Heavy Expenditures Foreseen in County For New Farm Homes

Farm families in Floyd county will spend more than $14,000 for new housing in the next three to five years, according to a forecast released by the Title Council of America.

"As a result of high income during the last few years, farmers in every part of the nation are prepared to invest record amounts in new home construction and in general farm improvements," said T. O. Orman, chairman of the Council's residential construction committee.

Pointing out that the comforts and conveniences of urban living are now available to farm families, Orman said many new rural homes will incorporate such features as central heating, tiled bathrooms and modern kitchen facilities.

Rapid electrification of rural areas of Kentucky is making possible the incorporation in new homes of many labor-saving and comfort-providing devices undreamed of a generation ago, according to Orman. Rural Electrification Administration estimates show that more than 30 per cent of all farms in the state now receive central electric service. Refrigerators, electric wash machines and deep freezing plants, as well as plumbing systems, will go into many new homes as a consequence.

The magazine is presenting a series of Christian family stories. Felly is the former Miss Lesie Gay Wade, of Watauga, Tennessee. Their four children are Rebecca, Johanie, Gussie Gay and Spurgeon.

Brooke One of 36 In Newspaper Work

Albert Bush Brooke Jr., of Wayland, is one of 36 University of Kentucky Journalism graduates this year to find employment in his chosen field. Dr. I. Mel Plummer, head of the U.K. Journalism department, announced this week.

Brooke is currently employed as a reporter for the Lexington Herald. Dr. Plummer revealed that the demand for journalism graduates this year far exceeded the supply and that prospective employers with promising offers had to be turned away as early as May.

The department follows a policy of fitting its graduates to the job rather than just merely filling a position and this policy has become known throughout the nation. The U.K. Journalism department is one of 34 schools of its kind in the country which are fully accredited by the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism.

KENTUCKY FARM PRICE RISES GREATEST IN U. S.

"The world demand for products of Kentucky farms is reflected in the increase in farm land prices in this state during World War II," according to A. G. Brown, deputy manager of the American Bankers Association and director of its Agricultural Commission, regarding the farm land price situation at a recent series of banker meetings sponsored by the Kentucky Bankers Association at Flemingsburg, Dykes, Ridge, Somerset, Hodgenville and Princeton.

"Kentucky farm land prices actually have advanced higher since the beginning of World War II than they have in any other state," Mr. Brown stated. "As of July 1, 1947, they have increased 145 per cent over March 1, 1939, against an average increase of 93 per cent for the rest of the nation during the 12 months ended July 1, 1947," he stated. "The increase in Kentucky was 16 per cent as against 10 per cent for the country as a whole."

In that the banks of Kentucky made 63 per cent of all farm mortgage loans recorded in the state," he stated, "against an average figure of 54 per cent for the country as a whole. The average size of farm mortgage loans made by all lenders in the state in 1946 was more than double the average size of such loans made in the period 1937-40, and the banks led the lenders in this respect." Mr. Brown said that this is not unusual in question the judgment of the Kentucky banks in making farm mortgage loans. "As a matter of fact," he said, "I believe that a loan to a good farmer on a good farm, properly appraised and amortized, is truly self-liquidating and has a greater place in the investment portfolio of any country bank."

"However, the fact that farm land prices in Kentucky have shown a greater increase than those of any other state would indicate, it seems to me that it would be wise for Kentucky banks in every community

WATER - A BUILDER OF GREAT CITIES The great cities of the world, and not those of the United States alone, are located, almost without exception, on waterways - navigable streams, a lake, or an ocean. Regardless of the number of the linking highways and railroads, no city has ever developed into a major metropolis without direct access to navigable water.

cedes, water transportation and water power. Dr. O. W. Thompson, of Pikeville, president of the Big Sandy Valley Association, recently made available the following article by Yates Catlin which was originally published in The Waterways Journal, and which presents a picture of West Virginia that, with a navigable waterway could be that of Eastern Kentucky.

I recently returned from a motor tour of West Virginia, the state which, more than any other, has expanded its industrial production and improved its economy through cheap water transportation. The Ohio river, which forms West Virginia's 277-mile border on the northwest and west, is the state's principal waterway. It has a nine-foot channel as also the Kanawha river, which is locked from its mouth to Kanawha Falls, a distance of 90 1/2 miles. The Monongahela river, a direct water connection between the northern West Virginia coal fields and Pittsburgh, is locked for slackwater navigation for 37 miles within West Virginia with commercial channels extending three miles in each of two tributaries, the West Fork and the Tygart rivers. The Little Kanawha river, with a four-foot channel, is open for navigation a distance of 48 miles.

er the improved rivers were fully utilized by industry and the public and whether they were attracting new industries to the shores of their great placid pools of slackwater. My findings far exceeded my expectations. Each improved river was lined with great mills, factories, refineries, mines and quarries. There was not one but many industrial plants costing millions to build and employing thousands of workers.

The chemical industry has followed cheap transportation up the Kanawha river to find ample water supplies furnished by a river dammed primarily for slackwater navigation but providing as by-products water resources of hydroelectric power. West Virginia's coal deposits are fully exploited along her navigable rivers, on which towboats push coal barges to nearby as well as distant steel mills and chemical factories. And, of course, industrial expansion has been moving rapidly down the Ohio Valley from Pittsburgh and along 277 miles of West Virginia's boundary since President Hoover. In 1922, dedicated the last locks on that broad boulevard of commerce.

Asking Walter Hart, editor of Morgantown "Dominion News" why the $65,000,000 Hayden Chemical Works was located on the Monongahela river at Morgantown. His answer was the same as I received to all such questions: "The improved river. When the federal government improved the Monongahela river with locks and dams it created the two things most essential to the success of modern industry - cheap transportation and ample and stable water reserves. There is a city of Morgantown because it has an improved river."

Here is a small part of the picture as a staff correspondent for the "Wall Street Journal" saw it: "Industrialists along the river (Ohio) without batting an eye, predict that within 10 years, the territory from Bowling to Port Pleasant, W. Va., will have firmly established chemicals as one of its major industries, alongside the stalwarts - coal, steel, oil and gas. The upper Ohio Valley soon may be one of the leading chemical centers of the country."

Of Costs Held Illegal Dismissals On Payment Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 25 - Mark Tackett, an attorney of Virgie, who declared there should be an investigation of dismissal of prosecutions upon payment of costs in Pike county, was advised today the procedure is illegal. Asking about such dismissals in making court by the County Attorney or one wanted to act for him, Tackett wrote: "It seems to me that the state and county is being 'gyped' around here in that respect. I should like an investigation of this matter in Pike county. It is getting so rotten it stinks." Attorney General Eldon S. Dummit replied that dismissals can be made only by the presiding judge, though a prosecuting attorney can recommend them. Dummit also expressed belief that Kentucky's Criminal Code forbids assessing costs unless a fine, however small, is imposed. Answering other questions from the Virgie attorney, the Attorney General declared: "1. No one can act as an assistant County Attorney, except in the absence of the County Attorney, and the assistant must post bond and take an oath and be qualified to receive the fees the County Attorney would have received. 2. A County Judge is entitled to fees in civil cases, but not in criminal cases. Approximately 2,000 feeder lambs are now on pasture in Pendleton county."

INFORMATION OF INTEREST TO VETERANS

(No. 8 of a Series)

The 19 questions that World War I veterans ask most frequently about job-training benefits under the G. I. Bill are answered herewith by Veterans Administration.

Veterans asked the questions in a study that VA conducted recently to learn how much they know about their federal benefits. The questions and answers follow:

Q. How much subsistence is paid for on-the-job training and what is the effect of the wage ceiling?

A. Veterans in job-training under the G. I. Bill receive $25 a month if they have no dependents, or $30 a month if they have one or more dependents. If they are earning $75 (without dependent) or $90 (with dependent) exclusive of their subsistence allowance, they are not entitled to VA subsistence payments under the law.

Q. What is the difference between on-the-job training and apprentice training?

A. The field of on-the-job training is almost limitless. It includes any job, except those recognized trade status, that has been approved by a state approving agency. This period of job-training must not be less than three months and more than 24 months. Apprentice training is similar to other job-training, but of an apprenticeship nature. It is training under an employer, as in the case of a veteran in job-training, the veteran-apprentice trainee under an apprenticeship council in accordance with state standards established by the council governing the apprenticeship in each trade. Also, apprentice training may run to a maximum of four years.

Q. Does VA and a job-training place for the veteran?

A. VA does not find an employer for any veteran who desires to enter job-training under the G. I. Bill. However, veterans may find the assistance of state, municipal or other employment agencies in locating a job-training establishment.

Q. How are places of job-training approved and how does a veteran find out what establishments are approved?

A. Training establishments are approved by state approving agencies for job-training under the G. I. Bill. All VA offices maintain a list of approved establishments in the area in which they are located.

Q. What tools and equipment does VA furnish on-the-job training?

A. VA may pay for those tools and equipment that are needed by the trainee for the satisfactory pursuit of his training course.

Q. Will VA pay tuition for a study in state or high school while he is in job-training?

A. Yes, provided his course of study is related to the vocation in which he is training, or if the high school course is prescribed and recommended as a part of his job-training.

Q. What happens if the employer terminates the veteran from his job-training situation?

A. The veteran's training status is terminated and his subsistence allowance ceases. It is then up to the veteran to seek another place of employment with approved job-training programs.

Q. What should the veteran do if he is not satisfied with the job-training he receives?

A. That is a matter for the veteran to decide for himself, but it might be advisable for him to seek the assistance of a VA training officer. He can always discontinue his training, or, with VA's permission, can switch to another training establishment.

Q. What does VA do to make sure the veteran is receiving good training?

A. Under the law, periodic inspections and checks of training establishments are required in accordance with nation-wide training and approval standards.

Q. If the veteran finishes a job-training course and has no attainment (time left), may he enroll in another job-training course or may he go to school for the remainder of his entitlement?

A. The veteran may use any entitlement either for job-training or for educational training with VA's prior approval.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.
Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

GATHERING PLACES

One of my graduate students has become very much interested in studying the places of some county where people have congregated since earlier times. Every county has its own folklore and a paper indicating the subject for study. A map showing the places and a paper indicating the rise and popularity of them would be a great addition to our knowledge of folk customs.

Spring everywhere have always been great centers of interest. Some of them became the water supply for the family, especially when they were located by or near a good horse site. Others became quite early neighborhood places where picnics were held or where a church grew up or where camps were held. Our Sulphur Springs, a little more than a mile from Paducah, contained many things, for it was a place for camps and of Kentucky Lake made it necessary to move the building to the village. In addition, it was the source of water supply to dry season after the others had given out and even the bored or dug wells might have struck there. We took our horses to water, and even the dug wells might have struck there. We took our horses to water, and even the dug wells might have struck there. We took our horses to water, and even the dug wells might have struck there.

Some of these springs early became summer hotels or camping places. Nearly every county had one or two such spots, of which have now ceased to be. But the old spring, probably checked up with weeds or bushes now, still puts out its water supply, quite dependable in appearance and giving while they are of its former greatness. I have visited many such places, both times camped at or near some of the former great places that had completely disappeared but have still kept a memory in the community.

Places that become known to the sight-seer are also important in this study of folk gathering places. A bluff, a hillside from which a great view or tradition—all of these I have known and visited. Our Devil's Pulpit, near Fidelity, was a rock-crowned hill with a wide prospect; hence the name. It was a popular spot for picnics and other gatherings. Our Devil's Pulpit, near Fidelity, was a rock-crowned hill with a wide prospect; hence the name. It was a popular spot for picnics and other gatherings. Our Devil's Pulpit, near Fidelity, was a rock-crowned hill with a wide prospect; hence the name. It was a popular spot for picnics and other gatherings.

Wouldn't you like to have a map of your own county worked out in detail, showing these gathering places and sights to show all wide-eyed or skeptical visitors?

What the Bible Says

By request of some interested friends of mine, I am giving a few Bible points on adultery and fornication.

LANGUAGE OF CHRIST
 "Moses, because of the hardness of your hearts, suffered you to put away your wives."

"But from the beginning it was not so and I say unto you, whoever put away his wife except for fornication and shall marry shall commit adultery and whoever marries her that is put away commits adultery." (Matthew 19: 8-9)

"Marriage is honorable in all and the bed undefiled, but whoremongering and adultery God will judge." (Heb. 13: 4)

"The wife is bound by the law as long as her husband liveth. But, if her husband be dead she is at liberty to marry whom she will only in the Lord." (1st Cor. 7: 3-9)

"Neither let us commit fornication as some of them committed and fell in one day three and twenty thousand." (1st Cor. 10: 8)

"But fornication and all uncleanness or covetousness let it be forgotten named among you as becometh saints, neither filthiness nor foolish talking nor feasting which are not committed, but rather giving of thanks, for this ye know that no whoremonger nor uncleanness person covetous man who is an idolator hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and of God." (Eph. 5: 3, 4, 5)

My Bible views on adultery and fornication are that any preacher or teacher that will give strength to either is causing our nation to perish, all such should be magged, arrested and their mouths stopped.

MAN SLAIN, DEPUTY SHOT

Louis, Ky., Oct. 1.—Mrs. Mary Jane Ward, young wife of Lonnie B. Ward, petitioned for a peace bond against him today after a fight last night in which his uncle was wounded fatally, and an elderly neighbor was shot.

Luther Ward, 48, died in a hospital here early today, several hours after the exchange of gunfire on Dry Fork, 20 miles from here.

A floor supervisor at King's Daughters' hospital, Ashland, said that the wounded man, Lee Thompson, who had been deputized to assist Deputy Sheriff H. H. Smith a year while before the shooting, was in fair condition. Thompson, a farmer, suffered a single bullet wound which struck him below the ribs and ran through his back.

Sheriff Proctor Pyke said that the Wards had been "crying out, riding their automobile through the Dry Fork district, during spring shooting and abusing some people," and that Smith had been called to quell the disturbance.

Thompson had just taken Lonnie Ward, 32, into custody on a drunkenness charge and was searching him, the Sheriff said, when Luther Ward fired his pistol, striking the fire, hitting Luther twice in the right side and once in the leg.

Pyke said neighbors of the Wards attributed the disturbance to the uncle and his nephew to Mrs. Ward, leaving Lonnie Ward, the trouble started, he said, near the home of the wife's parents. The younger Ward remained in jail here tonight, unable to pay a $21.50 fee imposed by Circuit Judge L. P. Wellman on the drunkenness charge.

The afternoon all were entertained by playing of the new electric typewriter and the showing of film on the projector which was purchased with proceeds from the picnic given August 8. INFORMATION OF INTEREST TO VETERANS

(No. 7 of a Series)

Disabled veterans are entitled to many federal benefits available to the nondisabled, according to Veterans Administration.

Some of these benefits are explained in the following replies to the 10 questions most frequently asked by disabled veterans during a study VA conducted to learn how much they know about the federal program:

Q. What benefits does the disabled veteran receive under the vocational rehabilitation program that is not available to him under the G.I. Bill?

A. The disabled veteran receives several additional benefits under the Vocational Rehabilitation Act of 1943 (Law 19). During his vocational rehabilitation and for two months after his employability has been established, he receives at least $10 if he has no dependents, or $15 if he has no dependents, plus $10 for each child $7 for each additional child and $15 for a dependent parent. He may receive more than these guaranteed minimums if his disability is permanent or permanent and recurrent, plus the standard allowance of $65 or $99 a month, is higher than the amount available under the act. Other advantages include certain traveling expenses, either "on duty" commutational, availability of a $100 government, extension of training enrollment under the act, and personal training offers. Additional details may be obtained at VA offices.

Q. Does VA help the disabled veteran get a job after he finishes his training?

A. Yes. Q. What is vocational adjustment all about and why is it required under this program?

A. The main purpose of vocational adjustment is to determine whether a disabled veteran should train for a profession, or for a particular trade or occupation based on his previous training and experience, personal desires and present ability. He is required to take a series of aptitude tests at a VA audience center where he is interviewed and counseled by a group of highly trained specialists. His aptitude and interest in various jobs in most cases, but the counselors are required to advise him of his aptitude or physical limitations do not insure a reasonable likelihood of success in the chosen employment is required under the program to insure the disabled veteran's proper rehabilitation.

Q. Will the disabled veteran's disability compensation be reduced if he enrolls in training under this program?

A. No. Q. What happens if the disabled veteran fails in his course under this program?

A. Generally, VA will take special steps to enter him in another course in which there is every likelihood he will complete successfully. The situation depends on the facts and circumstances in each case. Q. What are the conditions for eligibility under this program?

A. A disabled veteran must have had active service on or after Sept. 16, 1940 and before the official end of the war, with a discharge under conditions other than dishonorable. He also must have a compensable service-connected disability and he must show a need for vocational rehabilitation to overcome the handicap of his disability. Q. How much VA supervision and assistance does the disabled veteran get in his training?

A. VA training officers inform and assist him in all matters affecting his training. They are continually on the alert for circumstances that might prevent his progress and they exert every effort to remove these obstacles. Q. What is the maximum length of training a disabled veteran can get under this program?

A. The maximum is four years; however, VA may extend the time if factors in any case warrant an additional period of rehabilitation. Q. What happens if a veteran in training under this program becomes ill or is injured?

A. Under such conditions, if the veteran is injured, suffers a relapse, or if his disability is further aggravated during his training, he may be granted an increase in the rate of his disability compensation. If he requires hospitalization, it may be furnished at government expense. Q. Must a disabled veteran go to a vocational school or may he go to a liberal arts college, a high school, or similar institution under this program?

A. He may enroll in any VA-approved educational institution or training establishment offering the course or training which VA has found he needs to insure his proper rehabilitation in line with his own desires.

MAKE NO MISTAKE

ELECT ELMER BOWE, OF WYLAND, KY. FOR REPRESENTATIVE, 96th LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT. WORLD WAR VETERAN—FOUR YEARS IN ARMED FORCES—MEMBER AMERICAN LEGION

TO THE VOTERS
 At the recent primary I had no objection from my own party, for which I am justly grateful. Now, with opposition in the final election, I have nothing to say against my opponent. I merely ask the good people of the 96th District to consider my platform and the things I stand for, and as a citizen, my friendship for people of all classes, and my earnest desire to render you all the right kind of service. These things considered, I feel sure you will be kind enough to give me your support at the November election.

The following is my program for your consideration:
 1. A $700 state bonus for veterans.
 I have advocated state bonuses for veterans since my announcement for Representative. Some states have done it in the last part of the primary, but not in the last hour and last minute promises.
 Extreme differences make the extent of help to veterans planned by various states. In many states legislation is already in force which will mean actual cash and other benefits for veterans. Some states have no legislation at all, either adopted or pending, and apparently don't want to be bothered. When the war was finished and the boys were returning home, you remember, fellows, how they slapped you on the back and said nothing was too good for you boys. That's actually what they meant—nothing. Kentucky frees all disabled veterans from paying for dental and apparently don't afford it. Your past legislators with Bowe! He will stick with it.

The veterans need a bonus because of the failure of the economic system to restore him to his rightful place since his return. General Bradley says there are 4,000,000 veterans unemployed and 3,000,000 without homes in the scandalous housing shortage.

I want to ask you to turn your backs to those fearful, dirty days when your sons and brothers tore themselves away from a vote and turned their backs toward the enemy. You pledged to them the sword that we were entering the war to end all wars.

Let us bow our heads for one full minute of silent reflection, and ask ourselves if we and our official representatives are living up to these promises you made your sons and mothers. My buddies and comrades who have not returned to find out if you really meant what you said, vote with the veterans and vote for Representative.

 2. Increased Legislation and Representation to Miners.
 I have lived in the coal districts all my life. My father was killed by a fall of slate in the coal mines, and I know the hardships of the miners and problems of the laboring people. You can count on me 100 per cent for the miners. As William Jennings Bryan said, "You shall not press down upon labor this crown of thorns—you shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold."

3. Increase in Teachers' Pay; Teachers want Action, not Promises.
 4. Increase in Old Age Pensions $75 monthly in Old Age Pensions.
 5. Increase in Unemployment Compensation and remove red tape in drawing same. $30 for 26 weeks in absence benefits.
 6. $2.00 Auto License Tax.
 7. State Job Preference for Veterans; Equality of Social Opportunity, job and careers open on ability, not birth; freedom to select job from choice rather than necessity.
