Three Meet Leaven Death In County

COMMONWEALTH'S ATTORNEY IN PIKE AGAIN UNDER FIRE

Disbarment Proceedings Re-sumed Against O. A. Stump by Bar Association

FIRST CASE DISMISSED

A rule is being sought against O. A. Stump, attorney-at-law, of the thirty-fifth judicial district, to show cause why judgment should not be rendered against him disbarring him from the bar for a period of one year in view of the county in the case of Warren v. Commonwealth. This was held by Judge R. M. Moore in his office Wednesday morning of last week on behalf of the Bar Association of the county. The rule was granted by the court and the disbarment proceedings were resumed. The Bar Association has filed a petition for disbarment of Stump on the ground that he has been guilty of a crime which is a disbarment offense under the provisions of the act of March 1, 1928, which provides that any attorney who is guilty of a crime which is a disbarment offense under the provisions of the act of March 1, 1928, shall be disbarred from the bar for a period of one year.

FLOYD MAN, AUTO ACCIDENT VICTIM

James Sturgill Killed Sunday As Truck Wrecks; Son Seriously Hurt

James Sturgill (or Hall), 62 years old, former Floyd county resident, was killed and his son, Boyd, 42, was probably fatally hurt Sunday night on the highway, two miles out of Sayersville, in an automobile wreck as they were moving their household goods back to this county from Ohio, where they had resided for the past several years. The injured man lay in the Palmville hospital and is not expected to live.

This Boy Faces Great Task In Jama Game Saturday

"FLOPPY" FORQUER WILDCAT LEADER

"Floppy" Forquer, Kentucky Wildcat guard, played against Washington and Lee on October 18 when he was sick, and the battle which he put up that day will live long in the memories of Wildcat followers. With his team losing a 14-0 game he rallied his forces in the fourth quarter and they dashed and capped to a 23 to 14 victory, one of the greatest exhibitions of toughness ever seen on the Varsity field. Saturday, of this week, "Floppy" for all his weight, size and aggressiveness, faces a Herculean task as the faces Stratton, near Alabama guard.

WORK OF INCENDIARY SEEN IN SCHOOL FIRE

Incendiary origin is suspected in the destruction by fire at dusk Saturday evening of the Pitts Fork school building, but clues as to the identity of the person causing the fire are missing. Theory that the fire was not accident resulted from the fact that the blaze started from the outside of the building, it is said.

APPOINTED DIRECTOR, HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION

J. C. Hopkins, of this place, has received notice of his appointment as a director of the Detroit-Ashland-Miami-Highway Association. The association was organized through Paul B. ## COURT TO DECIDE WHO OWNS 'RING'

Pikeville, Ky., Oct. 29.—Gold Ring will be held into court here tonight to decide who owns the "ring" which will be called upon to decide his best master.

Bill Hackney Tries Suicide

Old Ring passed his training under Sterling Seese, his original master, a farmer of Guthrie, Ky., who sold him to Tomlinson Jones, a traveling salesman, for $10. He later was made acquainted with town dog, when Henry Jinkins bought him from Jones.

Justice has sued Edmunds for possession of the dog and injunction against the judge who will have to decide in the identity of the dog as the original "Old Ring."

Ford Digs Two Mile Tunnel for A Billion Gallons of Water a Day

Nearly a billion gallons of water a day now will be used by the cities of Detroit, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Washington combined will be the capacity of a huge tunnel now being excavated at the River front of the Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Michigan.

The tunnel will hold the water at a depth of 100 feet below the level of the city streets. The tunnel will be 10 feet in diameter and will be 2,000 feet long. It will be 10 feet in diameter and will be 2,000 feet long. It will be 10 feet in diameter and will be 2,000 feet long.

The head of one of the sections of the Ford tunnel showing the machinery used to burrow through the ground. In the foreground is one of the concrete blocks used to line the tunnel which has an inside diameter of fifteen feet.

Sixty Feet Under Ground

In constructing the water pipe, the largest of its kind ever undertaken by a single business concern, the engineers are burrowing sixty feet under ground for a distance of two and a half miles. They have gone under main highways, railroads, street car tracks, bridges, a cemetery and a creek.

One of the most delicate tasks was that of tunneling under the creek at a point which is crossed by a railroad bridge and where also a large sewer is under construction by the city of Detroit. The pipe which provides the foundation for the bridge and those driven by the company constructing the sewer form a network on each side of the creek. It was the task of the Ford engineers to burrow under the creek, sewer and bridge, using the pipe without striking or weakening them.

Boring of the tunnel is accomplished by means of a shield—a large steel cylinder fourteen feet long and twenty-one feet in outside diameter with a solid steel shell or skin two and a fourth inches thick. This shield has a hull-shaped which is made fast near the front end. There are four openings through which the mud streams. The mud is pumped from a tube at the shield is shoved forward by twenty powerful hydraulic jacks.

When the shield has been pushed forward sufficiently concrete blocks two and a half feet wide and five feet long, each weighing 3,420 pounds, are placed to form a ring around the circumference of the tunnel. One of them acts as a keystone so that the lining of concrete, which is eighteen inches thick, withstands the pressure of the earth. After this steel form is set up and filled with concrete to form a solid inner lining which is also eighteen inches thick.

The present intake system of the Ford plant has a capacity of 500,000,000 gallons a day. The new tunnel will be able to carry 913,000,000 gallons.

Words Can't Describe Good Karnak Did Me

"I just know there is nobody in all the world happier than I about this wonderful medicine, Karnak. I have taken all out of medicine and treatments in the past ten years trying to get some relief from my suffering, but nothing helped me until I began Karnak.

"Oh, how I suffered with stomach trouble. I was almost a nervous wreck from it. I had no appetite to speak of, food just didn't stick to me. But even though I would only eat the lightest kind of things, I would suffer just the same.

"I had just lost all my strength and at times I would feel so weak I could hardly walk across the room.

"I was so nervous and restless I couldn't get any sleep to amount to anything, and in the morning I could hardly drag myself out of bed. It began to look mighty blue for me, but Karnak has changed everything. It is too grand for words."

WE FAILED TO SEE

Eastern Kentucky gave birth to a man who, given rare foresight, was to claim his part of the wealth to be found in the rich coal beds of this section, but in the development of our own gas field there is not a native pioneer and only a few who have dared follow the trail blazed by others.

John C. C. Mayo, a young man with a vision, welcomed the opportunity which knocked at the doors of hundreds. He promoted exploration, led development. The result was the opening to progress of a territory of vast mineral wealth, and the making of a fortune for this native of these hills.

We of this section, for the most part, have been content, these recent years, to see capital from other states delve into the earth for the gas deposits of this section. At first we did not see. Later, while reaping only comparatively small rentals from the acres beneath which this wealth of gas lies, we saw but dared not.

Today, after pioneer companies and their successors have taken the risks and largely developed this entire section, a few business men are daring more than the thousands of their fellows and aer undertaking, themselves, to get into the game.

And so, though we have not a Mayo of the gas industry in Eastern Kentucky, it is quite probable that those of us who are going into the business from the producing end will at least profit to an extent far greater than does the farmer who has the gas lands but unwilling to take a chance, prefers the "sure thing" of the modicum derived.

"THE SPOTLIGHT OF PUBLICITY"

A recent editorial, discussing Chicago's situation, says that it is to the Windy City's everlasting credit that never have Chicagoans suppressed news of the sordid events there and have never sought such curtailment of publicity. Revelations of conditions as they really are by the daily news are held as beneficial in arousing public sentiment against the sinister workings of the underworld.

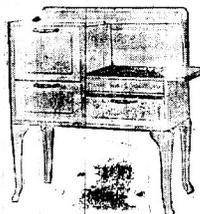

Except in the writings of "sob sisters" and their spineless brothers, newspaper publicity has helped and will continue to help.

Here, in Floyd county, are those who hold publicity of this sort detrimental to the county and its various towns. There are those who have objected to any unfavorable publicity.

Adopt the advice of the chicken-hearted and draw the shroud of secrecy around the workings of the lawless, and you have complied exactly with the wishes of those outside the law. The "spotlight of publicity" is not much of a figure of speech; it's real. And criminals prefer to move toward their multifarious ends in darkness rather than in light.

E. A. Stimble spent Sunday at Gibbesville, Miss. Belva Nellie Rummager is visitor, and was the guest of relatives living here sister at Lawrence, Ky., this week.

HISTORIC OUTLAW CAVE OF KENTUCKY

"Medicine Rock" is a feature of the flat woods, a notable semi-grown section several miles west of Berea near the Rockwell county line. It is cut with a rocky gorge. Under the table-like rock is a cavern said to have been the hiding place of the notorious outlaw, Bridgewater, whose notched gun, carried with his initials, was placed reverently among the relics in Fort Harrod. It is a most interesting curiosity.

Bridgewater's story is interestingly told by Clay Sutton, of Lancaster, in an article in a recent issue of the Lexington Herald. He says:

"Medicine Rock is a white flat-top and forms a prodigious roof over a cavern extending back under it into the granite bowels of the escarpment from which it springs boldly. The cavern gave toward the south. The interior of this lumber-cave is porous and, even at noonday, is a pallid and uncertain light, and the impenetrable labyrinth, lamprised in the old mouth of the place, ventures cautiously into it over a floor of broken stones, as if suspecting some lurking miser.

Some characters and legends, apparently traced by a flaming torch, trailed along the wavy ceiling, testify to its former occupancy. Indeed, aside from the specters, a natural enclosure the cavern itself is otherwise interesting for the reason that it perhaps was at one time the rendezvous of the notorious Bridgewater gang, a band of robber and horse thieves who operated for a while in this territory during the post-revolution period following the War Between the States. These desperadoes, numbering a dozen members or more, terrorized the whole country-side for a considerable time.

"In 1875, Ogden Bridgewater, the leader of the band, had a jaw fractured and his lower lip shot away at the moment of his capture at Harrodsburg by the town marshal, J. P. Galt, and was sent to the penitentiary for burglarizing a drug store in Stanford. The gang maintained for some time a concealed assembling point for stolen horses and mules in the vicinity of Otterbush, Ky.

"On a certain occasion in the outskirts of Stanford, Ogden Bridgewater held up and robbed Sodom Craig, a well-known citizen of the place, of $500, but soon afterward was forced to disgorge this money. After his return from the penitentiary the bandit leader led the choir and for years taught a Sunday school at the village of Moreland, in Lincoln county, where he conducted a small grocery business.

"Jim Bridgewater, a brother of the bandit leader and also a member of the gang, was six feet tall and of great physique, with a head of black hair and possessing a resolute bearing. While playing checkers in the old Commercial hotel at Stanford he was shot dead under a fusillade of revolver fire aimed at him by a band of determined men who had resolved to take to the streets certain atrocities attributed to these outlaws, but to break up and drive the criminals out of the country. That this drastic method proved to be a success was made clear by the fact that the gang speedily disappeared."

WHY NOT STOP CRIME NEWS AT THE SOURCE?

"The people of Portugal have become alarmed over the prevalence of crime and the Portuguese government has met the emergency by ordering the newspapers to minimize their reports. It appears to escape the attention of the Portuguese government, as it does the good people who would like to see a similar censorship in America, that the best way to minimize such reports is to suppress the criminals," says the San Francisco Chronicle.

There is a mistaken belief in our country that it is possible to check crime by passing more laws restricting law-abiding citizens on the theory that the criminal will thereby be restrained.

SAYS HOG RAISING BRIGHTEST SPOT FOR FARMERS AT PRESENT

Hog raising now seems to be the brightest spot in the farm situation, according to the monthly outlook report of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, prepared at its winter session. Shows stocks of pork and lard are not only less than a year ago, but are also under the five-year average. The decrease in storage holdings is equivalent to about 1,000,000 hogs. The winter slaughter of hogs is expected to be less than it was a year ago, and livestock specialists predict a reduction in hog raising and fall pig crops next year, because of the small corn crop."

The report says that the market supplies of cattle, during the rest of this year will be about the same as a year ago, but that the supply of feed cattle for the first half of next year will be smaller than it was this year. The demand for stockers and feeders is expected to be less this fall than it was a year ago. This probably will mean that more cattle of these grades will go to slaughter.

Both the west and the cornbelt are not calling for their usual number of feeder lambs this year, and feeding in these sections evidently will be lighter than usual. This probably will force many unfinished lambs to be slaughtered in the next two or three months. With a lamb crop larger this year than last by 2,600,000 head, the market receipts for the remainder of the season probably will be heavier than usual. Unless some unforeseen situation develops, it does not appear probable that higher prices will prevail until the present period of liquidation is past.

Concerning a short time outlook for dairying, the report says that many cows appear to be in poor flesh and in low production because of the feed situation. Cold storage stocks are below those of last year but the demand for butter is low, because of the business depression. As a long time proposition, there is a tendency of dairymen all over the country to keep more milk cows, which ultimately will result in more milk cows. In most sections there, also, is a tendency not to do the usual amount of culling because of the low prices of slaughter cattle. Both practices ultimately will result in a larger number of cows and hence a production of dairy products.

Despite the fact that farmers are selling off their hogs, and feeding less heavily, egg production all over the country as a whole is above that of last year. Holdings of egg chickens and turkey hens are above the average.

SLIES FOR WIFE

Thomas Todd, of Newport, secured a writ of habeas corpus in the Campbell county court last week for the return of his wife from a hospital. Todd obtained the writ by showing that the hospital authorities were holding his wife in default of payment of the hospital bill of $90. It is stated that the hospital authorities released Mrs. Todd before the writ was obtained.

DOG MOTHERS TURKEYS

Several months ago the dog assumed guardianship over a flock of turkeys on the farm, accompanying them every-where they went and protecting the attention of the owners of the flocks. The dog stayed with the flocks almost constantly until they were sold. After the flocks left the farm, the dog transferred its attention to a flock of young turkeys, following them about the farm and showing his displeasure when any one approached them. Mr. Skein says the dog sleeps at night under the roost of turkeys and can hardly be induced to come down to be fed. Contrary to the opinion of the master of the flocks, the turkey hen shows no objection to his watchful care over her brood.

LIKE COUNTY AGENT

County Agent J. E. Wilson is to retain his job here. The same necessity, which the fiscal court decided to pay, has been acquiesced in by farmers and business men during his resignation.

At a meeting of the fiscal court held the last Monday in August, the court decided to appropriate the sum required from the county for a county agent, by a vote of 10 to 1. At the same time an effort was made to have the court rescind its former order, but to no avail.

Then a number of farmers started a subscription paper to raise the money. The amount required was $200, although it had been $1,000 before. The money necessary was hardly raised and Mr. Wilson will stay with us.

So that's that.
NEEDED: MORE KILLINGS
(Wayne County Outlook)
Last Saturday night while Sam Abbott and his brother, Otto, were eating supper at the home of George Jennings, in Helm's Hollow, three miles below Sunnybrook, Old Ephraim and Spencer Jennings came up and a bet was engaged in which Sam Abbott was killed on the spot and Old Ephraim went a short way from the house and lay down with his overall up over his head and died some time during the night. Spencer Jennings was also shot up but he has no been located, and if he is he is also dead or mortally wounded. Abbott was a son of Dick Abbott, of Tennessee. He was accused of ambushing and killing Ros. Williams near the Jennings home a few years ago, and had never been arrested for the crime. Old Ephraim was a son of Floyd Church and Spencer Jennings, a son of Frank Jennings, all living in Tennessee.

Parties who are familiar with conditions down there say that the killing of about 2 more of the best actors in that neighborhood would help conditions.

HIPPO

BABE DIES On Thursday morning, Oct. 23, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Howard and took from them their eight-month-old son, Bertram Howard. His body was taken to the Castle cemetery at Middleburg, where burial was made. A large crowd attended.

SCHOOL BURNS The two-room schoolhouse at the mouth of Pitts Fork on Middle Creek was burned to the ground on Saturday night, October 26. Teachers were Mrs. Edna Stepp and Joe B. Stepp.

Accepting a report, the father entered the room an adjoining Nemesis, and at sight of Johnny Clay sitting in the room opened fire, killing Clay. Turning this report says, the other Stopp was shot while Clay was not dead, and being a soldier wounded man, for dead.

Following the dramatic events resulting from his visit to the Lefery home Ingram Stepp promptly went to the home of Deputy Sheriff Turner Burchett and surrendered, saying that he was anxious to be brought to Prestonsburg so that he could arrange bail and return to be at the bedside of his wounded son. Before starting to leave Prestonsburg, however, he asked to be permitted to reach home and get his horse. This was granted.

INGRAM STEPP was rushed to the Methodist hospital during the night of the shooting in the autumn of E. P. Arnold, of this place, and died at 4 o'clock on the following afternoon.
