WE WELCOME YOU R. M. HALL'S BARBER SHOP R. M. HALL, Manager Opposite Bank Josephine PRESTONSBURG, KY.

THE TRIAL OF ADOLF HITLER Bullitt—Mr. Schickelgruber to the bar! Hitler—You can't do this to me! A Voice—Wanna bet?

Q—What is your occupation? A—I was a paper hanger until I gave it up. Q—Why did you give it up? A—My wall paper selections drove the customers crazy. Q—Why didn't you let them make their own selections? A—I wanted to be boss of everything, even then.

Q—You also did some oil painting, did you not? A—Yes, but that's not among the crimes I'm being tried for. Q—It should be. You also were an architect, was you not? A—Yes, sir. Q—Did you have any clients? A—No, after they saw my blueprints.

Q—When you decide to give up a profession, do you make a living and find a new order? A—No, when I looked into a full-length mirror. Q—What happened to influence you? A—I saw a reflection of Napoleon.

Q—Only one? A—Sometimes I wonder. Q—To what do you attribute your rapid rise to complete domination of the German people? Was it something they did to you? A—No. It was something THEY ate.

Q—Where were you on the night of August 31, 1939? A—Ach, if I could only forget it! Q—Why did you invade Poland? A—It was not an invasion; it was conquest with pursuit.

Q—Do you still think anybody here will believe the story you tell? A—No, but it's my only chance. Q—You also attacked Belgium, Holland, Norway, and other small nations in violation of treaties. You are charged with the bombing of defenseless towns, wanton destruction of houses, schools and great historic sites, machine-gunning refugees, the murder of hospital inmates and general barbarism. What is your plea? A—I deny everything.

Q—On what basis? A—On the grounds a cooked goose can't depend on its memory.

Q—You signed a pact of friendship with Russia and then stabbed her in the back without warning. What about this? A—When I sign a pact of friendship it should be warning enough.

Q—Won't you please cease being arrogant, insolent, boastful and altogether offensive? A—I'm not being arrogant, insolent, etc.; it's just the radio manner. Judge—That reminds me: I think the prisoner's radio speeches should be added to his crimes.

Q—Do you remember that speech where you said you would never take off your uniform until you had licked the world? Whatever became of that uniform? A—After four years without being removed it became so infested with cooties that I became the world's outstanding subject for de-lousing by unanimous consent.

Judge—I think we have heard enough. The jury will retire for ten top seconds and reach a verdict. Hitler—No jury ever reached a verdict in my court.

Judge—This one will. STRAIGHT MAN A judge is like a Mole's tunnel—He never sticks in "ifs" and "buts."

Well, those bandits convicted and on their way to serve prison terms, were all shown in the newspaper photographs, grinning if not leering at the rest of us as if it were all a very funny matter with quite a light and airy side. Which renews Elmer Twichell's campaign to Cease Gladly the Infamous Grinning. If there is anything that offends most Americans it is these snapshots of all sorts of law breakers, leering while on the court office and standing about smiling sweetly, though the laugh it escapes us.

TURNING back the pages of many, many calendars, your correspondent still recalls the thrill that came when the first breath of early fall came, and the dog days were over. That first football season began practicing around September 15, and the season of football was on an abrupt finish on Thanksgiving day.

It's all different now. Football is already at full swing. Grand Ole Dixie in many colleges is developing a splendid football team, but to have hundreds tramped in the matter of condition and discipline that football demands. Certainly an unnecessary doing of their job. I also could mention Maryland and many others.

The Change These teams want and will work for winners. But beyond that more attention will be paid to mass that to class.

Students who never thought of football before now will be shown the feeling of hard body contact, increased speed, of improved stunts, of quicker reactions in competition. In the universities, the colleges and the prep schools there will be at least five, or possibly ten, football players in training against one for every Saturday.

"Why," someone has asked, "shouldn't these men be in active war service?" The main answer is that the war department wants it this way. First because most of these men also are taking war training. Second, because the war department wants its coming reinforcements and reserves to be the best soldiers in the world, trained and conditioned for what is to come later on.

Every university and college of any standing in the country is doing its best to comply with the demands or requests that come from the top. Football is already under full swing at the Naval Cadet camps located at the universities of Georgia, North Carolina, Iowa and St. Mary's.

"War," as the late General Sherman said, "is hell." But football in Georgia and North Carolina is hell, too. No one yet knows just how tough some coaches as Bernie Bierman and Jim Crowley will be able to get winning teams with squads that come and go.

The odds are all against them. But football is a big part of their training, and this happens to be the main idea. These four Naval Jim Crowley Cadet camps have over 40 games scheduled with the stronger university teams, facing one of the toughest schedules of the year.

Other Games In the meanwhile the pros and the army squads are both on the way to camp. In many camps, for the eight games scheduled this month and through early September.

This army division under Bob Neyland and Walter Wade will set at least one football record. They will finish up their schedule by September 20, just about the spot when most of the others are swinging into action.

Coaches Neyland and Wade have the "rush act" to handle. They have the material—many of the great football players of recent years—but the job of whipping these men into a football machine in a short while so simple job.

You can gamble that the Washington Redskins, the New York Giants, the Green Bay Packers, the Brooklyn Dodgers and others will be something to shroud around, despite the fact they have lost close to a hundred of their players to the service. Messrs. Steve Owen, Curly Lambeau, George Halas and others still have enough good material left to set a new record.

They also are out to win. And these games will be a big part for Army Relief. They are a big part of the bigger game. And they will be something to see.

Stout Combination The Big Nine, plus Notre Dame, may easily be football's strongest force for new campaign. And this isn't overlooking Iowa, which would be a serious mistake.

There are those on hand to match the Norse, especially at Minnesota, where Norse forwards usually have the call. Nothing seems likely will be led by Dick Widener, one of the greatest forwards in 1941—a sure buyback to the season that will see the fans and the fans are looking forward to.

Hatcher's Address Lands Former P'burg Woman

(Address delivered Oct. 27 at Lexington, Ky., by Secretary of State George Glenn Hatcher upon the installation of Mrs. Josephine Harkins Browning as Worthy Grand Matron, Grand Chapter of the Eastern Star, Grand Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star of Kentucky, as well as to say a few words in tribute to L. E. Martin Roberts, Associate Grand Patron, who said some things on this occasion from my heart; and I trust that such will not be burdensome. Please have faith, hope and charity, my way. Let me explain by way of example:

Once when a speaker was introduced, the audience indicated that the listeners had faith that they would hear something worthwhile—about midway of the speech, the hand claps died and the audience still had hope and, finally, after enduring a long dissonance of words and the end eventually came, the applause given was for charity."

I trust that your faith, hope and charity will in my behalf this evening long enough for me to say these earnest words. Sincerely speaking, if I were maintaining official records, I would now to all Kentuckians, I would admonish them to observe the example of punctuality and organizational efficiency worthy of attention at their best in the Order of the Eastern Star of Kentucky.

The Grand Chapter's 46th annual session is this week, the number of activities in its "patriotic session" of 1942 for fraternalism in Kentucky. Its growth, progress, beauty and substantial prosperity and influence are the work of many hearts and hands. Many and diverse are the influences which have helped to place it in this, its commanding position.

As we reflect on the greatness of your organization, we become aware at once of the great sense of obligations which every person in Kentucky, and especially you, who are present here tonight, owe to the keen-visioned, Christian, patriotic founders of your present and past officers of your order.

My past several years, Mrs. Josephine Harkins Browning, your organization has been one of growing interest fraternally; and her career has been rising and ever expanding in your midst. She, this lady of character, noted for her beauty, culture and a personality which grips the hearts of all who know her, has responded to the call of leadership. She has succeeded by working her way from the bottom to the top. Mrs. Josephine, as all of us here on the high esteem in which you are held, not only among the folks of the Big Sandy country of Eastern Kentucky, but by your legion of friends throughout the Commonwealth; and which is held for you, especially by your sisters and brothers in this great Order of the Eastern Star. You are a distinguished Kentuckian, a daughter of the South. You are dearly beloved by your friends and members of your native hills and mountains.

Without flattery or undue bragado, I feel I am compelled to go into detail for a few moments to recall to you all how this shining star in your Order has reached her present standing and position. First, she is clothed in the simplicity and imperial simplicity. This peerless lady and citizen is devoting her life daily to the sacred altars of her home, church and community, and the cherished institutions of free men and women.

I am told that the records of Adah Chapter No. 24, Order of the Eastern Star, of Prestonsburg, Ky., show that, early in life, Josephine Anna Harkins was recommended, investigated, and was elected for membership; and was initiated as a member of that chapter. From her very day of her membership, she became active in your Order. She immediately became Acting Associate Matron. She was then elected Worthy Matron of her home chapter "at Prestonsburg," where she still maintains active membership and interest. She was elected to the office of Grand Organist of the Grand Chapter and was re-appointed to the same office for another year.

The records clearly show that her active interest privileged her to hold most every office, large and small, with excellent efficiency in her local lodge of the Order. Four years ago, she was appointed Grand Adah of the Grand Chapter; and was elected Associate Grand Organist of the Grand Chapter. Her services were so well performed to merit her election as Grand Conduress in your last year. Nothing seems to stop her rise among you. You honored her again last year by elevating her still higher in her present position. It is my hope that her elevation to the office of Worthy Grand Matron, which will be a

WHAT HAPPENS IN COUNTIES THAT PROHIBIT

PROHIBITION laws are designed to prevent the sale of alcoholic beverages. Such laws do prohibit legal sales in licensed places—but they do NOT and never have prevented illegal sales by bootleggers. The history of Prohibition—federal, state and local—is one of complete failure. Here is a concrete example: consider the experience of Clark County, right here in Kentucky. In 1938, Clark County voted dry. In June, 1941, it held another election, and this time voted for legal control.

According to records of the Clark County Court and the Winchester Police Court, during the last 11 months that Clark County was "dry", 28 persons were convicted of drunken driving and 11 were convicted of bootlegging. During the first 11 months since Clark County has restored legal control, drunken driving convictions were cut 60%, and only one was convicted of bootlegging.

This is the record where prohibition has been tried and rejected. Doesn't that record speak for itself?

ONE of the most mysterious and colorful figures in this modern conglomeration of golfing talent is Joe Kirkwood. Joe is almost complete proof as to the vital part the emotional or psychological side can play in the ancient Scottish game.

How It Works

Years ago I followed Kirkwood in at Pinehurst. He wasn't scoring any too well. He was having more than his share of trouble.

"What seems to be the matter?" I asked.

"I've developed a fade I can't stop," he said.

"Why don't you call for a hook, or even for a straight ball, as you do in your exhibitions?" I asked.

"I tried that," he said, "I'd be all over the course. This tournament-scoring game has nothing to do with exhibition play."

"Golf would be an easy game for anyone to play," Joe continued, "except for one thing."

"What's that?" I asked.

"Tension," he said. "That's the killer—the poison."

"If it weren't for tension almost anyone could play golf well. But tension grabs them all by the throat—the nerves. Take the case of a duffer. Watch his practice swing. Watch him swinging at a dandelion or a cigar butt. You'll see an 80 swing. Then watch the difference when he has to hit a golf ball. He immediately tightens up. He plants his feet in the turf. He takes an iron grip with both hands. His legs and body promptly stiffen up. He has wrecked his swing before he even moves the clubhead."

"True of the Pro"

"After a fashion, this is also true of most pros. Most of the pros can hit the ball long and straight, can play almost every club well, in practice they can give you a 60 or a 50. But when the big tournament starts, especially a championship, it is too often another story.

"I can tell this in the more hurried pace of their backswings and downswings. You can tell it in their restricted, somewhat restricted, body turns. The temptation in a big tournament is to steer the ball—to keep it away from trouble."

"Only a few can keep their true form or their true swing working smoothly, as they do in a practice round."

"Leo Diegel told me once," I said to Joe, "that the longer you are in golf was from the practice tee to the first hole of tournament play."

"Leo was 100 per cent right," Kirkwood said. "It's about ten miles—or ten strokes."

"For those who know how to swing a club, golf is about 75 per cent tension, nerves and concentration. It is harder on the nervous system than any other game, since it carries less physical action or motion. The more motion you have, the less tension there is."

"Football players are always extremely nervous and packed with tension before the kickoff. But most of this is removed in the first clash of bodies—after the first impact. You don't get that in golf."

"In golf tension begins to get worse—especially around the greens when you find you've lost your putting touch. I've never seen a golfer who was good enough to win a big tournament when he was 'putting touch.' And when you get what Tommy Armour calls 'the yips,' you are just about through."

"The only cure I know," Kirkwood said, "is to cut off your head."

Foot Action Henry Picard, a master stylist, is among those who believe that good foot action is the most difficult of the golfing arts.

"Only a few start know how to use their feet properly," Picard says, referring to weight shift through the swing.

"Chas. Evans had no superior in this respect. You had only to watch the work of his feet to get a big part of the answer concerning especially his iron play."

THE HOME FRONT

THESE THINGS AFFECTED YOUR HOUSEHOLD

- Coffee Troubles, Critical Metals, Staleness of Steel, Typewriters, Planes, Tighten on Hoarsers, Necessary Workers, Farm Incomes, Tire Inspectors, Nylon News, Government Book, "Scare" Ads, Rubber Saving.

As the military and economic forces of the United Nations begin to equal and in some respects to surpass those of the Axis, the war for freedom becomes more than ever a problem of supply, a fight to speed the war goods we produce into the hands of our army and air fleets and land armies. We and our allies are beginning to master the many difficult problems connected with supply lines of immense length by adjusting our present shipping facilities to the demands of distant fighting fronts, and by steadily increasing the number of new cargo ships. But to deliver the maximum amount of war materials and fighting men to battle fronts, within the minimum of time, means that every inch of cargo space must be examined for its greatest war usefulness.

Our good neighbors to the South are invaluable sources of raw materials. Tin comes from Bolivia, rubber from Brazil, copper from Chile, rope fibers and a host of other needed products from various parts of Latin America. Because of Axis submarine activity and the needs of other fronts, we now have far fewer vessels for the Latin-American trade than we had a year ago. Therefore, although it is centers and South American republics supply the bulk of our coffee and have large surpluses on hand, we must limit the transportation of coffee in favor of those other products vital to the war. Of course, we must see to it that we have an ample supply of coffee for our men in the armed services. But we civilians can make out on a ration of a pound of coffee every five weeks, and that's just what we'll get after Nov. 28—we've got to have to do. This ration will be farther and taste better if we observe a few simple rules for coffee drinking. Keep it in a tightly covered container in some cool place; use accurate measurements; don't boil, but bring just to the boiling point and serve immediately.

Critical metals not only are restricted for any but the most essential uses, but existing stocks are being gathered in wherever they may be found. No more copper can be used in building construction and in the production of building installation in the hands of dealers and others is held for purchase by the government.

Use of stainless steel in more than 75 products, from coffee pots to farm machinery, has been prohibited, and light or excess stocks of stainless steel will be redistributed for war use. All stocks of cadmium, used in electroplating, are reserved for war purposes, and platinum, which has a variety of war uses—such as the making of nitric acid and radio tubes—no longer may be used in jewelry manufacture.

To save rubber and metals, the manufacture of typewriters ceased at the end of October. But the government needs 600,000 typewriters, chiefly for the use of the army and navy. The government wants to buy standard size machines made since Jan. 1, 1935. Patriotic citizens who wish to dispose of their machines may sell them through authorized local typewriter dealers.

Production and distribution of razors and razor blades have been placed under tighter restrictions. Safety razors will be made only for the armed services; razor blades, but will be divided between the armed forces, needs of our lend-lease Allies, and civilians. And production of straight razors will cease altogether on Jan. 1. The industry already is turning out commando knives.

Local Selective Service Boards are being requested to grant occupational deferment to "necessary" men and war industries have been instructed to stop recruiting such workers for industrial labor.

Net farm income for 1942 is estimated at nearly $8,800,000,000, about one million dollars above the previous high record of 1941, while agricultural production is up 12 per cent over that of 1941.

The OPA has called upon local War Price and Rationing Boards to appoint all competent tire men in their communities as inspectors under the mileage rationing program.

It is illegal to sell or to offer to sell women's hosiery made from "rayon" nylon, rayon "blend" or rayon "combination" yarn until the OPA has established specific prices.

Motorists who seek more mileage than the basic ration will have to furnish specific, detailed information about their driving requirements on a form which they can obtain when they apply for their "A" books.

Strong endorsement of the campaign against "scare" advertising being waged by the National Association of Better Business Bureaus has been expressed by Leon Henderson, OPA administrator.

Rubber Director Wm. M. Jeffers says that the nation's motorists are doing a good job of voluntarily mileage restriction, but asks that a still better job be done. In Los Angeles, taxis are refusing service to and from ball parks, theaters, beer parlors, dancehalls, night clubs and race tracks.

If the government's fight against inflation is to be successful, it is necessary that control against rising prices be applied as rigorously to transportation and public utility rates as to other prices. David C. Byrd, general counsel to the OPA, has told the ICC.

Manufacturers' selling prices for a group of "fall and winter outer clothing" are established at levels at which they opened their lines during the period Dec. 1, 1941, to March 31, 1942, regardless of subsequent price increases. Men's and Boys' lined coats, flannel shirts, wool and leather jackets are included.

A nation-wide educational campaign by the civilian defense and nutrition organizations of the 48 states governments for fair sharing of the civilian meat supply has been called for in telegrams sent by four high federal officials to the governors of every state.

Packers of blended maple syrup who now add less expensive corn syrup to their blends must apply to OPA for a ceiling on the changed product.

An industry meeting has attempted to find immediate steps which might be taken in the furniture field to accomplish further conservation of critical materials.

Reflecting new federal taxes and higher cost of tobacco and labor, the OPA has announced details of the authorized increases of approximately 20 per cent in cigar prices. The nickel cigar is now backing in the possibility of a 6-cent classification.

Business conditions in Kentucky showed a general improvement during September in comparison to the same month a year ago.

An improvement over August of this year was noted in the report made after a state-wide survey. The Bureau also said the business index for September was 83.8 per cent.

By contrast, however, motor fuel tax collections showed a decrease of 22.8 per cent and toll bridge and ferry traffic was up 181 per cent in comparison to September, 1941.

BOOZE

To the Fathers and Mothers of Floyd County.
 They have rationed our sugar. And soon will ration shoes. There are plenty barefooted children All on account of booze.

Fathers come home drinking and sometimes mother, too. Their children, cold and hungry—All on account of booze.

Flour barrels are empty. Mothers' hearts are sad. Children cold and hungry—All on account of DAD.

DAD, you may like your whiskey. You may like your beer. But look what dangerous times Are facing us here.

Our boys, they are leaving. Their hearts are lone and sad. Whiskey caused the trouble. Please, won't you quit it, DAD?

Home has been wrecked. And children's hearts are sad. Booze is all the trouble—Vote it out, Dad.

Our boys and girls are drinking. They're in Floyd county, too; Dad, if you love your children Vote against the Booze!

Booze often causes sickness And sometimes deaths, too; And when you find it out It's all on account of Booze.

Now, may God bless Floyd county, And all its voters, too. Now will you go on election And vote against the Booze?

Now may God bless each Christian Who's traveling the holy way. To bring out all your friends and neighbors To this election day. Written by

"I'm Bill Smith
 —the guy who installed your telephone

... but I'm on leave from the Solomon Islands show, and I'm GOING BACK.

"I just dropped in to tell you we boys in the A.E.F. are grateful to the folks back home who are doing everything possible to help war production. Everything that helps war production helps us at the front."

By helping to keep long distance telephone lines clear for war calls, you help speed war production. War calls are crowding telephone lines—especially the "long haul" lines which are the most heavily loaded with war business. The greater the distance you talk, the greater the likelihood of delaying vital war calls. To keep telephone lines clear for our armed forces, war industries and civilian defense agencies, let us join here at home.

We cannot add new lines because materials are more urgently needed to equip our fighters. Therefore, to make more room on a crowded long distance line for important war business, telephone users are urged to make only absolutely essential calls and to be brief in all conversations.

War takes no holiday, so please do not use "long distance" to exchange Thanksgiving greetings.

Studebaker says:
"Wartime care will save your car"

Government regulation of driving makes it clear that every one of our cars and trucks is vital to the nation's need for essential wartime transportation.

Less driving means more danger from corrosion, sticking parts and leaking engine gaskets. Slower speeds make small irregularities of engine performance more bothersome.

Your car should be lubricated and inspected on the basis of time rather than mileage intervals. Use your car carefully. Give it regular maintenance. This is the best way to preserve it. Simple, yes, but important.

Studebaker dealers are engaged in a wartime service program—to assist you—regardless of the make of car or truck you own.
