Court To Study Landfill Work; Has Road Talks

Friday Meeting Set To Plan Solid Waste Program Operation

Among the major items of business scheduled for Friday's meeting of the fiscal court will be the establishing of rates and clearing of other details in connection with the operation of the soonto-open landfill on Turkey Creek for solid waste disposal

The Turkey Creek site is only one of four proposed for the county, and it will probably begin operation without a waste collection system. At first, the landfill will be open to private individuals operating a collection service, and possibly to persons wishing to dump there. Charges per truckload will be fixed. The county will have machinery at the site for excavation of trenches and covering refuse.

Details of the operation of a countywide collection and disposal system will be worked out when, and if, the desired sites are procured.

This week's meeting follows a special meeting last Wednesday at which the court members discussed with a Department of Highways representative the county's road-aid program. The state's participation was tentatively agreed upon but approval of the program remains to be made at Frankfort, County Judge Henry Stumbo said.

Board Hears Auxier Group

'Members of the Auxier Parent-Teacher Association met Saturday for the second time with the Floyd County Board of Education, seeking the addition of necessary personnel to provide music, art and physical education instruction at the Auxier school.

The board explained that the enrollment of the school is not sufficient to justify the employment of additional teachers, but Asst. Supt. Pete Grigsby, Jr. and Woodrow Allen, director of instruction for the board, will go to Auxier today (Wednesday) to assist Carl Horn, principal, in developing desired courses through scheduling of the present teaching force rather than adding faculty

Otherwise, the board meeting was routine. Certified personnel employed included these:

Gary Newman, science teacher at Betsy Layne High, as assistant principal there, and Glenda Fraley to replace him in the teaching post; Malissa Little as special education teacher at Betsy Layne; Karen Smith, transferred from Betsy Layne to Osborne as special

Wedding Plans End in Tragedy For P'burg Girl

Twenty-year-old Valerie Gay Collins, of Cliff, was dead on arrival at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital after the car in which she was a passenger collided with a train near Price, Friday night, hours before her planned wedding day.

According to state police sources, the accident apparently occurred as the automobile, driven by Danny Ray Justice, of Hi Hat, attempted to cross the railroad tracks on Ky. 122. The car struck a rear coal car as the train was backing south at an estimated speed of two miles per hour. Justice escaped serious injury, as did another passenger, Tony Caudill, of Hi Hat. Miss Collins and Caudill were to have been married last Saturday. Miss Collins died as the result of a broken neck and massive head injuries.

The victim was a daughter of John A. and Ernestine Greer Collins and was born June 27, 1954. She was a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and was an employee of U.S. Shoe Corporation's plant here.

Survivors, besides the parents, include five brothers, Johnny Joe, Bucky Ray, Haskell Gene, Barry D., and Albert Bryan Collins, all at home, and two sisters, Bonny Sue and Connie Lou Collins, also at home. Her maternal grandmother, Lottie Greer, of Paintsville, also survives.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Carter Funeral Home with the Rev. Clarence LeMaster officiating. Burial was made in the Albert Collins cemetery on Spradlin Branch. Relatives served as pallbearers.

'Weed' Arrests. Rum Raid Made

Two men have been arrested within the week on charges of illegal possession of marijuana.

Elmer Hall, of Wayland, was arrested Monday at his home by Wayland Policeman Troy Mullins after a tobacco pouch of marijuana allegedly belonging to Hall was discovered. He was booked to Magistrate Kenneth Roberts' court and trial was set for November 9.

State Trooper E. B. Allen charged Terry Alan Hubbard with possession of marijuana Sunday after stopping the car in which Hubbard was a passenger near Auxier. Hubbard allegedly threw a small quantity of marijuana from the vehicle as it was stopped. He was booked to Magistrate Bill Wells' court and the driver of the car, Timothy Miller, of Indiana, was charged with reckless driving.

The week's only liquor raid Saturday, netted Sheriff's Deputies Doug Lewis, Green Slone, Roland Howell and John D. Martin 121/2 cases of beer and resulted in the arrest of Ottis Hall, of Branham's Creek. The deputies found the beer at Hall's home and booked him to Magistrate Dewey Roberts' court. Another raid failed.

Four drivers of overweight coal trucks were charged last week by Department of Highway Transportation Officer Eugene Mullins. They included:

Jay Paul Rigsby, of Keaton, Ky., driver for Hay Enterprises, of Martha, 10,720 pounds overweight, arrested Thursday.

Henry Clay Stamper, of Maytown, driver for Roy E. Whitte, of Wrigley, 12,720 pounds, arrested last Wednesday.

Lum Carr, of Arkansas Creek, ownerdriver, 20,720 pounds over, arrested Thursday. David Stambaugh, of Hager Hill, driver for Bobby Johnson, of Paintsville, 13,720 pounds over, arrested Thursday. (The drivers are scheduled to appear before the Floyd county quarterly court.) Others booked at the county jail over

This Town . . . That World

These early October days are so wonderful that you'll have to hunt the dark side of the moon not to see the bright

Is it because the atmosphere is clearer or because the competition is less? Anyway, those fall flowers outside this window which our neighbors, the Browns, have grown are brilliantly beautiful, despite the frost. Purple fall asters, marigolds, some flowers of crimson hue. Something for tired eyes. Elsewhere, some of the maples, dogwoods and other trees are hinting a the glory they will later find in the death of their leaves . . . As the old fellow said, "You can't think for lookin'."

A SPECIAL WRIT

A more or less learned discussion of the law this week recalled to mind the case of the oldtimer who had an altercation with a member of his family and came out second best. He nursed his bruises through the night, then lit out before daybreak for the nearest magistrate's home to set the wheels of justice in motion and, hopefully, to break his relative's bones thereon.

He roused the magistrate from bed with heavy knocking. Asked why all the commotion, the offended one informed the squire that he wanted a writ.

"What kind of writ do you want?" the sleepy official demanded.

The complainant scratched his head. He knew nothing of such charges as striking and wounding, assault and battery and the like, but he knew he had a complaint. Finally, he came up with what he wanted.

"Squire, I-grannies, I tell you what kind of writ I want. I want a Writ of Erousemint."

"IT PAYS, ETC."

I have this clipping from the San Angelo (Texas) Standard of Sept. 7, 1895 and print it, not merely to tell a tale but also to point a moral. It reads:

Military Units Set For Appearance Here

The military will have a greater part in Floyd county's own annual patriotic, Red, White and Blue Day this year than ever before.

Joining the thousands of ordinary citizens, school children and others will be at least four units of state and national military forces.

The Marine Corps Color Guard will lead the "Big Parade" at 2 o'clock the afternoon of Oct. 26.

Ingram Lists Road Additions

Deputy Commissioner Otto Ingram of the Bureau of Highways last week announced additions to the 1974-'75 Rural Secondary Program in Floyd county. Acting for Transportation Secretary Billy Paxton, Mr. Ingram said the newly authorized projects provide for grading, drainage, and stone for .3 mile of the Stone Coal Branch road and blacktop resurfacing for 1.2 miles of streets in Boldman, including Poplar Street, Old US 23 No. 7, Fourth Avenue, Third Avenue, Main Street, Cherry Street, Second Avenue and First Avenue.

Governor Wendell H. Ford and Transportation Secretary Billy Paxton also announced the 1974-'75 Municipal Aid Program for the city of Allen. The program, based on an ancitipated allotment of $3,276 for the coming fiscal year, provides for blacktop resurfacing for the Allen-Banner road, Back Street, Main Street and Slone Street, and drainage and blacktop resurfacing for Depot Street.

The activities authorized will be accomplished by the city with the Bureau of Highways financing all or a portion of the work in accordance with the Municipal Aid Agreement.

The Old Guard, the U.S. Army's ceremonial unit and escort for Presidents, will participate in the morning activities.

A unit from the 101st Air Force band-40 to 45 individuals—and Navy representatives will be on hand for the parade. The Air Force musicians, known as "The Screaming Eagles," will come here from Ft. Campbell, and it will be their longest trip for a non-military parade.

The Kentucky National Guard will start the day off with the official flagraising ceremony at 10 a.m. And the Guard's commanding officer, Adj. Gen. Richard Frymire, will be here to represent Governor Ford.

Mrs. Marcella Bailey, of Langley, founder of the observance, said the nationally known Old Guard has assured her "they felt honored to have a part in the parade."

The principal speaker during the morning observance at the parking area opposite the courthouse will be the Rev. Oddvar Berg, a native of Oslo, Norway, and widely travelled speaker before church, civic, educational and business groups. His theme will be characteristic of what Red, White and Blue Day is all about-"What's Right with America."

Pike Girl Victim In Sunday Crash With P'burg Car

A 25-year-old Pike county woman was killed, and four members of a Prestonsburg family were injured in a two-car collision Sunday on the Mountain Parkway, near the Gullett toll station in Magoffin county.

Miss Saundra Kay Blackburn, of Sidney, was pronounced dead on arrival at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Lexington, at about 6:50 p.m. and Ermon Leo Tackett, his wife, Janet, their 20-month-old baby, and Mr. Tackett's mother, Edna Tackett, were treated at Highlands Regional Medical Center for lacerations, bruises and abrasions.

The accident reportedly occurred as the Tacketts were returning from a visit to Indiana, heading east on a three-lane section of the parkway. Miss Blackburn who was said to have been returning to classes at Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, was travelling west and apparently lost control of the foreign compact she was driving. According to Mrs. Janet Tackett, Miss Blackburn's car swerved into their lane ahead of them and onto the gravel bordering the highway. "We thought she was just pulling off the road and it looked like she was goig to stop," Mrs. Tackett reported. "But then she ran in the ditch, still heading west on our side, and all of a sudden she hit a rock or something and shot out of the ditch in front of us." The side of Miss Blackburn's auto struck the front of the Tackett vehicle and crossed the pavement striking the guard rail. Miss Blackburn was then thrown from her car and, according to Fayette County Coroner Chester Hager, she died from head injuries.

Pickets Ask Fast Action On Pay Due

Workers at Plant Protest Pay Delay: Judgment Awaited

Former employees of the now-defunct Princess Manufacturing Co., of Auxier, established a picket line in front of the courthouse here this week, calling for speedy court action in the settlement of their claim of a total of $47,916.15 due in unpaid wages, accrued wages and vacation pay.

Told that their pay and payments to all creditors will have to await a final court judgment, a member for the group asked, "When?"

The employees, most of whom are women, filed suit in circuit court, late last June, lodging a mechanic's lien against the plant. The Bank Josephine, Princess' biggest single creditor-its loans to the firm approximate $300,000then filed to enjoin all creditors from action to collect while an attempt through receivership was made to get the plant going again. The receivership was granted for 30 days but ended last month in the receivers, Stefan Magura and John G. Heinze, reporting to Circuit Judge Hollie Conley that they found no hope of operating the plant and that attempts to find a firm willing to undertake its operation had been fruitless

The employees are disturbed about the receivers being paid while their own claims remained in court and about the sale of coats which had been finished when the plant closed.

"We want the courts to do justice toward our pay," Mrs. Mary Zemo, president of Local 1004, Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, said. She said the workers filed a lien against Princess and that the lien should be honored.

Floyd Co. Work May Escape Cut In Corps Plan

The U.S. Corps of Engineers' plan to drop some 600 rivers and harbors projects over the country from its construction program is not expected to affect the long-deferred stream improvement work at Martin and vicinity in this county.

Hope that the Martin project remains in good standing is based on the statement made this week that the projects slated for cancellation have received no federal funds for at least eight years.

The $1.5 million Floyd undertaking, designed to protect Martin and areas both upstream and downstream from the town, has been delayed because of failure of the town of Martin and the Floyd fiscal court to acquire rights-of-way or easements on properties along Beaver

Easements have now been procured, or right-of-entry has been gained through condemnation proceedings.

Still another hitch promises further delay. The Corps of Engineers three weeks ago called on the fiscal court to acquire additional right-of-way on certain tracts of land.

Corps representatives expressed pleasure with the progress made toward right-of-way acquisition and told County Judge Henry Stumbo that work may begin as early as 90 days after all entry rights are cleared.

Corps of Engineers officials in Washington this week said neither the Red River nor the Paintsville dam will be affected by the decision to "deauthorize" some projects.

Dr. Wright Moves Job to Frankfort

Dr. Ballard Wright has moved his laboratory from the Brown building here to Frankfort where he will be associated with the Public service corporation of Hagg, Patrick, McKee and Wright. This group of doctors will supply pulmonary services for Frankfort and surrounding

Dr. Wright will also open offices in the Paintsville Clinic for chest diagnosis and treatment. Meanwhile, he has accepted the appointment of associate professor, with tenure, at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, where he will be director of intensive care and chairman of the intensive care committee.

"NESTLED" IS THE WORD FOR IT as photo from overlooking mountainside shows the town of David tucked between heavily forested hills.

Circuit Judge Conley explained that the receivers' pay was court costs and that they were paid from the small amount of funds on hand. He said he could understand the workers' concern, but said the delay in payment of their wages cannot be avoided until all claims are proved and the case goes through court to final judgment. The sale of the coats, he explained, was made in order to prevent a loss on the garments, and the proceeds go into the same account from which debts will be paid.

At a hearing last Friday it was indicated that Henry Stratton, Pikeville, attorney for North Carolinians who hold most of the Princess stock, may file bankruptcy proceedings in U.S. district court.

"If this happens," Judge Conley commented, "the delay for the employees will be much longer than if the case had remained in court here.'

Johns Sees Link Between Funding And Test Scores

There is a direct correlation between the per-pupil amount funded for the student's education and his achievement test scores, Reo Johns, executive director or ROPES Region 11 said here last week at a meeting of the regional advisory council.

The statement was made during a discussion by Mr. Johns of Kentucky educational goals and the questionnaire which has been designed to survey state educational needs as perceived by educators and parents. He also presented average achievement levels of fourth, eighth and 11th grade students as measured by comprehensive tests.

Johns also discussed with the council the possibility of a region classroom unit for deaf children. This unit, approved by the board of directors at the September meeting, will accomodate six to eight children at the third-grade or lower level. and will be funded through the Minimum Foundation Program. Johns told the council there is a possibility that this unit will lead to more units for the deaf in the Bronelle Skaggs, assistant regional director discussed vocational expansion in the region and told the council that enrollment is up in most vocational units.

Shirley Beard, administrative assistant, discussed the program for the regionwide inservice conference which will be held in Paintsville October 7. Council members unanimously endorsed the conference.

Dr. James V. Bolen, of Morehead State University, discussed Morehead's graduate program in Regions 11 and 12. Dr. Bolen organizes and conducts graduate classes in Prestonsburg, Hazard and Pikeville, helps to coordinate graduate program offerings, and serves as counselor to Morehead's graduate students in these two regions. He expressed his willingness to assist graduate students in gaining information concerning any phase of the graduate program, including scheduling, course requirements, financial assistance, etc. He may be contacted at the ROPES office here on Tuesdays and Thursdays phone 886-8586.

Council members were told that the Region 11 board of directors voted at the September meeting to fill a vacancy on the staff by employing a person qualified to work in curriculum development in grades 1-12. Council members were asked to refer any prospective applicatnt for this position to the superintendent of the applicant's local school district. The superintendent will then refer the applicant to the board for consideration.

Vanhoose-Marsh Vows Solemnized

The marriage of Miss Jennifer styled with A-line skirt and fitted bodice VanHoose and Mr. Paul Nicholas Marsh was solemnized in a double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Sanford Rucker at the Community Methodist Church here at 3 p.m., Sunday, August

Miss VanHoose is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert VanHoose, of the Abbott Road, and Mr. Marsh is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Marsh, of Ashland, formerly of Paintsville.

Selections of "We've Only Just Begun", "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face", and The Lord's Prayer were presented by Mrs. Karen Herald, organist, and Mrs. Marcia Trisolina,

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional wedding gown with high neckline and long sleeves of lace edged with pearls and lace appliques. Her fingertip veil which was similarly edged with pearls was held by a Juliet cap.

Miss Sharon VanHoose, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Suzanne Keathley and Miss Irene Preston.

Acting as best man was Neil Marsh, brother of the groom. Ushers were Danny Patton and Michael VanHoose. Candle lighter was Chris VanHoose and Sherri Salyers was flower girl.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Marsh are residing in Ashland where he is attending Ashland Community College.

Opinions from Office Of Attorney General

from the office of Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock were the following:

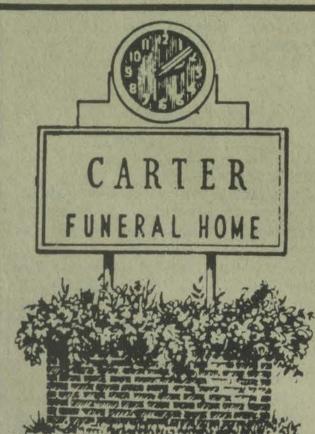

Meade County Attorney James R. Watts stated that a magistrate had been elected and took office in January, 1974, but soon after taking office he purchased a home outside of the magisterial district in which he had been elected. Could he still represent that district in fiscal court when actual residence had been established in another? The subsequent opinion states that under Kentucky law, a magistrate, being a constitutional officer, is required to reside within his district. To do otherwise would result in automatic removal from office or he would be subject to ouster action. A definition of residency would be dependent upon actual occupancy of the residence chosen for some time, however short, in order that the change of residency can become effective. However, a move intended to be temporary would be exempt from the rule. There must be an absolute intent to COMPLETES BASIC change his place of residence.

Donald L. Patrick, of Mt. Sterling, requested an opinion regarding the legality of the Mt. Sterling-Montgomery County Recreation Commission going to the ballot of levy a recreation tax. The

Among opinions released last week office of the Attorney General indicated that under Kentucky law, there is no authority given either to the commission to initiate such a move or the city to undertake it on the commission's behalf. And it follows that there is no authority for placing such a question on a ballot for consideration by the voters.

> Boone County Dog Warden Trudy Craig asked for an opinion as to whether or not a pet store owner, currently holding a city permit, need obtain a kennel license from the dog warden. It was the opinion of the Attorney General's office that since a kennel is defined by law as any establishment where dogs are kept and confined for the purposes of breeding, sale, show or sport and even though a city has a right to license dogs, anyone meeting these conditions also must obtain a kennel license from the dog warden. Therefore, the pet store owner must obtain a license for each dog over six months of age.

NOTICE

Complaints are being received in the Martin District Office of the Department of Mines and Minerals that coal is being produced and sold from old openings of abandoned mines-mines which are not properly licensed-and new openings not properly permitted.

Such operations are in direct violation of the Kentucky Mining Laws which provide for penalties from $25.00 to $1000.00 for each infraction of the law.

These illegal mining operations also constitute extreme hazards to those involved in mining coal under such conditions.

In the furture warning and danger signs will be posted at any illegal mine openings where coal is produced. Anyone violating these notices will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Coal Stockpiles Below Normal

Stiff price competition and railroad car shortages are making it difficult for utilities in Kentucky to maintain normal coal stockpiles.

Several electricity suppliers say their coal stockpiles are enough for less than 60 days, the normal minimum. Utilities usually try to maintain a 90-day stock-

The Big Rivers RECC (Rural Electric Cooperative Corp.) reported a 46 day supply, and General Manager W. W. Rumans said Peabody Coal Co. was delivering 8 per cent less than the contracted amount.

The Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA), which supplies electric cooperatives along the western half of Kentucky's southern border, reports a 44day stockpile, compared with a 90-day supply at this time last year.

TVA spokesman Lee Shepherd said that "in general, coal deliveries are running as much as one-third below schedule."

The East Kentucky Power cooperative reported a 50 to 60-day supply as of Oct. 1, and the Kentucky Utilities Co. reported a stockpile of 57 days last week.

"We've had stockpiles nearly this low before," Seth Botts, Kentucky Utilities fuel procurement director, said. "But in the past you could always built it back up to 90 days quickly."

The officials said one reason coal is short is that suppliers are selling to highpaying buyers from the Northeast and abroad before fully meeting their longterm and comparatively low-priced contracts in Kentucky.

The rail-car shortage also hampers delivery from the greatly increased number of coal mine sidings in the coalfields of Kentucky.

Three utilities reported healthier stockpiles. Louisville Gas & Electric Co. said it had coal for 60 days, Kentucky Power Co. for 71 days, and Uniln Light, Heat and Power Co. for 70 days.

Tom Stewart, of Stockdale, Ohio, was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stewart, last week-end. His grandmother, Mrs. Rebecca Salisbury, who had been here for several days, returned home with him Sunday.

Mrs. Haley Webb and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. ### AN OPEN LETTER FROM HERSHEL JOSEPH

Candidate For School Board Member, District 1

DEAR SCHOOL PATRONS OF EDUCATIONAL DISTRICT NUMBER 1:

Visiting you to discuss the concerns, issues, and interests of parents, students, teachers, and administrators of Auxier Elementary, Bonanza Elementary, Clark Elementary, Prestonsburg Elementary, and Prestonsburg High School is a pleasure and satisfaction to me, and I do appreciate the tremendous support you are showing me for my candidacy for school board member in District 1.

I have served the youth, my community, my county, and my country in the past, and I am asking you for a further opportunity to render service that is vital to your children and you, as well as to my own children, for I know that an effective board member is extremely vital to the present and future welfare of the youth of this district and Floyd

My intention is to speak of the problems of our schools and to offer practical, feasible solutions. I am not attacking anyone in this campaign, nor do I intend to be bogged down with personality issues.

The present board member of District Number 1, Dr. J. D. Adams, listed six major objectives when he campaigned for this office in 1970. (Floyd County Times, October 29, Section 2, p. 7.) His top priority objective was and I quote: (1) "The construction of a Junior High School to lessen overcrowding in our school building" (unquote).

Did Dr. Adams EVER introduce a resolution to build this Junior High School in Prestonsburg? In inspecting the Board Minutes of the Floyd County Board of Education, the minutes show that he did introduce a resolution to start a search for property located on Bull Creek to build an elementary school. Why this change from his Number One priority? And where would the children come from to fill a large multi-million dollar elementary school on Bull Creek-Auxier, Bonanza, Clark, Prestonsburg, and Allen? Is it practical and wise to transport young children miles away?

To make this point clear, I must state that I am not against building new schools, and I look forward to the day that all our children shall have fine school facilities, but at the present time I take the stand that improvements and additions to the existing schools would be a sounder and more practical solution to our facility problems in District Number 1.

Support A Candidate Who Has The Time and Interest to Serve All The Schools In Educational District No. 1.

"I Fought for You-Please Vote for Me"

The Reconstruction Era Ahead

It is true that Eastern Kentucky has been, as they say, studied to death but we're willing to take a chance on yet another study.

This study would be involved in the proposed area commercial and development program under discussion by the Big Sandy Area Development District and would, hopefully, result in new industrial sites in the region and new businesses in the dread days ahead when the coal is gone.

If the Development District proceeds with implementation of the program, the Appalachian Regional Commission will be asked to fund approximately 75 per cent of its estimated $130,000 initial cost. ARC should be interested, and whatever becomes of the venture should mean more than a lofty statement of findings. The area needs to "get down to cases," and quickly.

Ten years is a brief time in the life of these five counties involved, including Floyd, and by the end of that time new industry will not be something merely to be desired—it will be an absolute necessity.

Sites for plants and access roads to them are basic, and these should be a concern of the Appalachian Regional Commission as well as of the people directly involved. For failure to make the area attractive to industry will render all those ARC-sponsored highways nothing but exit routes for the unemployed of the area or access routes for tourists to view not Tombstone but several ghost towns of lesser renown.

Area planners and the ARC should also include in their thinking the need to make the area otherwise acceptable to industry. The water supply faces a real threat as streams fill with rock and silt from mined-out hillsides. The loss of timber and other vegetative cover may heighten the dangers of erosion, flood in the valleys below and even a change in the weather cycle.

The program—this Reconstruction Era—ahead is one that will demand the best thinking. Hopefully, it will be more than a diagnosis of our ills but a definite treatment designed for at least a partial, if not complete, cure.

Do you really think God is going to let you get away with that?

Of course, you'd like to help make the world a better place. Maybe you can't do it alone. But there's plenty you can do with others at your local church or synagogue. Example: one religious group helped the Navajos set up a cooperative trading post on their reservation. Now the Indians can purchase goods at a lower price. Even more important, they've learned that other people care about them. The God we worship expects all of us to help our brothers and sisters.

Start treating your brothers and sisters like brothers and sisters.

NOTICE AS TO FILING OF A SUP-PLEMENTAL PETITION OF THE WATER GAP-BULL CREEK WATER DISTRICT FOR APPROVAL AND RATIFICATION OF THE PREVIOUS CREATION OR SAID DISTRICT; FOR CONFIRMATION OF THE AP-POINTMENTS AND TERMS OF OF-FICE OF THE THREE WATER COMMISSIONERS OF SAID DISTRICT; AND APPROVAL OF ALL PROCED-DINGS HAD IN THE FLOYD COUNTY COURT TO DATE IN CONNECTION WITH SAID DISTRICT.

Notice is hereby given that the Water Gap-Bull Creek Water District has filed a Supplemental Petition in the Floyd County Court, requesting said Court to enter its Order ratifying and confirming all Orders heretofore entered in the Floyd County Court with respect to the establishment and creation of said District and the appointment and terms of office of the three Water Commissioners of said District.

Said Supplemental Petition refers to the original Petition for the creation of the District filed in said Court on December 27, 1972, the Order of said Court creating the District, appointing members of the Commission of said District, fixing their terms of office and dealing with related matters, entered on January 30, 1973. Said Supplemental Petition requests the Court to ratify and confirm the creation of the District and provides the following description as being the description of the area included within the boundaries of the District, as follows:

BEGINNING at the Lancer-Water Gap Bridge; thence to Mining Camp Branch; thence left to the head and right up Big Branch to the head and up the main road to Scutchfield Branch on the left of the head; thence from the main road and right to Campbell Branch and on to the head; thence back to the main road and turning left to the head of Wells Branch; thence back to the main road and to New U.S. Highway 23; thence left to the top of Bull Mountain and right to New U. S. Highway No. 23 to the top of Katy Friend Hill and turn to the foot of the Town Branch Hill, to be from the forks of Bull Creek and New U. S. Highway No. 23 to the head of the Left Fork of Bull Creek and down from the forks of the road to the head of the Right Fork of Bull Creek, to include all of the watershed on Bull Creek in Floyd County, Kentucky.

Within thirty days after the first publication of this Notice on October 9, 1974, any resident of said area described above, may file with the County Clerk of Floyd County, Kentucky, at his office in the County Courthouse in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, objections to the action sought by said Water Gap-Bull Creek Water District and to the Order requested by said District ratifying and approving the previous creation of the District and-or the appointment of the three Water Commissioners of the District, and-or may object to the effectiveness of the prior Orders creating said District, appointing its Commissioners and any related proceedings pertaining to said District as previously entered by this Court.

A Hearing has been set to be held on the matter on November 11, 1974, at 10:00 C.D.T., in the Courtroom of the Floyd County Court, at the County Courthouse in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, at which time any resident of the area described above or any other interested party, may appear and be heard on any prior objectionfiled by him concerning the matter or with respect to any other aspect of the matter.

Dated this October 2, 1974. (Signed) C. OLLIE ROBINSON, County Clerk.

W. Va. Firm Demonstrates Reclamation 'the Right Way'

By DAVID ROSS STEVENS

(In The Courier-Journal) CHARLESTON, W. Va.-A major strip-mine company, Carbon Fuel Co., in Kanawha county near here is gouging out 1,000 tons of coal a day from a 40-degree slope. But it isn't bulldozing the debris down the hillside. The waste material overlying the coal seams is being kept in the very place from which it was mined.

Normally, at least in Eastern Kentucky, the waste material is shoved over the hillside, several hundred feet down in many cases. The result is much soil erosion and sometimes massive slides that scar the mountainside.

Also, in Kentucky, the sheer highwall of the mining pit is left uncovered, sometimes for many decades. On the other hand, the Carbon Fuel Co. covers up every square inch of the highwall, applies fertilizer and seeds with both grass and trees.

The West Virginia company leaves trees at the very edge of the strip-mine bench. Even during mining, the active pit is barely noticeable from the same elevation across the valley. From a road down in the valley, there is no hint of a strip mine on the hill because it is hidden by the trees at the bench level.

What about rainwater? It is wellknown that the worst effects of strip mining happen during mining and immediately after. When rain falls on the bared soil it washes it downhill into the

However, in the case of Carbon Fuel no water drains away from the exposed area. Along the lip of the mine a berm (ledge) several feet high is formed by the bulldozer.

During heavy rains, water will gather in the pit where the heavy machinery is trying to maneuver. When this happens, the West Virginia company pushes loose dirt into the water to form a heavy slurry that can be picked up by an endloading machine. This material is then dumped into a truck, which carries it about 1,000 feet to a spot where the highwall is being

This careful containment of water at the mining site is not so evident in Kentucky, where water on the bench is drained over the hillside.

For years the strip-mining industry in Eastern Kentucky has maintained that keeping the spoil material up on the bench would be uneconomical. It has fought attempts by the state to legislate such action. Last spring the legislature did pass a compromise measure, which requires 60 per cent of the waste material to be contained on the bench rather than be pushed overboard.

Apparently, this law will result in some cover-up of the highwall. Pennsylvania already requires the entire highwall to be covered with the spoil. West Virginia is less stringent and allows 30 feet of the highwall to be left uncovered. Kentucky requires none of the highwall to be covered.

Carbon Fuel, in using the Pennsylvania-type method, goes far beyond its own state law. Why? Isn't it more expensive that way?

"Yes," said Estel Taylor, general manager of Carbon Fuel. "But we sure do avoid some of the other problems that other mining companies have. By keeping all of our spoil off the outslopes, we contain the rain runoff, we stop soil erosion and we don't get any complaints from our neighbors.

"We just think it's the right way to mine. In fact, we may be strip mining pretty soon over in Kentucky. And we'll use the same method we're using here, regardless of what Kentucky might

He made it clear, as did other West Virginians close to the mining industry, that Kentucky is looked upon in West Virginia and Pennsylvania as a haven for lenient and minimal mining

Taylor said that his company has not kept a strict accounting of how much it costs to produce coal with its method. But it does know that it uses two $150,000 trucks to haul the spoil from the pit up a ramp to a bulldozer which pushes it > against the highwall. The Carbon Fuel mine is extracting three coal seams extremely close together, with a total thickness of from seven to 12 feet. This is considered a luxurious amount of coal compared with a normal three-foot seam. But the company's management claims that it would use the more expensive method of mining even if it were mining only one seam.

"And we're not making a lot of money on our coal," Taylor said. "Some of the spot market coal is going for $40 a ton and higher. But ours is all on long-term contract to U.S. Steel (in the range of $12 to $17 a ton)."

"We don't believe in going for the temporary, high-priced market," he said. "If the prices go bad, we'll still be here with jobs for our men. We would just as soon sacrifice some high profit for some sure security."

In the meantime, it is being extra careful with its blasting to prevent from being shut down for a week by the state, which is what happened recently on one blasting incident. A heavey shot threw materials over the hillside. Now the shots are scaled down so that the rock wall is merely shaken up enough for a bulldozer to load the loosened rock and dirt into an endloader.

Carbon Fuel is by no means a typical strip-mine company in West Virginia. Its officers admit they are in the minority on their environmenta concerns, but they believe that what they are doing voluntarily will be required soon by law all over Appalachia.

Donald L. (Donnie) Lafferty School Board District 2

TELLS IT LIKE IT IS

Campbell is the school board member now from District 2. He WAS NOT ELECTED BY THE PEOPLE. HE WAS RECOMMENDED BY CHARLES CLARK, Supt. of Schools, at a school board meeting when one of the 5 members was absent and one suddenly resigned, leaving 3 board members present to vote on Campbell. Two of the 3 voted for Campbell, one did not. CAMPBELL IS CHARLES CLARK'S CHOSEN MAN.

E. P. Grigsby, Jr. was recommended recently by Charles Clark for a new position as 2nd Asst. Supt. At this time the new 2nd Asst. Supt.'s father, the mayor of Martin, CHANGED SIDES to support Campbell.

KNOW THE TRUTH

Don Lafferty is the candidate who is sick of coincidences (or whatever) that seem to be designed by the politicians and for the politicians, for the sake of power and(or) position. Don Lafferty is the candidate who has promised the people to make the motion to FIRE CHARLES CLARK and stop his being able to choose the man who will succeed him. and end his reign, as approved by HIS CHOSEN SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS.

3 Fishing Unlimited Weekends This Fall

The peaceful waters at three Kentucky State Resort Parks, Rough River Dam, Barren River Lake and Lake Cumberland, will be splashing aplenty with hooks, lines, sinkers and, hopefully, fish, as the popular Fishing Unlimited programs get under way in their fall will be at Rough River Dam State Resort Park, Falls of Rough, Oct. 11-13. Barren River Lake State Resort Park, Lucas, will have its angling competition the next weekend, Oct. 18-20, and the last Fishing Unlimited will be held at Lake Cumberland State Resort Park, Jamestown, Nov. 8-10.

At Rough River Dam and Barren River day, any fish reeled in will be destined for the weighing scales as tournament competition gets under way. That evening at dinner, the anglers will get a fall fishing report, fishing tips and fishing

From sunup to sundown Saturday, the quest for the big one that slipped the hook the day before will continue, and at dinner a report on the day's catch will be

Sunday at noon, competition will end. A buffet and awarding of trophies for the various category winners will end the program.

The Lake Cumberland weekend will follow the same format except fishing competition begins at noon Friday.

A valid Kentucky fishing license ($5 Kentucky resident, $10 out-of-state) is required. Participants can purchase three-day permits for $2.50 and a trout stamp for $2.25.

Reservations should be made by Oct. 4 for Rough River Dam, Oct. 11 for Barren River Lake, and Nov. 1 for Lake Cumberland.

Information regarding reservations and rates for the weekends can be otained by contacting each park, or by dialing toll-free (1-800) 372-2961, or by writing Recreation, Kentucky Department of Parks, 10th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Letters to the Editor

To Fight for Rights

Under existing laws each physically and mentally and morally qualified young man has an obligation to perform at least six years of military service in various combinations. But I joined at the age of 17 in the Federal Reserves on the 22nd of March, 1962. After six months of The first Fishing Unlimited weekend training I liked the service so well that I enlisted in the regular Army Airborne Division for a period of three years on the 30th of November, 1962, witnessed by Nancy J. Hardy, captain W.A.C.

Then I became disabled and was recommended to be separated from he service "as expeditiously as possible." Discharge date, July 3, 1963.

Dr. Jersey Wysocki states that my Lake, from 4:00 p.m. till sundown Fri- condition originated in the service or was aggravated in the service. Appalachian Research and Defense Fund at Lexington, Ky. stated that my condition would come under Article 38C7R4-132, rating 70 percent disability and 100 percent benefits because I will never be able to work.

The undersigned states that he was in excellent health before he entered the service and has sent affidavits to the service. First Sgt. Ellis Osborne, my mother, uncle, Silas Hamilton, Carmel Spears, Joe W. Lewis, C. Ollie Robinson, Commonwealth's Attorney Harold Stumbo, County Judge Henry stumbo and Congressman Carl D. Perkins state that he is entitled to V.A. compensation.

I had to be in excellent health before they would have accepted me, and I wasn't when I came out.

I go to Louisville Oct. 17 before the VA Regional Board of Appeal. I expect to stand before the Federal Building there till I get the benefits I deserve.

Recognizes Support

Editor, The Times:

On behalf of the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival and its sponsors, I should like to express our most sincere appreciation for your generous support of our ninth annual program. As ever, your feature article on our Festival was so good that we know that those who read it were inspired to attend. Thus our success is due largely to your interest in us and the timely publicity you gave us.

We are beginning early to plan for our tenth annual festival and hope that you will see fit to assist us again in your

Concert Series Schedules Air Force Band Here Tuesday

Noted throughout the country for its Raymond W, on the banjo or fiddle, Alice versatility and showmanship, the Air on the mandolin, and Ruth on the bass, Force Logistics Command Band will present the first program of the current Eastern Kentucky Concert Series season next Tuesday evening at the high school gymnasium here. All concerts begin at 8 o'clock.

The full 45-man band's selections range was graduated in '73, and where Alice is from concert music to jazz-rock and a freshman. The McLains appeared at includes everything from Bach to Bacharach; from the march king, John Phillip Sousa, to modern band com-

The AFLC Band, based at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, has performed for Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon.

The second of six scheduled concerts will be November 11 when Maynard Ferguson, high-note trumpet artist, and his band will appear at the gymnasium here. Maynard formed his first band in his native Canada when he was 15. In 1947, he started working in this country and was associated with such greats of modern music as Jimmy Dorsey, Charlie Barnett and Stan Kenton until 1953. Shortly after this, he formed his first American band. Today Maynard Ferguson and his band are bringing people back to the big bands, and the New York Times says, "Ferguson's band is a powerhouse!"

Bluegrass music fans can look forward to The McLain Family Band which will appear at the grade school here, January 28. The group, made up of Raymond K. McLain on the guitar, his children,

Dealer Elected District Officer of Chevy Council

Edward C. Music, of Music-Carter-Hughes Chevrolet-Buick, Inc., Prestonsburg, has been elected to a key office for his area in a nationwide organization of Chevrolet dealers.

Chosen as representative from his district to the Chevrolet Dealer Council, he will serve as spokesman for 15 Chevrolet dealers in the district at an October meeting of the organization to be held at the zone headquarters in-

The Chevrolet Dealer Council program was pioneered by Chevrolet in 1937. Operating at local and national levels, the organization helps Chevrolet's 6,000 dealers plan toward mutual progress in discussions among themselves and with Chevrolet executives. Among matters discussed are market conditions, business concepts and customers serhave a heavy schedule of festival and concert appearances in the summer and foreign tours in the spring. This spring they will tour Alaska, the Far East and then on around the world. Mr. McLain teaches at Berea College where his son a Jenny Wiley Folk Festival here some four years ago. On February 25, the Louisville Ballet Company will present a program at the graded school, and on March 25, Great Scenes of Opera by the Kentucky Opera Association will be staged at Prestonsburg Community College auditorium. The final program of the season will be a presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's HMS Pinafore by the Manhattan Savoyards on April 29.

Season tickets are now on sale.

Bayer Sights Blaze During Flight Over New Fayette Home

When David E. Bayer left Lexington last Friday to return to his home on the Auxier road, near here, the helicopter in which he was traveling was routed over the site of a home being constructed at Greenbrier, on US 60, outside Lexington.

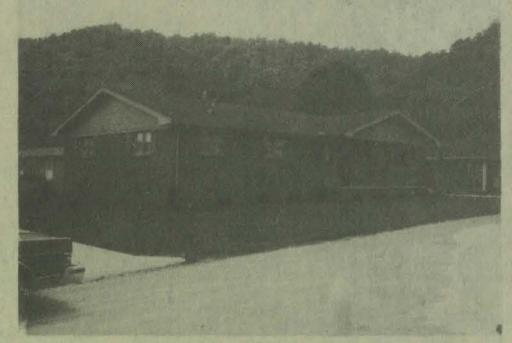

It was the home which Mr. Bayer had under construction, and as he looked down he saw smoke rising from it. When the 'copter alighted nearby, workmen were scurrying from the roof.

The two-story, nine-room brick structure was ablaze from a fire whose origin has not been determined, and it was reduced to ruins.

"We'll start all over again," Mrs. Bayer said this week. Mr. Bayer was in Lexington, where he is associated with National Steel. It is because the company's main office is in Lexington that the Bayers are moving there.

Pikeville "Cut-Through" Progressing On Schedule

After nearly one year of construction, the Pikeville Model City's "Cut-Through" project is progressing close to schedule. Phase one of the multi-million dollar project (pictured above) is the initial cut through a ridge of Peach Orchard Mountain.

About 13 million cubic yards of dirt and excavated material from this open cut will be used to fill the hollows of Cedar Creek and Poor Farm Hollow (pictured above). This will create approximately 166 Carroll (Mrs. Julian) or Frankfort; acres of developable land in these two areas. Phase one Donna McFall (Mrs. Roddy) of is scheduled for completion in November 1976.

Senior Citizens Take Part In Recent County Fair

The Floyd County Arthritis Foundation sponsored the Senior Citizens booth at the recent County Fair. Participants from the George P. Archer Senior Citizens Center manned the booth and handed out pamphlets on arthritis. Various handicrafts made at the center were displayed, with some demonstrations being given. Those who helped at the booth were: Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Ermine Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bradbury, Mrs. Lulu Wallen, Mrs. Grace Stanley, all of Prestonsburg; Mrs. Ruby Scott, of Garrett; Mr. and Mr. G. R. Setser, of Allen.

The U.S. Department of Labor forecasts that the employment of blue collar workers will grow less than half as fast as employment of white-collar workers during the next 10 years.

To Subscribers

Please note date shown opposite your name on your copy of The Times or on the wrapper. If the date reads, for instance, "October 74," your subscription will expire at the end of October.

UMW Welfare Fund Trustees Are Added to ARH Board

Lexington, Ky.—The three trustees of time to devote to developing new health the United Mine Workers of America Welfare and Retirement Fund were elected last Friday to the board of Appalachian Regional Hospitals.

ARH, a non-profit health care system which operates 10 hospitals in Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia, thus moved into a closer relationship with one of its largest customers. More than 20 per cent of ARH's patients are affiliated with the coal miners' union.

The ARH board of trustees, in its annual meeting, enlarged its membersip from 30 members to 33 and added the following UMW Fund trustees to the Board: Harry Huge, of Washington, D. C., chairman of the UMW Trustees; C. W. Davis, of Bluefield, W. Va., and Paul R. Dean, of Falls Church, Va.

operation, its president, Dr. David K. Heydinger, reported that during the year the health care system served 40,422 Jenkins; Roy A. Cunningham, Beckley, hospital in-patients and provided 102,936 emergency room services. Its free care N. C.; J. Douglas Graham, Campton, and to patients who could not pay amounted to $1,957,832.

Dr. Heydinger said that the system, which experienced a 115-day strike and financial problems in the year just ended, made substantial progress in improving its financial position in the first two months of the new fiscal year. He credited a management reorganization and increased efficiency.

The major development of the year, Dr. Heydinger reported, was the inauguration of a program to vest in each community more responsibility for the operation of its ARH hospital. A board of governors, composed of local citizens, will be established for each of the 10 hospitals. These boards, replacing existing advisory councils, will be delegated part of the duties now exercised by the system's board of trustees. This will give the system's board more care services, establishing standards of performance, and fund-raising, Dr. Heydinger said.

In other business, the ARH system's board reelected James H. Harless as chairman. Other officers elected were: vice-chairman, Thomas P. Dupree, Lexington; treasurer, Arley R. Barber, Hazard; secretary, Julius Rather, Lexington; assistant secretary, William B. Williamson, Lexington; assistant treasurer, Philas Smith, Lexington; and members-at-large of executive committee, Garvice D. Kincaid, of Lexington, and W. P. Morton, Jr., of Hazard.

The board reelected 10 trustees. They are: President Heydinger; Cecil H. Underwood, Bethany, W. Va.; Randall C. As ARH completed its 11th years of Day, Whitesburg; Glenn W. Denham, Middlesboro; J. Brooks Lawson, Sr., Williamson, W. Va.; David A. Zegeer, W. Va.; Dr. C. Arden Miller Chapel Hill, Ex-Governor Bert T. Combs, Louisville.

Oct. 6-12 Proclaimed National 4-H Week

"We Can Make It Happen". That's the theme of 1974 National 4-H Week, October 6-12. And observing the occasion are nearly 5.3 million 4-H boys and girls, some 560,000 volunteer adult leaders, plus countless others who support 4-H programs in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia.

Helping them observe 1974 National 4-H Week are nearly 60 businesses, corporations and foundations that support the Cooperative Extension Service administered 4-H program through the National 4-H Service Committee.

In 1974, the National Committee has budgeted nearly $31/2 million dollars to aid the national 4-H program. These funds provide educational aids and literature, incentives and recognition, leader training and numerous other

GIRL SCOUT COUNCIL

MEETING SET OCT. 11 The eleventh Annual Meeting of the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council will be held Wednesday, October 16, at 11 a.m. The meeting will be at the Hilton Inn, Lexington. Mrs. Marjorie Ittman, national president of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., will be the guest speaker.

Delegates and Council members from 55 Kentucky Counties plus Lawrence county, Ohio and Claiborne county, Tennessee will be attending.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL MEETS

MOREHEAD, Ky.—Executive Council members of the Morehead State University Alumni Association met recently on campus to plan activities for the 1974-75 school year. Attending from Prestonsburg was Robert R. Allen. The Executive Council represents the University's more than 18,000 graduates in conducting the affairs of the alumni association.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mrs. Emma Wilson wishes to express its appreciation to all those who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement. We would especially thank those who sent food and flowers, the communities of Lancer and Auxier, the ministers, Rev. Lee Caudill, Rev. Paris Music and Rev. Walter Ar- myself. nold for their comforting words, and the Jones Preston Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

Heritage Artists To Honor Patrons

Robert A. Powell, president of the Kentucky Heritage Artists, last week announced seven recipients for the organization's "Certificate of Appreciation," to be presented in a ceremony at the Frankfort Country Club

Persons who are selected for this honor, have contributed time and efforts toward common goals of the Kentucky Heritage Artists for "... promoting the arts and artistic talents; encouraging public appreciation; and helping make art accessible through exhibits and presentations . . . "

"This banquet and award," Powell explains, "is our token expression of appreciation as artists, for the great contributions these persons have made toward advancing art in Kentucky."

The 1974 recipients are: Charlann Somerset; Mrs. RubyAnn Cooper Burckley of Danville; Brantley Parsley of Campbellsville; Jerlene Rose (Mrs. Billy) of Clay City; Joe Westpheling (Mrs. Paul W.) of Fulton; Holly Van Meter (Mrs. Prewitt, III) of Winchester. The Clark County National Bank of Winchester will also be recognized by the group for their contributions to art.

The Kentucky Heritage Artists are: Russell May, of Prestonsburg; Joyce Williams of Ashland; Helen Price Stacy, of West Liberty; Nellie Meadows of Clay City; John Stamper of Lexington; Jim Smith, Harold Collins and Joseph Petro of Lexington; C. G. Morehead of Owensboro; A. Jack May of Danville; Ray Harm of Chenoa; D. Don Ensor of Louisville; Al Cornett of Slake; Doug Adams, of Morehead; Robert A. Powell of Frankfort; and the late Paul Sawyier.

An exhibition of photographs from the Alice Lloyd College Photographic Archives will open in Louisville Oct. 20. The exhibit will feature reproductions of 30 photographs showing what life was like in Eastern Kentucky between the mid 1880's and the mid 1930's. The exhibit will be held at the Junior Art Gallery at the Louisville Free Public Library, Fourth and York Streets, in downtown Louisville.

The photographs "are a representative cross section of ALC's Photographic Archives and show scenes of mountain families, logging, mining, railroad construction and early views of county seats in Eastern Kentucky" said Don Anderson, photographer for the College's Appalachian Learning Laboratory.

"What we're trying to do with this exhibit is get the photographs out of the file drawers and cardboard boxes and get them before the people of Kentucky as a reminder of their heritage," said Anderson, who is putting the exhibit together.

Anderson, who is on leave from the University of Louisville where he teaches photography, has collected and copied over 3000 photographs in the year he has been at Alice Lloyd College. The exhibition in Louisville is being sponsored by the Kentucky Arts Commission, which plans to tour the exhibit throughout Kentucky. The Commission also helped finance the exhibition's unusual catalog.

"We wanted a catalog which would live on after the exhibition was over, to serve as a constant reminder of Kentucky's heritage, so we decided to produce the catalog in the form of a 1975 wall calendar," said Anderson.

The calendar has also been endorsed as a project of the Knott County Bicentennial Committee. Anderson and Bill Weinberg, director of ALC's Appalachian Learning Laboratory, are both members of the committee.

All photographs used in the exhibition will be documented as fully as possible, said Anderson, who added that the exhibit will be of both artistic and historic interest.

VISITORS FROM FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Myers and Mrs. Irma Haney, of Vero Beach, Florida, are visiting their mother, Mrs. M. V. Wicker, of Wayland, and their sister, Imalee Spillman, and Mr. Spillman. Mrs. Wicker celebrated her 86th birthday Saturday, Oct. 5.

Kentucky By Hope Carleton

Kentucky's hunters and fishermen are finding this cooler weather a boon to both

Dept. of Fish and Wildlife hunting and fishing.

Water temperatures are cooling off quickly now and bass fishing is on the upswing as these fine game fish begin moving in closer to shore and into shallower water, making it easier to find-and harvest-some fine fish.

In many of the big lakes, jump fishing is coming into play as the schooling shad afford excellent forage for both white and black bass and excellent fishing for those who find the jumps.

Still another factor influencing the improvement of fishing is the scarcity of pleasure-boating activities. The fishermen who found the big lakes too hectic for their tastes during peack summer vacation periods relish the current solitude and the chance to get away from it all during these Indian summer days.

Squirrel hunters, too, are having greater success now that mast trees have ripened fruit. The bushytails now are active in both hickory and walnut trees and in many oaks, and are easier to find. Even though the foliage is still heavey, the squirrels are scurrying about noisily and hunter success is good.

If dove hunting is one of your favorite sports, now is the time to scout a new area, such as field where corn has been picked or silage cut. The wet weather delayed these harvests in many areas, but now that farmers can get heavy equipment into the fields, the doves are following close behind in search of fallen

Still other hunters are preparing to take to the woods on Oct. 1 when the archery deer season opens. This first part of the split season will continue through Nov. 15 and then reopen Dec. 16 to continue through Dec. 31. This cool autumn weather also is ideal for training hunting dogs and for hunters themselves to get back into shape. Many sportsmen clubs are having regular skeet and trap shoots and individual hunters are checking their shotguns and rifles to make sure they're in top condition, too.

It's a busy time of year for sportsmen and surely a favorite season for many.

Water-whose welfare often reflects that of mankind—is the topic this year as Kentucky elementary and high school students compete for $4,500 in U. S. Savings Bonds in the 1974 Conservation Essay and Jim Claypool Conservation Poster Contest.

The subject for the 31st annual essay contest and first Jim Claypool Conservation Poster Contest is "Water Conservation-Its Effect on My Community. The competitions are sponsored by The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times in cooperation with the Kentucky Department of Education and the Kentucky Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

The Jim Claypool Conservation Poster competition is open to all Kentucky elementary students in grades one through five. Although the essay contest is open to students in these grades, students may not enter both the essay and poster contests during the same school year.

The writer of the top essay in the state will receive a $500 bond; second place, a $200 bond; and third place, a $100 bond. The state winner of the poster contest will be awarded a $100 U. S. Savings Bond; second place, a $75 bond; third place, a $50 bond. The three top winners in each contest, their parents and teachers will be guests of honor at the newspapers' annual Farm Awards Luncheon in Louisville next March. Prizes will be awarded at the luncheon. Each essay contest winner in the state's 121 Soil and Water Conservation Districts will receive a $25 bond and a wooden plaque from the Louisville daily newspapers. ### Health Notes

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH (Health Educator)

On Monday, October 14, a public health nurse from the Floyd County Health Department will hold an outpost clinic in the basement of the Methodist Church at Wayland. Clinic hours are from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 2 p.m.

All persons in the Wayland area are welcome to attend this clinic for the following free services: TB skin tests, diabetes screening, blood pressures, immunizations, and hemoglobins.

On Wednesday, October 16, the Floyd County Health Department will hold a Pap Smear Clinic from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 2 p.m. In this clinic, patients will be seen by appointment only. If you need an appointment call the health department at 886-2788 Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The Public Health Nurses remind all women that they should have a Pap Smear at least once a year.

The Floyd County Health Department reminds new parents that early immunizations protect the whole family as well as the child. Kentucky law states that a child should be immunized against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio, measles and German measles within the first 24 months of life. October is Immunization Action Month-a perfect time to be sure your children are fully protected against these childhood diseases. If your family isn't protected, see your private doctor or go to the Floyd County Health Department.

IN MEMORIAM

Henry Tackett, 82 years old, of Weeks- In memory of Fred Shelton, Sr. who passed away Sept. 1, 1973

> "OUR DAD" Here's to our dad Who was so good and kind, And the little things we Remember, on down the line

With us, ball you did play, And always taught us to help A stranger (if in need) Along the way.

The love for a neighbor And friend you did show, While for them a greenpicking you would go.

With your grandchildren You pulled little jokes, And told them riddles and rhymes. Yes, Dad they remember them all the time.

When your mind used to stray, Back to your home in childhood days, Your brothers and sisters you talked of so true.

Yes, Dad they are remembering you,

The love you showed us all, Especially your wife and sons, And your sainted mother and father Was enough to make anyone of us want to follow.

And you won't come back to us, We know this is true. But someday, Dad, We will come to you!

> VERA SHELTON Lagro, Indiana

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear father, Dewey Lawson, who passed away Sept. 17, 1972:

I did not know the pain you had Or hear your final sigh. I only know you passed away Without a last good bye. God gave me strength to face it And courage to bear the blow, But what it meant to lose you No one will ever know.

We often sit and think of you And speak of how you died. To think you could not say goodbye Before you closed your eyes. For all of us you did your best. Oh, let us think of all you said And all the kind advice you gave, And let us do it, now you are dead.

They said time heals all sorrow, And helps us to forget. But time so far has only proven How much we miss you yet. Sadly missed by all the family. ANNA LAWSON WARD

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this opportunity to thank all who showed so much love and concern during our time of sorrow. We are so grateful to the Mt. Olive Church and all of the ministers for each beautiful service, and to the Casebolt-Hoskins-Cox Funeral Home which was so aware of our needs. We are thankful, also, for the abundance of food and help provided by our many friends and neighbors—and for the beautiful floral expressions of sympathy. Knowing Dad had so many good friends who really cared somehow makes our burden easier to bear, God bless all of you!

Kentucky's hunters need to shape upphysically, that is. A sportsman who is confined behind a desk for most of the year or who is out of shape for any reason, may have his long-awaited hunting trip spoiled by fatigue and sore, aching muscles.

Even the hunter who already has got in some dove and squirrel hunting should not be complacent about his physical condition, since generally little physical exertion is required in pursuing these species. Later trips for rabbits, quail, *waterfowl and grouse can be much more demanding.

This particularly is true of grouse hunting, which occurs in the mountainous regions of Eastern Kentucky, where an entire day may be spent climbing steep ridges and scrambling over rocks and logs in quest of the elusive ruffed grouse.

If you are over forty, any exercise program should begin with a visit to your family doctor for a good check-up. Then a daily exercise program, particuarly for the legs and back, should be followed faithfully.

And while the hunter is getting in shape, he should not forget that probably his hunting dog also is out of condition. Even a good dog won't be able to endure over a few hours of hunting after a summer of inactivity unless he too gets some pre-season exercise. A trip to the vet also is in order, both for a physical check-up and for necessary booster shots and worming. With proper pre-season conditioning, both you and your dog will be able to put in a full day of hunting come November.

This also is a good time to make sure that your guns are in top safety condition and to start getting your shooting eye back in shape by practicing on some moving targets. Many of the sportsmen's clubs throughout the state have both trap and skeet ranges, and if you are not a member, now would be a good time to join, not only for the shooting facilities but also for the fellowship with others who share your interests in the out-of-doors.

GENE D. DAVIS

Do You Really Care About The Education of Your Children, Future Children, and Grandchildren? Think About This Question!

The private and personal decision that you make when you go behind the curtain of your voting machine November 5, 1974, could be one of the most important decisions that you will ever make concerning our children's education for the future. Your right to vote a secret ballot on the voting machine is one of the most important freedoms that we have left in our country today.

I make this final appeal to all the voters in Educational District No. 2 and ask for your support as School Board Member because I am truly interested in serving you and our children.

I have had experience as a teacher at Betsy Layne High School and Lebanon High School, Lebanon, Ohio. I was Assistant Principal at Prestonsburg Grade School and Prestonsburg High School and served as Athletic Director. I was Principal at the following schools: Harold Grade School, Pikeville High School and Betsy Layne High School and Grade School.

I think Floyd County Needs an Educator on the Board of Education to serve as the peoples representative. I am completely for any new buildings that we can afford to build but I say to you that the most important thing in education is the teacher in the classroom. Our children only get one chance to go through grade school and high school and if they do not get the proper training in the classroom their future will not be very bright for them.

I believe that if a man or woman wants to be a candidate for school board member that he or she should run their own race and not have to depend on our county and state officials and local school personnel to carry the load for him. So I make this promise to all teachers, principals, maintenance workers, central office personnel, janitors, cooks, and any other employee of the Floyd County School System that if I am elected to the Board of Education you will never be asked to work for me in an election. I respect your positions of work and think it is a disgrace to you to be asked to work in school board elections.

School board elections are supposed to be non-partisan so I welcome Democrats, Republicans, Independents, and any other qualified voter that is interested in education in Floyd

My wife and I have three children and two of them are presently in school and the third child will be in school in two more years. I am not seeking revenge toward anyone and I promise you that I will be my own man on all matters of decision making as your school board member. I will attend your P.T.A. meetings and listen to the problems that each school has and take your recommendations back to the superintendent and other board members.

I believe that I can win this election if all my friends and neighbors will pitch in and help me in this effort because I realize that I cannot do it alone. So if you know me, I ask for your help in this important matter. I have always taken pride in my work and you may feel free to check on my personal background.

The question that you as a voter need to ask yourself is who is the best qualified of the three candidates running for school board member in Educational District No. 2? This is serious business where honesty plays an important part in a five million ($5,000,000.00) dollar taxpayer supported budget. This is your tax money voters! Support me as your school board member and I will see to it that the job is done right.

Cats Lose Second Game in Row To Belfry; W'wright Also Loser

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON The Prestonsburg Blackcats suffered their second straight loss by losing to Belfry last Saturday night at Belfry, 14 to 7. The Blackcats watched their record drop to 4 and 3 and in the district now is 2 and 2. In the Belfry game Prestonsburg's drive to tie the game up was halted as time ran out. The Blackcats had the ball on the Belfry one-yard line but the Belfry defense stopped the Cats as they drove into the line on four consecutive plays.

Belfry led at halftime, 7 to 0. The Cats tied the game up in the third quarter as Danny Layne scored on a three-yard run and kicked the extra point, but in the fourt quarter Belfry scored on a 16-yard run by Jones.

This Friday night, the Blackcats will play host to the Yellow Jackets of Whitesburg and it will be homecoming for Prestonsburg. Members of the Homecoming court will be Julie Bolling, Janie Branham, Paula Goble, Jennifer Jones, Connie Pelphrey and Kim Steffey. The Wheelwright Trojans traveled to Elkhorn City Friday night and lost to the undefeated Cougars by a score of 44 to 12. Although Wheelwright was beaten, it did have one thing to boast about—they scored more points than all previous Cougar foes combined. In fact, Elkhorn City had given up only six points in five games. Scoring for Wheelwright was Mike Armour and Darren Little on kickoff returns of 80 and 86 yards, respectively. This Friday night, Wheelwright will play host to Phelps.

Last Friday night's scores: Elkhorn City 44, Wheelwright 12; Johnson Central 16, Paintsville 14; Breathitt Co. 10, West Carter 0; Boyd Co. 39, Hazard 0; Leslie Co. 14, Jenkins 6; Mullins 13, Johns Creek 9; Ashland 11, Lafayette 6; Rowan Co. 14. Napier 6: Virgie 6, Crum, W. Va., 0; Raceland 38, Louisa 6; Russell 34, Fairview 14; Greenup Co. 30, East Carter

Call on Perkins To Help Battle Head Start Cut

Reo Johns, executive director of ROPES Region 11, and Harry Eastburn, executive director of the Big Sandy Community Action Program, on behalf of the six school districts operating Head Start programs in Region 11 have asked Congressman Carl D. Perkins to assist in their appeal of a recent decision handed down by the Office of Human Development in Atlanta.

The decision denies approval of Form 191, which provides for the use of surplus Head Start funds to purchase equipment necessary to meet performance standards established for the program. It also means that Region 11 Head Start programs could suffer a reduction of approximately $30,000 in funding for subsequent programs in addition to the $30,000 loss for this year. Decreased funding will make it impossible to maintain services at the current level.

Congressman Perkins has been asked to meet with Johns, Eastburn, Geraldine Branham, director of Pre-School Programs for Pike county schools, and Clifford Austin, regional director of Headstart Programs, and an official from the Office of Human Development in Washington to resolve the difficulty caused by Atlanta's rejection of Form

School districts in Region 11 operating Head Start Programs are: Floyd, Pike, Martin, Johnson and Magoffin counties, and the Paintsville independent district.

Claim State Soil Study Later To Provide Sediment Control

Frankfort, Ky.-The first step now is being taken in a state government program seeking to identify critical soil erosion areas in Kentucky and to establish stabilization measures to control sedimentation.

The Division of Conservation of the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection is attempting to hire seven soil scientists, an agronomist and an agricultural engineer, whose chief mission will be to accelerate completion of soil surveys for Kentucky counties who don't have them now.

The surveys will give conservation district representatives the precise, technical information about soil they need to assist local planning agencies and industrial and commercial developers in determining solutions to potential sedimentation problems. They will supply an accurate profile of a county's soil makeup, classifying it and recording such essentials as degree of slope, depth of soil, and the speed with which water is absorbed by the soil.

Stanley Head, assistant director of the Conservation Division, said the soil surveys already completed an invaluable service on the local level. Head said that in the past year, a planning commission in Jefferson County has considered some 140 applications for subdivision construction and that the governmental body turned to the local soil conservation district to get its advice on debris structure that restrict flow of silt to the construction sites. The soil survey of that county provided many answers, he said.

So far, 35 counties in Kentucky have completed and published their own soil surveys. Head said the state Conservation Division hopes to assist in the completion of surveys for 80 more counties in the next six years. However, he said, "Today, that seems an impossible task, since we don't have the personnel to do it."

The division's sediment control program in critical areas was established by the 1974 General Assembly and has been financed for the next biennium by $347,000 instate budget

Overall, the Division of Conservation assists 121 conservation districts and 31 active watershed conservancy districts across the state. The latter program helps communities develop municipal water supplies, recreational water areas and industrial water supplies in addition to providing flood control. The division also supplies conservation districts direct financial assistance to hire clerical and field aides and loans funds for the purpose of specialized, heavy earth-moving equipment. The equipment is used to construct ponds, sod waterways, terraces and diversion ditches.

Dr. Roberts' Newest Work Is Published

Pikeville, Ky.-"Well sir, I guess I made over 10,000 gallon of whiskey all told. Back when I was young, we made whiskey along a little, 'cause it was about the only way we had to collect up any money to keep ourselves in clothing and ever'thing. We made our eats on the farm, and we'd get out and still up some whiskey for tax money, you know, and so Jim and Dave Couch remembered a part of their lives in Harlan and Leslie counties, and from 1951 to 1955 Dr. Leonard Roberts, the Floyd county native who is now heading Pikeville College's Appalachian Studies Center, visited and lived with this Mountain family. With Roberts' interest in Appalachian culture, he has turned the stories of the Couch's into his latest book, "Sang Branch Settlers-Folksongs and Tales of a Kentucky Mountain Family.'

Included with the stories of hunting, fishing, moonshining, and farming are 161 folksongs and folktales. Many of those stories and songs are recorded within the book as pure as the day they were brought from England and Scotland. The stories and songs are mingled with a scholarly apparatus integrated with notes based on the best and most updated indexes.

This latest University of Texas Press publication by Dr. Roberts has been printed for the American Folklore Society and is available at bookstores or through the Appalachian Studies Center at Pikeville College.

Poisonous Wild Flowers of Region

glamorous spring wild flowers are poisonous to livestock-and humans, too, if they should eat the foliage.

Two of these are the exotic bleeding hearts called "Dutchman's Breeches" and "Squirrel Corn." Wildflower lovers trek to the early April woods to see these pretty flowers, which are so refreshingly different from all the others in both flower and foliage. Both are quite alike and appear in the barren woods of early April and soon spread over the brownleaf earth a lacy, blue-green mantle. At this time, cattle hungry for green stuff to eat often browse on the lacy leaves. A large bait of these gives cattle the staggers and causes them to have the "shakes." There is slobbering at the mouth, labored breathing, diarrhea and convulsions. Most animals will recover from the poisoning, if they are kept away from the woods where these wild flowers grow. They often form patches of several acres in extent. Antidote: Mineral oil, purgatives and digitalis.

The attractive blooms of these wild flowers draw many persons to see them. The flowers of squirrel corn resemble a large white grain of corn suspended on a slender stem. The flowers have two tiny spurs and a sweet fragrance. The leaves are finely cut and dissected and are bluegreen and lacy. The flowers of Dutchman's breeches suggest a pair of baggy pants hanging on a line-hence, the name. They also have two spurs-the "legs" of the pants—and a delicate touch of yellow at the top of the flower.

In the spring, squirrels claw out the yellow tubers of squirrel corn to eat. These are not poisonous like the foliage. Wild turkey also scratch them out to eat, so the plant is sometimes called "turkey

WHITE SNAKEROOT. This is a late summer or autumn bloomer and is a tall, slender, much-branched plant found growing in pastures, old fields and roadsides. The wild flowers appear in white clusters at the top, giving the plant a demure, innocent look. But its poison indirectly killed Nancy Hanks, the mother of Abe Lincoln. The historians say she died of "milk sickness," which is caused by drinking milk from cows browsing on white snakeroot. When cows eat the foliage in late summer oearly autumn, a poisonous alcohol called "tremotol" is transmitted to their blood stream and soon enters the milk. Persons

Unfortunately, some of our most who drink this contaminated milk develop severe "milk sickness, with vomiting, weakness, delirium and finally death. The cows also may die from continued browsing of the foliage.

> White snakeroot, a branching perennial with opposite, ovate leaves and white flowers at the top, is a stately plant, but in late summer, when other greens are scarce, cows often browse on the foliage, causing a great danger to persons who might consume the milk or the butter. Most farmers and dairymen keep a watch for this plant and eradicate it from the pastures. It is often seen blooming in late summer and adds a touch of white splendor to roadsides.

ALUMINUM SIDING CAN PAY FOR ITSELF IN JUST A FEW SHORT YEARS!

It's a fact ...

By virtually eliminating the cost of painting your house every few years, Revere Aluminum Siding can save you thousands of dollars over the 30-year warranty period. Suppose you've ordinarily repainted every 5 years. It probably costs you $300-$500 each time you do it. At that rate, Revere Aluminum Siding will save you $2100 to $3500 in 30 years!

Now,

add to that the money you'll save in siding repairs and in heating and air conditioning costs.

The total of all these savings will, in less than 30 years, exceed the cost of your new siding.

To the People

As Magistrate in Magisterial District No. 2 of this county I went to Bosco last Thursday, Oct. 3, and asked Eugene Mullins, who has been doing a fine job for the state as transportation officer and weights man, to issue citations for certaincoal truck drivers. I was told by Mr. Mullins that he could not, that he had orders from Frankfort not to take any more such cases to my court.

My understanding is that Marshall Clubb, a Letcher county coal operator whose coal has been hauled over our roads to Bosco, went to Frankfort and conferred with certain state officials prior to the issuance of this order. His opposition to me and my court obviously began with the fact that I have fined drivers of trucks hauling his coal into this county. I fined Aubrey Nicholls, owner of some of these trucks, $75 and costs on each of four citations and have three more cases pending against him. I fined Ellis Dunsall, another hauler of Clubb's coal, $500 on each of three citations. But I have not been treating Letcher county drivers differently than I treated others. I fined four from Magoffin county $100 each and costs, also some trucks out of Goose Creek in this county.

Now as to this action from Frankfort: As long as the law stands as it is, regardless of what the Governor or any other official says, I will try these cases, because the law provides that the persons cited shall be taken before the nearest judge. And I am the nearest in my section of the county.

I am pleased to be able to report that on the same day I learned of the order to head citations away from my court, Troy Mullins policeman at Wayland, who is the father of Eugene Mullins, arrested four drivers of overloaded trucks at Wayland, and the police judge there fined them $400 each. Mr. Mullins has assured me he will catch these overloaded trucks and that he will book them to my court.

I want the people to know that the Governor, Marshall Clubb nor any of the rest own Mr. Mullins and they don't own me. This whole matter, it is plain to me, is simply an attempt to run over the people of this county as they did in Letcher county.

policeman who will cite such cases to me, and I have a constable in my district.

This is no election scheme or propaganda. It is a simple review of the facts of state intervention in local government-an attempt to take over, as I see it-and I resent such highhanded action from the top.

I'm a Democrat, but I will "winter" my vote this fall in this Senator's race, and I will encourage all my friends to do

What To Do in October

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD (UK College of Agriculture)

There is something in autumn that sets our gypsy blood astir, something that is all but strictly American—the wonderful, varied colors of October foliage. The deep purple of the starry-leafed sweet gums, burnished gold and scarlet of maples, russet of oaks, bright yellow of hickories, and various other tints and hues of other trees—all attest to the glory of the American autumn.

The delightful, brilliant fall colors seen here in this country are the result of the swift transition from summer heat to autumn chill. The nature of the climate and chemical action within the trees as they shift from activity to dormancyand not Jack Frost-provide all this seasonal beauty.

that cause autumn's brillance are present in leaves before fall, but so much chlorophyll is also on hand that the leaves look green to us. According to L. P. Stolz, horticulturist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, bright, clear days of fall cause leaves to produce large amounts of sugar, but the cool nights slow down all living processes of the tree and movement of these sugars from the leaves to the roots for storage decreases. The sugars trapped in the leaves result in increased production of the chemicals which cause those bright fall colors. At the same time, this general slowup cuts down production of green-producing chlorophyll to hide the other colors, and the countryside begins to take on a whole new look.

Europeans, it is said, do not enjoy the beautiful outdoor autumns such as we have here. Mainly because of climate differences, trees in most of Europe go through a gradual transition to dormancy. Cooler summers followed by a long, slow change to winter do not permit the chemical processes that produce the fall colors Americans enjoy.

In order to provide summer shade and autumn beauty around the homestead, Regardless of state interference, these October is a good month in which to overweight trucks have my court to transplant most deciduous trees and contend with. I have the Wayland shrubs (those which lose their leaves each year). Fall plantings usually give better results than similar work done in the spring—except for a few varieties such as poplar, birch, dogwood, mountain magnolia, and others that have soft fleshy roots. Dwarf fruit trees can also be transplanted in October, but be sure to stake and wrap them with burlap or tough paper to protect against the ravages of sun, dessicating winds and bark-loving rabbits.

Before transplanting trees at this time, however, check with your county Extension agent or nurseryman to be sure that the tree you have in mind is adaptable for fall planting. Also before transplanting, visualize how the tree will be some 15 years from now. Don't plant it too close to a building or driveway where its size may later cause it to be in the way. Instead, set the tree along a boundary or in some place where, in the future, it can be appreciated without causing inconvenience. Also in planting, set the tree or shrub no deeper than it formerly stood. Give it ample space to develop and plenty of water until it has become well established-but don't drown it. According to Stoltz, roots are living, breathing structures and must have oxygen; too much water can limit oxygen and kill the tree.

It has been written that nothing a person can do in October will be of more worth, both tangible and intangible, to future generations than to plant a tree or trees. The tree may, in time provide dollars, fresher air to breathe, restful Actually, the sugar-related chemicals shade on hot summer days, and beauty sufficient to refresh the soul

Consumer Comments

By ED W. HANCOCK (Kentucky Attorney General)

Kentucky has two laws which help give protection to the consumer who purchases books or magazine subscriptions from salesmen who come to the door.

One of these is the home solicitation sale law, which applies to sales solicited in person at the residence of a buyer who agrees to the purchase at his residence. It does not apply to sales under $25.00 or if prior negotiations were made at an established sales room. In any contract subject to the law, the seller must place a conspicuous notice of the "buyer's right to cancel," which provides that the buyer has the right to cancel the sale and not be bound by the contract if he gives notice in writing before the end of the third business day after the contract is signed. Until the seller has given the notice required of him, the buyer may cancel by giving notice in any form and even after the three days.

The other law regulates salesmen of printed material for cash, or on contract or by subscription. It requires each salesman who solicits orders to register with the county court clerk of the county in which he sells (prior to July 1, 1974 with the sheriff or chamber of commerce). Te registration gives information about the identity and address of the salesman and the company he represents. It is effective for one year. If he does not register in the county, any person to whom he sells in the county, whether in person or by telephone, at home or elsewhere, may consider the contract void and refuse to be bound by

But bear in mind, that if the sales contract is paid for by credit card or other loan device, the lender usually will have to be paid, and the buyer must look to the seller to recover the full amount of the Registration of a salesman does not mean that any public official has approved or even considered the value or soundness of the product being sold. Information of this type should be obtained locally from informed persons. For instance, before buying encyclopedias or other sets of educational books, get the advice of school teachers and librarians.

SCHOOL CHARGES CHALLENGED

A suit which challenges the practice of requiring public elementary school students to pay for "books, supplies or activities which are necessary for education" has been filed in Campbell County (Kentucky) circuit court. The class action suit was filed by the North Kentucky Legal Aid Society, naming Newport School Superintendent Thomas Gabbard, school board members and the principal of Arnold Elementary School as defendants. The suit is believed to be the first of its kind to be filed in Kentucky. State Supreme Courts in Michigan, Idaho and Kansas have ruled the collection of such fees unconstitutional, while Ohio has a law which says schools "shall not be required to furnish free of charge . . any material used in the course of instruction with the exception of the necessary textbooks."

Home Remedies from Pioneers, Indians

By DANA LeMASTER

When settlers first came to Kentucky, they brought their remedies for sickness with them. This was necessary for, if illness struck, the settler often was dependent upon himself for survival. Some Indian remedies, such as mistletoe to ease a toothache were used, but usually home medicine practices were

If a settler's child showed symptoms of measles, his mother would give him "Sheepnanny tea" (tea made from sheep manure) to make him break out with the illness sooner. During the winter, to ward off colds, children were required to wear horrible smelling asafoetida (commonly called "asafiddy") bags around their necks. These bags didn't really cure colds, but kept the children separated from their playmates so there was less chance of their contracting germs.

At the first signs of spring, Granny would give the children their spring tonics, usually starting off with sassafras tea. Today in Greenup County, Kentucky, sassafras still is grown as a cash crop. Another spring tonic was sulfur and molasses spread on a slice of newly baked bread. This cured the sufferer quickly, as he knew if he remained sick Granny would readminister the remedy.

To soothe a bee sting, a remedy adopted from the Indians was used. Mud was plastered over the inflamed area to reduce the swelling and pain. For a beautiful complexion, ladies frequently used packs of cow manure on their faces. Sifted dried tea leaves such as mint, fennel and chamomile were used to cure a vapor, fever or any other common

A home remedy often used in Kentucky had its origin in Europe. Many years ago a young couple married in Germany. One of their wedding gifts was a recipe for a salve for infection. The couple moved to Indiana and began to manufacture the salve as a means of making a living. The recipe called for turpentine, beeswax, saffron, yellow-rosin, mutton tallow and linseed oil.

To cure a burn quickly, this saying was invoked: "Three holy men went out walking. They did bless the heat and the burning. They blessed that it might not increase. They blessed that it might

As a cure for a sore mouth this saying But, require the salesman to show his might work: "If you have the scurvy or quinsy too, I breathe my breath three times into you.'

In 1887, many drugs were sold by mail, most of which were suppose to cure practically all ailments. For fifty-nine cents you could buy a bottle of sarasparilla, which was guaranteed to remove scrofula from the blood. This medicine also was suppose to prevent tuberculosis, ulcers, ringworm and many other diseases. Sixty cents could buy a bottle of System Builder & Lung

SOMETHING OLD. SOMETHING NEW With the beginning of a new school year, educators prepared to face up to the traditional traumas of dwindling finances, desegregation orders and teacher strikes, plus a few new ones. Last fall food and gas shortages had to be faced and although those problems have eased somewhat educations are still confronted with rising inflation and spiraling teacher salaries. Another problem, making its debut as a major school crisis this year, is declining enrollments. Some school officials view this as an opportunity to reduce overcrowding, expand curriculum and add specialized activities or facilities, but some observers fear that districts will want to cut back on services and save

For $1.50 a family medicine case could be bought. It contained such items as a liver corrector, tonic, cures for croup, pleurisy, mumps, colic, colds, rheumatic fever, fever, headache, malaria and a heart regulator. For eighteen cents harassed parents could order Baby Soothing Syrup, guaranteed to soothe and quiet a child who might be cross, no matter what the reason. As a cure for rheumatism, electric rings were sold for eighty-five cents and $1.25. It was believed that the possession of such a ring would draw rheumatism out of the body. Another cure for rheumatism, which sold for seventy cents a bottle, claimed not only to cure rheumatism, but it also would prevent pleurisy, pneumonia, bronchitis and meningitis.

As an antiseptic for abrasion, the early settlers used blackberry juices. They also boiled hickory bark into a semisolid which they used to treat coughs.

An old rhyme "he went to bed to mend his head with vinegar and brown paper' speaks about the home remedy for treating sprains-brown building paper soaked in vinegar

To cure asthma pioneers took dogfennel, a weed with white and yellow blooms, and burned it, letting the sufferer inhale its fumes. Kerosene, a low grade of gasoline, was used to kill infection. To "draw out" splinters, glass, and otherobjects imbedded in the skin, bacon fat was used.

Water of snow collected in March was suppose to be an excellent eye wash. As a cure for "fits," ground-up human skulls were administered. Wild cherry bark, made into a tea and sweetened with sorghum and molasses, was used as a cure for yellow jaundice.

Home remedies for illness still are in use today. Local residents report the use of goldenrod roots for an upset stomach. the use of mare's milk for whooping cough, he application of walnut hull juice to cure ringworms, and Bermafuge candy to cure severe colds with deep chest coughs. Recently a museum night watchman ran a nail through his foot. He used a home remedy of bacon fat and kerosene to soothe his injury. His foot healed faster than that of a woman who had gone to a hostpital for the same problem. A local housewife uses a salve made of tallow, rosin, beeswax and dogfennel for cuts and splinters.

A recent article in a local newspaper reported on the use of "Mad Stones" and their power to heal the sick. "Mad extract poisons or disease germs from wounds in animals or humans. A resident of Owensboro, Kentucky, reported on the use of such stones. Reporting on the incident the woman stated that her father, while shaving, was bitten by a spider that fell from the ceiling and bit him on the lip. The stone was applied to he infected area and in a short time the bite disappeared and all soreness

As the medical profession in Kentucky advanced, these homemade remedies were not as widely used. However, since these medical practices had such a decided effect on the advancement of medicine in Kentucy, they comprise a valuable record of early Kentucky life.

The U.S. Department of Labor reports that the number of children whose mothers work or seek work has continued to rise, even though the total population of children in the United States has declined substantially since 1970.

By HELEN PRICE STACY If it's too late to work on a history project in Rowan or Johnson county, mark a new 1975 calendar for these events next year.

In Rowan county one could visit Morehead State University where a oneroom country school has been established as a memorial to Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart. This county resident, superintendent of schools almost 65 years ago, in 1911 founded Moonlight Schools, an innovative adult education program that later spread to other states and nations.

Also in Rowan county are the Mt. Pisgah Church, built in 1860, and the present courthouse, dating from the late 1800s. Interested persons also might find someone old enough to remember the "Rowan County Trouble" and be able to recite a ballad of the era.

In Johnson county, the Kentucky Historical Commission has taken steps to preserve the handsome and elegant Mayo mansion. In contrast to the former Mayo home, located in downtown Paintsville, is a one-room log school that now stands on the campus of Johnson Central High School. Other houses of historical interest include those of Auxier, Cassius Cooper, Daniel Davis, Gen. Daniel M. Hager, F. M. Stafford and Judge Jim Visitors to the Sorghum Festival in West Liberty, Oct. 11-13, might want to see the Cooper-Pelfrey House on Main Street and the Cockrell Log House at Ezel, both over 100 years old. In Ezel, the United Presbyterian Church looks as if it had been moved from a New England location, and in West Liberty both the United Methodist Church and the First Christian Church are noted for magnificent stained-glass windows.

In Morgan county's Caney Valley one may see Memory Hill Park, where Wardie Craft is furnishing six log cabins as pioneer museums as a tribute to early Baptist preacher, Elder Daniel Williams, and other settlers.

Those wanting to join the crowd at Red, White and Blue Day in Prestonsburg, Oct. 26 could visit any number of historic houses, but most visitors want to see Garfield Place and the Samuel May House. Garfield Place, formerly the Burns homestead—which nurtured many noted regional lawyers—was used by Col. James A. Garfied as headquarters during his Big Sandy campaign during the Civil War.

The May House on U. S. 23, near Prestonsburg Community College, was built in 1817. Its bricks were made of clay dug nearby. One of the oldest brick houses in the region, it was the home of State Senator Samuel May.

Chinese Chestnuts Replace Tree Stock

By PAUL CAMPLIN

Occasionally in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky one comes upon a giant stump, sometimes several feet in mighty chestnut tree.

Even these stumps and stabs are fast disappearing. Then, sadly, these former giants of the forests will be gone forever-victims of a deadly disease.

The chestnut blight-Endothia canker-was brought into this country from the Orient around 1900, and was first noticed on a tree in the New York Zoological Park in 1904. These were the days before the nation had a plant quarantine law.

The fungus-causing disease completely was unkown to science and there was no defense against it. It spawned, swarmed and spread through millions upon millions of chestnut trees-borne by the wind, by birds, insects and by shipments of infected nursery stock. It struck with stunning swiftness, destined to bring the most complete decimation of any tree in the recorded history of man.

As early as 1912, Congress appropriated $80,000 to finance the efforts to control the disease and rescue the chestnut. All efforts failed and, for the most part, by 1940 the native chestnut in Kentucky was no more.

The chestnut trees of Eastern Kentucky all were dead, though some trees in the western part of the state were spared until 1950.

A blight-resistant Chinese chestnut was distributed in this country as early as 1907, but it was not until 1930 that serious attempts were made to grow this hearty Oriental variety commercially. Experts soon discovered that these trees were not immune from the chestnut blight, but they were highly resistant to

While the nuts produced by these Chinese chestnut trees were found to be generally larger and slightly sweeter tasting than those from the native trees, authorities pointed out that this new variety never would replace the native trees for lumber uses.

The chestnuts killed are estimated to have been the equivalent of more than 9,000,000 acres of forest stands of pure chestnut. Living chestnut trees now are very rare. Only one such tree is known to still exist in New York State, where the scourge all started.

Native chestnut was considered excellent wood. The timber was used for tanning, extraction, lumber, utility poles, ties, mine props, piling, piling, fence posts, cordwood, and pulpwood. Sawed chestnut lumber was much in demand.

Since being introduced to Kentucky, blight resistant Chinese chestnut have adapted well and increased at a good pace. The trees seem to do well in this climate and soil, and the production per tree is considered very high by foresters.

On a commercial basis, it has been estimated that these trees could produce as much as 1,500 pounds of nuts per acre.

Between 1935 and 1955, when production of the Chinese chestnuts was in its infancy, all the nuts produced in this country could be sold as seed. The demand, incidentally, was greater than the supply.

Since 1955, however, production has increased so rapidly that the nuts must be sold for food as well, which brought a new problem to growers—that of finding a market for their product.

Strangely enough, the best markets for chestnuts, including the imported European variety, are the mountainous regions. Apparently, the chestnut still is well known in these areas and so far the demand for the nuts has been reported to exceed the supply.

Almost all Chinese chestnut trees planted now are seedlings. Using grafter

State nurseries operated by the Chinese chestnut seedlings in 1957 and, Experience has shown that the best time according to Director Harry Nadler, have produced more than 500,000 trees. In fact, the state nurseries are directed to grow the trees by a law enacted by the

A veteran forester, Nadler feels quite optimistic about the future of Chinese chestnuts. Said Nadler, "All evidence points to the possibilities of a thriving nut The four varieties of Chinese chestnuts industry in Kentucky. There is a potential market for a much larger crop than is now being produced."

Chineses chestnuts, he said, presently sell for 30 cents a pound, wholesale.

Knott County Store Off Stamp Program

Atlanta, Ga.-Johnson's Grocery, of Garner, Knott county, has been removed from the federal food stamp program for one year for violations, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) reports.

Johnson's Grocery is owned by Willie Johnson. It was charged with redeeming USDA food coupons accepted in violation of food stamp program regulations. The disqualification began Sept. 5.

Robert Cunningham, in charge of the Prestonsburg office of FNS, explained that the store will not be allowed to accept food stamp coupons during the oneyear disqualification period.

Second Woman Mine Inspector Begins Work at Office Here

When Miss Ann Nuckols began work last Tuesday with the Prestonsburg office, state Division of Reclamation, she became the second woman strip-mine inspector in Kentucky.

The first of her sex to undertake the mountain-scaling job is Miss Debby Eversole, who began work at the Hazard reclamation office, two weeks earlier.

Other than being college-educated, interested in science, single and in their mid-twenties, the two women would appear to have little in common. Miss Eversole grew up with her two sisters and brother in the Perry county community of Chavies, while Miss Nuckols spent her childhood on her father's farm in McLean county.

Nuckols left western Kentucky to study agriculture at the University of Kentucky, and Eversole moved away from her mountain home to earn her degree in biological sciences at Morehead State University.

Eversole didn't expect to work as an inspector when she applied for a job as a laboratory assistant. She liked lab work while in school and wanted to continue in the lab.

There were no openings for laboratory personnel. What the division needed, she was told, were strip mine inspectors. When John Roberts, the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection's director of Reclamation, asked if she would be willing to try for an inspector's job, she agreed.

Roberts said the job was not offered to Eversole because she was a woman but "because we need inspectors, and her degree in biology qualifies her for the job."

The director and other reclamation inspectors have some reservations about women inspectors, but not because they can't do the job. They are concerned about a lone woman being in an isolated area where most strip mines are located.

There is no reason why a woman could not be a successful reclamation inspector, according to Roberts. He agreed it may take time for her to be accepted by coal operators and inspectors alike, but he said any new male inspector also must prove himself.

"If the job required physical labor, I could see where a woman might not be able to do the work," he noted, "but manual labor is not a requirement for an inspector." He added that women are working in the same capacity in other coal states.

After a 5½ mile trek over rugged terrain and a hike over a new strip mine, Miss Eversole and veteran inspector Pearl Burns might disagree with Roberts' comments on physical labor.

Burns considers walking a strip mine permit (tracing the boundaries of a proposed operation) hard work. Before a permit is issued, the inspector is required to walk over the exact outlines of the new site, even if it means going through thickets of thorns or over boulders.

Eversole didn't know she was the first woman inspector until she was asked if she had any qualms about opening the door for other women.

She said the operators have appeared to accept her and have been very cordial when she has visited various mines. Burns said this will change when she writes her first noncompliance. "They they will forget she is a woman and treat her like any other inspector and forget the friendliness."

When so many young people are leaving Eastern Kentucky to find better, higher paying jobs, why does a young woman with credits towards a Master's degree return to her home for a job?

"I like the mountains," Eversole said, "and I always would like to live near mountains, if not here, then in the Rockies. I grew up here and the mountains are a part of me."

She thinks being a native will make her job easier for her. "I am being accepted, or will be accepted, because I am not an outsider;" she said. "And," she added, "I don't have to adjust to a new environment."

Ann Nuckols didn't grow up in the mountains, but she soon came to appreciate them after many camping and canoeing trips through Eastern Ken-

When she applied for a job with the Reclamation Division, she wanted a job as a reclamation inspector.

While visiting her first strip mine last Tuesday, she said she was more a little nervous about being an outsider, unfamiliar with Eastern Kentucky mining methods and a woman in a traditionally male profession.

"I am from a small town and I know how hard it is for a new resident to adjust. It may take time but I think I will," she said

Because she doesn't know anything about strip mining in the mountains, she is concerned that it may take her longer to learn. "I will have to be taught everything from scratch," she said.

Her lack of knowledge of strip mining does not concern reclamation officials. The state director said the length of time required to learn varies from "person to person."

Miss Nuckols said she is familiar with male resentment of a woman in an "unconventional" role. She said there was some opposition to her choice of agriculture as a major in college because "there really aren't that many women working in that area yet."

On her first visit to an Eastern Kentucky strip mine, Ann Nuckols listens as veteran inspector Bob Whitaker points out the areas that have not been properly reclaimed. Whitaker took Nuckols to an old, poorly reclaimed operation on her first day as a reclamation inspector "so that she can appreciate a good job."

With time she thinks she will be accepted as a "person first and a woman second."

"I think people will realize that because I am a woman does not mean that I cannot have the same feelings about a beautiful mountain or tree as a man. It is not because I am a woman that I think if we are going to have strip mining, it should be done right. Many men share the same thought. We all have a responsibility to the mountains and the land, especially when we think about how short a time we are here in relation to future generations."

Debby Eversole and Ann Nuckols are not the last women to work as reclamation inspectors. Another woman, a friend of Eversole's, will begin working in the Madisonville area later this month, and officials in Frankfort expect more to seek the jobs.
