HERO NEEDED FOR STORY

Speaking of heroes, Fr. Francis suggested I try out my pen for a camera and do a picture story for the paper. On top of that, he said the problem of heroes there was the matter of the subject—a detected looking booster with three sprightly legs chalking about him while the burglar king looked like he was considering abdication.

QUESTIONS TO ANSWER

Several years ago there was in the County Clerk's office here a box filled with letters, reports and other data which at one time were the property of the former main manager, several claim the Mountain View. This week I looked at these papers and made a rough index.

Their whereabouts are unknown. They may have been destroyed, they haven't been seen in several years.

If they were stored in the county clerk's office, they would have been destroyed in the fire which destroyed the county clerk's office in the late 1930s. The records of the county clerk's office were destroyed in the fire which destroyed the county clerk's office in the late 1930s.

OHIO VALLEY GROUP BACKS LOCKS, DAMS

Resolution Follows Washington Meeting Urging Canalization

This week 35 Eastern Kentucky leaders in the fight for Big Sandy river canalization had returned home from Washington where they urged on members of Congress the importance of the project, advocates of the waterway reported from another section of the country. Tuesday night of this week, this Valley Improvement Association, in its 53rd annual convention at Pittsburgh, unanimously adopted this resolution:

"We, the valley-wide and local interests representing the Congress of the United States its earnest consideration and immediate favorable action authorizing the canalization of the Big Sandy river and the Tullahoma and Lewis rivers in West Virginia and Kentucky."

Last Thursday evening, a delegate representing every county in this section and some in neighboring West Virginia was to a dinner at the Mayfield hotel in Washington, D. C., where the Congressional leaders were guests.

For two days they called on members of Congress, especially members of the House and Senate Public Works Committees—carefully explaining the Big Sandy canalization project, asking that it be considered solely on its merits.

Their case, they feel, can be reduced to a simple choice by the federal government.

Make the Big Sandy navigable so the huge resources of the coal and oil can be tapped and the region industrialized, or prepare to duplicate the Big Sandy river in the area of direct relief into the area.

There's no question about the choice members of the Big Sandy Association would make. They made it abundantly clear that they don't want a dam, that they don't want "redevelopment" or "conservation" or "any other special advantages over any other region; that they simply want a chance to be self-supporting by marketing their product on an equal basis with the product of other fields.

In Wells, Paintsville, one of the principal spokesmen at the Mayflower dinner last Thursday night, pointed out that the federal government is giving $100,000 in direct relief in the Big Sandy region between

JOHNSON GETS 10-YEAR TERM IN FRATRICIDE

Daniels' Trial, April 25, In Dan Collins Slaying Jury Returns True Bills

First murder trial of the current circuit court session ended Tuesday afternoon in the conviction of George Johnson, former deputy constable, in the slaying on Abner Park, several weeks ago, of his brother, Deputy Sheriff Matt Johnson. He was given a 10-year term.

It was said, next day that Johnson may appeal the verdict. During the trial he was confident, often saying he claimed his brother had shot him first. To explain the fact that some of his bullets, ranged slightly upward in the victim's body, he testified he fired from a crouch.

Mrs. Zella Mae Mannix, wife of Buster Mullins, in whose place of business the slaying took place, was the only Commonwealth witness and her testimony followed that she gave in a statement shortly after the shooting. She said she saw something with his brother who was drunk and small boys to clear out, that he shot to close the place. Then, she testified, he told George he was going to arrest him. Thereupon George Johnson informed his brother he was as much the law as you are. George started to draw his gun and Matt followed suit. George betting him to the draw and firing the first shot which apparently took effect.

As Matt Johnson reeled and sank forward, she said, he fired the shot going wild. George Johnson's bullet entered the victim's body, she testified, and he fell to the ground.

The defense, however, attacked through the evidence of several witnesses the slain officer's reputation for violence and also assailed his testimony. Little else was offered for the defendant, claiming Matt Johnson fired over his shoulder the first shot.

Johnson's indictment was returned on the 41 true bills reported by the grand jury both as of Wednesday morning and both men named in the indictment. Little else was offered for the defendant, claiming Matt Johnson fired over his shoulder the first shot.

Daniels, who is accused of the hammer-murder of Dr. J. C. McNeil, was also indicted. He is accused of the hammer-murder of Dr. J. C. McNeil, was also indicted.

SCHOOL HEAD TELLS STAND On Amateur Program; Says Misunderstanding Causes Recent Criticism

D. W. Howard, principal of the Betsy Layne consolidated school, declared this week that much of the criticism of the amateur program scheduled at Betsy Layne by the Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce was the result of a "lot of misunderstanding."

In a letter to Max Burns, president of the Kiwanis Club here, Mr. Howard explained: "Due to so many programs in Betsy Layne during the last few weeks, we cancelled our own amateur program that was planned. The P.T.A. tabled their drive (next year) of sponsoring the purchase of a piano for the school, and the officiating minister, Mr. Burns, made Sunday at Elkhorn City under direction of the Arnold Funeral home."

To the People of Floyd County:

When I first stated my intention, some time ago, to seek the Democratic nomination for Sheriff of this county, I promised that I would later make a definite, clear-cut statement as to what I would do if elected your Sheriff. This I propose to do now.

Permit me, however, first of all, to recall to your memory the fact that when I was elected County Clerk I promised I would give you all good service. For several years I was honored by the privilege of serving you, and you the people are the sole judges as to whether my record as an official proves that I can and will keep my promises to you.

Now, these things I promise you on my honor to do for Floyd County and its people when I am elected Sheriff:

1. I will pay have only those men as my deputies who are strictly Honest, sober at all times and citizens of upright character.
2. I will pay these deputies a salary which will justify from them good service and which at the same time will make unnecessary those "COFFEE HUNTS" which are so deeply and justly resented by the public. I will permit no deputy of mine to prey on the public, nor will I permit him to protect any person, in order to make a living.
3. As Sheriff I will work with the courts, and see that all warrants, summonses, etc., are executed promptly for the statutory fees. I will summon jurors who will mete out justice, without discrimination.
4. This county has a Local Option law, voted by the people. Under our system of government—the best system man has yet devised—the majority rules. This majority has declared in favor of a law forbidding the sale of intoxicants. As your Sheriff, I shall not shrink from my duty in enforcing, justly, this and all other laws.
5. The Sheriff's office has dealings with and touches every man, woman, boy or girl in the county in some respect. That is why it is an important office, and, regardless of creed, color, or station in life, I have given, and always will give, everybody the same consideration.

Every day I live, I want more than anything else that our county will be improved in morals so that our children will have a chance to grow in character as well as stature. There are more than 15,000 young boys and girls in our county whose character and citizenship depend largely on the leadership and the proper enforcement of the law.

As Sheriff I will not spend all my time in the office; I will send no man where I myself would not go. I will be out over the county with my deputies, helping the good citizens in their desire for peace and happiness, enforcing the law without fear or favor.

If the good people of Floyd county want their county to be better, and to see those things done which they have long dreamed of, they have the opportunity now to join me in a fight for that very cause. I welcome the friendship and support of all, and promise every service of which I am capable.

Sincerely,

P.T.A. Here Plans Union With State and National Groups; To Meet Tuesday
Next meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association here will, in all probability, be the most important of the current school year, for the reason that the P.T.A. at that session will attempt to join the state organization and also the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. It was said this week.

The meeting has been moved ahead from Thursday of this week to Tuesday of next, because of the KEA meeting in Louisville which a number of teachers will attend. All who are interested in the P.T.A. movement as an aid to the schools are being urged to attend the meeting.

Affiliation with the state and national organizations, it was explained, will furnish channels through which the local group may get expert help for its programs and activities which as an independent P.T.A. it cannot have. The National Congress of Parents and Teachers is the largest group in the world that centers its whole interest on the welfare of children.

Highway Department Says Scholarship Applications To Be Received in April

The State Highway Department announced last week applications for its student-employee scholarships will be received through April. Highway Engineer D. H. Bray said 58 applications already have come in for the 18 scholarships which the department values at $500 each. Graduates of accredited high schools are eligible. Examinations will be held May 2 in the department's district offices at Bowling Green, Flemingsburg, Louisville, and Somerset; May 3 at its office at Elizabethtown, and May 4 at its offices in Lexington, Covington, Paducah and Pikeville.

A University of Kentucky committee will choose two young men from each district to be enrolled at the College of Engineering. They will be classified as highway department employees and will be associated with its laboratory work on the University campus.

The scholarships will cover a six-year period. At the end of that time the students will have completed a course leading to a bachelor's degree in civil engineering and will have had three years of highway-engineering experience to their credit.

director for the group, said the sheriff's also had instructed counsel to take steps to see counties comply with the law which provides that the counties pay for sheriff's automobile expenses.

A majority of counties were reported to have failed to pay such expenses. It was estimated that automobile expenses average about $120 a year.

The sheriff's also approved the filing of a brief by their association in support of Jefferson County Sheriff Rees Dickson's attempt to collect a fee of 4 per cent instead of 1 per cent for collection of Jefferson county Board of Education school taxes.

The sheriff's contend Dickson is entitled by law to such a fee, although Jefferson circuit court held the provision invalid. The question now is before the Court of Appeals. Sheriff Thomas Fitzpatrick, Covington, and Gilbert Wallace, Edmonson, said steps also would be taken to have the County Clerks put addresses on tax bills given to the sheriff's for collection.

It was pointed out that in a majority of counties notice of tax bills due it, were not given until they became delinquent. If notice was given before the bills are due, it was said, the taxpayer would take advantage of discounts and avoid penalties.

Tax Commissioner Tests, Dates and Places Named According to New Law

Examination sites and dates for candidates for county tax commissioner were announced Monday by the State Revenue Department. Under a law passed last week by the special session of the Legislature, all examination certificates, except those held by present tax commissioners, have been revoked. All candidates for the office except incumbents seeking re-election, are required to take written and oral examinations given by the Revenue Department. The tests will be given by two Democratic members of the Kentucky Tax Commission and Dr. W. J. Moore, Richmond Republican, and a former state tax commissioner.

Candidates in this section will take the examination at Pikeville, April 21. Candidates who took the written examination under the old law on March 14 are not required to take another written examination. But they must now take the oral test on the date set for their Congressional district.

The department noted the new law provides minimum pay of $2,400 a year for county tax commissioners. It encourages all persons interested in the job to take the examinations.

might but stories of failure in the sport. Anyway, it appears that a Prestonsburg merchant has been a follower of the hounds—a rider-runner, that is to say—and his wife, not feeling up to such strenuous sport, has found it impossible to be with him during these footchases. So, in view of the likelihood of fatherhood and the demands on her patience the sport may make it difficult to become an addict. Indeed, she has become an addict, decided to try it, and she is now on her way to the hills, she has decided to try it, and she is now on her way to the hills, she has decided to try it, and she is now on her way to the hills.

BITCH AND SOME OTHER GUYS

These newspaper headlines are so misleading. For upwards of two weeks I have been reading of a bitch, the headless rooster, who not only set up a squawk when a Los Angeles housewife began diving into his bathtub but actually got up from the cooling board, to come to speak and joggled off. And until a few days ago, as a result of these headlines, I had carried around with me a mental picture of the rooster ambulating about with only his headless collar up above his collar which would have been, had he worn such a thing.

Now however, I am enlightened. The rooster isn't headless at all. His executioner, a Mrs. Martha Green, simply didn't do a good job with the ax or cleaver or whatever she used to remove the head. She just shut her eyes and swung on the fowl. The base of the brain, the medulla, remains, and this, you know, is the part of the brain that keeps the rooster's headless, in a messy sort of way, but not altogether de-capitalized.

So now I envision this fugitive from the flock in another light. He's rambling around, taking no account, feeling nothing, knowing nothing, caring less. Which perversely conjures for me visions of a lot of human roosters. I have known to be in practically the same "fix."

Guys with heads lolling out of car windows while they sit at the wheel, numbed, blinded, by drink, guys riding along a crowded street in an automobile, scattering children before them like leaves tossed by the wind; guys with a vacant look of torpidity showing between their eyebrows and the halcyon, sporting people without which they would be unrecognizable—a list and ignoble array of guys numb from the neck up. Guy roosters, yes. Roosters with the medulla functioning but the cerebral processes on temporary or permanent vacation. Roosters taking no account. Unthinking, unfeeling, unfeeling. Fumes dragging in the dust. Fetch me that axe!

Heart Attack Claims Former Mine Foreman At Wayland Tuesday

Daniel B. Hicks, 31 years old, former mine foreman for the Elk Horn Coal Corporation at Wayland, and well-known Floyd county man, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon at his home in Wayland. Death resulted from a heart attack.

A native of Knott county, he was a son of Ex-Ministrate and Mrs. J.A. Hicks, of Garretts. He had lived at Wayland for the last 10 years and had many friends there. Mr. Hicks was a veteran of World War I. Surviving are his parents, his widow, Mrs. Hattie Hicks, one son, Daniel, Jr., and two daughters, Mrs. Keith Scott Garrett, and Mrs. C. C. Taffe, Wayland. Three brothers and five sisters also survive: Joe and Robert Hicks, both of Wayland; Richard Hicks Garrett, Mrs. Alpha Earle Devlin, O. Mrs. Eddie Lewis Weeksbury, Mrs. Dawson Bussey and Mrs. Carl Wise, both of David, and Mrs. Milton Trusty, of Garrett.

Funeral services were conducted this afternoon (Thursday) from the Stone Coal Baptist Church and burial was made in the Mt. Olive Cemetery near Eastern, the Ryan Funeral Home directing. Military honors were accorded by the American Legion.

The Sunday School was started in Gloucester, England, in 1735.

1939 and 1940. Estimated cost of the canalization project, he said, is $82,900,000. Wells pointed out, also, that the people of the area depend almost entirely—either directly or indirectly—upon the mining and shipping of coal. Their mines, he said, are, and have been for many years, a marginal industry. Marginal, not because the coal is not abundant and of the best quality, but because it costs them $2.75 to ship a ton of coal to Cincinnati by rail, whereas it costs the mines of the Kanawha river valley in West Virginia just 80 cents to ship a ton of coal to Cincinnati through the canalized Kanawha river and the Ohio.

Dr. O. W. Thompson, Pikeville president of the Association, quoted government-bureau statistics to the effect there is enough high-quality coal in the Big Sandy area to maintain high mine output for 100 years or more. And he added that if the coal could be brought out of the mines now so difficult of access, the region not only would prosper from the shipping of coal but also from the attracting of industries to Pikeville, Prestonsburg, Paintsville, Lenoir, Catlettsburg, Ashland, and other towns and cities in the surrounding area.

The project was approved three years ago by the army engineers, and the Secretary of War. And during the 79th Congress, authorization was included in the rivers-and-harbors bill brought to the House floor. There the project was deleted, the only item in the omnibus bill singled out for defeat. Association members were angry because of the opposition of the railroads and of some Congressmen from other states—including West Virginia—who felt they would be protecting their own areas by killing the project.

William H. Webb, executive vice-president of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, told the group that he brought to the House floor "one of the best in the United States" and that it had a top priority on that organization's list of recommended projects.

Congressmen who spoke at the dinner and pledged support were Brent Spence, Tom Underwood, Noble Gregory, James, Carl Perkins and Frank Chaffin.

E. E. Hedrick, of West Virginia, attended the dinner but left before the Congressmen were called on to speak at the Burdette Hotel in West Virginia. He said not whether he was for or against the project, but he cautioned members of the Association that 79 cents of every tax dollar is going for payment for the last war and the current defense program, adding that the House program would give chance your project will get through this Congress."

Dr. Thompson replied that the Association members felt they would be successful, because culmination of the project would aid in the nation's industrial defense plans.

Magoffin Man Wounded In Result of Argument Over Moonshine Whisky

Wernie Allen, 25-year-old Magoffin county man, is in a serious condition at the Palestine hospital from a revolver bullet wound said to have been inflicted Monday by a neighbor, Ben Prater, during an altercation in Long Branch across the mountain from David. Allen was shot in the face, below his eye, and the bullet emerged, it was said, at the back of his head. State police said they were told an argument over moonshine whiskey led to the shooting.

Ohio River Cities Stress
Water Sanitation

Cities on the upper reaches of the Ohio river and its tributaries are showing an unusual recognition of the importance of pollution control action, Henry Ward, Kentucky commissioner of conservation, reported following a meeting of the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission at Pittsburgh.

The city of Pittsburgh and 126 other municipalities in Allegheny county, Pa., are cooperating in a joint program to build a sewage treatment plant, Ward said.

"The Pittsburgh area recognizes its obligation to cease dumping its raw sewage and industrial wastes onto the cities downstream," Ward said. "Kentucky cities need to advance their own programs to cooperate in the Ohio river pollution control plan."

Ward was elected vice-chairman of the commission, which is composed of representatives of eight states in the Ohio river basin, Joseph L. Quinn, Terre Haute, Indiana, was named chairman, succeeding Hunson Biery, of Cincinnati.

TO THE PEOPLE OF FLOYD COUNTY:

This is to announce my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the office of Jailer.

Four years ago, you were kind enough to help me in my race for this office, and I have never ceased to be grateful to you for that confidence. As Jailer I have conducted myself personally, the jail and all its duties as I think I should have. As far as my own physical condition would permit, I have worked hard to make you a good jailer and to care for the courthouse property as best I could. When unable to do this, I have had sober, honest assistants to do the work for me.

In short, I have tried to conduct myself and the office so that the good people could, without shame or stigma of conscience, vote for me again.

Had not inflated prices made it impossible for me to save any money out of the fees which are fixed by law, in time of low prices or high I perhaps would not have again asked you to help me. But the truth is, I have made no money out of the Jailer's office. Now, with the prospect of lower prices, it is possible, within the next four years, to make for myself and family the "nest egg" I had hoped to earn during my present term.

Certainly I have no ambition to remain in politics over a long period. As most of you know, I am unable to go into the mines or other fields of hard labor and earn a livelihood. But I can do the work of Jailer as well as any and that is why I again ask a candidate.

Please consider my case. I trust you will not think I am asking too much.

Your friend,
EVERETTE COLLINS

thorities' menace to public health. It is a menace for bathing or drinking and is a potential source of harm to the community in which it exists.

Offenders Named

Every minute there is some form of this pollution entering our streams, and many communities may be using such water for drinking purposes without much purification. Hospitals, garbage dumps, the man waste, coal mine washing, gas stations are chief causes. Oil from pumping, storage and piping operations, also refinery waste, present injuries in a combination of ways. Death by suffocation is caused when contact concentrations become sufficient to coat fish gills or the respiratory organs of aquatic animals. Oil films on water prevent absorption of oxygen from the air by water. Additionally, quantities of oil suspended in water (mixed with) deplete dissolved oxygen. Certain portions of oil mixed with heavy materials sink, destroying fish spawning beds and killing fish food. Oil contacting aquatic plants and other plants bordering waters cause them to die and decay. Oil either causes direct injury to aquatic plants and animals or starvation from destruction of food.

Examples of these are: United Fuel Gas Company at Wayne and Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company at Dwale.

Iron sulfide and iron pyrites present in coal are acted upon by dissolved oxygen in water to produce Fe 504 (copperas), sulfuric acid (H2SO4) and sulfuric acid (H2SO4). Similarly the elemental sulfur of coal is oxidized to sulfuric acid. In addition to acid destruction, mining operations, especially coal washing, causes quantities of dust and all to find its way into stream. This depleted oxygen shuts out light and does other damage such as covering up fish eggs with silt, making it impossible for fish to spawn.

Examples of those now doing this are Diamond Eikhorn, Hugsyville, Elk Horn Coal Corporation, Wayland, and Princess Eikhorn Coal Company, David. Those that have corrected this type of pollution are Central Eikhorn Coal Company No. 3, Lackey, and Utility Eikhorn Coal Company, Martin.

Miscellaneous Dumping
The common practice of using streams and their banks as repositories for unwanted materials cannot be justified on the pretext of any explanation. Carcasses and garbage load streams with disease-producing germs, restricting recreation as well as offending the sense. Rotten fish crockers in cans with jagged edges, barbed wire and other refuse physically jeopardize swimmers, fishermen and others, contribute generally to accidents and disgust.

All of this type of pollution causes diseases which could be avoided by correction of the above polluting effects. Every year medical officers ask children to stay out of these streams which are diseased. Why not stand behind your conservation officer and get these streams cleaned up?

Examples of these can be found from the mouth of the Big Sandy to the head of all our small streams, including both Beaver Creeks and small tributaries.

Sawdust Cause

Wood and bark in general contain tannic acid. The principal damage to fish from sawdust is the leaching out of tannic acid into water. Sawdust, due to decomposition, uses up oxygen of water and, on settling, often destroys fish nests and food.

observed. After the first four games they will be permitted to do as they wish in the matter and Rollins will retain them, it is reported. Wilbur Schu, slated for the Pikeville date with the Prestonsburg VFW Band against the visitors, was eliminated from the game line-up for the same reason. Schu, a former U.K. Wildcat, is the coach at Prestonsburg high school.

Next Monday night the "Olympians" are scheduled at Paducah to parade with Benton, independent state champion and national runner-up, and on April 26 the U.K. Luckey Hilltoppers All-Stars at Owensboro. The Hilltopper squad will feature Johnny Oldham, Charlie Parsley, Oren McManney, Don Ray, Odie Spears, Dee Gibson, and others.

Charles Lafferty also pitches and Bert Campbell, when the occasion demands, can take the mound with a southpaw delivery. He rates "Pepsi" Taylor as one of the heaviest hitters in this section.

The Purple Flash follow Saturday's game by meeting Garrett, April 22; Garrett, at home, April 29; Wheelwright, a night game there, May 6; Wayland, night game there, May 13; Wayland, at home, May 20. Planning an eight-game schedule, Halbert said he was negotiating with Prestonsburg for two remaining dates in late May. If these don't materialize he expects to schedule some other opponent, he stated.
