STEWART COMPLIMENTED

The following excerpt from a letter from Samuel Alexander, director of the Division of Local School Funds, was received by Carl Stewart, Morgan county school superintendent and son of Mrs. Viola Stewart, of Mattown, following the audit made by W. W. Rosch of the Finance Department:

"I have checked the audit report of your district for county for the school year 1950-51. Mr. Rosch complimented your records very highly. You and your board of education are to be congratulated for the nice balance you had on June 30, 1951. When a superintendent and board of education handle the school affairs of a district in such a way that a $20,000 deficit is eliminated in one year, they have certainly done a good job. You are also to be congratulated because you recovered $544.60 overpayment for the board of education during 1950-51 school year."

MRS. STOUT SPEAKER

The Mattown Woman's Club held its regular monthly meeting, May 22, at the home of Mrs. David Reed. Mrs. Reed introduced Mrs. Ed Sutton who gave an educational talk on the prevalence of T.B. and the inadequate facilities for proper cure. The suggestion was made that the club set a goal of purchasing or financing a hospital and bed to be used in the district hospital at Ashland.

Mrs. Ed Stewart, president, presided over the business meeting. The secretary's report was given and approved and other committees made their reports. Mrs. Frank Stewart reported $43.25 in the Library fund.

REMEMBER THOSE WHO GAVE

Saturday's Mishaps: Youth Injured Here, Pyramid Woman Hurt

Two people were victims of automobile mishaps Saturday afternoon, one suffering minor bruises and cuts, the other, a broken arm, when one driver struck a 13-year-old boy and another driver skidded from the road. Mrs. Miley Prater, of Pyramid, has been released from the Prestonsburg General hospital after treatment for a broken arm received when the automobile in which she was riding overturned on the Prestonsburg-David road Saturday evening about 7 o'clock.

The auto was being driven by Herbert Prater, son-in-law of Mrs. Prater. Other occupants of the car were Mrs. Herbert Prater, Miley and Sandra, age 4, the daughter of Herbert.

Wet pavement was given as the cause of the accident. The car overturned at least once, it was said. Although the other inmates were not injured, save minor bruises, the auto was badly damaged.

Woodrow Stephens, Jr., aged 13, son of Woodrow Stephens, Sr., of West Prestonsburg, was struck by the auto of John D. Evans driven by his wife sometime near noon Saturday. The accident occurred on U.S. 23 near the Sandy Valley motel.

Stephens' hospitalization was short-lived, and he was discharged after treatment, it was said.

Mrs. Evans said she was driving slowly up the highway when the boy came from behind another car and stepped out in front of hers. Witnesses said the accident was unavoidable.

Explaining that the company does not produce gas in sufficient volume to furnish all the gas previously contracted to others and that the Weasels have been allowed more than six months in which to find another source of supply, Evans announced the decision to disconnect.

James Webb, Jr., said approximately 100 consumers will be affected but expressed the hope that in sufficient quantities to serve the town will be found. "We won't be hurting for gas till about September," he said.

The gas diverted to the town of Ashland passed through a line which the Weasels maintained to serve the town of Dwell where Kentucky West Virginia's compressor station is located, and was accounted for by meter. Webb has a contract with Kentucky West Virginia for Dwell's gas supply.

Webb said he and his father have three wells of their own but that they are very light producers, making necessary the purchase of gas elsewhere.

FLOYD YOUTH, 4-H WINNER

To Go to Lexington Meet For Statewide Contest's States County Agent Rice

Floyd county will send one district champion and at least four county champions to Junior Week in Lexington, June 3-7, it was announced by County Agent Harold B. Rice following the district 4-H Club demonstration and judging contests held at Salsberyville.

The district champion from this county is Kenneth Killen, of Martin, a member of the Prestonsburg 4-H Club, whose splicing of electric wires won the boys' individual demonstration contest.

Two 4-H'ers from this county—Reba Joyce Salyers, of the Maytown club, and James Franklin Stephens, of the Cliff club—won blue ribbons at the district meet. Miss Salyers' discussion of "Youth's Part in World Peace" was one of the outstanding efforts in public speaking at Salsberyville. Stephens won his blue ribbon in the "Tag on the Feed Bag" contest.

Miss Salyers also won a red ribbon (second place) in clothing judging. Katherine Patton, also of the Maytown club, won a red ribbon in foods judging, and Carl Little, of McDowell, earned the same award in the boys' public speaking competition. Mary Alice Hicks, of Maytown, received a white ribbon in canning judging.

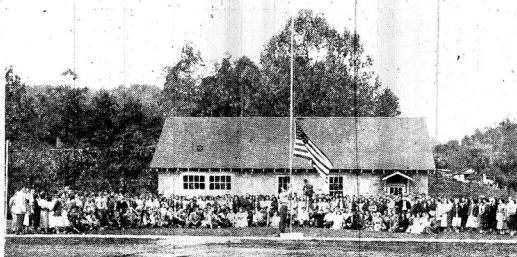

Those who will go to Junior Week as winners of county championships in contests held here March 8 are: Many Alice Hicks, winner of the style revue here and who will take part in the state revue; Reba Joyce Salyers, James Franklin Stephens and Carl Little.

Three other county winners did not appear for the district contests at Salsberyville.

SCHOOL ACCOUNTING REPORT OF THE FLOYD COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION FOR THE SCHOOL YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1951

Palmer L. Hall, Superintendent and Secretary Adrian Collins, Treasurer
February 11, 1952

W. W. Busch, Supervisor of Accounting, Department of Education.

COMMENTS

On February 11, 1952, an audit and inspection were completed of the records of the Floyd County Board of Education and those of Superintendent Palmer L. Hall and Treasurer Adrian Collins.

Scope of Audit:

1. The official minutes were read.
2. The general fund was audited for the period July 1, 1950 to June 30, 1951.
3. The Veterans Institutional On-the-Farm Training Program Fund was audited.
4. The bond schedules were prepared and made a part of this report.
5. The insurance schedule was checked.
6. The approved salary schedule was checked.
7. The books declared unfit for use in the 1950-51 requisition were inspected and condemned.

Analysis of Findings—

The official minutes of the Board of Education were neatly prepared and appeared to be complete.

The general fund was audited and accepted accounting procedures were followed in maintaining this fund. The fund was audited with the aid of the following records which were properly executed and filed.

Receipts:

1. Duplicate receipt sheets of state receipts.
2. Bank statements and deposit slips.
3. Tax collector's reports.

Disbursements:

1. Cancelled checks.
2. Claims and invoices.
3. The approved Orders of the Treasurer.
4. The approved salary schedule.
5. In August, 1950, the Board of Education set up the separate account for the Veterans program. The reimbursements for the months of May, June, and July were deposited directly into this fund as have all reimbursements since that time been deposited. Even though the reimbursements were deposited directly to the special account, they were included in the receipts under Code 1060 of the general fund. Disbursements were properly made, but were included in disbursements under the general fund and the general fund balance at the end of the year reflects also the balance of the Veterans account. This has been corrected and the fund will be maintained in the approved manner.
6. The approved salary schedule was followed. It would appear that the Board of Education has adequately insured on the school buildings.
7. Superintendent Hall and his staff were very cooperative during this inspection and audit.

Eight Floyd Students Candidates To Graduate At Pikeville College

Pikeville, Ky., May 20 (Spl.)—Eight Floyd county students, five young women and three men, will be candidates for graduation at the 29th spring commencement, May 29, at Pikeville Junior College, it was announced today.

Today Wells, Wayland, expects to be graduated from Pikeville College Academy at the same exercises, the Academy's 31st commencement, Dr.
A. A. Faye, college president, said.
Omer Carmichael, Louisville, superintendent of schools, will address the graduating classes, 35 college sophomores and 18 Academy seniors, in Wickham Chapel at 10 a.m.
Diplomas will be conferred on both groups by Dr. Faye.

Four of the Floyd countians, now enrolled in the teachers' course at Pikeville, will become eligible on graduation for the provisional elementary certificate. Three of the number, Joan Osborne Hall, of Bygon, Lillian Love, of Harlan, and Joyce Terry, Wayland, have taught previously on "emergency" certificates.

In all, 23 members of the college class will complete the teachers' course, and each will qualify for his first "legal" teachers' certificate, Dr.
Faye said. Thirteen have been emergency teachers. Other college graduates will receive diplomas in business, pre-medical and general courses.

The other Floyd county members of the college graduating class are Robert Burchett, Lancaster; James Duff, Garrett; Betty Jackson, Mary Sus Porter and Sammie E. Wells, all of Prestonsburg.

In surface mining, after giant draglines and power shovels remove "overburden" from coal veins, mechanical brooms sweep the exposed coal thoroughly before it is loaded onto trucks.

Not a Pretty Picture

PUBLICATION by The Courier-Journal of a series of articles written by Vincent Crowds is another of the journalistic services which has placed that newspaper among the greatest in America.

This series of articles told an unpleasant truth: that Kentuckians have so far forgotten the Biblical injunction, "Honor thy father and thy mother," that old people no longer able to work for their families and at last needing some help themselves from their children, are being declared insane and shipped away in insanasylums to spend their last days, friendless, forgotten and miserable.

It is unpleasant for us to know that some are so heartless that they have had a surviving parent declared of unsound mind in order to gain control of the property their father or mother possessed and which they so avidly coveted they could not wait for death to give them title.

Apparently, we have sunk far back toward the day of fang and claw. With our superior knowledge, which too often glosses over rather than cultivates the finer instincts of the human being, we are more heathen than the Chinese. The Celestial, for all his lack of what is generally recognized as the better things of life, and despite his religion which we Christians regard as heath-enish, idolizes his ancestors and reveres his parents.
Few aged Chinese are found in mental institutions. Even some of the aboriginal peoples are more civilized in this respect than the heartless among our moderns.

It also is unpleasant for us to learn that some doctors and courts of law have co-operated with those who want to "lose" their parents or other aged relatives. Committal has become too promiscuous, too routine. As Mr. Crowds has pointed out in The Courier-Journal articles, the aged lose their mental vigor through senility, the brain softens, the arteries harden. But any doctor qualified to pass on the condition of a human being should know that this does not constitute insanity. And any court should consider the principles of justice as applicable to the old and helpless as to those who are young and able-bodied.

It is not a pleasant procedure, this matter of a trial in open court for the person suspected of a mental case, but even this would be an improvement over the usual waiver of trial, inasmuch as the waiver denies the patient protection from whatever collusion there might be toward commitment to an institution for the insane.

Commitment of the aged to such institutions in order to serve the whims and purposes of relatives not only is an injustice to the victims but also works an injustice on others who truly need care and treatment in such hospitals. Thus the hospitals are overcrowded, none get the careful attention each deserves, and the state and its taxpayers are unnecessarily burdened.

The Times has heard hints of this situation for some time now. It is pleased that the story has been told. It has also heard so many stories of brutal treatment of patients from sadistic guards that the appearance of so much smoke indicates there must be some fire; and so it would welcome an authentic revelation of what takes place behind the walls of those hospitals which the official or casual visitor would never see.

We offer no scientific approach to these problems.
Let the people of Kentucky know the truth—then we all will "get down to cases."

Why Conventions?

IT is becoming more apparent every day that, if the voters of the United States were given an unimpeded opportunity to name their choices for Presidential candidates, the nominees would be General Eisenhower and Senator Kefauver.

The appeal of both men to the individual voter is powerful. Men and women like Ike not as a hero returned from the wars but as an engaging personality, a man of broad experience, a leader of prominent ability and with a knowledge of the complexities of national and international affairs. They like him, too, as one removed from the rather extremes of political thinking.

Estes Kefauver appeals to the honorable instincts of the people because it was his leadership of an investigation which discovered dishonesty in government in spots and an arm-in-arm partnership between the underworld and officialdom.
They like him because he let the chips fall. As they see and hear more of him, they like him for those attributes of mind and character which indicate he would give the country the sound, just government it needs.

For all that, neither of the men may be named by his party at the coming Presidential conventions. State conventions where the machine works most efficiently are lining up delegates for others. Senator Taft is a formidable adversary of General Eisenhower's. Already, without risking his chances in a single state primary, W.
Averill Harriman has almost as many pledged Democratic delegates as Senator Kefauver.

In short, the party big-wigs want neither Eisenhower nor Kefauver.

But what of the people?
Floyd county Democrats last Saturday chose delegates to the district convention in Louisville. The small group of Democrats attended this alleged rasséeing. How well, as a result, will the wishes of the people be respected?
Why not the nomination of Presidential candidates by popular vote?

More than 100 million tons of bituminous coal will be used to produce coke for the nation's steel mills in 1952.

NEW CUMBERLAND LAKE CAMP AWAITS JUNIOR CLUB YOUTHS

Special to The Times

Frankfort, Ky., May 19 — It's camping time again for Kentucky's Junior Conservation Club members. For the seventh year in a row the youths who have qualified will be privileged to attend one of the Junior camps, either at Kentucky Lake or Cumberland Lake, for a one-week stay with most of the expenses and arrangements being provided by the Division of Game and Fish.

A brand new camp will be furnished the youngsters, who visit Cumberland Lake this year. This camp has been transferred from the Dale Hollow site and all is in readiness for the grand opening on June 11. The camp will continue through 11 weeks and a total of 2,140 boys have been signed up for this camp alone. At Kentucky Lake Camp Currie will open one week earlier on May 26, and continue for 12 weeks. For this camp 1,489 boys have been signed up.

This total of 3,629 boys have made themselves eligible for the one week stay by having taken an active part in conservation teaching in their respective school for the past school year. It costs the youngsters only $7.50 for this week's stay, and that to help pay for his food. The sponsoring senior club furnishes the transportation and the Division of Game and Fish offers the program and bears all other expenses.

Almost 100 more boys have signed for the camps this year than were present last year, and this is in line with previous years. Each succeeding year has seen more and more boys participate in the summer outing and study.

The Cumberland Lake camp, situated out of Monticello on Harmon Creek, has a recreation and dining room, a barracks for personnel, tents to accommodate eight boys and counsel, and a waterfront complete in every detail. All these things already have been established at Camp Currie. At both camps the waterfront is under the direction of certified Red Cross instructors and the rifle range is manned by personnel approved by the National Rifle Association. Each phase of activity is under the direction of persons skilled in that particular field.

For meritorious achievement a patch is given each youngster who satisfactorily completes the course in each of 15 classes. A boy may earn patches in the following: Casting, farm pond, first aid, fish identifications, game and fish laws, insects, mammals, muskrat, motor boat, rifle, rowing, swimming, trapping and tree identification.

Boys from part of the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth districts will attend the Cumberland Lake Camp. The District Wildlife and Junior Club Supervisors will be in charge of the program during the week their boys attend camp. The Conservation Officer in each county is in charge of the boys from his county at camp.

To Graduate, June 1

Gary Hale, son of Mrs. E. W. Hale, of Harrold, will graduate at the 10th commencement of the Kentucky Military Institute, Lyndon, Ky., on June 1.

Cadet Hale, a four-year cadet, is a sergeant in the ROTC unit. He has been awarded Merit Bars.

SEVEN FROM FLOYD COUNTY NAMED FOR U. OF K. AWARDS

Approximately 700 University of Kentucky students were recognized for outstanding academic and leadership achievements at the school's annual Honors Day program last week at Memorial Coliseum. Principal speaker at the program was the Rev. William R. Moody, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Lexington.

Inaugurated six years ago as a means of encouraging and recognizing scholarship in the University's seven colleges and graduate school, Honors Day now gives annual recognition to all students possessing a cumulative standing of 2.0 or higher, winners of scholarships and other academic awards and members of various campus honorary and service organizations.

Dr. Herman L. Donovan, president of the University, presided at the convocation, and Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, vice president, presented the honored groups.

The names of many of the students honored at the program already have been announced by individual societies, and most of the women students recognized were listed recently at the school's annual "Stars in the Night" program.

Winners of the year's major prizes and awards based on scholarship, announced previously, include seven from Floyd county: John William Crawford, David; Paul Gene Hall, Prestonsburg; John Elmer Vaughan, Prestonsburg; Jesse Lee Wright, West Prestonsburg; Graduate School; Larry Joe Dickerson, Wheelwright; Marvin Clifford Friley, Wayland; Paulette Martin, Allen.

KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH

By EWING GALLOWAY

Today's little essay is about hogs noses. But not about the olfactory nerves in swine's proboscides. It is about the sense of smell which is involved incidentally. What we are concerned about is the destructive capacity of a hog's nose. Whether a hog uses its sense of smell, sight or taste when rooting for earthworms is not very important to farmers with good pastures. It is the fact that Mr. Hawg roots.

Recently a neighbors' big drove of brood sows got into one of his cattle pastures through a gate left open or a hole under the fence. A warm rain had softened the turf and earthworms were up near the surface. The farmer was away two days, and in that time they literally destroyed his pasture. The damage was all the worse because the field was permanent pasture.

Last fall four or five sows got into one of our fields and stayed perhaps half a day. In that short time they must have destroyed more than an acre of bluegrass. The sows belonged to a neighbor. I didn't complain because the hogs in the fence through which the hogs passed may have been my responsibility. Fifty-fifty, anyway.

I learned a long time ago that if you expect to keep a pasture you had better ring your hogs at weaning time, again when they are between 100 and 150 pounds, then watch them every day for missing rings. Our men are always on the lookout for a rooting hog, particularly in the early sows, which have got rid of their rings. I insist that a tough old brood sow can destroy an acre of good grass in a week. When we see one rooting we drop everything and run for the nose rings. We don't let hogs run on our bluegrass pastures. They are kept on small hog pastures, but it is almost as important proportionately to protect these small fields as the cattle pastures.

A farmer who lets hogs run on his permanent pastures soon won't have any permanent grassing land. He certainly won't have grass long enough to win an Oscar from the Green Pastures Program.

And the cattle sheep raiser who fails to clip the weeds and wild grass off his pastures doesn't stand a much better chance than the pasture owner who lets running hogs run on his grass. Brood sows growl nearly all day long and will take other grasses in a few years if it is not clipped in autumn when it grows fastest and goes to seed. It ought to be clipped twice, the last time toward the end of October. Three mowings wouldn't be too much. The blam'd stuff sometimes grows until December 1.

We hear that a potato deficiency is to blame for broom sedge. I have heard a good sweetening with lime will stop it. We have used both treatments, though, the potato wasn't put on heavily. Maybe somebody will hit upon a formula for stopping broom sedge as effectively as chlorate of soda will eradicate Johnson grass. If some fellow will come forward with a chemical for killing broom sedge without harming other grasses, if another will invent a better hog ring, and a third will give us a better rat trap, I'll ask that their images be placed in the Hall of Fame.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION TICKET FOR KENTUCKY'S YOUTH GOVERNOR CONLEY IS SCARCE ITEM, FLOYD CHAIRMAN LEARNS

Efforts to get a ticket to the National Republican convention if you are not a delegate or alternate, posed quite a problem for those seeking to send Kentucky Youth Governor Franklin D. Conley as an observer, it was learned here.

Seventh-district Republicans in convention at Louisville, April 12, wrote into the resolutions that Conley should go along to the national convention as a guest of the Kentucky delegation.

But guests need tickets and William Darby, county Republican chairman, has interested himself in procuring the necessary admission.

First Darby wrote John Sherman Cooper. He assured complete co-operation and brought the matter to the attention of Representative Thruson Morton, Louisville, of the Republican state central committee, and Representative Golden of the Ninth Kentucky Congressional district. Morton assured aid but said the state central committee had the authority to distribute the tickets. Golden, aware of the Seventh district Republican resolutions, advised that he would take the matter up with the State Central Committee.

Having been assured of this commanding co-operation Darby wrote Senator Robert A. Taft. Taft was just as hard put for tickets as anyone else, for he advised that each candidate for President was allowed only 10 tickets, and that these would take care of his immediate family.

But it seems that Conley will get to the convention anyway, for E. R. Denny, state chairman of the Republican state central committee and himself a delegate, writes, evidently as a result of Cooper's co-operation that: "Those who have tickets have agreed to share them. So if Mr. Conley gets to the convention we certainly shall see that he gets to be present at least part of the time. Even though I am a delegate I will be glad to share my privileges with him."

EFFICIENT
Only a little over 7 1/2 of a pound of coal is used to yield one kilowatt-hour of electricity at the new Philip Sporn station of the American Gas & Electric Co., on the Ohio River—the highest fuel efficiency of any plant of its kind in the U. S.

Iowa and Brazil produced approximately the same amounts of bituminous coal in 1951—about 2 million tons.

Chemical Plant in W.Va. Heralds New Development in Coal Industry

(Special to The Times)
Washington, May 28.—Another industrial use for bituminous coal has been introduced with the opening of a plant in Institute, W. Va., to produce chemicals from the hydrogenation, a process in which coal is pulverized and combined with hydrogen under extreme pressure. The process is not new, having been used for some years as a method of producing gasoline, but this is the first time it has been proposed to employ it with chemicals as the primary object.

Eventually, hydrogen could conceivably supplant carbonization as the foremost source of valuable coal derivatives that include explosives, sulfu gases, plastics, nylons, and scores of other items in peacetime and wartime. In carbonization, the chemicals come from vapors and tar that are distilled in ovens where the coal is baked without air to produce coke for steel mills. But the markets for chemicals have in some cases greatly outstripped the supply, particularly with respect to benzene, toluene, and other substances that have been in heavy demand since the beginning of the war in Korea.

The new hydrogenation plant, located in the rich bituminous coal-bearing region of Kanawha county, W. Va., was erected at a cost of $11 million by a subsidiary of Union Carbide & Carbon Corporation, which, according to Business Week magazine, sees a piece of coal as a complex bundle of chemicals with a steady, growing market. "Explaining that the hydrogenation produces both liquid fuel and various coal chemicals," the magazine says.

chemicals, the Business Week magazine says.

"Carbide is interested only in the chemicals, not the fuel. It can already look to wide markets for any chemicals it gets out of the hydrogenation process. These markets have been eager for coal chemicals in the past, and they're already looking for bigger and more dependable sources of supply. Among them are auto finishes, bug bombs, laminating resins, mildew proofing agents, insulating agents, dyes, pigments, process chemicals, plastics, tanning and lubricating oils," the magazine adds.

Time magazine refers to an "endless stream of new medicines and drugs, long-acting and fire-proof fabrics, new paints and detergents, better weed-killers and insecticides; that will come from the coal chemicals produced at Institute. Actually, Carbide's 'chemical factory' is considered a pilot plant intended to pioneer developments from which an entirely new industry will arise."

The value of hydrogenation in the production of liquid fuels has been recognized since the days of World War I, when Germany produced gasoline from coal to fuel most of its airplanes and other machines. Hydrogenation is also used by the U. S. in the production of synthetic gasoline at its experimental plant in Louisiana, Mo., and fuels experts predict that a considerable portion of the nation's liquid fuels will come from coal as petroleum resources are exhausted in the years ahead. Coal contains 93 per cent of the country's fuel reserves and there is enough of it underlying the U. S. to serve the country's requirements for the next 5,000 years at the same time taking care of the demands for coal chemicals in ever-increasing quantities.

SOIL CONSERVATION

By L. R. JOHNSON
Soil Conservation Service

Dockie Outley, of the Blue River community, constructed 450 feet of erosion ditch with his tractor and plow.
Jack Morrison, of Johns Creek, constructed 150 feet of diversion channel with one horse—much plowing.
Joe Burchett, of Sugar Land neighborhood, seeded one acre of serious lespedeza as an observational plot.
Joe Hicks, of Blue River, has his drainage project almost completed.

Contour cultivation is a practice that all farmers should follow even on land that is not hilly or sloping, and that is called bottom land.
Plowing, planting, cultivation, and harvesting sloping fields in farming on the contour, around hillside with curving, furrows to fit the lap of the land. The curved furrows catch rainfall and allow it to soak into the ground. This conserves water and reduces the amount of soil that is washed away. Part of the water that soaks into the soil is used later by crops, thus resulting in an increased production of pounds or bushels.
If you want to plant your crops on the contour, call the soil conservation office.
