VOTERS INELIGIBLE, WHO CHANGED PARTY WHILE REGISTERING

State Official Says County Clerk Must Ban Changes in Parties

Frankfort, Ky., July 20—Clerks of the county courts should not certify as eligible voters in the coming primary who recently changed their registrations from one party to another, Guy H. Herdman, assistant attorney general, today informed the Pendleton county board of election commissioners.

He pointed out that heavy penalties were provided against election judges and officers who permitted unlawful voting and that punishment is provided for unlawful voters. Those entitled to participate in the primary are entirely new registrants of a party and those who were registered under the heading of that party in the election of last November.

Those who recently changed their registration from one party to another may not participate in this year's primary, Mr. Herdman said.

Whitesburg Gets Federal Building With May's Aid

(From the Whitesburg Mountain Eagle)

Whitesburg is to have that new postoffice and that right away it seems. The contract for the construction of the new federal building was recently let to Andrew & Dawson of Montgomery, Ala. After weeks of seeming idleness on the part of the government officials concerned, it suddenly broke from a quiet sky that the idleness was really for the purpose of accepting bids for the construction of the building. So all rumors about two more elections to be run on the new federal building must now be quieted.

Through the congressman from this district Jack May Whitesburg and Letcher county will be able to boast of a federal building to be proud of. Congressman May has been working ceaselessly on behalf of the new building and at last it seems that his efforts are to bear fruit. Letcher county in general and Whitesburg in particular owes a debt of gratitude to Congressman May for his efforts in our behalf.

W. G. Holbrook, local postmaster and custodian of the site of the new federal building has received information that the bonds of the contractors have been approved and that they have been instructed to start work on the new building at once. According to the postmaster, the contractors of the new building are expected in the city any day.

Specifications of the new buildings and a picture of the architect's drawing will be printed in the Mountain Eagle as soon as they are obtainable.

Saturday night more than 40 children participated in the vacation church school under the direction of Mrs. Brock. Persons attending the service expressed their appreciation at the fine response of the boys and girls, who had received training from Mrs. Brock for only a week.

On the concluding night it was announced a purse of $192 had been contributed by the singers. Mr. Warren on salary from the Presbyter-

A continuation of the direct evangelistic appeal at the night union services through the summer months is planned under the Prestonburg Ministerial Association. The first service is to be held at 8 o'clock Sunday night at the Missionary Baptist Church.

Muscle Shoals
In 1892 the United States geographic board decided in favor of "Muscle" Shoals. According to that authority the rapids evidently received their name from the numerous fresh-water muscels formerly living among the rocks at this point in the river.

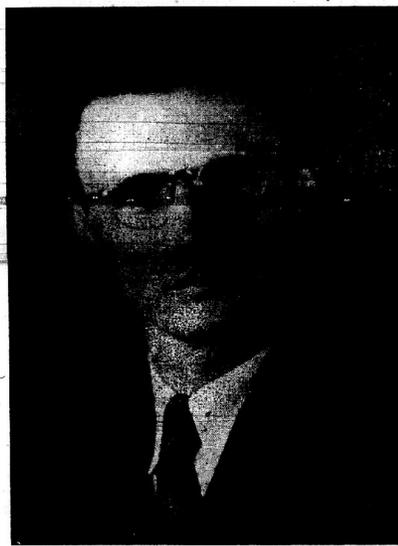

To The Voters of Floyd County

I appeal to you to nominate and elect me to the office of County Judge of Floyd County. In making this appeal to you, I do so on my merits alone and not upon the demerits of any of my opponents, I have nothing derogatory or disrespectful to say of any of my opponents. You are fortunate in having a number of outstanding citizens from which to select your County Judge, it is my purpose to convince you that I am more worthy and better qualified than any of my opponents, and not to criticize them.

Most of you understand the important duties devolving upon your County Judge, it is an important office. The County Judge has jurisdiction over infant children and incompetent persons and their property and estate. He has the power to appoint and remove administrators and executors and to settle their accounts, it is his duty to protect and preserve their money and property. He also has power to divide their lands and to allot dower to the widow. Not only this, but he is the presiding officer of the Fiscal Court and it is his duty to counsel and advise the Fiscal Court and vote in case of a tie. The roads and bridges are under his supervision. He also has jurisdiction in misdemeanor cases and may conduct examining trials, fix bonds in felony cases, and has jurisdiction in civil cases involving sums not exceeding two hundred ($200.00) dollars. These are only a few of the duties and powers of your County Judge. Therefore you understand and believe me when I say "This is an important office. A burdensome county debt in excess of eight hundred thousand ($800,000) dollars adds to the importance of the office. Approximately fifty thousand ($50,000.00) dollars a year is required to pay the interest on the bonded indebtedness of the county. After all this interest and necessary operating expenses of the county are paid, there is not a great amount remaining with which to pay on the debt. It is therefore very necessary that the money of the county be saved and applied wisely, which I assure you will be done if I am elected to this office. Our income in taxes is gradually decreasing and will continue to decrease, which makes it more urgent and necessary that we proceed without delay to reduce the county debt.

In order that you may know something of me and my qualification, I desire to say that I was born and raised on a farm on Abbott Creek, I am thirty three years of age, I received most of my education at Berea College, I am a graduate of the Jefferson School of Law in Louisville where I went to Law School at night and worked my way through school by working during the day. I have had nine years' experience in the general practice of law. I have never asked for or held a public office.

If elected to this office, I will see that the county debt is reduced as much as possible and that county claims are not padded or illegally paid. I am wholeheartedly in support of the improvement of our county roads, particularly the Johns Creek and Left Beaver roads, and I herewith assure you that a road which can be traveled winter and summer will be built to connect Wheelwright and Weeksburg with the Left Beaver road. And if Zack Justice does not have the connecting link completed, I will see that Floyd county does so I have every reason to believe that Zack Justice and the Highway Commission will complete this road at an early date.

I also advocate the completion of the county roads started by the WPA and the improvement of other roads, among which are the Turkey Creek, Wilson Creek, Rock Fork and Jones Creek roads and the road from Wayland to the Knot county line and many other roads too numerous to mention.

If elected to this office, I promise strict regulation of road houses and tourist camps. I assure you that I will attend to the office and serve the public in every way possible. I am able and willing to serve you in many legal problems which may arise and will do so without cost or expense to you. So far as my attitude towards organized labor, I invite you to examine and inquire into my record, I fought the contest case of Mell Petry, the candidate of the United Mine Workers and won. I have represented and assisted a number of the local Unions of the county and I invite you to inquire of the Presidents and Secretaries of your local Unions.

I appeal to you to give a YOUNG MAN a chance. My opponent, Henry Stephens held office as clerk of the Circuit Court for twelve years. He received one-half of the same office when Oliver Stumbo was clerk, and during the past four years Mr. Stephens has been receiving a regular salary from the county as clerk to Dr. W. L. Stumbo, County Judge, making TWENTY-TWO years Mr. Stephens has been in public office. Mr. Stephens owns or lives in a $30,000.00 home owned approximately half of the First National Bank large oil and gas interests and a newspaper. I contend he has had more than his part of public office, I want to be fair with Mr. Stephens by saying he was a fine clerk. However, I do not believe we should keep one man in office a quarter of a century. Do not set such a precedent. Your boy or girl may aspire to and be worthy to hold public office and you want him or her to have a chance and an equal opportunity.

I ask humbly that you think seriously before casting your vote and cast it for a young, qualified man, who needs and is worthy of the office.

Respectfully Yours,

Edward P. Hill

FIRE CONTROL MEET HELD AT PUTNEY, KY.

Stress was laid on reducing the number of fires by use of proper educational methods being prepared for those fires which might occur and proper means of fighting them, in the Big Sandy Association 2 per cent has been set as a goal for the current fiscal year as compared with a burned area for last year equal to 6.98 per cent of area under protection.

The second day of the meeting was devoted entirely to discussion of fire fighting technique and was ended with the actual suppression of two mock forest fires on the Kentucky State Forest. In suppressing the mock fire a contest was staged between the two crews which were headed by Chiefs Bennett and Hyden. The judges in this contest were CCC camp superintendents D. T. McQuaid and Ernest Evans and District Forester Berckman who declared the contest a draw.

The entire program will include meetings of local fire wardens, lookout watchmen, smoke chasers, and patrolmen throughout the district during the next three months. The use of regular correspondence courses and examinations is planned and a monthly service bulletin will be issued from district forester's headquarters. By means of this training program, the Kentucky Division of Forestry expects to build one of the most efficient fire control organizations in the Ohio valley. Those in attendance at the meeting were: K. G. McConnell and H. B. Newland, Frankfort, Ky.; D. T. McQuaid, H. E. Seward, Leslie Cooper, Paul Cooper and W. H. Berckman of Putney, Ky.; J. L. Bennett, Siler; T. H. Hyden, Wooten; W. R. Price,

TO THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY

John S. Layne of Betsy Layne, Kentucky is seeking the nomination for County Attorney on the Republican ticket to be voted for August 7 next.

I am a great grandson of John Graham and James S. Layne who were among the earliest pioneers of Kentucky who crossed the Cumberland shortly after the noted Indian fighter—"Boone." John Graham emigrated from the Blue Mountains of the mother, states while James S. Layne hailed from the valley of James River near Jamestown, Virginia.

These two men were surveyors before Kentucky became a state and who settled the major portion of Floyd county at a time when the bear, wolf and Indians ruled the forests of old Kentucky.

The descendants of these two men are among the most prominent citizens of the Dark and Bloody Ground today. In front of the First National Bank of Prestonsburg stands a memorial of John Graham dedicated by the Daughters of the American Revolution in whose honor this association took its name—"John Graham." His children's children are still here who are to be found among the Pattons, the Stevens, the Mayos and the Harri's families and by affinity many other good families of this county.

John Graham had six daughters and one son, who also was a surveyor and a fighter. One of his beautiful girls was my own grandmother whose old house is still standing on the "Y" on the Mayo Trail near the mouth of Beaver Creek.

On the Layne side of the house are included the Meades, Boyds, Strattons, Rice and Loars.

My experience is sufficient and is as follows: Twelve years in the northwest special assistant to the Attorney General of the United States in Phoenix, Arizona. Authorized by the Supreme Court of Arizona, Montana in addition to Kentucky and Federal courts.

"They tell us that the dead ruled the living." If so then we should be happy for these two men were typical models of Christian gentlemen whose spirit is still with us and may whisper in your dreams to vote for me.

My grandfather donated the site for the first courthouse Floyd county ever had. I regret to ask for this office in view of the opposition on my ticket. I waited late on the last day to register to find later two opponents who jumped out of the wilderness on the head of a Prater and Beaver Creek one of which carries a surveyor's chain and the other a small merchant on Beaver.

These two fellows come to town once or twice a year, perhaps for a hair cut and to find out whether the courthouse is still here or not.

In blistering Summer Heat you need ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION
WHEN the thermometer soars in the nineties, adequate refrigeration is not only a luxury but also a necessity. Life itself depends upon the prevention of excessive bacterial and mold growth in foods for children and grown-ups... and those long, cool drinks and lovely frozen desserts are life-savers, in another sense, during torrid weather. Above 50 degrees is the Danger Zone for any cabinet in which food is stored. Electric Refrigeration assures constant safety on that point.

DRIFT TOP WEEKSBURY 10-2 IN SANDY LEAGUE

(By Shikepoke)
The Turner Elkhorn baseball club continued its winning way by lambasting a strong Weeksbury team here Sunday 10-2.
Lloyd Stumbo was invaluable, allowing the Weeksbury sluggers only three hits and two unearned runs while the entire Drift team pounded Conley and Skiles for 13 hits and 10 runs.

Despite the fact that K. Stumbo, pitcher, Harry Bailey, catcher, "Golf" Shelton, outfielder and Ted Stumbo, outfielder are on the injured list, Drift continues to hang near the top in the B.g Sandy league standings.

SYNOPSIS

Preparing to close her summer home and send the winter to the city with a great aunt, Anne Vincent, a middle-aged widow, Rachel, the real mother of her adopted daughter, finds the task almost insupportable since she feels Rachel is putting a barrier between them. Rachel learns that her real mother was beautiful eighteen-year-old Ellen Malloy, deserted by her husband before Rachel's birth. He was killed in the World War. In despair, she was adopted by Anne, who was a struggling artist. Rachel's father, Harry Vincent, a wealthy New York business man, had been married to Anne's sister, but she had been careless and selfish. Rachel Anne omits telling her that her mother had been careless and selfish. Rachel Anne omits telling her that her mother had been careless and selfish. Rachel Anne omits telling her that her mother had been careless and selfish.

CHAPTER III

In the night Anne had reasoned sharply with herself to get away from self-pity, to accept, as she had always accepted, the hard limiting things that happened to her, and go on calmly. Both she and Rachel were up too early and were restless with this extra time and nothing to do. Bob was to come for their baggage and take it to the station quickly she would talk. The bare house got on Anne's nerves. "Let's take our coffee out on the terrace and watch the sun," she said, "it's a divine day."

Mr. Kreeel appeared as soon as they did, anxious and eager. "You haven't changed your intention about the radio, have you?" he asked. Rachel gave him the house key for answer. "Mr. Vincent, I hate to keep on applying for favors, but could I look through your trash and see if there's any empty cereal or cracker boxes? I could mail the tops in with my letters, in the contests. She—" he gets up and flies off anything special for that purpose.

"You can look through everything to see if there's anything special for that purpose," he said. "Listen, Mr. Kreeel," added Rachel, "here's an idea. You speak to Bob Eddie, he's going to be here all winter and if there's any special cereal or cracker you want I'm certain he'll buy and eat it and give you the box."

"That is an idea, Miss Rachel! No waste, no cost, no argument in the house. Is there so thing I could do for you to help out this morning?"

With Rachel at twenty Anne had come to an impasse. The girl lived with her too contentedly, saw too few young people, passed on her decisions and her plans to her mother and only now and then took a stand of her own. Anne didn't want to depend on Rachel any more than she wanted Rachel to depend on her, and she was afraid that her love for her daughter might betray her. Not only her love, but the constant joy of Rachel's presence, the pleasure of having her by her side and in looking out for her, these might, she felt, so easily warp and affect her judgment about a woman, less a person than she had a right to be.

Then that querulous difficult dowager, her Grand-aunt Helene, returned (born Helen Williams of Albany) had summoned Anne to her side, not because of affection or need, but because her sole aim in living now was to make people do what they didn't want to do. She had tried before to do this. Anne stay with her and refusal had sharpened and her plans to do this. Anne stay with her and refusal had sharpened and her plans to do this. Anne stay with her and refusal had sharpened and her plans to do this.

"I'd better stay with you and watch your shopping, you'll buy nothing but old lady clothes unless I watch you. I want you simply to watch Madame Helene's eye out when she gets there. I'll phone to Pink that I'm on my way."

Anne opened her lips to say, "Best take your bags to Pink's and they don't have to be moved twice," but she changed it to "Very well."

"I hope you'll have a good time with Pink this winter and I do hope you'll find a job you really like, not a mere something to do in the daytime."

"I'll find something," said Rachel. The train was waiting and Bob had piled their baggage just inside the door of the one passenger car. "I've decided to go as far as the Junction with you," he said, and all the time he had been looking at Rachel, pathetic to Anne, but both were glad when they got home and settled into the express train, swift, impersonal comfort. "If there's anything I like it's being seen off," said Rachel, crossly. "Come on, let's dash into the diner and get some hot coffee and bread."

brown girl looked in her yellow frock and how the other passengers watched her with interest and speculation. What would Harry have thought of her? Anne wondered, as she had wondered so many times before. The smile of the wheel's made a monotonous rhythm of release to Anne's memory. She could remember the day when Harry, she thought she wouldn't believe it. Dr. Ayres had said. That was why all their affairs were in such good order. There was no muss or ruddle over his will and his property, though he hadn't so very much to leave. But he had guarded Anne and Rachel with a trust fund and since his death it had increased and given a good income, even during the lean years since '29 it had not diminished, for the trustee was a canny and foresighted man with a passion for finance and his ability was reinforced by a considerable but unswerving generosity. Anne knew perfectly that two amiable smiles would have had Hobart Grable's prying in her, so her dealings with him were careful and on a good financial basis. He was not only a good financier but a good musician whom music could be enjoyed.

The first year after Harry Vincent's death was a blank in Anne's recollection, she knew that she must have gone through the ordinary mourning period when she could remember of it was bleak desolation and a strange anger against all who could love when she could not. But that had passed, she had forced herself into normal ways, the care of Rachel had helped. Presently the child was the reason, the validity of her will to live. There was enough in her to fill her apartment and a maid for the winter, the house in Rockboro in a private school and to special class at Columbia, but obviously she was the college girl and force her through a long winter. It seemed a pointless task to Anne.

With Rachel at twenty Anne had come to an impasse. The girl lived with her too contentedly, saw too few young people, passed on her decisions and her plans to her mother and only now and then took a stand of her own. "I hope you'll have a good time with Pink this winter and I do hope you'll find a job you really like, not a mere something to do in the daytime."

remembering that Rachel must now make her own decisions, however small. She added gratefully, "It'll be a big help to have you with me." "That's a joke, you know Grable does everything. All you need is a couple of frocks and a visa on your passport. Post old Grable, what'll he do with his Philharmonic tickets this year?" "You might go with him."

Rachel laughed. "And have him tell me all about Brahms? That would be a thrill! All the same I mean to cultivate Grable a little, he might find me a job just for your sake."

"No, not a bit. Pink will probably think up something and force me into it. "I'll hate it. "I thought—from what you said to Bob last night—that you had some definite in mind."

Rachel replied with ostentatious carelessness: "Oh, that—that was on one side."

Anne decided to make a joke of it. "Smiling and your secrets!" she said, smiling. "All right—keep out of my business, all I ask. And she would not notice that Rachel's smile was a little forced and anxious. "Would you like to see me on a night tonight if she hasn't a date?" she went on.

Rachel would like that. And for the rest of the trip if they talked at all it was of nothing with special meaning.

Pink, it appeared, could come to dinner and at seven, before they were ready, she came bounding into Rachel's room in the hotel wearing a sign of her day's work about her. "Pink is so small and thin as a toothpick, but she's got a good hair she's pleasantly freckled, her hair she-polish back. She hailed from a small town in the South, but she was a Southern belle of song and story, every possible way. She did not look like a hundred percent unromantic. Her brain was keen and violent, she spoke her opinions instantly and acted on them as soon as made, and she was quick to be kind and to be angry and also to be sharp and hard, but she couldn't resist a grudge no matter how she tried."

Anne heard her speaking to Rachel and she didn't ask Pink to tap at her door, popped inside, hugged and kissed her and said how grand it was to see her, all in one motion.

"You're coming to dinner with us, Rachel, isn't it, and we're going somewhere swank. I'll get enough cheap Italian dumps this winter and don't I know it."

"I'm not here for a swell place and we haven't any man, or have we?" "We haven't," said Anne, "but I don't think it matters, it's early, and you have me for chaperone."

The talk went on after they had reached the roof garden which Rachel selected as their dining place, and Anne listened to Anne and the girls chattered. "The women you've scribbled around and found some of them are so nice, I wish I could find any. My part-time maid tells me that practically every woman is married or has a husband or a brother or a father. And coming into the white-collar class it's the women who've kept the home fires burning, they've made new jobs when they couldn't find old ones. Two big women's clubs have been organized, one for the built and furnished clubhouses, though building is practically dead, and they've financed them soundly, have found out they can work. So here's the town, Rachel, you can take your pick."

For Discriminating People

Now is the time for all-smart women to come to the aid of their wardrobe. Sew-Your-Own wants to lend a hand, Milady, hence today's trio of mid-summer pace makers.

At The Left.
A trim little reminder that careful grooming is an asset anywhere, anytime, is this frock. It features simplicity, its forte is comfort. Make one version in cotton-wool for all purpose wear, another in sports silk for dressy occasions.

At The Center.
Here you have a light and breezy ensemble that's the perfect attire for Society. It has cosmopolitan dash, refinement, and engaging charm. Once more you'll be the subject of complimentary tea table talk with your delightfully slender silhouette. It's a sheer chiffon or more durable acetate. You'll have a hit in either.

At The Right.
The little lady who likes unusual touches in her frocks will go for this new dress and pantie set. It has the chic of mommy's dresses plus a little-girl daintiness that is more than fetching. U. S. Postal Camels
In 1954, to make transportation of mails across the Western deserts of this country a "certainty," the Post Office department purchased a number of camels in Egypt and Asia Minor for $20,000. The story surfaces on the deserts of Arizona and California and it's the soft pads on the feet of the camels. An unsuccessful attempt was made to provide the camels with specially devised leather boots. The idea was finally abandoned.

Copy of St. Peter's Dome Allowed by Mistake; University Claims Duplicate

The story of how the only copy in the world of Michelangelo's famous model of the dome which he designed for St. Peter's Cathedral in Rome was permitted to be constructed has been revealed for the first time by authorities of the University of Cincinnati, says a Cincinnati news item.

The university has had possession of the little-known copy for ten years. It was made, it was disclosed by student Victor L. S. Hafner while he was studying under a fellowship at the American Academy in Rome in 1921. His idea was to make a comparative study of Michelangelo's model, then on display in St. Peter's, and the model he had made for the university of Cincinnati, says a Cincinnati news item.

He first sought permission to make the copy from the cardinal in charge of Vatican properties but learned it was out of the city. The cardinal's substitute, however, granted the request so Hafner started work. His copy was well under way when the cardinal returned and learned of the action of his substitute, who was unaware of the centuries-old rule of the Vatican that the model could never be reproduced.

The cardinal decided to permit the work to continue only on condition that no reproduction of the copy could be made. The university obtained the copy several years later and agreed to these terms.

History records that Michelangelo was appointed architect in chief of the Cathedral of St. Peter about 1547. During the next ten years he constructed a false wooden model of the dome so that in event of his death the work could be carried out. The model was twenty feet high and twelve and one-half feet in diameter.

GAS COMPANY MAY SELL ITS HOLDINGS

Considerable acreage held under lease may be sold

Ellettsville, Ky., July 20.—Everett Patton, superintendent of the Eastern Gas Company's holdings in this section, said this week that the Portsmouth, O., firm is on the verge of selling out to another concern.

The Portsmouth company has a number of excellent tracts on Salt Lick and Beaver Creek, near here, and all of them are heavy producers. Though its territory is limited, the firm has considerable territory under lease which has not yet been drained and it is hoped by many that the new firm when and if the deal goes through will develop the additional acreage.

Officials of the Central Elk Horn Coal Company's mine at West Garrett, near here as well as the miners are fast developing a year of hickory timber. Several of the hickory mine posts used recently have shown a tendency to fly out of their positions between mine roof and floor when the weight of the mountain set upon them and one post recently flew out and severely injured a miner working near it. Timbers used in other varieties of trees do not have this "rubber" quality. Ashland Daily Independent.

DRUMMERS, BUGLERS START PRACTICING

J. HENSLEY DIRECTS
With John Hensley in charge, daily practice sessions for the American Legion Honor Squadron No. 1, drum and bugle corps began Tuesday. Mr. Hensley will be assisted in instructing the boys by Carl Corbin. Daily practice sessions will be held at 8:30 a. m. in the high school building.

According to the demonstration given Tuesday morning when the new drums and bugles were distributed to the youngsters, the junior squadron will be well satisfied with its project. Several of the boys announced that they wished to own their own instruments.
American Legionnaire sponsors of the squadron said that membership of 30 is desired for the corps and that additional instruments will be purchased when needed. A baton welding drum major will complete the roster. It is expected that uniforms will be purchased for the ensemble.

The Roman Toga
The Roman toga, the national garment of the Romans, was originally worn by both men and women. It was a piece of woolen cloth in the form of a segment of a circle. The chord of the arc—the straight edge—was about three times the height of the wearer, and the height a little less than one-half of this length. One end of the garment was thrown over the left shoulder and allowed to hang down in front; the remainder was drawn round the body in various ways.

Largest Band of Criminals
The largest band of criminals in the history of the United States was "Murel's Gang," consisting of more than a thousand horse and slave thieves, forgers and highwaymen who terrorized the South for several years in the early part of the Nineteenth century. When captured, stated a writer in Collier's Weekly, the men who directed and protected the gang had grown so bold that they were about to attempt the seizure of New Orleans.

TO THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

I take this means of announcing to you that I have decided to withdraw from the race for the Democratic nomination for Representative. I wish to thank my many friends throughout the county for their encouragement and support so far; my chief reason for this move is that my financial condition is such that I could not make a campaign.

You still have a good field out of which to pick a winner. My long years of experience down at Frankfort however, convinces me that you ought to pick a Representative who is not only able and honest but one who has had experience in business and politics. With all due respect to the other candidates, I feel that W. G. (Bill) Biggers by reason of his long years in business and politics and especially his long years spent in Frankfort where he has formed a wide acquaintance with many public men, make him eminently fitted to make you an able Representative.

Respectfully,
W. S. WALKER

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY

I hereby respectfully submit the following as the reasons why you should vote for and nominate me as the Democratic candidate for Representative from Floyd county at the August primary.

LABOR

I am a charter member of the Garrett Local Union No. 5902. I was practically raised in a coal mine. My many brothers and sisters all miners. I was born on Beaver Creek in the mining section. For a period of 20 years I have taken an active part in all labor movements in behalf of the laboring man. If nominated and elected I intend to use every effort in attempting to amend the Workmen's Compensation Law to the end that it will really "compensate" the injured working man. Our Kentucky Workmen's Compensation law is one of the worst in any of the states of the union and should be modeled after those of some of the more progressive states. I shall vote for and fight for every law intended for the betterment of labor in Kentucky and will be guided by the intelligent leadership of such men as Sam Caddy, Wm. Turnblazer and our great leader John L. Lewis and I will "NOT BE" dictated to by a little group of selfish politicians at Frankfort as some of our Representatives have done.

If you nominate and elect me you may rest assured that you will have a one hundred percent "LABOR" Representative at Frankfort. I will not swallow the self-prepared and self-serving program prepared by Happy Chandler or any other politician as our Representative and my opponent, Mel Petry, did at the last session of the Legislature.

EDUCATION

I favor and will vote for a law electing County Superintendents by direct vote of the people and not by a few politicians. I will also vote for and expect to fight for a law that will "compel" the County Board of Education to employ the teacher recommended by the local school trustees and this will apply not only to the rural schools but to the consolidated schools. I am a Jeffersonian Democrat to the effect that I believe that the "people" are entitled to a voice in their school affairs and that their chosen school trustees should have a voice in the selection of school teachers. We need "fewer" school supervisors, and more and better school teachers.

GOOD ROADS

It is common knowledge that our mountain roads have all these years been neglected. Although the state's money is being spent in large sums on the rural roads in other parts of Kentucky, very little of any is being spent in our mountain counties. I expect to introduce and fight for a law placing the road from the forks of Middle Creek up the left fork of Middle Creek and down Brush Creek connecting with the Beaver highway at the mouth of Brush Creek on the State Rural Highway program. Likewise the road from the mouth of Mud Creek up Mud Creek across the mountain and down Clear Creek to the Left Beaver highway should be placed on the State Rural Highway plan; also the Johns Creek road should be completed at the earliest possible date. I will also use my every effort in cooperation with our WPA authorities to the end that more money will be made available for the immediate construction and completion of the many rural projects already begun and many others to follow. I will use my every effort in bringing this much needed highway aid to Floyd county.

The above are a few of the many things which I have in mind in behalf of our people and for which I expect to fight if you send me to Frankfort as your Representative. My opponent, Mel Petry, has made his record. I invite you to investigate it and see whether or not it has been in the interest of the laboring man, the farmers and the school children of Floyd county. I submit that it has not. If you believe that I will stand for your interest and work in your behalf as your Representative, I respectfully request your support.
