

This Town ... That World

Only 15 days till Christmas. And here's a sobering afterthought: Only 30 days till the 10th of the month thereafter.

HIS EPITAPH

"Uncle" Bob Burke, who died last Sunday, liked to express his thoughts in verse. Two Thursdays ago, Thanksgiving Day, he handed me a "little poem," and it serves now as a fitting epitaph. One stanza reads:

Dear God, please bless every child of thine
From early morn till late at night.
Please keep them in thy tender care
Until the morning light.

Men such as he leave to all who know them a rich legacy of pure, unalloyed faith.

BE SMART—STAY HOME!

Thinking about lighting out for the city to do your Christmas shopping? You'll be sorry, like as not, if you do.

It's not merely the long drive there, the time and the wear and tear on tires and car and the cost of gasoline, etcetera. After you get there—unless you carry an assortment of rabbit's feet and four-leaf clovers—you'll drive and drive and look and look before you find a place to park the old buggy while you're shopping.

Shop at home first. There's not a Floyd county town we know of that has such a parking problem. Martin has a municipal parking area in addition to on-street parking. Prestonsburg has two large municipal parking lots, plus numerous private lots for free "customer" parking.

Stay home where there's room, lots of room. Besides, those dollars you spend in the city not only have wings—they've already taken off and are headed in the other direction. They'll not be back in Floyd to pay wages, taxes, buy clothing and food and do those other things that keep things going hereabouts.

It says here: Adolescence is that age when you think you'll live forever; middle-age is when you begin to wonder how you've lasted this long.

KNOTT PLANE CRASH CLAIMS LIVES OF 6

A twin-engine plane crashed late Monday afternoon in the head of a hollow of Puncheon Creek, near Hall, Knott county, killing all its occupants — four New York businessmen and its pilot and co-pilot.

Flying over the mountains which were partially shrouded by haze and snow flurries, the plane went down, apparently without any distress signal. Federal inspectors arrived Tuesday at the scene, which is in the head of the Right Beaver Creek section of Knott county, to probe into the cause of the tragedy.

Bodies of the pilot, Earl Runsey, Liverpool, New York, and co-pilot, Anthony Rusniak, Baldwinsville, New York, were taken to the Appalachian Regional hospital, Harlan, for an autopsy.

The Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad went to the scene of the crash to assist in finding the bodies, but no difficulty was experienced in locating

TAX LISTING DATE MOVED TO MARCH 1

Threat of Jail Term, Fine Held Over Those Who Fail To File List

It's the responsibility of the taxpayer to list his property at cash value with the tax commissioner — and there's a stiff penalty awaiting him, if he doesn't.

But, important as it is to make such a listing, the matter isn't as urgent as it might have been. Originally, the deadline for assessments to be given the tax commissioner was January 1, but the final date has been moved from January 1 to March 1, 1966.

If, however, the taxpayer fails to give his assessment before that March 1 deadline is past, he is subject to a $500 fine and jail term. And there is a penalty, a stiff one, for the tax commissioner, too. If his office assists a property-owner in preparing his or her assessment and the evaluation is found to be too low, he is subject to a $300 fine and forfeiture of his office.

Taxpayers continue to express concern about setting a cash value on their property and about what the result in tax bills may be, it was said at the office of Clive Akers, tax commissioner. But a reduction in the tax rate is expected next June, when all the assessment figures are in. And, in any case, no tax bill next year may exceed this year's bill by more than 10%, and even that increase cannot be made without the taxing body first submitting the matter to a public hearing.

A number of property-owners already have submitted their assessment lists to Mr. Akers, but the assessment of all Floyd county is a long way from being complete.

ARSON PROBE BEING MADE

Youth Quizzed Here After Houses Razed; Deputy Escapes Car

An 18-year-old youth was held in jail here this week while an investigation was being made into the destruction by fire of two Toler Creek buildings, and warrants have been issued for two other persons.

The prisoners, James Hall, denies knowledge of the two blazes. The razed buildings, both unoccupied, were owned by Harmel Roberts and Mrs. Beatrice Sturgill. Hall was jailed Sunday by State Trooper Richard Ray and Constable Gillis Conn.

One of two men jailed Friday by Deputy Sheriff Enoch Hatfield attempted to run him down with an automobile, the officer reported. Hatfield said he pulled Cecil Newsome from the driver's seat of a car on Left Beaver Creek and that Hargis Blankenship, who was riding with Newsome, then slid beneath the steering wheel.

AUXIER, McDOWELL HEAD START SITES

Congressman Carl D. Perkins announced this week that the Office of Economic Opportunity has made a grant of $71,829 to the Big Sandy Area Development Council for a pre-school Head Start program in Floyd county.

The year-around, five-days-a-week program will be conducted at two centers, Auxier and McDowell, and each center will accommodate 30 children, it was said.

Clothing and shoes will be afforded children who need such help, and all children in the program will receive well-balanced meals, including breakfast.

Also to benefit from the Head Start program will be the mothers of children selected for the training. The mothers will participate in a homemaking program which will emphasize instruction in the home rather than in the classroom.

A caseworker will select children to attend the two centers and will also serve as liaison between the centers and the families involved.

BUYERS' AID IS PLANNED

Matthews Tells Steps To Protect Consumers From 'Fly-by-Nights'

Attorney General Robert Matthews has announced establishment of a Consumer Protection Division within the Department of Law to protect both the consuming public and legitimate business from "a small minority of merchants and alleged service specialists of the so-called fly-by-night variety adept at the fast shuffle to make a fast buck."

Matthews said the Division will be headed by Robert Preston, an assistant attorney general, with legal background and experience in consumer matters. Matthews said some 15 other states have similar operations.

The attorney general said the consumer division is being established by administrative regulation. It first will seek compliance with the laws to aid consumers through voluntary adjustment or restitution, Matthews said. Cease and desist agreements will be sought where necessary, he added.

These failing, Matthews said civil injunctive relief will be sought in cooperation with Commonwealth and County Attorneys and criminal penalties imposed where flagrant violations warrant.

"In extreme instances," Matthews said, "we will consider the desirability of revoking corporate charters under statutory authority."

Matthews said cooperation with the consumer division has been pledged by the Better Business Bureau, Louisville and Kentucky Chambers of Commerce, Kentucky Automobile Dealers Association, and Kentucky Retail Federation Association.

"The vast majority of businessmen are honest, diligent individuals who have built their enterprises upon reputation of integrity, standing behind their products and their services," said Matthews. "They have succeeded on the concept of consumer confidence and satisfaction."

The primary interest and aim of the Consumer Division, Matthews added, is to safeguard the consuming public from "repeated fraudulent activities" and not the satisfaction of a particular individual claim.

The division will not enter into any case where mere dispute exists as to value of goods or services received for the consideration paid, Matthews said. Those disputes will be left for settlement between the parties represented by their personal attorneys.

Matthews said the public is defrauded of "hundreds of millions of dollars" annually by "the fly-by-night gyp artists." The "bulk of bilking" occurs at the local level, he added. Matthews termed this "a significant drain on the consumer public and a blight upon legitimate business enterprises."

Town of Jackson Wins District 7 Certificate In Community Contest

Winners in the 1965 Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Community Development Program were announced by Rufus P. Thomas, chairman of District 7 and area development director of the Kentucky Power Company. District 7 encompasses 15 Eastern Kentucky counties, from Lewis to Letcher.

Jackson, which entered projects in all seven of the contest categories, will be presented a Certificate of Excellence and become the candidate for District 7 that will compete with the other seven districts for the top state award.

WOMEN VOW TO BAR WAY

Of 'Dozers in Knott; Demonstrators Tell Of Shots Exchanged

Strip mining on Clear Creek, Knott county, was punctuated by gunfire and promised this week the added drama of women vowing to stand in the path of a bulldozer when and if it returns to work in the vicinity of their homes.

The seven women demonstrators who took up positions at a mining project and their husbands claimed their camp was fired into and that an exchange of shots from both sides in the dispute resulted Monday night.

Scene of the new demonstration is in the Honey Gap and Buzzards' Den section of Clear Creek, near the Knott-Perry border. Of the dramatic series of events occurring there Kyle Vance wrote in The Courier-Journal:

Pearl Fuller, who is leading the attempt to stop the stripping short of his property line, said his side returned the fire and that several hundred shots were fired.

Fuller said he took his two young daughters to the scene yesterday morning and that bullets were fired into the campfire from surrounding ridges.

William B. Sturgill and R. H. Kelly, co-owners of Kentucky River Coal Sales Company, Hazard, operator of the project, were reported out of town. They have said before, however, that their men and machines are fired upon nearly every night from nearby ridges.

The women stood in a group yesterday at the end of a clearing where timber cutters and the bulldozers were preparing for the removal of earth from a coal seam.

Company workers had withdrawn from the scene and there was no apparent threat of a clash. The stripping machinery was out of sight around a bulge in the mountain, but a procession of trucks could be seen hauling coal in the opposite direction.

The demonstration is at a spot on the same contour, but two or three miles away, as that of Mrs. Ollie Combs' widely publicized sit-down in front of a bulldozer two weeks ago.

Mrs. Combs, a 61-year-old widow, succeeded in stopping the machine from cutting through the mountaintop to her side of the ridge at Honey Gap. (See Story No. 5, Page 3)

HENRY WARD ABSENT WHEN TIMES CALLED

When The Times telephoned Salyersville-Prestonsburg arm of the Mountain Parkway (Ky. 114), Henry Ward Wednesday on the track of a road story, Mr. Ward was not in his office—and for good and sufficient reasons.

Around midnight Tuesday, fire broke out in the Ward apartment in Frankfort. Mrs. Ward, apparently seeking help, ran onto the nearby highway and was hit by a truck, suffering a compound leg fracture, a broken arm and shoulder. Mr. Ward was almost overcome by smoke.

From an assistant The Times learned that no plans are known to have been made for a formal dedication of the now-completed

3 NABBED BY RAIDERS

Liquor Found Saturday At Two Places; Search Of Two Draws Blanks

State troopers and ABC agents staged five liquor raids in the county Saturday which resulted in three arrests and the confiscation of a sizeable haul of intoxicants.

One of those arrested — Junior "Red" Martin, of Estill — has been raided four times within the last two or three months, ABC Agent C. A. Flannery said. Martin was recently convicted in circuit court and fined $200 and given a 120-day jail term, but was granted a new trial last week when it was established that he was given trial in absentia. It was claimed he was not present for the trial because he had been informed the case would be continued.

The case against Martin resulting from Saturday's raid will go to the January grand jury. All second and third-offense liquor cases will be referred to the grand jury instead of being heard in quarterly court, it was said.

Twenty half-pints of whiskey, gin and vodka and 29 cans of beer were found at Martin's premises by ABC Agent Randolph Stampler and State Trooper Gary Johnson.

Herman Perry, of Auxier, was arrested by ABC Agent Claude Flannery and State Trooper Elmo Allen when they found 240 cans of beer, 70 half-pints of whiskey and five half-pints of gin on his premises. They also confiscated five cases of fireworks at Perry's place, but the action to be taken against him on this count was not immediately determined. Sale of fireworks is prohibited by state law.

Lon Neeley, of the Auxier road, was arrested by Trooper Orbin Combs and ABC Agent Fred Combs, although they did not succeed in confiscating any intoxicants. The raiding officers said Neeley was pouring his liquor supply down a bathroom sink when they broke open the door.

Raids on the premises of Melvin Click, near Allen, and Eva Colley Halbert at Arkansas, near Martin, failed to net any liquor. Two warrants have been issued, however.

Trials of those arrested have been set for Dec. 27. Mack Hunt was convicted in quarterly court Monday on a possession charge. He was fined $30 and given a 30-day jail term. Mrs. Hunt's trial on a selling count was docketed for Dec. 27.

Floyd County Tops Savings Bonds Goal

Floyd county citizens bought $54,808 Series E and H Savings Bonds during October. Sales for the ten months totaled $44,768. The county's annual goal is $410,400.

Only four other Kentucky counties have reached their 1965 goals.

The sales for Kentucky in October were $3,955,855 and cumulative sales reached $43,451,309. The state's annual goal is $54 million.

COMMUNITIES WORK TOWARD ADEQUATE WATER SYSTEMS

And for Sufficient Reason ...

15 RESTAURANTS BELOW LOWEST HEALTH RATING

A recent survey of food establishments in this county, undertaken by a representative of the State Environmental Health Division, the area sanitation inspector and the county sanitarian, turned up some rather surprising facts, it was pointed out this week.

Out of the 52 or so restaurants located in Floyd county, 15 were found to be lower than the minimum public health rating.

The average for the county restaurants was found to be higher than for those located in Prestonsburg. There were a number of factors which contributed to this delinquency, but the two most outstanding, both in the county and the city, were found in almost all eating establishments. One of the greatest faults was found to be the storage, handling and cleaning of equipment.

In every instance it was discovered that newspapers, or other substances of a similar nature, were being utilized to line shelves for storage of equipment after it had been cleaned.

Floyd County Land Used by Government Yields $705 in Taxes

Floyd county's share of $75,800 distributed to 36 counties in Kentucky and Tennessee by the Army Corps of Engineers in lieu of taxes on government-acquired land is $705, it was announced last week.

Col. Jesse L. Fishback, Nashville, Tennessee, said the money was refunded to the states from income derived from the engineers' projects in the 36 counties.

Floyd county's share derived from the Deyev Reservoir area. The payment amounted to 75% of receipts deposited during the fiscal year from the leasing of land acquired under the Flood Control Act of 1964.

The 19 Kentucky counties involved received a total of $37,683, while Tennessee's 17 counties received $38,135. Lawrence county received $18.75 and Pike $186.

SPORTSMEN'S GROUP BUYS ACREAGE IN LAKE AREA

The two-months-old Dewey Lake Fish & Game Club, already 221 members strong, announced this week that it has purchased approximately 50 acres of land on Stratton Branch, in the lake area, to be developed into a club center.

Purchase of an additional 100 acres adjacent to the original tract also is planned. The club plans future development of the property to include a clubhouse, a fish pond, a game preserve and a range for skeet-shooting, Bob Burchett, president, said.

The Floyd County Health Department lists six reasons why this practice should be discontinued:

1. The ink on the paper isn't dry when it leaves the press, thus causing the paper to pick up dust and germs which adhere to the paper.

2. In most instances the papers are thrown by carriers and lie on sidewalks which are full of disease-carrying organisms.

3. The papers are handled by any number of people, whose hands are covered with pathogenic organisms.

4. Since the paper is already contaminated when placed on the shelves, any water or food dropped on it will start the bacteria to multiplying, thus leading to contamination of any clean item placed on the shelves.

The solution to this problem is very simple and can be easily rectified by the use of heavy waxed paper, aluminum foil or any of the soap and water-washable, adhesive-backed paper now sold in almost all super markets, the health department report added.

Many places visited were not keeping the ice cream dipper and dispensing spoon in running water.

Single service cups and straws were not being purchased in sanitary containers, stored in clean, dry places, or dispensed in a sanitary manner.

Listed as probably the most important and most overlooked factor is the location of lavatory facilities. Some were not accessible to the employees of the employee, being located outside or upstairs, and some were entirely absent.

Other causes for violations were lack of soap, no sanitary towels or dispensers, no hot water and inadequate lighting.

"If we are to achieve our goal of making Kentucky a tourist mecca, and especially in Eastern Kentucky, then we must demonstrate to the general public our aim of striving to make our restaurants as clean as possible, as well as maintaining a standard of excellence unequalled by others," the report concluded.

ONE DISTRICT FORMED, 2nd TO ORGANIZE

City of Allen May Buy Water System At $275,000 Price

The concern for safe and adequate water supplies is mounting in Floyd county as well as in the populous centers of the country, it was indicated this week as one area of the county sought to establish a water district and another moved toward ownership of its water system.

Most pretentious of the proposed community undertakings is one which has been under way for some time. This involves a water district which already has been established to serve a half-dozen or more communities in Floyd and Pike counties, extending all the way from Stanville in this county to Blairtown in Pike.

Another would involve the purchase of the Allen water Company from Herman Porter by the City of Allen for $275,000, with Porter to do extensive improvements of the system at his expense.

The third, begun only this week, involves the efforts of citizens of the Maytown-Eastern area to establish a water district.

It is estimated that the Pike-Floyd water district project will cost $1,200,000, with water to be piped to the several communities from the Pikeville city system. The district to serve the communities was formed about two years ago and the project won approval of the Accelerated Public Works program, but APW ran out of funds before the job could be financed from that source. Now, construction funds are being sought under the Economic Development Act.

It is held that purchase of water at bulk rate from Pikeville will be the cheapest method of supplying the several communities, despite the miles of water line to be laid, since it will save the cost of pumping and filtration installations. The two-county (See Story No. 3, Page 6)

Our Yesterdays

(Items taken from files of The Floyd County Times of 36 and 20 years ago.)

Thirty Years Ago

(December 6, 1935)

Changes in the faculty of the Prestonsburg and Floyd county high school here were ordered Monday by the county and city boards of education in joint session in order to meet state department of education requirements and thus retain the school's accredited standing. . . . Willey Abrams, 40, died Sunday at his home at Minnie as the result of a knife wound. . . . Prestonsburg's new city council, sworn into office Monday, consists of the following: H. H. Holcomb, Elder Ball, Art Hager, Ray Collins, John Osborne, S. T. Spradlin, J. P. May and R. T. Allen. . . . Cash Triplett and Frank Conley, of Lackey, are in the Beaver Valley hospital, suffering from injuries sustained Sunday night when the restaurant in which they were sleeping was blown apart by a blast of dynamite. . . . Mrs. Martha Hughes was seriously injured here Saturday morning when struck by an auto. . . . The Floyd County Health Department this week placed a ballot box in front of the Francis Cash Store for reception of contributions to the Will Rogers Memorial Fund. . . . There died: Will Duncan, of Hueysville, at his father's home, Thursday afternoon.

Twenty Years Ago

(December 6, 1945)

Two suits filed by defeated candidates at the November election were those brought by Maffie Conn, Republican candidate for Magistrate, Dist. 4, and Dial Salisbury, Republican candidate for Sheriff. . . . The House Appropriations committee voted Friday a total of $122,275,000 for flood control and navigation projects, thus restoring the construction of a flood control dam at Dewey on Johns Creek to the list of projects to be developed. . . . Mrs. Gertrude Chaffins Triplett, 21, of West Garrett, was killed Saturday night as she was struck by two of four revolver bullets fired through the window of a Garrett tavern. . . . With Bill Sturgill already a regular at a guard position, and his "little" brother, Barkley, having already seen action as a forward, there's a definite possibility that two Prestonsburg brothers may be regulars on the famed Kentucky Wildcat basketball team this year. . . . In this newspaper twenty years ago this week we find a little girl's obituary that reads: "Nine-year-old Mary Ousley, of Martin, died Wednesday morning at her parents' home, a victim of leukemia, a rare blood disease." Twenty years later it seems leukemia is not quite so rare. . . . Married: Miss Thelma Howard, of Lancaster, Kentucky, November 10 at Frankfort; Miss Audrey Cooley, and Mr. Elvie Martin, both of Prestonsburg, November 27 at Pikeville; Miss Blanche Cooley, of West Prestonsburg, and Mr. Benjamin Castle, of Paintsville, November 27 at Pikeville; Miss Kathryn Evelyn Thomas, of Seattle, Washington, and Sgt. Charles Vincent DeCoursey, of Wayland, August 2 at Ft. Lawton, Washington. . . . Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Crider, of Edgar, a son—Seldon. . . . There died: Mrs. Lucy Tackett, 38, of Manton, at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, Tuesday; Joan Johns, 13, of Martin, at the Beaver Valley hospital, Saturday; Miss Velva Thornsbury, Sunday, at the home of her mother at Bevinville; Mrs. Hester Kidd, of Little Mud Creek, at the Beaver Valley hospital, Monday; Ellis Carroll, 18 months old, Friday at Drift.

College Chorus To Present 'Christmas In Song' Sunday; 'Messiah' Encore Scheduled

The Prestonsburg Community College has moved its Christmas program ahead to 2 p.m. Friday from a date nearer the holiday because the original date conflicted with final exams for students, it was announced this week.

The College Chorus will follow Friday's program with "A Christmas in Song," which will be presented at 4 p.m. Sunday, December 12, at the college. The public is invited to attend the program, which will consist of carols depicting the birth of Christ, a series of traditional carols and carols of other countries.

Handel's "Messiah" was presented Tuesday evening by the Community Chorus, which is composed of singers from Prestonsburg and other towns of the area. The audience filled the First Methodist Church here to near-capacity.

Gus Galos, music instructor at the college and director of the pre-Christmas programs here, said this week that "The Messiah" will be presented at Mayo Memorial Methodist Church, Paintsville, at 2:30 p.m., Sunday, December 19.

Cub Packs in Meeting, Are Presented Awards

She defied the Knott county sheriff, state police and a court order banning demonstrations to stand her ground against the bulldozer. She and two sons spent 20 hours in Knott county jail on Thanksgiving Eve and Thanksgiving morning.

If the stripping operation succeeds in turning a point onto Fuller's property at Buzzards' Den, it eventually would lead back to Honey Gap and the Combs property.

Fuller posted his property with half a dozen signs reading: "No trespassing on Pearl Fuller land stay off."

The women said it is their plan to stand their ground in front of the bulldozer if it returns.

"We won't say nothing," said the wife of Fuller said. "We will just sit down."

A December Bride

Have you seen her? She is in the window at the B. F. Casual Shop. She is surrounded by a lovely wardrobe. This wardrobe includes a red velvet evening coat, three evening dresses, several suits and coats, two night gowns, and many dresses. She is beautifully dressed, in a bridal outfit complete in every detail. She even has a string of pearls and a "diamond" ring. There is a total of eighteen outfits. The lady is a Madame Alexander doll. See any member of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club for details about how the doll and her wardrobe may be yours. The proceeds from this drive go to the City Park swimming pool on which construction has already begun.

water district has a board of five — Jack Branham, Walter Hall and Ted Stumbo from this county, Fred Redwine and Judge Lowe from Pike.

The Allen board of trustees adopted a resolution Dec. 6, agreeing to buy the Porter-owned water system there, and a meeting was scheduled later this week with a fiscal agent. The system serves, or is planned to serve, Allen,

New Allen, Dwale and vicinities.

For the $275,000 purchase price Porter is to make the following improvements and additions to the existing water system:

Install a 100,000-gallon storage tank, with appurtenances; an 8,000-gallon settling basin, plus miscellaneous piping and valves in the filtration plant; a six-inch cast-iron river crossing; a six-inch cement asbestos line from the river crossing to the hill near the head of Tombstone Hollow, new location of the storage tanks; a four-inch cement asbestos line to the Dwale bridge; connect Dwale to the new four-inch line; make connections off the six-inch line to existing lines in New Allen; install valves and connections for fire hydrants and for future expansion; install a booster chlorinator station and connections; add necessary check and gate valves and pits at the river crossing and other points; provide necessary tank site, rights-of-way and easements, also pay for legal expenses as well as fees of engineers and the fiscal agent.

The agreement provides that the city would withhold $75,000 from the purchase price until improvements are made and accepted by the city's engineers.

The Maytown-Eastern water district would begin at the line of Bill May at Warco, run southwest on KY. 80 through and including Maytown, go up Turkey Creek to the Jack Webb farm, and with the Jack Webb line extend to the top of the ridge, follow the ridge, hence down down the hill, top the mouth of Goose Creek, run up Right Beaver Creek to include the M. V. Allen farm, then to the top of the ridge on the west side of KY. 80 and run down this ridge to the point of beginning at Warco.

It was said that between 500 and 600 persons signed the petition asking the county court to establish the water district. The petition pointed out that the area is without adequate water facilities. Until recently some of the citizens of the area had been using the water facilities of the Maytown school, but this system, which became inoperative, is now owned by Education and cannot be used to provide water to the public.

TALES ABOUT INSECTS OFTEN AREN'T TRUE

Lexington — Termites can always be spotted by the piles of sawdust they leave on the floor. Dragonflies — sometimes called "darning needles" — sew up people's eyelids. Bats are always trying to tangle themselves in ladies' hair.

These three statements have one thing in common—they're all completely wrong, says Dr. Richard Miller, UK Extension entomologist. Yet they're part of the folklore surrounding pests, especially insects. Many such false ideas about pests may lead people in the wrong direction when it comes to pest control, he notes.

Termites, for example, leave no sawdust at all (except the drywood termites found in some areas of Florida and southern California). Practically all termites are the subterranean variety that consume the tiny wood chips they carve out in their tunneling. If you wait for sawdust piles to tell you termites are present, they can do a lot of damage before you ever discover them.

And, in spite of all the fairy tales, bats have no interest in ladies' hair. Actually if a bat is caught in the room with a lady, he's more scared than she is. Dragonflies, which also carry the name of blue bottle flies or "darning needles" in some areas, are harmless. Despite their size and strange design, they neither bite nor sting, much less sew up eyelids.

Miller gives some more examples of misconceptions about pests. Sand fleas are a common complaint at the beach, yet they don't exist. You may be bitten by a flea at the beach, but it's probably a dog or cat flea raised from an egg dropped from a passing pet and hatched in dirt and trash on the beach.

Spiders are generally disliked, but they're harmless with a few exceptions such as the black widow. Their daily consumption of other insects actually makes them good friends of man. And the fabled 17-year locust isn't a locust at all but a cicada. Moreover, the so-called "plague of locusts" that hit the American plains is actually migrating grasshoppers.

The mistaken belief that moths can't survive in a cedar chest also is part of this folklore. After the chest is a year old, it may make your clothes smell nice, but the only way it can hurt a moth is to fall on him, Miller concludes.

Almost All, Age 65 This Year, Eligible For Medicare in '66

Almost everyone who will be 65 on or before the last day of this year will be eligible for hospital and medical insurance benefits when these benefits are available in July, next year, the Social Security Administration announces. This will be true whether or not the individual is still working, and regardless of his earnings.

Those who are receiving social security or railroad retirement benefits will be sent a card to apply for the medical insurance benefits. Entitlement under the hospital insurance plan is automatic for these individuals. Those who are receiving public assistance from the Department of Welfare will also be notified about making an application for the Medicare benefits—both hospital and medical insurance benefits.

MAJOR CHARTER CHANGES APPROVED BY ASSEMBLY

Significant changes in Kentucky's Constitution have been approved by the Constitution Revision Assembly (CRA) in its work of updating the 75-year-old, 1890-1891 document for submission to the 1966 General Assembly convening in January.

The changes adopted by the full assembly at a series of meetings in the Senate chamber of the State Capitol affect all branches of government. But they will not and cannot become effective until and unless the final, total draft is approved by the CRA, then by the new Legislature; possibly by a convention of 100 elected delegates, and ultimately by a majority vote of the people in a statewide election.

One of the major changes approved by the CRA is to shorten the state ballot from nine to four elected officials. These four would consist of the governor, the lieutenant governor, state auditor and attorney general.

The five officials eliminated from the state ballot would be the superintendent of public instruction, clerk of the Court of Appeals, treasurer, secretary of state, and commissioner of agriculture.

Presumably, the five offices eliminated from the ballot would be filled by appointment. By whom or what agencies these appointments would be made had not been determined on December 1.

One of the outstanding sections approved was to allow the four elected officials to succeed themselves in office, which none of the nine presently elected can do under the current constitution.

Repeal has been approved of the basic law under which full power of the governor automatically passes to the lieutenant governor when the governor is out of the state.

A new line of succession to the governor in occurrence of a vacancy also was approved, consisting of the lieutenant governor, president pro tem of the Senate and speaker of the House.

The Legislature by approval of the CRA, would become a "continuous body", meeting annually. It now meets in regular session 60 days every two years. Sessions under the new plan would be limited to 90 days a year, in segments of 60 and 30 days, with the 30-day segment optional.

The 38 senators and 100 representatives presently are paid $25 a day seven days a week while in session, with $25 a day for expenses, except on Sundays and legal holidays. The CRA proposes putting the legislators on "annual compensation and allowances."

Given Assembly approval on December 1 was a proposal to increase the terms of senators from four to six years, and of representatives from two to four years.

The CRA at first approved and then recommitted for further consideration a proposal to create a unified court system with four levels of justice instead of the three provided by the present constitution. The new system would be topped by a seven-member supreme court. The three inferior levels would consist of an intermediate court of appeals; a trial court organized upon the present concept of a circuit court, and a new court of limited jurisdiction, the district court, which would hear all actions now heard by county, quarterly, magistrate and police courts.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College, Bowling Green, Ky.

AUTUMNS OF LONG AGO

As I write, the leaves are all colored up, and we have had some big frosts. This season often takes me back to our more primitive times, when most of the population of the country were rural or only a bit removed from rural living.

After going barefooted all summer, except for the torture of putting on shoes and socks to go to Sunday School and church, it became necessary to shut the feet up for the winter. But that was no easy job. Going barefooted makes a foot spread out; shoes remain as they were, and feet have to be squeezed into them. But it was a fairly gradual process to resume shoes after a gloriously barefooted summer. We would wear our shoes to school on the cold mornings, glad to have even home-knit stockings to protect the feet. But, as the day got warmer, we would remove our shoes and stockings and, usually, remain barefooted until we got home, dangling our shoes in our arms as we trudged homeward after school. As the weather got colder, however, we kept the shoes on, by degrees getting accustomed once more to the prisons that shoes always seemed to be.

If your mother was like mine, winter underwear appeared along about the time of the first frost. But we had no especial day to resume our warm clothes. In the spring, sheep-shearing day was officially our day to start going barefooted; in other parts of the state it was May 1, hot or cold. When I remember the winter underwear I used to live in, my temperature goes up, even in cold weather. But I seem to forget how cold were the houses and the schoolhouses in the old days. It was necessary to have most of one's protection against cold on his own body, for the schoolhouse stove or the fireplace at home warmed only one side at a time. And, at school, at least, it was not always possible to push one's way through the gang who shivered around the stove.

Around Fidelity there were lots of hickory trees. And picking up nuts was as much a part of fall weather as the coloring of leaves. When I went away to Hickman county to teach, when I was barely old enough, the boy that I was rejoiced at finding even more hickory trees and nuts. Each of the three fall terms that I taught down in that county brought hours after school, and Saturdays galore, to pick up nuts. In and around Fidelity hazelnuts had never been very common, but near my first Hickman county school were the finest hazelnut thickets I have ever seen. The children in my school would offer to give me toll of their gathered nuts if I would let them spend their noon recess in the hazelnut patches. It got to be a comic after-recess rite for me to go around with my handbell inverted as a holder for the two or three hazelnuts that each little fellow would offer. I cannot recall now what I did with these nuts, but I suspect that I gave them to smaller children not old enough to attend school.

Though removed from my last year on the farm by fifty-nine years, I still remember how active were the weeks that saw the distinctly fall chores done: corn-gathering, hog-killing, and the rest. Fortunately, for the record, I still have the diaries I kept in 1905 and 1906, my last years on the farm. It is almost comic to see how many neighborhood workings I attended in those years: log-rollings, barn-raising, tobacco-cuttings, hog-killing. And, with a boyish fondness for statistics, I set down just how many sticks of tobacco we "housed," just what each hog weighed, just how many "barrels" of corn we gathered. It all looks pretty puny now, for my whole corn crop would not amount to more than two acres of yield as the farms are cultivated now. But I did not anticipate any such improvement in farming and meticulously kept my records, for the mere joy of keeping them.

An open letter to our customers

On the evening of November 9, a massive electric power interruption took place in the northeastern section of the United States and southern Canada. An estimated 30-million people were affected for varying periods of time.

None of our customers was affected in any way by the blackout. Nevertheless I know that the question uppermost in the minds of our customers is:

"Can it happen here?"

It is an entirely proper and very important question and one that we who are responsible for the operation and management of the nation's largest investor-owned electric utility constantly ask ourselves in connection with the design and expansion of our System. As president of this company, let me reassure you as to the state of preparedness of YOUR electric company.

I cannot say—no one can say—with absolute certainty that, given an unbelievable combination of circumstances, such as a nuclear holocaust, such a vast outage could not occur on the American Electric Power System. But I can and do say that such an occurrence is inconceivable. Here are the reasons this is so:

1. The AEP System essentially is a different kind of utility operation. It has been developed, over the past five decades, on a different set of principles. It has been planned, engineered, designed, built and is operated differently than the power systems affected. As a consequence, it behaves differently in times of stress.
2. While the AEP System consists of six operating companies, providing electric service in the states of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee, it operates as a single integrated power supply system. Our chain of power plants is widely dispersed, yet these generating stations are nonetheless tied together by a high-voltage transmission network second to none and the total operation is fully integrated.
3. Furthermore, aside from this wholly integrated generation-transmission-distribution complex, AEP is "the most interconnected power system in the world." Today, our System is tremendously strengthened and reinforced by 46 high-voltage interconnections with 21 different electric utilities surrounding the area we serve. We, in turn, strengthen and reinforce their power supply as well. Nor do these include nine high-voltage ties currently under construction or projected. Properly designed regional interconnections produce strength, not weakness.
4. The AEP System is magnificently safeguarded by the most modern array of protective equipment yet designed—devices that are completely automatic and operate at speeds, and with capacities, far above normal standards.

5. In operation, each line segment of our transmission network is designed to have the capacity needed to deliver power from the generating plants to the load centers as well as to allow great flexibility in power flow over the entire System. Such flexibility is required in times of outages of generating capacity at the plants and in periods of additional "swings" of power across parts of the System resulting from emergency conditions on or outside the AEP System.

6. Finally, engineering and computer studies are under way at all times, testing and checking the performance of the System under simulated conditions of most adverse character. By this, we mean the simulated loss of entire plants or lines, alone or in combination, either on our System or on the systems of neighboring utilities.

All of these factors lead us to believe—and our studies reinforce this belief—that the System would meet any kind of severe emergency that we could contemplate without affecting customer service in any way. The sole exception to this, of course, would be in the immediate area of the emergency itself, and even here the System's built-in safeguards would serve to minimize the scope and duration of any outage.

Through the years we have experienced many emergency conditions on the System. One such case was last April, when the worst tornados in U.S. history flattened wide areas of our System in Indiana and Ohio. A total of 27 high-voltage lines and several substations were knocked out of service, including all 13 transmission lines feeding the city of Fort Wayne. Nonetheless, these tornados failed to interrupt a single kilowatt of load on the AEP System except to customers connected to those power lines that were flattened.

(One of the major paradoxes of the November 9 blackout was the cry that was immediately sounded for a public power grid of national scope as an ostensible remedy to prevent future outages of its kind—a cry that went up in face of the fact that a government-owned power system was the responsible cause for the blackout in the first place.)

AEP's is a proud record of performance. Nevertheless, we have already taken steps to recheck our entire System. We are doing this to determine if, in any way, we need further to strengthen or improve our protective system or our operating procedures.

It is our aim to render the best electric service in this country. We will not fail. This is our pledge.

COOK HEADS FUND DRIVE

For Regional Hospitals With $3,565,000 Goal; Form National Group

Donald C. Cook, of New York, president of the American Electric Power Company, has accepted leadership of a $3,565,000 fund-raising campaign for Appalachian Regional hospitals.

Cook already has begun organizing a national committee of prominent people to solicit contributions for the 10 non-profit, community hospitals operated by ARH in an Appalachian mountain area of Eastern Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia.

Cook's acceptance of the fund-raising mission was announced in Lexington this week by Garvice D. Kincaid, chairman of the Appalachian Regional hospitals board of trustees.

President Lyndon B. Johnson said he was pleased and stated further in a letter to Cook: "I hope that your national fund campaign will achieve the support necessary to enable these hospitals to meet the needs of the people they serve."

Cook, whose company is the nation's largest investor-owned producer of electric power, declared that "What happens in Appalachia concerns every American, and that is why we are planning a nation-wide appeal." He added:

"Our goal is to provide these hospitals with enough operating capital to enable them to continue their flow of life-sustaining services to the people in Appalachia who depend upon them."

His campaign will seek the support of corporations, foundations and philanthropists throughout the United States. He also will enlist ARH's 29 trustees, its 1800 employees, the doctors who practice in the hospitals, and townspeople of the communities in which the ARH hospitals are located.

Cook pointed out that the 10 ARH hospitals are modern, well-equipped institutions. He said they offer health services, comparable to the best in the nation, to an underdeveloped mountain region of 900,000 people noted for its shortage of hospitals, doctors and nurses.

"These hospitals," he explained, "must have funds to strengthen their working capital position, replace equipment, meet the interest on a federal Area Redevelopment Administration loan, and provide for orderly retirement of a long-term debt."

Dr. Karl S. Klicka, president of ARH, stated: "Mr. Cook is undertaking a magnificent humanitarian service. The help of his talents and prestige will be a blessing to our hospitals' mission in Appalachia."

Columbia, Mo.—Branch Rickey remained in a coma, his condition unchanged since suffering a heart attack November 13. Rickey is 83.

FOUR REGIONAL TEAMS REMAIN UNDEFEATED

The list of undefeated high school basketball teams in the 15th region has dwindled to four after four of the area's 28 teams fell for the first time over the past week-end of play.

Wendell Wallen's Meade Memorial Red Devils pace the region with seven consecutive victories, followed by Inez with four and Pikeville and Louisa two each.

Meade Memorial belted Oil Springs, 96-62, in stretching its string to seven and Wheelwright raised a few eyebrows in the region by winning the Floyd county pre-season tournament as they nipped McDowell, 61-59, in Saturday night's finals.

Despite a 35-point performance by McDowell's ace center Ricky Hall, the Trojans outlasted the scrappy McDowell five in the closing seconds.

Wheelwright jumped ahead 13-

5 at the end of the first period, and was in front 31-27 at half-time, but McDowell tied the count at 43-all at the close of the third period.

Wheelwright had gained the finals by dumping Wayland, 78-58, in first round play and outsting Garrett by the surprising score of 68-49 in the semi-finals.

McDowell moved to the finals by blasting Martin, 80-52, in its first game and whipping Betsy Layne, 54-39, in the semi-finals.

Warfield overcame a third quarter rally by Johns Creek to register an 85-80 victory. The Creekers reeled off 10 consecutive points in the third stanza to go ahead, 67-65, but Warfield recovered in the final frame in eight starts.

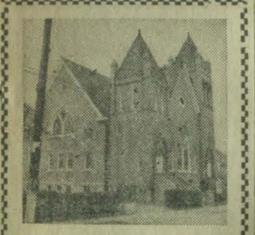

Mitchell Moore paced the winners with 21 points while Johns Creek's Harold Birchfield and Paul Ford scored 25 each for the Bearcats.

Bobby Williamson's Inez Indians nipped host Olive Hill, 52-51, for its fourth victory in as many tries. Senior Gary Stepp topped the Inez scoring with 16 points and Dale Marcum had 13.

Jenkins bounced Belfry from the unbeaten ranks with a 57-52 decision Saturday night, after Belfry had copped a come-from-behind victory over Feds Creek, 70-61, Friday night. All-state football center Paul Hampton tallied 26 and 15 for the Pirates in the two frays.

Virgie, behind the scoring of versatile Roger Bates, won its sixth and seventh games of the season in downing Mercer County, 85-77, and Phelps, 89-84, in an overtime period. Bates hit for 31 and 30 points in the two games.

Pikeville's Panthers overcame a fourth quarter deficit to drop Whitesburg, 67-63, for their second victory in two tries. Steve Planery with 17 points, Kenox Trivette, son of former Panther Coach John Bill Trivette, with 17 and Roger Stewart with 10 led the Panthers in the scoring column.

Manual, Shelbyville To Play Here Friday Vs. P'burg, Paintsville

Two of the state's top-ranked high school basketball teams—Shelbyville and Louisville Manual—invalidate the 15th region this week-end for doubleheaders in Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

Friday night in the 7 p.m. opener of the first twin-bill in Prestonsburg, eighth-ranked Shelbyville clashes with the Paintsville Tigers and in the second game Louisville Manual meets Prestonsburg.

Saturday night, the four teams move to Paintsville where the home-standing Tigers test Manual in the 7 p.m. opener and Prestonsburg battles Shelbyville in the second game.

In an inter-regional battle Saturday night, Hazard's No. 1 Bulldogs come to Wheelwright for a meeting with Don Wallen's surprising Trojans who ran their season's record to 8-1 in winning last week's Floyd county pre-season tournament.

Wallen's charges will give away two inches in height per player but their hope of upsetting the Bulldogs will rest on the speed of veterans Larry Osborne, Kenny Zimbro, Don Thornsbury and stellar sophomore Al Lewis, who has sparked the Trojans in registering eight victories.

Johns Creek will stage its annual four-team invitational tournament Friday and Saturday with Dorton, Phelps and Feds Creek as the participants.

Meade Memorial will be in quest of its eighth successive victory on its home court Saturday night against Mullins, which (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

MAYTOWN
HOME-COMING LUNCHEON
Mrs. Marcella Bailey and Mary Jo Halbert were hostesses to the traditional homecoming luncheon at the Steak House before the annual Maytown homecoming festivities, November 26, honoring their Class of 1944. The tables were decorated with Maytown high school colors, black and gold. The centerpiece was a replica of a boy and girl graduate with cap and gown. Gold streamers were draped from center to 24 black-and-gold place cards.

Rex Osborne, member of the Class of '44, showed movies of last year's reunion and taped long-distance telephone calls from members who were absent. Plans were made for next year's reunion. Also mentioned was a senior trip, since the Class of '44 was during the war years and the class could not go.

Members attending were Rex Osborne, Marcella Bailey, Mary Jo Halbert, Etta Scott, Audrey Martin, June Stephens, Viola May.

STRIP MINE RULES BAN MINING ON STEEP SLOPES

However, there are others who are also eligible for these benefits, but they may be unaware of this. For instance, there are persons who have never worked under social security, or who have not worked long enough to qualify for monthly benefits. These persons will be eligible for the Medicare benefits even though they are not insured under social security or receiving public assistance. However, they must make application. For Medicare benefits to be effective in July, 1966, the application must be made between now and March 31, 1966. Any delay in filing may mean ineligibility for medical benefits either for several months or permanently.

Any person 65 or over who has not applied for social security or railroad retirement benefits or is not receiving public assistance is urged to get in touch with his nearest social security office to obtain information about his eligibility and to make an application for the hospital and medical insurance benefits.

Frankfort—The State Strip Mining and Reclamation Commission has adopted regulations that will prohibit strip and auger mining on steep slopes in Eastern Kentucky and will require more grading in Western Kentucky.

The new regulations have been filed with the Legislative Research Commission and go into effect Dec. 18.

Natural Resources Commissioner J. O. Matlick called the new regulations "much stricter" than the present ones.

The new rules were adopted after two public hearings and informal talks with operators and conservationists.

Governor Edward T. Breathitt ordered them drawn up after touring mine operations in both the eastern and western coal fields. Breathitt will also ask the 1966 Legislature to enact an interstate mining compact that will impose regulations on the surface mining of coal and other minerals.

The new regulations establish a maximum bench width in relation to the steepness of slopes being mined in Eastern Kentucky. The range is a maximum bench width of 250 feet for a slope as steep as 25% to a bench width of 45 feet on slopes as steep as 65%. On slopes steeper than 65% the spoil can not be pushed over the edge of the bench. This would eliminate steep-slope mining, Matlick said.

Additionally, "filter zones"—undisturbed area between the spoil banks and any public road, stream or adjoining property—must be established, ranging in width from 40 to 150 feet and increasing with the steepness of slope.

In Western Kentucky, where the terrain is relatively level, miners must grade all the mined land to a rolling topography that can be traversed by conventional farm machinery.

The first proposal required grading only for slopes steeper than 12%. Under the new rules no graded slope in Western Kentucky can exceed 25%.

Western Kentucky coal-mine operators strongly objected to this proposal at a public hearing Oct. 4-5. They later offered a counter proposal that "striker-off" grading be continued, with a maximum depth of 10 or 12 feet between ridges.

A proposed regulation on "scalping" was dropped from the rules that were approved. It would have required the "scalping", or complete removal, of vegetation from the hillside below before a spoil bank was piled there.

Matlick said that after talking with foresters he agreed the "scalping", regulation wasn't necessary.

It will be replaced with a regulation restricting placement in the spoil bank of any trees or brush taken from the bench area.

Other regulations adopted:
• Establish time limits for the completion of grading;
• Set more rigid standards for re-establishing vegetation on spoil banks;

• Allow the Strip Mining and Reclamation Commission to change an operators' reclamation requirements in certain instances;
• Give tighter controls to the Commission on handling of surface water and burying of acid-producing materials.
