Appalachian counties are considered to be distressed by the ARC. A county is considered in distress if it has poverty and unemployment rates 150 percent above the national average.

Two of the remaining counties, Fleming and Greenup, are considered at risk of becoming distressed Regional and the counties of Boyd, Clark, Commission into to Floyd County Garrard, Laurel, Madison, Montgomery and Pulaski are considered to be in transition of attaining economic self-sufficiency.

When the ARC first moved into the area, many more of the region's counties were considered distressed, said Hunter, so progress has been made.

"We have come a long way," said Hunter, "Even though we've made progress, everyone wants more progress."

ARC is spending more than half of its money on 11 percent of the solid waste workshop

Citizens interested in "talking trash" with state and local solid waste officials are invited to attend the Summer Solid Waste Planning Workshop at the Drawbridge Inn in Fort Mitchell on June 8 and 9. The Kentucky Division of Waste Management and the Solid Waste Coordinators Association of Kentucky will host the two-day event.

Kentucky House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo will be the keynote speaker. On June 9 at 9:30 a.m., Stumbo will discuss the environmental legislation enacted during the 2000 session of the Kentucky General Assembly. He will also address proposed strategies for cleaning up the state.

After the keynote remarks, James E. Bickford, secretary of the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, will discuss his cabinet's strategies for cleaning up Kentucky. Secretary Bickford will also present the annual awards to counties with exemplary solid waste planning programs.

Other topics on the workshop's agenda include landfill challenges, recycling opportunities, tire amnesty programs and junkyards.

The workshop is presented to the public free of charge. Those interested in attending are asked to call Melinda Meredith or Paula Napier in the Kentucky Division of Waste Management at (502) 564-6716.

About 60 local leaders and concerned citizens convened at the Mountain Arts Center in Prestonsburg to meet with the ARC for a roundtable discussion on the needs of the area Wednesday evening.

A brief explanation of the night's purpose told regional leaders of the ARC's commitment to the distressed counties in the state. The ARC is spending the spring traveling through Appalachia gathering the input of leaders in order to create a new plan to address the

An introduction of the attendees revealed various leaders from many of the southeastern counties of the state, along with many of Floyd County's community leaders.

The task of learning the region's needs and strategies to solve or address those needs was placed upon the communities' shoulders, as they were divided into five essential areas of devel-

Friends and relatives of students and workers at schools in the Betsy Layne community held a protest Wednesday and Thursday, demanding that more attention be given to the recurring problem of meningitis in Floyd County schools.

Board votes down first attempt at reorganization

by WILLIE ELLIOTT STAFF WRITER

The Floyd County Board of Education met in special session Tuesday night to consider, among other things, a topic that stirred some controversy - the reorganization of the central office.

Before the board got into agenda items, Supt. Paul Fanning briefed the board on the meningitis situation at Betsy Layne Elementary. Jody Mullins said the board should have a special meeting at Betsy Layne to at least hear the parents' concern.

After some discussion, the board scheduled a board meeting for yesterday (Thursday) at 4:30 p.m. at Adams Middle School to consider closing the school for the rest of this year.

Tom Willis, associate commissioner of education, said the state department people in the system as possible.

could provide the system with information on the closing in time to have it at the meeting. The special meeting had to be held at Adams because the published schedule states that all special-called meetings will be held at that site.

Board chairman Terry Dotson made a motion to go into executive session, but Carol Stumbo suggested that the board listen to a presentation by Taylor Collins, Supt. of Jackson City Schools in Breathitt County. Collins' topic was related to an item on the night's agenda - reorganization.

Collins presented to the board a conceptual framework for reorganization. He presented several ideas but his dominant theme was: take your time. While Collins could not be tied town to a specific timeframe, he did say such a move should take careful steps, be led by the superintendent, and involve as many

Despite Collins' remarks about going slowly with reorganization, the board looked at a new plan drawn up by Fanning. Fanning said he did the plan, which had "Children First" at the top of the hierarchy, at home, saying, "You can guess why I did it that way." The plan involves changes which would affect work assignments, and possibly salaries, of some individuals currently holding positions in the central office.

In response to a direct question from Carol Stumbo, Fanning said that he in fact wrote the plan himself. Both Ross and Dotson then reminded Fanning of input that the board had provided toward the plan.

At one point during the discussion of Fanning's work and the proposed plan, Ross compared the plan to the Resurrection. Bud Reynolds, who has been a thorn in previous boards' sides. was in attendance and yelled, "Yes and the Virgin Birth."

Reynolds, a social studies teacher at South Floyd High School, has served as an officer on the Floyd County Education Association in the past.

At one point Reynolds asked if the audience could ask questions about the plan. He was told to wait and did not press the issue and offered no more questions.

Even though Fanning said the discussion was a work session, the printed agenda item looked like items that are normally voted on during a meeting.

Carol Stumbo said the board was moving too fast and was creating an atmosphere of secrecy that was causing central office personnel to be tense and "watching their backs." She told Fanning, "Let's open up the process and not keep any secrets.'

opment; education, infrastructure, nize our assets not just our needs," civic and community leadership, dynamic and self-sustaining local economies, and health care. Another group was identified as a cross cutting group that explored ideas across the spectrum of need.

Local leaders Jerry Fannin, mayor of Prestonsburg and Brett Davis, deputy judge-executive of Floyd County, and Den Hunter of LINK gathered with one group to discuss the infrastructure of the area.

John Rosenberg of the Appalachian Research of Defense Fund and Jean Rosenberg of Education Pay$ career development center at Prestonsburg Community College joined in the leadership and civic capacity party.

Terry Trimble of Big Sandy Area Development District and others joined in on discussions of dynamic and self-sustaining economies. Sandy Runyon, executive director for BSADD, and Dr. Charles Stebbins, interim president of Prestonsburg Community College, met with the cross-cutting group. And Sydney Jane Bailey, Democratic candidate for U.S. House the of Representatives, joined in discussions on health.

Problems addressed in Appalachian education began with giving adults better access to education. Dr. Ed Hughes, president of Hazard Community College, said schools need to open their doors to the adults who are in need of learning. Most of the schools are closed by 4 or 4:30 p.m., sealing a valuable resource to many adults who don't get off work until 5 p.m.

Hughes' group proposed increasing the college going rate across the region by two generations, (40 years). This would be far above the national average, he said.

"We need to make preschool available to every child," Hughes said. Carrying the need further, he said the region needs to do more toward prenatal and postnatal care.

Solutions to infrastructure problems included correcting or improving upon substandard housing, solving sewage problems, extending enforcement and management of garbage collection, and the creation of tele-medicine and increase of telecommunications.

Elaboration on the infrastructure concerns included cleaning up the region. Visitors will not come to an area that is not appealing for families, said Keith Damron of said Damron. "Every citizen has assets."

Longer terms for local leaders was also introduced with an increasing emphasis on ethical issues.

Economical strength asked that the area be given access to lowinterest loans for entrepreneurs. This would allow the creation of more businesses in the region.

It was also said that bringing a company into the region does not necessarily guarantee living wages. The group said the area does not need companies that employ people at less than the national average of pay.

People need to know it is not cheaper to live here, they said. The area needs to improve the quality of life, safety standards, and to focus on the environmental impact of some the area's activities.

Universal health insurance was the area's greatest need, said the group discussing area health issues. Insurance for all would alleviate many of the area's problems.

The area needs to increase women's and children's health care and this begins by educating the students, said Sarah Hughes, who works from the governor's department of public health.

There is a need for a community-based decision making-council, she said. The problems facing the area need to be put on the table. "And everyone needs to come to the table with a checkbook," she said.

Hughes pointed out to the ARC staff that health care was the lowest amount of money invested by ARC in the region.

The cross-cutting group called for regional cooperation between the distressed counties. By employing a network of people in the right places, the counties can work together to further the growth of the region.

The group emphasized that every child should have someone who believes in him or her, and that the communities should take responsibilities for raising that child.

The region needs to accent community ownership of local businesses, taking away the frequent trips to Lexington and Huntington. Focus' on the area's assets should also be addressed, they said. If the area is proud of its talents then it can sell those talents.

A centralized connection needs to be made in the educational facilities, the area needs to continue the change in its image, and

Department of Higways. That process starts with educating the public on the effects of environmental pollution and stricter enforcement of those laws, he said.

When roads are built in the area, utility lines and pipes need to be laid underneath the road base, thereby avoiding the reconstruction of roads for laying of new lines, Damron said.

New comers to our area will also want recreational facilities, Damron said. This can be remedied by the creation of a YMCA or other facilities in the area.

Wiser use of coal severance taxes by county leaders was also interjected.

The leadership group spoke of finding community leaders. Local meetings in the communities are sources of potential leaders, the group said.

A need to create a network of people was also pointed out by the group. The sharing of lessons and ideas will create a source of people to turn to when a need arises. The group also said the region needs to grow leaders from nontraditional groups.

"It is essential that we recog-rapid rail transportation needs to be brought to the area.

As the meeting wrapped up, a positive note was made by Margaret Brown of the Middle Kentucky Community Action Agency.

"Our image has changed," she said. "I didn't go to the Kentucky Derby and never have been. And I couldn't pronounce the winner any better than Paul Patton did. All of you are making an effort to make your community better."

Jerry Johnson, special assistant to the governor, finished by asking for more participation in the process from local officials. The effort to lift the region to a better status is ongoing, he said.

"The job will never be done," he said, "because the job is continual. If we ever think the job is done, then we have quit."

Protest

Thursday in response to three confirmed cases of neisseria meningitides, a bacterial form of menigitis, over the past nine months. Some said that they no longer believe what they were told after the first two cases - that the illnesses were isolated incidents.

"I'm 40 years old and I had never seen or heard of meningitis before," said Tammy Hicks, a mother with children at the Betsy Lavne elementary and high schools. "But now I've got two kids and it's in both of their schools."

Hicks said the group's overall goals are to raise awareness about the disease, to get the CDC to find the local source of the outbreak, and to get vaccinations for students and employees in both the elementary and high schools.

"Either we're going to get something done or a lot of parents are going to take their kids to Pikeville or Prestonsburg," Hicks said.

About 50 people have manned the protest off and on since it began Wednesday morning. Far more parents engaged in a more silent protest by keeping their children home from school.

After the most recent case was discovered May 22 in a first-grader at Betsy Layne Elementary, school officials closed the school to allow time for the illness' incubation period to pass.

When the school reopened Tuesday, however, two out of three students didn't show up. By Wednesday, even fewer came to staying home.

On Thursday, those holding the protest said they counted only 47 of the school's more than 850 students showing up for class. Attempts to confirm the group's claim were unsuccessful

In addition to their roadside protest, members of the group said they were planning to attend a special meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education last night to have their voices heard.

Contacted earlier yesterday, Superintendent Paul Fanning said the board would hear from the school's site-based decision making council and review state laws on closing the school before making a decision.

That meeting adjourned after press time.

However, those manning the picket lines outside the school said they will not be satisfied with closing just the elementary school.

"If they close the grade school down and they don't close the high school, I'm sure parents will be [picketing] at the high school tomorrow," Hicks said.

The group did receive one bit of good news when a motorist stopped to tell them a rumor that the CDC would be coming to investigate the situation on June 12.

Tom Skinner, a spokesman for the CDC in Atlanta, said he was unable to confirm or deny whether such a determination had been made, However, Superintendent school, with 80 percent of students Fanning said he has been told that of their vigil on television. the CDC has "tentatively" decided to come June 12. The protesters also objected to being characterized as "panicstricken" about the illness in reports something done."

At one point the discussion and Stumbo were opposed to the approached sensitive ground. When the position of assistant supeintendent was brought up, Schmitt said a previous ruling in favor of assistant superintendent Pete Grigsby Jr. created a situation where it would be best to leave that position as it is.

Stumbo wanted to know when the tenure of the state manager would be up. Willis said another audit would be completed this fall and a decison would be made whether to employ the state manager for an additional period of time

Whether Fanning expected a vote on the matter or not, he told the board, "If this is not approved, I won't go home and pout.'

Stumbo, believing the item was for discussion and not approval, asked for an adjournment. Dotson asked that he be given an opportunity to say a couple of things. He recognized Adams Middle School principal Janice Allen who is retiring at the end of the year.

The board then engaged in gamesmanship that has occurred more than once in the meetings.

Since the motion for an adjournment was turned down, Ross made a motion that the plan be approved. In a foregone conclusion, Stumbo and Mullins voted no and the meeting was adjourned.

Betsy Layne Elementary also had reorganization as a topic.

Board member Don Roberts was absent, making several missed meetings in recent boardwork. Dotson said he thought Roberts should resign if he could not make the meetings so another person could be appointed to the position.

Johnnie Ross made a motion that board attorney Mike Schmitt look into bingo operations in the county that are operating under the board's name. Schmitt said such an organization must, by law, provide the board with at least two pieces of information: officers of the organization and a financial report.

Schmitt said it would be impossible to tell if the organization was supplying the schools with an agreed amount if no records were available to the board.

Poor dental care

One does not need a report by the U.S. Surgeon General to recognize a problem prevalent among the poorest residents of this region: Bad teeth.

After all, the hillbilly with only one or two teeth is part of the stereotype this region has attempted to escape for years. And like most stereotypes, it has a basis in truth.

In fact, according to the government's first-ever comprehensive look at oral health in America, Kentucky has the nation's second worst rate of tooth loss among adults. Only neighboring West Virginia has a lower rate.

And according to the findings of that report and the observations of dental health experts at the University of Kentucky, those figures are unlikely to improve significantly in the years ahead.

Appalachian children are the least likely to visit a dentist on a regular basis, the study found. Compound that problem with the high rate of smoking and the poor nutrition of many low-income residents in this region and the result for many are major dental problems.

"Most Kentuckians do not have really adequate access to dental care," said Dr. Leon Assael, UK's dental school dean. "Every child in Kentucky should get at least two visits to the dentist every year, and they're getting less than half that now. We need a system in Kentucky."

UK dentists and dental-health advocates also say many Kentuckians lack dental insurance, can't afford dental care or simply don't see dental care as a high priority.

Compounding the problem, they say, is a shortage of dentists in some areas, plus a lack of dentists who will accept Medicaid and KCHIP --- the Kentucky Children's Health Insurance Program for low-income families - in others. That leaves thousands of Kentuckians, young and old, without regular dental care.

Dr. Jim Cecil, director of UK's dental public health division, said many dentists have stopped honoring Kentucky Medicaid cards, and the new KCHIP cards, because of low reimbursements.

And despite the fact that Kentucky has two dental schools, some areas simply don't have enough dentists. The problem is that many of those completing their dental training at UK and the University of Louisville are choosing to set up practice in larger cities or in other states, instead of rural, underserved areas.

With Kentucky's high rate of cancer, heart disease and other life-threatening ailments, dental care has been given a low priority. However, the statistics show a need for more emphasis needed on assuring that the poorest among us receive the most basic of dental care.

Toasting the dedicated wives

As we enter the month of June, I am reminded that it is the month of weddings. The month when hundreds of women place a wager some guy is worth their lifetime.

And isn't love deceiving? We as men sell the women a product that is not real to hook her into this thing called love. We don't really act that way all the time and can't wait until she marries us to stop doing it.

In speaking with friends about their marriages and the years they have spent with their wives, most astounded me with their answers. Some said 30, some 34, and some 35.

First of all, I congratulate these men on finding these women. They must be extraordinary because basically all of us are big butts and deserve no one to love us that long. Second, I ask God's blessing on the women. For years these women have pushed aside at least half of their lives to give it to someone else. I have recently left someone very deserving and I know just how bad some of us of the male persuasion can be. We often persecute those who have willingly given up something for us. We give them grief about every little thing while most of us cannot comprehend the magnitude of their day. A woman's job never ends. Especially if they're married to a man trained to be lazy by his mother. Often times her work begins at the alarm clock's rude announcement and could still be going when she sets it at night. Her mind is constantly filled with ways to improve upon her home or how to take care of the kids or to keep the house clean. When she adds a job that is outside the home, the work never ends. Now it gets complicated. If the job is not physically demanding, she will come home mentally shot, often to face children who instantly begin to tug on her last nerves. The work waiting at home did not disappear but in fact waited for her to get there. While fending off the constant pull of the offspring she must wade through the household chores, prepare dinner, clean up and then get the kids started to bed. No sitting down, no relaxing. If she is without the help of a decent husband, who will help around the house and relieve some of the load, by the time bedtime rolls around she is exhausted and preparing to face the dimwit who now wants sex. If the job she has is physically demanding, the stress of going home to more work just adds to her frustration. Her husband may or may not have a physically demanding job. He may be like me, a reporter, who does nothing more physical than climb an occasional step. But if he does, he is often so ostentatious that he believes she did not pull the load he did today which allows him to sit on his behind while she works around his laziness. The lowlife never tries to be in her shoes. But until he beats it out of her, she is very glad to see him when they meet. All she wants is for him to hold her and allow her to relax in the comfort of his arms.

Bad teeth may not kill you, but they can be an impediment to getting the skills and landing the jobs needed to escape poverty.

and care you have shown me while under your care. While aiding the healing of my broken hip and blood clot on the same, you stole my heart with the affection you showered upon me. I can't express in words the exchange of love that took place between me as a patient and the hospital staff.

The doctors, nurses, aides, and janitorial personnel all made me comfortable, and I could feel their concern for my health and well being.

The administrative staff were so understanding of my needs and desire to be close to my home, family and many dear friends.

Presbyterians now a 'cult'

Editor:

Well, as the book of Revelation foretold, organized churches would begin turning away from God, the laws and the Bible. They will begin to worship the thoughts and diety of man, turning to humanism, perversion and idol worship and away from God.

That has happened (last) week with the Presbyterian Church USA. The high council or tribunal voted to allow openly gay members into their churches. If that was not enough, gay members can hold church office and become ministers as well.

In one fell swoop the Presbyterian church has gone from being a church of God to a cult. They can no longer claim a true belief in God. They can no longer claim to be part of the body of Christ (or Christians). They have spit into the eye of God, ignored the laws and thrown away the Bible. Man has become diety now and God has been overthrown.

Any educated person will tell you that man's law cannot ever supersede the laws of God. Man has neither the right, the power nor the wisdom to claim superiority over the laws of God.

When man tries to stretch his realm, you end up with perversion pestilence, anarchy and suffering. Look back in history from the beginning of time as to what happened when man defied or defiled God.

There is certainly nothing wrong in inviting a gay person to church, or in witnessing to a gay person, just as one would/should do to anyone that is outside the fold. But, in order to be a real Christian, the Bible tells us to put away our childish things.

Any man can be saved, but you cannot get saved Sunday morning and go have (illicit) sex Sunday night and expect God to bless that. That is blasphemy.

You cannot save a rapist, murderer, robber, etc on Sunday morning and then go back to your criminal life

There is supposed to be a significant lifelong change in your life/behavior after the gift of salvation. You're supposed to give up the bad things and do your best to be faithful and Christlike. You cannot just go on your sinful, merry way.

Like I said before. I am not preaching a message of hate or intolerance. I treat everyone with decency and fairness. I am just going by what I was taught in church and what the Bible says.

Yes, everyone is welcome in church; yes, we will treat you with dignity, but you cannot truly claim to be a saved Christian and keep on living in a way that is sickening and an abomination in the sight of God.

It's just like the argument of a "woman's right to choose." She's already chosen/made that decision by having sex. The next choices are God's. That unborn child is a beautiful creation of God whom we have no right to destroy. You cannot claim to be a Christian and support behavior that you know is wrong in the laws and eyes of God.

I sin daily. I am not perfect. I strive to get better and to do better, but, I do not purposely continue to do things I know are wrong in the laws of God. I fail sometimes and each failure teaches me and makes me stronger. Now while I may disagree with the Presbyterian Church USA, I also disagree with the messengers of hate and violence as well.

Do you think God blesses someone who beats up a gay man or bombs an abortion clinic? I sure don't.

USDA, Commerce join forces to boost ^{*}early warning system in rural areas

Agriculture Secretary Dan sions. Glickman has announced that the U.S. Department of Agriculture ty to install the transmitters to proand the Department of Commerce are creating a partnership to extend emergency radio service to rural areas of the nation.

Through the agreement, USDA's Rural Utilities Service (RUS) will encourage the installation of emergency radio transmitters by identifying rural utility towers not currently receiving the National Oceanic & Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) transmis-

NOAA will work with the utilivide the warning signal to that area.

"The cost of installing radio transmitters is small when you consider the lifesaving service it will provide to millions of rural people nationwide," Glickman said. "West of the Mississippi River, more than two-thirds of the land area is still not covered by this vital radio service, and large areas of the eastern third of the country also lack coverage."

Inadequate warnings of approaching hazards, such as floods, tornadoes and hurricanes are particularly acute in the nation's rural areas. Once the transmitters are installed in areas, households will be able to receive warnings through NOAA radios. the internet, pagers and telephones.

"This agreement is a real life saver for rural Americans," said Jack Kelly, assistant administrator for the National Weather Service.

"The Rural Utilities Service's long-standing relationship with electric and telephone cooperatives will make it easier to identify weather radio transmission sites, as well as partnering with them to install transmitters."

Utilities willing to mount a transmitter will be asked to donate power to run it, including an emergency back-up power source. The savings from using existing towers and power supplies can more than double the deployment of weather radio transmitters.

Kids and baseball are a winning combination-so is giving blood and saving lives. Area Little League ball players 12 years old and younger are recruiting blood donors to give blood during the 2000 All-Star Blood Drive throughout the month of June.

Eleven-year veteran of major league baseball and Kentuckian Doug Flynn serves as honorary chair of the drive, which is conducted by Central Kentucky Blood Center. The goal is to collect 500 pints of blood.

"It's important to teach our kids what it means to support our com-tion about the drive and have begun recruiting blood donors. Donors may give blood at drives held on the CKBC bloodmobile at selected ball parks, or they may give at any CKBC donor center in Lexington, Hazard, Somerset, Prestonsburg or Pikeville.

Each donor will be given a collectible Louisville Slugger bat to present to the child who recruited him or her. Each child will also receive а Community Achievement Certificate from the donor to recognize the recruiting efforts. Doug Flynn baseball cards will be available at all donation sites. Donors must be at least 17

No, often times he takes the lack to take back the words you said in of sexual activity in his life as a cruelty. lack of love on her part. He does not look at what her day has held.

Noble women take this type of garbage and love their men until they're just too tired to love. We men look at them selfishly. She is a source of everything for us.

We are blind to the many hats she wears; mother, lover, full-time worker of two jobs, baker, cook, nurse, caregiver, landscape artist, gardener, dancer, and part-time dad. All the efforts are because they are driven by a deep desire to have the best and be the best. We can't know the hell of one their days.

We walk through our days all turns out to be what you dreamed. puffed up and proud and think about nothing but going home to her affections. The truth is, if she turned toward us once a month we should be grateful for all the dung she has shoveled through.

I believe all dedicated wives will go to heaven. By that, I mean they have been through hell here on earth and God is a merciful God who would not punish someone twice. The Bible tells us that the first shall be last and the last shall be first, and the Lord knows, we have always put ourselves before our women. No matter how deeply you love them, your words are only that, just dead air. If you don't physically put your body behind your heart, your "I Love You" is a lie. We need to remember that a million "I love you's" will never bring back the times we have hurt our women. Two million kisses can't erase the times you've abandoned her. Three million roses or carnations will not send you back in time

I know about these things because I have experienced them first hand. I recently let the world's greatest lady down by leaving her side and nothing I do can bandage it up. She gave up her life to be with me, to start a life with someone she hoped would treat her differently and I was too blind to see.

So, hats off and glasses up to the women who have dedicated their lives to their families. In no way do we deserve the love they have but somehow they give it to us anyway. To you, the truly loving and caring, I salute and I hope your marriage

Locally the NCSD event will be held at the Pikeville City Park today from 2-4 p.m.

The event will include an opening dance routine by a Pikeville College Continuing Education dance class, under the direction of Susan Lockhart; a time of sharing; planting a tree to commemorate the event, live music by The Singing Gospelaires; refreshments and fellowship with other survivors

In addition, shuttle service will be offered from the Pikeville Methodist Hospital riverfill parking lot.

According to Susie Hopkins, a cancer survivor who attended last year's event, "It was a wonderful day filled with smiles, tears, laughter and plenty of hugs. It reminds me loud and clear of the power and triumph of the human spirit.'

Organizers of the local event are encouraging cancer survivors. family members, friends and oncology professions to celebrate National Cancer Survivors Day. According to the NCSD Foundation,-a "survivor" is anyone living with a history of cancer. This includes newly diagnosed survivors as well as longterm survivors.

In the event of inclement weather, the NCSD event will be moved to the fellowship hall of Pikeville United Methodist Church, located across from the City Park. / th

The program's primary goal is to create employment for those 55 and over. SCSEP helps prepare older workers to compete for jobs by providing minimal training and placing eligible applicants into permanent employment. Training sites are expected to develop the participant's skill and hire or release them.

Mae Noe 1914-1996 God saw you were getting tired, a cure was not to be. So he put his arms around you, and whispered come with me. With tearful eyes we watched you and saw you fade away, Although we love you dearly, we could not make you stay. A golden heart stopped beating, hard working hands to rest. God broke our hearts to prove to us, He only takes the best. In life we miss you dearly, In death we love you still. In our hearts you hold a special place, No one else could ever fill.

Happy Birthday Your sister Billie and Hubert

Decreasing enrollment dictates tighter budget for local schools

An unexpected reduction in future funding became a reality last week when members of the Magoffin County School Board and other district officials learned the local system would be operating under a smaller budget for the coming school year.

Fewer students attended schools this year, and as a result the local district will have fewer Magoffin 00-01 budget.

School system officials have been concerned with the issue ever since an initial fall semester head count revealed a decline in overall student enrollment from the previous year's totals.

Officials found out just how hard their district would be hit when school board members approved a budget during a regular meeting on May 18. The budget for next year is about $1.5 million less than totals for 2000,-The Salversville Independent

Thieves hit Save A Lot

A break-in at Save A Lot near Inez early Monday morning yielded very little stolen goods due to the swift response of Kentucky State Police Trooper Arthur Maynard.

"A silent alarm alerted Pikeville Post 9 around midnight Sunday," Maynard said yesterday, "I arrived at the store at 12:17 a.m. Monday and saw two intruders with bandannas over their faces inside the supermarket.'

The thieves reportedly ran to the back of the store, making their escape through a rear door which apparently had been pried open earlier.

"By the time I cleared the far end of the building and made it out back, I saw the two had taken off in separate directions," Maynard noted.-Mountain Citizen

Could third time be the charm?

Martin County cannot move forward economically, until it tackles the problems of which is more importantproviding "free garbage service" to residents at as cost of nearly one million annually, or repairing roads, maintaining parks and recreational facilities, funding emergency services and police protection and subsidizing many other much-needed programs.

Yet after two failed attempts to pass a universal garbage pickup ordinance last year and the reality of serious cutbacks in the county budget for the 2000-2001 fiscal year, the time may be right for court members to seriously consider 'getting the county out of the garbage business." said Martin County Deputy Judge Gary Lafferty.

Miss America coming to Pike

As Miss America, Heather Renee French has traveled all around the country visiting towns as large as New York City to smaller communities like the 4,570person-small Pontotoc, Mississippi.

And on June 26, the 25-year-old Maysville native will make a stop in Pikeville.

Pikeville/Pike County Chamber of Commerce officials confirmed yesterday French will be the keynote speaker for their annual membership banquet.

"This year we are fortunate to have Miss America come to Pike County," Chamber Executive Director Kitty White said. "She is such an inspirational speaker and a very good representative for young people . everywhere, particularly here in Kentucky.

White said the Chamber requested French appear at this year's banquet because of her ties to Kentucky and her passion for her platform, homeless veterans. -Appalachian News-Express

City still in race for CDI selection

An expected announcement Wednesday on which two eastern Kentucky towns would be chosen for Governor Paul Patton's "new town" initiative failed to materialize.

But, the Kentucky Appalachian Commission (KAC) did meet May 24 to continue its assessment of applicants, and final selection could be announced by mid-June, KAC executive director Ewell Baltrip said Thursday.

"The good news is there is no bad news," Baltrip said. "None of the communities have been eliminated and we're, continuing the assessment process."

Paintsville was one of two Big Sandy area communities that applied for participation in the KAC's Community Development Initiative (CDI), a program that puts selected Appalachian towns on the fast track to state assistance for economic development.

New E-911 addresses now official in Morgan

New addresses and house numbers assigned to residences and businesses because of the county's new E-911 emergency dispatching became official this week.

John Conley, chief communications officer for the West Liberty Police Department, said official notices of address changes were mailed last Friday and Tuesday of the past week. Residents and businesses may now begin using their new addresses by notifying the Post Office and others of their address changes.

Anyone on any of the county's rural routes who has not received a letter notifying him/her of the address change should contact Conley immediately, he said, by calling 743-9911.

Conley said it was very important that residents post their new house and business numbers prominently on their new mail boxes or their residences so that they will be visible to mail carriers and emergency agencies from the road.-The Licking Valley Courier

Time line takes shape for CDI projects

Members of the Hindman/Knott County Community Development Initiative (CDI) steering committee heard how their vision is becoming reality as a specific timetable takes shape for construction of key elements in the project.

The group met this month at the new Cordia school in Lotts Creek. CDI chairman Bill Weinberg reminded those present that the committee had chosen to hold a meeting in each magisterial district to share details with residents of those areas. "We want to let people see this is a project for the county that applies to more than the city of Hindman," Weinberg stated.

Alice Whitaker, director of Lotts Creek Community School, welcomed the group, saying, "We like to show off our building." Whitaker gave a brief history of the school to the visitors. PCSOM spring banquet

Pikeville College School of one student from each class of Osteopathic Medicine (PCSOM) held its third annual spring banquet Tuesday, May 16, at the Jenny Wiley Convention Center. The purpose of the event was to congratulate students on the completion of another year's study and to provide special recognition to student, faculty, and staff members. The student awards went to

The Chad Perry Award is given in recognition of the student from eastern Kentucky who best represents and fulfills the mission of Pikeville College School of Osteopathic Medicine. The recipients of this award were Bill Webb and April Hall.

Michael Raichel and Thurman Alvey received the Eula Hall Award. Eula Hall is the founder of the Mud Creek clinic and gives hours of service to that community. This award was presented to the future doctors who most typify her example.

The Edward Stiles Award was established to honor the students who have exhibited the best osteopathic manipulation skills. This award, named for Dra Stiles, Pikeville College Professor and Chair of Osteopathic Principles and Practices, was presented to Ty Hanson and Wade Rankin.

Josh Crum and Anthony Yonts

were most admired by fellow students and recipients of Most Distinguished Student Awards. Lori Munsie and Dara Stepp were voted most involved in community service work and received the Community Service Awards. The Most Inspirational Student Award was given to one who has had to overcome extreme circumstances to either enter medical school or to succeed academically during the course of study. Larry Warren and Kevin Brinker were honored with this award. The Student Government Association (SGA) of the Pikeville College School of Osteopathic Medicine also gave recognition to others. Kellee Reed, SGA secretary, presented outstanding professors Drs. David Seastone and Steven Harris with Faculty Member of the Year awards. A plaque for Clinical Faculty Member of the Year was presented to Dr. Indira Malempati, who is an outstanding local gynecologist. She also teaches an obstetrics course to the second year students. The students felt that Dr. David Leech had been most helpful during the year and was recognized as Administrator of the Year, Angel Hamilton was named Administrative Assistant of the Year. Fellow classmates voted Michele Niemczyk Student Doctor of Osteopathy of the Year.

Dr. John Strosnider, vice president and dean of Pikeville College School of Osteopathic Medicine, gave a statement of encouragement to the entire student body, "You all are doing what it takes for us to be successful."

A special thanks was given to those who helped make the banquet possible. They included: G. Chad Perry, Dr. Edward Stiles, Dr. Sadicki, Eli Lilly, UCB Pharma, Merck, Ortho-McNeil, Wyeth-Ayerst Laboratories, Organon Pharmaceuticals, Aventus, Dr. N. Roger Jurich & Family, Mr. William Lindsey & Family, and Robert Bayes, First National Bank of Paintsville.

Recent record sales from the last few months have resulted in an overstock of trade-ins. According to Mr. Walters, sales have been at a tremendous rate. Walters said, "now we must reduce the number of our used cars and trucks to a more manageable level." During this five dollar sale, cars and trucks will be sold for thousands below their original price. In fact there will be cars that normally sell for five to eight thousand dollars sold for three to five thousand. Mr. Walters said, "our customers will find these prices even lower than at wholesale auctions." Auction bidding often inflates the true value of a car, so you pay more. Here, every car is on sale, first come, first served, and no bidding. It's the perfect opportunity to get a good quality used car at the lowest price possible, including cars for only five dollars. The used vehicles from all Walters dealerships will be on display at Walters Mazda-Mitsubishi, next to Kmart in Pikeville. At 9:00 a.m., all vehicles will be opened so that buyers may inspect the vehicles for one hour before the sale begins at 10:00 a.m. Whoever is sitting behind the wheel at 10:00 a.m., when the prices are posted on the windshield, will be given the first opportunity to purchase the vehicle at the sale price. This innovative approach to selling used vehicles will make it easy for anybody in the market for a good used vehicle to get a great car or truck at a very low price with no hassle.

*Limited quantity of vehicles at this price. All vehicles subject to tax, title, tags and processing fee. This is an advertisement

"Wholesale buyers will be represented to take trade-ins during this sale," Mr. Walters said. "We also have six business managers who help buyers will low-cost arrange financing. We've got over 5 million dollars in inventory to choose from. Our total inventory will be close to 400 used cars and trucks. We want to remind everyone that this is a one-day sale only. When our inventory has been reduced, we will remove the sale prices and return to normal operations. Since we are a local business, we would like to give back to the community," Mr. "We Walters said. would rather allow local people to buy these overstocked vehicles than wholesale them at an auction."

Anthony T. Yonts was most admired by fellow students and recently received the Most Distinguished Student Award at Pikeville College School of Osteopathic Medicine's Spring Awards Banquet. Presenting the award is Nhan Nguyen, left, and Thurman Alvey, also medical students. Anthony stays active on campus and in the community by participating in the Student Osteopathic Medical Association, Undergraduate American Academy of Osteopathy, Kentucky Osteopathic Medical Association, and American College of Osteopathic Family Physicians. He is the son of Thomas and Yvonne Yonts of Bevinsville.

Need more space? Think outdoor storage

(NAPSA) - Have you ever wondered where you're going to securely store all of your gardening equipment, camping gear, bicycles, or your new, shiny lawn mower? Or that firewood that was left out in the rain again.

Outdoor storage structures help to organize and create valuable space that can enhance any outdoor living area. A storage building and a unit to store trash cans and firewood are just two great ideas. Built of pressuretreated Southern Pine, outdoor storage structures will provide long-lasting durability and protection.

A variety of design options are available for a typical 8x10-foot storage building. A ramp is handy for moving a wheelbarrow or a riding mower in or out of the building. There are choices for exterior siding as well, such as painting or staining the siding to match the rest of the house. Inside, storage cabinets and shelves can be easily attached to the 2x4 stud walls of the building.

Now that you have all of your prized outdoor possessions securely stored away, what do you do with that firewood and those trash cans? A great solution is the trash can/firewood storage unit. This unit has an attractive design that conceals your trash cans and provides dry storage for your firewood. And because of its compact design, you can locate it on the edge of the patio, alongside the storage building, or next to the fence.

The Southern Pine Council (SPC) offers detailed project plans on how to build both the storage building and trash can/firewood storage unit. The illustrated plans include stepby-step instructions and provides a list of tools and materials required. During construction, be sure to www.southernpine.com use galvanized or stainless steel fasteners and hardware. When construction is complete, apply a water repellent sealer for added protection and to enhance appearance. Treated Southern Pine can be painted or stained just like untreated wood.

(NAPSA)-A surprising number of homeowners are asking a question once thought unimaginable: can I paint my aluminum or vinyl siding? Most are just unhappy with the present color of their homes and want a change of pace. In other cases, the siding's original luster may have faded

Either way, before you start, there are a few things you should keep in mind

· Power wash the siding with a cleaning solution before you paint. Like any other surfaces, vinyl siding needs to be thoroughly cleaned to ensure good paint adhesion. For an effective solution to run through your chemical injector, combine one Darker colors absorb the sun's heat

• Use a 100 percent acrylic, exterior-grade primer and finish coat. Acrylics will flex with the aluminum or vinyl siding as it expands and contrasts during seasonal temperature changes. Highly recommended for both vinyl and aluminum siding is Duron's Siding in a Can, which is formulated to resist cracking, fading, chalking and blistering. It also includes a mildew-resistant component to inhibit the growth of mildew on dried paint film. The product is available in exterior acrylic satin and semi-gloss, as well as exterior acrylic primer (white).

Skin self-examinations: The exam that could save your life for you each day-protecting your vital organs, muscles and skeleton, and controlling your body temperature and fluids-one of the skin's most important functions is its trouble at the best possible timeability to shield you against the sun

You can help your skin perform this function by wearing a broad spectrum sunscreen, staying out of the sun during peak hours and following the other sun safety guidelines set out by the American Academy of Dermatology (AAD). The AAD also encourages everyone to performa monthly skin selfexamination.

This year, an estimated 1.3 million new cases of skin cancer will be diagnosed in the United States. You can give yourself the best possible chance for survival if you perform a skin self-examination. A skin self-exam isn't like any other exam you've ever taken. You don't have to study, and there aren't any notes to memorize. You already know the material. You spend each day with your skin, so you're the best person to notice any changes or suspicious marks on your skin that could be a sign of skin cancer. By examining your skin, espe-

Of all the things your skin does cially your scalp, the soles of your feet, between your toes, and the palms of your hands, and using a hand-held mirror for those hard-tosee areas, you can spot potential early. Here's what to look for:

• A mole that has changed size, color, shape or texture.

· New moles.

· Changes in your skin, especially skin discolorations.

If you spot any of these changes, see your dermatologist immediately.

"Six out of seven skin cancer deaths are from melanoma," warns Richard Scher, M.D., president of the American Academy of Dermatology. "Skin self-examination can be the difference between life and death, since melanoma can usually be treated successfully if detected in the early stages."

It is estimated that approximately 47,700 people in the United States will be diagnosed with melanoma this year, an 8 percent increase from 1999. The overall incidence of melanoma is rising at an alarming rate. In 2000, at current rates, one in 74 Americans have a lifetime risk of developing melanoma, a 2000 percent increase from 1930.

Melanoma can strike anyone. but incidents in Caucasians are far more prevalent than those of other races. However, even among Caucasians, certain individuals are at higher risk than others. For example:

* Your chances increase by nine times if you've already had one malignant melanoma.

* You have a substantially increased risk of developing melanoma if you have many moles, large moles or atypical (unusual) moles.

· Your risk is increased if your parents, children or siblings have had melanoma.

. If you are a Caucasian with fair skin, your risk is twice as great as a Caucasian with olive skin.

· Redheads and blondes have a twofold to fourfold increased risk of developing melanoma.

• Excessive sun exposure in the first 10 to 15 years of life increases your chances of developing melanoma threefold.

In addition to practicing frequent skin self-examinations, the American Academy of Dermatology recommends that www.aad.org.

everyone follow these sun safety precautions year-round:

* Avoid "peak" sunlight hoursbetween 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.-when the sun's rays are the strongest. · Apply a broad-spectrum sunscreen with a Sun Protection Factor (SPF) of at least 15, apply 15 to 30 minutes before going outdoors, and reapply every two hours, especially when playing sports, swimming, gardening or doing any other outdoor activities. Cloudy days are no exception. Sunscreens should not be used to increase time spent in intense sunlight.

· Wear protective, tighly woven clothing, such as a long-sleeved shirt and pants during prolonged periods of sun exposure. And don't forget to wear a wide-brimmed hat and sunglasses when outdoors.

· Avoid reflective surfaces. which can reflect up to 85 percent of the sun's damaging rays.

* No shadow...seek the shade! If your shadow is shorter than you are, the damaging rays of the sun are at their strongest and your're likely to sunburn.

Communication essential for safe anesthesia care

Houser Class of 1939-Pikeville Junior College

> The year was 1937, my mother died in March, and I graduated from Pikeville High School in May. It was a depressing time, even though Franklin Delano Roosevelt was implementing the New Deal to bring the nation out of its economic crisis. Going to college was certainly not within my financial possibilities, so I made no preparation for it. Classmates were "leaving home" to pursue their education and others were going "up on the bill."

by Wanda Robinson

A View from the Hill

My cousin, Bess Alice Owens, was a professor at Pikeville College. I went to visit her on the Saturday before classes were to start the next week. She was very upset when she realized that I was unable to attend college. She instructed me to meet her by the college steps on Monday morning. didn't know what she was planning but I knew I had better be there. When we met, she took me straight to the dean's office, (Dr. Page, I think). He immediately told me of the National Youth Administration (NYA) which was part of F.D.R.'s New Deal. The NYA provided assistance to those like me who wanted to go on to college. This is how I became an official student at Pikeville College.

In a sense, I was working for the government. I was paid 25 cents an hour and anything I made over tuition could pay for books and fees. I worked for

Mr. Ashby in Business

Administration. He taught me responsibility and trusted me to type and print test exams for all of his classes - that is, all classes except the one in which I was a student. Mrs. Hart, the art teacher, whom we fondly called "Art for Hart," also had me work for her. Miss Spilman, the biology teacher, was so much fun. Who could keep from learning? I can't believe I was paid to go on field trips to the creek to catch wiggly things and put them into jars of formaldehyde. All of my teachers were an inspiration to me.

Following graduation, I taught for several years in the Pike County Schools before leaving the area.

It is a great desire of mine to help some other young student. who may be in the same situation as I was 63 years ago. Each year, I willingly answer the "Phonathon" and make my contribution. I feel so fortunate to have lived in Pikeville and several teachers, but mostly for attended college "on the hill."

"While a person's age and type and amount of anesthetic to be used, there are other important factors as well," said Stewart. "A family history of diabetes, use of herbal remedies, an exotic weight-loss diet, a daily regimen of prescribed medications, a drinking problem-all of this information is essential for the anesthesia provider to make the right anesthetic choices." According to Stewart, patients should be prepared to reveal pertinent facts during the preoperative conference with their anesthesia provider, if not sooner. Even confidential or personal information should be discussed. For example, "closet" alcoholics or users of recreational drugs who conceal this information may be putting their lives in jeopardy. "For any number of reasons, patients are sometimes hesitant to talk about an aspect of their lifestyle that may be relevant to their anesthesia care," said Stewart. Other reasons patients fail to share relevant information with their anesthesia provider may be they forget, they are embarrassed or they dismiss something as unimportant. Stewart said senior citizens are a particularly highrisk group for not sharing information. Many seniors take a host of medications for various agerelated health problems and may forget to mention a particular medication simply due to volume. Senior citizens also represent a growing market for herbal medications such as ginseng, ginkgo biloba, and St. John's Wort, which may react unfavorably with anesthetics. Stewart suggests that seniors and others who take a number of different medications, regardless of whether they are prescription or over-the-counter, maintain a list of what they take and carry it with them at all times. "If a patient thinks something they are taking is insignificant, I say let the anesthesia provider be the judge of that," Stewart said. "You'd be surprised at how different herbal remedies, which are very much in vogue these days, can react with anesthetics. And never-I repeat, never-be too embarrassed to tell your CRNA about anything you are taking. Viagra is a good example. Even though more than six million prescriptions have been written for this drug since it came on the market, many men still attach a stigma to it and don't like to admit they are taking it. That could be a big mistake." Patients derive an additional benefit from speaking openly with their anesthesia provider prior to surgery: the comfort and confidence in knowing they had a participatory role in determining which anesthetics they will receive. "The need for open communication between patient and anesthesia provider cannot be stressed enough," said Stewart. To learn more about CRNAs or anesthesia patient safety, contact AANA at (847) 692-7050, or visit the Web site at www.aana.com.

Rise in income limits for housing program

USDA, Rural Development Area Office in Morehead announces an increase in income limits for Guaranteed Rural Housing loans in Floyd County.

The Guaranteed Rural makes loans through private lenders for the purchase of new and existing homes. Loans are made to eligible applicants. with incomes not exceeding 115 percent of the median income.

There is no required down payment; the loan can be for 100 percent of the appraised value, including fees. Maximum loan amount is determined by what the families can afford.

Income Limits are as follows:

· Households of 1-person is $30,900;

- · 2-person $35,300;
- * 3-person $39,700;

- * 4-person $44,150;
- * 5-person $47,760; and
- * 6-person $51,200,

Limits can be adjusted according to the number in the household. The limits above are based on projected gross Housing (GRH) program income over the next 12 months less eligible deduc-HORS.

> An example of eligible deductions is $480 for minor children under 18 years old, fulltime student 18 years or older, child care expenses for children under 12 years old: $400 for elderly/handicapped family, which could include a portion of the family's medical expenses.

> Inquiries concerning the GRH program in Floyd County should be directed to Susan T. Jones in the Morehead Area office at 606/784-6447, Ext. 114. USDA is an equal opportunity employer.

Hall named Conference 'Player of the Year

by ED TAYLOR SPORTS EDITOR

The 2000 high school baseball season ended in Floyd County last Friday at Garrett Park with the finals of the boys' district tournament. But before the crowd could go home, trophy presentations were held at the park.

Allen Central's Frank Howard was awarded the Coach of the Year plaque after his Rebels were conference champions. Howard was in his first year as the school's head baseball coach. He is a former Allen Central player himself.

South Floyd was the district champion, a first for the school and head coach Barry Hall. Allen Central finished in the runnerup slot, ball scholarship for next season.

Also named to the All-Conference team were:

M Patrick Martin, Allen Central

Martin played third base for the Rebels and his sure hands at the hot corner helped earn him a spot on the All-Conference team. Martin was a solid hitter for the Rebels this past season. He is a junior at Allen Central.

III Ryan Shannon, South Floyd

Shannon, a senior, played center field for South Floyd and could roam the real estate with the best of them. His surprisingly strong throwing arm kept many base runners honest.

He is quick with a bat and swings from the left side. A big loss for the South Floyd program.

Adam Tackett, Betsy Layne

A big, big bat for the Bobcats this season. Filled the designated hitter role perfectly. A power hitter with a good eye at the plate. Tackett is a senior at Betsy Layne.

M Seth Crisp, Prestonsburg

Seems Seth has played baseball all his life. He can play anywhere but is very good outfielder. A good contact hitter a but mostly a team leader. Signed to play football for Campbellsville next season.

Timmy Davis, Allen Central

A catcher, Davis has surprising power for his size and is a good receiver behind the plate. A competitor who can hit with consistency.

Nick Moore, South Floyd

Moore holds down first base for the Raiders but is also part of the moundsmen crew. A lefthander, Moore hits cleanup for the Raiders and swings the bat with power. Moore is a senior at South Floyd.

Has good velocity on the ball.

Starter Chad Caney, who suffered the loss, failed to get an out in the inning, seven runs on just two hits. He walked five batters.

Jarred McGuire relieved Caney and got the side out but only went the one inning before giving way to Jason Hughes, who hurled the final three innings.

McGuire allowed four runs on three hits and he walked one while fanning one. Hughes gave up three runs on three hits and he hit one batter while striking out one.

Regional officials camp to run June 5-8

15th Region basketball assigning secretary Ancie Casey announced the 15th Region Officials Association will conduct its annual officials camp June 5-8 at Pike County Central High School.

The camp is mandatory for all officials and open to anyone who is interested in becoming an official in the region.

Those attending the camp will referee actual high school games and this year that will involve over 30 teams.

"Last year we had eight teams but this year we will have both boys' and girls' teams," said Casey. "Anyone interested in officiating must attend the camp and we will provide the training.

Each game is videotaped and then critiqued by veteran officials in a positive way. Each official will call several games during the four-day camp

The camp affords veteran officials the opportunity to finetune their skills and young officials to learn more of the mechanics of officiating.

Hall closes career with two hits in 8-4 setback

by ED TAYLOR SPORTS EDITOR

Winning high school baseball games is threefold: getting off the bus, getting the bats out of the bag and coming to play.

According to South Floyd Coach Barry Hall, his team did two of the three.

"We just didn't come to play," he said after the Raiders, winners of the 58th District tournament last week, fell to Elkhorn City, a team they mer-

Bad hops and errors weren't any help to the Raiders in the field. Three errors in the Elkhorn City sixth allowed three unearned runs to cross the plate and pad the Cougar lead.

The track recently had to resurface the track's speedway with a cost of just over half a million.

Stock car racing, any racing really, is the fastest growing sport in America today. NASCAR's popularity has helped other racing events to become popular as well.

The baseball and softball seasons came to a close this past week with the regional tournaments. The girls' softball tournament was held at Pikeville High School and the boys' district, for the first time, was played at Pike Central High School.

Really, there is no better place to play the two tournaments than the two

Coach Martin to hold Runnin' Rebel basketball camp June 12-16

by ED TAYLOR SPORTS EDITOR

One of the top regional high school basketball coaches will conduct his annual summer basketball camp June 12-16.

Allen Central Coach Johnny Martin will open his camp to boys and girls ages 8-18 at the Allen Central gymnasium.

The camp will emphasize all the fundamentals of the game such as dribbling, shooting, rebounding and defense. Post moves, and individual offensive moves will be part of the camp's instructions along with guard play.

The camp will feature skill contests, hot shot, three-point shooting and freethrow shooting contests.

One-on-one, 3-on-3 and league play will be held as well. Each camper will receive a T-shirt and trophy for competing in the camp.

Registration fee is $55 per camper. For more information or to register, contact Coach Johnny Martin at 358-9543.

BUSCH DRIVER CASEY ATWOOD TAPPED TO DRIVE FOR EVERHAM

Ray Evernham has picked 19-yearold Casey Atwood of Nashville, Tennessee, to drive his No. 19 Dodge in 2001. Atwood is in his second year of Busch competition as driver of the No. 27 Castrol Chevrolet.

Now, it seems Evernham's driver plans are complete. He had stated earlier that he would like to have a seasoned veteran (Bill Elliott) and a younger driver pilot his two cars next season. The deal with Elliott was finalized months ago, but due to Atwood's current contract, he had to wait until it could be worked out.

"I certainly had these two guys in mind, but even though you get a verbal agreement, it's a long process," Evernham said. "I'd really like to thank some of the people that worked with us on Atwood's current team. I'm glad it's over and we can go build some race cars."

For Atwood, it was a happy day. "This is probably one of the greatest days of my life," he said. "This is what I've worked for (being a Winston Cup driver) since I started racing. Ray is one of the greatest crew chiefs in the business. And being with a driver like Bill who has so much experience is super.

places where they were held this week. The softball facility next to Pikeville High School is first class and the people who put the tournament on are first class as well.

All through the tournament I was constantly hearing, "Why can't we (Floyd County) have a place to play like this," How many times was that repeated over and over?

Guess what, at Pike Central, what did I hear? That's right, the very same thing.

Pike Central and the folks in Pike County built a beautiful facility and they should be very, very proud of it.

When you drive in Pike County, you find schools like Pikeville, Pike Central, Shelby Valley, Millard, Feds Creek, Phelps, Belfry, etc., all have their own fields. They do not have to travel miles, transport equipment many miles, in order to play a game of baseball or softball. We drive through Floyd County and how many schools have baseball and softball facilities? Zero! They have to pack up the equipment and haul it to a park somewhere, play, return it back again.

Our kids have to drive miles just to practice and what they have to practice on is a shame.

Why do our Floyd County kids have to play on such poor fields? That is a good question. We can officials and school board officials

The Raiders picked up run two in the bottom of the fifth. The inning unfolded with Shannon ripping a single to center, stealing second, moving to third on a balk before coming home on a wild pitch runs on the board for the game and the season in the bottom of the seventh. Hall walked and Moore ripped a single to center, scoring Shannon. He scored on a wild pitch to make it an 8-4 affair.

Elkhorn City made it more difficult for the Raiders with a three spot in the sixth. T.R. Adkins singled and went all the way to third on a hit-and-run play, with Ratliff lacing a base hit to right center. Adkins scored on a wild pitch by Tackett and Ratliff came home when Ben Runyon's grounder to second was misplayed.

Tackett walked to keep the bases loaded for South Floyd but, after a visit to the mound, Adkins got the next three to end the game and the Raider season.

Tackett, in five innings of work, allowed five runs on seven hits. He struck out two, walked three and hit one batter. Skeans recorded one inning, allowing no runs on one hit. He did not fan a batter and did not issue a walk.

to take a good long look at what this county has to offer in the way of facilities for our kids. Be fair in our assessment and you will agree, we can do better.

The Allen Park is as near the best we have to offer. Yet the baseball facility is in dire need of repairs. Lights are burned out, no scoreboard at the bigger park, seating is a disgrace.

But just a move here or there could make it a showcase. Covered grandstand seating behind the backstop would be great. The more comfortable you make it for the fans, the more they will turn out for the games.

But the real need, I think and I am sure that parents and others will agree with me, is for our schools to have their own fields.

I wish our elected officials would just look at the counties around us and see what they have done for their kids. I wish the school board would have a little more foresight when planning new facilities.

The most important commodity we have is our kids. We should want to provide the best for them, I know the old reasoning, "The money is not there!" Well it is there for other things this county doesn't need. Why can't we find it for the things we do need?

Honoring the Class of 2000

As the month of May has come and gone, it is time to start thinking about honoring the class of 2000.

Schools everywhere have been sending their graduates down the isle, some even with honors as they prepare to begin their careers in their chosen fields

Winston Cup's rookie class of 2000 is still in its first semester, but the early reports are showing that this class may just be the brightest class to come along in several years. Two rookies, Dale Earnhardt, Jr. and Matt Kenseth have already shown that they plan on graduating with honors and taking their rightful place among some of the best that compete in the series at this time.

Before Sunday's running of the Coca-Cola 600 at Charlotte, Dale, Jr. had grabbed most all of the headlines when anything was written about the class of 2000, but it was actually Kenseth who was on top of the rookie standings. But Little E was the only repeat winner in the series and Kenseth had yet to win his first Winston Cup race Running consistently each week will draw its rewards in the points chase, but if you really want to get noticed and grab the attention of the press you have to find your way to victory lane. Kenseth had been close on occasion, but last Sunday night in one of the biggest races that makes up the schedule he was able to overcome an ever changing racing surface to claim his first ever win in his first full time season in the series.

The win put a huge stamp of credibility on what was already a great season for not only a rookie, but would have done the same for a majority of veteran drivers who have yet to make a trip to victory lane. It also allowed his name to be mentioned in the same breath with Earnhardt, Jr. when the talk turned to drivers who have been fortunate enough to win a race this season.

Both of these drivers came into the series this season with an advantage over fellow rookies as they were driving for organizations that already knew what it took to win races and run for championships. Earnhardt was driving for his father's team that had already helped him win the last two Busch Series championships.

Kenseth caught the eye of Roush Racing driver, Mark Martin a few years ago and since that time Martin has become Kenseth's men to in the sport. Roush and Martin put together a Busch Series team for Kenseth and started plotting his path to Winston Cup a few years ago.

Like Earnhardt, Kenseth raced in five Winston Cup events last season as they both eyed the move up to the Cup. level this season with a chance of winning Rookie of the Year honors. Their timing on moving into the Winston Cup Series couldn't have been better as of cracking the top-ten. the 2000 season has become the season of parity as the first 12 races have produced 11 different winners.

Although they both will be remembered for winning in their rookie seasons, what really impresses those that are involved in the sport is the total numbers that they have already put into the books. Kenseth, besides his win, has two top-five's and four top-ten's which has put him in 13th place in the point standings, but only 60 points out

Earnhardt, Jr. has posted three topfive's and four top-ten's, plus won one pole to go along with his two wins which puts him in 16th place in the point standings. He also captured the all star event, The Winston last weekend which awarded him a hefty half million dollar check.

Hard to believe that we are recapping a couple of rookie seasons with numbers like that and we just finished the month of May. Last season Tony Stewart rewrote the rookie record books with three wins, but his first trip. to victory lane didn't come until the September race at Richmond. It is still a long time to September and it looks like this rookie class may not be satisfied with the honors they have already received.

FRIDAY, JUNE 2, 2000 B3

When the series finally holds its graduation for the class of 2000 in November at Atlanta, we might just get to see the most honored rookie class in NASCAR take its place in history.

Rangers edge Cubs 5-3

The Prestonsburg Rangers posted a 5-3 win over the Prestonsburg Rangers in the Minor League at Archer Park Tuesday night.

The Cubs held a 2-0 lead until the fifth inning when the Rangers tied it with two runs. They then scored three times in the sixth inning to pull out the win.

D.J. Ousley had two hits in the win for the Rangers. Tosha Wallen, Dustin Coleman, Max Cornett, Kyle Welch, James Chaffins and Kyle Gearheart had safeties as well.

J.D. Head collected three hits for the Cubs, as did for the win.

Josh Blackburn. Mika Hackworth and Robby Grigsby had two safeties each. Amber Johnson, Jonathan Dye and Ethan Blackburn collected one hit apiece.

The Cubs' pitching had retired 11 straight Ranger batters until Wallen singled in the fourth inning. The Cubs scored three times in the third inning to lead 2-0. Hackworth and Head scored for the Cubs.

In the top of the fifth, the Rangers pushed across two runs to tie the game at 2. Ousley and Cornett scored for the Rangers. The Cubs made it a 3-2 game with a single run in the bottom of the fifth. Hackworth scored for the Cubs.

In the bottom of the sixth, the Rangers plated three runs and held off the Cubs in the bottom of the inning

Dowdy takes late model checker

by CHRIS BELCHER TRACK WRITER

After dirt track racing was postponed this past Saturday night, the rain makeup date was Sunday and despite the still-threatening clouds, a full grid of racing took place with plenty of thrills to keep the fans applauding.

After work on the clay track was completed, heat races saw some of the closest finishes recorded at the track.

The late model feature was the first to take to the track and it was Butch Dowdy driving his 158 car to the checker from the drop of the green flag. Dowdy was never headed as he ran the circuits. Pikeville's Glen Patton would be the lone challenger to Dowdy and the only time he got close to Dowdy was on a restart. Patton would loop the second turn forcing the 17-year veteran to the back of the running order. Cornelius Hall placed second with Patton able to recover and place third.

Lenore, West Virginia's, Jason Dempsey parked alongside of Falcon's Jim Lemaster on the front row of the super bomber feature with each driver not willing to give ground to the other as they were side by side until Dempsey broke loose out of turn four to take the lead.

Fuel pump problems allowed second-place runner Michael Paul Howard to take the point, setting up a battle between the two drivers.

On lap 10, Dempsey drew to the side of Howard and the stock car race resembled more of a drag race going into turn three and out the fourth turn.

Dempsey finished the race taking the checkered flag ahead of Howard to win his second feature of the yet young season. Howard finished second followed by Tom Sparks and Gary Cunagin.

With a Butcher boys front row, the bomber feature saw Benny Butcher alongside of brother Albert Butcher just before the green dropped for the start of the race. Benny took the early lead over his brother but Bannie Blair and Jody Puckett entered the picture as well.

On lap eight, Albert suffered

It would be Benny Butcher taking the checker flag for his first win of the race season. Pennington placed second and Doug Saylor third.

The first three circuits of the road hog feature saw Lloyd Kimbler and A.J. Stambaugh running side by side until Kimbler had to exit the track with a flat tire by the fourth round. That allowed Stambaugh to take the lead for good in racing to the checkers for his second feature win.

The final feature of the evening saw James Harless win over defending points champion Jack Clevenger, Jr.

The Strongman 40 will be run this coming Saturday night with a $800 to win for the bombers. Also on the card will be a full slate of late models, road hogs and fourcylinders.

Many people thought a NASCAR team in Kentucky would never work because Charlotte, N.C., is the hub of NASCAR activity.

Kentuckians such as Winston Cup Series drivers Darrell and Michcael Waltrip and Jeremy Mayfield have made the trek southeast to pursue a career with NASCAR. Kentucky also produced Busch Series regulars David, Mark and Jeff Green and a number of crew members on various Winston Cup and Busch Series teams, most of whom have made the move to the Charlotte area.

"We can do anything here they can do in North Carolina," Brewco Motorsports founder and owner Clarence Brewer Jr. said. Brewco fields two full-time teams and one part-time team in the Busch Series. The No. 27 Castrol GTX Chevrolet driven by Casey Atwood and the No. 37 Timberwolf Chevrolet driven by Kevin Grubb run full time in the Busch Series, while Andy Kirby pilots the No. 39 Williams Travel Centers Chevrolet for Brewco in 10 selected races during the 2000 season.

Tommy Chandler, Owensboro native, is one of those people who made the move back home to work on the No. 37 team.

"I never thought that there would be a race team this close to home," Chandler said. "Even when this deal got started, I was one of the skeptics."

Brewer began building Brewco Motorsports in 1994 with one race car in a small garage.

"I owned a manufacturing company and got into NASCAR to be a sponsor," Brewer said. "It intrigued me, and I decided to start my own team.'

From that start Brewco has captured three poles and two wins with Atwood. Brewco looks to be on the way to becoming a force to be reckoned with in NASCAR

NOTICE OF ENACTMENT AND SUMMARY OF ORDINANCE NO. 3-2000

149 South, Central

Avenue,

Prestonsburg

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG ACTING THROUGH THE PRESTONS-BURG CITY'S UTILITIES COMMISSION (PCUC) CONCERNING USE OF THE MUNICIPAL SANITARY SEWAGE COLLECTION AND TREATMENT SYSTEM, SETTING FORTH POLICY, DEFINITIONS, RULES AND REGULATIONS REGARDING THE USE OF SAID SYSTEM, CONTROLLING PRIVATE WASTEWATER DISPOSAL, GOVERNING THE BUILDING OF SEWERS AND CONNECTIONS, POLLUTANT DISCHARGE LIMITS, PRETREATMENT PRO-GRAM ADMINISTRATION, ESTABLISHING THE RIGHT OF THE CITY THROUGH PCUC TO CHARGE FEES FOR ADMINISTERING THE CITY'S REASONABLY NECESSARY FUNC-TIONS RELATED TO SEWER USE, AND DELINEATING POWERS AND AUTHORITY OF THE PCUC, INSPECTORS AND SETTING FORTH THE METHODS AND PROCEDURES OF ENFORCEMENT OF THE ORDINANCE AND PENALTIES FOR VIOLATION OF SAME AND REPEALING PRIOR ORDINANCES.

As required by KRS 83A.060(9), I hereby certify that an Ordinance bearing the above title was given first reading (by Title and Summary) by the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, at a duly convened meeting of said City Council held on April 20, 2000, and was given second reading (by Title and Summary) and enacted by said City Council at a duly convened meeting held on May 8, 2000, and that the following is a Summary of such Ordinance prepared by W. Randall Jones, of the firm of Rubin & Hays, Attorneys at Law, Louisville, Kentucky. (Signed W. Randall Jones)

SUMMARY OF ORDINANCE

ARTICLE I - General Provisions - sets forth the purpose and policy of the Ordinance which is to provide uniform requirements for direct and indirect contributors into the wastewater collection and treatment system for the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky and enables the City to comply with all applicable State and Federal laws required by the Clean Water Act of 1977 and the general Pretreatment Regulations (40 CFR, Part 403). Said Article I also sets forth all definitions used in the Ordinance.

ARTICLE II - Use of Public Sewers - requires the owner(s) of all houses, buildings, or properties used for human occupancy, employment, recreation, or other purposes, situated within the City and abutting on any street, alley, or right-of-way in which there is now located or may in the future be located a public sanitary sewer of the city, at the owner's expense to install suitable toilet facilities therein, and to connect such facilities directly with the proper sewer in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance, within ninety (90) days after date of official notice to do so, provided that said public sewer is within one hundred (100 feet) (30.5 meters) of the property line. Said Article II also sets forth conditions as to unlawful discharge into the system.

ARTICLE III - Private Wastewater Disposal - provides requirements for connection of the sanitary sewer to a private wastewater disposal system where public sewer is not available.

ARTICLE IV - Building Sewers and Connections - provides for the issuance of building sewer permits; prohibits certain connections to the sanitary sewer system; and sets out regulations for the design, installation and inspection of building sewers.

ARTICLE V - Pollutant Discharge Limits - sets forth limits on certain types of discharge into the sanitary sewer system.

ARTICLE VI - Pretreatment Program Administration - provides for the issuance of industrial user discharge permits, including conditions and modifications regarding same. Said Article also addresses pretreatment requirements.

ARTICLE VII - Fees - provides that PCUC may establish fees and charges for the recovery of costs to implement the programs set forth in the Ordinance.

ARTICLE VIII - Powers and Authority of Inspectors - sets forth powers and authority of the Superintendent of PCUC and duly designated employees and representatives relating to the monitoring and enforcement of the Ordinance.

ARTICLE IX - Enforcement - sets forth the actions that may be taken to enforce the provisions of the Emile . Ala wataya a doub Ordinance.

ARTICLE X - Penalties - KRS 83A.060(9) provides that penalty sections of Ordinances must be set forth in full. Said Article provides:

A. Written Notice. Any user found to be violating any provision of this ordinance or a wastewater permit or order issued hereunder, shall be served by the Superintendent or their designee with written notice stating the nature of the violation. The offender shall permanently remedy all violations upon receipt of this notice.

As contained in Article IX, the notice may be of several forms. Also as contained in Article IX, penalties of various forms may be levied against users for violations of this ordinance. The penalties, if levied, shall range from publication of violators in the local newspaper to administrative fines of at least $1,000.00 per day per violation.

B. Revocation of Permit. Any user violating any of the provisions of this ordinance or a wastewater permit order issued hereunder, may be subject to termination of its authority to discharge sewage into the municipal sewer system. Such termination may be immediate if necessary for the protection of the POTW. Said user may also have water service terminated.

Any user who violates the following conditions of this ordinance, or applicable State or Federal Regulations, is subject to having his permit revoked in accordance with the procedures of this ordinance. (1) Failure of a user to factually report the wastewater constituents and characteristics of his discharge; (2) Failure of the user to report significant changes in operations, or wastewater constituents and characteristics; (3) Refusal of reasonable access to the user's premises for the purpose of inspection or monitoring; or (4) Violation of conditions of the permit.

C. Liability. Any user violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance, discharge permit or other order issued hereunder shall become liable to the City of Prestonsburg for any expense, loss or damage occasioned by the City by reason of such violation. This civil liability is as provided by state and federal regulations.

D. Misrepresentation and/or Falsifying of Documents, Any user who knowingly and/or negligently makes any false statements, representations or certification of any application, record, report, plan or other document filed or required pursuant to this Ordinance or Industrial User Discharge Permit or who falsifies, tampers with or knowingly and/or negligently renders inaccurate any monitoring device or method required under this Ordinance, shall be punished by a fine of at least $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than twelve (12) months or by both.

E. Destruction of POTW and Legal Action. No person(s) shall maliciously, willfully, or negligently break, damage, destroy, uncover, deface, or tamper with any structure, appurtenance or equipment which is part of the POTW. Any person(s) violating this provision shall be subject to immediate arrest under charge of disorderly conduct. It shall be noted that the Clean Water Act does not require proof of specific intent to obtain conviction.

E Legal Action. If any person discharges sewage, industrial wastes or other wastes into the City's wastewater disposal system contrary to the provisions of this ordinance. Federal or State Pretreatment Requirements or any order of the City, the City may commence an action for appropriate legal and/or equitable relief in the appropriate Court of this jurisdiction.

G. Injunctive Relief. Whenever a user has violated or continues to violate the provisions of this ordinance or permit or order issued hereunder, the Superintendent, through counsel may petition the Court for the issuance of a preliminary or permanent injunction or both (as may be appropriate) which restrains or compels the activities on the part of the industrial user.

H. Civil Penalties. 1. Any user who has significantly violated or continues to violate this ordinance or any order or permit issued hereunder, may be liable to the Superintendent, for a civil penalty of not more than $1,000.00 per day plus actual damages incurred by the POTW per violation per day for as long as the violation continues. Each day in which such violation shall continue shall be deemed a separate offense. In addition to the above described penalty and damages, the Superintendent may recover reasonable attorney's fees, court costs, court reporter's fees, and other expenses associated with the enforcement activities, including sampling and monitoring expenses.

2. The Superintendent may petition the Court to impose, assess and recover such sums. In determining amount of liability, the Court shall take into account all relevant circumstances, including, but not limited to, the extent of harm caused by the violation, the magnitude and duration, any economic benefit gained through the user's violation, corrective actions by the user, the compliance history of the user, and any other factor as justice requires.

I. Criminal Prosecution, 1. Violations - General.

a. Any user who willfully or negligently violates any provision of this ordinance or any order or permits issued hereunder shall, upon conviction, be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not to exceed $2,000.00 per violation per day or imprisonment for not more than one (1) year or both.

b. In the event of a second conviction, the user shall be punishable by a fine not to exceed $10,000.00 per violation per day or imprisonment for not more than three (3) years or both.

A copy of the full text of said Ordinance is available for public inspection during regular business hours, Monday through Friday. (Signed) Peggy Bailey, City Clerk, City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Kentucky Housing Corporation 1231 Louisville Rd. Frankfort, KY 40601 F. Lynn Luallen, Chief Executive Officer Michael Dant, Environmental/Labor Specialist

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:

The above-named agency proposes to request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to release Federal funds under 542 C of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1992 and Title II of the National Affordable Housing Act of 1990 (NAHA), for the following project:

Project: Abbott Creek Purpose: Construction of 24 two-bedroom and 8 three-bedroom units Location: Abbott Creek Road, Prestonsburg, Kentucky Project Costs: The project includes $508,161 and $134,719 in tax credits.

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, KHC has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).

An Environmental Review Record respecting the within project has been made by KHC which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such statement is not required. The Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying upon request during normal business hours. No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted prior to the request for release of Federal funds.

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this Finding of No Significant Impact decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by KHC to F. LYnn Luallen Chief Executive Officer, Attention Michael Dant. Such written comments should be received at the above address on or before June 19, 2000. All such comments so received will be considered and KHC will not request the release of Federal funds or take any administrative action on the within project prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST RELEASE OF FUNDS

On or about June 20, 2000, KHC will request HUD to release Federal funds for the project described above. KHC's Risk Sharing Program is providing permanent financing and will be sharing in the insurance of this loan with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) under 542 C of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1992. Gap loan financ-ing will also be provided with HOME funds from HUD under title II of the National Affordable Housing Act of 1990. KHC is certifying to HUD that KHC as State Participating Jurisdiction and the chief executive officer in his official capacity consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision making, and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, KHC may use the Risk-Sharing and HOME funds and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 and other related laws and authorities. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) That the certification was not in fact executed by KHC's Certifying Officer; or (b) that KHC has failed to make one of the the two findings pursuant to 24 CFR Part 58 Sec. 58.40 or to make the written determination required by Secs. 58.35, 58.47 or 58.53 for the project, as applicable; or (c) KHC has omitted one or more of the steps set forth at subparts E of 24 CFR Part 58 for the conduct, preparation, publication and completion of an Environmental Assessment; or (d) KHC has omitted one or more of the steps set forth at subparts F and G of 24 CFR Part 58 for the preparation, publication and completion of an Environmental Impact Statement, if applicable; or (e) KHC has committed funds or incurred costs not authorized by 24 CFR Part 58 before release of funds and approval of the environmental certification by HUD; or (f) A Federal agency acting pursuant to 40 CFR part 1504 has submitted a written finding that the project is unsatisfactory from the standpoint of environmental quality.

Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58) and may be addressed to: Kentucky State Office of HUD, P.O. Box 1044, Louisville, KY 40201. Objections to the release of funds on bases other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after July 5, 2000, will be considered by HUD.

June 3 thru June 9, 2000 A CENTER FOR THE APPALACHIANS

Story and photos by Pam Shingler Leisure Times Editor

The late Dr. James Golden was a mountain wonderkind.

Being a surgeon and chief of staff at Pineville Community Hospital apparently was not enough to use up the creative energy he had in abundance.

Golden carved wood. He found oddshaped gourds and painted funny faces on them. He cut up plastic milk jugs and fashioned them into gargoyl-ish creatures. He took pieces of metal and soldered them together to form fanciful images.

In his spare time, he was a naturalist and photographer with an exceptional eye and skill. He hiked Pine Mountain and other lesser hills in southern Kentucky, identifying and capturing on film hundreds of wildflowers and forest wildlife.

He was the type of person that an admirer of characters feels robbed for not having known.

Before Golden died a few years back, Michael Corriston and some other folks from Harlan County went to call on the doctor and view his interesting art.

Corriston, figuring nothing venturednothing gained, asked the physician if he might consider willing his collection of artifacts and nature photographs to Southeast Community College in Cumberland, where Corriston is facility director of the Appalachian Center.

Without waiting to consult a lawyer or taking time to mull over the pros and cons, Golden said yes.

Dr. James Golden said he could see a face in almost everything. See CENTER, page ten He created thousands of whimsical creatures, most of which are now in the collection of the Appalachian Center at Southeast Community College in Cumberland.

Salome's Stars

ARIES

(March 21 to April 19)

All you creative Arians need to push yourselves to finish what you started. Leaving others to wind things up could cause things to wind down instead.

TAURUS

(April 20 to May 20)

The Big Bovine might be pawing the ground impatiently while a certain matter works its way through the system. But the payoff makes the waiting worthwhile.

(May 21 to June 20)

Aspects favor decisive action, including personal commitments that you might have tried to avoid. No excuses this time. You'll be glad you did what needed doing.

CANCER

(June 21 to July 22) This is a good time to consider assuming that added responsibility you were unsure of before. You should now feel more confident about that and other matters. LEO

(July 23 to August 22)

Prudence is the watchword in all financial matters this week. Resist the temptation to jump into new ventures that promise much but might not be able to deliver.

VIRGO

(August 23 to September 22)

Health matters dominate this period. Consider starting on a lifestyle-changing regimen that could be the best investment you'll ever make in your future.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22)

A change in plans on the job involves some complicated explanations. Be ready with the necessary facts to back up your position. Be strong; you have allies.

SCORPIO

(October 23 to November 21)

Change is favored, but take several small steps toward your goal instead of one giant leap. Spend more time with family, especially the children.

SAGITTARIUS

(November 22 to December 21)

You find yourself in the midst of a contentious situation. The best advice is not to offer any unless you are asked. Keep it general, not personal.

CAPRICORN

(December 22 to January 19)

Financial loose ends need to be tied off before they cause your new business venture to unravel. Don't be rushed into acting before you're ready.

AQUARIUS

(January 20 to February 18) A new challenge is like a breath of fresh air for the Aquarian who might still be wary of change. It can startle you, but it will also restore you.

PISCES

(February 19 to March 20)

Get over your hurt feelings and take that too-long-delayed dive back into the social pool where you're sure to reaffirm old relationships and make new ones.

YOU WERE BORN THIS WEEK:

You love merriment and laughter and have the gift for making people feel good about themselves.

Woodcarvers have their day

Woodcarvers have carved their own special niche in the history of Washington, Kentucky. Once again carvers will be welcomed to Washington for the ninth annual Woodcarvers Day on Sunday, June 11.

The event is sponsored by Historic Washington Shopkeepers Association. This quaint 1780s village of museums and antique, craft and gift shops is a perfect setting for exhibits and sales of beautifully hand-carved items.

This year, as in the past, carvers from a number of states will compete for ribbons in the following divisions: Best of Show, Best Display, Bird, Aquatics, Relief, Water Fowl, Animal, Caricature, Christmas, Chip Carving, Cane/Walking Stick, Human Figure, Unique/Unusual and "The 21st Century." The annual crowd pleaser will be the half-hour Santa head carving contest at 1:30 p.m. Wood will be provided to any adult who wishes to participate and who has his/her own carving tool.

Although coming to the village of Washington is a step into the past, this year the carvers will have an opportunity to step into the future by competing in a special division. The 21st Century. The entry will reflect the carver's vision of the future.

Fine Kentucky dining can be found at Brodrick's Tavern and Marshall Key Tavern where a variety of entrees, sandwiches and wonderful homemade desserts are offered. Costumed tour guides will make available guided tours throughout the village, including Paxton Inn, which is also included in the Underground Railroad tour and Mefford's Fort, which was built from part of a flatboat belonging to the Mefford family.

Door prize drawings will be held at 1 and 4:30 p.m. Prizes will consist of carvings donated by the wood carvers and gift certificates from local businesses.

This annual event, with free admission, draws carvers and spectators from throughout the United States and Canada. Exhibits will open at 10 a.m. and close at 5 p.m.

Washington is easily found on U.S. 68—four miles south of the Ohio River, at Maysville, 1/2 mile south of the AA Highway, Route 9

For information, call 606/564-3559 or 606/759-7074 or write P.O. Box 74, Washington, KY. 41096, or e-mail irongate@atcc.net.

P.O.V. takes look at political asylum

P.O.V., the award-winning showcase of independence non-fiction films, kick off its 13th season with a behind-the-scenes look at political asylum in the United States. "Well-Founded Fear" airs Monday, June 5, at 9 p.m., on KET.

With unprecedented access to applicants and officers of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS), filmmakers Shari Robertson and Michael Camerini provide dramatic insight into the seeking and granting of political asylum in the U.S.

Focusing on both the pleas of immigrants to stay in this country and the consideration of their cases by INS officers, the film documents, a variety of dramas unfolding in INS offices in the New York City area.

At issue in every case are the requirements for asylum. To be granted asylum, applicants must demonstrate a "well-founder fear" of persecution on account of race, religion, nationality, political opinion or membership in a particular social group.

For applicants with a genuine "well-founded fear," the asylum process is fraught with tension. Applicants must convincingly tell their stories and hope that they'll be seen as honest.

On the other side of the table, the officers charged with deciding each applicant's future sometimes must sort through extensive documentation and at other times must rely on little to no evidence at all as they attempt to discern truth from lies.

P.O.V. "Well-Founded Fear," produced by American Documentary Inc., is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

Itsy bitsy teeny weeny

The older I get, the more weight I gain. I don't know how it happens, but it seems as if every year that passes, passes right over the stomach and hips.

I don't think I consume any more food than I ever did; however, I can honestly say that I no longer wear swimsuits without embarrassment to me, my family and anyone who happens to fall victim of seeing me. Actually, I gave up wearing bathing suits years ago. That's why I was amused when I received the following story via e-mail from my friend, Susan, in San Francisco:

I have just been through the annual pilgrimage of torture and humiliation known as buying a bathing suit. When I was a child in the 1940s, the bathing suit for a woman with a mature figure was designed for a woman with a mature figure; boned, trussed and reinforced, not so much sewn as engineered. They were built to hold back and uplift, and they did a darn good job.

Today's stretch fabrics are designed for the prepubescent girl with a figure chipped from marble. The mature woman has a choice — she can either front up at the maternity department and try on a floral suit with a skirt, coming away looking like a hippopotamus escaped from Disney's "Fantasia," or she can wander around every run-of-the mill department store trying to make a sensible choice from what amounts to a designer range of flexible rubber hands.

What choice did I have? I wandered around, made my sensible choice, and entered the chamber of horrors known as "The Fitting Room." The first thing I noticed was the extraordinary tensile strength of the stretch material.

The lycra used in bathing suits was developed, I believe, by NASA to launch small rockets from a slingshot, giving the added bonus that if you manage to actually lever yourself into one, you are protected from shark attacks. The reason for this is that any shark taking a swipe at your passing midriff would immediately suffer whiplash.

I fought my way into the bathing suit, but as I twanged the shoulder strap into place, I gasped in horror — my bosom had disappeared. Eventually I found one cowering under my left armpit. It took a while to find the other.

At last I located it flattened beside my seventh rib. The problem is that modern bathing suits have no bra cups. The mature woman is meant to wear her bosom spread across the chest like a speed bump. I realigned my speed bump and lurched toward the mirror to take a full-view assessment. The suit fit all right, but unfortunately it only fit those bits of me willing to stay inside it. The rest of me oozed out rebelliously from top, bottom and sides.

I looked like a lump of Play-Doh wearing cling wrap. As I tried to work out where all those extra bits had come from, the prepubescent salesgirl popped her head through the curtains, "Oh, they are sooo YOU!"

she said, admiring the suits. I replied that I wasn't so sure and asked what else she had to show me. I tried on a cream crinkled one that made me look like a lump of masking tape, and a floral two-piece that gave the appearance of an oversize napkin in a serviette ring. I struggled into a pair of leopard-skin bathers with ragged frill and came out looking like 'Tarzan's Jane on a really, really bad day. I tried a black number with a midriff and looked like a jellyfish in mourning. I tried on a bright pink suit with such a high-cut leg I thought I would have to wax my eyebrows to wear it. Finally, I found a suit that fit. A two-piece affair, with shorts-like bottoms and a halter top. It was cheap, comfortable and bulgefriendly, so I bought it.

When I got home, I read the label, which said, "Material may become transparent in water." but I'm determined to wear it anyway. I just have to learn to do the breaststroke in the sand.

A better way to see Europe

(NAPSA)-More and more travelers to Europe are finding a better way to get around the continent-by combining trains with rental cars.

This mix of a readily accessible rail network for travel to major cities with rental cars gives travelers a highly flexible way of going to the many small, scenic and remote places that abound in Europe.

Rail Europe, a major European travel supplier, has several attractively-priced raildrive pass options for Americans on their way to Europe, allowing travelers to use their car days when they want, in contrast to the consecutive days required of traditional rental programs.

For example, Europass Drive gives visitors three first class rail and two car days within two months, with the choice of adding more travel days and a variety of rental car types (economy, compact, intermediate and small automatic) beginning at $299 per person for two people traveling together. It is good for travel in France, Germany, Italy, Spain and Switzerland. Special rail 'n drive programs are also available for Britain, France, Italy, Scandinavia and Spain.

For full information on European rail 'n drive, call Rail Europe at 1-888-382-RAIL, or visit the company's web site at www.raileurope.com.

Sunday school teacher Rob Vaughn's Christian Wrestling Federation debuted in May in Mesquite, Texas, with 12 grapplers (including "Apocalypse" vs. "Jesus Freak") entertaining about 400 fans in action Vaughn said he hopes is similar to that of mainstream pro wrestling but without the profanity and sexual content. Another difference, according to a Dallas Morning News story, is that the wrestlers work for free and return to the ring after the final match for an altar call and joint prayer. Said Vaughn, "We are a ministry first.'

MODERN RELIGIOUS IDOLS

(1) A live, 14-foot-long python (prayed to by residents of Kien Svay, Cambodia, according to a January Deutsche Presse-Agentur story); (2) jazz saxophonist John Coltrane (for 29 years the idol of the St. John Coltrane African Orthodox Church in San Francisco, according to a February report in The Independent of London); and (3) dirt, either plain (worshipped by parishioners in Chimayo, New Mexico, according to a December USA Today report) or perfumed (the result of a New Delhi, India, company's cosmetic dumping, which has attracted huge crowds of pilgrims, according to a December Associated Press story).

... GOVERNMENT IN ACTION

In January, Boston police officials investigating corruption in taxi-driver licensing, released the test paper of applicant Pierre Edouard, who was granted a passing grade and a license even though he answered only seven of 60 questions correctly and, in fact, left 45 questions blank

In February, Canada's Reform Party denounced $60 million (all figures U.S.) worth of art grants given by Canada Council, including $3,000 for a piece on the history and culture of chewing gum;

$4,000 for a video on the rubber stamp "as a low-tech marking device"; and $900 to an aboriginal poet to write a pamphlet on one of his race's anatomical traits

In December, three lawyers working cases as court-appointed counsel for indigent defendants in the District of Columbia Superior Court filed a federal lawsuit against the court for constantly missing deadlines for paying them, sometimes even by months. By federal court rules, the Superior Court was obligated to answer the lawsuit within 20 days, but, true to form, according to the lawyers, the Superior Court missed that deadline, also, and the lawyers were declared winners by default.

PEOPLE WITH ISSUES

In March, a judge in Dedham, Massachusetts, sentenced Thomas Flanagan, 47, to nine years in prison for the longtime physical abuse of his wife and three kids. Included were three counts of attempted murder and 39 counts of assault and battery, but the kids also told investigators that Flanagan made them endure the daily ritual of "plucking," in which he lined them up and yanked out their nose hair with tweezers.

In January, suspected serial killer Hadden Clark, 47, led police officers from several New England states to sites around the region in search of bodies of his alleged victims. Massachusetts State Police obtained Clark's cooperation by acceding to his one request, which was that they go buy him some women's panties to wear during the trip.

Jason Samuel Lee, 30, was charged in March with improperly disposing of his wife's corpse. Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Canmore, Alberta, said Eda Lee, 26, starved to death while fasting with her husband on a remote mountain. Jason, according to the RCMP, is a

Mountain bike and equestrian trail ride slated

The Hatfield-McCoy Recreation Area will hold a mountain bike ride on Sunday, June 4, and an equestrian trail ride on Saturday, June 10, at the David L. Francis property on US 52 in Williamson, West Virginia.

The trail rides will complement the Hatfield-McCoy Reunion Festivities that will take place from June 4 to June 11. The Hatfields and McCoys return to "Feud Country" and enjoy a reunion festival to commemorate one of America's most famous family feuds.

The trail ride begins at Reverend Compton Park. Without much effort, riders climb a logging trail, end up about 200 feet from the ridge and feel like they are above the rest of the world nearing heaven.

The logging trail has an exquisite view of the Appalachian landscape where the mountains run up like walls with small areas of flat land in-between. The rugged nature of the land creates a wild and wonderful feeling. Mountain bikers have the option of staying on the logging trail or intertwining their ride with tight-twisting single track.

The registration fee is $25 per rider and all participants will receive a Hatfield-MCoy Tshirt. Registration is open from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and riders must be off the course by 4 p.m. Pre-registration for equestrians is required due to parking limitations.

All riders are encouraged to head into Williamson after the ride to partake in the reunion activities. Showers are available at the Williamson Field House.

The Hatfield-McCoy Trail System will open in October 2000 with 300 miles of trails. It is a multi-use, professionally designed trail system being developed on corporate owned property.

It will provide a fun-filled recreation experience for off-highway vehicles, mountain bikes, equestrians and hikers. Eventually, a network of 2,000 miles of continuous trails will weave through the Appalachian Mountains of southern West Virginia.

A feasibility study conducted by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers shows that the mountains of southern West Virginia have the physical characteristics to become a world renowned trail system that will bring 600,000 visitors, generate more than $100 million in revenue and create 3,200 jobs.

For more information about the mountain bike or horse trail rides or to become a trail scout, contact Kathy Mulholland at 1-800-592-2217, 205 First Avenue, Nitro, West Virginia 25143 or e-mail at hatmccoy@intelos.net.

Kentucky Life profiles owners of Whitesburg's Mountain Eagle

Forty years ago, Tom and Pat Gish bought a weekly newspaper in the mountains of eastern Kentucky. The years since then have been marked by battles over freedom of the press, rural poverty, education issues and mining concerns.

The Gishes remember those 40 years of reporting the news of Letcher County on a special edition of Kentucky Life, airing Saturday, June 10 at 8:30 p.m. on KET. Dave Shuffett hosts.

After graduating with journalism degrees from the University of Kentucky, the Gishes married and took jobs with United Press International and what was then the Lexington Leader,

When the Mountain Eagle—with its motto: "It Screams!"— was offered for sale in 1957, Pat and Tom, a native of nearby Seco, moved to the depression-struck mountain village where, as Tom says, the economy had collapsed.

"It was a stupid thing to do to buy a newspaper in a county with massive unemployment," Tom laughs. "We were kind of forced more or less immediately to deal with all the hard economic and social conditions that confronted the county and then confronted us every day as a lenge. Unused to coverage by a newspaper." a newspaper, local officials

The couple nevertheless dove into their new jobs wholeheartedly and began to face a different kind of challenge. Unused to coverage by a newspaper, local officials sought to keep public meetings private. But the Gishes persevered, through tough resistance and even a firebombing of their offices, to win several national awards for their reporting and courage.

Kentucky Life is produced and directed by Joy

Flynn. Series writer is Ellen Ballard. Segment producer for this program is Charlee Heaton Pagoulatos. Craig Cornwell is executive producer.

Savage Planet takes in-depth look at deadly nature of our world

From the Earth's bubbling core to its mercurial atmosphere, "Savage Planet," a new four-part series airing Tuesdays, at 8 p.m. on KET, beginning June 6, reveals the stunning beauty and deadly power of the Earth and its elements.

"Volcanic Killers," airing June 6, explores the hidden dangers of volcanoes. For example, in Nyos, West Africa, the crater at the summit of a dormant volcano had become a seemingly harmless lake. However, when a cliff collapse disturbed the lake, deadly carbon dioxide gases that had accumulated under its surface were released, taking the lives of 1,700 people.

"Storms of the Century," airing June 13, travels across 40 years and an ocean to report on the 1993 storm that battered the eastern seaboard of North America and the great North Sea storm of 1953 that killed more than 2,000 people.

On June 20, "Deadly Skies" delves deep into the secrets of the Earth's atmosphere and beyond, to discover the strange and deadly powers that reside there, including supercell thunderstorms, lightning and more.

Finally, on June 27, "Extremes" is an up-close and personal confrontation with high mountains in the depths of winter and the hottest, driest, lowest place in North America.

"Savage Planet" is co-produced by WNET/New York and Granada Television.

Fish Facts & Fancies Summer traveled best value and the

The rare and wonderful leafy sea dragon can now be seen as part of a delightful new exhibit.

Wonders under the sea

(NAPSA)-One of the most unusual aquarium exhibits on the face of the earth focuses on a unique creature called the sea dragon.

Found only in Australian waters, the sea dragon is a fish that resembles a seahorse, but with delicate, seaweedlike appendages on its head and body.

There are just two species of sea dragon: leafy and weedy. The leafy variety can grow to about 19-1/2 inches in length, while a "weedy" may reach 18 inches.

Sea dragons have no teeth. They feed by sucking tiny mysid shrimp and other small crustaceans through their snouts. The delicate creatures have no natural predators, but have been in decline due to poaching by collectors and the traditional Asian medicine trade.

Perhaps the most amazing trait of these brightly colored creatures is that, even though the female lays eggs, it is the male sea dragon that becomes "pregnant" and gives birth to the young.

Sea dragons are the main attraction in an exhibit called Dragons Down Under, at The Florida Aquarium in Tampa. Both "leafies" and "weedies" can be seen, along with various species of seahorse, pipefish and trumpetfish.

To learn more about this spectacular exhibit, or for information on "adopting" these rare and gentle sea creatures, call 813/273-4000 or visit the website at www.flaquarium.org.

Northern Kentucky offers exceptional summer packages

Summer travelers looking for the best value and the most fun, need look no further than northern Kentucky. The 2000 summer packages encompass new and old attractions, and are tailored for families and couples looking for a unique getaway.

Northern Kentucky runs the gamut when it comes to hotels. From sleek high-rise riverfront hotels, to small, quaint, and charming bed and breakfast inns, northern Kentucky offers glitz and glamour, as well as unparallel southern charm.

With last year's opening of the Newport Aquarium, the Embassy Suites River Center is offering an Aquarium Package. This includes one night's lodging, a complimentary cook-to-order breakfast and complimentary manager's reception each evening.

Also included are two adult tickets to the Newport Aquarium, which is two miles from the Embassy Suites and easily accessible by shuttle. Additional tickets are available for purchase at the hotel. The Aquarium Package is available at $149.

Ft. Mitchell's Drawbridge Inn offers a wide array of summer packages, each more inviting than the next. The Family Adventure Package includes deluxe accommodations, a $40 restaurant/lounge certificate, free in-room movie, a family adventure gift bag, and a choice of two adults and two child admission tickets to the Children's Museum and Museum of Natural History and Science at Cincinnati Museum Center or two adult tickets and two child admission tickets to Coney Island Amusement Park (including Sunlite Pool, classic) (rides, live shows, miniature golf, pedal boats and more).

Discounted tickets to other attractions are also available. The Family Adventure package is $179, and children 17 and under stay free.

The Drawbridge Inn is also offering an Aquatic Adventure Package. This package includes deluxe accommodations, a $15 restaurant/lounge certificate, two adult tickets to the Newport Aquarium, and additional tickets for the Aquarium at a discounted price. The Drawbridge Inn's Aquatic Adventure package is available for $129.

For those seeking a high-end get away, the Drawbridge has the Royal Adventure Package, a weekend of hotel pampering. It includes private club level accommodations for two adults, fresh cut flowers, complimentary champagne, glasses and chocolates, two plush Royal robes, a Friday night feast at the Gatehouse Tavern, Saturday morning breakfast at Chaucer's, Saturday night dining and dancing at Josh's restaurant, a sumptuous Sunday brunch at Chaucer's, a Sunday paper delivered to your room, and late check out. The Royal Adventure is available for $457.

The Romantic Adventure at the Drawbridge is for those wishing to spark a little passion. Included are accommodations on the club level for two adults, complimentary champagne, glasses and chocolate, $40 restaurant/lounge certificate, Sunday morning paper with late checkout available. The Romantic Adventure is $169.

Finally, the Drawbridge offers its Cincinnati Reds Baseball Adventure, a staple of summer fun. It includes deluxe accommodations, two tickets (preferred seating) to a Reds baseball game, a bag of peanuts, and transportation to and from the game, all for $139.

The Hampton Inn Riverfront in Covington is offering three outstanding summer packages for visitors to northern Kentucky. The Cincinnati Zoo package has two adult and two children's tickets to the world famous zoo, deluxe continental breakfast, free local calls, free HBO, and free parking for $139.

The Hampton also offers an Aquarium Package with two adult and two children's tickets, transportation, deluxe continental breakfast, free local calls, free HBO and free parking for $129 weekdays and $147 weekends.

Finally, the Hampton will host you for a Romance on the River Package, which includes a keepsake basket with champagne, keepsake glasses, a dozen chocolate roses, bubble bath and teddy bear. Also included are a deluxe continental breakfast, free local calls, free HBO and free parking.

The Ashley Quarters in Florence Aquarium package includes an executive room with fully equipped kitchen and king-sized bed, plus two adult tickets to the Newport Aquarium for $109.

The Clarion Hotel Riverview, a Greater Cincinnati landmark, is offering its famous baseball packages again this summer. Either weekday or weekend, the package includes a room for one night, a hot breakfast buffet for two, two choice Reds seats in the blue section, and a complimentary shuttle service to and from the game for $161.

The Clarion is also featuring its South of the Border summer package, which includes a room for one night, a welcome bottle of champagne, a $30 dinner coupon for the Riverview Restaurant, and a room service continental breakfast. The package is available for $135 per couple, $145 per couple guaranteed Riverview room, $225 per couple for suite upgrade.

The AmeriSuites Cincinnati Airport is offering a Newport Aquarium package, which includes suite accommodations, two adult tickets to the Aquarium, one free payper view movie and a bountiful breakfast buffet for $99.

AmeriSuites also has the Make a Break For It Package, which offers suite accommodations, amenities such as an indoor heated pool, freshly popped popcorn and a free pay per view movie, all for $79.

Hilton Greater Cincinnati is offering a Reds package available weekends May 26-September 23. This package includes one-night hotel accommodations for two and two Reds game tickets for $109.

The Hilton's Aquarium package is available, Friday and Saturday, and includes two adult admission tickets to the Newport Aquarium, one-night hotel accommodations for two and a free breakfast in the Grand Cafe, all for $119.

Newport's Comfort Suites offers A Classic Night on the Town Dinner/Theatre package. This includes dinner for two at the Syndicate Restaurant, theatre for two at the Downtown Theatre Classics, free transportation to restaurant and theatre, and one-night superior accommodations for two. This package is $149.95 (plus tax).

A Season Winner, the Comfort Suites' Reds package, has three different levels to win travelers over: Home Run package; Triple $249.95; and Double, $199.95. This includes two nights superior accommodations, free transportation on the SouthBank Shuttle, late check-out (3 p.m.), kick off reception, free Reds program, and free Reds memorabilia.

The Comfort Suites, just a block from the Newport Aquarium, also offers its Whale of A Deal, providing free transportation on SouthBank Shuttle, superior one-night accommodations, free gift brochure, free gift for the kids, and discounted Aquarium tickets, for $99.95.

All packages are subject to availability, and some restrictions apply. Contact the Northern Kentucky CVB for more information, by calling 1-800-STAYNKY.

How to get local on your next trip

(NUE) - What could be more thrilling than traveling to an exciting destination far, far away from home?

Vacations are great, but sometimes they don't run according to plan. The last thing you need is an unwelcome surprise, such as arriving at the Mediterranean-style villa you booked (and paid for) in Miami and finding a "for sale" sign on the front lawn.

Remember the last disastrous vacation you took to New York? The travel guide your hotel provided suggested visiting the same tourists traps that every other hotel in the city suggested. You ended up waiting in line for hours at every tourist attraction, from the Empire State Building to the Statue of Liberty.

So you swore on your next vacation that you would only hang with the locals. But if you've never been to that area before, finding out where the city's true hot-spots are located can be a real challenge.

For all of you travel junkies out there dying to experience life in the big city just like the locals do it, you're in luck. Now there is a way to plan out your vacation even before you get there, and avoid looking and feeling like a tourist.

What's the secret? Ticketmaster Online-CitySearch, which ranked third out of all United States Web retailers, will tell you where to go, what to do and how to get things done in the city of your choice. They are the leading local portal and e-tailing company that provides consumers with information and services you can really use to get things done.

It's perfect for busy professionals trying to manage their busy lives more effectively. Using the Internet, you can access their Web site from anywhere in the world and prepare all the details of your upcoming trip.

They allow you to reserve hotel rooms online, purchase sports and concert tickets, find out about entertainment, businesses, shopping, community activities, and the best restaurants and bars in town. Let's say it's your son's dream to see the Boston Red Sox play. Just visit citysearch.com and you can surprise him with box seats at the next game.

In addition, citysearch.com can help you pack your suitcase. Just click on their local news and weather updates to determine whether or not you should bring that heavy winter coat or your rain galoshes. Best of all, they reach more than 70 cities worldwide, so you won't be stuck in a tourist trap no matter what location you decide upon.

Before you plan your next trip, visit citysearch.com for all the up-to-date information you'll ever need for an enjoyable holiday.

Daniel Boone drama returns

Daniel Boone is back.

After a one-year layoff, "The Legend of Daniel Boone" outdoor drama staged at Old Fort Harrod State Park in Harrodsburg, is preparing for a June 15 opening.

The state Department of Parks recently spent $80,000 to upgrade electrical service and make other improvements to the amphitheater that serves as the venue for the long-running drama. Drama officials suspended production in 1999, attributing the decision to wiring problems.

Bob Bender, the Parks Department's deputy commissioner, said the electrical service now will serve the drama's needs for the foreseeable future. Park workers began tearing out the old power system last October and recently finished installing new wiring for stage lighting and other needs. The department also made accessibility improvements.

The drama runs nightly, except Mondays, from June 15 through August 26. For more information, call 1-800-85-BOONE.

Ripley exhibit comes to the Louisville Science Center

The Louisville Science Center will be host this summer to "Dear Mr. Ripley," a touring exhibition of original artifacts and documents selected from the Ripley (Believe It or Not!) archives.

The display, which was originally compiled to commemorate the 100th anniversary of Robert Ripley's birth, will be showcased at the Science Center from June 4 through September 4.

"Dear Mr. Ripley" is a time capsule of zany culture that was popular before the television era. This intriguing exhibition consists of vintage photographs, archive documents, and other material showing Ripley's passion for world curiosities and a profound insight into the pop culture from the 1920s to the mid 1950s.

"Dear Mr. Ripley" surveys the archive documents, photographs, letters, sworn affidavits, and other material which are evidence of the human exploits that fascinated a world wide audience.

The Louisville Science Center, 727 West Main St. is a notfor-profit educational institution dedicated to improving public understanding of science, math and technology through interactive exhibits and programs.

Travel for young adults

(NAPSA)-For young adults, travel is a lot more than seeing new sights. Experts point out that travel offers them the opportunity to experience the world and meet peers from around the world.

In some cases travel may even be helping them professionally, since many employers look for travel experience as a sign of a broadened perspective.

A growing number of parents who may have backpacked through Europe, and grandparents who sent them, are giving the gift of travel to children and grandchildren while they are in college. In doing this they often turn to companies that specialize in travel for young adults.

One company that specializes in travel for young adults, Contiki Holidays, is reported to be the world's largest travel company for 18-35-year olds. Contiki offers more than 100 excursions to Europe, Australia, New Zealand, Africa, the United States and Canada. All itineraries include accommodations, daily breakfast and many dinners, guided sightseeing, transportation by luxury air-conditioned motorcoach, plus the services of a young, professional tour manager and driver.

For more information visit www.contiki.com, call 1-800-Contiki or your local travel agent.

With prices averaging $75 a day, some tours can actually be more affordable than backpacking.

Center

More than 2,000 of the doctor's whimsical creations, around 1,000 slides, and 80 videotapes were given to the college, adding substantially to the popular and academic value of the Appalachian Center.

The Golden collection is just icing on the cake for the center, which was already a valuable repository of Appalachian heritage, culture and art.

Housed in its own building on the college campus, the Appalachian Center is a museum, a performing arts arena, a meeting place, and an academic building.

Lining the walls of the center are framed photographs depicting the history of the southern Kentucky coalfields, photographs of miners, their families, coal company buildings and coal operations, going back to the 19th century.

There's an abundance of the photographs — most from Cumberland, Benham, Lynch and Harlan — so the exhibit of wall pictures changes frequently.

Quilts, made by area artisans in traditional mountain patterns, are draped along the stairwell, and hand-made musical instruments associated with mountain culture, such as dulcimers and mandolins, are displayed in glass cases.

The spacious and well-appointed art gallery hosts exhibits by artists from throughout the area, a new show every few months. On display through June is a roomful of exquisite work by Fiona Zahmke, a potter from Big Stone Gap, Virginia.

Bob Evans Farm workshops teach 19th century traditions

A new series of workshops at the Adamsville Log Cabin Village on the Bob Evans Farm will teach visitors the traditions of an earlier time.

"The Homestead Living Workshops," scheduled on a daily basis throughout the summer, include crafts from the 1800s such as spinning, weaving, dulcimer playing, decorative painting, quilting and knitting.

Allowing guests to experience the 19th century way of life, the workshops and other activities in Adamsville Village bring the time period to life for visitors, said instructor and village guide, Karen Dempsey.

"Learning the crafts of that time keeps the traditions of Jade Harlow is the new Jessica Bennett on "Passions." She replaces Mary Elizabeth Winstead who left the role a few months ago.

Aaron Spelling's cast list for "Titans," debuting on NBC in September, features a slew of soap alumni including Yasmine Bleeth (ex "Lee-Ann, "OLTL," ex Ryan, "Ryan's Hope"), Casper Van Dien (ex Ty, "OLTL"), Jason George (ex Michael, "Sunset Beach"), Josie Davis (ex Grace, "The Young and the Restless") and Priscilla Garita (ex Gabi, "SB"). Victoria Principal (ex "Dallas") and Perry King, (ex "Melrose Place") have also come aboard. Meanwhile, there are rumors that some of Spelling's favorite glamour gals from his past epics will have recurring roles on the new show.

Adamsville Village, originally settled in the early 1800s, is today the site of four authentic log cabins and a log schoolhouse that have been reconstructed on the site at the Bob Evans Farm.

In addition to the scheduled classes, individual sessions on spinning and weaving are given by request. Tours and demonstrations are offered in Adamsville Village daily, beginning Memorial Day weekend through Labor Day, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A workshop and demonstration schedule is as follows:

- · June 9-11-Kid Tyme, Homestead Living Workshop
- · June 9-11-Mountain Dulcimer Rhythm Bootcamp
- June 16-Beginning Decorative Painting
- June 17-Intermediate Decorative Painting

 June 16-17 through July 21, 22—Beginning Quilting Workshop (six-weekend workshop)

 July 14-15—Katrina Conway, Sock Knitting Demonstration

- July 28-Judy Eggleton, Painting Demonstration
- August 12—Floor Cloth Painting, Workshop

 August 25-27—Music Arranging for the Mountain Dulcimer

Information about workshop costs and instructors as well as registration materials are available from the Bob Evans Farm by calling (800) 994-3276, or by visiting the Bob Evans Web site at www.bobevans.com. Registration is limited and advance registration is required.

The Bob Evans Farm in southeastern Ohio is a 1,100acre working farm that offers visitors the opportunity to get a taste of the country daily from Memorial Day weekend through Labor Day.

Guests can visit the craft barn and farm museum, tour the log cabin village and enjoy carriage and horseback rides, canoe trips, hiking, camping and many special events and activities.

'Howling' good time at full moon party

For a howling good time, come to a Full Moon Party at the Louisville Science Center on Friday, June 16, from 5 to 9 p.m., and learn about the atom under the tutelage of Hollywood's most fearsome monsters.

They are moonlighting as teachers in "The Atoms FamilySM," a temporary exhibit that is sure to attract the attention of kids and parents alike.

Special guest for the evening will be Sara Karloff, daughter of Boris Karloff (better known to moviegoers as The Murry and Frankenstein's Monster). She will be in town to promote "The Atoms FamilySM exhibit and the Science Center's "full moon" event.

Treats and surprises will be given to children in costume, and those who complete a science scavanger hunt will receive a goody bag. Parents can have photos taken of their children in costume for $1, and there will be ghoulish green punch and cookies available in the lobby. Storytelling will be held at 5:30 and 7:30 p.m., and special IMAX screenings of WOLVES will be available throughout the evening at a reduced rate.

Admission to the Full Moon Party is free for Science Center members. Price of admission for non-members is $4. Advanced reservations are required. For reservations, call 502/561-6100, extension 6111.

The Louisville Science Center, 727 West Main St., is a not-for-profit educational institution dedicated to improving public understanding of science, math and technology through interactive exhibits and programs.

The Science Center houses the only IMAX Theatre in Kentucky, is the state's largest field trip destination, and served over 500,000 people in 1999. The Science Center receives generous support from the City of Louisville. S 12 FRIDAY, JUNE 2, 2000 prophet who believes that food is an "instrument of Satan" and was trying to form a cult but was having difficulty attracting followers.

News of the Weird

In Milton, New York, in March, Thomas Prussen, 42, was charged with endangering the life of a 38-year-old woman he had met through a magazine ad. According to police, the woman was infatuated with a certain Civil War soldier, wanted to "join" him, and so much trusted Prussen (because he, too, claimed to have communed with the soldier) that she asked him to kill her. Admitted a police investigator, of the possibility that Prussen was simply in love with the woman, "It's tough to say what their mindset was."

.... RECENT MOONS

Minivan passenger Rick Hanson, 27, mooning motorists, was thrown from the vehicle when the driver crashed (giving Hanson a posterior "road rash" and a broken pelvis) (Prunedale, California, April). Chris Bailey, 19, was jailed briefly after mooning a police officer, and within an hour of his release had mooned several more and was back in jail (Belleville, Illinois, March), Robert White, 49, angry that his trial for disorderly conduct was not going well, mooned the judge, running his total jail time to 40 days (Little Rock, Arkansas, March).

RECURRING THEMES

In 1994, News of the Weird reported the trend of judges ignoring DNA results when they are used to disprove fatherhood among men who have mistakenly accepted legal paternity. Courts put the interests of the child first and thus order support payments to continue unless the actual father steps up. In April 2000, Dennis Caron, 43, went to jail for 30 days in Columbus, Ohio, protesting a court order to continue supporting his 10-yearold "son" despite exonerating DNA evidence, and the same month in St. Louis, Bill Neal lost his lawsuit to extricate himself via DNA evidence from supporting a boy that his girlfriend had convinced him in 1989 was his.

.... GOD'S WILL

An 11,000-volt cable broke during a Hindu ceremony in Daltenganj, India, in April, electrocuting 28 followers. And police in Baghdad, Iraq, arrested four vigilantes in January and charged them with killing at least 19 men recently who religiously incorrectly were alone with their girlfriends in a downtown lovers' lane. And following deadly meningitis outbreaks in four countries introduced by worshippers returning from the fill a gas chamber (Boise, Haj pilgrimage in Mecca in Saudi Arabia, French officials announced in April that traces of cholera were found in 10 barrels of holy water brought back to the Alsace region by the Moslem pilgrims.

-ALSO, IN THE LAST MONTH

An eighth-grade teacher apologized for assigning his kids the math problem of calculating how much gas Nazis needed to Idaho). A save-the-whales activist had to call off a trans-Pacific protest sail after his 60foot boat was damaged by two passing whales (San Francisco). National Archives researchers seeking to reclassify 50-year-old nuclear-weapons documents discovered actual uranium dust in some files (College Park, Maryland). A 16-year-old boy under house arrest allegedly broke into a neighbor's place and beat two girls, one fatally, but authorities did not know about it because the neighbor's house was inside the 150-foot range of his ankle monitor (Anderson, Indiana). An Army supply clerk mistakenly got an order to parachute jump and obediently reported and bailed out, anyway, without training (Fort Bragg, North Carolina).

KET gets four regional Emmy nominations

When the Ohio Valley chapter of the Midwestern Region of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences held its annual nomination ceremony on May 10, KET received four regional Emmy nominations.

The Midwestern region represents some of the country's top commercial and public television stations," said KET Executive Director and CEO Virginia Fox. "Four nominations in a region of this quality is very gratifying to KET and to all of our supporters.

The ballet "Lucy" garnered one nomination in the Arts & Culture Program Category. Performed by the Louisville Ballet with the Louisville Orchestra, "Lucy" is a visually stunning and musically arresting exploration of how our human-like ancestors might have viewed their chaotic world. The program was produced by Vince Spoekler.

KET's "Kentucky Life" series, produced by Joy

Flynn, received one nomination in the Magazine Program category. The nominated episode features a visit to Mill Springs, site of a pivotal battle of the Civil War, and a profile of the famous naturalist John Muir, who trekked across much of Kentucky before moving to California and founding the Sierra Club. The segments in the program were produced by Ernie Lee Martin.

Timothy Bischoff received a nomination in the Promotional Announcement-Non-News category for the on-air campaign to promote the redesigned "Visions," KET's program guide. And Frank Simkonis received a nomination in the "Photographer" category for videography achievement.

Winners of the 36th Annual Midwestern Regional Emmy Awards will be announced during the Emmy Awards Banquet, to be held June 17th, at the Aronoff Center in Cincinnati.

Exile at MSU Music legends Seldom Scene Four-time Country Music 5554 and Garth Brooks in concert * Grayson: James Family Outfitters, 606/474-4489. of Association nominee and three-time Academy Country Music nominee, Exile, will perform on Tuesday, June 6, at 7 p.m., in Morehead State University's Button Auditorium.

The group, featuring original lead singers J.P. Pennington and Les Taylor, had its first hit, "Kiss You All Over," in 1978. Selling more than five million copies, the song stayed at the number one slot on U.S. charts for four weeks.

Proceeds from the concert will benefit MSU's men's basketball program. Tickets are $12 in advance and $15 at the door.

Tickets may be purchased at these locations:

MSU's Morehead: Office of Student Activities, 606/783-2071; Martin's Department Store, 606/784-4320; Gold Emporium and Trophy Works, 606/784-2191; Main Street Music, 606/789-5351.

* Maysville: Ken's New Market, 606/784-8583.

* Mt. Sterling: Back's Auto Auction, 606/498-6373. * Winchester: Jams Music

Exchange, 606/737-5267. Jackson: Martin's Department Store, 606/666* Lexington: The Cadillac

Ranch, 606/335-8800. Through the years, many artists have recorded "Kiss You All Over," in various musical formats including country, pop, Latin and R&B. In addition, the song was included in the soundtracks of numerous movies such as "Happy Gilmore" and "Man on the Moon.'

In the 1980s, Exile switched to country music, recording 11 number one songs and many top 10 albums. Pennington was named the Broadcast Music Inc. Songwriter of the Year in 1986, and songs written by the Pennington/Taylor duo were recorded by top names in the field, Alabama, Travis Tritt, Tracy Lawrence and Kenny Rogers.

At the MSU concert, Exile will perform some of the group's new original songs that will be refeased later this summer on a new album. The performance also will include some of their greatest hits like "She's a Miracle," "I Can't Get Close Enough," "I Don't Want to be a Memory" and "Hang on to Your Heart."

The Seldom Scene, "America's greatest bluegrass band," according to Cash Box magazine, lights up the Jubilee stage, Thursday, June 8 at 10 p.m., on KET.

"The Scene" has performed for presidents and has been featured on Entertainment Tonight and Nashville Now, during its multiaward-winning career.

This legendary group that once featured original member John Duffey-often referred to as the father of modern bluegrass musiccontinues on after his passing, playing the music that put them on the map. Phenomenal voices, irreverent wit and outrageous instrumental solos have kept the Seldom Scene on the cutting edge.

The excitement spills over into the next evening as Austin City Limits presents another rousing performance by Garth Brooks, Friday, June 9, at 10 p.m., on KET.

Not since four young lads with mop-tops crossed the Atlantic twisting and shouting their way into pop culture history has an artist made such an impact upon the pop music landscape as Garth Brooks.

The Oklahoma native has achieved levels of success in his career that few could aspire to in a lifetime. Brooks, who kicked off this 25th anniversary season of Austin City Limits, returns to close out the season.

Jubilee, a KET production in its fifth season, is produced and directed by H. Russell Farmer. Austin City Limits is produced by KLRU/Austin and Capital of Texas Public Telecommunications Council. Both shows are closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing. Viewers can find out more about programming on KET by visiting the KET Web site at http://www.ket.org, a Kentucky.com affiliate.

Great Performances explores piano artistry

Great Performances "The Art of Piano," a stunning new program meticulously researched and brimming with rare archival materialmuch of it never before seen-suggests that it was indeed. The twohour performance-documentary airs on KET Wednesday, June 7, at 9 p.m.

To be sure, the young Mozart had audiences of the 1700s at his feet, and some years later Franz Liszt, who invented the piano recital. became the world's first superstar. But the 20th century truly stands alone. From the magnetic, crowd-thrilling Ignacy Jan Paderewski to the uncompromising Chilean genius Claudio Arrau, the roster not only delights, it astounds.

Add the technical control of Josef Hofmann, the passion and color of Sergei Rachmaninov, the dazzle of Vladimir Horowitz, the nobility of Arthur Rubinstein and the beloved quirkiness of Glenn Gould, and music-lovers would be hard-pressed to disagree.

These seven exemplars are among the 18 keyboard artists celebrated in "The Art of Piano," which also features penetrating and thoughtful commentary from today's concertworld stars, including Evgeny Kissin, Daniel Barenboim, Colin Davis and Gennadi Rozhdestvensky.

The special also spotlights the unique places in 20th-century music occupied by Benno Moiseiwitsch, Gyorgy Cziffra, Emil Gilels, Sviatoslav Richter and Arturo Benedetti Michelangeli.

Great Performances "The Art of Piano," produced by Ideale Audience and IMG Artists, is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

The center also houses a theater that is home to the Harlan Area Performing Arts Series, which brings in musical and theatrical productions and stages performances by students and community members.

The center frequently is the setting for conferences, including recently the East Kentucky Leadership Conference, and numerous community events

Plus, the center houses classrooms for art, music, theater and other academic disciplines at the college. Nearby is the studio for pottery, a new degree program that includes instruction not only in the art itself, but also in the business end - marketing and selling the work.

Students have contributed to the archives housed in the center. Some 1,000 oral histories of people in the region have been collected by students, according to Robert Gipe, program director for the center.

A collection of historical photographs by a local photographer, Malcom Wilson, is at home in the center, as well as photographs by the noted "Pictureman" Mullins, who chronicled Appalachian people, without fanfare, in the first half of the 20th century.

Also in the archives is a collection of 78 rpm records from early country music, pre-dating Hank Williams. The records, which belonged to Ed Ward and Charles Hamlin, have been transferred to compact disks to be more accessible to modern listeners.

Each year in early October - October 6 and 7 this year, the SECC Appalachian Center sponsors the Kingdom Come Swappin' Meetin', which Corriston coordinates. It's two days of crafts exhibits, food, dance and music.

(For information about the "meetin'," call Corriston at 606/589-2145, ext. 2102 or 2170, or e-mail Michael.Corriston@kctcs.net.)

The Appalachian Center is open during regular college hours, roughly 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. For information or to get on the mailing list, write SECC Appalachian Center, 700 College Rd., Cumberland, KY 40823.

For a good day trip, or better yet a weekend, visit the Appalachian Center and then go across town to Kingdom Come State Park, one of the state's smallest but, nonetheless, most beautiful.

A mile or two south of Cumberland is the town of Benham, where you can take in the wonder of the Schoolhouse Inn, a former school transformed into elegant lodging. Just down the hill, you can visit the Kentucky Coal Mining Museum, with three floors of artifacts representing more than a century of coal mining in Kentucky.

If you're in the area on Thursday, Friday or Saturday, stop at Mike's Rib Barn in Cumberland for a tasty treat.

To get to Cumberland, take KY 80 to the Hindman exit, and in Hindman, drive KY 160 to KY 15 to Whitesburg. Then get on US 119, over Pine Mountain, to Cumberland. The route to SECC is clearly marked.

(Added incentive to go: The people in this area are exceptionally friendly.)
