Three inmates moved from Otter Creek

In response to Governor's orders for tighter security

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Three inmates at the Otter Creek Correctional Facility in Wheelwright were transferred to another prison earlier this week because Kentucky Governor Brereton Jones issued an emergency order Wednesday which put stricter rules on housing of violent criminals.

Governor Jones ordered on Wednesday that murderers, arsonists, kidnapers and sex offenders be kept behind bars, instead of in minimum security prisons such as the Otter Creek facility.

Minimum security facilities house inmates in a dormitory-type setting and do not have cells with bars or fences around the prison grounds.

Jones' action came after a convicted murderer walked away from the Lee Adjustment Center in Beattyville 11 days ago and killed a man in northeastern Tennessee.

Otter Creek warden Tim Maguigan said Thursday that three inmates who "met the criteria established" had been transferred from the Wheelwright prison Tuesday to a more secure facility.

"They were genuine minimum security inmates," Maguigan said. "We got a call late Monday afternoon and then the transfers were made the next morning."

Maguigan said he could not recall the specific charges against the three inmates.

"I don't have their files anymore because their files went with them," Maguigan said.

The governor's order is expected to have an impact on the number of prisoners housed at the Wheelwright prison in the "short-run," Maguigan said, but it would be difficult to measure the effect it would have in the long run.

"I think in the short-run, it certainly may," the warden said. "In the long run, I'm not so certain it will."

The governor's order will keep all inmates convicted of Class A felonies and felony sex crimes from being transferred to minimum security facilities, county jails and halfway houses.

State officials had begun reviewing the state's prisoner classification system which determines which inmates pose the lowest security risks.

Across the state Tuesday, 114 inmates were transferred from minimum security prisons and county jails to medium security prisons.

Search for Paintsville teen ends; body found

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

A six-day search for a missing Paintsville Middle School student ended Thursday morning, when the teen-ager's body was found floating in Paint Creek.

The body of Darrell Michael Preston, a 15-year-old eighth-grader at Paintsville, was found about a half mile downstream from where the youth disappeared Saturday night following a canoeing mishap.

Preston and three other Johnson County teens had apparently stolen two canoes Saturday from Johnson Central High School, where the boats had been used in safety classes.

Both canoes reportedly capsized in the swollen stream behind the Johnson County Library when the youths attempted to cross a small waterfall created by an underwater utility line crossing.

Police said all four teens escaped the water but said Preston dove back into the creek in an attempt to recover one of the boats.

A joint recovery effort between Floyd, Johnson and Magoffin counties was initiated Saturday night and continued until Thursday morning, when Preston's body reportedly surfaced downstream.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete Thursday.

Millions available for tuitions; Operation Wildcat is underway

by Ronnie Parsons
Staff Writer

National Guard recruiters began blitz of area high schools this week after operation "Wildcat" was announced by Governor Brereton Jones last month.

Sergeant First Class Rick Caldwell and Staff Sergeant Darrel Vollet of the Prestonsburg National Guard, with overhead projector and screen in hand, began a tour of all local schools in an attempt to get the word out to students about the large amount of state and federal money set aside for education.

"I am aware of over $18 million dollars in financial aid and assistance for Kentuckians that is going unused primarily because of lack of awareness," Jones said in a letter to the national guard units and area high schools.

In order to get the word out, the governor sent a letter to each high school requesting they allow a member of the Kentucky National Guard to give a presentation to all juniors and seniors explaining how the students can tap into this huge sum of money for college.

In the letter, the governor explained the benefits offered by the National Guard from the Montgomery GI bill to enlistment bonuses.

During a stop at the new South Floyd High School Wednesday morning Caldwell explained to students how the National Guard could offer money for college, if they qualified.

"For those students just graduating and want to go to college that may need extra financial support for school, the benefits are excellent," said Caldwell. "Not only are they getting money for school, but (for some of them) they are earning money for the first time on their own by attending the monthly meetings."

The presentation lasted for about 45 minutes followed by a question and answer period.

Interested students will be allowed the opportunity to tour the National Guard Armory and in some cases accompany the unit on field exercises.

Caldwell also explained the difference between active and reserve military units as compared to the National Guard.

"The Guard is a lot more active in the community. Not only do we train in a military role, we also provide

Blackcats and Cardinals meet for championship

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Fans, parents and students gathered in front of the Prestonsburg High School Thursday. The band played. Cheerleaders led the cheers; and then the Prestonsburg Blackcats boarded a chartered bus to leave for Louisville in quest of their first football championship.

It was an emotional time for those who congregated at the local high school. They were shedding some tears — tears of pride for a team that has been a success from the opening day.

The Blackcats will face a strong Mayfield team led by one of the brightest young sophomores in the state, Mike Bright.

Bright leads the Cardinals' offense with 1,114 yards rushing and will run at the tailback slot. Russell Whaley will fill the quarterback position with Chad Haley and Montez Benjamin also in the backfield.

Jeremy Hughes leads a strong Mayfield defense that has allowed an average of eight points per game. The Cardinals are averaging 26 points per game.

Mayfield coach Paul Leahy is in his first season as the head coach of the Cardinals after 22 seasons as an assistant to Jack Morris, who stepped aside this year.

Mayfield lost to Danville in the state championship game the past two seasons and will face Prestonsburg for the first time.

The game will be televised by WYMT on a delay basis this Saturday at 6 p.m.

Saturday afternoon, approximately 4 p.m., fans are urged to join the welcome-home caravan that will meet the team at Route 114 (just beyond Glyn View Shopping Center). Fans are encouraged to travel with the caravan back into the city limits.

Also, on Sunday at 1 p.m., a reception will be held at the high school gym for the team regardless of the outcome of the title game. Everyone is invited to attend the reception.

Election contest suit filed in Wheelwright mayoral race

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

An unsuccessful candidate for the mayor of Wheelwright who was defeated by just six votes filed an eleven-hour election contest lawsuit Thursday, just hours before the deadline.

Lowell Parker named mayor-elect David Marlee Sammons in the lawsuit and is asking that a new election be held because there were election irregularities and election fraud concerning the November 2 general election.

Sammons is not accused of any election law violations in the lawsuit.

In his suit, Parker claims that a wide variety of abuses occurred at the Lee Hall precinct on election day including machine vote totals and the number of people who signed the register book do not match, electioneering was allowed at the polling place, that election officers failed to have voters sign their names on the precinct register, and that an absentee ballot was not counted.

"The voting machine used to record voting at Lee Hall Precinct #26 contained five more votes than the number of voters signing the precinct register," Parker claimed in his lawsuit. "The absentee ballot of Sharon Parker (his sister) was not counted in the final tally, as it does not appear upon the precinct roster as do other absentee voters. Robert Hood, a qualified voter of Wheelwright, was refused his right to vote in the city election."

Floyd County Court Clerk Carla Boyd said earlier this week that she hoped to certify the election results by 4 p.m. yesterday Thursday when it was announced that Prestonsburg mayoral candidate George Archer Jr., who lost by one vote to Jerry Fanning, would not contest the election results.

Boyd could not be reached Thursday to determine if the other races at the November election could be certified because of Parker's lawsuit.

Chuck Hall, a member of the county board of elections, said Thursday that it would be up to the courts to decide if a new election is held for the Wheelwright mayor's seat.

Ad promoting massages rings into clerk's offices

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Stephanie DeRossett said she made a "careless mistake" when she used a phone number at the Floyd Circuit Clerk's office to advertise her massage service.

In Wednesday's Floyd County Times, DeRossett placed an advertisement offering "Swedish massages" and listed the small claims office as the telephone number to call for information until 4 p.m.

Elizabeth Lucas, public information manager for the state's Administrative Office of the Courts, issued a statement Thursday which said that the "court's telephones are strictly for court business."

Floyd Circuit Court Clerk Frank DeRossett, who supervises the small claims office, said Thursday that his granddaughter made a mistake and had not intended to use her office number.

Stephanie DeRossett, who is deputy clerk in the small claims office, said Thursday that she mistakenly put her office number on the advertisement.

"I realize it was my mistake that I put the wrong number on it," DeRossett said. "I really don't know what to do to stop it. I don't want anymore calls here. I'm terribly sorry it happened."

"I just hope there are other people out there who have made what seems like a small careless mistake and (it) had greater consequences than they (see Wrong number, page two)

Mining reform

The industry that mines coal, oil and other "hard" minerals in Kentucky in Western states may finally be brought into the 20th Century by a new bill of President Clinton, the SAFE Act. Many of the bill's provisions are aimed at providing support for reforms that would eliminate a political bribe.

Western miners had legitimate anger over the 1992 law written by the so-called "high-risk" development of natural resources in remote places. I, Bill Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt took up the cause, efforts to modernize the law, and end the giveaway of land and resources owned by all Americans, met overwhelming resistance.

The opponents, who drone on about the individualism that won the West, are still strong. Both houses of Congress have passed mining bills, but Mr. Babbitt will need the President's help if the superior House version is to prevail.

One goal is to end the system that allows miners to lay claim to vast public acreage and mineral wealth at almost no cost. The beneficiaries are not hardy pick-and-shovel prospectors, but big corporations, many foreign-owned.

An acceptable law must also include royalty payments for minerals extracted from public land and the windfall environmental controls long since imposed on the coal industry. The House bill calls for land reclamation, permits and bonds to assure acceptable work and repair of old mine damage. Not all miners are environmental outlaws, but ugly scars across the West attest to the irresponsibility of many of them. — The Courier-Journal

Restraint, not censorship

Our societal appeals court has just ruled that it is the constitutionally-protected, independent TV broadcast industry, not the FCC, that has the right to decide.

Whether or not depictions of sexual activity on television during those hours is legally prohibited doesn't mean that broadcasters have to show such material.

Some restraint is in order, and restraint is not the same thing as censorship. When government decides what to allow and what not to allow, it is censorship. Clearly, that's unacceptable in a free society.

When people running broadcast networks, TV or radio stations, or newspapers freely decide, without government interference, what is appropriate to present to the public, that's the exercising of voluntary restraint.

The communications media cherish the freedom of expression guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution's First Amendment. That freedom carries with it, though, as responsibility to exercise appropriate restraint.

Television plays a profound role in the lives of most Americans. It helps to shape the American culture and is so potent that it can grab the attention of children a

—Letters to the Editor—

Support for Ed Taylor

Editor:
It has been several years since I wrote to an editor, but I believe that it is time for someone to step forward in defense of Ed Taylor in light of two recent critical letters about sports coverage in the local press. It is the right of anyone to have and express an opinion, but it isn't right for an individual to be forced to defend themselves when the criticism isn't valid. I met Ed Taylor two years ago while my son was playing for the Blackcats. I was following the team and trying to get photographs of my son for my own use. We struck up a conversation about just how hard it is to photograph football games at night and get good action shots. I also know from experience just how hard it is to get good pictures of certain position players. I shot almost 20 rolls of film last season and got two (yes, that is right, two) shots of my son playing center that were worth enlarging.

If you turn to the editorial page, the answer to this issue can be found in the boxed caption. The name of the paper is The Floyd County Times (not The Allen Central, Betsy Layne, Prestonsburg, or South Floyd Times). Secondly, this paper is only published two days a week. It is just not possible to have every deserving player, team and sport featured in every issue. If you read the coverage in the paper, it is obvious that Ed attempts to cover just about every sport that people around here play, in about as many locations as there are in the county.

Because I saw just how difficult it was to cover four high school football teams on the same night, I volunteered to help Ed by photographing some games for him this year, after my son graduated. I'm not looking for any medals for having done this, but I do receive some of the complaints I got just as a volunteer. I wonder how he stands it every day. I used my own equipment, my own gas, and paid my own way into games, just to hear complaints that were impossible to do anything about. My impression is that fans of most schools I covered would like to have their games covered only by Ed, featured at the complete expense of the others in every issue, and every player on the team should be in an action shot for every issue. The sad part of this to me is that in spite of all of the work that I know from first-hand experience goes into trying to cover every event, there is a vocal minority that is not satisfied. I do not question the spirit and motives of this minority, but I do question their understanding of the situation.

Also, I question the complaints about this Big Sandy All-State Team. As I remember, Prestonsburg had more members than any other school.

Again, look at the name of this "Team." It is not Prestonsburg, it is not Floyd County, it is Big Sandy. Polls and All-Star teams will by their very nature not include everyone that probably should be there. I understand that Prestonsburg had only one player make the All-State team this year. Did more deserve to be on there? Arguably so. But no one person is responsible for these selections. All-anything teams will be loved by the winners and cursed by the losers. In any case, it certainly says absolutely nothing about those who are not chosen.

Lastly, pot shots taken often expose the writer to other risks. For instance, I'm sure that it will come as a real shock to Coach Letton and Paul Collins to find that he is not on the Blackcats this year. It is also a real shocker to me, since I have several pictures of him in action. To me, sour grapes are not fit fruit to eat, much less publish. I would suggest that more people concentrate on supporting their teams in a positive manner and work to improve the lot of our county teams. Offering to help those who are trying to aid and support local youth in all fields, would be much more constructive than complaining.

Letter-writer repends

Editor:
I am writing in reply to Ed Taylor's article on me in the sports section of the Times. I am fully aware that Paul Collins plays football and I was not referring to him or to Ray Collins, but as I first stated, I was referring to a Collins boy that Mr. Taylor wrote about that does not play football for the Cats. He quit after going to football camp this year.

Please have Mr. Taylor check his articles and he will know whom I am referring to. I do not want to mention the boy's name or cause any embarrassment to him or his parents. Mr. Taylor's article seemed to state that I was a parent of a football player. I am not a parent of any child on the Blackcat team and I am not retained in any way to any child on the team.

How does Mr. Taylor know from a signature that a person is a parent or that they are old enough to have children. I sure am not old enough to have a child on the high school squad.

I feel that my name was degraded just because a question was asked. I think the Times reply below my letter was explanation enough and made a lot of people understand how the All Big Sandy Football Squad was chosen. If that had been stated in the paper along with the article on November 19, maybe there would not have been any misunderstanding about it.

I am sure not many people understood that the choice was made by a lot of area sportswriters. I didn't appreciate the big write up in the sports section using my name simply because I wrote a letter expressing my freedom of speech.

New drilling laws proposed by group

Editor:
The Broad Form Deed Amendment to the Kentucky constitution passed in 1988, now protects landowners from unwanted surface coal mining. Unfortunately, this law did not include oil and gas drilling which also causes much property damage. A few years ago a drilling company came on my brother-in-law's property without asking and tore up his horse pasture.

Since 1990, in cases where the minerals are owned separately from the land surface, drilling companies are required to notify landowners before drilling on their property. But landowners still have no say as to where the well is drilled, roads are built or pipelines are laid.

In 1988, as a member of Kentuckians For The Commonwealth (KFTC), a statewide citizens group, I helped end strip miners' abuses of the broad form deed. This year KFTC is proposing new laws to protect landowners and the environment from the actions of irresponsible oil and gas drillers. KFTC's legislation will give landowners more say in what oil and gas drillers do on their property, require companies to clean up their mess, and give fair compensation for property damages.

We are not asking for a landowner veto. We need the products provided by oil and gas companies. We just want oil and gas operators to act responsibly and to treat landowners respectfully.

If you have been affected by oil and gas drilling, or wish to support KFTC's effort to reform Kentucky's oil and gas drilling laws, please contact KFTC at P.O. Box 864, Prestonsburg, KY 41653/606-886-0043.

At a time when most reasonable Americans are concerned about an erosion of values, it's impossible not to wonder what role television plays in our social problems.

Certainly, parents must be responsible for what their children watch on television. TV producers and programmers, though, should have common sense, too, to know that certain material isn't appropriate for children.

They also know when children are most likely to be watching and should have enough pride in their craft and respect for their community to be mindful of the potential effects of the material they present during those hours.

If more producers had the courage to break away from the pack with creative storylines and approaches, the national consciousness might be raised, and audiences and sponsors might appreciate it. — guest editorial from the Orlando Sentinel appearing in the Lexington Herald-Leader

Under the gun, too

The figures say it all:

In 1992 alone, a reported 233 Kentuckians were murdered. 135 of them with firearms. A murder occurred in the state at an average rate of one every 27.4 hours.

In 1992 alone, a reported 3,266 Kentuckians were robbed. 840 of them at gunpoint. A robbery occurred in the state at an average rate of one every 2.7 hours.

In 1992 alone, a reported 15,361 Kentuckians were victims of aggravated assault. 2,607 of them were shot or bludgeoned. Aggravated assault was committed at an average rate of one every 34.2 minutes.

These figures, courtesy of the Kentucky State Police, do not include the number of accidental deaths and woundings or self-inflicted gunshot.

These figures do not include the number of felons incarcerated after committing a violent crime, thanks to the efforts of our law-enforcement agencies. At taxpayer expense.

These figures do not include the number of man-hours of law-enforcement agencies and the courts spent tracking, pursuing, and trying those felons. At taxpayer expense.

These figures do not include the number of children who now have to grow up without Mommy or Daddy because someone that shouldn't have had a gun, did it.

The figures say it all. Something should be done. Whether or not the Brady Bill is the best and most all of crime prevention it has been touted as, it is a start. Whether it works or not, whether it saves lives or not it is a start.

But there must be more. We must make sure that there is more. Today, because the figures say it all. — The Big Sandy News, Louisa

The delayed opening of bids on the proposed City Building here may have hit further delay in a temporary restraining order granted a councilman-elect last week against the present mayor and council, enjoining them from taking bids on the structure. The search for oil and gas between two and three miles beneath the surface is ready to begin in Floyd county, it was learned this week, as a group of companies began moving drilling machinery to a location near Hunter on Left Beaver Creek. Two Prestonsburg clubs were closed by court order Monday as public nuisance after a man was wounded in an attack and both were later hit by liquor raids. As snows go, Tuesday morning's was on the light side. The Appalachian Regional Commission announced this week a startling reversal of the outmigration trend in Eastern Kentucky, and a corresponding increase in its population during the last two and a half years. And Floyd county was one of the biggest gainers in the regional ARC survey. The Prestonsburg High School Blackcats defeated two previously undefeated Class AA basketball teams last week to win the Sandy Valley Conference tournament, their first tournament championship in 15 years. There died: Banner McKinney, 66, of Harold, Tuesday at a Pikeville hospital; Rev. Clyde B. Godsey, of Oberlin, O., in an Elkhart, O. hospital; Martin P. Lewis, 87, of McArthur, O. formerly of Prestonsburg, last Saturday in Nelsonville, O.; Amanda Richardson, 75, of West Prestonsburg, Monday at a hospital, here; Mrs. Alma Stone, 66, of Warren, Mich., formerly of this county, last Thursday; Dr. John J. Sherman, 60, of Martin, last Thursday at a Martin hospital.

Other Voices— Health Care Reform and Respiratory Care

by Rhonda Windhorst
President
KY Society for Respiratory Care
Louisville

The Clinton Administration's health reform plan goes a long way toward ensuring all Americans have basic healthcare coverage. What's disconcerting is under this plan, patients seeking less expensive, non-hospital based services for asthma, emphysema or other respiratory ailments after being discharged from acute care facilities, won't be able to get it unless they want to forego reimbursement.

Although Clinton's plan follows Medicare guidelines, when the Medicare program was first developed, respiratory care was fully recognized as a viable component of hospital services; however, Medicare policy has barely advanced in the past 25 years for respiratory care services rendered outside acute care settings. Where respiratory patients were once confined to a hospital bed, the same patients may now be cared for in a skilled nursing facility or in the patient's own home.

Clearly, the Clinton plan is at odds with itself as it relates to respiratory care. On one hand, it stresses managed care, which promotes providing care in the least expensive setting—including home-based care. On the other, the plan discourages patients from seeking that care outside the hospital because it would not be covered on Medicare guidelines.

As National Health Reform is debated, it's the respiratory care community's recommendation that congress recognize the role that respiratory care plays in the provisions of cost-effective health care in alternate sites.

Care vs. cheer

By Scripps Howard News Service

A whole self-help industry has sprung up around the idea that a person can, through dogged good spirits, achieve better health. But a new longevity study by University of California psychologist Howard Friedman will wipe the smiles from a few faces.

Analyzing data collected on more than 1,000 men and women over a 60-year period, Dr. Friedman discovered that, contrary to the conventional wisdom and the best sellers, people who are merry, optimistic and carefree tend to live about 6 percent shorter lives than those who always look like they just buried their favorite puppy.

One explanation is that sanguine types pay less heed to dangers and health risks, convinced that somehow they'll come out all right. In any case, here at last is news about which the nation's long-faced mopes can be cheerful. But—careful, there—not too cheerful.

Gas blamed for blast; miner still not reached

A buildup of methane gas likely caused an explosion at an Eastern Kentucky coal mine that left one miner unaccounted for, state officials said Wednesday.

Jim Akers, an owner of AA&W Coals Inc., said rescuers had been unable to contact the missing man, James Lyons, 36, a scoop operator. Akers said the explosion occurred around 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Elmo No. 5 mine in Pike County.

The search for Lyons had to be halted Tuesday night when a dangerous amount of methane was detected in the mine, said Burl Scott, state commissioner of mines and minerals. Methane is odorless and colorless, but highly explosive.

Workers began drilling into the mine Wednesday afternoon to improve ventilation and to aid in sampling the air, said Eugene Attkisson, general counsel to the Department of Mines and Minerals.

It is about 400 feet from the surface to the point where the explosion occurred, and the drilling was expected to continue until 8 p.m.

Scott said the rescue operation was proceeding under the assumption that Lyons is alive. — The Courier-Journal

- Tuesday: "Poster Day." Each classroom created and posted at least one reading/writing slogan outside their door.
- Wednesday: "I Love to Read Day." Everyone in the school read silently from 9-9:30.
- Thursday: "Staff Reader Day." Upper grade students read to lower grade students and lower grade students read to upper grade students.

Student show at PCC gallery

"Survey of Self" is the title of an exhibit of art work by the drawing class at Prestonsburg Community College that will be on display at the college's art gallery from December 6 to 15.

A reception for the artists will be Monday, December 6, from 5:30-7:30 p.m. The public is invited. Subjects depicted in the show include landscapes, portraits, animals, fantasy, and "nonsubjects," according to Tom J. Whitaker, professor of art. Whitaker said the show represents the students' "work at gaining confidence and finding direction in their art."

The gallery is located in the Magoffin Learning Center on the Prestonsburg campus. For information, call 886-3863, ext. 408. Students whose work is in the show includes Charles C. Allen, Nancy J. Newsome, John M. Porter, James S. Stumbo and Larry S. Music, all of Floyd County; Amy R. Jenkins, J. April Williams, Betty J. Williams, Sandy Stephens and Emogene Prater, all of Magoffin County; and Phillip G. Marcum of Martin County.

MCA students pursue history

The fifth grade social studies class at Mountain Christian Academy has had a very busy first nine weeks. Besides studying the traditional fifth grade American History curriculum, the students are also pursuing core knowledge in world civilization, geography, and government (both U.S. and world and the Christian principles our country was founded on).

The students keep a social studies journal to record each day's lessons. These usually begin with, "Today I learned about..." The average journal entry is 1 1/2 to 2 pages. In addition to journals, tests, readings, and traditional question and answer homework, the class is sharing a novel of the Navahos, Sing Down the Moon. The classroom is also equipped with computers and social studies software, geography games, and a television and VCR on which the class recently watched "Molly's Pilgrim" (a film about a young girl who emigrates from Russia for religious freedom).

The fifth graders have also completed several projects this year. One major project was student construction of historically-accurate Indian dwellings. The students used classroom visuals to choose their dwelling types, and many researched further to find what accessories could be included. The dwellings varied greatly, from a hand-tied wickiup to a Panoan shelter. Appropriate environments were also added.

Other projects completed include student's choice of a Native American name, an application for the choice, and an appropriate costume design. Students designed binoculars with a view into the past with scenes ranging from Ulysses to Columbus. Students published newspapers detailing the Hudson and Cabot mysteries. The class studied the value of ancient artifacts, and created their own. After listening to Homer's Odyssey, the class undertook to write and produce a play with the scenes depicting some of Ulysses' adventures. This project is still under construction.

Exploring Jewish culture on KET

Discover more about Jewish traditions in Chanukah at Grover's Corner, airing at 1:30 Sunday, December 5. Set in a music store, the program features Emmy Award-winning actor Theodore Bikel in this musical and educational special that is about more than just Chanukah. It's also appreciating other traditions and encouraging people to learn about them. "When people are curious about other cultures, and interests," says Bikel, "they stop shouting at each other."

PCC professor gives address at Gettysburg

Dr. Thomas D. Matijasic, professor of history at Prestonsburg Community College, presented a paper at the Lincoln and Gettysburg Symposium in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, on November 20.

The two-day symposium commemorated the 130th anniversary of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, and was sponsored by the Civil War Round Table Associates.

Matijasic's presentation explained the influence of Lincoln on the political thought of Thomas Masaryk, the first president of Czechoslovakia. Masaryk was so impressed by Lincoln that he made a trip to Gettysburg in 1918 to visit the site of the famous address, the professor said.

Largely because of Masaryk's efforts, the Czechs created one of the first functioning democracies in Eastern Europe.

Other speakers at the Gettysburg symposium were Harold Hatcher of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, John Simon of Southern Illinois University, William Harris of North Carolina State University, Michael Vorenberg of Harvard University, and Frank J. Williams, president of the Abraham Lincoln Association.

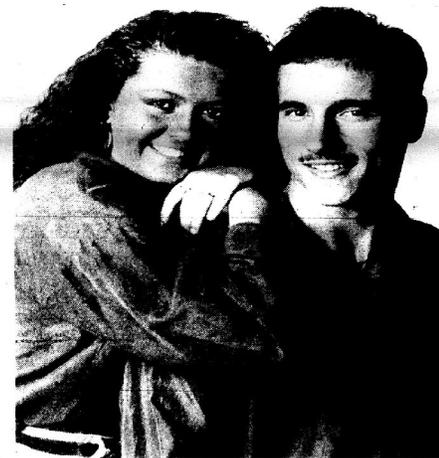

Matijasic will present a series of lectures on the Civil War on December 6-7 at 6 p.m. in room 119 of the Johnson Building at PCC. The program is free and open to the public.

Matijasic, who lives in Johnson County, is also chair of the Social Services Division of PCC.

UNEXPECTED GUEST

Even though I am now an adult, I am still a dutiful daughter. Whenever possible, I still ask my mother for advice and carefully heed her words of wisdom. That's why I didn't question her instructions several weeks ago concerning a wedding shower. Since we are invited to many of the same functions, my mother and I often combine our resources when purchasing gifts for these occasions. This celebration was to be at my expense. "Sara, it's your turn to buy the gift. I bought the last one," Mother said stiffly. "Okay. No problem," I muttered. "And since you're buying the gift, you may as well attend. I won't be here and one of us needs to make an appearance," she stated forcefully. "Okay, Mom. I'll go," I replied. "I mean it, Sara. One of us should be there, and I can't. You won't forget, will you?" "No, Mom. I won't forget," I answered. "I'm serious, Sara. I'd go if I could, but you need to go. "All right, already! I'll go!" I yelled. "Well, see that you do. I'll see you Sunday." After she left, I felt guilty about raising my voice to her. Of course, I usually feel guilty about most things, because that is how I learned to become a "dutiful daughter." Guilt had kept my sisters and me in tow when we were young, and it had carried over into our adult lives. Psychologists would probably dispute this theory, but I think a little bit of guilt keeps you honest. At least that was my Mom's philosophy. The next day, I dreaded the ordeal of what I would have to go through to get ready for the shower. I had to get a gift then had to get dressed. When I finally found something to wear that would fit, as long as it didn't have to be zipped up all the way, I slapped on some make-up and marched out the door. In a way, I was ashamed (the guilt again) of the way I had acted toward my mother about attending the shower. It was family, and deep down, I wanted to be there. As I pulled into the parking lot of the church my attitude had improved to the point that I was actually glad Mother had insisted that I go. The shower was wonderful. The bride-to-be was beautiful, gracious, and seemed appreciative that I had attended. "Now, your name is?" she asked sincerely. "I'm Sara. I hope you both will be happy," I smiled. It didn't take long to find a few of my cousins and the food. Soon it was like old-home week. The minutes flew by and before I knew, I had over-stayed the intended time of the shower by thirty minutes. As the old saying goes, "Time flies when you're having a good time," and I was having that along with 3000 unneeded calories. The next day my friend called and asked where I had been the previous afternoon. "I attended my cousin's shower." "Oh, I didn't get an invitation." "Huh?" I asked. "I didn't get invited, but I don't know them that well." "You mean they sent out invitations?" "That's the way most people do it," Jean said. My mind started reeling as I began rifling through my mail. Nobody said anything about an invitation. Mother told me to go, and I went! Last week I received an invitation to the wedding. My husband said they sent me one because they assumed I'd probably show up anyway.

THE TIMES' WEEKEND

Into The Woods

Little Red Riding Hood, Cinderella and a host of other fairy tale characters will appear on stage during Morehead State University Theatre students' production of the Tony Award-winning musical "Into The Woods."

Two Floyd County students will be among the cast. Floyd County student Donetta Riley will don the garb of the Baker's Wife, a leading role in the production. Riley, the daughter of Don and Naomi Riley of Harold, is no stranger to the stage.

Riley worked professionally as a costumer at Shenandoah summer music theatre. A senior theatre and public relations major, she is a member of MSU Players, and Theta Alpha Phi national honor theatre fraternity.

Floyd Countian Scott F. Bradley will also be among the cast, but will be in the orchestra pit.

Bradley is a senior music education major. He is a member of the Symphony Band, Chamber Singers, Concert Choir and Marching Band. He is the son of Butch Bradley of Prestonsburg. "Into The Woods" brings to life several fairy tale characters.

The play centers on the journey of fictitious characters and their search for "magical items" which will allow their wishes to come true.

The production may be seen Thursday through Saturday, December 9-11, in MSU's Button Auditorium, beginning at 8 nightly.

Tickets are $6 for adults, $2 for senior citizens, high school students and children. Admission is free to MSU students with valid ID cards.

ANOTHER CHRISTMAS STORY: I WAS A TEEN-AGE SANTA CLAUS

As the visions of sugar-plum dance through your heads this bitter winter's eve, consider for a moment the onslaught of today's crass Christmas commercialism and harken back to those halcyon days of yesteryear when the holiday season actually meant something. Then bow down and give thanks to the one man still around who stands above the profit-mongering and balmy hawking to employ the true spirit of good tidings and cheer: Santa Claus. And now, friends, take a moment of your precious time to thank your humble narrator (that's me) for saving not only Christmas, but the Jolly Old Elf himself, from a sad, sordid fate. For you see, boys and girls, I... was a teen-age Santa Claus! It all began one dreary December 24. I had settled down for a long winter's nap, secure in the knowledge that Santa would again forego depositing Christmas cheer under MY tree because my mother, the health nut, insisted upon once again leaving out carrot juice and celery sticks for Ol' St. Nick in lieu of milk and cookies because, she swore, "the old hizzard's a prime candidate for ascotomans." Then all at once there arose such a clatter. I frantically tried to see what was the matter. And there to my surprise and chagrin... was Santa himself, soundly snoozing in Dad's L-27. Boy with a half-empty bottle of Jack Daniels tucked under one chubby arm.

I knew instantly that I had to get him back on his feet. Because nobbly... and I mean NOBODY... EVER sat in Dad's chair but DAD (actually, the cat tried it once, but Dad tested out Mom's new Epidural on her and she hasn't been seen since!!) "More, Santa," I said. "You've gotta get up and deliver the stuff to all those good little boys and girls." "Bahhhhh (hiccup) bunnies!" he mumbled drunkenly. "There AIN't no 'good' little boys and girls left no more. All they care about now is their Star Trek, Santa Turtles and Sega Genesis games. Anyhow, I can't finish my rounds (hiccup) anyway... Rudolph left me and I (hiccup) jus' can't get by without her!" At this point, let me remind those of you who just thought "But Rudolph's a boy!" that misconception came from the stop-motion cartoon—this is reality.) Santa then gave me a sharp salute, downing the rest of the Jack Daniels and politely fell back into Dad's chair, letting out a resounding snore that sounded conspicuously like a rampaging water buffalo in heat. There was nothing else I could do, so, resigning myself to my fate, I traded my jammies for Santa's red and white wool suit (and unfortunately, a pretty good fit) and headed up onto the roof. That's when I got my second shock of the evening: In place of the rusty, rustic sleigh of old, was a sleek, shiny red Ferrari latched to seven of the fattest dang reindeer you ever saw in your life. I slid into the driver's seat, delighting in the feel of rich,

Boy, some of the things they're passing off as toys these days. Dolls that poop, for real; board games that barf; and stuffed animals that give birth. Geez. Is that stuff fun? What'll they think of next? PMS Barbie? Crackhead Ken? The way we figure it, we get enough of real life in real life. Toys are supposed to be entertaining. The human body and its functions are not entertaining. Just ask anyone who has had one for more than 30 years. These days, though, it would seem that gross is in and the more disgusting, the better. Is there any other explanation for the longevity of rap music? Cat barf has more entertainment value. Of course that's the same thing our folks said about John, Paul, George and Ringo. Come to think of it, that's the same thing our kids are saying about John, Paul, George and Ringo. Anyway, back to toys. We've got some ideas for some new products: • Baby Bad Cholesterol. One too many strips of bacon and her heart explodes. • Big Bird (not to be confused with he of Sesame Street fame). Stick him in the rear window of your car and he flips off each slow-moving driver you pass. • The Bob Packwood Primer (See Bob. See Bob's secretary. See Bob chase Bob's secretary around the desk. Bob, Bob. Stop that Bob.) • BOPROT, the board game. Take bribes, extort money, match wits with the FBI, go directly to jail. • Where In the World Is Michael Jackson? Learn geography while tracing the star's one-step-ahead-of-the-law footsteps. • The Bobbits, almost anatomically correct his and hers dolls. • Little Suzie Uzi. She looks like an angel but acts like a pistol. (Bullets not included). Only 22 shopping days until Christmas.

"Bless this broccoli... even though it's not an example of her best work."

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY

Lonnie and Karen Robinson who just celebrated 22 years of holy matrimony (holy smoke) Two fine people are Lonnie and Karen and we wish them a very happy anniversary.

HYDEN NAMED TO ALL-STATE 2ND TEAM

Prestonsburg's Seth Hyden was named this week to the Kentucky Associated Press all-state second team as a running back.

Hyden has been instrumental in leading the Blackcats to the state finals this season and is very deserving of the honor.

Sam Harp, one of the one who went for the conversion instead of the tying PAT against Prestonsburg last Friday night, was named the Coach of the Year.

The voting was done by sportswriters and sportscasters across the state.

ATTENDANCE LOW...

The attendance at the revived Floyd County Preseason Basketball Tournament was short of being spectacular. The first three nights have been disappointing attendance-wise but hopes are that it will pick up this weekend.

A small crowd gathered at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse Wednesday night and that could be because it was church night for many or that the Kentucky Wildcats were on the tube. It's hard to upstage the Wildcats.

The tournament moves to Allen Central for the concluding sessions on Saturday night and then Sunday afternoon.

The remainder of the schedule looks like this:

Saturday, December 3, Betsy Layne and South Floyd face off in a girls' game at 6 p.m. In the night-cap at 8 p.m. the boys' teams will face from the two schools.

Sunday afternoon, December 4, Allen Central Lady Rebels will square off against Prestonsburg at 2 p.m. and the boys will play at 4 p.m.

All high schools will be in full swing next week to open a full week of basketball.

A top conference game will match South Floyd playing at Betsy Layne in a girls game Tuesday night.

ALL-MEDIA BANQUET...

A big success. Football players from all over the region gathered at the Holiday Inn in Prestonsburg and enjoyed a good meal plus some awards for their endeavors this season.

Coach Walter Burgh of the Paintsville Tigers was presented the Lifetime Achievement Award for becoming Kentucky's winningest coach. Prestonsburg coach Bill Letton was named the media's Coach of the Year and was presented a plaque.

I appreciate all the hard work and time that Rick Bentley (New-Express) and Noel Crum (Paintsville Herald) gave in helping putting the banquet together. Both are outstanding individuals and I am very thankful for their help.

TRACK WORK STARTED...

I haven't had time to get up to the Allen Central football field and take a look at the work that is going on as the new track and field facility is being put in.

Hopefully, Floyd County will have a facility they have needed for a long time and will be able to use it this spring. Maybe, now all four high schools will be able to have a county meet as well as encourage the grade schools to put together a squad.

HAVE YOU HEARD ANYTHING ABOUT IT?

Kentucky's plans to leave the SEC and move on to the ACC. Wouldn't that be something?

Until next Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports. I appreciate all the good and kind support of the past two days. All of you are special and I enjoy all of you.

Blackcats reach goal by playing in state finals

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It's a dream come true for the Prestonsburg Blackcats as they head to Louisville today to face a traditionally strong Mayfield Cardinal team that will be making their third consecutive appearance in Cardinal Stadium in Louisville. The Cardinals were unfortunate to have played Danville the past two seasons and were the victims of two of the 42 consecutive games the Admirals won over the past three seasons.

However, it will no longer be Danville versus Mayfield because the Blackcats sunk the Admirals last Friday night.

For several of the Prestonsburg players, it is a dream from their grade school days to be able to play in a state final game.

"Last Friday night was a big victory for us," said senior lineman Kyle Fitzpatrick, "but it will all be for nothing if we don't win this Friday against Mayfield. We put in four years of hard work to get where we are now, and we can't quit now."

While the Danville game was a big one for the Prestonsburg program, Richie Hall says a bigger one is on the horizon.

"It definitely was a big game for us last Friday night, but the big game is yet to come as we have the state finals this weekend," said Hall who pronounced the team ready. "We're ready for them. We're on a big high after beating Danville, but all that's in the past. We've got to put that behind us and just take it to Mayfield."

Hall sees the importance of coming home with the championship trophy but not just for reasons of pride.

"If we don't win this game, then everybody will think we're a fluke team. We're for real and everybody knows that now."

Being mentally prepared, according to Hall, is necessary.

"We have to go in with the mentality that we can't make the same mistakes we made against Danville and expect to win. The good Lord was with us on that because when you look at the film and see how many mistakes we made in that game, it just seems impossible to win. It was a great game."

Hall said that it was a great feeling to look out and see all the fans who supported the Prestonsburg team.

Center Jason Spencer feels that the Blackcats are not on the emotional high that many think they are and that the team has things in focus.

"I feel good right now," said Spencer about going to Louisville. "We've had our big win and the celebrating is over and we have to go out and work hard for Friday's game. I don't think we'll let down. I think we'll come out sharp and ready to play."

Spencer said that the win over Danville was great but it is Prestonsburg and Mayfield in the finals.

"Danville's practices are over with." Hard-hitting Ryan Elliott believes the defense will stop their game up another notch against the Cards.

"Mayfield has a pretty good offense," said the senior lineman. "Our defense is going to help a lot. I believe we will arise to the occasion just as we did last Friday."

Travel time could be a factor. The Blackcats traveled to Marshall University last Wednesday and traveled to Louisville on Thursday.

"It's going to take a lot of hard work on our part," said halfback Tody Corrette. "We've had to travel so much. There will be a lot of emotional stuff going on. We just need to stay focused and we'll win the ball game."

Corrette said the players have heard all the talk in the community about the Danville game but there was no doubt they could win. "Yeah, we heard all the talk about having to play Danville," he said. "We knew going into the Danville game that we were going to win; we just knew we were. I had a good feeling going in and a better feeling coming out."

Coming down from an emotional high was not a problem for the Blackcats, according to Greg Jones.

"We beat Danville and they were a great football team. But you don't get any trophies for that or anything. We still got the big game coming up this Friday. We're still hungry for the trophies and state rings. We're going to go after it. We need to get all over that bunch"

Late turnovers prove costly; Blackcats fall 74-69 to South Floyd

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Some late fourth quarter turnovers proved costly for the Prestonsburg Blackcats as they fell to the South Floyd Raiders 74-69 in the first round of the Floyd County Preseason Tournament Tuesday night.

South Floyd had to play with three players suspended for fighting Monday night. Starters John Hall and Chad Stone joined Sub James Patton on the sidelines to watch this one as they saw their win for the first time this season.

Four players, led by Charles Johnson's 22 points, hit double figures for the Raiders. Ryan Hamilton, who had 14 points in the first game, tossed in 18 points against the Blackcats. Chris Hamilton, 17 points in game one, scored 17 again against Prestonsburg. Alan Joe Moore was impressive with 13 points.

Ryan and Chris both came into Monday night's game after the three players were ejected.

Ryan Ortega led Prestonsburg with 20 points and Toby Robinson totaled 19. Robinson hit three three-pointers in the game.

Prestonsburg's scrappy defense started the Raiders early in the game as they roamed the lanes picking off passes and beating South Floyd to the ball. The Blackcats have shown they are willing to live or die by the three-point shot, and it was evident as they put up 33 attempts, hitting seven.

Coach Gordon Parido substituted frequently throughout the game but his team appeared to tire some in the fourth quarter.

The Blackcats held a 66-61 lead on a three-point basket by Robinson. Then fatigue seemed to appear as they turned the ball over on their next five possessions with South Floyd scoring on three of those turnovers to take a 67-66 lead.

A free throw by Robinson tied the game at 67 with 1:30 left. But a three-point play by Chris Hamilton gave the Raiders the lead for good at 70-67.

Prestonsburg cut the lead to one, 70-69, on a break-away basket by Ortega with 35 seconds left. Two free throws by Johnson gave South Floyd a 72-69 lead with 19 seconds on the clock. Ortega tried a shot in the lane but it came up short. Bo Rogers dropped in two free throws with five seconds left to preserve the victory.

Prestonsburg held a 39-33 lead at the half and Martin Newberry's three-point basket to start the third period gave the Blackcats a 42-33 lead.

It was Ryan Hamilton and Charles Johnson who took control of the game in the next three minutes on a 15-2 run that gave the Raiders a 50-46

Clay-less Lady Blackcats fall to Betsy Layne, 67-51

by Ed Taylor

Prestonsburg head coach Bridget Clay got some bad news after her team's first game of the season which came in the first round of the Floyd County Preseason Tournament. The Lady Blackcats lost their floor general Jamie Clay, who went down in the second quarter of Tuesday night's game against South Floyd.

"She will be out about 10 weeks," said Coach Clay, who is searching for some team leadership from other players. "They want to wait for two weeks and see how her knee responds to treatment before determining if surgery is necessary."

Misty Clark tossed in 16 points and Rhonda Compton had 12 as coach Bill Newsome's club opened their season on a successful note. The Lady Cats are expected to be a challenger in the 15th Region this season.

Jamie Ratcliff, who may have to take over the leadership role for Prestonsburg, led the Lady Blackcats with 18 points to take game scoring honors. Crystal Layne and Krisi Little each scored in double figures with Layne tossing in 13 and Little 12.

Betsy Layne built an early first quarter lead and never looked back as they went on top 10-4. Clark's basket started the scoring with Dee Dee Martin and Misty Johnson getting

Four score in double figures...

Raiders turn back Prestonsburg 55-50

by Ed Taylor

The South Floyd Lady Raiders posted four players in double figures and closed a come-from-behind 55-50 win over the Lady Blackcats of Prestonsburg.

The two teams met in the first round of the Floyd County Preseason Tournament that was held Tuesday night at the Prestonsburg fieldhouse.

Susan Stephens led the Lady Raiders with 14 points and Krystal Isaac added 13. Rhonda Thornberry and Staci Shepherd each scored 11 points.

Jamie Ratcliff and Crystal Layne led Prestonsburg with 10 points each. The Lady Blackcats suffered the loss of their point guard when Jamie Clay was taken after suffering an injury to her knee. Clay was hurt in the second period. She had scored three three-point baskets for nine points before leaving.

The Lady Blackcats looked sharp in the first half, taking a 29-21 lead at the half. But, South Floyd was not ready to fold and came back with a stingy defense that caused problems for Prestonsburg.

Coach Bridget Clay's ballclub had rolled out to a 10-point, 33-23, lead in early in the third period but South

Floyd went on a 10-1 run that closed the margin to one point, 34-33.

Shepherd's rebound basket got the run started for the Lady Raiders. After a free throw by Christy Little, Isaac hit a three-point. Thornberry completed a three-point play and had a rebound basket that narrowed the lead to one.

Ratcliff, on a break away, gave Prestonsburg a three-point advantage on her layup. But South Floyd scored the next four points and led 37-36 at the end of the third period.

With 4:16 left in the game, the two teams were tied at 44. Thornberry's wide-open layup gave South Floyd a two-point lead, 46-44. The Lady Blackcats then experienced some difficulty at the free-throw line as Ratcliff missed two straight bonus shots.

South Floyd took a four-point advantage on a 12-foot jumper by Isaac, but Little's three-point basket cut the back to one, 48-47.

Potter scores 18 as Bobcats win over Blackcats, 76-65

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Bobcats went on a 17-4 run in the third quarter and handed the Prestonsburg Blackcats their second defeat in the Floyd County Preseason Basketball Tournament by posting a 76-65 victory.

Chris Potter and Brian Hunter combined for 33 points to lead coach Junior Newsome's Bobcats to their first win of the young season. Betsy Layne fell earlier in the week to M.C. Napier in a regular season game.

Potter led the Bobcats with 18 points, which included two three-pointers. Hunter totaled 15 with point guard Keith Hunter scoring 12.

Toby Robinson scored 19 points to lead coach Gordon Parido's Blackcats. Robinson drilled three treys. Ryan Ortega added 18 points, including two threes.

The two ballclubs played close with Betsy Layne taking a 40-32 lead on a Potter three-pointer to start the third period. Prestonsburg got a three-point basket from Bret James and a basket by Ortega to close within three, 40-37. But the Bobcats went on a 17-4 run and vaulted out in front 57-41. Potter buried two more treys in the run and Hunter slashed through the Prestonsburg defense for six points in the quart.

Coach Newsome was pleased with the way his team played.

"I thought we did some good things," he said. "I was pleased with our execution at times. I thought at times we broke down offensively, especially against their full court press."

Coach Newsome said the reason for the breakdown against the Prestonsburg pressure was "we didn't look down the floor."

"We were dribbling in backcourt and dribbling into the trap. Once we recognized that we could throw long passes over the press, we were getting some easy baskets and were able to build a little lead."

The Blackcats are a scrappy basketball team, having to make up for their lack of height with just good hard play. The Prestonsburg defense kept Betsy Layne out of their game plan through the first half as the Bobcats were guilty of some poor shot selection.

Prestonsburg trailed early in the game as the Bobcats rolled out to a 12-5 lead in the first quarter. Potter opened the game with back-to-back baskets for a 4-0 Bobcat lead. Hamilton drilled a three-punter and after a trey by Robinson for Prestonsburg, Betsy Layne ran off five unanswered points.

J.P. Skeans hit two free throws, but James was whistled for a technical foul and Potter connected on both to put Betsy Layne up 14-7.

Prestonsburg's defense then caused the Bobcats problems out of their trap, and the Blackcats got back-to-back three-pointers from Skeans and Robinson before Ortega scored the go-ahead basket to give Heather Collins had a chance to tie the game at 51-all but missed the back end of a two-shot foul with 26 seconds remaining. A layup by Isaac off a fast break put the Lady Raiders up 53-50. Isaac earned two free throws at the end of the game for the final 55-50 count.

It was a good looking Prestonsburg team that took to the floor in the first quarter. The Lady Blackcats rolled out to a 12-2 lead on the strength of the shooting of Clay. She hit her first two three-point attempts with Rati, lifting scoring on a rebound basket and Crystal Layne hitting a short jumper off the right side.

Two baskets by Shepherd and a field goal from Stephens cut the lead to four, 14-10 before Prestonsburg led 18-12 at the first stop.

Clay hit her third trey at the start of the second period for a nine point, 21-12 lead. A 7-2 run by South Floyd cut the margin to four, 23-19. Prestonsburg scored six unanswered points to take a 29-21 lead at halftime.

South Floyd's defense cut off the passing lanes for Prestonsburg as Isaac had several steals off the man-to-man defense.

Little and Misty Price, who played a strong board game as well as on defense, had nine points, with Collins finished with six.

Crystal Newsome had four points for South Floyd and Tiffany Cumpston added two.

Prestonsburg (0-2) faces South Floyd Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. at Allen Central as the Preseason Tournament continues. South Floyd (2-1) will take on Betsy Layne on Saturday night at 6 p.m., also at Allen Central.

Finals

Jones thinks that playing on turf will benefit the Blackcats. "They say it makes you faster," he said. "It will make us faster and quicker. Dwayne, Seth and Jody will be able to run a lot faster."

Seth Hyden, tailback, echoed what others were saying in that he and his teammates are not on an emotional high and have things in perspective as the big game approaches.

"I've probably said that my beating a team like that will be a real emotional high," said the Blackcat runner. "Like Coach Letton told us, we didn't win our first game. We don't get a trophy or nothing. That was just another step toward the goal we really want to win and that's a state championship."

Hyden said that the Blackcats were just as hungry as before and are not selling Mayfield short.

"We're going to have to play another good ball game to win," said Hyden. "I'm looking forward to playing on the turf. I've never played on it before. It will be a great honor to go down there."

Brad Wells said that the team was ready, and the players were ready for things to get in front, ready for distractions.

"We're definitely ready for them," he said. "We've come this far and we're not going to let things stop us. This has been our goal all year long."

John Stout kicked two crucial points against Danville and he believes that it is going to be another barn burner.

"It's going to be a tough game," he stated. "This is the big one. This is the one we have all been looking forward to. While Danville was a big game, Mayfield will be an even bigger one for us. This is the state championship game. This is what we all dreamed about ever since playing grade school football."

"With good execution on offense plus physical and mental preparedness, we should come out victorious."

Stout said that the last few days have been the best in his life.

This has been a football team that has never lost sight of what it would take to be a winner each night out. If fans are worried about this team being on an emotional high, forget it. They have their priorities in order.

Bright bright spot for Mayfield in state finals....

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Mayfield Cardinals will be making their third consecutive trip to the final game of the Class AA state playoffs when they face -- not Danville -- but the Prestonsburg Blackcats this afternoon in a 4 p.m. kickoff at Louisville's Cardinal Stadium.

Mayfield reached the championship game by winning over Fort Knox last Friday night when sophomore Mike Bright became a one man wrecking crew by scoring four touchdowns in his team's 28-10 win.

Prestonsburg, as the whole world knows by now, knocked off defending champion Danville last Friday night 16-15 in double overtime. Prestonsburg is on a 14-game winning streak. The Cardinals are 11-3 having won their last nine games.

Coach Leahy's scouting report..

Coach Paul Leahy is in his first year at Mayfield after spending the last 22 years as an assistant to Jack Morris. Coach Leahy has certainly paid his dues and is very deserving of the head coaching job.

The Cardinals come into the playoff picture minus 17 seniors that faced Danville last year. But Coach Leahy believes that this year's group will be just as up for this one as last season's crop.

"We're excited about playing Prestonsburg," he said. "They are an excellent football team and we do have some similarities. Both teams play good defense and it should make for an interesting afternoon of football."

Coach Leahy said that his ballclub will have to find ways to avoid the play of middle linebacker Larry Morris.

"He's a solid defensive football player," said Leahy.

Leahy described Prestonsburg as a team that has all the ingredients of a good high school football team.

"They will run at you or around you," said the Cardinal coach. "They have three very capable backs and a team that can throw the football against you."

About the Cardinals...

Mayfield has been to the state finals seven of the last 11 years. Cardinal Stadium will be no stranger for the Cards and the turf will pose no problems.

Mike Bright is the team's leading rusher with 1,114 yards on 146 carries. He has averaged just over 7 yards a carry and scored 15 touchdowns rushing. Bright also has caught 18 passes for 354 yards and had four touchdown receptions.

After Bright, the individual rushing falls off with Montez Benjamin (5' 11", 165, junior) totaling 743 yards on 121 carries. Benjamin has scored seven touchdowns this year.

Russell Whaley (6' 2", 180, junior) will call the signals for the Cardinals. Whaley had completed 43 of 109 passes for 682 yards. The Cardinals do not throw the football that much depending on their backfield for the offense.

Joining Bright and Benjamin in the backfield will be senior Chad Haley (6' 0", 198) who has totaled 431 yards rushing on 107 carries.

Chris Cowger (5' 10", 165, junior) will be at the split end position with Jay Hargrove (6' 1", 170, senior) filling the tight end slot. Hargrove has had three catches this season for 55-yards and Cowger has caught two passes for 40 yards.

Jeremy Hughes will lead the Cards defense at the left tackle slot. Haley and Alonzo Daniel will be at the line-backer position.

The Cards' defense is giving up an average of 163 yards a game while averaging 266 on offense.

Mayfield brings strong tradition to finals

by Ed Taylor -Sports Editor

Regardless of the outcome this afternoon, the high school football season will come to a close and either the Prestonsburg Blackcats or Mayfield Cardinals will emerge as the new Class 2A State Champions.

Two-time state champion Danville was eliminated by Prestonsburg last Friday night in a thriller at Admiral Stadium in front of a huge crowd that was made up of several thousand Prestonsburg fans.

Both teams are similar in that both are known for their strong defensive play. Prestonsburg is the state's leading defensive team, giving up just over four points per contest. Mayfield, who is not listed in the top ten in the state on defense, is giving up just over eight points per game.

Until last Friday night's game with Fort Knox, the Cardinals have not been scored on since Reidland scored 13 points in a 41-13 loss. Mayfield posted a 28-10 win over Fort Knox last Friday night.

Prestonsburg enters this afternoon's game as one of two state teams that are undefeated. Bardstown (1A) has yet to lose. The Blackcats are 14-0 and would love to close out the season with an unblemished 15-0 record.

There are several firsts for the Prestonsburg football team as they travel to Louisville. They will be making their first state final appearance, their goal from day one of the 1993 season.

Another first for the Blackcats will be performing at Cardinal Stadium on the turf (or carpet as some of the players call it). Prestonsburg motored to Huntington, W. Va. this past Wednesday and spent some practice time at Marshall University in getting used to the turf.

The Blackcats received new turf shoes for the special game and hopes that the turf will allow them a little more speed.

Prestonsburg goes to Louisville (actually the team left yesterday) focused, realizing that they must forget the Danville win and also realize that a good Mayfield team stands between them and a state title.

Jeff Meek, WXXZ-FM, 105.5, will be airing the game from Cardinal Stadium, as will Jim Allen from station WQHY-FM, 95.5.

Bobcats

Prestonsburg a 15-14 first quarter lead.

Six straight points by Hunter in the second quarter sent the Bobcats back in front 22-19 and Betsy Layne led 37-27 on consecutive baskets by Steve Johnson and Mark Ousley. The Blackcats trailed by five at the half, 37-32 after a basket by Robinson and David Gearheart's three-pointer.

One of the good things that Coach Newsome saw from his squad was the bench play.

"We got very good play from our bench," he said. "Every player we put in off the bench contributed. That's what you look for. If you can go eight to ten players deep off the bench, that's going to help out as the season goes along. That's one of the good things I saw tonight."

"Another was that we shot the ball well. We came out, especially Chris Potter, a little tight in the first half in shooting the threes. But he settled down in the second half, taking his time and shooting the ball like he's capable of doing."

The Betsy Layne mentor said that the inside game of his big men was another area worth noting. "Our big men made some very good moves inside," he said. "We passed the ball from high post to low post and did extremely well at times. That was another good thing I saw tonight."

Coach Newsome said that his team rebounded well, "until we got a little tired."

"The last quarter when we built up our lead we started standing around. I think we got tired."

Derrick Newsome and Ousley finished with eight points each for the Blackcats. Jason Newsome scored five points and Johnson tossed in four. Freshman Rocky Newsome scored three and Barry Clark had two.

James finished with nine points for Prestonsburg. Gearheart added eight and Skeens netted seven points. Martin Newberry and Jason Burke scored two each.

Prestonsburg hit eight three-pointers in the game. Betsy Layne hit 16 of 21 free throw attempts while Prestonsburg was seven of 12.

Hunter had eight rebounds for Betsy Layne with Newsome and Hamilton getting three assists. The Bobcats turned the ball over 17 times against the Prestonsburg press.

Prestonsburg plays Allen Central at Allen Central Sunday at 4 p.m. Betsy Layne faces South Floyd tomorrow (Saturday) at Allen Central as the tournament site moves.

South Floyd

Ortega scored eight points in the run with Hamilton hitting a three and a layup.

South Floyd led 52-48 after three quarters.

Prestonsburg got off to a strong start as they blitzed the Raiders in the early going, building a 14-2 lead on three-pointers by Robinson, James and Ortega.

Seven straight points by South Floyd out the lead to five, 14-9, and Prestonsburg led 18-14 at the first stop.

Rogers had a big game on the boards for the Raiders with 14 rebounds and scoring four points. Moore pulled in nine rebounds. Matt Rose dished off five assists and Ryan Hamilton had three steals. Hamilton had four three-point baskets in the game.

Ortega had five rebounds for the Blackcats with Robinson getting four caroms.

Prestonsburg attempted 31 three-pointers and hit seven.

South Floyd (1-1) will face Betsy Layne Saturday night at Allen Central. Prestonsburg (0-1) takes on Allen Central Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. at Allen Central.
