

TWO HOMES ON TINKER FORK, near Teaberry, were put in "imminent danger" last week when mud, water and other debris came sliding down from the hill behind them.

Garrett Gains Ground As Bldg. Needs Eyed

The struggle over whether Garrett or Prestonsburg should have first claim on the new year's school construction money moved slightly in Garrett's favor last Wednesday, when the board of education decided on a 3-2 vote to petition state education authorities for a change in Floyd's current building priorities.

The vote means the state will be asked to designate a hearing officer to listen to the views of the board and the public on a proposal to delete construction of a Prestonsburg middle school as the county's first priority and replace it with construction of a school to serve the Garrett-Wayland area. Under the proposal, construction of a new Allen grade school and of a single high school to replace Wheelwright and McDowell high schools would remain the second and third priorities.

The change was proposed by Right Beaver board member James A. Duff and drew support from Ray "Shag" Campbell and Dr. Mary Hall. Board Chairman Dr. James D. Adams and Fred Newsome opposed the change petition.

Among several citizens who spoke in support of the proposed change were Rodney Moore and Bill Tussey, of Garrett, both of whom cited an engineer's estimate that, even were it not again flooded, Garrett's ancient school building may have a life expectancy of only four years. On the other side, Prestonsburg Elementary School Principal Thomas "Rube" Tackett, Chalmers Frazier and Mary McDonald expressed concern for the health of Prestonsburg students housed in the damp grade school basement, and Clark PTA President Rosalie Shepherd spoke of acute overcrowding at that school.

Formally adopted by the board was a program that will allow gifted high school juniors and seniors to earn up to 12 hours of college credit by taking advanced placement courses. A pilot program was initiated at Prestonsburg High School this year in cooperation with Prestonsburg Community College. Its adoption countywide depends on state approval.

Friday, Feb. 28 was designated an in-service day for teachers. The schools will be open to parents between 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. that day.

Approved by the board was an application for a state mini-grant by Wheelwright High School English and journalism teacher Carol Stumbo. Her proposal would involve students in recording an oral history of the Upper Left Beaver area as part of a course in Appalachian culture.

Hired by the board were: Tammy Jarrell, remediation teacher at Betsy Layne Elementary; Brenda Hamilton, teacher at McDowell Elementary; Georgia Layne, remediation teacher at McDowell; Kathryn Gore and Laura R. Hamilton, certified substitute teachers; Reka J. Wood, Phyllis Grace Scott, and Ramona Akers, emergency substitute teachers; and Mary Lou Horn, instructional teacher aide at Prestonsburg Elementary.

Castle Is Fined In Plea Bargain Ending of Case

Anthony Castle, indicted by a Floyd Circuit Court grand jury in December, 1984, on two felony counts of possessing a forged instrument and two of theft by deception entered a guilty plea to two misdemeanor counts under a bargain struck with prosecutors last week.

Castle, a Floyd sheriff's deputy, was accused of having two forged checks in his possession between June and August, 1982. He was not employed by the sheriff's department at that time. His mother, Alma Castle, who was accused of complicity in one of the charges, earlier pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of criminal facilitation.

On a recommendation of Assistant Attorney-General Thomas Wine, Pike Circuit Judge Will T. Scott gave Castle a probated 12-month sentence and ordered him to pay $5,500 in restitution to the county.

Sentencing for Mrs. Castle and for Harlos Marshall, who has also entered a guilty plea following his indictment on two counts of theft by deception, has been set for March 7. The charges against Marshall and the Castles stemmed from a state police investigation of the 1982 Floyd county administration.

Jury Votes Murder Bill In Auto Wreck Death

Basel Ray Moore, 27, of Frasure's Creek, near McDowell, was indicted for murder last week by a Floyd Circuit Court grand jury, which accused him of being drunk when he lost control of his car, killing a passenger on KY 122 last month. Timothy Dye, 22, drowned when the car landed upside down in Beaver Creek.

Lola Fields Johnson, 22, of the Goble-Roberts Addition, was indicted for criminal abuse for allegedly letting a 17-year-old youth beat her 26-month-old son, January 12. The juvenile was charged with criminal assault in the case.

Named on assault charges were Gene Johnson, accused of hitting Ronnie Vicars on the head with a pool cue; Darrell Eugene Puckett, accused of slamming a glass door against Sharon

Kay Hatfield; Willard Conn, accused of stabbing William Davidson in the back and Sherry Hurt, accused of driving into Fayette Johnson, injuring her knee.

Raymond and Greg Mullins are charged with wanton endangerment for allegedly shooting into a truck occupied by Berlin Johnson, Ronnie Johnson, and Darrell Bryant. Named on a similar count are Edward Wright, Jr. and Edward Wright III, accused of shooting into a residence occupied by Jimmy Stumbo, Rita Stumbo and Dickie Stumbo.

Terry McCutcheon is indicted for robbery, the grand jury alleging he held a knife to the back of Henry Mulkey and stole $2000 from the TCT Truck Stop. Indicted for burglary are Michael L. Burchett, for allegedly

Frank Newsome Wins Acquittal In Murder Trial

The wrong man was being tried for the June, 1983 shooting death of Ellis "Bo" Campbell on Spurlock Creek, said a defense attorney, who suggested that the man seen with Campbell in a gray Chevy Camaro shortly before his death may have been one of the accused man's brothers.

A Floyd Circuit Court jury apparently found the theory plausible. After less than two hours' deliberation Tuesday it found Frankie Newsome not guilty of murdering Campbell.

Newsome, 25, had been accused of shooting Campbell in the head, neck and stomach with a .22 caliber weapon and leaving him for dead in the Conley Fork road around 1:45 p.m. on June 15, 1983. Campbell died of his wounds five days later. He was 27.

A county grader operator, Kenny Stumbo, said he was preparing a cemetery road at the mouth of the hollow when Campbell and Newsome, who was at the wheel of his girlfriend Glenna Endicott's 1979 sports car, became hung up on a pile of dirt Stumbo had left in the roadway. Minutes after the pair got free and began to head out of the hollow, he heard a shot and later found Campbell lying in a pool of blood on the road, Stumbo said.

The same story was told by Roy Ousley, a Conley Fork resident, who

Tinker Fork Homes Endangered by Slide

A slide of mud, rock, water and other debris, reportedly from an abandoned mine, is threatening two homes on Tinker Fork, near Teaberry.

According to Mrs. Clarie Hamilton, whose home sits at the bottom of the damaged hill, the slide had been contained as of Tuesday, but she said workers who had done clean-up work there told her another slide might occur in the event of heavy rain or snow.

The problem began April 18 of last year, when a smaller slide occurred. At that time the abandoned mine site was owned by the D.K.T. Coal Co. of Pikeville.

Faber Praises Board, Citizens

Dr. Charles Faber, the UK consultant who culled five names from a list of 16 applicants—including "several" from this county—for superintendent of Floyd schools, had praise last week both for the Floyd board and for citizens who responded to his invitation for input into the choice. "I have to commend them very highly," the consultant said of the board, which he described as "courteous, respectful and professional in their relationship with me."

Citing the board's "willingness to accept my recommendations," Faber said, "They didn't start asking why I didn't include this one or that one. They operated in the best possible way."

He received more than 500 responses from Floyd citizens, including about 50 who wrote to him at length, Faber said. "It was far, far more than I had anticipated and I was very impressed by the caliber of the response," he said. "There were some very thoughtful and, in some cases, very heartfelt expressions of people's aspirations."

"It became clear, reading the letters, that it is necessary to avoid choosing a superintendent who would be

Board Choice Due March 5, Announcement

The choice of a new superintendent for Floyd schools moved a step closer last Wednesday when the Board of Education made a surprise announcement of the names of five top candidates submitted in executive session by a University of Kentucky consultant.

While two former Floyd candidates—one of them subsequently withdrew his name from consideration—were recommended by Dr. Charles Faber, head of the UK College of Education's administration and supervision department, no current Floyd residents made the cut, a fact that elicited protesting hoots from a small section of the large audience in the McDowell High School lunchroom.

Former Supt. E.P. Grigsby, Jr. and Acting Supt. Ray Brackett have figured prominently in speculation about who will be chosen to head Floyd schools, and some of these pressing to have a new Garrett school moved to the top of the district's building agenda have openly backed Grigsby for the superintendent's post. The fact that a candidate was not among Faber's five top-runners does not automatically exclude him or her from consideration, several board members have made clear.

At the head of Faber's list stood Dr. Robert S. Boggs, of Leitchfield, formerly of Garrett. A math teacher at McDowell High School from 1964 to 1970, Boggs was later superintendent of Morgan county schools and is currently head of the 4500-student Grayson county school district.

Although, when contacted by telephone during the executive session at Wednesday's board meeting, Boggs indicated he was interested in the position, Sharon Conley, his sister, said Friday that her brother had "absolutely" no wish to be considered for the job. Acting Supt. Brackett confirmed later that Boggs had withdrawn his name.

order eight cubic yards of concrete, valued at $327, for the porch and that a newly-purchased county backhoe was used on the job. Earlas Hall and Dolvin Ratliff also said Roberts had assigned them to help construct the porch.

Joe Martin, a neighbor of Mrs. Green's, testified that he knew Neeley and Hall and had spoken to them daily while the job was in progress. The prosecutor valued the county's contribution to the work at around $1096.

Roberts not only "made a mockery of Floyd county," said Whaley. "He made a rotten spot at the core of the words 'public trust.'"

The prosecutor had praise for government witnesses who, she said, "took a risk when they came in to testify against Kenneth Roberts." One of them, Ratliff, told state police his jeep and house trailer on Salt Lick were shot into by an unknown marksman on Monday night, hours before he was scheduled to testify in the case.

Damron characterized the government's case as "a scheme Chester Neeley came up with to get his boy out of the pen." Neeley's son, Cisco Neeley, is serving a 10-year prison term for manslaughter in the 1977 auto death of a woman near Hueysville and a five-year term for reckless homicide in the

Landlord Cites Health Club's Financial Ills

A health club that rents space from them is ailing and must vacate the premises, owners of a Prestonsburg commercial building claim in a suit filed this week in Floyd Circuit Court.

Larry D. Brown, general counsel for Brown Foodservice, Inc., contends in the suit that Novella Ford and Marvin Gibson, operators of the Fantasy World Health Spa, are $9146 in arrears on their rent. Moreover, the health club operators owe contractors $70,269 for renovation done on the premises and have subleased the space to Fantasy World II, a separate corporation, in violation of their lease agreement, plaintiffs claim.

Contractors who have filed mechanic's liens against the health club operators in the Floyd county clerk's office include Mullins and Son Plumbing, who say they are owed $1000; M and C and D Construction, $56,000; and F.S. Vanhoose & Co., which has filed claims for $5611 and $7658.

FLANKED BY HIS ATTORNEYS, Public Defender Patterson DeCamp, left, and Ned Pillersdorf, right, Frank Newsome, of Prestonsburg, appeared in court this week on a charge of murdering Ellis "Bo" Campbell in the summer of 1983. He was acquitted of the charge.

City Viewing Annexation As Revenue Sharing Ends

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta says she has a "controlled optimism" about the city's economic future after her return from a week of meetings in Washington, D.C.

She said Monday that the future for Prestonsburg lies in large part in a partnership between city government and the private sector. One major source of city funding, federal revenue sharing, scheduled to end in October, is likely to be gone for good, she added.

In its place, the city must find alternative sources to fund itself.

"In meeting with senators and congressmen, they said, 'Do not look for any reinstatement of revenue sharing,'" said the mayor. "We have been getting about $112,000 a year from that source."

Mrs. Latta said one way Prestonsburg might lessen its financial woes would be to broaden its tax base, without raising taxes.

"The annexation of the section north of Prestonsburg to the Auxier bridge will almost take up the slack, but we need to look at more revenue, more annexation."

While not yet official, the northern annexation is expected to generate around $92,000 in yearly revenue, after certain one-time, first year expenditures, such as a fire sub-station on U.S. 23.

Other annexation which the city may consider, the mayor said, is the section she refers to as the "outer loop," roughly the section bordered by, and including, U.S. 23 at Prestonsburg Village heading in the direction of Allen to the Lancer-Watergap road, and continuing down that road to the

Divorce In America Shown On "Frontline"

In a small courtroom on the fourth floor of the Family Court of Delaware no-fault divorces are granted every Thursday morning. By noon, 44 new divorces have been issued by the State of Delaware. In one year, the court will hand down nearly 5,000 divorce decrees. In Delaware, and throughout the nation, half of all marriages end in divorce.

"Divorce Wars," a "Frontline" with Judy Woodruff documentary to be aired on KET Thursday, February 27, at 9:00 p.m., focuses on Family Court, the arena where the devastating human drama of divorce is played out. The program takes a close look at the people who work there, the couples who come there, and the children who are too often caught in the middle.

"Frontline's" "Divorce Wars" tells the human stories behind these disturbing statistics: There are 1.2 million divorces in the U.S. each year; sixty percent of all children will spend part of their lives with only one parent; divorcing couples spend more than $3 billion a year in legal fees fighting over property, custody, child visitation and child support; while five years ago there were 700 attorneys specializing in divorce nationwide, now there are 11,000.

"The statistics about divorce and children are alarming," says "Frontline" producer David Fanning. "We believe this program identifies and grapples with a critical social issue in America, and we hope the program helps add to our national understanding of this tragic dilemma."

"Frontline" is produced by a consortium of public television stations: KCTS/Seattle; WGBH/Boston; WNET/New York; WPBT/Miami, and WTVS/Detroit.

Women Leaders of 3 Counties Join in Breast Cancer Plans

Pat Willis, RN, discusses with women leaders proposed breast center at HRMC.

Several presidents of women's organizations from Floyd, Johnson and Morgan counties met at Highlands Regional Medical Center to discuss mammography and the establishing of a breast screening and diagnostic center at HRMC. The center would include breast cancer education and counseling, support groups for cancer patients as well as mammography (the process of x-raying the breast to detect lumps).

The hospital's Pat Willis, RN and marketing representative, and Carol Blevins, public information officer, discussed the plan for establishing the breast center.

"We are very committed to the establishment of this facility," said Pat Willis. "We need a commitment from women in order to get the center up and running."

The club presidents also discussed methods to raise the funds to found the breast center. More than $90,000 is needed to set up the center, with $70,000 of that total for the purchase of a mammography machine. HRMC employees have already donated over $10,000 to the center.

"We're very excited about this project," said Carol Blevins. "To my knowledge, it's the first time a large fund-raiser like this has ever been attempted here. It will be a chance for women to unite on a project to benefit all area women."

Another meeting is being planned for the end of February to coordinate fund-raising activities.

Presidents of women's organizations who would like more information about this project should call Carol Blevins or Pat Willis at 789-6548 or 886-8511.

Absentee Voting Law

Kentucky's absentee voting law was enacted with the apparently high aim of making certain that illness, or enforced absence from one's voting precinct or debilitating age would not deny a legal voter the exercise of his or her suffrage.

But the absentee voting law has joined others that were enacted on high principle but have been abused and "adapted" to meet the desires of the unscrupulous till it is becoming more and more the weapon of what for lack of a better term is known as crooked politics. True, the aged, the sick and others who cannot appear in person at the polls for legitimate reasons are served by it, but its capacity for vote fraud has grown till it now stands as a symbol of election chicanery.

In some cases, it has been pointed out, absentee voting has been used by vote-buyers as a guarantee that the ballot that was bought is voted as the buyer desired. In some cases it has been found that voters who had not cared enough to go to the polls for two or three years had suddenly become so interested that they applied for and received an absentee ballot. The opportunities for fraud are many. The possibility exists that enough absentees could turn up on election night to cancel out the apparent will of the majority.

These are some of the reasons for our insistence that the General Assembly should without further delay set its mind to revising the absentee voting law, with the elimination of obvious loopholes in mind.

Publicity will cure most of the trouble with this law. Revision of the statute to require that the name and address of each person applying for an absentee ballot be published will put the brakes on those who would manipulate election results by large-scale voting of absentees.

The light of publicity, with neighbors, candidates, officials knowing who proposes to vote by absentee ballot, is a simple cure for what appears to be a baffling situation.

caught up in political entanglements. There were real pleas. "Get us somebody who will be above political factionalism," he said.

Faber acknowledged that the desire to avoid a politically divisive candidate was "one consideration" in his decision to nominate out-of-county candidates as the top runners but stressed that it was not uncommon for school districts to look beyond the county and even beyond the state for a superintendent. "I would hope that would not become a controversy," he said. "It is not an aspersion on Floyd county to choose a superintendent from outside the county."

Green Haywood Hackworth, who was born on Spurlock fork of Middle Creek near what is now Dock post office, Wednesday reached another milestone in a distinguished career with his appointment as one of the 15 judges of the International Court of Justice. The Floyd county board of education this week directed Superintendent of Schools Town Hall to advertise for bids on construction of a 10-room grade school and auditorium at Betsy Layne and a seven-room school building at Weeksbury. A total of $2,390.69 was spent in relief of victims of the recent flood disaster in Floyd county. Taylor Skeans, 48, of Middle Creek, died at Prestonsburg General Hospital, Wednesday night, two hours after he had been struck by a coal train on the Middle Creek railway. Application forms to be used by veterans in applying for immediate payment of their adjusted compensation certificates were received last week by officials of Floyd Post, American Legion, here. Bogey Shepherd, 21, of Salt Lick creek, is in serious condition at his home as the result of a bullet wound in his thigh suffered Sunday night when he accidentally discharged a pistol on which he was working. Definite action toward contracting for the construction of a new courthouse, or the enlargement and remodeling of the present building, was deferred by the fiscal court Saturday until Tuesday, when, it is announced, the court will make its final decision. Senator Joe P. Tackett, serving his first term in the General Assembly, has been appointed to the Rules Committee of the Senate. All highways in this section have been in a hazardous condition since the onset of bad weather just before Christmas. The home owned by the Richmond estate at the mouth of Brush Creek, near Bosco, was destroyed by fire Monday morning. Mrs. Sadie Price, of West Prestonsburg, fell on an icy walk and fractured her arm last Wednesday. present city limits at the Goble-Roberts addition.

Mrs. Latta emphasized that no action would be taken toward annexing that section until a cost analysis has been completed by City Administrator David Evans.

The city must also look for ways to operate more efficiently, with better long-range planning and closer ties to local business and industry, she said.

"The city can become more efficient with long-range planning and budget projections," she said. "By law we can budget for only one year, but the city Planning and Zoning Commission can do long-range predictions for us, so we'll know the types of building needs and other situations we might run into."

The mayor said the future was not all bleak. She said a proposed 5 percent state sales tax on gasoline would be helpful to cities, in that the money would be used for upkeep of roadways. She also said that, though such things would help, grants would still play a role in city funding.

"There will still be some grant money left," she said, "but it will be harder to get." She said that many people she talked with in Washington told her that if grants were to be approved, local business and industry would have to be willing to take an active role in projects needing funding.

"Many of them said that if the private sector wouldn't help, they wouldn't even look at the application," she said.

Though the purse strings may be a little tighter, Mrs. Latta said the city could probably look forward to a bright future.

"I think I came away from Washington with a controlled optimism," she said, "even with all the bad news. I think the people of Prestonsburg want things for their city. If they are willing to help, we can be successful."

Faber's other nominees, in order, are:

—Bill M. Stephan, of Columbus, Ohio, superintendent of the 1500-student West Jefferson (Ohio) school district.

—Dr. Gene C. Wright, of Lexington, formerly of Prestonsburg, Wright was principal at Prestonsburg High School from 1976 to 1979 and is now director of field services for the state Office of Education for Exceptional Children.

—Dr. Larry G. Stinson, superintendent of the 1341-student Breman (Indiana) school district.

—James F. Huggins, principal of Spencer County High School.

Interviews were scheduled with two of the four prospective candidates on Monday; the other two are to be interviewed on February 18. A schedule proposed by Faber anticipates that the selection of a superintendent will be announced at the March 5 board meeting and that the new school chief will take office on July 1.

Several citizens who addressed board members Wednesday urged them to make their own choice of superintendent and not feel limited to candidates recommended by Faber, whose own role in the selection process came only at the insistence of the state Board of Education. As a result of overreaction on the part of the state, said Burl Scott, of Hite, the Floyd board "has paid Faber big bucks to tell them something they already knew."

Board member Ray "Shag" Campbell said after the hearing that the board would "try" to pick a superintendent from one of Faber's nominees. "But we won't know until we've screened them whether we've got one that's right for the job," he said.

Campbell, a longtime ally of ex-Supt. Grigsby, acknowledged that he and board member James A. Duff traveled recently to Frankfort to gauge the reaction of state Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald to the idea of restoring Grigsby to the superintendency. Campbell would not comment on what transpired at the meeting except to say that McDonald agreed it was the local board's responsibility to choose a superintendent.

Campbell insisted, moreover, that he has not made a decision in the matter. "I'm absolutely not obligated to anyone," he said.

Jean Rosenberg, president of Floyd County Education Forum, Inc., the group that spearheaded a drive to involve citizens in the selection process, hailed the decision by the board to make public Faber's five candidates. "The professional consultant has sent a clear message that the problems of this county schools merit going beyond the county to select a superintendent," she said. "If the board chooses someone else (other than Faber's nominees), they will have to answer to the community as to why," she said.

The property was later sold to the Grundy, Va.-based Wellmore Coal Co.

After last week's slide, which residents said was "much worse" than last April, Wellmore was cited for violation of the same regulations as was D.K.T.

DSMRE files say the present slide "has created an imminent danger involving two residences," and the company has been ordered to "begin work immediately to prevent harm to the public and the environment." In both incidents the citations were issued by inspector Phillip Stone.

Mrs. Hamilton said Wellmore had sent a work crew to clean up the area Friday and had moved a good deal of the debris. She and her family moved out of their home briefly, but have since returned.

"We stayed last night," she said Tuesday, "but we're scared."

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Howell, whose house-trailer is the other residence threatened by the slide, have relocated temporarily.

1979 auto death of a man near the same place. On the day his father was testifying in Pikeville, the younger Neeley filed a motion in Floyd Circuit Court seeking to have his manslaughter conviction thrown out. Damron suggested that state police had agreed to help Chester Neeley get his son out of jail in return for statements that would bolster their case against Roberts and Green.

Arguing that the government's case turned on the credibility of its chief witness, the defense attorney charged that "his family are hoodlums and so is Chester Neeley." In a reference to Mrs. Green, Damron said, "He wants to get a killer out of the pen and put her in."

Both Neeley and Hall originally implicated Roberts in statements to police, later signed affidavits repudiating their original statements and, in court, repudiated their affidavits. Neeley testified that Roberts paid him $1500 and spread a load of red dog on his road in return for his affidavit, explaining, "I'd sign anything for a load of red dog." Hall said he did not know what was contained in the affidavit but signed it because Roberts asked him to. The changes in their testimony, Damron said, showed that the government witnesses were "certified liars."

Appearing for the defense, Henry Scott testified that he did the work on Mrs. Green's porch, for which he was paid $1400 in cash. The fact that Scott was recently rehired by Floyd Fiscal Court as a county detective—a position for which he was originally hired on a motion of Magistrate Roberts—is evidence of his "ability and character," Damron argued.

Prosecutor Whaley stressed that when Mrs. Green was first interviewed by state police she recalled only that "a contractor" had built her porch. "They hadn't found Henry Scott yet," said Whaley, who also underlined the fact that Scott had no records of his having done the work.

In her own defense, Mrs. Green said she had had a hard life but had never stolen from anyone. A twin sister to Roberts' wife, Ruth, she was formerly supervisor of the county park at Allen. She faces no other charges.

No date has been set for trial of the remaining 10 charges against Roberts but Pike Circuit Judge Will T. Scott indicated they could be heard as early as April, when the next criminal term is docketed in Pike Circuit Court.

In another suit, heirs of the late Willie Hale ask the court to declare null and void transactions by which the former constable turned over three tracts to his daughter and son-in-law, Dovie Hale Patrick and Ashland Patrick, of David, in return for their taking care of him in his last years.

One of the deeds was executed in August, 1983; the other two in February, 1985. Plaintiffs claim that Hale, who died intestate on Sept. 18 last year, was of unsound mind and was unduly influenced by his daughter and son-in-law when he signed over the properties.

Plaintiffs in the case are Hale's other four daughters—Addie Hall Moore, Eva Hale Chaffins, Carrie Hale Lones, and Rhonda Hale Sweeney—and two granddaughters—Glenna K. Shepherd and Shirley Shepherd.

Blasting done by DFM, Inc. at the company's Turkey Creek mine has damaged their house. Hays Branch residents Nora Martin, Thomas E. Martin, and Evelyn Martin claim in another suit. They seek unspecified damages.

(Claims made in filing lawsuits represent only the plaintiffs' versions of the issues in dispute.)

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Parley B. Flaney wishes to thank all those who provided comfort during our recent bereavement. We truly appreciate everyone who sent flowers, brought food, visited the funeral home, made phone calls or in any way assisted us through these trying times. With Open Meet Here

The 37th anniversary of Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) in Prestonsburg will be marked here Saturday evening by the Prestonsburg Central Group, the original AA unit in the Big Sandy valley.

The anniversary meeting will be open to the public, and a woman alcoholic will be the speaker. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at the Floyd County Library.

Originated in 1949 by the late Harold Black, who at that time was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here, the founding group has multiplied into 11 groups located elsewhere in this county and in Johnson, Magoffin and Pike counties.

After the death of the Rev. Black last June 14, AA members here subscribed $165 which was sent to AA's General Service Headquarters as a memorial to the minister whose work with Alcoholics Anonymous continued until his last illness. The memorial gift was accompanied by this statement:

"Rev. Black did not wish flowers at his death, hence we grateful alcoholics are sending $165 in his memory to General Service Headquarters to be used as you see fit to further the cause of the alcoholic who still suffers. We feel that this is a fitting tribute to a non-alcoholic who worked for AA for over 40 years."

was sharing a beer with Stumbo when he heard what he at first thought were firecrackers but which were apparently the shots that killed Campbell. Like Stumbo, Ousley picked the picture of Newsome out of a series of eight shown him by state Det. Kenneth DeBoard shortly after the shooting, and identified Newsome in court as the man who was riding with Campbell shortly before Campbell was shot.

Ousley's son Randy and another Conley Fork resident, Arnie Baisden, also selected a picture of Newsome from the police line-up when asked to identify the man they saw with Campbell in the gray Camaro.

Cross-examined by defense attorney Ned Pillersdorf, Roy Ousley admitted he was drunk on the day of the shooting and appeared unsure of whether, as the defense lawyer suggested, he already knew Frank Newsome was principal suspect in the case when he picked his picture out of the line-up. Pillersdorf also made a point of the fact that none of Newsome's five brothers was included in the police line-up.

The defense attorney argued that, in their original statements to police, Stumbo and Ousley identified Campbell's killer only as "one of the Newsomes." The identification of Frank Newsome began as a rumor and quickly hardened into a presumption, the attorney surmised.

Frank Newsome testified in fact that he had not been in the Camaro since around 10 a.m. the morning of Campbell's death and that he was not on Conley Fork that day. Instead, his brother Charles had borrowed the gray Camaro because his own car had broken down, he said.

Charles Newsome died in an auto wreck on February 16, 1984. He was described as a tall, lean man with sandy hair, a description fitting the person whom Deputy Sheriff Leonard "Lightning" Joseph said he saw at the wheel of a gray Camaro on the afternoon Campbell was shot, but at variance with the testimony of witnesses on Conley Fork, who said Campbell's companion had long, dark hair. Frank Newsome has dark hair.

In testimony yesterday (Tuesday) Frank Newsome said that, when he once asked his brother whether he was on Conley Fork the day of Campbell's death, Charles Newsome "just grinned."

Noting that a pathologist reported that the shots that killed Campbell had been fired from a distance of three feet or more, Pillersdorf raised a doubt as to whether they could have been fired from within an automobile. "This case is a mystery," Pillersdorf told the six-man six-woman jury. "There is a doubt as to who was driving that car. There is a doubt as to whether the person driving the car shot Bo Campbell."

But Prosecutor Kevin Horne described Campbell's death as "cold blooded, intentional murder... an execution." Horne, who is assistant county attorney for Fayette county, and Floyd County Attorney David Barber handled the prosecution at the request of the state Attorney-General, Floyd Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen declined to prosecute the case, explaining that one of the defendant's brothers works for one of his companies. Assisting Pillersdorf at the defense table was Patterson DeCamp, an attorney with the state Office of Public Advocacy.

Trial of Newsome had earlier been postponed three times, twice at the request of the Commonwealth, once at the request of the defense. If convicted, Newsome could have been sentenced to from 20 years to life in prison.

Opposes State Lottery

Our state legislature is currently considering a state operated lottery for Kentucky. I believe we need to take an informed Biblical stand on this important issue. The lottery is being described as a painless way of raising tax revenues. I believe this needs to be challenged.

I believe there are at least five good reasons we should oppose the state-operated lottery. (1) State-operated lotteries appeal dramatically to the poorest citizens of the state. The "numbers" or player selection lottery games generate the major portion of the revenue derived from state-operated lotteries. Its appeal is based on the illusory promise and the desperate hope of a big win. Daniel Bower is president and co-founder of Scientific Games, a corporation which specializes in lottery products and services. According to Bower, the "player selection" or numbers game attracts low income, minority players. The usual player is a laborer or service worker who is non-white, male, and has less than an eighth grade education. None of the lottery games has a strong appeal to middle-income and upper-income persons. Without a doubt, the most popular and lucrative lottery game is both targeted at and draws primarily from poor people. This was confirmed by the Fourth Annual Gambling Conference and International Gaming Congress in 1982. Conclusions included that the daily numbers game "primarily attracts poor, long-term unemployed and less educated people," and that low income lottery players wager a disproportionately high percentage of their income on the lottery. States with lotteries have been found to have eight times as many lottery outlets in the poorest neighborhoods as are found in upper-income neighborhoods.

(2) State-operated lotteries are a regressive and inefficient way to raise taxes. A form of taxation is regressive if it draws a larger percentage of its revenue from the poorer citizens than from middle and upper-class citizens. Such is clearly the case with the lottery. It was clearly demonstrated by the research done in connection with the Presidential Commission on the Review of the National Policy Toward Gambling. State-operated lotteries are among the most regressive forms of legalized gambling. Many other studies have found similar results. They are also highly inefficient when reviewed as methods of taxation. Between 60 and 75 percent of the gross income goes out in operating expenses and prizes. Other forms of state taxation, such as sales taxes, have an expense level of one or two percent of the total revenue generated for the state.

(3) States which seek to resolve their fiscal woes by legalizing gambling achieve minimal success. Once states begin turning to legalized gambling for a source of revenue, the temptation builds to fix other financial woes by legalizing additional forms of gambling. Even a leading proponent of legalized lotteries claims that lotteries can generate merely one to four percent of the state revenues in those states where they are legal.

(4) State-operated lotteries do not successfully eliminate or reduce illegal gambling. Legal lotteries do not compete very well with the illegal games.

(5) As a Christian, I must also state the Biblical view of the issue. It becomes a moral issue when the state decides to derive income from a highly regressive form of taxation that affects poor people more extensively than affluent people. The pro-gambling forces advocate a morality which essentially justifies the gambling (the means) by the revenue it produces (the end.) Some of God's most stinging judgements are upon those who oppress the poor and exploit others. Love, the central moral imperative of the Bible, is surely violated when personal pleasure and profit are gained at another's pain and loss. Biblical faith leaves no room for blind submission to fate or dependence upon chance. The main motive of gambling is materialistic gain, with little regard for moral and social consequences. It violates the biblical principle of stewardship with regard to property and its uses. Conscientious handling of one's resources preclude gambling. The Biblical view of work affords no room for the practice of gambling.

I believe Christians should take a stand against the state-operated lottery by writing their state representative and expressing their opinion.

Thanks for Support

On behalf of the Prestonsburg High School Marching Blackcat Band members, Susan Compton Newsome, band director, and the Prestonsburg Band Parents, Inc., I would like to express heartfelt thanks to those businesses and individuals who contributed so that the band could travel to the Prestonsburg-Newport Catholic football game last November 23.

Special thanks are extended to Carl Castle, Athletic Booster president, and Robert May, principal, for their efforts in soliciting the contributions to enable the band to make the trip to support the Blackcat football team in the state semi-final game.

Although the Blackcats came away from the game with the lesser score on the scoreboard, they were winners in the hearts and minds of all Prestonsburg fans.

Says HB 311 A Disgrace

I would like to acquaint your readers with a piece of 1986 legislation and a state disgrace. The legislation is House Bill 311 which deals with the elimination of spousal exemption to rape so that a woman who is either living apart from her husband or has filed for a divorce, legal separation or an emergency protective order may charge said husband with rape. The disgrace is a victim who can't file charges because she's been raped by her husband and because she lives in Kentucky.

There are those who argue that conjugal rape is a contradiction in terms. This argument may be explained by the ignorance or prejudice of the proponents but it cannot be rationally defended. Crimes do not exist or cease to exist solely on the basis of victim-perpetrator relationship. It is absurd to maintain that sexual assault by a neighbor constitutes rape while sexual assault by a spouse does not. Does physical assault automatically cease to be assault when committed by the victim's husband? Does murder automatically cease to be murder when committed by the victim's wife?

Rape is a sexual act of aggression, not an aggressive sexual act. The victim is degraded and traumatized regardless of her relationship to the attacker. Spousal exemption to rape is nothing more than a repugnant remnant of the age when wives and dray horses shared the same rights and frequently the same purpose. As long as it exists, the state is in a logically and legally untenable position; i.e. we cannot protect individual rights with one hand and dismiss them with the other, declare an act of violence criminal in one situation, someone's prerogative in another.

Like child abuse, spouse abuse, and incest, conjugal rape is an unpleasant but undeniable reality. Its existence is verified by the victims who appear in our emergency rooms, rape crises centers, spouse abuse shelters, and mental health clinics, but disappear in the eyes of the law. Let a local legislator know that you would like to see this blatantly unjust situation amended by passage of House Bill No. 311: 1-800-372-7181. Legislative Message Line.

Care for Jail Inmates

On January 28, 1986, I visited an inmate of the Floyd county jail. His name is Bill Spencer, resident and citizen of Floyd county. Mr. Spencer is accused of burglary in the second deg. ee.

On January 28 at 11 a.m. Mr. Spencer told me he had a serious ear infection. I consulted the turnkey, Mr. Emmet Johnson. He said that he had no control over who goes to hospital or doctor. I then went to Sheriff Henry C. Hale who said that was not his problem if those guys get themselves in those kinds of fix (meaning jail) then that is too bad. I then consulted County Attorney David Allen Barber who told me it was out of his jurisdiction.

Judge Harold Stumbo was not on the bench for three days that week because of bad weather. Finally, the next day, after talking to Jack Hyden, he issued a court order to take Mr. Spencer to the doctor.

Now what concerns me is who is responsible for the inmate medical care. Who takes them to and from hospital or doctor?

What if a person has a heart attack, seizures, appendicitis? Regardless of what a person is in jail for or whatever he is accused of, he is still a human being and still has his rights as an American citizen. I feel this is cruel and unusual punishment. That is in violation of federal law.

Area's Beauty Spoiled

I have lived in Floyd county for five years and during that time have heard a number of residents, including myself, complain about the terrible litter conditions of our county.

It has seemed a shame to me that an area with such wondrous natural beauty is treated so badly by its residents. In all of the places where I have lived, I have never seen so much trash and garbage thrown along the roads as I see here.

Until last Thursday, however, I never realized how little the county itself cares about its own beauty. On top of Abbott Mountain where I live, some county road workers were applying salt to an ice spot on the road. When they finished, they threw the salt bags, not on their trucks, but onto the road in the ditch. Now there are several large bags littering the highway, along with the usual beer cans, pop bottles and cans, food wrappings and the other usual litter.

If the county road workers can't take the time to pick up their own trash, perhaps it is naive to assume that anyone else living in Floyd county will do more. I still believe that it is a shame that people living here can't keep their trash in their homes or in cars until they can dispose of it carefully.

Tired of Board Critics

You have heard a lot of criticism of the Floyd County Board of Education. The people have asked me to say how they feel.

The people of Floyd county are sick and tired of reading in the newspapers and seeing on television some five percent of misguided out-of-state critics who moved into our area, run down our Board of Education. These critics are telling us we just aren't smart enough to know what we need in education. They think we don't know that in a democratic society that we vote for a Board member who will represent the wishes of the majority from their districts.

It makes me wonder just how we graduated so many successful educators, doctors, lawyers, businessmen and other professional people if our educational system is so poor.

These critics think we were just sitting with clasped hands waiting for them to save our educational system. The State Department of Education used these critics to further their own political ambitions. They soon learned they had a lot more problems than Floyd county did. They enforced laws for Floyd county that no other county in Eastern Kentucky has to abide by, in order to make Floyd county look bad in the public eye.

The people of Floyd county believe our Board members should choose our superintendent without any help from the State Department or the five percent of critics. Neither are really interested in Education. They want to control our system. If we cannot vote for a Board member to represent us, then why bother to vote in any election? Maybe we should just sit back and let the Governor select us a State Superintendent of Instruction as well as Board members through a high-priced consultant.

We feel that we have competent educators here who can do an excellent job. Our Board members have been told well of our wishes. The names the consultant gave us were either from another state or a member of the state Department of Education. This leaves Floyd county to think that the state Department of Education will be choosing our superintendent because they feel that our Board members will choose their employee rather than go with someone from out of state.

The Board members have been told of our wishes and we expect them to represent US when a new superintendent is selected.

Challenges Social Security

This is an open challenge to the Social Security Administration and the facts of Mr. Kelly's letter in your paper (January 29, Page 4, Section 1, "Disabled Workers Should Not Wait, Says Kelly"). I challenge any person of the Social Security Adm. or the whole system to a public forum about social security and its administration.

Be well aware that I have very important questions, not of my rights but all people who are the wage and credit earners as their rights are shown. Then so will mine, and I intend to show the people what social security really is. When the people's questions are answered, then the real facts will show the intent. There are many facts about disability the people do not know, and the federal government's intentions are not to make disability facts known to the people. As the disabled are denied this leaves money for the other funds that would be known as welfare's obligations but drawing dependents benefits through the back doors of credits earned by some one who may have been denied the very intent of the protections and plans—step-children who have living, working fathers, yet his children draw social security benefits from a stepfather's social security account number as his dependents. Is this some sort of alimony? And grandchildren who live with gramps, for many reasons are put on gramp's social security account number as dependents for benefits. Is this obligations of the welfare system? What are the laws of obligations, and if the children should be entitled to S.S. benefits would this be from the parents' S.S. account numbers? And what of the divorced widow—if she is entitled to any benefits should this be from the last and living ex-husband's account number, if any?

Now I ask what are the obligations of the laws. This would honor the marriage contract, and any children from the union and considering any children adopted by laws, any others are not obligations of laws.

I will set the forum up for the public, once my challenge is accepted. Times and dates will be advertised. Watch this paper and listen to your radios. I find it is my duty to show the people the ways to what social security is, as I know my limitations of my disabilities and have been denied. Due to the facts about how my claims have no respect, then I must consider how many millions of others are denied and of the future. I have had open heart surgery and disabled for many many years. My credibility is in my medical files. My intent is to help others. Maybe this will be for you.

Says Armstrong Refuses To Represent Rail Body

The Kentucky Railroad Commission has been named as a party defendant in a suit filed in the U.S. District Court in Frankfort, Ky. The suit which was filed by C & O Railroad seeks to enjoin the Kentucky Railroad Commission from enforcement of an order executed by the Commission in January, 1986 mandating that C & O reinstate approximately 25 employees who were terminated from their employment in December, 1985.

All employees dealt with safety functions in the course of their employment and the elimination of those employees effectively eliminated any safety program that might have been in existence before the employees were terminated. The Kentucky Railroad Commission was contacted by several members of the public and several public officials regarding the concern for lack of safety by C & O Railroad.

This Commission has entered an order which is directly concerned with the public's health, safety and welfare. After conducting two separate hearings on this matter the Commission took the only course of action that could possibly be taken. The order directed the Office of Attorney General to enforce and take whatever actions necessary for the implementation thereof. C & O Railroad filed suit in the U.S. District Court within five days naming the Kentucky Railroad Commission and the members of the commission individually as party defendants. The suit seeks an injunction against the Kentucky Railroad Commission and seeks to hold the members personally liable for the cost of such an action. "Mr. Armstrong has informed this commission that he refuses to represent this Commission in this most serious litigation or to implement the order of this commission in protecting the safety of the public." The office of Attorney General insisted in August, 1985 that this commission accept legal representation from their office and denied this commission the legal right to employ counsel of its own choosing.

We feel that the Mr. Armstrong is trying to use this commission to his own advantage. Right now we have been left out in the rain to defend ourselves in a very complicated lawsuit. The losers of this litigation will be the citizens and taxpayers of Kentucky. An injunction would be a severe blow to the safety program this Commission is seeking to establish. I don't understand what Mr. Armstrong has against protecting the public health and safety.

Instead of wasting taxpayers money on frivolous prosecutions such as the recent two-month trial of Frances Jones Mills, I fully believe that the office of Attorney General should direct the manpower and budgetary resources to protecting the safety of the citizens of Kentucky and representing the interest of this great state through advising and representing constitutional officers. I think the time has come for the public to question the priorities of the office of Attorney General to make certain that the manpower and taxpayer revenue provided to run that office is being used for the right purposes.

Asks Dog Warden

Now that our county has its million dollar plus windfall, received recently by our judge-executive, it would be a good time to hire a dog warden, before it is all spent for something less important. We have the dog pound, and it seems in 1984, a circuit court ordered that a warden be hired. As of now, this has not been done. Someone should be responsible for seeing this order is maintained.

Those in the city, and county also, should have their pets licensed, and given the required shots.

Let's get the strays off our streets and out of our garbage after it is set out to be picked up; also eliminate the droppings we so often find in our yards or lawns. If you have a pet, show it some respect and give it some care, lest you lose it.

Depression Hits Youngsters, Too

While her distraught parents stood by, an attractive teenager was diagnosed as suffering from sibling rivalry, then a hormonal imbalance, psychosis and finally manic-depression. For an agonized five-year period she was alternatively "hatefully verbal, morosely uncommunicative, physically violent and once again reclusive," her mother writes in the February Reader's Digest.

In fact, the young woman was found to be chronically depressed, a state induced by a chemical imbalance of the brain. These chemicals can be replaced through medication (tricyclic antidepressant tablets).

Depression usually happens to the middle-aged and elderly, but it can also be found in the young. Signals to be alert to include these:

- The child appears sad, worried and irritable.
- The child loses interest in activities that used to be fun.
- Too much or too little sleep.
- Self-reproach or inappropriate guilt.
- Overly aggressive behavior. (Up to 40 percent of children with severe depression have problems with aggressive behavior.)

Early diagnosis, The Digest notes, gives the best opportunity for effective treatment, which may involve antidepressant medicine and psychotherapy.

SCHOOL PROPERTY SALE

The Floyd County Board of Education will receive sealed bids until 7 o'clock, March 5, 1986 for the following property:

Subject property consists of approximately three-fourths acre located along Highway 194 and the right fork of Home Branch. The lot is level to rolling and five to ten feet below the grade of Highway 194. There is no zoning for subject property, but it has been used for an elementary school for the Floyd County School System.

Subject property is improved by two frame buildings and a metal trailer. Building number one contains approximately 876 square feet, has wood siding exterior and an asphalt shingle roof. The interior is one large room with two small baths, although there are no fixtures in the building. Interior walls are drywall with a hardwood floor. Other improvements include blackboard and some shelving. Condition of this building is considered to be poor as the roof has leaked, windows are broken, floors are buckled, and the building has been vandalized. Building number two contains approximately 786 square feet, has wood siding and a tin roof. Interior walls are paneled and the floors are hardwood. This building also is in poor condition as vandals have broken windows and torn up the interior in general. Building number three is a metal trailer containing approximately 248 square feet. The roof is asphalt rolled and the interior is vinyl floor and paneled walls.

The minimum acceptable bid is $14,800 (fourteen thousand eight hundred dollars).

The Floyd County Board of Education reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids.

USDA Announces Provisions Of New Conservation Program

Sign-up for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) will take place March 3 through March 14 at the Floyd County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office.

CRP, a provision of the Food Security Act of 1985, provides farmers an opportunity as well as an incentive to take highly erodible land that has been cropped at least two years during the 1981-1985 cropping season out of production for 10 years. Eligible land will be put into trees or permanent vegetative cover. According to Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block, "The Conservation Reserve is one of the most important provisions of the 1985 farm bill. The program will go a long way toward conserving America's eroding farmland well into the future."

Cropland must have been annually planted to produce an agricultural commodity other than orchards, vineyards, and ornamental planting and be in physical condition for continued crop production. All cropland classed VI and VII is eligible, regardless of the annual soil loss. However, cropland classed II, III and IV must have an annual soil loss rate in excess of three times the tolerance level for the particular soil. (Tolerance levels for soils vary from 2-5.)

Producers wishing to put land into CRP must provide a cropping history covering the 1981-1985 years at the time they come into the local ASCS office to sign up. If available, producers should also bring a conservation plan for their farm or any other material that may be helpful in determining eligibility. Set-aside or diverted acres under price support programs are not eligible for CRP. CRP acres will be over and above amounts needed to qualify for a price support program.

Block said producers must submit bids at the time of application for annual rental payments they would accept to enroll their land in CRP. Bid acceptance will be based on the rental rates per acre offered. Producers in one county will be bidding against producers in other counties. Rental payments, which will be made after October 1 each year the land is under contract. There is a $50,000 per person, per year limitation on rental payments. In addition to rental payments, there will be a 50-percent cost-sharing for establishing a permanent cover. There is no limit on the cost-shares a producer receives.

The local Soil Conservation Service (SCS) office as well as the local ASCS office will have more information before sign-up begins, Block said. He urged producers to contact these offices for further details on assistance in determining eligibility. The phone number for SCS is 886-3128; for ASCS the phone number is 886-2802.

Conservation District Schedules Meeting

The Floyd County Conservation District will meet Tuesday, February 18, at 2:15 p.m. in the District office at 105 Court Street. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Kentucky Easter Seals Now Ranked No. 1

In a state which often has the unenviable distinction of being last on a list, the officers and staff of the Kentucky Easter Seal Society were pleased to learn that the Kentucky affiliate of the National Easter Seal Society has the highest performance score of all affiliates, nationwide. Announcement was recently made by the National Easter Seal Society in Chicago that Kentucky was ranked No. 1 in a survey among all of the Easter Seal affiliates in the United States and Puerto Rico. The survey included such areas as program services, number of clients served, and fiscal management.

The Kentucky Easter Seal Society was established in 1923. Today the Society owns and operates seven accredited centers throughout the state. The centers in Louisville, Ashland and Covington are primarily speech and audiology centers accredited by the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA). The West Kentucky Easter Seal Center in Paducah is CARF accredited (Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities) for its vocational and early childhood development programs. In Lexington the Easter Seal Society owns and operates Cardinal Hill Hospital. It is the nation's only Easter Seal owned, inpatient, rehabilitation hospital. It is both CARF and ASHA accredited. Camp Green Shores and Camp Kysoc are residential camping facilities for the disabled. They are both accredited by the American Camping Association (ACA). In addition to these facilities, the Kentucky Easter Seal Society also offers an extensive recreation and socialization program for the severely disabled from its state office in Louisville.

In fiscal year 1984-85 the Kentucky Easter Seal Society served 16,029 disabled children and adults. This was accomplished with a fund raising cost of only 4.6% of the Society's income for that fiscal year. Every year the Kentucky Easter Seal Society has continued to serve more disabled children and adults than during each preceding year. In 1981, 12,755 Kentuckians received Easter Seal services. That number grew to 13,737 in 1982; 15,506 in 1983; 16,029 in 1984. In the fiscal year just completed, the Kentucky Easter Seal Society served 19,488 children and adults who are disabled by birth defects, traumatic accidents, and crippling diseases.

New Board of Regents For MSU Completed

Governor Martha Layne Collins last week announced additional appointments to Morehead State University's board of regents. She had earlier stated her intention to appoint former governors Louie B. Nunn and Edward "Ned" Breathitt to the board.

Governor Nunn will replace Harry LaViers, Jr. whose term runs through March, 1988. Governor Breathitt will fill the term of James M. Richardson whose term expires in June, 1990.

Other appointments are:
Justice J. Calvin Aker, replacing Robert M. Duncan, term ending March, 1987; William R. Seaton, replacing Eunice Caston, term ending March, 1990; Charles Wheeler, replacing Patricia Ann Burchett, term ending June, 1990; Barbara Curry replacing Lloyd Cassity, term expiring April, 1989; Dr. Alan M. Lansing, replacing Dr. Forest M. Skaggs, term ending March, 1988.

Justice Aker, of Somerset, has served seven years of an eight-year term as a Kentucky Supreme Court justice. William Seaton, Ashland, is vice chairman of the Board of Ashland Oil, Inc. Charles Wheeler, Ashland, is president of Wheeler and Williams Hardware Co. He served on the Morehead board of regents from 1969 to 1972.

Barbara Curry, Lexington, has been commissioner of the Department of Social Services of Lexington-Fayette Urban-County government for the past eight years. Dr. Alan Lansing, Louisville, is director of the Humana Heart Institute.

"The appointments I am announcing today make clear we are assuring a new beginning at Morehead State University," said Governor Collins. "All of us who care about the school and the community can look at the stature of these new members and be optimistic about the future."

"I have selected capable people who are interested in higher education generally and Morehead State University specifically," she added. "All of the new board members have expressed a strong commitment to helping Morehead achieve its role as a leader in Eastern Kentucky and throughout the state."

HOME OFFICE DEDUCTIONS (What Qualifies)

If you use your home for business or bring work home from the office, are you entitled to a tax deduction for "home office" expenses? The tax law is quite explicit about what home office expenses are deductible and who can deduct them.

Expenses are deductible only if you use a portion of your home exclusively and regularly as:

- (1) Your principal place of business for a given trade or business that you conduct, or
- (2) Your place of business where you meet or deal with customers, clients, or patients in the operation of your business. (Telephone contact is not enough to qualify.)

The law interprets "exclusively" in a very strict sense. You must use the business portion of your home only for business; any personal use of that portion of the home will disqualify any home office deduction. For example, a "home office" cannot double as a guest bedroom or a sewing room. Carrying on investment activities at home will not entitle you to a home office deduction unless you are considered a "trader" in investments.

Two exceptions to the exclusive use rule should be mentioned. One exception is for those who provide licensed day care in their homes. The other allows a deduction for expenses connected with inventory storage when the home is the sole location of a retail or wholesale sales business.

Home office expenses of an employee must satisfy the same exclusive and regular use tests and, in addition, the use of the home office must be for the convenience of the employer.

What expenses are deductible if you qualify? You may deduct prorated rent, insurance premiums, utility bills, repairs and maintenance, real estate taxes, and interest on your home mortgage, but not in excess of the gross income generated by your home office.

PCC Faculty Members Trained To Carry On Industry Project

Prestonsburg Community College faculty members, Hailu Bogale, chairman of the Physical Sciences Division, and Jarrett M. Woods, Jr., Mine Safety and Mine Management instructor, recently attended a seven-day training session in Elizabethtown sponsored jointly by AACJC and the University of Kentucky Community College System.

Their training there in the Transformation of American Industry Project is designed to give Prestonsburg Community College the capacity to provide Statistical Process Control (SPC) instruction for industry in the Big Sandy area.

SPC is a process developed by Dr. Edward Deming, an American who in the 1950's was invited by Japanese industrialists to teach them his system. The great success of Japanese production industries attests to the merit of Dr. Deming's philosophy: Statistical Process Control, when applied, is a constant monitoring system which allows preventative intervention in the production process before problems occur.

According to Bogale and Wood, in order for industries in Eastern Kentucky to continue to compete, it is mandatory that SPC be adopted. They stress that the implication for the coal industry which must compete in a world economy and with other energy fuels is of tremendous proportions.

The training for local industries will be made available through the Continuing Education/Community Services Program at Prestonsburg Community College.

Invite Comments On Plan For Exceptional Children

The Kentucky Department of Education is inviting comments on the proposed state plan for the Education of Exceptional Children for the 1987 fiscal year. The plan must be approved by the U.S. Department of Education before Kentucky schools are eligible to receive federal money for the education of exceptional children for the 1986-'87 school year.

The proposed plan documents Kentucky's methods of complying with P.L. 94-142, the federal law related to the education of exceptional children, and describes the state's educational programs for exceptional children. The one-year plan incorporates by reference the state plan for the 1984, 1985 and 1986 fiscal years and is unchanged from the previous year.

A revised three-year plan will be developed during 1986-87 for the period through 1990. Supt. of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said.

Those wishing to submit written comments on the 1987 plan should mail them to the Office of Education for Exceptional Children, Kentucky Department of Education, Eighth Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, by March 15. The comments will be reviewed and the plan will be revised as needed, based on them, McDonald said. Written responses to the comments will appear in the final copy of the plan, which will be submitted in final form to the U.S. Department of Education by April 1.

Mrs. Dolly Pettrey added that a letter of this kind should also be sent to Prestonsburg's new mayor, Mrs. Ann Latta, who has shown much interest in such a drive.

The Caring Professionals

With Help of Parents...
School Kids Build Log Cabins

Roland Jones, of the Prestonsburg Elementary School faculty, is one of a growing number of teachers who believe that many of the problems youngsters are having in school, as well as some of the problems schools are having with the youngsters, can be solved by getting the parents involved.

"Textbooks are fine, but we need more than textbooks," says Jones. He provided "something more" by sponsoring a family project in his eighth-grade social studies class. His objective was to get more parents involved, working with or spending more time with their children.

The project involved the building of miniature log cabins. All the materials were provided by participating students, with the help of their parents, who then worked with their youngsters in the building of the cabins.

"Some suggested that log kits could be bought and they would make a neater building, but I vetoed the idea," Mr. Jones said. As a consequence, the pupils' dads went with them to find and cut the miniature "logs," then worked with the children to put the pieces together to make a cabin.

The result? Of the 35 pupils in the class, 34 received 100 points each for their work. And the moms and dads of the 34 found a revived interest in the school and the learning process that involved their youngsters.

Weekly Fishing Report To Resume, March 17

Most Kentucky anglers are familiar with the weekly fishing report produced by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and widely distributed throughout the state for publication.

Compiled for telephone conversations, and radio dispatches from creel clerks and conservation officers in the field, the weekly fishing report originates from the central office of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources in Frankfort. The two-page weekly fishing report is distributed to the media from mid-March through October.

In 1986, the weekly fishing report will resume publication on Monday, March 17, with a slightly changed format and the addition of Paintsville Lake to the list of 17 other major impoundments (those with over 1,000 surface acres). The report will include water conditions, plus a regional rundown of the lakes which currently are offering the best fishing opportunities.

Since the fishing report is compiled on Mondays, it is a report on water conditions and angler activity during the preceding weekend and not a forecast of the fishing in the near future. Admittedly, the timing is of little help to the weekend angler, but it's no secret that during the summer months, the best fishing is usually during weekday mornings, afternoons and at night when lakes are less crowded.

There are two main reasons why the weekly fishing report is compiled on Mondays, rather than later in the week. First of all, and probably most important, the information must be ready on Monday mornings because that's when the department-produced "Kentucky Afield" television show is taped at the Kentucky Educational Television (KET) studios in Lexington.

The fishing report has been a long standing feature on the 30-minute "Kentucky Afield" television program which airs on more than 25 stations statewide broadcasting KET programming. When and if "Kentucky Afield" is ever taped on a different day of the week, then perhaps the day of the week that the fishing report is issued will change too.

The second reason the report is issued on Mondays is that more people fish on the weekends, so creel clerks and conservation officers have a better opportunity to talk with as many anglers as possible and ascertain fishing patterns, the lures or bait most often used, and which species are "biting" best.

As any veteran angler knows, fishing conditions can change rapidly, and the weekly fishing report doesn't always reflect these changes due to time and space limitations. It is a subjective overview at best that only provides clues to what's happening. The weekly fishing report isn't meant to raise or lower angler expectations, it is simply a report on what the office or creel clerk observed personally or was able to garner from conversations with trusted, reliable sources.

Above all, the department strives to make the weekly fishing report as informative as possible. Your suggestions and comments are welcomed. Correspondence should be addressed in care of: Weekly Fishing Report, Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, No. 1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Valentine Spectacular To Follow Game

A Valentine "spectacular" will be held at the Irene Cole Baptist Church, Friday evening following the Blackcat basketball game here. On Thursday morning, at 8:30, women of the church who are interested in exercise classes to be offered at the annex are asked to meet for breakfast at Hardee's Restaurant, at 8:30 a.m. Mesdames Joy Shepherd and Carolyn Polk may be contacted regarding further information about these classes.

Bobcats Topple Tigers, 50-49

In a come-from-behind effort, the Betsy Layne Bobcats squeaked by the Paintsville Tigers last Tuesday night, winning by one point when D. Mitchell zeroed in with a 10-foot jumpshot with only 18 seconds left to go in the game.

The Tigers, leading at the end of the first three quarters, went into the fourth, 47 to the Bobcats' 38. At this point, they were stopped cold, scoring only two points to the Bobcats 12, and the game ended with another Betsy Layne victory, 50 to 49.

The Bobcats are 18-3 for the season, and Paintsville is 17-3.

Rebels Take Pikeville In Three Overtimes

It may not make the Guinness Book of Records, but three overtimes is pretty unusual in these parts. That's what had Allen Central and Pikeville fans gnashing their teeth and reaching for the smelling salts last Tuesday night, as one overtime led to another and another.

The fourth quarter ended in a 58-point tie, and only after three attempts was the Gordian knot untangled for a 73-70 victory for the Allen Central Rebels.

Brian Blanton Qualifies For Big 3 Bowling

By OSCAR RICE

Brian Blanton, of Paintsville, won the first 1986 qualifier for channel 3 Huntington's Big 3 Bowling Show, at Big Sandy Lanes, Paintsville.

Brian showed why his nickname "Ice Man" applies, as he threw a qualifying 601 series, and then dispatched first, Oscar Rice, 246 to 158; Larry Caudill, 223 to 136; Jesse Mayhan, 234 to 204; Tommy Cole, 204 to 181; and in the championship match, Charlie Wells, 181 to 136.

The "Ice Man" put the thaw on everyone as he averaged 211 for the eight games on Sunday.

This was the second year of disappointment for former Floyd couthian Tommy Cole who was Big Sandy Channel 3 champion in 1984; although another qualifier will be held later this month, Brian "Ice" Blanton will be on television, representing Big Sandy Lanes, February 16, on Host Bob Bowen's Big 3 Championship Bowling.

Academy Meet Held at Pikeville

Pikeville College recently hosted the fifth of ten meets scheduled by the Eastern Kentucky Academic Conference for the 1985-'86 school year. This organization (EKAC) is set up along the same lines as athletic competition: utilizing a commissioner, individual conferences, and a tournament at the end of each academic season (one school year).

The meet held at Pikeville College involved students from Pikeville, Belfry, John Creek, Feds Creek, Elkhorn City, and Virgie high schools from Pike county; Wheelwright, McDowell and Prestonsburg high schools from Floyd county and Sheldon Clark High School from Martin county.

Each meet involves written testing and 'quick recall' sessions in math, social studies, science, and humanities; with additional quick recall questions on current events and general knowledge. Over 10,000 questions will be used during the course of the 1985-'86 season, according to EKAC Commissioner Lane Tackett. These questions are prepared by a firm in Lexington and are used exclusively by the Eastern Kentucky Academic Conference. Other conferences across the state of Kentucky use questions prepared specifically for them.

Students are organized into teams, with three people per squad in written sessions, and four 'starters' and four alternates for the 'quick recall' sections. These students are coached by sponsors chosen at each school by the principal. Sponsors for the EKAC are Ann Keen, Pikeville; Diane Crawford, Belfry; Karen Burke, Elkhorn City; Gene Bottom, Feds Creek; Shalimar LaBreche, Johns Creek; Pam Smith, Virgie; Willie Elliott, McDowell; Carol Stumbo, Wheelwright; Nell Lawson, Prestonsburg; Frank Baldrige, Sheldon Clark.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Billy R. Whitt who departed this life on Feb. 25, 1982, of a massive heart attack:

We all miss you very much. Your presence is felt daily in all that we do. When remembering the good and the bad times the family had together, it is difficult to believe that you're not here to enjoy as we all did then. Your smile and your way of making things easier for all of us is something that we all miss very much. But someday we all will be together again as family and with friends also.

We all love you very much and always will.

WHAT DO I TELL MY CHILD WHEN SOMEONE DIES?

If news of a death seems to overwhelm you personally, "lean" on another supportive adult first. Then, approach your child. Get him in close physical contact and share your love, your sadness, and the news. You might say something like this:

"Billy, I feel sad about something that has happened. Your cousin Fred died. That means he's gone and you won't see him again. No one will see him again."

By expressing your feelings calmly and giving calm support to his expression of feelings, you show him that he can deal with these feelings in himself.

Don't be upset at his expressions of sadness. Children will often turn off their feelings rather than upset their parents.

The fact is that children grow as a result of experiencing "difficult" feelings with their parents' support. But in dealing with such feelings, be sure your support and love are clearly expressed.

Woodford county's 3.8 percent jobless rate was the lowest in the state.

Both Fayette and Jessamine counties reported a 4.7 percent rate, the second-lowest figure. Menifee county's 30.4 percent rate was the highest. Butler and Carter counties each reported a 25.8 percent rate, the second-highest.

The state's unemployed in December totaled an estimated 177,900, up 5,400 from the November figure of 172,500 and 16,100 more in December 1984, when 161,800 were out of work and the state rate was 9.3 percent.

An estimated 1,525,800 Kentuckians were working in December, down 18,000 from the November figure of 1,543,800 and 50,100 below the December 1984 report of 1,575,900.

The greatest number of jobs lost were in agriculture, where employment dropped by 14,800. A seasonal decline also occurred in the construction industry, which reported 700 fewer jobs. The number of Kentuckians working in service jobs declined by 800. And a loss of 800 jobs was reported in state and local education, largely because college students working on campus left their jobs at the close of the semester.

The number of bituminous coal mining jobs declined by 700, and 100 jobs were lost in transportation, communications and utilities.

In the Big Sandy district the jobless rate rose from a revised 12.6 percent in November to a preliminary 13.1 percent in December. All five counties reported rates above 10.0 percent, ranging from 10.3 percent in Martin county to 17.3 percent in Johnson county. The last time Martin county reported a double-digit unemployment rate was October 1983, when it also was 10.3 percent. Floyd county had a 12.6 percent rate of unemployment during December.

The monthly sample of claimants of unemployment insurance benefits showed 50.5 percent had worked in mining, 15.0 percent in trade and 10.6 percent in services.

In the Kentucky River district the unemployment rate rose from a revised 14.8 percent in November to a preliminary 15.1 percent in December. All counties reported double-digit rates ranging from 10.9 percent in Breathitt county to 20.5 percent in Lee county.

The monthly sample of claimants of unemployment insurance benefits showed 43.0 percent had worked in mining, 13.6 percent in manufacturing, 13.2 percent in trade and 10.9 percent in construction.

State Jobless Shows Increase

Seventy-seven Kentucky counties reported higher jobless rates in December than in November, according to figures released by the Cabinet for Human Resources. In 37 counties the rates declined between November and December, and in six they were unchanged.

There were 87 counties reporting unemployment rates of 10.0 percent or higher in December, compared to 77 in November and 76 in December 1984.

In 92 counties jobless rates were higher in December than they were a year earlier, while in 27 they were lower. One county reported the same rate in December 1985 as in December 1984.

Higher unemployment rates on the local level reflected the statewide increase from a revised 10.1 percent in November to a preliminary 10.4 percent in December. Nationally the 6.7 percent rate reported in November was unchanged in December. The comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

"While trade jobs increased to a record level and the number of manufacturing jobs grew, the seasonal loss of almost 15,000 jobs in agriculture was felt across Kentucky," said state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell. "Because agricultural jobs are seasonal, we expect them to increase in the spring, bringing an overall improvement to the state's employment picture."

Woodford county's 3.8 percent jobless rate was the lowest in the state. Both Fayette and Jessamine counties reported a 4.7 percent rate, the second-lowest figure. Menifee county's 30.4 percent rate was the highest. Butler and Carter counties each reported a 25.8 percent rate, the second-highest.

Farm Aid highlights on HBO

By Amanda Bruce

Musicians have always used their talent to help further worthwhile causes, but 1985 stands out as a banner year for the benefit.

Willie Nelson

First there was the all-star recording of "We Are the World," aiding famine victims in Africa. That evolved into Live Aid, two concerts presented simultaneously on both sides of the Atlantic. Then, though it received far less exposure and publicity, there was Farm Aid, a 14-hour benefit concert held in Memorial Stadium in Champaign, Ill., last September to publicize the plight of the American farmer.

HBO delivers just a wisp of the Farm Aid performances in a 55-minute special, "The Best of Farm Aid: An American Event," airing Feb. 17 and 20. Country legends such as Loretta Lynn play beside folk heroes such as Bob Dylan and Arlo Guthrie. And in between, there are musical talents like Kenny Rogers, Billy Joel, Neil Young, John Cougar Mellancamp, Kris Kristofferson, Alabama, Johnny Cash, George Jones and Willie Nelson, who organized the performance.

Some of the songs you can look forward to hearing are: "On the Road Again" by Nelson, "Me and Bobbie McGee" by Kristofferson, "Islands in the Stream" by Rogers and "Only the Good Die Young" by Joel.

Don't think the benefit trend is easing up now that 1986 is here. "Comic Relief," a live performance to help America's homeless people, will attempt to raise money through laughter next month when Billy Crystal, Whoopi Goldberg and Robin Williams host a benefit in Los Angeles that will be aired simultaneously on HBO March 29. The Arts & Entertainment Network is profiling a special group of people in its 10-part series "The Italians." Part III, entitled "The Roman Actress," airs Feb. 19 and gives viewers a slice-of-life view of a working but struggling actress in Rome.

Mirella D'Angelo, a beautiful and intelligent woman, has been modeling and acting since she was 17, but now, 10 years later, with only 30 feature films being made each year in Italy, she finds fewer and fewer offers for work. Each episode of this series offers a portrait of an Italian citizen, from an umbrella renter at a resort beach to the mayor of Montemilone.

DOWN AND OUT IN BEVERLY HILLS (R-Buena Vista) Starring Nick Nolte, Bette Midler, Richard Dreyfuss. ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Jerry Baskin is a bum — a homeless drifter living for his next free meal, for another open bottle passed in a plain brown bag, and for a night's sleep on a local park bench. To his credit, however, he is smart enough to center his activities around posh Beverly Hills, which boasts swimming pools, movie stars and a quality of garbage unequalled anywhere in the world.

Yet when someone inadvertently steals Jerry's dog, he feels he's hit rock bottom and decides to hurl himself to the bottom of one of those swimming pools. His choice of pools, however, is unfortunate. It's the pool at the home of Dave and Barbara Whiteman. The Whiteman family is a walking tribute to all the pitfalls that money can bring.

The husband is sleeping with the maid, the wife brings her own private Guru to dinner, the daughter is anorexic and the son androgynous. Of course, there's also a whole list of minor characters indigenous only to Beverly Hills, such as the dog psychologist and a gardener with a condo in Hawaii.

In "Beverly Hills Cop," Eddie Murphy was an outsider looking in on a totally different world. But in "Down and Out in Beverly Hills," director Paul Mazursky and co-screenwriter Leon Capetanos work from the inside out, poking fun at the foibles and follies in this fertile land of fruits and nuts. The "lifestyles of the rich and famous" meet those of the poor, and each learns a little from the other. Members of the wealthy Whiteman family lose their self-imposed neurotic airs, and Jerry Baskin learns that it's better to eat from a gold-rimmed plate than a torn bag from the garbage can.

Nick Nolte, as the bum, could use lessons in realism from some winos in the lower East Side of New York, but, after all, this is a comedy. As for the Whitemans, Richard Dreyfuss and Bette Midler are equally exaggerated as the trendy couple lost in the daze of the dollar.

This wry look at the American dream combines laughter with subtle if simplistic sociology, all made enjoyable by a fine script and even finer performances.

Senior Citizens To Help Law-Enforcement in Ky.

What could be a new concept in law enforcement is on its way to Kentucky. It involves the use of citizen-volunteers, particularly senior citizens, acting in support roles to law enforcement agencies.

A pilot project to train law enforcement agencies in the effective use of the citizen-volunteer will be held in Ashland, Jan. 29, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Quality Inn-Ashland Plaza. Representatives of law enforcement agencies in 28 counties in Eastern Kentucky have been invited to the briefing session in Ashland and will learn the following:

Kentucky is the second state in the nation to try this new concept of organized training of citizens and police agencies on a statewide basis.

Most important to Kentucky and to local administrations, the program will not cost the taxpayers any money.

The American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) has given Kentucky what amounts to an open-ended or on-going grant. The AARP will pick up the bill for training the police agencies and the volunteers through the program, "Volunteer Augmentation of Law Enforcement Agencies" or VALEA.

VALEA is being brought to Kentucky by the Kentucky Crime Prevention Association and is co-sponsored by the Kentucky Association of Chiefs of Police and the Cabinet for Human Resources, Division of Aging and Office of Volunteer Services.

VFW Service Officer To Be Here, Feb. 14

R.L. Mayhew, state service officer for Kentucky's Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be here Friday, Feb. 14, at the VFW Post No. 5839 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., or as long as there are veterans or their dependents who require his assistance in filing a claim.

His services are free of charge and are available to all eligible Veterans and their dependents, without regard to their membership or affiliation with any veterans organization. Members of Post 5839 will be on hand to assist Mr. Mayhew in processing the claims presented and to provide future assistance when required.

LAYNE BUILDING TO HOUSE SHOW

Many Improvements are Planned By Court Theatre Owner

Announcement was made Thursday morning by Joe Ward, owner of the Court Theatre here, that the show would be moved into the Layne Building when that structure is completed.

Mr. Ward plans to make of the theatre one of the most modern in the Big Sandy Valley. The part of the building which the theatre will occupy is 72 feet long by 26 feet in width and will seat 275 persons.

Many improvements will be added to the present equipment of the theatre, Mr. Ward announces. A new type of ground glass screen will be furnished, and the most satisfactory type of projection available will be used, with two new motor-driven picture machines installed. Furnishings and furniture will be modern throughout.

Comfort of theatre-goers will be assured here with the installation of the new-type blizzard ventilating system, by which the air in the building will be changed every two minutes.

Mr. Ward, who has hitherto given the public a satisfactory program of pictures, plans to improve the quality of his picture-offerings, which, with the latest type projection, will afford movie fans here entertainment equal to the best in the Big Sandy valley.

CIRCUIT COURT TERM ADJOURNS

To Re-convene November 28; Grand Jury In Session

Floyd circuit court convened Monday morning, Judge W. W. Williams presiding, to adjourn the same day after the grand jury had been empaneled and the petit juries formed and recognized for duty at the special criminal term of the court, which convenes November 28.

The civil term of circuit court will convene October 3. Judge Williams gave as his reasons for adjourning court Monday that the pending contest suit between C. P. Stephens and O. C. Hall would be of uncertain duration and would occupy Mr. Stephens' attention so as to preclude his appearing as Commonwealth's Attorney. The grand jury remains in session.

Perry Hamilton is acting as grand jury reporter as the result of Judge Williams' order that a reporter be procured, so that evidence given before the grand jury could be held until the case was heard in court.

Names of grand jurors follow: Taulbee Harmon, foreman, Luther Frazier, Dock Meadows, Jeff Jarrell, T. J. Bentley, R. W. Harris, Wash Miller, Jr., J. C. Coburn, Frank Short, Maryland Maggard, George Meade and David Hicks.

Petit jurors who will serve at the special November term are:

Jury No. 1—Steve Whitaker, Jeff Crider, David Perry, Norman Holbrook, Ed Pelfry, Alex Hackworth, George Burchett, Sr., Jeff Brown, Albert Akers, Pete Burchett, Clint Leslie, A. O. Burchett.

Jury No. 2—Jim Clevenger, H. C. Stephens, Hoot Shepherd, Jonce Osborn, Lee Porter, Will Johnson, Bill Merritt, Coon Derossett, John Marshall, Lee Robinson, W. S. Clark, Isaac Stratton.

Jury No. 3—Jim Banks, Malcolm Kendrick, John Hughes, Lewis Wells, Zack Baldrige, Smith Hicks, Coon Puckett, Dick Garrett, Alex Banks, Jeff Short, Tivis Neeley, Will Roberts.

Miscellaneous Shower Charming Social Event

Entertaining last Thursday evening with a miscellaneous shower, Mrs. Walter S. Harkins, with her joint hostesses, Mrs. P. A. Hopkins and Mrs. Will H. Layne, of this place, and Mrs. Iley B. Browning, of Ashland, contributed one of the loveliest of the season's social functions in Prestonsburg.

The charming affair, which was given at the beautiful Harkins home on Second street, highly honored Miss Sallye Gatewood Ligon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Y. Ligon, bride-to-be of Mr. John Randolph Clarke, of Charleston, W. Va., whose marriage will be consummated Saturday, September 10.

Forming a perfect setting for the event was the home of Mrs. Harkins, which was abloom with flowers of the season, an abundance of sweet peas, roses and gladioli being used.

The guests filled the home to overflowing which attests to the popularity of the attractive bride-to-be, who is one of Prestonsburg's most charming young ladies. Those attending were hospitably received at the door by little Misses Peggy Wells and Mildred Bell, delivering many and useful gifts to Miss Mae Beam, who placed them in a large basket to be presented to the honor guest.

The bride-to-be received with her hostesses, and appeared quite charming in a very handsome imported gown of two-tone tan and brown. Later, she was led to an attractively decorated table directly under a large white wedding bell, where she opened and admired her gifts in a most appreciative manner.

The dining room presented a gorgeous scene of real beauty, as it was artistically done in pink rosebuds and white lilies. A large center-piece was made of these flowers for the table, while pink tapers lent an exquisite yellow touch to the entire scene.

Following the opening of the gifts, the hostesses served a most appetizing menu to the one hundred and fifteen guests included in this pretty affair. Those assisting in the dining room were Mrs. J. C. Hopkins, Mrs. Iley B. Browning, Mrs. J. D. Harkins, Mrs. Frank H. Layne, Misses Angelina Layne, Anna Mae Hatcher, Nell Allen, Mary Nunnery, and Florence Stephens. These from out-of-town included or present were: Mrs. Iley B. Browning, Mrs. Eell H. Yates and daughter, of Ashland, Ky.; Mrs. E. H. Sowards, of Pikeville, Ky.; Mrs. Stephen Pieratt, of Mt. Sterling; Mrs. B. P. Friend, of Charleston, W. Va.; Mrs. Carl Colcord, of Montcoal, W. Va.; Mrs. C. L. Huttsimpiler, of Ashland; Mrs. John Hensley, of Henderson, Texas; Miss Lillian Kendall, of Mt. Sterling, and Miss Elizabeth Gardner, of Salyersville.

CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY
REPORT ON EXAMINATION OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS AND SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION
for the year ended June 30, 1985

Honorable Ann Latta, Mayor and the City Council
City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky

We have examined the combined financial statements of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, as of and for the year ended June 30, 1985, as listed in the table of contents. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and, accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

As described more fully in Note 2, the combined financial statements referred to above do not include financial statements of the Prestonsburg City Utilities Commission and the Prestonsburg Park Board which should be included to conform with generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, except that the omission of the financial statements described above results in an incomplete presentation, as explained in the preceding paragraph, the combined financial statements referred to above present fairly the financial position of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, at June 30, 1985, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year, except for the change, with which we concur, in the method of accounting as described in Note 3 to the financial statements.

Our examination was made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the combined financial statements taken as a whole. The combining financial statements and schedules listed in the table of contents are presented for purposes of additional analysis and are not a required part of the combined financial statements of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky. The information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the examination of the combined financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the combined financial statements taken as a whole.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
for the year ended June 30, 1985

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

The accounting policies of the City of Prestonsburg conform to generally accepted accounting principles applicable to governmental units. The following is a summary of the more significant accounting policies.

A. Fund Accounting

The accounts of the City are organized on the basis of funds or account groups each of which is considered to be a separate fiscal and accounting entity. Each fund is accounted for by providing a separate set of self-balancing accounts that is comprised of its assets, liabilities, reserves, fund equity, revenues and expenditures or expenses as appropriate.

Governmental Fund Types are those through which most governmental functions are financed. The governmental fund measurement focus is upon determination of financial position and budgetary control over revenues and expenditures.

The following funds are used by the City of Prestonsburg:

Governmental Fund Types

General Fund - The general operating fund of the City is used to account for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund.

Revenue Sharing Fund - A special revenue fund used to account for revenues received from the U.S. Treasury under the federal revenue sharing program.

Special Assessment Funds - Mays Branch Sewer Project Fund and Street and Sidewalk Project Funds are used to account for special assessment taxes levied against benefited property owners for retirement of debt issued to finance the projects.

B. Basis of Accounting

Basis of Accounting refers to when revenues and expenditures or expenses are recognized in the accounts and reported in the financial statements. Basis of accounting relates to the timing of the measurements made, regardless of the measurement focus applied.

All governmental funds are accounted for using the modified accrual basis of accounting. Under the modified accrual basis of accounting, revenues are recognized when they become measurable and available. Expenditures are generally recognized under the modified accrual basis of accounting when the related fund liability is incurred. Exceptions of this general rule include principal and interest on general long-term debt which is recognized when due.

C. Budgeting

The City follows the procedures established pursuant to Section 91A.030 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes in establishing the budgetary data reflected in the financial statements. Budgets for all funds are adopted on a basis consistent with generally accepted accounting principles.

Budgeted amounts in the financial statements are as adopted by ordinance of the City.

D. Other Accounting Policies

Investments are stated at cost.

General fixed assets purchases are recorded as expenditures in the general fund and revenue sharing fund at the time of purchase. Such assets are capitalized at cost in the general fixed asset group of accounts except for certain improvements including roads, bridges, curbs and gutters, and drainage systems.

No depreciation has been provided on general fixed assets.

Deferred revenues represents grant revenues received but unearned. Revenues are recognized when eligible expenditures are incurred.

Total columns on the combined statements are captioned Memorandum Only to indicate that they are presented only to facilitate financial analysis. Data in these columns do not present financial position, results of operations, or changes in financial position in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Neither is such data comparable to a consolidation. Interfund eliminations have not been made in the aggregation of this data.

2. The Reporting Entity

The combined financial statements of the City of Prestonsburg do not include the Prestonsburg City Utilities Commission, which is administered by a separate commission appointed by the City and is operated on a fiscal year ending October 31.

The combined financial statements do not include the financial statements of the Prestonsburg Park Board which was organized by the City pursuant to KRS 97.550 for the purpose of properly supervising and controlling the City's park and recreational program. The Prestonsburg Park Board's financial statements were audited and a separate report thereon dated January 14, 1986 has been issued.

3. Accounting Change

Previously reported fund balance at June 30, 1984 of the General Fund has been restated for accrual of accrued vacation leave pay to conform to generally accepted accounting principles.

Table showing Fund balance (deficit) - June 30, 1984 as previously reported: $ (33,467). Record accrued vacation leave pay: (5,168). Fund balance (deficit) as restated - June 30, 1984: $ (38,635).

4. Changes in General Fixed Assets

A summary of changes in general fixed assets as follows:

Table with columns: Balance July 1, 1984, Additions, Deletions, Balance June 30, 1985. Rows include Land, Buildings, Streets and sidewalks, Vehicles and equipment.

5. General Long-Term Debt

The City entered into long-term indebtedness in the form of a note payable to United Federal Savings & Loan Association for $50,000, accruing interest at fourteen (14) percent per annum, for the purpose of construction of a parking lot. The note will be repaid over twenty years with monthly payments of $622 or $746.1 annually.

The City acquired a fire truck under a lease-purchase agreement dated April 9, 1984. The lease agreement is in substance an installment purchase and is reflected as such in the combined financial statements. The City paid $40,000 from the Revenue Sharing Fund and agreed to pay Small Fire Equipment Company, Inc. annual payments of $28,184 for the next seven (7) years to amortize the balance of $139,500. Interest is accrued at nine and one-half (9.5) percent.

5. General Long-Term Debt (Continued)

The City entered into long-term indebtedness in the form of notes payable to First Commonwealth Bank for $50,000, accruing interest at eight and one-half (8.50) percent per annum, for the purpose of acquiring a garbage truck. The note is to be repaid over four years with monthly payments of $1,042 or $12,504 annually.

The City converted two short-term notes payable to First Commonwealth Bank totaling $74,000 to long-term during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1985. The note proceeds were used to pay the costs of street resurfacing. The City borrowed $34,000 in September 1984 which accrues interest at nine and three-quarters (9.75) percent per annum and is to be repaid over three years with monthly payments of $1,093 or $13,116 annually. The City borrowed $40,000 in September 1984 which was converted to long-term in March 1985 which accrues interest at nine and three-quarters (9.75) percent per annum and is to be repaid over two years with monthly payments of $1,946 or $22,152 annually.

The above described indebtedness is reflected in the financial statements in the General Long-Term Debt Group of Accounts. The debt service payments are reported as expenditures in the General and Revenue Sharing Funds.

6. Pension Plan

The City of Prestonsburg's employees are covered by a Commonwealth Life Insurance Company Pension Plan. The City's contribution for 1985 was $17,511. All employees are covered by the plan after age 25 and completion of one year of service.

7. Compliance with K.R.S. 91A

Kentucky Revised Statutes Chapter 91A requires each city to enact an annual budget for each fund of the City and provides that "no city shall expend any moneys from any governmental or proprietary fund except in accordance with a budget ordinance adopted pursuant to this section" (91A.030(1)). The City of Prestonsburg's actual expenditures for the year exceeded the budget as adopted as disclosed in the combined financial statements. No other instances of noncompliance were noted.

Ky. Industry May Follow Japanese

The quality control and problem solving technique which helped spark Japan's postwar resurgence will soon be offered to Kentucky industries through a program being sponsored by the University of Kentucky Community College System.

Approximately 35 UK community college instructors and industry representatives will be trained in the technique—called Statistical Process Control—Jan. 6-10 at Elizabethtown Community College.

These 35 persons will then become trainers for industries across the state. Statistical Process Control emphasizes the labor-management team approach in industry which has become a central theme in large Japanese firms. It has also been adopted by Ford Motor Company, General Motors, IBM, TRW and many other U.S. corporations.

"Importantly, many corporations which utilize this technique are requiring this same type of program in their subcontractors," says Gary M. Green, coordinator of community services and continuing education at Elizabethtown Community College. Making the training available through the UK Community College System will open doors statewide for industry.

Statistical Process Control is based on the quality improvement principles of W. Edwards Deming, an American mathematician.

Ironically, his statistical theories were used to advance U.S. war efforts in WW II, then were adopted by Japanese industry as they rebuilt in the 1950s to become a world industrial superpower.

Classes at Elizabethtown Community College will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., EST, each day in Rooms 102 and 112 of the administration building. Instructors will be Carole Hannan, national director for the Transformation of American Industry project; and David Schwinn from Ford Motor Company.

Continuing Education Classes Are Scheduled

The Continuing Education Program at Prestonsburg Community College will present the following courses, beginning the third week of February: Knitting, February 17, 6:30-8:30 p.m.; Introduction to Word Processing, Feb. 18, 6-7:30 p.m.; KPDES Sampling Analyses Procedures and Regulatory Update, Tuesday, Feb. 18, 8:30-11:30 a.m.; Beginning Photography, Tuesday, Feb. 18, 7-9 p.m.; Personal Income Tax Return Preparation, Feb. 13, 6-7:30 p.m.; Sign Language, Thursday, Feb. 13, 6-8 p.m.

(For further information about any of these courses, call Juanita Ratliff at 886-3863, ext. 215.)

We Want to Do Business With Business

We have always been close to business and industry, and we want it to stay that way.

That's why we are proposing programs to train people to work in the new technology so they won't be left out of a job and so that business and industry will have the work force they will need.

We'll train new workers or re-train old ones to use the sophisticated electronic data processing equipment so common now in business and industry.

We plan to work closely with state agencies and other organizations to identify manpower needs and to design the credit and non-credit courses to train people to fill those needs.

We will implement new programs and toss aside old ones if they are outdated. In short, we will be a partner with business and industry more than ever before.

To do this, however, takes additional state support in the form of adequate funding for our programs to serve business and industry.

With that funding, we can do business with business just like we always have . . . and further the economic development of our state.

Two Scott County Men Fined $1,115.00

On December 9, 1985 Kenneth Gene Hillard and Gene Johnson, both of Scott county, were found guilty in Grant County court of taking deer by prohibited methods (taking deer at night with the aid of artificial lights). The two men were fined a total of $1,115. The fine included court costs, deer replacement costs and restitution to the landowner for crop damage. Two Remington Model 700 7MM magnum rifles and a spotlight were confiscated and hunting privileges were revoked for two years. A 30-day jail sentence was probated for two years.

It's Quiet at Buckhorn But There's Plenty To Do

Snuggled deep in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky is one of 15 gems in the Department of Parks treasure trove of state resort parks. It's a long drive to admire the sparkle of Buckhorn Lake, but it's one no treasure hunter seems to mind.

That distance from life's mainstream is the element to which park manager Kelly Newton attributes a 14 percent increase in last season's accommodations revenues. Buckhorn Lake State Resort Park is known as an island of serenity, naturally isolated from noise, pollution, routines and the frenzied pace of life in any lane.

The park may be peaceful, but its visitors won't suffer from a lack of activity. Its 850 acres provide an afternoon or weekend of opportunities to exhaust pent-up energies born of that 8 to 5 desk job existence.

Pack up sandwiches, potato salad and drinks and head for either of the park's two sheltered picnic areas. Volleyball nets and horseshoe games can be arranged around the shelter, providing fun ways to work off the afternoon's spoils.

The park's two nature trails wind upwards through woods inhabited by deer, various species of birds and plenty of flora. Visitors can hike their way through the well-marked trails in 30 minutes or less.

Those wanting more vigorous exercise can rent one of the park's eight red or blue flyer bicycles and pedal away to parts unknown. Park side roads, lined with stark white, short wooden posts, provide perfect lookout points onto several of the region's picturesque mountains.

If pedaling isn't your preference, walk over to Buckhorn Lake. From Memorial Day to Labor Day, houseboats, sailboats, speedboats and canoes are moored in the lake's 95 slips.

The fresh mountain air at Buckhorn has a way of activating dormant appetites. Satisfy hunger pangs at the lodge's 210-seat dining room. Nearby are two 40-seat dining rooms suitable for meetings. Request a table next to one of the large picture windows and look out onto Buckhorn Lake, or sit close to the room's large fireplace.

After dinner, amble upstairs to the lobby. Several card tables provide seating for hours of bridge, story telling and just a chance for friends to catch up with one another.

If you'd rather be outside, rocking chairs are scattered on the veranda lining the back of the lobby. Lean back and rock as day peacefully surrenders to night.

Before retiring into one of 36 spacious rooms, leave a sunrise wakeup call at the front desk. You won't want to miss the brilliant orange, yellow, purple and blue streaks the sun casts onto the morning sky.

No trip to the resort would be complete without a visit to the town of Buckhorn. A six-mile drive from the lodge along winding mountain roads will take you to Buckhorn Log Cathedral, a 58-year-old solid wood structure in which Sunday church services are still held.

Buckhorn Lake State Resort Park opens for the season March 1. For more information or to make reservations, call the park toll free at 1-800-633-9945 (in-state) or 1-800-325-0058 (out-of-state).

HEMORRHOIDAL CARE

Pregnancy is, by far, the most common cause of hemorrhoids in young women. Signs and symptoms include itching, burning, pain, inflammation, irritation, swelling and much discomfort. All of these symptoms can be relieved by self medication. Bleeding, seepage and protrusion are more serious symptoms and should not be self-medicated. Creams, ointments, suppositories and towelettes are OTC self-medications. Some contain a local anesthetic such as benzocaine or pramoxine hydrochloride. Although the condition itself is not changed, they are effective at relieving symptoms of pain, burning, itching and irritation. Some products also have an ingredient such as ephedrine, epinephrine or phenylephrine that constrict the blood vessels.

All the latest medications for your prescription and over the counter needs can be found here at COOLEY APOTHECARY. We want you to know that if your physician prescribes medication for you or a member of your family we will fill the prescription promptly and at a competitive price. Complete patient profiles are maintained to aid us in checking for possible drug interactions. It also allows us to quickly give you any information you need for income tax and insurance purposes. We are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:
Hemorrhoid sufferers will find it helpful to take a hot water soak before applying medication.

Hearing Scheduled Roof Control Proposal

The U.S. Labor Department's Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) has scheduled a February 25 hearing in Lexington to allow the mining public to comment on the agency's recently-proposed regulation on roof, face and rib support in underground coal mines.

To be held at the Lexington Hilton Inn, 1938 Stanton Way, the hearing will begin at 9:00 a.m.

The proposed rule, which was published in October 1985, covers requirements for roof bolting, testing and sealing the mine roof, warning devices, and other aspects of coal mine roof control.

One important new feature would be a requirement for automated temporary roof support (ATRS) systems to protect persons under unsupported roof in "face" areas where the coal is extracted.

Persons wishing to make oral presentations at the hearing should contact MSHA, Office of Standards, Regulations and Variances, Room 631, 4015 Wilson Boulevard, Arlington, Va. 22203.

MSHA has also scheduled hearings in Pittsburgh, Pa., February 24, and Denver, Colo., February 27.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble

- (1) Paresthesias (see above)
- (2) Headaches
- (3) Painful joints
- (4) Numbness in the arms or hands
- (5) Loss of sleep
- (6) Stiffness in the neck
- (7) Pain between the shoulders
- (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back
- (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals...call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION—I have several friends who say they have fibrocystic breasts. What exactly are fibrocystic breasts? Is it true that cutting coffee out of their diets is helpful?

ANSWER—Fibrocystic breast disease is a term often used to describe breasts that develop lumpy areas. Many doctors feel that a better name is simply "lumpy breasts."

Lumpy breasts occur most often in women between the ages of 35 and 50. The cause of this benign (noncancerous) breast condition is not clear, but it may be linked to changes in the body's hormone levels. The number and size of lumps tend to change with the phases of the menstrual cycle, increasing before a woman's period. The condition tends to improve after menopause.

Many treatments have been advised for lumpy breasts. Most women with only mild or moderate breast pain and tenderness are content with taking mild pain relievers or nothing at all for their discomfort. Other women have pain that is more severe.

Although a number of diet changes and medications have been tried, they have not been tested in controlled studies and have not been helpful for all women. One of these methods is to cut out foods from the diet that contain methylxanthines. These substances can be found in coffee, tea, cola and chocolate.

Until future research establishes what the standard way is to treat lumpy breasts, a woman with this condition should talk to her doctor to find out what is best for her.

QUESTION—The doctor said my cancer has metastasized. What does it mean? How is it treated?

Metastatic cancer is cancer that has spread—metastasized—from the tissue or organ it started in to one or more sites in the body. The cancer in the original location is called the primary tumor.

There are several ways in which cancer cells spread, and not all cancers spread in the same way. In most cases, cancer cells grow, forming a tumor that keeps getting bigger. These cells can then invade the healthy nearby tissue. When a cancerous tumor invades blood or lymph (a clear fluid that contains infection-fighting white blood cells) vessels, some cells can break off from the tumor. These cells can then travel in the lymph or blood to other parts of the body. These cancer cells may begin to grow again in the new place, forming another tumor.

When cancer has spread to other parts of the body, chemotherapy (treatment with anticancer drugs) is the main method of treatment. Because these drugs enter the bloodstream and travel through the body, they can attack cancer cells any place in the body. For certain cancers, such as leukemia, Hodgkin's disease and testicular cancer, chemotherapy is often successful in treating even advanced disease. But for some of the other cancers, chemotherapy is used in only to try to control the growth of metastatic tumors and relieve pain.

For more information on metastatic cancer, call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER and ask for Answers to Your Questions About Metastatic Cancer.

QUESTION—I am a nonsmoker who has always been reluctant to say anything to a smoker whose cigarette smoke is bothering me. After all, smoking can be a sensitive issue with some people. Is it true that this smoke does affect me? What can I do about it?

ANSWER—The most recent Surgeon General's Report concludes that cigarette smoke is a major source of indoor air pollution and can have adverse health effects on people who do not smoke.

Nonsmokers exposed to tobacco smoke at home or in the workplace may get eye irritations and respiratory problems. Young children of parents who smoke are more likely to have colds, bronchitis and pneumonia. Recent studies suggest that nonsmokers who are often exposed to tobacco smoke may be more likely to develop lung cancer.

You are not alone in how you feel about secondhand smoke. A 1980 survey done by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health found that nonsmokers, who make up three-quarters of the population, overwhelmingly feel that secondhand smoke is a danger to their health and support limits on public smoking.

You can take steps to reduce your exposure to secondhand smoke. When eating out, always ask to sit in the no smoking section—even if you know the restaurant doesn't have one. At work, put a "no smoking please" sign on or near your desk or work station. Find out if your town has laws about smoking in public places. If not, contact your local board of health about passing such laws.

For more information on any cancer related subject call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER or write to the Cancer Information Service, McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Community Cancer Program.

House Bill Takes Sting Out of Producing Honey

Sweets for apiaries. The Kentucky House of Representatives could take the sting out of producing honey if House Bill 127 passes. The bill has received the House Agriculture and Small Business stamp of approval. State Rep. Clay Crupper, D-Dry Ridge, said the bill allows beekeepers more freedom with their apiaries. According to Crupper, the bill would generalize the current law, deleting some of the stringent language. He said the bill would also allow Kentucky's Commissioner of Agriculture to publish information concerning inspection of bees and bee diseases. The Commissioner now will oversee apiary registration and fee payment to prevent the spread of bee diseases.

Tho Much Maligned Bats Said Valuable

There are 17 kinds of bats found in Kentucky. Most of them live in caves and have nothing to do with the game of baseball. The closest these flying mammals get to the game is when a frenzied homeowner goes after one of them with a Louisville Slugger.

"Few animals are so common and so commonly misunderstood," said Craig Huegel, Extension Wildlife specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. People often fail to realize that bats provide us with several useful services and pose almost none of the threats usually associated with them, Huegel said.

"Bats are the only major nighttime predator of flying insects. A single bat will eat up to 3,000 insects by sunrise. A single colony of some bats common to Kentucky will consume more than a million insects during the course of an evening," Huegel said.

Many landowners report a noticeable decline in irritating nighttime insects when a colony of bats has been allowed to roost in the area.

Huegel said bats really get a lot of hard knocks, most of them undeserved. The common assumption that bats present a threat of rabies to humans is overrated. Studies of bat populations have shown fewer than one half of 1 percent of a colony to have rabies, and those few bats who may have the disease are very unlikely to pass it on to a human.

"Unlike skunks, or dogs, a rabid bat becomes inactive, and is not likely to come into contact with humans or other animals.

"But people need to remember that any wild animal, bat, skunk or raccoon, should be avoided if it is acting strangely. If a wild animal allows you to approach it, or is active during the daytime, that animal should be avoided and reported to local public health officials," Huegel said.

Bats do not swoop down and become entangled in people's hair, unless that hair is full of insects. And none of the species of bat found in Kentucky, or anywhere else in North America, drinks blood. Moreover, despite similarity in name, bats are not flying rats. Rats are rodents, bats are not. Unlike most rodents, bats are very intelligent and can be easily trained. Also, rodents generally produce numerous offspring. Bats usually have between one and four young per year.

Huegel said bats become a nuisance to humans only when they occupy dwellings with humans, and that such circumstances are the only justification for seeking to remove a colony of bats. In fact, it is illegal to kill or disturb a colony of bats unless a County Conservation officer has determined that the bats are causing damage.

Removing a colony of bats from a dwelling can be difficult. Traps and poisons are usually expensive, dangerous and ineffective, Huegel said.

ON DUTY IN GERMANY

Pvt. John D. Hall, son of John H. Hall, of Littcarr, and Hazel Henson, of Price, has arrived for duty with the 56th Air Defense Artillery, West Germany, was previously assigned at Fort Benning, Ga. He is a 1985 graduate of Knott County Central High School, Hindman.

the best thing to do is wait until the bats have left the building for the season (in the early fall) when they migrate south, and then try to prevent their return the following spring.

This too can be difficult. Bats can enter through openings as small as five-eighths of an inch wide, so finding and sealing all such openings in a building can be quite a chore.

Attempts to seal a colony out of a building should not be made during May, June or July, since flightless baby bats will be trapped inside, resulting in their unnecessary death and a bit of a smelly problem for the thoughtless homeowner.

Huegel suggests that people with "bats in their belfry," get in touch with him through their county Extension office. He will assist them in dealing with their problem.

U of L Offers Workshop To Future Med Students

High school seniors who plan on going after medical or dental degrees sometimes find they need a boost in undergraduate training to assure their admission to professional schools.

From July 6 to Aug. 8, the University of Louisville will offer a workshop to train college freshmen bound for medical or dental school in reading, writing, study skills and problem-solving. The students also will receive instruction in biology, chemistry and other sciences. Besides attending classes and living on U of L's campus, the participants will meet and study with current medical and dental students.

The Professional Education Preparation Program is aimed at recent high school graduates in urban and rural areas that have a shortage of physicians and dentists. The workshop is free for students selected to participate.

Students interested in attending should apply by March 1. For an application form and more information, call Michael Byrne at (502) 588-7159.

A Legislative Perspective

By REP. GREGORY STUMBO
Majority Floor Leader of the House of Representatives

If clear proof was needed of the growing worth of the committee system to the legislative process, it was highlighted this week as bills began moving through committees with a great deal of ease. For this was actually the first full week of legislative activity, and political observers witnessed hundreds of bills filed for consideration by the General Assembly as the tedious process of passing legislation began.

The committees shot away from the starting gate with many of them approving bills that had been prefiled by interim committees on their first meeting day.

Consequently, the first House bill of the 1986 General Assembly was approved Jan. 14. The bill had unsuccessfully seen legislative consideration in previous sessions, but this time the proposed legislation to register boarding homes found the approval it sought. Under the new law, if approved by the Senate, boarding homes will apply for a permit through the local health facilities. The bill is an attempt to determine if any boarding homes in the state are operating as a long-term care facility. Exempt from the bill are boarding homes providing rooms for students, attending institutions of higher education, or that are operated or regulated by the federal government.

Also approved after a great deal of heated debate were legislative measures that are designed to reduce overcrowding in Kentucky's troubled prison system. These two bills were measures that came from an extensive interim study—again highlighting how legislators have grown to depend on the interim studies conducted during the period between legislative sessions.

The bills work to ease inmates' confinement as the end of their sentences draw near. Current law, for example, does not allow those convicted of major crimes such as murder, armed assault, attempted rape, escape or attempted escape to enter a minimum-security facility or work outside the prison walls. House bills 74 and 72 set up a mechanism under which this can be done. The bills also allow the state to contract with county or regional jails to house some convicted felons.

There was plenty of action going on in committee meetings, also. The House Education Committee approved a bill that would provide free text books to high school students, and the House

Transportation Committee passed out a measure which calls for figuring the taxes on vehicles more than 10 years old at a lower rate.

When the bills start their movement through the legislative process, my role becomes crucial in the final outcome of the success of the legislation. As the Majority Floor Leader, I have control over which bills are earmarked to be voted on each day. I work with each legislator as a bill comes to the floor in cases where amendments are needed or by holding the bill over in the Orders of the Day for additional work.

Hopefully, the fast pace at which we have started the process will help to compensate for the last minute crunch that is traditionally part of the last weeks of a legislative session.

I encourage you to get involved in the legislative process. If the opportunity presents itself, attend committee meetings or the House gallery is available during legislative sessions for public observation. If you have an opinion to share with me, please utilize the toll-free message line in Frankfort to contact me. That number is 1-800-372-7181.

No matter how you slice it, a day's electricity costs less.

In an all-electric home, electricity does everything, everyday—including heat—for less than the cost of a small pizza.

Think about it. Electricity lights your home, cooks your meals, cleans the house and dishes, entertains you, washes and irons your clothes, powers your tools, heats your water and, with an electric heat pump, keeps you warm in winter and cool in summer. Electricity does all this and more for about what you might spend for lunch.

In addition to being a great value, electricity is delivered wherever and whenever you want it, instantly, with just a flick of a switch. Having dependable power when you need it is something we all take for granted.

Electricity—no matter how you slice it, it does it all for less!

Wayland Cheerleaders Complete Successful Year

The Wayland girls varsity cheerleaders have won four trophies during the 1985-'86 basketball season. They brought home the winner's trophies from the Garrett, Wayland, Martin and County Sectional tournaments. The girls have worked hard this year to achieve excellence. They are from bottom to top, Crissy Stapleton, mascot; Jamie Fultz, captain; Misty Hall, Jill Stapleton, April Couch, Rebecca Martin, Charla Hall, Jaime Webb, captain; and Tara Branham, captain. Absent from picture is Amy Patton. The Wayland cheerleaders are sponsored by Bonnie Clark.

Yesterday's Craftsmen Inspire MSU Collection

Eastern Kentucky's weavers, wood carvers and quilters of yesterday are today's inspiration for the Folk Art Collection, housed in Morehead State University's Claypool-Young Art Building.

The main focus of the collection is on Eastern Kentucky artifacts, according to Caroline Garrett, guest curator of the Folk Art Collection.

Garrett said she is very interested in the contributions and abilities of the local people, whose talents may range from painting to making musical instruments. Authenticity and aesthetic appeal are the main requirements of the artwork, according to Garrett, who is also an artist and a writer.

In an attempt to develop greater public awareness in the region for the collection, a weaving program has been started and other plans are being developed.

Several local residents also have volunteered their talents. Linda Lowe, of Morehead, has offered to help conduct a quilting bee each Thursday afternoon and plans are being developed for similar activities in other crafts.

"Part of the uniqueness of the collection is not only the artwork itself, but also the stories behind each piece," said Garrett.

"Granny" Toothman is there all week, spinning, weaving and telling stories about her life. She enjoys having people stop in to see the collection and watch her work and hopes to make it possible for those visiting to weave a yard or two themselves, with a nominal fee for use of the loom, Garrett said.

Future activities of the Folk Art Collection include "God, Man, and the Devil," an exhibition by American folk artists, in the main gallery of the Claypool-Young Art Building. Larry Hacvkley, a folk art enthusiast and collector from North Middletown, organized and curated the exhibition, which will run from Feb. 10 through March 7.

Currently, the collection is looking for funds to expand its program and its exhibitions, according to Garrett. "We want it to be a 'living museum,'" she said. "We think it will have regional and possibly national significance and that's why we are so enthusiastic about it. But, we need financial support from sources other than the university in order for it to succeed," Garrett said.

The collection is open weekdays from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m., and is available for tours from local schools and individuals by appointment. Other viewing times may be scheduled.

Anyone interested in volunteering their talents or participating in the Thursday quilting bee may contact Garrett at (606) 783-2765, Claypool-Young Art Building, MSU.

Appalshop Slates Carpetbag Theater

February is Black History month and to help recognize it Appalshop will present a lively night of storytelling and music. As part of Appalshop's interest in preserving and promoting cultural awareness in the Appalachian region, they are presenting a play entitled "Dark Cowgirls and Prairie Queens" February 15 at 8 p.m.

The play was written by Linda Parris-Bailey, executive director of Carpetbag Theater who says "Dark Cowgirls" is not like anything we've done before. It's a historical piece we've done a lot of research on.

"Dark Cowgirls" is more legend than history. One of the characters in the play, Mary Fields, once single-handedly fought off starving wolves during a blizzard and ended up becoming a stagecoach driver so she wouldn't get bored. In another scene, Biddy Mason walked all the way from Texas to California behind her master's cattle while he rode in the wagon, then won her freedom in court and went on to earn enough money to build a nursing home.

The cast includes: Linda Parris-Bailey, Adora Dupree, Jeffrey Cody, Linda Upton, and Victor Cranford who entertain the audience not only by their acting but will enchant you with their singing and musical talents.

Carpetbag Theater is the oldest surviving Black theater company in the southeast. Their purpose is to do original work and to have that work shown. They go where the people are, in recreational centers, churches, student auditoriums, any place they can get an audience.

You can see them at 8 p.m. February 15, at the Appalshop Center, 306 Madison Street, Whitesburg, Kentucky. For more information and reservations call (606) 633-0108 Monday-Friday 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
