BROWN SLAIN BY JACKSON AT LANGLEY

Witnesses Say Victim Held Shotgun at Time Fatal Shot Was Fired

Charles Jackson, 21, is in jail here facing a possible manslaughter charge in the shotgun slaying, shortly after midnight Monday near Maytown, of his brother-in-law, Tommy Brown, Jr., 43.

Brown died almost instantly as the charge of a 16-gauge shotgun was fired into his chest at short range outside his home on Turkey Creek. Jackson was arrested, shortly afterward, by State Trooper Elmo Allen and brought to jail here.

Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo said statements of several witnesses — most of them, relatives of Brown and Jackson — indicated there had been overtones of impending trouble between the two men during the preceding day and that Brown apparently was trying to take his wife's car when shot. The shot was fired from the porch of a nearby home.

Stumbo said that all witnesses agreed Brown had a shotgun in his hands when shot. All but one, he said, testified he had pointed the weapon toward Jackson. The one dissenting witness said the muzzle of the gun held by Brown was pointed toward the ground.

Examining trial for the accused man was set for 2 p.m., Monday. Brown is expected to be held in jail until that time, since the funeral of the victim may be delayed till late this week, pending the arrival from Germany of one of Brown's sons.

The victim was a son of Mrs. Lula Ousley Brown, of Langley, and the late Tommy Brown, Sr. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Alene Blackburn Brown, of Langley; five sons and four daughters, Carl D., Tommy, El, Paul Vernon, Jimmy Darrell, Virginia Mae, Judy Lynn and Kimberly Brown, all of Langley; Billy Joe Brown, of the U. S. Army in Germany, and Mrs. Barbara Sue Patton, of Indiana; three brothers and two sisters, Lawrence Brown, of McDowell, Burley and Johnny Brown, both of Langley; Mrs. Mary Lou Robinson, of Langley, and Mrs. Pearl Bolen, of Michigan.

The body was taken Wednesday from the Hall Brothers Funeral Home to the home of the victim's mother on Johns Branch, near Maytown.

FLOYD-CO. MAN WHO HELPED WITH FOOD STAMP PROGRAM SINCE INCEPTION IS HONORED

The Floyd county man who has had a part in the federal food stamp program since its inception in 1961 has been officially recognized by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for his contribution to the success of the giant food distribution undertaking.

Carl R. Horn, of Prestonsburg, officer-in-charge for USDA's wide-scale operations over the Eastern Kentucky area, last week was awarded a Certificate of Appreciation which cited his services:

"... for your valuable contribution to the successful crash expansion of the program for distributing food to needy families. Your diligence and professional know-how enabled the Department to establish in less than four

Immunization Clinic To Be Held Monday At Dwale Postoffice

The Floyd County Health Department and the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services Program will jointly sponsor an immunization clinic next Monday at Dwale.

The clinic will be held in the rear of the Dwale postoffice building from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 1 to 2 p.m.

A nurse from the health department will give shots to babies or children who have not started or completed their immunization, and to adults for tetanus or smallpox. Children under 12 years of age may also receive their free measles shots.

CHILD CARE GETS GRANT

OEO Gives $558,438 To Support Program In Counties of Area

A grant of $558,438 from the Office of Economic Opportunity to the Rural Child Care Project of the Kentucky Child Welfare Research Foundation was announced last week by George Perkins, commissioner of Child Welfare and executive director of the Foundation.

The grant will support seven months of operation of the Rural Child Care Project which provides child development, social work and homemaking services in and with communities in 10 Eastern Kentucky counties.

The project is unique in that it is staffed at the county level by non-professionals. This includes the staff of the 23 child development centers in which 655 children are enrolled.

In addition to the operation of child development, social work and homemaking services, the grant will provide training for staff and administration of the project.

The counties included are Floyd, Elliott, Harlan, Knott, Lee, Letcher, Magoffin, Morgan, Owsley and Wolfe.

This Town... That World

Stop me if you've heard this one—KERCHOO!

Although some folks claimed LBJ was to blame for all the rioting, demonstrations and wide assortment of violence, his successor was under attack before the inaugural parade was over.

THE SOURCE

We liked President Nixon's inaugural address. The Associated Press reported that he punctuated the address with quotations from speeches by three former Presidents, Abraham Lincoln, Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The quote from Wilson, said AP, came when he urged an end to war and peace, not with victory but "with healing in its wings."

It may be true—I wouldn't know—that Woodrow Wilson said that. But he drew on another for the phrase. It's from the last chapter of the last book of the Old Testament, Malachi 4:2, which reads:

"But unto you that fear my name shall the Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings..." (See Story No. 2, Page 2)

FIVE AUTOS STOLEN HERE

3 P'burg Juveniles Held As Suspects; All Cars Recovered

Five automobiles stolen here in two nights this week have been recovered, and three Prestonsburg youths were arrested Tuesday morning at Tollesboro, Lewis county, as theft suspects.

Two of the juveniles arrested are already under probation. They were listed by state police as Kenny Craft and Tommy DeRossett. State police are checking a line of flight from Prestonsburg, which included the theft of an automobile from Music-Colvin Chevrolet-Buick here Tuesday night. The car was found wrecked, near Lowmansville, where a truck later was reported stolen. In the vicinity of Louisa a car subsequently was stolen.

The series of thefts began Monday night when the Pure Oil Station on Lake Drive here was broken into and keys to D. C. Stephens' Thunderbird were taken. The car, parked outside the station, was taken but later recovered on the nearby bridge connecting Prestonsburg and Town Branch.

The Ashland Oil Service Station and the Playhouse were broken into, the same night, with a small sum in cash taken from the latter.

Tuesday night, a second car was stolen from Music-Colvin. It was pushed from the firm's lot a short distance and left behind the Twister Drive-In. The car apparently was abandoned when Policeman Ray Click spotted it and began maintaining a watch on it. A Corvair owned by Keith Leslie was stolen Tuesday night and later found on Abbott Creek.

A 1969 Mercury found parked behind the high school here Tuesday night by Prestonsburg police was identified as that of Melvin Conley, of Oil Springs.

MEADE QUILTS STATE POST

Paintsville Man Blames Members Of Personnel Bd.

Claiming partisan interference from some Personnel Board members had impaired his functioning, W. Howes Meade has resigned as commissioner of personnel.

In accepting the resignation, Gov. Louie B. Nunn termed it "unfortunate" that Meade's "recent attempts to rectify and strengthen the Merit System have been frustrated to the point that he has relinquished his position."

Meade's removal was called for last Friday by Dr. Frank Gaines, Jr., a Louisville psychiatrist who was chairman of the Personnel Board from its creation in 1960 until this month. He remains as one of two Democratic-appointed members of the board.

When he urged the board last week to recommend that Meade be replaced, Gaines asserted an investigation by the board showed the commissioner had "promoted illegal procedures to evade the law."

Nunn appointed Meade commissioner last April, from a list of four candidates nominated by the Personnel Board. Meade, 56, has practiced law in Paintsville and is a former congressman and administrator for the Federal Housing Administration. Maintaining he has not had the "complete cooperation" of the Personnel Board, Meade asserted to Nunn that "the position I have held during most of your administration has been made too difficult to serve as effective as I would like to have served."

"Extreme partisan politics on the part of some of the members of the Personnel Board," he added, "have impaired my every effort to improve the Personnel Department."

"Since this situation has not cleared, even though the ones now continuing to interfere are in the minority on the board, I feel that it is to the best interest of the Department of Personnel and to the Nunn administration that I allow a new face to head this department, thereby clearing the air."

Administration of the Personnel Department under Meade came in for close scrutiny in an investigation by the Personnel Board last month, the last time (See Story No. 7, Page 2)

3 Divisions Form Island Cr. Group

Consolidation of three of its five divisions into a group to be known as the Island Creek Coal Group, headed by Stonie Barker, Jr., as group president, was announced this week by the Island Creek Coal Company from its Cleveland, Ohio office. Mr. Barker currently is serving as president of the Island Creek Division.

Formation of the group will involve two changes in the Elkhorn Division with headquarters at Wheelwright. A. S. Pack, formerly general manager of the Elkhorn Division, will become general manager of the Island Creek Division, with offices in Holden, W. Va., and Raymond Bradbury, formerly manager of

Indiana Man's 'Gunplay' Becomes Costly Joke

Leonard F. Delong, of Wabash, Ind., had his joke last Sunday, and it cost him $43. Could he cost him more, had Conservation Officer Dalton R. Conley been of a mind to shoot first and ask questions later.

Conley was using binoculars, studying the creek banks in the Hueysville vicinity in search of an illegal trapper, when he saw the Indiana car at the roadside. As he stepped out of his car, a man at the other car levelled a revolver at him and fired.

The officer did not reply in kind and merely levelled his rifle at the other and placed him under arrest.

Then, examining the Indiana man's weapon, he found it was loaded with blank cartridges. The "shot" had been fired as Delong's idea of a joke.

More Funds Seen For East Kentucky

As conjecture arose about the future of various so-called poverty programs under the new Nixon administration confidence was expressed last week by John Whisman, states' representative on the Appalachian Regional Commission, that Congress will pour added funds into the ARC program in Eastern Kentucky this year.

Whisman said new appropriations—an expected $287.5 million for the next fiscal year as compared with $173.6 million for the current year—will add muscle to every facet of the Kentucky program, including more mileage in the Appalachian road-building effort, expansion of the concentrated health program which is already accepted as a model, and greater headway in a vocational education program designed to provide opportunity for every student in the 49 Kentucky counties included in the program.

"We have good reason to believe we will get all, or nearly all, of what has been asked in the budget," Whisman said in a speech at Hazard. "Congress already knows it is getting a good return for the money we

To date, they have raised about $1,500. The youngster's family has contacted state and national foundations for financial aid, including the March of Dimes and the Kentucky Kidney Foundation, and Congressman Carl D. Perkins has written the National Kidney Foundation. No favorable responses have been received. One agency informed Mr. Williamson that no financial help was available for families above the poverty level.

"Right now I'm too poor to meet this crisis and too rich to be on relief because I'm a working man," Mr. Williamson said. While the money is being sought, hospital authorities have launched a search for a kidney donor for Keith, a process that could take months. Keith's name, however, is at the top of their list.

Unfortunately, no one in Keith's family has the type cell tissues in their kidneys that will function in Keith's body.

WOMAN DIES OF INJURIES

Mrs. Virgie Cook, 76, Victim Last Thursday; Death Held Accidental

Mrs. Virgie Mullins Cook, 76, wife of William Cook, of Topmost, died almost instantly last Thursday night when struck by a Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company truck as she crossed the highway in front of her home.

No charge was lodged against the driver of the gas company truck, Garver Shepherd, of Aiken. Mrs. Cook had alighted from a truck driven by a neighbor, Mrs. Velma Bentley, in front of the Cook home, and stepped from behind the Bentley truck into the path of the oncoming gas company vehicle. The tragedy was investigated by State Trooper Delmer Lafferty, of the Hazard state police post, who was quoted as saying Shepherd apparently made every possible effort to avoid striking Mrs. Cook.

The victim was a daughter of William and Polly Osborne Mullins. In addition to her husband, survivors include six sons and one daughter, Rufus Cook, Bolton, Ohio; Luther Cook, Morrow, Ohio; Enon Cook, Preston, Ohio; Pierce and Mack Cook, both of Brunswick, Ohio; Leland Cook, Medina, Ohio, and Mrs. Samantha King, of Kite, Kentucky.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10 a.m. Sunday from the Dry Creek Regular Baptist Church, and burial was made in the Dry Creek cemetery under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

TAG LIFTING THREATENED

Safety Department Planning Crackdown To Enforce New Law

Frankfort, Ky. — The Public Safety Department, reacting to criticism that it is ignoring enforcement of the state motor vehicle inspection law, says it is preparing to suspend the registrations of violators.

"They'll be cited into court, and if motorists refuse to have their cars inspected, we're going to legally proceed to cancel their license plates and get their cars off the road," declared Public Safety Commissioner W. O. Newman.

Newman thus contradicted statements last month by his deputy commissioner, Robert Shirley.

Shirley, head of the inspection division, was quoted as saying the department had decided (See Story No. 8, Page 4)

STABLE FIRE LOSS HEAVY

Redwine Says Loss About $74,000; Blaze Destroys 19 Horses

"I have no alternative but to quit," was the sad decision reached by John R. Redwine, Seventh conservation district supervisor, after the Tennessee Walking Horse stables which he had recently established near Sandy Hook were destroyed by fire, the night of Jan. 12.

Redwine, who is well-known among Eastern Kentucky horsemen, was virtually wiped out. Ten of the 19 horses destroyed in the blaze were his. Redwine estimated the value of the six Tennessee Walkers and four pleasure horses he lost at $68,000. He placed his total loss at around $74,000, with only $5,000 insurance.

Nine other horses, all registered Tennessee Walkers, which were lost in the fire, belonged to others and were being boarded and trained at the stables.

The fire was detected by Redwine's daughter and by a neighbor, Lonny Ward, Jr., at about the same time. Cause of the fire is unknown. Mr. Redwine said the barn had recently been wired for electric heat and a paneled office had been built inside. There were no stoves. Ward, who had passed by the barn on his way home about 30 minutes before the blaze was discovered, had noticed no flames at that time.

Martin Hi School Future Undecided

Martin Case Draws Packed Courtroom; Holiday Declared

When the hearing of the Martin school case was held here Monday morning it attracted a capacity crowd — possibly the largest to assemble in the new Floyd county courthouse for a legal hearing.

Interest in the case, especially in the Martin vicinity, was such that Mayor E. P. Grigsby proclaimed a half-day holiday at Martin Monday so that owners and employees of businesses there could attend the hearing.

Prior to and following the filing of the injunction suit citizens' mass meetings were held at Martin, and last week a delegation went to Frankfort to present their case to Department of Education officials.

SR. CITIZENS DO TEACHING

Program Has Elderly Involved in Showing Others How To Work

A program begun last October under sponsorship of the Big Sandy Area Community Action Program has engaged the elderly in a teaching role as they help and show others how to do things.

Called the Senior Community Services Program, it has 40 senior citizens of both sexes employed in this area. Their ages run from 55 years, up.

The men help and teach those who have been put to work by the Nelson Mainstream project at repairing homes, doing carpentry, drywalling, flooring and other phases of repair work.

The women are in charge of community centers where they teach younger women to sew and quilt. They also supply information on programs from which women of low-income families may benefit and take applications for house repair.

House repair is for low-income families whose housing is substandard. The Mainstream employees, under the supervision of Senior Citizens, provide free labor for such improvements.

Luther J. Conley, public information aide, reports: "On my visit to a house repair job a few days ago, there were two Senior Citizens and four Mainstream men working. They were insulating, flooring and dry walling. They were doing good work. There was one other house about 100 yards from this one. Two elderly people lived there. They had been approved for house repair and were waiting on a loan from FHA to buy the material. Their income is less than $1,300 a year. The interest on this loan will only be one percent.

"These two houses are a mile from a surfaced road. They do not have electricity, since a (See Story No. 5, Page 2)

1939 Injunction Order Main Issue Remaining For Decision by Judge

An effort on the part of Martin citizens to halt construction of the Right Beaver high school at Eastern has apparently failed, but the future of Martin high school remains to be decided.

This was the apparent result of a hearing held here Monday by Special Judge James D. Stephenson, of Pikeville, of a suit seeking a permanent injunction against the Floyd County Board of Education in its move for a new high school and the merger of Martin high with three others.

No formal judgment was entered by Judge Stephenson after hearing presentations by opposing legal counsel, but he did indicate there is nothing in the record that would stop the board of education from its proposed construction program.

In effect, the result of the hearing was to narrow the matter to one main issue: Is the 1939 Floyd circuit court judgment holding that a 12-grade school shall be maintained perpetually in the Martin consolidated school district valid?

The injunction action filed by five Martin residents had sought to restrain the board from constructing a high school at the new Eastern site, from accepting any bid or awarding a contract for such construction and from discontinuing or removing the present high school or any of the grades from the school at Martin.

Effect of a judgment entered last year by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley after a "friendly suit" had been filed to test the 1939 court ruling came in for discussion. The 1968 decision held the earlier ruling invalid, but Joe Hobson, attorney for the Martin plaintiffs, contended that the more recent ruling is of no effect.

W. W. Burchett, attorney for the board, said the question of validity of the 1939 opinion involves also these questions: If the ruling is valid, is it applicable now when no consolidated school district exists and when there are not enough students in the district as it then existed to maintain a high school?

Judge Stephenson directed opposing counsel to prepare stipulations for the case now at issue and to submit them to him for decision later.

Asked by Mr. Burchett if the board has the right to proceed with construction plans, Judge Stephenson remarked that there is nothing in the record to stop it, that the question remaining involves the board's right to require Martin to send its pupils to the new school. (See Story No. 4, Page 2)

25 Floyd Students Win Fitness Award

By GORDON MOORE

"Floyd county's school children rank far below the national average, according to the results of the President's Council on Physical Fitness tests which were concluded in the county in late October," Charles Clark, superintendent of schools, said this week.

Of 3,752 pupils tested, only 25 won the President's Award, and only one rated "excellent."

"When the late President John F. Kennedy began the foundation for our current programs, we realized that Floyd county needed an adjustment in our physical education and physical fitness activities. As Title I funds became available we were able to employ eight additional physical education teachers and a staff consultant," Clark pointed out.

THIS SHOULD QUIET THOSE WHO DEMAND A PROFIT

If Governor Nunn's goal of a $600 million-a-year tourist business is realized by Kentucky next year, it should wipe out the last argument that the state should operate its parks in cold business fashion so as to show a net profit from the parks themselves.

It would appear other benefits should suffice. For instance:

In 1967, when the state tourist business grossed $440 million, more than 77,000 persons—mostly Kentuckians—were employed in the conduct of this growing program of tourism. The Governor predicts that, if the state hits the $600 million mark in tourism this year, 28,000 more jobs will be created.

All the money these workers earn go into circulation in Kentucky, with state business and into state banks. Most of the millions of dollars worth of foodstuffs and other supplies purchased for these tourist attractions are bought from Kentucky suppliers. All the huge gross of the state's tourist attractions is subject to the state sales tax. Every job created reduces the roll of the unemployed by at least one.

There are other benefits — but aren't these enough to lay to rest that old and exceedingly narrow view that parks and shrines and other tourist attractions should be operated only if they show a profit?

Mrs. Mary Alice Dawson Is Victim at Age of 57 At Hi Hat Residence

Mrs. Mary Alice Dawson, 57 years old, passed away Tuesday at her home at Hi Hat after an extended illness.

Survivors include her husband, Pete Dawson; four sons, Carlos, J., Danny Ray and David Linn Dawson, all of Hi Hat, and Eugene Dawson, of Detroit, Mich.; four daughters, Mrs. Mildred Mullins, of Hi Hat, Mrs. Olive Rose Bryant, of Martin, Mrs. Anna Mae Little, Wheelersburg, Ohio, and Mrs. Alice Faye Rat-iff, of Ypsilanti, Mich.; a brother, Willard Lykins, of Printer, and four sisters, Mrs. Josie Moore, of Harold, Mrs. Virgie Martin and Mrs. Melvina Brown, both of McDowell, and Mrs. Donna Warren, of Columbus, Ohio.

She also leaves 22 grandchildren.

Funeral rites will be conducted at 11 a.m. Saturday from the Clear Creek United Baptist Church. Burial in the Boyd cemetery at Hi Hat will be made under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Cats' Losing Streak Broken at Wright

The Prestonsburg Black Cats broke a four-game losing streak, Saturday night with a 65-52 victory over the Wheelwright Trojans on the Wheelwright court, but Tuesday night they were back in the lost column with a defeat at the hands of McDowell, 79-69.

Last week, they lost to Hindman, 59-55, and to Wayland, 55-37. Both games were away from home.

The loss to McDowell came, despite a 30-point effort by Keith Leslie for the Cats. All five McDowell starters scored in double figures, with Vance leading the pack with 24 points.

In their victory over Wheelwright Steve Ousley led the scoring with 19 points, with Joe Cooley scoring 16.

while project, also will be boosted, from $32.5 million to $35 million.

"We can put this money into almost any project where insufficient money is available to complete the project," Whisman said. "We can use it for such purposes as hospital building and expansion, anything to help a community meet its financial demands."

THIS STRANGE TONGUE!
I've often pondered the intricacies of the English language. Recognizing my own failure to master it, I wonder how a foreigner ever gets the hang of it. Take, for instance, the word, "fast." If you're quick, you're fast. If somebody ties you up in knots, they tie you fast. If you are a good-time Charlie and spend your money recklessly, you're fast. If you're flirtatious, you're fast . . . and soon.

Try this sentence on your tither, and think of the poor fellow of another tongue trying to fathom the mysteries of the language:
"The first one won one one-dollar bill."

Whisman, a Kentuckian since childhood, said he is proud of strides made in Eastern Kentucky through joint efforts of the state and the commission.

"We on the commission want our program to be a model one, and we are moving along in that direction," he said. "Without state cooperation, we couldn't succeed."

According to the ARC office in Washington, Congress appropriated—prior to the ARC's request for the fiscal year beginning next July—a total of $769 million for the Appalachian program, including $470 million for the highway program.

Of the total appropriated, about $590 million had been obligated as of December 31, 1968, the commission said.

THEY HAD FORGOTTEN
The other night, I had a telephone call. From Dallas, Texas. I wound up talking to old friends who formerly lived here—James Morell, Leroy Combs and Mrs. Combs. In the course of our conversation, one wanted to know what the weather was at the moment in Prestonsburg. It developed that James and Leroy, disgusted with the weather there, had wound up wagering a bit on what was happening here. James laid his money on the chance that it was snowing in Prestonsburg. Leroy was convinced to the same extent that we were having a cold rain.

This program was funded by the United States Department of Labor to the National Council on the Aging which is the prime contractor, and the council in turn funds the program to Big Sandy Area Community Action Program, Inc., the sponsor.

It was doing neither at the moment, so all bets were off. An hour later, the rain was falling.

Low bid of $893,330 submitted by Akers & Akers, Dana contractors, on construction of Phase I of the Eastern school, has been accepted.

I mention this wager to point up this fact:
These two have been away from here so long that they've forgotten a time-honored adage: Never bet on Kentucky weather.

P'BURG COMMUNITY CHORUS PLANS SPRING PROGRAM

If you've never belonged to the Prestonsburg Community Chorus; if you've never sung under the direction of Gus Kalos; if you've wanted to be part of some fascinating music and couldn't manage it before—do it now; do it Monday, January 27, at 7 p.m. at Prestonsburg Community College.

This spring, the chorus and Kalos plan something different: a masterpiece of choral music by Arthur Honegger, a contemporary Swiss composer, entitled "King David, a Dramatic Psalm." The work is divided into three parts: the life, reign, and death of Israel's King David, and has some interesting surprises for people who think choral music dull. For here there is a merging of the arts: drama and music. Throughout, the work is narrated by a man and a woman, each of whom explode into dramatic intensity at several points in the production. And Kalos plans yet another surprise. KING DAVID, he announced this week, will be accompanied by piano, and a brass and percussion ensemble. The performance is scheduled tentatively for the last week in April.

against suspending the registration of all vehicles not inspected by the Dec. 31 deadline.

However, Newman said that his department has been pledged to enforce the law since its inception "no change in our enforcement and that there has been no policy."

Shirley's December comments, in which he estimated that there would be 200,000 uninspected cars on the road by year's end, evoked criticism from Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford, a Democrat, who charged that Republican Shirley had instructed "his department to wink at . . . car owners who choose to ignore the law."

But, Newman said that the state police, Public Safety Department "and myself remain fully committed to total enforcement" of the law that declares that the department "shall" suspend the registration of vehicles "for which a required certificate has not been obtained."

Newman said his department will rely on highway inspections by state police, and on reports from local law enforcement agencies and the courts to identify violators.

Motorists who have not had their cars inspected will be notified that their vehicle registration is to be canceled, and that they will be allowed 10 days to appeal the decision to the department for a hearing.

Taking issue with Ford's suggestion that the department is ignoring enforcement of the law, Newman noted that more than 8,000 persons—"an average of 1,300 per month"—were arrested during the last six months of 1968 for failing to have their vehicles inspected.

"Large-scale enforcement of the law last year was limited by the very provisions of the statute," Newman added, a reference to the fact that compulsory inspection did not start until March.

"Operating on an eight-, rather than 12-month schedule, nearly eight months of the year had elapsed before half of all registered vehicles were required to be inspected."

"With the first full inspection cycle completed as of December 31, future enforcement will be made easier as all vehicles must bear a valid inspection sticker."

Tentative data received by the department, Newman said, shows that Kentucky motorists are complying with the inspection law and that it is being enforced by state police.

The data, collected from the state's 2,777 privately owned inspection stations and county court clerks, indicates there are fewer than 90,000 uninspected vehicles—not the 200,000 predicted earlier by Shirley.

Another 200,000 privately owned vehicles, including those engaged in interstate commerce and rental vehicles, were exempt from inspection under the law because they received regular safety checks.

The remainder, probably fewer than 200,000, would be other vehicles such as trailers, motorcycles and private trucks that require inspection, Newman noted.

"These estimates indicate that about 1,525,000 vehicles should have been safely inspected during 1968," Newman added. "Our records show that 1,434,755 inspection stickers were sold at all inspection stations last year. On the surface, then, it seems that perhaps 90,000 vehicle owners ignored the law. Many of those vehicles would not have been inspected for valid reasons."

Each year a number of vehicles leave Kentucky as their owners change places of residence. An additional number are sold out-of-state, and many others are junked, abandoned or remain on Used cars lots awaiting sale," Newman added.

Department figures show that approximately 1,740,000 vehicles, including trailers, were licensed in 1968, of which 1,325,000 were privately owned passenger cars. All required safety inspection by law.

MENTAL HEALTH
Citizen-led regional mental health-mental retardation programs are now offering help to more than three-quarters of Kentucky's population, the Department of Mental Health reports.

FRASURE-PRATER VOWS SAID

Miss Sharon Leigh Frasure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Frasure, of Allen, Ky., and Mr. Roy Prater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Prater, of Prestonsburg, Ky., were united in marriage December 28 at the First Baptist Church in Allen.

The Rev. Earl Waugh performed the double-ring ceremony. Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Robert Martin, pianist, and Mrs. Earl Waugh, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory-delustered satin, designed with pearl-etched Alencon lace, applied empire bodice, crescent neckline and long, closely fitted sleeves. The A-line skirt, embellished with a deep lace border, was styled with a full, chapel train. She wore a matching ivory French illusion mantilla with pearl-embroidered border and scattered lace motifs. She carried a white prayer book with a white orchid centered in ivy and white carnations, with streamers of white satin, pearls and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Robert Allen was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of emerald green velvet, styled with a high rise bodice, scoop neckline, brief sleeves, and slender A-line skirt with lighter toned satin inset back panel topped with a velvet bow. Her bouffant veil was held by a Dior bow of emerald green velvet.

Bridesmaids were Miss Janie Miller, of Prestonsburg, and Miss Sharon Lee Hall, of Banner, and Miss Donna Wats, of Allen, was junior bridesmaid. They wore floor-length gowns identical to those of the honor attendant. Each carried a red poinsettia centered in flocked pine and topped with a white candle with streamers of red velvet.

Miss Rebecca Watts, of Allen, was flower girl. She wore a green velvet dress with pinched lace sleeves and a green velvet bow similar to the bridesmaids. She carried a white basket lined with red velvet bows and streamers.

John Preston and Bill Archer, twins, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daniels, of Cincinnati, Ohio, served as ringbearers.

"We will resume the tests in mid-May and evaluate the progress we have made during the school year and as the child progresses each year in his academic program, we shall also watch his physical growth," Clark said.

The county's physical education teachers tested 3,752 boys and girls, ages 10 through 17, on seven items — sit-ups, pull-ups, standing broad jump, softball throw, shuttle run, 50-yard dash, and 600-yard run. Only 96 children in the county ranked satisfactory (60th percentile or above).

Vicky Osborne, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Osborne, of Garrett, was the lone student in the county to rank excellent — 95th percentile or above. Vicky is one of 25 students in the county winning President Johnson's award for physical fitness, given to all students who rank above the 85th percentile.

Other winners and their schools were:

Melvin — Mike Hall and Freddie Johnson; Clark Elementary — Lloyd Shepherd, Cathy Whitaker and Debra Buckley; Martin — Clarence Miller, Linda Moore and Linda Lumpkins; Garrett — Ann Marie Francis, Vanessa Bayes, Vicky Neeley; Stumbo Elementary — Robbie Maynard, Luther Tackett, Danny Hall and Roy Hall; Osborne Elementary — Dewey Jamerson, Daryl Branham, Beverly Triplett, Judy Snyder, Yvonne Sartin, Mitzie Crisp, Clifford James, and Judy Hall; McDowell — Glenn Heinisch.

Commends Department For Success of WE&T

FRANKFORT—The Department of Economic Security has received federal government commendation for developing and administering "one of the largest and most significant" Work, Experience and Training programs in the country.

Stephen P. Simonds, commissioner of the Assistance Payments Administration of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, wrote Gov. Louie B. Nunn, "The achievement in improving the ability of public assistance recipients to become self-supporting may be realized in even greater proportions from succeeding work-training programs."

Simonds explained: "The three-year project demonstrated that when opportunities are afforded, a significant number of disadvantaged individuals are capable of improving their employability."

* Many of the Kentucky participants have advanced through adult basic education, including high school equivalency and on to vocational training.

* Of those who completed training in the project during 1966 and 1967, 38 per cent obtained jobs and the employment chances for others were improved by raising educational levels.

He explained, Kentucky offered the challenge to determine if it is possible to come up with a progressive and constructive project in a very depressed rural area with overwhelming need and limited resources.

Kentucky's Work, Experience and Training project is being gradually phased out to be replaced by a Work Incentive Program, recently enacted by Congress.

At one time there were some 6,500 men in the program in 19 Eastern Kentucky counties. The number currently is about 300.

Ky. College Enrollment Up with 89,300 in School

Kentucky colleges and universities enrolled a total of 89,300 students last fall, a 4.4 percent increase over the 85,538 they enrolled the previous fall, the Council on Public Higher Education reported recently.

The Council, in its annual report, noted it was the 13th consecutive year total enrollment in the 30 public and private accredited colleges and universities in the state broke all previous records. Last fall's enrollment exceeds that of five years ago by 64 percent and is 126 percent over the enrollment of 10 years ago.

The Council said the increase was primarily at the state's six colleges and universities, including the community college system, which have 67 percent of the total enrollment. It said several private institutions and four of the 15 community colleges suffered slight losses.

Among the classes, only the junior level, which sustained a two percent loss, failed to register an increase, the Council noted, but added it was especially significant both the freshmen and sophomore levels bounced back each with four percent increases after only slight gains in 1967. There was a 15 percent increase in the senior class and an eight percent increase at the graduate level.

Enrollment of out-of-state students in the state's six institutions dropped significantly, however, falling below 20 percent the first time in recent years, the Council said. Non-resident student enrollment dropped from 23.6 percent registered in 1967 to 19.2 percent last fall, which the Council attributed partly to higher tuition fees imposed in 1968.

The Council noted only Eastern Kentucky University among the state-supported institutions increased its non-resident student enrollment, percentage-wise. While Western Kentucky University held its usual relatively low percentage of non-resident students, Kentucky State College, Morehead State University, Murray State University and the University of Kentucky dropped percentages-wise of non-resident students enrolled.

In all 30 colleges and universities statewide, however, non-resident student enrollment dropped only to 22.4 percent from 23.6 percent the previous year, the Council said.

The University of Kentucky and its growing community college system again took the larger share of the enrollment—15,267 on the Lexington campus and 9,758 at the community colleges.

The community college enrollment jumped significantly as Paducah Junior College joined the system and new colleges were established at Louisville, Maysville Hazard and Madisonville. Jefferson Community College at Louisville grabbed the lead in enrollment among those in the system with 2,091 students.

The enrollment at other major state institutions: Western—10,570; Eastern—9,180; Morehead—6,262; Murray—7,334; Kentucky State—1,609.

The municipally-owned University of Louisville, which receives state aid, enrolled 8,145.

'Whatsoever Things'

By DONALD E. WILDMON

A terrible thing happened the other day. My friend told me about it. It happened at a church. I want to reward his story a little and pass it along.

It seems that a church was in the process of building a new building. The contractor had finished with most of the building and was getting ready to put the carpet down in the sanctuary. To keep it in round figures, about a thousand yards of carpet had been ordered. Stopping work for the week-end, the contractor locked the doors. There was a time when all church doors were open. Now, many have to be closed and locked.

When work began again on the building the following Monday, the men discovered that something terrible had happened during the week-end. Someone had broken the lock on the door, broken into the church and stolen about a tenth of the carpet.

Word got out around town. You know how fast bad news travels. It made a perfect item to gossip about. The church had had some of its carpet stolen from the new sanctuary! And, you know, when someone steals something from the church it always makes the news. (Or, nearly always, as we shall see.)

Well, sir, they got to talking about it around the little town. You could hear people discussing it, everywhere they went. Some of the words they used for those who stole the carpet were not exactly kind, either. My friend told me later that he was in one place where they were discussing the theft. "It took a pretty sorry person to do something like that," one remarked. Another said something like this: "A person would really have to be low-down to steal from the church."

My friend said he got to thinking about it. He said he was in agreement that it would take someone kinda cheap to steal from the church. He said of all the places that someone should steal from, the church should be the last.

You know, I'm kinda in agreement with those folks about that. I think it would take a pretty low type of person to steal from the church. The church is the institution that stands for good in every community. It is the place where people go to worship. It is where the good in people is nurtured and polished. Yet so many of our churches have to close and lock the doors in our world today. People steal from them. They take what belongs to the church.

My friend thought about it for a little. Then he asked the group why they were all excited. They looked at him, kinda puzzled. "It happens every Sunday when the offering plate is passed," he said. "That tenth of carpet only represents the tenth of our income."

For some reason, someone changed the subject. I guess it seems easier to ignore the truth than to face it.

FORT MITCHELL MISHAP

Two men were killed yesterday in a head-on collision on US 25 south of the fire station in Fort Mitchell. They were William Farney, 49, a contractor from Erlanger, and J. T. Sears, 26, of Cincinnati.

Kentucky Has Its KBI, A Team of Professionals

FRANKFORT—There isn't a trench coat, snap-brim fedora or crepe-soled shoe among them. They don't swagger, snarl through clenched lips or impale the passer-by on icy stares. On the streets of any local community, they might easily be mistaken for the average businessman hurrying to his office. But, to the knowledgeable observer, there can never be any doubt as to their identity or the professionalism and dedication with which they approach their chosen career.

They are Kentucky's own "Untouchables"—members of an elite unit which make up one of the most fascinating agencies of state government, the Kentucky State Police Bureau of Investigation.

The efficiency and effectiveness with which the Bureau operates can be attributed in large measure to its "chief cop", Detective Lt. Algin S. Roberts. A slender man of moderate height, given to graying hair and deceptively quiet manner, he enters in a discussion of his job and the work of his men with a rare display of affection for his trade.

A native Kentuckian, Roberts was born at Barbourville and graduated from Middlesboro high school in 1942. As an infantryman during World War II, he participated in the invasions of Algeria, Sicily, Italy and the "D-Day" landings at Normandy as well as the Tunisian Campaign and the Allied "push" through France, Belgium and Germany.

His credentials in the field of law enforcement are impressive. From 1947-'48, he served with the Army Military Police and graduated from the Army Military Police School at Fort Gordon, Ga. Entering the newly-created Air Force in 1948, he pursued a variety of Air Force assignments until his discharge in 1954. He then returned to Kentucky and joined the KSP. For the next four years, he served as a uniformed trooper at the Dry Ridge post.

In May, 1958, with a promotion to detective sergeant in hand, he donned civilian clothing and began an investigative career which, over the next 10 years, found him working in nearly every part of the state.

Promoted to Detective Lieutenant in May, 1968, Roberts moved to Frankfort and assumed command of the newly-reorganized Bureau of Investigation.

From his office on the third floor of the State Office Building in Frankfort, Roberts supervises the activities of 28 detectives assigned to strategically-located posts across the state. Added to the responsibilities of his office are technical operations of the Criminal and Photographic Laboratories currently based at the KSP Academy.

Each of Roberts' detectives, working largely alone, is responsible for investigation of felonies and certain misdemeanors arising outside incorporated areas in those counties serviced by his post.

In Roberts' words, the Bureau of Investigation "is essentially a rural police force created to serve Kentuckians who, living in the country, would otherwise be deprived of ready recourse to an efficient, professionally-trained law enforcement agency in times of need."

Announce Engagement

Mrs. Maggie Branham, of Allen, announces the engagement of her daughter, Doris, to Gary Franklin Osborne, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Osborne, of Printer.

Miss Branham is a senior at Martin high school. Mr. Osborne is a 1968 graduate of Martin high school and is now serving with the United States Army, stationed at Fort Lewis, Washington.

Wedding plans are incomplete.

Floyd Native Inventor Of Electronic Alarms

By HENRY P. SCALF

When Harry Caldwell was growing up at Betsy Layne and Boldman and even in his early adult years no one dreamed that he would become an inventor. But an inventor he is. Now a resident of Madison Heights, Detroit, he has patented and is marketing two electronic devices.

One invention is called the Caldwell Telephone Alarm Device, or Tel-Alarm, for short. The second invention is one that grew out of the first. It is a device that calls the fire department in an emergency.

The efficacy of the first invention would be demonstrated if you tried to steal valuables from his desk. The minute something was taken from his desk the telephone receiver would raise itself from the cradle and a voice would start beeping into the mouthpiece from a tape recorder: "This is an emergency. Will you please investigate 143 E. Guthrie, Madison Heights. This is an emergency. This is a recording."

The phone would then hang itself up, and the process starts all over again. The message would be repeated three more times and ends: "Please come right away, the tape is running out." By the time the hidden telephone had delivered its third message the police should arrive.

By flipping a switch Caldwell can program his Tel-Alarm gadget to call the fire department. When this is done the tape triggers a heat-sensitive thermostat, Caldwell declines to set fire to his house to demonstrate it but he says: "I guarantee it will work."

Caldwell demonstrates a pocket-size transmitter that will activate the device from half a mile away. "I could put a tape on it to say I was being robbed somewhere and have it tell the police to come," he says. "However, I have not yet figured out how to inform the machine where I am at all times, but I will."

The former Floyd man also has a photoelectric attachment that will start the instrument when someone walks into the room. It sets off a clamoring alarm to wake everybody up. It works like automatic doors in a supermarket, Caldwell says the instrument can be adjusted to dial a dozen or so digits in any order desired.

An electrician, Caldwell started work on his Tel-Alarm about 12 years ago after reading about a bank robbery. After resolving all the problems involved he kept the device a secret until he procured a patent.

His wife, Opal, says her husband is always inventing something. When they were first married he built a clock radio that would turn on the lights, radio, and start the coffee pot to boiling.

"We didn't think it was anything more than a kind of toy then," she will tell you, "until they started making clock radios and everybody started buying them."

Caldwell admits that there are similar devices on the market but none have the versatility his does. From the way the public likes the device, he must be right.

His wife looks on Caldwell's tinkering and inventing with a great deal of interest and patience.

"When he gets going good on his inventions I want to get him to put in a doorbell," she says.

Caldwell, a son of the late Andy and Susan Dillon Caldwell, is a brother of Beckham Caldwell, of Betsy Layne. He attended schools in that part of Floyd county and went to Detroit just prior to World War I.

Medical Insurance Premium Is Unchanged

The monthly premium older people pay for the voluntary medical insurance part of Medicare will remain at the present $4 for the period July, 1969 through June, 1970, Daryl E. Ratliff, social security district manager, said this week.

The premium covers half the cost of protection that helps pay doctors' and surgeons' bills and a variety of other health care expenses. The other half is paid out of Federal general revenues.

Of the population 65 and over, 95 per cent are now enrolled in the supplementary medical insurance program, Mr. Ratliff said, up from the 91 per cent enrolled when the Medicare program began on July 1, 1966.

A new enrollment period opened January 1, Mr. Ratliff said, and will provide another chance for people who missed out earlier to sign up for the protection. For some—those who were born October 1, 1901, or earlier, and those who were enrolled but dropped out before January 1, 1967—it will be the last chance to enroll.

Older people who delay in enrolling, Mr. Ratliff said, pay a premium that is 10 per cent higher for each year they could have had the medical insurance protection but were not enrolled. And those who wait 3 years past their first chance to sign up will not be able to get the coverage at all.

He estimated that the period between now and March 31 will be the last chance to enroll for about two out of three persons 65 and over in the Prestonsburg area who are not yet enrolled for the supplementary protection.

Mr. Ratliff said many of the elderly people in the Prestonsburg area who have not yet signed up for the supplementary doctor bill insurance will be receiving application blanks in the mail soon. If they have any questions about how to fill them out or about Medicare itself, or if they do not receive a form, the people in the Pikeville, Ky, social security office will be glad to help them.

Parks Agency To Raise Camper Fees $1 A Day

Frankfort, Ky. — The Parks Department will increase camper fees from the current $2 to $3 per day.

Commissioner Robert Gable said yesterday that the state has lower rates than most of the private campgrounds.

Earlier this week the department announced lodging rates would rise $1 to $10 next spring. Gable cited the same reason at that time.

KENTUCKY STRENGTH LIES IN HILLS, GROUP IS TOLD BY SPEAKER HERE MONDAY

"Strength comes to Kentucky from its hills," Mrs. John Walthall, instructor at Ashland Community College, said Monday evening at a meeting of the Floyd County Planning and Development Association held at the courthouse here.

She said that Kentuckians like to sell their state, for it has something very much worthwhile. She added that a survey showed that most Americans, if they had a choice, would pick Kentucky as their place to live.

Quoting Margaret Mead, famous anthropologist, Mrs. Walthall said, "No man today will die in the society in which he was born." She pointed out that Kentucky is making rapid strides in industry, tourism and technology. There are problems in taxation and many people live below the poverty level. "Kentuckians are a special breed," she said. "We complain a bit, especially about taxes. We complain about many things but we won't let a Buckeye do it in our presence."

Kentucky is an unique state, the Ashland instructor of zoology said. It is the only state that has two separate and distinct coal fields. It has the greatest cavern in the world, Mammoth Cave. There are two moonbeams in the world, and Kentucky has one of them. The state is in the middle of the greatest inland waterway system in the nation, and tourism is rising so fast that it will soon be the No. 1 industry. Tourism has provided 77,000 new jobs for the state and the amount of money spent by a tourist is much greater than that spent on business travel. She particularly singled out Jenny Wiley's grave shrine as a special attraction for tourists.

"Eight percent of people in the nation are now totally mobile and the number is growing," she explained, noting that these people are attracted to a state that has much to offer in the way of scenic beauty and hospitality. The nation is interested in Kentucky's crafts and she named the high prices several handicraft items brought in eastern cities.

Attending the meeting here, besides members of the association, were the directors of the Community Action Program. Cecil Sturgill, president of the organization, presided.

Mrs. Walthall, in conclusion, noted that the state was never permanently occupied by an Indian tribe but that the Wyandotte, who came here to hunt, were especially fond of the land. They had a name for the country which meant "Land Where We Will Live Tomorrow."

Kentuckians are on the march, she added, in education, industry, civic planning, tourism and many other fields. The efforts of dedicated groups like the one to which she was speaking are one of the spearheads of progress.

"The time will come when we will actually see the Land Where We Will Live Tomorrow," she concluded.

Ky. To Preserve Streams

By FRED W. LUIGART (In The Courier-Journal)

Out-of-town visitors of Mrs. Flora Gray over the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Stambaugh, of Paintsville, Mr. and Mrs. Hecelle Morrison, Harold, and Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Laferty, of Prestonsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Holbrook, of Portsmouth, Ohio, were the Saturday night visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Delano Gray.

Earl Allen is a patient in Our Lady of the Way hospital at Martin.

Frankfort, Ky.—The Kentucky Wild Rivers Commission has been asked to preserve 41 streams throughout the state as wild, scenic or recreational waterways.

Included among the nominees—submitted to the commission by individuals and conservation interests—are several streams that local interests have long viewed as potential sites for food-control dams.

The commission, established last year under an executive order of Gov. Louie B. Nunn, will use the list of nominees in drawing up recommendations for further action by the governor or legislature.

It is strictly a state undertaking—not related to the federal stream preservation program. However, the criteria for both the state and federal programs are the same. This is in line with the possibility that at some future time one or more Kentucky streams might be included in federal legislation. No Kentucky streams were selected in legislation passed by Congress last year.

The entire list of nominees, released here yesterday, includes:

WILD RIVERS: The Red River, in Wolfe and Menifee counties, from the KY 746 bridge to the mouth of Swift Camp Creek; the Big South Fork of the Cumberland River in McCreary county, site of the proposed Devil's Jump dam, to the Tennessee line; the Little South Fork of the Cumberland River in Wayne county from the headwaters of Lake Cumberland to the Tennessee line; Big Caney Creek in Elliott county; Green River in Hart and Edmonson counties, that section of the river within the boundaries of Mammoth Cave National Park; Rockcastle River in Laurel and Pulaski counties, from the KY 80 bridge to the headwaters of Lake Cumberland; Cumberland River in Whitley county, from the headwaters of Lake Cumberland to Jellico Creek; Station Camp Creek in Jackson and Elliott counties, from Irvine upstream; all of Big Clifty Creek in Todd and Logan counties, and Marlin's Fork in Harlan county, upstream from Harlan.

SCENIC RIVERS: The Red River in Wolfe, Powell and Menifee counties, from the mouth of Swift Camp Creek to Middle Lewis county, from Laurel Fork; Kinniconick Creek in the Ohio River; Tygart's Creek in Carter county, from Olive Hill to Kehoe; the South Fork of the Kentucky River in Owsley and Clay counties, from Booneville upstream to Redbird River and from that point up Goose Creek; Russell Creek in Adair and Green counties, from Columbia to its mouth; Upper Barren River in Monroe county; Boone Fork in Fayette county; Little Barren River in Green and Metcalfe counties; Trammel Fork in Allen and Warren counties; Upper Rolling Fork in Marion county; Buck Creek in Pulaski county, from Lake Cumberland upstream; Drake's Creek in Simpson and Warren counties; Doe Run in Meade county; Nolin River, from Broad Ford Bridge to Star Mills; Upper Rough River in Hardin county, from Reservoir headwaters to Hardin Springs dam; Buckhorn Creek in Knott and Breathitt counties; Red River in Logan and Simpson counties; Long Creek in Allen county, from the mouth at Barren River upstream for 14 miles.

RECREATIONAL RIVERS: Sections of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers as determined by the commission; the Cumberland River below Lake Cumberland; the Tennessee River, below Kentucky Dam; the Kentucky River, from its mouth to Beattyville; the Green River from Mammoth Cave National Park upstream to Green River dam, and from the park boundary downstream to the mouth; the Big Sandy River, from its mouth to Louisa; the Barren River, from Monroe county downstream; the Licking River, from Cave Run Reservoir to its mouth; Harrods Creek in Oldham and Jefferson counties; Floyd's Fork in Bullitt, Jefferson and Oldham counties; North Fork of Elkhorn Creek in Franklin and Scott counties, and Tygart's Creek, from its mouth to Kehoe.

RIGHTS ENDED
Bogota, Colombia—About 10,000 heavily armed soldiers restored peace in Cali yesterday after four days of riots in which two persons were killed. More than 500 students and workers were jailed. They were protesting increases in transportation fares and utility rates in Colombia.

THEY, TOO, FOUND IT GOOD . . .

One of the three history-making astronauts spoke from the lonely vastness of space last week of the earth and called it "good." He looked back, not in the perspective of time but of distance—over the miles that separated him from his native habitat.

A cartoonist soon thereafter showed the Good Earth as a jumble of wrecked cars, shacks and grime.

But whose fault is it that our world is so abused, except ours? You and I who know better should do better.

KEA Initiates Move To Raise Salaries

The first steps to mount a fight in the 1970 Legislature for higher teachers' salaries were taken recently when the Kentucky Education Association (KEA) delegates voted future spending that amounts to $170 million. Leading the shopping list was a proposal for teacher pay raises in the 1970-71 and 1971-72 school years that would cost the state more than $100 million over the two-year period.

KEA's new program — if enacted in 1970 — would add another $170 million to the $852 million that the state is spending on education in this biennium. And it would dwarf a $90 million package, including $36 million for teacher raises, that was won in the 1968 legislature.

Some 600 KEA delegates meeting in Louisville agreed to adjourn on a motion that "we go home before we kill the goose that laid the golden egg." They went — but they'll be back in April.

There was some speculation that the April session of the KEA Delegate Assembly — which will offer an opportunity to amend the legislative program — might turn into a belt-tightening session on the theory that unless the proposals are pared down by delegates now the legislature will feel free to do its own paring later.

The KEA delegates — policymakers for an organization with more than 30,000 members and considerable political leverage across Kentucky — turned to the matter of salaries. Within minutes a proposed $75 million salary package developed by a KEA commission had been raised to more than $100 million.

The salary proposal is aimed at salary allotments paid by the state to local school districts, rather than the salaries paid by the local districts to teachers. For this reason, although there is a direct relationship, it is impossible to give exact figures as to what teachers would earn.

If the proposal were implemented, however, local districts would be getting anywhere from $1,500 to $3,900 more per teacher from the state by 1971-1972 than they get now, and anywhere from $1,400 to $3,250 more than they will be getting next year.

Smaller allotments would be paid for teachers with only a bachelor's degree and little or no experience, while larger ones would be paid for teachers with maximum education and experience.

Dr. Cook Is Speaker At Mental Health Meet

The January meeting of the Floyd County Mental Health-Retardation Association was held at the Plantation Motel, January 13. The invocation was given by the Rev. W. D. Jagers, who presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Dora Stephens.

Following the luncheon, Rev. Jagers introduced Dr. William B. Cook, guest speaker. Dr. Cook gave a 30-minute talk on Pre- and Post-Operative Anxieties, pointing that there are many factors which cause these anxieties such as fear of the unknown, the nature of the illness, anesthesia, physical discomfort before and after surgery, and financial problems. Dr. Cook explained the surgeon's part in being able to help relieve some of these worries.

It was announced that all business will be taken up at the next meeting, which is scheduled for February 10.
