The criminal act was postponed till April 10. The delay was necessary to have Osborne give a physical and mental examination as required by law in the case of habitual lawbreakers.

The two-year term given Warren O. Hill, earlier in the court session, for voluntary manslaughter in the death of a Left Beaver Creek man who allegedly was struck by Hill's car, was set aside last week. Conflicting evidence caused the action. Hill previously had been denied a new trial.

The two-year term given Candell Stanley for child desertion was prolated after Stanley had executed bond to pay $80 a month for the support of his children till they reach age 16.

Convictions in circuit court since last Tuesday morning include these: Kermis Menter Johnson, while license revoked, $20 fine and 30 days in jail; Clay Daniels, clock check, $25 fine and 10 days, granted new trial for April 17.

The jury disagreed in the trial of Dewell Whitten on a charge of selling alcoholic beverages. Hilford Mitchell was acquitted of a child desertion charge.

Cases dismissed, all for lack of prosecution, were: Clayton Goe, unlawful conversion of property; Bunn Hay, drunk driving and drunkenness; Riley Crouch, reckless use of a deadly weapon.

MAGOFFIN BOY, 14, BREAKS WORLD'S RECORD WITH CORN

On display at the office of the Floyd County Times office are two ears of corn from the world's record acre production grown by a 14-year-old Magoffin county boy, on the North Middle Fork of the Licking River.

Cledith Rowe, 4-H Club boy, is the new world's champion corn producer. His yield of 232.2 bushels on one acre of land surpasses the previous world record of 224.2 bushels held by Carroll Brown of Iowa.

The yield was made with two white corn hybrids of which the major part was Kentucky Certified No. 523W. The corn bottom land where the corn was grown has been built up during recent years by young Rowe's father, J. H. Rowe, who produced only 17 bushels per acre in it in 1936. The land has been limed and fertilized well in recent years and cover crops of vetch and vetch have been turned under annually.

The fertilizer treatment for the record crop of corn included 1,000 pounds of 20-20 superphosphate applied in the fall of 1950; 1,400 pounds of 6-6-6, 800 pounds of 30-0-0 ammonium nitrate and 500 pounds of 60-0 muriate of potash applied in the spring of 1951.

Planting was done by hand on May 8, dropping 2 or 3 kernels in hills 10 inches apart in 26 rows. A total of 24,696 stalks were estimated to be on the acre. Yields were based on 15 1/2% moisture, the test for moisture being made at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

Cledith and his father have taken part in the Kentucky Corn Derby in the past 10 years since it was organized, with previous yields running from a low of 100 bushels in 1948 to 145.3 in 1949. Their average yield for the 6 years is 158.7.

S. L. Isbell, former County Agent for Floyd, visited the Rowe farm recently and inspected the corn in the field. He says there is not "mud" in the entire lot. The Rowes, father and son, have as their goal, a production of 300 bushels to the acre; a goal scientists have been thinking about for years but agreeing that it was a very remote future accomplishment.

Planting has been invited to appear at the Midwest Soil Conservation Service meeting in Chicago, March of this year. There he will explain some of the problems he solved in his record production and tell about his goal of 300 bushels in the year which he hopes to accomplish with the installation of an overhead sprinkling system in the event precipitation is inadequate and the raising of the fertility of the soil by addition of other fertilizers.

Of this goal of 300 bushels to the acre, Harold B. Rice, present county agent of Floyd county says: "It may do it but it will be difficult. I wouldn't say he can't, in the face of this year's record."

Mr. Isbell states that one advantage the Rowe farm soil had was the clay base which would take fertilizer well and retain it.

"The elder Rowe," Isbell added, "has been a 4-H Club leader in his community for about 16 years and keeps pure bred Brown Swiss cattle and pure bred Hampshire hogs. His tobacco is so superior that he competes in the Lexington tobacco shows. He is an all around farmer."

announcement to give up on the camouflage, I'd say, off-hand, that the make-up wasn't hurting her or anybody else. But you can't convince a female of this turn of mind that a freckle looks better under the second coat, and she produces arguments which might convince you that you're all wet.

She, for instance, points to the Egyptians of five to seven thousand years ago who started this cosmetic thing and put Eva Arden, eternal in business, and wears those eternal and-polish gals and gobs of that day were outier even than those who are causing our Hengist cousins as much trouble around Susa. Furthermore, she tells what Jeezied did when she saw that Jehu was on his way. "Painted her face," says the Stafford. "And look what happened to Jeezied." She even lays the defeat of the American Tardis motif to the paint they used on their mustache to the whites and a sort of powder our ancestors used in their suns.

"I honestly believe," says the singing star, "one reason for today's divorce rate is the hypocrisy of women."

"That'll do for one reason. I could list several others, one of which is the pure casuedness of both women and men."

By a large, freckles and all with a lovely singing voice and a wholesome outlook, I am tempted to say this Miss Jo Stafford is a splendid example of American womanhood. But I shan't.

The last time I gazed on such a critter and pronounced her passing fair and a gal of the finest type, she up within a week, left her husband and took up with an Italian movie director.

HONOR COURT PLANS TOLD

Function Here Monday To Attract 100 Scouts; One To Get Eagle Award

One hundred or more Boy Scouts from all parts of Floyd county will gather here Monday evening for the first district Court of Honor held in this county in several months. Jack Hodge, district Scout executive, announced this week.

Scouts from David, Auxier, Dwayne, Maytown, Wayland, Drift, Wheelwright and Prestonsburg will participate and receive awards ranging from Tenderfoot rank to Eagle, Scouting's highest award.

Guy Martin, of Martin, will award this coveted Eagle rank—a place in Scouting attained by a relatively few and by these only through hard work, living up to the highest Scout standards and earning at least 21 Merit Badges.

The Court of Honor, which will be presided over by C. H. Corbin, Prestonsburg, and George Evans, of Wayland, will begin at 7 p. m. in the county courtroom. In addition to the Scout and their parents, Cub Scouts and their parents also will take part in the ceremonies.

Emhmen, Former Manager Of Co-op Here, Promoted 'Skid Row,' Religious Film, Portrays Alcoholic Life

LeRoy A. Emhmen, former manager of the Big Sandy Electric Co-operative here, has accepted a position with the Hubbard Company of Pittsburgh, a manufacturer of electric distribution line materials, it was announced recently. After his resignation from the management of the rural electric co-op here, Emhmen was promoted to Grayland Electric Company, of Cincinnati, and covered the Big Sandy for that company while living in Lexington.

His new job will be as sales engineer for the Hubbard Company and he will be located in Des Moines, Iowa. The Hubbard Linebuilder, a trade magazine, in announcing Emhmen's connection with their company, said: "His friends call him 'Slim' but that's only because his 6 feet 6 inches give him that appearance. He started to work with the Iowa Power & Light Company, spent some time as lineman with the American Telephone & Telegraph Company. He received his education at Iowa State College, University of Iowa, and Westinghouse Technical Night School. Slim has two sons, aged 15 and 12. They are old enough to go along when their father goes hunting and he is well able to teach them the joint arts of getting the game and doing the camp cooking."

To coin a bromide—young love has its problems, as exhibited by Jim Davis and Blanche McKinnin in the world-famous Barter Players' production of the modern comedy, "The Vinegar Tree." The delightful farce that has four love stories will be seen here February 19 at the grade school auditorium under the sponsorship of the Junior Woman's Club.

LINES DRAWN ON MINE BILL

Bitter Fight Develops As Merits of Two Bills Argued before Committee

Lines were drawn for a bitter legislative fight in the General Assembly this week with the proposed Mine Workers' bill, sponsored by the Federal Bureau of Mines, on one side and the coal operators on the other.

The anticipated battle is over House Bill 10, a mine safety bill sponsored by the former and House Bill 158, a mine safety bill having administration approval and support by the operators.

Appearing before the House committee on mines, oils and minerals was an impressive array of witnesses, some pro and con, a few like A. D. Sick, chief of the Department of Mines and Minerals who while speaking in an official capacity before the House bill. Pros for House bill were Sam Caddy, head of UMW District 30, Troy L. Black, Washington, inspector of the Federal Bureau of Mines, and J. B. Benson, another inspector. Kenneth Howe, of Pikeville, and John Young Brown, attorneys for the Mine Workers, were present but did not testify.

O. S. Batten, of Pikeville, representing the Kentucky Coal Operators Association, was present and presented the operators' side. "The United Mine Workers' objection to this summed up by one of their spokesmen, who said: 'It is a mere compromise with mine safety based upon the false notion that the real mine safety should run many operators out of business.' But the operators say: 'The bill is loaded with punitive and nuisance sections. It demonstrates that miners are unwilling to accept their fair share of responsibility for mine safety.'"

Sick said he started preparation of the bill in December under a directive from Governor Wetherby. He consulted his own organization, Sam Caddy and the Federal Bureau of Mines. "But I say to you," he added, "that mine safety cannot be had without the education and the co-operation of the miners themselves. Each miner has got to come to the mental attitude that he is his own safety committee."

But Caddy implied that he believes the cards are stacked against him at Frankfort. "We have no reason," he said, "to believe that our bill is the one really under consideration at this hearing. But I will not come to this committee hearing, or to any other, and compromise with the lives, backs, and limbs of the 70,000 miners in Kentucky."

Since the eight-hour day in 1938, Caddy said, operators have advanced the notion that better working conditions would drive them out of business.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all the many friends and relatives who offered their assistance, kindness and sympathy upon the death of our beloved son and brother, Jake Thomas. We would especially thank Revs. Benedict and Stratton for their comforting words and the Allen Baptist Church choir for the beautiful songs. We thank Carter & Callahan Funeral Home for their fine efficient services. Last but not least we thank the young military escort, Sgt. Bolce, for his kindness and understanding sympathy.

Hepatitis and Ringworm Reported for Kentucky

Since January 1 there have been mild outbreaks of infectious hepatitis—commonly called yellow jaundice—in scattered areas of the state, according to G. R. Jones, M.D., Assistant Director, Division of Preventive Medical Services, Kentucky State Board of Health.

Although only 37 cases have been officially reported thus far this month, there are undoubtedly cases which have not yet been reported to us," Dr. Jones said. In Pendleton county the health officer reported 13 cases, seven of them in one school. Henderson reported 12 cases officially and 14 more cases were unofficially reported. Other counties in which cases have occurred are Grayson, Harlan, Marion, Lee and Knox.

A virus infection, infectious hepatitis is believed contagious through human excreta. Outbreaks often occur as the result of poor sanitation, Dr. Jones said. The incubation period is approximately one month, which often makes tracking down the infecting agent "most difficult," he explained.

A number of cases of ringworm of the scalp also are reported in the state, mostly in western Kentucky. Dr. Jones said. A very contagious disease, ringworm is caused by a fungus and its victims usually are school children, especially boys, between the ages of 7 and 12. It is usually "picked up" from wet backs in trains, buses or movie theaters, or is transmitted by using combs, brushes, caps or hats belonging to someone who has ringworm.

An epidemic of ringworm of the scalp struck Prestonsburg two years ago and was brought under control only by a prolonged campaign waged by health authorities, assisted by several civic organizations.

The second conviction of one week of the fair sex for setting a forest fire was that of Oma Amburgey, of Drift, who was fined $10 and costs in county court, Saturday. Other county court convictions of the week: Randolph Hunt, selling whiskey, $50 fine and 30-day jail term; Italy Spears, drunk driving, $100 fine, driver's license revoked; John Belcher, permitting operation of his car by an intoxicated driver, $10.

UMWA'S SUIT OF $2 MILLION

Transferred to London
For Trial; Brown Says
That Site 'Unfriendly'

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 4.—A $2,000,000 suit brought by the United Mine Workers on charges that a reign of terror existed in Clay and Leslie counties was ordered transferred to the London docket of federal court by United States District Judge H. C. Ford today.

The judge's decision to transfer the widely discussed case from the Jackson docket came after a U.M.W. attorney had pleaded that the suit not be set for trial at London.

"Many of the witnesses in this case are fearful that if the trial is held at London they will have to go to the United Kingdom to get there," John Young Brown, attorney for the union, told Judge Ford.

"In a civil-rights trial held at London several years ago, witnesses testified during the case that the next day was killed after returning to his home," Brown said. He apparently referred to a case tried at London in the summer of 1938.

Defendants in that case, which involved the alleged violation of the civil rights of miners, were 22 coal corporations, 24 executives of coal companies, and 22 law-enforcement officers. The trial started in May and ended in August, with the defendants being taken to London, Judge Ford said.

He said that the case transferred to London, Judge Ford said, "was primarily concerned with the convenience of the defendants and I believe that London is the ideal place to hold this trial in view of the location close to the homes of many witnesses and the fact that they are ample hotel accommodations there."

"After all, you would have to go through somebody's territory if you came to Lexington or Richmond for the trial."

Brown previously had suggested both Lexington and Richmond as possible sites for the trial. The London term of federal district court will open April 7. No specific date for the start of the $2,000,000 damage suit was set at the day's hearing. Judge Ford said he would determine the date later, after conferring with attorneys for both sides.

In the suit filed September 11, representatives of the union charged its officials and members were terrorized, threatened and intimidated in Clay and Leslie counties—the last stronghold of non-unionism in the Eastern Kentucky coal fields.

Included among more than 140 defendants in the case were coal companies, their officials and operators, and law-enforcement officers. The petition stated there were 11 incidents against union organizers and representatives between last May and the time when the action was filed in September.

Specifically, the suit asked for $1,000,000 actual and $1,000,000 punitive damages against the mine operators and law-enforcement officers. It also asked generally that the defendants be "enjoined, restrained, and inhibited from interfering with the right of miners to become members of labor organizations and their own choosing."

Funeral Rites Sunday For Cpl. Roy L. Layne Victim of Korean War

Funeral rites will be conducted from the Betty Layne high school auditorium Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock for Cpl. Roy Leon Layne, son of the Rev. Carl and Ollie Bush Layne.

Cpl. Layne, who was killed in action in Korea, October 9, 1951, was born Oct. 13, 1927. Before entering the service he was employed as an operator for the C. & O. Railway at Betty Layne, this county. He was a graduate of the Betty Layne high school. He entered the armed services on Jan. 8, 1951 at Portsmouth, Ohio and received his basic training at Fort Knox, Ky. On May 15, 1951 he was home on furlough but soon reported for assignment, sailing from Seattle for Japan on June 10. After a few days in Japan he was sent to Korea and met his death in action at Rogers Hill.

A soldier in Cpl. Layne's unit who survived a serious wound wrote the parents about the action, in which three others were killed and 17 wounded. The men were caught in between the cross fire of two enemy machine guns. This action, the soldier buddy wrote, was one of several battles in which Cpl. Layne engaged.

Besides his parents, he leaves a brother, Robert Layne, of Betty Layne, and two sisters, Mrs. Lucille Whitaker, Paintsville, and Mrs. Ruth Layne, Paducah, Ky.

The body will be removed from the train and taken to the parents' home at Justell. The funeral at the high school auditorium will be conducted by the Baker Funeral Home and the officiating ministers will be the Revs. Dewey Fraker, Isaac Stratton and Clyde Layne. Burial will be in the Ferguson Cemetery at Laynesville.

TOBACCO BEDS

Now is the time to start preparing your tobacco beds. At present the ground is too wet to work but wood can be hauled for burning. Number can be obtained for boxing the bed, and a good grade of tobacco docket can be made after a U.M.W. attorney had pleaded that the suit not be set for trial at London.

Select a fertile, well drained spot for the bed. It should have a south or eastern exposure and be free from shade. Plenty of sunlight will help control blue mild.

You should sow a root resistant variety such as Ky. 16, Ky. 41A, or Burley 1. Ky. 16 is the most popular variety and is one of the best varieties of burley tobacco yet developed. It is a high yielding stand-up variety of good quality. Ky. 41A is a high yielding, semi-stand-up variety that is moderately resistant to black root-rot. It is of high quality but isn't as widely adapted as Ky. 16. Burley 1 is a high yielding, high quality burley tobacco that was developed in Tennessee. It yields a higher percentage of smoke tobacco than any other variety. It produces a lot of suckers and the bottom leaves fire badly.

There are other varieties that are resistant to root-rot but they are not as good as the ones mentioned above.

You should prepare your seed bed thoroughly before burning so that only a very light raking will be all that is necessary before sowing the seed. Deep raking will cause the bed to be more fertile. Fertilize the bed at the rate of 20 pounds of 8-8-8 for each 100 feet of bed 6 feet wide.

Sow 2 level teaspoons of cleaned seed to 100 feet of bed 6 feet wide. Seeding should be done as soon as the weather permits, which is usually the last half of February, or March. Between the best time for seeding is March 1 to 15.

To distribute the seed evenly, mix them with screened wood shavings, or commercial fertilizer. Go over the bed several times, sowing part of the seed each time, assures even distribution.

Box the bed tight, using 1" by 6" material. Use a good grade tobacco cotton. Draw it over the top of the bed, leaving a foot or so of cotton to the sides.

If more information is desired write your County Agent for Leaf-let 63, Tobacco Plant Bed Management.

Heart Association's Anniversary Heralded By Opening of Drive

The thirteenth anniversary of the American Heart Association will be heralded by the opening of the 1952 Heart Fund drive in Floyd county and elsewhere in the nation.

The campaign for funds will be conducted in each community of the county by local Women's Clubs as in previous years. Of the funds raised in this campaign 75 per cent will remain in the state and 25 per cent will go to the national organization for research and education. By research the American Heart Association hopes to vanquish heart disease entirely, while by education, it will seek to control the ravages of the 21 forms of heart disease.

Heart trouble causes one-third of the deaths in America and is the killer of 50 per cent of those dying over the age of 45. In Floyd county, in 1950, the latest year for which there is a complete record, of 258 deaths 78 were from heart disease directly and many others died of illnesses with heart complications.

Plastic heart-ven containers are now prominently displayed throughout the county in stores and offices to accept contributions to this worthy cause.

STUDY CHANGE IN ROAD PLAN

Raccoon Fork Survey Changes Work Save An Estimated $3,000

The State Highway Department, considering changes in the survey down Raccoon Fork of Salt Lick in this county for the Salversville-Hindman road, County Judge Henry Stumbo said, Wednesday.

Map work is now being done and is expected to be completed by February 18, he added. Judge Stumbo expressed the hope that changes on the survey will save Floyd county upwards of $3,000 on rights-of-way purchases.

Changes in the survey will not make necessary re-advancing of the route, which already has been let to contract, a highway department employee said. All that will be necessary will be for the department and the contractor to agree on a contract figure changes resulting from a greater or lesser amount of work made necessary by survey alterations, he explained.

Judge Stumbo said condemnation suits on the Raccoon right-of-way have been prepared as little hope of settlement with the various property-owners was seen under the original survey, but announcement of the state's willingness to attempt a change of the survey in certain spots will delay the filing of the suits.

The route, when completed, will open up the head of Licking section of Magoffin county and the Quick-sand area in Magoffin, at the same time opening the Right Beaver part of Floyd with new coal operations in Breathitt and giving the three counties a short route to the Blue-grass.

solidly Republican as the present state, and the other districts would remain in their respective folds about as prior election returns have dictated. It is conceded by the realists, though, that nobody would get very far with a re-districting plan anticipating major changes in the political complexion of the state's Congressional delegation.

The University's plan, it is conceded by all, obtains almost a mathematical exactitude in their districts, well within the 15 per cent ratio. In some instances, this exactitude was obtained at the expense of geographic distortion and its attendant evil of having two or more major and diverse economic interests in the same district.

A plan proposed here envisions a compact, contiguous seventh district, while it has something near 9,000 population in excess of the exact 38,100 population desired for each district for those inclined to be mathematically correct, yet it has, its proponents say, so many other added features of merit that it deserves consideration. The seventh, as proposed here, would begin with Earl and include Lecher, which is left out of the University group's seventh, Harlan, Perry, Knott, Pike and Floyd. Inclusion of Leslie would give a population of 37,000. Deletion of Leslie, which would lessen the geographic compactness and compactness, would leave a district with a population of 36,000. This district would have no geographic distortions and the population would have the common industrial interest of timber.

This plan should not throw the other districts out of line in the matter of attaining an approximate population within the suggested percent of allowance envisioned in HR 2648. Very little partisan consideration entered into the drafting of the district, it is claimed. It could conceivably be Democratic or Republican, depending upon the prevailing sentiment of the time.

1952 HUDSON HORNET Four-Door Sedan in Hudson-Alfa Hardtop Styling

Fabulous new HUDSON HORNET has a new lower-priced running mate...the spectacular HUDSON WASP

THE 1952 HUDSONS ARE READY FOR DELIVERY AT HUNTER MOTOR SALES, MARTIN, KY.

We are ready to give you a demonstration. Hudson has gone all the way and we are very happy with the results. These two cars together with the luxurious Commodores and beautiful low price Pacemakers are unsurpassed for beauty, durability, comfort and safety.

They are the only cars built that have the Moni-Bilt frame with step-down design giving additional safety with the low center of gravity. You can't buy human life but a dollar spent wisely might save the one you have. They are the only cars built with safety mechanical brakes that work on the same pedal if the hydraulic brake should give away.

For durability read the results of the gruelling stock car races that were run in several different states in 1951. Stock car race drivers are the best judges of the tough motor. Marshall Teague, Pim Flock and several others drive the Hudson Hornet, because Flock, who had at first driven competitive cars, changed to the Hudson Hornet and won. As Floyd Clymer, automobile expert for Popular Mechanics states: "They are a wild cat on wheels."

For satisfaction read what Hudson owners have to say. R. M. Barnett, a prominent business man of Martin, Kentucky, states: "I have driven all makes of automobiles, have owned and driven my own car for 36 years. Four years ago I bought a Hudson and found complete satisfaction. I drive my Hudson 60,000 miles and trade on a new one. I find the trade-in value very satisfactory. A few days ago I placed my order with Hunter Motor Sales for, in my judgment, the most beautiful car in America. I gave him an order for a Hornet, Hollywood style, with accessories and color I have long dreamed of. It is a pleasure to know that you can select exactly what you want from Hudson and have it built and delivered to you in approximately 60 days. Count me as your Number One Hudson Booster."

This is only one of the many testimonials we receive.

We have several orders for 1952 Hudsons on our file. Why not come in, get your demonstration and judge for yourself.

and receives daily gratuities of food and careful handling. He not only is unafraid of the enemy but he could be a trouble for him if he were not a beloved pet. Buddy on occasion clammers about his mistress, onto her hand, then to her shoulder or on top of her head. And there he indulges in a favorite sport, that of plucking out bobby-pins and dropping them to the floor, watching them fall and listening intently for their tiny tinkle on the floor. Let it be said for Billy, however—he always recovers the pins.

Phil, another cardinal cage-mate of Buddy's, went blind and died, a few years ago. Buddy, however, is in fine fettle, though he's molting and looks smaller than usual.

Dr. and Mrs. Sizemore like to tell this bird came to their house. They had been feeding a redbird couple all through the winter of 1943-44. Dr. Sizemore had kept snow cleared away from their feeding-place, and the birds came daily for their handout. But when spring came and it was nesting time, the two went across the street and set up house-keeping. Mrs. Sizemore kept close watch while the mother bird was hatching her eggs, hoping to adopt two or three of the youngsters. But she found, one morning, to her dismay, that the entire cardinal family had disappeared.

Her next contact with the cardinals was when, hanging out the wash in her backyard, the male bird suddenly appeared, creating considerable fuss about something, and keeping it up till she followed him. The bird flew across the street into a peach tree, and there she found Buddy—a pitiful fledgling. "How the father bird ever got Buddy up in that tree I can't imagine," Mrs. Sizemore says.

When Mrs. Sizemore took the fledgling home, the father bird left, apparently satisfied.

But that wasn't the last seen of him. Several months later, he appeared at the window, fluttering about and apparently seeking entrance. The window was opened, and the bird came in—even entered Buddy's cage for a snack with him.

Every year since, the Sizemores say, Buddy has had a visit from his old man all this winter. The old bird hasn't shown up yet, and his human friends fear some boy armed with an air rifle or some other person with an even more lethal weapon has killed him.

On the subject of killing birds the couple have an idea if more people would become intimately acquainted with these wild things and see their real gentleness and beauty there would be less wanton destruction.

The doctor and his wife can tell you a lot about birds. Not the scientific stuff the ornithologists will rattle off, but the intimate things, the little happenings, their comings and goings, their likes and dislikes, and their joys and to each other.

For instance, the martins will begin to come to the Sizemore yard, March 28. Dr. Sizemore predicts that will be the case. And there'll be quite a hubbub when the gang's all here—50 or 60 of them. If there are any starlings about, the future will be even greater. "You should see two or three martins haul a starling out of their house and send him about his business," Dr. Sizemore says.

There is only one bit of dissension about this household. Dr. Sizemore hints that he has not retired after more than 30 years' medical practice. Mrs. Sizemore hints that he has.

All that aside, they're planning, just now, a new aquarium, a greenhouse and more of the things that go in them.

Asked how they started pursuing their hobby which has turned into a full-sized job, Dr. Sizemore said, "Emma is a country girl, and she always has loved flowers and birds and take, and so I have tried to help her get them."

Branharn in Army Game

At Manila Is Winner

Cpl. Ballard Branharn, Jr., of Prestonsburg, was the commanding officer insofar as a recent service baseball game in Manila went. Hurling for the 6888 Central Postal Directory, the former Prestonsburg mound star held the National U. team to two hits while fanning eight and walking none. His team scored in the bottom half of the first inning, and that was the ball game, a 1-0 victory for the Raiders.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, P.L.D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"MILITARY LAW"

In the old-fashioned school, we were subject to a type of military law. At least, theoretically we lived under constant fear that the law would set us. There were official pronouncements on just about everything that we might do or say. No teacher that I ever had wrote rules on the blackboard, but I heard of just such things. We did hear often a lot about discipline. The teacher represented to us the visible law. Do something, even a slight bit off color, and you would get punished in some humiliating but approved way.

Having been a teacher myself ever since I was all of eighteen years old, I know how hard it is to keep active, quelling children pleasantly and noiselessly employed. When I began teaching in 1927, I was one of the old-time and believed that discipline was the one big thing in anybody's school. If anything happened, it must not be in the least bit and swift punishment must come. And yet there were so many stories of teachers who had been tried in court because of brutality to children that I was in a state of uncertainty as to how much authority to show, how much to reserve. I did not know what to do. I would not have submitted it then on threat of punishment. Today I know it was so. The children had been raised to feel that the teacher was an overlord. I had to live up to that belief or else admit defeat. And I tried to give all that was expected of me. Sometimes I wake in the night, after all these years, and shiver a little at how hopeless I usually failed. I did not want to be a military commander, but over and over my self-respect demanded that I be one anyway. In one corner of my consciousness stood a convict's switch, ready for use. And it got used, too, entirely too much. Just what I could have done then I do not know.

MISS DELPHINE CRIDER WEDS GOMER JENKINS IN CHRISTMAS EVE CEREMONY AT CHURCH

...WITH THE FINEST PERFORMANCE OF ALL TIME!

Featuring 3 of Cadillac's Greatest Engineering Achievements!

THE NEW 190 H. P. CADILLAC ENGINE

Here is the most powerful, the most durable, and the most efficient automotive engine ever offered in a Cadillac car. Its power increase alone is almost 20%—and its new four-barrel carburetor, larger exhaust valves, wider exhaust ports and new dual exhaust system make this engine one of the most dynamic performers of all time.

Fifty years ago, the first Cadillac car made its bow to the public. Today, as a fitting climax to those fifty years of progress, we are presenting in our showrooms the Golden Anniversary Cadillac—by far the finest car ever to bear this distinguished name. . . . It is easily the most beautiful of all Cadillacs. Numerous changes have sharpened and smartened the exterior design—while the wholly new interiors are a revelation in comfort and luxury. . . . Performance is the finest of all time. The great Cadillac engine has a power increase of almost twenty per cent—and is even smoother and quieter in its operation. . . . There's a new Hydra-Matic Drive that gives the proper power application for every need. At a flick of the finger, you can have extra power and acceleration for city traffic and mountain driving—or wonderfully smooth, quiet, gas-saving performance for the open road. . . . And there's a new "power steering" mechanism, optional at extra cost, which reduces normal steering effort by as much as seventy-five per cent. . . . If ever it could be said of a car's performance that it is "out of this world," it can be said of the performance of the new Cadillac. The Golden Anniversary Cadillac is available in three series—the "Sixty-Two," the "Sixty-Special" and the "Seventy-Five." . . . These new creations are now on display in our showrooms—and we invite you to see and inspect them at your earliest convenience.

THE NEW HYDRA-MATIC DRIVE

By introducing an entirely new performance range, Cadillac's Hydra-Matic provides the proper power for every need. . . . extra acceleration and responsiveness for city and mountain driving, smooth, quiet, gas-saving performance for the open road. Optional at extra cost on Series 65. Standard equipment on all other models.

THE NEW CADILLAC POWER STEERING

This "power steering" mechanism eliminates as much as seventy-five per cent of all normal steering effort. . . . It provides incredible handling ease, and yet does not interfere in any way with the driver's "road feel" or directional control. Available as an option at extra cost.

NO ROAD MEANS "TOBACCO ROAD"

One who travels rural sections of Floyd county, this season of year, cannot agree with all critics of WPA aid.

They said it was making of us a nation of loafers, and it may have helped do that. They also said the farm-to-market roads WPA built could be built for a third these routes cost the government as "we piddled along."

That may be true, too. But the fallacy in these arguments presented by critics of WPA is—they haven't built any rural roads since WPA to prove that they could be constructed more cheaply.

Travel Floyd county creeks and find where one road has been built since those dark days. They're not there, except in those scattered instances where the state sought to connect two or more important points or routes. The business of extending good all-weather roads up creeks, with the primary purpose in mind of reaching the fellow up there, went on with the much-maligned WPA.

This is not to recommend another Works Progress Administration. Rather, it is intended to point up the need for some of the work the WPA did.

The system Kentucky has followed in handling its rural highway money, with Frankfort setting up the program and administering it has been as proportionately wasteful as the WPA ever was and has achieved far less. Perhaps, if each county could have its allotment for its own use, the people could convince those in charge of the work here at home, that road help for the fellow far up the creeks not only is justifiable but also is politically practical. As matters now stand, Floyd county is hard put to maintain those roads already built, not to mention new highways.

The Times had hoped the present session of the Legislature would correct this situation.

Removal of Magistrates as supervisors—or, more exactly, denial of pay to them for supervisory work—may have eliminated some waste, perhaps some graft here and there, but it has not increased efficiency or the interest of these officials in road work. And these are the boys who either know what is needed, out there in the country, or who will soon find out from their constituents.

The Times is not opposed to the construction of arterial highways or even minor routes which play an important part in the life and industry of a section as a whole. But it does think these are receiving such attention that the farm-to-market road is neglected.

This is the motor age, and everybody belongs to the age, not only those who are favorably located. Continued neglect of those without roads will inevitably cause their neighborhoods to be abandoned by the more progressive residents; left behind will be those who are content to live without these conveniences which modern man naturally expects. When that happens deep in squalor and backwardness and will ultimately fall into outright lawlessness.

No, let's not have another WPA. Neither let us have Tobacco Road when it should be apparent that good roads would go far toward eliminating that sad plight.

Dr. Thomas Walker, the first white man to have made a recorded expedition to Kentucky, preceded Daniel Boone by nearly 20 years.

KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH

Every now and then for three or four years I pressed a big landowner friend to answer a question I myself am asked at least five thousand times a year—how many acres of land he owned. He evaded me every time. Usually he changed the subject quickly, adroitly so as not to seem rude. Finally I tumbled to his reason. He didn't want the tax authorities to start snooping. That didn't necessarily mean he was perjury himself. It is quite likely he didn't know himself how much he had. There are thousands of deeds to Kentucky land that are based on land guessing 150 to 175 years ago.

My grandfather Galloway and a neighbor named Kelly Sutton struck up a land trade before surveys were popular and when land grant records were accepted by nearly every body. Grandfather always thought his tract was 100 acres, after deeds had been exchanged, Sutton sneaked in a surveyor. He was certain it was getting more than 100 acres in a "more or less" deed. The tract surveyed out 157 acres. Grandfather never learned the truth.

So, it is likely thousands of Kentucky landowners are paying taxes on much less land than they own. Says a report from the Local Assessment Section of the Division of Property Taxation at Frankfort: "The first step in valuing property is to find out the list of property valued. This may sound simple but the fact is that thousands of acres of Kentucky land are not on the tax rolls today."

State Tax Commissioner Clyde Rees' staff have done much to educate county assessors for the work they are employed to do. Good results will come from that coaching. But in the meantime it doesn't take a tax expert or a master detective to point out how to spot land that has been escaping assessors. Understand practically every acre of land in Kentucky has been mapped from aerial photographs. Here in the west Kentucky the size of every field is in the records of the AAA. In county seats these records are open to inspection by county tax commissioners.

Just to make sure the Agriculture Department's measurements of some of my fields were accurate I checked them by the acreage registered by our grain drills, used topsoil sorbents or topdress bluegrass with chemical fertilizers. There was not more than a small fraction of difference in any case. So county tax commissioners may do a fine public service by checking their own line maps with the aerial surveys under the same rolls with the commissioners' offices.

Commissioner Reeves discovered a year or so ago that the state was losing nearly a million dollars in school funds through failures of county assessors to list over a quarter of a million acres. Failed to list when all locally owned cars were available in the records of county clerks. Since then a list has been made in car assessments by most county commissioners.

County tax commissioners have much painstaking work to do. If they have an opportunity to do it, praiseworthy public service. Honesty and diligence are the two main essentials.

John Cabell Breckinridge, who served as United States Senator, Confederate Secretary of War, was born near Lexington, Ky.

Warner Raps Plan Of Board Inspection Of Assistance Rolls

By TOM SMITH

The home-district representative of Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson believes that the nation's top jurist will visit Frankfort in an effort to keep Joe B. Batts from being re-elected out of Congress.

The Elliott-Lawrence member of the Kentucky House of Representatives, William B. Wells, who hails from Judge Vinson's hometown of Louisa, said he has a definite commitment from the judge to "do what he could for Batts."

The General Assembly schedule calls for devoting the final two weeks of the current session to the knotty problem of cutting the state's pine congressional districts to eight.

There is some opposition to the administration's plan to attend the redistricting matter during the regular session unless a number of the assemblymen's pet measures are brought out for voting.

Feeling among House members is that they should not leave their own bills hanging by looping two weeks off the regular session for the reappointment measure. Some prefer a special session for the redistricting problem.

Meanwhile the General Assembly has swung into high gear and at the pace set last week stands a good chance of clearing the dockets fairly well during the next four weeks.

Important administration measures submitted during the week were the bills to broaden the list of groups allowed to suggest public relief rolls and the unemployment compensation bill.

Senator Ed P. Warinner of Albany calls the present inspection of relief rolls by local boards a "farce." Himself a board member in Clinton county, Warinner criticized the inspection procedure and declared "it is no inspection at all."

"The relief people get the records out and flip through the pages real fast and call that an inspection. We aren't allowed to make any notes, nor to sign the records."

The administration measure adds members of the General Assembly and Congressmen to the list of persons allowed to inspect the relief lists.

The unemployment compensation measure would lift the average benefit payments from $17 to $20 and plug up some loopholes through which fraudulent claims could be paid.

Strict policing of claims and elimination of fraudulent claims is expected to provide the additional money to care for the higher average benefits.

A measure prepared for presentation would provide for compulsory vaccination of dogs against rabies and strengthening of the dog licensing law.

The State Department of Health would be given responsibility for the vaccinations and the Department of Agriculture the responsibility for licensing. The license fee would be boosted from the present $1 to $1.50.

Veterinarians would be allowed fees of $1.00 for vaccinations given during annual county clinics. The program would be administered by a member board representing farm groups, Kentucky Veterinary Association and the commissioners of health and agriculture.

Marshall county Representative Shelby McCallum brought a union fight to the floor of the House in a measure which would require national and international unions having Kentucky membership to have state locals. The assemblyman cited work stoppages at the atomic plant near Paducah because of intransigent friction as dictating need for such a law.

Labor people generally oppose the proposal on grounds that solution to the problem should come through the union itself rather than through legislation.

ABC BOARD UPHOLD

Franklin Circuit Judge William B. Ardrey handed the State Alcohol Beverage Control Board a legal weapon—which may go a long way toward elimination of gambling and beer are sold.

Judge Ardrey in Franklin circuit court held that "law is order" and law violations are disorder—in holding that the board acted within its authority in suspending for thirty days the licenses held by Beverly Hills Country Club in Campbell county on such charges.

ABC Board Chairman Guy C. Shearer announced he would recommend that no licenses be renewed for any premises where the holder held a gambling stamp.

UTILITIES ASK RAISES

The tendency toward higher utility fares was in evidence again during the week as two firms serving five Kentucky cities sought a raise in fares.

Limestone Gas Company, which serves Paris and Mayfield, sought a $91,000 annual raise at the hands of the Public Service Commission while the Frankfort Kentucky Natural Gas Company, serving Frankfort, Versailles and Midway, asked a $110,000 annual increase.

Both firms cited as a reason that their wholesale supplies, Central Kentucky Natural Gas Company, is exacting higher prices for its product.

The Mountain Rural Telephone Co-operative, West Liberty, obtained approval of the Public Service Commission to borrow $450,000 from the federal government to finance a rural telephone system in Morgan, Elliott and Wolfe counties.

Floyd County Historical Notes

By HENRY P. SCALF

More than a year ago this column gotten up, signed, and entrusted to some person to send, and then had been destined to the great regret and disappointment of many. We trust the Lord to send us in the fulness of the blessing of the gospel of Christ to unite and not to divide.

"Dear Marie's" child, but the Lord kept it off of course. At the morning service six confessions, followed by one confession of the open street, from an old backslider, who had held back in the house. Strolled with Brothers Stamper, Longlet and May—all presbyter. Stamper's infant had been named "George Barnes" in memory of the meeting.

"Some mysterious remonstrances about young—". It appears that he was dissolute and how quickly a disreputable character before his conversion, which occurred during the Paintsville meeting. He witnessed a good confession then and since, so far as I know, so the Lord gave me a sermon on the 4th of John tonight, that met the case. My soul was stirred at the wretched attempt at holding the poor fellow responsible for past sins, that the Lord had forgiven and pardoned the blood, so I let out the Lord put within me at this subject.

"This perfect rest in Jesus seems like a dream to me, and I wonder where I am, and where trouble and care have fled to. It is touching in the extreme to see these great rugged men of rafts and mountains sitting like little children at Jesus feet. Oh, praise the Lord again for this simple gospel that a poor fellow can pick up as he walks alone. It glows in sweet simplicity and power on my own soul every day. Especially the fact—the blessed fact—that the dear Lord nowhere in scripture raises the question of sin with a penitent. This gives more encouragement to the people to come to Jesus than anything else. As I can plainly see just as in the old time there were near unto Him all the publicans and sinners for to hear Him. Luke 15:1. Why did I not see and preach that from the first? An offense to Scribes and Pharisees? Yes! But the very backbone of the gospel.

"Besides Brothers Stamper, Robinson, Hopkins and others who work there, is a plain man Brother Vaughan, who has perhaps brought more forward than any other a garden hose of the first converts, and seems to have a wonderful power to win others. It was, indeed, a day of power and grace, as we had seen a confession in the morning. One brother confessed at the baptismal service and was immersed at the water's edge. Brother Obble that had a garden hose of the first year ago, he found in his back yard this morning. We told him to Prestonsburg in the darkness and the rain, but all bright within the town and our hearts."

At this date Brothers Stamper, Robinson, Hopkins and Vaughan cannot be identified. This column has contacted certain older men who remember the Barnes' meeting but cannot remember who the above mentioned are. Who knows?

(This column invites criticism, suggestions and information that it will appear with consistent regularity depends upon reader approval. If you have unsolicited data that should be published this column will be appreciative of it.)

John Fox Jr., author of "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" and "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine", was born in Stony Point, Kentucky.
