

Pike Court Again Shuns Lowest Bid Floyd Firm Loses In Machinery Bids To Whayne Supply

For the second time in a month the Pike county fiscal court has awarded a bid on 16 pieces of heavy equipment to a Pike county firm whose bid in each instance was considerably higher than those submitted by Kentucky Machinery, Inc., of Allen.

The eight magistrates who make up the Pike fiscal court decided Tuesday again to award the bid to the Whayne Supply Co., of Pikeville, even though KMI had submitted a bid of $514,884, $37,751 lower than Whayne's bid of $552,635. The bids were opened last Thursday morning at Pikeville, but awarding of the contract was postponed till this week.

When bids were first opened on eight graders and eight loaders in June, KMI was low bidder by $24,605 under Whayne Supply.

The failure of the court to award the bid to KMI aroused some controversy and caused state Finance and Administration Secretary Russell McClure to refuse to release the surplus coal severance tax money with which the county is financing the purchase.

The Pike fiscal court explained Tuesday's decision, as it had in June, by contending that Whayne Supply was the only firm which could meet the court's specifications.

In rejecting Pike county's first request for approval of the transaction McClure wrote Pike County Judge Wayne T. Rutherford that the county's specifications for the equipment included "unreasonable" restrictions which closed the bidding to some competitors. He said one such restriction "apparently limited the bidding to Whayne Supply."

In a letter to McClure Judge Rutherford said some of the reasons the fiscal court awarded the previous bids to Whayne Supply were because it was located in the county, provided jobs and paid taxes.

Rutherford also mentioned service requirements included in the bid, and doubts about whether equipment supplied by KMI could meet the needs of the county.

McClure said, however, these points were "not germane," since state law requires that the bid go to the lowest and best bid.

Martin To Have $7,359 This Year For Street Work

State Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts has announced that the City of Martin will receive $7,359 to support its 1976-77 municipal road improvements program, which began July 1.

Of the total amount allocated, $3,764 was identified as new money. The balance consists of previously allocated funds remaining unexpended from last fiscal year.

According to Roberts, the city will use the money to provide for construction of sidewalks on Ice Plant Hollow road, KY 80 and North River Street.

Similar allocations to other communities also are being announced locally.

The municipal road aid program was established in 1973 to assist incorporated communities—and eligible unincorporated urban areas—meet the costs of maintaining and improving their city roads and streets.

Until this year, the program was funded strictly by legislative apportionment which amounted to $13 million in the previous budget.

As of July 1, it is financed under a formula which provides that one-half cent of the tax collected on each gallon of motor fuels sold in Kentucky be set aside to support municipal road aid programs. This means an increase of about $4 million in available money for this budget period.

Allocations to eligible communities are made once annually, on a fiscal-year basis.

Floyd-Johnson Sector Planned Only Two Lanes

If present plans stand unchanged, US 23 up the Big Sandy valley could become known as "the Hourglass Road."

It will be just that on the map—four lanes at either end and slimmed down to two lanes in the middle.

And that thin "stem" section of the road will be the two-lane sector between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. This will be sandwiched between the four-lane section from Catlettsburg to Paintsville and the four lanes from Prestonsburg to the Kentucky-Virginia line.

This description of the future of US 23 developed from a telephone call made last week by The Times to Commissioner J. C. Roberts' office in Frankfort, seeking to confirm a rumor to the effect that four-laning of the Eastern Kentucky part of the federal route had been given top priority and that right-of-way acquisition was being rushed. The Times had earlier heard reports that the four-lane section of the route from Paintsville to Prestonsburg was a part of current planning and that the new road would follow old 23 up Little Paint Creek and across Abbott mountain.

But, said Stewart Victor, assistant to Commissioner Roberts, there are no present plans for the highway between Prestonsburg and Paintsville—because, he said, when the Appalachian Regional Program was allotting funds for the highway "somebody" said the two-lane road between the two county-seats was "adequate."

"Later," Mr. Victor said, "we attempted to add this part of US 23 to the Appalachian program but failed. Since that time we have included it in ARC estimates but these have never been recognized."

(ARC pays 70 per cent of the cost of roads included in its program.)

"This department is very interested in the project, but the competition for funds is terrific," Victor added. He explained that, although the desirability of four-laning of the highway through the entire valley is recognized by the state Department of Highways, the Appalachian Regional Commission is committed to serving a number of states and that congressional representatives of

Housing Seminar Slated August 15 At College Here

The Kentucky Housing Cooperation will conduct a seminar Aug. 17 at Prestonsburg Community College on the housing needs of low and moderate income people in the five-county Big Sandy area. The Cooperation has a $400,000 bond issuing authority statewide.

Maurice Hines, deputy director of the Cooperation, who will head the seminar, is interested in attracting to the seminar housing developers and contractors, bank and savings and loan association officials, real estate brokers and salesmen, housing authority representatives, architects, building suppliers, civil engineers, appraisers, and any interested in low and moderate income housing in Eastern Kentucky.

The Kentucky Housing Cooperation is the state housing finance agency for Kentucky. It is a wing of state government and not a profit-making company, as its name might imply.

For further information call Maury Flood, housing specialist, at the Big Sandy ADD office in Prestonsburg, Phone 886-6869.

Grigsby Says All Meetings To Focus on Instruction

This Town...That World

It appears that we who thought a nuclear holocaust would return man to the cave might have been wrong. The high cost of fuel has caused one man, out west, to prepare for himself and family a cave of his own construction where it's cool in summer without air-conditioning and warm in winter without a roaring fire. Those coal-banks and old mine openings may look more attractive, one of these days.

Scientists with this Viking I project are fretting about the possibility of life on Mars. If it's human life they look for, they may fret no longer. I have hauled out my magnifying glass and studied those pictures of the Martian landscape. Nope, no humans there. Not a beer can in sight.

I am at the age now when I can confess that I was something less than a success, even as a boy. Try as I might and did, I could never shake the eardrums with a shrill whistle by heaving and puffing through my fingers, and, worse, I couldn't squirt water through my teeth.

I like this, which this week is on the bulletin board of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here:

"Even if you're on the right track, you'll get run over if you just sit still."

ALMOST ON BLACK LIST

Lenna Moore was in, the other day, to brag about his garden, listing his products—corn, beans, tomatoes, potatoes, ochre, and maybe one or two exotic varieties to which I, a country boy, am stranger. He said he had a list of people on whom he expects to shower largess from this fabulous garden, and said I was on the list. As he departed, following some difference of opinion about politics, he repeated that I was on the list but added that I might be pretty far down.

Workman Return Hearing Slated For August 12

Almost two years after his indictment on a murder charge in connection with the slaying of James M. Chaffin, a hearing on the extradition from Michigan of Bobby Workman, formerly of this county, has been scheduled for August 12.

The hearing on extradition has been scheduled to be held in Ypsilanti, and Floyd officials have been notified to have witnesses available for testimony.

The case is one with a lengthy history. The body of Chaffin, a Floyd native who resided in Louisville at the time, was found at the roadside on Arkansas Creek, May 4, 1969. He had been shot. It was not till five years later—September, 1974—that an indictment was made. Workman later was arrested but refused to waive extradition asked by Governor (now Senator) Wendell H. Ford.

Since that time Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen and County Attorney Harold J. Stumbo (the latter was commonwealth's attorney when extradition was first sought) have by letter and telephone asked Michigan authorities to take action, but have met a series of delays.

The preparations for the opening of schools involve a multitude of detail, some of which is trivial, but new Supt. of Schools E. P. Grigsby, Jr. said this week that the overriding effort ahead is to improve the instructional program.

The details of how that is to be done have not yet been developed, and they may come only as the curriculum is studied, teaching techniques are analyzed and teachers actually observed in classroom action.

"The focus of all meetings will be the improvement of instruction," Supt. Grigsby said.

Those meetings include the four in-service days established by law, principals' meetings and others.

Funeral Home Owner Wounded by Shot Said Result of Accident

James H. Nunnery, Jr., owner of the Nunnery Funeral Home here, was slightly wounded Sunday night by a shotgun charge which, he told State Trooper Roger Castle, was accidentally discharged.

The shotgun charge grazed Nunnery across his stomach. He is a patient at the Highlands Medical Center but is expected to be released this week.

Nunnery was at the rear of the hospital, where his wife is a nursing supervisor, when he was wounded. He explained to the state trooper that the gun accidentally discharged while he was "fooling with it."

Hueysville Native Becomes Vocational Education Head

Floyd county native Billy R. Howard, of Frankfort, was appointed last week to the post of assistant superintendent of public instruction for vocational education.

Howard, 43, assumes his new position immediately, after several years as executive director of the Kentucky Advisory Council for Vocational Education. Gov. Julian Carroll made the appointment on the recommendation of Dr. James Graham, superintendent of public instruction, to replace Dr. Carl Lamar, who resigned.

Gov. Carroll said Howard brings to his new position a broad background in vocational education, one that includes experience in both policy-making and policy-implementing sectors.

"As executive director of the Advisory Council on Vocational Education Billy Howard was directly involved in guiding the future of vocational education in the Commonwealth, and in his previous role of director of the Division of Education in the Department of Corrections he managed one of the most difficult jobs in the state," Gov. Carroll said.

Dr. Graham said he recommended Howard because of Howard's "solid perspective on vocational education and his fine sense of programming."

Asst. Supt. Ronald H. Hager and members of the supervisory staff will be going into classrooms to make evaluations of teaching techniques and the work of individual teachers, the superintendent said. The work of Larry Jervis as itinerant counsellor, serving all schools but mainly those without counselling, is viewed by Grigsby as another future asset to instructional improvement.

Floyd will join other counties this year in an effort to integrate into its regular classroom curriculum consumer education and career education. The state's school districts have been given two years in which to work these subjects into their programs. Failure to do so could mean future legislation creating new and separate classes in the subjects at considerable extra cost.

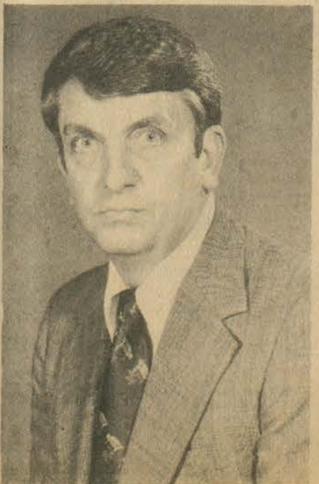

The school opening date will not become official until adoption of the school calendar by the board of education at its meeting tonight (Wednesday).

Dist. Softball Tourney To Begin Here Thurs.

The 37th District Softball Tournament will get underway at Archer Park here Thursday, August 5, with games beginning at 6:30, 7:30, 8:30 and 9:30 p.m. The tourney, which will feature the 20 teams of the Floyd County Softball League and the 37th district, will run through August 15 with games being played daily except for Saturdays.

the Boyd county school system, and taught high school several years in this county.

A native of Hueysville, he is a son of the Rev. Stewart Howard. He holds a bachelor's degree in sociology and economics and a master's degree in education, both from Morehead State University. Mr. Howard is married to the former Kathryn Gearheart, of Hueysville, and they have two children.

Assault Case Complications Affect Others

The case of Randy Hall, of Craynor, who has been charged with assault in the third degree after an alleged attack on his father, McKinley Hall, involved others last week.

1. The warrant on which he had been arrested was transferred to Floyd quarterly court, and during a hearing of the case last Wednesday Hall's mother, Mrs. Eulah Hall, allegedly made statements of such a nature that Trial Commissioner Yvonne S. Jones held her in contempt of court and directed that she be jailed.

2. After attempting unsuccessfully to carry out the trial commissioner's order to jail Mrs. Hall, County Detective Sam Hale suffered what has been described as a heart attack. He was taken to Highlands Medical Center and placed in intensive care. The Mud Creek woman was taken to jail by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis.

Later, the trial official permitted Randy Hall his freedom under bail pending a hearing Sept. 16, on the condition that he was prohibited from going on or about the property of McKinley Hall, and that if he did so his bond would be revoked, defendant returned to

All Use of Bridge At Martin Halted

The damaged KY 80 bridge over Beaver Creek at Martin will be closed to all traffic, beginning at 8 a.m. today (Wednesday) for about three days while repairs are being made. Gail B. Mullins, Pikeville, district engineer, state Bureau of Highways, announced Monday.

Prior to today's complete closing, traffic was restricted to vehicles of not more than five tons gross weight. The repairs followed damage when a heavy truck loaded with a bulldozer rammed into the end of the bridge.

The detour around the bridge remains as follows:

From Prestonsburg take KY 114 to the junction with KY 404, follow KY 404 to KY 850 Goodloe, and from that point travel KY 450 to KY 80 at Midas. Also available for local traffic is KY 1210 (the Stephens Branch-Cane road) from KY 80, near Martin, to KY 404 at Goodloe.

Chamber Hears Plans To Help Folk Festival Presentation

Promotion of the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival was the main topic of discussion at the Prestonsburg-Floyd County Area Chamber of Commerce luncheon Monday at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Kathryn S. Frazier, program director for the festival, told chamber members that, aside from preserving the area folk heritage, a primary aim of the festival is to promote Prestonsburg and Floyd county. She asked continued support of the chamber which has already donated $250 to the festival, and requested specifically that a letter be sent to local businesses by Chamber President John Forrest Brown encouraging window displays and decorations relating to local folk culture.

Mrs. Frazier pointed out that money is not available this year from the Kentucky Folk Arts Commission, and the possibility of soliciting donations from businesses or individual patrons was discussed. She also suggested to the chamber that signs be erected along approaches to Prestonsburg directing visitors to the amphitheatre at Jenny Wiley State Park where the festival as well as the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre productions are staged.

The festival, founded by Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James, of Prestonsburg, is presented on Labor Day week-end each year and features singers, dancers, storytellers and musicians from Eastern Kentucky and other sections of the country. This year's festival will be presented Friday, Saturday and Sunday, September 3, 4 and 5.

UMW May OK Inspector Plan

United Mine Workers Union Secretary-Treasurer Harry Patrick was expected to endorse Tuesday a proposal which would require every mine in Kentucky with 25 or more employees to have a "resident inspector" to check daily for safety violations.

A spokesman for the UMW said Monday that the union would formally endorse the proposal during a meeting of the Kentucky Deep Mining Safety Commission here.

"By endorsing that proposal, we're looking also at the whole question of mine safety in Kentucky," said Phil Sparks of the UMW's international staff in Washington.

UMW officials also will present testimony on the Scotia mine disasters in March, Sparks said.

"We're going to focus on the Scotia mine disaster," he said. "I think there will be a number of Scotia widows at the hearing."

Sparks said that Patrick would be the leadoff witness before the commission.

Gov. Julian Carroll created the commission by executive order last March after two explosions in the Scotia mine in southeastern Kentucky killed 26 men in less than 60 hours.

State Rep. Glenn Freeman, D-Cumberland, a member of the commission and the author of the proposal to require mines to have resident inspectors, said he was pleased with the UMW's planned endorsement.

"I'm pleased that anyone that represents the labor force would endorse it," Freeman said.

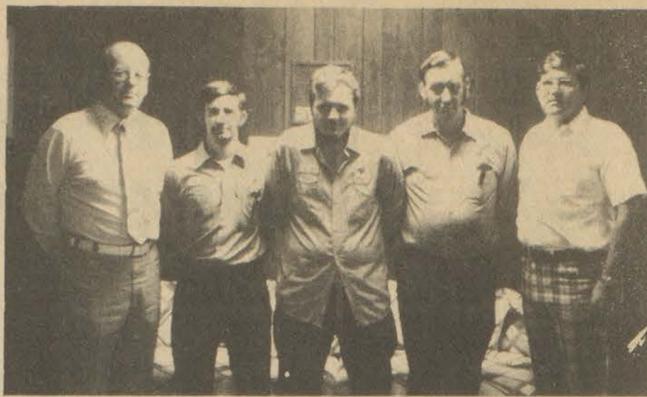

Freeman said his proposal, which may be included in the scheduled special session of the Kentucky General Assembly later this year, would help reduce mining accidents.

"The only problem we've run into is, who's going to pay for the resident inspectors?" Freeman said. "The attorney general's office has indicated the employer cannot be held accountable for paying some person that have no choosing in."

New Law May Result in Substantial Savings on Prescription Drugs

Frankfort, Ky.—All pharmacies in Kentucky are now required, by an act of the 1976 legislature, to post a sign at their prescription counters notifying consumers of a new law that could mean a substantial savings on the cost of prescription medicines.

"This pharmacy is required to dispense the lowest priced generic drug which is therapeutically equivalent to the one prescribed by your doctor unless you or your doctor do not approve," reads the sign.

To insure that a buyer is not receiving an inferior quality product, the Department for Human Resources' Kentucky Drug Formulary Council has clearly defined the words "therapeutically equivalent."

Under the law, "Two or more drug products of the same dosage form containing the same active ingredients and which provide a similar beneficial therapeutic response" fit the definition.

A drug manufacturer or distributor must petition the Drug Formulary

Council to get a generic drug on a list of equivalent products. There are currently 920 drug products listed by the Drug Formulary and affected by the new law. The council and its consultants evaluate any generic drugs petitioned by their manufacturers to be included on the list as being therapeutically equivalent to others with the same active ingredients. Each pharmacist receives the list of equivalent drugs.

Certain families of drugs were excluded from the listing because it was determined by the council that these should not be interchanged. Some medications for heart patients are among those excluded.

The council's consultants first check the chemical makeup of the drug and check to make sure it is approved by the U. S. Food and Drug Administration and other regulating agencies. Before any generic drug reaches the Drug Formulary list, it must meet exacting specifications.

What this means to the consumer is that among the prescription drugs listed, there are some that are more expensive than others although they have the same active ingredients, and the druggist is now required to give his patrons the lowest priced of the various equivalents he has in stock. The only exception to this rule is when a consumer or his doctor object. The law allows a physician to choose a particular brand of a generic drug and mark a prescription "Do Not Substitute." The consumer may make the same request when purchasing from his druggist.

Area Quadrangle Maps Near Final Printing

Two new geologic maps of portions of Eastern Kentucky have been released for open file inspection prior to final printing, according to representatives of the Kentucky Geological Survey at the University of Kentucky and the U. S. Geological Survey.

The maps are of the:
—Handshoe quadrangle, covering part of northern Knott county, and —Salyersville South quadrangle, covering part of central Magoffin county.

The maps were prepared as part of the joint statewide geologic mapping program of the two geological surveys. They may be inspected at the publications office of the Kentucky Geological Survey, Room 20, Breckinridge Hall, University of Kentucky, Lexington.

Both Hourglass and Bottleneck

In a Page 1 news-story, The Times this week describes US 23, as planned, as promising to assume the shape of an hourglass, with its northern and southern ends in the Big Sandy valley to consist of four lanes and the Prestonsburg-to-Pointsville sector in the middle slimmed down to only the present two.

We do not want to mix metaphors or confuse the picture, but that narrow "stem" of the hourglass-to-be will be a plain bottleneck.

US 23 will never be complete with this marring feature. It is something of a tragedy that a federal route, long sought to provide high-speed travel from Detroit, Michigan to Florida, is at last being realized, except for one stretch of a few miles in Floyd and Johnson counties, Kentucky.

These dozen or so miles are among the most heavily travelled sectors of the highway in Kentucky. Two lanes might have been "adequate" when somebody unfortunately termed them so several years ago. But "inadequate" is the word now. Face the steady stream of traffic, including fast-moving trucks, many of them coal-trucks, and you quickly realize how inadequate.

And drive beneath those overhanging, crumbling cliffs along which the road was built, and you realize more... with a shiver. There, of course, is an alternate route between the two county seats. Old US 23, narrow and winding, can be used by those who are willing to include the forbidding crossing of Abbott Mountain as a part of their drive.

All this is well-known to all who drive up and down this valley. We do not review the situation for their benefit, or to criticize the Kentucky Department of Highways. We are convinced that the state would like to make US 23 four lanes, all the way. But the Appalachian Regional Commission, which is paying 70 per cent of the four-laning of other parts of the highway, apparently has a blind spot 12 to 14 miles long, extending all the way from Prestonsburg to Paintsville, and refuses its help.

So it is to the ARC that this is addressed.

Miners' Strike In Third Week, Misses County

Almost 3,000 Eastern Kentucky miners were off the job late last week in sympathy with striking miners in West Virginia, but none of these were employed at Floyd county operations, the Martin district office of the Department of Mines and Minerals said Tuesday.

The Gunn mine of the Island Creek Coal Company in Pike county remained closed Tuesday, but the walkout at several Martin county mines was reported as having ended.

The West Virginia strike from which other walkouts presumably stemmed continued, despite a federal judge's offer to drop $300,000 in fines if the miners return to work.

Apparently, the mines which were closed were first picketed, then the workers refused to cross the picket lines. Among the operations reported as having resumed work were three mines of Republic Steel and four of Beth-Elkhorn, all in Pike county.

The West Virginia strike is in its third week.

Mark Bailey, head of the Pike County Coal Operator's Association, said Monday that the strike is costing $5,000 to $6,000 per day in wages in Eastern Kentucky and that the cut in coal production had been estimated at 20 per cent.

Elsewhere, the return to work movement was reported in a United Mine Workers District in southwest West Virginia and in a northern district in Ohio. However, miners were still off the job in Illinois, where the stoppage was reported spreading as well as Indiana, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

NO FINGERNAILS

Mary D. Koblass, native of Hungary and now a respected former teacher in Martin county, Ky. and Mingo and Wayne counties, W. Va., has been doing over a period of months sketches which cover the history of Himmlerville, the mining town founded back in the 1920's by another remarkable Hungarian immigrant, Martin Himmler. These have been published in The Martin Countian under the heading, "Himmlerville Revisited," and, although the place is only another name to me, I find her accounts of those days and the dream that for a time came true, highly interesting.

It's recollections such as this that ring a bell and tickle the fancy by the way she recounts them:

"We bought a house from Rush Muncy, still standing. We used gas lights, which was an improvement over the kerosene lamps we had used at Marrowbone. It was a tricky business, though, to change the tiny mantles. These were so fragile that to touch one with a fingernail would turn it into powder. My mother became an expert at changing them. She worked too hard to ever be able to keep fingernails."

BIRTH OF THE BLUES

And now we depart from our firm resolve not to publish poetry, in order to save this for posterity. The rhymester is unknown, but this copy was supplied by Bill Ratcliff, of Martin. It goes, as they say, something like this:

My parents told me not to smoke—
I don't.
Or listen to a nasty joke—
I don't.
They made it plain, I must not wink
At pretty girls, or even think
Of intoxicating drinks—
I don't.
Youths chase women, wine and song—
I don't.
I kiss no girl, not even one,
I do not know how this is done.
You wouldn't think I have much fun,
Well, you are right...
I don't.

HERE FROM PIKEVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Baird and daughters, of Pikeville, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Roberts here last Sunday.

Our Yesterdays

(Items taken from The Floyd County Times, 10, 20, 30 and 40 years ago)

Ten Years Ago

(August 4, 1966)

A flat 10 per cent "blanket raise" has been ordered on Floyd county's real estate assessment by Revenue Commissioner James E. Luckett. Ownership of the Prestonsburg General hospital was officially transferred this week by its owners, Dr. George P. Archer, Dr. James A. Holbrook, Dr. J. D. Adams and Chalmer H. Frazier to the Highlands Hospital Corporation, Mr. Frazier, administrator of the hospital, announced. Prestonsburg's new city park will officially become Archer Park at its dedication Saturday afternoon at 2:00. John P. Wyatt, 44, manager of the West Prestonsburg plant of Kentucky Appalachian Industries, Inc., was killed in the wreck of his automobile at Pineville last Friday. Three Floyd countians died and two others were seriously injured in auto wrecks over the week-end. The dead: Phil Gordon Hall, 18, Bypro; Stephen Bruck Hayes, 17, Wheelwright, and Delmas Brown, 37, Langley. Married: Miss Nancy Louise Tackett, of Grethel, and Mr. Tommy Duran Hall, of Ivel, June 11 at the Methodist Church at Betsy Layne; Mrs. Joyce Ann Crum, of Cliff, and Mr. Donald Lloyd Goble, of Lancer, June 30 at Haysi, Virginia; Miss Lois Greer, of Bonanza, and Mr. Paul Stepp, also of Bonanza, January 16, at the Free Will Baptist Church at Bonanza. There died: George Hunt, 34, formerly of this county, Saturday after being struck by an auto near his home at Fostoria, O.; Mrs. Hattie Conley, 84, of Bonanza, Saturday at the Paintsville hospital; Mrs. Laura Humble, 80, last Thursday at her home at Dwale; Mrs. Darcus Shepherd, 61, Sunday at her home on Salt Lick.

Twenty Years Ago

(August 2, 1956)

All Floyd county coal mining operations affected by the nation's steel strike went back to work this week with virtual agreement on a steel contract last Saturday. The State Highway Department again planned this week to quit hauling relief foodstuffs as an aid to counties in their distribution of food to the needy. Human bone fragments found in a cave near Harold, July 10, by two small boys, MacArthur Cecil and Clyde Hall, are parts of the skeletons of a child and an adult, according to a report from Dr. Charles E. Snow, anthropologist of the College of Arts and Sciences, University of Kentucky. Of the 27,528 persons in Floyd county who are under 20 years of age, 7,801 have received at least one injection of Salk vaccine for the prevention of polio, figures show. Losses to the farmers of the East Kentucky Strawberry Growers Association due to the financial difficulties of the processing plant at Hazard will amount to approximately $2,700, it was said here this week. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Gene Boyd, a daughter, recently in Wheeling, W. Va.; to Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Patton, a boy, William Dilts, July 12 in Indiana. There died: Mrs. Rosa Belle Cecil, 72, of Banner, Tuesday at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin; Mrs. Zanie Hicks, 30, of Price, July 21 at the Paintsville Hospital; Joe M. Pitts, 63, Wednesday at his home at Risner; Malcolm Frasure, 65, of Langley, Friday at Veterans' hospital, Huntington, W. Va.; Mrs. Martha Combs, 79, July 16 at the home of a daughter at Wheelwright.

(Thirty and Forty Years Ago files missing for week.)

ALLEN NEWS

Mrs. Sarah Laven, Mrs. Rosemary Frasure, Mrs. Dorothy Harris and Mrs. Judy Short represented the Allen Baptist Church at the Women's Missionary Union leadership conference at Cedar-moore, from Tuesday through Thursday of last week. Some sessions were spent listening to missionaries from Chili and Guatemala. One of the visiting missionaries was Sarah Scanlan, missionary to Guatemala and the daughter of Lewis Martin, one of the founders and the first pastor of the Allen Baptist Church.

Mrs. Josephine Hill Hall had as guests last week her son, Sam Thacker, Mrs. Thacker, Mary Jo, Andrea Lee and Terry, of Attica, Ohio, and stepson, Donald E. Hall, of Los Angeles, Calif. While here, Mr. Thacker and Mary Jo accompanied Mrs. Hall to Pikeville on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Donta and son James were in Ashland Sunday to attend a family reunion.

Mrs. Edna Mae Callison has returned home after several weeks spent visiting her sister, Mrs. Myrtle Childers, in Ashland.

Miss Gina Grey spent a few days last week visiting her father, Frank Grey, Betty Jean and Frankie before returning to Middletown, Ohio.

Mrs. Ray Brackett, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Sowards, of Prestonsburg, attended the Sixth district meeting and luncheon of the Daughters of the American Revolution at Paintsville Country Club, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Louder, of Winchester, accompanied by their grandson, David Scaff, of Lexington, visited her mother, Mrs. Josie Frazier, and other relatives here last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Akers, of LaGrange, spent last week here visiting Mr. and Mrs. Russell Laven and Mrs. Ida Cecil, of Banner.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crisp, Nancy Jo Crisp and Mrs. Margaret Hicks were in Huntington, Wednesday, on business. They also visited Mrs. Howard H. Moore, of Louisa.

Mrs. O. B. Crisp was a business visitor in Huntington last Monday.

Steve Brackett and James Riley Hall visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Preston Sunday at Borders Chapel in Lawrence county. Other visitors there were Miss Mary Avonne Stephenson, of Lexington, and John David Preston, of Paintsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy D. Gray and son, Todd, Frank Grey and daughter, Betty Jean, left Sunday to vacation in the Smokies.

PRATT FAMILY REUNION

TO BE HELD AUGUST 22
All relatives of William Henry (Bill) Pratt are invited to attend a family reunion to be held at Archer Park, August 22.

Everyone is asked to bring a picnic lunch and stay all day.

BAPTIST DAY CARE CENTER

NOW TAKING APPLICATIONS
The Baptist Day Care Center of the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church is now taking application for a few vacancies in its kindergarten and day care center. Interested persons may call Mrs. Charlene Nunn, director, at 886-2194, or at the church office.

HOME FROM MT. MANOR

Mrs. Rebecca H. Dings has returned home from Mountain Manor Nursing Home, where she was a post-operative patient. She is doing nicely. Mrs. Johnson is her companion for awhile.

IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Fanny Jarrell has been a heart patient in St. Joseph's Hospital, Lexington, since Tuesday of last week. She has been very ill, but is improved this week.

4 Recognized
 At Homecoming

Among those recognized on the Friday evening of the recent Maytown Homecoming were the following:

MOTHER OF THE YEAR: Mrs. Amanda Patton, 95, mother of 10, with 30 grandchildren, 35 great-grandchildren, and 9 great-great-grandchildren. Four of her daughters from three different states were present to hear Dr. Henry Martin pay tribute to her mother and friend, neighbor, and citizen.

TEACHER OF THE YEAR: Miss Lexie Allen, who retired in June after outstanding services in her profession, serving as assistant principal of the Maytown School, assistant director of county Head Start and N.Y.C., also as NYC counselor. Miss Allen held numerous offices and often served as a delegate to professional meetings of various kinds, on different levels, going far beyond the call of duty, at personal sacrifice in time, energy, and money. A tea was held at Allen Central in her honor on Saturday afternoon of Homecoming, as many former students, fellow teachers, parents, relatives and friends greeted her.

WOMAN OF THE YEAR: Helen Bentley Boyd was honored because of her Christian and community service, particularly in daily vacation Bible schools, rummage sales, chauffeuring children, as president of the Maytown Homemakers Club. Mrs. Boyd is widely known for her expertise in a variety of crafts, gives freely of herself and time teaching same to others. In addition, she "weathered" the loss of her home by fire, much illness in her immediate family, and of her mother. She and her husband, Charles Boyd, were hosts to a family reunion dinner on Saturday of Homecoming when approximately 40 persons were their guests.

MAN OF THE YEAR: Thomas Ray Flanery was selected because he is rated an outstanding citizen on an all-around basis. He is plant superintendent of Kentucky Hydrocarbon, director of Floyd County Fish and Game Club for years, a Shriner, former master of John W. Hall Masonic Lodge, a lieutenant and training officer of the Maytown Volunteer Fire Department.

CARD OF THANKS
 The wife and children of Parley L. Hunter wish to thank the Floyd Funeral Home, the Mormon Church of Martin, Elders Pete Grigsby, Jr. and Paul Skeens, Rickenbacker Air Force Base, Ohio, and all the friends and relatives who showed us kindness in our hour of sorrow.

Southern States Co-Op Has Membership Meet

Joe Hicks, of Blue River, and Earnest Prater, of David, were elected to the local Advisory Board at the Southern States annual membership meeting held here on July 23. More than 80 stockholder-members and their families attended the session.

Ballard Stone of Blue River, was named chairman of the local board and Earnest Prater, of David, was elected secretary.

Elected to the local Farm Home Advisory Committee were Mrs. Grace Conley, and Mrs. Wayne Ratliff, both of Abbott Creek.

Mrs. Ratliff was chosen as chairperson while Mrs. Conley was named secretary.

Earnest Prater was chosen as a delegate to represent the local membership at the Southern States Cooperative's 53rd annual stockholders' meeting to be held in November. William J. Wills, of the Auxier Rd., was named alternate.

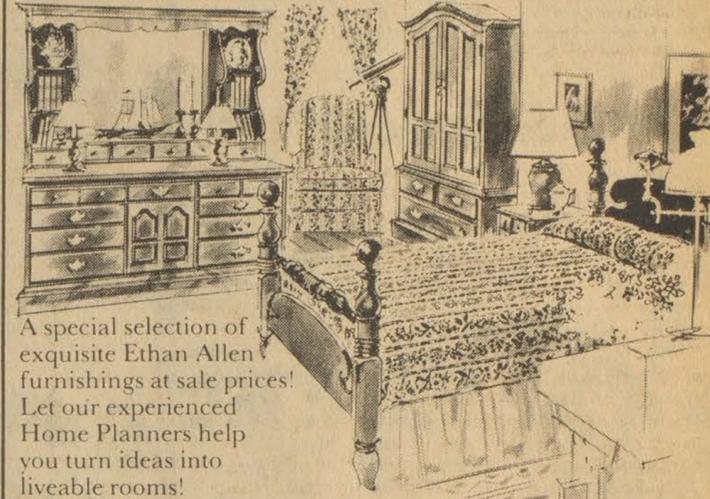

L. L. McClure of Huntington, W. Va., a regional staff representative of Southern States Cooperative, in reporting on the overall operations of the co-op for the past year, told the session that volume was over $300 million.

The report on local operations and services rendered to farmer members was given by Kenneth Meade, manager of the Prestonsburg Garm & Home Store.

There was also a special recognition ceremony for new board members, Farm Home Advisory board members as well as those from these groups who were retiring. Those retiring were Lloyd Wells, William J. Wills, Mrs. Jesse Wallen and Mrs. Wes Campbell.

State Board Accredits Garth Vocational Center For Period of One Year

The Kentucky State Board of Education has accredited the Garth Area Vocational Education Center for the year beginning July 1, 1976 and ending June 30, 1977.

The State Board of Education has for a number of years accredited elementary and secondary schools in the state, but the state's secondary and postsecondary vocational education schools were not accredited by the state board until two years ago.

To qualify for accreditation vocational schools and centers must meet minimum standards in 12 areas related to vocational education programs. Besides instruction itself, other areas that are evaluated include student placement, administration, planning and community relations.

State accreditation makes more federal funds available in the form of student loans and grants.

Moore on Tour With Belafonte

Brian Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Moore, of Whitesburg, and a grandson of Mrs. Dora Mitchell, of Prestonsburg, is currently touring with Harry Belafonte, internationally-known actor and singer. Specializing in keyboard instruments with the Belafonte group, Moore was hired by the popular black vocalist after a Belafonte talent scout heard Moore playing piano in a Lexington club. Besides touring several states, the group will be performing in Canada, British Columbia, Sweden, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Denmark, Belgium, France and England. A month's tour of Japan is also on the agenda, with the tour ending in the U. S. in early December. Mr. Moore is a 1970 graduate of Whitesburg High School and attended Eastern Kentucky University.

Blood Drawing Thursday At East Kentucky Mack

East Kentucky Mack, Inc. will sponsor a mobile blood drawing at its plant on old US 23, near here, tomorrow (Thursday) from 12 noon till 4 p. m., it was announced last week. The Central Kentucky Blood Center offers a group program to all businesses, civic organizations and church groups, 20 percent of whose members are willing to donate blood. If 20 percent of a group's members donate, then the entire group and their beneficiaries will have all their blood needs assured for one year, whether they are able to donate or not. Those interested in starting such a group program for their employees or members and wish to donate at Thursday's drawing should contact Billie Post at Highlands Regional Medical Center (886-8511) prior to August 5. Appointments may be made through Wayne Mandeville or Bill May at East Kentucky Mack, Inc. (874-2172).

Park on Far Edge of Kentucky

Commission with park planning and acquiring land. In September, 1955, more than 1,000 acres were dedicated for public use.

Today, not far from Rhododendron Lodge, picnickers enjoy woodlands with natural plantings of Queen Anne's lace and black-eyed Susans mixed with green from mountain laurel and rhododendron; not far away are craggy cliffs, and far, far below making a giant horseshoe, is Russell Fork of the Big Sandy, frothing white water as it breaks over boulders.

There are modern conveniences for tourists at The Breaks, whether their stay is a short one for food or a picnic or a longer one for hiking or vacationing.

Some oldtimers still remember early in this century when the largest splash dam in the world was built across Russell Fork. They remember troubles on the forks when some holding dams were blasted away in the days when rafters or timbermen floated logs from virgin timber downstream to market.

Daniel Boone left his trademark in 1767 when he discovered The Breaks and cut his initials on tree trunks. If the Englishman Jonathan Swift left his trademark, it has not yet been found, for more than 200 years later treasure hunters still seek his lost silver mines.

The Breaks Interstate Park on the eastern edge of Kentucky has treasure to offer all visitors. Here in "the Grand Canyon of the South" is magnificent scenery and a refreshing coolness on the hottest days. Forests soften some of the crags and peaks and wildflowers abound. The Breaks is within driving distance of most Kentuckians and a great part of the eastern U. S.

Unemployment In Area Rises; Floyd at 9.5%

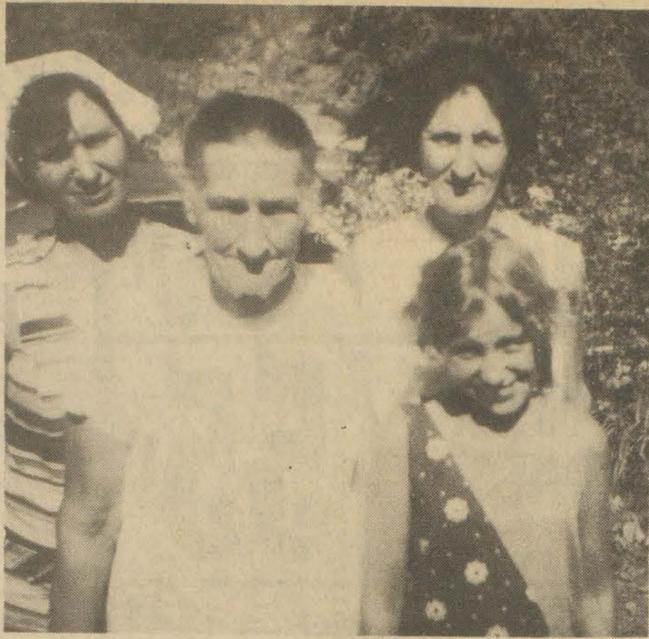

Eastern Kentucky's unemployment rate rose from 6.4 per cent in May to 8 per cent in June, and Floyd county's was at 9.5 percent, according to figures released today by the Department for Human Resources. This is above the state rate of 6.5 per cent and matches the national rate of 8 per cent for June.

Martin county's coal boom kept it at the lowest rate in the area—4.6 per cent. Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for the department, says one reason for the increase in unemployment is the number of students seeking summer jobs. In Eastern Kentucky, there are an estimated 21,071 people out of work.

Other county-by-county Eastern Kentucky figures for June are:

- Bath, 7.6; Bell, 10; Boyd, 5.2; Breathitt, 10.7; Carter, 9; Clay, 11.6; Elliott, 6; Greenup, 6.1; Harlan, 8.6; Jackson, 12.5; Johnson, 8.3; Knott, 10.5; Knox, 9.1; Laurel, 6.2; Lawrence, 7.1; Lee, 16.8; Leslie, 10.4; Letcher, 9.8; McCreary, 7.3; Magoffin, 11.7; Menifee, 9.9; Montgomery, 5.4; Morgan, 7.6; Owsley, 12.8; Perry, 9.8; Pike, 6.4; Pulaski, 5.2; Rockcastle, 6.5; Rowan, 5.5; Wayne, 9.6; Whitley, 9.4; Wolfe, 12.3

FOUR GENERATIONS REPRESENTED

Demo Homes Seen for David

A representative of the David Community Development Corp. was virtually assured at a Ft. Mitchell meeting recently that the former mining town will receive funding for four demonstration homes as a step toward community development.

Questions which must be answered soon to get the homes under construction within the next three months are:

Who will build the homes? What type of demonstration home does the community want? How long will the homes be unoccupied? Who will buy them?

With an extension of the Beaver

Elkhorn Water District service to the David Water District assured, the David group is borrowing $75,000 to implement the plan for sewerage. Grant and loan money also is being sought for comprehensive community development.

The Development Corporation bought the town of David from Woodrow Branham, 14 months ago, and a preliminary plan for the community is expected by the end of September.

Jehovah's Witnesses Semi-Annual Meet

A delegation from the Allen congregation will join with representatives of 22 other congregations in semi-annual assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses in Beckley, W. Va., Saturday and Sunday, August 14 and 15, according to William Wells, spokesman for the local congregation.

The two-day circuit gathering will take place in the Raleigh County Armory, 200 Armory Drive. More than 1,300 delegates will attend the program which will be oriented to benefit parents and young people. There will be symposium discussions, dramatizations and Bible lectures underscoring the assembly theme "As Doers of the Word, Go... Make Disciples!"

A featured speaker will be Chester D. Wallace, district minister of Jehovah's Witnesses in West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, and part of Maryland. He will deliver the public lecture at 2 p.m., Sunday afternoon, "Are You Doing What God Requires of You?"

Of special interest is the talk on "Dedication and Baptism" Sunday morning at 9:20 a.m. John Magnuson of the Louisa, Ky. congregation will deliver the discourse. Several new witnesses are expected to submit to water baptism as an outward symbol of having dedicated their lives to God.

Wells stated that "reliable records show that more than half of all the Jehovah's Witnesses in the world have become such in the past five or six years. That adds up to 1,384,964 new adherents to the faith since 1970—more than fifty percent of the international membership."

The public is welcome.

Coast Guard Academy Views Applications

The United States Coast Guard Academy has announced that it is now accepting and processing applications for appointment as Cadet, U. S. Coast Guard, Class of 1981. Applications are being accepted from both men and women. Appointments to the Coast Guard Academy are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition with no congressional appointments or geographical quotas. Applications for appointment must be submitted to the Director of Admissions, U. S. Coast Guard Academy, prior to December 15, 1976. Candidates must arrange to participate in either the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or American College Testing Assessment (ACT) prior to or including the November 20, 1976 administration for the ACT and the December 4, 1976 administration for the SAT. The competition for appointment as Cadet is based on the candidate's high school rank, performance on either the SAT or ACT, and leadership potential as demonstrated by participation in high school extracurricular activities, community affairs and/or part-time employment. Most successful candidates rank in the top quarter of their high school class and demonstrate proficiency in both the mathematical and applied science fields.

To qualify for the competition, an applicant must be unmarried and must have reached the age of 17 but not 22 by July 1, 1977. All applicants must be assured of high school graduation by June 30, 1977. Applicants must have completed three units in English, and three in mathematics including algebra and plane or coordinate geometry or their equivalents, and must fulfill basic physical and moral requirements.

Coast Guard Cadets obtain an excellent undergraduate education at no personal cost. In addition, they receive pay and allowances fully adequate to fulfill their ordinary living expenses. The Academy curriculum offers nine majors which include electrical, civil, ocean and marine engineering; marine, mathematical and physical sciences; management and government. Graduates of the Academy are awarded a Bachelor of Science degree and are commissioned as Ensigns in the United States Coast Guard.

Applications and additional information may be obtained by writing to: Director of Admissions, United States Coast Guard Academy, New London, Connecticut 06320.

Drawing To Decide Those in Deer Hunt

Frankfort, Ky., August 2—A two-day firearms deer hunt will be held on the Higginson-Henry Wildlife Management Area (formerly part of Camp Breckinridge) in Union County, November 16 and 17. The hunt will be by special permit only issued by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Persons wishing to participate in this quota hunt should write to Area Manager, Higginson-Henry Wildlife Area, Route 5, Morganfield, Ky. 42437 and request an application for a permit, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

All applications must be completed and returned to the above address no later than noon September 4. A drawing will be held at the Union County Court House to select 300 hunters who will be mailed permits to participate in the hunt.

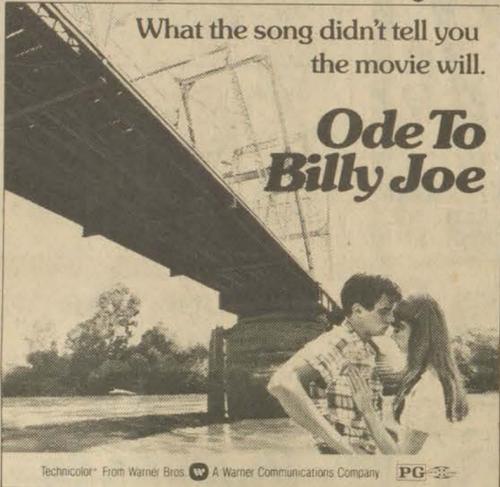

Hunters successful in the drawing should receive their permits by September 25. Unsuccessful applicants will not be notified except upon request.

The permit will authorize the hunter to hunt on a designated tract of the Wildlife Area both days or until he takes a deer during the two-day period. All hunters must register in and out of the area check station each day.

The limit is one deer of either sex. The only authorized weapons will be shotguns with slug ammunition and muzzle-loading rifles .38 caliber or larger.

Airport Work Wins Approval In Kentucky

Frankfort, Ky.—The Kentucky Airport Zoning Commission (KAZC) approved applications Thursday for the construction or enlargement of 11 structures across the Commonwealth.

According to state Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts, the structures approved and their applicants are:

—A 70-foot antenna atop a building about 9,000 feet northwest of the Bowling Green-Warren County Airport; by the Bowling Green-Warren County Hospital.

—A three-tower antenna group 239-feet high, 6.8 miles south of the Fleming-Mason Airport; by Fleming County Broadcasting, Inc., of Flemingsburg.

—A height increase from 192 feet to 252 feet of an antenna 7.6 miles southwest of the Morganfield Airport by Shouse Brothers Farm, of Morganfield.

—A 410-foot antenna tower, which was built in 1964 without a permit 7.1 miles west of the Madisonville Municipal Airport; by Madisonville Cablevision.

—350-foot smoke stack 15 miles south-southeast of Henderson Airport, by Big Rivers Electric Corporation, Sebree.

—A 160-foot antenna tower built in April of 1976 without a permit, 2.5 miles southeast of Moore field; by Ambulance Service Corp., Inc., Glasgow.

—A 75-foot antenna tower 2.4 miles northwest of the Bowling Green-Warren County Airport; by Monarch Environmental, Inc.

—A 224-foot antenna 14.7 miles southeast of the West Liberty Airport; by Licking Valley Radio Corp., Salyersville.

—A concrete block building 1,160 feet off runway 11 at Standiford Field; by Reliance Universal, Inc., Louisville.

—A one-story industrial building, 1,430 feet off runway 11 at Standiford Field; also by Reliance Universal.

—A 120-foot antenna tower 7,000 feet east of Barkley Fields; by West Paducah Equipment, of Future City.

Anyone planning to build a structure in the vicinity of an airport or 200 feet above ground level anywhere in Kentucky, must first obtain a permit approval by the Kentucky Airport Zoning Commission.

Dr. Doran To Speak At Combs Reunion

The 14th annual Combs reunion at Buckhorn State Park on August 15 will have as its guest speaker Dr. Adrian Doran, president of Morehead State University. Combs from all parts of the United States are expected. Family members from England and Alaska have attended the reunions. Earle Combs, the clan patriarch, died recently. He had attended all the reunions and was a strong supporter of the Combs Family Association's Nursing Scholarship Fund. His family will be attending the reunion.

The history on the Combses will be available at the reunion. Under the title, "Combs: A Study in Comparative Philology and Genealogy," it is being published by Norris K. Combs, commander, U. S. N. (ret.), of Pensacola, Florida. Dr. Josiah H. Combs, who died in 1960, spent more than 30 years researching the family name and history. A Kentuckian, Dr. Combs begins the study in the England of Shakespeare's time and concentrates on the Combses who migrated from Virginia to Kentucky. Dr. Combs received his B. A. from Transylvania College, in Lexington, Kentucky and his doctorate from the University of Paris, France. The book will be available at the reunion or may be purchased from Mr. Combs, 7945 La Nain Drive, Pensacola, Florida 32504.

The foregoing items of property will be sold, item by item, individually, then offered as a whole. The sale, either by individual items or as a whole that brings the highest bid price or prices will determine the successful bidder of each of the several items.

For the purchase price of the above described personal property, purchaser or purchasers, must execute bond with approved surety or securities bearing legal interests from the day of sale until paid, and having the full force and effect of a judgment, or purchaser may pay cash.

Bidders will have to comply promptly with these terms.

By virtue of the Judgment and Order of sale mentioned hereinabove, I shall proceed to offer for sale, at the Court-house Door, at Pikeville, Pike County, Kentucky, to the best bidder at public auction, on Friday, August 20, 1976, at the hour of 2:30 o'clock P.M., or thereabout, upon a credit of six months, the following described real estate which is being sold to enforce a lien, which said property is located in Pike County, Kentucky, more particularly bounded and described as follows, to-wit:

TRACT NO. 1.

BEGINNING at Johns Creek at U. S. 119; thence down Johns Creek to the Cool property line; thence up the hill to the top of the ridge; thence right and up the ridge around the watershed of Ford Branch and up the ridge to the Auxier line; thence down the hill with the Auxier line to U. S. Highway 119; thence with the highway to the Beginning.

TRACT NO. 2.

Located on Brushy Creek, in Pike County, Kentucky, to-wit:

BEGINNING at Branch near a Beech tree; thence running to the Beech on the right hand side facing the head of Branch; thence up the hill with Hi Williamson line to the top of ridge to the Jonah Williamson line; thence running with Williamson line to the branch; thence running back up the branch to opposite the Beech; thence to the Beech to the Beginning corner, so as to include all land in said boundary, being twenty (20) acres, more or less.

Tract No. 1 shall be offered for sale and if the debt has not been satisfied by that sale, then, Tract No. 2 will be sold. If a sufficient sum to pay the judgment is not had from the proceeds of the sale, then the two tracts will be offered together and the manner of sale which produces the greater proceeds shall be binding.

For the purchase price of the above described real estate, purchaser or purchasers, must execute bond with approved surety or securities bearing legal interests from the day of sale until paid, and having the full force and effect of a judgment, or, purchaser may pay cash.

Bidders will have to comply promptly with these terms.

Interested prospective bidders on the mining equipment listed hereinabove may make arrangements to inspect said property by communicating with H. D. Fitzpatrick and Susie Hager at The Bank Josephine in Prestonsburg, Kentucky. This 27th day of July, 1976.

Red River Patrol
U.S.-County Work

Wolfe county residents and the thousands of visitors to the Red River Gorge Geological Area are receiving the benefits of a cooperative agreement between the U. S. Forest Service and Wolfe County Sheriff Carl Lackey. Through a special law enforcement arrangement signed last year, there is increased protection for both the county residents and a significant reduction in thefts and vandalism in the Geological Area.

Under funds provided by the 1971 Sisk Act, the Daniel Boone National Forest purchased a vehicle, radio equipment and uniform for the sheriff's department.

The impact of forest visitors on Sheriff Lackey's department is especially great, since almost 15,000 acres of national forest land lies in Wolfe county. Most of it is in the well known Geological Area, which nearly 500,000 persons visited last year, bringing related law enforcement problems.

With more than $6,000 worth of equipment purchased by the Forest Service, Sheriff Lackey hired a deputy who lives near one of the main entrances to the Geological Area. He and two other county deputies regularly patrol popular national forest areas in Wolfe county, such as Rock Bridge, Sky Bridge, Chimney Top and Koomer Ridge Campground. A vast majority of their time is spent protecting the remainder of the county, but can quickly respond to forest emergencies through a mutual radio network.

The deputies also handle the increased holiday and week-end traffic along the Gorge's narrow and winding farm to market roads.

The deputies' dogged patrolling roused some rowdy groups from the forest areas, according to Moore, making the woodland experience more pleasant for many forest campers.

Since the trained deputies handle the traffic and law enforcement duties near the roads, the ranger's staff can patrol the Gorge's trails and remote portions where much of the resource damage occurs.

"This agreement gives us an opportunity to get back into the trials for protection of historical sites and the resources," Moore said. A recent inventory indicates the vandalism to archeological sites decreased since the patrols began.

The forest hired additional summer personnel this year to assist visitors at the information station, campgrounds and on the trails. They also patrol for illegal "pot hunters" who pilfer artifacts from archeological sites.

Under the cooperative agreement, the Geological Area is becoming increasingly safer for its thousands of visitors, and a valuable asset to Wolfe and neighboring counties.

TO ATTEND LIPSCOMB

James Emerson Slone, son of Glenn Slone, of Langley, has been accepted for admission at David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn.

A graduate of Allen Central High School, Slone plans to enroll in the fall quarter and will major in elementary education. Lipscomb is a senior liberal arts college with approximately 2200 students expected in the fall, each of whom will be required to attend a Bible class every regular school day.

They say there is a sun dial in Covington, England, which bears this inscription: "I mark time, dost thou?" It is a constant reminder to the people that time is important, and is passing away.

We often hear the expression: "There just aren't enough hours in the day." This statement is made by the happiest of people. They are using time—and could find the use of more.

I believe it was Einstein who said: "Time is relevant." Relative to how it is being used. Fast and rapid on some occasions, while slow and dragging in other situations. Young lovers witness the fleeting moments of time. A prisoner awaiting release spends hours that seem eternal.

The person who lives the long, rich life says in his 80's: "Life has been so short." It was full, rich and enjoyable. All people can be that way simply by marking time like the sun dial. Using the moments to their fullest.

Toughie Was a Christmas Present

By GEORGE L. MOORE

My experience with cats began when a trapper caught a large, female cat in his trap. In her struggle to escape she broke her left hind leg just above the foot. Somehow, she managed to escape from the trap and found a secret hideway near our house. My wife, Nellie, found her in a smokehouse just back of where we lived. This provided her a safe refuge from the prowling dogs in the neighborhood.

Nellie adopted her as her own and looked after her with tender, loving care. In due time, she had a litter of three kittens with bright yellow, silky fur. Since she could think of no appropriate name for her, she called her Ma Cat. As it turned out, she was quite prolific; she gave birth to litter after litter of kittens with clocklike regularity.

My wife would screen the students in the high school until she found a good home for each kitten. Two of the most beautiful of all the litters she gave to a senior girl, Carol Sue Cooley. The kittens could not have had a better home nor could they have received better care.

Carol Sue married Paul Patton, a coal operator who is an important official in the coal industry of Eastern Kentucky. They kept the cats for a long time, but as it does to all God's creatures, Father Time caught up with them. The inexorable forces of nature took over. They gave us some beautiful colored photographs of the cats which we still hold as evidence that they were the most beautiful cats that ever lived.

We kept two kittens from Ma Cat's last litter. We had just purchased the farm where we now live. We thought the cats might be useful. The first year on the farm the barn was filled with tobacco before we gathered the corn. This made it necessary to store the corn in a woodshed, just back of our house. Since our house is located in the edge of the woods, the mice began to converge on the shed in all directions. We had not yet moved to the farm and there was no tenant on the place. We came down at frequent intervals to look things over.

We decided that something must be done about the invading horde of mice. The two kittens were about half grown when I brought them down and placed them in the shed where the corn was stored. I cut a square hole in the door large enough for the cats to come and go but too small for dogs to enter. In a few weeks the mice disappeared.

When I came down on week-ends, the cats would come running for the house as soon as they heard my voice. If they happened to be out of hearing distance, they could tell if I was in the house when they came in at night. They would always wake me and let me know, in no uncertain terms, that they wanted inside the house. After I got up and turned them in, I usually gave them some salmon. Well satisfied, they would curl up on the floor before the open fireplace and fall asleep before the flowing embers of the wood fire.

All of our animals are named. One of the cats was called Feekso; the other was called Pur Girl. For some strange and unknown reason, Pur Girl never had any desire to populate the earth with kittens. They stayed here for three years on the farm alone. Finally, one of the cats was caught in a trapper's steel trap. She freed herself from the trap but lost the claws on her left front foot in so doing. She became an easy prey for dogs as she was no longer able to climb trees.

Feekso became my inseparable companion when I visited the farm. My two hunting dogs accepted him as one of their own. He ran with them on the trail just as any dog would do. Wherever I went in the car, Feekso had to go along. I did not want to leave him alone on the farm; I took him back to McDowell with me so he would not be in any danger. One night later, I found his body lying in the road. It gave me a feeling of remorse as I felt that I had been responsible for his untimely death. I had removed him from his familiar surroundings where he roamed the hill and valleys, free and unafraid. No dog could touch him there as there was always a nearby tree in which he could find a sanctuary.

I have been out of the cat business for a long time. A short time ago I called two of my neighbors, Elmer Stone and his wife Burbee. I asked them to bring my mail from the box on their return journey from Olive Hill. Elmer drove alongside the box. He reached in for the mail and the first thing he pulled out was a squirming, clawing kitten. Someone had given me a live Christmas present.

He placed the little creature in the lower storage compartment of the box and told me about it when he delivered my mail. Since a cold rain was falling, I had not ventured down the mountain that day. The next day, when I picked up the mail, I looked underneath to see if the little kitten might still be there. He drew himself up in a tight, little ball as he sought protection from the cold sprays of water as the speeding cars rolled by. He had to be tough to withstand such punishment.

You guessed it, Toughie is now a member of our family.

Consumer Comments

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS
Attorney General

Did you ever take any clothes to a drycleaning or laundering establishment only to have some of the clothes returned in a damaged condition or not returned at all? The Division of Consumer Protection receives such complaints from time to time and, after checking with industry representatives, we would like to offer some suggestions which should save everyone a lot of unnecessary trouble and inconvenience.

First of all, know what you are having laundered or drycleaned and make sure that you and the businessperson agree on the number and kind of clothes being handled. If you think questions may arise because of the quantity or quality of work to be done, make a list for your own reference and get itemized receipts from the business which show what is to be done to your clothes.

Second, don't give the business any directions for laundering or drycleaning which vary from instructions on the care label attached to most clothing unless you are ready to assume responsibility for the results. These labels are attached to clothing to facilitate the cleaning process and a reputable businessperson will follow these instructions.

Third, if a novel synthetic fabric is to be laundered or drycleaned, ask if the work will be done locally or by another company at an out-of-town location. You may not want to send your clothes to an unknown business, and you should ask and know if this will be done. If you agree to it, inquire about insurance coverage for possible loss or damage to your clothing.

Fourth, you may want to determine the existence and extent of insurance coverage held by the shop where you have your clothes laundered or drycleaned. It is always wise to know where you stand before you have a problem, and it is reasonable to expect, when you entrust your clothes to a businessperson for handling and cleaning, that there should be some sort of insurance coverage to protect you.

If a mistake is made by the cleaning business, the customer will usually receive a refund or replacement for the lost or damaged clothing. That is our experience with this part of the service industry. You must remember, however, that the laundry or cleaning business is not always the cause of the problem. It may result from customer forgetfulness or insistence on improper cleaning techniques and for these the consumer must bear responsibility. It may also be due to improper care labeling or manufacturing short-cuts about which neither the consumer, the retailer, nor the cleaning businessperson have any knowledge. In such cases, it may be in order for the manufacturer or the clothing outlet to assume responsibility for the problems you encounter.

If you have a consumer complaint, write to the Office of the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively deal with written complaints and encourages you to write when you have a complaint. However, if you have an emergency situation, call the consumer hotline. The number is 1-800-372-2960.

Banks Accept State System

Frankfort—State Treasurer Frances Jones Mills announced last week that all banks holding Certificates of Time Deposit have accepted the state's new system which went into effect July 1. "After a thorough study and a great deal of planning, the present plan is the best we could come up with that would be fair to all concerned," said Mrs. Mills. "A survey of some 160 banks indicate that they feel the present method we are now using is fair and equitable," Mrs. Mills said.

The new plan relates the Certificate rate to the U. S. Treasury Bill rate at the last Treasury auction preceding the 10th day before the deposit's maturity. The current Certificate of Time Deposit will mature on September 28th.

Under the plan, the rate will be nine-tenths of the rate on newly issued 13 week U. S. Treasury Bills, but not less than 5 percent. The one-tenth differential compensates bankers for collateral required by Kentucky law. A bank must post government securities equal to 110 percent of the uninsured portion of the deposit to insure the safety of public funds.

"Since economic forecasters are predicting a rise in the Treasury Bill rate, we can anticipate some increase in interest derived from the state's inactive deposits," said Mrs. Mills. "My first obligation and duty as State Treasurer is to invest the state's monies at the best interest rate possible," concluded Mrs. Mills.

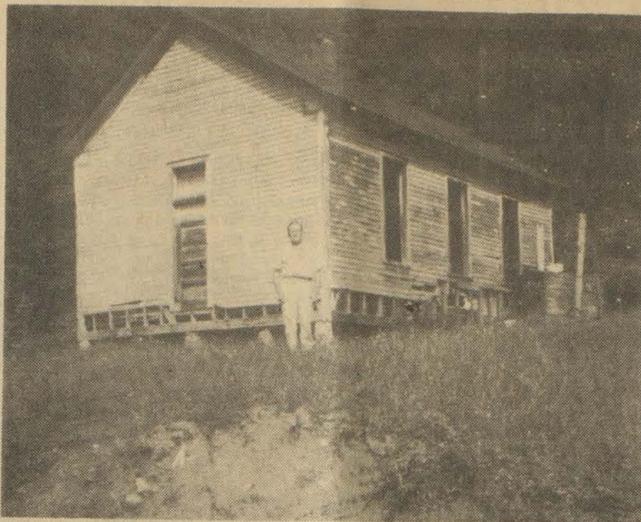

On July 31, 1777, Congress commissioned the Marquis de Lafayette a major general in the U. S. Army.

Mrs. Roberta Adkins will receive her Master of Arts degree August 5 at Eastern Kentucky University. She is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Sexton, of Hueysville, to receive a master's degree. Both daughters are employed by the Clark County Board of Education. She is the wife of Donald Adkins, formerly of Betsy Layne.

JEWELRY HAIL BIAS AGREEMENT

PHILADELPHIA—The American Jewish Committee hails what it terms a "landmark agreement" between the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission and the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co. to broaden involvement of Jews in company management. The agreement stemmed from a committee complaint of executive-level discrimination.

Estill Howell, of Rt. 2, Prestonsburg, is pictured above standing in front of the one-room schoolhouse where he held his first teaching position 44 years ago. The school is located on the Middle Ford of Jenny's Creek in Johnson county where Mr. Howell taught the three R's to a lively group of children. For this, he was paid the munificent salary of $44.25 a month. When the weather was too bad for him to ride a mule five miles to and from the school, he paid room and board from these earnings.

WALTER HAGEN SECTIONAL TOURNNEY SLATED SATURDAY AT PARK COURSE

The club-level playoffs of the Walter Hagen golf tournament held at the Jenny Wiley State Park course July 24-25 was won by the team composed of Clyde Woods, Steve Clark, Johnny Ray Turner and Ralph Little with a 10-under-par score.

The runnerup team included Terry Sizemore, Bert Duff, Mike Conley and Jeff Conn. Five teams entered the tourney.

Proceeds of the tournament go to the benefit of the American Cancer Society. The sectional tournament in which winning teams in club events will compete will be held at the Jenny Wiley course, Saturday, this week. The sectional winner will go to Lexington later for the state tournament, and the winner there will compete in the national Walter Hagen tournament at Disneyworld.

The club Walter Hagen tournament was under the supervision of Ted Hall, park recreational director. Sponsors were the First National Bank, B & D Motors, the First Guaranty Bank, the Bank Josephine, and Marvin Music, Gulf distributor.

LION KILLS RANGER

AT AMUSEMENT PARK
KINGS MILLS, Ohio—A 20-year-old King's Island Amusement Park ranger was killed by a lion July 24, park officials said.

John McCann of Morrow, Ohio, was found by fellow rangers shortly after 1 p.m. when he did not answer a radio check.

McCann, who had been a ranger in the park's Lion County Safari for 14 months, was found about 20 feet from his vehicle. His shotgun and radio were in the vehicle, officials said.

Officials have not yet identified the animal that killed McCann.

Outdoor Lore

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
(UK College of Agriculture)

"She brooks not condescension from mortal hand you know - For touch her e'er so gently, impatiently she will throw - Her tiny little jewels, concealed in pockets small - Of her dainty, graceful garments, and o'er the ground they fall."

So wrote poet Ray Laurence of the jewelweed whose gems may now be had for the seeking along damp woodland streambanks and moist waste places all across the land—pendant jewels of pale gold or red gold and of strange design. Just go out anywhere along a marsh or shaded stream and the chances are great that you will find thick, tall growths of these beautiful wild plants profusely hung with tiny brilliant flowers.

The flowers of the jewelweed, touch-me-not, silver-leaf, soap-weed, quick-in-the-hand or whatever name this interesting plant is known by locally, have been likened to feminine earrings and to fairy goblets. The whole plant has been described by writers of romantic tales as "jewel-bedecked queens dressed in silken garments of emerald." In either case, the comparison is apt, because this succulent member of the Touch-Me-Not family does, indeed, lend itself to the imagination. With just a little bit of imagination, the odd little flowers can also take on the aspects of the head-dresses worn by the Seven Dwarfs of fairy tale fame or the slippers of Chinese mandarins of antiquity.

Many country people know the jewelweed as wild touch-me-not. This appellation refers to the seed pod which, when ripe and touched lightly with the finger, will explode with a violence sufficient to project the enclosed seed for considerable distances. The ingenious mechanism that makes up the pod assures the dispersion of the seed and the perpetuation of the species by the action of wind, insects, animals or anything else that may disturb it.

Some natural food specialists say leaves of the jewel-weed enhance the taste and lend to the piquancy of wild plants gathered for salads. Some herb doctors recommend squeezing a handful of leaves from this plant and applying the resulting juice to skin affected by poison ivy to take out the itch and heal up the rash.

Although the jewelweed has been employed in backwoods medicine to treat jaundice, dropsy, liver complaints and ulcers, chemical constituents of the plant are now known. The medicinal applications are therefore questionable, but the fresh-squeezed juice—just like plain cold water—will temporarily relieve cutaneous irritation.

On July 25, 1775, the first rifle company raised specifically to serve in the Continental Army arrived at the siege of Boston.

Hunt Presents Plaque to Mt. Manor

Mrs. Eleanor Robinson, administrator of Mountain Manor Nursing Home (at left) is shown accepting a bronze plaque from Frank Hunt, who presented the plaque on behalf of his mother, Rosie Hunt, (seated). Bearing the names of each employee of the facility, the plaque reads, "With sincere and deepest thanks." Irene Ledford is pictured standing (at right).

Knott Couple Named in Break

A Knott county couple was booked at the county jail here last Wednesday by Constable Bob Hackworth after they allegedly entered a home on Stone Coal Creek and stole a quantity of clothing and other items.

Aftin Jacobs was charged with knowingly receiving stolen property, possession of stolen property and theft by unlawful taking, and Cathy Jacobs was charged with breaking and entering. Warrants were issued for two other Knott county women. About half of the stolen goods have been recovered, according to Hackworth.

Charged with transporting alcoholic beverages was Noah Adkins, who was arrested Saturday by Deputy Sheriffs Denver Spurlock and Randall Lewis. The officers confiscated 15 cases of beer.

Wheelwright Police Mildred and Harold Bates arrested Erloy King on a charge of possession of alcoholic beverages last Friday.

Others booked at the county jail over the past week, charges against each, and arresting officers follow:

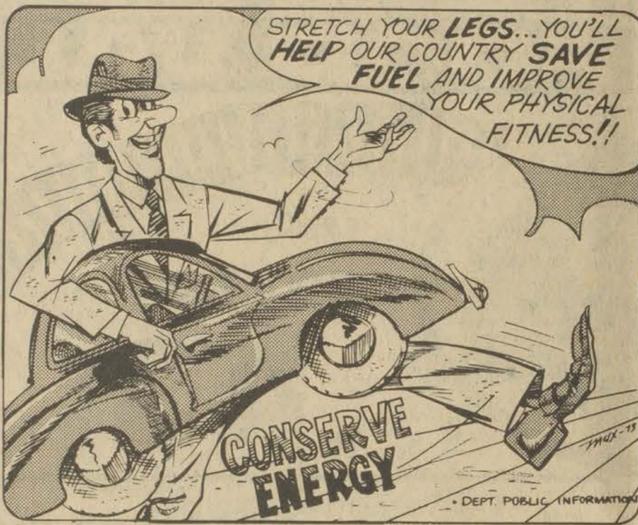

Ralph Akers, assault in 3rd degree, by Deputy Sheriffs J. D. and Melvin Martin; Wayne Newsome, speeding, by Wheelwright Police Harold and Mildred Bates; Mason Kimmel and Curtis Warrix, speeding, by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis; Oss Farmer, Jr., speeding, by Wheelwright Police Harold and Mildred Bates; Paul D. Stewart, reckless driving, by State Trooper Shelton; Randal Akers, drunk driving, by State Troopers Shelton and Stephens; Daniel M. King, theft by unlawful taking, by State Trooper Weedman; Bert Newsome, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriffs J. D. and Melvin Martin; Roland Datsen, drunk driving, by Constable Bob Hackworth; Larry Johnson, reckless driving, by State Trooper Castle; Michael Wallen, 2nd degree burglary, by Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis.

Arrested by Prestonsburg police were Oliver Setser, drunk driving, by Officer C. E. Kilgore; Gary W. King, drunk driving, by Officers Kilgore and D. Chaffins.

GREECE WILL RECEIVE $209 MILLION FROM U.S.

ATHENS—U. S. Ambassador Jack Kubisch officially notified the Greek government Friday that it will receive $209.9 million in American military and economic aid this year.

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS LOSE STUDENTS, DECLINE IS SMALL

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Enrollment in Roman Catholic elementary and secondary schools dropped 47,042 in 1975 to a total of 3,372,701, but the year's decline was less than 1 per cent, as it has been for three years.

Officials say the smaller decline indicates a leveling off trend in a 10-year drop since 1965, a decade in which enrollment in church elementary and secondary schools fell a total of 2,109,653.

Martin County Wells To Test Devonian Shale

Two gas wells will be drilled in Eastern Kentucky in a $779,000 research program aimed at unlocking the key to economical production of large volumes of gas known to be contained in Devonian shale formations, Governor Carroll announced last Friday.

The work is part of a $4.8 million, four-state project by Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. of Charleston, W. Va., in cooperation with the Federal Energy Research and Development Administration and with Ohio's energy research agency.

ERDA is providing $2.5 million; Columbia Gas, $2 million, and Ohio $300,000.

Carroll said both Kentucky wells will be drilled in Martin county. A technique known as cryogenic stimulation will be used to try to create, extend and expand natural fractures in the shale so that trapped gas may be recovered. This process involves pumping liquified gases into the formation at higher pressure to produce a fracturing action.

While the Martin county wells will involve stimulation in shale formations, the sandstone research has major implications for Kentucky, a Columbia spokesman noted, because of the state's extensive gas-bearing sandstone formations.

The objective of this phase of the four-state program is to increase short-term productivity from sandstone horizons.

Sandstone is the most prolific gas producing formation in Kentucky and other parts of the Appalachian area.

If shale-well experiments are successful, it is estimated it will be several years before large additional supplies of shale gas will result.

Columbia and ERDA are also cooperating in another $4.4 million shale program in Lincoln county, W. Va., less than 20 miles east of Lawrence county, Kentucky.

STATE, LOCAL TAX COLLECTIONS UP 8.6 PER CENT IN 1975

CHICAGO—State and local tax collections rose 8.6 per cent to $147 billion in 1975 over 1974, the Commerce Clearing House says. State tax collections climbed 7.1 per cent to $82.9 billion, and local taxes jumped up 10.6 per cent to $64.1 billion.

Individual income taxes totaled $22.8 billion and property-tax collections $54.3 billion. Corporate taxes totaled $6.7 billion; sales taxes amounted to $30 billion.

Gov. Carroll Terms ADD A 'Perfected' Partnership

Louisville, Ky.—In his speech to the Local Government Issues Conference here last week, Gov. Julian Carroll reviewed the steps Kentucky's government has taken to relieve unnecessary burdens on local government units and said, "At last, after a 184-year odyssey, Kentuckians, I believe, have perfected the state-local partnership."

He added, "We invite the federal branch of government to join with us as we chart a corrective course of federalism which can for all our citizens reconcile the diversity and the unity of our unique system of federalism."

Carroll cited the creation of the Area Development Districts (ADD) in 1965 as a decisive move to strengthen the "inherent partnership which exists between state and local government," and acknowledged the success of the district program in revitalizing local government.

He also pointed to the recent abolishment of commercial bail bonding, the elimination of extraneous state forms, the work of the integrated Grants Administration and the upcoming implementation of Kentucky's new judicial article as elements contributing to ideal state and local interaction.

Noting that the implementation of the judicial article would involve a multitude of complicated questions, Carroll said, "In my lifetime of public service I have never seen a problem that was too big for the people to solve."

Attending the conference were about 1,500 ADD district leaders from across the state as well as various federal officials. ADD district board members are composed of local mayors, county judges and interested citizens and business leaders.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Paul Kevin Hubbard, of Auxier, wishes to thank relatives, friends, and neighbors who bought flowers, money and food, and all who expressed their sympathy in any way upon the death of Paul Kevin. Special thanks go to the Preston Funeral Home, Auxier Free Will Baptist Church, Rev. John F. Ratliff, Evangelist Bennie Blankenship and Rev. Alex Patton.

PLAN FAMILY REUNION

The family of the late James and Sarah Frazier Samons will hold its annual reunion, Sunday, Sept. 5, at the Archer Park Pavilion, beginning at about 12 noon.

Celebrate—then Clean Up—Envisioned

Frankfort, Ky.—America's Bicentennial Celebration is winding down now after the furious activities surrounding the Fourth of July, but the Kentucky Historical Events Celebration Commission (KHECC) plans to close its operations with a project which will remain to remind us of the significance of our nation's 200th anniversary.

Under the banner, "Paint a Smile on Your Hometown," the Bicentennial Commission, as it is popularly called, along with the Louisville-based Porter Paints Co., is making 500 gallons of paint available to each of Kentucky's counties to put a new face on buildings and rejuvenate community spirit.

TO ATTEND LIPSCOMB

James Emerson Slone, son of Glenn Slone, of Langley, has been accepted for admission at David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn.

A graduate of Allen Central High School, Slone plans to enroll in the fall quarter and will major in elementary education. Lipscomb is a senior liberal arts college with approximately 2200 students expected in the fall, each of whom will be required to attend a Bible class every regular school day.

According to KHECC Director Lois Mateus, it is hoped that the project will serve as a nucleus for countywide cleanup-paintup projects which will also rekindle personal pride in the community and produce a feeling of togetherness and neighborhood spirit lasting well beyond 1976.

Projects will be submitted to the commission for approval and once that is received, volunteer help will use the paint provided by the local Porter Paints dealer to spruce up their selected site. Any building can be submitted as a project, said Mateus, including commercial, residential, and public buildings.

The project is funded by a $50,000 grant from the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) matched by $40,000 in state money. This will be used primarily for the promotion of the project—billboards, newspaper ads and a television commercial featuring Gov. Julian Carroll helping in a painting project in Frankfort, said Mateus. The project is considered a "model project" by ARBA, added Mateus.

"Although we will cease to exist as an agency of state government in December, 1976, we are excited to finish up with a project like this," said Mateus. "Long after we're gone, the effects of this project can serve as reminders of the spirit and goodwill engendered by the Bicentennial celebration as a whole."

Persons interested in the project can contact the commission on their toll-free information line, 800-372-2976.

Scout Council Third In Regional Rating

John Fischer, president of the Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America, announced last week that Lonesome Pine Council stands in third place among the 76 councils of the Southeast Boy Scout region, with regard to increase in number of young people served and increase in total Scout units (packs, troops, and Explorer posts) over one year ago. The council stands in second place in number of subscriptions to the "Boys' Life" magazine, which is published by the Boy Scouts of America, over a year ago. Fischer also stated that the council had achieved all of its objectives for June 30, 1976.

Fischer hailed the work all of the council's 900 adult volunteer leaders who made this achievement possible and the council's executive, office and camp staffs for their contribution. Mentioned prominently for their role were district executives Bill Shambora, of Prestonsburg, who serves Jenny Wiley and Kentucky River districts, and Bruce Gilmet, of Pikeville, who serves the Pike, Breaks, and Pine Mountain districts.

The Southeast region, BSA, contains 11 states south of the Mason-Dixon Line from Delaware on the east to Mississippi on the west.

Mr. Fischer invites any who are interested in organizing a new Cub Scout pack, Scout troop or Explorer post as well as any needing help reorganizing an existing Scout unit to contact the Scout Service Center, P. O. Box 110, Pikeville, Ky., or call the Service Center at 606-437-6209.

What To Do in August

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
(UK College of Agriculture)

August, according to Hal Borland, a favorite outdoor writer, is "ripeness creeping across the land." And indeed it is. There are green beans, ripe tomatoes, potatoes and roasting ears in the truck patch and no end of cucumbers, muskmelons, sweet onions and many other garden goodies available for the table.

August, as country people used to say, is the month in which "a body can take it easy and start to live again."

In all its gastronomic affluence, August is also a month of good times—memorial meetings with dinner-on-the-ground at backwoods graveyards, homecomings, family reunions and various other types of good old-fashioned get-togethers like county fairs and sorghum festivals. It is, too, the month when the delightful little speckled-breasted wood thrushes, purple martins and bullbats start gathering for migration.

In the northern hemisphere, August is usually our warmest month and, with the exception of the nighttime din of katydids and the daytime racket of jarflies, one of our most silent months. According to historians, August was named for the Roman Emperor Augustus who, they wrote, was "one of the greatest rulers that ever lived." One of his great deeds after assuming power, following the assassination of Julius Caesar, was the execution of "300 Senators and 2,000 knights."

Notwithstanding, August is, indeed, worthy of its royal name. It is a month of gold and purple, the traditional color of kings. Its sun throws a golden glory over yellowing field of wheat and hay. Then later in the month, there are goldenrods, purple asters, joepe weed and the delicate blue of wild ageratum. Its special flower is the poppy and its gem, the moonstone. Despite its often sweltering heat, August is a glorious month in which to be alive.

It is a fine month in which to revisit the old swimming hole; to boat-ride on the scenic Kentucky River and its three forks; to fish for catfish; to take a vacation; to attend "field days" put on by the UK College of Agriculture's Cooperative Extension Service, the Soil Conservation Service, and other agencies organized to serve the needs of both rural and urban people.

There are many tasks to perform and jobs to do around the old homeplace in August. If you need a list of these chores, check with your county Extension agent. However, the advice of this column that has preached "what to do" for the past eleven months is, if possible, "take it easy."

In the month of August, it goes without saying that all serious farmers and gardeners deserve some time to relax and to enjoy the fruits of their labors.

Plastic Pipe Use Is Recommended

Frankfort, Ky.—The Kentucky Plumbing Code Committee recently recommended increased use of plastic pipe to the state environmental agency.

At their meeting in Frankfort, the state plumbing committee, an advisory body to the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, advised that agency to open up the limitations of the code. The present code allows the use of ABS and PVC plastic pipe—except under concrete slabs—up to two stories in height in residential buildings. The committee recommended that the department extend that allowance to three stories and that its use be acceptable in all buildings.

The plumbing code committee recommended that the department modify the plumbing regulations to allow use of several products that meet national and state standards. That recommendation followed the committee's review of product approval requests from the plumbing materials manufacturers.

The plumbing committee granted conditional approval to the Jim-Cap Co. for use of its clean-out cap that can be used on plastic, cast iron and steel pipes. The committee's approval required that the cap be exposed, above ground or have an access door and it must be manufactured in accordance with a commercial standard.

Approved also was the DHP solid copper tubing, manufactured by Anaconda Copper Tubing. Bob Becker, the product manager from New York, said that the working pressure of the tubing is 500 pounds per square inch at 250 degrees. The tubing is made through a fusion welding process rather than the usual seamed process. The welded area is made up of the same chemical composition as the rest of the tube.

The sealer, manufactured by Fernco Joint Sealer Co., will be reviewed at a future meeting after experimental testing by a committee member. Another product that the plumbing group approved was an adaptor for a tubular trap.

The committee voted to accept plumbing director Eugene Perkins' recommendation concerning local vents. Perkins recommended that the department delete the section of the plumbing code that requires plumbers to install ventilator fans in bathrooms to eliminate odors and moisture.

The plumbing committee voted also to check the legality of adding a section to the plumbing code that would require master plumbers to identify themselves and their business. By labeling their trucks and equipment with their names and plumbing license numbers, legitimate plumbers would be recognized.

Since the committee's previous meeting, Robert D. Bell, head of the environmental department, had reviewed the recommended increases in plumbing examination fees. Rather than the recommended increase from $25 to $100 for master plumbers, he advised a more gradual increase from $25 to $50. The recommended increase for journeyman plumbers remains $10 to $25.

In other action, the plumbing committee recommended approval of the subsurface disposal regulation that was presented by the department. That regulation sets uniform standards for subsurface disposal systems where a public sewerage system is not available.

The committee approved a new method of connecting cast iron pipe to ABS or PVC plastic pipe that was requested by Ray Dauenhauer, a plumber from Louisville. The code, said Dauenhauer, says that cast iron can be connected only with a caulk joint. But use of that practice has shown that the plastic deforms when the lead is caulked. The new use allows pre-formed rubber gaskets, which have already been approved for other uses, to connect cast-iron pipe to ABS or PVC plastic pipe.

Deferred until future meetings were the proposed regulation on soil, waste and vent systems and measures to prevent back-flow contamination.

The next meeting of the Kentucky Plumbing Code Committee is scheduled for 10 a.m., September 22, at the Capital Plaza Tower in Frankfort.

Compliance actions by the U. S. Department of Labor to correct illegal age discrimination identified approximately 5,500 individuals discriminated against under provisions of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act during the 1975 fiscal year; monetary damages of $6.6 million were found due to 2,350 individuals.

Woods Wins Fifth Jenny Wiley Meet

Playoffs featured the fifth annual Jenny Wiley golf tournament last weekend at the Jenny Wiley State Park course.

First of all, Clyde Woods, of Betsy Layne, won the tournament by defeating Nelson Gullett, of Paintsville, in a playoff. Ralph Little, of Corn Fork, took third place in the championship flight, but fourth place was nailed down by Johnny Ray Turner, of McDowell, in a sudden-death with Jerry Clark and Clinton Reed, both of the Pikeville vicinity.

The first flight was won by Johnny Jones, of Salyersville, with Ben Spradlin, of Martin, the runnerup. Second flight honors went to Larry Carroll, of Salyersville, who edged Tommy Boyd, of Betsy Layne.

Glenn Blair won the third flight, and Dan Verga, of Prestonsburg, won second place in a playoff with Larry Jones, of Price. Jim Morris won the fourth flight, with Morris Osborne in the runnerup spot.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our gratitude to all our neighbors, friends and relatives who expressed their sympathy in so many ways upon the death of our mother, Gertrude Gibson. Also to the staff of the Highlands Regional Medical Center for its kindness and a special thanks to Dr. Sehra and the wonderful nurses at the McDowell Regional Hospital. We want to thank personally the ministers of the True Baptist Church for their consoling words, also the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

NEWS OF THE MAYTOWN COMMUNITY

Claude and Helen Webb invite relatives, friends and neighbors to help them celebrate their 35th wedding anniversary, August 15, at their home on Henry's Branch. Mr. and Mrs. Webb will be receiving guests from 1 to 5 p.m.

Mrs. Hugh Rowland is again a patient at Our Lady of the Way Hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Jones Tallent underwent surgery Monday at a Lexington hospital to correct a condition caused by former surgery.

Tom Salisbury, of Beaver, Ohio, was the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Webb Saturday evening after attending the homecoming brunch at Allen Central High School. He returned home Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Hayes, Chesapeake, Va., were here for the homecoming and attended church services at Bethel Regular Baptist on Sunday before going to other parts of the county to visit relatives. They were Saturday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Herald.

Mrs. Margie Patton Green, Florence, Ariz., Mrs. Goldia Patton Jones, Zionsville, Ind., and Mrs. Eva Patton Wilhite, of Martinsville, Ind., were here to attend the homecoming and also to visit their mother, Mrs. Amanda Patton, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton Adkins, Jr. and Chrissie and Mrs. Adkins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ford, of Hepzibah, Ga., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Adkins.

Mr. and Mrs. James Earl Caudill and Melissa, of Sidney, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Caudill, Oldsmar, Fla., and Mrs. Vada Caudill, Sidney, Ohio, were here to attend homecoming, and the James Earl Caudill family spent this week here visiting relatives. Bill Caudill and family visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Prater, and also visited relatives in Ohio.

Visitors at the home of Mrs. Minnie Howell during homecoming week-end were: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Caudill and children, Oldsmar, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Caudill and Tim, Mr. and Mrs. Denver Caudill, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cook and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Royce, Mrs. Nannie Hawkins, Mrs. Vada Caudill, Mr. and Mrs. James Earl Caudill and Melissa, all of Sidney, Ohio; Mrs. Delores Flanery, Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. James Monroe Caudill, Sherri and Todd, Blackey, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Hagans, Lexington; Rev. and Mrs. Lee Caudill and children, of Lancer, and members of the family who reside locally.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tallent, Miami, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Tallent, Washington, D. C., have been the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jones Tallent, and also attended the homecoming.

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Champ Gibson were Mr. and Mrs. Justin Turner, Murfreesboro, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Sandoss and son, Ft. Thomas, Ky., and Mrs. Tom Hewlett and children, Lexington, who were also here to attend the homecoming.

Those attending the Boyd family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyd on Wilson Creek during the homecoming were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hellickson, Bruce and David, Dayton, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woodrow Boyd, Ben, Susan and Carla, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Shirley Pearish, Tim, Jeanie and Mike, LaPorte, Ind.; Juanita Boyd and Kevin, Jack Parish and Teia, all of LaPorte, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Erwin, Susie and Keith, Louisa; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Boyd, Doug and Barry, West Alexandria, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lowe and Chastity, of Langley, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Boyd and Steven, of Eastern, Victor and Terry Boyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Vaughn and Kelly Anne, Oak Ridge, Tenn., were here for the homecoming week-end. They were houseguests of his grandfather, Dr. J. H. Allen. Mr. Vaughn is employed by TVA in Knoxville. They returned home Sunday afternoon.

Ben Baker, Kihei, Hawaii, was here for an overnight visit with his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Baker. He flew in to Lexington and accompanied Margaret Ann Vaughn to Maytown. He attended the homecoming program at Allen Central High School Friday evening and the brunch there on Saturday morning.

Justin Turner, Murfreesboro, Tenn., visited Dr. J. H. Allen, Harriet and Peggy Jo on Sunday. Basil Coburn, Lake Tahoe, Calif., called on Dr. Allen on Sunday, and Ex-Supt. Charles Clark visited with him on Wednesday.

The Maytown Volunteer Fire Department and the Allen and Martin fire departments answered the emergency call when the home of Mrs. Martha Stone caught fire, Wednesday. It's only natural to want to help friends and neighbors but in any emergency such as this only the firemen certified by the state are allowed to take part in the firefighting or other emergency measures. State law prohibits bystanders from using the equipment of any fire department or rescue unit. Every offer of help is appreciated but the laws must be observed and bystanders are urged to stand back from the fire or other emergency and give the trained men a better chance.

Clarence Robinson, Sr. and Virgil Halbert, Jr. visited relatives in Clinton and Harriman, Tenn. recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Halbert, Sr. and sons were called to Marshall, Mich. recently due to the illness of Mr. Halbert's mother, Mrs. James Goodman.

Davie Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Webb, of Lexington, is here for two weeks visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Gertrude Webb, and other members of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Beverage Reffitt, Nathan and Beverly vacationed in Michigan and Canada last week.

Best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Lee Martin who were married Friday evening at the Maytown United Methodist Church. Mrs. Martin is the former Anita Mae Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hicks.

An indoor-outdoor cookout was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Bailey on Wilson Creek, July 24. Hosting the garden supper was their daughter, Miss Jamie Bailey, who has just completed work at Morehead State University as tutor-counselor for the Upward Bound Program. Guests enjoying the get-together were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Combs, Prestonsburg; Miss Debbie Kraft, of Greenup County; David Byrd, Louisville, and Ron Smith, Lewis county.

Mrs. Marcella Bailey and Ann Rowe called on Miss Berneice Patton recently. Mrs. Bailey was briefing Berneice on her visit with Mr. and Mrs. Willard May while in Florida.

Wins Motorcycle

Pictured is Helena Justice, of Rt. 1, Pikeville, winner of a Yamaha GT-80 motorcycle in a drawing held July 14 by Wheelwright Building Fund. All proceeds are donated to Wheelwright Masonic Lodge No. 889 to help pay for the lodge hall.

IN APPRECIATION
We would like to thank everyone who sent flowers or helped us in any way upon the death of our mother and grandmother. We would like to thank the Rev. W. D. Jagers, Rev. R. Shepherd and Rev. Paris Music for their consoling words and also the Carter Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

If you should be listening to the sibilant song of a jarfly on some hot August day and hear its tune suddenly break off in a sort of a strangled cry, the chances are you were turned in on a common Dog Day tragedy. The strangled sound was the death cry of one of these large summer insects known to entomologists as cicada. It was succumbing to the sting of a great black-and-gold-spotted hunting wasp called "cicada killer."

I have watched and listened in one these outdoor dramas dozens of times, and this is what happens. Attracted to the cicada by its song, the wasp out cruising the countryside homes in on this songster, grasps it with its front legs, and benumbs it with its stinger. Often in the struggle, both insects tumble from the tree. If this takes place, the wasp flips the cicada over on its back, straddles its belly, and laboriously climbs back up the tree until it reaches sufficient elevation to glide back down to a hole it has already prepared in the ground. The stunned cicada, still on its back, is then scooted, like a sled, underground where it has a wasp egg laid between the cracks of its armour.

Entomologists who have studied the life and habits of this giant predatory wasp say that, after the cicada has been dragged underground and the egg placed upon it, the wasp covers over the burrow with sand and then buzzes off to dig another hole and to capture another jarfly.

The unusual part of this story unfolds when we learn that the stinger of the wasp injects a paralytic agent within the cicada—an agent that does not kill the unfortunate insect but only stuns it.

Thus, the cicada remains alive with the wasp's burrow. After the egg hatches, the young wasp larva begins to eat the still living organs of the cicada. According to the entomologists, the larva feeds very carefully, leaving the vital organs until the very last. By this method the larva keeps its food supply alive for the longest possible time, while at the same time ensuring the freshest possible meal.

Many wasps, the entomologists add, follow this general pattern. Some, like the mud dauber, build their nests instead of digging burrows in the sand. Some of the wasps are very choosy about the kind of insect they will capture and store away for their young. Some will select only caterpillars, some spiders, others only moths.

The wasp procedure for perpetuating the species is rather gruesome, but throughout the world of insects, life is prolific but often difficult to maintain. In fact, throughout the world of nature, it is "dog eat dog."

Lexington To Host Casting Tournament

The American Casting Association has announced that the 68th annual ACA national tournament will be held in Lexington, August 9 through Aug. 14. The Bluegrass Sportsmen's League of Lexington is hosting the tournament under the sponsorship of R. C. Cola of Lexington.

The finest fly and bait casters in the United States and Canada will compete in both distance and accuracy events and classes include men's, women's and junior competition. Many local casters will be competing and the tournament is open to all ACA members.

Distance events will be held at Commonwealth Stadium on Tuesday and Wednesday, August 10 and 11, followed by the accuracy events on Thursday and Friday at the Bluegrass Sportsmen's League grounds on Richmond road. All events are open to the public and display areas and refreshments are available.

Robert V. Bunting, of Lexington, formerly of Prestonsburg, is president of the Casting Division of the Bluegrass Sportsmen's League.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON

Kentucky's squirrel season will open Aug. 21 and hunters are probably wondering what kind of season to expect.

A preliminary prediction from Harold Barber, the chief forest game biologist with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, is for good hunting statewide. Squirrel populations in east and central Kentucky are up somewhat from last year, and we have a repeat of 1975's good populations in the western part of the state.

The squirrels that hunters will be seeking on opening day are the result of last winter's breeding season, when there was an ample crop of acorns and other squirrel foods. This good mast led to a good survival rate and high reproduction, so there should be plenty of squirrels this year.

But Barber also voiced a note of pessimism. An unusually early spring followed by a late freeze apparently caught many mast-producing trees in the bloom stage and may cause a very poor mast crop this winter. This may mean a low population for the 1977 season, but could work to the hunter's advantage this year.

With scant food supplies this winter, the squirrels will probably be more concentrated than usual. The hunter who can locate a stand of trees which did produce mast this winter will most likely find the squirrels there in abundance.

But squirrels are seldom concentrated early in the season. The opening day hunter usually finds that he has to do a lot more stalking than is necessary in November and December. The full foliage of August can also be a handicap since it makes spotting squirrels difficult.

So if your early season hunting isn't as productive as you like, don't blame it on a lack of squirrels and give up. After the leaves have dropped and food becomes more scarce, look for stands of nut bearing oaks, beech or hickory trees, take a stand and sit quietly for awhile. Chances are, you'll find squirrels.

But however you find squirrels, you still have to clean them before they can be converted to stew. A pesky and persistent problem is getting hair on the meat (and later, between your teeth).

A good way to get rid of flying hair is to soak the squirrels in water before dressing them. Then keep a container of water, or a hose, nearby to wash off any hairs which get on your hands.

Even with these precautions, it's still a good idea to examine the meat carefully before cooking or freezing it, since stray hairs can impart off flavors to the squirrel.

After its August 21 opening, the squirrel season will continue through October 31. The second phase of the season will open November 18 and run through December 31, except for the December 4 through December 8 statewide gun deer season when all small game seasons (except trapping for furbearers) will be closed.

The daily limit on squirrels is six, with a possession limit of 12 after two or more days of hunting. A possession limit of squirrel or any other fish or game species can't be held in the field.

FAMILY REUNION

A family reunion and birthday celebration was held at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Caudill, of Allen, July 24 and 25. Mrs. Caudill celebrated her 71st birthday. Those visiting Mrs. Caudill were Mr. and Mrs. Bud Dingus and children, Carla and Cleo, of Riverview, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Tony Zaguroli, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Spears Hinton and daughter, Krista, Mt. Vernon, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. James H. Caudill and daughter, Jamelin, Bedford, Ky.; Mrs. Betty Rickman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Caudill and son Ronnie, Mr. and Mrs. Day Crisp, Mr. and Mrs. Jackie D. Crisp and son Jason, all of Allen; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hamilton, of Pikeville; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Branham and daughter Angela, Willard, Ohio; Mrs. Pauline Crisp, and sons, Gary and Kenny, Mr. and Mrs. Barry Howell, Mr. and Mrs. Lenny Harris and daughters, Jonni and Paula, Mrs. Vivica Bryant and daughter, Stephanie, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Kidd and son, Keith, all of Prestonsburg; and Mr. and Mrs. Noah Hinton, of Lexington.

Hagewood-Chapman

Jesse B. Hagewood, of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Mrs. Stephen C. Montgomery, of Inez announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Jane Ann Hagewood to Randy Lynn Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Chapman, of Inez.

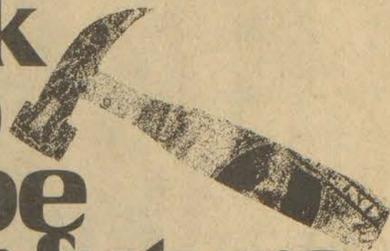

They will be united in marriage in a double-ring ceremony at 6 p.m., August 20, at the Golden Memorial Methodist Church of Inez.

The gracious custom of open church will be observed and a reception for the newlyweds will follow at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Hagewood, who attended Sheldon Clark High School, will be a sophomore at Prestonsburg Community College this fall. While at SCHS, Jane was active in Beta Club, journalism and band.

Mr. Chapman, a 1975 SCHS graduate, is presently a summer employee at Wolf Creek Collieries. This fall, he will return to Pikeville College where he will be a senior in mining technology.

Community Gardens Help Oldsters

Community gardeners are working in a potato patch on Rattlesnake Ridge near Olive Hill to provide fresh produce for senior citizens in five northeastern Kentucky counties. From left are: Homer Barker of Olive Hill, Sherman Gollihue of Grayson, and Berthel Cooke of Olive Hill. The community garden project operating this summer in Boyd, Carter, Elliott, Greenup and Lawrence counties is one of eight such projects across the state through funding from Gov. Julian Carroll.

Olive Hill, Ky.—Older citizens in five northeastern Kentucky counties have gained employment and will soon be enjoying fresh produce from community gardens sponsored this summer by Gov. Julian M. Carroll.

The five counties benefiting from the project are Boyd, Carter, Elliott, Greenup and Lawrence. Scattered garden sites totaling 10 acres were donated by several older citizens in the area.

One of the landowners, Chester Sparks, works with the Northeast Kentucky Area Development Council, a community action agency coordinating the project in the five counties. Sparks works in maintaining the agency's equipment, including the many buses used by the council to transport local children and the elderly.

Sparks, 62, lives on Rattlesnake Ridge near here. "I've got about 70 acres up on that ridge, so if they need any more land, I've got it for them to use," he said. "I've been working ever since I was big enough and I never saw it hurt anybody to work."

Sparks has his own "truck patch" on Rattlesnake Ridge and between gardening and equipment maintenance, he still found time to volunteer the services of two mules to plow part of the community garden on his property.

Jess Sparks, 82, and Roy French, 65, work in the gardens under the "Green Thumb" program, a project coordinated by the Department for Human Resources' Bureau for Manpower Services, the National Farmers Union and the federal government. Joe Reynolds, director of the community action agency, said the two men are often found on their own time out in the fields adjacent to the agency's office building. French works regularly in the kitchen area where he helps prepare the more than 500 meals delivered daily by Community Action to area senior citizens. Jess Sparks does janitorial work at the Community Action office.

"I know I could make ends meet if I didn't have this job, but I'd go haywire if I had to stay at home all day long. I still love working out here when I can," said Sparks.

The two "green thumbs" have farmed most of their lives and Sparks added that he is also a qualified painter.

Reynolds said that with the expert help of people like Chester and Jess Sparks and French, there was little need to call upon any other outside professional help for advice for planting and fertilizing the gardens. "We are lucky to have some real oldtimers here who know about as much about farming as anyone could," he said.

Other workers in the gardens have been 16 CETA workers from the five counties and college students enrolled in work-study under CETA. (CETA is the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act which funds job programs.) Some 50 workers are volunteers and some have donated plants and machinery.

Gov. Carroll's original grant was $3,198 for the initial purchase of seed and fertilizer. Reynolds estimated that the total cost of the five garden plots in the area will be no more than about $4,500, including paid labor.

Already planted are: 2,000 pounds of seed potatoes, 100 pounds of onion sets, 200 pounds of beans, 200 pounds of seed corn, 1,200 tomato plants, 400 cabbage plants and 200 pepper plants. Ten tons of fertilizer are also being used.

When the produce is harvested, it will be distributed first among 260 older citizens and families designated by the Department for Human Resources through the state Supplemental Security Income program. Reynolds said he expects the gardens to yield much more than will be required to meet these needs. The remaining vegetables will be distributed to families referred to the agency through nutrition programs funded under the Older Americans Act and area agencies on aging.

Gov. Carroll granted funds for seven other garden projects serving the following areas: McCracken County; Jefferson County; Fayette and Nicholas counties; Daviess, Hancock, Henderson, McLean, Ohio, Union and Webster counties; Boone, Campbell and Kenton counties; and Bath, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan and Rowan counties.

Almost $30,000 was allocated for the community gardens and while each area is free to organize the project to fit the area's needs, all have two common goals: Employment and fresh produce for older citizens.

Floyd County Health Notes

Vocational Leaders, Industry To Confer at Aug. 12 Meet

Vocational teachers and administrators, representatives from business and industry and visitors from Kentucky and other states will meet at the Holiday Inn North in Lexington, Aug. 12, to discuss the Kentucky Appalachia Vocational Staff Exchange Project.

Participants will evaluate the program's second year of operation, provide information for those who have not previously participated and attend workshops on revising the curriculum to reflect current practices in business and industry, developing plans for continuous liaison with business and industry, relating the socio-economic environment of employment to students, and other project information.

The staff exchange program, funded by the Appalachian Regional Commission, enables vocational teachers and administrators in the state's 49-county Appalachian region to spend up to four weeks working in a business or industry related to their teaching areas. Through this work experience they acquire new skills which they pass on to their students.

Prof. Stanley E. Fisher, chairman of the Staff Exchange Advisory Committee, will preside at the conference. Patrick E. White project director, will talk about the purpose of the conference. He will be followed by Billy Ray Howard, newly named assistant superintendent for Vocational Education.

To attend from this area are Dorothy Bradley, James Calhoun, Eugene Cline, David Leslie, Leona Rice, Enos Browning, Gene Honeycutt, Frelan Bradbury, Samuel Burke, Gilbert Stambaugh and Ronald Ward, from Mayo State Vocational-Technical School; Alice Williams, Doris Lawson, Lonzo Lafferty, Linda Turner, and John Frazier, from Garth Area Vocational Education Center; Rebecca Duke, Everly Wheeler and Billy Jane Short, from Johnson Central High School.

Two Contractors Banned by State From Road Bids

Frankfort, Ky.—Two road contractors have been banned from bidding on state highway construction projects for one year, Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts announced today.

Both Hoover, Inc., of Nashville, Tenn., and Standard Slag Co. of Portsmouth, Ohio, together with any subsidiaries or firms in which their presidents are principals, were barred effective June 28, 1976, Roberts said.

This action followed the two companies' failure to respond to the Kentucky Department of Transportation's (KYDOT) demand for payment of claims similar to those they had settled earlier with the federal government.

These firms and East Kentucky Paving Corp., of Grayson, and four of their officers, together with Kentucky Road Oiling, Inc., of Lexington were indicted for conspiracy to defraud the United States by a federal grand jury in 1973.

The conspiracy involved bidding on Interstate 64 construction projects in Rowan and Carter counties.

In September 1975, East Kentucky Paving; Hoover, Inc., and Standard Slag entered "no contest" pleas and were fined $10,000 each. Charges against Kentucky Road Oiling and the four individuals were dropped.

The three companies later settled a federal civil suit for damages by payment of $500,000. East Kentucky Paving paid $100,000; Hoover, Inc., $225,000; and Standard Slag, $175,000.

Also the Federal Highway Administration banned them from bidding on federal-aid highway projects for three years. This period was later reduced to six months.

On June 28, 1976, KYDOT demanded payment of $55,555.55 from the same companies, under threat of administrative penalty or legal action.

That amount was claimed since the Commonwealth's share of interstate construction is 10 per cent. The federal government pays 90 per cent.

"Thus," Roberts explained, "Kentucky is entitled to and demanded a sum equal to one-ninth of the settlement paid Uncle Sam."

On this basis, East Kentucky Paving Corp. was asked for $11,111.11; Hoover, Inc. for $25,000; and Standard Slag Co. for $19,444.44.

East Kentucky Paving responded to this claim with payment of the sum demanded. KYDOT will continue to accept and consider their bids on highway projects, Roberts said.

"Since the other companies, Hoover, Inc., and Standard Slag Company, have not settled these claims, I am compelled to take this action and ban them and their subsidiaries from bidding for a year, as I have advised them. My responsibility to Governor Carroll and the taxpayers of the Commonwealth leaves me no option," Secretary Roberts concluded.

The public is urged to attend this important meeting.

Short Rows

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
(UK College of Agriculture)

From the present time until the last turnip is harvested in the fall, the home gardener will be confronted by a whole army of insect pests that he must control or, as some gardeners used to say, "lose a crop."

From now on out, every insect from a stink bug to a cabbage looper and literally dozens of other pest species in between will beset the vegetable patch. With this likely to be the case, the home gardener may have to resort to chemical warfare.

If so, Extension entomologist Wes Gregory offers the following information about insecticides most commonly used in the home garden:

Malathion kills insects on contact and has little residual action. It comes as a 4 per cent dust and as 57 per cent liquid emulsifiable concentrate (EC); when used as a spray, it requires 2 teaspoonsful to the gallon of water.

Methoxychlor comes as 5 per cent dust, 25 per cent EC and 50 per cent wettable powder. In mixing Methoxychlor into a spray, use 2 tablespoonsful of powder or liquid to the gallon of water.

Sevin comes as a 10 per cent dust, 5 per cent bait and 50 per cent wettable powder. If it is a contact and stomach insecticide with short residual action and is toxic to honeybees. To make the wettable powder into a spray, use 2 tablespoonsful of dust to each gallon of water.

Then there is Diazinon, which comes in 4 per cent dust of 25 per cent EC. This is a contact insecticide with only brief residual action. In mixing Diazinon for the sprayer, use 2 teaspoonsful to a gallon of water.

Dylox is both a contact and stomach poison and comes as 5 per cent dust. Metaldehyde (15 per cent) and Mesuro (2 per cent) are baits useful in slug and snail control. Bacillus thuringiensis is an insecticide derived from bacteria that cause disease in caterpillars; it is non-toxic to warm-blooded animals.

The chemicals listed here, says Gregory, should provide adequate and safe control for any insect pest likely to be encountered in the garden and should not leave harmful residues. He emphasizes that, in mixing up any spray or before using any dust, one should check label instructions and follow them carefully.

Family Farming Holds Own in United States

Family farming in the United States is holding its own as the most permanent and dominant influence in America's agriculture.

This view of modern agriculture expressed by Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz was recounted by Soil Conservation Service Administrator R. M. Davis in an editorial in the July issue of Soil Conservation magazine.

According to Davis, Butz reports that about 95 percent of all U. S. Farms are still family farms and produce about 60 percent of all farm produce sold. The secretary noted that more than 90 percent of the farms are closely held family corporations, rather than large agribusiness firms.

"Family farms continue to be a mainstay of America's agriculture," Butz affirmed. David added, "The ability of the family farm to survive is good news for conservation because the family farmer is also the mainstay of soil and water conservation."

Family farms have been first in conservation since the beginning of the Soil Conservation Service. They organized conservation districts, tried out new agricultural practices, installed conservation measures, and developed and supported soil stewardship in local churches.

Nature Trails

By Rufus M. Reed

The last legislature of Kentucky vetoed the tulip poplar as the official tree and adopted a rare and little-known tree, the Kentucky coffeetree. Perhaps one reason was, the tree bears the ancient and much revered name, "Kentucky;" also, the tree was highly regarded by the early settlers of the state who brewed a strong, black coffee from its black seeds.

Since the adoption of this tree as the official tree, nurseries and others have been deluged with orders for seedlings or seeds, but these are hard to come by. If you should have available any of these, you can dispose of them at a fancy price. The demand for seedlings cannot be supplied.

What sort of tree is the Kentucky coffeetree? Very few persons have ever seen one and few could tell one when they see it. There is not one Kentucky coffeetree in my county, but I'm the lucky one, as I know where there is a grove of these trees and there are many seedlings there. This grove of these trees is located at the head of a branch on Big Sandy River, Johnson county, opposite East Point. There are several large trees with their rugged trunks, and in the fall I found a number of the huge, blunt beans lying on the ground. These are short and over two inches broad, with a rare mahogany color. Each pod contains about four beans, which are enclosed in a sweet, astringent pulp.

This grove of "coffebean trees," as the pioneers called them, is located near the airport and a short distance from where the renowned pioneer fort called Harmon's Station once stood. To this refuge Jenny Wiley, famed woman pioneer and Indian prisoner, made her escape. The Indians, in hot pursuit, ran to the riverside just as Jenny was emerging from a raft on the opposite side. The river was too swollen for them to cross after her.

It is believed by the old settlers that the pioneers of Harmon's Station planted and tended this grove of the coffeetrees, to have a supply of the beans handy for brewing their "black coffee."

What are the salient features of the Kentucky coffeetree, by means of which you might know one? They are so rare in some regions, identification is most difficult. Famed author, Jesse Stuart, once told about the coffeetree that grew on his father's farm in Greenup county, but neither he nor his father could identify it. His father made a beaten path to the tree, taking persons there to see it, in the hope someone could tell him what it was. At length, a professor of botany was visiting the Stuarts, and on being conducted to the tree he told them it was the famous "Kentucky coffebean tree," in the Legume Family, and its genus was Gynocladus, meaning "naked, blunt branches," as the tree appears in winter.

The summer leaves are the most outstanding feature. They are among the largest leaves known, and are more than three feet wide and nearly four feet long. An old man who admired the coffeetree once told me: "The prettiest sight I ever saw is the large leaves of the coffebean tree shimmering in a light summer breeze."

The Kentucky coffeetree belongs to the same family as our redbuds and locusts. In early spring, the tree bears upright clusters of white flowers. The leaflets of one of the doubly compound leaves often number as many as 200; they are small, smooth and ovate.

The bark of the tree is gray and broken into numerous horny flanges and flaky scales. This gives the tree a starkly bare and rugged winter look.

What are the uses of the Kentucky coffeetree? Mainly as an ornamental and for park planting. Also for the most unusual mahogany bean pods, and the big beans that resemble butter-beans.

A tree with rugged beauty and handsome fruit is its own best excuse for being, I suppose.

PHS Coach Reminds Freshmen To Report

Prestonsburg High School Football Coach Phillip Haywood this week reminded all boys who will be in ninth grade this fall and are interested in playing freshman football to report to the high school gymnasium at 5:30 p.m., Monday, August 9.

A $480,000 model work-study program funded by the U. S. Department of Labor will train 240 jobless residents in the Washington, D. C. area for medical jobs greatly in demand. The model program, the Department's Worlife magazine reports, is funded by Title III of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act under the special target provisions.

We have your best interest at heart.

"ATTENTION PARENTS"

The Prestonsburg Area Boosters Club was organized prior to the 1975-76 Grade School football season. With the support from local firms and individuals, the club was able to purchase all equipment needed to outfit 204 players.

Our members and parents have lost interest in attending meetings and unless support is obtained, we can no longer maintain our program. At present we have a proposal by the Floyd County Board of Education to the club, pending approval by club members.

To assure a continuing program of grade school football at Auxier, Clark and Prestonsburg Elementary Schools, we must have support from parents. If you are interested in keeping this program please attend the next meeting, Monday night, August 9, 1976, at the Floyd County Court House.

We must have parent support of this program or it will be discontinued. 11-pd.

Rural Child Care Recruiting Children

The Rural Child Care Project is recruiting handicapped children to take part in the program.

The children are being enrolled to use the full range of Head Start education, health, and other program services under a Congressional mandate providing 10 per cent of Head Start enrollment nationwide for the handicapped.

The mixing of handicapped and non-handicapped children is expected to give all the children a valuable experience in learning to understand and respect differences among people.

For more information or to enroll a child, call 886-3548 or come by the Rural Child Care Project, 115 Short St., Prestonsburg.

Sturgill Is Selected As Missionary

Elder Brent D. Sturgill, of Coal Run, will be honored at a missionary farewell during the regular worship services of the Boldman Branch of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, next Sunday, at 5:30 p.m. Elder Sturgill has received a call to serve as a missionary in the Belgium-Brussels Mission of the church. After the completion of a two-month language training mission at Salt Lake City, Utah, Elder Sturgill will leave for Brussels where he will serve the remainder of his two-year mission for the church. Like all Mormon missionaries, Sturgill will be supported entirely from his own savings as well as contributions made by his mother and his friends at the Boldman Branch. He will receive no pay or expense money from the church itself other than his transportation home upon the conclusion of a successful two-year mission. Sturgill is the son of Lola Beatrice Sturgill, of Coal Run, and is a 1974 graduate of Mullins High School where he was prominent in the school's athletic program.

The public is invited to attend the farewell worship service at which Elder Sturgill will be the principal speaker. A reception will be held in the basement of the church following the worship service to which all persons are also invited.

50 County Youths In Summer Jobs

The Big Sandy Community Action Program has employed 50 young people in the Floyd county area with summer jobs. Funds for the summer work programs were procured from the Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program and was sub-contracted to the Big Sandy Community Action Program. The workers were employed in the courthouse, the health department, the county agent's office, the C. O. E. building at Archer Park, the Mountain Comprehensive Care greenhouse, the city of Martin, Pageant Hills Housing Project, Drift Clothing Store, the City of Wheelwright, Weeksby Community Center, and Mud Creek Health Center.

The students were given work designed to benefit them as training for later vocational use—secretarial work, day care work with children, etc.

Judge Halts Johns Creek Traffic

(From The Paintsville Herald, July 28)

Monday was a long, hot, dusty day in Johnson County. Atmospheric temperatures approached 90 degrees.
On the Johns Creek Road, it was a very long, hot, dusty Monday and individual temperatures reached near boiling when Johnson County Judge James C. Witten closed the road to heavy traffic.
The gravel road serves several strip mines and related businesses in Johnson and Martin Counties (via Route 3) and is a principal outlet to Route 23.
With Route 302 into Powell Addition already closed for bridge repairs, the Johns Creek road was doing double duty with the result that a severe dust problem had developed. When Judge Witten closed the road to heavy traffic Monday, heavy trucks had the choice of finding other ways to Daniels Creek from Route 23 or not attempting the trip. Some found a third alternate, disregard the judge's order.
For those who chose the latter, there were problems. Department of Motor Transportation officer James Cantrell was ordered by Witten to stop all heavy trucks on the road Monday and weigh them. Citations were issued to trucks whose gross weight exceeded the road weight limit, 44,000 pounds.

An estimated 50 citations were issued, the majority going to coal truck drivers. "We didn't just pick on coal truck drivers," Cantrell said. "We issued citations to all overweight trucks."
Citations were given to gravel trucks, blacktop bearing rigs and heavy equipment movers as well as coal trucks.
Since the majority of the heavy truck traffic on Johns Creek road is west-bound, the portable scales were set up at the mouth of the road, where it intersects Route 23. In a short time, coal trucks were backed up the road as far as the eye could see.
Despite the judge's order and the delay for weighing, many truckers traveled the road regardless. One trucker received three separate citations during the day.
Threats by the trucks provoked Cantrell into asking for assistance and troopers with the Kentucky State Police said deputies with the Johnson County Sheriff's department were dispatched. Judge Witten also made a personal visit to view the problem.
By late afternoon most of the controversy had been resolved.
Judge Witten stated that his reason for closing the road was the health menace created by the dust.
"You can work on a muddy road easier than you can a dusty road," Witten said. "I traveled the road before I ordered it closed to heavy traffic and it was impossible to see anything if you got behind a big truck. The dust was everywhere."
"The Johns Creek road, per capita, is the most heavily traveled road in the county," Witten said, "and it needs continuous maintenance. Several weeks ago when we improved the road, we had the assurance it would be maintained by the users."
"When it became evident that the business that generated the heavy traffic would not maintain the road, we had to close it so we could make repairs," he added.
The Johns Creek road, according to estimates, is traveled daily by 500 trucks, the majority of which are coal trucks.
It is the constant daily use of the road by such a large number of heavy trucks that necessitates constant maintenance.
While the majority of the truck drivers were huddled in small groups discussing the turn of events Monday, Witten was meeting with affected coal operators. From the impromptu meeting Witten was told by the operators that the road would be watered every two hours to relieve the dust problem.
Meanwhile, county road crews were scheduled to grade the entire length of the road and put down gravel. With good weather, the road was expected to be ready for oiling in two days. The oil is expected to further reduce the dust.
While the work is being completed, Witten said, the operators have agreed to impose self restrictions on the road's use.
"The less traffic we have on the road, the faster we can work," Witten noted.
Witten said he was "particularly pleased" with the response to the problem by the coal operators.

said, "so we are going to have to have other revenue sources for road maintenance, especially heavy traffic roads."
Monday's action may have brought the daylight heavy truck traffic to a standstill but there were reportedly over 50 trucks that waited at the mine sites until darkness fell before venturing onto the road.
The citations issued Monday were all scheduled for appearance before Judge Witten this Thursday, July 29. A few of the truckers brought their citations in earlier and were receiving $25 fines, plus court costs, for being overweight.
One trucker who received three citations was fined $25 on the first, $50 on the second and $75 on the third, plus court costs on each citation.
Following Witten's meeting with the coal operators, the restricting order, banning the road to heavy traffic, was lifted.

"A lot of people don't understand that most coal operators, those who own the mines, don't have trucks running on the roads. Most of the coal trucking is done by private contractors, some large and some small. It is the truckers that create the dust problem, not the operators."
"Then, too, the Johns Creek road needs improvement. It is a major link to the mines in Martin County and is used by truckers from neighboring states and counties. What we're getting now is just a temporary solution. We will have to do more."
Judge Witten said that he intended to actively seek federal and state help in improving the Johns Creek road.
"We can't do it with local money," he
