Buffalo one of two projects funded

by Pam Shingler
Editor

Water projects that will affect residents and economic growth in the region have been funded by two government agencies.

The US Department of Agriculture, through its Rural Development organization, has awarded $540,000 — half loan, half grant — to the City of Prestonsburg for a Buffalo Creek project.

With the funding, Prestonsburg Utilities will construct a 200,000-gallon water storage tank, a booster pump station and about 11 miles of waterlines to the Buffalo Creek area of Floyd County. Seldon Horne, superintendent of the local utility commission, said the project will extend existing lines at Cow Creek into Buffalo, serving about 120 customers.

"These families currently have no safe or reliable source of drinking water," Horne said. "Many of the families must purchase bottled drinking water because their well water is too contaminated to drink."

Work on the Buffalo Creek project is expected to begin in the

Screening group in place for superintendent search

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

At Tuesday night's special-called meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education, Interim Supt. Mike King said the screening committee to select a new superintendent is almost complete.

All members had been selected at that time, except the two teachers who were chosen later in the week.

The law requires that the screening committee be composed of two teachers, elected by the teachers in the district; one board member, appointed by the board chairman;

one principal, elected by the principals in the district; one classified employee elected by the classified employees in the district; and one parent, elected by the presidents of the parent-teacher organizations of the school district.

The Floyd County superintendent screening committee includes two teachers, Connie Gearheart of South Floyd Middle School and Bud Reynolds of South Floyd High; board chairman Terry Dotson; Principal Carole Combs of May Valley Elementary; one classified

Unsure of address? City 911 checking files

Persons residing within the Prestonsburg city limits who don't know their correct address or who have forgotten it need to call City 911 coordinator Gary Dotson.

Dotson sent out address notification letters with correct addresses for the city's enhanced 911 system earlier in the year, but not all residents know their address, he said.

If you live in the city and have not received a notification letter, have misplaced your letter, or are not sure what your proper E-911 address is, call Dotson at 886-0442.

To make sure your address can be clearly read by emergency personnel, Dotson offers the following tips for posting your address:

- Place the house/apartment number on the house or on a post, pole, or fence at the street.
- Use numbers that are at least three inches high and are visible from the street.
- Numbers should be a durable, reflective material.
- Remove any old, incorrect addresses.

Correct posting of the new number will assist fire, police and other emergency personnel in quickly locating you in times of emergency.

Girls can choose from numerous dresses and sweaters. Boys clothing sets ranges from match-

Senior citizen centers will get new look with state's budget surplus funding

by Pam Shingler
Editor

New vehicles and extensive remodeling are in the works for four Floyd County senior citizens centers, thanks to a $200,000 gift from the state.

Centers at Betsy Layne, McDowell, Mud Creek and Wayland are receiving $50,000 each through the Floyd Fiscal Court. The money comes from the state's budget surplus.

The Betsy Layne center is getting a thorough going-over.

Director Annetta Yates said the money will be spent, first, on redoing the interior of the building, "painting, new carpeting, new furniture, new ceiling, new tile."

If enough is left in the allocation, Yates said she hopes to have an addition to the building for a recreation area.

Ellen Brown, director of the McDowell Senior Citizens Center, said the first priority of her board is to buy a lift bus to better accommodate seniors in the area. She said they would also like to buy a car for use in delivering meals to homebound seniors, as well as "some little items."

Brown said that an even greater need is to have the hillside behind the center shored up, but the current grant would not begin to cover the necessary work. "That $50,000 would have been like spitting on that hill," she laughed.

A substantial addition to the building is planned at the Mud Creek Senior Center. Director Loretta Bentley said the renovation will extend the dining room and add

Board hears good financial news

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

The Floyd County Board of Education got some news from the auditor at Tuesday's special-called meeting that members are not accustomed to seeing — all positive fund balances.

Roger Conley, a representative of Kelley, Galloway and Company, said the audit report reflected financial stability for the school year ending June 30, 1998.

"We're not accustomed to seeing these kinds of numbers," board member Johnnie Ross said, jokingly.

Although the system ended the year positively, the report identified weaknesses in practices with cash receipts, dual signatures, time sheets, cash disbursement, and purchase orders.

Board Chairman Terry Dotson asked that Interim Superintendent Mike King and the finance department have a report on these five areas ready for the February board meeting.

Member Jody Mullins asked Conley if the ending balance of $921,631 included money for litigation and was told that an additional $935,000 was set aside for this purpose.

Regarding litigation, the report said, "The District is subject to legal actions in various stages, the final outcome of which is not determinable at this time. A liability in the amount of $3,407,924 has been estimated with the current portion of $935,000 being provided in the General Fund and the remainder of $2,472,924 accounted for in the General Long Term Debt Account Group."

As for the areas of weakness, Conley recommended that all checks coming into the school system be endorsed "for deposit only" and that a listing of receipts, including cash, be made and compared to each day's deposits. He also advised that more than one person should be involved with the recording.

The audit report found "several instances" where only one signature was on checks and advised that all disbursements have dual signatures.

"Several instances" were noted when a classified employee's time sheet was missing, most for special checks that were run between normal pay periods. The recommendation was that time sheets for special checks be maintained like any other pay period.

The audit also advised that the need for state-mandated purchase orders be re-emphasized to all employees.

The board has set Dec. 15 for a work session and each board member has been asked to fax suggestions for the meeting to board chairman Dotson.

One consent item, the approval of McDowell Elementary student rule book, led to a discussion of consistency of rules. Board member Carol Stumbo was concerned about the wording on rules concerning suspension and expulsion in the McDowell handbook.

Mullins made a motion that the matter be tabled until board attorney Mike Schmitt has a chance to review the handbooks of both the district and the school.

Schmitt said he would review the rules and see that McDowell's handbook is aligned with the district document. "All documents concerning students should be consistent," said Schmitt.

When the motion to pay bills came up, Stumbo had some questions about coding and suggested that the central office keep a closer watch on spending at individual schools.

State manager Arnold Carter said the system plans to give quarterly reports to schools so each school will know what its balance is in each category.

Interim Supt. King said there were some problems with coding, but he emphasized the system has become much more efficient in handling financial matters.

Ross suggested that it might be cost effective for some schools to get area dialing, a concept that spreads local calling over a wider area.

The board approved Stumbo Elementary Parent/Teacher Association's request for two fund raisers: (1) selling Avon Christmas ornaments and other Christmas items to purchase Microsoft Science and (2) a dance on Feb. 12 to raise money for gym bleachers. The items could not be purchased through the school or district because of lack of funds.

Ross said the board should be certain that the Avon project did not involve a Floyd County teacher acting as a representative for Avon. When board members expressed concern about students selling door to door, board chairman Terry Dotson reminded them that the request indicated the Avon project would be done by parents using the phone and the dance would be walk-in ticket sales. "We have to take their word on the method of doing the project," Dotson said.

The board approved a plan that would allow the Floyd County Health Department and Our Lady of the Way Hospital to survey tobacco use among school-age children.

The two organizations are seeking a grant from Goals 2000 to help prevent the use of tobacco. They need to collect statistical information regarding tobacco use to support their grant request. The Floyd County Schools will be the only agency surveyed.

The board approved an exception to policy for para-professional pay.

This exception will allow employees who are not full-time to be paid on a timely basis after services have been rendered by filing a standard invoice and having the appropriate department submit a purchase order.

In the past such employees had three options for payment: 50 percent on Dec. 31 and 50 percent on June 30; 100 percent on June 30, or divided among the remaining pay periods.

All board members were present for the meeting.

Martin gets funding for police

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

Even though the City of Martin is in dire need of funds for sewage and water improvements, grant funds are making it possible for the city to upgrade its police force.

The city has received a grant of $97,790 under the Community Oriented Policing Services (COPS) Universal Hiring Program to hire three full-time and one part-time police officers.

The funds for these positions span a three-year period.

The Martin Housing Authority (MHA) is assisting with these positions through a US Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) grant for $40,000 for drug abuse prevention.

MHA director Bruce Coleman said some of the money would help pay salaries for the police officers and some would be used for other security measures at the housing sites.

Coleman emphasized that the purpose of the involvement with the city police is prevention of potential problems.

He said that the grant would serve the city of Martin in dealing with problems related to drugs and the benefits would impact the residents of the housing sites.

The agreement between the City and the housing authority calls for frequent visits from the police to the housing site.

The requirements for the police jobs include a high school education and a non-felon status. Once hired, officers must go through training.

Applications can be picked up at City Hall in Martin daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Applications will be accepted until Dec. 15.

Dedication

At the recent open house for the Hospice of the Big Sandy, director Claire Arsenault and James Pelphrey Jr. unveiled a memorial monument in honor of the late James Pelphrey Sr., who was cared for by Hospice during his illness. "All the sweaters are hand-made with love," Nelson said.

This is the fifth year that the Town Branch Church has been part of the distribution program.

"We started with 50 coats," Earlene Nelson said. "This year, we have 1,500."

Nelson is expecting around 27 cartons containing outfits, shoes, care kits, sweaters, pajamas, robes and nightgowns to arrive before the distribution on December 19.

The church has already given away hundreds of coats through its coat distribution program.

The coats were given to churches, resource centers, Mountain

Comprehensive Care and various organizations, where they will be dispersed.

On Thursday, volunteers loaded up around 300 to 500 coats to take to Knott County children, and Nelson said plenty of coats will be left for the Christmas clothing giveaway.

The church also operates a food pantry and a new and used clothing center. The items are distributed free. That center is open each weekday, except Wednesday, from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. and is staffed by Gary McCoy.

Once the committee is selected and before it begins its work, the board should, by board action, charge it with (1) criteria for screening applicants; (2) maintenance of confidentiality, except as may be necessary for background and reference checks; (3) number of applicants to recommend to the board; (4) when to make recommendations to the board; and (5) when to surrender all applicant files to the board.

King, referring to material from the Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA), advised the board that it conducts a search for superintendent and that the screening committee's job, briefly, is to seek applicants, review qualifications, and make recommendations to the board.

Associate Education Commissioner Tom Willis reminded the board that KSBA is not the only organization that helps the search committees. He mentioned some private firms and even the Kentucky Education Association (KEA) as possible organizations to assist the board in their search.

Willis reminded the board that they should use whatever firm they choose effectively. "Get what you want, and work with them," Willis said.

Board member Johnnie Ross, trying to establish ground rules, asked about the integrity of the search. Willis told him that the board has scheduled a work session to discuss the superintendent search for next Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at Adams Middle School.

The present arrangement allows for seating for only about 35 persons, and the extension will accommodate double that number.

Bentley said the remodeling will also include enlarging the kitchen.

At the Wayland Senior Center, the purchase of a vehicle for home meal deliveries is tops on the list of how to spend the state grant. Between 20 and 25 seniors in the area receive the meals, according to director Sharon Anderson.

A new steam table and food warmers are on the list, along with a much-needed heating and cooling system for the back part of the building, said Anderson, who added that the facility will also be replumbed.

Anderson's longer list includes new furniture, a roof over the ramp into the building, and a picnic shelter.

Horne said the commission will send information, within the next month or so, to families in the affected area, telling them how to sign up for water service.

With another area project, inmates at the new federal prison at the junction of Martin, Johnson and Floyd counties will not go thirsty.

The Appalachian Regional Commission has approved a $400,000 grant for the Martin County Water District to take waterline extensions to the prison, the Honey Branch Industrial Park, Big Sandy Regional Airport and about 80 residential customers.

According to an announcement from US Rep. Hal Rogers' office, the water district will construct 18 miles of waterline.

In addition, the district's water treatment plant will be upgraded, a pump station installed and a new 80-gallon water storage tank erected for the airport and industrial park.

"Water is critical to our region," Rogers said. "Not only does it ensure that our people have clean, safe water to drink, but it also opens up the area to growth and economic development."

Regarding the age-old dichotomy of glass half-full/half-empty, do you look at the coming new millennium with hope or with dread? Do you think optimistically about a bright future? Or, do you think we're going you-know-where in a hand-basket?

Shell Oil sponsored a recent nationwide poll to gauge Americans' opinions of life in the next century. The primary finding is that we seem to be approaching the new millennium with more hope than dread.

Two-thirds of those polled reportedly said they are optimistic about the future for themselves and their families. Ironically, fewer — 58 percent — seem to be optimistic about the future of the country. Apparently, some of those two-thirds are able to separate their own fate from that of their country's.

Among younger Americans — those under age 35, the poll says 69 percent are very optimistic about their own lives, but just over half (52 percent) feel optimistic about the prospects for the nation.

How can the issues be separated? How is it possible for any of us to "feel good" about our own future and, at the same time, to "feel bad" about our country's future? At what point can we make a distinction?

It would seem that if the country is on a downward turn, then ultimately the individuals who make up the country are also on that same slope.

Hope vs dread

For this not to be so, then it seems we would have to separate ourselves from the country, to emigrate to another country, or, at the least, to an outback deep in the Appalachians or the Rockies.

To stay here, out in the open, participating in the larger society, we have to acknowledge that we're all in this together — whatever "this" is. If we are optimistic about the future of ourselves and our families, then we must be optimistic about the future of our country. If we are pessimistic about the future of our country, then we must be pessimistic about our own future and our family's future.

Perhaps if we recognize the interrelation, then we can work together to improve the prospects for all in the 21st century. — Pam Shingler

HOMEMAKERS ARE APPRECIATED

Editor:

Please allow me this opportunity to thank the Floyd County Homemakers for decorating the lobby of May Lodge. They have diligently worked throughout the past year making the ornaments that they hung on the tree in our lobby. Their dedication for this project has been greatly appreciated by our guests, the staff and myself. It gives us great pride to have a facility that is enjoyed by so many.

Thank you for giving me this opportunity to publicly thank these ladies and we encourage everyone to come out to see our lodge that is completely decorated for the holidays. I wish you all a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

STUDENT GRATEFUL FOR SCIENCE CENTER

Editor's note: The following letter was sent to Dr. Duane Sanders, director of the Eastern Kentucky Center for Science, Mathematics and Technology, following the center's recent banquet.

Dr. Sanders:

Mom and I want to thank you for the wonderful evening we spent with you at the first annual (center) banquet. I enjoyed myself more last night than any dinner I have been invited to. The food was wonderful and the company the best.

I enjoyed having Dr. Newsom as a dinner companion. Our conversation was thrilling and he's the first person I ever met who knew Bill Ready personally. I almost cried.

I did cry on the way home over the wonderful news that your center will be able to choose five students in 1999 to the NASA Space Academy.

Dr. Sanders, it is so hard to express what this means to students such as myself. We hunger for an education at a time when we are under terrible peer pressure to conform to lower standards. We wonder if anyone notices the effort we give. A trip such as this can make the difference between going on and giving up.

We don't ask that you do our work for us or give us a free ride. We ask only that we have the knowledge available to arm us for the fight ahead.

My generation faces problems unlike any other generation before us. Global warming, AIDS — it's hard to imagine what we face. Because of your center, I believe, the lives you touch will go on to make a difference for the common good.

I will endeavor to succeed in life and, in turn, I promise I will give to others what your center has given me.

MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL THIEVES

Editor:

Christmas is supposed to be a happy day, but for me it will be sad. On December 3, I was at K-Mart and thieves stole my purse.

I thought I was safe at a big store like that, but I didn't know they didn't have good security cameras with all this updated video equipment.

I don't blame them as much as I can't understand why a thief has to wait till Christmas time to make himself look good to his family by stealing someone else's money.

Any woman knows her purse carries things that don't matter to anyone else. I just wish that whoever knows anything about who stole my purse would let me know, or the state police at Pikeville.

It takes 30 days to get a monthly check and it takes a thief 30 seconds to steal it from you. I want to wish the thief that steals from others a Merry Christmas and while you're smiling remember, I'm not.

REMEMBERING MISS KATHRYN

by Kathy May

Her gray head bobbed above the polished top of the piano as she played and sang in her strong alto voice. We children sat in metal folding chairs on plywood risers and sang along. It was here in Miss Kathryn Frazier's music class in the basement of Prestonsburg Elementary that I learned to love music.

From the late 50's to the mid-60's she was my music teacher and she affected me profoundly, as all good teachers do their students. Miss Kathryn touched the lives of thousands of Floyd County children during her 40 years of teaching.

She introduced us to the music of America and the world. After all these years I still remember most of the words to the folk song "Old Dan Tucker." "Old Dan Tucker was a mighty man. Washed his face in a frying pan. Combed his hair with a wagon wheel. Died with a toothache in his heel." I sing it now to my own young children and they're just as delighted with its nonsense as I was.

When I go out walking with my family I'll start singing a line from an old song, like "I Love to Go a Wandering Along the Mountain Track" and my kids will ask "How do you know that?" I think back and remember that I learned it in Miss Kathryn's music

QUOTE OF THE WEEK...

He who tells a lie to save his credit, wipes his mouth with his sleeve to spare his napkin.
—Sir Thomas Overbury

PostScript

by Pam Shingler

This region lost a legislator to be proud of this week.

Rep. Paul Mason of Whitesburg died Tuesday night in Boston. He had had surgery at Massachusetts General Hospital right after Thanksgiving and had developed a brain aneurysm a week ago.

The Democratic legislator had represented the people of Letcher County and part of Pike since 1987. Truth be told, he simply represented people.

I didn't know him personally. I never asked him for a favor, never bought any votes for him, never lived where I could vote for him, never interviewed him, never wrote about him until now,

Good-bye, Mr. Mason I just knew of him, and what I knew I liked.

He was known in Frankfort for his championing of people who had scant voice themselves, the poor and the sick, the ones a lot of lawmakers don't want to fool with unless there's a good photo opportunity, and then only quickly and lightly.

He pushed for programs to protect children and to provide better care for the elderly and he didn't hesitate to speak out against state policies that he believed were wrong.

He became an outspoken proponent of more money for AIDS research and treatment and for better understanding of the condition when it was quite unpopular to do so.

But, then, he had close-up and personal experience with the problems of AIDS patients. His daughter Belinda contracted the disease from a blood transfusion when she gave birth in 1987.

To the self-righteous bigots who claimed AIDS was God's punishment for a wicked life, he needed only to look at his daughter, a warm, caring wife and mother, a beautiful, articulate spokesperson, and a talented writer.

Like any father should, he fiercely spoke up on her behalf and fought those who would blame her and all the other people who suffer from AIDS for their own disease. Unfortunately, his love and fight were not enough to save her and he had to face the most agonizing experience a parent can face, the death of a child.

When I worked in Frankfort in the early '90s, I observed Mason in the legislature's general sessions and in committee meetings. He always comported himself as a gentleman.

I never saw the arrogant swagger or the sinister sneer that some of our elected officials wear so consistently. I never witnessed his participation in the antics that cause Bluegrass reporters to look down their noses at lawmakers from the mountains.

Rather, I was always proud that he represented my people, and I was always proud to say we were from the same region.

The Courier-Journal newspaper characterized Mason on Wednesday as "one of the few unabashedly liberal lawmakers remaining in Frankfort."

Perhaps that's ultimately why I liked him and respected him so much. Perhaps that's why I feel the loss so greatly. As we lose people like Mr. Mason, we move closer to losing our humanity.

class. The chorus of this Austrian hiking song was pure silliness to us but we gleefully belted out: "Val-a-ree, Val-a-Rah, Val-a-ree, Val-a-rah-ha-ha-ha-ha-ha."

She also taught us African-American spirituals like "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." In our high childish voices we sang "Coming for to carry me home," drawing out the "o" sound of "home" as long as we could, feeling some of the emotion and the history of that piece of music.

In teaching us music, Miss Kathryn gave us self-esteem and self-discipline and exposure to a wider world. She taught us the pure pleasure of singing and harmonizing as a group. We bonded when we were singing and felt pride in what we accomplished. And Miss Kathryn would beam proudly, too.

The songs she taught me all those years ago still echo in my head. I find myself humming or singing them at odd times. I sing them to my children, teaching them the words and the tunes. I pass them on. I think Miss Kathryn would be pleased.

Nominations are being sought for outstanding older workers

To celebrate the ongoing contribution and accomplishments of older workers, Green Thumb Inc. and the Kentucky Cabinet for Families and Children's Office of Aging Services are asking Kentucky businesses to nominate candidates for Kentucky's 1999 Outstanding Older Worker.

Green Thumb and the Office of Aging Services are national sponsors for the Senior Community Service Employment Program, which is administered by the US Department of Labor.

Nominees must be age 65 or above, be a resident of Kentucky, and work 20 or more hours a week for pay. The deadline for entries is Dec. 31.

Candidates may be nominated by a supervisor or a co-worker, or a worker may enter individually. To nominate, a supervisor or co-worker must provide a brief written description of the older worker's overall contribution to the business and involvement in the community.

A worker who wishes to enter must provide her or his name, date of birth, home telephone number, position or title, supervisor's name, employer's name and address, business telephone number, and the number of hours worked each week.

Regional committees of business and civic leaders will evaluate nominations to determine finalists. A statewide blue-ribbon panel will make the final selection, and the winner will be announced in January 1999.

In addition to special activities and recognition within the state, the winner and his or her employer will attend the 1999 National Prime Time Awards in Washington, DC, in March, during Employ the Older Worker Week. Their visit will include an evening tour of the city's landmarks, meetings with congressional representatives, a tour of the White House, and an awards dinner at the National Building Museum.

Any outstanding worker in any occupation may be nominated. Kentucky's 1998 outstanding older worker is Helen Clemons of Louisville. Clemons began her career in 1928 with the Progressive Paint Company Inc. for $9 per week. After 70 years, she is still working in the production line labeling and filling cans, stamping boxes and making sure the younger workers are doing their jobs with the same passion she has cultivated over the years.

"Receiving the Prime time Award was a thrill," Clemons said. "I was proud to represent Kentucky and to meet so many other older workers who are showing everybody they still have what it takes."

Other 1998 state winners from across the country included a research physician, a welder, a labor rights attorney, a heavy equipment operator, a civil engineer/surveyor, a home health aide, and the owner of a children's clothing store.

Send nominations or entries on a post card or note to Carole Kincaid, Oldest Worker Contest, Green Thumb Inc., 72 Center, Bank Plaza, P.O. Box A, Beattyville, KY 41311 or Pat Popp-Glaser, Office of Aging Services, 275 East Main St., Health Services Building, Room G-19, Frankfort, KY 40621. For more information, call Kincaid at 606-464-3675 or Glaser at 502-564-0615.

Rebels routs Pike Central

Hunter, Jones injured in win over Hawks

by Ed Taylor

It was good and it was bad! It was good that the Allen Central Rebels won over a good Pike Central team, but it was bad that leading scorer Gary Hunter and big-time player, Brian Jones, both reinjured old football injuries in the 91-65 win over the host Pike County Central Hawks Tuesday night.

"We're not a healthy team right now," said Allen Central coach Johnny Martin, following the game. "Gary hurt his back and was just getting back to where he was coming around good. Brian has a back (problem) and Nick (Samons) had a bad sprained ankle."

Both Hunter and Jones injured their backs during the football season and both went down hard during the game against the Hawks. Hunter, who is averaging over 23 points per game, went down hard in the first quarter and never returned. Jones hit the floor hard in the fourth period.

But the remaining Allen Central players arose to the challenge presented by coach David Rowe's team and pulled out their third win of the yet young season to improve to 3-0. Pike Central fell to 1-2 on the year.

Nick Samons scored 22 points to lead six players in double figures as Allen Central's defense caused the Hawks all sorts of problems. Pike Central turned the ball over 44 times in the game.

"Nick played a super game for us," said Coach Martin. "He was everywhere and he is starting to hit his shot again. We had been missing that from him."

"Our defense was great. I don't think we have forced another team into 44 turnovers before," he said.

When the game unfolded, it appeared that Pike Central was on the way to the early blowout as they raced out to a 14-5 lead before Allen Central regrouped by calling a time out. Coming out of the break, Allen Central looked like a different team. What happened?

"I chewed them out," said the Allen Central coach. I told them we weren't playing hard and weren't moving the ball on offense."

Allen Central, a pressing club, could not get their pressing defense set with the lack of scoring and that concerned Coach Martin.

"We thought we could press them," he said. "But when we weren't scoring we couldn't get into our press."

Pike Central grabbed the nine-point lead early at 14-5, coming out of the tipoff running. It was 6-0 before Josh Howell put the Rebels on the scoreboard at the 6:17 mark.

A three-pointer by Samons made it 10-5, but Pike Central scored the Hall scores 20 points as South Floyd gets first win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The South Floyd Lady Raiders' picked up their first win of the 1998-99 high school basketball season by posting a 62-54 win over Letcher County last Thursday night. Shawna Hall scored 20 points and Lindsey Hall added 15 to lead the Lady Raiders (1-2).

South Floyd got some needed play out of their seniors, but it was the young players who stepped up in this one as well.

Hall scored 13 of her 15 points in the second half, with eight coming in the third period. Her timely scoring sparked a 19-14 third quarter spurt that gave the Lady Raiders a 47-42 lead, a lead they never relinquished.

Olivia Stewart was strong on the boards and added 10 points in the victory.

Amanda Stevens led Letcher with 21 points. Misty Dixon scored 13 and Jessica Watts scored 12.

"Our seniors are starting to make an impact," said Ronnie Patton, South Floyd coach. "Also, a lot of our young players are showing signs of improvement."

South Floyd held a 16-11 first quarter lead. Stewart, who seemed to camp at the charity stripe in the first quarter, scored five points in the period. She hit one of five free throws and was two for seven in the game. Hall had seven first quarter points for the Lady Raiders.

Letcher fought back in the second quarter and caught South Floyd as the two teams played to a 28-28 standstill. Sonya Tackett came off the bench and tossed in five second quarter points for the Lady Raiders.

Turnovers seemed to continue to plague South Floyd as the team's ball handling skills have been a problem. But Coach Patton said he has seen some improvement there.

Our ball handling skills are still weak, but also I think they are getting better," he said. "Our turnovers and rebounding is the number one concern for us right now. The girls are working hard every day in those areas and I believe they will get better with more games and experience."

Christmas wishes for county coaches

"Tis the season to be jolly!"

It's Christmas time even if the weather is more like spring time. With the coming of the Christmas season, it might be good to stop and think of the basketball, football and baseball coaches and what they have on their Christmas lists.

• Allen Central's Johnny Martin has a medical doctor on his list because of all the injuries his team has suffered this season — and the season has just begun. As a stocking stuffer for the veteran coach, a nice 6'6" center would be all right.

• Betsy Layne's Tim Rice is in his second season and a video on "How To Run The Court" would be an ideal gift. Against Harrison County, the team forgot the art. But the Bobcat coach wants the jolly old man to stuff his stocking with a bottle of aspirins as well.

• Prestonsburg's Jack Pack wants an instruction manual on "How To Generate Offense" after losing to Elkhorn City 37-36. As a stocking stuffer for the veteran coach, a few three-pointers would be nice.

• South Floyd's Henry Webb says he has everything he needs for his team. He just doesn't want anymore surprises like his loss to Feds Creek. A little whistle would be a nice stocking stuffer for the coach so he could help the officials make calls they are not seeing.

• Piarist School coach Canier Hall would settle for a couple of 6'5" players. For a stocking stuffer, some quickness and speed.

While the Christmas season is just around the proverbial corner, it is unlike any of them will get what they have on their list. But they can always wish.

The Kentucky Wildcat's need a big Christmas gift and that is for their offense to show up. The Cats are struggling from the floor but are winning with their defense.

The overtime win over Indiana was a big one and Saturday night's matchup with Maryland will be a good one.

The Cats have the Terps, Duke, Georgia Tech and Louisville left in December and it won't be easy. I know games like Tuesday night's are nail biters and hard on the nerves, but I love games like that. I like it when a game goes down to the wire, the last shot in the final second. Wow! I love the college game. Who in the world would want to watch the NBA when they can watch some good college or high school games?

For 67 years now he has been following the sports scene around the 15th Region and doesn't show any signs of slowing down. Roy Martin, father of Allen Central coach Johnny Martin, is on every road trip and home game the Rebs play.

"I have been following basketball for the last 67 years," he said Tuesday night. "I would rather come down to the high school gym and watch a good high school game as to watch next two baskets, beating the Rebels to the ball for easy shots. Result: timeout, Allen Central.

Led by Jones and Samons, and Hunter out of the game, the Rebels chipped away at the lead and caught the Hawks at 16 on two free throws by Samons. Allen Central took their first lead at 19-18 on Larry Mullins' three-point basket. A rebound basket by William Bilerer gave the Hawks the first quarter lead at 20-19.

"Pike Central came out and played well to start the game," said the Allen Central mentor. "They put a chaser on Gary."

Pike Central found the Rebel defense sticky as they could not shake Allen Central and committed 16 turnovers in the second quarter that allowed Allen Central to grab a 42-30 halftime lead.

The game was last tied at 22 on a lay-in by Jody Hinkle. The lead changed hands three times in the quarter with Pike Central's last lead coming at 27-26 before Allen Central went on an 8-0 run that netted them a 34-27 advantage.

Coach Rowe, hot under the collar, was whistled for a technical foul. In the last 15 possessions with the ball, Pike Central turned the ball over 12 times against the smothering defense of the Rebels.

Mullins drained a three-pointer and it was a 37-29 game. On their last three possessions of the first half, Pike Central led 42-30 going to the locker room at the half.

"We played 12 people in the first half and I think that tired Pike Central out," said Coach Martin. "But we thought they would once we got into our press."

Pike Central took better care of the basketball in the third period, but still had six turnovers. Allen

Central steadily pulled away in the third period and went in front 62-39, building a 23-point cushion. Rodney Scott looked like a seasoned player as the sophomore made some big time moves around the Allen Central basket. Jesse Hall dominated the boards in the third period finishing with 12 rebounds.

Allen Central's biggest lead came with 59 seconds to play when Nathan Tackett drained a three-pointer that gave the Rebels a 91-61 lead.

Allen Central had 18 turnovers in the game, but Coach Martin said that was to be expected.

"The kind of game we played, that is not too many turnovers," he said. "What upset me was the silly ones. Nathan wanted to dribble into the trap but overall, we played well."

Josh Howell finished with 15 points for Allen Central, hitting two three-point baskets. Scott added 14 points and nine rebounds. Mullins and Jones totaled 12 points apiece, and Mullins had two treys. Jesse Hall netted 10 points with a trey. Tackett scored four points and Jeremy Hayes hit a base line jumper for two points.

Billiter played an excellent game for Pike Central and led the Hawks with 25 points. John Blackburn tossed in 20 while Hinkle scored 10. Brian Samons, Shawn Scott, Shannon Williams, Derick Williams and Josh Thacker had two points each for the Hawks.

Allen Central (3-0) travels to South Floyd tonight for a boys/girls doubleheader in conference play.

Prestonsburg falls at Elkhorn City in low-scoring affair, 37-36

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The first thought when you hear the final score of the Elkhorn City/Prestonsburg game last Tuesday night was which team held the ball?

Sports

After all, a 37-36 final score is more indicative of a football final rather than the final score of a high school basketball game.

But when the dust had all settled at the Elkhorn City gym, it was the Oil Springs basketball team will play long-time rival Meade Memorial that evening but at 4:30 p.m. a turkey dinner will be served in the school's cafeteria for all former players, cheerleaders, and coaches. Also, all former players, cheerleaders, coaches will be recognized at halftime of the Wildcat/Red Devil game.

A note to the grade school teams: Send us a copy of your score sheets and we will print the games in the sports section. I cannot cover both high and grade school basketball. So, if all coaches will fax me their games, I will see they get in the paper. To those who have been doing so, thanks.

I get calls wondering why this game or that game is not there. At this time it will be up to the coaches to turn them in to me.

Also, high school games need to be turned in if you want them reported. Again, I cannot be at all the places at the same time. Some of the parents call me or stop me and ask me why? If it is not in the paper, then the coaches did not turn it in. Win or lose, turn it in. It helps in naming a Player of the Week.

The Cincinnati Reds are making some changes for next year. But the changes will not win any pennants. The Reds are changing the colors in their hats and adding a black trim to the uniform. Now that will surely make them a winner.

Here is a note of interest to all cheerleaders, players, managers, teachers, principal or whoever pulled time at Oil Springs High Cougars who went home with an unimpressive 37-36 win over a very sluggish Prestonsburg team.

Elkhorn placed three players in double figures led by Alvin Anderson's 12 points. Jeremy Dorton netted 11 and Tony Freeman scored 10 for the winners.

Prestonsburg failed to place anyone in double digits but was led by Nathan Leslie's nine points. John Ortega scored seven while Russ Music and Joe Campbell netted six points each.

It wasn't the kind of game to get excited about and a trip to the concession stand assured fans that they would not miss too much action. Music gave Prestonsburg the early lead at 3-0 by drilling a three-point basket followed by an Anderson basket that made it 3-2.

With both teams running the floor looking to get untracked, baskets by Ortega, Leslie and Campbell gave Prestonsburg an 11-5 lead but Anderson scored twice inside the final 40 seconds to pull Elkhorn City to within two, 11-9, of Prestonsburg at the first stop.

Elkhorn City outscored the Blackcats 15-8 in the second period to take a 24-19 halftime lead to the locker room. Anderson scored eight points in the period. After an Anderson basket tied the game at 11, Campbell and Kalen Harris scored to give the Blackcats a 15-11 margin. But the Cougars scored nine unanswered points to go in front 20-15. Dorton and Anderson had two baskets in the run with Dorton drilling a trey with 2:26 to play in the second period.

Keathley and Leslie kept the Cats close with consecutive baskets for 10-19 game, but Anderson and Dorton answered with jumpers to give the Cougars the five-point margin at the half.

Prestonsburg opened the second half with eight straight points that netted them a 27-24 lead with 3:43

Defense sparks South Floyd past Millard

Four score in double figures in 64-48 win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The South Floyd Raiders shot only 33 percent for the game but that did not affect their intensity or defense as they posted a 64-48 win over Joe Marson's Millard Mustangs last Tuesday night at Raider Arena. The Raiders improved to 2-1 on the season.

Ryan Shannon tossed in 17 points to lead four players in double figures. Kyle Tackett, who drilled three treys, finished with 14 and Justin Paige netted 13 points. Byron Hall scored 10.

Bill Bevins, who recently returned to the Mustangs lineup after an injury, led the Mustangs with 13 points. Jason Sykes added nine points and Chris Syck eight.

South Floyd out rebounded Millard 48-36 with Jimmy Stumbo, who scored seven points, pulling down 10 boards. Hall had seven with P.J. Hall grabbing seven and blocking two shots. Coach Henry Webb said it was a needed win for his club.

"This was a good win for us," he said. "It was a good game in which we pulled away at the end. We got some solid performances from Ryan, Jimmy and Justin. Our other starters and bench contributed well. John (Meade) provided a spark off the bench for us."

Syck's three-pointer and Sykes five points kept Millard close as they trailed South Floyd 11-10 after the first quarter. Shannon scored seven points in the opening quarter with a three points basket.

In the second period, Bevins got involved in the offense and buried a three-pointer in scoring seven points with the Mustangs going to the locker room at the half trailing by three, 23-20. Paige scored five second period points for the Raiders and Shannon had four.

Tackett held the hot hand for South Floyd in the second half after scoring just two points in the first two quarters. Tackett hit his first trey in the third when he scored five points and then buried two and three in the fourth period with seven points. In something fans never thought they would see, Stumbo stepped outside the 19'9" arch and buried a three point basket in the third period.

Millard put the Raiders on the free throw line in the fourth quarter as they attempted 14 shots from the charity stripe hitting nine. South Floyd outscored the Mustangs 27-14 in the final quarter. Meade scored all three of his points in the final period.

South Floyd (2-1) will host the Allen Central Rebels in a big conference game tonight as part of a doubleheader at Raider Arena.

Coach Patton believes in getting the bench playing time as well and is not afraid to play the younger members of the squad.

"We are trying to play 11 to 12 players each night," he said. "It seems each night someone new steps up and plays well." Lindsey Hall, a sophomore, joined Shawna Hall in the third quarter and the two scored 15 of the 19 points scored by South Floyd in the third period. Shawna Hall completed an old-fashioned three-point play and scored seven points in the period.

Lindsey Hall scored five of her points in the fourth quarter as the Lady Raiders put away Letcher County for their first win.

Misty Berger, Martha Crawford and Monica Newsome scored four points apiece for the Lady Raiders. Sonya Tackett finished with five points.

to play. Ortega, Leslie and Campbell accounted for the baskets. Elkhorn really struggled offensively in the third period with only three points, a free throw by Dorton and Tony Freeman's basket. Music hit his second three-point basket of the game that gave Prestonsburg a 30-27 margin after three quarters.

With 5:55 to play in the final quarter, Blackburn hit a free throw and Dorton drained a three-pointer that sent Elkhorn in front 31-30 but a rare three-point basket by Leslie gave Prestonsburg the lead at 33-31.

From that point the lead changed hands four times, last tied at 33. Harris scored the final basket for Prestonsburg that gave them their final lead at 36-35. Freeman hit a jumper with 1:52 to play that gave the Cougars the final score of 37-36. Prestonsburg went the final 2:21 without a score. Dorton and Anderson both missed at the free throw line for Elkhorn inside the final 30 seconds. Prestonsburg had the final shot at the basket but their three-point attempt fell short.

Keathley finished with four points for Prestonsburg while Harris scored four points.

With all the warm weather in the area, the Buffalo Creek Kartway continues to hold racing at the local facility this past Sunday afternoon with 32 karts taking part in six classes.

Martin Conley won two feature races over the weekend. This past Sunday also saw David Harris, son of popular late model driver, Paul Harris, takes third place in the stock medium feature.

Conley won the stock medium as well as the stock light. James Sturgill finished behind Conley in the stock medium followed by Harris.

In the stock light, Brandon Montgomery placed second behind

Conley. Third place went to Eulis Combs.

The rich history of NASCAR

The Winston Cup Awards Banquet has been held in New York City at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel since 1982. Before that, the event was held annually in Daytona Beach, Fla., headquarters of the sport's governing body. This year, the Winston point fund was well over $5 million, which marks quite an increase over the $100,000 awarded in 1971. Richard Petty claimed the champion's portion of that fund, $40,000.

Dale Jarrett enjoys his stint on morning radio with Imus

By Monte Dutton

NASCAR This Week

NEW YORK — Dale Jarrett enjoyed his Friday morning appearance on "Imus in the Morning," the nationally syndicated radio show that also appears on MSNBC cable television.

"He (Don Imus) was easy on me," said Jarrett of the exciting talk-show host. "I really enjoyed it. It's a really good show."

STATE OF THE SPORT: Bill France Jr., looking fit and upbeat, delivered his annual address on the status of NASCAR on Dec. 3, the day before the Winston Cup Awards Banquet.

"Never before in the course of NASCAR history have we felt the excitement, the momentum and the red-hot potential that is such a powerful force today," boasted France. "We know where we are, where we're headed and what is fueling our success."

Noting that NASCAR races comprised 17 of the top 20 sporting events in the United States, defined by live attendance, France defended NASCAR's advance into a varied array of other fields.

"The race track is not our only arena," he said. "We must also thrive in the corporate arena. ... Our roles are multidimensional,

THE WINSTON CUP CIRCUIT

SLIGHT CHANGE: Winston has made a small adjustment, related to the fan awards, in its No Bull Five program.

Rather than having a drawing at the track, fans will be paired with each of the five eligible drivers, and if their driver wins the subsequent race — races at Daytona, Las Vegas, Texas, Charlotte and Talladega are in the program — the fan will win along with his driver.

AMERICA'S TEAM: While The Cartoon Network will continue to be the primary sponsor on Jerry Nadeau's No. 9 Ford, Turner Broadcasting sister companies will also get into the act at selected races.

World Championship Wrestling, the Atlanta Braves and the Turner Broadcasting show "Dinner and a Movie" will be the centerpiece of the paint job at various times.

SHUMAN AWARD: Speedway consultant Clarence Cagle was the recipient of the annual Buddy Shuman Award, named after the ex-driver. Cagle was at one time a vice president at

ALMOST HOME COOKING

Calling the menu at the Winston Cup Awards Banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria home cooking is a bit of a stretch, but this year's fare included filet mignon with mushroom gravy, a "seasonal medley of vegetables" and a flourless dessert of chocolate mousse surrounded by a border of dark chocolate.

Indianapolis Motor Speedway during a lifelong career in the sport.

"To me, the most important thing is good racing," said Cagle. "I'll try my best to continue to work toward that."

TAKING THE REINS: Mark Martin has agreed to succeed his late father, Julian, as board chair and CEO of the family trucking business.

Julian Martin died in an August plane crash. What will now be known as Mark Martin's J-Mar Express is a Searcy, Ark.-based firm that employs more than 100 people, operating coast-to-coast hauling of general commodities and temperature-controlled freight.

■ Who else but the Rainbow Warriors? Or as John Hendrick calls them, the "Rainbow Wah-yuhs." At the Winston Cup Awards Banquet, they swept virtually everything, led by crew chief Ray Evernham and engine-builder Charlie Siegars.

YOUR TURN

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week

Thanks to Rick (Hendrick) the team owner, thanks to Ray (Everbam) and all the Rainbow Warriors, and thanks to Jeff (Gordon) and his driving skills for the great year. Maybe next year will bring us Gordon fans 15 wins and another championship.

In motorcycle racing, the rider with the most points at the end of the season gets to display a big No. 1 on his machine the following year. The fans know who the champion is and will be until someone beats him. Then he goes back to his old number. Would this work in NASCAR?

I don't think a driver should be able to compete in both the Busch Series and the Winston Cup Series. They should have a choice — one or the other, but not both.

It just doesn't seem fair that the guys racing in the Busch Series should have to compete with the Winston Cup Series drivers. Do you have a comment on this?

Don Lewis
Ardmore, Okla.

Dear Don,

The awarding of No. 1 to the champion is a tradition in motorcycle racing, and used to be a tradition in Indy-car racing. The reason it is not done in NASCAR is the same reason: Tradition holds that a team is awarded a number and maintains it, regardless of season standings.

Many readers have complained about Cup drivers being able to race in Busch Grand National. Winston Cup drivers are a drawing card for BGN races, and most promoters think it helps put people in the stands in a series where sellouts are not commonplace. Also, there is a tradition in NASCAR, admittedly somewhat watered down in modern times by provisional starting spots, in which anyone can attempt to qualify for a race, and if fast enough, gets a chance. At one time, drivers such as A.J. Foyt and Mario Andretti made occasional Cup appearances. At least publicly, many BGN drivers say they like the challenge of competing with Cup stars. Remember, BGN races afford lesser-known Cup drivers like Dick Trickle and Robert Pressley a chance to run up front.

Rick Mast

John Clark/NASCAR This Week

Rick Mast says his team deserves better than what's happened the last two years.

By Monte Dutton

NASCAR This Week

Despite having considerable talent, Rick Mast has never been able to win a Winston Cup race. Now he is attempting to find another ride to continue his quest.

Mast is one of Winston Cup racing's best-liked drivers, but he may be reduced to making occasional starts, either with a part-time team or as a substitute for an injured driver.

He left Butch Mock's team at the end of the season after two years. Before that, he drove six years for Richard Jackson's team.

At Rockingham in 1994, Mast finished second to Dale Earnhardt by little more than a car length, despite having damaged his car by brushing the wall earlier in the race.

He also received acclaim by winning the pole for the first Brickyard 400 at Indianapolis.

Darrell Waltrip found himself a Ford ride in a second car fielded by Travis Carter.

No such luck, thus far, for Geoff Bodine and Rick Mast.

A former high school basketball player, Mast sponsors a charity golf tournament each year to raise money for the Rockbridge (Va.) Area Free Clinic.

P.Y.R.O.

by: Jessica Mullins

P.Y.R.O. is a new club at Prestonsburg High School this year. The name P.Y.R.O. stands for Prestonsburg Youth Reaching Out. This club meets every Wednesday and Friday morning at 7:45 a.m. The meetings are usually very informal with sharing time, songs and prayers. PYRO encouraged all interested students to attend. Meetings are in room 121 unless notified otherwise. PYRO is conducting a Christmas toy and clothes drive. Items need to be brought in by December 10.

PHS Performing arts

The Prestonsburg High School Honor Choir under the direction of Elizabeth L. Frazier is now in its 19th year. Over the past years, the choir has won numerous awards and performed all over North America. They have consistently received Superior/Distinguished ratings at the Kentucky Music Educators Association District 9 Choral forming for the opening evening of the Jenny Wiley Pioneer Festival, presenting music from the '50s, '60s and '70s. They will be performing November 22, for the Floyd County Ministerial Community Thanksgiving Service and November 29, for the First United Methodist Church Annual Hanging of the Greens. Additional performances during the Christmas Season include the Floyd County Retired Teachers, the H.R.M.C. Womens Auxiliary, Riverview Manor Nursing Home, the Senior Citizens and the P.H.S. Band and Mixed Chorus Concert on December 6.

The highlight of the busy Christmas Season will be the Annual Christmas Concert, December 10 at 7:30 p.m. and matinee presented earlier in the day for area students. The Grand Finale will include the Alumni singing, "Let All Mortal Flesh" and "Alleluia." Tickets for the Concert will be available from the Honor Choir members or from the school office.

PHS marching band

by Rachel Cavinis

Senior Band member

The PHS marching band has had many accomplishments this past year. The season started as we went to Ripley, West Virginia for band camp at the end of July. After spending a week learning music and drill moves, we knew the show wasn't going to be as easy as we had thought. Practicing three times a week for two hours a day, and giving everything we had, slowly but surely it all started to fall into place.

The show was entitled, "A Day in the Life of a Child," and the repertoire included, "Zipadee doo dah", "ABC/Old Macdonald", "Get Loose, Mother Goose", and "A Child's Lullaby".

We have traveled to many competitions and festivals at Madison Central H.S., Hazard H.S., Shelby Valley H.S., Middlesboro for the Pride of the Cumberlands and to Sheldon Clark High School. We were pleased with our ratings and proud of our accomplishments.

Being in a Marching band is a great experience. Yes, it is true that spending so much time with the same people does get kind of old, but these are people that you grow to love. We're like one big family, and our chain doesn't break.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Bell, a director, for all he has done and for being there for us whenever we needed him. He is not only a great band director but also a great friend to us. I would also like to give a big thanks to the PHS Band Boosters. If it weren't for them, we wouldn't be here. Thanks guys!!!! I also feel that I should mention the six seniors who pulled this band through it all this year. Thanks Justin, Kyle, Ty, Ash, Chas, and Candy. You guys really mean a lot to this program. We couldn't have done it without you. It really has been a great season. I can't wait to see this band "Throw Down" again next year. Good Luck guys!!!

Art boosts students imagination

by Andrea Ratliff
Senior art student
'98-'99

Everyday and in every way, art effects our lives. Presently at P.H.S. we have had the privilege of being taught by our new art teacher, Ellen Trimble. Mrs. Trimble is a graduate of Morehead State University and has taught many students in our region.

Covering the walls of the art room are dozens of inspiring works of art by all the students. Mrs. Trimble does not discriminate nor criticize anyone's work, for she believes everyone has a special talent, especially for art.

In an interview with one of the most talented art students at P.H.S., Ashley DeRossett said, "This year, the art department at P.H.S. had been so inspirational for not only me but many of the students. Not having an art class last year totally devastated me. There was no interest in art from anyone but me, it seemed. I didn't get anywhere when I asked important officials about getting an art class. I felt as if no one cared. Since art will be my career, I never stopped trying to bring art back to P.H.S. So you can imagine how excited I was to hear that my wishes for an art class came true for the 1998-1999 school year.

During the first week of school I ran to the office to meet the new art teacher, Mrs. Trimble. From then on every morning I start the day with Mrs. Trimble's art class, and ended the day once a week with my art class at the Morehead Extension Campus in Prestonsburg. I have enjoyed seeing other students talents come out because of Mrs. Trimble's guidance and compassion. You can see it in every piece of art work in the art room."

Ashley is a very good art student and there are many other students who are just as unique in their art abilities as Ashley. All it took was a special teacher like Mrs. Trimble to bring out the best in everybody. Mrs. Trimble is sponsoring The Art Talented and Gifted Program at Prestonsburg this year. We hope to encourage others, not only in high school, but every age group, to advance their art skills and keep their imagination growing!!!

Powder puff takes over Prestonsburg High School

by Amber Meek

During Homecoming week 1998 at Prestonsburg High School nearly one hundred female students participated in the school's annual powder puff football competition.

On September 14 students began signing up with class sponsors and the participants prepared for the roughest season of powder puff football.

As September 26, the date of the first game for all classes, drew near, the girls practiced harder and began playing scrimmage games. The girls worked hard to prepare themselves for the upcoming games in hopes that they could run faster and hit harder.

The games on September 26, were vicious battles for domination. A few girls suffered injuries as a result of their uncompromising determination to win; nevertheless, the girls continued on their quest for victory.

In the end the Seniors came out on top after they defeated the Juniors 13 to 12 in the championship game held on October 7.

PHS Anatomy blood drive a success

by Lea Spradlin

"Give the Gift of Life" became more than just a campaign slogan for some faculty and students at Prestonsburg High School. Kara Huffman's anatomy class joined by the Floyd County Chapter of the Central Kentucky Blood Center held a blood drive October 7, at the school. Sixty-eight pints of blood were donated at the school with some students giving their first

Blackcat Fans Financial Bank

Prestonsburg High School first opened the Blackcat Fans Financial Bank, January 6, 1997. This is Prestonsburg High School's own on-site checking, savings and loan association sponsored by Community Trust Bank. The Finance and Banking Class operates the school bank. The facility allows students and staff to open checking/savings accounts and loans.

The Community Trust Bank gave the school $500 for start-up capital. Training and assistance is provided by David Tackett, vice-president, of the Prestonsburg Community Trust Bank and Terri McCoy, P.H.S. Finance and Banking instructor.

The bank is providing a much-needed service; not only are the finance students learning in a classroom but also from hands-on experience. They're gaining knowledge, and developing responsibility and integrity. Since last year was a great success, the students are very enthusiastic about having another successful year.

ACADEMICS

In my class (at Duff) we have been studying apples. We have done apple cut and paste, color sheets, apple book, apple party, apple trees that we put on construction paper, apple homework, apple science, apple words that begin with apple drawings, apple centers, painting on apple to see if it would show the star in the middle of it. We had a sheet of paper that had all kinds of apples names on it and we did the five cents and wrote down what we saw, felt or smelled, we wrote sentences that involves apple or a, and we did apple words. UK helps KERA 'remake schools'

Jane Lindle travels from border to border in Kentucky, from Paducah to Pikeville, from Covington to Cumberland and all points in between, stopping in schools to cast a discerning eye on students, teachers, administrators and parents.

Lindle, associate professor of administration and supervision at the University of Kentucky's College of Education and co-director of the UK-University of Louisville Joint Center for the Study of Educational Policy, knows that hers is a critical mission. Her task, and that of her colleagues, is to describe various aspects of schools affected by the 1990 Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA).

"What Kentucky attempted to do was completely remake its schools," Lindle noted recently.

The goal was to develop schools that produce young adults prepared for the 21st century's workplace, rather than churning out youngsters with diplomas that may or may not reflect the depth of each graduate's skills.

When Lindle goes into a classroom, she wants to see real evidence of learning.

"We want teachers these days to have hard data. We want the teachers to say, 'We started here and when we were finished, the pupils could do this, this and this.' We do a lot of document analysis," Lindle said.

But the UK College of Education is not simply standing as an evaluator of the schools. The college is actively engaged in developing new methods of teaching and ascertaining student needs.

One of those approaches involves developing what Sara Delano Moore calls "a standards-based mindset."

One problem that schools nationwide have faced is a lack of communication between schools about student needs. Moore, an assistant professor of curriculum and instruction, said there sometimes is a tendency for high school teachers to complain about middle school teachers—and middle-school teachers about elementary teachers—and the lack of adequate preparation from lower grade levels.

Moore is leading an initiative in Fayette County's schools to bring teachers at all levels together, so a fifth grade teacher can better understand strengths that a seventh-grader teacher expects from pupils. The initative also calls for teachers to visit one another's classrooms to observe the skills being taught at all levels.

"We want to develop a common core of curricula. When kids come from different elementary schools into a single middle school, the middle school teachers will know the pupils know these common things," Moore said. The same applies to students moving into high school.

Lois Adams-Rodgers, director of UK's Institute of Education Reform, noted the College of Education is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year. Many of the KERA initiatives—as well as teaching techniques being adopted statewide—have been developed at the college and built on philosophies advocated by its leaders.

"All children can learn at higher levels. KERA was based on the premise that we're going to raise the bar for all children," Adams-Rodgers noted.

But now that KERA has followed a generation through elementary and middle school, Adams-Rodgers noted that UK's education experts have shifted gears.

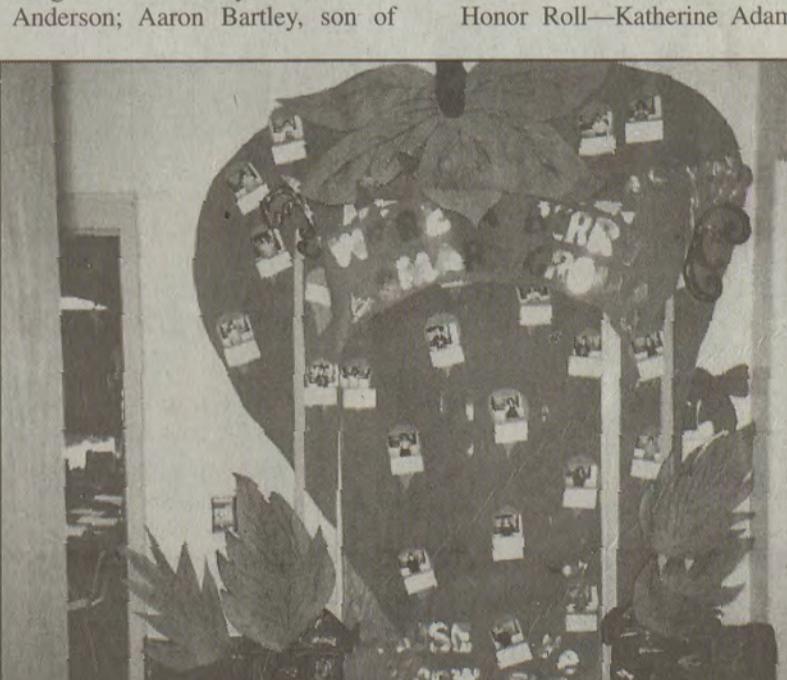

"We no longer place the emphasis on KERA per se, but rather on the strengthen Kentucky educational system. All of us have the job of creating a seamless web between elementary and secondary education and higher education—a 'kindergarten through Grade 16' system," Adams-Rodgers said.

In that regard, Kentucky's education reform effort continues to provide a guiding light to the rest of the U.S.

"The K-16 system is being discussed nationally as well," Adams-Rodgers said.

Come grow with us...

Students in Sheila Hall and Traci Tackett's K-1 classroom at Betsy Layne Elementary began the 1998-99 school year, studying plants. The theme "Bloom Where You Are Planted" relates not only to plants but also to the current school consolidation of Harold, Prater, and Betsy Layne. This motto was chosen by Hall and Tackett as a positive reminder to students and parents to make the best of their new situation, and to "bloom educationally, emotionally, and socially."

October Drug Awareness Month

May Valley Elementary students participated in a variety of activities during Red Ribbon Week. All classrooms decorated their doors in red, with drug awareness themes. The winning classrooms were the following: primary—Casandra Fulks' third grade, using the theme, "We're a Berry Smart Group, Cause We Know the Dangers of Drugs," and intermediate—Sheila Mayo's fourth grade, using the theme, "Drug Free Zone, Drive Safely." Each student in these two classrooms received "Being Drug Free Rules" rulers provided by the May Valley Family Resource Center.

Mountain Christian Academy's Preschool recently had the annual Trike-A-Thon for the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. This was the best year ever with more than $671.25 raised. Cody Wright and Kelli Akers were the top fund-raisers.

Licking River contaminated

Magoffin County is one of a majority of counties in the Commonwealth that recently reported unacceptable levels of bacteria and sodium.

A comprehensive study of the Licking River and its tributaries found high levels of bacteria from animal and human waste.

As the location of the source of the Licking River, Magoffin County's results' influence not only local residents, but those further downstream.

Puncheon Creek was ruled unsafe for either swimming or fishing. Burning Fork, Middle Fork and Johnson Fork all had results too high to be considered safe for swimming.

"We knew (the bacteria levels) were bad. But they're worse than we thought," said Barry Tonning of Mount Sterling, while attending a recent conference for the Licking River Watershed Watch project. — The Salyersville Independent

Two women force way into home and rob local woman

Local authorities are busy trying to gather information about two women who forced their way into the home of an elderly Salyersville woman Sunday afternoon and stole her purse.

Mayor Joe Howard said the Salyersville Police

Department is looking for any possible leads they can get that will help to find two women seen driving a white van with a red stripe.

The two perpetrators knocked on the door of Uhla Salyer, who resides at West Maple Street near the foot of Ivy Point Hill, under the premises of trying to sell her a rug, which one of the women was holding.

When Ms. Salyer cracked the door, the older woman opened it further and proceeded to enter the house. One of the women washed a piece of the carpet under the faucet. Ms. Salyer said the younger woman asked for a glass of water. She then walked back into the living room. They then left.

Within a few minutes after they had left, Ms. Salyer discovered that her purse, which had been placed inside a bag next to a chair, was missing. — The Salyersville Independent

Insurance offices burglarized

The Mike King Farm Bureau Insurance Agency and the Dallas Justice Insurance Agency in Salyersville are two of several insurance offices in Eastern Kentucky that have been the target of a string of burglaries.

The burglaries were similar. The front door window of both businesses were shattered, allowing the burglars to enter the premises. — The Salyersville Independent

Monday night accident injures two pedestrians

Heavy rains, nightfall, blackened roads, fog, the glare of lights and an area with heavy pedestrian traffic on bingo nights played a huge part in a Monday evening accident which sent two women to the hospital.

Connie Jude, 48, and her sister-in-law Lindy Jude, 49, both of Pigeon Roost, sustained multiple injuries after walking into the path of a 1997 Chevrolet Cavalier driven by 18-year-old Ronnie Sweeney at around 6 p.m. Monday.

Lindy Jude suffered a broken leg and some minor lacerations and was transported by Martin County emergency Services to Highlands Regional Hospital, Prestonsburg.

Connie Jude's injuries were more serious. She received emergency treatment at Highlands and was later transported to St. Mary's Hospital in Huntington, West Virginia where she was scheduled for surgery Tuesday to repair multiple fractures to her leg.

Mrs. Jude also suffered a concussion, severe head lacerations, a compound fracture in one leg and a simple fracture in the other. — The Mountain Citizen

Items stolen from local flea market

A Lawrence County flea market was burglarized sometime early Thursday morning, resulting in the loss of around $300 worth of merchandise.

Police said someone forced their way into the U.S. 23 Flea Market, located at the intersection of U.S. 23 and KY 645 by breaking a side door to the building.

Once inside, the perpetrator took items belonging to Ruth Whitt and Betty Boyd, both of Louisa. Whitt had dolls, lamps and other assorted items worth $200 stolen, while Boyd had three dolls valued at $100 taken. — The Big Sandy News

County schools decline on KIRIS scores

All five schools in Lawrence County not only failed to meet their goals set by the state, but dropped below their previous scores placing them in a decline category.

In the KIRIS tests, schools are given an improvement goal based on test scores from 1994 to 1996. The scores from 1996 to 1998 are then averaged, and schools who meet or exceed their goals are eligible for rewards.

Five Morgan schools qualify; two among state's best

Two Morgan County schools ranked among the highest in the state in the KIRIS test standings for 1997-98, which were released last week. Ranked by actual test scores, Wrigley Elementary ranked seventh among the 10 elementary schools with the highest scores in the state.

Cannel City Elementary ranked eighth among the top 10 elementary schools statewide that exceeded their KIRIS achievement goals. — The Licking Valley Courier

Mixed results in Knott test scores

The Knott County school District has made progress toward improvement, but still falls short of its goal for 1996-98, according to recently released results of the Kentucky Instructional Results Information System (KIRIS).

Knott county saw two schools exceeding their goals for improvement, four schools scoring above baseline but not reaching their goals and three schools falling below baseline scores, KIRIS testing results show.

When ranked by percentage of goal achieved, Cordia Elementary was in the bottom 10 of 735 elementary schools statewide.

On the plus side, Carr Creek Elementary and Knott County Central High School received performance judgments of Reward Level II by exceeding their improvement goals. These two schools will share in the distribution of $27 million in reward funds.

Caney Elementary, Emmalena Elementary, Hindman Elementary and Jones Fork Elementary gained performance judgments of Reward Level I by scoring above their baselines but below their improvement goals. They will also receive some cash reward, but only half the amount of the Level II schools.

Beaver Creek Elementary, Beckham Combs Elementary and Cordia elementary and high school scored below their baselines and are considered schools in decline.

The good news is that three schools will receive monetary rewards (Pigeon Roost, Inez and Warfield Elementary), while four schools are listed in decline (Grassy Elementary, Inez Middle, Warfield Middle and Sheldon Clark High School).

A fifth school, Tomahawk Elementary, took the biggest fall, plunging from reward status to D-P, which means, under the old system, that the school would be regarded as "in crisis." This status requires a school to notify parents that they can transfer their students to another school within the school district. The school can also request state assistance to bring its scores up. — The Mountain Citizen

Doctors hope to save child's leg

Doctors hope to save the left leg of a 10-year-old who reportedly thought Johnson was going to throw rocks at him as the two went rabbit hunting November 29.

The Tomahawk Elementary fifth-grader underwent about four hours of skin-graft treatment Monday morning at Cabell Huntington hospital where doctors are making every effort to save the left leg which was taken off from below the knee to his foot by the blast.

Monday's skin graft was the first of several the youngster will face during the next few months. — The Mountain Citizen

Likewise, schools that fall below their baseline scores, such as the ones in Lawrence County, are considered in decline, and those who fall more than five points below their baseline qualify to have highly skilled educators come to their schools. — The Big Sandy News

List of free taps made public

A list of names of residents who received free taps to a sewer project under construction was turned over to the Big Sandy News following a December 2 order by the state attorney general's office.

In October, a resident complained to the Lawrence County Fiscal court that some of the residents receiving free taps shouldn't have met the low-to-middle income guidelines. She presented a list of 107 names to the court.

"Some of the people are millionaires who are getting free taps," she said.

The Big Sandy News filed an open records request to the FIVCO Development District to obtain the list of names. Their request was denied.

The newspaper then sought the attorney general's opinion. The state Attorney General's Office ruled in favor of the newspaper. — The Big Sandy News in which shots were fired into a pickup truck in the packed parking lot at the Pamida store in West Liberty. No one was hurt by the gunfire, which sent shoppers scurrying for the look, but one man involved in the altercation was treated for a knife wound at Morgan County ARH.

Arrested and charged with first degree wanton endangerment were David Hatton, 24, of Hazel Green; Arnold Hatton, 65, of Thornhill, Tennessee, and Corbett Slone, 49, of Winchester.

Police said the altercation apparently stemmed from a long-standing domestic problem and occurred shortly before 11 a.m. when the Hattons, who were leaving Pamida, confronted Slone and members of his family who were on their way into the store. — The Licking Valley Courier

Settlement reached in suit against Pike County Board and Reo Johns

An elementary school teacher has tentatively settled a federal First Amendment lawsuit against the Pike County Board of Education and former Superintendent Reo Johns.

Walterene Rutherford filed the lawsuit following her transfer from Robinson Creek Elementary to G.F. Johnson Elementary.

According to the suit, Johns had sought and been denied political support in his 1990 campaign for the District One school board seat from Rutherford's father, who threw his support behind Johns' opponent, Alvin D. Newsome.

Shortly after Johns was appointed superintendent in 1993, Rutherford, claimed, Johns called her into his office for a meeting during which "he suggested she was mentally unstable and mentioned the death of her son nine years previously."

The terms of the settlement were not disclosed, but Rutherford had originally sought $250,000 in punitive damages from Johns individually, an unspecified amount from the board of education and reinstatement to her teaching position and as a school council member at Robinson Creek Elementary. — Appalachian News-Express

Suspect shot in hostage standoff

A Pike County man is in intensive care after a Kentucky State Police trooper shot the man when he stabbed a hostage.

On Monday afternoon, 34-year-old Timothy A. Epling held Karen Stiltner, 25, with a knife when Trooper Jeff Caudill and Pike County Deputy Melvin Sayers arrived at the scene, police said.

Caudill made several commands ordering Epling to drop the knife and release Stiltner. Instead of following the commands, Epling stabbed Stiltner with a knife, and Caudill immediately fired at Epling, hitting Epling in the upper left quadrant of his body. — Appalachian News-Express

Murder victim had gun, police say

During Bennie Shortridge's pretrial hearing Tuesday, Kentucky State Police Detective David Maynard said Shortridge admitted to killing his son Paul, but Paul Shortridge pointed a pistol at his father before being shot.

Maynard said a semi-automatic pistol was found at the scene of the shooting, but it had not been fired.

Pike County District Judge Larry Thompson did find probable cause for the case to be sent to a grand jury where a decision on indicting Bennie Shortridge will be made next month.

Trooper has third wreck in five months

An accident in downtown Paintsville on Thursday night left a pick-up truck about 15 feet away from where it was parked and sent a Kentucky State Police trooper to the hospital to be treated for minor injuries.

The accident occurred at about 10:45 p.m. in the westbound lane of Third Street when the cruiser, driven by officer Todd Kidd, hit the rear of the truck where it was parked across the street from Paintsville Elementary.

Kidd was not in active pursuit when he struck the vehicle. He has been in two previous traffic accidents in Johnson County since July. — The Paintsville Herald

Two teens arrested in Oil Springs burglary

Two teen-agers were arrested last week in connection with a burglary at an Oil Springs residence.

Toddy E. Wright, 18, of Staffordville, and Ennie A. Owens, 19, of Swamp Branch, were arrested last Tuesday and charged with the break-in of Carolyn Booth's home the day before.

The arrest warrant for the teens said that Wright was "armed with a deadly weapon" when he entered Booth's home and took $4,000 worth of jewelry and three guns.

Wright was charged with first-degree burglary.

Owen was charged with complicity to commit first-degree burglary for allegedly aiding in the removal of the items. — The Paintsville Herald

Eight schools eligible for rewards

Results from 1998 KIRIS testing left Paintsville and Johnson County's 10 local schools holding a mixed bag of results.

On the plus side, eight of the 10 schools have been ruled eligible for monetary rewards, as students tested higher for the 1997-98 biennium than they did for the 1995-96 biennium.

On the negative, test scores dropped, sometimes significantly, for most schools from 1997-1998. — The Paintsville Herald
