Bond, Stamp Sales To Continue July 4 At Floyd Postoffice

All Floyd county postoffices will remain open on the Fourth of July, under orders of postal authorities in Washington, for the sole purpose of selling war stamps and bonds as a highlight of the July drive on the sale of stamps and bonds sponsored by the U. S. Treasury. W. P. Mayo, county chairman of the drive, announced here Thursday. "The most patriotic way that any American could celebrate the Fourth would be to go to the nearest post-office, and make a substantial purchase of war stamps or bonds," Mr. Mayo declared. The quota for July sales set by the treasury for Floyd, he said, is $34,800. To insure the success of the local drive, Mr. Mayo urged that residents of the county (Continued on page five)

FITZPATRICK IS VICTIM

Well-Known Man Dies Near Here At Age of 85

A kidney ailment and the ravages of advanced years resulted in the death Saturday morning at his home on Middle Creek, two miles from here, of Isaac Henry Fitzpatrick, one of Floyd county's oldest and best-known men. He was 85 years old. Mr. Fitzpatrick had been ill for the last two months. A son of Dr. Sheriff William Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Rebecca Gearheart, Fitzpatrick was born Dec. 15, 1856 in Middle Creek and was a lifelong resident of that section. Although a member of one of the section's largest and most influential families, he never aspired to public office, spending his days on the farm. (Please turn to page five)

MINERS' VACATION CUT SHORT AS AGREEMENT REACHED

OPERATORS, AT REQUEST OF PRESIDENT, AGREE TO REFUND STRIKE FINES AS COAL NEEDS EMPHASIZED

John L. Lewis directed 75,000 vacationing miners in Kentucky and West Virginia to resume work immediately after the Southern Coal Producers Association at the request of President Roosevelt agreed Monday to return $200,000 in fines levied on the workers for taking part in the captive mine strike of last November. With only four Floyd county mines operating, approximately 7,000 of the county's 8,000 miners Saturday began the abbreviated holiday. In Washington, War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson, pointing out the soldiers in battlefields cannot observe holidays, told American industry that "we at home dare not have a July 4 holiday in war production." "On Independence Day this year we can pay proper honor to our freedom only by working in the defense of that freedom," Nelson said. The President's request was conveyed to the operators by Interior Secretary Weeks at a conference Monday morning, ending desultory discussions on the vacation issue between the producers and Lewis which extended over the last few weeks. The miners started their vacation Monday, expecting to be idle until July 6. (Please turn to page five)

A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joel Turner, he was a member of a leading Floyd county family and had many friends throughout this section. Surviving are his widow Mrs. Eva Newsum Turner, two daughters, Ruth and Bobby Ann; three brothers and two sisters: A. L. Turner, of Laughey; Kelly Turner, of Lancer; Joe Turner, McTowell; Mrs. Sally Parter, Shreveport, La.; and Mrs. Alice Kinney, Hueysville. Funeral rites will be conducted Friday at 1 p. m. from the residence at Minnie, the Revs. M. C. Wright, Willie Collins, Bert Newsum and Tom Mosely officiating. FIRE DAMAGE PROBE SEEN

State Fire Marshal May Enter Case, Report Here

It was said this week that an investigation of last week's fire at the E. W. Jesse Lumber Company here will be made by the state fire marshal's office. Since the 40,000 feet of lumber reported as destroyed were said to have been under contract to the government, sabotage or the work of some disgruntled workman was suspected after the odor of kerosene was detected by citizens who fought the blaze. Robert Jesse, son of the company's president, drove here from Cleveland, Va., immediately after learning of the fire to assume the probe conducted by the company. The loss was estimated at $2,000.

Mrs. Delbert Webb, Of David, Dies At Age of 27

Mrs. Delbert Webb, 27 years old, of David, died Tuesday at the Martin General hospital, a victim of diabetes. Mrs. Webb was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Parley Bartley of David, and had many friends in the section. She was a devout member of the Methodist Church. Besides her husband and parents, she is survived by one daughter, Anna; two sisters, Mrs. Charles Turner, of Edin, and Miss Arbus Bartley, of David; and three brothers, Taulay, Earl and Curt Bartley, all of David. The body was taken to Ashcamp Pike county, where funeral rites were conducted Thursday afternoon by the Reverend Sorward, of Ashland. Burial was made in the family cemetery, the Ryan Funeral Home directing.

TO THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

Although my campaign for the Democratic nomination for sheriff has been cut short by a Court of Appeals decision, my gratitude to the good citizens of Floyd county who have expressed an interest in my candidacy does not end with this court decision. I consider your interest in a just law enforcement and in a better Floyd county more important than the postponement of the election, and would like for each of you to know that I am deeply indebted for your kind support and encouragement. Sincerely, FRANK P. HAYES (Adv.)

COURT RULES NO ELECTION TILL 1943

Decision Affects Elections Planned In Other Counties

There will be no election of a Floyd county Sheriff this year—and so Mrs. Annie Stumbo, appointed for a one-year term by County Judge R. H. Hill, Jr., will fill the vacancy created by the death of her husband, Sheriff-elect W. L. Stumbo, who will remain in office till after the November, 1943 election. This situation results from Monday's opinion rendered by the Kentucky Court of Appeals holding that the election of a Sheriff this year in Floyd county is illegal. The appellate court decision came as a field of perhaps seven Democrats and two Republicans was in the making for the primary election August 1. The specific order of the Court of Appeals granted a temporary injunction against the election of County Clerk A. B. Meade causing to be printed on the August primary ballot the name of Frank P. Hayes of Hueysville as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff. The decision followed Circuit Judge Henry Stephens' refusal of a temporary injunction asked in a "friendly suit" filed by R. R. Allen, Prestonsburg, to determine legality of the election.

BATHING BEAUTIES' TUG OF WAR

"Business As Usual" may be out for the duration, but "Bathing As Usual" is still the slogan of Atlantic City bathing beauties. This lovely quartette has discovered a new way to play tug-of-war and you've got to admit you're glad they feed the camera.

DOES STATE FAIR ATTRACT KENTUCKY'S FARMERS?

By J. HOWARD HENDERSON
(In The Courier-Journal)

WHY should Kentucky have a state fair at all? Why just talk about, discontinuing it for the duration, when it is and always has been a town show, and only remotely touches the agricultural and educational life of the state?

For a long time I have observed the fair, its cheap politics, its grandiose midway, its over-emphasis on gambling devices and beer-drinking concessions. For years I have noticed how few people from the farms came to the fair, and wondered if it was wholly impossible to make the fair of real benefit to the agricultural life of the state.

Successive administrations at Frankfort have promised improvement. Candidate Johnson in 1939 talked about Kentucky as "71 per cent agricultural. He promised a revitalized fair, a real contribution to the agricultural and educational problem of the state. All he has done is give it a revolving fund financed out of revenue bonds.

Do I need to elaborate the conclusion that the fair is not a fair but a floating town show? Surely not, if you have been there. If you want added proof, look at the figures released by the State Fair Board last week to show that attendance would not put any added wear on the tires in Kentucky.

Figure a State Fair Board brushing off some three-year-old statistics as proof that in 1942 the people of Kentucky would not come to the "state fair" we can have a state fair, the State Fair Board unions, because 66 per cent of the attendance is from urban Jefferson county anyway, and there would be no unusual wear on tires.

Isn't that a commentary on a state fair that has been in operation for more than 30 years? Of course the bulk of the people from Louisville who go to the fair grounds do not go to see the farm exhibits or even the very good horse shows. For a very considerable portion of the Louisville crowds the midway is the attraction, with its fortune telling, its wheels of chance, its tawdry side shows. "Do you doubt that?"

Get on the make at Frankfort. Watch the ornate various demonstrations and the put on the circus at the fair. See which administration favorites get the beer concessions. Watch the underlings flock to Chicago each spring to have their say in what show or organization gets the midway.

The Kentucky state fair could become an institution in the state.

Pay of $1,620 Offered Qualified Civilians

Men with mechanical and electrical ability who have had a minimum of two years full time experience with repair, overhaul and maintenance of gasoline or Diesel engines or motor generators may qualify for civilian positions as assistant power mechanics at $1,620 a year with the United States Army Signal Corps. Capt. W. C. Givley, District Officer in Charge, Civilian Training, Lexington Signal Depot, announced this week.

Men who meet necessary civilian service requirements as given above, and who can pass necessary physical examinations, may be sent to the Paris, Ky. Power Supply School, of which Charles E. Wilson is director.

Mr. Wilson stated the men work intensively on gasoline and Diesel engines, electric equipment and batteries, and study maintenance, trouble shooting, light repair, and panel control boards.

Those who complete the training at the Paris school are sent either to the Lexington Signal Depot at Avon for further work in its shops, or are assigned for duty wherever the flag of the United States flies.

Remember, Please

We will cooperate fully in all wartime restrictions; but in adapting ourselves to war-time, we will keep out funeral service equal to that available to families living anywhere in Pike and adjacent counties.

GASOLINATIONISTS!

According to a Washington report, over 600 men have lost their lives at sea—in an effort to deliver gasoline for pleasure driving in the Eastern States. This means that the gas shortage is no longer a question of burning gasoline. It is now a matter of burning conscience.

Some people and certain newspapers continue to grumble about their loss of gas. But our armed forces have yet to protest their loss of blood. There are excellent alternatives complaining today that they may have to walk. There are other Americans, casualties in battle, praying that some day they may be able to walk again.

The measure of their heroism is the measure of the gas slacker's cowardice. The slacker has his constitutional rights mixed up with his driver's license. He thinks that 10 million Americans are ready to stand behind a gas car so that he can sit behind a wheel. It never occurs to him that cheating an ambulance driver of his gasoline is as rotten as cheating the wounded out of their bandages.

To the Gasolinationists, America is a red map, and the gas slacker who doesn't need it, a full gas tank means an empty heart.

The Story Teller:
Heheheh; Mefotofsky's little boy, Max Jr., fell in with some toughies on the block who taught him the ways of the city. He came home parading all over the house, doing it, yelling, "Hi, Hitler!" Mefotofsky's shocked entreaties were of no avail, in desperation he called in Dr. Schroetric.

"Nu, doctor?" was Mefotofsky's question. "The you tink we'll have to kampfutate!"

Include Him Out! A favorite Goldwyn story isn't a one-line snapper, to hear a Librettist editor, who has a yarn that throws a spotlight on the famed producer.

Goldwyn's guest for Edward G. Cagador to discuss writing a picture. He was shown a script. He told Goldwyn he didn't think it would make a good picture. Of course, Goldwyn didn't hire him. The story was "Woman Chases Man" and was one of Goldwyn's few failures.

Several years later, Goldwyn needed a writer. The new story editor suggested Eddie Chodorov, Goldwyn laid the collar.

"Heavy, wouldn't you name to me," he wondered. "I won't have him around. He was connected with one of my worst flops!"

26 From County Enroll at U-K.

A total of 1,767 students were registered at the close of regular enrollment for the first term of the 1942 summer quarter at the University of Kentucky, an increase of 110 over the total enrollment for the first term last year. The figure for 1942 does not include those students who will register for the short courses during the last half of the first term of the summer quarter.

Included in the enrollment are representatives from 115 of Kentucky's 120 counties, 36 of the 48 states and 14 of the Canal Zone, China, Costa Rica, and Puerto Rico.

Among those registered from Floyd county are:

Victoria Murrill Spardlin, Dick Erwin Mayo, Henry Davidson Fitzpatrick, Jr., Hazel Irene Hill, Freda Aline Bunting, Ethel Mae Brock, Olen Kilmer Combs, Estie Mae Stephens, Ethel Carter Powers, all of Prestonsburg; Alta Marie Osborne, Etta Mae Osborne, of Ogborn; Thomas Spencer Combs, Huzriet M. Allen, Langley, Ollie Mae Johnson, Curtis Owens, Hollie Conley, Garrett; Thomas Edward Allen, James Robert Spencer, James Wilson, Emma, Mrs. Marshall Collins, Lackey; Eugene Stanley, Tram; Durward Eugene Salisbury, Hunter, and Billie Belcher, Drift.

Stumbo Quits Post To Enter Service

Beckham Stumbo resigned Tuesday as assistant to Jailer Guy Horn, preparatory to his induction into the armed service. It was announced Mr. Stumbo, formerly of McDowell, has been an assistant at the county jail since Jailer Horn's term of office began in January.

New York Heartbeat:
The Big Parade: Eve Curie, chic, clipped in hand, studying the Hudson from a Classroom, in a ragside table. . . Jeanne Cagney, Jimmy's old sister, a refreshing breeze. . . Lieut. J. Bryan, 3rd of the Curtis mags, and his bride done the midtown before shoving off to a naval indoctrination school. . . Dean Murphy, the mimic of FDR and other well-knowns treating the Loew's States to his art.

Memos of a Minister: Lord Mountbatten, while here, dwelled at the Lowell Hotel under the name of Major Phillips. . . Billy Conn's claims say he needs $100,000 to pay income taxes of $11,000. . . Add to the Fergoodnesses Dept': Brig. Gen'l Hale's punch line about Midway: "The Navy found the enemy—and the Army, Navy and Marines gave 'em hell!" was edited by some radio stations to "gave 'em the works!" The Hays Office changed the movie title: "The Magnificent Jerk" to "The Magnific-A Dope," and what happens? In the film, the word jerk is heard three times.

Fole Grounds Vignette: Johnny Long and Bob Chester relay it. . . Both stood, of course, when the National Anthem prefaced the game. . . Directly in front of them sat a bloke wearing his sombrero. . . Bob tapped him lightly on the shoulder and said: "Flow about your military?" "Oh, I forgot," was the reply, "I'm so sensitive about being bald. . . You're in good company." "Oh, Johnny," said the American Eagle!

How is the war going? On the neutral exchange in Switzerland the Nazi mark has taken a terrific dive—dropped 20 per cent in the last two wks. And to our winners about inflation: The U. S. has set up correspondingly in Zurich. . . Hanson Baldwin, naval expert, believes the war will last ten years. One important exec (not FDR) believes that by 1945 Germany will again be long to the Germans—and that Hitler will belong to the Hitler museum. H. L. Mencken's next book will be reminiscences of his mag days. . .

COURT OKEHS CHILD FUND

Court of Appeals Decision Asked On 1940 Act

Paris, Ky. June 27—Constitutionality of a 1940 act which authorized the state to provide funds for children in 30 cities will be held yesterday by Circuit Judge W. B. Ardrey.

Under terms of the act, the state was authorized to provide a maximum of $12 a month for the first child and $12 a month for each additional child of indigent parents.

The suit was filed on behalf of Mamie Day, 14, of Frankfort, and the case was argued here yesterday. M. B. Hollifield represented the Attorney General's office and Mrs. Ardrey, of Louisville, represented the plaintiff.

The Attorney General's office had challenged the validity of the act, which also provides for the payment of $12 a month to mothers of children considered dependent.

Welfare Commissioner W. A. Frost stated the decision would be carried to the Court of Appeals before the program is put into effect. If the act is sustained there, Frost said the program would be started "as soon as possible."

KENTUCKY SCHOOLS WILL SEEK TO CREATE INTEREST IN FLYING

Frankfort, Ky., June 26—Efforts to interest every school boy and girl in flying and to give high school students practical elementary knowledge of airplanes will be made during the coming school year in Kentucky.

Conferences with high school officials in 30 cities will be held beginning next Tuesday in Lexington and Murray. State Superintendent of Public Instruction John W. Brooker announced today.

Financed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration as part of a national program, Brooker named H. L. Davis, supervisor of secondary instruction in Lexington public schools, and Hickman Baldeer, Graves county school superintendent, to conduct the meetings with school officials in an effort to get them to start the program.

"The purpose," said Davis, conferring with Brooker here today, "is to 'air condition' young America, it's already 'air minded' but we 'air condition' we mean putting it in position to do something about flying besides thinking about it."

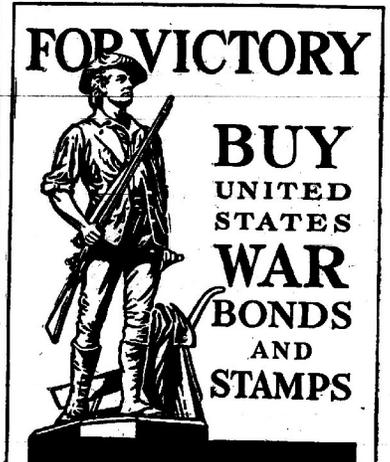

The strength of the German and Russian air forces, he continued, lies in the fact that for a good many years knowledge of flying has been given in their schools.

Superintendent Brooker said the proposed high school course would consist of meteorology, aerodynamics, navigation, civil air regulations and servicing of planes—a pre-flight course—carrying full scholastic credit.

In the elementary schools the pupil will be taught about flying. In addition the state institutions of higher learning are planning to offer courses for those desiring such subjects.

The conferences with school officials are to extend through July and August. The program is being mapped out today. Davis will hold the first meeting at Lexington and Baldeer the one at Murray.

NOW IT MUST BE TOLD!

I HAVE filed for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate.

Two weeks ago I had no idea of running. I was out of politics. I had a comfortable job. I was satisfied to let the other fellow have the office.

Now, I have gone back in politics. I have quit my job. As a loyal American, I can't be satisfied to see our Junior Senator returned to Washington.

Why?

The shocking answer to that question I shall give to the people of Kentucky in later advertisements and in radio speeches.

It is enough to say now that information came to me that made it seem unpatriotic and cowardly to let the nomination go virtually by default to the man who holds the office.

I believe Kentuckians, remembering Bataan, and the Coral Sea and all the theatres of war where Kentucky boys have distinguished themselves in the service of our country, will rise up when they hear the news I have to tell. I believe they will be outraged, one and all, remembering the old and tragic report, "too little and too late." I believe their blood will boil, as mine has boiled.

I HAVE filed for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate.

Two weeks ago I had no idea of running. I was out of politics. I had a comfortable job. I was satisfied to let the other fellow have the office.

Now, I have gone back in politics. I have quit my job. As a loyal American, I can't be satisfied to see our Junior Senator returned to Washington.

Why?

The shocking answer to that question I shall give to the people of Kentucky in later advertisements and in radio speeches.

It is enough to say now that information came to me that made it seem unpatriotic and cowardly to let the nomination go virtually by default to the man who holds the office.

I believe Kentuckians, remembering Bataan, and the Coral Sea and all the theatres of war where Kentucky boys have distinguished themselves in the service of our country, will rise up when they hear the news I have to tell. I believe they will be outraged, one and all, remembering the old and tragic report, "too little and too late." I believe their blood will boil, as mine has boiled.

Read your papers! Tune in on your radio! I have more to say.

CANADA—"AIRDROME OF DEMOCRACY"
DECLARES PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

This air gunner sights his twin machine guns from his "Boston" bomber. The plane has just taken off at great speed. It is not healthy to sit on the tail of these fast, well-armed medium bombers.

"There's the target." Two observers on board note before their squadron "Boston" bombers head for England.

Sgt. Lloyd Binolat, of Paris, Ont., leads the signal from his ground crew on the tail of a B-24 bomber in action.

With his maps tucked into his boot top, the air gunner of Ottawa, Canada, is ready for his order to "advance." This is the first of a series of photographs of the B-24 bombers in action.

The Royal Canadian Air Force is writing a story of daring and heroism in the war-torn skies of the world. Their part in the aerial battles of this planetary war has become a daily record of perseverance, portous missions and cool reconnaissance.

SAVE THE COFFEE CAN!

Advise the home economics department, College of Agriculture and Home Economics: Soon coffee will be packed in paper packages or, in some cases, in glass containers. The day of the tin or steel coffee can is about over for the duration of the war. Therefore, it may be well to keep on hand one or two good coffee cans and to store coffee bought in paper packages in the tin can. It will not in itself make all the difference between good and bad coffee, but it may be a factor. Keep coffee cans tightly covered, and in the lexbox. The oil in coffee starts getting rancid in less than nine days.

Dr. Gallup and Floyd County

DR. GEORGE W. GALLUP of Gallupsburg, Ky., has been named as the Digest repeats one of THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES' most ancient bromides which, in effect, is, "Government lies in the people and the power of public sentiment is invincible."

This is worth repeating particularly at this time, since the Kentucky Court of Appeals has ruled that the election of a Sheriff of this county this year is not legal.

Since there cannot be a candidate in an election forbidden by law, this newspaper cannot be accused of favoring or opposing any candidate for the office. Which leaves the election of a Sheriff of this county this year is not legal.

Those soldiers, sailors, marines and aviators we call "our boys" are, this very moment, running all the sacrificial gamut from that of merely being away from home and suffering homesickness to that of fighting on foreign soil and dying—they're away from home so that old men and women and children may remain at home in peace and freedom, so that they may return, some day, to a land where there is peace and freedom dwell.

Then don't you think you voters left behind should assert your rights as free men and women?

Don't you think it's time to tell "the boys" when they cruise out into your community in svelte cars to tell you how to vote and to make wondrous promises, that you've already "made up" your own minds about what you're going to do to that ballot, about who your officials will be?

You know, you folks out on the farms and back in the mines or out in the gas fields are the ones who hire your officials.

The trouble with you all is, you vote
this year, too often without thinking, spend the next four years cussin' them those elected by your votes, and ere next election time arrives, forget your solemn duty as voters.

The common, ordinary man and woman of Floyd county too long have listened to coy promises and smooth explanations. You too long have harkened to claims of kinship and the lure of official "accommodations."

Farmers, miners, workers, all others who must pay taxes and all those who have an iota of sense of justice left—why don't you, for God's sake and yours, get "hep" to the situation before next election-time rolls around?

Cincinnati once had the worst city government in America. Now, simply because the common, ordinary man and woman of Cincinnati willed it so, it has probably the best city government in the land. Prendergast and his gang were invincible, the "little man" was told, in Kansas City. You're wasting your time, trying to oust that gang—that was what the politicians and those whom the politicians had thoroughly cowed prated again and again, just as they do here in Floyd county.

But Prendergast & Co., are no longer in power.

In Harlan county, recently, whiskey was voted out—simply because the common, ordinary voter had his or her mind set on the county of what they they considered inimical to the common welfare.

All of which is to tell you voters—You're the bosses. You have the "say-so." You, next election, and in every other election, have "a charge to keep" with yourselves and your fellow-voters. You are living in one of the few free lands of this earth.

Long remember and don't forget too soon what you and your county want and need. Public sentiment remains the immovable object or the irresistible force on the political aspirant's road to power.

And No WPA to Help?

THE FARMER, the greatest exponent of the American spirit of independence may need help in the months to come.

He has seen his crops washed away, his summer's work wiped out, his stake in the immediate future reduced to the minimum.

Although the majority of farmers are too proud to ask for WPA aid, they certainly are due it. Others who must earn a livelihood by manual labor have in the past received ready assistance, when they asked it, from the WPA through unhesitating co-operation of the fiscal court. Now, it's the farmers' turn.

And so it would seem that the refusal of the county to sponsor the WPA comes at an inopportune time, at a time when many who never asked for help, may be obliged to call for it.

If farmers whose crops have been destroyed do ask assistance, this one time, the fiscal court and WPA can ill afford to deny them.

TEN MORE DAYS OF
GRACE FOR RUBBER

THE disappointing results of the scrap rubber drive to date offer little encouragement to people who have hoped that fabulous caches of rubber would provide not only sufficient to tide over the army until the next two years but would help keep civilian cars running besides.

Secretary Ickes may be partly right in his supposition that hoarding accounts in some degree for the disappointing showing. If he is, then hoarders in this instance are showing even less intelligence than the people usually. Hoarded rubber, subject to the relentless processes of deterioration, is useless to anybody but the reclaimers. And if hoarding on any really widespread scale is holding up supplies urgently needed for war purposes, the greedy citizen is likely to find himself in the unpleasant position of having his good tires com-mandered for military needs while the nearby junked ties he is treasuring in the basement continue to go progressively more useless.

The extra ten days of grace may make a big difference to the now depressingly small scrap pile.
Americans had better make an effort to see that they do. Otherwise the massive rationing first, and later wholesale requisitioning loom as unpleasantly inevitable steps in the rubber-belt-lightening days ahead. Civilians would like to have rubber and many seem to have persuaded themselves that life without it will work under hardships. But tanks, planes and army trucks have got to have rubber, and not to mitigate hardship but even to fight at all.

Rubber is now a weapon of war and somehow or other we are going to have to find enough to fight with.—The Courier-Journal.

It is soon going to be a ques-

There will be 150,000 gals in the

It is all going to be a terrific

We hear a big drop in charm. A

There will be no generals, majors, will be other less militant titles. The

PRUNES AND PRISMS

EVERY neighborhood, in other years, had a few model children whom many fond mothers held up as ideals for their own to follow. It of that time. Children, trying to be normal, though surrounded by influences that denied any rights to the child, had to face these models of excellence and try to be evil.

The English language as it is spoken is basically all right. (Remember that I am an English teacher, one who always has one class or least-in language. There were pleasant a good American pronunciation nesses that I dislike as much as any of you who read this. But some good teacher or parent took a fancy to some expression and forthwith followed by example or force to get it into the language of the child. Rebellion followed, accompanied by lectures, padding, and other forms of punishment. Far too many of these expressions stuck, though, and nearly everybody has them sticking out like a sore thumb. Few people know or know how to determine the relative standing of words that prunes-and-prisms experts bubble over; hence any such queer things driven into one's head are likely to stay there and to be transmitted to one's children.

One of the funny bits of teaching that many of us older ones suffered from had to do with pronouncing "dictionary." To some the British pronunciation seems all that a word should be; hence obstreperous children are forced to do violence to the good American pronunciation that is good for anybody. "Secretary" is another such word, seeming to convey to some of its users ideas of vast importance. The funniest feature of this sort of usage is that the people who insist on these things do not realize that there are hundreds of other words in British English that use the same lack of a secondary accent. Prunes, however, rarely are consistent. A few test things are sufficient to establish for them a usage that sounds starchy.

Worse by far than models of language were and are the children who are recognized as models of behavior. Some Mamma's darling was forever being praised for his good manners, manners that seemed then, as now, about as wooden as anything could be. Fear of paternal interference protected the brats, but I wish sometimes that I had known anything to slap the faces of some of the worst offenders. Plain genuine manners were regarded as crude; in an effort to cultivate manners that sounded more like those of the heroes and heroines of Mary Jane Holmes's novels parents went too far, soured their children on manners of any sort.
Boorishness in my experience is not a quality of children who have been educated in poor or average homes; it crops up in children who have been taught that they are superior because of better clothes and language.

The most hated girl I ever knew lived in a seedy little town, where social-climbing mothers wanted their children to reflect the superior homes in which they had grown up. This girl had a soft voice that made people want to swear, not because of its softness but because of its timbre. She dressed somewhat above the average in that section, even though it must have strained the purse of the widowed mother.
The teachers liked her, or pretended to, but the children, boys and girls alike, said ugly words under their breath every time they saw her and her exquisite articulation of her drawing-room manners, she grew up, married a boor, and is today just a commonplace middle-aged woman, like most of her ex-schoolmates.

MONEY TALKS

By FREDERICK W. STAMM
Economist and Director of Adult Education
University of Louisville

THE retail merchants of this country (especially the small retailers) are beginning to feel the effect of the federal price stabilization ruling.
The National Retail Grocers Association at its Chicago meeting called for a "mandatory national price policy," under which retail cellings would be accompanied by effective controls over all major items of costs.

Unless relief from consumer price controls is forthcoming, tens of thousands of retail grocers face bankruptcy within six months," the organization stated. The report also stated that grocers were contending with an estimated overall increase of 10 per cent in replacement costs over those on which the March ceilings were established; that the prospect of at least a 50 per cent increase in taxes over last year would be accompanied by an increase in wages and delivery costs and by a scarcity of merchandise. The report stated that the "cost of" 85 per cent of farm commodities and labor costs represent approximately 85 per cent of the total cost of food to the consumer and "are subject to no effective controls but on the contrary are everywhere advancing."

The plight of the retail grocers indicates the trouble that always arises when a government agency tries to regulate some prices but lets others run wild as possible. We expect a healthy condition in our economic system if it were to one class of people. "You can charge only so much for your products," but let other classes charge what they please! If we are to regulate prices, let us recognize the necessity of regulating all prices, including prices of farm products and the prices (wages) which labor charges for its services.

War economy often calls for strict regulations, but let it fall on all groups as evenly as possible so that no classes are unduly favored at the expense of any other class. To secure economic justice we must regulate all prices and all wages.

This, in effect, doubles the amount of sugar obtainable per stamp but also almost doubles the period each stamp covers.

Miners' Vacation

(Continued from page one) Miners receive $20 in lieu of the time off. Burke said the $900,000 in fines was to be paid the miners before August 1.

He said prior to the intervention by Lewis and the President, the discussions had bogged down because Lewis insisted "he did not care to enter into a modified vacation clause until we agreed to return the fines imposed last November after the capitol mine strike, his contention being that the fines were illegally assessed."

"I took the position that the fines were an extraneous matter so far as the shorter vacation clause was concerned and I believed, and the operators believed, that the fines were properly assessed and ought to be distributed to charity as a part of the wage agreement."

Burke said that on the behalf of the President, requested that the fine be returned, if that was the only thing the miners could be re-opened. Since the nation is at war, Burke said, "I took the request of the commander-in-chief as an order and I agreed to it."

Game Club To Meet At Maytown

PER CAPITA AT NEW HIGH

Floyd To Receive $210,998 Total; Rate is $12.88

The highest per capita distribution in the history of the state—$12.88—will accrue to Floyd county schools this year a total of $210,998. This fund is realized through the Floyd school census which totals 16,312 youngsters of school age.

State Superintendent John W. Brooker announced that Mrs. Emma Guy Cromwell, veteran state official, had been appointed as a consultant in the field of informal adult education for a limited time beginning July 1.

Other Brooker announcements: The Rural Life Conference will be held at Westport, Ky., Teachers' College, Bowling Green, instead of at Mammoth Cave, July 9 and 10. Appointment of State Representative Harry Leathers, of Ashland, and L. L. Hudson, Louisville, as assistant district supervisors of the vocational rehabilitation program, and of William Baltes, Maryland, as district supervisor of vocational rehabilitation.

Designation of Dr. J. W. Carr, Prestonsburg, as Murray State Teachers' College, as collector of information pertinent to youth guidance and character education for publication in the Department of Education's October bulletin.

The per capita grant was computed by dividing the 1942 General Assembly appropriation of $9,600,000 by 745,308, the number of pupils in the census as of May 1, 1942. The distribution will consume $9,681,928 of the legislature's appropriation.

Last year the per capita was $12.70, in 1941 was $12.32. The 1941 figures were included in the census. From 1926 to 1938, when an all-time high of 763.87 was reached, the school census showed a gradual annual increase.

Since 1940, the school census has fluctuated. The 1942 figure reveals a decrease of 18,381 compared to 1940's 763,379.

Brooker explained the decrease as attributable to a declining birth rate and the Education Department's recently adopted practice of including census figures strictly to eliminate duplication. The state's poorer school districts, which were unable to produce $30 for each pupil through levying maximum taxes, will be aided also by the equalization fund distribution announced by Brooker June 19.

Mrs. Cromwell, a native of Simpson county, was elected state librarian in 1936 and since has served as Secretary of State, State Treasurer, enrolling clerk in the House of Representatives and state park commissioner.

In her new position, she is expected to conduct conferences, without charge, on the U. S. Constitution and "other basic documents of our democracy." She will be available also for consultation in connection with public school libraries.

Brooker urged school officials to keep detailed accounts of membership and attendance records. He said his office has received "numerous requests for statements as to time and place of birth of individuals who are now in the service of the government." Also, state aid distribution is based on school census and average daily membership, he reminded.

Miles, a son of Matt Miles, of Weeburg, suffered a broken neck, a crushed pelvis and internal injuries.

READING and WRITING

JUNE 22 marked the first anniversary of Russia's heroic resistance to Nazi invasion. A good book to read for the occasion is "Only the Stars Are Neutral," by Quentin Reynolds, the noted war correspondent for Collier's magazine.

He was in London when news first came of the German invasion. Like all correspondents, he wanted to be where the excitement was greatest, and immediately applied for permission to go to Moscow. He finally got passage on an airplane, along with Averill Harriman and Lord Beaverbrook. They took a northern route flew 3,500 miles, the longest non-stop flight ever made over water by a United States army airplane.

Quentin Reynolds was one of the few foreigners there who, even when things were at their worst, was laying bets that the Germans would never reach Moscow.

Things he admired most about Russia: the bravery and resourcefulness of the people during air-raids; the efficiency of Russia's men in white; the armaments factories; and Leshchinsky, the ballet dancer whom the Russians idolize as we do our movie stars.

One thing that grieved him, however, was the strict censorship. He tells an amusing story about this. Lord Beaverbrook was holding nightly conferences with Stalin, and became increasingly impressed with the Russian leader's technical knowledge about British and American tanks and airplanes. One night Beaverbrook told Reynolds, "Stalin checked me up on something tonight. I was talking about the Hurricane tank. I was telling him how good it was. 'It has 1350 horsepower,' I said. 'I think Stalin smiled and said, 'Oh, no, it has 1250 horsepower.'"

Beaverbrook, always relishing a joke, even one on himself, laughed at the recollection of how he, a former Minister of Aircraft Production, could have made such a slip.

But the Russian censorship didn't laugh when Quentin Reynolds tried to pass the story on the news. "I would be disappointed to Lord Beaverbrook to get the item go," they told him.

Another exciting book about Russia is "Russia Don't Surrender," by a 34-year-old Red Army newspaperman, Alexander Polakoff. Mr. Polakoff traveled with a Russian unit which for a number of weeks was trapped behind the German lines, and the book tells of his experiences. One of his comrades' favorite ways of harassing the Nazis was to send out a man dressed as a German, to misdirect German supply troops. They did this successfully time after time. One night, by firing a few well directed shots, they managed to get two German divisions shooting at each other. They kept it up for nearly the whole night.

A number of readers will remember Stephen Vincent Benet's Civil War poem, "John Brown's Body." Also, this same author's grand short stories like "The Devil and Daniel Webster," which was made into a movie under the title, "All That Money Can Buy." Now, the Book-of-the-Month Club announces that its next book-selected will be a two-volume edition of Benet's selected stories and poems. And by now perhaps you've heard the first of the new series of broadcasts written by Mr. Benet for the Council for Democracy and the National Broadcasting Company. It's called "Dear Adolph" and it consists of dramatized letters from Americans to the Nazi dictator.

Robert Van Gelder, literary interviewer for the New York Times, tells this story about Martha Foley, who with her husband, Whit Burnett, edits Story Magazine. The Foley and Burnett home atmosphere is a literary one, so much so that their three-year-old son hears little except talk and writing. One day the son was making talk with the janitor. "And how is your novel coming along?" he asked politely. The janitor explained then that it was his job to throw novels out—not to write them.

"We're buying at least 10%," reads the sticker, printed in the national colors and has on it all the new window stickers and the new window stickers and the new window stickers. Investing at least ten percent of his income in War Bonds every day, are yardsticks of patriotism in the War Bond Drive.

HARKINS RECOMMENDS PROBE THE GARDEN OF HARLAN DEED-SWAPPING

By JOHN S. GARDNER
Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics

Harlan, Ky., June 19—A grand jury investigation into the swapping of deeds to tracts of Harlan county he had never come in contact with was recommended by Special Judge Joseph D. Harkins, Prestonburg.

Judge Harkins declared that during his 36 years of practicing law he had never come in contact with such concerns as he found in this case where there was admitted fraud, alteration of deeds and perjury by witnesses for both sides.

According to the testimony in the case which aroused Judge Harkins' attention, A. L. Turner, Edward, deceased, and the court ordered the property sold to satisfy Henry Turner's judgment. Mrs. Cora Turner, between 1931 and 1936.

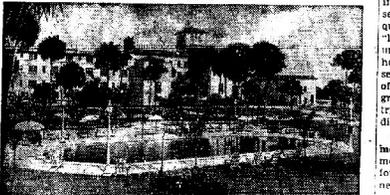

Shortly afterwards two new deeds appeared, one giving title to Mrs. Turner and another giving title to A. J. Turner. The suits before Judge Harkins were over validity of the two new deeds.

Judge Harkins ruled in favor of Mrs. Turner, but recommended the grand jury action.

HOME SAVING OF VEGETABLE SEED

Spinach seed this year was expensive and uncertain, some seedsmen guaranteeing 50 per cent of germination. This low germination arises from the fact that seed ripens during the hot period, but production is during the cool period, thus getting sometimes only a low percentage of seed ripe enough to be of value. Home gardeners, however, may harvest spinach seed piecemeal, as it ripens, and they may thus save seed more dependably than they can buy. It is not so difficult as it appears to be. All they need to do is let the "bolting" plants stand where they are, and strip off the seed heads beginning in the bottom ones, rub them in the hands and blow out the chaff.

Sometimes plants from the fall sowing survive the winter, and make seed next spring. Although this is by far the better seed, one cannot depend on this source.

Broccoli and Cauliflower go readily to seed, but as it comes from spring plantings) at a time when the weather is hot and the air dry, little seed of value is produced.

Cabbage seed can be produced from the fall crop, the heads stored with roots still attached, and used in the spring. To assist the seedlings emerging, the heads should be cut cross-wise to the tip of the "core." Free blooming flowers, and if the weather does not become unpleasantly hot and dry, rarely quite a reasonable percentage of "live" seed results. Because of the uncertainty of Kentucky's season, however, the production of cabbage seed and that of the other members of that family should be left to growers in the Puget Sound country and in Long Island, where conditions are more kindly.

Cucumber, cantaloupe and watermelon seed may be saved by removal as they are being got ready for the table by pulling up the vines similar to that of saving tomato seed. Although they "milk" quite freely among varieties (but not with one another) this does not matter, as generally only one variety of each is grown at the same time.

The case is quite different with lettuce as there may be several varieties in bloom at the same time and pollination must depend entirely upon the bees. Thus the "golden" sorts cross with the "sandy" ones or on cucumbers. Cucumber crop on field pumpkins close by and change from "all neck" to "squat," and this is true of watermelon and thin-necked. Also, Top Top muskmelons cross on pumpkins to result in "sick" and "candle" fruits; so do the business muskmelons. It is better to get each year new seed, produced in isolated fields, than to try saving one's own seed of late muskmelons and squashes.

Save Every Bit of Rubber, Women Told

Re-emphasizing the need to save for the county salvage committee every bit of scrap rubber not urgently needed, Miss Myrtle Widdowson, state leader of county home demonstration work in Kentucky, calls attention to the following figures released by national officials.

On the B-19 planes, the flying fortresses, the built-proof cast tanks require 1200 pounds of rubber.

Each tire on the main landing wheel of the B-19 bomber weighs half a ton.

In a battleship, there are 150,000 pounds of rubber as much as in 10,000 auto tires.

This merely shows how much the government needs rubber for war. Much recycled rubber can be used for vital national needs, so that "fresh" rubber can be solely for war. Discarded overalls, or boots, tings for coats, stumps, etc., may be contributed.

Employer Contribution To Employment Fund Remains Unchanged

Frankfort, Ky., June 29 (Sp.)—The provision in the amended Kentucky Unemployment Compensation Law providing for the discontinuance of employer contribution after June 30 does not apply to the employer contribution, Executive Director V. E. Barnes, of the Kentucky Unemployment Compensation Commission, declared today.

"Many employers have received the impression that, both employer and employee will stop contributing to the unemployment insurance fund after June 30," Barnes said, but explained that employers will continue to pay at the rate established for them by the Commission at the beginning of the year.

"It is probable that this misunderstanding arose from the fact that the amended law enabled the Commission to grant a number of employers a reduction in the rate from 3.7 per cent to 2.7 per cent by establishing 2.7 per cent as the highest rate to be required by any employer."

PRIVATE PURREY ON THE USO DRIVE
Prescott S. Bush, National Chairman, USO Drive.

Dear Mr. Bush—Like every other service man I want to do my mite to boost the USO which is now making a big drive for more dough to make life for us more comfortable. I hope the general public knew what the USO had done for the U.S.A. it would be surprised. I got a idea for the whole story in a nutshell and here it is.

GIVE TO THE U.S.O.
S O S
And the U. S. A.
Will win the war
P. D. Q.
O. K.

We used to sing about keeping the home fires burning. The USO is moving the fires right into the camps and furnishing coal and wood. It has brought all the comforts of home right to the army and navy. Why, Mr. Bush, a jeep now lives better than a general used to and some times I guess when the war is over and I get back home I will be squawking how I miss all the comforts of army life. If you keep on doing so much for us you will have to start a drive after the war to do things that we have as many comforts at home as we used to have.

Good luck to the USO which rates AAA with U and with I for what it does for the U.S.A.

Heinrich Himmler, Gestapo chief, delivered such a glowing tribute to the splendid, brave, humane qualities of the late Herr Heydrich that even Heydrich, if he could have heard, would have set up and mandated, "When do you start talking about me?"

"The whole town of Lidice was leveled to the ground and the name of the community extinguished forever."—Nazi statement.

Full Accounting

Admiral Nimitz pronounced Midway a partial accounting for what happened at Pearl Harbor. But Pearl Harbor was more than an attack on the American navy. It was also an attack on the American home.

The navy can settle in full as an ocean force, but the American people must settle in full as a fighting nation. The Pearl Harbor account will set active in a public park. And when a worker in Europe has the dignity of a human being, instead of the standing of a driven slave.

It is America's duty to demand full payment. The question is, in what form? It is not how much the enemy is made to answer for his past. The liberties won on the freezing slopes at Valley Forge were never lost in a dirty beer cellar in Munich.

While France is bound, while Norway is in prison, and while Belgium is in chains, America will never be fully free. Our movement to Pearl Harbor must be a milestone in world history. That can only begin to happen when all men realize that the peace cannot be kept while criminal leaders remain in power to start a war.

New York Newsreel:

The USO distributes theater and cinema tickets to the men in the local camps and naval bases. It is done in alphabetical order to avoid favoritism.

The other day at the old Paramount Studios in Long Island City (now an army depot) the letter "E" was reached, and two movie ducks were released to Carl Laemmle Jr. ... Young Laemmle was merely the owner of United Artists, as his sale made him a millionaire.

PIKE FLIER, REPORTED MISSING, PAYS PARENTS SURPRISE CALL

(Pike County News)

Lieut. Foster G. Daniels, 31, bombardier in Uncle Sam's air force, was reported missing in action last week, but showed up at his home at Millard Sunday afternoon to the happy surprise of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David C. Daniels.

Daniels had wired from San Francisco on Friday, telling his parents he had been rescued, and would be home for a week's sick leave. The wire was delayed and, as a consequence, he beat the message home. His mother fainted when she saw him.

The youngster, who enlisted last October and received his commission only last April, gave this account of his adventure:

As a crew member of a Boeing Flying Fortress based in Hawaii, he was on patrol duty June 14, after being out eight hours the crew sighted two strange ships and reported the location by radio to the base. Then as the big airplane headed back toward its base, something went wrong with the compass and the radio operator and tail gunner after another the motors died for want of gasoline. The pilot made a crash landing in a heavy sea.

The radio operator and tail gunner drowned. The other seven climbed out, got one of the two life rafts afloat and caught food.

After a few hours the raft began to leak and the four who had been on it climbed over the side with the other three.

The crew had ten flares. They shot nine of them. They knew that unless the last was sighted they were goners.

It was, and 28 hours after they crashed they were seen by a navy patrol plane. A few hours later they were back on an Hawaiian island. They found they had gone down 190 miles from Honolulu and had been picked up 245 miles from the city.

Meanwhile, the army had reported the bomber crew missing. After the rescue, the members were given leave and permission to go home with instructions to wire their parents they were safe.

Young Daniels arrived by plane in San Francisco last Friday and sent a telegram to his parents. The telegram arrived in Pikeville promptly, but it had to be mailed to Millard, causing the delay.

He was to have been guest of honor at a banquet sponsored by the local Legion Auxiliary Tuesday night, but was ill, and couldn't make it.

Incidentally, he doesn't know for sure what happened to the two ships whose location the crew reported.

Sheriff Election Forbidden

The appellate court's position was founded on the Constitutional section providing that the special election may be held only at a regular election that is coextensive with or inclusive of the territory covered by the special election.

The Court of Appeals pointed out in its opinion, however, that Floyd county's election of two board of education members in only two of the county's educational divisions does not comprise a special election, even if the board members are considered state officers.

The original petition filed here contended that election of only two board members will give "less than half" of the county's voters exercise of their suffrage. Election of a Congressman and Senator does not, under the Constitution, render a special county election valid.

Frank P. Hoy of Harrogate, and Willard Max of Langley, were the only Democratic candidates for the Sheriff's nomination who had filed with the County Clerk here. Kennedy Moore of Eastern, and D. P. (Perk) Dings of Martin, had been mentioned as Republican candidates. Although they had not officially filed as candidates, Troy B. Sturgill,

M. T. Stumbo, T. Y. Martin, Bill Hill and Jim Hill were considered opponents to the Democratic nomination.

Belief that special elections for Commonwealth's Attorneys in three judicial districts are barred by the Court of Appeals ruling in the Floyd county case was expressed by Assistant Attorney General Guy H. Herdman.

The districts affected are the Twenty-Fourth, Twenty-Fifth and Twenty-Ninth, where the Democratic appointees now fill vacancies. Herdman said, according to Herdman, until after the 1943 general state elections.

The districts affected are the Twenty-Fourth, Twenty-Fifth and Twenty-Ninth, where the Democratic appointees now fill vacancies. Herdman said, according to Herdman, until after the 1943 general state elections.

The latter will be held in the first, second, fourth and fifth appellate districts. Election Clerk H. T. Herdman in Hatcher's office said a check of the Twenty-Fourth, Twenty-Fifth and Twenty-Ninth judicial districts showed they are not in the appellate districts where regular voting will be held this year.

Counties composing the three judicial districts and the candidates entered for the primaries are: Twenty-Fourth—Johnson and Martin; W. F. Stafford and J. B. Cooper, Democratic; J. L. Harrington and J. B. Clark, Republicans.

Twenty-Fifth—Clark, Jessamine, Madison and Smith; John Woland, Democrat; no opposition.

Twenty-Ninth—Adair, Casey, Cumberland, Monroe and Russell; James C. Carter, Jr., and M. R. Farber, Republicans; no Democrats.

Monroe county is a part of the second appellate district, but no candidates in the twenty-ninth district.

THE HOME FRONT

HERE IS A RESERVE OF IMPORTANT HAPPENINGS

Service ceilings put on. OPA extends rent control. Home canners get sugar. War protests weaker sentimentally.

Transportation causes night-awakes. Tube collection continued. No coffee fairs. Fewer paints, smells, colors ordered.

OPA "freezes" anti-freeze prices. The price ceiling covers all of Main Street now. It stands above the cash register in the shoeing shop as well as at the butcher's and the grocer's.

On July 1, the General Maximum Price Regulation, which on May 18 was applied to commodities, was extended to services performed in connection with commodities.

The extension of the roof which shelters the consumer from the high cost of living is a sizable one. The number of establishments of one kind or another, which are affected by the service ceiling has been estimated at pretty close to 1,000,000.

Meanwhile, OPA is finishing the new ceiling. June 1, rent control was inaugurated in 12 defense areas. Additional areas were controlled July 1. Up to now, rent control has applied only to houses, apartments, tenements, furnished and unfurnished—places of permanent residence. Rent control for such places of abode as hotels, rooming houses, boarding houses, dormitories, auto camps, trailers, residence clubs, tourist homes or cabins and other establishments of the nature—generally for more or less transient occupancy. All these varieties of "inkeepers" must be registered by Aug. 15. Defense rental areas now number 367 and house 88,000 people.

With canning season opening, the housewife's problem is how to get her canning sugar under the sugar rationing regulation.

Here's how: First, the local War Price and Rationing Board is the place to go to get the canning sugar allowance. Time is saved, however, if, before applying to the Board, the housewife is prepared to supply the following information:

- 1. Names of all members of the family having ration books. 2. Number of quarts of fruit canned last year. 3. Number of quarts of fruit on hand. 4. Number of quarts she plans to can this season. 5. Whether sugar is to be used for preserves, jellies, jams or fruit butters. 6. Excess sugar she had on hand (that total amount more than two pounds per person) at the time she registered for her books, and any subsequent reductions.

Unemployment of skilled and semi-skilled workers, caused by the shutting down of non-essential civilian industries is one of the nation's knottiest problems. New York City, filled with many small plants which cannot be easily converted to war work, is a prime example. There, nearly 200,000 men, many highly skilled, are jobless, while war plants elsewhere need this type of workers.

New York's men are idle while the plants are converting. Last week New York's Mayor La Guardia and Governor Lehman, met with WPB Chairman Donald H. Nelson and Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission to discuss the problem.

Articles of incorporation of the Sherrone Mining Corporation, of Drift, were filed with Secretary of State George Glenn Hatcher this week. Listed as stockholders are Jake C. Carter, James C. Carter, both of Drift, and W. L. Reed, of Drift. The company's capitalization is $10,000.

Drygoods Stores Here To Close, July 4 A spokesman for the dry goods stores in Prestonburg announced today (Thursday) that they will be closed on Saturday in respect of the Fourth of July. However, in order to accommodate the week-end trade, some of the stores will remain open until 8:30 p. m. Friday. There will be no celebration of the holiday here.

DIES OF PNEUMONIA Roger Lee Ratliff, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ratliff, of Weaubleton, died Friday at the Beaver Valley hospital of pneumonia. Funeral rites were conducted at Weaubleton Saturday, with burial being made under the direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

When anti-freeze scarcity warnings were sounded last spring, some dealers and suppliers speculated. OPA now fixes a price ceiling on the product to prevent profiteering next fall. Maximum price for permanent anti-freeze will be $2.65 a gallon; for the non-permanent, $1.10 to $1.40 per gallon, according to the type.

Government agencies in Washington are suffering a shortage of stenographic and typing help. OPA last week sent out a message to all 14 employees in the country offering Washington employment as an opportunity to make a fine contribution to the war effort while seeking a successful career.

Some New York department stores tried to get around OPA's order preventing sale of typewriters, which became effective March 6, by which the customer "rents" the machine for a rental period equal to the full price, and gets title when the sale ban is lifted. OPA rules that such a transaction constitutes a sale.
