State Plans Repair Of Truck Damage In 14 Area Counties

Approximately 18 miles of Floyd county roads are scheduled for repair in the program begun this week by the state which will spend $21.5 million of its own funds to repair 420 miles of highway that have been severely damaged by coal trucks.

The state asked bids Monday on 197 miles of resurfacing work in 14 Eastern Kentucky counties, and it was said other bids will be sought next month.

The Floyd county roads included for letting to contract May 1 are:

KY 7 from KY 80 at Hueysville to the Magoffin county line, 4.8 miles; KY 7 from KY 80 at Lackey to the Knott county line, 5 miles; KY 194 from KY 148 (old US 23) at the mouth of Cow Creek to the German bridge on Dewey Lake, 7.3 miles.

In Knott county 18 miles of KY 7 from the Floyd-Knott line to the Letcher county line are being advertised for resurfacing.

Work advertised for other counties of this area:

Detective Says Arrests Barely Scratch Surface

An investigation begun in January by State Police Detective Danny Stumbo and state police narcotics agents into the illegal drug traffic in Floyd and Johnson counties had by the end of March resulted in 25 arrests.

And, Stumbo said this week, "The surface has just been scratched."

Several arrests have also been recorded during April with three coming in Floyd county within the past week.

Arrested for trafficking in marijuana last Tuesday were Sidney Hicks and a juvenile. Michael Hall Turner was charged the same day with possession of marijuana. Hicks and Turner were released on bond. Three earlier arrests were in connection with trafficking in possession of marijuana.

The greater number of arrests have been made in Johnson county.

Juveniles as well as those over 18 years old make up the number of arrests resulting from the investigations and drugs involved in the area include not only marijuana but several "harder" drugs such as hashish, cocaine, LSD, PCP, along with a variety of pills including amphetamines and barbiturates. A large number of the arrests have come as the result of individuals selling to narcotics undercover agents.

Stumbo urged anyone having any type of information concerning the illegal drug traffic to contact the Kentucky State Police.

Floyd Co. Club Joins 5 Others In Appeal Case

The Floyd County Save Our Land Club joined five other Kentucky groups this week in entering the Broad Form Deed appeal which is testing the constitutionality of the new state law requiring the permission of landowners before strip-mining can be done under the old deeds.

Entering the case with the Floyd county group as "friends of the court" are the Knott County Landowners Protective Association, the Letcher County Citizens' League to Protect Surface Rights, the League of Women Voters of Kentucky, the Sierra Club and the Kentucky Black Lung Association.

"The well-considered interests of these groups," believes the coal industry's assertion that House Bill 9 was a hoax being perpetrated on the legislature by "fuzzy-thinking environmentalists," said attorney Dean Hill Rivkin of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky.

15 Colleges To Join In Mt. Dew Festival

The 11th annual Mountain Dew Festival, which has become one of the largest collegiate events in Eastern Kentucky, will begin tomorrow (Thursday) and continue through Saturday at Prestonsburg Community College, with approximately 1,600 college students and faculty members from 15 junior and community colleges in Kentucky and West Virginia participating.

The three days of competition will feature 15 events, including archery, art, badminton, bowling, checkers, chess, golf, horseshoes, pool, marksmanship, table tennis, talent, tennis and volleyball. Trophies will be awarded for the first three places in each of these events.

Other activities will include the popular Miss Mountain Dew contest to be held in conjunction with the talent contest, Friday at 8 p.m. in the Prestonsburg Grade School auditorium. A representative from each of the 15 participating colleges will compete and be judged in four categories. Last year's winner was the Hopkinsville Community College representative.

Saturday will be highlighted by the annual Mountain Dew dance which will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 p.m. at the PCC Student Center. Featured band for the dance will be "Copperfield."

Colleges participating in this year's Festival, besides Prestonsburg, the host college, include Hopkinsville Community College, Lexington Technical Institute, Elizabethtown Community College, Lee's Junior College, Somerset Community College, Ashland Community College, Alice Lloyd College, Jefferson Community College, Southeast Community College, Hazard Community College, Mayville Community College, Madisonville Community College, Southern West Virginia Community College, and Wood and Forestry Technician School.

All activities are open to the public.

Club's Little Miss, Pre-Teen Pageant Will Stress Coal

"Coal" will be the theme of the annual Floyd County Little Miss and Pre-Teen Miss pageant which will be held Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Prestonsburg Elementary School auditorium under sponsorship of the Allen Woman's Club.

The two winners will be crowned princess of the coal fields in their respective categories. A representative of the club said:

"The Allen Woman's Club is speaking out for coal. The future of our area's economy depends on having people who understand how to use coal to the best advantage. It has brought new jobs to our community and is recognized as one of our nation's leading energy resources. This resource can be tapped and the land restored to its natural beauty."

The club expressed appreciation to all area coal operators who have supported the pageant.

ON THE DEFENSIVE

I rush to my own defense this week to declare that I may be in matters mechanical a moron but not an idiot, as has been hinted on occasion. I have not painted myself into any corners yet, nor have I built any boats in the basement; only to find I couldn't get the thing outside.

I admit that I may be one of the few men of my age who almost contractively bleed lung, every time I attempt to change typewriter ribbons, but I get them changed, even if somebody later has to do some unchanging.

All this is in response to the remark made by a friend, a disgusted friend, who remarked that I am the only man in captivity who needs a refresher course every few months to be able to keep my bifocals working.

THE DEAR DEPARTED

Last week an old friend, J. David Tufts, of Wayland, brought me a relic in the form of a stout piece of chestnut wood. Inscribed thereon was, "I died in 1827." And that's the epitaph to a tree that not only provided shade and beauty but which, "way back then, attracted every youngster around, once fall came and the chestnut began shedding its nut-laden burs. It's a shame the blight didn't strike the buckeyes and skip the chestnuts, but lamenta nous serve no purpose. Just as lamenta quarter-century from now about other tragic things that are happening to trees and other growing things will avail us nothing.

(Ever hear a fire in a chestnut rail fence?)

New Easements May Delay Job By Six Months

The long-delayed Martin stream improvement project suffered another setback last week, just when city and county officials were beginning to think the way was almost cleared for work.

The new obstacle to work on the $5 million project came last Wednesday when representatives of the Huntington district office, U. S. Corps of Engineers, told officials in a meeting here that the first survey for the stream improvement work was incorrect, that new engineering is necessary and that right of entry over approximately 100 pieces of property in and outside Martin must be acquired.

County Judge Henry Stumbo estimated the added work will require perhaps another six months.

Actually, the property involved is the same as that on which easements have already been acquired, either by negotiation or condemnation. The new work involves establishing easement lines to include more land than was first procured when the lines were set at the top of the creek bank.

The request for change of boundary lines came before the filing of a condemnation suit against the Cheslie System (C&O), which has asked $12,000 for an easement over its property at Martin.

The stream improvement project, which is planned to begin near the "Forks of Beaver," upstream from Martin, to a point near the mouth of the Sammy Clark Branch, a distance of approximately three miles, is designed to reduce the incidence of floods. The work will involve straightening and deepening of the stream channel, plus anti-erosion measures.

The project was authorized by the Congress about five years ago. Between that time and the present, city and county representatives have sought to acquire "rights of entry" through negotiation. That failing, condemnation action began last year.

Abbott Cr. Man Named by Jury In Murder Bill

The grand jury adjourned last week after voting the smallest number of indictments to be reported by a grand jury here in years. The total was fewer than 30.

Among those named was Tom Puckett, charged with murder in the shotgun slaying of Abbott Creek last Feb. 13 of Vernon Hopkins. It was the only slaying to be investigated.

The only shooting and wounding charge arising from the grand jury's work was the first-degree assault charge laid to Jim Bob Vance in the shooting here Jan. 13 of James Blair, of Pikeville. Kenneth Allen, of the Printer section of Left Beaver Creek, was named in an indictment accusing him of rape and incest in which his nine-year-old daughter allegedly was the victim.

Eight indictments named defendants on liquor violations, but no drug indictments were made. It was said by a court attaché that no testimony relating to drug sales or use was heard by the jury.

The grand jury's final report to Circuit Judge Conley was brief. The report, signed by Paul Phillip Hughes, foreman, recommended:

1. A more secure room with a working lock on the door for the grand jury, or the placing of a guard at the door if necessary.

2. Additional funds to provide more clerical help in the sheriff's office.

3. The marking of parking spaces in the parking lot at the rear of the courthouse and the issuance of citations for illegal parking there.

4. A directory of courthouse offices to be placed at both courthouse entrances. The jury pointed out that it did not inspect the courthouse, "for the reason that we know that each grand jury in the past has inspected the courthouse and made recommendations that were not acted upon."

Other indictments reported were:

Clarence Stone, arson, accused of the Dec. 14 burning of a house owned by Sanford Stone, of Prestonsburg. Two counts of second-degree forgery of two

Allen Girl, Miss Floyd County

Contestant No. 3 was thrilled Saturday night when Dale McKinney, master of ceremonies, announced that she was Miss Floyd County 1975.

The honor was conferred upon Miss Melissa Lee Lafferty, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Lafferty, of Allen. A senior at Prestonsburg High School, Miss Lafferty left for Canada with other students on their Senior trip about an hour after she had been crowned by Miss Sharon O'Quinn, Miss Floyd County 1974.

The pageant was held at the Prestonsburg High School Fellowship. A silver award was presented to the Allen Woman's Club for sponsoring the winner, and another to Miss Lafferty as winner of the talent competition with an organ presentation.

The title of Miss Congeniality was won by vote of fellow-contestants, by Miss Suzanne Keathley, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Keathley, of Allen. She was sponsored by the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad.

First runnerup trophy was won by Miss Susan B. Johnson, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hall, of Blairtown, sponsored by the Prestonsburg Community College Chess Society, was the recipient of the second runnerup trophy.

Consideration was given to the total appearance of the eight contestants through personal interviews and in evening gown and suit competition. That task belonged to three judges, Fred McCullough, of Ashland, Bill Hamilton, of Louisville, and Dean Allen Riggie, of Morehead. The judges' ballots were tallied by auditors, Jim Hammond and Jess Stover.

Escorts for the contestants were Benjie Caudill, Donnie Chaffin and Dennis Walker. Bill Pettry and David Chaffin were responsible for lighting and stage effects.

All contestants received an official Miss America charm as a gift from the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club, which makes possible Miss Floyd County's trip to the Miss Kentucky Pageant, in Louisville and a $200 scholarship.

A wardrobe valued at approximately $850 was presented to Miss Lafferty by merchants of Prestonsburg and Martin.

Water System Here To Restrict Service

The Prestonsburg Gas and Water System this week announced that until further notice it will not supply water service to any new consumers outside the city limits.

At the same time water districts and others outside the corporate limits are being notified by mail that the water system will not be able to supply them any more water than was afforded last year.

"We hope this is only temporary, but the situation is such that we cannot contract to sell more water outside Prestonsburg," Bill H. Howard, system superintendent, said.

The present plant has a capacity of a million gallons a day if the pumps are going continuously. Last summer, the plant was operating at 85 per cent its capacity and it was then pumping water an average of 18½ hours a day, seven days a week.

Water users also are being asked to conserve water as much as possible.

Engineering work looking toward plant expansion to a capacity of 1½ million gallons a day has been completed, but the water system will need FHA funds to meet the estimated $150,000 cost. That help cannot be expected before the new fiscal year July 1, Mr. Howard said. The Utilities Commission has been told.

Howard said the curtailment of service is being made now with the hope of avoiding a situation in which rationing of water to some areas now served will not be necessary.

The Prestonsburg system is serving the Parkway (Middle Creek) Water district, the Axtier Water Co. (which serves into Johnson county as far as the Porter school and on Dewey Lake to the new camping area), the Cow Creek-Emma section, May Lodge and the Brandy Keg area.

It was emphasized that no new home or business in these areas outside the boundaries of Prestonsburg can expect water service from the Prestonsburg system.

Sharon O'Quinn, 1974 Miss Floyd County, crowns her successor, Melissa Lee Lafferty, who was named Floyd county's reigning beauty queen at last Saturday's Scholarship Pageant here.

ARC Funding Will Be Aimed At More Industrial Sites

By KEN W. SNYDER

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian M. Carroll has expanded the scope of the state's investment in Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) funds that will mean greater investment in development of industrial sites, water and sewer systems and housing.

A $4.1 million allocation, representing 40 per cent of ARC's non-highway investments in Kentucky, will be directed specifically toward enterprise development this year.

Carroll is presently representing the 13 states of the Appalachian region as the state's co-chairman of the ARC.

The new investment expansion in enterprise development is outlined in the Kentucky Appalachian Development Guide for 1975-76. It is designed to capitalize on previous investments in areas such as health and education to help the region more fully realize its economic potential.

Carroll said, "This concept represents an effort by this administration to effectively round-out our regional investment program and accelerate Appalachian Kentucky's movement into the mainstream of the nation's economy."

Carroll added that the new concept would mean an increased level of involvement in Appalachian planning by the Area Development Districts (ADDs) and a more direct effort at the state level to link Kentucky's Appalachian program with statewide development strategies.

Dr. Dee Ashley Akers, secretary of the Development Cabinet, said that an important element of the concept will be local determination by the individual ADDs of the critical issues facing them and their unique development opportunities. "The Development Cabinet has responsibility for Kentucky's Appalachian program."

Akers said, "Problems and opportunities for economic development in the northeastern coal counties, for example, differ from those in other areas of Eastern Kentucky."

"We have developed a process of local determination of issues, whereby each district in the Appalachian area analyzes its own situation and sets its own development priorities. With this input the state's Appalachian program staff can more accurately direct funds into projects which will have the greatest impact."

The development of industrial sites, housing, water and sewer systems and continued improvements in health care are cited as crucial areas for development by the ADDs.

Another important goal of the investment strategy will be to diversify the area's employment base.

Akers said, "It is imperative that economic developments take place which will lessen the region's traditional dependence on a coal economy and enable the area to better withstand the downturns that have often affected the coal industry. With development of more industrial sites, we hope to build a broader and more stable economic foundation in Eastern Kentucky."

Another important principle in the enterprise development concept is the targeting of projects around clusters of small communities to build linkages that will provide a range of services normally associated with larger cities.

Dr. Charles P. Haywood, Kentucky's current representative to the ARC, said, "The terrain of Eastern Kentucky doesn't encourage development of single large cities. However, improved transportation linkages between groups of communities, like London-Corbin-Williamsburg or Middlesboro-Pineville-Barbourville, present the possibility of developing urban clusters that will equate well with individual large communities outside the region and provide many of the same services available in those cities."

Shepherd Leads Team In Forestry Field Day

This year's Forestry Field Day, held April 5 at the Quicksand (Breathitt county) Wood Technology school, saw the Quicksand team outscore a team of forestry students from the University of Kentucky in a variety of forestry-related competitions.

Chris Shepherd, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Columbus Shepherd, of Middle Creek, led the Quicksand team with first place ratings in dendrology (tree identification), fire building, crosscut saw competition with Pat Fowler and log chopping. Shepherd placed second in log rolling with Pat Fowler and third in bow saw competition.

In the women's crosscut saw competition, Floyd county was again well represented as Teresa Hall, of Allen along with partner Pam Schell placed second.

In the final scoring, Quicksand took nine first-place events, eight second-place events and 11 third-place events. Lexington claimed six firsts, eight seconds and four third-place events.

Chair Lift Hearing Scheduled April 28

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Another round of arguments in the Cumberland Falls chair lift case has been set for a p.m. April 28 in Franklin Circuit Court.

The hearing will be on a motion for a summary judgment that was filed yesterday by Frankfort attorney Joseph J. Leary in behalf of the administration of Gov. Julian M. Carroll. The motion said there is no "genuine issue" in the case.

Larry Greathouse, an attorney for the state, as is Leary, called the filing a procedural matter to put the court and parties on notice that all depositions have been filed and the state again is moving for a judgment.

Depositions of former Gov. Wendell H. Ford and former state Parks Commissioner Ewart Johnson were filed last Thursday.

Johnson awarded a lease in early 1974 to Cumberland Falls Chair Lift, Inc., headed by Prestonsburg businessman Ed Muske. Ford at first supported the idea but later canceled the lease on the ground that it violated the wild rivers law's protection of the Cumberland River valley.

Last September, the chair lift firm sued the state and various officials for $1.7 million, claiming the cancellation was illegal.

The parties agreed to an out-of-court settlement in December, including state payment of $127,100 to cover the chair lift firm's costs.

However, Carroll ordered the $127,100 check withheld and directed attorneys to try to set aside the judgement. Meigs set aside the agreed judgment in February and ordered the case restored to the circuit court docket.

Counties Report Project Progress

Floyd county's report to Big Sandy RC and D Council was presented by H. D. Fitzpatrick, Prestonsburg banker.

Last Thursday night's meeting of the Big Sandy Resource Conservation and Development Project Council at May Lodge was devoted to a review of progress on planning and installing project measures. Reports were made to the council by sponsoring groups from each county in the project area.

H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., of Prestonsburg, gave the report for Floyd county. He reported that the measure plan for land drainage at Prestonsburg Community College is getting final review and that construction is scheduled to start this summer. He also said that a preliminary field survey has been made for the flood prevention measure at McDowell school.

Mr. Fitzpatrick has been interested in getting the drainage project at the Community College under construction this summer. Dr. W. C. Hambley, of Pikeville, made the report for Pike county. He said that a preliminary field survey has been made of the water-based recreation area development measure adjacent to the new Pikeville High School football field. He also reported that inventory of roadbank erosion problems is under way in preparation for making a RC&D measure plan for roadbank stabilization.

Gregory Meade, of Johnson county, reported that the plan to prevent flooding at Porter Elementary School is getting final review. Construction is expected to start by June of this year. He also reported that the measure plan for land drainage in Painsville city park is being drafted.

Harrison Preece reported that recreation area development in Martin county is being held up until negotiations on land titles are completed.

Ollie J. Arnett, of Magoffin county, reported that the measure plan for flood prevention at Salyer Elementary School is being drafted. He added that project sponsors are seeking a suitable site for a multiple-purpose lake.

Contract Cancellation Does Not Cancel the Debt

This Cumberland Falls chairlift matter becomes more interesting, and at points more ludicrous, by the day.

If a daily newspaper is to be given credence, supporters of Ewart Johnson, former commissioner of the Department of Parks, have said Johnson took the blame for the chairlift transaction in order to protect Ex-Governor Wendell Ford while Ford was campaigning for the U. S. Senate. They are not quoted as saying as much, but the implication is there that they would now like for Ford to do some shoulder of blame and thus relieve Johnson who himself is now a candidate.

From this distance the whole matter, except for the furor attending it, is the same situation that attended the awarding of other chair-lift franchises. There was no advertising for bids on the Cumberland Falls project, just as there was none when chair-lifts were installed at Jenny Wiley and Natural Bridge. Just as there was no bidding for horseback riding and other concessions.

Ed Music, of Prestonsburg, owner of two other state park chair-lifts, was awarded the Cumberland Falls contract. It was duly signed by the state officials who had the authority to enter into the agreement. On the basis of that contract Music bought equipment, delivered it to the site and put men to work. It was that simple.

Later, persons interested in the environment protested. They won their battle.

But out of all this emerges one fact: Ed Music spent a certain amount of money in good faith, on the basis of a contract signed by the commissioner of parks as a representative of the state of Kentucky. Then somebody—Ewart Johnson, or Wendell Ford, or the state of Kentucky, or all three—owes Ed Music for the money he is out of hand because of that now-cancelled contract.

Breathitt County: KY 30 from new KY 15 to Magoffin County, 22.4 miles. . . . Magoffin County: KY 7 from Mountain Parkway Extension to KY 147 at Swampton, 7.6 miles; KY 30 from US 460 near Salsyerville, to Breathitt County line, 11 miles.

Morgan-Johnson counties: KY 172 from near Splitwood Branch Road to U.S. 460, 18.3 miles.

Perry County: KY 476 from Mine Entrance Road to KY 80 at Dward, 6.4 miles; KY 15 from KY 476 at Main Street in Hazard to the Breathitt County line, 12.5 miles.

Pike County: KY 194 from 6 miles southwest of Duty Branch extending southwesterly, 3.2 miles; from south end of Levisa Fork bridge at KY 194 to KY 366, 4.2 miles.

Martin county was not included in Monday's list of roads scheduled for repair. KY 3, which was built as a link between Prestonsburg and Inez, is seldom used by autos because it has been badly damaged by coal trucks.

No bridge repair work was listed in Monday's call for bids. This phase of the program will get later start than surfacing because of the extra time needed to plan for bridges, Stuart Victor, an administrative assistant in the Bureau of Highways, said.

Gov. Julian Carroll announced the program Feb. 25 and said it was to take care of emergency repairs while the state awaits word on requested federal financial assistance for a $1.4 billion program that would upgrade all coal-haul roads to highest standards.

State Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts announced April 4 that the state will spend more than $50 million for blacktopping roads throughout the state this year.

there's more interest in the matter than there is in the race for governor. . . . Doug Fitzpatrick, of Garrett, says the light vote just goes to show you how the people have lost interest in good government. Another voter sent in his ballot, unnamed, with the remark that he couldn't vote against either of these highly qualified men. An anonymous correspondent from Mazie, Ky. returned his ballot, also unnamed, speaking of his deep concern about how the candidates stand on strip-mining. Then he added: "The reason for this concern is that in this part of the country more damage has been done to the surface lands by people digging down with post-hole diggers to meet the poke sallet coming up than has been done by surface mining."

The two contenders themselves remain calm in the midst of the storm. Watt has been considering a "front-porch campaign" if the weather will fair up enough to permit staying outdoors, and otherwise has been quiet except to wonder if there isn't a bit of conflict of interest in that other fellow's candidacy, since he is employed by the city at its parking lot and is campaigning more than he's working.

Moore, on the other hand, has accused Hale of upsetting Civil Rights legislation and Equal Opportunity and the like by trawling on setting apart protected poke patches for the exclusive use of widows. Mounting his favorite soap box, Moore expounded:

"I insist that wherever the Broad Ford Deed is in effect that anybody can pick poke wherever they want, as long as they want."

Moore adds that he and his adversary could settle the matter by climbing into the ring, armed with 20-ounce gloves, but he's afraid Watt might creep up on his blind side.

Anyway, the time is short. Get in your ballot.

permission, was passed in 1974 and took effect last January. It is being challenged by No. 8 Limited of Virginia which was refused permission by several Knott County landowners to strip mine 13 acres.

Rivkin represents four of the landowners in the case. The coal company has challenged the right of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection to require surface owner's permission. A decision by the appeals court is expected in the next 60 days.

Former Gov. Bert Combs represents the coal company. Before House Bill 9 was passed coal companies could mine without permission using a broad form deed signed by large numbers of Kentucky residents around the 1800s, when today's land gobbling machinery used in strip mining was not known. Owners sold mineral rights beneath their land for 50 cents to $3 an acre, signing deeds so complicated and lengthy they became known as "long" or "broad" forms.

"We want the broad form deed invalidated," Margaret Schwartz, president of the League of Women Voters, said. "When mineral rights were sold the owners had no idea the property they use for living space was going to be absolutely ruined."

"Kentucky is one of few states in the nation that still recognizes the legality of the broad form deed," she said.

Damage Action Names Doctor

Dr. Ray DeGuzman has been named in a $75,000 damage suit filed in circuit court here by Johnnie Sizemore, of Martin, who alleges carelessness and negligence on the part of the surgeon.

The complaint was unusual, in that no attorney was listed as having prepared it or as representing the plaintiff. The action arises from an operation allegedly performed April 4, 1974. It alleges that the plaintiff was not advised of the possible risks involved in the operation, which was described as a thyroidectomy, and that in the removal of the right thyroid gland a nerve leading to the right eyelid and eye was damaged impairing her vision.

In another circuit court action last week Bill and Mary Ellen Nelson claimed $20,000 of the Akers Cable Company, alleging that the television firm constructed lines and poles on their Prater Creek property without their consent. (Damage suits reported represent only plaintiffs' allegations.)

Selective Service Announces Change For Registration

A Presidential proclamation has changed the method of registering with selective service, and young men are no longer required to register within 30 days of their 18th birthday. Effective April 1, they are required to register under a new procedure.

A plan for probable annual registration is being developed at the national level, according to Col. Taylor L. Davidson, state director.

Announcement of the new registration guidelines will be made by proclamation as required by law, he said. The state director anticipates this will probably be made toward the end of 1975.

According to the official, the change in method is a part of national ongoing studies to reduce the cost of maintaining a Selective Service System in support of the all volunteer force.

Prior to the cutoff date, a young man registered within a period beginning 30 days before or 30 days after he reached 18.

Colonel Davidson said the method of continuous registration in the standby was highly successful during calendar year 1974. Selective Service in Kentucky registered more than 31,000 men born in 1956. This was 99 per cent of National Headquarters estimate for the particular year of birth group, and 11 per cent above the national average.

An apprentice is a person enrolled in a program combining on-the-job and related classroom training and registered with a state or federal agency, according to the U. S. Department of Labor.

Heavier Work Expected Ahead For Court Term

Most of the action during the criminal term of circuit court apparently lies in the next two weeks.

Only two cases had been heard, as of Monday, and a third was on trial Tuesday morning. Randall Owens was convicted of possession of alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale and drew a jail term of 60 days and a $100 fine. In the other trial the jury held Ed Wright not guilty of charges of grand larceny and knowingly receiving stolen property.

Trial of Gary Prater on a charge of carnal knowledge of a female under the age of 16 was under way Tuesday morning. The only murder trial expected to be heard during the term—that of Gene Seltsch—has been booked for April 21. Trial of Robert Sykes in the slaying of Mrs. Boone Deskins, of Pike county, was docketed for April 14 but was continued, the court order pointed out, because of the improbability of being able to produce defense witnesses to testify at the trial or to produce their depositions. These witnesses, asked by the defense, are in federal prisons scattered over a wide section of the country.

In the case of Henry Scott, who was indicted on two counts of selling illegal drugs, the court sustained his motion demanding that the name of the purchaser be disclosed.

Bonds of five were forfeited when they failed to appear for trial. They are Marvin Estenberger, who was one of three indicted on a charge of attempting to break into a dwelling; Vester Smith and Rodney Damm, grand larceny and knowingly receiving stolen property; Charles E. Sexton, two separate counts, destroying private property and hit-run driving.

The embezzlement charge against Walt Childers was dismissed when the attorney for complaining witnesses told the court that the witnesses did not want to prosecute, since a civil action involving their controversy is pending.

Other cases dismissed: Ray Frazier, concealing mortgaged property; Robie Jene Frazier, child desertion, subject to being redocketed; William Shepherd, carnal knowledge, lack of prosecution; Eddie and Wade Case, grand larceny and knowingly receiving stolen property; Billy Joe Harrington, assault with a deadly weapon and reckless use of a deadly weapon; Billy Roger Robinson, Prince and Orville Waller, grand larceny and knowingly receiving stolen property; Charles E. Hunk, shooting and wounding; James D. Chesnut, possession of alcoholic beverages, lack of jurisdiction; F. B. Kidd, wanton endangerment, at request of prosecuting witness; Norman, Harold and Gary Damm, first-degree assault and a theft, dismissed at request of prosecuting witness; Elmer A. Newsome, second degree assault, at request of prosecuting witness; Ray Mads, destroying private property; Cora Stone, attempting to bribe a peace officer and third-offense possession of alcoholic beverage, both cases dismissed at request of the prosecuting witness.

Training Session Scheduled at PCC

A series of training sessions for advisory group members and those delivering services to Kentucky senior citizens are being sponsored across the state by the Department for Human Resources (DHR).

The first session is scheduled for April 16-17 at the Prestonsburg Community College and will serve the eastern portion of the state including the Five, Big Sandy, Gateway and Kentucky River Area Development.

The training is designed to acquaint participants with the physical, social, emotional and medical aspects of growing old.

The training sessions are sponsored by the Aging Program Unit in the Bureau for Social Services of DHR and are being provided under contract with the Sanders-Brown Research Center on Aging of the University of Kentucky. Both the Aging Programs Unit and university staff will be on hand to conduct the training.

More than 100 persons have registered, including aging program personnel, the aging planners of the Area Development Districts, local aging councils, employees of the department and others delivering services to the elderly.

Youth Admits Three Breaks

A Prestonsburg youth was named in connection with three separate robberies after being arrested last Thursday night for the most recent of the incidents, the burglary earlier that day of the Ray Howard Furniture Company's Furniture Barn on South Lake Drive here.

James Reynolds, of the Goble-Roberts Addition, and two juveniles were arrested by City Policemen Lawson, Conley and Potter for the break into the store from which four stereo record players, an amplifier, several speakers, two sets of headphones, a number of pocket watches and $6 in cash were taken. All the merchandise except for some watches was recovered. Reynolds also confessed to the robberies approximately two weeks ago of the Clean Towel Service at West Prestonsburg in which several uniforms were taken, and of the Skyfall at Jenny Wiley State Park from which a small air conditioner and several souvenirs were stolen. Reynolds executed bond shortly after being jailed.

Women Mineworkers, Support of Strike On Meeting Agenda

Women working in coal mines and support for striking Martin County coal miners will be a topic of the next meeting of the Appalachian Women's Rights Organization, Sunday, April 20, at 3 p.m. at the Eastern Kentucky Health Services Center, Malle, Knott county. A black woman who works for Beth Elkhorn in Letcher county and a woman, who works with Island Creek in Buchanan County, Virginia, will discuss their jobs and answer questions. Men and women from Martin County discuss their efforts to organize UMW in their area.

Persons interested in the group or want rides should call 587-2200 in Floyd county or 368-3811 in Knott county.

In Floyd county, the group is trying to set up day-care homes on Mud Creek and to organize week-end drivers' training classes at the Mud Creek Clinic. Any women in that area who are interested should call 587-2200 and ask for Eula Hall, Eileen McLaughlin, or Dara Fumagalli.

An Open Letter To The People of Floyd County:

Although I have never before desired or sought political office, I am now seeking the Democratic nomination for State Representative of Floyd County, for never in my life have I seen so much to be done for our county through the legislature, with no one willing to do it.

Do you realize that although millions of dollars were taken from this county by the coal severance tax last year, only a pauper's share was returned?

Do you also realize that of the pauper's share returned, we are not allowed by law to spend any of this to build roads and bridges, educate our children, or even supply minimum fire and police protection for our homes?

To me, the greatest shame that has ever befallen the people of Eastern Kentucky is the allowance of the exploitation of the God-given wealth of our region without Floyd County sharing in enough of this wealth to even supply the most fundamental government services.

If you see fit to send me to the legislature, I will fight for all Floyd Counties welfare by seeking A RETURN OF 50 PCT. OF ALL THE SEVERANCE TAX collected from our county, free to be used:

1. For construction and maintenance of our county roads and bridges.
2. For construction, remodeling and maintenance of our children's schools.
3. To supplement our teachers salaries which are now totally inadequate.
4. To supply adequate police and fire protection to our citizens and their homes.

The foregoing are only a few of the things that may be accomplished by hardworking, earnest representation of Floyd County's interest, and this realization is what forces me to seek this office. I honestly feel that whom you decide to support in this race could prove to affect what type of county we have for years to come.

Please consider what I say, and give me your support and vote. I will take that support and vote with me to Frankfort and repay it daily with hard work and dedication to your best interest and welfare.

Penley To Lead Crusade Here

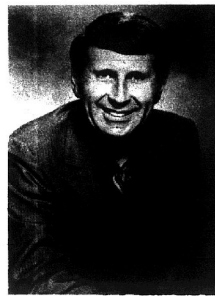

EVANGELIST PENLEY

"From humble beginnings in the mountains of North Carolina to the famous pulpits of the world" tells the story of evangelist Bill Penley. "Now it will be the privilege of the members and friends of the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church to hear this unusual preacher," says the pastor, W. D. Jagers. The evangelistic crusade is slated to begin Sunday morning, April 20, and the time of the service is 7:30 p.m. nightly through Sunday, April 27.

Evangelist Penley, called to preach at the age of 18, first ministered to his own people in the Great Smoky Mountains, near Asheville, N. C., where he started his first church after completion of college and seminary.

After 17 years of pastoral work (including student pastorates) he entered the field of evangelism. His travels have taken him around the world. He has carried his ministry to Europe, India, Korea, Japan, Thailand, South America, the islands of both the Atlantic and the Pacific areas and all quadrants of the U.S.A., including several churches in Alaska.

Evangelist Penley calls on his background among the mountain people, his many travels and his love of big game hunting for many of his illustrations.

SINGER LEISTNER

One of his peers in evangelism, Dr. Hyman Appelman of Kansas City, Mo., says, "Bill Penley is a devout Christian, a man of prayer, a better than able preacher and a soul winner."

Famed soloist, Lowell Leistner, of Orlando, Fla., will appear with Evangelist Penley at all services of the crusade. Mr. Leistner has been engaged in a full-time evangelistic music ministry for the past 25 years.

Following graduation from college, Leistner enrolled in advance study at the Birmingham Conservatory of Music where he studied with Madame Loraine and Martha Dick McClung. During an interview with the editor of the Paris, Texas newspaper (after a compliment from him asking why he did not use his voice as a concert artist), Leistner countered with his life's objective, stating, "I have a better offer with a better boss."

Crusade committee members from the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church extend a cordial invitation to all to hear and enjoy the Bill Penley Evangelistic Team, April 20-27, at 7:30 nightly.

Destructive Insect In State Forests

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Southern pine beetles have been discovered in the forests of Bell and Knox counties, posing a possible destructive threat to other woodlands of Kentucky. It marks the first time the destructive beetle has ever been found inhabiting wood this far north.

In recent years, the pine beetle has caused serious damage in 300 counties in 10 states from southeast Texas to central Virginia. The outbreak has covered as much as 74,000 square miles, including 47 million acres of commercial pine forests.

In Kentucky, shortleaf and loblolly pines are particularly endangered by the southern pine beetle. Large numbers of these small, reddish insects attack their host and dig numerous, winding tunnels beneath the bark. The tunnels, better known as galleries, eventually mesh and girdle the tree.

Usually the beetle attacks groups of pines, killing them rapidly and causing what is known as a "spot." The crowns of trees within a spot appear reddish-brown to brown, depending on the stage of beetle attack. There is no uniform size to a spot, which could cover an area as large as 25 acres or as small as an individual tree.

Harry Nadler, director of the division of forestry in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said his personnel now are planning to conduct aerial surveys of a major portion of southeastern Kentucky. Information obtained from the surveys will be used to determine combative measures. All division of forestry offices have been alerted and will be observing forested areas to get a general idea of the extent of infestation.

Anyone who suspects the southern pine beetle has infested either loblolly or shortleaf pine should contact the Kentucky Division of Forestry at 207 Holmes St., Frankfort, 40601 or phone (502) 564-4496.

Attorney General's Opinions

W. D. Kelley, superintendent of Christian county schools, stated that credit bureaus have requested that the school system provide them with personal information on students. Kelley wished to know if it were mandatory to disclose such information to agencies of this sort. It is the opinion of the office of the Attorney General that since the public schools in Kentucky receive federal money, they fall under a federal statute prohibiting the release of such information unless the student or his parents give written consent.

Hugh J. Convery, city attorney for Madisonville, requested an opinion on whether a city could lease space in public parking lots to merchants having no parking facilities in front of their businesses. Since a city can provide an area for public off-street parking, equipped with parking meters, the Attorney General's office held that there should be no legal objection to designating certain spaces in those lots for rental purposes.

Mary Louise Faust, state auditor of public accounts, asked if a $30 advance cost of civil cases collected by a circuit court clerk in Jefferson county were legal. The Kentucky Revised Statutes state that a $20 advance cost should be collected in cases such as this, even though the Kentucky Bar Association agreed upon the $30 and the circuit court entered an order upholding the cost. Since fees of this sort can be established only by statute and not a court order, the $30 cost is in excess of the legal amount and therefore technically is not valid, the Attorney General's office held.

Ben F. Thompson, city clerk of Olive Hill, inquired as to the legality of a salary increase for a police court judge in lieu of hiring secretary. It is the opinion of the office of the Attorney General that the city council has the right to provide a separate salary for the clerk functions of the police judge's position, but when a deputy clerk is not appointed, the one fixed salary of the police judge is presumed to be for both judge and clerk functions.

Sen. Ward Discusses Broadform Deed Bill On Hazard Television

State Senator Thomas M. Ward, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, said on a Hazard television program Sunday, "The broadform deed has been the greatest injustice in the history of Kentucky." Senator Ward managed House Bill 9, the so-called Broadform Deed bill in the state senate last year. That bill, which became law in January, 1973, requires the surface owner's consent before a strip mining permit can be issued.

A suit challenging the constitutionality of the act is currently before the Kentucky Court of Appeals. Senator Ward released a 9-page position paper which summarized the role of the courts on the broadform deed. The study summarized recent court cases in surrounding states which have ruled strip mining illegal without the written consent of the surface owner.

Senator Ward said, "Courts in every other state which have had broadform mineral rights deeds have upheld the right of the surface owner to decide whether or not his land could be strip-mined. These states include Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, and Ohio." Ward continued, "I am ashamed that Kentucky alone has continued to neglect the will of the people who have lived and worked on the land for so many generations. It goes against the very spirit of respect for man and his home which made this country great. It has brought about many violent confrontations between land owner and coal company."

"As State Senator and member of the Senate Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee, I have walked over miles of strip-mined areas in Eastern Kentucky. I have personally talked to countless people who were in danger of losing their homes, crops, and businesses because of unwanted strip mining," Ward said. "In fact, I have heard respectable people say they would kill before allowing their land to be stripped under the broadform deed."

The Touch of The Master's Hand

'Twas battered and scarred and the auctioneer
Tho't it scarcely worth his while
To waste much time on the old violin,
But he held it up with a smile.
"What am I bid, good folks?" he cried,
"Who'll start the bidding for me?
A dollar, a dollar—now two, only two—
Two dollars, and who'll make it three?
"Three dollars once, three dollars twice,
Going for three"—but no!
From the room far back a gray-haired man
Came forward and picked up the bow.
Then wiping the dust from the old violin,
And tightening up all the strings,
He played a melody pure and sweet,
As sweet as an angel sings.

The music ceased, and the auctioneer,
With a voice that was quiet and low,
Said: "What am I bid for the old violin?"
And he held it up with the bow.
"A thousand dollars—and who'll make it two?
Two thousand—and who'll make it three?
Three thousand once, and three thousand twice—
And going and gone!" said he.
The people cheered, but some of them cried,
"We do not quite understand—
What changed its worth?" The man replied:
"The touch of the master's hand!"
And many a man with life out of tune,
And battered and torn with sin,
Is auctioned cheap to a thoughtless crowd,
Much like the old violin.

A "mess of pottage," a glass of wine,
A game—and he travels on.
He's going once, and going twice,
He's going—and almost gone!
But the Master comes, and the foolish crowd
Never can quite understand
The worth of a soul and the change that's wrought
By the touch of the Master's hand.

Is anything too hard for the Lord?" Gen. 18:14.
"Come now and let us reason together saith the Lord: Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow."

For Responsible and Responsive Leadership In A Representative—

Vote For James "Jitter" Allen For Representative, 95th Legislative District of Floyd County

Leadership in representation and responsiveness to the needs of people comes only from aggressive and independent-minded men who are not hand-picked for office by selfish individuals and machines. I pledge that YOU will be represented at Frankfort, that your needs will ever be paramount, not the needs of selfish men and political machines.

Let me submit to you voters certain planks in my platform, planks that I will diligently seek to have implemented by legislation.

1. The coal severance tax that is returned to the coal producing counties should be used for rural roads and other public needs, not for the restrictive uses set out by the recent dictum out of Frankfort. Many needs of our county should have priority. I think I know what the priorities should be.

2. I believe the Vietnam veterans are entitled to a bonus and that the financial needs of veterans widows and their children should be compassionately considered by legislators.

3. There are certain local highway conditions in this county that should be corrected by the Highway Department. Two specific conditions come to mind. High water often cuts traffic off at McDowell and on Abbott Creek. There are others, I'm sure. The roads should be elevated to keep traffic flowing at all times.

4. Teachers' salaries should be increased. Our teachers are as fine and well-qualified as any teachers anywhere in the United States and should be as adequately compensated. Emphasis on vocational education should be deepened and strengthened. Professional negotiation should become recognized as the inherent right of teachers.

5. The Public Service Commission and the laws under which it operates should be liberalized and reconstituted so as to make it more responsive to the peoples' needs. The high energy costs we all are bearing are end results of the PSC overlooking the burden of these high energy costs and granting rate increases and rate differentials adverse to the pocket books of the average man. I want to change all of that.

6. Housing for the elderly should be made a priority of the social system of this state. Too long have our financially pinched elderly people been brushed aside. Let's reward them for lifetimes of good citizenship by secure and adequate housing.

Upon these planks I submit my candidacy. Elect me your representative and I will respond to your needs at Frankfort.

"Coal in Eastern Kentucky," To Be ALC Seminar Topic

Pippa Passes, Ky.—John Hoffman, secretary for the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, will speak at a seminar, titled, "Coal in Eastern Kentucky," at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, April 23, in Cushing Hall on the Alice Lloyd College campus. The public is invited, and there is no admission charge.

Representatives from federal, state and local governments, the coal industry, retail businesses and citizens groups have been invited to lead discussion groups following Hoffman's speech. Among them will be Percy Elkins, of the Kentucky River Area Development District (KRADD).

The seminar was organized by Gary Medlin, an instructor at ALC.

"Since coal directly or indirectly affects Eastern Kentucky, we need to look closely at what the coal industry is doing and can do for our region," said Medlin.

"Some major areas of concern include the price of coal, the duration of a period in which coal bring prosperity, and the sharing of revenue derived from the industry."

Questions to be discussed during the seminar include:

- Balancing energy needs and environmental protection—how to do it?
- What about manpower needs of the coal industry?
- Sharing resources through a changed tax structure?
- How can more money help county governments help people?
- How long will the boom continue?
- What else will help economic prosperity?

Floyd County Health Notes

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH
(Health Educator)

A nurse from the Floyd County Health Department will conduct a pap smear clinic at Ethel Osborne's Store at Bypro, April 21. Clinic hours will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with the following services being available: TB skin tests, immunizations, diabetes screening and blood pressures. These services are free to the public.

The Floyd County Health Department will conduct a pap smear clinic, Thursday, April 24, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The health department reminds all women that they should have at least one pap smear every year, because early detection and treatment can save lives. This clinic is a free service that is open to all women.

The Health Department also announces that there will be no nursing services available Wednesday, April 23, and Monday, April 28 while the nurses are attending a workshop session at May Lodge.

An Exemplary Rehabilitation Certificate is available to certain ex-servicemen who have been dishonorably discharged but who have had good records since, according to the U. S. Labor Department's Manpower Administration.

Mountain Manor Receives Donation

A cash donation by the Auxier Free Will Baptist Church was presented to the Mountain Manor Nursing Home here recently to help buy a movie projector for the home. Pastor of the church, the Rev. John Frank Ratliff, is shown presenting the gift to Mountain Manor resident Lora Gearheart. In center of photo is Patsy Evans, activity director, and at right, Eleanor Robinson, administrator. Mrs. Robinson thanked the church by saying, "It is always good to know there are those who care."

Consumer Comments

Do you know the ten danger signals in buying? Kentucky consumers must be alert to the dangers of the marketplace. Here are the ten danger signals:

1. Bait and switch selling—maybe you've inquired about a product advertised at an unbelievably low price... only to have the item degraded by the salesperson or to be told that it is no longer in stock. Once you have been "baited" by the advertisement, the salesperson tries to "switch" you to a more expensive item.
2. Get rich quick schemes—if you are told you can make fabulous earnings, fast—beware! Don't make any investment until you investigate those earnings claims to discover if such earnings are realistic.
3. Oral guarantees—with guarantees, the seller is legally bound by what a written contract says and not what a salesperson tells you. Don't accept any oral guarantees. Get everything in writing. Be sure you understand what the guarantee means, what it covers and how long you are protected.
4. Oral estimates—as with guarantees, get estimates in writing. In addition, get a written assurance that no additional work will be done without your consent. To be safe, obtain several estimates and be suspicious of an unusually low estimate.
5. Golden opportunity—don't allow yourself to be rushed into buying something because it's a once-in-a-lifetime, last chance or golden opportunity to get in on a good thing. You're probably the "last chance" the salesperson has to make the sale. Take your time and comparison shop before buying.
6. Blank contracts and blank checks—never sign a contract with blank spaces in it. Fill all blanks in with Xs. And, of course, never sign a blank check.
7. You've been specially selected—if you are told you are getting a "special deal" and that few others have this chance, be skeptical. Ask yourself why someone is offering you such a special bargain.
8. A few dollars more per week—when you purchase an item or service on credit, find out exactly how much you will be paying for the item and how much for the credit. Figure it out on paper before you sign a contract. If a salesperson tells you the item will only cost "a few dollars more per week," find out how many dollars and how many weeks.
9. Free—beware of the misleading use of the word "free."
10. It's only a legal form—consumers told to disregard a contract or other materials because "it's only a legal form," should be especially careful to read and to obtain a copy of that form. These "legal forms" may require you to pay more than you intended. Don't be tricked by this tactic.

Most businesspersons are honest, but you must beware of those who are not. If you'd like a copy of the ten danger signals in buying, write to the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, The Capitol, Room 34, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of Ansel James Terry who passed away April 29, 1970 in Vietnam.

Five years have passed, dear brother. Since you were called away. To take your place as a soldier of God—Just why is only for Him to say. Thousands of miles lay between us, There was no last goodbye. You quietly slipped away. And only He knows why. Oh, my loved one, you fought a battle Of which we shall never know; The pain and suffering you bore For a country you loved so. A void in our lives has never been filled.

Our hearts are breaking still; Left behind are those who love you. And even yet, can't believe it's real. We miss you, baby brother. More than words can ever say. Our hearts are sore, the tears fall free As we think of you today.

Practice Pays Off . . . Geri Grigsby Wins All-State Girls' Honors

Back when Pete Grigsby was coaching basketball at McDowell High School and his small daughter, Geri, insisted on being shown how to dribble and pivot and shoot after the boys had their play or practice, her father admittedly would wonder why.

"Girls didn't play basketball then, and I frankly thought it was a waste of her time and mine," the former coach who is now assistant superintendent of Floyd schools, said recently.

But now he knows why. Girls this year returned to the basketball courts—and all Geri Grigsby did was lead all Kentucky girls in scoring and win a place on the girls' All-State team. She was named to the All-State first-team squads by both the Courier-Journal and the Lexington Herald-Leader.

And nobody, to date, has questioned their choice. For the 5-foot-5 sophomore guard scored 1,079 points during the season recently ended for a per-game average of 11.5 points. She led her team to the finals of the 15th regional tourney, was named most valuable player in the Tom Wiley invitation and was all-regional, all-district and all-Floyd County Conference player.

Between times—when she isn't practicing for the next game or is engaged in one—she plays in the school band, is a member of the school tennis team and is an honors student.

To Give Benefit Dinner

There will be a soup bean dinner, with all the "trimmings," Friday April 18, sponsored by the volunteer fire department, of the Wayland-Lackey-Garrett area. The dinner will be served from 11 a.m. till 6 p.m. in the Wayland Methodist Church Basement. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Trophy-Winning Cheerleaders

The Wayland grade school cheerleaders won the first place trophy at the Floyd county grade school basketball tournament. This was their fourth win during the 1974-'75 basketball season. Previous wins were at the Wayland, Osborne and Maytown invitational tournaments. The Wayland girls attended the Crescendo Cheerleading Camp last summer and won the Spirit Stick and four ribbons.

LOSING HAIR?

National's Hair Consultant
In Pikeville Friday & Saturday
WILL EXPLAIN HAIR PROBLEMS FREE

FREE CONSULTATION
MEN and WOMEN just take a few minutes of your time on FRIDAY, APRIL 18 & SATURDAY, APRIL 19, and go to the LANDMARK MOTEL-PIKEVILLE between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. and ask the desk clerk for F. W. DANTLER's room number, or call for appointment.

There is no charge or obligation—all consultations are private, you will not be embarrassed in any way. Learn how you can treat yourself right in the privacy of your own home.

If you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness seems to "run in the family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss. Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. If you still have hair on the top of your head, don't put it off until it's all off. It doesn't make sense for anyone to let himself go bald, certainly not without seeing a National Hair and Scalp Consultant to see if we can help you.

Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which no method is effective. National's Hair Consultant can not help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

Make-Do Lifestyle of Long Ago Studied by Today's Generation

By HELEN PRICE STACY

"My father would tan hides and make our shoes. He would put a goose quill in the soles filled with sulphur to make them squeak. If your shoes didn't squeak, they were not the best."

"People still talk about the old days when life was hard but good, and not many can remember the most convenient mode of washing clothes—the handmade wash trough."

"I forgot to mention that we made our own soap with wood ashes saved all winter in large wooden hoppers."

"Aunt Ollie gathered greens each day of dandelion and poke; she cooked them green and tender, so Uncle wouldn't choke."

"Old Amos had the rheumatiz; it hurt each ball and socket until he got a big buckeye to carry in his pocket!"

Today, these memories of Eastern Kentucky natives are being recorded on paper, tape and film, both as history and as a way of learning for young people of the 1970s who are determined to "eat it up, wear it out; make it do or do without."

Of necessity, people made their own wooden wash troughs, soap, lye from ashes, jumps from pine knots or rough wicks coiled in a saucer of tallow and put a sunmark on a doorknob for a clock. Cloth was first grown in the fields as flax or shorn from sheep as wool. It was then hand-woven on a loom. Even the dye for homespun cloth was homemade.

One lady described how she kept her floors spotless. "Those plank floors would get soiled from day to day. But all a housewife had to do back then was grab a pail and go to the nearby creek for a bucket of clean sand. We spread this sand all over the floor and went over it with a stiff broom—we had made the broom from broomcorn we had grown—then carried pails of water from the spring to rinse off the sand and filth. This not only cleaned the floor, but sand filled the cracks and made it smooth as satin."

One lady remembered that the sand cleaning and spring-water rinse made the floor "as clean and sweet smelling as rain-washed air."

Another housewife of that generation remembered scrubbing her floors with a short scrub broom. "We cut down a green sapling to make the broom, which was about a foot long. We shaved one end back, bark and trunk, about six inches. It worked, but was it hard on the back!"

"About all we had to buy was salt, soda and coffee," one woman recalls. "When I was a child the entire meal was cooked in the open fireplace. Before the skillet and lid came to bless the housewife, she had to bake her bread on dressed boards. Some rolled the dough in green leaves and baked bread in the hot ashes!"

Women of that generation had no way of knowing that their culture would become prized by young people in another era. They could only dream that someday women would not have to work so hard.

How could they know that in the 1970s people would travel through Appalachia to watch aged persons slice pumpkins to dry the rings for later use, peel apples to dry in the sun, string green beans on twine to preserve by drying, pick berries in the wild, quilt, make soap, make brooms, weave cloth, dye cloth, gather greens, use herbs for some illnesses, grind corn for fresh bread, cook milkweed sprouts when the green beans had run out, make baskets, musical instruments and clean their smoke-blackened walls by painting them with clay from a clay bank thinned with creek water.

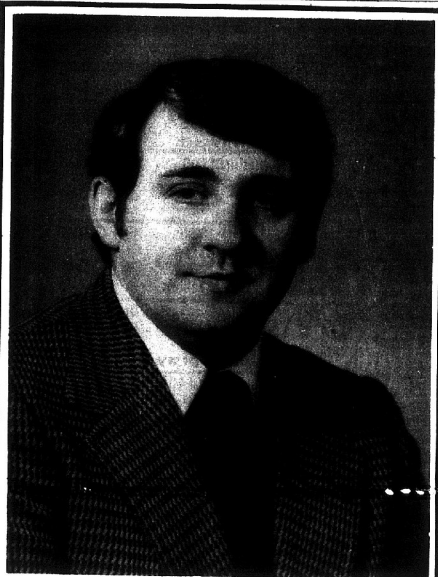

Today's people want to know the step-by-step processes so they too can become more self-sufficient and conservative.

Storm, Flood Victims Receive Tax Relief

Tax benefits are available to many Kentucky taxpayers who suffered property losses as a result of the severe storms and flooding which began around March 10, according to Paul Niederecker, District Director of Internal Revenue Service.

Special provisions of the tax law allow taxpayers in Allen, Bell, Calloway, Christian, Graves, Knox, Metcalfe, Pulaski, Simpson, Warren and Whitley counties, declared disaster areas by the President on March 29, 1975, to deduct disaster-related casualty losses on either the current year's return or that of the preceding year by filing an amended return, Form 1040X.

Niederecker said the law covers losses of business property, as well as personal property, and extends to taxpayers who use either a fiscal-year or calendar-year basis to file their tax return. Non-business losses are limited to the amount over $100 for each casualty, he added.

"A list of items lost or damaged, showing cost or other basis, value immediately before the loss, and value after the loss occurred, is recommended," Niederecker said. "Photographs of property before and after it was damaged are very helpful, as are appraisals of the property," he pointed out.

Taxpayers who need help in preparing their returns or in making a claim for refund can call the IRS toll free at 1-800-226-4870 or send a postcard to IRS, P. O. Box 1735, Louisville, Ky. 40201, Attn: 44, requesting a free copy of IRS Publication 547, "Tax Information on Disasters, Casualty Losses and Thefts," or Publication 584, "Workbook for Determining Your Disaster Loss."

Roughing it in a Coal Camp

By GEORGE L. MOORE

On a previous occasion I gave an account of my search for "black gold" in the West Virginia hills. The coal mines in which I worked at that time were large mines with modern machinery.

Before the advent of the truck mines, there were numerous small mines in the Big Sandy coal fields that loaded the coal into "gobs" that were placed on a spur switch on the railroad. These mines usually averaged a hundred tons or less per day. This was just before the war years, and the price of coal was high; buyers would buy just about anything that was black.

I had an interesting experience in helping to operate one of these small mines. To begin with, we had no modern machinery at all. There was no machine to undercut the coal; we had to blast it "from the solid." Instead of an electric fan to drive the fresh air inside the mine, we reversed the process and blasted a hole down through the mountain to the head of the air course. We then built a wooden chimney over the hole to create a draft. In this manner the foul air was expelled and the fresh air was drawn in at the drift-mouth. For a few days a single entry was driven under the mountain and few miners were needed.

As new tunnels were made from the main line, more men were added. The most we ever had employed at one time was about fifteen men.

As there was no town nearby, it was necessary to purchase a large tent in which to house the men. Another long, narrow tent that adjoined the sleeping quarters served as a mess hall. It was equipped with a large cooking stove and a long table that extended the length of the tent. We used tin cups, tin plates and tin bowls.

The man who had overall charge of the mine was a Mr. Stewart. He was also responsible for the cooking. He had to make frequent trips to Prestonsburg and in those days everybody traveled by train. On one occasion the train was over an hour late and twelve hungry men were complaining about going without something to eat.

Although I had little previous experience, I undertook to prepare a meal for the twelve. I baked two extra large pans of cornbread, warmed up a large kettle of soup beans that had already been cooked, opened and boiled four large cans of kraut and capped all this off by slicing a two-foot-long case of bologna into edible pieces. I might mention that the cooker of beans was cooked with many slices of salt bacon, or sow belly as the miners called it. I was more than pleased when I found there were no leftovers.

We had just finished the meal when Mr. Stewart returned. He said, "From now on I am putting you in charge of all the cooking for this outfit."

The next morning he assisted in the making of the biscuits but after that I was on my own. Emily Post would have been shocked if she had observed the etiquette used at our table.

We had one worker whose name was Francis but they called him Fronie. Although he had just turned 17, he was a giant of a man. He stood six-four in his sock feet and tipped the scales at 270 pounds. Fronie took his seat at the head of the table. From this vantage point he became the biscuit taster. Someone at the opposite end of the table would call out: "Toss me a biscuit, Fronie." Then, like a quarterback, Fronie would have a forward pass. He would serve all the workers in like manner. After the meal was completed, the tin plates would sail through the air to Fronie and he would place them in a neat stack.

Fronie was extremely ticklish. One of the boys would ease up by his side and poke a thumb in his ribs. He would let out a scream as he leaped into the air. They called it "gossing" him. Almost every night Fronie would visit a store further up the railroad. He would eat candy and drink pop until his wages for the day had been spent. He would bet anyone that he could consume 15 bottles of pop, one after another, non-stop. He never lost a wager. He would always stay until the store closed. He would attempt to slip into the tent and find his army cot without disturbing the slumber of the sleeping miners. Inevitably, he would stumble over another cot and arouse everyone.

There were always a great number of toads hopping about the tent when dusk had fallen. Several of the boys collected a dozen or so of these gentle creatures, turned back the blanket and placed them in Fronie's bed. This particular night, he did not stumble over any cot but silently raised the blanket and crawled in bed. When his naked skin came in contact with those loathsome creatures, he screamed at the top of his lungs as he made a wild dash for the outside. He not only tore a gaping hole in the tent but managed to demolish two perfectly good army cots in the process. The next morning at breakfast, Fronie said, "I can take a joke as well as anybody, but you fellows went a little too far when you put them damn snakes in my bed last night."

The tent site, near the ancient elm, would have been ideal except for one thing: the half-dozen cows pasturing in the bog bottom at the mouth of Goose Creek had already appropriated the spot.

Rutherford Names Floyd Coordinators

James Orville Duff, of Hueysville, and Lovel Hall, of Grethel, have been named co-ordinators for the Floyd county campaign of Judge Wayne T. Rutherford for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Duff, a former probation and parole officer, is a member of the Floyd County Board of Education.

Mr. Hall is the property valuation administrator (tax commissioner) for Floyd county. He was formerly an assistant director of federal programs and a bookkeeper.

In making the announcement, Judge Rutherford said, "Jim and Lovel are highly respected Floyd Countians and I am very pleased to have them working in my behalf."

Akers Is Ky. Heritage Artist

Gary Akers, Floyd native, is now a member of the Kentucky Heritage Artists and is only the second person ever to be accepted by the select group after its original 16. Kentucky Heritage Artists is the most prestigious group of artists in the state, yet it represents the most diversified group possible in technique, ideas, style, media, execution, sophistication and subject areas. Exhibits by this group have broken attendance records all across the state, and each has something refreshingly different to offer.

Akers paints in the difficult medium of egg tempera and watercolor. Four of his paintings have been published in limited editions. Presently, he and his wife Lynn teach art in Kenton county. This summer, Mr. Akers will be teaching art at Morehead State University.

Increased Mine Boom Forecast Through '85

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—A federal energy spokesman told a Kentucky Chamber of Commerce audience last Wednesday night that President Ford's goal of doubling national coal production by 1985 will require opening an estimated 270 new mines.

Donald B. Craven, acting assistant administrator of energy resource development, said his department anticipates development of 140 new underground mines and 30 new surface mines in the Eastern United States and 100 new surface mines in the Western U. S. during the next 10 years.

"We estimate that this increase in coal production will necessitate recruiting and training 80,000 new eastern coal miners and 45,000 new western coal miners," Craven said.

He said the expansion of coal production also would require the manufacture of 2,400 continuous mining machines. Craven called the enactment of strip-mining legislation to strike a balance between energy and environmental needs vital in achieving the president's energy goals.

He also cited as essential to the energy program:

—Amending the Clean Air Act and the Energy Supply and Environmental Coordination Act of 1974 to permit "a vigorous program for expanded use of coal."

—Adopting legal diligence requirements to assure timely production from existing coal leases and a program for accelerated new coal leasing to increase low sulfur coal supplies.

The search for new energy sources during the next decade should include:

—Exploring and developing naval petroleum reserves.

—Implementing an aggressive leasing policy on the outer continental shelf.

—Reducing domestic energy price uncertainties through a variety of measures.

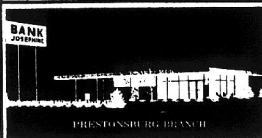

—Implementing legislation for energy facilities siting.

"We are the Federal Energy Administration have had very productive meetings with representatives of Kentucky's industries and state government," Craven said at the chamber's annual dinner meeting. "We're very enthusiastic about a number of projects already under way as a result of those meetings."

"We've discussed the impact of coal transportation on Kentucky's highways and railroads with Governor Carroll. We've worked with the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection on the development of a $4 million project for land reclamation."

'Grow Kentucky Green' Emphasizes Gardening

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The Department for Human Resources' (DHR) new "Grow Kentucky Green" campaign urges everyone to plant a garden this spring.

The home gardener can harvest over $30 worth of fresh vegetables from a 10-foot-square piece of land. The initial investment is under $5 for seed and $1 for fertilizer.

For the food stamp recipient, this year's garden will cost the price of fertilizer alone. "Recipients can purchase garden seeds and vegetable plants with their stamps," said Lucille Brislan, nutritionist for the Food Stamp Program in the Bureau for Social Insurance. DHR's campaign for gardening began with Mrs. Brislan. She has contacted the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Kentucky (UK) to find out what kinds of services they can offer to the gardener. "To find out how, where, and what to plant, contact the Service which has an agricultural agent and a homemaker in each county," said Mrs. Brislan. The local telephone number is listed in the phone directory under each county's name.

A well-tended 10-foot-square garden will produce vegetables to substantially supplement the diets of a four-member family, said Dean Knave, professor for the Department of Horticulture, UK. "A garden can be kept going throughout the summer with two and three plantings and harvesting times for many vegetables," said Knave. It could include green peppers, tomatoes, beans, onions, squash, cucumbers, radishes and spinach.

One way to decide if soil is fertile is to look at what is growing in the spot before tilling. "If things are growing poorly—including weeds—some extra nutrients may be necessary. The best way to tell is by having the Cooperation Extension Service run a soil test to find out the phosphorus, potassium and "pH" (acid-alkaline content) of the soil," said Knave. The testing usually costs $1.

"Some people, though, may not have the time or the space for gardening. When an outdoor space is simply not available, a window sill will do," Mrs. Brislan said.

"People can grow a tomato, pepper plant or other vegetable in a pot indoors. It can serve the same decorative purpose as a floral plant, being fruitful as well," she added.

Junk Car Cleanup Expanded

By JENNY PULLIAM
FRANKFORT, Ky.—Expansion of Kentucky's junk car cleanup soon will be accelerated thanks to the purchase of 12 additional trucks, six of which will be bought with a $40,000 allocation provided by Gov. Julian Carroll.

The Division of Special Programs in the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, which directs the junk car cleanup, has ordered the other six trucks and additional winches. The total outlay for the 12 vehicles and winches is $73,270. Delivery of the trucks is expected in June.

The junk car cleanup program is designed to beautify Kentucky, save resources, cut waste and provide money for non-profit community organizations through recycling the abandoned cars.

According to E. Thomas Reed, special programs director, the division has been snowed under in recent months with requests for cleanups. And the program's waiting list continues to grow. The program's appeal can be attributed to the prospect of cleaning up and beautifying Kentucky and the financial rewards community sponsors receive from metal processing companies for the junk metal.

Reed said a survey by the Appalachian Regional Commission in 1973 reported about 400,000 junk cars scattered throughout Kentucky. Reed added that with the 10 trucks the division is now using, it would take "about eight years to pick up all the junk cars we've already got." The division wanted to expand the program in order to get "into most, if not all, counties of the state within the next five years," he added.

Since the beginning of the program in April, 1974, more than 10,750 junk cars have been removed from 12 counties—Harlan, Bell, Adair, Hart, Grayson, Ohio, Muhlenberg, Hardin, Carroll, Marshall, Owen and Caldwell.

The cleanup sponsor, which requests assistance from the Division of Special Programs, has to be an organization which can benefit from the money received from the metal processors. Sponsors might include school bands, Jaycees, 4-H clubs, chambers of commerce or almost any civic group.

The sponsor's financial benefits vary according to the price of scrap metal, but, on the average, metal processors pay about $10-$15 per junk car.

The county and the state share responsibility for making the cleanup work. The county provides the junk cars and the people to locate them. The state provides advice, manpower and equipment to move them. The county sponsor receives money for the metal.

The state acquires a clean countryside. The sponsor must set up a preliminary meeting between the Division of Special Programs and local citizens, county officials and club representatives. It also must furnish supervisory personnel, locate the cars, acquire a place to store them between removal and processing and obtain releases of liability.

Currently, state workers are removing junk cars in Hancock county. Other counties requesting help from the division for their cleanups are: Nelson, Washington, Jessamine, Anderson, LaRue, Allen, Simpson, Boone, Logan, Monroe, Henderson, Bourbon, Union, Daviess, Calloway, Fulton, Henry, Franklin, Metcalfe, Barren, Warren, Pulaski, Cumberland and Graves.

The Blood Donation Process

Many people wonder what actually happens when they give blood. The following is a brief description of the procedure:

Step I—registration: This is where the donor "signs in," giving name, address, telephone number, etc. Time required, five minutes.

Step II—screening: Here the good health of the donor is determined. He is questioned about his present physical condition and past medical history. His vital signs are checked, including blood pressure, pulse rate, hemoglobin level, and temperature. Time required, 10 minutes.

Step III—drawing: This phase is similar to having a blood test in a doctor's office, except it takes longer. Each donor lies on a coat and a registered nurse stays with each person during the entire process. Time required, 15 minutes.

Step IV—canteen: Soft drinks and a light snack are provided for each donor. Time required, five minutes.

If you have further questions about this process or would like to join the Floyd County Blood Program, please write or call Joyce Lafferty, 886-6861, or Linda Wilken, 285-3251.

Huddleston Seeks Funds To Repair Coal-Haul Road

Cumberland Gap, Tenn.—Senator Walter "Dee" Huddleston, D-Ky., says he is exploring the possibility of securing funds to repair coal haul roads either from the Appalachian Regional Commission program or the highway trust fund.

"I intend to take a good hard look at the highway trust fund," Huddleston told a Middlesboro, Ky., Chamber of Commerce meeting Monday night here at Lincoln University.

"It could be that as we approach completion of the federal interstate highway system, we can turn our attention to other transportation needs, including coal-haul roads," he said.

However, if government is to contribute to the repair of coal-haul roads, he said, "the companies which use them must go the extra mile in protecting them from further damage."

Huddleston also said the coal counties of Eastern Kentucky should be guaranteed a substantial share of the wealth generated by increased coal production to meet rising energy needs.

"If Eastern Kentucky is going to supply a major portion of the resources to meet this nation's energy crisis, then Eastern Kentucky has a right to share substantially in the wealth generated by that resource," he said.

Specifically, the senator endorsed a greater return of state severance tax revenues to Kentucky's 40 coal-producing counties.

"Furthermore, I think these counties are entitled to a set percentage of that tax revenue—an earmarked return that operates in much the same way as the federal revenue sharing program," he said.

Also, he said the new Abandoned Mine Reclamation Fund which would be created by the strip mine bill passed by Congress should go in large part to coal producing counties.

If President Ford signs the bill into law, Kentucky would receive at least $22 million next year. "I think most of this money should go to the counties which produced the coal," Huddleston said.

Mine Law Protest Closes 11 Mines

WHITESBURG, Ky.—Strikes protesting pending federal strip-mine legislation have closed 11 mines in Knox and Whitley counties in Kentucky, and closings were predicted to spread into nearby Tennessee today.

"I don't believe a jump of coal will be moving anywhere in Knox and Whitley counties, and some other counties across the line in Tennessee," said Andrew Frost, owner of Frost Coal Co. in Corbin.

Letcher County Judge Estill Blair predicted that the protest would spread to Letcher County today, with some operators "loading out" and stopping mining indefinitely.

"I wouldn't be surprised if everything in Letcher County except three or four of the bigger deep mines will be closed by the week-end," Blair said.

The protest walkouts started two weeks ago at Wise, Va., just across the Kentucky line from the areas affected by Wednesday's strikes.

At Wise, coal operator Frank Horsemann said the protest is aimed at changing some congressional votes when the mine bill is returned from conference for a final vote.

The legislation would put surface mining and some deepmine operations under federal reclamation standards. Horsemann said some of the standards would be impossible to meet.

President Ford's veto of similar legislation was upheld previously, but Horsemann said big margins of passage for the new bill in both houses of Congress give Ford no encouragement to veto again.

Horsemann said he has been promised Kentucky support for a Washington demonstration against the legislation next week. Some 600 coal trucks and 3,500 demonstrators will take part in a five-hour parade through the capital next Tuesday, he said.

"We have been promised 50 trucks from Letcher County and representation from several counties," Horsemann said.

Elsewhere in the Kentucky coal fields Wednesday, Robert Holcomb, president of Coal Operators and Associates in Pikeville, said that despite operator concern over the law, no Pike County closings have been set.

Perry County Judge Babe Noplis said closings were discussed but no operations had been stopped in Perry County.

—Cloyd McDowell, president of a Harlan County coal operators group, said no attempts have been made to organize protests in the county.

—Hopkins County Judge Hanson Slaton said he had heard of no reactions to the bill in the Western Kentucky coal field.

Traffic Deaths Climbing Again

By RACHAEL KAMUF
FRANKFORT, Ky.—The National Safety Council has released its 1974 traffic report, which shows Kentucky and Missouri tied for second place in reduced motor vehicle deaths last year.

There were 766 fatalities on Kentucky roads last year—a decrease of some 29 per cent over 1973, when 1,117 persons were killed in traffic accidents. Across the country, motor vehicle deaths decreased 17 per cent. Utah was the only state to experience a greater reduction in fatalities than Kentucky or Missouri.

The Safety Council report attributes the lower death rate to the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit, which went into effect last March. Another reason cited was a decrease in traffic volume during the gasoline shortage.

In Kentucky, 1974 was the safest year for motorists since 1966, when 722 persons were killed, according to official state police figures.

The number of accidents in Kentucky also dropped last year. More than 24,700 were reported—4,000 fewer than in 1973. But figures for 1975 are not quite as encouraging. Eighteen more persons have been killed in traffic mishaps through the first week-end in April than were killed during the same four-month period in 1974.

Kentucky State Police began a new program aimed at reducing traffic deaths last month when they saw the death rate increasing. State police vehicles have stickers on front and rear bumpers to remind motorists that "it's 55 in '75."

Officials said motorists have become complacent about the slower speed limit and have been traveling at higher speeds in recent months. The black-on-orange bumper stickers came out after state police traffic arrest and warning citations jumped 30 per cent over comparable periods in 1974.

A summary of accidents listed speeding as a factor in 250 wrecks which resulted in death last year. Another 140 persons were killed in accidents involving drivers who were intoxicated.

Earlier this year, state police also reported that 103,000 motorists had been stopped for speeding last year, a sharp increase over 1973. Drunk driving citations were issued to more than 14,000 persons last year.

Trucking Cooperative Locates at Truck Stop In Boyd County

Coal truckers in the area are subjects of a new business located at Star 50 Truck Stop on old U. S. 60 south of Ashland. The company, Appalachian Management Co., will provide parts and fleet prices, furnish a place for trucks to be worked on, feature diesel repair service and warranty work, a wash rack and steam cleaning facilities and complete shop equipment and wreckers.

AMC, sister company Highland Trucking Cooperative, are Kentucky formed corporations and are headquartered in Prestonsburg. AMC will be under contract to build shops in Ashland, Louisa, Paintsville, Prestonsburg, Pikeville, Hazard and Jackson.

Most of the shop sites have been obtained and shop foremen recruited. Charles Welch, officer of the company, said. Welch said about 90 per cent of truck owners in the area will maintain their own trucks, but the shop will hire a mechanic to work on trucks owners don't want to maintain.

Welch, who has worked in real estate sales and management the past eight years, is joined as an officer by Faron White, an owner-operator of trucks for 26 years. White is presently president of a national tank truck operation, is one of the largest trailermobile dealers in the U.S. and owns a truck leasing company. Registration for the new co-op may be conducted by contacting Charles Welch at the Star 50 location.

Kentucky Gets $553,000 Grant For Forestry Incentive Program

By MARVA GAY

FRANKFORT, Ky.—More than half a million dollars has been appropriated for a forestry incentive program in Kentucky.

The program will allow landowners who follow specified procedures to be reimbursed for 50 to 75 per cent of the cost of planting trees or of timber stand improvement, according to Harry Nadler, director of the division of forestry in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Reimbursement will not exceed approximately $50 an acre for tree planting or about $20 an acre for timber stand improvement.

The $553,000 appropriated by Congress for the cost sharing program in Kentucky is being distributed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Services (ASCS) in cooperation with the Division of Forestry.

Ray Swartz, chief of management for the forestry division, which is encouraging landowners to participate in the program, explained how to obtain the funds.

First, the landowner must apply at his county ASCS office, which will refer the approved application to the state forestry division. Then, state foresters will examine the land and make specific recommendations on either tree planting or timber stand improvement. They might, for example, recommend the types of trees to be planted or the amount of pruning to be done. The landowner, who must follow the forester's recommendations, then carries out the work and notifies the forestry division when it is completed. After a state forester inspects the area, a statement documenting the completed work and a list of expenses is sent to the county ASCS office. If the ASCS committee rules that the recommendations have been fulfilled and that the expenses are valid, the landowner is sent a reimbursement check. The cost sharing program is significant for Kentucky, said Swartz, because it encourages many landowners to plant trees and make timber stand improvements that otherwise would not be made.

Anyone with questions about the program should contact a county office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service or an office of the state division of forestry, or write to the Division of Forestry, Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, 207 Holmes Street, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON

Many fishermen throughout Kentucky are wondering what effect the high waters around the state will have on this year's fish spawning. A poor spawn this year means fewer catchable fish two years from now, while good spawning success will indicate good fishing for the 1977 season.

According to Charlie Bowers, director of the Department of Fish and Wildlife's fisheries division, the high waters can actually contribute to an excellent year for those fish which build nests, such as black bass and crappie. The flooded areas both provide more places for spawning and, more importantly, increase the amount of nutrients in the lake and the number of hiding places for the newly-hatched fry.

White bass will not be affected by high lake levels, since they travel into the tributary streams to spawn. However, heavy rains during the spawn could increase the silt load in the streams enough to smother the eggs.

The great uncontrollable variable is, as always, the weather. If the lakes can be held stable during the spawning season, we should have an excellent spawn and a high survival rate of fry this year. However, if additional rains necessitate wide fluctuations in water levels, it could be a poor season, particularly if a lake must be drawn down during the spawn.

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers controls the levels on most of Kentucky's lakes. The Corps' primary concern is, as it should be, flood control, but the engineers try to keep their lakes as stable as possible during the major spawning periods, according to Noah Whittle of the Louisville district of the Corps.

According to Whittle, most of the lakes in the Louisville district will be held from two to six feet above the normal summer pool levels through the second week in May. This is, of course, assuming an average amount of rainfall during April. Whittle also says that he is keeping in close contact with fisheries biologists throughout the state and will do everything possible to hold lake levels constant during the two to three week spawning period.

So the only thing we can do now is just watch the weather and hope for the best. And in the meantime, there are those fish that were spawned two years ago and are just waiting to be caught. Although the high, muddy water at most lakes makes fishing conditions rough, there are ways to catch fish now.

One productive technique is to find clear streams flowing into the muddy lake and fish where the two types of water mingle. The favorite bait is a live nightcrawler, but artificial lures can also be effective at times. If drifted debris makes access difficult, beach your boat and fish from the bank.

One word of caution—the lakes do have a lot of trash washed into them by the high waters, so keep a particularly sharp watch for floating logs or other large objects which could damage a boat.
