This Town... That World

IT'S INHUMAN
There are many kinds of warfare studied and planned by men, these days, and all of them have their ghastly aspects. There is bacteriological warfare, letting disease germs do the fighting; atomic, which gives us all the shudders, and so on. But now comes word that when somebody mentioned guerilla warfare in a certain group recently, at least one hearer was horrified. "Lord," exclaimed the one who by that time had developed strong pacifist leanings, "what is the world a-comin' to? Just think—a trainin' gorillies to do their fightin' for them!"

You know, my youngsters have our troubles, too. A member of our staff was taking by telephone a grocery ad this week, and didn't get the name of one item clearly. Some sort of potatoes. "How do you spell it?—hi-de-ho?"
The groceryman showed considerable self-control when he calmly replied, "No—I-d-a-h-o."

On this drear day I am reminded that Adam was perhaps the unhappiest man who ever lived and not only because he figured in the Paradise Lost episode. He never was a boy.

THE DESCRIPTIVE WORD
The language changes, and I am opposed to most of same. But some modifications may have been justified. Take the word, "charivari," for example. Rooted in the French, it referred to the mock serenading of newlyweds with a cacophony of horns. (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Meet To Feature Land Use Planning

Ollie J. Arnett, chairman of the Big Sandy Resource Conservation and Development Project Council, announces that the Council will meet at Jenny Wiley State Park at 6 p.m., tomorrow (Thursday).
The main topic to be discussed at the meeting will be land use planning. Featured discussion leaders for the meeting will be Steve Mooney, a planning consultant from Lexington, and Glen E. Murray, state conservationist, Soil Conservation Service.

Mr. Arnett said magistrates, conservation district supervisors, leaders of local planning commissions and others involved with land use decisions, as well as public agencies, are invited to attend this meeting.

Work To Start Soon To Boost Plant Capacity

Hopefully, the Prestonsburg Gas and Water System will have completed within the next two months water plant improvements which will boost the daily plant capacity from 1 to 1½ million gallons, Bill Harvey Howard, system superintendent, said Tuesday.
Additional raw water pumps and a new type filter using anthracite coal will be installed. The cost of materials will be $100,000—all paid by the water system, since no federal aid is available. Installation work will be done by the system's own work force.

A new plant to afford 2 million gallons of water a day would cost $1 million, Bell Engineers have estimated. But financing such an undertaking is impossible at this time, and so the 50 per cent increase of capacity is being undertaken with added equipment.

Cole Wounded, Newsome Held

Azzie Newsome, of Teaberry, was charged with assault in the first degree and lodged in the county jail after a cutting and wounding incident at Teaberry Sunday night.
James Cole received numerous slashes and stab wounds after allegedly being assaulted by Newsome who was visiting at Cole's mobile home. According to State Police Trooper Webb, one of the arresting officers, the two men had apparently been drinking when an altercation arose. Cole's condition was at first critical but was listed Tuesday afternoon by the Methodist hospital, Pikeville as fair. State Trooper Paul Etape assisted with the arrest.

Grady Nelson, of Water Gap, was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana Thursday night as he allegedly attempted to smuggle a small quantity of "grass" to some acquaintances who were lodged in the county jail. Nelson then left the jail but was soon overtaken by Deputy Sheriff Doug Lewis who re-arrested Nelson charging him with escaping custody while under arrest as well as a second count of possession of marijuana. Nelson pleaded guilty to the charges in Police Judge Tom Lafferty's court.

Others booked at the county jail within the past week, charges against each and arresting officers follow:

Charley Adkins, drunk driving, by State Trooper Rexford McClure, drunk driving, by Allen Policemen Conn and Rickman, Clarence Johnson, drunk driving, by State Trooper Stepp, Stephen Martin, assault and battery in the third

Women's Rights Meet Sunday at Craynor

A meeting to organize a group to further equal rights for women will be held at the Mud Creek Health Project at Craynor, Sunday at 1 p.m.

Among the aims of the group are listed the following: Protection for those beaten and abused, temporary shelter for those threatened by physical abuse, legal, social, financial aid, housing for single and separated women, help in becoming self-supporting, better working conditions, opposition to job discrimination, and aid in enrolling in educational and training programs.
Men as well as women who support these objectives are urged to attend as well as women, it was said.

Red Cross Goal Of $4,600 for Drive

The Red Cross fund drive scheduled for March will again be under the chairmanship of Mrs. Sally L. Clarke, of Prestonsburg, who headed the drive last year. E. B. May, Jr., will act as Special Gifts chairman.

Miss Ella Noel White, executive secretary of Floyd Chapter, American Red Cross, said that the goal set for the local chapter is $4,600. "When we think of the great numbers of people in our county who have been helped by the Red Cross during times of flood disaster and during military service, this seems a modest amount."
Names of other volunteer workers will be announced later, Miss White said.

Suit Next Month To Decide Future of Combs Airport

A court trial upon which the fate of Combs Airport may rest was postponed in the Johnson circuit court late last month till March 31.

Trial of the case in which landowners claim damage for right-of-way will mark the third attempt since the early '60s to resolve differences over the value of land affected by the airport, located at Blockhouse Bottom and serving the Prestonsburg-Paintsville area.

If the amount allowed plaintiffs is more than the Prestonsburg-Paintsville Airport Board can pay, the two towns may be required to settle the bill or lose the facility.

The airport, which was named for Bert Combs, who was governor at the time it was established, is credited with playing a major role in Big Sandy development. It has a 3,200-foot runway and is open five days a week.

Near it are future offices of the Island Creek Coal Co., one of the top 10 coal producers in the country, and still nearer are the offices of the Western Coal Corporation.

John Wheeler, air-traffic controller at the one room terminal building, said between 20 and 30 aircraft land at the airport daily. On an average day, 20 to 25 planes are on the ground renting space for the night. Two helicopters are permanently located at the field while 10 to 12 others fly in from Tennessee and West Virginia, he said.

Most of the aircraft belong to coal companies which use them to fly in personnel and in emergencies, parts for mining machinery. Before the coal boom (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Hurt Drowns After Car Runs In Creek

A 19-year-old Garrett youth was drowned February 2 after the car he was driving plunged into the headwaters of Beaver Creek in Knott county.

Robert (Snookie) Hurt, Jr. was claimed after his car apparently ran off the road on Route 7 near Topmost and overturned into the swollen stream.

Mr. Hurt, who at the time of his death was employed as a factory worker, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hurt, Sr., of Garrett; a brother, Don Edward Hurt, of Willard, O.; three sisters, Mrs. Freda Owsley, of Bellevue, O., Mrs. Theda Mae Bailey and Mrs. Wanda Faye Vanderpool, both of Willard, O., and the paternal grandmother, Mrs. Rachel Hurt, of Bulan.

Funeral rites were conducted February 5 at the home at Garrett by the Rev. Jim Rose. Burial was made in the Riverside cemetery at Hazard under the direction of the Casbolt-Hoskins-Cox Funeral Home.

Clearing the "Overburden"

Department of Highways employees remove heavy rockfall from US 23, near the Plantation Motel, Monday morning. The heavily travelled highway is skirted for hundreds of yards by unterraced hillsides and rock walls between Prestonsburg and Paintsville, and is frequently partially or entirely blocked by slides and rockfalls.

Council Lists Four Projects For Federal Funds Priority

The Prestonsburg City Council at its Thursday night meeting listed four projects, which it has approved, to submit a pre-application form for Housing and Urban Development (HUD) funds for four community improvement projects.

Deadline for the pre-application, which must be approved by local agencies before a final application form is drawn up to be sent to HUD, was set for March 1 and it is hoped that the city's promptness in submitting the pre-application may help to give Prestonsburg something of a "jump" on other Kentucky communities vying for some $6 million in the federal funds.

The four community projects suggested by Linder and approved by the council to be financed by the funds include the purchase of a site for a mid-rise housing development for the elderly as well as low and moderate income families, purchase of a surface parking lot in the downtown area; utilization of park and recreational facilities for both Archer Park and the Goble-Roberts Addition mini-park, and the feasibility of raising city utilities to a site near the top of Abbott Mountain to be used in future development of a housing complex in that area.

In other action by the council, a resolution was passed which designated improvement projects to be carried out using municipal aid funds derived from the city gasoline tax. The projects included improvement work to the Archer Park drive, Central Avenue, North Lake Drive and Scott Court.

City Clerk Beverly Hackworth also reported that a total of $99,916.69 had been collected by the city in fees from fire and automobile insurance policies sold in Prestonsburg over the past year.

Responses To 10 Most Common Excuses for Not Giving Blood

1. "No one has ever asked me to donate blood."
You are now invited. Blood must come from people. By accepting this invitation and donating a pint of blood, you could save the life of an accident victim, a surgery patient, or a leukemic child.
2. "I gave my blood voluntarily, but then it was sold to a patient."
The Central Kentucky Blood Center does not sell blood. The hospitals are only charged for part of the expense of collecting, processing and distributing blood.
3. "I'm scared of giving blood."
Nearly all first-time donors share this feeling of fright, but the donation process is a relatively painless event.
4. "My insurance covers any blood that I might need."
Many insurance policies do cover the cost of blood and its administration but

5. "Other people must be giving enough blood."
The demand for blood and blood products is constantly increasing due to advancing medical research. The needs of patients must be met by more blood donors, people like you.
6. "I don't have enough blood to donate."
The average adult has about 10-12 pints of blood in his body. Healthy adults can generally donate on a regular basis.
7. "My blood isn't the right type."
Every type is the right type. Even rare types are needed at all times.
8. "They'll take too much and I'll feel weak."
One pint is all that is taken during a donation, and your body will begin to manufacture new blood immediately. Most people will go about their usual activities after donating.
9. "It's too inconvenient to donate blood."
The Central Kentucky Blood Center and the County Donor Club will try to make donating as convenient as possible by scheduling at least 11 blood drawings in County each month.
10. "I didn't realize my blood was needed."
It certainly is. Every 17 seconds someone, somewhere uses a pint of blood. Was't you donate a pint of your blood on Feb. 27 when the mobile unit will be at four places in Floyd county?

Floyd County Health Notes

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH
The Floyd County Health Department will conduct a glaucoma clinic, Feb. 21. Glaucoma is a serious disease that usually occurs in persons who are 35 years of age or over. This disease can slowly and painlessly cause blindness, but early detection and treatment can prevent it. For this reason the public health nurses urge all persons age 35 and over to take advantage of this free glaucoma screening.

The Floyd County Health Department will be closed Monday, February 17, in observance of George Washington's Birthday. However, a nurse from the health department will conduct an outpost clinic on this day at Ethel Osborne's Store at Bypro. Clinic hours will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., with the following services being available free of charge: TB skin tests, immunizations, diabetes screening and blood pressures.

Rutherford Opens Campaign

Pike County Judge Wayne T. Rutherford opened his campaign for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor Saturday in Lexington before a crowd of more than 1,000 people. He received pledges of support from about 20 coal county judges who were in the audience, including Fayette County Judge Robert Stephens.
Rutherford, 36, who is president of the Kentucky Association of County Judges, said he would carry his campaign to all the people of Kentucky, "from New Madrid Bend in the west to Paw Paw Creek in eastern Kentucky."
He said "it's high time that local city and county governments have a representative at the state level" and that "no legislation passed by the Kentucky legislature should be signed into law if it creates a burden on local governments."
State campaign headquarters will be set up in Pikeville so that he can continue to conduct the county's business, he said. Rutherford named Louisville attorney

Thomas Gates as state campaign chairman. Marrs Allen May, of Pikeville, also an attorney and former state representative was announced as co-chairman.

Consumer Comments

By Atty. Gen. Ed Hancock
 Consumers who find their Internal Revenue Service forms taxing frequently turn to private tax preparation services to save time and money. If you plan to hire someone to prepare your federal or state income taxes this year, here are a few words of advice:

1. Read ads carefully and be sure you understand what type of service will be provided. Some firms actually fill out the forms. Other firms tell you how to fill them out.
2. Explain to the tax preparer firm the type of help you need, and then ask for a written statement of the complete cost of the service.
3. Before you decide upon the help of a tax preparer, ask for identification and qualifications. If the person or firm you select to help you does not really know how to work with tax preparation, your tax forms could be prepared inaccurately, leaving you in trouble and in debt.
4. Find out if the company or person assumes any responsibility for the accuracy of your tax return. If so, ask for a written guarantee.
5. Insist that a tax preparer sign your returns.
6. Obtain a written receipt for all fees paid to a tax preparation service.
7. Be skeptical of ads or offers of large tax refunds. No one can be certain of a refund at all but the return is complete.

Both the state and federal government, offer assistance to taxed consumers. The Internal Revenue Service has a toll-free number which you may call to ask about your federal income taxes: 1-800-922-6870. There are also 14 IRS offices throughout the state where you can just walk in and obtain assistance.

For state taxes, you may contact one of the 11 district offices of the Department of Revenue, or their main office in Frankfort.

If you have a consumer complaint, call the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division on the consumer hotline: 1-800-372-2960, or write to Consumer Protection, Office of the Attorney General, The Capitol, Room 34, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

If you'd like to hear more about consumer protection, tune in your TV set to the Consumer Survival Kit, a new series designed to help you save headaches and money. Check your local listings on Sunday, Tuesday, and Thursday for the exact times and channels.

OLD BRIDGE DATA

Last week when we reproduced the picture of the old bridge across the Big Sandy here we failed to recall for the old folks among us the late "Black" Bill Marshall and the bull which served to pull his mail-cart over to the railway station and back.

Anna Laura May, who has long had this same picture in her possession, identifies the man with his foot on the block as her father, the late Judge Beverly C. May, and the other as Cal Hager, who resided on Little Paint Creek. She also says that Andy Stephens was the tall collector.

The necessity for enlarging the capacity of the plant rises from the fact that the water system is now operating at 80 per cent capacity, pumping an average of 800,000 gallons a day, which is near the danger line. Mr. Howard said only a day's supply of water is kept in reservoirs and any malfunction could create a critical shortage.

Blaine R. Hall resigned his post as a member of the Municipal Utilities Commission, early last month, and Johnny Burke was named as his successor.

CORRECTION

The name of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club's Heart Fund drive chairman for the communities of Estil, Lackey and Wayland was incorrectly listed in last week's Times. It should have been Merrill Dixon.

pints of whiskey and vodka. Shepherd was named on three counts, breaking and entering, illegal possession of intoxicating beverages and illegal sale of intoxicants.

The petition alleges that Shepherd was denied legal counsel or the right to contact an attorney, and that Magistrate Wells is the chief complaining witness against the defendant. It also alleges that the magistrate "coerced" from Shepherd a confession by telling him that the magistrate could help him if he would confess.

Shepherd claims he has been unlawfully deprived of his liberty, without the right to execute bond, since Sunday, Feb. 2; that the breaking and entering charge is illegal and that he is not guilty of the other two lodged against him. He asked that the case be venued to circuit court.

Letters To The Editor

CARS STOP FOR ANIMAL. WON'T FOR A CHILD

We live on the Parkway and our daughter goes to Clark school. If we didn't have a good bus driver, Mr. Earl Ousley, our daughter would have been killed.

She has to cross the road, evenings, and Mr. Ousley completely stopped, had every stop light on, two cars went right on. (Mr. Ousley won't let a child off the bus until all cars have stopped.)

Why can't drivers have enough sense to stop for a school bus? A lot of them will stop for a cat or dog, but not a school bus. Floyd county needs more signs on the road about school buses.

It is dangerous for a child to try to get across the road, morning or evening. The cars fly on the parkway and never any state police. MR. and MRS. OLIVER PRATER West Prestonsburg, Ky.

only 10 or 12 planes were based at the airport, Wheeler said. One airport patron pointed out, "Island Creek would never have moved their offices here from West Virginia if it hadn't been for this airport being here. And they employ 60 to 70 people in their offices alone."

Planes from as far away as Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and Spartanburg, S.C., have landed at the airport, Wheeler said.

One man even keeps a propeller-driven plane at the field so he can fly to a larger field where he keeps his private jet, he added.

Flying time to Lexington from Combs is one hour in an average plane at the field and 20 minutes to Huntington, the closest available field with hangars for aircraft.

In addition to the coal companies, other aircraft based at the field belong to local doctors, lawyers, a bank and others.

Retired Teachers Hear Stone Talk Concerns

The winter meeting of the Floyd County Retired Teachers Association was held Saturday afternoon in the regional library here with Mrs. May K. Roberts presiding. The devotional was given by Miss Myrtle Pugsley who chose as her subject, "The Grace of God."

The guest speaker was Talton K. Stone, of Elizabethton, member of the board of trustees of the Kentucky Teachers Retirement System and former president of the Kentucky Education Association, who spoke on "What's Going on in Education?" He discussed the specific concerns for retired teachers and said that of the 50,000 teachers in Kentucky 9,500 are retired. Stressing the importance to society of older Americans and their impact on the economy and politics of the nation he said there are 20 million people in the United States 65 years of age or older and they spend $60 billion each year. Of the eligible voters in the country, he continued, only around 33 per cent voted last year while 70 per cent of the 65-year age group voted.

He praised the Kentucky Teachers Retirement for its achievements but expressed hope that the 1976 General Assembly would act favorably on KEA's proposed legislation for increasing the annuities of retired teachers, especially older ones with years of prior service.

The next meeting was scheduled for May 10 when a tea will be given honoring the 1975 retirees and others recently retired.

Mrs. Shirley Hughes, of the Comprehensive Care program, announced that the unit recently moved to Maytown, needs volunteer helpers and would appreciate any assistance retired teachers could render.

Refreshments were served by Mesdames Pollyanna Wiley, Nora Martin and Frankie Sue Best to the following members and guests: Mesdames Pauline Stone, Grace Sutherland, Nora Martin, Grace Conley, Ethel Ratliff, Myrtle F. Reasor, Norma S. Stepp, Letha H. Little, Polly S. Harmon, Margaret D. Collins, Pollyanna Wiley, Victoria Spradlin, Anna May Mellon, Frankie Sue Best, Shirley C. Hughes, Elizabeth Adams, Edna B. DAR Invites Public To Join Observance

The Daughters of the American Revolution invite the public to join in observance of February as American History Month and to learn more about Americans who helped win and preserve the nation's freedom.

Among the historic facts not generally known are cited by John Graham Chapter, D.A.R., are these:

Crispus Attucks, a Negro, courageously died for his country. A "Female Paul Revere", Sybil Ludington, at the age of 16 rode horseback through the night to spread the alarm of the raid on the town of Danbury by the enemy.

Deborah Sampson Gannet was the first woman to enlist as a soldier in the American Revolutionary War, under the alias of Robert Shurtieff.

40 ways not to be fuelish.

Give your furnace an efficiency check up, to make sure it's not wasting fuel.

- 1 Adjust your home thermostat to the recommended fuel-saving temperatures: between 65 and 68 degrees during the day. Down to 55-60 degrees at night.
- 2 Make 50 miles per hour your top speed when driving. On the average your best mileage happens around 35 mph.
- 3 Turn off lights, electrical appliances and TV sets when you're finished with them. Unplug instant-on TVs.
- 4 Start or join a carpool. And when you use your car, use it efficiently. Combine trips to the supermarket, the drug store, the bank, etc., and make one clean sweep.
- 5 Drive at a steady speed, accelerating and slowing gradually. Especially avoid "jackrabbit" starts. They really eat up gas.
- 6 Don't idle your engine more than two minutes.
- 7 Avoid congested traffic. That kind of stop and go driving consumes gas quickly and adds to air pollution. Plan trips for off-hours.
- 8 Have your home's heating system checked to make sure it's operating at peak efficiency.
- 9 Install a humidifier on your heating system. Humidified air is comfortable at substantially lower temperatures than dry air and healthier for you.
- 10 Close off any areas of your home that don't require heat all the time. Guest rooms, for example

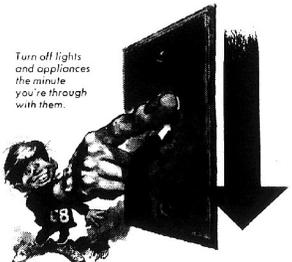

- 11 Don't waste fuel heating the garage.
- 12 Keep windows near thermostats closed. Otherwise the cold air will cause a lower reading, and your furnace will run longer but not make you any warmer.
- 13 When you're not using your fireplace, make sure the damper is tightly closed so heated air won't escape.
- 14 Weatherstrip or caulk around drafty doorframes and windows.
- 15 Install storm windows. You'll cut down heat loss by 10-15%.
- 16 Close draperies at night. Keep them open during the day. Closed, they'll act as insulation. Open, they'll let in additional warmth from the sun.
- 17 Move furniture that blocks forced air registers.
- 18 Keep the area near your furnace free from obstructions, especially the space around air intakes.
- 19 Check the color of the burner flame in your gas furnace. If the flame is yellow, instead of blue, there's too much air in the combustion mixture. A repairman can fix you up in a jiffy.
- 20 Clean or replace furnace filters regularly.
- 21 Eliminate outdoor decorative lighting, such as spotlights, floodlights and lights lining driveways.

- 22 Turn off your gas yard light. It's a real gas gobbler.
- 23 In the kitchen, try to cook all foods for a meal in one area of the range—on top, in the oven, or under the broiler. For cooking small quantities of food, use a portable appliance like an electric skillet.
- 24 If you cook with gas, don't use more flame than necessary. Flames should just touch the bottom of cooking utensils.
- 25 A clear blue flame on a gas range means the burner is operating properly. If the flame is yellow, have a repairman make adjustments.
- 26 On electric ranges, turn off burners several minutes before the end of the proper cooking period. The heating element will stay hot, and your food will finish cooking without using additional energy.
- 27 Do not preheat ovens more than a few minutes. And don't set the temperature higher than you need.
- 28 Run full loads in the dishwasher, so that you can run it less often. Don't use it between 4 and 8 p.m.
- 29 Run full loads in the washer and dryer. Same reason.

- 30 Whenever practical, wash with cold water.
- 31 Use the shortest possible drying cycle. And clean the dryer lint trap after each load. (A clogged trap lengthens drying time.) In winter vent the dryer blower into the house.

- 32 Once a month, flush the sediment out of your hot water tank by draining a couple of buckets of warm water from the faucet at the bottom of the tank. If allowed to build up, this sediment insulates the water from the heater.
- 33 Make sure the temperature on your water heater isn't set excessively high. 110 degrees is about right. Wrap hot water lines with insulation.
- 34 Repair leaking water faucets—especially hot water faucets.
- 35 Take showers instead of baths. You'll use a lot less hot water.
- 36 Make sure your home is adequately insulated. It should have at least 6 inches of insulation in the attic, 3 inches in walls and under floors over crawl spaces.
- 37 Wrap heating ducts that go through cold spaces with fireproof insulation. And while you're there, check ducts for leaks.
- 38 Seal air leaks from living spaces into the attic—around ceiling fans, electrical fixtures, heating ducts, and pull-down stairways. (But don't seal off ventilation in the attic. You need that to prevent moisture buildup.)
- 39 Before summer comes, have your cooling system checked to insure efficient operation.
- 40 Right now, write for a free booklet with these and more tips on how to save fuel. Just send your name and address to: Energy Conservation, Box CW, Washington, D.C. 20240.

Don't be fuelish.

Senator Cornett Not a Candidate For Re-Election

State Senator John Chris Cornett, of Hindman, announced this week that he will not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the office at the May primary.

No reason was given for his decision, but Senator Cornett has been in ill health since being stricken ill during the 1974 General Assembly session.

A Democrat, Mr. Cornett served as Commonwealth's Attorney when the 31st judicial district included both Knott and Floyd counties and later was circuit judge of the Knott-Magoffin district.

In the Legislature he was listed as one of the most outspoken foes of the "broad form" deed which was outlawed by law but which now has been favored with a Franklin circuit court decision holding the law unconstitutional.

Cornett is the third incumbent in recent months to decide against seeking reelection. The others were County Judge Henry Stumbo and Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo.

Waste Program Franchise Set For Later Meet

Awarding of franchises for collection and delivery to the county landfill of waste materials in all parts of the county was delayed at last Wednesday's meeting of the fiscal court when it became apparent that bids submitted were not based on adequate knowledge of the work to be done.

A second meeting of the fiscal court was held Monday, with Bill Goodwin, of the Office of Business Development, University of Kentucky, discussing the problems attendant on waste collection and disposal to only one landfill site. The court postponed till later in the month further action.

Mr. Goodwin will supply each court member a map to delineate the exact boundaries of each magisterial district and show haulage distances. Sample contracts will also be seen. The magistrates will also see the map to a contract applicable to the situation here.

He pointed to the importance of getting the collection and disposal system off to a sound start, adding that almost all waste collection districts are in trouble, including even those with 80 per cent federal funding.

The major problem of landfill sites, perhaps one for each magisterial district, still exists, with only one landfill established. It is located on Turkey Creek, near Maytown.

Southern States Meet Slated at May Lodge

Members of Southern States Cooperative's local board and committee members, agricultural workers and retail agency managers from this area, will attend a regional board meeting in Prestonsburg, February 18. The session will be held at Jenny Wiley State Park, and registration will begin at 6 p.m.

Also attending the meeting as guests will be a number of young farmers from this area.

Hayward B. Hill, of South Charleston, W. Va., a member of the Southern States 15-man board of directors, will preside at the meeting. Hill represents the cooperative's members in southwestern West Virginia and eastern Kentucky. He has been a member of the board since 1966.

Featured at the session will be a look at "Agriculture in Our Economy," to be presented by Paul E. Mullinix, the cooperative's director of community services, who heads a two-man management team that will attend the session.

Former P'burg Youth Unconscious after Wreck

Seventeen-year-old Scotty Horn, son of Walter Horn, of Pioneer, O., formerly of Prestonsburg, remains unconscious in Parkview Hospital, Ft. Wayne, Ind., as a result of injuries suffered Feb. 5 at Pioneer in an auto wreck. It was said here that the youth's car wrecked when it skidded on ice as he was passing another vehicle.

Break in Line Leaves P'burg Without Heat

Gas service to Prestonsburg was interrupted Monday morning by a break in a line at the Prestonsburg Water and Gas system's Middle Creek regulator station and a few commercial buildings were still without heat Tuesday morning.

Bill Harvey Howard, superintendent of the city water and gas system, said the break, which was reported at about 9:30 Monday morning, was probably caused by a slip in the hill and the contraction of the pipe from Sunday night's exceptionally frigid temperatures. Because the line, a two-inch pipe with a four-inch header, broke behind the valve at the regulator station, Howard explained, "We had no control over the gas flow, so we had to cut all gas coming into town."

In addition, Howard emphasized that a federal regulation stipulated that all gas meters must be shut off for all consumers before service has been resumed. "It's time-consuming," Mr. Howard pointed out, "but is a safety regulation."

City workers and employees of the Elliott Gas and Electric Company of Prestonsburg worked from four to five hours to turn off some 1,200 gas meters in the Prestonsburg area and city employees worked until 4 a.m. Tuesday repairing the damaged line. Howard expressed his appreciation to the Elliott Gas and Electric Co., which, he said, had "pitched in to help out for the second time as gas service partially resumed Monday night and city residents began to turn on their meters and re-light furnaces again, one incident resulted in damage to Cooke's Grocery here. A blaze broke out in the area of the store's furnace after it had been re-lighted and had apparently overheated. Damage to the building was slight.

Shortly before Monday's gas shutoff, Johnny Castle, of Paintsville, sustained a broken bone in his heel after an elevator which he occupied malfunctioned and dropped about 20 feet in a lift station at West Prestonsburg. A wrecker was required to raise the elevator and remove the injured man.

JOHNSON PLANT STILL AT WORK, THO FORCE CUT

American Standard's plant near Paintsville continues work with a reduced labor force while negotiations are pending on a new wage contract.

The number of employees is now down to approximately 15-around half the number working 10 days ago.

Those still working are doing so without a contract, but "considerable progress" in bargaining sessions has been noted and workers have been willing to stay on the job while negotiations in good faith have been conducted.

The labor contract with the United Steel Workers of America expired Jan. 23. The company's Louisville plant, which supplies the Paintsville operation with about 200 feet in a lift station at West Prestonsburg. "We plan to continue production on a day-to-day basis, depending on our own production capabilities and the available parts inventory," Jim Bultman, manager of the Paintsville plant, said last week.

American Standard has operated its Paintsville plant five years. Its peak employment was above 600. But the severe slump in the construction of homes has cut deeply into the demand for its plumbing fittings products, and employment rolls have of necessity been reduced.

ARTS-CRAFTS EXHIBIT SLATED AT PCC, SUNDAY

The Arts and Crafts exhibit has been rescheduled at the Martin Building studios at Prestonsburg Community College from 3 to 5 p.m., Sunday. The exhibit was postponed from its original date because if inclement weather.

Out-Patient Clinic To Move This Week

Tim Atkinson, team director of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center's Floyd county operations, said last week that the out-patient clinic, now located on the second floor of the Harlowe building on First Avenue here, will move up the street to the second floor of the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center district office building (the old Prestonsburg General Hospital) next Saturday.

"This move," Mr. Atkinson said, "is one of necessity. As a result of the agency's recent retrenchment and the resulting layoff of staff, there is now ample space in the district building for the out-patient clinic. And, since austerity is the name of the game these days, we can trim the budget even further by giving up the lease on the Harlowe Building and letting the old hospital do triple duty as out-patient clinic, district office facility, and district help-center."

Mr. Atkinson voiced regret that his staff found it necessary to make such a move. "We have enjoyed our two-year stay in the Harlowe Building," he explained, "its pleasant atmosphere and ideal location have left little to be desired. I expect Dr. Harlowe to have little trouble finding new tenants. They'll probably find him."

Sullivan Expresses Appreciation

Acting Lieutenant Governor William Sullivan would like to express his appreciation to the 350 people who attended the reception for him at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, Sunday night.

His campaign committee has been selected for Floyd County. Gordon (Red) Moore, of Prestonsburg, is Floyd County chairman. Hubert Halbert, of Langley, and Joe Jacobs, of Stanville, are co-chairmen. Marcella Bailey, of Langley, is Floyd County chairwoman. Bill "Crush" Dings, of Martin, is co-ordinator for Eastern Kentucky. Eddy Clark, of Prestonsburg, is Floyd County Youth Chairman.

Again, Senator Sullivan would like to say thanks to all those who have shown interest in his campaign.

Carroll Promises Belt-Tightening On Ky. Government Operations

FRANKFORT, Ky.—State government operations will respond to the gloomy effects of a national recession with frugality and economic belt-tightening, Gov. Julian Carroll said in his State of the Commonwealth address last Wednesday. Speaking to a statewide audience on Kentucky Educational Television, the governor announced delays of work on three Frankfort state office buildings and the elimination of $1.5 million from the construction plans of a fourth government building. He also deferred construction on two projects at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center because "money available is not sufficient to meet the size of the projects."

The two projects, construction of a new livestock and horse show arena and improvements to the fairgrounds lighting and press box facilities at the stadium, would also cost $2.1 million. Two million dollars also will be cut from the construction budget of the Kentucky State Horse Park near Lexington, said the governor. "My obligation was to assure that new building programs planned by state government are needed and affordable," said Carroll, who imposed a fiscal and planning freeze Dec. 30 on $350 million worth of capital construction projects. "The time has come when we must ask if a project or program is necessary to our well being. If we can do without it, then now is not the time to do it."

Gov. Carroll also noted that 3,054 state jobs have been declared vacant and will not be filled, saving the state $18.3 million this year. The vacancies are a result of an order issued to state agency heads by Carroll also on Dec. 30.

"In coming months, every attempt will be made by your state government to join you in re-evaluating our priorities to our spending pattern while you are doing the same at your business and in your home," said Carroll.

The governor said that when he presents his second report to the Commonwealth in June, he hopes to "find ourselves enjoying a better economic climate."

Kentucky's present economy may be "faring better than much of our nation," added Carroll. The state's diversified industrial and "essentially healthy" agricultural economies have allowed Kentucky's unemployment picture to remain as much as one percentage point behind the national rate, the governor said.

Carroll noted that an unprecedented boom in the coal fields, created by the energy crisis, has boosted declining economies in a fourth of Kentucky's counties.

Kentucky has been awarded two pilot coal research plants for gasification and liquefaction and is in the running with four other states for still another major coal facility that will convert high sulfur coal into three synthetic fuels. This new plant carries an investment value of more than $237 million, Carroll said.

"Our chances of acquiring this facility are excellent and we are going after it with everything we've got," he said. "We will meet head-on our responsibility as a provider of the energy needs of much of this nation by making full use of every opportunity to develop Kentucky's coal reserves, shown by recent year-end data to be the most plentiful in the United States."

Name Mrs. Francis To Be Coordinator Of Health Services

Big Sandy and FIVCO Comprehensive Health Planning Councils jointly announce the appointment of Mrs. Carolyn Hay Francis as coordinator of the Big Sandy-FIVCO sub-regional organization for health manpower education and training.

The Big Sandy-FIVCO program was funded by the Ohio Valley Regional Medical Program. Mrs. Francis has been granted a year's leave of absence from Prestonsburg Community College where she was admissions and financial aid officer. She is the wife of John Paul Francis and lives in Johnson county. The purpose of the program, according to Mrs. Francis, is to improve the delivery of health services in the 10-county area—Floyd, Boyd, Carter, Elliott, Greenup, Lawrence, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, and Pike. Program leaders hope to accomplish this by focusing upon the problems of health manpower, for the purpose of improving supply, distribution, and utilization of health manpower through effective use of existing and augmented educational and clinical training resources within the 10 counties.

Columbia Raises Gas Allotment

Columbia Gas of Kentucky will begin providing more gas to 49 industrial customers in Kentucky, beginning Feb. 15. Marvin E. White, president of the gas company, announced last week.

Industrial curtailment has been 85 percent of base allocations but now will be only 50 percent.

The gas company president said that the company is able to make additional natural gas available to the Kentucky industries because temperatures throughout the company's service area in the state have averaged about 9.5 percent warmer than normal during January and because customers, through voluntary conservation, are continuing to reduce their overall consumption.

The 49 industrial customers affected have been operating under the 85 per cent curtailment level since Jan. 1 and under varying degrees of curtailment since November, 1974.

The gas company spokesman warned customers not to assume from this relaxation of curtailment levels that the energy emergency in the country is over. He pointed out that natural gas is still in short supply and that the gas company is still not able to obtain sufficient supplies of natural gas to meet full demands of its customers.

"As in the past, any change in the current percentages of curtailment will depend upon temperatures experienced in the gas company's service area during the remainder of the heating season, the amount of gas conserved by customers and possible further changes in the gas supply price," he said.

William E. Clayton, electrical instructor for the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals, will be the instructor.

This retraining course is essential for all persons who now hold certification cards, in order to retain their cards.

Treasure Hunters Need Permits

By JOD NEACE
FRANKFORT, Ky.—Kentucky treasure hunters who dig for valuables on state-owned or state-controlled property without a state permit are violating the law.

Frederick (Rick) Wilson, archaeologist for the Kentucky Heritage Commission, said Kentucky's archaeology law prohibits persons from willfully injuring, destroying or defacing archaeological sites or any object of antiquity, either Indian or pioneer or any other relic, on land owned or controlled by the Commonwealth or any state agency.

"Those who are caught," said Wilson, "can receive as much as a six-month jail sentence or a $500 fine, or both. The least an offender can get is 10 days in jail or a $50 fine or both."

The law was devised to keep non-professionals and collectors from tampering with archaeological sites and antiquities. It allows qualified persons and educational institutions to explore, excavate and collect historical objects. Wilson is concerned with the increasing number of collectors who are using electronic metal detectors. Many are enticed into looking for gold or silver through treasure magazines which advertise these detectors. A handbook often accompanies the metal detector with suggestions on where to look for hidden treasure. Wilson said that one such handbook listed many historic

Kentucky sites and buildings, some on the National Register of Historic Places. Eldred Melton, director of the Kentucky Heritage Commission, commented the Commission is prepared, if necessary, to prosecute persons found illegally collecting, exploring or excavating state property. A permit can be obtained from the University of Kentucky's anthropology department.

The permit describes the location and sites of the ruins or deposits where the exploration or excavation is to be conducted and is given for a specific and limited time.

The permit is issued on the approval of the agency owning or having control of the land upon which the exploration or excavation will take place.

While private owners of historical sites or buildings are not covered under Kentucky's archaeology law, they are protected by trespass laws, which protect their property against the intrusion of treasure hunters. Wilson said that several states are adopting specific laws to protect privately owned historical sites and buildings from unwise intrusion. But he said that it may be years before Kentucky adopts such a law.

Louisville Meet Marks ASCS State Conference

Kentucky farm program officials from the Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) met January 29 and 30 at the Galt House, Louisville, to discuss better service for farmers, farm programs, and the image of the farmer in today's urban society. Attending the meeting from Floyd county was Sharon Conley, acting county ASCS executive director.

The principal speaker was Kenneth E. Frick, ASCS administrator. Frick told the nearly 50 attending that agriculture is the least subsidized and the most forward segment of our economy. He urged the farmer-commitment to hold on to their gains in income and to resist temptations to retreat old farm programs.

"Ask all farmers to take a firm stand against controls and government payments, and against all of the other interferences that centralize decision-making and mean more government and less independence."

Frick called for a recycling of basic ideals of the country's heritage stating "that new approaches are needed for new problems." He also called for the "revival of integrity, independence, and the work ethic in the nation." "Our past farm policies cost this nation billions of dollars in payments, billions in food aid and billions in storage costs—without achieving farm family incomes equal to the non farm sector, without appreciably increasing the world's food security, and without truly protecting the farmer. The farmers I have talked with never want to return to the system of Washington determining their farming patterns or to get back into a cheap food policy."

ATTENDING THE STATE Heart Fund kick-off luncheon at the governor's mansion in Frankfort recently were Pauline Sparks (right), of Prestonsburg, the Floyd County Heart Fund advisory chairman, and Jeanne Brown, also of Prestonsburg, the Floyd County Heart Fund and Business Gifts chairman. With them is author Jesse Stuart (left), Kentucky Heart Fund campaign chairman; Gov. Julian Carroll; and Marla Shimmfessel (center), the 1975 state Heart Fund poster child. February has been designated by Gov. Carroll as Heart Fund month.

Glory of Cornbread is in the Cooking

By NEVILLE SHACKELFORD
UK College of Agriculture

Although it may be plebeian in origin, rustic by nature, and in times past the object of mild derision, cornbread can nevertheless stand up in any company.

It has been argued, too, that of all the bread ever baked since time began, few, if any, leaves can match the soul-satisfying goodness of a pone of cornbread baked not in an oven but in an old-fashioned skillet on a bed of hot coals.

Cornbread has a special affinity for fish, pork, green beans, sorghum, sweet milk, butter, and stew. The taste of cornbread, when dunked in a bowl of bean soup, approaches the sublime, and when baked with a handful or two of cracklings from freshly rendered pork, cornbread becomes truly fit for the divine palates of the gods of myth and fairy tale.

Gifted housewives of the South have developed cornmeal-baking into a fine art. From the simple but robust corn dodger of the Indians, made by mixing cornmeal with water and salt and baking it on a flat board before a campfire, to such wonderful things as spoonbread, muffins, hush puppies, batter cakes and southern cornbread. Southern cooks have come up with goodies made from cornmeal that have few equals in the annals of culinary art.

It is a well-known fact that for corn and the discovery of cornbread, we owe a tremendous debt to the Indians. But no one knows who first found out that, by blending together a cup of cornmeal, a pint of whole milk, three tablespoons of melted butter, one and a half teaspoons of salt, one-half teaspoon of baking powder, and four beaten eggs, and baking this mixture at 350 degrees for about an hour, the result would be that incomparable taste treat known as spoonbread. If that person—presumably a woman—was known, she would, in the opinion of many, be deserving of a monument tall as the Statue of Liberty.

Who first compounded and baked the superb Southern cornbread is a person equally deserving but likewise unknown. Fortunately, though, the knowledge is still with us. From the files of UK Extension home economists comes this recipe that has been handed down for generations.

Take 1 1/2 cups of cornmeal, 1/2 teaspoon of salt, 1 teaspoon of baking powder, 2 slightly beaten eggs, 1 1/2 cups of buttermilk, and 2 tablespoons of melted shortening. Mix the dry ingredients. Beat eggs and add them to the dry ingredients, along with the buttermilk. Add shortening to the dough, mix well, and pour into a hot greased skillet or baking pan, bake at 450 degrees until done. The eggs can be omitted and the cornbread will be just about as good. In fact, some prefer that the eggs be left out because this leaves the bread waxy and less crumbly.

To make the wonderful "cracking bread," according to the home economists, all that is necessary is to add cracklings to the above mixture.

To make battercakes that are unsurpassed for covering with butter and sorghum or syrup and eating on a cold winter morning, take 1 cup of white cornmeal, 1/2 teaspoon of soda, 1/2 teaspoon of salt, 1 egg, and 1 1/2 cups of buttermilk.

Mix up the cornmeal with the soda and salt. Beat the egg and the buttermilk together and add to the dry mixture. Stir well, with a large spoon and then, using a large spoon, pour spoonfuls of the mixture onto a hot greased skillet or griddle.

Turn the battercakes as soon as they are brown, and rush them to the table.

Granted that all this praise of cornbread is perhaps a bit overdrawn, but one fact still remains. It is a wonderful and historic pone, and the proof is in the eating.

Very soon, J.E.H. Development will begin construction on the new Shoppers Village of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, offering a total of 78,000 square feet of valuable leased area.

The new shopping complex, located on Route 1428 adjoining the Archer Memorial Clinic, will house a 28,000 square foot Shoppers Choice supermarket. Currently the volume leader in the Lexington, Kentucky area, Shoppers Choice features a distinctive "customer oriented" method of merchandising that has proven successful in other expansion markets.

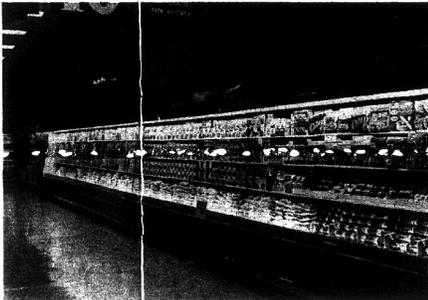

We are enthused by Prestonsburg's rapid developments in the areas of Medicine, Transportation, Education, Tourism and an overall healthy commercial climate.

We invite you to join us in the creation of Prestonsburg's first shopping plaza, and welcome your inquiries.

A look at good things to come.

After nine years in the Lexington area we're expanding and now your city of Prestonsburg will soon have its own Shoppers Choice supermarket located in the Shoppers Village now under development.

Shoppers Choice represents the ultimate in modern supermarket design and convenience, designed to fit your every need. Our store layout, speedy check-out lanes, and ample parking adds much to your shopping ease.

We will stock over 8,000 name brand grocery, produce, dairy and meat items, letting you add important variety to your meal planning. Shoppers Choice has characteristically done about twice the volume of the average supermarket, assuring your meats, dairy products, produce and baked goods will be the freshest around.

Your Shoppers Choice will also feature Armour Testender meats, electronically tested to assure their natural tenderness. The store will also include its own Country Bakery and Delicatessen.

Thanks to a great turnover we can offer lower prices on hundreds of grocery items, not to mention our fantastic Super Saver program, where you'll be able to save up to 80% off on some of our regularly advertised items.

And when your new Shoppers Choice opens you can rest assured it will be spotless and well-organized. Our personnel from the managers to the bag boys are always friendly and courteous.

This is just a preview of what's to come in the months ahead, and we'll be telling you more about Shoppers Choice.

Because good things are worth waiting for.

The Sea of God's Forgetfulness

(Written by an Irish factor's girl)

I will cast in the depths of the fathomless sea All thy sins and transgressions, whatever they be, Though they mount up to heaven, tho' they reach down to hell, They shall sink in the depths, and above them shall swell. All my waves of forgiveness—so mighty and free I will cast all thy sins in the depths of the sea. In the depths, in the depths where the storm cannot come, Where its faint echo falls like a musical hum, Where no mortal can enter, thy faults to deride, Far above them forever flows Love's mighty tide. Of their sepulchre vast—I, thy God, hold the key. I have buried them there in the depths of the sea. In the deep, silent depths, far away from the shore Where they never may rise to trouble thee more, Where no far reaching tide with its pitiless sweep Can stir the dark waters of forgetfulness deep I have buried them there, where no mortal can see. I have cast all thy sins in the depths of the sea. Psalms 108:12 Submitted by Mary Jenkins

Kentucky Afield

By Hope Carleton Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

By JOHN WILSON Kentucky jigging for black bass doesn't require a lot of fancy or expensive tackle, but it is one of the most effective ways of taking fish during the winter months and works particularly well in muddy water. In fact, it was the muddy waters of late winter that inspired jigging in the first place. Back in the mid-twenties, a group of fishermen at Herrington Lake, Kentucky's first major impoundment, discovered that they could catch bass even when the water was almost thick enough to touch. They used a type of live nightcrawlers just below the surface around shoreline cover. As other lakes were built, the technique grew in popularity and developed refinements, but the basic system remains the same—a stiff cane or fiberglass pole about 12 to 14 feet long, a strong monofilament line (up to 100 pound test); some sinkers, a fairly large float and either live or artificial bait. The nightcrawler is the traditional bait and still the most effective under many conditions. When fishing with nightcrawlers, the angler will rig his pole with a short length of line, usually about 30 inches, and will place a stationary float about 18 inches above a large, heavy hook. After baiting up with a gob of nightcrawlers (a "gob" is enough bait to cover the hook completely), the fisherman quietly sculls his boat close to the shoreline and drops the hook around likely-looking cover areas—surface debris, the tops of fallen trees, old logs or rock outcroppings. Once the bait has sunk, he moves the pole up and down in a jiggling motion which resembles someone shivering from the cold (and considering the weather when jigging is effective, this similarity may be more than coincidental). The fun really starts when a bass takes the bait. With such a short line, playing the fish is difficult, so most anglers boat their fish with a mighty yank, swinging the fish into the boat as quickly as possible. However, with a real lunger on the line, it is sometimes necessary to pull the pole in hand-over-hand to the tip, grab the line and heave the fish aboard. It may not be elegant, but it gets the job done. For fishing in murky or clear water, slightly different techniques employing a little more finesse, are required. For one thing, a longer pole with lighter line (about 20 pound test) is commonly used and the line length is adjusted so that it is about a foot shorter than the pole. The stationary float is replaced by a slip cork and the bait—usually a minnow—is fished much deeper, sometimes eight to ten feet deep. For clear-water jigging, artificial bait will sometimes prove effective when used with a long line similar to the outfit used for murky water. Dollies, small artificial nightcrawlers or poris and strips are favorites among jig fishermen.

Like all other types of fishing, successful jigging depends first of all on locating the fish. In winter, the bass will generally be near the surface where the water is warmest. The muddier the water, the closer to the top the fish will be—probably due to the decreased light penetration in the water, which allows the bass to find the low illumination levels they seem to prefer. As the water color changes to murky or clear, the fish will be progressively deeper. Another thing jig fishermen should remember is that bass tend to be sluggish in cold water. Both their activity and their food intake decreases with the temperature. Hence, small baits, both live and artificial, are usually more effective than larger ones, and whatever bait is used, it should be fished slowly. So if you haven't tried Kentucky jigging, now is a good time to get started. It's often the ticket for some hot fishing in cold weather.

ROPES Staff Member

MR. JERVIS
 Reo Johns, executive director of ROPES Region 11, announced last week the appointment of Larry Jervis, of Prestonsburg, former director of transportation for Floyd county schools, to serve as curriculum consultant for the seven local school districts in the region. Mr. Jervis will work closely with local school district personnel to assess the current curriculum and to plan and initiate new curriculum offerings.

Johns said, "The addition of Mr. Jervis to the ROPES staff is a result of Board action recommending that the new staff position funded by the Department of Education be in the general curriculum area rather than in any specific field. Mr. Jervis has an excellent background and is well qualified to fill this position. We feel that he will be a great asset to the ROPES staff and will render a real service."

Mr. Jervis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jervis of Prestonsburg and is married to the former Norcie Whittaker. They have two children, Larry Michael and Lisa Lynn. He received his A.B. degree from Morehead State University and M.A. in guidance, school administration and supervision. He has also taken additional courses at Morehead, Eastern, and the University of Kentucky.

Before becoming director of transportation for Floyd county schools, Mr. Jervis taught in elementary schools in Ohio and Kentucky and served as guidance counselor at Clark Elementary School, near Prestonsburg.

We call it Jerry's RESTAURANT

Today more and more eating places specialize in only one kind of food. That's what makes Jerry's so special—especially at dinner time. It doesn't matter if you're hungry for steak or chicken, or sirloin tips in mushroom gravy, or maybe even shrimp creole or a juicy ham steak. Sometimes there is even saucy lasagna on the menu—and sometimes roast turkey with all the trimmings. And always—there are those green garden vegetables. You get a selection. Jerry's Restaurant specializes in making everybody happy with a different selection each evening. Choose from four entrees and select two vegetables. And for the same price, pick a soup or appetizer. Jerry's offers more than one kind of food—something for everybody.

Kentucky May Get New Coal Project

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Gov. Julian Carroll said last week Kentucky has a good chance of getting a new $237 million project for converting coal into a clean, synthetic fuel and is working on another. Kentucky is one of four Appalachian states in the running for a demonstration plant to which the federal government has agreed to pay $237 million, Carroll said.

It is unrelated to the $80 million coal liquefaction plant already approved for the Catlettsburg area as a joint effort of private industry and the federal and state governments. Two-thirds of the money for that project will come from Washington while Kentucky will pay up to $4.4 million.

State Development Secretary Dee Akers said Kentucky also was looking into a new coal refinement process some experts think is "better than any we have seen to date." He said planning was not far enough along on the project to give any specifics.

Carroll and Akers made their statements at a news conference in which Carroll announced appointment of Louisville businessman John Y. Brown Jr. as unsalaried chairman of a newly established Governor's Economic Development Commission. Carroll also announced then he was naming Larry Townsend, a business associate of Brown's, as his commerce commission to succeed Damon Harrison, who will join Carroll's planning office.

Carroll said the new $237 million project would use both the gasification and liquefaction processes, which produce gas and oil. But it also will produce a third level of fuel called "char," which he said also was a valuable coal byproduct. Akers explained later char is the powder of solid residue remaining from the other processes and which still can be burned at what is believed to be a relatively pollution-free level.

The U. S. Department of Interior has awarded a contract for the project but the site has not been selected, Akers said. Akers said he felt the project could be located anywhere in eastern Kentucky because that was the type coal found in the other three states also being considered, all in the Appalachian area.

"We are going after this plant and our chances of getting it are very good," Carroll declared.

"Not only does Kentucky need this plant, the nation needs the plant where the coal is—and that is Kentucky," he said.

"The fulfillment of our opportunity as a provider of the energy needs of much of the nation lies in the development of Kentucky's coal reserves."

Kentucky apparently got into "the coal research field ahead of most states, starting in 1972 with an effort to find a way to make the high-sulfur coal of western Kentucky environmentally acceptable."

Then in 1974, with the energy crisis, former Gov. Wendell Ford persuaded the General Assembly to commit up to $50 million over a five-year period for research projects on converting coal to gas and oil.

The liquefaction plant approved for the Catlettsburg area last year was a direct result of that effort.

FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT CR 6983

The Bank Josephine, a corporation . . . Plf.

VS. NOTICE OF SALE

John Hopson, Roberta Calcote, Floyd Federal Savings and Loan Association, a corporation . . . Defts.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the January 24 term, 1975 in the above-styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 28th day of February, 1975 at 10 o'clock a. m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of six months, the following described property to-wit:

That certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in Floyd County, Kentucky, in the New Allen Addition at Allen, Kentucky and being the same land conveyed to Roberta Calcote from John Hopson, et. ux. on July 25, 1966, recorded in Deed Book 191, page 33, Floyd County Court Clerk's office, which is more particularly described as follows, viz:

Beginning on a willow tree near the branch and on the Harry Martin line; thence down the river a straight line to a marked stone at the edge of the crossroad; thence with the upper side of the crossroad to the state highway (Route 23); thence up the river with said highway to the branch and a marked stone at Harry Martin's line; thence with said branch back to the beginning.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the sum of $7,225.07 with 6 percent annual interest thereon from Feb. 28, 1975, and the further principal sum of $3,968.18 with interest thereon at 6 percent annually from the 3rd day of June, 1967 until satisfied and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute a bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 7th day of February, 1975.

Suggests Mini-ARC To Handle Coal Tax

After a meeting in Frankfort last week on the spending of severance tax revenues by various counties, W. J. Reynolds, Jr., of Allen, chairman of the legislative advisory committee charged with approval or denial of projects to be financed by severance tax funds, said he envisions the possibility of a new and permanent body for the work.

Rep. Reynolds said he may suggest to the next General Assembly that the advisory committee be replaced by a miniature Appalachian Regional Commission which would be able to coordinate the industry seeking efforts of the various coal counties.

Of the severance tax money that has been spent, or earmarked for spending, to date only $176,000 has been for acquiring industrial sites while almost $1.5 million has been spent on recreational sites and $600,000 for supportive projects for industrial sites.

Rep. Glenn Freeman (D-Harlan) said it is time for his colleagues to emphasize industrial sites instead of recreational facilities.

He made the comment after the group had approved expenditure of excess revenue for several recreational projects in Eastern Kentucky.

"We really haven't zeroed in on industrial sites for counties and I suggest a stringent effort to do so in next year's allotment," Freeman said.

The legislative committee recommends expenditures to the state finance commissioner, who has yet to reject any recommendation.

The program began this fiscal year under a legislative act turning back to coal-producing counties an excess portion of the 4 per cent coal severance tax, which is a levy on coal extracted from the ground.

Rep. Hoover Dawahare, D-Whitesburg, told Freeman his proposal is idealistic, but advised him to remember that fiscal courts are elected by the people "and it's their money, not yours."

Percy Elkins, of the Kentucky River Area Development District at Hazard, said securing industry in Eastern Kentucky may be practically impossible in these times, but some day diversification will come.

The legislative intent guiding the advisory committee is to spend the money on recreational and industrial development and related projects to help local economies.

The committee approved three recreational projects in Harlan county—the Black Joe housing and recreation project for $100,000 plus lesser projects for the Everts Fish and Game Club and sites at Louellen and Kevir.

A Knott county recreational facility to cost $216,752—for a swimming pool and other facilities at Hindman—also was approved.

The committee approved $10,265 for a project that would improve facilities at the Morgan County Health Department.

Essay Contest To Mark American History Month

During February thousands of students in schools throughout the country will be participating in the American History Month essay contest, which is sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution. This year the subject is "A Patriot of the American Revolution." Contestants will learn much about the famous heroes and heroines who served their country during the Revolutionary War and who purchased freedom at such a high price.

The U. S. Department of Labor was created by an Act of Congress approved March 4, 1913.

Black Lung Attorney Denies 'Conflict of Interest'

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Sen. Kelsey Friend testified behind closed doors for almost two hours before the legislative Board of Ethics last Wednesday and said afterwards he feels innocent of any conflict-of-interest allegations. "I see nothing wrong with the law or my conscience in voting the way I did on Senate Bill 114," the Pikeville Democrat told newsmen. That measure passed by the 1974 legislature amended the Workmen's Compensation Act, setting higher black lung minimum payments to lawyers. Friend, an attorney who has made millions of dollars in black lung cases, was criticized for working and voting for the legislation.

The ethics board, created by the last general assembly, voted to hear Friend under a statute allowing closed sessions for certain confidential matters.

Friend said it did not make any difference to him if news media were permitted to listen to him.

"Quite frankly, I believe I caused them (ethics board members) to believe I was honest," he said.

He said 800 persons had attended a re-election rally for him last Friday at Pikeville—mainly coal miners—and that he could not have drawn such a crowd if his motives were questionable.

Friend lambasted the press, contending it gave the impression "the board of ethics had convicted me or I'd done something wrong."

In one instance a friend asked him if he had been disbarred from practicing law, the senator said.

He said he also is perturbed because the inquiry into his legislative actions stemmed not from a complaint by anybody, but a newspaper editorial. Friend said he might issue a written statement outlining what he told the ethics board—on condition the news media promise to print all of it.

He said he does not know what the board will decide, but "I definitely got the impression they felt I was telling the truth."

Board chairman Shelby McCallum of Benton indicated a statement might be issued by the board, but that no decision would be reached shortly.

The Friend issue has been kicking around in the ethics board for months, with a majority seemingly reluctant to censure him.

Kentucky Has First Coal Locating Agency

By PATRICIA MELLEEN FRANKFORT, Ky.—How much coal is under Western Kentucky? A six-man team from the Kentucky Geological Survey—the state's geologic research agency—intends to find out. The geologists are conducting a two-year investigation of coal resources in the 14 counties of the Western Kentucky coal fields. Their goal is to map coal deposits in that area accurately and to determine the most efficient use for that resource.

"Kentucky is the largest coal-producing state. It's only fitting that we determine what we have and what we can do with it," said Gilbert Smith, project director. Smith, who heads the coal research section of the survey, said that the program will add accuracy to existing knowledge about Kentucky coal. "Existing maps tell us the location of coal deposits, but this is incomplete data," Smith said. "We're attempting to measure the amount and the quality of the coal and determine the likelihood of its recovery from the earth."

The study, part of the energy research package funded by the 1974 General Assembly, will also investigate the feasibility of using Western Kentucky's high-sulfur coal in gasification programs. Environmental regulations have restricted the use of this coal, which produces sulfur dioxide when burned. However, Smith said, it's ideally suited for the coal gasification process, in which coal is burned in a closed receptacle. But before such plants can be established, geologists must determine that enough coal exists to support a gasification program.

The members of the survey's coal research team are now mapping the 14 counties in the region. Using visual examination and drill data, they estimate the thickness and quality of coal deposits and investigate the associated rock. They then can evaluate a deposit's mining suitability and estimate its recoverability.

After the field work is done, the geologists will compile their data, plot it on maps and chart coal measurements on reserve data maps. Tables of figures will be published for each county in the coal basin. After six months of work, the geologists have mapped half of the 14-county area. Smith estimates that another eight months will be spent in the field, gathering data through examination and drilling procedures. Completion of the project and publication of the data is slated for July, 1975. Smith hopes his agency will receive funding for a similar study of Eastern Kentucky's coal reserves. "No state has ever attempted a project like this one," he explained. Most research about coal location is done privately by industry sources.

Several other states have expressed interest in duplicating the Kentucky project.

Extension Service Notes

By JOHN E. SPARKS (County Extension Agent for Agriculture)

Now is a good time to start making plans for a home garden. With signs of spring just around the corner, finds most of us full of interest and enthusiasm. We do not want to let one planting of vegetables and an increase in temperature cause us to lose interest for the garden.

If you are uncertain about growing a garden this year, consider these reasons for growing one.

Tired of paying high grocery prices, you can grow your own to provide the family with fresher, cheaper, nutritious supply of vegetables throughout the year. A garden for a family of four is worth about $600.

With rising food prices, money saved on home grown vegetables can be spent on other food items.

Studies have shown that in many instances, families are better fed when a portion of the food supply is home grown.

We need to select a garden site and order our seeds now, if we haven't already done so.

In selecting a garden site we need good soil, loamy in texture, well drained and free from shade. Very heavy soils are hard to work and remains wet and cool until late in the spring. It is possible to grow a good garden on nearly any soil type, provided it is well drained and properly managed. A good practice is to incorporate as much organic materials into the soil as possible, such as manure, rotten sawdust, and leaves.

All vegetable families should be planted together and rotated them around will help to control insects and diseases.

We have a leaflet available at the County Extension Office, Ho-3 on Vegetable Varieties in Kentucky. These varieties have been tested and proven to be very satisfactory in this area. The leaflet is free. If you had a problem with tomato blight, there are two varieties of tomatoes that have some resistant to blight, Ramapo and Jet Star. For the free leaflet, stop by the County Extension Office (2nd Floor, Prestonsburg Post Office) or call (886-2668).

License plating without waiting.

It's time to attend the annual "Great Auto Tag Standing-In-Line Hassle." That is, unless you take the easy option of using your Master Charge. Simply bring last year's Auto Registration (license receipt) to any of our three Banking Offices. Our tellers will charge the full license fee (plus the normal county clerk's fee—50¢) to your Master Charge, and your 1975 plates will arrive at your home in a matter of days.

License plates without waits... with Master Charge. It's the little card that delivers a lot for you. Don't forget the deadline is March 1—so act now.

Advertisement for Master Charge license plating. Features a large image of a Kentucky license plate with '00-001' and a 'master charge' logo. A man is shown holding the license plate. Text includes 'THE INTERBANK CARD', 'NO SERVICE CHARGE ON CHECKING ACCOUNTS.', and 'The BANK JOSEPHINE PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY Member F.D.I.C.' with a logo for 'THE BANK JOSEPHINE 1891'.
