WATER DIST. SETS COMMUNITY MEETS

TWO-COUNTY JOB NEARING WORK STAGE

Applications from 550 Necessary Before Work Can Be Started, Said

The Sandy Valley Water District is nearing the construction stage of its $1,283,000 undertaking to supply water to nine Floyd and Pike county communities and has scheduled two community meetings next week of all who are interested in the water service.

First of the meetings will be held Tuesday at 7 p.m. at Betsy Layne high school auditorium; the second, next Thursday at 7 p.m., at the Mullins high school auditorium.

Purpose of the meetings is to advise citizens of the general nature of the project and to take applications for service. It is explained that the Economic Development Administration, the federal agency involved in the undertaking, requires the district to have at least 500 applications for service signed and accompanied by a $25 deposit before work can be started on the system.

The city of Pikeville and commissioners representing the water district agreed last week on a contract for the purchase of water from the Pikeville system, Clifford B. Latta, attorney for the water district, said here.

The area to be served by the district's water system includes the communities of Stanville, Betsy Layne and Harold, in this county, and Boldman, Green Meadows, Broad Bottom, Blairtown, Mossy Bottom and Coal Run, in Pike county.

Engineers expect the project to be ready for advertising for bids this month, with construction possibly to begin early in April. Completion is expected within 10 months.

In addition to 12 miles of 12-inch water mains, the construction phase will include erection of two large storage tanks and the extension of lines into residential areas.

This Town . . . That World

It didn't sound like late January, two nights this week at our house; Peepers began rehearsing for their spring concert.

A FIRST

I wonder if they can collect on this kind of evidence (probably not, since they claim you can't believe what you see in a newspaper). Anyway, I parked at this meter, the other day, strolled over to the hospital, went upstairs, returned, eyed a display in a sporting goods window and walked halfway to the corner when I suddenly remembered—I hadn't paid the meter. And, for the first time I can recall, there wasn't a ticket waiting for me when I hotfooted it back to the car.

SO SAID THE LATE MR. BURNS

Back in 1908 or 1909, when his father was Representative from the Lawrence-Boyd district, our Lennie Moore was a page in the House. That was the historic session, I'm told, when the Senate balloted for 30 days before William O. Bradley, the Republican, won the U. S. Senatorial post over J. C. W. Beckham, Democrat. But that is all beside the point; what this piece is concerned with is the speech the late Milton S. Burns, Louisa attorney and friend of the Moore family, made, nominating Lennie as a page.

He gave the subject the full treatment and indulged in quite a bit of old-fashioned oratory, then wound up by telling the House a bit of young Moore's personal history.

In those days, youngsters in these parts, when a baby brother or sister was due to arrive on the scene, were sort of farmed out for a day or so to a neighbor or relative, to return home after matters had settled down a bit—after, as they used to say, "the frolic was over."

HEARING SET ON NEW DAM

Salyersville Hearing Next Wednesday Night Slated by Engineers

The Louisville district, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday, in the Salyersville high school gymnasium on the proposed Royalton Reservoir, it was announced this week by Col. Robert R. Westels, district engineer.

The hearing is part of a current survey being conducted to determine if the presently authorized local protection plan for Salyersville on Licking River should be modified to include channel improvement of the river, Burning Fork and State Road Fork.

As part of the total plan, the Soil Conservation Service, Department of Agriculture, is considering both structural and non-structural improvements in the watershed.

Basic purposes of the total plan include reduction of flood damages, providing water for municipal and industrial purposes, increasing the outdoor recreational opportunities of the area, providing for improved land use and treatment, and providing opportunities for improving the industrial base.

The last item includes possible future employment in accord with the objectives of the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965.

Purpose of the hearing is to inform all concerned of the extent and nature of the improvements under consideration. Oral statements will be heard, and written statements will be incorporated into the official record if received by February 22, 1967.

Total estimated cost of the proposed project is $24,600,000.

Students Awarded Scholarships

MISS HACKWORTH

MISS BICKFORD

Two scholarship awards to Prestonsburg Community College students were announced this week by the Princess Elkhorn Coal Division of Princess Coals, Inc., at David. The recipients are Misses Jane Collins Bickford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David G. Bickford, of Auxier, and Dianna Hackworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hackworth, of West Prestonsburg.

The awards are made annually to sons and daughters of employees who have completed 14 hours of college work and have achieved satisfactory grades. Each scholarship has a value of $375, payable during the remaining three semesters the student has at Prestonsburg Community College.

The new grants bring to six the total of Princess scholarships now in effect. Three are Prestonsburg Community College students, and one scholarship recipient will be graduated this year from Morehead University.

FORMER FLOYD MAN FREED BY GOVERNOR

Robert Lee Addison, who was known in this county as Elbert Roy Clark, or Buddy Clark, is a free man, with the fear of arrest which he suffered for 31 years behind him.

Addison was arrested Dec. 27 at his Kopperston, W. Va. home by FBI agents and returned to Virginia to serve the time standing against him when he escaped from a prison farm in 1936. Immediately, former neighbors and friends began appealing to Governor Godwin, of Virginia, for executive clemency.

Last week, Virginia authorities did a check on the prisoner in this county where he spent upwards of 20 years after his prison escape. Floyd Parole Officer James Duff cooperated in the investigation. Former neighbors of Addison at Martin were questioned. Official records here were searched.

Former acquaintances at Martin and Drift spoke highly of the prisoner. At Martin folks remembered him for his coolness when four persons were electrocuted as a radio aerial fell across a power line. Addison held back grief-stricken relatives of the victims and used a timber to disengage the aerial from the high-tension line. He was credited with saving other lives.

Governor Godwin granted a pardon Friday to the 53-year-old former coal miner. Governor Godwin said he acted after considering reports from Gov. Hulet Smith of West Virginia, the Virginia Parole Board, "and from many individuals who recommended the pardon, including . . . citizens of Floyd county, Kentucky, where Addison lived and worked for two decades prior to his residence in West Virginia."

Addison was serving a five-year term for malicious wounding when he escaped a state road camp in Fauquier county, Va., May 16, 1936. He fled to Kentucky, where he rejoined his young wife. In his subsequent years, spent mostly as a coal miner, the couple reared six children—three boys, three girls. But always Addison lived in fear of discovery.

The fear was realized the night of Dec. 27, 1966, when the FBI knocked on his door at Kopperston as he worked on a broken washing machine in the basement. He came

IT'S A MILD WINTER BUT HARD ON ROADS

It hasn't been any great shakes of a winter, as Eastern Kentucky winters go, but the condition of rural roads is such that you'd think, if you didn't know better, there has been a series of freezes in sub-zero temperatures, with several deep thaws in between.

County Judge Henry Stumbo said this week he has been devoting most of his time during the last two weeks to road problems. But he admitted it was a losing battle.

"About all we're able to do, with roads in terrible shape in all parts of the county, is to keep school bus routes open. And we aren't doing too much of a job at that," he added.

Rocks, gravel, "red dog"—all are being used on the repair job, as they are available. Some blacktopped roads also were broken up, it was reported.

What has caused the unusual deterioration of roads during a comparatively mild winter? Those concerned with road maintenance aren't certain they know. Judge Stumbo expressed the theory that a rather heavy snowfall on top of a freeze, then a thaw and the melting snow seeping into the road-bed rather than being washed off by a rain, may be responsible. A good, hard rain often is beneficial, he remarked, in that it settles the mud.

Some damage may have resulted to steep banks and even some blacktopped roads by the application of salt last winter, others believe.

P'BURG-CADIZ ROAD VIEWED

Breathitt Tells Group He Is Ordering Survey Of 350-Mile Stretch

The Highway Department will make a feasibility study on developing KY 80 into a major east-west route across southern Kentucky from Prestonsburg to Cadiz.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt told a delegation of more than 40 local leaders and politicians last week that he is ordering the survey of a road to run from Prestonsburg westward to Cadiz. Much of the remaining stretch might be handled eventually through Appalachian aid.

The Highway 80 Association did not ask necessarily for a toll road or even a four-lane highway, but definitely sought a first-class road all the way. "It all boils down to a question of money," Highway Commissioner Mitchell Tender said. "We have been doing what we can for Highway 80."

Tinder said, as did Breathitt in an earlier meeting last week, that the announced reduction in federal highway aid to the states would dampen prospects for any new highway.

"Even now, we're threatened with still a further cutback," he said. "We have no assurance of what federal funds will be for next year."

Breathitt said he is asking governors in other states to mobilize and to urge Washington restore the original road aid cuts.

He said that in ordering the feasibility survey for KY 80 "I can't say anything else except that I strongly support it."

The governor also reminded the delegation that a governor's race is coming up and "we can't let this thing become a political football . . . Let's move along in a responsible manner."

The new highways, as proposed, would start at Interstate 24 near Cadiz, extend eastward to near Somerset, include the 32-mile stretch of KY 80 now being built from Somerset to L75 at Corbin and then go on to Prestonsburg.

On the way to Prestonsburg it would tie in with offshoots of the Mountain Parkway. Here it would connect with Appalachian roads.

DR. CAMPBELL TO DETAIL COLLEGE EXPANSION PLANS AT CLUB MEETING TONIGHT

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the Prestonsburg Community College, will speak this evening (Thursday) at the regular weekly meeting of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club on the new building program for the college and will also seek to bring the community's businessmen up to date on the future of various programs at the College. In his address Dr. Campbell will discuss the Kellogg Eastern Kentucky Research Development Project, the Community Medicine and Health Technologies Programs, the Homemaking, Forestry, and Mining Technologies curricula, etc.

Prestonsburg Community College is in the process of replacing some of its faculty who will be either returning to school for doctorates or getting married. Dr. Campbell announced that the college is planning to incorporate many new programs in the field of health technologies, forestry and mining technology in its new buildings. Further details on these plans will be available after the actual planning for new buildings begins.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week, Dr. Campbell will be in Washington to discuss with the Office of Economic Opportunity and the National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities the possibilities of securing a three-year cultural program in the following areas: Theatre arts, piano, voice, arts and crafts, and possibly a string program.

February 15, at May Lodge, the college will be host at a luncheon for all superintendents of schools in its service area in order to familiarize them with the plans for the college's growth. February 20, the board of trustees will review the final development plan for the Community College, and it is hoped that favorable action will be taken at that time.

Russell Wiley, recipient of the K. J. Bowles Memorial Scholarship, is shown being congratulated by Gary Goble (right), president of the Prestonsburg Community College Circle K Club.

Gary Goble, president of the Circle K Club of Prestonsburg Community College, has announced that Russell Wiley, a sophomore from Prestonsburg, has been awarded the first Kimber J. Bowles Memorial Scholarship for 1967.

This award of $150.00 was named in honor of the late Mr. K. J. Bowles, who was instrumental in organizing the Circle K Club at the college last year, and as a tribute to the work and enthusiasm shown by Mr. Bowles for young people. Mr. Bowles was a member of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club.

Wiley is majoring in history and intends to become a teacher. He plans to attend Eastern Kentucky University after completing his work at Prestonsburg Community College. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Overton Wiley, of Lancer.

NATURE TRAILS

THE WOLVES OF PIONEER TIMES

The gray timber wolf is a blood brother to the dog; his scientific name, Canis lupus, means, literally, "dog-wolf." He can interbreed with dogs, too. There are no distinct species of the wolf but merely different color phases. The timber wolf, once abundant in this region, has a harsh, brindle-gray coat and looks much like a large, shaggy dog. He stands about 32 inches tall at the shoulder and weighs about 100 pounds at full maturity. He has the erect ears, the long-muzzled and the non-tractile claws typical of the dog family.

The Arctic wolf, which ranges in the far north, is pure white and is known as the white wolf. It attacks and devours animals such as the musk ox, caribou and moose. The Arctic wolf now is almost entirely extinct.

In pioneer days there were many wolves in our region. Wolf Creek, in Martin county, got its name from a large timber wolf killed near its mouth. The wolves of those days ranged wherever there were white-tailed deer and smaller game to kill and devour. They also attacked the elk, bison, moose and game birds. When nothing fresh to eat could be found, they ate carrion.

When the pioneers moved in and began to raise stock, the wolves soon began to devour their cattle, sheep and even the young colts. They grew bold and fierce in their attacks and, when driven by hunger, wouldn't hesitate to charge in close to the premises to grab a calf or a colt.

So the pioneers declared open war on the wolf. These animals were gradually wiped out over at least 90% of their former range. The last wolf was killed in the Adirondacks in 1893; the last one was killed in Maine as late as 1936. In England, wolves were completely exterminated by the end of the 18th Century. A few packs of wolves still range around the Great Lakes region and in parts of southern Canada.

The local names preserve the memory of these fierce, blood-thirsty animals, which were especially designed by nature to keep in check and balance the mushrooming population of big game animals, such as the deer, elk and moose. Of these larger animals, the wolves mostly attacked the old, infirm or crippled, or the very young. Thus they kept the herds healthy and vigorous. A big bullmoose in his prime could fight off a pack of wolves, but when he got too old to fight, he fell a ready victim to their fangs.

There are many streams in our region named "Wolf," also towns, counties and postoffices. Some families have the surname, Wolf, and are proud of it.

The mother wolf bears from 10 to 12 pups in April, usually in a burrow under a rock ledge or in a dense thicket. For all their ferocious nature, the wolf parents are deeply devoted to their young and give them tender, loving care. During the summer, they mostly hunt as a family group and capture the smaller game to feed their young. But in the autumn a number of wolf families get together and organize a pack to range far over the countryside in search of anything they can find to devour. The wolf pack may consist of as many as 25 or 30 members and they hunt in wide circles, circling over an area until they clean up everything they can find to eat. They cover the same ground about every two or three weeks.

When I was a boy, my Aunt Sarah told me about the "belled wolf," which greatly excited my imagination. She lived in Indiana as a child about the year of 1840, and she said there were plenty of wolves then. One night some men captured a wolf in a blacksmith shop where the starving animal had gone looking for something to eat. They muzzled the wolf and put a small bell, fastened with a light chain, round its neck. Then they turned it free and Aunt Sarah told how you could hear that wolf running in a circle with the pack almost every night. I could always shut my eyes and see that wolf running with the small bell jingling a merry tune. The belled wolf helped the settlers keep in touch with the movements of the pack and they knew how to guard their stock against their attacks.

While wolves usually shy away from humans, a hungry pack has been known to devour a lone human. Once they get the taste of blood they go mad with the lust to kill and devour. Many sayings have come down to us from the days of the wild wolf. To "cry wolf" is to give a false alarm, like the boy did who, watching the sheep, cried, "Wolf, wolf!" when there was no wolf. To "keep the wolf from the door" means to keep out hunger and want. "Hungry as a wolf" is used to express intense craving for food, and to "wolf down one's food," is to eat greedily like the wolf. The timber wolves could not compete with man and have been almost exterminated.

CIRCUMSTANCES MAY FORCE A NEEDED CHANGE

News from the Kentucky Education Association indicates that the Kentucky General Assembly will be asked to make available upwards of $370 million to be spent over the next biennium on teachers' salaries, school construction and equipment.

How whatever amount the Assembly earmarks for public education will be spent, and where, is already clearly marked. The number of pupils, classroom units and so on will pretty well determine the allocation of these funds.

But what of the needs of public higher education, now that Kentucky has not one university but five, and how will the available money be apportioned to them?

Each has its needs. All are ambitious, bent on developing their potential to the fullest, as they should be. The four new universities must develop in facilities and curriculum, and that involves an upgrading in instructional personnel, if they are to be more than universities in name only.

Now, for the allotment of funds. In the past, the General Assembly has been subjected to all the blandishments and political pressures that will be brought to bear upon them. Beleaguered by demands from the several state institutions of higher learning, the legislators listened to the importunities of college presidents, viewed their budgets, considered their needs with inexpert eyes—and did the best they could to satisfy everybody, knowing that in the end few if any would be satisfied.

The same situation will prevail in Frankfort, next January. Only the demands will be greater than ever. And the wherewithal to meet those demands will come far short.

This prospect recalls the recommendation made by the Governor's Commission on Public Higher Education during the administration of Governor Combs. At that time the Commission, which also made the study that resulted in the state's Community College System, suggested a "chancellor system" to control and coordinate all higher-education activities.

This plan would establish a master board of laymen, representative of all sections of the state, and to be known as the State Board of Higher Education. The Commission's suggestion was that such a board would establish a research staff working under a director whose training, qualifications and pay would be commensurate to that of a college or university president. And, in short, it would be the job of that director and his research staff to look on the needs of Kentucky as a whole and not on this university campus or that.

The situation may become so involved, or even impossible, that this reform will be the only way out of the mess.

School 'Breakfast For All' Just Too Much

(An editorial in The Lexington Herald)

"Drop by the school and let's have breakfast," may be an invitation of the future, to adults as a paternalistic government begins a program of providing the morning meal to all school children. It's just a step from an almost-free meal for the children to an open invitation to "all God's children" to eat at the government's bountiful table.

Lexington schools became a pilot operation recently and if all goes well the program will be extended to other public school systems. There can be little doubt of its success, for at today's grocery prices where else can one buy orange juice, a glass of milk and a donut or sweet roll for a nickel? Mind you, we said a nickel, and we mean, according to the school announcement, just five pennies for all these items. Many students, reports indicated, took double portions and still weren't hurt financially.

Under this program any children in school can come to the public trough—pardon the use of this word but no other describes it—and learn in his formative years that old Uncle Sam is a real fellow. Appalachia has been criticized as fostering a program of handouts that make its residents dependent on government for a living. This new school breakfast program easily could spread the philosophy to all areas of the country. The program of providing lunches for school children is an old one. In its early days provision was made for providing a hot lunch for children who couldn't get a good lunch at home and funds were provided to see that those unable to pay got their noonday meal for nothing.

That was just the start, the break-through. Now breakfast has been added to the "let's eat out" program and parents can sleep as late as they wish in the knowledge that Johnny will not go hungry through any delinquency or laziness on their part. And think, too, of the savings in these times of rising food costs! We only hope that parents will recognize their children when they come home from school as in the future they may have little opportunity to see them.

WORK PROGRAM IN AREA FACES FINANCIAL SQUEEZE

The "Happy Pappy" program in Eastern Kentucky, already squeezed by a federal fund reduction, faces additional financial trouble in the future unless the state government can come up with some money of its own.

State welfare administrators learned Friday that the federal government has granted a $2.6 million emergency advance which will enable present programs to continue through the end of February, when many families would have to be cut from the program.

But no word has been heard on the state's request for an additional $1.2 million advance to continue for the month of March.

Economic Security Commissioner Leslie Dawson said, "This means we can at least hold the line temporarily for jobless fathers through the coldest months of winter."

In Washington, federal officials said they expect to make up for the Happy Pappy fund cut by expanding other work-training programs, but these would require the state government to appropriate some money of its own in matching funds.

An alternate program, Community Work and Training, administered by the U. S. Welfare Agency, requires $1 in state funds for every $3 of federal money and was the origin of Kentucky's first work-training projects in 1964. Later the state switched to the Happy Pappy program, in which the federal government pays all costs.

Mrs. Barbara Coughlin, assistant to U. S. Welfare Commissioner Ellen Winston, said that new legislation will be introduced to redesign the Community Work and Training program. She said that it was always considered a temporary "demonstration" project only.

Another alternative for Kentucky is a series of new programs being developed by the U. S. Department of Labor for which many of the unemployed fathers would be eligible.

Among other things, the new programs would emphasize work programs to aid projects such as highway beautification and park development, said Leonard Burchman, a Labor Department official. Another objective will be to employ aid recipients while they are being trained in apprentice programs for permanent jobs.

These programs also require a share of state money, Burchman said. Until July 1, states must pay 10 percent of the costs, and after July they will have to pay 20 percent.

Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Hindman, is also working to save the program.

He introduced a bill in the House which would restore the $60 million cut from the program's budget this year, but the bill's future doesn't seem bright. He is also casting about for substitute programs which might help out some of the men dropped from the lists.

Perkins is chairman of the powerful Education and Labor Committee.

Another blow to the Happy Pappies came in Tuesday's federal budget message. The new federal budget apparently means even more drastic reductions in Kentucky's programs next year.

The Johnson administration budget proposes that throughout the country the Work Experience and Training Program (the so-called Happy Pappies) be cut from $100 million to $70 million for the 1967-68 fiscal year, reducing the number of recipients from 46,000 to 30,000.

Kentucky receives the maximum aid permitted any one state. Last year's reductions brought a drop from $17.5 million to $12.5 million for the current fiscal year. Under the proposed budget, Kentucky's share would be cut again—to $8.75 million, or even less if more states survive, besides his mother and widow, are one son, Savage Reginald Hayes, of Ypsilanti, Mich.; two brothers, Bernard Hayes, of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Judson Hayes, of Zionsville, Ind., and two sisters, Mrs. Goldie Howell, of Ashland, and Mrs. Josephine Cowgell, of Owensboro.

He also leaves three grandchildren. Funeral rites were conducted Sunday at 1 p.m. from the Maytown Methodist Church, the pastor, the Rev. Leonard Summer, officiating. Burial was made in the Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel under the direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Serving as active pallbearers were Clem Martin, George Lavens, Dave Flannery, Ezra Turner, Tramble Turner, Barritt Hayes, Everett Hayes, John P. Sammons, Carl Martin, Bill Ratliff.

Honorary pallbearers were T. J. Allen, Roe Turner, Raymond Turner, Olin Elliott, William Dingus, B. F. Reed, Dan Reed, Ray Allen, Allie Howard, W. J. Reynolds, John Snodgrass, Sheriff Frazier, Bob Dermont, Charlie Hensley, Henderson Terry, Glenn Spradlin and Wesley Campbell.

to participate in the program.

Because of this year's aid reductions, Kentucky must drop about 1,500 men from the 5,600 originally participating in the program.

The Happy Pappy program in Kentucky reached 6,100 families in the middle of last year. It has now been trimmed to 5,350, where its size was frozen last month. The emergency federal funds will continue this load until the end of February.

"If no further extension is granted past February," Dawson said, "there will be no checks in March for the Happy Pappies who must be cut off."

The U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare wants Kentucky to make the cuts by dropping 10 counties from the program entirely and keep full benefits in the nine remaining counties, which were the first to participate in the program.

The state wants to retain all 19 counties, reduce benefits and drop fathers who have participated for at least two years.

Dawson said the following is the state's view of the situation: —It must know by Feb. 20 what is going to happen because the March checks must begin to be processed.

—It must continue to explore every possible means of staving off a reduction in the program.

—It must keep all 19 counties because of the hardships Dawson said would result otherwise. He maintains the 10 latecomer counties are as bad, or worse off, economically as the original nine.

Dawson said the state is also trying to find permanent jobs for some fathers, and is attempting to relocate a number of them, mainly to Louisville and Lexington from the 19 mountain counties, to ease the impact of the impending fund cut.

was given by State Detective Chester D. Potter and Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and Mrs. Doris Anderson. These signed statements differed from that produced by the defense at the trial, except for that of Oakley Harless, whose statement and oral testimony were in substantial agreement.

Two cases have been set for trial Friday, and the court term has been extended to include Feb. 4. One of the hearings set Friday is that of W. B. Williams, who was convicted in quarterly court of possessing and selling intoxicating beverages in local option territory. He appealed the verdicts to circuit court, and Special Judge C. E. Lowe denied the appeal, remanding the cases to quarterly court. Later, however, when the defendant showed that his appeal was denied when he was not in court and at a time when he had given notice that he could not be present, Judge Lowe set aside his order dismissing the appeal and set the case down for retrial.

The defendant in the other case is Michael Henson, Negro, who was jailed Jan. 18 and indicted this week on a charge of striking with intent to kill. Because he could not execute the $2,000 bond required for his release, an early trial was arranged. Henson is accused of assaulting Lawrence Hicks, soon after Henson's arrival at Wheelwright. He is said to have come to this county from Pennsylvania.

A grant of $770,000 and a loan of $513,000 have been approved for the two-county project.

When the system is completed a portion of the $25 deposit made by consumers will serve as a meter deposit, and the remainder will be credited against future water bills of the depositor. The $25 payment prior to construction will also entitle the applicant to a connection and meter at no additional cost. Those who wait to apply after construction is started will be required to pay the actual cost of making a connection at their property line.

Commissioners of the water district are Jack I. Branham, chairman, E. H. Stumbo, secretary-treasurer, Walter Hall, Fred B. Redwine and Dr. H. R. Myers.

Surviving, besides his mother and widow, are one son, Savage Reginald Hayes, of Ypsilanti, Mich.; two brothers, Bernard Hayes, of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Judson Hayes, of Zionsville, Ind., and two sisters, Mrs. Goldie Howell, of Ashland, and Mrs. Josephine Cowgell, of Owensboro.

He also leaves three grandchildren. Funeral rites were conducted Sunday at 1 p.m. from the Maytown Methodist Church, the pastor, the Rev. Leonard Summer, officiating. Burial was made in the Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel under the direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Serving as active pallbearers were Clem Martin, George Lavens, Dave Flannery, Ezra Turner, Tramble Turner, Barritt Hayes, Everett Hayes, John P. Sammons, Carl Martin, Bill Ratliff.

Honorary pallbearers were T. J. Allen, Roe Turner, Raymond Turner, Olin Elliott, William Dingus, B. F. Reed, Dan Reed, Ray Allen, Allie Howard, W. J. Reynolds, John Snodgrass, Sheriff Frazier, Bob Dermont, Charlie Hensley, Henderson Terry, Glenn Spradlin and Wesley Campbell.

Arlene Sievers, a sophomore at North high school, Evansville, Ind. is one of 30 young people from throughout the United States chosen by the University of Louisville International Center to study and tour abroad next summer.

She will arrive next June in Singen, Germany for six weeks of study, mainly of the German language. An additional two weeks will be spent on tours of France, Spain, Belgium, Switzerland and Luxembourg.

She is the daughter of Fred Sievers, Evansville newspaperman, and Billie Moore Sievers, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Moore, of Prestonsburg.

Youths selected for the study and tours abroad will pay their own expenses. Arlene, now 15, began studying German while in the fourth grade, instructed by a private tutor. She also studied Russian privately while in grade school. She is now in her second year of high school German and first year of Spanish.

quietly. Addison pleaded guilty to the escape charge in a Richmond court. He was sentenced to one year, but it was suspended.

Addison wore a gray suit and tie instead of the usual prison garb when he, his attorney, Jay Weinberg, and C. C. Peyton, superintendent of Virginia's state penitentiary, met the Governor last Friday.

Addison's two sons live in Detroit. One of his daughters remains at home in Kopper-ton, a victim of cerebral palsy.

Addison, now crippled by arthritis, said he supports his family solely on Social Security benefits and other state and federal payments.

Lennie got farmed out, so Mr. Burns recalled in his speech, but in due time returned. He went to his mother's room to view the newcomer, and his mother was naturally concerned about how he had fared, away from home.

"Did you have a good time, son?" "Yes, mother." "Were they nice to you?" Again, an obedient, "Yes, mother."

"Did you have plenty to eat, son?" That did it. This question set Lennie's tongue in gear (some say, it has never since got out). "They had the best food I ever ate!" he declared. "It—"

"What was it, son—how did they make it?" his mother wanted to know. "Oh, it's simple, but it's so good!" gushed the boy. "All you have to do is take a wasper's nest and pour molasses over it."

And that—according to the late Milt Burns—was how Lennie Moore made his first acquaintance with honey.

ON SAVING YOUR BREATH Wait Hale was discoursing this week on that tired feeling and the need to conserve energy. Said he had decided he had been tiring himself out, just talking too much. He makes a practice of saluting every visitor to his barber shop, inquiring after his health and perhaps expressing some interest in how other members of the family are faring. As a consequence, the other afternoon, he was so tuckered out that when this fellow eases in, and then he puts into practice this newly discovered secret about how to conserve his strength, by greeting two at the same time, "Howdy, gentlemen," he sings out, "How're you both and all your folks?"

AREA FUNDS BOOST BACKED BY PERKINS

Congressman Carl D. Perkins, of Hindman, called on Congress Monday night to let the need for heavy expenditures in the Vietnam fighting keep it from voting money for welfare projects at home.

Speaking before a dinner meeting of a conference on rural poverty, held by the National Association for Community Development, the new chairman of the House Committee on Education and Labor said:

"Barring total, unlimited war, I believe that we can and must get on with the business of building the nation's economy toward the fullness of its promises. And that includes the reduction of poverty to a point as near zero as human intelligence and human ingenuity can take it."

Of those who insist that domestic programs must be curtailed because of the demands of Vietnam, Representative Perkins said:

"There are some among us who are timid and who honestly feel that it is better to postpone the rescue of the American poor until our commitments in Vietnam have been fulfilled. They are convinced that the nation's economy cannot support a foreign war and a domestic crusade at the same time."

"I do not want to question the sincerity of anyone, but I must respectfully disagree."

To illustrate his own belief that domestic demands must not be neglected for Vietnam, Perkins cited three proposals he is making for increased expenditures.

One is his measure which would authorize the expenditure of $2 billion for construction of grade school and high school buildings. The other two are in a new Appalachian regional bill he is drafting.

In that measure he would at least double the $840 million the last Congress provided for construction of roads in the 12-state area. He also would authorize the expenditure of $500 million for construction of hospitals and medical centers. In addition to construction of new buildings, his measure would authorize the purchase of existing hospitals which have had difficulty keeping in operation. Such a provision would allow the purchase of hospitals formerly operated by the welfare fund of the United Mine Workers union.

The law enacted two years ago provided for only $41 million for hospitals and medical centers in the Appalachian section.

C. OLLIE ROBINSON, Clerk
Floyd County Court

2-2-67

In a double-ring ceremony solemnized Dec. 26, in the First Methodist Church at Paintsville, Miss Karen Michele Conley became the bride of Larry Douglas Herald.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morris Conley, of Salyersville. Mr. Herald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Douglas Herald, of Prestonsburg.

The Rev. Josephus Howard, grandfather of the bride, performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar of wrought iron candelabra holding cathedral tapers, white and gold carnations and palms.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Louise Cooper, of Paintsville, and Mrs. Margaret Arnette, of Salyersville, vocalists, and Mr. John Grant Wheatley, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding a floor-length gown of white silk gros-de-londres, with fitted bodice and sabrina neckline embroidered with pearls, sequins, and aurora stones. The lilly pointed sleeves were edged in scalloped lace and the apron back gown appliqued with slipped chantilly lace ended in a flowing chapel train.

Her chantilly bordered veil of illusion was held in place by a regal crown of pearls and aurora stones. She carried a white chantilly lace Prayer Book covered with white orchids, carnations and tied with stephanotis and white satin ribbon.

Miss Conley's attendants were Miss Carol Collins as maid-of-honor and Miss Sandra Conley, cousin of the bride, and Miss Tommy J. Williams, of Paintsville as bridesmaids. The attendants wore dresses in full-length treasure gold crepe-de-sole and mat-velvet in the empire style, with venise lace accentuating the waists.

Miss Diana Horn, cousin of the groom, was junior bridesmaid, and Robin Marsh, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Their dresses were matching floor-length gold mat-velvet with basque waists, scoop necklines and tulip cup sleeves.

Miss Kathy Rice and Miss Vicki Denny, cousins of the bride, were taper lighters. Their dresses were of white double knit wool trimmed in pastel pink and green yarn. They wore wristlets of white and pink carnations.

Mr. William Douglas Herald served his son as best man. Charles N. Conley, brother of the bride from Berea, Gary Herald, brother of the groom, Huey Gray, and Don Calhoun, of Prestonsburg, were ushers.

The mother of the bride chose for her daughter's wedding an aqua double knit wool costume suite with matching shoes, hat and gloves. Her shoulder corsage was dyed to match cymbidiums tied with gold ribbon lace.

The mother of the groom wore a double knit dress of beige wool with fitted jacket, brown velour hat, matching gloves and shoes. Her shoulder corsage was of brown cymbidiums tied with gold ribbon lace.

The reception was held in the church social room.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Herald are students at the University of Kentucky.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

$85 MILLION SCHOOL AID RAISE MAY BE SOUGHT

Kentucky schoolteachers were asked Friday night to seek an $85 million increase in school aid from the 1968 legislature. This would be a 30 percent increase over the $257 million appropriated in 1966.

The money would be used to finance increased state allotments to local districts for teachers' salaries, school construction and operating expenses over the two-year period before the legislature meets again.

This was the substance of a report to the Kentucky Education Association's Delegate Assembly by the KEA's Finance, Education and Salary-Scheduling (FESS) Commission.

The Delegate Assembly is the policy-making body for the 30,000-member professional organization representing most teachers and administrators in the state.

Following are suggested priorities for the 1968 legislative program, as outlined by the FESS Commission:

—Increase current operating expenses from the present $900 per basic classroom unit to $1,100 in 1968-'69, then to $1,400 in 1969-'70. Current operating expenses provide salaries for non-teaching personnel, heating, maintenance and so forth. Estimated cost over the biennium is $21 million.

—Increase capital outlay from the present $600 per classroom to $900 in 1968-'69, then to $1,200 in 1969-'70. Capital outlay allotments finance construction costs. Estimated cost over the biennium is $27 million.

—Increase the salary range for teachers from the present $4,950 to $6,200, depending on experience and degrees held, to a range of $5,150 to $6,900 the first year and $5,150 to $7,450 the second year. Estimated cost of the biennium: $38 million.

—Incorporating an incentive plan into the present minimum foundation program to reward districts which raise more than a required minimum locally. The report recommended that the first appropriation be made for the second year in the biennium, but did not estimate the cost.

—Remove statutory limitations on local tax rates and permit local boards of education to fix tax rates at any level consistent with the desires of their electorate.

—Calculate state allotments to local districts on previous-year, rather than current-year, figures so school boards and teachers know in advance what they have to work with.

The recommendation on unrestricted local taxing power raises the possibility that some of the $85 million increase in school aid could come on the local rather than the state level, if statutory limitations were repealed by the legislature and if local school boards chose to raise property taxes.

Extreme differences in local tax ability among Kentucky school districts, however, suggest that most of the $85 million would have to come from the state.

Verne Horne, secretary to the FESS Commission, said the Delegate Assembly probably would suggest several alternate means of raising the needed revenue after it has decided its legislative goals.

Study Shows Most Ky. Motorists Drive At Reasonable Pace

Frankfort, Ky.—Studies by the Kentucky Highway Department show that 85 percent of all motorists obey reasonable speed limits, according to Highway Commissioner Mitchell W. Tinder.

Tinder says the Department compiled the traffic-study statistics after making comprehensive traffic counts with electronic equipment throughout the state.

The Department is responsible by law for altering basic speed limits imposed on the 24,000-mile state-maintained highway system when conditions indicate that existing limits are unsafe or unrealistic.

Based on engineering studies made not only in Kentucky but throughout the nation, Kentucky has established a graduated speed limit for cities and suburban areas, Tinder says.

"Our studies have revealed that when speed limits are unreasonably low," the Commissioner says, "they will not be obeyed, and will serve no useful purpose unless constantly enforced."

NOT "WHAT" BUT "WHO"

EDITOR, The Times:
I have just finished reading for the third time the article, "Christmas: Eyes Lost, Hands Torn," and feel sick at my stomach. As the result of what is considered innocent fun, some youngsters are maimed for life. But the thing that makes me the sickest is the attitude of the public official, which is indifference to the situation. The law is the law and is set up to protect us (in this case from ourselves). Here it appears that the "indulgent parents" have no concern for the welfare of their children. Then, the law must be enforced to protect them from their "indulgent parents." If these "indulgent parents" knew that the law would be enforced "without respect of persons," that might prove to be just the prescription to cure their "indulgences."

If our public officials are not interested in enforcing the law, when it is time for us to elect some who are. One of the biggest problems in Prestonsburg is not so much "what" is done as "who" does it.

Notice

look like old Pontiacs?

What'll they copy next year?

Other carmakers have already tried to copy our split grille, our stacked headlights, even Wide-Track. Of course, they haven't learned how to put them together right. Which is probably why people are buying 1967 Pontiacs even faster than they bought 1966 Pontiacs. And 1966 was our best year ever.

It seems that a lot of people don't want to wait around for innovations like our disappearing windshield wipers (articulated wide-sweep wipers—the kind you still get only on Pontiacs). And for imaginative options like our exclusive hood-mounted tach.

People like the idea that powerful 400 cu. in. V-8s are standard on all the big Pontiacs this year. And that nobody has even come close to the regular-gas 165-hp Overhead Cam Six that powers our Tempest series.

And people like knowing that all Pontiacs and Tempests come with the complete General Motors safety package.

Of course, somebody else may come up with a pretty good imitation of a 1967 Pontiac. In a year or two. But why wait? Your Pontiac dealer has the real thing right now.

KEA GROUP SUPPORTS TEACHER PARLEY LAW

The Kentucky Education Association Commission on Professional Negotiation will ask the KEA Delegate Assembly this month to approve specific principles for inclusion in the state professional negotiation law to be sought at the 1968 session of the Legislature.

Commission chairman Roger Jones said the proposals cover five basic elements: 1. recognition of negotiating group, 2. procedure and channels for negotiation, 3. matters for negotiation, 4. resolution of disagreement, and 5. protection of individual rights.

If approved by the 650-member Delegate Assembly at its January 27-28 meeting in Louisville, the principles will be incorporated in the draft of a professional negotiation law the PN commission will submit for consideration by the April Delegate Assembly.

1. Recognition of negotiating group—An organization of certificated personnel will be recognized as representative of the staff for negotiation upon furnishing proof that it represents a majority of the certificated personnel of the district below the rank of superintendent.

Classroom teachers and administrators will negotiate through a single organization; or, upon petition of at least 20 percent of the personnel in either or both groups, through separate representatives if determined by a majority vote of either group in a secret ballot referendum conducted by an impartial person or agency.

2. Procedure and channels for negotiation and 3. Matters for negotiation—The designated organization shall have the right, after using established administrative channels, to meet, confer, and negotiate with the board of education of the district, or a committee thereof, concerning policies relating to such matters as curriculum, in-service training, grievance procedures, personnel policies, salaries and salary schedules, employee benefits, working conditions, and other matters which affect the quality of the educational program.

Upon the request of either party, any agreement reached will be put in written form. Upon the request of either party, a written procedure will be jointly developed outlining the negotiation process.

4. Resolution of disagreement—When both parties agree that they cannot agree, the first step for resolving the impasse shall be the appointment by agreement of both parties of a single individual to mediate. (This person might be a staff member of the State Department of Education, a faculty member of a college or university, a local citizen, an out-of-state expert, or a member of the KEA staff, among others.) The mediator's recommendations shall be advisory only. He shall complete his assignment within a specified number of days from the time of his appointment.

If the two parties cannot agree on the choice of a mediator, the state superintendent of public instruction shall appoint such a person.

If the findings of the mediator are not acceptable to one or both parties, the second step for resolving impasse shall be the appointment of a three-member advisory panel.

One member of the panel shall be selected by the board of education and one member shall be selected by the education association within a specified number of days. (These panelists should not be members of the board of education or the association.) The third member, who shall serve as panel chairman, shall be selected jointly by the other two panelists.

If the two panelists are unable within a specified number of days to agree upon the choice of a chairman, the chairman shall be appointed by the state superintendent of public instruction.

Recommendations of the panel shall be advisory only.

5. Protection of individual rights—Certificated personnel shall have the right to join, or not to join, any organization for their professional or economic improvement.

McDOWELL, WHEELWRIGHT SHARE CONFERENCE LEAD

McDowell, Ky.—The 1967 Floyd County Conference basketball race boils down almost as close as last year's. McDowell and Wheelwright share the lead, each with a 4-1 conference record. McDowell has an overall record of 13-6, while Wheelwright has a 14-7 record. McDowell has two conference games remaining, both tough. The Dare Devils meet Maytown at McDowell, Feb. 8, and Wheelwright at Wheelwright on Feb. 7.

The Wheelwright Trojans have just as tough a schedule remaining as they will face McDowell (at Wheelwright) on Feb. 11, and Maytown at Maytown, Feb. 24.

Maytown Is Victor In 2 of 3 Contests; Loses to Betsy Layne

Langley, Ky.—The flu-ridden Maytown Wildcats were able to overcome an aggressive Garrett five Jan. 24 at home, 69-56, without the services of high scoring Mike Tallent.

The following Thursday, at Betsy Layne, Coach Gene Frasure again was unable to keep full strength on the floor. Betsy Layne's taller, stronger aggregation convincingly won the third match of the two teams, 85-69. Maytown won the two previous engagements.

Maytown won handily its second match with the Jackson five from Breathitt county Saturday on the home floor, 89-68. Big Jim Bailey was able to pull down 14 rebounds and score 22 points behind Rudy Thacker, who tallied 25 for game honors.

With a nine-game schedule to be played before the district tournament in March, the Maytown club has all starters averaging in double figures for the past 20 games. Mike Tallent, senior forward, is averaging 24.4 points per game; Rudy Thacker, senior guard, 23.9; Randy Click, sophomore forward, 13.3; Jim Bailey, junior center, 10.4; and Tom Stewart, sophomore guard, 10.3.

At Maytown (69)—Thacker 31, Bailey 9, T. Stewart 10, Click 15, E. Stewart 4, Hicks.

Garrett (56)—D. Martin 6, Pratt 12, Manns 18, Martin 13, Chaffins 7, Stevens.

At Betsy Layne (85)—Hall 21, Parsons 30, Bailey 12, Newsome 8, Blankenship 10, Adkins 2, Donn, Williams 2, Layne.

Elliott-Donahoe Vows Said

In a double-ring ceremony performed Dec. 17 at Our Lady of the Mountains Chapel, Paintsville, Ky., Miss Dianna Evelyn Elliott, daughter of Mrs. Norcie M. Elliott, of Cliff, Ky., and the late Russell Elliott, became the bride of Mr. Michael Donahoe, of Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

The Rev. William Poole officiated. Wedding music was provided by Prof. Abner Greider at the organ, and Sister Helena Maria was soloist.

Given in marriage by her brother, Larry R. Elliott, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin with Alencon lace highlighted with seed pearls and crystals at the sabrina neckline and down the chapel train. A crown of pearls and crystals held her veil. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and lilies of the valley.

Miss Barbara Elliott, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Miss Meredith Elliott, also a sister of the bride. They wore gowns of green velvet and carried cascades of poinsettias.

The flower girl, Miss Janie Beams, cousin of the groom, wore a matching gown of green velvet and carried a basket of holly. Master Phillip Elliott, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

George Parson was best man and ushers were Patrick Donahoe and John Donahoe, brothers of the groom. The reception was held at the church after the ceremony.

For a wedding trip to Lexington, Ky., the bride wore a blue knit suit with black accessories and a carnation corsage.

Mrs. Donahoe is a graduate of Alice Lloyd College and is now a junior at Morehead State University. Mr. Donahoe is a graduate of Alice Lloyd College and is now serving in the U.S. Navy.

Earnings of $1,500 A Year Do Not Cut Social Security Pay

If you work after you apply for social security benefits and earn $1500 or less in a year beginning in January, 1966, you will receive all your social security payments for the year, James G. B. Falk, acting social security district manager at Pikeville, announced this week.

Beginning in 1966, if you earn more than $1500 in a year, the general rule is that $1 in benefits will be withheld for each $2 of earnings over $1500 and up to $2700. If you earn over $2700 in a year, $1 in benefits will be withheld for each $1 earned over $2700.

There are two exceptions to this general rule:

1. If in any month you neither earn more than $125 working for someone else nor do substantial work in a business of your own, you will get your benefits for that month no matter how much you earn in the rest of the year.

2. For months after you are 72 years of age, there will be no deductions from the benefits because of work after you reached 72. If you work after applying for retirement benefits, your additional earnings may increase the amount of your monthly payments, Falk continued.

The Social Security Administration will use its electronic computers to determine whether your recent earnings will increase your benefit amount. If so, the increase will be made automatically and you will not have to apply to have your benefit refigured.

Because of this change, you cannot lose by applying as soon as possible for any benefits due you even though you continue to work, Mr. Falk said.

The social security office located on Second and Division streets in Pikeville, Kentucky, is open Monday through Friday from 8:45 a.m. until 5 p.m. Also, for the convenience of those who cannot visit the office during these hours, the office is open each Friday until 8 p.m. The telephone number is 432-2177.

Chamber Prexy Says Poll Indicates Most Favor Daylight Saving

Kentucky Chamber of Commerce President John W. Woods, Jr., has written Gov. Edward T. Breathitt informing him of the results of the recent poll of Kentucky Chamber members on the question of Daylight Saving Time.

A total of 2,054 replies were received from the questionnaire used in the poll and which gave three alternatives on the time question.

Following are the alternatives and the number of persons in favor of the specific alternatives: That Kentucky adopt Daylight Saving Time by taking no further action (1,043 replies in favor);

That a special session of the legislature be called for the sole purpose of discussing the possible exemption of Kentucky from the Act, and thus causing a retention of Standard Time (332 replies in favor);

That the matter be discussed in the 1968 regular session of the Legislature, but that a special session not be called, thus avoiding the expenditures of funds for such (675 in favor).

The KCC board authorized the poll at the December board meeting.

In his letter to the governor, President Woods pointed out that the Kentucky Chamber is providing this information as it was returned to the Chamber office and that KCC is not assuming a position in the matter at this time.
