Gas Firm Claims Its Line Blasted

KENTUCKY

Rewards Up To $50,000 Posted After Incidents

After reporting what it termed "malicious acts of sabotage and vandalism against its property and equipment" since last Saturday when its employees went on strike, the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company offered rewards of a maximum of $5,000 for information leading directly to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons guilty in each separate incident, with the total of such rewards not to exceed $50,000.

The rewards were offered in instances where the flow of gas or oil was interfered with or for the destruction of

A company spokesman pointed out that no accusation is being made at this time against any individual or group but said that a determined investigation of the series of incidents is under way.

Specific incidents listed were these: An explosion destroyed a portion of a 16-inch pipeline on the Turner farm hill, near Maytown, at about 7:25 p.m. Oct. 19, causing extensive damage and disrupting gas deliveries through the line.

At about 11 p.m., October 19, valves were closed on a company main line which supplies gas to Prestonsburg and Paintsville, the Johnson County Gas System and the Mountain Utilities Gas Company. When company representatives arrived on the scene to re-open the valves and restore normal service, they were prevented from doing so by persons who warned them not to operate the valves. By the time law enforcement officers arrived those who had warned company representatives had dispersed and the valves were reopened.

Representatives of the gas companies which receive their gas supply from this pipeline were standing by their respective measuring stations in the event it became necessary to cut off gas service to their customers because of low line pressures. The line pressure fell

P'burg Residents Warned Of Burning Violations

The Prestonsburg Fire Department this week issued public notice to residents within the city limits that burning of leaves and trash is prohibited. A fine may be imposed on those in violation of this ordinance.

Anyone who wishes leaves and trash disposed of may, after placing material in trash bags or other containers, call Archer Park, 886-3537, and a truck will pick them up.

Center Accredited For 2-Year Period

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals has informed Chalmer H. Frazier, administrator of the Highlands Regional Medical Center that the hospital has been awarded two-year

Dr. Donald L. Kessler, director of the hospital accreditation program, commended Highlands "for maintaining standards deserving of accreditation and for your constant effort to improve the quality of patient care . . ."

As a condition of the two-year accreditation Highlands will be required to conduct an interim self-survey next summer to determine, and report on the progress made toward fulfilling recommendations made after the survey last July by Dr. Vandenbosch, of the Joint Commission.

At the recent meeting of the Highland Medical Center's board of directors Chalmer H. Frazier was named president of the Center and was authorized to employ a vice-president who would perform the duties of administrator. Mr. Frazier said applicants for the post are now being interviewed.

As president of the medical center Mr. Frazier will have more time for planning, working on special programs and other details of hospital development.

Public Meeting Set for Flood Program Study

The public is invited to attend a meeting at 7 p.m. November 4 at Jenny Wiley State Park to discuss the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973.

According to this legislation, city or county governments that are identified as flood-prone must take necessary steps to enter the flood insurance program. If proper action is not taken, lending institutions will be unable to make private loans for construction in the designated floor-prone areas.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Big Sandy Area Development District in conjunction with the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Kentucky Division of Water Resources.

The deadline for compliance with the Flood Disaster Protection Act is July 1, next year. Communities which fail to comply-adopt certain minimum flood plain measures, regulate development in flood hazard areas, etc.-will be ineligible for flood insurance and, consequently, ineligible to benefit from federal loans. This would cost individual builders FHA, VA, SBA and other federally insured construction funds, it is

Planning Near On 45-Mi. Route, Floyd to Perry

When he spoke here at a Democratic rally Oct. 12, Gov. Wendell Ford made two promises:

1. To advertise for bids on the bridge across the Big Sandy at Banner in time for work to be begun, possibly by

2. To start engineering immediately on the KY 80 from this county through Knott county into Hazard.

That set the wheels to turning. The only two condemnation suits necessary to gain right of entry for the Banner bridge construction were filed the following Monday. Later in the week, Governor Ford and Secretary of Transportation Billy Paxton authorized preliminary engineering for the 45 miles of KY 80 between Water Gap and Hazard.

The engineering work is in two parts. The first part concerns a preliminary study to determine a corridor location between Hazard and Lackey, a distance of approximately 32 miles.

The second part involves the proposed relocation of KY 80 between Lackey and Water Gap and will include the development of plans for phase one of an ultimate two-phase agreement. Phase one will determine a center line location and tentative grade for the proposed relocation of 13 miles.

Results of this work will ultimately reclassify that section of KY 80 as a twolane facility with truck lanes where long grades are encountered.

It is hoped that initial fieldwork can begin within the next two weeks.

Red, White, Blue Day

Red, White and Blue Day is the Fourth of July, Armistice Day and Veterans Day, all rolled into one in this county. This is something worth having a part in, and if we all can't do that we can at least acknowledge its worth by showing up for the day's program and applauding those who can. In short, everybody is invited.

LONG REMEMBER

Some weeks back I made the mistake in one of my less lucid moments of telling about using the berries (or fruit) of dog fennel for marbles on occasions when, a few years ago, nothing better was at hand. I, of course, meant "bull nettles," and I shall not lose my marbles to the extent of forgetting that fact again. I have an excellent reminder at hand. Delmas Saunders last Sunday left me a jar of these "berries" neatly encapsulated in a plastic jar which was labelled: "Dog Fennel Berries-Salt Lick Marbles." Think I'll have 'em pickled.

Four Raids Net Four Prisoners, Big Beer Haul

Four liquor raids over the past week by Floyd deputy sheriffs resulted in the arrest of as many persons, two of whom were booked on third offense charges.

Acting on search warrants, Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis and Deputies Doug Lewis, Green Slone and Linzie Hunt removed a total of 90 cases (2,160 cans and bottles) of beer and 12 bottles of liquor from the home of Clarence Martin and that of his mother where he had stored a quantity of beer, both in the Stumbo Hollow vicinity, near Drift. As a result of the raid, Martin was booked on a third offense charge. He later executed bond.

Cora Slone was arrested at her home near Sugar Loaf by Deputies Doug Lewis, Green Slone, Linzie Hunt and Ray Reynolds after four pints of vodka were confiscated. Also arrested on a third offense charge, she was later released on Stopped for drunk driving on the Middle Creek road near the mouth of Spurlock by Deputies Doug Lewis and Linzie Hunt, Larry Madison Wright, of Martin, was cited on additional counts of transporting and possessing after 550 cans and bottles of beer and one fifth of whiskey were taken from his car. The 1971 Chevelle he was driving was also confiscated and impounded.

A raid Saturday night at Tram resulted in the arrest of Myrl Baker on a charge of possession of alcoholic beverages for purposes of sale. Fourteen half-pints were taken from Baker's home by Deputies Doug Lewis, Green Slone, John D. Martin and Ray Reynolds and Baker was booked in Dewey Roberts' court.

Two overweight coal trucks were cited last Thursday by Weights and Measures Officer Eugene Mullins. They included Gordon Ditto, of Melvin, driver for the Nicholas Trucking Company, of Whitesburg, 61,000 pounds overweight, and Ellis Bates, Jr., of Kite, driver for the Mole Coal Company, of Malley, 47,000 pounds overweight. Bates paid a fine and Ditto will appear before Floyd quarterly court.

Saturday's fifth annual Red, White and Blue Day here, and Mrs. Marcella Bailey, the Langley housewife who founded the patriotic observance, said Tuesday the biggest gathering in the history of the event is expected.

All interested in the observance are devoutly hoping for a bright October day, out rais, will not stop the full program. 'Bad weather will only separate the 'sunshine patriots' from those with a heart to take part in any weather," one backer of the event said. Only the pageant at which Little Miss, Junior Miss and Miss Red, White and Blue are to be named will be held indoors, and that will be at the Prestonsburg grade school.

Importance of the morning program at 10 o'clock is being stressed. The Rev. Oddvar Berg, a Norwegian-born American citizen, is driving here from Wisconsin to speak during the morning program on a favorite topic which has made him widely known in the United States-"What's Right with America." His will be the feature address of the day. The Old Guard, the U. S. Army's ceremonial unit and escort of Presidents, will participute in the morning activities.

The flag-raising at 10 a.m. will be a function of the Prestonsburg unit of the Kentucky National Guard. General Frymire, of the Kentucky National Guard, will represent Governor Ford. The Marine Corps Color Guard will lead the parade at 2 p.m., and in this the dress of other days, the vehicles and implements used by early settlers will

Fun's Fun but Hallowe'en Has Thursday Eve Limit

The observance of Hallowe'en trick or treating in Prestonsburg will, by proclamation of Mayor William O. Goebel, Jr., be limited to Thursday evening, October 31, with a curfew of 9 o'clock imposed. The proclamation further limits the wearing of masks to those aged 12 years or younger. Mayor Goebel said that various groups, including governmental agencies in Prestonsburg, had requested that steps be taken to control the Hallowe'en

Salisbury Held As Butler Slain At Poker Party

Herbert Gene Salisbury, Jr., of Hunter, at whose home Crit Butler, 25, was shot and killed Tuesday morning, was jailed here several hours later by State Trooper Estep and booked on a charge or murder.

In custody are Ed "Bubby" Wright, Jr., also of Hunter, who reportedly was playing poker with Salisbury and Butler during the night. He was treated at a hospital for an arm injury and was scheduled to be taken to Frankfort for a polygraph (lie detector) test. Diana Gail Blankenship, who was described by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis as Salisbury's common-law wife, also will be asked to undergo the same test.

Butler was shot three times, one bullet passing through his head. Sheriff Lewis said the accused man was at home when he and other officers arrived there Tuesday morning. Salisbury did not make a

A helicopter pad will be located at the rear of the building, it was said.

These two mules, Mert and Laurie, will be taking things pretty easy this fall and winter, now that farming and gardening activities are over for the year. But, come another spring, and their owner, Elzie Prater, of Myrtle on the Left Fork of Abbott Creek, will hitch them up again and put them through their yearly routines of pulling the plow and discing. Not nearly so common as in the days before the tractor and machinery made their appearance, the horse-donkey hybrid still fills a special need on small mountain farms where mechanized farming is, for the most part, impractical.

Prater says his mules pay for their "room and board" and Mert, now 30 years old, has pulled the plow for Prater for the past 28 years. "I put the harness on her the day I bought her," remarked Mr. Prater. When asked if Mert was still worth her salt at her age, Mr. Prater replied, "If I could put you to work behind her, I guarantee she'd wear you out."

Project R.I.F. Begins at Clark

education students at Clark School begin an extra "treat" this year as a result of Project R.I.F (Reading Is Fundamental). Shown above, students preview books they will own before the year is over.

The reading project is one of national scope, and is run by volunteers, both at the national and local levels. The Prestonsburg Jr. Womans' Club is the local volunteer sponsor for this year.

Two goals of the project include stimulating reading interest in children, and making books available for child selection and ownership.

The program at Clark will be based on the program," he stated.

Remedial reading and special an incentive system—the more books the child reads, the more books he will be able to select for his own. Books are to be awarded two or three times during the school, and a book auction will take place each time. This will allow a student to "buy" an extra book if he has read more than his quota.

> John K. Pitts, the school principal, indicated that student and teacher interest is running very high and hopes that other service organizations will adopt the R.I.F. project as their education committee project. "A rather small cash gift can double itself by the participation in

Hershel Joseph Comments:

In analyzing some of the statements made by the present Board Member in District No. 1 in last week's Floyd County Times, I should like to add my own opinion on some of the positions taken. They are:

1. In my understanding, it is the recognized legal arm of state government, the State Board of Education, that does make facility surveys. These surveys give the local Boards of Education recommendations and priorities and an objective evaluation of its educational programs and facilities, with constructive recommendations for their improvement. Private consulting firms (Booker and Associates) HAVE NO DIRECTION of local Boards of Education

2. I AM NOT OPPOSED to school construction when needed and when funds are available. I agree that schools should be constructed as near as where children live when possible.

3. I cannot see the construction of a new Junior High at present when many more repairs and renovations to existing facilities should be made. These should be given top priority.

4. The most current Facility Survey done by the State Department of Education, and accepted by the Floyd County Board of Education in May, 1971, makes no reference, nor gives directions or priority for the establishment of a Junior High School in Prestonsburg or any other place in Floyd County. After all, Boards of Education are obligated to follow directions and leadership of the State Department of Education.

5. I, too, believe in the preservation of the neighborhood elementary schools and, where practical, these should be upgraded and additions made, as the need arises and finances are available.

6. I would question the cost of a local maintenance force for each school. There are twenty-five school centers and each of these then would need carpenters, painters, electricians. Wouldn't this about quadruple the size of the existing force? At what kind of cost?

7. I, too, am in favor of salary increases for non-certified personnel. I belive that it has been the policy of the present School Board, upon the recommendation of the Superintendent to pass along to non-certified school employees each increase in current expense allotment that is given by the state. Local School Boards cannot keep up with raises that are given employees of profit-making corporations.

8. The fact that students are given the opportunity for participation in vocational education at the Garth Vocational Education Center meets their needs. Could we afford to disolve this center and create new centers at each of our five existing high schools? I would think we should have higher priorities for upgrading elementary programs and secondary centers rather than gaining approval by the Southern Association of Secondary Schools. In my opinion you do not have excellence in High School Programs without first striving for excellence at the elementary level. Quality education and excellence are extremely important at both levels. To both of these ends I am committed.

The County Tax on Coal

If the levy of a franchise tax on coal such as has been attempted in Pike county is legal, it should be only the natural thing for all coal-producing counties to follow with similar levies.

These counties, it is true, owe much to the coal industry. But the debt of the coal industry to the counties is at least equally heavy.

For generations now this underground wealth has lain hidden, and almost hidden from taxation. Its removal presents problems to every county that has it, and to the people of these counties. And many of these are problems that will remain, long after the last lump of coal has been dug and loaded and hauled

Although most of the revenues derived from such a tax will perhaps be spent to repair roads damaged or destroyed by heavily overloaded coal trucks, roads that should not have been sacrificed to the industry in the first place should not demand all such funds. There are, for instance, streams that are damaged just as badly as the roads.

Moreover, such a tax should never be used to expiate the crime of road destruction. It should not circumvent a law which still is there on the statue books, along with other laws that are en-statement. The sheriff and Commonwealth's Attorney Harold Stumbo quoted the Blankenship woman as saying she was at home and that she heard Salisbury say, "Nobody draws a gun on me or walks on me," then the shots. She produced two weapons which she said she found in the house—a .38-calibre revolver and a .25 automatic pistol—but the murder deapon.

If the tax is designed to make overloaded coal trucks and highway damage acceptable, the first thing that should be done is repeal the law that is rendered worthless by such acceptance.

Investigators, including State predict will be a long, hard winter. Detective Gary Rose, said Butler's body had apparently been dragged from the kitchen-dining room of the Salisbury home where the shooting took place into what was described as a small washroom. The shooting reportedly took place at 4:30 a.m. Sheriff Lewis said he was not notified till about 8 a.m.

Evidence of a poker game was found in $19.26 left lying on a table. Whiskey and beer were also found. Sheriff Lewis said. The victim was a son of J. C. and Bessie Martin Butler, of Drift. Other survivors are his widow, Mrs. Connie Owens Butler, one step-son, Jimmy Butler, and a step-daugher, Carolyn Butler, all of Hunter, and one brother, Tony J. Butler, of Drift.

The body is at the Hall Brothers Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements were incomplete, late Tuesday afternoon.

The leaves, as any householder knows without looking upward, are on their way out of the picture. And what a kaleidoscope of color they have been! They belong on the trees, not in our yards, we may say, but the old must give way to the new. BRING ON THE JUMPING FROG

Bob Harlowe-who else?-sends me a clipping about a chicken flying contest staged out in Ohio. This impresario whose motto must be, "We never chicken out," sets up a 15-foot-tall scaffold for his fowl-fly, and it attracts the curious. Entered are some 50 ex-fryers, now fliers, and among them, naturally, is one called Gregory Peck. Another is Lois Laid, an old English hen that cackled all the way from Gallipolis, O., and she is the current world champ with a flight in last year's event of 163 feet, two inches. Two years ago, the show flopped as the winner, Orville the Flying Fool, stayed aloft only 31/2 feet. All other contestants took off in the wrong direction.

The flight director is a professor of veterinary medicine and poultry science at Ohio University, and it's his job to see that there are no "ringers" posing as chickens in the contest. He recalls spotting a pheasant which some low fellow had inserted into the lineup. He tossed the pheasant out on the back of his beak. "Somebody might enter a bird that's not a chicken," he explained, "and it would fly to West Virginia."

Just so they don't get a stool pigeon on this scaffold.

Subaru

The Subaru Quadrozontal Engine has a funny name. But it gives you very serious performance.

It's called "Quadrozontal" because it's a four cylinder, liquid cooled, horizontally opposed engine.

If you're not an automotive engineer, it means that the Subaru Quadrozontal engine effectively reduces vibration, which cuts down wear and tear. Less wear means fewer repairs.

And that's yet another good reason to test drive a Subaru today.

SOIL CONSERVATION

Frankfort, Ky.-The pressures of inflation and a troubled agricultural economy apparently are beginning to affect the soil conservation practices of Reports to the Division of Conservation If you travel eastward, you will catch of the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection indicate that farmers, getting assistance from soil conservation districts, have put more land acreage into production than they did in 1973 and are building fewer ponds, sod waterways and other erosion-preventing structures.

"Land that's been in pasture of timber for years was plowed up this year," said Stanley Head, assistant director of the state Conservation Division. He said farmers apparently are putting the land into small grain production to take advantage of relatively higher market prices being paid for those crops.

"If the price farmers are receiving for cattle continues to drop, we can expect to see a further increase in the amount of acreage in row crop production," he said.

One indication that more land is going into production is the increased use of the Division of Conservation's revolving fund for equipment. The heavy earth-moving equipment the state furnishes to local conservation districts through loans to private contractors has been involved in clearing 7,372 acres of farmland this year, compared to 6,828 in 1973. During the same period, the number of ponds being built has dropped off from 660 in 1973 to 513 so far this year. Also, 62,764 acres of waterways, which drain farmland, have been built this year, compared to 71,405 acres in 1973.

While less conservation construction work has been done, the purchase price of bulldozers and graders has increased, adding to the costs farmers must pay for building ponds and waterways, which ultimately discourages such work.

The state Conservation Division loaned $687,430 to local conservation districts to purchase heavy equipment last year. Already this year, the loans have totaled $1,077,083. The soaring costs of the equipment is the main reason, Head said. During a six-week period this spring, the purchase price of a medium size bulldozer rose from $53,000 to $66,000, he added.

If economic conditions fail to improve and, as more land is put to the plow, erosion and sediment problems on farms are bound to accelerate, Head said.

"The high costs of living, and farm operating are eating away at what the farmer has set aside to put into conservation of his land," Head concluded. "Soon it may come down to a matter of priorities. The farmer will have to look out first for providing food, shelter and education of his family. . . then care for the land.'

To The Voters In Educational District No. 2 Which Includes The Following Precincts: (New) Allen-Dwale, Arkansas, Cow Creek, Drift, Halbert, Martin, Maytown, (Old Allen) Mouth of Beaver, and Prater Creek.

GENE D. DAVIS

Do You Really Care About The Education of Your Children, Future Children, and Grandchildren? Think About This Question!

The private and personal decision that you make when you go behind the curtain of your voting machine November 5, 1974, could be one of the most important decisions that you will ever make concerning our children's education for the future. Your right to vote a secret ballot on the voting machine is one of the most important freedoms that we have left in our country make this final appeal to all the voters in Educational District No. 2 and ask for your support as School Board Member because I am truly interested in serving you and our children. I have had experience as a teacher at Betsy Layne High School and Lebanon High School, Lebanon, Ohio. I was Assistant Principal at Prestonsburg Grade School and Prestonsburg High School and served as Athletic Director. I was Principal at the following schools: Harold Grade School, Pikeville High School and Betsy Layne High School and Grade School.

I think Floyd County Needs an Educator on the Board of Education to serve as the people's representative. I am completely for any new buildings that we can afford to build but I say to you that the most important thing in education is the teacher in the classroom. Our children only get one chance to go through grade school and high school and if they do not get the proper training in the classroom their future will not be very bright for them.

I believe that if a man or woman wants to be a candidate for school board member that he or she should run their own race and not have to depend on our county and state officials and local school personnel to carry the load for him. So I make this promise to all teachers, principals, maintenance workers, central office personnel, janitors, cooks, and any other employee of the Floyd County School System that if I am elected to the Board of Education you will never be asked to work for me in an election. I respect your positions of work and think it is a disgrace to you to be asked to work in school board elections.

School board elections are supposed to be non-partisan so I welcome Democrats, Republicans, Independents, and any other qualified voter that is interested in education in Floyd County.

My wife and I have three children and two of them are presently in school and the third child will be in school in two more years. I am not seeking revenge toward anyone and I promise you that I will be my own man on all matters of decision making as your school board member. I will attend your P.T.A. meetings and listen to the problems that each school has and take your recommendations back to the superintendent and other board members.

I believe that I can win this election if all my friends and neighbors will pitch in and help me in this effort because I realize that I cannot do it alone. So if you know me, I ask for your help in this important matter. I have always taken pride in my work and you may feel free to check on my personal background.

The question that you as a voter need to ask yourself is who is the best qualified of the three candidates running for school board member in Educational District No. 2? This is serious business where honesty plays an important part in a five million ($5,000,000.00) dollar taxpayer supported budget. This is your tax money voters! Support me as your school board member and I will see to it that the job is done right.

Covered Bridges May Be Shrines

SWITZER COVERED BRIDGE in Franklin County recently was added to the National Register of Historic Places. According to Senate Bill 290, enacted earlier this year in General Assembly, it is one of sixteen covered bridges eligible to be designated as a state shrine. Switzer Covered Bridge was constructed around 1855 by George Hockensmith. Over 400 covered bridges existed at one time in Kentucky. Now there are sixteen and only ten are in use. Switzer was closed to traffic in 1954. The bridge is owned by Judge Henry Meigs of Franklin County.

Oct. 29 Is Deadline For ASC Nominations

October 29 is the deadline for Floyd county farmers to nominate candidates for the upcoming ASC community committee elections, Sharon Conley, acting county ASC director, said this

First duty of the newly elected community committee members will be to serve as delegates to elect new members to the county ASC committee. Mrs. Conley reminds producers that this is an important occasion for the responsible, farmer-chosen team of ASC community committeemen.

The ASC community committee election will be conducted by mail from Nov. 22 to Dec. 2. By turning in a total of six or more petitions, farmers in each ASC community have the opportunity to prepare the slate of nominees themselves. Mrs. Conley said she hopes that farmers will submit enough valid petitions to fill the slate.

Shortly after Oct. 29, all petitions will be reviewed. If six or more valid petitions have been received for an ASC community, the county ASCS office will prepare a slate containing the names of all eligible nominees. If less than six valid petitions are received for any ASC community, the job of slate completion will be turned over to the incumbent community committee, which will add nominees needed to complete the slate.

The county ASC committee will review all community slates prior to the mail election and will advise all candidates of the duties of an ASC committeeman.

In order to submit a valid petition, three or more ASC farm voters must sign a statement endorsing an eligible candidate. The statement must include certification that the nominee will serve if elected. Petitions must be dated and mailed or hand-delivered to the county ASCS office no later than Oct. 29.

The opportunity to nominate, vote, and be elected to office in the upcoming ASC committee election is guaranteed to all farmers regardless of race, religion, sex, color, or national origin.

Underground, Fliers They Rescued In Reunion During Visit to U.S.

The mission failed. He found none of

There followed three days-and nights-of reminiscing, of recalling the days and nights when upon the thin thread of the Comete Line the fate of hundreds of American airmen depended.

There was Rene (known as Michon in the days when she was the shadowy leader of the underground). After 30 years she instantly recognized Allen, the moment she stepped from the bus at the U. S.-Canadian border.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Rene, the World War II Underground leader, and Jarvis Allen reminisce during Detroit reunion.

Line, since some fliers returned to England "like a comet," within eight days Comete is Belgian for comet.

The Comete Line was known to have Tim McNulty told the reunion story in rescued more than 800 Allied fliers. The line's organizers ran their operation independent of Allied help except for the final flight from Gibraltar. Once the line was broken when German agents, arrested scores of Resistance workers and Heinrich Himmler personally ordered 17 of the members shot.

It was Rene, then 23 years old and now Mrs. Micheline Ugeux, who regrouped the underground workers, many of them women, and continued to save the air-gesture, treated the group to lunch and tours Tuesday. Patton was able to locate only five ex-fliers around the United States who could come visit with the men and women who saved their lives some 30 years ago.

Jarvis Allen, a Prestonsburg, Ky., attorney, talked with Rene Tuesday at the Ford Guest Center.

German fighter planes from Frankfort downed his B-17 bomber Aug. 17, 1943. Allen, an engineer-gunner on the top turret, bailed out of the burning plane and broke his right foot on the parachute drop. He made it through the fields to Ath, Belgium, where a farm family contacted Rene.

She interrogated Allen, then 27, to confirm he really was American, and then began months of hiding in homes, and even a convent as they traveled by foot, ox-cart and horse south to freedom. He finally reached England in Decem-

"Our only purpose is to show we didn't forget what they did," said Patton, who will travel with the group to Washington and New York this week. "We're not interested in keeping memories of the war, but we do want to remember the The Ford Motor Co., as a goodwill wonderful people who risked their lives for us."

> But Rene, now a demure and middleaged housewife, explained in strained English: "It was only our duty. They were such young boys . . . and we hoped to be one day free."

Man Who Operated River Dredge Confirms Boat-in-River Story birthday party at her home Monday

of a steamboat at rest deep in the sandmud bottom of the Big Sandy here has further verification this week.

Homer L. Merritt, who operated the sand dredge which uncovered the boat, writes from Newport News, Va. to substantiate the report. Mr. Merritt, who has been a foreman for the pipe department of the Newport News Shipbuilding Dry Dock Company for 27 years, writes:

"I read in The Times about the steamboat that was said to have sunk in the river at Prestonsburg, sometime in

The story told here several weeks ago the past, as per Donald (Dootney) Horn and Jack Hyden. I will have to agree with them about a boat of some kind of large size, being in this location.

"I operated a sand dredge at this location for four years. When the river was low, there were boards exposed about a foot under the surface of the water, lying on a slight angle from left to right, looking upstream toward the West Prestonsburg bridge. I was able to get the 6-inch suction pipe through these boards in two or three places, but when this was possible I only got a small amount of sand, coal, barrel staves, glass, and rocks which plugged up the suction pipe. I was able to dredge 10 to 12 feet deep on the downstream and right side upstream, but could not go any distance on the left side up stream. Logs and large boulders were an obstruction. The shoals that have formed from the bridge downstream to this point may have been formed by this obstruction.

"As to the whistle and anchor, I never saw them. Dootney and Jack must have got them when I was not looking."

Mountain Music Show Scheduled at Betsy Layne, November 2

From the hills of Tennessee, from the Blue Ridge mountains of North Carolina, the coal camps of West Virginia, from the varied communities of the mountain South come the performers of the 8th Annual Oldtime Mountain Music Show. Together, these men and women will sing their story in concert Nov. 2, at 6 p.m. at the Betsy Layne high school gym.

The musicians who comprise this spirited group bring with them their voices and poetry, their guitar strums and autoharp licks and a strong sense of the mountains that they know. Each fall the annual tour is composed of a different group of musicians who bring to Appalachian towns the sounds of the blues, ballads, bluegrass, sounds of oldtime and newtime country and of people in struggle and change.

In its 8th year on the road, the Oldtime Mountain Music Show will feature such performers as:

Olabelle Reed, one of the greatest country singers ever, who has been singing on the radio since the early 1930's, playing her clawhammer style on the banjo and entertaining folks with her unique country humor. She will be accompanied by her husband, Bud, and son, David Reed, on harmonica and guitar. Rounder Records.

Nimrod Workman is a retired coal miner from Mingo County, West Virginia who has been singing traditional mountain ballads and coal mining songs most of his 76 years. Phyllis Boyens, the youngest of his 13 children will also sing with him and some of her own songs in her lilting more contemporary country style. Rounder Records.

Sparky Rucker, is a vibrant young blues singer who presents his music in the best of the Black tradition. From Knoxville, he is much influenced by string band music of the mountain South. He accompanies himself on guitar which he plays in a bottleneck fashion, mandolin and mouth harp. American Tradition Records.

Anne Romaine, a North Carolina country ballad singer and songwriter who accompanies herself on guitar and autoharp and sings songs of labor struggles as well as contemporary country tunes.

The show is being sponsored by the Floyd County Citizens' Association to raise money for a Christmas fund.

Coal Tax Funds Could Be Cut In Ky. Counties

Failure of the state's coal-producing counties to use their shares of the coal severance tax funds for industrial development could mean the end of county sharing after next year, State Representative W. J. Reynolds, of Allen, told county officials and others attending the workshop sponsored at May Lodge last Tuesday by the Kentucky Department of Commerce. Floyd county this year received $297,272 as its share of the unbudgeted surplus from severance funds. The total to be distributed among the 39 coal counties next year may be twice as much as the first allocation, but Reynolds pointed out that after that the windfall could end.

"We have to convince the Legislature at the next session that this was good legislation," Reynolds, chairman of the Legislative Advisory Board which is responsible for approving projects for severance tax spending, said. "We're getting objections from other areas that applications are not emphasizing industrial development, and indications are that we won't get support again unless this changes."

The workshop was designed for the benefit of county officials from the 17 counties in the Big Sandy, Kentucky River, 'Fivco and Gateway area development districts but the official attendance was light.

Commerce Commission Damon Harrison proposed renewed promotion of Eastern Kentucky industrial expansion, suggesting a brochure which would summarize information on industrial sites, the labor supply, roads, work skills of residents, the labor pool, recreation and other features. The booklet, he said, would go to a thousand of the nation's largest corporations. Harrison said he also will propose national advertising of Eastern Kentucky.

The shortage of industrial sites and what industrial prospects are looking for in areas such as this were discussed by Tom Fields, the Commerce Department's director of industrial development, and Paul Lyons, assistant director.

Murder Defendants Penned For Life, Not 21 Years

Only two persons have to date been brought to trial for the Pike county murder of Mrs. Boone Deskins-not three, as The Times stated last week. And both, Boone Deskins and Eugene Thompson, were sentenced to life terms -not 21 years, as we stated.

The trial of a third defendant in the case, Robert Sykes, has been transferred from Pike county to the Floyd circuit court and is set for Nov. 11. The fourth defendant turned state's evidence, and his trial presumably will be held later.

Work Is To Provide Emergency Lighting For PCC Building

Gov. Wendell H. Ford has announced that an emergency lighting system will be installed in the Johnson Administration building of Prestonsburg Community College.

Elliott Glass and Electric Co., Inc. was the successful bidder and will carry out the project at a cost of $5,590.

The battery-powered system will be used to assure a safe exit in the event of a power failure. This action conforms with the new Life-Health Safety Code.

The job also requires modification of the grill hood fan in the Martin Student Center, another campus building, to provide sufficient exhaust and a fire protection system.

The work has been begun and is to be completed in January.

Floyd To Await Court Test Before Setting Levy on Coal

Floyd county will probably follow the lead of Pike county if the Pike franchise levy on coal stands a court test, but at least five other Eastern Kentucky coalproducing counties propose to go ahead and impose the tax without waiting.

"We have talked about it (the tax) but decided to wait and see what happens in Pike county," County Judge Henry Stumbo said last week. "I believe that if the Pike tax is upheld, we will more than likely have the same kind of tax in Floyd county."

Announced as ready to proceed with voting the tax before a court decision is made are the fiscal courts of Martin, Johnson, Letcher, Clay and Knox counties. Leslie county has already voted the tax. Magoffin and Bell counties, like Floyd, have decided to await a ruling onthe legality of the tax.

Letcher county, said County Judge Estill Blair, is considering such a tax to include not only coal but other natural resources such as oil, gas, timber and crushed rock. He sees a return of $600,000 a year if the tax is voted and validated.

Pike and Leslie counties have voted a tax of 10 cents a ton on coal. Pike officials estimate the levy would net the county, the biggest coal-producing county in the nation, as much as $2 million a year. All the tax is earmarked for road improvements. Leslie county expects

Abbott Community Development Ass'n Reviews Progress

The Abbott Creek Community Development Association met recently at the Bonanza school. A fine crowd was present to review progress being made on projects planned by the group. Improvements noted were:

1. A Home Makers Club had been established. Members in attendance were inviting all women of the community to join their organization.

2. A building is being cleaned, painted and furnished as a community center.

3. The local TV cable system has connected the school to its line free as a public service.

4. Lumber and ornamental fencing furnished by the Board of Education are on hand. Community Volunteers and Nelson Mainstream workers are to build library shelves and tables. Fencing is to be done by these same workers. A book drive for the library is planned.

5. A committee was appointed to build goals for a basketball court. Bonanza once again is to have a basketball team. The membership was pleased that so much progress had been made through its efforts. Th group discussed at length a gas and water system for Abbott Creek. Committees were appointed to explore plans and possibilities for this project. The need for road improvement in the section was also noted.

Contract Ends, Ky. W.Va. Gas Hit by Strike

Almost 300 employees of Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, represented by Local 3-510, Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union, went on strike at midnight last Saturday when the existing labor agreement expired and the parties were unable to agree to new contract terms through negotiations.

Contract negotiations began August 20 and ended last Friday afternoon when the union committee rejected the company's final offer of settlement.

Included in the company's offer for a 15-month contract was, according to a company spokesman, a two-phase wage offer which provided for an increase of 501/2 cents per hour, effective immediately, and an additional 5 cents per hour, effective July 16, 1975. The offer included improvements in fringe benefits such as additional vacation allowance, and increases in mileage allowance, meal allowance, shift differential, sickness or death-in-the-family benefits, and hospitalization insurance. It also provided for a refund of employee contributions, plus interest, in the pension plan without any reduction in pension benefits and the addition of five new jobs to the bargaining unit. The total cost of the package offer, the company spokesman said, is equivalent to about 69 cents per hour, or a 14 percent raise.

Future meetings between the company and the union will be determined by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. No such meetings are scheduled at this time, it was said.

Kentucky West Virgnia Gas Company, which was established in 1927, has operations in 11 Eastern Kentucky counties and provides a substantial portion of the natural gas supply of Equitable Gas Company inPittsburgh, which has more than 235,000 residential customers. The company also provides natural gas service to approximately 4,000 domestic consumers along its pipelines in Eastern Kentucky, to the Columbia Gas System, and to the towns of Prestonsburg, Paintsville, Hazard, Allen, Wheelwright, and other smaller communities in Eastern Kentucky.

The company will make every reasonable effort to maintain gas service to its customers.

Health Agency Changes Name

A change of name became official last Thursday for Comprehensive Health Care, Inc. when its governing board voted approval of the new, Big Sandy Health Care, Incorporated.

Acting chairman Eric Herrin, presiding in the absence of Bud Pruitt, indicated the name change was accepted because of confusion with other agencies, Mountain Comprehensive Care and Comprehensive Health Care. Herrin said that the staff had indicated that many people in the region as well as in Washington and Atlanta consistently confused the two agencies.

Other points of business of the governing board concerned the restructuring of the board. A plan submitted by the staff was read and approved. The governing board instructed the staff to gather names of persons in the target areas as nominees to a multicounty board.

A previous meeting with HEW representatives had disclosed that the present Floyd county board was required to dissolve and assist in the formation of a multi-county board. The new board would include only those areas described in the grant application as the principal geographic target areas. Covered by Big Sandy Health Care are the Weeksbury-Wheelwright and Magoffin county areas. Persons not living in those areas are eligible for primary care at either the Weeksbury-Wheelwright or Magoffin county clinics. The Magoffin county clinic will be located in Salversville.

Projections for the initiation of clinic activities were made by Dr. Robert Young, a recent addition to Big Sandy Health Care. Dr. Young indicated that the Magoffin County Health Clinic is virtually ready for services. Renovation work remaining at the Weeksbury-Wheelwright clinic will delay the Floyd county opening until the latter part of November.

Dr. Young, a pediatrician, is a native of Harrodsburg, Kentucky. He is a graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Medicine.

Quentin D. Allen, executive director, emphasized that the primary thrust of staff time was in the recruitment of physicians for the two clinics. He indicated that staff recruitment efforts were bearing fruit.

Initially, Allen said, the clinics will open with a school screening program. This includes all children in Floyd and Magoffin and other Big Sandy counties as personnel and time will permit. Physical examinations will be phased in as soon as the school screening program is off the ground. Then other programs will be initiated until the full schedule of services is made available

A board meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m., Thursday, October 31 at the Prestonsburg office.

Open Letter To Floyd County Teachers

DEAR TEACHER,

Your children attend Floyd County schools. Are you happy with the quality of education they receive? You know we have problems, and you, better than any other group of people, know what they are. You see our youth become more undisciplined and disrespectful every day. You experience the lack of communication and cooperation among parents and teachers and have the knowledge to recognize that our problems are insurmountable under the present system, so you adjust and accept.

You know that learning to think and reason for ourselves is the essence of education. When you begin to teach in Floyd County, you must learn quickly to suppress many of your conclusions and proposals for our problems. Few of us can benefit from another's experience, yet, YOU must if you are to survive in your chosen profession. You must keep in your mind the fellow-teacher who was forced to accept an unwanted transfer because he or she dared to express themselves in a politically inexpedient manner. If you know your school principal is incompetent as an administrator, you also know he was placed in this position for political reasons and it would be foolhardy for you to speak of it! So, again, you adjust. But the price of the adjustment is exorbitant. With it you must accept responsibilities that should be passed on to the principal. Your teaching day is constantly disrupted because of discipline problems, and every student in your room pays the price in the loss of teaching

In a recent PTA meeting I attended, one parent openly expressed the opinion that "Most parents don't give a ___!" Every parent who sends his child to school would necessarily care more if he were called to the Principal's office to deal with chronic problems. But this would only succeed if it were consistent, if it applied to the child of the politician, and THE CHILD FROM THE FAMILY WITH MANY VOTES, as well as the child from the low income family.

You are often appalled by the hiring of an art major to teach math, or a physical education major to teach civics, etc., but you know as I know that you can accomplish nothing by speaking out.

You are the educated. The uneducated must look to you for leadership. Our youth will follow your example if they hope to prosper in Floyd County and the way of life will continue, except for the few "rebels" who somehow crop up now and again in defiance of a school system that is predicated on POLITICAL TYRANNY. A tyrant is a ruler or master who uses power to suppress those under him, but a tyrant can only survive as long as he can keep his subjects divided against themselves.

I WOULD LIKE TO SEE FLOYD COUNTY'S TEACHERS CLOSE THEIR RANKS, ORGANIZE AND UNITE WITH THE SAME SENSE OF FELLOWSHIP AND CLOSENESS THAT HAS SO BENEFITED OUR COAL MINERS.

As your school board member, I make this pledge: I will stand staunchly with any negotiating delegation in support of your detense of a co-worker who is being intimidated in any way for exercising a freedom of expression. An administration should administer, not control. Only through your UNITED participation will our school system evolve into what it can and should be. Without your help, we will all continue to suffer the consequences of a school system controlled by politicians for power and money, through fear. Freedom is a fragile gift that will wither and die unless we cherish and defend it. We must all share the shame for our educational system.

I believe you hold the key to end the tyranny which stifles education in Floyd County. I WILL REMAIN FREE and proud to stand with you in UNITY and HOPE and MUTUAL RESPECT, while we work to abolish the repression you have been forced to accept as a Floyd County teacher.

County To Host First ARC Meet Slated in State

The first of three public meetings scheduled in Eastern Kentucky by the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) will be held at 6:30 p.m. next Tuesday at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

In the meeting here, as in the two others planned for Eastern Kentucky, ARC will explain its programs and seek opinions on the direction future programs should take.

At May Lodge representatives of Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Magoffin, Pike, Boyd, Carter, Elliott, Greenup, Lawrence, Breathitt, Knott, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Owsley, Perry and Wolfe counties will gather.

Similar meetings are scheduled at Winchester at 1 p.m., Oct. 31, and at Cumberland Falls State Park at 4:30 p.m. Nov. 14.

Participating in the meeting here will be Dr. Charles Haywood, Kentucky's representative to the ARC, plus a member of the ARC executive committee, commission staff members and local officials.

Harry Teter Jr., ARC executive director, said that public meetings are being held in each of the 13 Appalachian states as part of the commission's overall program design effort. Past programs and developments will be evaluated in order to determine future programs and directions more effectively.

The meetings are also designed to enable local, state and federal officials, as well as public and private organizations and citizens, to participate in Appalachia's development.

Each meeting will begin with a brief presentation of the organization and history of the ARC. Commission officials will examine the region as it was in 1965, when the ARC was established, and the region as it is today to point out the changes and trends over the past nine

Following will be a presentation of the ARC's tentative plans, proposals and recommendations for continued development of the region.

ARC representatives are expected to introduce possible federal-state partnership and ARC subsidization of industry and tourism as a means of broadening the region's economic base.

The meetings will then be opened to solicit views of local leaders and citizens regarding their specific needs and their ideas on how the commission can best assist them in improving the quality of life in Appalachia.

Blue Grass Group Here for Meet

Beautiful weather and fall-colored hills greeted the Blue Grass Council of International Reading Association when it came to May Lodge for its regular monthly meeting October 11.

The Jenny Wiley Reading Council was invited to attend the meeting by the Blue Grass Council president, Mrs. Olive Tingue, a former Floyd county teacher now teaching in the Lexington schools.

After the business meeting, an oldfashioned auction was conducted by Ruth Sandidge. Items such as homemade lye soap, homemade bread, home-canned foods, jewelry and souvenirs from Europe were donated by the members for the auction. Proceeds went to the council to continue its projects for the Jenny Wiley members attending the meeting and auction were Elsie Stephens, Sarah Lavens, Nadine Hicks, Delphia Hicks, and Pauline Hicks.

Akers TV Cable Named in Action

The Akers Cable System, Inc. and its president, Everett Akers, of Martin, who have a suit pending against the Floyd fiscal court, were themselves named defendants in a complaint filed in circuit court here last Friday.

Last week's suit was filed by W. H. May, of the Warco vicinity, who asks judgment to require Akers to restore to him good television service, as agreed in a contract signed Sept. 8, 1971, plus $5,000

May claims that he and other citizens entered into the contract in which the cable system and Akers promised television service for a hookup charge of $100 and a service charge of $6 a month. He alleges that Akers failed to provide a signal of good quality, as promised, has refused to provide such service and has terminated service in violation of the Names of 15 residents of the Warco area are listed on the contract signed by them and Akers.

The action of the cable system against the fiscal court followed the court's attempt to franchise territory for television cable service in the county. The Martin man contended that the action was an attempt to prevent extension of his service in violation of his rights. Briefs in the case have been in the hands of a special judge several months.

According to the U.S. Labor Department, the teaching field will continue to be overcrowded with jobseekers if recent patterns of college enrollments continue.

Delphia Hicks, Jean Hackworth, Myrtle Ratliff, Bertha Ratliff, Pauline Hicks and Nadine Hicks, representing the Jenny Wiley Council, International Reading Association, who entertained the Blue Grass Council with refreshments and a tour at Clark Elementary School, October 12.

Donkey Basketball Game

The "CRAZIEST SHOW ON EARTH" comes to town Thursday, Oct. 24, at 7:30 p.m., when it's men vs. donkeys, at McDowell high school gym. The opposing teams will be participating in a game sponsored by the McDowell Athletic Department.

The donkeys will be stubborn, as usual-sometimes a little contrary, and to put it mildly, sometimes a bit uncooperative. The rules of the game are that you can only shoot while sitting on the donkey and recover loose balls while holding on to the donkey. This is where the fun comes in. About the time a player goes to shoot, the donkey decides he has been on his back too long. The local "cowboy" will then show his skill as a rodeo star. Trying to move the donkey two or three inches when going after a loose ball, can sometimes seem like a city block. It will be a real challenge to the local men of strength. There will be thrills, spills, laughs, and more laughs. The local drug stores will sell their liniment stocks the day after the game. It's fun for members of the entire family. It's the basketball game of the year, where everyone goes home laughing. You won't want to miss it! Plan now to buy your advance tickets, from the Varsity and Junior Varsity Cheerleaders at

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of William A. Bingham, who Phillip A. Childers, 67, of Auxier, died passed away Oct. 19, 1973:

> In Loving Memories Your gentle face and patient smile With sadness we recall. You had a kindly word for each And died beloved by all.

The voice is silent and stilled the heart That loved us well and true. Ah, bitter was the trial to part From one so good as you.

You are not forgotten, loved one, Nor will you ever be. As long as life and memories last We will remember you.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore, As time goes by we miss you more; Your loving smile, your gentle face, No one can fill your vacant place.

You have gone through the valley, The shadow of death. The burdens are ended, the trials are

Now you have come, face to face with the

Now resting on the heavenly shore Till time shall be no more. Sadly missed by his wife and daughters, Willie Mae, Marietta, Anna Jean.

Mrs. Hazel Harris Lynch

Mrs. Hazel Harris Lynch, 72, of Ashland, formerly of Prestonsburg, died Saturday night at King's Daughters' Hospital after a brief illness.

Born May 26, 1902 at Lancer, she was a daughter of the late G. W. (Pet) and Anna Lockhart Harris. Her husband, John B. Lynch, died in 1946. She was a member of the First Christian Church of Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Kermit Howard, of Dwale; four sons, Jack and Tom Lynch, both of Ashland, Fred Lynch, of Akron, O., and Leo Lynch, of Flatwoods; a sister, Miss Janice Harris, of Ashland; three brothers, George Harris, of Mayfield, Steve and Hargus Harris, both of Thurman, O.; 14 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Miller Funeral Home in Ashland by the Rev. O. M. Miller. Burial was made in Bellefonte Memorial Gardens.

My Father-In-Law

My Father-in-law was not at all. He was loving, good, kind and precious. To me he was sweet and tall, but on October 13th God says come home Ben and Dad heard his call.

God lifted his spirits and made him know He was his child and washed him whiter than snow

Thank you God for him, and for having the pleasure of being his daughter, too. It's like he believed and has said, if you do right and believe, God will see us through.

Yes, he and mother-in-law enjoying Heaven around God's great throne and in heaven they'll never be alone.

I used to see Dad cry when mom went away, And I've heard him say Maudie I'll see you again someday.

In Loving Memory By daughter-in-law Mrs. Ora L. Hunter

Donkey Ball Game Slated Saturday

Donkey ball, the world's craziest sport, comes to Prestonsburg Saturday.

This game, played from the backs of trained donkeys, is reputed to be wilder than a rodeo and funnier than a circus. For the game the PHS cheerleaders have obtained the services of the nationally known Buckeye Donkey Ball Co. of Columbus, Ohio. The donkeys they will furnish range from docile to rambunctious and stationary to sprightlyand all are unpredictable. Male faculty members of the high school will be the

Prestonsburg and Wheelwright Lose to Boyd County, Mullins

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON The Boyd County Lions rolled over the Prestonsburg Blackcats Friday night by a score of 50 to 10 in the homecoming game for the Lions.

The Boyd County coach had no mercy on the Cats and remarked after the game, "That's probably the last time they'll play us. I've heard rumors that they'll drop out of the Sandy Valley conference. Coach Scott added, "I don't think they'll play us again. We tried to beat them bad. We needed the game to keep our position in the ratings and we know they probably will be dropping us."

Coach Scott kept most of his offensive first-line in the whole game. The Lions ran for 406 yards, passed for 78 more and had 19 first downs.

The Blackcats only touchdown scoring came on a 46-yard run by Mike Calhoun as he recovered a fumble, Danny Layne kicked the extra point and in the fourth quarter Layne kicked a 24-yard field

Among the things that Coach Tom Scott wanted in the game was to beat the Cats badly, keep his No. 1 position in the state and stop Danny Layne in scoring so that a couple of his boys would pass him in scoring. Scott gained most of these except in the scoring. Layne still leads in scoring. The Blackcats had several of their key players out of the game, including all-state candidate, quarterback Del Jaggers. Wait till next year Coach Scott.

The Blackcats' next home game will be this Friday night as a former Blackcat star and now coach of Johnson Central, Bruce Howard, will bring his muchimproved Golden Eagles here. Last Saturday night, Johnson Central defeated M. C. Napier, 42-0. Johnson Central's record now is 5-4, the same as the Blackcats'

The Wheelwright Trojans suffered another setback last Friday night at the hands of the Mullins Tigers. The Trojans lost to Mullins, 34 to 20. Wheelwright trailed at halftime by a score of 18 to 12, but was able to score only one touchdown in the second half of play.

Mike Armour, the speedster for the Trojans, scored two touchdowns and passed for another. So far this season, Armour has scored a total of 84 points and has missed two games. Armour scored once on a 92-yard kick return and another run of 78 yards. He also passed to Berger for a 45-yard touchdown play. Wheelwright scored its extra points on a Joe Tackett to Darren Little play.

The Trojans will be traveling Friday night, when they will face the Jenkins Cavaliers in a homecoming game at

Pro Cycle Hillclimb Set For Next Sunday At Jenny Wiley Park

The second Jenny Wiley Professional Hill Climb will be held Sunday, October 27 at the Dewey Lake Fish & Game Club grounds on Stratton Branch, Jenny Wiley

Sunday's event, sponsored by the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad, will feature 50 to 60 of the nation's finest professional motorcyclists and promises in every way to be even more exciting than last summer's professional competition which attracted hundreds of racing fans.

An American Motorcycle Association sanctioned event, a total purse of $1,300 will be offered to the best riders in both A and B classes and several Eastern Kentucky cyclists will be competing, including last year's overall winner, Terry Kinzer, of Allen.

The hillclimb will be held "rain or shine" beginning at 1 p.m.

Conservation District Joins in Sponsorship Of Pupil Competition

By WILLIAM J. CANTRELL (USDA, Soil Conservation Service) It is time once again for the Conservation Essay and Poster Contest

The statewide contest is sponsored by The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times and sponsored locally by the Floyd County Conservation District. The subject for the essay and poster contest is, "Water Conservation-Its Effect On My Community".

State essay winner awards will be $500, $200 and $100 U. S. Savings Bonds. A $25 U. S. Savings Bond and a plaque will be awarded each of 121 district winners. The three state winners, their parents and teachers will receive an expense-paid trip to the Awards Luncheon in Louisville. Certificate of achievement will be awarded the writer of the essay judged best in each school.

In the poster contest state winner awards of $100, $75 and $50 U.S. Savings Bonds will be made, and plaque will go to each of 1212 district winners. The state winners, their parents and teachers will also be given the expense-paid trip to the Awards Luncheon in Louisville.

Certificate of Merit will be awarded to the student who creates the best poster in each school.

Local awards include these:

Best essay from each school, grades 9 through 12-first place $5, second place $3; Best essay from each school, grades 6 through 8-first place $5, second $3; county poster winners-first place $12, second place $8; best poster from each school-first place $5, second $3; best county poster-first place $10, second, $5.

A trophy or award will be presented to the school or schools having the highest percentage of participation (95 per cent or above). Honor certificates will be presented to the teachers who have county grade winners.

Floyd Blood Chapter To Meet Here, Thursday

A meeting of the Floyd County Chapter, Central Kentucky Blood Center, is scheduled at the library here at 7:30, Thursday evening. If the program is to be successful, it is important that all who are interested attend.

Although several donors were present, only 27 pints of blood were taken at the last Bloodmobile visit at McDowell. October 8.

Jenny Wiley Among 12 Kentucky Parks Open Thru Winter

A new vacation season soon will begin at 12 of Kentucky's state resort parks. And with reduced lodge rates, plus a long line-up of recreational activities, they're offering a winter getaway too good to

Ten resort parks, including Jenny Wiley, are open all winter. Two more-Rough River Dam and Greenbo Lakeare stretching out their seasons for a few extra months. Rough River Dam State Resort Park, at Falls of Rough, will remain open through Jan. 1, and Greenbo Lake State Resort Park, near Greenup, through Dec. 1.

Winter rates at the parks' spacious lodges are reduced up to 30 per cent. From November 1 through March 31, rates per night are $9.50 for one and $14 for two persons. An additional $2 is charged for each extra adult in the room. There is no charge for children 12 years old and under who accompany two or more adults in the room.

Each park's modern dining room features excellent Southern-style cooking plus a special regional Kentucky dish.

Each year, Kentucky's parks are attracting more and more wintertime vacationers, so early reservations are recommended. For further information or reservations, prospective vacationers can contact the individual parks or call the Central Reservations service in Frankfort. Kentucky residents may call toll-free, 1-800-372-2961, and residents of states surrounding Kentucky can use the toll-free number, 1-800-626-2911. Where toll-free service is not available, the number to call is (502) 223-2326.

Junior Club Stages Bike-a-Thon at Park

Twenty-eight members of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club participated in a 15 mile Bike-a-thon, Saturday. The event, first of this kind in the area, began at 9:30 a.m. from the Amphitheatre entrance, continued to Dewey Dam and returned to the original starting point. The event, which received extensive TV coverage by WSAZ-TV, netted the club treasury approximately $1600 which will be used to purchase a mobile isolette for Highlands Regional Medical Center, park benches and bike racks for the city of Prestonsburg and other community service projects of the Junior Woman's Club.

Members of the Co-Ed-Y of Prestonsburg High School served at check points and as substitute riders for the event.

Clubwomen participating in the event were Janice Allen, Rita Allen, Suzanne Frazier, Geraldine Hall, Lora Hamilton, Leah Hicks, Meg Horn, Helen Johnson, Martha Johnson, Peggy Kidd, Becky Radjunas, Daisy Risner, Barbara Robinson, Rosalee Rose, Jean Rosenberg, Earlene Spears, Delilah Vaughn and Sharon Watson. Clubwomen having substitute riders were Rhonda Burchett. Jeanne Brown, Shirley Combs, Jewell Hall, Marty Hicks, Joann Johnson, Shyla Meece, Della Ormerod, Sandy Risner and Shirley Thompson.

Clubwomen securing more than $100 each in sponsors included Barbara Robinson (with $225.00), Sharon Watson, Meg Horn, Suzanne Frazier, Janice

A.A.U.W. Here Plans Art Festival for '75

The Cultural Interest Committee of the Prestonsburg Branch of the American Association of University Women met with the 1975 Art Festival committee chairmen at Prestonsburg Community College Wednesday, October 2. Mrs. James D. Adams, chairman, reviewed the 1974 festival and presented each committee chairman a folder of information. The group discussed the forthcoming event and decided that due to the interest shown by school chairmen last spring an invitation should be extended to them this fall to attend a joint meeting with the AAUW chairmen. This planning session is to be held Monday, October 28, at 4 p.m. at the Floyd County Regional Library. Mrs. Adams and committee members, Mrs. John P. Sammons and Miss Sarah Clay Stephens, will mail letters to school principals and school chairmen concerning this meeting.

AAUW Art Festival committee chairmen who volunteered to assist the Cultural Interest Committee are Mrs. E. D. Roberts, hostess; Mrs. Marshall Davidson, publicity; Mrs. Charles Robertson, display; Mrs. John Paul Francis, judges, and Mrs. John Roenberg, registration.

Mrs. Rex Ankron, AAUW President, will announce committee members at the October meeting of the AAUW.

Junior Woman's Club Gets Karate Instruction

The regular October meeting of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club was held October 17 at the Floyd County Library, with Mrs. David P. Allen, president, presiding.

First vice-president, Mrs. James R. Allen, introduced Bill Tom Fannin, who presented a karate program, "Self-Defense Measures for Women." Mr. Fannin, who holds a First Degree Black Belt, was assisted in his presentation by two of his karate students, Darrell Crisp and Larry Jupin.

During the business session, a letter of resignation was read from Connie Sammons and a leave-of-absence request from Carole Rice. The club voted 24 new members into active club membership, and yearbooks for new club year were distributed by Rita Allen.

In the president's report, Mrs. Allen recognized Mrs. Garland Godsey, junior sponsor from the Prestonsburg Woman's Club. New appointments include Thelma Lafferty, education chairman; Martha Johnson parliamentary adviser; Suzanne Frazier, contests vicechairman; Nell Lawson, elections chairman. She also reported that the Seventh district meeting will be held at Jenny Wiley State Park Saturday, October 26. Mrs. Allen brought members up to date on the following projects which the club had completed since its September meeting: The distribution of literature for Children with Learning Disabilities Project, Kidney Foundation candy sales, Alle Kentucky City report (Recreational and Cultural Division)which the club wrote, the club's $25 contribution to Cystic Fibrosis, its $100 contribution to the "Welcome to Prestonsburg" signs, and the mailing of 48 invitatins to area high school bands to participate in the fifth Red, White and Blue parade, October 26.

Helena Johnson, conservation chairman, reminded clubwomen of candle and memoboard sales and an-

Pallbearers were his sons, Oscar Elmer, Howard Ray, Lucian George, Jack Moses and James Luther Rice, and a son-in-law, Carson Hopkins.

The R and S Truck Body Company, Inc. has acquired the plant and certain assets of its next-door neighbor and competitor in the booming coal-truck body business, the Reynolds Body Company, at Allen.

R and S, which is named for its two major stockholders, Marcum Reynolds and William L. Smith, both of Allen, assumed charge of the Reynolds plant Oct. 11 and has employed the greater number of Reynolds" workers. Amount involved in the transaction was not

The body plant employs about 160 persons, mostly male, and is one of the largest manufacturers of coal-truck bodies in the country. Last year, R & S alone produced between 1300 and 1400 truck bodies which went to customers in 37 states and six foreign countries.

"We share common trade territory, generally," Mr. Smith said, expressing the opinion that Reynolds' business was perhaps as farflung.

The business which was sold to R and S was founded by Marcum Reynolds, first at Hazard in 1959, then beginning production in a new building near Allen in 1963. Mr. Reynolds later sold the Reynolds Body Company to Roger Colvin and others, later founding R and S Truck Body Company. The Reynolds plant was purchased by Thomas Ratliff, of Pikeville, and Blake Ratliff, of Paintsville, who operated it until this month's transaction.

The two plant structures now owned by R and S have a working area of approximately 41,000 square feet. In addition to coal-truck bodies, the company does special steel fabrication.

Pikeville Academy, Kentucky Landmark

Pikeville, Ky.-On the 85th anniversary of the founding of Pikeville College, the Kentucky Heritage Commission presented a certificate to the school naming the Academy Building as a Kentucky Landmark.

During the Founders Day convocation October 10 Walter Langsam, assistant director of the Kentucky Heritage Commission, and Judge Jean Auxier. Pike county representative to the commission, presented the certificate to officials of the school.

Having previously been designated on the National Registry of the National Park Service, the building, located on College Street (U. S. 23), was the first building for the Presbyterian-related school. A historical account of the school recounts, "The building was erected in 1889 on three acres of land on the edge of this small village (at the time Pikeville had 300 residents) and bordering the curving Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River. The land was purchased for $1,000 from Arch Huffman of Pikeville.

"Thus, in a four-room brick building, which served as both church and school and which cost $6,000, the new school opened its doors on September 16, 1889, with an enrollment of 125 pupils, who mingled with paint and unfinished walls for several weeks afterwards."

The president of the school at its opening was 28-year-old Dr. David Blythe. Dr. Blythe contributed not only $1,000 toward the construction of the building, but also helped dig the basement, lay the foundation and build the walls. One of Dr. Blythe's students said, "He helped dig the foundation of the building in the cornfield."

The $1,000 contributed by the president was more than his salary for that first

Today, the Academy Building houses the Pikeville College Appalachian Studies Center, the Pike County Historical Society and the Pikeville Arts and Crafts Society. Tucked away in closets and cabinets of the building are volumes of magazines, books, ledgers and irreplaceable artifacts-all giving accounts of the history of the area from the founding of the county to the Hatfield-McCoy feud to the present.

Dr. Leonard Roberts, director of the college's Appalachian Studies Center, has haunted the attics of Eastern Kentucky's county courthouses to salvage tons of court records which were destined to be garbage after being microfilmed. Among the reams of material are family histories and records and the history of many civic groups and churches.

From this beginning, the professor will derive his dream of a libary of mountain material and a museum in the Academy Building. At present, the material is open to the public on a limited basis. When catalogued and filed, it will be opened to the general public for research and recalling the past.

President of KFWC To Speak at Meet

Wayland, Ky.-The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club is making preparations for the annual Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs' 7th District meeting, to which it will be host on October 26 at the May Lodge, Judging from advance luncheon ticket sales, the club's ticket chairman, Mrs. Don Hughes, believes this year will probably see the largest attendance in recent years.

The new state president of K.F.W.C., who will present the main address of the day, is Mrs. Donald W. (Pat) Dammert of Kentucky's Fifth District, Erlanger, Kentucky. Mrs. Dammert has served actively as a club woman on the local, district and state levels, having held several of the offices and chaired many of the important committees at each level.

Along with Mrs. Dammert's active participation in club work she has remained active in her community, serving as Chairman of the Board of Directors for the Community Amphitheatre construction, and in state service as a member of the Advisory Board for the Boone Center for Delinquent Boys, and for the nation she served on the Regional Executive Committee for the 1970 White House Conference on Children and Youth and as Traffic Safety Commissioner for the Traffic Safety Coordinating Commission.

Registration for the annual meeting will begin at 8 a.m. and end at 11 a.m. Coffee hour will be from 8 to 9 a.m. Committee chairmen are Mrs. Otto Martin, Registration and Credentials; Mrs. Earl Castle, Hospitality; Mrs. Marie Mullins, Decorations; Mrs. Don Hughes, Tickets.

Because there are other conventions being held at the May Lodge on the same date, the Wayland club urges anyone who plans to attend but has not made a reservation, to do so at once.

$5,000 REWARD

($50,000 Maximum)

FOR INFORMATION LEADING TO ARREST AND CONVICTION

Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company has suffered certain malicious acts of sabotage against its property and equipment, beginning October 16, 1974. Law enforcement officers, including federal, state and local, have been notified.

The Company offers to reward any person or persons furnishing to the company or to any law enforcement agency of the State of Kentucky, or the federal government, or to the sheriff of any county, or to the police of any municipality, information directly leading to the arrest and conviction of any person wilfully or maliciously interfering with the flow of gas or oil, injuring or destroying any of the company's operating equipment or facilities, or for aiding or procuring any person to do such an act.

The maximum of reward payable in each instance of interference with the flow of gas or oil, injury, or destruction of property is $5,000 and the total amount of the rewards payable for all such instances shall not exceed $50,000. The company reserves the right to determine the person or persons entitled to the reward and the proportionate amount to which each is entitled. This offer shall terminate January 1, 1975, subject to extension by the Company.

Such acts of sabotage endangers the public which is dependent on gas for safety, health, and comfort. Any such acts affecting any of the company's facilities will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law as part of Kentucky West Virginia's obligation to provide safe and dependable gas service to its customers.

When this happens the farmer often feels the only solution is to post the land against all trespassers. This is a solution that most farmers resist, but is is being resorted to at an alarming rate and the trend can only be reversed in one way: if outdoor minded individuals are to continue to enjoy the privilege of entering the land of another to enjoy their favorite sports, then each and every one must realize that they have certain responsibilities to the landowner and

The visitors must respect not only the farmer's property but the farmer's work as well. It simply isn't fair that a man must spend his precious time chasing down a hunter or fisherman who has parked his car or truck in the middle of a farm road or blocked a gate so that the farmer cannot go about his business.

And a gate that has been left open can mean more than lost time to a farmer. Livestock can wander onto an open highway, or into a field where crops can be damaged or can scatter over the entire farm or onto the farm of another person.

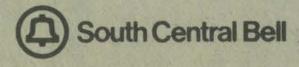

Too many farmers have let hunters onto their land only to find fences were cut to allow hunting dogs complete freedom during the chase or to make a shortcut for campers or trucks. And one farmer I know narrowly escaped losing a barn from fire when he found deer hunters had camped there and, ignoring the fact it was full of hay, had smoked and thrown the cigarette butts and matches on the floor.

Farm pond banks and stream banks often are littered with cans, bottles and other debris which can, and sometimes do, injure livestock or damage farm machinery tires. Even domestic ducks and geese that some farmers set so much store by have been known to be killed by eating bits or bait left on discarded

The College hopes to be able to begin the project by Fall, 1975.

"The project will be run jointly by the College and the community," Weinberg said. "There will be a Community Advisory Board that will help decide who directs the project and what major activities will be undertaken. stimulate and facilitate community interest and involvement in the project and to serve as a liaison between the community and the Project Director." The project would include a community farm, an orchard, and a water reservoir. The center would use wind, water, and possibly solar energy, according to Weinberg, to generate its own electricity. Also included would be "an environmentally acceptable system for solid waste disposal," he said.

Other possible components of the center, said Weinberg, would be a greenhouse, a fish farm, a nursery and vineyard.

"Other alternatives will undoubtedly arise once the project is underway. What we are looking for are activities that make use of relatively small-scale, inexpensive technology and that area residents are interested in having tested in an Eastern Kentucky hollow location," said Weinberg.

"The center will be located off campus, in or close to the head of a hollow. We have looked at one privately owned site and have two other possible alternatives that are owned by, or available to, the College," said Weinberg.

The purpose of the project will be to provide an environmental learning experience for area elementary, high school and college students; and to provide area residents a means by which they can examine new ways of increasing their incomes which simultaneously address environmental problems.

Weinberg said he conceives of the project as dealing with these issues:

How the residents of Knott County and the surrounding area can derive greater productivity and income from their land-

How the traditional self-sufficiency of mountain people can be maintained and nurtured.

How environmental attitudes can be modified or affected so as to promote a greater sense of harmony between the land and the people.

Planning for the project has been carried out with the assistance of a development grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. The Community Environmental Education project is part of Alice Lloyd College's overall effort to serve as a regional resource center for Appalachian life and

No Time Change For Floyd County

Floyd county residents will not have to change their clocks when this area returns to Eastern Standard Time at 2 a.m., October 27.

This is the same time zone the county was in prior to January 6, 1974.

Gov. Wendell Ford successfully petitioned the U.S. Department of Transportation to have Kentucky's former time zones reestablished the last Sunday of this month.

The Governor stressed the action was necessary for two reasons:

1. An amendment by the Congress to the Emergency Daylight Saving Time Energy Conservation Act of 1973, signed by the President, calls for three time changes in Kentucky in the next six months. Ford said this action by the federal government would cause "undue hardship and confusion on the people."

2. Next April, Kentucky's time zones would have automatically been returned to their former status because of federal

"What this really amounts to is that I asked the Secretary of Transportation to do now what would have automatically happened on April 27 under federal law. However, with the time change taking place in October, the people of Kentucky will not be unfairly burdened," Ford

The Governor added that Kentucky counties bordering other states will be on the same time as the neighboring state.

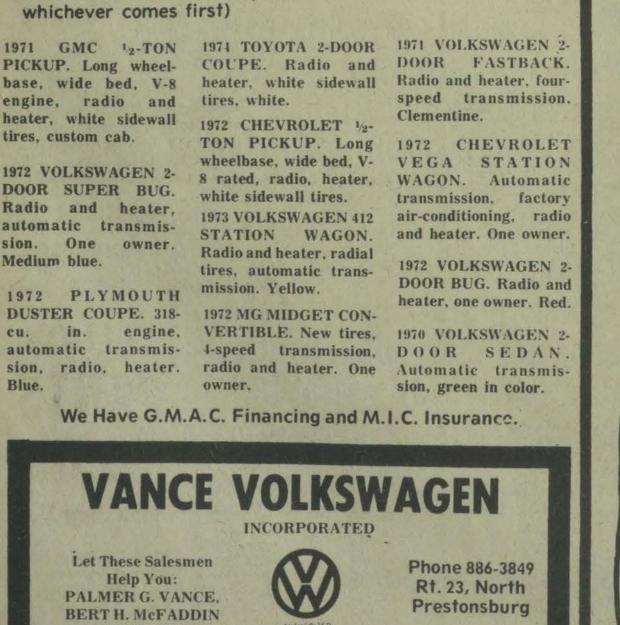

PESTICIDE CARE URGED

Too many farmers fail to use safety precautions when they use pesticides. Extension entomologists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture warn that there is great danger when mixing or diluting these poison concentrates. They urge farmers to be very careful not to get pesticide on their skin or in their eyes and to avoid breathing the fumes.

Strikes, Tornadoes Keep Nat'l Guard Alert

By ANTHONY PEARCE-BATTEN

Frankfort, Ky.-The Kentucky National Guard is usually given little publicity, except in times of crisis. Since Kentucky has had more than her fair share of crisis this year, the Kentucky National Guard has received considerable publicity.

When the price of diesel oil climbed dramatically, the independent truckers went on strike and attempted to enforce their strike by blocking major roads and, in some areas of the country, shooting at truckers who continued to drive.

The truckers' strike was so effective that supplies of fuel, food and medicine in Eastern Kentucky fell dangerously low as trucks failed to replenish them.

Recognizing the gravity of the situation, Gov. Wendell H. Ford moblized Kentucky's 5,6000 member National Guard. "The National Guard provided escort service to trucks making deliveries to Eastern Kentucky, assuring the drivers of safety and of the availability of fuel," recalls Wilbur R. Buntin Jr., the National Guard's Deputy Adjutant General. When the independent truck drivers returned to work, the crisis was over, and the National Guardsmen returned to civilian life.

Six weeks later, on April 3, tornadoes swept through Kentucky and again Ford were dispersed throughout Central and South-East Kentucky, assisting the local authorities in traffic control and the protection of property, as well as providing equipment for emergency lighting," explained Buntin, adding that "the National Guard did a tremendous job and the public responded with many favorable comments." Mayor Bob Bennett of Frankfort, one of the areas hardest hit by the tornadoes, said, "The Kentucky National Guard couldn't have been more cooperative; the job they did was magnificent. It is hard to express the city's appreciation.'

These actions probably placed the National Guard in a position of public prominence. However, they focus only on the services of the Guard to the state. The Guard also plays a national role as a backup to the Regular Army, capable of joining Army units in battle. The National Guard serves two masters, the state and the nation, and obeys two commanders, the governor and the president.

Originally, the National Guard referred to a state organization, the name first being used by the New York state militia in 1824. The name was taken from the French "Garde Nationale," once commanded by Gen. Lafayette, in honor of Lafayette's contribution to the American struggle for independence.

In 1903 the Dick Act established the arrangement by which the federal government was to pay, train and equip the force and the states were to provide the manpower and armory facilities for their units. In 1916, under the National Defense Act, these units were officially named the National Guard.

The National Guard remains at the disposal of the governor of each state, except in times of national emergency, when it can be mobilized by the president. Once mobilized, the National Guard becomes a part of the Regular Army and subject to the same rules and

The last time the Kentucky National Guard was mobilized by the president was in 1968. The 2nd Battalion 138th Field Artillery was ordered to Vietnam in August 1968, where it served for a year with distinction. Buntin said that "the Kentucky National Guard has always been proud to serve in times of conflict and has served in every war of this century. Units were even activated during the Berlin crisis of 1961."

Asked about the motivation for joining the Guard, Buntin said, "There's the pay, and retirement, the educational benefits and professional training; it enables the draft-age male to fulfill his military obligation and it gives everyone the opportunity to make a significant contribution to the defense of his country." Buntin also said that both the National considerable sacrifice of their own

There is little doubt that the National Guard is preferable to a large standing army. Its existence saves tax dollars and frees manpower for use in other areas. The question, of course, is whether the National Guards can be as effective as the Regular Army. Buntin insists that at least the Kentucky National Guard can. "The National Guard is a skilled and professional organization capable of performing its mission in the event of mobilization. The Kentucky National activated the National Guard. "Units Guardsmen and his family make a Guard has always answered the call." Buntin sees an important feature of the National Guard which is not immediately discernible to the public eye. "The National Guard is a balancing force in our country," he said, and stated his personal belief that "as long as we have a National Guard, we'll have a democracy." In many parts of Kentucky. among the ruins of tornado-swept buildings, the lightless streets and homeless people, the National Guard was instrumental in maintaining the order which is the foundation of democratic government.

NOTICE AS TO FILING OF A SUP-PLEMENTAL PETITION OF THE WATER GAP-BULL CREEK WATER DISTRICT FOR APPROVAL AND RATIFICATION OF THE PREVIOUS CREATION OR SAID DISTRICT; FOR CONFIRMATION OF THE AP-POINTMENTS AND TERMS OF OF-FICE OF THE THREE WATER COMMISSIONERS OF SAID DISTRICT: AND APPROVAL OF ALL PROCED-DINGS HAD IN THE FLOYD COUNTY COURT TO DATE IN CONNECTION WITH SAID DISTRICT.

Notice is hereby given that the Water Gap-Bull Creek Water District has filed a Supplemental Petition in the Floyd County Court, requesting said Court to enter its Order ratifying and confirming all Orders heretofore entered in the Floyd County Court with respect to the establishment and creation of said District and the appointment and terms of office of the three Water Commissioners of said District.

Said Supplemental Petition refers to the original Petition for the creation of the District filed in said Court on December 27, 1972, the Order of said Court creating the District, appointing members of the Commission of said District, fixing their terms of office and dealing with related matters, entered on January 30, 1973. Said Supplemental Petition requests the Court to ratify and confirm the creation of the District and provides the following description as being the description of the area included within the boundaries of the District, as publication of this Notice on October 9, 1974, any resident of said area described above, may file with the County Clerk of Floyd County, Kentucky, at his office in the County Courthouse in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, objections to the action sought by said Water Gap-Bull Creek Water District and to the Order requested by said District ratifying and approving the previous creation of the District and-or the appointment of the three Water Commissioners of the District, and-or may object to the effectiveness of the prior Orders creating said District, appointing its Commissioners and any related proceedings pertaining to said District as previously entered by this and not held back for future allocations.

BEGINNING at the Lancer-Water Gap Bridge; thence to Mining Camp Branch; thence left to the head and right up Big Branch to the head and up the main road to Scutchfield Branch on the left of the head; thence from the main road and right to Campbell Branch and on to the head; thence back to the main road and turning left to the head of Wells Branch; thence back to the main road and to New U.S. Highway 23; thence left to the top of Bull Mountain and right to New U. S. Highway No. 23 to the top of Katy Friend Hill and turn to the foot of the Town Branch Hill, to be from the forks of Bull Creek and New U. S. Highway No. 23 to the head of the Left Fork of Bull Creek and down from the forks of the road to the head of the Right Fork of Bull Creek, to include all of the watershed on Bull Creek in Floyd County, Kentucky.

A Hearing has been set to be held on the matter on November 11, 1974, at 10:00 C.D.T., in the Courtroom of the Floyd County Court, at the County Courthouse in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, at which time any resident of the area described above or any other interested party, may appear and be heard on any prior objectionfiled by him concerning the matter or with respect to any other aspect of the matter.

Dated this October 2, 1974. (Signed) C. OLLIE ROBINSON, County Clerk. 10-9-3t.

Protection's Water Quality Division has completed outlining planning areas in each of Kentucky's 120 counties to determine if present and future waste water treatment needs could be served by common treatment plants. These planning areas were established using four basic criteria: proposed or existing land uses such as residential, agricultural, industrial, etc.; locations of waste water discharges area patterns and population centers; plus data developed by the area development

Centralization of such services is a concept now being explored by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), which has made such studies mandatory if communities are to continue receiving federal funds for treatment plants and sewer line construction.

Water Quality Director Harold Snodgrass said the regionalization theory is not new to Kentucky. "We have been taking this approach for many years now," he said. "Kenton and Campbell counties, for example, have been sharing a treatment plant for over 20 years.' These counties now are building a secondary plant which they also will share, Snodgrass said.

The director said construction of one larger plant instead of two smaller ones could mean a savings for the towns involved. "Although one large plant may cost more to build than, say, two smaller, individual facilities, the total cost of the other two could be a great deal more when you take the expense of maintenance and operation into consideration.

"There fore," he added, "if two or more communities go together for joint treatment, they could have better service at a reduced cost while still meeting water quality standards."

As less money becomes available for sewage treatment construction and water quality standards are upgraded, more and more towns may choose to share common plants or bear increased costs to maintain their own facilities.

The cost of building waste water treatment plants has risen 100 per cent in the last decade. The federal government provides 75 per cent of the construction cost of approved plants and local governments provide the other 25 per cent. Considering that the rate of government spending remains constant as costs rise, fewer towns will be receiving federal funds.

The recently completed "Needs Survey of Kentucky" showed that towns throughout the state need more than $2 billion before 1990 to build sewer lines and treatment facilities required to meet federal water quality standards. Aonther $2 billion is needed to handle storm water that affects water quality.

Kentucky's needs are almost half of the $9 billion set aside for waste water Within thirty days after the first treatment and collection systems construction that President Ford has asked Congress to impound to curb inflation. Of the remaining $9 billion Congress has budgeted for such building, less than $4 billion remains to be released throughout the country during this fiscal year, according to EPA administrators.

The state's present share of construction grant monies is $65 million. Kentucky communities should divide about 1.5 per cent of whatever Congress allocates for 1976, based on computations from the Needs Survey. If these communities are to meet federal standards before the deadlines, Snodgrass said, "money must be made available soon"

Although the amount of money for future years is uncertain, the Water Quality Division is continuing with plans for the day when enough money will be available. EPA requires towns which seek to expand or build waste water treatment facilities to participate in various planning processes, such as the planning area studies, to be eligible for

'As money becomes available," Snodgrass said, "we will have completed pre-construction requirements and we will be ready to build the needed

Opinions From Office Of Attorney General

Among opinons released last week from the office of Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock were the following:

Ralph C. Robke, legal counsel of the Department of Insurance, requested a clarification on the status of an ambulance with a silent siren transporting a heart patient. An earlier opinion had stated that an ambulance still was an emergency vehicle even if it was not using its siren, but it would have to exercise due care in crossing an intersection on a red light. The office of the Attorney General (OAG) modified the earlier opinion, noting that the driver of an ambulance with a silent siren should observe all traffic signals in the same manner as a non-emergency vehicle.

Edsel T. Jones asked the Attorney General's office if the City of Winchester has to have express statutory authority to create a joint Clark County-Winchester Heritage Commission to be financed with public funds. The purpose of the commission would be to administer the preservation of historical buildings, assist private owners of those properties in their development and make the properties available to the public. The office of the Attorney General found no specific statutory authority to establish a heritage commission. But under law, it said, every city has the authority to appropriate money for a public municipal purpose and "it is immaterial that, incidentally, private ends may be advanced." The OAG believes that preservation of historical buildings is for the benefit of the public. And, according to the Interlocal Cooperation Act, the city and county can enter into an agreement to establish a joint agency to perform any governmental function that the individual units of government are authorized to perform on their own.

Warren County Attorney Henry J. Potter Jr. said that two indigent defendants, convicted in circuit court and sentenced to the penitentiary, were allowed to proceed in forma pauperis. On Feb. 1, an order was entered that the court reporter furnish for an appeal a transcript of the evidence from the previous trial. On Aug. 22, the Warren County Fiscal Court received a bill for $778.00 for the transcript. Does the county have to pay? According to the Attorney General's Office, before June 21, 1974, there was no statutory provision for the payment of any fees to a circuit court reporter in a second class city. On June 21, H. B. 483 was established which stated that the county would pay in an in forma pauperis case. But, since H. B. 483 isn't retroactive, the older law would govern and no one would have to pay.

Hospital Presents Annual Awards

The annual Employee of the Year Award and the Sister Angelo Award were presented recently at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin. Members of the governing board were present for the presentations. Winner of the Sister Angelo Award for 1974 is Sister John Teresa Bartels (pictured at left). The 1974 Employee of the Year Award went to Mrs. Margarette Hicks, R. N., (right in photo). Each employee received a dozen roses, a $50 Savings Bond and silver tray engraved with their names and the occasions of the awards they received.

Mrs. Hicks has been employed by the hospital since its opening in 1967. Sister Bartels has been a Sister with the Order of the Congregation of the Sisters of Divine Providence of Kentucky for 15 years and has been employed by the hospital for one year.
