ready to erupt over suggestions that legalized gambling be expanded in Kentucky is certain to arouse emotions and provoke arguments on moral grounds.

Logic may get lost in the shuffle.

History has generally given gambling a bad rap. The very mention of the word conjures up images of Al Capone, speak-easies and armed thugs ready to break your legs if you should have the nerve to waltz on a bet.

Some of that reputation is well-deserved. Organized crime has played a key role in promoting illegal gambling because, well, it's illegal in most of the country.

Times are changing, though. More and more areas around the country are beginning to promote gambling as a business and as a way to finance struggling governmental operations.

Kentucky has done much the same, first with horse racing, then with a lottery and, lately, by permitting charitable organizations to run bingo games.

Critics argue that gambling is more a disease than a cure.

They aren't completely wrong, either.

Humans are, by nature, a weak-willed lot, and many of us can't pass up the chance at easy street no matter how long the odds of actually getting there.

That characteristic can apply as much to people sucked in by unscrupulous religious groups as people who don't know when to quit feeding the slot machines.

The question is, do we disallow gambling to protect those who might become obsessed with it or do we regulate it to where it may do more good than harm?

The best place to find an answer, we suppose, is at the ballot box.

Shall we chance it?

This year's election could be the last

Editor:

I would like to thank your newspaper for the courtesy shown to me when I visited your paper a couple of weeks ago in my re-election campaign for Railroad Commissioner.

I would also like to thank everyone who voted for me in last Tuesday's election.

Also, I would like to thank my three opponents for running a clean campaign.

I think this November's election will be the last time anyone will be able to vote for the office of Railroad Commissioner.

I have a commitment from Paul Patton and Larry Forgy to propose a Constitutional Amendment to the State Legislature next year to give the voters an opportunity to abolish the worthless office of Railroad Commissioner.

Again, thanks to everyone who voted for me in Tuesday's election.

We are down but not out

Editor:

Freedom of speech is one of our greatest assets, but if we do not use it we lose it. I want to thank you for allowing me space to express my views on your editorial "Draft Bob" on 5-17-95. It is not my intention to try to match wits with you, since I consider myself "unarmed" and you buy ink by the barrel.

Over the years that I have read your columns most of the time I have found myself in total agreement with you, and I think you have a very high batting average. On our economic and political conditions you have hit several home runs and even a grand slam or two, but "Draft Bob?" I am sure it was a well-intended swing, but you fouled this one into the bleachers. This is in no way intended to offend or question the integrity of Mr. Meyer, but your editorial has me searching for answers to the question, "Wasn't he appointed by the same party that is responsible for our current conditions in Floyd County?"

I understand that he is not a native Floyd Countian, just as Governor Jones and Thomas Boyesen are not native Kentuckians. Does this confirm the fact that our school systems have failed us to the point that we can no longer produce our own leaders on state or local levels? Or, does our political scene look so lucrative that some people are like hummingbirds who travel any distance just to dip their beaks in our nectar.

What was Mr. Meyer's first official decision as interim County Judge Executive? While the Stumbo family has my deepest sympathy, I do not believe Mr. Meyer had the best interest of the taxpayers in mind. Our political offices and tax dollars are not heirlooms and should not be treated as such. I admit he was beginning to look good until you suggested that he be drafted. The "interim" Judge Executive then became "potential candidate" Judge Executive. Then came the flip-flop on the proposed budget. Maybe if we promote him again we might even get prayer back in our courthouse! As for the Democratic Party switching candidates? Isn't an interim official expected to make many politically unpopular decisions so the candidate will not have to take the heat at the polls?

As for the Republican Party choosing Mr. Meyer to represent them in November, does this mean that the Republican Party does not have at least one person who is competent and qualified to serve as County Judge Executive? Or, does this mean that in Floyd County if we Republicans were serving champagne we would be expected to serve it in beer mugs? Come on, Scott, give us a break—WE ARE JUST DOWN, NOT OUT!

I realize we must cast our net in a small pond, but I'm sure we have several "keepers" and maybe a "trophy" or two. We are the party of the open door and we welcome anyone, including Mr. Meyer, but we will never have a two-party system if each time there is an opening we fill the position with a member of the other party. Anyone wishing to switch parties should come on over. Even if you must start at the bottom, you will find it is not all that far to the top.

As usual, this is a mixture of "tongue in cheek" and "tongue in check." Sometimes it is hard to determine where one leaves off and the other begins, and this is in no way representative of any person or persons other than myself.

Oh, Mr. Perry, you came right back on 5-24-95 with "A Matter of Life and Death" and socked another one right over the fence! Keep on swinging—we need to score!

University leaders urge Eaglin support

Editor:

The Coalition of Senate and Faculty Leadership in Kentucky (COSFL), which consists of faculty board of regent/trustee members, faculty senate chairs, and other faculty leaders at all Kentucky state supported universities and community colleges, strongly supports President Ronald Eaglin of Morehead State University for his leadership role in the effort to control the cost of intercollegiate athletics. Dr. Eaglin, with the support of MSU's Board of Regents, proposed recently to reduce MSU's football program to a non-scholarship level of play.

The rationale for his proposal is clear. Each year MSU must divert over $1 million of state appropriations earmarked for academic programs into its athletic program. With declining student interest in athletics and continuing increases in tuition and fees and the cuts in recent years in state appropriations to higher education, we question whether taxpayer dollars should be used to support costly athletic programs.

The priority of academic programs over athletics was recognized by the Council on Higher Education in 1981 when athletic expenditures were not included in its revised funding formula. In addition, the Prichard Committee in 1981 stated that "the use of institutional general funds for intercollegiate athletics should be phased out over a four-year period." Despite these recognitions, state supported regional universities spent over $7 million tax dollars to support their athletic programs in fiscal 1993-94.

To maintain the quality and accessibility of higher education in Kentucky, we recommend that this taxpayer subsidy of athletics be brought into line with budgetary reality. Further, we strongly encourage the presidents of other regional universities and boards to not only support Dr. Eaglin in his efforts, but also to assess the role of athletic programs within their own institutional priorities.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

The fall race for governor is being billed as a battle for supremacy between the governmentally underprivileged.

In this case, the class warfare appears to be between Eastern Kentuckians, who have their hopes pinned to Paul Patton; and the Republican Party, which ties its hopes to Larry Forgy.

Patton represents our region's first shot at the state's highest post in 32 years, when Bert Combs was governor.

Forgy is the GOP's best bet in 24 years, when Louie Nunn was governor.

One will win, one will lose.

Neither is likely to be the savior their followings hope they will be.

First, Patton has made it abundantly clear that he intends to be a statewide candidate.

He has to be to win in November.

There's no doubt, though, that

Eastern Kentucky would gain some clout with one of their own in the Governor's Mansion, but one man is not enough to cure what ails us.

The rest of Kentucky must first be made to realize that the state's fortunes are tightly entwined with ours. If we fare poorly, other regions will suffer as well.

Likewise, one man is not enough to make the necessary changes in the structure of our government that will allow our state to move ahead.

Again, there is little doubt that Larry Forgy's brand of GOP conservatism would bring a dose of fiscal reality to government, but he's still got to work with a legislature dominated by Democrats who may not be so like-minded.

Perhaps the greatest irony in this race between the state's most identifiable "have-nots" is that their most pressing job will be to bring together a state of regional and political factions so that we can make the Bluegrass better for all of Kentucky and all Kentuckians.

If the first step toward making that happen is to elect a governor who has been on the outside, looking in, then November's election guarantees a move in that direction.

Whoever wins.

Never give up.

That may be the battle cry for many parents in Tollesboro, who are so upset at losing their school to consolidation that they are studying the possibility of seceding from Lewis County.

Of course, the Lewis County Board of Education may have adopted the same motto, seeing as how the board has steadfastly refused to reopen the school despite losing more than a hundred students and more than $300,000 a year in state funding to their own stubbornness.

We don't know all the intricacies behind this particular standoff, but we do know it can't be necessary.

A community so willing to support its own school should have a school to support. A board of education that can't recognize the benefits of that kind of public backing needs to have that other "board" of education applied to their own backsides.

Line up and touch your toes.

The $26 million spread out among Kentucky schools in reward money for making academic progress is creating some ill feelings over the way that money is shared.

Individual schools have been allowed to determine how reward money is distributed, and in most cases the splits have gone smoothly.

But there have been a few cases where hard feelings have developed, particularly in schools that cut classified personnel...janitors, cooks and secretaries...out of the bonus distributions.

At the risk of fueling the fires of discontent, we would recommend that the lion's share of any rewards be returned to the folks who put the money up in the first place.

How about a little recognition and rebates for parents who see to it that their kids go to school every day; who pay their taxes on time; and who put a lot of time and effort into their schools expecting in return only that their children will receive a valuable education. What's fair is fair, right?

24th annual Cardinal Hill telethon raises $346,065

Cardinal Hill Rehabilitation Hospital exceeded its 24th Annual Telethon goal of $345,000 this Sunday at WKYT-TV 27 in Lexington and WYMT-TV 57 in Hazard. Pledges totaling $346,065 will primarily be used to fund a new two-story Children's Center to be built at Cardinal Hill behind the main hospital on Versailles Road. This center will provide services to physically and mentally challenged children from more than 100 counties statewide. The 1995 Telethon activities included a live Bid Board Auction which featured more than $20,000 worth of merchandise generously donated by local merchants. Cardinal Hill physicians, staff and patients were also on hand to feature the hospital's services.

President Kerry G. Gillihan. "We reach thousands of families across central and eastern Kentucky who may one day need our services. We deliver our story, and we are so grateful for the terrific financial support of our viewers."

Cardinal Hill is a non-profit, fully accredited physical rehabilitation hospital that serves both inpatients and outpatients from throughout Kentucky and many other states. It was started as a children's hospital for polio victims and crippled children in 1950, and today Cardinal Hill treats the rehabilitation needs of both children and adults with chronic and disabling conditions due to accident or illness to assist them in achieving maximum independence. Last year, Cardinal Hill served 5,000 patient families and provided more than $13 million in uncompensated care to patients in need.

Inmates at Otter Creek Prison at Wheelwright have been helping the county in its clean-up efforts. The prisoners picked up trash along Route 122 from Martin to Wheelwright on Earth Day and completely filled up a 20-yard dumpster — "more than was anticipated," according to ecology officer Lon May. The prison and May are planning a joint effort for a clean-up campaign.

Sandy

Filling the role of the ever-faithful Sandy in Jenny Wiley's 1995 production of Annie will be Casey, the golden retriever of Carol Combs of Estill. Casey will team up with a second canine to bring the character to life on stage.

Pair of local canines bring Annie's Sandy to life at Jenny Wiley

While dog may continue to be man's best friend, a canine can do wonders for a little orphan girl, as well.

Before Jenny Wiley Theatre can bring the magic of the musical Annie to its full glory during the upcoming 1995 season, the role of Sandy, the dog that befriends Annie during the course of the play, had to be carefully cast.

At auditions held on April 30, a duo of local canines were selected to help bring Jenny Wiley's production of Annie to life. "Keeper," a golden retriever belonging to John and Bonnie Faulkner of Van Lear, and "Casey," a golden retriever/chow mix belonging to Carol Combs of Estill, will team up to bring the part of Annie's ever-faithful sidekick to life on stage.

Recent regional performances of Annie have proven to be a struggle for Sandy at times. During a 1992 production at the Haywood Repertory Theatre in North Carolina, the dog playing Sandy was found hemorrhaging in her owner's bathroom just after opening weekend. The canine had to be taken to an animal hospital in Knoxville, Tennessee. After two months of recovery, Sandy was released, but the hospital bill totalled over $10,000.

A feature story that ran in the local paper about the incident was picked up by the wire service and printed in newspapers throughout the state and region. With such a large publicity following, unsolicited checks began pouring in to help pay for the medical bills; many of the checks were simply made out to "Sandy."

Jenny Wiley looks for Keeper and Casey's time in the limelight to be a bit smoother. The duo of child-loving canines were singled out among the other entries for their temperament and likeness to the Sandy character.

To see Sandy and the orphans for yourself, make reservations to join Jenny Wiley Theatre during the 1995 summer season. For ticket information, contact the theatre at (606) 886-9274.

New rain policy goes into effect at Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre

In anticipation of the June 23 opening of the 1995 summer season, Jenny Wiley Theatre announces its new rain policy. This new policy has been designed with the convenience of both tourists and local audience members in mind.

The 1995 policy allows that if any performance cannot be completed in the outdoor amphitheatre because of rain, the show will be moved into the Wilkinson-Stumbo Convention Center located directly in front of the amphitheatre. The show will then be performed to completion in a concert version using some props, sets and costumes.

In the event that a show begins in the amphitheatre and must be stopped at anytime, a 20-minute wait period will begin, during which the prospects for continuing the show outdoors will be determined. If the show is moved inside after intermission, all theatregoers can move into the Convention Center for the completion.

If the decision to move the show inside is made prior to intermission, audience members have the option of moving into the convention center or receiving rain vouchers at the box office. These rain vouchers must be picked up from the box office the night of the rained-out performance or within 48 hours. Holders of the vouchers are responsible for making reservations for another 1995 show. Seat numbers assigned for the rained-out show are not guaranteed for the rescheduled show, so new seat requests must be made at the time vouchers are picked up. In addition, rain vouchers must be presented at the box office to be exchanged for the newly reserved tickets.

This policy applies for any performance that cannot be completed in the amphitheatre due to rain or any other conflicts that may impair the outside performance.

While Jenny Wiley Theatre hopes the sun comes out for Annie and the rest of the 1995 season featuring My Fair Lady, Steel Magnolias and The Fantasticks, in the event of rain-outs the theatre hopes the new policy will adequately meet the needs of its audience and supporters.

For reservations for the 1995 summer season, contact the theatre at (606) 886-9274.

Japanese company offers travel tours of Kentucky

Governor Brereton Jones announced recently that posters designed to encourage travel to Kentucky will soon grace the walls of more than 1,000 restaurants operated by Kentucky Fried Chicken-Japan.

The posters depict an image of horses racing at Churchill Downs super-imposed on a backdrop of a horse farm. They also feature KFC-Japan's logo and list a toll-free telephone number in Japan for travel information on Kentucky; the phone line is maintained by a regional travel promotion organization, Travel South USA.

Jones announced the new publicity effort at a reception in Tokyo for Japan-based businesses with Kentucky operations. During the reception, the governor presented a framed copy of the poster to Aki Sato, senior managing director for KFC-Japan. He noted that the new promotion resulted from discussions between Jones' administration and KFC-Japan officials during a similar trip to Japan last year.

KFC-Japan absorbed all printing costs. The state Tourism Cabinet, which arranged for the poster's design, paid only for shipping and handling.

"This is a major breakthrough for promoting tourism in Japan," Jones said. "It affords us a presence in a country where advertising costs are prohibitive. KFC-Japan has done a great service by participating in this promotion."

Currently, at least one Japanese company is offering packaged tours from Japan to Kentucky.

Morehead State University advisory program will help students soar through registration this summer

Morehead State University will host six Summer Orientation, Advising and Registration (SOAR) sessions for prospective students in June.

The one-day programs will be held on Wednesdays and Fridays, according to Michelle Richmond, admissions counselor and coordinator of the special days. The dates are June 7, 9, 14, 16, 21 and 23.

"The program is open to all who would like information about MSU," Richmond said. "Registration is necessary and can be accomplished simply by completing an application to the University and completing a SOAR card."

Prospective students and their parents are encouraged to visit the campus and learn about the University's academic programs. Check-in begins at 11:30 a.m. in Button. Various representatives, including Dr. Judy Rogers, dean of undergraduate programs, and Brian Hutchinson, Louisiana senior and Student Government Association president, will welcome the SOAR participants.

Separate programs have been planned for parents and students for the afternoon. Parents will learn about campus life, survival tips, and information on paying for college.

Students will receive academic advising then participate in the registration process for the fall semester. Once the class schedule is complete, students may pay the $50 deposit. Payment also may be made by mail before the July 25 deadline. Roommate assignments will be confirmed and student I.D. cards also will be processed.

Concluding the day's activities will be tours of the campus with stops at the residence halls.

Overnight lodging is available for those who wish to arrive the day before the event and spend the night on campus. Accommodations may be requested through Student Housing by calling (606) 783-2060.

Additional information and a SOAR registration card are available from MSU's Office of Admissions at (606) 783-2000 or toll free at 1-800-585-6781.

Branham brothers duel at 201 Speedway

When they off the race tracks, they are the best of friends. They share things in common and that includes their race cars.

But when Harry Branham climbs in the cockpit of his number 14 and younger brother Jimmy Branham sits behind the wheel of his number 44 modified racer, it is brother against brother.

Such was the case at the 201 Speedway this past Saturday night when the two squared off in the running of the 20-lap featured modified race.

But it was the younger Branham, Jimmy (15 years-old), who came home with the $600 prize money for the first place finish.

Branham had finished third in his heat but on the 14th lap of the feature run, he passed his older brother Harry and never relinquished the lead. Harry Branham settled for second place in the race. Paintsville attorney Mike Osborne placed third.

Osborne had finished first in the eight-lap heat race with Harry Branham running second ahead of Jimmy Branham.

It was the largest crowd of the season that crowded into the 201 Speedway, getting a break in the weather and witnessing a full night of close racing.

In the Late Model Eight Lap Shootout, Belcher's Richard Chaney got the checkered flag to place first ahead of Scott McCloud. Ronnie Cole placed first and newcomer Barron Allen finished fourth.

Fifteen Claim Bombers comprised the field as the green flag fell for the start of the Claim Bombers 12 Lap Feature race. Ulysses driver Ronnie Booth moved from the seventh starting position to the head of the pack in winning the event.

Booth found himself in the lead after the fourth lap after caution flags put some of the other cars back in their trailers early or back in the pit area.

Booth, finding himself in little trouble, quickly showed that experience is valuable on the track, forged ahead for the lead.

Booth suddenly found himself challenged by Doug Saylor's number 43. Saylor, who started at the 11th position, roared to the two spot and challenged Booth for the remaining nine laps.

Saylor tried several maneuvers, on the outside and inside, to get around Booth but could only run by his side on the straights. Booth then would power his way back into the lead and held on to finish first and Saylor second.

The victory was Booth's first of the season. He collected $270 for his efforts. Prestonsburg's Don Collins placed third in the race.

Mechanical trouble developed for Eddie Blair's Super Bomber in the feature race on lap eight. Blair led the pack the first seven laps until his car went out.

That allowed Jim Ison to take the top position for the remaining eight laps and a victory. But the remaining laps was not without a challenge from Gary Combs. Combs finished second and Randle Stamper placed third.

For the second time this racing season, Salyersville's Ronnie Cole stood in the winner's circle after driving his Late Model car to victory in the 25-lap feature race.

Napier tosses no-hitter in 9-0 win over Duff Orioles

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

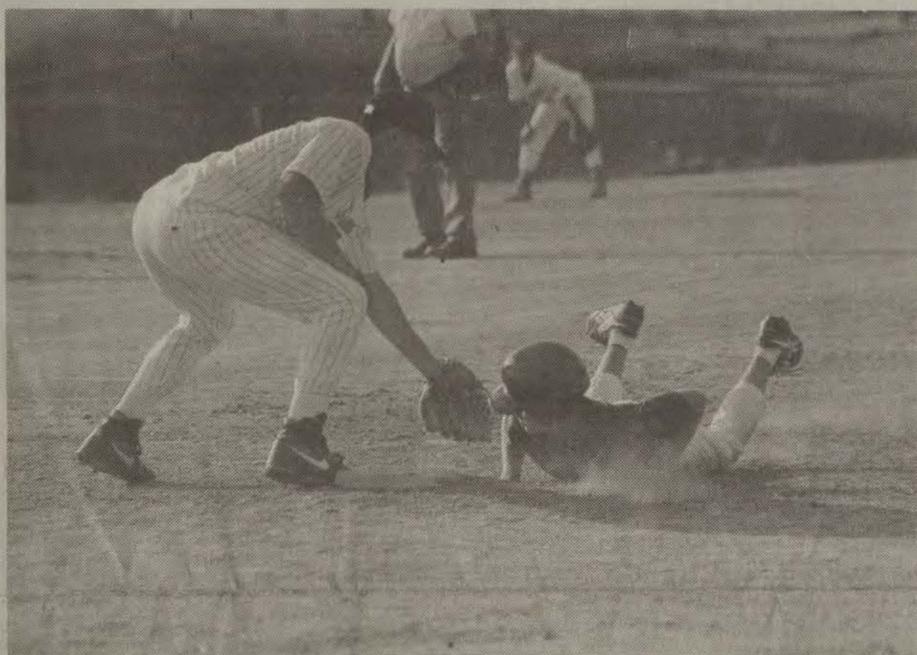

It didn't take long for the Martin Reds to dispose of the Duff Orioles in Little League play Monday afternoon at the Martin Park.

In a quickly played game, Henry Napier took control and tossed a no-hit shutout for the Reds as they recorded a 9-0 win over coach Dennis "D.I." Henson's ballclub.

Keith Crum carried a heavy bat for the Reds, picking up three RBIs. He doubled in the third inning with the bases loaded, sending all three runners home.

Partick Martin picked up two runs batted in with a fourth-inning double. Napier collected two hits in contributing to the rout.

Knott County Central trio inks letter-of-intent with Cumberland

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Eric Bolen, Joey Smith and Jason Thornsberry inked letters-of-intent last week to play football at Cumberland College, bringing to five the number of seniors that have signed this spring.

Bolen, a 6-7 265 linebacker/defensive lineman, played two years with the Patriots. Smith (5-11, 240) was a defensive lineman and lettered four years at Knott County Central.

Thornsberry (5-9, 170) rushed for 1,180 yards out of his tailback position in his senior year. He was named to the Associated Press All-State Team and was a member of the Mountain Sportsview All-Mountain team.

All three were instrumental in the Patriots enjoying their first ever .500 season and first playoff appearance.

Five of the six seniors on the '94 team have signed with various colleges.

South Floyd AAU All-Stars earn national berth

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The South Floyd AAU 13-year-old All-Stars will travel the interstates in June in their trip to Memphis, Tennessee for the National AAU Championship Tournament.

South Floyd will participate in the national tournament on June 25 after placing third in the state tournament held at Scott County High School two weeks ago.

The young Raiders defeated the Marathon Hornets for third place in the state tournament.

To qualify for the state finals, a team had to win the pool they played in, in the preliminary round. South Floyd was grouped with Williamsburg, Georgetown Middle School and Boyle County in Pool 1.

The Raiders breezed through the first round, winning all three games to move in to state tournament play.

South Floyd fell to Central Kentucky Magic, eventual state champions, in the second round, moving to the losers' bracket.

The Raiders had trouble with the Hornets as they had to go to overtime to post a 45-35 win in the third place game.

Todd Craft tossed in a game high 20 points to lead the Raiders to the bronze medal for their third place finish. Jonathan Wright scored nine points with Dustin Mullins and Jared Thornsberry scoring eight apiece.

South Floyd held a 12-4 first quarter lead with Wright and Thornsberry scoring four each in the period. It was a 20-13 score at the half.

The Hornets rallied in the third period to tie the game at 30 after three quarters of play. Neither team could get any offense going in the fourth quarter with each team scoring three points each for a 33 game after regulation play.

Craft hit a jumper and Wright connected on one of two free throws for the Raiders. The Hornets got a three-point basket from Butcher to tie the game and send it into an extra period.

South Floyd outscored the Hornets 12-2 in the overtime for the 10-point win. Craft hit four of six free throws, scoring eight points in the overtime. Mullins and Thornsberry each had two points.

South Floyd faced Northern Kentucky Vennefront in the first round of the state tournament. Craft came away with 19 points to lead the Raiders to a 56-38 win and advancing to the finals of the winners' bracket.

Shannon Williams added 15 points for the Raiders, hitting one three pointer in the game.

Wright and Mullins scored eight each with Jared Thornsberry scoring six.

Craft had three treys in the game, connecting in the first, second and fourth quarters. He scored nine points in the final period, hitting six of six from the charity stripe.

Mullins had a three-point basket in the first quarter when he scored five points.

South Floyd led 17-7 after the initial quarter and took a 26-13 lead to the locker area at the half.

Tony Bacianalupo led Northern Kentucky with 16 points. Ron Dawn added 11 points.

Central Kentucky was the pre-tournament favorite and they lived up to everyone's expectations by recording a 60-39 win over South Floyd

Hall pays tribute to Halbert; NBA needs reviving...

Kim Hall (a former Martin Purple Flash) expressed her feelings about Martin's legend, Denzil "Hoss" Halbert in a letter. Kim lives in Salt Lake City, Utah and forwarded the letter to Hoss.

"When I was little, every spring was marked by the annual floods and the opening of baseball practice. 'Hoss' Halbert was the baseball coach of my beloved Martin Purple Flashes.

"He was a big man of the 5'2", 200 pound variety. With his balding head and quick smile, he reminded me of Mr. Clean without the hoop earring. With his bulldog voice and ability to dish out insults, Hoss was the perfect man to coach rough and tumble coal miner boys.

"My relationship with Hoss was clearly defined. I was his 'bat-girl.' My job was to find foul balls hiding in the weeds, handle the equipment, and create fancy displays with the bats in the on-deck circle.

"When Hoss would completely lose his patience with especially 'pitiful players' he would bark, 'Janel! Grab a glove and show these girls how to shag flies!' Unable to find the ground with my feet, I would glide into the outfield, adjust my gold cap with the lightening flash across the front, and chant, 'I'm a Purple Flash! I'm a Purple Flash!' like a mantra.

"The reason I knew I was a favorite of Hoss hinged on one fact: I was invited to ride in the "The Bomb." The Bomb was a cavernous, third-world turquoise blue, late fifties Chevy station wagon. Only the driver's seat was left in the interior and the wheelwells were honeycombed with rust.

"It was bulging with Louisville Sluggers, catcher's equipment, ragged gloves and balls. I pretty much surfed the equipment to avoid being thrown all over the inside of the wagon.

"The day I heard The Bomb start its lumbering ascent to the top of New Addition Hill, like some elephant loaded with jewels, I knew it was spring. It was always a wonder to me how one man and one station wagon could transform an old corn bottom into a baseball diamond."

This is only one of the many, many memories former Martin High School students have of their beloved coach. The impact and influence he had on the lives of those who passed through those doors will never be measured.

The old station wagon that Kim wrote of was a way of identifying with Hoss. I'll never forget the time he was returning from a doubleheader and "The Bomb" drove into the back of a Greyhound bus, knocking out its air conditioning.

What memories!
Maybe you have some stories of your high school coach. I would love to hear them. We had so many fine coaches in Floyd County and all of them have had an influence of some kind on players, cheerleaders and bat-girls.

What father, in his right mind, would want his son to grow and be just like a Dennis Rodman?

The man is sick. He has an ego problem that does not belong in the NBA (National Basketball Association).

The many hair colors, tattoos, earrings and all are a joke and insult to what used to be a very good professional basketball league.

"Stop here!"

It was a time of confusion, but also a humorous moment for these two Reds' base runners. Coach Daryl Patton was telling the front runner to stop at third. But the runner behind him passed him on the base path and headed for home. He retraced his steps and finally got back to second base. Why wasn't he called out? Because it was T-Ball baseball. ### IT'S TIME FOR BASS FISHING

Now is the best time of the year to fish for smallmouth, largemouth, and Kentucky bass. Water temperatures are rising to 65°-70°--the temperatures at which these fish are most active.

Bass are more active in the spring immediately before and after spawning. Because of this activity, anglers have a better chance of catching fish. However, timing is a key element to successful fishing. Keep in mind that water temperature, not the calendar, decides this timing.

Rising water temperatures cause many physical changes in fish. The females develop eggs and the males develop milt (sperm). Their metabolic rate increases so they need more food. Then, natural instincts begin urging them toward their spawning grounds.

Some white bass may still be involved in spawning activities since they prefer temperatures between 48° and 65°. However, once they have spawned, they quickly travel downstream to lakes or main rivers. They are hard to catch until they reach their destination and begin a feeding spree.

Black bass start moving toward their spawning grounds when water temperatures reach 60°. Smallmouth spawn at temperatures between 60° and 65°, while largemouth spawn when water is 63° to 68°. The range for Kentucky bass is more limited at 64° to 67°. Smallies and Kentuckies spawn in slightly deeper water than largemouths.

In summer the best times to fish for bass are early morning and late afternoon into night because they prefer cooler surface water and minimal sunlight. Overcast days are also a good bet. Good places to fish are near the bank where plant growth provides shade.

NASCAR Connection

by Ben Trout

Ben Trout
NASCAR Columnist

In keeping with the tradition that many Americans families uphold, the Trout clan also has its annual Memorial Day weekend cookout. So it was off to the store early Sunday morning to stock up on chips, pop, and the usual outdoor feasting materials.

As I patiently waited for the cashier to give me the total, we struck up a casual checkout-line conversation. It went something like this...

"Looks like you're going to have a big cookout today," said the clerk. "Yep, it's the tradition you know," I replied. Then she said "Yeh, it'll be a good day. You get to watch the race and all. It's hard to believe those Indy cars can go that fast."

From that point on, I can't remember any more of the conversation. I pretended to listen, but in my mind I was asking myself, "Why is it that the majority of people you come in contact with think the only race run on Memorial Day weekend is the Indianapolis 500?"

Now before I go any further, let me make it clear that I have the highest respect for the Indy-car racing, Indy-car drivers and the Indy-car fans. I realize the tradition associated with Indy and I realize the impact this race has had on American motorsports throughout history. But I mean, hey, does anyone realize that NASCAR holds one of its biggest events on the same day?

For years, the Coca-Cola 600 has taken a backseat to the Indianapolis 500. But the truth of the matter is that the 600 is as every bit exciting as the show up in Indy. The media likes to offer up the Indianapolis 500 as an American motorsports tradition, and I guess it is.

But as I scanned the list of drivers competing in the Indy-car crown jewel, I could hardly pronounce half their names. In fact 19 of the drivers battling it out in the Indy 500, were born on foreign soil. Not to mention the fact that we heard names such as Honda and Mercedes associated with the machines that were to tread the legendary Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Not that I am prejudice in any shape or form, but the claim that the Indy 500 is American racing at its best does not hold much water with me.

Now let's turn our eyes upon Charlotte and the Coca-Cola 600. Forty-two drivers took the green flag. And all forty-two were from the good ole USA. The cars? Chevys, Ford, and Pontiacs. Definitely as American as it gets. The race took place in the heart of the American southeast, where NASCAR was born.

Your typical NASCAR fan is quick to classify the Indy 500 as an overrated go-car race. But even some competitors see NASCAR as the place where the action is.

Take John Andretti for instance. Right away, his last name provides him with an instant connection to Indy.

He is the nephew of the legendary Mario Andretti, who is to Indy-car racing what Richard Petty is to

Napier

Only three Duff base runners reached base and all came by walks. Napier walked Mike Collie with two out in the first inning.

He then retired the next nine he faced until he issued consecutive walks to Collie and Anthony Hall in the fourth inning. Napier retired the last seven batters he faced.

He had 14 strikeouts in the game while walking three.

The Reds got on the scoreboard in the third inning when they scored six times. Four straight walks with two out led to one run and then Crum cleaned the bases with his double. Napier followed Crum with a two-bagger and he scored on a bases loaded walk.

Two runners dented the plate in the fourth for Martin on Patrick Martin's two-run double.

Napier leadoff the fifth for Martin with a double and he scored on a wild pitch for a 9-0 game.

Napier retired the Orioles in order in the fifth and sixth inning, striking out the side in the sixth.

NASCAR. John Andretti competed in Indy-cars for seven years before making the switch to NASCAR.

"This is where the future is," said Andretti. "NASCAR happens to be where the best opportunities are."

Perhaps in the future we will see more Indy-car drivers migrate south to the world of NASCAR. Without a doubt, at this current time and place, NASCAR Winston Cup racing is definitely the hot-bed of American motorsports.

Now many will say that NASCAR will never steal the thunder from Indy on Memorial Day weekend. However, on behalf of certified NASCAR nuts everywhere, let me make it clear, that in our minds, we'll never take a backseat to anyone!

"I'm really excited about the tournament," said director Randy Roberts. "We feel like this will be one of the best tournaments ever."

The tournament will be held June 12-18 at the tennis courts at Pikeville College. The tournament is sponsored by the Pikeville College Alumni Association.

The event will be split into the following events: Men's A, B & C singles; Men's A & B doubles; Men's 35+ singles; Women's A, B & C singles; Women's A & B doubles; Mixed doubles; Junior Division boys and girls singles (age 18 and under).

The drawing will be held at 6 p.m. on the date of the deadline for entries, which is Thursday, June 8. Results will be posted at the Pikeville College tennis courts on Friday, June 9, through Sunday, June 18.

Along with the Pikeville College courts, others will be used if needed. USTA rules will be observed. All matches will be the best of three sets, and a 12 point tie-breaker will be

Fundamentals of game to be stressed at Stepp Bro. camp

One of the top basketball summer camps in the state of Kentucky will be held beginning Monday, June 12 at Alice Lloyd College.

The first of three sessions of the Stepp Brothers Basketball Camps will be conducted for boys in grades kindergarten through grade 10.

"We will be hosting two weeks of boys and one of girls camps this summer," said Jim Stepp, head basketball coach at Alice Lloyd and co-director of the camps. "The girls camp is almost full and we expect to have two capacity boys camps, but there is still time for area athletes to sign up if they hurry."

The Stepp Brothers camp is designed to teach the fundamentals of the game while allowing campers to play in a full schedule of league competition. Swimming, films, individual instruction and a variety of skills competitions highlight the camp.

All instructors have college basketball experience.

A fourth grade through 12 girls camp will be held June 19-23. A boys grades fourth through 12 will be conducted June 26-30.

The cost of the camp is $95 for the week and includes hot daily lunches, juice breaks and camp T-shirts.

For more information on the camps, contact Joe Stepp at 368-2101 or 368-2152. Or call Jim Stepp at 368-2392 to register.

Pikeville College to hold basketball Team Camp, July 9

Pikeville College head basketball coach Roy Cutright has announced the dates for his 1995 summer camps.

Camp season will open with registration on Sunday, July 9 from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the college gymnasium for the Team Camp. This camp is open to all varsity and junior varsity teams and will be held from July 9 through July 14. The cost is $400 per varsity team and $200 per junior varsity team. Schools entering both varsity and junior varsity are entitled to a special rate of $500.

During Team Camp, games will be held daily at one of the following locations: Varsity -- Pikeville College, Pikeville High School, or Shelby Valley High School; Junior Varsity -- Mullins Elementary School. Each team will play two games nightly (eleven games minimum) with a single elimination tournament on Friday, July 14.

The Skill Builders Camp registration will be held on Monday, July 10, from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m., in the Pikeville College gym. The camp will run through the 14th at a cost of $100 per camper.

The Skill Builders Camp will concentrate on teaching the fundamentals of offense and defense. At the conclusion of the camp, all campers should have a greater mastery of the skills needed to be successful in offense and defense and possess a better understanding of the game.

Boys, ages 7 through 17, as well as varsity and junior varsity teams are invited to participate in the summer camps. Enrollment is limited, and applicants will be taken on a first-come, first-served basis. For more information or to receive a registration form, please call Roy Cutright at 432-9231.

South Floyd

in game two.

The Magic knew they were in a game since South Floyd was not intimidated by their reputation. The Raiders trailed by only six points at the half, 28-22.

The second half was different as South Floyd could not keep pace and were outscored 19-8 in the third quarter and fell behind 47-30 after three periods.

Craft was the top scorer for South Floyd, tossing in 11 points. Thornsberry added 10 points with Mullins scoring seven.

Shannon Williams had five points and Wright added four. Jeremy Penson scored two.

The loss dropped the Raiders to the losers' bracket where they faced the Marathon Hornets.

1-2-3 in preliminary round...

South Floyd placed four players in double figures in the opening round of Pool 1 play.

The Raiders posted a 69-43 win over Williamsburg in the first round at the Georgetown Middle School.

Craft led the way with his 19 points, but had a lot of help with Wright and Thornsberry scoring 12 each. Williams finished with 11 points.

Mullins added seven points for the winners with Nathan Tackett netting five. Penson and Freddy Kennedy had two and one point, respectively.

South Floyd out scored Williamsburg 28-9 in the third period to break open the game and coast the rest of the way.

Thornsberry scored eight points in the quarter with Craft tossing in seven. Craft buried a three-pointer in the quarter as did Mullins. Craft finished with three treys in the game. Nathan Tackett had a fourth quarter three-pointer.

South Floyd faced Georgetown Middle School on their home turf in the second round of Pool 1 play.

In a romp, the Raiders defeated Georgetown 71-37 behind a strong offensive showing by South Floyd.

Again, Craft led the way with 19 points and Williams added 10. Craft, who was held to only two first quarter points, had two treys in the fourth quarter. Tackett and Curtis Childress had a three-point basket in the final quarter.

Mullins finished with nine points for South Floyd. Wright and Thornsberry tossed in eight each with Nathan Tackett and Childress netting five each.

Freddy Kennedy and Jeremy Penson scored four and three points, respectively.

South Floyd scored 27 points in the fourth quarter, an offensive explosion that rocked Georgetown.

Only Boyle County stood in the way of South Floyd getting a berth in the state tournament. But that proved no problem as the Raiders shot the lights out and posted a 60-19 win to win their pool with a 3-0 record.

The defense for the Raiders was outstanding as they held Boyle

County scoreless in the fourth period.

Craft had 21 points to lead the Raiders' scoring parade. Wright finished in double figures with 13 points.

Mullins scored seven for the winners with Childress tossing in six. Thornsberry scored five and Williams totaled four. Kennedy and Penson had two each.

It was an 18-7 game after the first quarter and the Raiders were well in charge at the half taking an 35-11 lead to the locker room.

The South Floyd All-Stars are coached by Doug Tackett.

A Look At Sports

the league a 'black eye.'

How many times have I heard former fans say they just can't get interested in pro basketball anymore.

The game is ruined and needs "a revival" by telling the players to clean up their image or hunt another job.

It used to be a great game and a great league. But today the NBA is a turn off as far as I am concerned.

But all professional sports are in trouble image-wise. Football, as well as baseball, has turned the fans away and from the turnstiles, as well.

We have taken those who, in a court of law, were convicted of rape and now have made them a national hero.

We have an accused murder getting the hero treatment while he is still making the millions in jail.

What has happen in professional sports can be summed up in two words -- greed and money.

Both have a way of changing people that we never dreamed could be changed. What professional sports needs is some old-fashioned heroes of days gone by.

WHAT I WOULD LIKE TO SEE OUR LOCAL BOARD ADOPT...

Sports in Floyd County went through a difficult season. Unlike the season before ('94), we didn't have any championship teams or team advancing to the championships as in '94.

There were no teams in the football championships, no one from our district went to the state tournament in basketball. Our baseball teams struggled in regional play, as did girls' softball.

We had an uproar over a transfer student from Shelby Valley and there were some hard feelings over the whole incident that still lingers today.

The Floyd County Board of Education has ruled that a student/athlete can choose any school in Floyd County to attend.

It makes no difference where they live in the county, if they can find transportation they can attend any one of the four high schools.

Talking about opening up cans of worms—this will do it. Oh, it may seem innocent at first, but you wait. High school coaches will descend on the grade schools like vultures trying to convince a promising basketball, football or baseball prospect that his school is a top choice.

Sound familiar? NUMBER ONE...

The school board should establish boundaries throughout the county and see they are adhered to. If they don't, then a dissatisfied athlete will be moving from one school to another, to another, to another.

One thing about it—he or she can transfer only three times. We only have four schools.

NUMBER TWO...

Run the girls' grade school basketball schedule in the fall of the year while grade school football is in progress.

Some of the younger girls sit on the bench and never play. A jayvee game could be played, eventually helping the varsity girls in years ahead. Think about it.

Our high school teams are strong now, but will need a shot in the arm soon.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports.

Bob Watkins

Russell Rice's Adolph Rupp, Kentucky Basketball Baron is a good read

"I always felt comfortable with (Adolph Rupp)," Pat Riley says in the Forward of Russell Rice's latest book. "So did other members of our 1966 Rupp's Runts team. We knew he held a special place in his heart for us."

Fitting that Riley would introduce Rice's Adolph Rupp, Kentucky's Basketball Baron ($22.95 Sagamore Publishing). The book avails to the ardent Kentucky basketball fan not only a revisit to many glory days from the Fabulous Five of the '50s to Issett-Casey-Pratt two decades later, but much else that Rice saw and heard for 22 years inside UK's athletics department (1967-89) is illuminated here.

In anecdotal form, recollections and interviews, Rice offers up lots of juicy morsels for the curious today and those of us who remember the times and Adolph Rupp as the man who bludgeoned Dixieland into taking basketball as seriously as we do. Rupp's persona, if not always likable, was ever colorful, unpredictable and still casts a long shadow over Bob Knight and those who imagine that Indiana's coach is the first of his kind. He isn't.

In his 218-pager, Rice recounts Der Baron's impetuosity and humor, and also gives us a better understanding of, for example, the time and how and why integration came slowly to UK's basketball program. It is a blackeye rival recruiters still use against Wildcats basketball.

A chapter Rice left out that would pique widespread interest -- the inner workings of how and why Joe B. Hall fell out of favor with Rupp (interview with West Virginia's Gale Catlett?). Details of how Hall handled it so graciously, smoothing what was destined to be a difficult transition.

If you are old enough to remember Rupp then you've heard and/or read some of what's there, but Adolph Rupp through Rice's eyes stirs memories, brings a chuckle or two. It is a good read. I recommend it.

Sampler. In Appendix One Rice gives us something called Rupp's Composite UK player. Shooting: Larry Pursiful, Louie Dampier; Drive: Frank Ramsey; Speed: Ralph Beard; Grace: Cliff Hagan; Defense: Billy Evans, Kenny Rollins; Temperament:

HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL SURVEY

Interesting results from a survey of Kentucky High School basketball coaches done by coaches Curtis Turley of Henderson (and now of Greenwood) and Mike Flynn of Covington Holmes. Highlights:

• Do you favor the current state tournament format(s)?

Answer: 96 percent like the state tournaments as they are run now.

COMMENT: Such a level of approval says much about the health of high school basketball in Kentucky. I suggest a major reason for the good health is having the Sweet 16s in central Kentucky.

• In a hot button issue, Flynn asked coaches, Do you agree with current KHSAA rules regarding transfers and their eligibility?

Answer: 44 percent said yes; 46 percent said no.

Several respondents suggested transfers could be scrutinized and handled more smoothly if the State Board of Education did not interfere with KHSAA decisions.

COMMENT: It would be noted, I think, that Commissioner Louis Stout has demonstrated a no-nonsense decisiveness since coming to office. Already this spring Stout meted out 'tough love' discipline to coaches and administrators involved in recruiting in Jefferson County.

Says here, a bit of laissez faire by the State Board, coupled with the commissioner's even-handed discipline applied statewide, would bring better rules compliance by schools border to border.

• Game officials. Coaches were asked if they "favor the current system used to evaluate game officials?" 48 percent said yes; 50 percent said no. Comments Flynn received included, "Make officials more accountable."

• And, should high school basketball go exclusively to a 3-person officiating crews?

92 percent said no. Reasons against: "Cost, and already a shortage of good officials," Flynn said. READERS (RIGHT) WRITE Hank Bramblet, Mt. Sterling and Will Haerberle, Ashland (E-Mail) -- "Would you explain this whole (UK) JV thing to us?"

ANSWER: More spint doctoring by college hoops Master Spin Doc. When one has as much talent as Rick Pitino will in 1995-96, something has to be done to keep players happy who decline to red shirt. That's the obvious part.

The 'head' part is something else. Da Coach gets his players concentrating on busting their rears to earn prime time PT leaves less time and energy to sit pouting or grumbling next to Joann Hauser.

Competition makes everybody better and keeps talk-show heat off the coach to play somebody or other. Callers dwell on second guessing without getting too personal or hostile with Da Coach.

Best reason for jayvee: Fans. Those old enough will remember Kevin Grevey and J.D. Connors, and players before them (Dan Issel etc) who were on (excellent) freshmen teams. Fans arrived early in large numbers to see them play. It was a double-dip treat.

Question I will be interested to see answered: Who will the jayvee team play 15 times? It will be interesting to see how this shakes out....or fizzles.

Footnote: An E-mail letter came from a North Carolina Tar Heels fan last week, reminding us "we have a jayvee team too, you know." A Kentucky-North Carolina jayvee series? Anybody want to guess what kind of revenues that could produce?

It was drag racing at its best this past Saturday night at the Elliott County Dragway and the heavy rains failed to dampen the racing fan's spirit.

Joey Hicks of Paintsville took first place in the senior division while in the 12 and under divisions Wayne, West Virginia's Josh Feloway finished first and Tommy John Messer of Ashland took second place.

NEW! IN-OFFICE LASER PROCEDURE FOR THE CURE OF SNORING!

Snoring is very annoying to others who are trying to sleep but it may also be dangerous for the one doing the snoring. People who snore often have obstructed breathing at night. This generally happens when the soft tissue of the palate and throat fall back over the airways during sleep and cut off the breathing. This may usually lead to struggling and then, finally, to waking up. If you awaken frequently at night or stay sleepy during the day, you may have more of a problem than just snoring. A recent report indicates that about 30% of automobile accidents are caused by excessive daytime drowsiness.

In-office laser surgery now can effectively treat greater than 95% of snoring.

Forgetfulness can be...and usually is...a nuisance

To say the least, getting older is adventuresome. One thing age does, though, is change one's perspective about certain things.

Like absent mindedness.

For instance, one of the first stories I remember hearing about this particular affliction was of the old lady who kept losing her glasses, only to discover that she'd pushed them up onto her head.

I used to think that was silly.

I don't anymore.

As a matter of fact, incidents like this are fast becoming the norm around our house. While the ability to forget is a virtue in some cases, downright forgetfulness can be an absolute nuisance. I mean, one would think that some things in life would become automatic...like removing your car keys from the ignition before you lock the doors. Yet, I don't know how many times I've locked myself out of my car. It's gotten so bad lately that Wilma even suggested that I get an extra key made and carry it somewhere on my person. I did, but I forgot where I put it.

Even worse, though, are those times when

Poison Oak

Clyde Pack

I find myself wandering around the parking lot at Wal-Mart—with key in hand—trying to remember where I parked. (The only consolation here is that I meet some very nice people doing the same thing.)

Folks swear that I'd won the lottery or something if I had a quarter for every time I've gotten up from watching TV and walked through the house, only to suddenly realize that I had no idea why I had. Of course, add a coin or two for each time I stop in mid-sentence, having no idea what I'm to say next, and I could probably vacation in Hawaii three or four months a year.

Another thing that the aging process has affected is my diet. I can remember when I could eat a pepperoni pizza before bedtime, then sleep like a baby. I just flat couldn't identify with someone who'd say something like, "Oh, I love thus and such, but I can't eat it. It doesn't agree with me."

Now, I can identify.

As a matter of fact, I can even identify with the TV commercial where the wife looks over at her husband and says, "You look constipated, Raymond."

I guess, as they say, it goes with the territory, but somehow, jokes about absent mindedness and other age-related humor, are just not funny to me anymore. Maybe they never were.

I don't remember.

A GOOD thing about growing older, however, is that I've got Wilma to grow older with. As a matter of fact, it will be exactly 32 years tomorrow (June 1) since we said "I do" ...and meant it.

I guess that proves that at least one time in my life I did something smart.

Happy anniversary, Hon.

FROM THE MOUNTAINS by Jadon Gibson

Let's send them home

General Ulysses S. Grant was in a miserable condition on the night before his meeting with General Robert E. Lee, April 9, 1865, at Appomattox, 25 miles east of Lynchburg, Virginia.

He was having another bout with the severe headaches that frequently plagued him, leaving him prostrate, suffering intensely. The pain often led the 43-year-old Grant to seek an escape through liquor.

The following day found Grant concerned about meeting Lee in such a wretched condition.

"I went up to the house where Lee was waiting. I found him in a fine, new splendid uniform, which made me recall my earlier anxiety. I expressed my regrets that I was compelled to meet him in such a unceremonious manner."

The slightest smile appeared briefly on Lee's face before he replied.

"General, this is the only suit I had available," Lee humbly offered. "It was sent to me by an admirer in Baltimore. This is the first time I have had an occasion to wear it."

Grant and Lee reminisced about old acquaintances in the army with Grant saying he recalled seeing Lee in Mexico.

"He was so much higher in rank than myself at that time, that I supposed that he would have no recollection of me," Grant penned of the historic meeting. "But he said that he remembered me very well. We talked of old times and exchanged inquiries about friends. Lee then broached the subject of our meeting."

Grant expressed his terms of surrender as Lee listened with the utmost attention.

"General, would you write them down," Lee uttered.

Grant took out his manifold orderbook and pencil, wrote down the points, and handed it to Lee. General Lee put on his glasses and carefully read the list over. The conditions provided for the officers to keep their sidearms, private horses, and personal baggage.

"I do hope that this will be the end of the war," Grant spoke up when he felt Lee had finished reading the notes. "I feel it is so important that the men should go home and go to work and plant their fields. I'll assure you that the Government will not throw any obstacles in the way."

The beleaguered Lee listened quietly, appearing much older than his 58 years.

"General, most of the horses and animals in the cavalry and artillery are owned by the men," Lee explained. "Won't they be able to keep their horses, too?"

"I will give orders to allow all soldiers, as well as officers, who claim a horse or mule, to keep it," Grant offered absolutely.

"Enough blood has been shed and too many lives have been lost," Lee said, a gleam shining in the eye. "I would like for the men to go home. The time has come. Let's send them home."

Lifestyles

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

It was a day of dancing, singing, storytelling, quilting, cooking and playing games at Betsy Layne High School on Friday, May 26. It was also a day of learning, interaction, and just plain fun for the students, teachers and senior adults who gathered at the school for the third annual Heritage on the Hill. All five senior citizen centers were invited to participate in the activities that included lye soap making, square and line dancing, horseshoes and concocting fried apple pies.

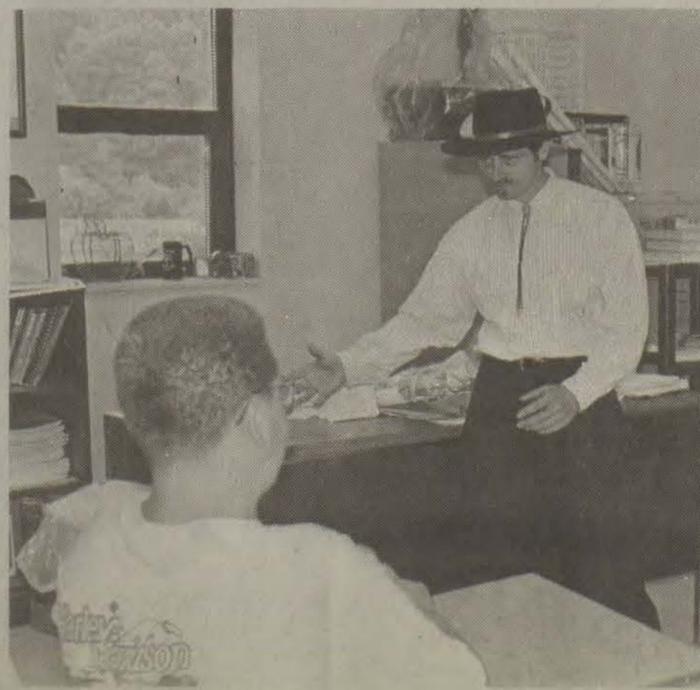

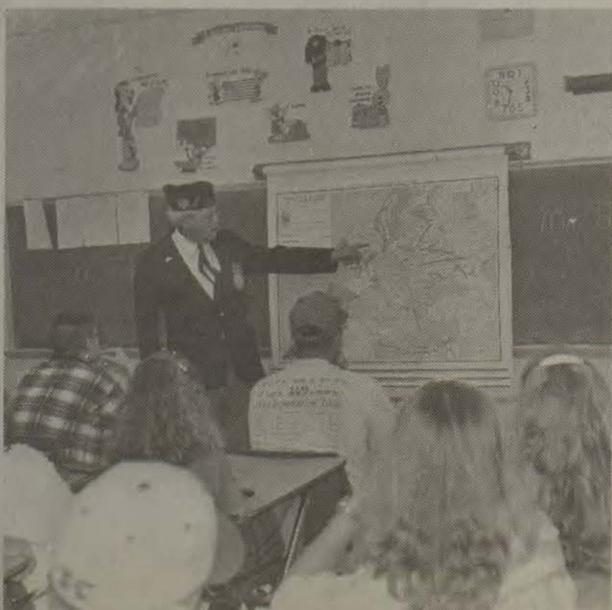

"It's all about kids and senior citizens interacting together," said Youth Serve Director Carolyn Clark, who coordinated the event.

Balancing act

Robyn Williams represents UK around the state during the college's Preview Nights. She is also conducting research and studying chemical engineering. She has also been elected to various offices in various honor societies at the college.

Martin native conducting research, making a difference on UK campus

Most people want to know their efforts have made a difference in the world. Robyn Williams, a junior chemical engineering major at the University of Kentucky in Lexington, is no exception.

Robyn, the daughter of Tom and Gwen Williams of Martin, is a 1991 graduate of Allen High School.

Robyn has involved in many activities at UK, including working with the UK Office of Admissions to help recruit other students.

For two years, Robyn has participated in Preview Nights, a program sponsored by admissions where teams of current UK students and representatives from different areas of the university travel to towns across Kentucky to tell high school students about opportunities at UK.

"I've enjoyed being part of this process," Robyn said. "It's really neat to meet potential students and their parents. It takes me back to when I was deciding which college to attend. When I see some of the students that I've met through Preview Nights on campus in the fall, it makes me feel like I made a difference."

Robyn also works at the UK Visitor Center.

Robyn said her decision to attend UK was made after she visited another university's campus.

"I had always been interested in attending UK, but my parents initially had some reservations that I would be just a number here because the campus is so large," Robyn said. "But that hasn't happened. I've received a lot of individual attention."

Robyn initially chose chemical engineering as a major because she was interested in attending medical school. At the time, she felt the chemical engineering program would give her the courses she would need to enter medical school as well as provide her with a degree.

"The classes are challenging," Robyn said. "I really enjoy the thought process involved in chemical engineering."

Since then, Robyn has changed her mind about attending medical school and will continue her interest in medicine through research opportunities.

This semester, Robyn has been conducting research on sepsis, a blood disease, as an independent project.

Robyn will stay on campus this summer to work on a research project at the Center for Membrane Sciences where she will work with faculty members from the chemistry and chemical engineering departments. Her expenses will be covered by a National Science Foundation grant that will provide on-campus housing and a stipend.

In addition to her activities with the admissions team and her research, Robyn has been elected to three positions in student chapters of engineering groups.

She will serve as secretary of the UK chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and as the secretary of Tau Beta Pi, the engineering honor society. Robyn also will serve as president of the UK chapter of Omega Chi Epsilon, the chemical engineering honor society and is a member of the Golden Key Honor Society.

Robyn has served as the past vice-president of the Collegians for Academic Excellence, a recruiting organization, and is a recipient of the Henry Lutes Scholarship from the College of Engineering.

Robyn said she feels her involvement in activities has helped her learn how to balance classwork and life outside the classroom.

"UK has certainly exceeded my expectations," Robyn said. "The quality of the education has been excellent, and I've been pleased by the amount of personal attention I've received. I never thought I'd find opportunities here like my research projects."

Jack May's Wars

by Dr. Robert Perry

If large families are a sign of marital bliss, the period from 1809 to 1833 was a happy one for Samuel May and his wife Catherine. Records show that during those years she bore him six sons and eight daughters. Nine of these children, including his fourth, fifth, and sixth sons, were born at the May House in North Prestonsburg, which in those days was the hub of his four-hundred-acre farm. Like most frontiersmen, Samuel was a loyal Democrat and a strong supporter of Andrew Jackson, the champion of backwoods causes on Capitol Hill. Therefore, when Catherine bore him his fourth son on January 28, 1829, he named the boy after his hero, who was just beginning his first term as president. In thirty-two years the boy would become Colonel Andrew Jackson May, the man Henry Scalf called "the plumed knight of the Southern cause in the Big Sandy Valley."

What was it like to grow up at the May Farm during the 1830s? Since Prestonsburg didn't have a newspaper during those years, and most of Jack's papers have been lost, we know very little about his childhood. We do, however, have the diary of Reverend William B. Landrum, a Meth-ceremony. Samuel's brother Thomas probably came down from Shelby Creek, bringing his wife Dorcas and their twelve children. Samuel's sister Mary and her husband John Hamilton probably came from their home in Morgan County, bringing their seven children. Samuel's brother Reuben probably came down from Beaver Creek, bringing his wife Sarah and their seven children. It is less likely, however, that Samuel's brother John and his family attended the wedding, for they would have had to travel all the way from Shelby County, Illinois.

Perez S. Randall, Jack's new brother-in-law, was a doctor who had moved to Prestonsburg the previous year. In his mid-thirties, he was a widower and a native of Maine. His young bride was a real catch. Jack May's daughter Mary, who knew Mahala in her later years, considered her to be "one of the most interesting and handsome women I have ever known. She dressed in soft black silks and cream lace, had beautiful silver hair, and looked a perfect queen." After their honeymoon they settled in Louisa. When the war came, Randall enlisted in the Confederate Army and served for three years as a private school located just down the road from the May Farm. Established in 1820, the academy was a two-story brick building located on land now occupied by Old Prestonsburg High School, which today houses the Floyd County Board of Education. During the 1830s, according to William Ely, the Headmaster of Prestonsburg Academy was Lewis Mayo, Esquire, "a teacher of great learning and ability." The hard times which followed the Panic of 1837 probably put this school out of business, because legislative records show that the building was empty by 1856. During the Civil War, until it was accidentally destroyed by fire, it was used as a barracks by soldiers of both armies. The fire probably destroyed all its records. Henry Scalf knew old-timers who could remember playing in the pile of bricks which marked the site of the school.

Jack's childhood was a period of rapid economic development. When the first steamboat ascended the Big Sandy and docked at Prestonsburg on May 20th, 1837, Jack was probably in the crowd which cheered its arrival. On the following day, after its "spring importations" had been unloaded, it carried a "pleasure party" of local dignitaries even farther up the river. The newspaper reporter covering this event noted that "coal of the finest quality" was visible in outcroppings along its banks. In 1841, when Jack was twelve years old, Richard Deering established the first coal mine in Floyd County at Abbott Shoal, on land he had purchased from Jack's father. Although this enterprise was nipped in the bud, other mines soon followed. Abbott Shoal was also the center of the local logging industry, and as a young man Jack probably helped his father buy logs, saw them into lengths, tie them into rafts, and float them down the river to Catlettsburg. In 1849, keeping abreast of the new technology, Samuel May erected a steam-powered sawmill and gristmill at Abbott Shoal.

As the favorite son of Floyd County's leading politician, Jack would have been in the crowd when his father delivered the annual Fourth of July oration from the balcony above the May House porch. State Senator from 1834 to 1839, Samuel was a tireless promoter of Eastern Kentucky causes, and it was largely due to his efforts that in 1837, the state legislature appropriated $25,000 for the construction of the Mount Sterling—Pound Gap Road. The first highway in the region, this road ran from Mount Sterling through Hazel Green, Licking Station, Prestonsburg, Laynesville and Pike-ton up to Pound Gap, where it linked up with a road constructed by the Commonwealth of Virginia. During the years prior to the Civil War, it was used to drive horses, cattle and hogs from the Bluegrass to markets in southwestern Virginia and Eastern Tennessee. Since it crossed the Big Sandy at Abbott Shoals, where he operated his ferry, Samuel's interest in the road was personal as well as political. He dreamed of the day when his farm would become a livestock feeding station and his brick mansion a prosperous wayside inn.

Unfortunately, Samuel's dream was shattered by the Great Depression of 1837-43, which drove him into near bankruptcy. In 1841 he was forced to sell his sawmill and gristmill to Richard Deering, and in 1842 he was forced to sell his farm, with its stately brick mansion, to his brother Thomas May (1787-1867), a wealthy Pike County farmer and landowner. Thomas subsequently divided the farm and deeded the two halves to his fourth and fifth sons, William James May (1819-1883) and Samuel May (1820-1904), giving William the portion containing the May House. Following this transaction Senator May moved his family to a smaller house in Prestonsburg, a move that must have been especially embarrassing for thirteen-year-old Jack May.

Like his father, Jack May was a man of exceptional courage, unbending integrity, and driving ambition. He had the bad luck, however, to come of age when his father's business empire was collapsing. Dealt such a hand, it was inevitable that he should dream of recouping the family fortune. When news reached Prestonsburg in 1849 that gold had been discovered in California, it was probably twenty-year-old Jack May, not his father, who first rose to the bait. Whatever the case, we know with certainty that when Samuel headed west in 1849, he took Jack with him, and "another young man named White." A photograph of Jack from this period shows a sharp-featured young man with a determined expression and a glorious mane of red hair.

The story of Samuel's death in the goldfields has already been told, so I won't repeat it here, except to say that his final hours were made more bearable by his son's selfless devotion. When Samuel died in 1851, Jack buried him near their rude cabin in the Sierras and returned to Prestonsburg, where his mother was probably still living. There he began studying for the law. He was licensed to practice in 1854, and in 1855 he married Matilda Davidson, the daughter of a prosperous Floyd County farmer. By 1860, according to the U. S. Census, Jack was practicing law in West Liberty, a town thirty-five miles west of Prestonsburg in Morgan County.

odist circuit-rider on the Big Sandy during the 1828-1879 period. In the summer of 1839, he visited the May Farm and performed a wedding ceremony:

On Sunday, the 28th of July, I preached in Louisa, and after dining at J. M. Rice's, I went in company with several persons to Mill Creek, and preached for the first time in the State of Virginia. I staid all night at F. Moore's. Monday, 29th, I rode up to Paintsville, and staid all night at a Mr. Hutton's; and next day I went to Samuel May's [house] near Prestonsburg and performed the rite of matrimony between Dr. [Perez S.] Randall and Mahala May, in the presence of a great many persons, and we had a splendid dinner.

This passage supports the tradition that the May House was the center of Floyd County's social life during the early days, and it also shows that Samuel May was a generous host. Using Tress May Francis' genealogy, we can reconstruct the wedding party. Samuel's immediate family, including his mother Sarah and his wife Catherine, probably filled the front pew, and ten-year-old Jack May probably fidgeted during the surgeon with the 5th Virginia Infantry, Stonewall Brigade.

What were Jack's boyhood amusements? In later years he was an expert horseman, so it's a good bet that he spent part of his boyhood riding horses around the race track in the meadow below the May House. Family tradition says that Samuel's sons loved to race horses, that their races attracted large crowds, and that a ticket booth was located at the northeast corner of the house. A similar race track was located at the Cassidy Farm near West Liberty. Writing for the Morgan County Messenger in 1896, William H. Hampton recalled that in the 1830s, every Saturday afternoon, "young blades as well as solid business-men" would congregate at the farm to race their horses and socialize. When the races were finished, the crowd would go to the courthouse for an evening of "merry times."

Jack's chief amusement was probably hunting. When William Ely traveled up the Big Sandy in 1836, he found a hunter's paradise. "Hunting was the principal occupation of both young and old. In the season for killing game, a man without a gun was out of an occupation, unless he was a merchant or a preacher." Edward O. Guerrant, who served with Jack during the war, notes in his diary that Jack's speech was salted with expressions associated with hunting. He would say things like "tomorrow morning I'm going to ride over to Campton and bag myself some bushwhackers."

Although Jack grew up in a county that was wild and undeveloped, it would be a mistake to assume that he wasn't well-educated. His letters reveal not only that he could write, but that he could write well. This fact and the fact that his father was relatively well-off suggest that he received his education at Prestonsburg Academy,

"I JUST THOUGHT IT WAS A STEAK SAUCE."

Using the term "A-1" to describe anything unusually good originated with Lloyd's of London, which so-designated the most seaworthy ships.

Price may not be main factor for the typical home landscape

Home landscapers often may be so price conscious that they end up with more maintenance headaches, disappointments and frequently greater costs in the long run.

"My mother used to say, 'You get nothing for nothing but nothing,'" said Bill Fountain, extension horticulture specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "That wisdom certainly applies to many landscape decisions," he said.

A good example of penny-wise and pound-foolish is the silver (or water) maple tree. Although the tree has an attractive leaf, is adaptable to most soils and climates and is initially less expensive than other trees, it is not a very suitable tree for most home landscapes.

Why not?

"They grow very rapidly," said Fountain. "So fast in fact, they become too large for the average residential landscape. Also, they have surface roots all over the ground which makes mowing around them difficult and tedious. And the fall color is at best poor. Furthermore, this plant is notorious for putting roots into septic systems and sewer pipes. This alone can cost hundreds of dollars."

Many other plants would be much better in the landscape, he said. Homeowners should choose one of them which will pay dividends for decades to come.

"Another problem is the bargain bin," Fountain said. "Plants sold at great discounts are often of inferior quality. Sick plants or those with insects should never be brought into the landscape. It's a lot easier and cheaper to keep plants healthy than to try to cure them."

Discounted plants also often have poor branching patterns, are more likely to be lopsided or may have the more serious problem of having double leaders. Pruning or cabling may remedy this problem, he said, but may be as much as 100 times more expensive than if quality plants were purchased to start with.

"Many residential lots today are smaller than in the days of our parents or grandparents," he added. "That calls for new and different ways to landscape. Many smaller growing trees and plants will not outgrow the scale of homes on smaller lots."

Since those plants do not grow as

Variety of methods needed to control pasture, horn flies

Pasture flies, primarily horn flies and face flies, can be costly to cattle-men.

Horn flies are blood feeders and remain on the animal most of the time, said Lee Townsend, extension entomologist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Face flies, on the other hand, come to the animal only to feed and use their sponging-type mouth parts to get fluids from around the eyes and face.

"These behavioral differences make face flies more difficult to control than horn flies," Townsend said.

Constant attack by pasture flies can result in slower weight gains during the summer and additional stress on animals. In some cases, animals may injure themselves when attempting to get away from these pests.

"There are many ways to protect cattle from pasture flies," he said. "Common methods include insecticide impregnated ear tags, self-treatment applicators, such as dust bags or backrubbers, sprays or pour-ons, and feed-through products distributed in mineral supplements."

Each method has some strengths and weaknesses but usually no single product or method will work equally well against both types of flies or fit into herd management plans easily.

"A combination of methods may be necessary," Townsend said. "Farmers can get information on control options from the county Extension office."

fast, they generally need to be grown in the nursery a year or two longer, Fountain said. That means additional costs for the purchaser who sees a smaller plant at a higher price. But in the long run it may provide the best possible landscaping on his smallest lot.

"As mother said," Fountain said, "You get nothing for nothing but nothing."

purchase. After she had paid for her pen, she asked if I would write my name and address on the outside of the bag I was about to put it in. Of course, she wanted me to use her new pen. I was somewhat hesitant, even back then, to share this information with someone I had only met, but older people always did have a way of getting to my heart.

The next evening when I arrived home from work there was a neatly wrapped home-baked cherry pie setting outside my door. Attached was a note that read: "Thanks for being honest about the pen. I want to be your friend. May I visit you at the store again sometime?" I was deeply touched. To this day I remember the incident as if it happened only yesterday. I also remember the friendship that developed.

She was a very rich woman—and fiercely independent. At 77 she continued to run her real estate business with an iron hand. And do you know what she left me? Real estate? No. Money? No. Jewelry? No. Furniture or other material possessions? No. Wisdom? Yes!

She made one remark during the time I knew her in Oklahoma City for which I have been especially grateful. She said, "I learned something a long time ago that I want to share with you. I learned that a door never closes that another one doesn't open. When you encounter problems in life, and you will, just you remember that."

I've never forgotten it. I've had my problems. But thirty years ago Ruth taught me to "hang in there." What profound wisdom!

Perhaps there are older American reading this column today who are about to give up—just remember Ruth's lesson. I'm glad I did.

What is an intelligent man? A man who enters with ease and completeness into the spirit of things and the intention of persons, and who arrives at an end by the shortest route.

—Frederic Amiel

As I promised last week, in honor of Older American Month, I will share some short stories about a few senior citizens who have been significant in my life. There have been so many of whom I have fun-filled memories and from whom I have learned some of life's most valuable lessons. These lessons are worth sharing but...

Today, when striving to put the finishing touches on these stories I got caught up in the memories of each one. I just kept on writing. After a while it dawned on me, "To make these fit in the column space provided, I have to 'cut' here and 'cut' there. But in the end I decided that if I were to adequately convey the lessons I learned from each senior citizen, it would be best not to 'cut' so much. Instead of 'cutting' I decided not to include all of them in this week's column, but to focus on only one today. Today I will introduce Ruth.

I met Ruth when I was working part-time at a drugstore. It was long ago when I was in college. When I first noticed Ruth she was looking at some writing pens and gave every appearance of being well-to-do. She was dressed to the hilt. As I approached her, I noticed she was bracing herself with a cane in one hand; a purse with straps was hanging over the other arm. She was contemplating which one of two pens to purchase. One was rather expensive. The other was more reasonably priced but still a fine writing instrument. She said, "I am having a difficult time deciding which of these pens I should buy. Do you know anything about either of them?"

I assured her that being in college I couldn't afford the more expensive one. I kind of snickered and said, "I couldn't afford the other one either but it was given me as a gift and it works fine." She asked for a piece of paper so that she could try them out. We spent perhaps twenty minutes together talking as customer and sales clerk often do, before she made her

Summit to design golf courses

Jack Sykes, President, of Summit Engineering, Inc., a Pikeville-based Civil Engineering consulting firm, announced recently that Summit has been selected by the City of Bristol, Virginia, to design, build and operate an 18 hole golf course. The facility will be located on Clear Creek in Washington County on a 450 acre tract of property owned by the City of Bristol.

Locally, Summit has provided design and construction management services on the Mountain Pub Links Golf Course in Pike County and the Raven Rock Golf Course (which just opened for play) in Jenkins. Sykes indicated Bristol representatives toured these facilities prior to their selection. They were impressed with the quality of both facilities.

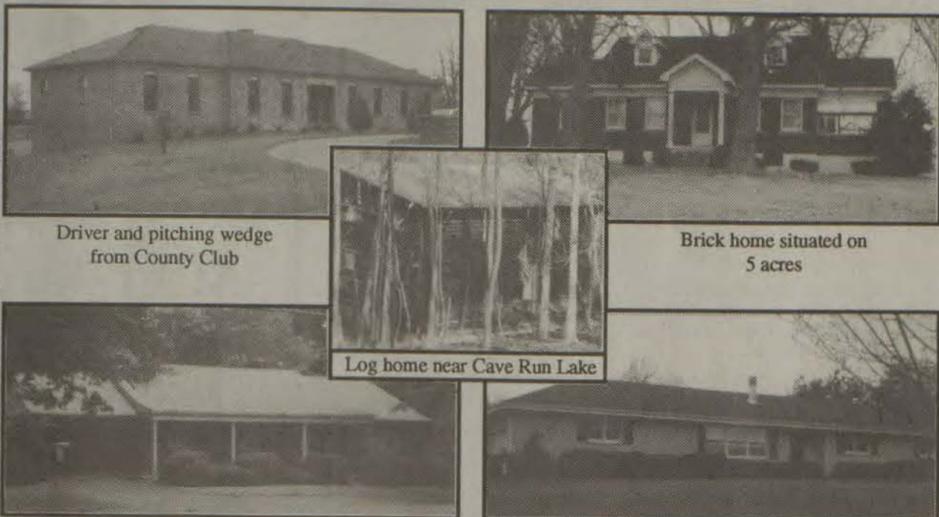

Summit Partners will jointly own the facility with the city. Sykes said an innovative development plan using private expertise and management skills in conjunction with the city low interest borrowing power had created a win-win situation for both the developer and the city.

The course is planned as an upper scale daily fee facility. A 200 lot residential development is also planned around the golf course. The development schedule calls for plans to be complete by fall with construction taking place during the 1996 construction season. Opening is projected for the Spring of 1997.

Sykes said he was anxious to begin design, indicating the Clear Creek property offers the potential to create a challenging and exciting golf course. He indicated the 4.5 million dollar construction budget will allow for the construction of a quality facility.

Hawthorne impressive from any angle

by Associated Designs

Designed to take full advantage of a corner lot, the Hawthorne can be admired from many angles. The symmetrical, richly glassed central section spotlights an imposing brick colonnade. A classical keystone caps the entry arch. The wings are asymmetrical, each detailed differently.

Vaulted ceilings expand the master suite along with all of the family living areas except the den. At the core is a huge family room, completely open to a spacious kitchen with plenty of workspace to accommodate multiple cooks.

Windows flank the large fireplace in the family room and there's an entertainment center tucked in the corner.

Windows line the rear wall of the kitchen and morning room, creating a naturally bright space. A door provides patio access, handy for outdoor dining, and a large walk-in pantry offers ample storage for canned goods and staples.

Utilities, including a fold-down ironing board, folding counter and sink, are just steps away from the kitchen, garage and secondary bedrooms.

The master suite fills most of the left wing. It boasts a walk-in closet as large as some bedrooms, and a sumptuous private bathroom with garden tub, twin basins, shower, linen storage and private toilet. Relaxing in the tub, you can enjoy gazing at blooms and foliage in the exterior planter, just outside the window. A door in the master suite opens onto a private, partially covered patio.

Secondary bedrooms share a central bathroom with double vanity.

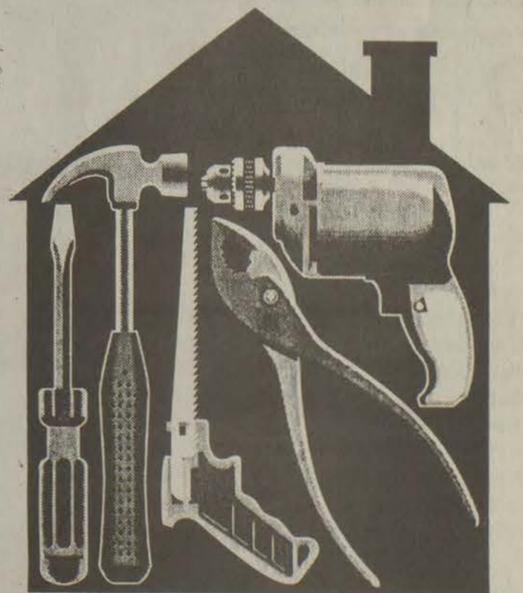

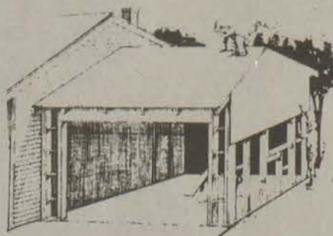

A small powder room on the opposite side of the house serves visitors.

The Hawthorne also has a deep three-car garage, with extra space for storage and a work bench.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $15 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, Ore. 97402.

Please specify the Hawthorne 30054 and include a return address when ordering.

PUBLIC NOTICE

In accordance with the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act, written policies and procedures have been developed which describe the Floyd County School District's (FCSD) requirements regarding the confidentiality of personally identifiable information. Stated in this notice is a summary of your rights under the Act. These rights are passed on to the student at age eighteen. For the purpose of this notice, the student 18 years or older will be referred to as "eligible" students. Parents, guardians, and eligible students may review and inspect all education records relating to that student by making a request to the Principal of the school where that student attends.

The FCSD will presume that the parent has the authority to review and inspect records relating to their children unless the district has been advised in writing that the parent does not have legal authority under applicable state law governing such matters as guardianship, separation, and divorce.

Personally identifiable information is not released to another party unless there is written authorization from the parent or eligible student, or there is a "Legitimate Educational Interest" as defined in the policies and procedures for confidentiality. A current list of employees' names and positions who have access to personally identifiable information is on file in each school. The FCSD has described in its policies and procedures the conditions under which personally identifiable information is released to another person without written parental consent.

"Directory Information" is information contained in an educational record which would not generally be considered harmful or an invasion of privacy if disclosed. This information may be released to news media, athletic organizations, scholarship or college entrance committees, or official organizations whose need for data is connected with student help activities. "Directory Information" includes, but is not limited to the student's name, address, telephone listing, date and place of birth, major field of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, degrees and awards received, and the most recent previous educational agency or institution attended.

The parent, guardian, or eligible student currently enrolled, may request all or part of the directory information be withheld. The request must be in writing to the Principal of your child's school, within 30 calendar days after this notification has been distributed. The written request must specifically state what information may not be classified as directory information.

In accordance with federal regulation concerning the release of educational records, it is the policy of this school district to forward education records on request to a school in which a student seeks or intends to enroll. Parents may obtain upon request a copy of the records transferred.

The Floyd County Schools keeps child and youth records in a secure computer system and in locked files in each school and central office.

Any parent or guardian of a student, or any eligible student, may challenge the content or accuracy of any material or entries in the student's educational records on the grounds that it is inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise in violation of the privacy or other rights of the student. Requests to amend the records are submitted to the principal of your child's school.

For students who have been determined eligible for programs for children and youth with disabilities, educational records will be destroyed at the request of the parent when they are no longer needed to provide educational programs and services. The FCSD will destroy the educational records of a child or youth without a parent's request after the records have been maintained for a minimum period of seven years and are no longer needed to provide educational programs and services. Parents are advised that data contained in the records may be later needed for Social Security purposes. The FCSD retains for an indefinite period of time, a record of the student's name, address, telephone number, grades, attendance record, classes completed, and year completed.

Children and youth determined eligible for special education include those children and youth with disabilities who have hearing impairments, vision impairments, emotional and behavior disorders, both deafness and blindness, learning impairments, specific learning disabilities, mental disabilities, multiple disabilities, speech and language impairments, physical disabilities, autism, or traumatic brain injuries, and who because of these impairments need specially designed instruction and related services.

The Floyd County Schools has an ongoing Child Find system, which is designed to find any child or youth, age birth up to 22 years, who may have a disability and need special education. This includes children and youth who are not in school or those who are in school but are not receiving the special education they need to have an appropriate public education.

The Floyd County Schools will make sure any child or youth who has a disability, regardless of how severe the disability, is provided an appropriate public education at no cost to the parents of the child or youth.

Parents, relatives, public and private agency employees, and concerned citizens are urged to help the Floyd County Schools find any infant, toddler, child, or youth who may have a disability and need special education and related services. The district needs to know the name and age, or date of birth of the child or youth; the name, address, and phone of the parent or guardian; the possible disability; and other information to determine if special education is needed.

Letters and phone calls are some of the ways Floyd County Schools collect the information needed. The information the school district collects will be used to contact the parents of the child or youth and find out if the child or youth needs to be evaluated or referred for special education services.

If you know of a child or youth who lives in Floyd County, who may have a disability, and is not receiving needed services bring, telephone, or send the information to:

Brenda Fish
Director of Special Education
Floyd County Schools
34 A Richmond Plaza
Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653
(606) 886-3014 Extension 222

Child Find activities will continue throughout the school year. As part of these efforts, Floyd County Schools will use screening information, student records, and basic assessment information it collects on all children and youth in the district to help locate those children and youth who have a disability and need special education.

Any information the district collects through Child Find is maintained confidentially.

Parents, guardians, or eligible students have the right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education related to perceived failures by the district to comply with confidentiality requirements. The address is: Family Policy and Regulations Office, U.S. Department of Education, Washington, D.C., 20202.

Written policies and procedures have been developed which describe the district's requirements regarding the confidentiality of personally identifiable information and Child Find activities. There are copies in the Principal's office of each school, and at the Board of Education office. Copies describing these policies and procedures may be obtained by contacting:

Maurice Allen
Director of Pupil Personnel
Floyd County Schools
69 North Arnold Avenue
Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653
(606) 886-2354, Extension 104

The district office is open Monday through Friday, from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

If you know of someone who may need this notice translated to another language, given orally, or delivered in some other manner, please contact the Director of Pupil Personnel or the Director of Special Education at the address or phone number listed above for the district office.

KHEAA grants aiding students bound for college

Over 30,000 Kentucky students enrolling in post secondary educational institutions for the 1995-95 academic year have been offered Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) Grants, which include the College Access Program (CAP) Grant and the Kentucky Tuition Grant (KTG). Awards to these students total $27.7 million, according to Paul P. Borden, executive director of KHEAA.

A CAP Grant may be used at an eligible Kentucky public or private nonprofit college or proprietary school or publicly operated vocational-technical school. The award amount for college students is equal to the community college tuition rate (for the 1995-96 academic year, the amount is $41 per semester hour not to exceed $490 per semester). Students attending a proprietary school or vocational-technical school receive awards equal to the tuition rate at publicly operated vocational-technical schools (for the 1995-96 year, the amount per quarter is $150 for full-time, $125 for three-quarter time, and $100 for half-time enrollment).

of all eligible applicants were met, Executive Director Borden said that several sources of financial aid are still available.

Applications for Federal Stafford Loans (both subsidized and unsubsidized) and Federal PLUS Loans for parents are being accepted and processed. In addition, students may establish eligibility for the Federal Pell Grant Program or for financial aid available through some Kentucky colleges.

KHEAA Grant funds are limited and those who apply early—by March 15 for the 1996-97 academic year—will have the best chance of receiving funds.

Hammond graduates

Glenn Martin Hammond of Martin is a member of the 1994-95 class of Salmon P. Chase College of Law, Northern Kentucky University.

He is a son of Jim Hammond of Martin and grandson of Lillie Hammond, also of Martin.

A top scholar

KTG awards may be used at an eligible Kentucky private, nonprofit institution. The maximum award for a full-time student is $1,500 per school year.

Both CAP and KTG funds are now depleted for the 1995-96 academic year, and new applicants will not be sent individual notification letters. Although KHEAA Grant funds were exhausted before the needs

Jeremy Nathan Elliot of Allen Central High School is one of the top ranked high school seniors being honored by WSAZ television 3 salute to the "Best of the Class of 1995." Elliot will appear in public service announcements during June.

Pike Countian awarded Campbell Scholarship

Scholarship winner

Tiffany Hall of Virgie was recently awarded the Henry A. Campbell Memorial Scholarship sponsored by Jenny Wiley Theatre. She is pictured with Jenny Wiley Drama Association President Martin Childers. Hall has also been honored with a Resident Assistant position with the Governor's School for the Arts and the Janette Newman Dance Award from Virginia Intermont College where she is on the Dean's List.

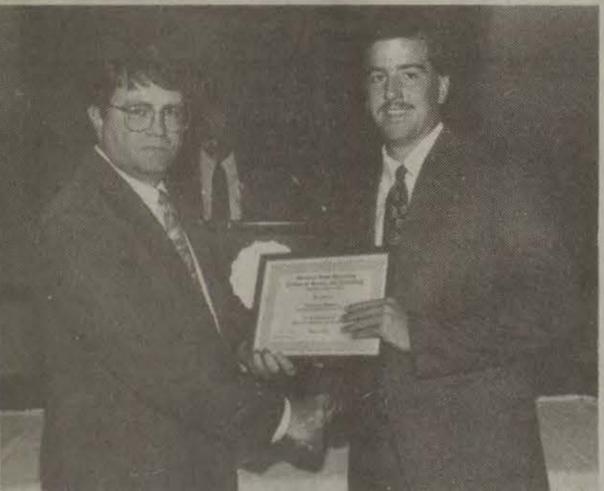

Tiffany A. Hall, a native of Virgie, was recently named the 1995 recipient of the Henry A. Campbell Jr. Memorial Scholarship, which is sponsored by the Jenny Wiley Theatre Educational Outreach program and is awarded each year to a deserving student of the performing arts.

Hall is a sophomore at Virginia Intermont College in Bristol, Virginia, and is working toward her Bachelor of Fine Arts degree with an emphasis in dance. To her credit, Hall has 16 combined years of dance education, the last two coming under Harolyn Guadette at V.I.C., where she maintains a 3.447 collegiate grade point average. In addition, she was the first dancer to be accepted to the Kentucky Governor's School for the Arts without having any previous formal training.

Hall said she plans to use the funds from the award toward her tuition at Virginia Intermont.

The scholarship award is named for Dr. Henry Campbell, a former Jenny Wiley Drama Association president and emeritus trustee of Jenny Wiley Theatre. Dr. Campbell's vision and leadership have helped shape the theatre's mission and the award is named in his honor and memory.

During their trip, the students visited landmarks, met with the Kentucky Congressional Delegation, and met with many other students from around the nation. The students represented schools throughout all three counties and received a tour of the Capitol.

by Sen. Wendell Ford

A COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS FOR CONGRESS

About this time of year, I'm usually speaking at one or two graduations. But for the first time in ages, my schedule didn't allow me to give a commencement address. I've found myself missing that annual ritual of reflecting on the accomplishments of a new generation of talent, laying down the challenges for the future as I see them, and of course, handing out a piece or two of advice.

While I'll probably get another chance to attend one of Kentucky's commencement ceremonies, thousands of Kentuckians might never get the opportunity to attend college, much less their own commencements.

That's because the Republican budget proposal now before Congress cuts $14 billion in student loans, largely by requiring college students to pay interest on the loans while they're still in school. Even more frustrating, those cuts are going to pay for a $170 billion tax cut for America's most well-off.

So, today my advice isn't for the graduates, it's for the legislators willing to jeopardize so many futures.

In this country, education has always been considered the great equalizer, providing children from all economic backgrounds with the knowledge and skills to pursue their dreams. And, the very future of this country is dependent on turning those dreams into reality, providing us with our future doctors, skilled craftsmen, teachers, farmers, leaders and just as important, an informed citizenry.

But despite this reality, some legislators are willing to deny thousands of Kentuckians a chance to build a quality future. And the effects will be immediate. 55,000 Kentucky college students currently using student loans, could see between $3,000 and $4,900 added to their bill. That's an increase of 18 percent per month.

I've already heard one Congressman lamenting about how, in his day, he worked his way through school. Well, you'd have to be pretty out-of-touch not to know that Kentucky's young adults are still working their way through school. But even if a student puts in 40 hours a week at minimum wage, they'll be hard pressed to meet the growing costs of going to college.

Last year, the Wall Street Journal estimated that a student beginning college in 1995 can expect to spend $41,687 over four years at a public university and $87,103 over four years at a private university. And those estimates would be even higher if students are forced to begin paying interest on their student loans immediately.

On the Senate floor, I asked my colleagues to go back to their states and ask a few constituents—not the one percent in line for a $20,000 per year tax break—whether they'll be able to send their son or daughter to college with this change.

I feel certain their constituents will tell them "no." And that's bad news for this country, where the magazine Business Week stated in no uncertain terms, "today, you can all but forget about joining the middle class unless you go to college." And it's bad news for Kentucky where we rank 48th in the country in the number of our young adults who go on to college.

So remember legislators, the world that is before us is the one we choose to create. Each day we make decisions that impact and shape our community, sometimes in small ways, sometimes in not so small ways, but always in the way of our choosing.

Commencement day is a combination of pride and laughter, of good times remembered and solemn recognition of all that we still have to learn. But it's also a door opener—a way to secure a more financially stable life.

Don't shut it on so many promising futures.

PCC graduate honored by General Assembly

Sheila Tipton, who has overcome a disability to graduate from Prestonsburg Community College, was recognized by the General Assembly Thursday evening for her "never quit" attitude.

During Commencement ceremonies at the Jenny Wiley State Park Amphitheatre, Tipton received an Associate in Arts degree from PCC. She also received a commendation from the state House of Representatives which was presented to her by Rep. Gregory D. Stumbo of Prestonsburg.

Stumbo, the majority floor leader in the House, presented Tipton with a copy of a citation issued last January 5 by the House. The citation, signed by Stumbo and House Speaker Jody Richards of Bowling Green, was prompted by recognition given to Tipton by Gov. Brereton Jones and the Kentucky Disabilities Coalition during Kentucky Abilities Month for "her extraordinary achievements." The House commendation honors Tipton for her "phenomenal courage and fortitude in the face of physical adversity." It recognizes her for "rejecting medical deterrents and seemingly unsurpassable challenges to become a living monument to determination, unwavering commitment and extraordinary aspiration."

A 23-year-old who plans to transfer to the University of Kentucky, Tipton is afflicted with cerebral palsy, a nervous-system disorder that can affect motor skills. She contracted the condition after being deprived of oxygen for several minutes after birth.

She is no stranger to breaking barriers. The first was simply surviving. Her doctors predicted she would die or, at best, lead a severely restricted life.

She was able to walk, and later to drive, until the age of 13, when declining health forced her to quit high school and begin using a cart to get around.

A year later, she earned a high school equivalency diploma and, in 1991, entered the Carl D. Perkins Rehabilitation Center in Thelma for a vocational adjustment program. She began attending classes at PCC the following year, while continuing to live at the rehab center.

One of her more recent barrier-breaking performances came last fall when she was elected Homecoming Princess at PCC. As the college's Homecoming royalty, she joined her counterparts from 12 other UK community colleges on the field at Commonwealth Stadium before the Wildcats' homecoming football game.

Following her election as Homecoming Princess, Tipton appeared at fall festival parades in Prestonsburg and neighboring towns, riding in a van carrying a sign that read: "Just Never Quit."

The House citation presented to Tipton during Commencement says, "This prestigious body joins those many admirers and supporters in recognizing (Tipton's) enormous heart, her 'never quit' attitude and applauds Governor Jones and the Kentucky Disabilities Coalition for the statewide memorial during Kentucky Abilities Month of her extraordinary achievements. The Kentucky House of Representatives extends best wishes and every hope for future successful endeavors."

Tipton is the daughter of Opal and Jeffrey Hawkins of Louisville. She is a member of the Baptist Student Union and Health Advisory Board at PCC and an adviser to Section 504 ADA Committee, Advocate for the Disabled. She has been on the Dean's List and President's List at PCC and is listed in "Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges."

Her classmates have praised Tipton for her energy, sunny disposition and strong commitment to continuing her education. She plans to pursue a bachelor's degree in social work at UK.
