This Town-- That World

This may be the shortest column we've ever done. It's being written on Tuesday night, and that isn't good. I ordinarily don't write this stuff till I have to, which is characteristic, and so it waits till Thursday noon or later. So you can see what I'm up against, this early in the week.

I am writing this on Tuesday night, because I plan to run out on the boys tomorrow. I am headed in the general direction of a basketball tournament. I can be foolish, even if I am of rather tender years.

Remember that "petition" thing I printed in this column last week. I had indeed, as I somehow had an idea, printed it before. Appears that I'm going to have to keep books on myself. Right now, I know several yarns about this section and some of its more colorful characters that I might write to fill this column, but I'm afraid they would be some more twice-fold tales.

President Eisenhower is giving me the silent treatment, and I'm boined up. Maybe he doesn't read The Floyd County Times. Maybe he needs to read it. Anyway, I still snipe at him every time I think of his refusal to loosen the purse-strings to get dams built in a hurry in the headwaters of this river of ours that on occasion takes a notion to make us its.

This week I am in a stew after reading a report that $18,500,000 have been appropriated for the use of a group of scientists at Brookhaven, N. J., who are making a study. Know what they are trying to learn?—What is matter? What is life?

I maintain that's money wasted. Unless they stick the article, "the," between the verb and the noun in both those questions.

LEWIS MAKES LIQUOR RAID

Whiskey, Beer Seized In Joseph Residence; Gas Station Searched

A successful liquor raid here last Friday netted 34 half-pints of whiskey and 21 cases of beer, and an unsuccessful raid resulted in the closing of an off-raided service station.

Deputy Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis named Dayton Joseph as the owner of the beer and whiskey confiscated. He said he found one case of beer in the Joseph home, four half-pints in the nearby chicken-house and 30 half-pints of whiskey and 30 cases of beer in a neighboring abandoned coal mine.

Grand jury action is planned against Joseph.

The same officer failed to find any intoxicants at the Pure Oil Service station opposite the intersection of Friend street with Lake Drive after a deputy sheriff had bought whiskey there. Later, Sheriff (See Story No. 4, Page 5)

MARTIN FIRE DAMAGE SET AT $100,000

Five Businesses Hit By Wednesday Blaze; 3 Fire Depts. Battle

A rampant blaze swept through six Martin business houses early Wednesday morning with resultant damages estimated at $75,000 to $100,000.

The five buildings were of both block and frame construction. They were the Frasure Restaurant and Gift Shop, Martin Restaurant, Beaver Auto Supply, Allen Insurance Agency, and the Smith Barber Shop.

Origin of the fire was theorized to have been in one of two places, alleged defective wiring in the Smith Barber Shop or from the coolers in the Martin Restaurant. Overheated furnaces have also been blamed.

Colin Dingus discovered the fire about 1:30 a.m. Wednesday. He said that the wall adjacent to the Smith Barber Shop was first discovered burning. When he made his escape out a window he found the flames.

Dingus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Dingus, operators of Martin Restaurant, was sleeping in the rear of the one-story frame building and was roused by smoke.

The Martin Fire Department battled the blaze for two hours before receiving aid from the Prestonsburg and Pikeville Fire Departments at approximately 3:00 a.m.

WINTER LOSES GRIP ON AREA

Schools Are Re-opened Monday; Highway Travel Back To Normal, Noted

With Spring only a few days away, Winter loosened its grip on Floyd county and Eastern Kentucky this week to the extent that traffic resumed a near-normal volume and school doors that had almost rusted on their hinges were re-opened Monday.

The schools remained closed after main highways were open because school buses travel onto rural roads which remained snow-covered or icy in shady spots.

Because of precautions taken by drivers and prompt work of State Highway Department crews traffic mishaps were rare and there was no loss of life in the county.

The full extent of damage from deep freezes and continued bad weather may not be fully known till the thaw fully develops. Already some signs of road damage are visible.

Because of a fund shortage and the belief that workmen can do little of value for roads in winter weather, only one man is now employed by the county road department, and he is doing only (See Story No. 8, Page 6)

Rural School Spelling Bees Are Scheduled

All sectional spelling bees for rural schools will be held March 22-23, it was announced this week by the office of county superintendent of schools. Eight locations were named for the bees, a preliminary to the final county bee scheduled April 9 at the Prestonsburg grade school building.

Location and date of each sectional bee will be at these schools: Antioch, Banner, Buckingham and Hunter schools, March 22; Salyers Branch, Johnson, Bonanza and Brandyke, March 23. Each bee will begin at 9 a.m., it was announced. Teachers may send one contestant to the bee held nearest their school. (See Story No. 5, Page 6)

POWER PLANT GIVEN NAME

Waterway's History Is Factor In Choice, F. M. Baker Announces

The new Kentucky Power Company electric generating installation north of Louisville will be known as the Big Sandy Plant.

Selection of the name was announced Tuesday by F. M. Baker, vice-president and general manager of Kentucky Power. It is expected that construction of the $39-million, 265,000-kilowatt power station will start about June 1, with completion scheduled for the fall of 1962.

"We have chosen the name of the river for our new plant," Mr. Baker said, "because it is a historical waterway and state boundary and because it easily and immediately pinpoints the geographical area in which it is located. Transportation-wise, the area also is well-known as the Big Sandy Division of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, which ships out coal from the famous, high-quality Elkhorn seams of Eastern Kentucky."

Mr. Baker recalled that the river originally was known as the Great Sandy, and that the Big Sandy and its tributary, the Tug Fork, were defined in 1799 as the Virginia-Kentucky boundary. Early in the 19th century, great quantities of bearskins were shipped out of the Eastern Kentucky hills via the Big Sandy and on to France, where they were turned into headpieces for Napoleon's grenadiers. The Big Sandy for many years, too, was an important logging waterway.

He also noted that the Big Sandy at one time was the home of the first movable needle-type dam built in the United States, completed in 1896 but now abandoned. It was located at the north end of Louisa.

Baker said that he expected that the new power plant will utilize cooling towers to furnish a supply of cool water for stream condensing purposes.

All design and engineering work, as well as supervision of the plant's construction, will be carried out by the American Electric Power Service Corporation, the service organization of the AEP System. The (See Story No. 7, Page 3)

PEN ESCAPEE SHOOTS TWO

Officers, Seeking Arrest, Met By Riflefire; Bailey Is Wanted In Indiana

Orville Bailey, 43, cornered and wounded by officers on Trace Fork of Licking River, took his own life with a rifle Wednesday when he was called upon to surrender.

State Police and Magoffin county officers were making a determined effort Wednesday to apprehend an Indiana prison farm escapee who shot two officers near Evanston a few minutes after 4 p.m. Tuesday.

In the Paintsville hospital are State Police Sgt. William Martin, 28, of Pikeville, and Deputy Sheriff Prock Jackson, of Magoffin county. Both are listed as in a serious condition. Sgt. Martin was shot twice, one blast from a .22 calibre automatic rifle fracturing his jaw. Another bullet struck him in the leg. Jackson was hit in the head.

Eluding custody of the nearly half a hundred officers, among whom are 30 members of the State Police is Orville Bailey, of Magoffin county, who is an escapee from Michigan City, Indiana, prison farm. Nature of the charge upon which he was an inmate of the Indiana institution was not learned.

State Police say they learned Tuesday that Bailey was in the Evanston section and Sgt. Martin and Deputy Sheriff Jackson located him in a barn. Approaching the building they were met by shots as Bailey came out. With both officers shot, the wanted man fled.

Bailey was serving a manslaughter term when he escaped the Indiana institution in July, 1958. Sgt. Martin is a native of Shelbyville, Kentucky.

DRIVE HEADS BLAME SNOW

Poor Response To Needs Of Red Cross Is Shown; Only $515 Contributed

Red Cross fund-drive leaders are blaming the weather for the poor response to date to Red Cross needs. They hope it's nothing worse. For instance, public indifference to the needs of human beings in other states or lands as well as of their own country.

As of Tuesday morning, only $515 had been reported in contributions, Miss Ella Noel White, executive secretary of Floyd Red Cross Chapter said.

Most of this amount was in special gifts. Heavy snowfall and dangerous travel conditions have held down individual solicitation to a minimum.

Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill, chairman of the current drive, and a representative has been named in every community of the county to give citizens the opportunity to help others through the Red Cross.

"If we could get only $1 for each person the Red Cross helped after the 1957 flood, we would have no worries about this drive," Miss White said this week.

Seal Campaign Begins March 21; Aids Handicapped

The 1960 Easter Seal campaign will begin Monday, March 21, and continue through Easter Sunday, April 17.

Contributions to the annual appeal by the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children helps provide a varied program of care and treatment for children crippled by many causes.

This year approximately 500,000 letters containing seals will be mailed to residents in all of Kentucky's 120 counties. In addition to the mail appeal, volunteer workers throughout the state plan to hold special events to raise funds for support of the society's program.

Bearing the inscription "Easter Seals Help Crippled Children," the 1960 seals picture a boy and girl in leg braces and crutches, bright-eyed and cheerful despite their affliction.

The children on the seals are typical of the hundreds of handicapped youngsters who have received help at the Kentucky Society's six Easter Seal facilities during the past year, according to C. H. Edwards, state Easter Seal chairman. Last year the society provided care and treatment for 3,862 children physically handicapped by accidents, birth defects or disease. (See Story No. 10, Page 3)

Floyd Man's Brother Dies In Holden Tragedy

One of the victims of the recent mine disaster at the mines of the Island Creek Coal Company at Holden, W. Va., was Roy Lee Dempsey, 59, of Verdunville, W. Va. He was a brother of Moss Dempsey, of David, and an employee of the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company. Both are natives of West Virginia.

Dempsey's body was recovered Monday with the first 12 of the 18 miners who succumbed to one of West Virginia's greatest mine tragedies.

AUTO PLAYS BIGGER ROLE

In Lives of Residents; Floyd-Co. Has 77 Cars Per 100 Households, Said

Special to The Times

New York, March 9 — The automobile is playing an ever-increasing role, year after year, in the lives of Floyd county residents.

Today, only a small percentage of local families are without cars. Some, on the other hand, have more than one.

The entire population of the county can now be car-borne at one time—using just the front seats, in fact.

According to a recent national survey on the distribution of cars among the population, it was found that the ratio, in Floyd county, reached 77 cars per 100 households as of the early part of last year.

This exceeds the proportion that prevailed locally five years earlier, when it averaged 46 cars per 100 households.

The figures come from a market study, covering the entire country, conducted by the Standard Rate and Data Service.

The growth in car ownership reflects the rise in living standards through the years. As a result, there has been an increase in passenger car registrations locally of 30.8 per cent between 1954 and 1959.

The rise topped that of the United States, 17.6 per cent and that of the East-South-Central states, 20 per cent.

The forecasters can see no immediate limit to the growth in the number of cars on the road. By 1975, they estimate, Americans will have nearly 100 million passenger cars, compared with the 57 million today.

A bigger population and better roads will account for much of this increase. Other factors are the continuing trend toward a shorter time that it produces, earlier retirement and the longer life span now possible.

The average driver, using his car for transportation and for vacation jaunts, now covers some 10,000 miles a year, states the American Automobile Association.

Floyd county drivers, with the number of cars in operation locally, travel 73 million miles in the course of a year, at that rate.

HOUSING HERE IS ENDORSED

By Businessmen, Clubs, Legionnaires, Others; Ministers Authorize Ad

The proposal to construct low-rent housing in Prestonsburg was receiving endorsement from several organizations this week. Acting favorably on resolutions this week were Floyd Post No. 129, American Legion, Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club and the local Junior Chamber of Commerce. The last two organizations held a joint meeting Monday night to consider the resolution.

Actually the Jaycees had already acted to support the low-rent housing program being promoted here. In a letter of endorsement of the project, dated March 2, that organization said that it "was an organization of young men who, if they can, plan to make their homes and livings in Prestonsburg and if the city administration and the people themselves will only take advantage of the opportunities we have, we can make it."

The Jaycees in a letter addressed to Mayor Edward B. Leslie with copies to each Councilman, said "The Jaycees take this means of relating to you and members of your Council that they are overwhelmingly in favor of the Council adopting any procedures necessary to bring about low-rent housing."

The Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club's resolution was written in a similar vein as was the local post of the American Legion. (See Story No. 10, Page 3)

HODGE NAMED TO SCOUT JOB

Prestonsburg Man To Serve Council-wide In Liaison Capacity

JACK HODGE

Jack Hodge, of Prestonsburg, who was formerly a district executive in the Lonesome Pine and Old Kentucky Home Councils, returned to the Lonesome Pine Council, Feb. 16.

Mr. Hodge will work over the entire Council in a liaison capacity between the Scout executive and the various districts of the 15-county area, it was announced recently by the Scout Executive Byron F. Pennebaker.

Hodge, a native of Exeter, Wise county, Va., was graduated from Berea Academy and Berea College, had 3½ years with the Navy in the European Theatre during World War II, is married, has two sons, and is a member of the Methodist Church.

Other members of the professional staff, in addition to Hodge and the Scout Executive Pennebaker, include Sam Rex McCoy, of Pikeville, Edwin Holliday, of Hazard, C. O. Williams, of Prestonsburg, and Clifford Judd, of Wise. Each county of the Council now has the services of fulltime professional help.

Also on the staff is Thomas Endicott, who is the camp ranger, living with his family at Camp Shawnee, the Council camp on Dewey Lake.

"Two women work in the Council office at Pikeville: Mrs. Gloria Bartley, office manager, bookkeeper and secretary to the Scout executive, and Miss Josephine Bennett, registrar.

Walter P. Walters, of Pikeville, heads the more than 1300 volunteer Scouters as Council president.

RANGER NOTES FOREST FIRES

Burchett Says Blazes Number 170 Last Spring; Penalties Are Cited

Forrest Burchett, ranger for the Floyd-Magoffin unit, announced this week that 170 forest fires burned in Floyd county during the 1959 spring fire season.

He said that 4,596 acres of forest land were burned, causing a loss of $23,015 to the timberland owners of Floyd county.

The cost to taxpayers of this county of extinguishing these blazes was $3,232.88. In addition to damage to forests, there was a great loss of fertility to the soil, he added.

Mr. Burchett said most of these fires were caused by careless brush and weed burners. Other fires caused by campers, smokers and incendiaries.

Burchett reminded the public that Kentucky statutes provide fires may not be set near woodlands or brushlands, except from 4:30 p.m. until midnight, during the months of March, April, May, November and December. He also said that it is a violation for any person carelessly or negligently to start a forest fire. Statutes provide for fines up to $100 and six months in jail for violators. In addition to a fine or jail sentence the person responsible for starting a forest fire is also liable to the state for the cost of putting out the fire. Any person who willfully, intentionally or maliciously sets fire to any woods or field shall be fined up to $1,000 or confined in the penitentiary up to two years or both.

Burchett said that these statutes will be strictly enforced and forest fire violators prosecuted during the spring fire season. He will be assisted this year by William Lee Roberts, special law enforcement officer, Division of Forestry.

Mrs. Hall Is Speaker At Professional Club

Mrs. Ann B. Hall, of Bypro, associate commissioner of revenue, was the guest speaker March 7 meeting of the Frankfort Business and Professional Women's Club. She spoke on "Career Advancement."

Mrs. Hall was a member of the 1958 General Assembly and is the only woman ever to be elected to state office from Floyd county.

She is now serving as associate commissioner of revenue and as a member of the Kentucky State Tax Commission, the only woman to serve in this capacity for the state of Kentucky.

She is listed in 1960 edition of Who's Who of Women in America.

PICKS STUMBO AS ASSISTANT

County Attorney Wellman Names Allen Successor; Was Former Sheriff Aid

Harold J. Stumbo, Prestonsburg attorney, was named assistant to County Attorney Robert S. Wellman, effective March 1, to succeed Jarvis Allen who resigned about four months ago.

Mr. Stumbo has been chief office clerk for Sheriff Hershel Warrens for the last year. His successor in the Sheriff's office has not been named.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Stumbo, of Minnie, the assistant county attorney, was graduated from the University of Louisville Law School in the summer of 1957 and soon thereafter was admitted to the bar. He has since that time resided here.

TWO MURDER CASES SET

For Trial In April; Desertion Leads List Of Charges Docketed

A total of 202 cases have been docketed for trial at the Spring term of the Floyd circuit court which will convene Monday, April 4.

In two of these cases Floyd men are charged with murder. Trial of Bennie Blackburn, accused of the slaying near here of Bill Buck Baker, is docketed for April 19; that of Lewis Hall, who was indicted earlier in the slaying of his son-in-law, two days later.

Forty-two cases are listed for the first day of court but many of these are not officially "before the court," because defendants have not been located.

Child desertions, which number 69, continue to be most numerous on the docket. There are 18 liquor cases set for trial; 36 involving robbery, breaking and entering, grand larceny or knowingly receiving stolen property; 7 for shooting and wounding or striking and wounding, and 3 for carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

Added to these cases will be some others set for trial from the new indictments made by the grand jury at the term.

HOUSING VOTE IS SCHEDULED AS PLEBISCITE

Leslie, 4 Councilmen Approve Submission To Residents, Monday

Citizens of Prestonsburg will go to vote next Monday in the most unusual "election" ever staged here. They will by their votes express their sentiments for or against low-rent public housing.

Although the results of the poll will have no official status, the election is being held on the initiative of Mayor Edward B. Leslie and four members of the Council after other Council members had postponed taking a stand for or against the housing program until a popular vote of the people was held.

Mayor Leslie and Councilmen Tom O. McGuire, Watt Hale, Theodore Fannin and Brad Boyd joined in calling the poll, insisting that the order for the poll, insisting that the question of zoning and city planning also should be submitted on the same ballot.

(Zoning and planning ordinances already have been adopted by the Council members whose terms expired last January 1.)

The election will be held at the Municipal building on First avenue, beginning at 7 a.m. and closing at 6 p.m.

The question to be submitted is: "Are you in favor of Low-Rent Public Housing in Prestonsburg, Ky?"

The question will be followed by a "Yes" square and a "No" square for the convenience of the voters.

Every registered voter in Prestonsburg is entitled to a ballot.

Mayor Leslie and Council members who are outspoken in their support of low-rent public housing emphasized that every precaution will be taken to conduct a fair and impartial poll of the voters' sentiment. Tabulation of the returns will be made by Council members.

The Council will convene at 7 p.m. Monday.

Members of the Council who have deferred approval of the Housing Commission appointed by Mayor Leslie as a body necessary to carry out the housing program have insisted they are not opposing the program but, claiming they made a successful campaign last fall on a platform opposing urban renewal and other federal-aid projects, have insisted a vote of the people should be taken before they vote their approval of the Commission.

A bill was introduced in the General Assembly to permit a vote on low-rent public housing, but the legislation apparently has died in committee. Supporters of the program contend that to wait till November to hold such an election would, because of the time element involved, automatically defeat the housing program in Prestonsburg.

It is estimated that a low-rent housing development here would mean the spending of a million dollars for construction of homes, street improvements and property acquisition, besides supplying low-income families with modern living quarters at low cost. The investment in low-rent public housing does not obligate the city of Prestonsburg or the taxpayers here, it is emphasized.

SPECIAL SESSION MAY BE UNNECESSARY, SAID

Although he did not rule on the possibility of a special session of the General Assembly to consider further action on Kentucky education, Governor Combs said Saturday that such a session may not be necessary.

The House Investigating Committee on Education, in a sharply worded and highly controversial report, last week suggested an extra session. KEA president Sparks' comment that the report, which assailed "soft" education and many administrative policies, was influenced by the presence of three Catholics on the committee, drew the fire of the House. It adopted a resolution Monday night, assailing Sparks' statement as "religious prejudice and bigotry." The other four members of the committee which wrote the report are Protestants.

The investigating committee, which is headed by Representative Caudill, of Whitesburg, stirred up a hornet's nest of comment, pro and con, with its report, principal features of which are published elsewhere in this edition of The Times.

The report took sharp issue with what is called "soft" education and politics in the schools.

Governor Combs said he had not at that time read the full report and added, "I don't think it would be fair for me to make any hasty statement on the subject before reading all of the report."

But Combs said he would not characterize as "wild" the reactions of educators and officials to the report.

"Certainly it was mixed," he said. "However, any time you get into a subject that is close to the hearts of the people, you will get this type of reaction."

Dr. Frank G. Dickey, president of the University of Kentucky, was the latest of several educators to take exception to the committee report.

He said "the accusation in the report that this institution and others has promoted the 'soft' education" idea is an inaccurate fact."

And Dickey wondered where the committee got its information concerning U. K. (See Story No. 9, Page 6)

CONFIDENCE GETS BUSINESS--SATISFACTION KEEPS IT

SPORTS CHATTER

By GORDON MOORE

Despite inclement weather, postponed action, and the awarding of a huge number of free passes, the 15th regional basketball tournament in Prestonsburg over the past week-end was still a financial success for the competing teams.

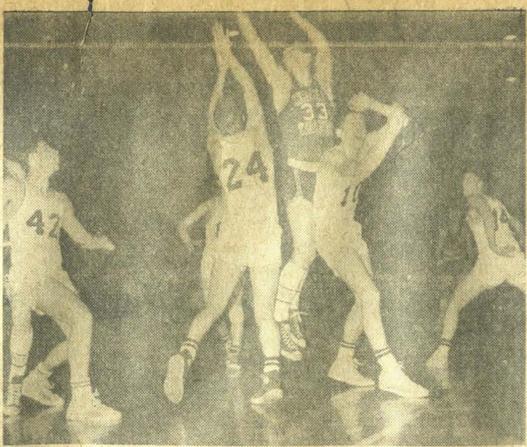

The total gross receipts ran in the neighborhood of $6,300, which is about $1,000 less than last year when adverse conditions were not present.

All of which goes to prove that an Eastern Kentucky basketball fan will risk his or her life to see a favorite team in action while under the same hazardous driving conditions attempting to get to work (or church.—Ed.) over the same roads would be impossible.

Ratcliff who flipped in 66 in three games.

Several college coaches viewed different sessions of the tournament, with Transylvania coach C. M. Newton having the best view, since he was one of the officials. Bobby Laughlin, Morehead State College, was especially interested in Pikeville's Don Ratcliff. Pikeville College mentor Paul Butcher has hopes of landing Meade's Paul Setser, a youth he coached four years ago at the Williamsport school.

St. Louis University sent its freshman coach to view the play of Wheelwright's Bobby Vicars, and Eastern and Marshall had representatives on hand.

A sample of the play that paced Meade Memorial to their 64-56 win over Wheelwright in the regional tournament is shown by Photographer Stuart Stephens of The Times. Here Bobby Vicars (33), leaping between Meade players and shooting, scores two points. Vicars is surrounded by Russell Ward (42), Larry Sturgill (24), Wilbur Preston (10), and David Ward (14).

MEADE DEFEATS PIKEVILLE, 67-66, IN REGIONAL FINAL

Meade Memorial, a rural consolidated high school in the eastern section of Johnson county, will be making its second trip to the state high school basketball tournament in three years.

The small, uncanny-shooting Red Devils made their first trip as one of the "Sweet Sixteen" in 1958, and they lost out in the first round to Lexington Dunbar. Last season they dropped a 72-65 regional final decision to Pikeville, the team they downed 67-66 Saturday night for the coveted 15th regional title.

Thus, in three years under the tutelage of Howard Wendell Wallen, a Pikeville College graduate, the Red Devils have advanced to the finals of the regional tournament. Over-all, Wallen's teams have a three-year record of 86-13.

Three players, Russell and David Ward and Paul Setser, are three-year veterans and saw action in the 1958 state tournament in Lexington.

Setser, a 6-2 senior center, is the squad's tallest member and is counted on for the majority of rebounds. He sports a 28.7 season average in pacing the Red Devils to an over-all 28-7 record.

Senior forward Russell Ward is a 5-11 left-hander whose speciality is a jumping one-hander from outside. He connected for a 53 shooting percentage of his shots during the season in averaging 28.9 per game.

Senior guard David Ward is the team's playmaker and leader. At 5-9 and 135 pounds, he is the smallest starter, and is tabbed as the team's defensive ace.

Rounding out the starting five are juniors Wilbur Preston, 5-9 forward, and Larry Sturgill, 5-9 guard. Both are excellent ball-handlers and good shots from outside.

Meade relies mainly on good shooting from the floor excellent ball handling and speed. What they relish in height is made up in hustle.

On occasion Meade will go into an "all-court press," which they used to good advantage in nipping Pikeville by a one-point margin last Saturday night before the largest crowd in the history of Prestonsburg's fieldhouse.

Meade jumped into a first period 18-13 lead as Pikeville lost the ball on floor errors; however, the Panthers mustered their forces in the second quarter to knot the count at 30-all at the half.

Bobby Venters and Don Ratcliff accounted for eight points in the third quarter to give Pikeville a 3-point advantage, their longest of the game, before Paul Setser hit two fielders and two foul shots to put Meade back in front 40-38.

In the hectic final quarter, the lead changed hands four times before Meade went ahead to stay at 65-64 with three seconds left on the clock. Larry Sturgill calmly sank two charity tosses to ice the fray, but the Panthers still made a game effort to tie as they called time out to receive the ball at mid-court when play resumed and two seconds left. Center Don Ratcliff dropped in a final two-pointer as Meade headed for the bench and the cherished victory.

Setser's 33 points, 23 in the last half, was high for the game and his rebounding and defensive play was one of the greatest exhibitions ever staged in a regional tournament final game.

AROUND FLOYD COUNTY

By Quentin Allen

WALLEN'S WONDEROUS WIZARDS

The local Legionnaires noted that the housing project would bring about the expenditure of $1,000,000 here by the federal government and that many veterans would benefit from the program. The City Council was urged "to take prompt and favorable action to obtain the low-rent housing project as a humanitarian act as well as a forward and progressive step toward a better and more prosperous city of Prestonsburg."

Three Prestonsburg ministers, Revs. Harold Dorsey, Ira McMillen and Harold Dicks, added their support to the growing chorus of those approving the housing project. In an advertisement in The Times this week they give seven reasons why they think the program is worthy of consideration. Many Prestonsburg businessmen endorsed the project this week in a signed advertisement.

Coach Wendell Wallen was the "coaching's man filter" as he positioned his players so expertly that they found screens and plays leading into glaring Pikeville weaknesses.

For Pikeville it seemed like another night for the John Bill Trivette five. Pikeville seemed tired, uninspired, or too nervous, or too unpoised for the final push to the big tournament. At times they appeared confused by the hot-shooting, slick ball-handling Meade five.

Meade, who made life miserable for Wheelwright the preceding night, started the game with a burst of energy and points. Before Pikeville could say "Paul Setser" they were behind 18-13 the first period. Between the opening buzzer and the first quarter ending signal, Pikeville had managed to mismanage the ball at least five times. The half ended with the count at 30-30.

It was Don Ratcliff, the Panther 1960 ace, who paced a comeback in the early stages of the third quarter. Now was the time to wrap the game up and take it back to Pikeville.

Meade, however, as bothered as a bookie receiving a five dollar bet, nervously gained lost ground until they were in the lead. Here they stayed on top except in instances of extremely short duration.

The old saying about the man who lives by the sword dies by the sword may be true. Pikeville, who has lived by the "press defense," died by it. Meade put on an exhibition that would have made the best Pikeville Panther pressers proud of them.

Wheelwright faced the same devastating crowd the night before when their zone defense invited a gruesome murder of Trojan hopes to make the state tournament.

The shorter Meade team, whose biggest man stands 6'2", performed strange miracles in their sound fundamental game. They outtumbled, outran, outdrilled, outshot, outdid opponents. It was a case of five men seeming like ten.

PRESTONSBURG MINISTERS SPEAK ABOUT LOW-RENT HOUSING As ministers of churches in the City of Prestonsburg, we are interested in the welfare of all of our people, therefore, we want to bring to your attention some facts concerning low-rent housing:

1. The main reason we are for this project is that it helps people and people were our Lord's concern and therefore, ours as His ministers.
2. Low-rent housing will be provided for qualified disabled veterans, widows, beneficiaries of social security and young couples who are just starting their married life.
3. The project will increase the population of the community and thereby provide additional business income.
4. The project will show people outside of Prestonsburg that ours is a progressive community and thereby cause them to look with favor on bringing industry into our area.
5. The low rent housing development will be paid for by the Federal Housing Commission which will purchase the land and erect the forty units of housing.
6. Ten per cent of the net income from the housing project will be paid to the City of Prestonsburg in lieu of taxes which would normally be paid to the city by private developers of the property.
7. The proposed low rent housing project has nothing to do with the urban renewal project which has already been defeated.

We urge you as citizens and eligible voters in the City of Prestonsburg to go to the polls at the Municipal Building Monday, March 21, between the hours of 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. and vote for the best interest of humanity and our city.

Lady Is Free of Rheumatic Pain

One lady told us she had rheumatic pain so bad she had to walk with a cane most of the time. The joints of her knees and ankles were stiff and sore. Recently she got RUGON and says the pains began to go within a few hours, and now after one week the pain is gone entirely.

RUGON is helping so many victims of rheumatism and neuritis because this New Liquid Formula contains Three Wonderful Ingredients. Not a tablet or capsule. RUGON goes to the very source of pain almost at once and costs but a few cents a day to take. So don't go on suffering. Get RUGON at W. A. Rose Drug Co.

Some trouble was encountered by Keathley in contacting the Prestonsburg Fire Department since the Prestonsburg Fire Department's phone was busy at the time of his call. Keathley drove his car on to Prestonsburg and secured the aid of the Prestonsburg squad. The Prestonsburg squad arrived at the scene of the fire five minutes prior to the arrival of the Pikeville squad.

The buildings consumed by the fire were owned by Mrs. W. D. Osborne and Hazel Adams.

Wednesday morning found the telephone company making extensive repairs on the lines and only emergency calls were accepted into or out of Martin. Over $100 in nickels were lost in the fire. Some were retrieved by Martin children working through the rubbish of the fires. Most of the money was melted.

Windows of adjacent buildings were cracked and the back portion of Jewell Hardware, located beside the Beaver Auto Supply, was burned but only superficially.

WHEELWRIGHT

The Girl Scouts of Wheelwright began their observance of Girl Scout Week on Sunday, March 6.

To start the week's activities, the girls attended the church of their choice. On Monday, the girls were guests of the Beaver Valley Kiwanis Club and presented an interesting program on Girl Scouting. Mrs. Carl Johnson and Mrs. Sara McQueen were in charge. Two girls from each troop participated in the program. The girls showed some of the work they had been doing this year and two of them gave brief talks on Juliette Low, the founder of scouting.

At this meeting, the Beaver Valley Kiwanis Club presented statuettes to 850 clubmembers, people who donated $50 to the Girl Scouts. These were George Leatherman and Minor Pace. They also presented attractive paperweights to the following: Arthur Bradbury, Steve Clark, E. F. Reed, H. O. Zimmerman and Mrs. Helen Pace.

The Girl Scout neighborhood meeting was also held on Monday night with Mrs. Hunter Thomas presiding. Posters and displays, which were to be in the Dry Goods Store window during Girl Scout Week, were discussed.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Hunter Thomas, Mrs. Arthur Bradbury, Mrs. Sara McQueen, Mrs. Steve Benedict, Mrs. Bob Grimm, Mrs. Stanley Logan, Mrs. Raymond Gibson, Mrs. H. M. Wilkinson, Jr., Mrs. Harrison Sparks, Miss Joan Osborne and Mrs. Carl Johnson.

"If the investigating committee made any move whatsoever during the preparation of its report to secure information or to interview anyone from the administration of the university, we were not made aware of it," he said.

Republican Representative Marlow Cook, Louisville, vice-chairman of the investigating committee, said he thought a possible shake-up in the top levels of the Kentucky Education Association could come as a result of the report.

A bill now pending in the Legislature calls for the Governor to appoint a nine-man committee to continue the school-system study. Cook said that if Combs would appoint "men who are uninfluenced by political educators, the school reform may well be on its way."

Governor Combs noted that in touring the state "during the past two years, I have not found any lack of confidence in the school system or in those administering it."

"The end result of this would be that the political educators will not have the dominating control that presently exists within that organization," he said.

And Cook had some words for those who expressed fear of the committee's report.

"I think they should have saved their comment until such time as they had an opportunity to read the report through to its end. It is also apparent to me that many of the teachers in the state are not aware of the function of the executives of the K. E. A. and their lobbying influences in Frankfort."

He added that the report was largely concerned with rural school districts as opposed to what he called "monopolistic" school districts such as Louisville's.

iff Hershell Warrens and County Attorney Robert S. Wellman went there to take photographs preparatory to instituting action to close the place as a public nuisance. Wellman said James George voluntarily closed the place. He quoted George as saying that Sam Adkins had a lease on the property.

Deputy Sheriff Lewis said the service station shelves were well-stocked with oil cans and innertube boxes, presenting the guise of a legitimate business. Investigation revealed, however, all or most of the cans and boxes were empty.

(An Editorial — No. 1 in a Series)

LOW-RENT PUBLIC HOUSING is Prestonsburg's opportunity. It is an opportunity to share to the extent of approximately $1,000,000 in federal government funds without any financial obligation on the part of the city or its taxpayers; to bring to Prestonsburg much-needed employment; and, what is more important, an opportunity to extend to the less fortunate the helping hand that they so sorely need—the helping hand that we as a Christian community need to exercise more than we have in the past.

Let us be done with partisan politics, prejudices and "little" things that help nobody and are harmful to us all.

Please, let us not, like Cain, callously ask, "Am I my brother's keeper?"

"Teachers are requested to teach instead of accompanying pupils to sectional bees since teachers accompanying pupils may not be paid for the time spent at the bee," the superintendent's office announced.

The Louisville Courier-Journal has discontinued its sponsorship of the bees and each contestant will be designated to spell in the Huntington Herald-Dispatch contest. Text used will be My Word Book and this will also be used in the final at Prestonsburg.

"No transportation will be provided by the Floyd County Board of Education," it was noted, "but participants will be at liberty to make use of school buses if the schedule of the bus is to the convenience of the pupil."

All rural teachers were notified of the sectional spelling bees by letter from the superintendent's office this week.

The Floyd county champion and runner-up will go to Huntington in the early summer to compete in the regional finals.

thusiasm and time are needed to assure the success of the project.

The project is based upon the idea that basketball will be cheaper to finance than baseball or softball. It was first thought that an outdoor asphalt court would suffice.

Bill Goebel, Jr., mentor of the Prestonsburg basketball team, has backed the project. He has said that it is possible that the gymnasium may be available for a summer basketball league.

Ideally, the league would consist of boys in all age groups. This would insure the idea that it would be a league for participation, not the passive sitting spectator bit.

Whether or not, this would actively combat juvenile delinquency has not been a pre-thought purpose of the project. It is first to furnish a decent means of recreation, a facility most lacking in Prestonsburg.

Place for the meeting will be the Floyd County Times and the time will be March 24, 6:30 p.m. Your enthusiasm, co-operation, and participation is eagerly sought.

BETSY LAYNE PROSPECTS
Things ain't at all dark in Betsy Layne-land, according to effervescent coach Tommy Boyd.

Prospects for the future include a potentially better ballplayer than Ray Clark, sez Tommy, listing Ray Boyd, 6'4", as the lad of precocious round-ball ability. Two other boys to gladden a coach's heart are Blake McKinney, 6'1" forward, and Junior Newsome, 5'9" guard.

MORE . . . BASKETBALL!
Basketball isn't dead, yet.

An exciting tournament will feature some future basketball stalwarts now gracing the rosters of the church leagues.

The Church League Basketball Tournament is slated to start Tuesday, March 22 and last until Friday, March 25.

Two groups will participate in the tournament, the Intermediates and the Seniors.

emergency work such as removing slides.

But heavy snow kept state highway crews busier than usual. They worked nights on occasion to clear main routes.

County Judge Henry Stumbo was highly complimentary this week of the work done by state road workers. "The State Highway Department crews," he said, "have done an excellent job in keeping Floyd county highways open during the heavy February and March snows. In fact, I have never seen the Highway Department at any previous time meet a similar situation as well."

Judge Stumbo added: "As a result of this work, much of it done at night while most of us slept, most rural roads were scraped, the main roads were kept open, and there hasn't been a serious accident in the county."

Baumholder, Germany — Army Pvt. Donald R. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Moore, of Price, Ky., recently participated in Germany in an infantry-armor orientation designed to familiarize infantry units with the characteristics of armored vehicles.

The course included instruction in armor tactics as well as in the proper use of armor vehicle equipment.

Moore, a tank crewman in Company E of the 8th Infantry Division's 68th Armor in Baumholder, entered the Army in May, 1955, and arrived overseas the following September. He received basic combat training at Fort Knox, Ky.

The 19-year-old soldier attended McDowell high school.

4-H Club Work Reviewed Here; Statistics Noted

A quart of milk for every person in Kentucky! That's how much was produced in the 4-H Club dairy project in Kentucky last year if just half the 4-H'ers animals were mature cows averaging only 4,000 pounds of milk annually.

Corn—2,084 acres; vegetables—1,084 acres; 2,722 beef animals—does this sound like a Texan telling about his farm? It's really part of the total production of Kentucky's 4-H Club projects in 1959.

The figure, "almost 37 tons" doesn't describe someone's hay crop; that's the amount of food preserved by Kentucky 4-H girls in their frozen food projects last year—73,366 pounds. And 1,134 rooms may sound like a huge, new motel, but rather it's the total number of rooms redecorated by the state's 4-H members in room improvement in the past year.

This week, the 80,208 boys and girls enrolled in 2,279 local 4-H Clubs throughout Kentucky are being honored as the 2 1/4 million 4-H'ers in all 50 states and Puerto Rico observe National 4-H Club Week, March 5-12. Floyd county joins the nation in saluting these members of the nation's largest youth organization — especially the 1,281 members of the 39 4-H Clubs in the county.

Adult volunteer leaders and Extension county agricultural and home demonstration agents, who act as advisers to 4-H groups, share the spotlight with the 4-H Club members this week. In Kentucky, 4-H work is sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service; but the 4-H members themselves carry on their club's business and plan the activities for their local clubs with the help of their leaders and Extension workers. Older 4-H Club members also serve as junior leaders, helping younger members with their project work. (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

FLORIDA CONGREGATION IS TOLD PIKEVILLE COLLEGE NEEDS, AIMS

Vero Beach church which "stops traffic"

By HENRY ARROWOOD

Vero Beach, Fla. — Dr. A. A. Page, president of Pikeville College, Pikeville, Ky., preached recently to the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church here, and those hearing him seemed uncertain whether those initials, "A. A.," represent his first name or his grade. But there was no doubt in the minds of his hearers that Dr. Page is top quality.

Just about every person in the audience crowded around afterward to greet Dr. Page and compliment him on his talk. Kentuckians present, including this writer, were gratified by the reverence he holds for his people of the mountains and his deep interest in education of the youth of that area.

It was the second time in less than two years that Dr. Page has occupied the pulpit of the Vero Beach Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Harold S. Faust, pastor, invited a return visit because of the sincere interest the congregation here had shown in Pikeville College and its president.

The youth of the Kentucky mountains have a driving desire for better education, Dr. Page said, and the people of the area have given generously to support the college. And a sturdy arm of support has been the Presbyterian Church.

Pikeville College is now in the process of raising funds to meet immediate plans for expansion of its limited facilities. "A 10-year plan of development—the plan to build a greater Pikeville College," is outlined in a 16-page booklet which Dr. Page furnished to members of his congregation here.

As set forth in the booklet there were almost 1,000 students using the college facilities during 1958-59. Although designed to handle a maximum of 400 students, the regular enrollment for that period totaled 500, and special students brought the number to nearly 1,000.

The school is forced to turn many applicants away for lack of room, yet no student who earnestly desires a college education and who meets its scholastic requirements ever has been turned away by Pikeville College because the student lacked funds, Dr. Page said.

With no other four-year college within 100 miles of Pikeville, 13,000 students are graduated from high school each year in this area. Of this number about 3,800 enter some college, but more than 9,000 young people each year fail to continue their education.

Since Pikeville College opened its doors in 1889 it has had to struggle to continue. But the people have given time and funds so that new opportunities, through better education, have been given to thousands.

DR. A. A. PAGE
Pikeville College President

Total immediate needs of Pikeville College for such items as men's and women's dormitory buildings, enlargement of library facilities, expansion of science department, completion of Chapel, etc., amount to $1,200,000. Additional needs over the next ten years will be $3,450,000.

Work is now being organized in Kentucky synods, presbyteries and local churches, and wide-spread support is being sought from people in all churches and from business and professional people all over Kentucky. Further support will come from individuals, business organizations, groups and foundations throughout the nation.

The Presbyterian Church where Dr. Page preached in Vero Beach has been pictured and written about in newspapers and magazines that circulate all over the world. LIFE Magazine ran a picture and article featuring this church building.

The site where the building is located was praised by Harold S. Wagoner, Philadelphia, Pa., architect, who designed the edifice, as the most beautiful natural setting of any of the church buildings he had designed in more than half of the states of the nation.

As may be seen in the picture accompanying this article, large royal palm trees add beauty to the natural tropical setting. In the background of the church is a dense growth of forestation that must have been here long before Columbus was born. The streets on each side of the church are lined with royal palms.

It is easy to understand why it is said that this is the most photographed church in America. It has also been called the church that "stops traffic." Tourists driving along, when they come unexpectedly upon this scene, often bring their cars to a brake-screaming halt for a better look. Their next move will be to get out their cameras to make pictures.

In 1956, a year after it was completed, this church was awarded first place by the American Council of Church Architects for its beauty. Cost of the structure and the three-acre site on which it is located was around $200,000. Located only a few hundred yards away from world-famous Indian River (which parallels the Atlantic coast), the church is little more than a mile from the Atlantic Ocean.

A Christian standing with back toward the ocean at a time when clouds in the heavens form a crimson and gold sunset, would need little imagination to visualize this as truly the gateway to paradise!

White Has 1,000 Hues Say Color Experts

New York—What color is white? You might think white is white and black is black, but not if you visited an exhibit that was part of the "Paper Week" displays at the convention of the American Paper & Pulp Association.

The exhibit includes more than 200 distinct tones and shades of white paper.

William Boyle, of a chemical company said color experts identify over 1,000 distinguishing shades of white—more than any other color.

AUTHOR JONES WRITES

Virgil Carrington Jones, author of "The Hatfields and McCoys," published a few years ago, writes from the Washington office of the Curtis Publishing Company.

"I do not plan to do anything more on the feud immediately but I am still collecting material concerning it. Later, I plan to turn this over to some depository, perhaps the Library of Congress, for safe keeping. During the years since my book was published, I have been in correspondence with several people closely connected with the feud, and some of these supplied me with data I consider of importance.

"I would be interested in having the articles you wrote. These I would like to read for my own enjoyment, as well as to add them to the collection. Of all the books I have written, I enjoyed working on the Hatfield-McCoy story more than any other."

DAVIDSON FAMILY

Prof. Loren D. Davidson, 895 West Grant Street, Baton Rouge 2, La., writes again relative to the Davidson family.

"I own a copy of the Perry County History compiled by the Hazard Chapter, D.A.R., and have studied the Davidson family sketch presented therein with much interest. . . I was thinking perhaps you might like to have for your files a correction or two which we have been able to establish with respect to this Davidson article appearing on page 216 of the Perry history book.

"The Daniel Davidson who married Sarah Duff was a full brother to my own grandfather Robert Davidson and because this close family connection we are able to offer some facts regarding Daniel Davidson, who was definitely born in Clay county, Ky., between the years 1814-1820. (The 1850 through 1880 censuses of Perry county give his birthyear variously from 1814 to 1820.) Daniel was a son of my great-grandparents Samuel Davidson, born 1780 in Virginia, and his wife, Elizabeth Callahan, b. around 1783 in Washington county, Va. Daniel Davidson was married on the 25th of Oct., 1840, in Perry county, Ky., to Sarah Duff, who was born 11 Oct., 1823, in Perry county. Daniel Davidson was still living in 1880 as the census for that year shows.

"Here are the birthdates for some of their eleven children: John A. Davidson, b. about 1841 on Grapevine Creek in Perry county (the birthplace of all eleven); Arminia, b. about 1843; Nancy, b. about 1846; Shadrack H. (Shade) Davidson, b. 14 March, 1853. He removed to Andrew county, Missouri, from Perry county in 1871 and married his first cousin, Lillia Jane Davidson who was born in 1854 in Andrew county, Mo.—a daughter of Robert and Elizabeth Wilson Davidson Shade and his cousin, Lillia Jane Davidson were wed 18 July, 1874, in Holt county, Mo. Shadrack died 8 Jan., 1917, in Fillmore, Andrew county.

"To continue the children of Daniel and Sarah Duff Davidson: Elijah Combs Davidson, b. about 1855; Robert, b. about 1856; Daniel, (Dock) Davidson, b. about 1858 (called Dock because he was the seventh child); and Henry, Dulcie, Mahala, and Eleanor (died young) who were all born after 1860.

"These eleven children were all great grandchildren of Rev. Daniel Duff, pioneer Baptist minister of Eastern Kentucky; and were also great grandchildren of General Elijah Combs, the prominent pioneer and leading citizen of early Perry county, Kentucky.

"Daniel Davidson who wed Sally Duff (a son of Samuel and Eliz. Callahan Davidson) was a grandson of the old Daniel Davidson who was born around 1753 and who pioneered into Clay county, Ky., from Scott county, Virginia in 1800. This old Daniel with wife (who?) and children settled on the North Fork of the Kentucky River. I am urgently seeking the exact birthplace of this old Daniel, his parentage, and the name of his wife. This couple were my great, great grandparents.

"In 1958 I corresponded with Mrs. Everett Sowards, of Prestonsburg. Through her generosity and interest I received a great deal of data on her own Davidson line. Many of the Floyd county Davidsons descended from John Davidson, born about 1725 who married Martha Draper and lived in Augusta county, Va. They emigrated to what is now Mercer county, West Virginia, before 1777 and became the ancestors of the Tazewell county, Va., Davidsons, John and Martha Draper Davidson had a son Joseph Davidson who married Matilda Patton in 1789. Their son Samuel Patton Davidson, b. 1800 in Va., married in 1823, Judith Morgan Lackey, in Floyd county, Ky.

"Mrs. Sowards told me that her forefather John Davidson, b. ca 1725 who wed Martha Draper, was a brother to a certain James Davidson who had a land grant in Washington county, Va., and became the ancestor of the Davidsons of Scott and Washington counties, Virginia. This old James Davidson of Scott county, Va., may be the father of my early Daniel Davidson who was born ca 1753 and who came into Clay county, Ky., in 1800.

"I am sorry I misinformed you regarding the wife of Jonathan Wilson. She was not Sarah Combs but Sarah Cobb (so says family tradition).

"Since so many Davidsons of Clay, Breathitt and Perry counties descended from my old Daniel's son, John Davidson, b. about 1777—I am anxious to find the name of John's wife. He was married about 1799. To whom? This John and wife settled in Clay county in 1800; and had the following among their children: Tyre (Tye, Tyra) Davidson, b. ca 1800, wed Sarah Morris; Samuel, b. ca 1802, wed Susannah Dent; Martin, b. 1804, wed Susannah Spurlock; Daniel, b. ca 1808, wed Isabella McCollum; Tabitha, b. ca 1815, wed Reuben Baker."

Professor Davidson's contribution to this column is appreciated and persons who may aid in the work of answering the several questions he poses will find an excellent opportunity to exchange information.

KILLERS OF CHILDREN

Diphtheria . . . mastoiditis . . . scarlet fever . . . pneumonia! These were some of the big diseases — the big killers of children — a quarter-century ago. But today, we rarely hear of anyone dying from one of these diseases. The explanation? These diseases have been conquered by new drugs — drugs that were unknown 25 years ago — but are now found in every drug store.

DURAN MOORE, Clerk Floyd County Court

Former Abbott Man Reminisces That Floyd "Hell Hole" County In 1930's; Indignation Expressed

A delegation of irate citizens from Abbott Creek walked into The Times office last week, waving a clipping from an Ohio newspaper. "Read what one of our former residents has to say about Floyd county," the delegation head said. He had grim lips, more like the leader of a posse than that of an incensed citizen.

The story, titled, "Ex-Deputy of Floyd-co., Ky. Taking it Easy at Alger," starts off with a lead paragraph like a shot from ambush.

"Back in the mid-30's Floyd-co., Ky. was a hot bed of semi-feud and unwarranted killings," according to the writer who interviewed John Holbrook who claims to have been a deputy sheriff here at one time. The Abbott Creek citizens did a bit of checking, failed to find any record where he served in that capacity. They think he could have possibly been a deputy constable.

"A life in that locality wasn't worth the proverbial plugged nickel as almost daily some one was shot at and quite frequently hit," Holbrook told the Kenton (O.) Times feature writer, R. L. Stephy. "At that time work was scarce and the miners and oil workers had a lot of time and moonshine on their hands. Put a few hooded people and several gallons of potent moonshine liquor together and it usually adds up to trouble."

The Abbott citizens at this point brought out a statement for The Times. One look and The Times man shook his head.

"If we printed that you'd get sued," he said. "Maybe we all would get sued."

"Along with numerous citizens of the county who were shot up or killed, six deputy sheriffs met untimely ends," the story in the Ohio paper continued.

"In most cases these six were swagging, gun-toting deputies that felt, with the law behind them and a seemingly super-empowered with a shot or so of the mighty moonshine, had a right to show their authority," the clipping continued. "As a result someone, usually behind some cover of some store, picked them off."

"But one of the deputies of that hell-hole county was different," the story said.

"He means Floyd county is a hell hole place," one man said.

"That's what the man said," another commented and went on with their elaboration.

"We can't print that either," the group was told.

Everybody finally decided to

—1— Aged Blue Moon Man Funeral Held Sunday

Marion Tackett, 70 years old, retired logwoods worker, died last Wednesday at his home at Blue Moon, victim of a heart ailment.

He was a son of the late Steve and Evaline Caudill Tackett. His survivors include his widow, Mrs. Haley Lawson Tackett, and one half-brother, Wilburn Cook, of Melvin.

4-H'ers carry projects in almost every phase of farm and home life. In Floyd county, the most popular project is clothing, with 334 members completing this project in 1959. Second is Foods, with 301 members completing, followed by Electricity, Swine, Woodwork, and Poultry. Floyd county 4-H boys and girls completed a total of 1,423 projects last year.

4-H'ers give demonstrations, make speeches, take part in judging and other contests. They learn to win—and lose. They also learn responsibility for a job to be done and receive recognition when a project is finished. Club members in Floyd county have won many honors in 4-H work. Last year this county's members won six district championships in demonstrations and public speaking. They received 13 project championships in the senior division and 12 in the junior division.

"Upon being queried if he would like to go back to Floyd-co., Ky., and be a sheriff he said he was very well satisfied where he is. He said that an old friend, Ed Hill, Jr. is now circuit judge and he has made the moonshiners and bootleggers hit for greener pastures."

"Now let me tell you what I think about this story," an Abbott Creek resident began.

"Don't do it," The Times man said. "We couldn't print it."

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE

A Progressive Community does not close its eyes to opportunity.

A Christian Community does not close its eyes to human need.

These two facts alone convince the undersigned that upon Low-Rent Housing the position Prestonsburg will occupy in its own esteem and in the esteem of its neighbors depends.

We cannot afford to refuse a million dollars worth of federal aid—a "precious" gift, with no financial responsibility exacted of us—after all these years of seeking help. We cannot afford to say to the unfortunate,

"we're sorry," when we were not sorry enough for them to do something about helping them when we could.

We do not think we can afford to deny our community, the veteran, the widow and the aged who need help. For these reasons — a few of many — we wholeheartedly endorse Low-Rent Public Housing and invite every citizen to join us in urging the City of Prestonsburg to take every necessary action to guarantee to the community and to the underprivileged the benefits it will insure.

Skeleton Discovery Is Letcher Mystery; Victims Unknown

Whitesburg, Ky., March 6 — The mystery of the Lusk Mountain skeletons is in the hands of department of anthropology scientists at the University of Kentucky, Lexington.

Mrs. Archie Craft, Letcher county coroner, delivered a feed sack half-filled with bones to Captain Charles Taylor, of the State-police crime laboratory at Lexington. Taylor turned the bones over to the department of anthropology.

The bag contains two almost complete adult skeletons and part of a third. The bones were found Feb. 27 in a rock-covered grave under a cliff.

The first discovery was made by 16-year-old Carlos Holbrook, who had climbed the mountain where his dog had treed a squirrel. Exposed in the the mound of rocks was a skull.

Carlos carried it down the mountain and later showed it to Robert Caudill, mail carrier on the Line Fork Creek route out of nearby Ulvah.

On Feb. 27, Carlos and Caudill returned to the mountaintop with mattock and sack and excavated the cairn. They moved a ton and a half of flat rocks which apparently had been gathered from the adjacent hillside. Some of the rocks weighed up to 150 pounds.

The cairn which held the skeletons is a mile up the steep face of a mountain.

The isolated cliff is near the confluence of Line Fork Creek with the North Fork of the Kentucky River, 20 miles from Whitesburg.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Boyd Caudill, investigating the excavation, found other shards of bone, and returned them all to the sheriff's office.

There the bones were studied by Sheriff Johnny Fulton, Mrs. Craft, Health Officer R. Dow Collins, and by private physicians and dentists.

A former Navy fingerprint specialist, Frank Majority, Jr., whose studies had included bone structure, attempted to match the bones into skeletons.

When he had assembled the two almost complete skeletons, he dug from the bag the left half of an upper jaw and the right half of a lower, indicating a third body.

These and a fifth forearm bone, the radius, appeared to be somewhat smaller than the two skeletons, indicating the third was a younger person.

Lack of dental work on the teeth was suggested as a possible clue to the age of the bones.

"Very little dental work was done, other than extraction with a string, in this country before the turn of the 20th Century," said Dr. Lee Moore, Whitesburg dentist.

The skeletons were of adults, as indicated by cavities in the teeth.

COAL FUTURE IN 60'S BRIGHTER, IS FORECAST

Washington, March 5 — The 1960's offer coal its "greatest opportunities since oil and natural gas moved into competition for its industrial markets," W. W. Bayfield, vice-president in charge of marketing, National Coal Association, said here today.

Even though natural gas is often sold to industrial consumers at from one-half to one-third less than homeowners must pay for the same product, gas will necessarily price itself out of many generating stations and manufacturing and processing plants in the coming years," Mr. Bayfield said in closing a week-long territory management seminar for the association's field engineers throughout coal consuming states. "Rising discovery and production costs are making gas uneconomic except for specialty users."

TAX PERMIT FORMS READY

For State Businessmen; Retailers Are To Receive Sales, Use Tax Number

Special to The Times

Frankfort, Ky., March 7 — Kentucky businessmen will soon be receiving application forms for permits to do business under the new Retail Sales and Usage Tax enacted by the 1960 Legislature.

Revenue Commissioner William E. Scent said his department expects to begin mailing the permit applications about March 15.

The Department of Revenue is using several mailing lists in their efforts to reach all eligible businessmen. Some 53,000 employees will receive the mailing.

Others aiding in the distribution of the applications are the 110 field men employed by the Revenue Department, and groups of Kentucky wholesalers such as the Wholesale Grocers Association and the Kentucky Association of Tobacco Distributors. A spokesman for the wholesalers group said he expected about 600 salesmen representing wholesale grocers to be working actively to get their customers signed up under the program.

Commissioner Scent emphasized the importance of filling out only one application. He said a number will be assigned to each retailer and duplication of forms might lead to a single retailer receiving more than one number. Ensuing confusion would be difficult for both the retailer and the department since the retailer must receive credits for amounts paid by him according to his gross sales.

The retailer will withhold, as compensation for collecting the tax, 2% of the total amount collected.

The department is sending out a sheet of instructions for filing the application and urges businessmen to read the instructions carefully.

As to who must apply for a permit, the law states: "Every person, firm, partnership or corporation presently engaged or desiring to engage in or conduct a business as a seller within this state shall file with the Department of Revenue an application for a permit; every person, firm, partnership or corporation who purchases tangible personal property for resale (including raw material which is to become a physical ingredient or component part of another product for sale) shall file for and obtain a permit before he is entitled to execute a resale certificate. A permit must be secured for each place of business."

"An out-of-state retailer who sells tangible personal property to residents of this state may qualify with the Department to collect and remit the use tax applicable to such sales.

"Every governmental unit and every educational, religious, charitable and like institution selling tangible personal property must file an application for a permit."

Kentucky 4-H Club members grew 5,054 acres of field crops last year along with 142,038 chickens and turkeys, 4,017 dairy cattle, 2,722 beef animals, 4,300 sheep and 4,300 pigs.

"Crazy Names" for Taverns Deplored in Milwaukee

Milwaukee — Alderman Clarence A. Heiden says he thinks Milwaukee is getting too many "crazy names" on taverns.

"We once had a tavern called the Snake Pit," Heiden told the Common Council's license committee. "I don't like those names. They deteriorate a residential neighborhood and attract undesirables."

At his suggestion, a tavern operator who had planned to call his establishment "The Rag Doll" agreed to change the name.

"Domestically produced residual oil presents no problem for coal. It is the residual oil from foreign fields, dumped in coal's traditional markets at artificially low prices, that is displacing the product of American mines.

"The absurdities of the prevailing international trade programs are becoming so obvious, however, that reasonable limitation of imports must necessarily be invoked to prevent economic collapse. In addition, the White House, recognizing coal's importance in the mobilization base, has—in adopting the mandatory imports control program—announced to the world that deterioration of the coal industry through erosive action of imported oil will not be tolerated."

The seminar was conducted by Carroll F. Hardy, director of the Bituminous Coal Institute, and Dr. Paul L. Brown, director of manpower development. It was scheduled to indoctrinate the association's field engineers in the bituminous coal industry's revitalized program to gain a larger share of fuel sales in factories, processing plants, schools, office buildings, and related markets.

To "sharpen sales promotional tools and review proven sales methods," the seminar included sessions conducted by these industry executives: J. W. Kepler, vice-president, Consolidation Coal Co.; S. L. Jewell, vice-president, Peabody Coal Co.; L. M. Clovis, distribution manager, Truax-Traer Coal Co.; and J. B. Kelsey, sales analyst, Island Creek Coal Co.

Glynn L. Coryell, director of field engineers, also took part in arranging the seminar program and in class instructions.

Let's be sure we get a change this time in our educational system.

I am running in Edu. Dist. 5 to vote with Ray Howard and John Hall to help them to improve education in Floyd county.

COOPERATION is a Kentucky tradition!

RAISING BARNS... OR LIGHT POLES!

Kentuckians have always been more than willing to pitch in and make a community project of their neighbor's needs. Lending a hand at a barn raising is a custom that goes back to the earliest pioneer days. And that's still the state-wide spirit of neighborliness you'll find everywhere you look in our state.

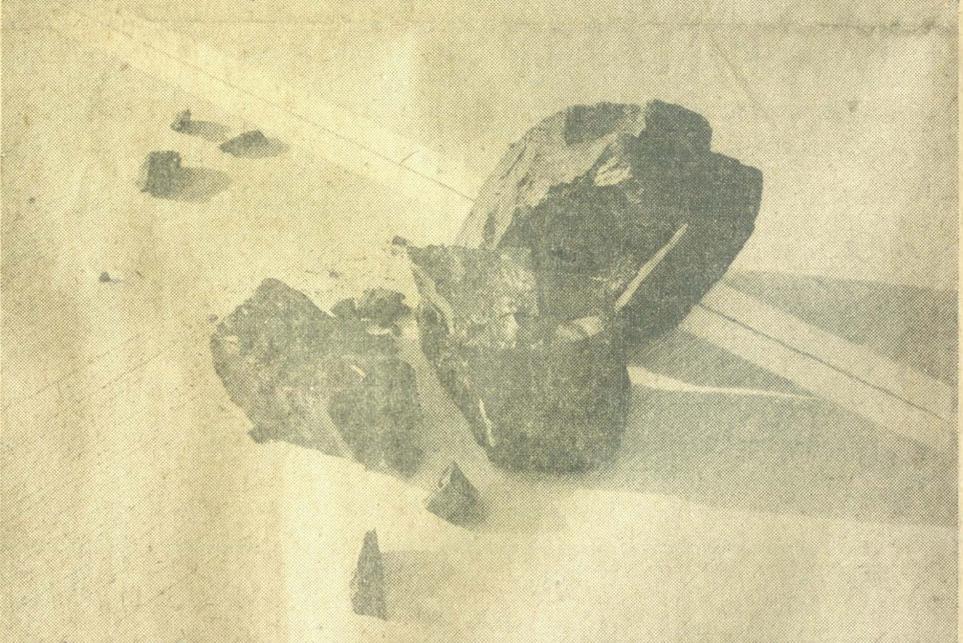

Rural electrification is neighborly cooperation, too. Kentucky's Rural Electric Co-ops... created by folks who got together to make a better life for themselves... are a good example of how neighborly cooperation serves our Commonwealth. As the countryside has brightened and prospered, so the townspeople have benefited too. The new rural prosperity made possible by electrification is spent in cities and towns.

Rural Electricity Benefits Everyone

BIG SANDY RURAL ELECTRIC CO-OP

COOPERATION brings electricity to 4,443 rural families in Johnson, Lawrence, Floyd, Knott and Martin counties.

It takes 1,000 tons of coal to build just 1 mile of 4-lane concrete highway!

When concrete highways go in... coal usage goes up! That's why concrete is the number-one choice for the new highway into the coal fields of eastern Kentucky.

Eastern Kentucky needs new coal markets—and new highways. Concrete brings the two together. The result? Better business. Better highways.

Today's new-type concrete is smooth and solid all the way... is laid flat to stay flat. It has a life expectancy of 50 years and longer, too, with upkeep expense 75% less than for asphalt (based on Kentucky records). This is vital because of Kentucky's mounting maintenance costs.

Safety is another consideration. Concrete's light color provides greater visibility for mountain driving. Skid dangers are reduced, too, thanks to concrete's grainy, gritty surface texture.

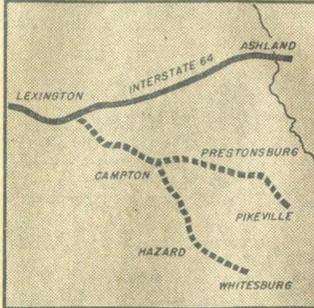

Add it up. Concrete means greater coal usage, greater driving comfort and safety... and, greater maintenance savings.

Mr. Fred Bullard, Executive Secretary of the Kentucky Coal Association, has this to say, "Cement and reinforcing steel are two basic ingredients of the modern concrete highway. With their high consumption of coal during manufacture, the Association believes that paving eastern Kentucky's new highway with concrete will be an invaluable aid to the state's coal industry."
