To the Voters of Floyd County

With the opening of the state Democratic campaign this week, I, as the Democratic nominee for Representative from the 99th District of Floyd county, wish to call on all Democrats not only for unity of purpose but for UNITY OF ACTION. Let us all join in the fight for victory at the polls, November 4, for the entire Democratic ticket.

I have good friends on the other side of the house. I welcome their support, and would solicit the same support for the entire ticket; for I honestly believe that ours is the party of the common man and that the Democratic party is, above all, better fitted to serve Kentucky.

In return for your support, I can only pledge the best service in the State Legislature that is within my power to render.

Sincerely,
HENRY C. HALE

players if only the desire and incentive to be victorious were evident. To-bell letters and snarling played a good brand of ball. Hopson and Stanley crashed through to throw the ball carriers for losses continually. Big Mike Horn put his feed sacks into high gear and brused at the woods of Betty's backs and linemen.

Don Woods and Herb Wedington really made the leather crack and are definitely responsible for the horizontal cuts of many of the opposing backfield men. Their individual plays were nice to watch and could be called a coach's dream. Sizemore played well and with some additional weight will be a fine prospect for the very near future.

Co-Captain Porter is quickly becoming a sensation. "T" quarter-back and played big league ball against Betty. The few remaining rough spots that he still has will be quickly ironed out. Henry Mayo may lead the show and spotlight as the finest broken field runner in the big Sandy. It is believed, however, that Captain "Big" Branham holds that distinction at present and has displayed amazing versatility in his line games. Goodman Goble, Mayo and Willis did not subscribe for their weekly edition of magazine and resigned their duties. Whitesburg efforts. Bradley made an unparadigmatic error on defense, other than that one mistake he continues to rank at the best backer-up in this section.

Highlight of the past week has been the addition of Gene Boyd, Ray Davis, Homer Neeley and Charles Nester to the squad. Great speed in scrimmage has already been displayed by Boyd, Hyden and Davis and they will be heard from shortly. Neeley for a small man leads fast and much is expected of him. Homer Nester, a late entry to the squad, apparently has no regard for his own personal safety, for when he hits a back coming through the line, the sound echoes throughout the valley.

The local team has not yet been fully extended or tested, and the Russell game may prove the final check. The line has not yet been able to anticipate a snapping signal and the backs are still not the creative type that fit the "T" formation to perfection. Much work is needed and much work will be undertaken from this date forward.

The squad works out daily from 7:30 to 7 p.m. Wednesday. On other days the time is cut shorter. The public is cordially invited to attend these practices. The team welcomes you and the coach will be more than happy to explain or in any way help those who do not fully understand our system of play.

Bids are still open for furnishing coal to the schools listed below. Six tons of coal will be furnished for each teacher in the rural schools. Bids should be placed on both screened coal and mine run coal. Only a good grade of mine run coal can be used.

Blank checks may be secured from the teacher, trustee, or Superintendent's office, or the bid may be sent by letter, indicating the school and the price per ton.

DRIFT

A large crowd from Drift attended the box supper at McDowell Friday night. Net proceeds were more than $300.

Mrs. Ann Hogn and son, of Auxier, are guests of her sister, Mrs. Hanes Honeoy, and Mrs. Honeoy at this week.

Among the students who left for school recently are Billy J. Turner, Allen Reed and Harold Stumbo for K.M.L. Lyndon, Ky. Don Hewlett and Don Ward, for Business College at Nashville, Tenn. Ray Turner for the University of Kentucky, and Betty Fay Jones for Pikeville Academy.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Green, of Louville, visited relatives in Drift last week.

Miss Peggy Martin spent the week-end at McDowell visiting her cousin, Fred Martin.

Miss Lizzie Stumbo is spending her vacation in the Great Smoky Mountains.

Ray Turner and sister, Betty, were shopping in Huntington last Friday.

Frozen farmers in Trimble county are sowing Ky. 31 (see for seed production next year).

The corn crop in Nicholas county is reported to be one of the best on record there.

BETSY LAYNE

Those of the Men's Club who accepted the invitation of the Prestonburg Kiwanis Club to a chicken dinner, Sept. 11, reported a very pleasant get-together.

Several of the ladies of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church met last Wednesday in the basement to spend the day quilting. At noon they enjoyed a good, old-fashioned meal of chicken and dumplings and all the quilting.

Revival services are being held this week at the Walway Baptist Church.

Mrs. E. C. Caldwell is a patient in the Methodist hospital, Pikeville. She is expected to return home soon.

Nick Damon has been a patient at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville, after suffering slight injuries sustained when a truck which he was driving turned off the coal-loading dock.

Monroe Wicker and his son were visitors here last Thursday.

Palmer Crum has returned home from the Georgetown hospital but will be confined to his bed for several days yet.

Alex Davis will remain at the University of Kentucky for about two weeks yet, after suffering a relapse from mule injuries received some time ago.

Mrs. Mary Elliott returned home last Monday from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Francis Coy, in Murray, Mo.

A birthday dinner honoring the 17th birthday of Donald Layne was enjoyed by members of the family and friends last Sunday.

CALL FOR BIDS

Notice is hereby given that bids will be opened on September 27th, at 10 o'clock a.m. by the Floyd County Fiscal Court for the construction of a bridge over Left Jack's Creek near the mouth of Jack's Creek. This bridge to be constructed of five 24" x 31 1/2" steel eye beams weighing seventy-four (74) lbs. per foot. The floor of this bridge to be constructed of 4"x8"x12" treated timber. The surface of the floor of this bridge to be covered with class "B" bituminous surfacing two inches in thickness, wheel guards and hand railing to be constructed from treated timber.

The sub-structure of this bridge to be constructed from five 30 foot x 10"x10"x14" treated timber caps for each abutment.

When this bridge is constructed the steel eye beams are to be painted with one field coat of red lead paint and two field coats of white lead paint. All materials used in the construction of this bridge are to meet the specifications of the Department of Highways of Kentucky, 1945 specifications with amendments thereto. Wings to the abutments for this bridge are to be constructed from treated timber.

This will be considered on this bridge separately and also to include the approaches to either end of the bridge.

Said materials and workmanship shall meet the requirements of the State Highway Department and shall be furnished and performed in accordance with plans and specifications on file in the office of the County Attorney.

The court reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

While History Dissolves . . .

IN the courthouse here, stored in a dank, rat-infested vault are legal records among the oldest in Kentucky.

These old record books, the original recordings of deeds dating back to the old land grants, even to the original marriage licenses of early settlers and our main source of knowledge of early court procedure, are frayed, rat-nibbled, coming apart, their yellowed leaves, though little handled, falling to pieces.

Thus much of the history of a section of the state, the main source of Sandy to Maxville gradually dissolves, returns to dust because no attempt is being made to preserve it.

The County Clerk cannot prevent this. Only the fiscal court can take the action necessary to preservation of these records. This can be accomplished through building of a well-ventilated and well-lighted storage room or by careful transfer of the records to a room of this type already built.

Floyd, the mother county of a huge section of the state, has in its possession the documentary history of the section, records sought by many residents of other states. But, as in other matters, it in this instance is losing its heritage.

We Had Hoped for More

THE BEERS-HEFFIN report published by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station purports to prescribe a remedy for the economic ills of Eastern Kentucky.

The remedy, in short, is for the patent to pull up stumps and run out and leave the disease behind.

The study the authors of the report made largely concerns itself with Breathitt county and those parts of Knott and Perry which lie in the Breathitt area. In that area folks are multiplying, as folks will, and are having trouble reaching the modern living standards of a few other sections.

The suggestion that the area is over-populated may have more meaning than we can see, but we place little faith in this "run-away-to-live-another-day" doctrine. It is true that the farming land of the area cannot support its present population. But that statement hardly belongs under the heading of new. This section has never, since pioneer days, been self-supporting in the necessities of life—that is to say, bread and meat and clothing.

But those houses which dot the Eastern Kentucky landscape these days, are not all farmhouses, not by any means. In most of them dwell miners and their families or men who earn their living working in lumber mills, in the gas fields or at some other rather lucrative occupation.

Not until the mines are worked out and the gas fields no longer pay will most of these residents of the section consider mining. These others who own their farms and who make their living from the soil may be expected to stay where they are rooted.

THE TIMES would have expected more from a report such as this—more of hope for the section and its people. Suggestions for improving the soil, for new crops, new farming methods, new industries, even. Plans for reforestation, prevention of erosion, more grazing lands and the raising of more cattle and sheep, for instance.

It is true that, on the whole, Eastern Kentucky farms are not so thoroughly modernized, that its farmers are not uniformly prosperous. But money in the bank does not always elevate the standards of life. Education has sparked the mountaineer to better himself and his more than any well-paying job or profitable transaction. He has learned of the better things of life; his children are learning more. They will not go backward, nor will they stand still.

Nor, THE TIMES ventures, will they run from their hills to the lowlands, hunting a friendlier soil or an easier livelihood.

KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH

By EWING GALLOWAY

The feudist's squirrel rifle for slapping and pistol for those range fights make news in Breathitt county far less often than they did 40 years ago. Better schools and civility influence from outside have brought many changes for the better. In respect for law, Breathitt county probably equals the average for the whole state. But her economic and sociological gains generally have moved slowly, according to data found in a report autographed by Dr. Howard Beers and Catherine F. Hefflin and published by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington.

The report, entitled "People and Resources of Eastern Kentucky," is supposed to cover 33 Kentucky counties in the Southern Appalachian Highlands, but the actual survey is confined to Breathitt and some adjacent districts in Knott and Perry counties, territory known as the Quickstand area.

Anonymous Breathitt commentators quoted in the Beers-Hefflin report, give us this picture: "There are just too many people trying to live on the resources of this area. We are in the same boat as Austria and the Balkans."

"From the Perry county line along troublesome Creek all the way now, you can almost throw a stone from one house to the next, yet there probably aren't 30 acres of level land the whole way."

"We have little creeks four or five miles long with 30 to 40 families living along them. The result is that they have to push up the hillsides and clear off the trees to raise crops and get a little something to live on. We have about 24,000 people in Breathitt county, but we ought not to have more than 10,000."

This from the Beers-Hefflin report itself: "The average value of farms in Breathitt county in 1939 was $890 for Shelby and outer Bluegrass country. It was $6,950—nearly 10 times as much. The average value of buildings per farm in Breathitt county was $291; in Shelby, $3,281—more than 16 times as much. The average value per farm of improvements and machinery in Breathitt was $35; in Shelby, $611—nearly 18 times as much. Only 116 farms were on hard-surfaced roads. 147 had electricity within one fourth of a mile from the dwelling, and electric lighting in the home, and 32 had telephones."

"The usual supply of tools on farms in the Quickstand area as recently as 1942 included only such items as a garden hoe, sled (instead of a wagon or cart), single-moled (bull-tongue) plow, turning plow, hand corn planter, drag harrow, axe, cross-cut saw, pick for digging coal, a few carpenter tools and minimum gear for one work animal."

In the early days timber was the main source of cash from the outside. Now most of the timberland has been cut over, and only a few little portable sawmills, and a few log rafts from Breathitt woods were floated down the Kentucky river last December in 1942.

So that's as much of the story of resources in the Quickstand area as I have space to tell you.

With normal increases in population, the future of Breathitt and many other of the mountain counties is by no means encouraging unless many of the people move to more promising regions.

There are more than 50 counties that could absorb from 10 to 60 farm families—counties where income would be three to five times as great. These people would have to learn how to use modern machinery, but that should be comparatively easy. Their womenfolk would have the advantage of home demonstration agents to teach them better housekeeping, modern canning and preserving.

Strong family ties, which keep most of the mountain folk where they are, would have to be overcome, but that could be done through organized efforts on the part of an agency created strictly for that purpose. Right now I could use one or more good mountain families on my own diggings down in Henderson county.

(Editor's note: See Editorial, "We Had Hoped for More," in this edition of The Times.)

Freedom isn't Free!

A Railroad Salutes the Freedom Train Which Starts Its National Tour in Philadelphia This Week

This week the whistles will blow and the church bells will ring in Philadelphia. For there, where our Constitution was born, the most remarkable railroad train in history is beginning a national tour—a train transformed into a rolling shrine to display the great documents on which our American freedoms are based.

As the school children of Philadelphia (and 300 other cities to come) gaze on Jefferson's draft of the Declaration of Independence, or the official manuscript of the Bill of Rights, or Lincoln's pen notes for the Gettysburg address, sober thoughts will run through the minds of their elders.

FREEDOM, as world events have taught us, isn't free like the air we breathe. It isn't from everlasting to everlasting. It was won by bitter struggle, and it can be lost with tragic ease, if we and other Americans take it for granted.

The lesson of our time is that freedom must be earned, in each generation. Either we continue to earn it, or we shall wake up some morning to find that it has slipped through our fingers, as it slipped through the hands of other people in the world. A dictatorship will have taken it from us.

In our business hours many Americans speak of "Free Enterprise" as though it were a God-bestowed blessing. Some are surprised to find that it isn't listed in the Declaration of Independence under Mr. Jefferson's "unalienable rights."

But freedom of enterprise, like our political liberties, doesn't blow like the wind from Heaven. It must be earned. Either business, in serving itself, serves the public, or it invites strangling regulation.

It can almost be said that the measure of our success as a republic is the amount of regulation we can get along without. Judged by this standard, we have a long way to go. Does anyone believe that either the Securities Exchange Act or the Taft-Hartley Labor Bill is a tribute to our success in self-discipline?

The duty of the business man and the labor leader is to make our economic freedoms work. This is a duty they have to the whole public, not merely to their own group or class. It is far better that these men should disclose and assail the wrongs in our system than that they should see, hear and speak no evil. Either we do our own housekeeping or an indignant electorate will do it for us.

What would have happened in the twenties, for example, if a few determined men in Wall Street had publicly denounced the iniquities then practiced in the name of the Bull Market? Such an action would have broken all the rules of the Club, but the crash and the depression would have been easier, and business would have escaped a whole morass of legislation.

And what restrictions could the labor movement have avoided if some audacious leader had insisted that his union be accountable to the laws and customs of contracts?

It is taking us a long time to learn that, when we invite the devil to take the hindmost, the devil may take us all.

In the words of Tom Paine: "Those who expect to reap the blessings of freedom must bear the fatigues of supporting it."

There can be no liberty that isn't earned.

That, to us, is the import of the Freedom Train. And the Chesapeake & Ohio, which is one of many railroads over whose tracks this national shrine will pass, salutes it on the start of its historic mission. We will guard it well when it comes our way. May it have a fruitful journey!

INFORMATION OF INTEREST TO VETERANS

(No. 6 of a series)

Veterans Administration this week answered the 10 questions most frequently asked by World War II veterans about education under the G. I. Bill.

The veterans asked the questions in a study that VA conducted to learn how well they knew about their federal benefits. The questions and answers follow:

Q. How is the length of entitlement calculated and does a year of entitlement mean a school year or a calendar year? A. Under the G. I. Bill, any eligible veteran is entitled to education or job-training for a period of one year, plus the time he spent in the armed forces between Sept. 16, 1940 and the official end of the war. The total period of education or training may not exceed four calendar years.

Q. What schools may a veteran attend under the G. I. Bill? A. A veteran may enroll in any approved school that will accept him.

Q. What books and equipment does VA supply the veteran in school? A. VA pays for all books and equipment that the school requires of all students in the same course so long as this amount plus tuition does not exceed $500 a year for the course.

Q. How much subsistence is paid and how soon may the veteran expect to receive benefits after he is enrolled? A. VA may pay eligible veterans without dependents a subsistence allowance of $83 a month and dependent with one or more dependents $80 a month. The length of time required to issue the first subsistence check varies in each state. Generally, the first check is issued within 30 days after the end of the first month of school.

Q. May the veteran change his course of study if he is not satisfied with the one which he enrolled in not satisfactory? A. Yes, provided he has VA's permission to do so. Whenever the facts in the case indicate that a change is warranted to the best interests of the veteran, VA will grant authorization for the change.

Q. May a veteran enroll in a night school or a part-time course? A. Yes.

Q. May a veteran receive VA subsistence allowance if he works while attending school under the G. I. Bill? A. He may work part time or full-time and still draw his full allowance, provided that the wages he earns for such employment, plus his subsistence allowance, does not total more than $175 a month if he has no dependents or $229 a month if he has one or more dependents. His VA subsistence allowance is reduced proportionately when the total exceeds the above-mentioned limits.

Q. What happens if the veteran's marks are low or his progress is unsatisfactory? A. He may receive the assistance of VA's educational and guidance service, or a doctor, to correct these factors which may be contributing to his deficiency. But he is obliged to meet the requirements of the school if he wishes to continue his course.

Q. May the veteran take part of his training in one school and part in another? A. VA may permit a veteran to take more than one course of study at the same time, either in the same or in a different school, provided that the course in the second school is not offered by the first school in which the veteran is enrolled, and the latter school shall certify that the second course is essential to the successful completion of the veteran's training objective.

Q. May a veteran study with a private teacher and receive benefits under the G. I. Bill? A. No.

DU PONT PAINTS BETTER THINGS FOR BETTER LIVING... THROUGH CHEMISTRY

THE PICKLE SITUATION:

The pickle season in Ohio county closed with about 4,000 bushels of cucumbers delivered to Beaver Dam.

ALWAYS WHITE...ALWAYS BRIGHT... no more clinging dirt or grime.

DU PONT HOUSE PAINT CLEANS ITSELF! Your house keeps its freshly painted look when finished with Du Pont House Paint. Dirt and grime can't become embedded—rains just wash them away! SELF-CLEANING Du Pont House Paint is so formulated that, as time goes by, a microscopic fine white powder forms on the surface. Heavy rains wash the powder away, taking dust and dirt with it, and leaving the surface clean and white again. Excessive accumulations of dirt (particularly in sooty or dusty circumstances) may delay or interfere with this process. Because this "self-cleaning" is gradual, the wearing qualities of the paint film are not abnormally affected. SELF-CLEANING Du Pont House Paint is as durable as it is beautiful... protects against rust, rot, and decay... gives lasting beauty and protection. Costs no more than ordinary paints—saves repainting bills! Call on a reliable painter for your painting jobs, and ask him to use Du Pont House Paint!
