SECTION DOES NOT BENEFIT

From Freight Rate Reduction; We Are In Northern Area

Floyd county and the remainder of Eastern Kentucky to the south of the 36th parallel will not benefit from the 10 per cent rail freight rate reduction approved by the Supreme Court.

Asland and points along the Big Sandy, as well as Louisville and Ohio river towns, in the "official" area described by the Interstate Commerce Commission are in the north and so they do not benefit from the rate cut.

Shipments of certain types of goods from Kentucky to points in this section will bear 10 per cent less freight, once the court ruling is made final and the order is issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

TWO BLAZES CAUSE LOSS OF $15,000

Fire Monday Razes 4 Emma Buildings; Blaze Ruins Cars

Work of a bucket brigade and absence of wind perhaps saved greater damage to the town of Emma, eight miles from here, from destruction Monday afternoon as fire swept through a residence, storage garage and barn.

The loss ranged from $10,000 to $12,000, it was estimated. Owners of the razed buildings had no insurance, it was said. Some household furniture and a part of the store's stock were saved.

The fire started from a cook stove in the kitchen of the Billy Jean home, near the north end of the bridge spanning Big Sandy, then spread to the adjoining store, a store known as the Emma Store, the private garage of Lon Childers took fire and was destroyed. The fire was quickly brought under control by the barn of Nelson Hayes.

Quills and blankets soaked with water sheltered the walls of nearby frame buildings from the flames. Lacey Coole, across the street, the fire was extinguished.

At Astor Saturday night, two camp cars of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company burned and a building was destroyed. The fire was caused by a short circuit in the wiring of a car. A 13-year-old boy, found sleeping in one of the cars by "buggies" Evans, was released from the hospital.

Patrol Begins Safety Check To Order Correction Of Defects In Autos; Gilliam Cites Record

A highway traffic safety check including brakes, lights, tires, windshield wipers and horns covering all high speed Kentucky autos was inaugurated today (Thursday) by the Kentucky Highway Patrol in cooperation with adjoining states.

The check being made by officers of the highway patrol is for the protection of the public. Drivers will be warned to visit their service stations immediately and have the necessary work done to make their driving safe.

Highway traffic fatalities in Kentucky killed 428 people in 1943. In 1946 there were 700 killed. Many of these accidents were traced to defective brakes, tires, lights and steering. Some other minor defects, quickly and easily adjusted by competent mechanics, might have saved a life.

Stickers will be provided for those who pass the check indicating compliance. Kentucky garages and service stations have pledged to give preferential service to correction of hazards indicated by the police check.

Floyd Group Recognized as Singers Of Chants Akin to Ancient Rome's

By Lillian Wright Linnoff

A dozen men, and a woman in a lawyer-worshiper dress stand silhouetted against the hills of the Kentucky mountains one spring day, when the woods are budding, and solemn and clear on the Sabbath air sounds a hill song so akin to the ancient Gregorian Chant of early Rome that the centuries fade out as one listens to the fervent voices and the feeling comes that this modern world is the dream, and the sixteenth century, the reality.

The singers are the Plain Song Chanters of Prestonsburg, Ky., and their friend and neighbor, Edith Fitzpatrick James, who is bringing them to take part in the National Folk Festival, May 21-22, inclusive, at Kiel Auditorium Opera House, St. Louis, Mo.

The Twentieth century is all the Chanters but they do not affect them. The voices of the men are untrained, their words are harsh, but the style of their singing is as natural to them as living and breathing, for it is the way they sing at their church meetings on the hill-tops.

It's the way they might sing as they trail shingles on a corn-crib, or while tending a hulkidye burning, or plowing a field. It's the way their fathers sang and all their forebears who raised their pioneer cabins in the wilderness of the Kentucky mountains. The Plain Song style of singing is indigenous to the Kentucky mountain country.

As you listen to them you will hear the organ of the Gregorian Chant, which Pope Gregory I, born in 540 A.D., had arranged. One day he heard a boys' choir sing the Gregorian Chant, and he liked the tunes she had heard in hollow schoolhouse-churches back home, that she impressed. Even though she had heard that in her town of Prestonsburg.

Thrilled by the belief that she had discovered the origin of the peculiar sound of plain song, she took them to take part in the National Folk Festival, May 21-22, inclusive, at Kiel Auditorium Opera House, St. Louis, Mo.

MUD CR. MAN IN JAIL HERE FOR SLAYING

Of Harold Hamilton By Blast of Shotgun

William Johnson, 24-year-old mud-cr. man, was in jail in county jail here, awaiting examination Saturday for the shotgun slaying of his neighbor, Harold Hamilton, 28, and also a miner.

Hamilton died at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, at 1:35 a. m., Tuesday, of gunshot wounds and effects of the blast which was fired into his right arm, near the shoulder, at close range late Saturday afternoon. The arm was amputated in an effort to save his life.

According to information gathered by Sheriff Troy B. Sturgill and deputies, the two men were drinking whisky at the home of Mrs. C. W. Pike county where they had been working together. On Tuesday, Hamilton engaged in a fight with Hamilton, who was shot in the chest. Hamilton, officials said they were told, Johnson went to his home, procured his shotgun and, returning, fired the shot which was fatal.

Sheriff Sturgill quoted a brother of the victim as saying that when Johnson leveled the shotgun at him, Hamilton begged for his life, offering to give a drink of whisky, if he wouldn't shoot. Then, this version of the shooting continued, when Johnson continued to hold his gun in firing position, Hamilton dived at him as the shot was fired.

Johnson declined to comment on the shooting when questioned at the Wednesday afternoon.

Hamilton, a son of the late Thomas Hamilton, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ethel Hamilton, five children, Thomas, Rebecca Irene, Pauline, Beulah and an infant son, his mother, Mrs. Liza Jane Hamilton, five brothers and three sisters, Andy, Fred, Edith, Beulah, and Mary.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday afternoon from the Hamilton residence, Rev. John B. Hamilton officiating. Burial in the family cemetery was directed by the Ryan Funeral Home.

PRICE, TEACHERS' ASS'N PRESIDENT, ASKS LEGISLATORS TO GUARANTEE GOVERNOR THEY WILL STICK TO SPECIAL SESSION PURPOSE

Walter C. Price, Morehead high school principal and president of the Rowan County Teachers' Association, recently called on Governor Simon S. Willis to convene a special session of the Legislature for the purpose of making a constitutional appropriation to raise the pay of Kentucky teachers.

In letters addressed to the state senators and representative from the Rowan district, the Association said: "It has been rumored . . . that Governor Willis has refused to call a special session of the Legislature because he fears the legislators might take advantage of the situation."

"It has been further rumored," the Association wrote, "that the Governor might call the special session if enough legislators would commit themselves to consider only school legislation and then adjourn."

The Association asked its legislators if they are willing to make such commitments.

"It was pointed out here this week that no such threat of legislators 'taking advantage of the situation' has been made."

Government Concludes Hearing Of Testimony in May Case

The three-week-long effort of the federal government to probe the activities of the Communist Party in the United States, which was headed by Congressman A. J. May, of Prestonsburg, is guilty of accepting $5,000 to help the Communist Party in a giant wartime munitions combine ended in Washington Wednesday.

Mr. May's defense will require a full trial, he believed, and the end of the trial is not expected before June.

Evidence to be marshaled by the government will seek to show that the Prestonsburg man had benefited financially or otherwise from his activities while chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee.

"I didn't then, but I know now they were campaign money," Robert May replied.

Mr. May, William N. Porter, retired chief of the army's Chemical Warfare Service, testified that he had been in contact with the Prestonsburg man during the war effort.

The trial from day to day, as reported by the daily press: "FEDERAL JURY MAY 8—Robert May testified today at the war effort trial of his father, Andrew J. May, that two checks for $1,000 cashed by the elder May in 1944 were "political contributions for the party."

The government has charged that A. J. May got the proceeds from the two checks for interfering with the war effort by seeking professional treatment for the son of Joseph F. Freeman, on trial with May, and E. A. Feldman, a California war contractor.

Former General Ebron G. Somerville, wartime chief of the Army Service Forces and now a director of a Pittsburgh Coal Company, told the jury May interfered with him for the Garsons' Batavia Mill Products Company on two occasions.

Once, he said, May sought his help in obtaining more manpower for the plant.

Balavia plant, once an explanation of a reduction in a contract for army truck bodies. Somerville could not recall ever having received similar requests from May for any other contractor.

Brig. Gen. Miles Reber, wartime chief of the Legislative Liaison Service of the War Department, told of being called into conference with May about S. Sgt. Albert Freeman, son of Joseph Freeman. Reber said he was unable to help in bringing young Freeman home from Guam after his mother's death.

After Freeman's return, however, Reber agreed to arrange for his admission to Walter Reed hospital for a physical check-up to determine whether he was fit for further overseas service or whether he should be transferred to non-combatant duty with the Chemical Warfare Service.

On cross-examination of the witness, Austin Canfield, Freeman's attorney, made it clear the defense will try to prove young Freeman sought help to stay in the army when he was faced with medical discharge. General Reber could not remember conversations tending to prove this assertion, but admitted they might have been held.

Col. Herold E. Brooks, personnel director of the Chemical Warfare Service, told of the effort made by May in behalf of Capt. Joseph Garson. Murray's son, who was court-martialed in France in 1945. Freeman brought him a letter addressed to General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, had been subpoenaed as a defense witness in the trial.

Counsel for May disclosed this today but indicated to reporters that Eisenhower would not be called to the stand until the defense begins presentation of its case.

Secretary of State Marshall, former chief of staff, was subpoenaed last Monday, but the court excluded him until the defense is actually ready to call him to the stand.

The defense counsel have promised to interview with the defense before showing that May was not the only Congressman who asked special treatment for certain soldiers during the war.

Warren Mace, attorney for the 72-year-old Kentuckian, produced a written list of Congressmen he said had interviewed with the War Department.

The list came up during testimony by Col. Clarence J. Haddock, Jr., army liaison man for the House Military Committee, which may headed for years.

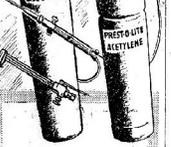

Hauk identified it as a record of the names of House members for whom he wrote letters "asking action on requests regarding army personnel." The list covers the period from Feb. 1944 to date.

Mace told a reporter he will offer it in evidence when the defense begins presenting its case.

Hauk restated yesterday that May, Freeman and Murray Garson talked to him on 15 or 20 different occasions about deferments or other special treatment for 40 to 45 individuals either in army service or single for induction.

The name of General Eisenhower came up in Hauk's testimony on the court-martial matter. Hauk in an envelope bearing May's frank. Broder gave the letter to Miss Gish. Alden Waitt, chief of C. V. S., who took it to Europe and delivered it.

In an attempt to avoid calling General Eisenhower, Peasey tried to get the letter into the record at that point, but defense objections made it virtually certain the chief of staff will have to take the stand to identify it.

The record shows that Garson was found guilty of refusing to place his mortar company in a dangerous position which he considered tactically suicidal. In this opinion he was supported by most of the court-martial and the entire court that found him guilty recommended that sentence be suspended. This was done.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, had been subpoenaed as a defense witness in the trial.

said he advised May to write direct to Eisenhower, then Allied commander in Europe. He said May did so.

An initial attempt by Magee to go into alleged instances of intervention by other Congressmen was cut off by Justice Henry A. Schweinhaut. The court ruled that those who had nothing to do with May's trial.

TUESDAY—A New York banker said today war contractor Murray Garson paid off an overdue $9,000 debt for former Kentucky Congressman May.

Secretary of War Patterson said that on three occasions May asked him for help for munitions firms in which Murray Garson was interested.

These two pieces of evidence virtually ended the government's three-week-long case.

The banker was Harry G. Barber, executive vice-president of the National Bronx Bank of New York.

He said that on June 4, 1942 his bank had among its assets four notes for $1,250 each, signed by Andrew J. May and deposited by the Willott Corporation, a New York realty firm controlled by Representative Charles Buckley, Democrat, of the Bronx.

On that day, he said Joseph Freeman presented a check for $10,000 drawn by R. I. Kern on the Royal Bank of Canada to the favor of Murray Garson. The check was endorsed by Garson.

He was told that Garson was unable to appear in person because of illness. Other bank officers vouched for Murray's signature on the endorsement, he said, so he cashed the check and delivered the May notes amounting to $5,251.24 with interest and $4,738.76 change to Freeman.

Defense attorneys have indicated that they will explain away some $55,000 of other funds deposited to May's accounts by the Garsons. They have promised to show that equal amounts were checked out for Murray Garson and the Garsons' Secretary Patterson allowed to the stand a score of lesser litigants in the War Department who have testified to favors sought by May for the Garsons and Freeman. Patterson was undersecretary at the time of the transactions.

On March 1, 1945, he said, May called to ask about a reduction of a War Department contract with the Balavia Metal Products Company, a Garson firm.

Two years later, Patterson said, May called again, on March 24, 1946, to ask about an Army-Navy "E" award for the Balavia Company. In September, 1945, May called Patterson to his office and introduced him to "two officials of the Erie Basin Metal Products Company," another Garson firm. The officials whom he could not identify, protested the War Department's action in withholding about $800,000 funds from the company pending renegotiation proceedings. He referred them to another War Department officer and left, he said.

Asked whether May ever called on behalf of any other contractors, Patterson replied "probably he did, but I can't be specific about it."

On cross-examination, he admitted that he received "many" calls from other congressmen, which he handled in the same way. May never asked him to do anything improper, he said.

The Fayette County Garden Club helped organize a men's garden club at the Veterans' hospital, Lexington.

the War Department who have testified to favors sought by May for the Garsons and Freeman. Patterson was undersecretary at the time of the transactions.

On March 1, 1945, he said, May called to ask about a reduction of a War Department contract with the Balavia Metal Products Company, a Garson firm.

Two years later, Patterson said, May called again, on March 24, 1946, to ask about an Army-Navy "E" award for the Balavia Company. In September, 1945, May called Patterson to his office and introduced him to "two officials of the Erie Basin Metal Products Company," another Garson firm. The officials whom he could not identify, protested the War Department's action in withholding about $800,000 funds from the company pending renegotiation proceedings. He referred them to another War Department officer and left, he said.

Asked whether May ever called on behalf of any other contractors, Patterson replied "probably he did, but I can't be specific about it."

On cross-examination, he admitted that he received "many" calls from other congressmen, which he handled in the same way. May never asked him to do anything improper, he said.

The Fayette County Garden Club helped organize a men's garden club at the Veterans' hospital, Lexington.

AND WE'RE IN THE SIXTH!

IT IS encouraging to note that the Kentucky Highway Department and the Highway Patrol are committed to a policy of prosecuting persons guilty of dumping garbage and other refuse on state highway right-of-way.

The state's road right-of-way covers a lot of Kentucky territory that should be protected from abuse by persons who have little regard for either the state, its scenery or its inhabitants. And it is apparent that if state authority takes no action, none will be taken by any other source.

Three persons already have been fined $15 and costs, each, at Ashland for this offense. District Highway Engineer Kenneth G. Frye has stated similar action

H. B. Patrick was a business vic-

GIVE THEM CREDIT

THOSE who carry a chip on their shoulder for every industrialist are especially invited to consider the work the Princess Ekhorn Coal Company and the Inland Steel Company are doing as freewill contributions to the future of Floyd and adjoining counties.

We refer, in particular, to the investments these two companies are making in the education of young women and men of this section. Nobody asked them to set up scholarship funds to provide college educations for these youngsters.
It was their idea, this investment. It is evident that the men with authority in the two firms believe in Eastern Kentucky and its youth and that they value the present and future of both above mere cash in the treasury.

You say, anybody with the resources of these companies could do as much as they? They could, but few do. Some firms with equal or greater financial strength do little or nothing that does not directly benefit them, even as a large percentage of individuals do.

It is a splendid thing Inland Steel, the veteran, and Princess Ekhorn, a comparative newcomer to this section, are doing. Give them full credit.

Inland Scholarship Students Are Cited At U.K. Honors Day

Nearly 600 outstanding students of Kentucky students, representing virtually every county in the state, were cited Wednesday for academic achievements, named winners of the special awards and prizes on the basis of leadership, and announced as members of campus honor societies in the third observance of Honors Day at the University.

Dr. Raymond F. McLain, president of Transylvania College, addressed the special convocation called to honor the students on the subject, "The Fruit of the Tree." U.K.
President Herman L. Donovan presided and Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, vice-president of the University, recognized the honor groups.

Included in the honor citations was:
Inland Steel Company scholarships of two $40 awards to high school graduates of Floyd, Knott and Pike counties on the basis of competitive examinations to L. C.
McClain, Jr., Martin, and Edward L. Maggard, Hindman.

mine. All mining operations will be mechanized and all coal will be washed. Much of this equipment is already on order.

A second new mine will be in the
No. 4 Ekhorn coal seam at Dunham on the C. & O. railroad and will be named for the late John Wesley Wright, known far and wide as "Uncle John," "Bad John" of the Cumberlandians, "Devil John" and "The Tall Sycamore of the Ekhorn." John Wright's home for many years was where the main office of Consolidation is now located at Jenkins. From the time of his service in the Confederate army until his death in 1931, his name was known throughout the mountains as a scourge to law-breakers. It was only so that law-breakers and frauds that the names
"Devil" and "Bad" applied.

The third new operation will be known as Hill Mine, named for the late Robert C. Hill, first chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company and for many years prior to the merger in the same capacity with the former Consolidation Coal Company. Hill mine is due to start production in the year in the No. 3 Ekhorn coal with an ultimate output of 1,000 tons daily. An extension of one mile by the C. & O. railroad will be needed to serve its new tipple.

Installation of these three mines is not to increase production of the company as a whole, but mainly to replace tonnage that will shortly be lost due to gradual working out of the present Concol Mines No. 204, 206, 207 and 214. Of these, Mine
206 will finish this year, it was said.

All of the three new mines will have newest types of machinery and will be planned for the safest possible working conditions. Bathhouses and other facilities for the employes are so planned as to set new standards for the district. No houses will be built by the coal company, with good roads making all surrounding towns.

THE PATH

WE hear little about paths now, especially since roads have become better and cars can take us "over the hills and far away." There were, though, paths were one of our chief means of getting anywhere. The roads themselves were little more than trails and were muddy in winter and dusty in summer. Besides, roads were relatively few in number, and we needed to cut across fields and woods when we started anywhere and did not want to exhaust ourselves merely by walking.

The path I remember best was the school path. We went up through one of our fields, by the tobacco barn, climbed the fence, and then set out through a half-mile of woods to the schoolhouse. Every day along this path was an adventure, for the trees, the wild flowers, the birds and the four-footed creatures were a part of that half-mile. The path was in no sense a direct line; it wobbled up through the woods, over the crest of a small divide, down another slant, across a brook, and finally up the last hill to the one-room schoolhouse. In the brook, or branch, were bright pebbles, good for sling-shots and also good to take to school to learn how to count. Along the path grew hickory and pawpaw, which make the best whistles and bark whips in the world. And the path had two branch paths that brought many other children, from further up the creek. Child love affairs and jealousies or even feuds often made the path as representative of human faults as great water courses or caravan routes of olden times.

Another path led across the field to our second-nearest neighbor's. Sometimes this path was plowed up, when the field was in corn or tobacco, and we had to find our way through the growing plants. By harvest time the path was always hard-patted-down and looked as if it had not been disturbed by the plow. Part of this path led across another small branch, where many plants grew, and where frogs croaked in spring and quacking ice speckles formed in winter. In this little branch bottom we found tracks of wild animals in the mud in summer or in the snow in winter, showing that the wildest creatures imaginable came almost to our very doors in their nightly prowling. Sometimes this little hollow could be mighty dark when we had been to spend the afternoon at Mr. Bob's and had stayed rather late. An occasional owl would greet us there and make our hair stand on end. Part of this was a sort of primitive feast that all of us had for anything in the wild; part of it was symbolic of the parental scolding that we expected when we had got home, because of our staying over time.

A path I very much liked wound around the hills to the home of my best boy friend. It started out from the school path just beyond the tobacco barn and looped around the hills, sometimes in the woods, sometimes at the edge of the fields. At one place it touched the bank of the creek, where the stream had washed out a cut in the edge of the hill. There is where I used to find the eels in spring, building their nests in the cold, clear water on the gravelly shoals. The hills by the path seemed tall, but now I know they were only steep. On their tops were hundreds of chestnut trees, always inviting in October after frosts had loosened the nuts from the burs. Again there was a chance of seeing wild creatures right in their own haunts, unforgettable glimpses of impressive facts about nature. I love the memory of that path because it was the one along which I walked when I first found the writings of Henry David Thoreau, in a book that my friend's sister had lent me. She was a school teacher and had lots of books, lots so far as our little world was concerned. In one of these I read as I went home late one Sunday afternoon the vivid account of the battle of the ants, which Thoreau witnessed as he lived at Walden Pond. Henceforth that range of hills became for me the very ones that surround Walden. And the little old path, long in disuse, was a way out to strange lands beyond the hills, lands perennially new because touched by the pens of writers who know no death.

CITY-OWNED UTILITIES PAY

Barbourville Water And Power Systems Clear in 8 Years

With a city-owned utility system such as Prestonsburg's ownership of the gas and water companies serving the town, Barbourville, county seat of Knox county, has within the last eight years retired the last of $170,000 bonded indebtedness incurred in the purchase of water and electric systems operating in the town.
Immediately after retirement of this debt was made, it was announced that (1) there will be a reduction of approximately 12 1/2 percent in charges to power consumers, effective immediately; (2) the town plans additional street and sidewalk paving; (3) whitewash street lights will be installed as soon as possible; (4) the town plans to reduce its tax rate from 95 cents per $100 assessed valuation to 35 cents, giving Barbourville the lowest tax rate of any fourth-class city in Kentucky; and (5) residents of the town to receive free garbage collection and disposal service.
The utilities purchase, as in Prestonsburg, was financed by the issuance of revenue bonds, without any obligation on the part of the city. The bonds were to run for 18 years. Earnings of the electric and water plants within eight years, in addition to meeting the full retirement of bonds, have been sufficient to carry out improvements as required.
Payment of the city's last bonded indebtedness, which totaled about $80,000 when the city bought the utilities, was made possible by funds contributed by the utilities. Bonds retired, totaling approximately $22,000, were in addition to revenue bonds issued to buy the utilities.
The tax-rate reduction is planned in expectation that payments from the utilities to the city will make up the loss in revenue from the proposed 40-cent cut.
Barbourville's outstanding success in municipal ownership of public utilities is attributed to careful planning. No politics is involved, no wasteful practices tolerated, and a three-man commission, serving without compensation, has been in complete charge since the plans were taken over.
Mrs. Charles Chumley, of West Liberty, was the Saturday guest of Mrs. Martin Lee May and family.

SUGAR STAMP NO. 12 BECOMES VALID JUNE 1

The government Tuesday moved up the cash-in date of the next sugar-ration stamp from July 1 to June 1, but said it must last for five months. The stamp, spare No. 12, will be good for 10 pounds.
An Agriculture Department announcement said it must last until October 31, when rationing and price controls expire unless extended by Congress.
The action was taken, the Department said, to speed sugar into consumer channels before the heavy movement of wheat and other commodities this summer burdens transportation facilities.
Supplies from a big Cuban crop are piling up in Eastern refinery centers to create a "temporary surplus," partly because consumers have been slow to cash in spare stamp No. 11 which became valid April 1 for 10 pounds.
The action came as many in the sugar industry predicted either an end of rationing before October 31 or an increase in the ration because of improved supply prospects and slowness of some European countries to take Cuban supplies.
The government has promised individual consumers 35 pounds this year, compared with 25 pounds last year. Officials say it is too early to know definitely whether there will be any change.

CHILD 36 VICTIM

Bert, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Tackett, of McDowell, died at the Geahheart hospital, Martin, Tuesday night. Burial was made at McDowell today (Thursday), the Ryan Funeral Home officiating.
The department said that apparently many household and industrial users, finding supplies available at present, are postponing buying.
Urging early purchases, the agency said a last-minute rush to cash unused sugar-ration coupons when transportation facilities are over-taxed by the movement of other commodities could result in local shortages.
The department also took steps to encourage industrial users to get supplies earlier and to build up larger inventories.
They may now apply June 1 instead of June 10, as announced earlier, for their allocations for the July-September quarter. They also may buy their full allotment as soon as it is granted. Hereafter, they have been required to limit inventories to 30-day requirements.

Fewer Streams in State Are Closed to Fishermen

Fewer streams and other public waters will be closed this year to May fishing than at any time since game and fish laws were enacted to control angling during the spawning season.

Quantifying this statement, Earl Wallace, director of the Division of Game and Fish, pointed out that the closed-season, extending from May 1 to May 25, affects primarily the non-navigable streams of the state. The game and fish laws prohibit fishing above the last lock and dam upstream of navigable streams as well as in all waters of non-navigable streams. All private waters are open, but Wallace reminded anglers that they must have licenses to fish at any time in any stream, lake, pond or other waters, private or otherwise.

Kentucky, Herrington, Dale Hollow and Carpenter Lakes are open, as are the lakes in the three state parks—Pennyville in Christian county, Audubon Memorial near Henderson and Butler Memorial near Corbin.

Contrary to a previous announcement authorizing fishing in Dawson Springs state park, the small lake in that city will be closed at least until next year, according to Parks Commissioner Russell Dyche. He explained that this lake was stocked last year and, since the fish are not yet of legal size, it would be disastrous to future fishing to open such waters this season.

Due to numerous inquiries concerning Herrington, it was explained that fishing is permissible in all of the lake proper and in Dix river up to the Danville-Lancaster bridge. Fishing is prohibited in Dix river below Dix dam, however.

The Mississippi river is open to fishing to the thread, or middle of the stream where it bounds the state; the Ohio is open the full length of the state and to the opposite bank; the Tennessee within Kentucky is open. The Green, Cumberland, Barren, Kentucky and Big Sandy rivers are open—but not above the last lock and dam upstream.

The Tug and Levisa forks of the Big Sandy are open up to the one lock and dam that is located in each stream. Kentucky law, however, governs fishing only to the middle of the Big Sandy and Tug fork which come as state boundaries.

David Hurlers Blank Boldman in First Tilt; Bartley, Attack Leader

David opened his baseball season Sunday with an easy 12-0 victory over Boldman, three David twirlers holding the visiting team to three hits. Bartley started for the winners, slugging out a triple and two doubles in addition to catching a govt game. Hubbard had a triple in one time at bat and Dixon collected the other extra-base blow for David with a double.

Hornets Roll Over Garrett Black Devils

The Auster Hornets swamped Garrett Sunday, 19 to 3, to remain the only undefeated high school team in Floyd county. The Hornets have won seven straight against no losses.

In winning over Garrett, Coach Music used every boy on the squad. Gilbert started for Auster but had difficulty finding the plate and allowed all three of Garrett's runs. Children, an eighth grader, took over starting the fourth and finished the game, allowing only two hits and no runs.

Jack Wells set something of a record when he closed two home runs in the first inning. (Timespan) also hit for the circuit.

problems which interfere with their education or vocational training.

Officials at the VA's Branch Office in Columbus, O., said special training counselors are assigned to VA regional offices in Detroit, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Louisville to help veteran-trainees solve their personal problems and difficulties.

Many veterans are directed to the counselors before starting school or on-the-job training.

When difficulties arise while a veteran is enrolled in school or is in training on-the-job, it is expected that VA's training officers, who follow up on ex-servicemen and women in both types of programs, will discover problems and encourage the veteran to seek personal counseling.

NEWS FOR THE VETERAN

ADVISE VETS AGAINST EXCESSIVE G.I. LOANS

World War II veterans should seriously consider their present and estimated future incomes and expenses before negotiating G.I. loans. George C. Sturgeon, loan guaranty officer for the Veterans Branch Office in Columbus, O., advised recently.

"Before a veteran decides on a definite home, farm or business property, he should know something about the amount of loan he will be permitted to obtain under the G. I. Bill and the approximate monthly payments he will have to make," Mr. Sturgeon said.

He explained that the accepted standard used by many lending institutions is that no loan should exceed a figure two and one-half times a veteran's annual income. In other words, if a veteran's annual income is $2,000, the maximum loan should be about $7,500. Another standard is that a veteran's monthly loan payments should not exceed his income for each week. In this case, he should pay no more than $20 monthly on his loan with a weekly wage salary of $50.

"In addition to loan interest, taxes and insurance, veterans also should remember that they often may have other expenses connected with the property for repairs and general upkeep," Mr. Sturgeon concluded.

Auxier Hornets Trounce Paintsville, 8 to 4

Auxier, Ky., May 7 (Sp) — A 4-2 hitting scoreless pitching duel between Mink of the Paintsville Tigers and Lateral of the Auxier Hornets was shattered in the last of the fifth inning Thursday as the bats of the Hornets exploded for eight runs.

After two men were out in the bottom of the fifth, B. Curmiste drew a base on balls and promptly stole second. O. Curmiste sent Liza double to left scoring Fred and Bob and the rout was under way. C. Curmiste stole third base, Patino grabbed a free trip to first. Sparks was purposely passed and Hubbard then cleared the bases with a long double to right-center, making the score 4-0. We then singled. Washb doubled and lateral homered to make 8 to 0.

Paintsville scored its lone tally in the sixth on two home errors. Lateral Auxier pitcher had a field day. He allowed only two Paintsville hits, no walks and struck out seven. Errors while counting a homer in the low Auxier fifth.

WAGE SCALE, MACHINE AGE REDUCE FARM POPULATION

Only 18 per cent of the people of the United States now live on farms. Church workers were told at the Rural Leadership Institute at the University of Kentucky Experiment Station. The war was not wholly to blame for the movement of youth to cities. It was wrought out. Between 1930 and 1940 about 1,800,000 young men and women left farms.

Big wages in cities and the use of more machinery on farms were blamed for youth quitting the farm. Tractors and other machinery make it possible for fewer people to do the farming.

The relation of soil fertility to community and church welfare received consideration at the institute. Where the soil is good, communities prosper and the church is well supported. Where fertility is exhausted, communities run down and churches disappear.

Report on a church survey showed that there are about 7,000 churches in Kentucky, or one for every 400 persons. Some speakers thought there are too many churches in some communities. As a result all of them are weak.

There are between 2,500 and 3,000 ministers in Kentucky. Sixty per cent of them get a salary of $1,000 or more a year. In the state as a whole. In the eastern counties only 35 per cent get that much money.

Between 45 and 50 per cent of the people of the state belong to church. In some communities as high as 65 per cent are members of churches, while in a few places only five per cent are members.

Two hundred and fifty pastors and other church workers attended the institute. They came from 36 counties and from 13 church denominations.
