

Uncertified Not Hired To Teach, Says Brackett

The National Education Association—to whose annual convention in Louisville the Floyd County Education Association sent a staff person and three delegates—is urging state and community leaders to take action that would stop school districts from hiring teachers who are not qualified to teach or assigning teachers to subject areas in which they are not adequately prepared.

While out-of-field assignments remain a problem in this district, Superintendent Ray Brackett said last week, the number was substantially reduced last year. And uncertified teachers have not been hired here for many years, he said.

Moreover, a call by the NEA for state officials to declare a date beyond which local districts would not be permitted to hire unqualified teachers or assign them to classes they are not trained to teach could make the situation worse, not better, he said.

The NEA appeal is being made in the wake of a survey that discloses that many school districts—desperate to fill vacancies as the national teacher shortage worsens—are planning to hire teacher applicants who are not fully trained to teach.

The survey—conducted in late June among 100 of the nation's largest school districts—indicates that the country will be in the midst of a "critical" teacher shortage when schools open later this summer, according to the NEA.

Some 38 percent of the districts surveyed indicate they would assign teachers outside their field of preparation while another 38 percent report they would likely recruit people from other fields who have not been trained as teachers.

Brackett said that a few uncertified teachers—"a special education teacher, perhaps a couple of librarians"—have been hired here recently on the understanding that they will complete within a year the requirements for certification. The district has not recently hired any Rank IV teachers—those with a college degree but no teacher certification—he said.

P'burg Native Held For Cocaine Dealing

A former Prestonsburg woman has been arrested in Lexington on cocaine charges.

Marla Burchett, 24, and Joe Meyers, 38, both of 179 Lakeshore Drive, Lexington, and Travis Wethington, 44, of Liberty, were arrested early last Thursday morning after allegedly negotiating a cocaine transaction with undercover Lexington narcotics officers.

The suspects were said to have had 12 oz. of cocaine with an estimated street value of $54,000. They were arraigned Friday in Fayette District Court. All pleaded innocent.

Burchett's and Wethington's cases were continued until July 25, while Meyers' was continued until July 29. All were placed in the Fayette County Detention Center in lieu of $25,000 full cash bond.

Assisting Lexington police in the arrest were members of the Nashville, Tenn. police department. The suspects allegedly purchased the cocaine in Nashville.

Rock 'n Roll Magazines, Records Out at Wal-Mart

A directive from the home office in Arkansas has caused the removal of a number of rock 'n' roll records and related magazines from the shelves of Wal-Mart stores across the nation.

The record ban includes such artists as Grim Reaper, Ozzy Osborne, Motley Crue, AC/DC, Judas Priest, Wasp and Black Sabbath, as well as comedians Cheech and Chong, Richard Pryor and Redd Foxx. Thirty-two magazines which have gotten the axe include such titles as Rolling Stone, Hit Parader, Circus, Tiger Beat, Bop, Teen Beat and Teen Talk.

But some of the newly-objectable material was still available at the Prestonsburg Wal-Mart as of Monday afternoon. A Judas Priest recording was still among the cassette tapes, and Circus magazine was still on the rack.

The store also still carried a number of other heavy metal rock albums, by such artists as Iron Maiden, Twisted Sister, and Kiss, as well as Song Hits magazine.

Store Manager Carl Sparks declined any comment on the chain of discount stores' policy shift.

Stacy Duncan, a spokesperson at Wal-Mart's corporate headquarters in Bentonville, Arkansas said the ban reflected a merchandising decision which was consistent with normal Wal-Mart policy. Though declining to say how the particular artists and magazines to be removed were chosen, she said that it

As Repeat Offenses Logged...

DUI Defendants, Lawyers Try Harder for Acquittal

With stiff jail terms facing persons convicted of multiple drunk driving charges under a 1984 state law, more DUI cases are going before juries, and defendants and their attorneys are proving increasingly creative.

In four cases heard this week in Floyd district court, defendants labored to show they were not driving when they were arrested on DUI charges. That defense proved effective for Christopher Snodgrass, 18, of Allen, against whom a first-offense charge collapsed when Prestonsburg patrolman Mike Meade conceded he could not place the youth behind the wheel. For the same reason, a DUI charge against Robert E. Shepherd, 32, of Gunlock, was amended to public intoxication.

But charges against a Blue River man tried for a second offense and an Allen woman tried for a third held up before district court juries, which meted out stiff jail terms in each instance.

Prestonsburg Patrolman Jeff Stumbo told of pursuing a car driven by Lon Slone from here to Van Lear at speeds as high as 105 mph in the early hours of March 1 this year. Stumbo described Slone's driving as "extremely dangerous," noting that the driver rounded a median strip at Auxier on the wrong side of the road.

Johnson County Sheriff Gene Cyrus testified that Slone attempted to flee on foot after wrecking the car at Van Lear. "He was pretty intoxicated," Cyrus said. Slone refused to submit to a blood alcohol test.

The defendant, who is 27, admitted he was in the car but denied he was driving it. The driver was a man called Ronnie, who was giving him a lift from the Eagles Club in Prestonsburg, he said. Slone insisted he was "scared to death" during the ride and begged the driver to let him out. The driver jumped out and fled shortly before he followed suit, Slone said.

A six-woman jury convicted Slone of drunk driving, reckless driving, attempting to elude a police officer, driving on a suspended license, and speeding. They fixed a 90-day sentence and ordered him to pay $701 in fines and court costs.

Would Outlaw 'Redlining'...

Panelist Sees Tougher Law, Community Spirit, As Keys To Insurance Dilemma

To hear Blaine Hall describe it, the current insurance crisis is at bottom a problem of selfish individualism. And the Prestonsburg insurance agent, recently appointed to a legislative task force to come up with solutions to the problem, is already talking of a kind of renewal of community spirit.

"Greed. Greed. Greedy people. That's where it started," said Hall, of a problem that has humbled the international insurance industry and is causing consternation among a wide variety of groups—auto- and homeowners, local governments and small businesses, architects and accountants, obstetricians and midwives, daycare centers and nursing homes—which have seen their premiums shoot up by as much as 1000 percent and their coverage sometimes summarily discontinued.

The solution, Hall contends, lies ultimately in the willingness of people to grow beyond rugged individualism to a more lively sense of community.

"Everyone to himself" might have been O.K. in pioneer days but we can't afford to hang onto those notions of independence today," Hall said. "People are not community-minded. We need to watch out for one another. We need to take an interest in the community."

One result of a new fellowship, the insurance agent argues, is that it would be harder for individuals to get away with the blatant arson that has given eastern Kentucky a bad name among underwriters and has handed some companies the excuse they need to stop writing insurance here altogether.

Another result, he said, could be that rural communities might be less reluctant to pay the modest taxes that would support a volunteer fire district and local companies might be more willing to pitch in and build a firehouse.

"We have to help ourselves. We have coal operators who could build a fire department and write it off their taxes," Hall said, "but everyone's too greedy."

Not that eastern Kentuckians' reputation for suspicious fires and tightfistedness is entirely justified, the insurance agent is quick to note. "A house burns here and everybody hears about it. This kind of thing is going on in Lexington and Louisville all the time. It's not fair for our region to be kicked around all the time," he said.

Nor is the greed that has fueled the insurance crisis primarily the desperate grasping of an eastern Kentucky homeowner torching his house in order to pay the bills. "The thing that has destroyed us more than anything else are attorneys," said Hall, who blames venal lawyers and high jury awards for fanning the flames of avarice in an increasingly litigious society. "Everybody is suing everybody."

And then there is the industry itself. "Greedy companies, they're what started the whole mess," Hall says, adding, "It's about time they were regulated."

He plunges into a now-familiar litany of charges. That a newly-unregulated industry, tempted a half dozen years ago by high interest rates, boosted its cash flow by offering coverage—especially to big commercial customers—at throatcutting discounts. As long as interest rates were high, they reaped profits on their investments. But as rates sagged—and claims began coming in—losses mounted.

Soon, insurance companies found it hard to find re-insurers to share their risks—even the giant Lloyds of London backed off—and responded by sharply increasing premiums and by "redlining"—refusing to write policies in areas, like eastern Kentucky, considered to be high-risk.

Redlining is a practice that will be outlawed in Kentucky if Hall gets his way.

"These companies come into high-volume areas like Lexington and Louisville, where there is plenty of commercial business and where they can make bigger profits," the agent explained. "I'd like to see them required, if they come into Kentucky, to write insurance in all areas of the state."

That will mean beefing up the authority of the state Department of Insurance, Hall said, and he acknowledged that, even then, the state has only limited influence over companies that, in the face of laws they consider too stringent, can simply take their business elsewhere.

But as underwriters get over the worst of their financial woes, as many are now beginning to do, and as public

Floyd Population Grows To 50,786

Between 1980 and 1985, about 52,000 more people left Kentucky than arrived. But that trend was reversed in Floyd county, where slightly more people came than left.

According to a report by the University of Kentucky's Center for Developmental Change, deteriorating economic conditions over much of the state have caused the increase in outmigration. In Floyd county, however, the 1985 population is put at 50,786, up by 2022 or 4.1 percent since the 1980 census.

While most of the growth resulted from the fact that births exceeded deaths here, 100 more people are reported to have settled here than left the county.

'Cemetery Cleanup Work To Begin at W'wright

Wheelwright's black cemetery should be getting a facelift soon, thanks to the efforts of some concerned current and former residents.

Wheelwright native James Tyson, who now makes his home in Ohio, is spearheading a drive first to get the cemetery in good condition and then to keep it that way. Among the projects he hopes to complete are the removal of an abundance of weeds grown up around the graves and the repair of the rutted, mud-and-rock road which affords the only access there.

The landscaping will be paid for with a surplus remaining from the Wheelwright Reunion fund. Tyson plans to petition Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo to enlist the county to repair the access road.

The question of upgrading the cemetery was raised most recently during the Wheelwright Reunion, a homecoming of the town's black community. The reunion was held as part of the city's July 4 celebration. Tyson said then that he had taken his family to visit the graves there and had realized something needed to be done.

That realization led to the formation of the Wheelwright Foundation. This organization is "designed to act as a vehicle" for putting such plans into action. The informal group was formed while Tyson and other organizers were contacting people about the reunion, he said.

Tyson's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Tyson said she wasn't sure how old the cemetery was, but admitted that "it's been here longer than me, and I was born here." She said it had been there at least since the 1920s. It includes three sections with marked graves and a large area filled with unmarked graves.

The cemetery has been deteriorating for years, Mrs. Tyson said. But, while everyone has complained, no one has been able to do anything about it until now. "A lot of them have talked about it," she said, "but they don't do nothing but talk." She said she is still talking to neighbors, trying to raise more interest in the project.

James Tyson said plans now call at least for weeds and bushes to be cleared by the end of July. "From there it will just depend on how much help we are able to obtain."

He said the entire project boiled down to one thing. "The bottom line is this: We just feel like it's time that people who've made some major contributions to the community, even though they're no longer with us, are shown some respect."

THIS PEACEFUL SCENE at Wheelwright's black cemetery is the source of consternation for some current and former residents who are organizing a drive to cut weeds, fix roads and generally upgrade the facility. The cleanup effort grew out of a recent reunion of Wheelwright residents and former residents organized as part of the town's July 4 celebration.

English Heritage Gives Middlesboro Special Aura

Middlesboro is the only city in the United States, and possibly the world, that is built within an almost circular scar created by the impact of a meteor. This distinction, along with its colorful and rich recent past, rate the city in which the famed Cumerland Gap is located a special page in Kentucky history books.

Sometime between 30 and 300 million years ago, a meteorite slammed into the ground, creating a massive center. As Kentucky was being settled in the 19th century, this natural bowl invited development, since flat land was at a premium in the area. Alexander Arthur, a transplanted Englishman who had discovered plentiful coal and iron deposits while traveling through the Cumberland Gap, founded a city here in 1886. Persuading friends and colleagues of the area's potential, Arthur and five investors formed the American Association, and secured funds to buy tracts of land near the Gap to support the building of a mining empire that would endure for generations.

The area was named "Middlesboro," (later "Middlesboro") after an industrial center in England, and in the late 1880s and early 1890s, change came immediately to this southeastern corner of Kentucky. Forested land was cleared by workers who poured into the region, and row houses, businesses, banks, stores, farms and a grand hotel sprang up along the town's main street, Cumberland Avenue, to accommodate the needs of the throngs who came to work in the town's coal and iron ore industry. Middlesboro became a typical "boom town" of the Victorian era.

Money from domestic and foreign investors flowed into the town and times were good until May 1890, when a fire ravaged more than one-half of Middlesboro. Most residents were determined to rebuild, but the blaze exposed a blemish in Arthur's plan that stones and mortar couldn't possibly hide. Development of the town's profit-making industries, coal and iron ore, had been ignored in lieu of constructing the trappings of Victorian life and funding from private investors dropped off in the next few years when geologists surveying the region's coal and iron ore deposits obtained mediocre samples from thin veins. In a matter of six short years, Middlesboro went from boom to bust.

The extreme economic cycle spawned a hearty, pioneer people, and life continued for a town that today stands as a testimony to the past, and a promise of the future. Its English heritage lives in town streets named "Exeter" and "Gloucester," and hills named "Queensbury Heights." The town's citizens play golf on the nation's oldest nine-hole golf course in continuous operation, built in 1889 to entertain English noblemen of the town's heyday. The Cumberland Mountains are alive with color and provide the perfect backdrop for "Old English Heritage Days," the town's annual three-day fall festival that attracts top crafts persons demonstrating sheep-shearing, basketweaving, broommaking and weaving, arts made necessary to the development of a civilized life in the raw wilderness.

Tourist attractions in Middlesboro include St. Mary's Episcopal Church, a beautiful wooden structure in which Alexander Arthur worshipped, and the Coal House, a 60-year-old structure made of 42 tons of coal that houses the Middlesboro Chamber of Commerce offices. Located next to it is a small-scale coal museum. A drive down Cumberland Avenue gives visitors a perspective of the old and the new; a drug store and bank constructed in the town's boom years reside next to car dealerships, restaurants and the Coca-Cola bottling factory that provides jobs for many of the town's residents.

Also located in Middlesboro is Cumberland Gap National Historical Park, a 20,000-acre gift to the federal government from Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia. It preserves the rugged terrain over which pioneers traveled in covered wagons and on foot, seeking a better life in the uncharted territory of the West. The park is open year-round, and sports many special events for the approximately 720,000 annual visitors. At the park is the visitors center museum and Hensley's Settlement, established in 1904 by Harlan native Sherman Hensley. A primitive community of 12 scattered farmsteads located on top of Brush Mountain, the settlement preserves a pioneer way of life. Its 100 or so inhabitants were mostly self-sufficient, but walked or rode horseback over steep narrow mountain trails once a year to obtain supplies they could not produce. The Pinnacle Overlook is another must-see at the park. Towering 2,440 feet above sea level, it provides a breathtaking view of the tri-state region, and on a clear day, gives visitors the feeling that they can see into tomorrow.

Another point of interest near the park is the construction of two large tunnels through Cumberland Mountain. During the 1960s, the Appalachian Regional Commission identified US 25E, the thoroughfare that services Middlesboro and links Kentucky to Tennessee, as an economic development route. Although funds for the $150 million project have been rescinded by Congress twice, the project is progressing, and, if funds are allocated as scheduled, the entire project should be complete by December 1992.

Breathtaking natural beauty, an atmosphere steeped in tradition and history, and a growing arts and crafts market combine to make Middlesboro a microcosm of Eastern Kentucky. For more information on the area, write the Middlesboro Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 788, Middlesboro, Ky. 40965.

Country Blues Artist Slated at Appalshop

Roy Bookbinder is a traveling, county blues playing musician who sings at more than 200 shows every year. He will be stopping in at Appalshop, Saturday, August 9, at 8 p.m. to do his special brand of what he calls "hillybilly blues," (that's to differentiate it from the hard Mississippi Delta style blues.)

Bookbinder was featured on the Ralph Emory Show on the Nashville Network in May, and he has also appeared on the stage of the Grand Ole Opry when he was with the Bonnie Raitt tour. He has recorded four albums which have earned him national attention. The singer also performs about twice a year at the "Down Home" in Johnson City, TN, because he says "I prefer to play the South. It just seems my music belongs here."

In between songs, Bookbinder is as fascinating a storyteller as he is an acoustic guitar player. He spins yarns about his travels with Pink Anderson and the Rev. Gary Davis, two of the greats in old-time, pre-country blues circles. Music critics from New York to Dallas agree that the "Travelin' Man"—he travels from show to show in a 31-foot Airstream motorcoach—is preserving those old-time sounds better than anyone else performing today.

The Roy Bookbinder concert is August 9, at 8 p.m. at Appalshop in Whitesburg. Tickets are available for adults, students and senior citizens. Call Jerri at (606) 633-0108 for reservations.

DOLORES REYNOLDS SMITH

CANDIDATE FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION DISTRICT 2

I was born in 1943. My parents are Marcum and Gilva Martin Reynolds. I attended Beaver Elementary School, Betsy Layne High School and Morehead State University. I graduated from Morehead with A BS Degree in Business Education. I am married to William L. Smith. We presently own and operate R/S Truck Body Company at Allen where we live. I have two children, one who attends high school in Floyd County and one who has graduated from high school in this county. Prior to my husband and I going into business, I was a teacher.

GOOD LEADERSHIP IS VITAL TO A GOOD SCHOOL SYSTEM

GOOD LEADERS WILL:

- Have HIGH EXPECTATIONS—they will set policies that insure success
- Generate ENTHUSIASM about learning.
- Set GOALS and OBJECTIVES and work towards achieving those.
- Involve teachers in DECISION-MAKING—people respond more positively when they are involved.
- Have an open line of COMMUNICATION with the COMMUNITY—recognize that community support is based on trust and respect. The community has to believe that a leader's decisions are for the good of ALL. Recognize they are ACCOUNTABLE to the public.
- Provide safe, clean and orderly atmosphere that is most conducive to LEARNING.
- Recognize that education has a direct bearing on the general ECONOMY.
- EVALUATE to determine what is successful, where problems are, and what must be done to correct problems.
- Base decisions on SOUND EDUCATIONAL AND BUSINESS practices, NOT political self-interest.

AS YOUR BOARD MEMBER, THE ABOVE WILL BE MY GOALS.

I ASK YOU TO SUPPORT ME FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION IN NOVEMBER.

Pathologist at HRMC

JOHN BOSWELL, M.D., is the new Medical Director of the lab at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

It looks like the strain a strawberry would make on a piece of glass, this slice of an unusual growth taken from the body of a living person. A pathologist, the detective of the medical profession, will examine this slide and many others under a microscope to diagnose if the growth is a malignant cancer.

John Boswell, M.D., now has this "medical detective's" job at Highlands Regional Medical Center. Dr. Boswell is a board certified clinical and anatomical pathologist and the new Medical Director of the lab at HRMC.

According to HRMC Administrator Clarence Traum, Dr. Boswell is a definite asset to the hospital. Traum explains, "Now that we have a full-time pathologist on staff, patients and their physicians will not have to wait as long for biopsy results."

In addition to his other qualifications, Dr. Boswell is trained in fine needle aspiration. Fine needle aspiration is a new technique that allows a pathologist to diagnose potentially cancerous tissue in the body without surgery. This technique together with the new histology lab at Highlands Regional will benefit physicians as well as patients. Fine needle aspiration will be especially valuable for the new breast center.

Dr. Boswell is certified by the American Board of Pathology. He was raised in West Virginia and attended West Virginia University at Morgantown. He was accepted by Marshall University's School of Medicine during his Junior year in college and received his MD degree four years later. He completed his residency at North Carolina Baptist Hospital, which is affiliated with Bowman Gray School of Medicine.

Dr. Boswell is married and is the father of three children: a 2 year old daughter and 2 month old twin boys. His wife, Teresa, is trained as a Speech Pathologist. They live on Route 3 in Floyd county.

VISITS IN NEW JERSEY

Mrs. Thomas R. LeMaster has returned from a week's visit with her daughter, Mrs. Alan Waltman, and Mr. Waltman, in Millville, New Jersey. During her stay she traveled with Mr. and Mrs. Waltman to Philadelphia to attend an Atlanta-Philly baseball game. She also visited with another daughter, Mrs. Fred Setser, and Mr. Setser, during that time.

Asthma Care Training For Children, Parents

A team of Pikeville doctors, elementary school teachers, and nurses, the first in Kentucky, are participating in the Asthma Care Training program of the Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America. All those involved are volunteers.

ACT (Asthma Care Training) for kids was developed by physicians, nurses and educators from the UCLA Health Services Research Center, with support from the UCLA Center for Interdisciplinary Research in Immunologic Disease. It has been designed as a supplement to help asthmatic children take charge of their disease, based on the theme "You're In The Driver's Seat". At the same time, the program provides parents the information and support needed for appropriate parental direction of their children's increasing role in self-care. The overall goal is to reduce the number and severity of asthmatic attacks as well as any unnecessary restrictions on the asthmatic child's daily activities.

Other goals are to increase the knowledge of the symptoms, causes and types of treatment for asthma, to explore attitudes and feelings about asthma and its treatment, to teach decision making skills used in the prevention of asthmatic attacks, as well as in the maintenance of balanced health habits, and to foster and reinforce the child's increasing self care behaviors (and to encourage parents to do the same).

ACT for Kids is designed for teaching small groups of 5-8 asthmatic children between the ages of 6-12 and their parents in clinics, hospitals, doctor's offices, nurses office's or classrooms. The program itself is a series of five one-hour sessions for both children and parents. They are designed to be taught by elementary school teachers, health educators and nurses with teaching experience. A user's guide provides a set of detailed lesson plans for each session and a variety of vivid teaching materials that help motivate learning. Session 1 teaches what asthma is and how it affects the body; Session 2 explains why you have asthma and what triggers the attacks; Session 3 tells what to do to help and when to do it; Session 4 helps to map out the problems related to asthma and helps the parent and patient see who should make which decision regarding each problem; Session 5 teaches how to balance the lifestyle and maintain asthma.

The program has as its direct purpose the education of the asthmatic child in self care. The basic premise is the key to the unique design of the program: The children meet in their own group, simultaneously but separately from the parents, for the first 45 minutes of each session. The children and parents join together to share the remaining 10-15 minutes. By meeting apart each group can approach the same set of activities at their own level of interest and skills and from their own perspective. Thus each group functions as a peer support group. In addition, both children and parents tend to participate more fully with their separate groups. The 10-15 minute period at the end of each session permits children and parents as equal partners to share their perceptions of information, strategies and insights. In this way the program provides a framework that helps promote the development of the attitudes necessary for realigning the balance of child-parent involvement in the management of asthma.

Asthma is a relatively common disorder accounting for almost 2% of all visits to pediatricians and family physicians in the United States. While the impact of asthma on the health care systems is considerable, its effects on the psychological and social well-being of those children and families affected are enormous. Treatment for asthma varies with the severity of the disease. It includes the use of drugs, reducing irritants in the environment, and in some cases desensitization. Success in treatment depends upon the parents and the child understanding why, how and when to administer drugs, wanting to follow prescribed treatment, and recognizing the importance of the child's role in the treatment process. Because treatment regimes are often complex, a variety of programs have been developed to teach parents and children what to do. Most of the focus has been principally on parents as the persons designated to carry out the physician's instructions. In fact, the child who has the disease should be aware of the first symptoms of an attack and must be involved in its treatment. There is evidence from recent studies that children of elementary school age can be involved in their own health care and that they are far more competent and rational—when acting within well-defined, safe limits—than many adults might believe.

Anyone interested in this program may call 606-432-0174 for more information.

was unrelated to "comments or pressure from any group or individual." Duncan stressed the change had nothing to do with a sermon delivered in late June by TV evangelist Jimmy Swaggart. In an interview with the Washington Post, Swaggart said he had criticised the availability of certain magazines at Wal-Mart and other stores.

Swaggart, a cousin of Rockabilly star Jerry Lee Lewis, called rock music "a degenerating, debilitating influence on our youth."

Wal-Mart reportedly issued a memo June 13 ordering that all rock-oriented magazines be taken from shelves because of an unspecified controversy. On May 2, a memo was issued to Wal-Mart distributors indicating they should no longer provide stores with the banned recordings.

Of feedback Wal-Mart has received on the changes, Duncan said "A lot of it has been good. Some, not so good." She admitted that there have been charges of censorship, but termed them "unfounded." She said the chain was "just exercising its right to free enterprise."

Duncan said Wal-Mart has "been hassled by the media a whole lot" since the decision to remove the items was made.

As for removal of the items, "We're doing this in the best interest of Wal-Mart as a family-oriented store," she said.

MAYTOWN NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar R. May, of Shawnee Missions, Kan., were recent houseguests of his mother, Mrs. Edgar May, and his sister, Mrs. Tom Flanery, and Mr. Flanery.

Mrs. W. V. Wickersham, of Gresham, Oregon, recently visited her sister, Mrs. Edgar May, and other relatives in the county. She was accompanied by a friend, Mrs. Betty Thomas, of Portland, Oregon.

Mrs. Shirley Stewart, of Florida and Cincinnati, and Miss Beckie Stewart, of Cincinnati, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Claud E. Webb, Thursday. They have been the houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stewart and daughters in Martin.

Mrs. Gertrude Webb accompanied Mr. and Mrs. David Webb, of Lexington, to the Great Smokey Mountains for a few days last week.

Mrs. Tommy E. Webb and Keith Webb were shopping in Huntington, Saturday.

Family members from here attending the Dial Salisbury family picnic at the family home in Stockdale, Ohio, Sunday, July 20, were Mr. and Mrs. Claud E. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Claude J. Webb, Jennings and Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Skeans, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Skeans and Brandon and Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Goins and Delbert Milton. Mrs. Rebecca Salisbury, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. G.B. Colvin in Springfield, Ohio for a few weeks, returned home with Mr. and Mrs. Claud E. Webb, Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Acie Hayden, of Thealka, were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy E. Webb.

Mrs. Lula Webb celebrated her 92nd birthday, Saturday, July 19, quietly at her home with family members coming by to bring gifts and wish her a "Happy Birthday." She received flowers, cards, phone calls and several other gifts. She was also presented a decorated birthday cake and plaque from the Wal Mart Store in Prestonsburg for being one of their oldest and most active customers. Mrs. Edna Click served cake, ice cream and melon to Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Goins and Delbert Milton, Mr. and Mrs. Claud E. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Claude J. opinion turns against frivolous or malicious insurance claims—which he also sees beginning to happen—Hall believes a law can be designed that the industry can live with and that will also protect the public.

The Prestonsburg agent is one of four on a 22-member task force commissioned by the 1986 General Assembly to study state insurance laws, the Department of Insurance, and the insurance industry's rate-making processes. The task force also includes representatives of the industry and of professional, trade, business and local government organizations. It meets for the first time in Frankfort on July 31 and is expected to come up with concrete legislative proposals by the end of next year.

Apart from the obvious advantage for eastern Kentucky insurance agents of a law that forces underwriters to do business here, there is another benefit for agents, Hall acknowledges, in restoring confidence in the industry. "When people don't trust the companies," he explained, "they take it out on the agents."

But the most compelling reason for getting a handle on the current crisis, he insists, is that the economy, and ultimately the fabric of society itself, depends on it.

"Small businesses make up 80 percent of the gross national product. Think of the jobs they provide. And these are the ones that go under if the insurance industry collapses," Hall said. "We can't afford to bankrupt the insurance industry, because to do so would be to bankrupt the economy."

Already, some pharmaceutical firms have stopped producing certain life-saving vaccines for fear of liability judgments, the agent noted, adding that, if it goes unchecked, the current wave of litigation "could create a disaster."

"What people need to realize is that insurance is as necessary to a community as are air and water," Hall said. "We've got to live, and you don't live if you don't have a job."

Couple Arrested Here As Flea Market Robbed

The East Kentucky Flea Market on the Auxier Road near here was robbed of about $400 worth of merchandise early last Thursday morning.

Charged with theft by unlawful taking and third degree burglary are Tammy Compton, 23, of Prestonsburg, and an unidentified 14-year-old female.

According to Floyd Skeans, owner of the flea market, the pair was apprehended after Clyde and Audrey Thompson, of Pike county, flea market dealers who had been camping there, were awakened at about 3:30 a.m. by what sounded like a truck engine. The truck apparently left, but the dealers heard it again at about 5:30, became suspicious and called the state police. Arrest was made at the scene by Trooper Jim Stephens.

Miss Compton was housed in the Floyd county jail, while the girl was taken to the juvenile detention center.

The suspects were said to have gained entry to the booths housing the merchandise by cutting tarpaulins which secured them. Skeans said it is not uncommon for dealers to leave merchandise in booths over night.

The flea market has been robbed twice before.

Seek Counselors For Elderly Tax Filers

The American Association of Retired Persons District Coordinator for Kentucky's Tax Aide Program, and the IRS Taxpayer Education Coordinator are recruiting volunteers to serve as tax counselors to older persons, and low income persons for the 1986 tax season.

Tax counseling for the elderly is a community service of the American Association of Retired Persons working in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service. It provides free income tax help to older taxpayers in preparing their returns.

The association needs volunteers who have a sincere interest in serving older adults and have been preparing their own returns. They should be willing to participate in an Internal Revenue Service training course held in various parts of the state. Also, agree to devote at least four hours a week, during the February 1 through April 15, providing counseling for the elderly, low income, handicapped, and home-bound persons.

The volunteers do not have to be members of any organization. They should have a desire to help other people. Counselors of any age are welcome.

Persons interested in serving may enroll in a class in their area by sending their name, address and telephone number to Russ Crockett, 21 Edward Avenue, Florence, Ky. 41042, or call (606) 525-1880.

Or call The I.R.S. Toll Free Number, 1-800-424-1040, asking for the Taxpayer Education Office in Louisville, Ky.

Bits and Pieces

SUMMER'S KNELL

The song of the jay is loud as dusk gathers these evenings, and to me it has a chill and somber sound. My dad always said this was the first sign of fall, but surely it is too early to foretell the death of summer. No matter when, it is too early.

GUILTY AS CHARGED

There is junk mail which is annoying as it piles up faster than some of us are able to toss it out. Then there is mail that belongs in the trash pile. One example of this is a brochure received the other day from an outfit in Toronto, Ontario, Canada. It purports to prove conclusively that there were no Nazi war criminals, the holocaust never happened, no Jews were tortured or exterminated, that Auschwitz, Dachau, and Buchenwald did not, in fact, exist, and this is a quote, "Russia, France, England, Canada and the U.S.A. are among the many nations exposed as peddlers of hate." One book invites its hoped for readers to "Discover the shocking truth about the International Military Tribunal: the criminals were allowed to sit in judgement and tried the innocent for the crimes only the Allies had committed!"

Oh, brother! This is the kind of thing that casts a cloud on freedom of the press. It is doubtful that anyone in their right mind would find the pamphlet anything but ludicrous. But in 50 years the living memory will be gone; Jews marked by the tattooed numerals of the concentration camp will no longer bear witness to the horrors of Hitler's Germany—it is possible that time may diminish their testimony to the truth.

While we must not heap scorn on present day Germany, or foster hatred of its people, we do need to keep the record straight for posterity. Hitler, Goering, Goebbels, and many others were indeed guilty of acts demeaning to all humanity. They must not be glossed over, forgotten, or repeated.

Even for uncertified substitute teachers, the minimum number of college hours was raised here last year—from 34 to 64—the superintendent noted.

FCEA President Patricia Barnette—who, together with delegates Patricia Dye and Roberta Luxmore and staffer Betty Rowland, represented Floyd teachers at this year's NEA convention—agreed that the hiring of uncertified teachers is not a problem here. "Out-of-field assignments are a bigger problem," she said.

Brackett noted that, while 40 classes were assigned to out-of-field teachers two years ago, that figure was trimmed to 23 during the 1985-'86 school year. While he hoped the figure could be cut yet more, it is hard to eliminate the problem without overstaffing, he said.

A recommendation made in May by the Carnegie Forum on Education and the Economy and currently being pushed by the NEA would have state education officials declare a statewide cutoff date for hiring unqualified teachers.

"Such action will reveal the true extent of teacher shortage and generate pressure to pay teachers at competitive market rates," the panel said.

Brackett was doubtful about the wisdom of the strategy. "It could happen," he conceded, "but in the meantime it would make the teacher shortage even greater."

Optometrists Help Shrink Stumbo Debt

After the 1986 General Assembly passed a bill favored by the profession, optometrists contributed 77 percent of the amount Dr. Grady Stumbo needed to retire the debt left over from his 1983 run for governor.

According to a Louisville Courier-Journal story published Sunday, the profession chipped in at least $121,290 for Stumbo this spring—money raised after the state legislature passed a controversial bill allowing optometrists to administer certain drugs.

State Sen. Benny Ray Bailey, a political ally and business partner of Stumbo's, helped get the bill passed this session although he had opposed it in two earlier sessions. Bailey said an amendment added this year resolved his earlier doubts about the bill.

Both Bailey and Stumbo denied making any promises to optometrists in return for their support in retiring Stumbo's debt.

Among 79 contributors verified by the Courier-Journal as optometrists licensed in Kentucky was Prestonsburg optometrist Lee V. Majakey, listed as contributing $1000.

A Fun Place

I would like to thank the Floyd County Library for the Summer Reading Program. This has made reading so much fun. But, let us not stop here, the library is still a fun place to visit at least once a week.

(In plea negotiations earlier, the defendant declined an offer of 30 days in return for a guilty plea.)

With a 30-day jail sentence depending on the verdict, defense attorney Tom Moak pulled out all the stops for his client, Evelyn Keathley, who was facing her third drunk driving charge under the revamped state law. A jury nevertheless found her guilty, ordering her to pay $719 in fine and costs in addition to serving the mandatory jail term. She is free pending an appeal of the sentence.

State Trooper Greg Roberts said he stopped Mrs. Keathley's Chevette when it ran a red light at the intersection of U.S. 23 and KY 1428 at Allen on April 15. She failed two field sobriety tests, refused to take a Breathalyzer test, and was agitated, the officer said.

Mrs. Keathley, 33, insisted that her mother, Lucille Cartmell Keathley, was driving the car; that she refused the BA only because she knew she was neither driving nor drunk; and that she became upset only out of concern for her mother's injured foot.

Mrs. Keathley said she and her mother got out of the car at the same time. She may have appeared to have been the driver because she then reached back into the car to retrieve her auto registration papers, she said.

Closely questioned by the defense attorney on the point, Roberts insisted that the car's three occupants—the third was Mike Fannin, described as Evelyn Keathley's boyfriend—were all still in the car when he pulled up behind it. He also denied being under pressure to meet a quota of DUI arrests.

Harassment by his ex-wife was the reason Thomas Leo Music was facing his fourth trial on DUI charges, said Cassie Allen, his attorney. A jury found him guilty, however, sentencing him to 45 days in jail and assessing a total of $967 in fines and costs.

Prestonsburg Police Sgt. Gerald Clark charged Music with drunk driving, carrying a concealed weapon and disorderly conduct after Music's ex-wife called police to say he was breaking into her house on Central Avenue. He was acquitted of the latter two charges.

Music, 55, of Dwale, refused to submit to field sobriety tests and was unruly, Clark said. He recorded .16 on the Breathalyzer. Music denied being drunk or trying to break into a house and said he was carrying the gun openly in his capacity as a night watchman at a mine.

Carl E. Hall, 29, of Teaberry, pleaded guilty to a third offense and drew 30 days and $557 in fine and costs. Randell Burke, 28, of Prestonsburg, entered a guilty plea to a second DUI offense after recording a Breathalyzer reading of 21 percent. District Judge Harold Stumbo sentenced him to six months in the county jail. For a second offense, Willie Hall, 22, of Printer, will be confined to his house for 30 nights and will pay $557.

Also convicted of drunk driving were Thomas David Foley, 31, of Pikeville; James Montgomery Case, of Romulus, Mich.; Thomas Leo Music, 55, of Dwale; Henry L. Buskirk, 34, of Deboard; Cleo Johnson, 45, of East Point; Charles R. Lafferty, 51, of Prestonsburg; Bobby L. Weatherly, 55, of Memphis; Timothy G. Preston, of Anderson, Ind.; and Bill J. Gibson, of Salyersville.

A DUI charge against Daniel Akers, 37, of Teaberry, was dismissed after the arresting officer, Deputy Sheriff John Blackburn, failed to appear in court.

In what was described by prosecutor Dan Rowland as "a strange little case," a jury Monday convicted Kenneth Ray Hinton, of Auxier, of wanton endangerment and fined him $100. Steve Barnett, of West Prestonsburg, accused Hinton of trying to run him down near Hardee's Restaurant here on Feb. 10, when Barnett was on a bicycle and Hinton allegedly pursued him along the highway shoulder in a sports car.

Hinton denied the charge, saying he was in class that day at Prestonsburg High School. Questions by the prosecutor suggested that Hinton was angry with Barnett because of Barnett's friendship with Hinton's wife.

John Reed, of Hueysville, was sentenced to 30 days on a charge of terroristic threatening. Ishmael Shepherd, also of Hueysville, said Reed threatened last February to shoot him. Jamie Pennington, of Bull Creek, was ordered to do two days of public service and was put on probation for another 30 days after pleading guilty to reckless driving and wanton endangerment.

A $300 cash bond put up by Johnny Burchett, of Harold, was ordered to be paid to his ex-wife, Tammie Burchett, who accused him of being about $3000 in arrears in child support. Timothy W. Collett, of Garrett, was given 30 days, probated for two years, after pleading guilty to a charge of theft. Ronald E. Spears, 34, of West Prestonsburg, was sentenced to five days in his absence and fined $557 for driving on a suspended license. Gwen and Kendall Layne were sentenced to five-day terms in their absence and each fined $82 for passing cold checks at the Piggly Wiggly supermarket; Gregory Grace, 22, of Allen, received a 30 day sentence, probated for two years, and ordered to pay $82, for threatening Prestonsburg police officer Mike Meade.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC

The adult Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church will hold a picnic at the spillway at Dewey Dam, Friday, at 6 p.m. All class members are urged to attend.

Participate in MSU Robotics Workshop

It was back to the classroom for participants in Morehead State University's sixth annual Robotics for Educators Workshop recently. The week-long program provided an introduction to robotic technology with hands-on experience. Participating in the workshop were, from left, David Mastin, of Amburgey, an industrial arts teacher at Knott County High School; Laurel Sims, of East Point, an English teacher at Prestonsburg High School; Madonna Rice, of Paintsville, a science teacher at Paintsville Middle School; Reajohnia Blankenship, of Van Lear, a secondary math teacher at Sheldon Clark High School; Donna Collins and Charles Collins, of Prestonsburg. Donna is a third grade teacher and Charles is a physical education teacher at Prestonsburg Elementary. (MSU photo by Ray Bradley)

VISIT RED BIRD MISSION

Several young people of the Community United Methodist Church went to the Red Bird Mission near Pineville, last week, for an overnight visit. While there, they toured the Red Bird Clinic, the school, and craft shop. They also spent some time visiting the Henderson Settlement School and Pineville State Park. Accompanying the group were the Rev. and Mrs. Ron Masters, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Leslie, and Mr. and Mrs. Durward Hale.

VISIT IN INDIANA

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Osborne, their daughter, Mrs. Jane Bond, and her children, Holly and Aaron, visited recently with Mrs. Osborne's sister, Mrs. Larry Gagle, and Mr. Gagle, in Fremont, Indiana, and their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beavers, in Frankfort, Indiana.

REBEKAHS MEET

The members of Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 met in regular session, July 15, with the Noble Grand, Mrs. Sue Moore, presiding. Attention was called to the passing of a State Past President, Mrs. Ruth Congleton, of Lexington and the altar was draped in her memory. The secretary's semi annual report was read by Mrs. Mabel Jean LeMaster, and the per-capita tax was allowed. Present for this meeting were Mesdames Sue Moore, Virginia Goble, Venelia Rinehart, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Doris Miller, Paulena Owens, and Miss Kelly Sue Moore. The next meeting will be held August 5, at 7:30 p.m., at the Lodge Hall.

ATTEND WEDDING

Mrs. Oliver Webb, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Webb, Jr., attended the wedding of their nephew and cousin, Dr. John Robert Hereford, to Miss Sheri Pilgrim, at the First Presbyterian Church in Kingsport, Tennessee, Saturday. While there, they also attended a luncheon, given by Dr. Hereford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hereford, of Prestonsburg, for relatives of the groom's family and out-of-town guests.

RETURN TO PHOENIX

Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Blockie) Layne have returned to their home in Phoenix, Arizona, following a visit here with his daughter, Deva Sue Robinson, and family, and other relatives and friends.

PURCHASES HOME, HERE

Mrs. Honey May, formerly of Prestonsburg, who has resided for awhile in Lincoln county, has purchased the home of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Wells Garriott on the corner of Richmond Street and Maple Avenue, and expects to move here in the near future.

Smith-Shenefield To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith, of East Point, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Jacquelin to Gregory Shenefield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shenefield, of Pikeville.

The bride is a graduate of Johnson Central High School and is presently attending Prestonsburg Community College, majoring in education.

The bridegroom is a graduate of John's Creek High School and is presently employed with the Kentucky Power Company, of Pikeville.

The wedding will be solemnized by the Rev. Sammie Adkins July 25 at 7:30 p.m. at the Pikeville Free Will Baptist Church on Chloe Creek Road. The gracious custom of an open wedding will be observed. A reception will follow immediately after the ceremony at the church.

SOLOIST AT CHURCH SERVICE

Craig Hartje and Miss Karen Horton, of Cincinnati, who, with Miss Rebecca Haywood, of Falmouth, spent the weekend with Miss Haywood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Haywood, attended services at the First United Methodist Church with them, Sunday morning. Mr. Hartje was trumpet soloist there, and he dedicated one of his compositions, entitled "Bless the Lord," to Miss Haywood, who was accompanied by Mr. Hartje on the trumpet and David B. Leslie at the piano.

HERE FROM VIRGINIA

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Leftwich, their daughter, Brenda, and their son, Glenn, of Lynchburg, Virginia, accompanied by Mrs. Leftwich's mother, Mrs. Virginia Garth Sutherland, of Madison Heights, Virginia, were here during the weekend for a visit with Dr. John Sutherland and his mother, Mrs. Minnie Grace Sutherland, Sunday. Dr. Sutherland entertained with a dinner at May Lodge, having as his guests, Dr. Sutherland's mother, Mrs. Minnie Grace Sutherland, of Prestonsburg, and Miss Rita Mulka, of Lexington.

ATTEND BAPTIST MEET

The Baptist Enterprise Association meeting and dinner were held at the Liberty Baptist Church, Tuesday evening, July 15, with that church and the West Van Lear Baptist Church co-hosting the event. Mrs. Connie Kinzel, Area Associational Director of the W.M.U., who presided, and Mrs. Judy Short, of Allen, planned the program for the evening. The Rev. Charles Wilson, Director of Home Missions at Wheelwright, spoke. He was accompanied by Mrs. Wilson. Group singing and games were enjoyed, and dinner was served to a large crowd. Those from the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial) who were there included Mesdames Patsy Evans, Zella Archer, Lucy Regan, Myrtle Allen, Sarah Laven, and Goldia Williams.

MOVE TO LOUISVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Akers, former Floyd countians who lived for a number of years in Indiana, returning to this county following their retirement, and living until recently, at Banner, have moved to Louisville. Before leaving, the deacons of the First Baptist Church, here, entertained them with a breakfast. Mrs. Grace Conley, teacher, and members of the Fidelis Sunday School class, of which Mrs. Akers was a member, presented her with a gift. Mr. Akers was given the title of Deacon Emeritus, and presented a Bible by the church. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Laven entertained with a cook-out at their home at Allen. Enjoying the latter event were the honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. Akers, Ellis and Elizabeth Bailey, and Mesdames Goldia Williams and Mildred Hall, all of Allen; Carlos and Arthur Haywood, of Prestonsburg; Polly and Ted Akers, of La Grange, Kentucky, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Laven.

RETIRED TEACHERS' PICNIC

Members of the Floyd County Retired Teachers' Association held a picnic at Archer Park, Tuesday, July 15. The vice president, Miss Ruby Akers, conducted several games and contests with prizes being awarded to Mesdames Danese Amburgey, Mildred Salisbury, Virginia Goble, Ethel Ratliff, and June Stephens, and Ed Wright.

Lunch was enjoyed, with Arthur Haywood giving the blessing, after which the president, Mrs. Danese Amburgey, held a brief business session. The next meeting will be in conjunction with the annual K.R.T.A.-B.S.R.T. Workshop, at May Lodge, Thursday, September 11.

Present were members and guests, Danese Amburgey, Ed Wright, Ruby Akers, Arthur Haywood, Sarah Laven, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Prater, Sarah Laven, Ethel Ratliff, Goldia Williams, Annis Clark, Grace Conley, Elizabeth Bailey, Mildred Hall, Mildred Whitaker, Eva and Harmison Hale, Lucy Regan, Virginia Goble, Docia Woods, Mildred Salisbury, Lucy Regan, and June Stephens.

Overpayments Mean Costly Debt For Social Security

By JIM KELLY.

Social Security District Director Preventing unnecessary debt has become one of the priorities of government agencies in these belt-tightening times. The General Accounting Office (GAO) reported several years ago that billions of dollars owed the federal government represented waste and a drain on the public purse. President Reagan subsequently issued an executive order requiring federal agencies to maintain a program of debt prevention and collection.

People getting Social Security benefits have an interest in preventing such debt both as taxpayers and as people who rely on a soundly-financed program to furnish a portion of their retirement income. Money owed Social Security is generally from benefit overpayments to people who have received benefits to which they are not entitled. Generally, they have failed to report certain changes in circumstances which affect payment of benefits. The law requires that benefit overpayments be repaid to the trust funds. This may be done by withholding portions of future checks or in a lump sum.

The greatest source of debt is excess earnings. As a result, SSA has taken special steps to insure that people report excess earnings before they are overpaid.

Debt due to excess earnings occurs when people fail to report earnings over the annual limit a Social Security beneficiary may have without affecting his or her benefit amount. Earnings over the limit reduce the benefit $1 for every $2 of earnings over the limit. In 1986, the annual limits are $7,800 for people 65-70 and $5,760 for people under 65 all of 1986. Working beneficiaries are required to submit annual reports by April 15 showing how much they earned the preceding year and give an estimate of earnings for the current year. Current benefits are adjusted based on the estimate of earnings reported.

Last year, for the second time, Social Security sent working beneficiaries a mid-year notice requesting an earnings update. The results have yet to be evaluated, but if it is anything like the first year, we expect a significant improvement in the accuracy of earnings reports and prevention of overpayments.

SSA estimates that outstanding debt was reduced by $400 million by the end of Fiscal Year 1985, a reversal of the growth of debt at the rate of $200 million annually in recent years. More than 50 percent of the reduction is attributed to early date prevention activities aimed at preventing overpayments due to excess earnings.

People can avoid overpayments simply by taking more care with the earnings reports they file. People should be sure the earnings estimates are realistic; and when there are changes in the estimates, report them to Social Security as soon as possible. Reports can be made to any Social Security Office.

The Big Sandy area Social Security office is located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under U.S. Government.

The Work Experience and Career Exploration Program helps 14- and 15-year old youths likely to drop out of school, according to the Labor Department's annual report for fiscal year 1985.

Miss Hackworth-Mr. Frasure Wed

The marriage of Miss Linda Hackworth to Mr. Ricky Frasure was solemnized at 2 p.m., Saturday, June 14, at the First Assembly of God Church at Martin.

The Rev. Lorie Vannucci performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with greenery and candelabra holding white tapers.

A program of music was presented by "The Soul Searchers", Anna Marie Crum, Thelma Samons, Sheila Kay Rowe, and Barbara Jean Castle, vocalists, accompanied by guitarist, Rupert Samons, Jr., and bass player, Bobby Webb, Mrs. David Woofter, vocalist, accompanied herself on piano, and also played the traditional wedding march. Vocal selections included "He," and "The Lord's Prayer" was sung by Mr. and Mrs. Woofter.

Given in marriage by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rebel Hackworth, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white schiffli embroidered net and venice lace with chapel train. Her veil was of schiffli net and venice lace and small pearls. The bridal bouquet was of white miniature roses and green ivy.

Matron of honor was Charlotte Hook, of Prestonsburg, and bridesmaids were Sherry Crum, of Martin, and Kimberly Walker, of Prestonsburg.

They wore identical deep purple, floor-length gowns of satin and carried matching bouquets of purple and white roses.

April Samons, cousin of the groom, was flower girl and carried a white basket filled with white rose petals.

Best man was Keith Frasure, brother of the groom. Ushers were Mike Patrick and Rick Music, both of Prestonsburg. Ringbearer was Paul David Stanley, Jr., nephew of the bride.

A reception followed immediately in the church social hall. The wedding cake, baked by Lorain Bailey, was four-tiered with lighted fountain and six smaller cakes surrounding it.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Gene Randell Frasure at the church social hall.

The newlyweds expressed their appreciation to everyone who helped at the wedding and rehearsal supper, noting especially Robert Dole Isaac, who videotaped the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Frasure are residing in Martin, following their honeymoon.

Benefits May Continue For Disabled Child

Social Security benefits to children will stop when the child reaches age 18. However if the child has a severe disability it is possible for these benefits to continue, Jim Kelly, Social Security District Director for the Big Sandy Area, said recently.

A child can continue to get monthly payments if he or she has a physical or mental condition that prevents him or her from doing substantial gainful work and that is expected to last at least 1 year, Kelly said.

In many cases the disability has existed since birth, however, the disability onset can be as late as 21 and still meet the requirement for disabled adult child's benefits.

Any parent or guardian of a child Social Security beneficiary that is disabled and approaching age 18 should contact their family doctor for a current evaluation of the child's condition and then contact the Social Security office, Kelly said.

More information about Social Security benefits for children can be obtained at the Big Sandy area Social Security office located on U.S. 23, Prestonsburg.

Floyd Seniors To Attend ALC As Memorial Scholars

Bill Melton, Director of Admissions at Alice Lloyd College, has announced the most recent recipients of ALC's most prestigious scholarship. Linda Janise Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hall, of McDowell; Lisa Ann Scalf, daughter of Mrs. Jessie Scalf, of Beaver; and Sean Michael Ousley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Ousley, of Manton, have accepted the Memorial Scholarship for the 1986-87 school year as incoming freshmen.

The Memorial Scholarship guarantees the student will have no out-of-pocket expenses for room, board, or tuition at Alice Lloyd College for the academic year. The scholarship is the equivalent of a $4230 yearly grant and is renewable each year the student is at Alice Lloyd College and as long as the student maintains a "B" or better average while completing a minimum of 15 hours each semester.

Attend F.F.A. Leadership Camp

Recently, five members of the Prestonsburg Future Farmers of America participated in a Leadership Training Camp with 240 other Future Farmers from all across the state. While in Hardinsburg, the group received leadership training for officers and attended specialized classes such as boating, swimming or hunter safety. The group received honorable mention during cabin inspection. Mark Poe, far left, above, captured first place over all other twenty-two chapters in the talent competition. Scott Shank, far right, placed high in the F.F.A. quiz contest. David Spradlin, third from left, received the outstanding leadership award and captured second place in both the freestyle diving and softball throw. Other members attending were Paul Shepherd and Gary Garrett, third and fifth from left, who also attended the F.F.A. state convention in Louisville this year. While in Hardinsburg, the group was supervised by their teacher Ron Hampton, second from left.

Floyd County Students Awarded UK Scholarship

Two Floyd county students have been awarded scholarships to attend the University of Kentucky this fall.

The announcement was made by UK Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs Donald Sands. "The scholarships are awarded on the basis of outstanding academic achievement as demonstrated by a student's high school grade point average and national college test scores," he said.

The Floyd county students are:

—William M. Hager, son of Randall and Judith C. Hager, of Prestonsburg. Hager, a senior at Prestonsburg High School, received a Commonwealth Scholarship for the freshman year.

—Michael Horn, of Banner, is a transfer student from Prestonsburg Community College and received a two-year Distinguished Community College Scholarship.

Blackburn Promoted

Marine Pfc. Scottie R. Blackburn, son of Archel and Emma J. Blackburn, of Endicott, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with 2nd Marine Division Camp Lejeune, N.C. A 1985 graduate of Prestonsburg High School, he joined the Marine Corps in September, 1985.

New License Plates For Autos Approved

State Transportation Secretary C. Leslie Dawson has directed the Corrections Cabinet to proceed with plans for the production of the new license plate to be issued in 1988.

Dawson's directive complies with legislation passed by the 1986 General Assembly calling for a new license plate for passenger cars registered in Kentucky.

For a number of years Dawson said, Kentucky's plates have been criticized because of rust problems and law enforcement agencies have complained that officers could not easily locate the plates at night.

"We believe that the fully reflectorized aluminum will provide Kentucky's drivers with a long-lasting plate that will also be far safer for the traveling public."

He added the law enforcement agencies were unanimous in strongly urging the Transportation Cabinet to adopt the fully reflectorized plates. Those agencies included the Kentucky State Police, the Kentucky Sheriffs' Association, the Kentucky Chiefs of Police Association and the Kentucky Peace Officers' Association, as well as numerous national law enforcement agencies.

In addition, Dawson said the graphics of the new plate are designed to promote Kentucky's tourism industry.

As directed by the legislature, the new plates will contain the word Kentucky centered above the county name and the words Bluegrass State centered at the bottom of the plate below the license number.

As designed by the Kentucky Department of Arts, the plates will also show the world-famous twin spires of Churchill Downs and the silhouette of a mare and foal.

"The General Assembly sought to accomplish a number of goals with this new plate," Dawson said, "and I think the result of this cooperative effort is the nation's most attractive vehicle license plate and certainly one of the safest."

The new plates will cost approximately $1.50 each, an increase of 85 cents. Under the new legislation, an additional 50 cents will be charged to the public at time of registration and an additional 50 cents when plates are renewed. The total additional cost is expected to be paid sometime in the 1990-92 biennium.

Complaint Against Dr. Ameji Dropped

On the recommendation of a hearing officer, the Kentucky Board of Medical Licensure has dismissed a complaint filed in January against Paintsville physician Bashir Ameji.

Dr. Ameji had been accused of admitting three patients to hospital and then neglecting them for up to 40 hours. Hearing officer B. Frank Radmacher II found that Ameji had not admitted two of the patients in question and did provide care for the third.

Of 11 patients for whom Ameji was accused of prescribing drugs with the knowledge that they would be sold, the hearing officer said there was no evidence to substantiate charges that the drugs were prescribed in excessive amounts or that the physician knew they would likely be abused.

The hearing officer held that a physician who reviewed Dr. Ameji's medical charts reached false conclusions because he was not given all the charts. Three other physicians, who reviewed all the records, found Ameji's treatment acceptable, he noted.

Sponsors Reading Contest For Kids

Once again KET is offering the summer "Reading Rainbow" series and bookclub. "Reading Rainbow" is the summer reading series for children which airs daily, Monday through Friday, at 5:30 p.m. on KET. LeVar Burton is the host for the popular series which features stories based on books published for young readers.

The "Reading Rainbow Bookclub" was established by KET three years ago. This year KET has printed 40,000 bookmarks which have been placed in libraries statewide by Ellen Hellard, director, Division for Field Services, Department for Libraries. In addition, bookmarks have been distributed to bookstores in the Commonwealth. Bookstore vendors and librarians are giving the bookmarks away to families of young readers who use their facilities.

Children are encouraged to read at least six books this summer (either from the suggested list on the bookmark or of their choice), fill out the form contained on the bookmark and send it to KET. In turn, each young reader will receive a red button certifying membership in the "Reading Rainbow Club."

This fall KET will sponsor a drawing which uses each bookmark as an entry form. Six lucky winners will have their choice of several exciting prizes, including a Sesame Street sleeping bag, a director's chair and a National Geographic Society book set for young readers.

Hundreds of bookmarks already have been received for the September 30 deadline, but parents are encouraged to have their children send in their bookmarks as soon as possible. If bookmarks cannot be located at the local library or bookstore, requests can be made to Dale Josey, the KET Reading Rainbow Bookclub coordinator, at (606) 233-3000, Ext. 307.

TICK PARALYSIS

COPYRIGHT 1986 KVMA

Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association

A few cases will be seen in Kentucky each year and any veterinarian can diagnose and treat it, yet tick paralysis is a condition not generally known to most laymen until their dog (or other animal) is down with it.

It occurs most often in spring and summer, and while it can affect almost any animal it is seen most often in sheep, dogs and humans.

Symptoms are easily recognized, at least when the condition runs full course. Medical literature defines it as "an ascending motor paralysis in domestic and wild animals." A fever may or may not precede the onset of the clinical syndrome, and muscles will be flabby and weak.

Onset is gradual, the paralysis first showing up as incoordination in the hind legs, resulting in difficulty in walking. Sensation may be present, but reflexes deteriorate. The paralysis spreads over a period of one to two days, at the end of which time the animal may be completely immobilized. Extreme instances can result in death by respiratory paralysis.

There is general agreement that the cause is a neurotoxin produced by certain ticks during feeding. In the United States, the important species are Dermacentor andersoni and D variabilis and sometimes Amblyomma maculatum and A americanum.

Heavy infestation is not necessary to cause the condition, frequently the bite of one tick causes paralysis.

Best treatment is prevention. Tick infested areas should be avoided during the tick season, if possible. If not possible, animals should be treated with an acaricide (tick-killing agent), several of which are commercially available.

If animals are infested, removal of the ticks by hand if often effective. Frequently, the removal of the tick results in complete recovery of the animal.

Humans should wear tight fitting clothes in tick infested areas, and use insect repellent.

Your veterinarian is qualified to treat the condition, and the earlier he sees the animal the better.

He is also kept up-to-date on outbreaks of the condition and in which areas, and can advise you which acaricides are both effective and available in your area.

Martin Native Is Recipient Of Nat'l Honor

Nimrod Workman, noted Appalachian ballad singer, who was born in Martin, song writer and tale teller extraordinary, is one of 13 recipients of a National Heritage Fellowship from the National Endowment for the Arts.

According to Commissioner Crit Luallen, of the Kentucky Department of the Arts, the fellowships were established five years ago to recognize the contributions of the nation's outstanding traditional artists to America's cultural heritage. "It is a great credit to the arts of Kentucky to have Mr. Workman named among this distinguished group," she said.

Workman, born in 1895 to a farming family, was named after his grandfather, a full-blooded Cherokee Indian, who fought in the "Rebel and Yankee War" and who taught his namesake the old ballads from Britain and the ancient Scottish wars.

Workman once remarked, "I made this song to fit my own category." His own category requires a double vision—on the one hand, it is enormous, spanning the history of Appalachia in the 20th century; on the other, it is tiny and singular, encompassing the protean talents of this remarkable man. The young folks who run the media center, Appalshop, in Whitesburg, say of Nimrod, "Mention anything about the history of the southern mountains in this century; Nimrod was in the center of it."

He went into the mines—the nearby Howard Collieries—at the age of 14 and retired in 1952 with lung and back problems. He memorialized the events of his life in the many songs he composed, but he keeps fresh in his repertoire the ancient songs of his heritage, as well.

Now of Mascot, Tenn. and Chattahoochee, W. Va., Workman himself has been memorialized in two Kentucky-based projects, the Appalshop film, "Nimrod Workman: To Fit My Own Category," and his own recording, "Passing Through the Garden," produced by his daughter, Phyllis Workman Boyens, who is also a fine singer.

At the age of 91, Nimrod Workman continues to tour, to sing to children, to remind his listeners everywhere of the dark history of Appalachia, to reinvigorate young and old audiences with his own joyous and unconquerable spirit.

Each recipient of the National Heritage Fellowship receives a certificate and a stipend of $5,000. They will be honored at official ceremonies in the nation's Capitol in early September.

What do you call that little metal or plastic tip on the end of your shoelace? An aglet, say the experts.

Registration Asked

The Paintsville Art League, coordinating the Arts and Crafts section of the Kentucky Apple Festival of Johnson county for 1986, invites local artists and crafts people to show and sell their handmade work at the 24th year of the event.

To reserve space, interested parties should pick up a registration form from Commercial Printers, Meade's Jewelry, or Wells Insurance Agency and mail it, and their check, promptly.

No one will be allowed to sell out of any vehicle. Participants must have their own booth or table. Adequate parking will be available. No food, no drinks and no flea market items will be sold within the Arts and Crafts section.

All participants should be set up and ready by 10 a.m. Friday, October 3. Set up will also be allowed Thursday, October 2, from 4 to 8 p.m. There will be a night guard on duty at the Arts and Crafts location at the Paintsville Elementary School parking lot.

Used By Ancients, Bee Pollen Does It All, Its Boosters Avow

It lowers high blood pressure, promotes weight loss, alleviates allergy symptoms, gives added energy, and, oh yes, increases virility.

All these benefits, and more, result from eating bee pollen, according to some of its users. It is an impressive group of prominent folk, best known of whom is President Reagan. For more than two decades, the youthful looking 74-year-old has eaten bee pollen daily and snacks on bee pollen bars.

Bee pollen is not honey but a product of the beehive. When the bee, laden with pollen accumulated from forays into flowers, enters the hive equipped with wire mesh openings, it drops one of its pods into a "pollen drawer." This pollen is then made into tablets, capsules and raw granules.

According to Jim Devlin, founder of Mr. Bee Pollen, one of seven major companies producing the product, bee pollen is "nature's most perfect food," containing all 22 basic ingredients that the body needs.

THIS VALUABLE nutrient has been a staple through the ages. The ancient Israelites were reputedly sustained on it when they journeyed from Egypt to the Promised Land. Athletes of ancient Greece and Rome consumed it to increase stamina. Hippocrates, father of modern medicine, recommended it to retard aging.

Devlin, 52, an ebullient former priest from Ireland, credits bee pollen with transforming him from an overweight, chronically tired man with thinning gray hair to an energetic individual, with no health problems and a healthy crop of red hair.

Other pollen converts relate similar experiences. One is David

Jane Helmlich
Helping Yourself

Schwartzburg, executive vice president of Packer Plastics.

As Schwartzburg related, one and a half years ago, his blood pressure reached a dangerous level, and high doses of medication failed to bring it down. "The drug itself left me physically and emotionally drained," he said.

Soon after, on a business trip, an associate urged Schwartzburg to eat bee pollen, and shared his tablets with him. Returning home four days later, Schwartzburg checked his blood pressure, as was his custom, on his electronic model, and, to his astonishment, the reading was normal.

"I COULDN'T believe it, particularly after a stressful trip. I went to my doctor to verify the reading, and his was the same." Since then, the executive's blood pressure has remained normal, "and I feel great."

Another bee pollen user is P.J. Cooksey, only female jockey to ride in both the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness.

"In my business, weight is measured in ounces, not pounds," said the 5-foot-tall jockey. Prior to her introduction to bee pollen six months ago, "my weight fluctuated, climbing as high as 110 pounds." Now a Mr. Bee Pollen distributor as well, she says, "I'm down to 106, and have more energy—I don't need a nap even though I'm up at six and frequently ride at night."

(To locate a Mr. Bee Pollen distributor in your area, call Greg Reynolds, 606-437-6425).

This so-called wonder food has its critics. While acknowledging that bee pollen is "a rich source of protein... the notion that it has magical powers or bestows athletic prowess is totally without foundation," says Jane Brody, personal health columnist for the New York Times.

DR. DAVID JONES, chief of staff of Anderson (Ind.) Hospital, considers bee pollen a rich source of essential enzymes and beta carotene (precursor of vitamin A believed to protect against cancer), and advises his patients to eat it. (Jones recommends Arizona pollen because it comes from an unpolluted area.)

"In some patients, bee pollen, which contains trace minerals that promote healing, can relieve backache, arthritis, heal severe sores and ulcers, and increase virility."

To avoid possible allergic reactions to flower pollen, start with small doses of bee pollen, Jones advised. If you have a history of hay fever, asthma or allergies, start with one-quarter tablet. If no such history, take one tablet the first day, then gradually work up to 1,000 mg. a day.

If ill or severely fatigued, see your doctor before considering pollen supplementation, Jones said.

In preparing raw granules, the most potent form of bee pollen, Devlin suggests grinding granules in a blender, and adding fresh fruit juice. Or, sprinkle granules over cereal or yogurt.

Jane Helmlich is a Cincinnati author and free-lance writer.

AWAY WITH DRY

A new prescription drug for people with dry, itching, flaking and scaling skin has become available. Approved by the Food and Drug Administration, its secret ingredient is ammonium lactate. This is a new chemical compound made up of lactic acid and ammonium hydroxide. Lactic acid is a naturally occurring acid that draws water into the skin. Ammonium hydroxide is added to remove the acid's sting. Strangely enough, the manufacturer is not exactly sure how the drug works. It seems that it makes epidermal cells reproduce and travel to the surface of the skin in a more normal way than before treatment. The skin cells stay normal as long as two weeks after treatment.

Whether you need to replenish your supply of aspirins or have a prescription that needs to be filled, place your confidence in our staff at COOLEY APOTHECARY. Senior citizens are particularly special to us. We take the extra care to be sure they understand the directions and use of prescriptions and are aware of side effects to watch for. You'll find us conveniently located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:

The only side effect to the new skin drug discussed above is that it may slightly sting people with extremely sensitive skin.

"SELF-PORTRAIT" is the title of the work, an aqua tint intaglio, displayed here by the artist Andrea Combs, of Langley, whose collection of prints, sculptures, and architectural structures is currently on display at the Floyd County Library. Also being exhibited is a collection of self-glazed ceramic pots by her sister, Angela Combs.

Earthquake Prediction Gets Astronomy Boost

By EMILY ISBERG
Smithsonian News Service

Ever since the 1906 earthquake that rocked San Francisco, scientists have looked for warning signs of future quake activity along the San Andreas fault, where the crustal plates underlying the Pacific Ocean and North America slide past each other. Now, evidence is accumulating that stress also is building up in other nearby regions.

The Pacific and North American plates are believed to move past each other at a rate of about 2 inches a year, but recent observations suggest that only 60 percent of this motion actually occurs along the San Andreas fault.

The rest of the motion may be occurring elsewhere in the boundary region, which is like a crazy quilt with pieces of the Earth's crust moving in somewhat different directions at slightly different rates. Although the findings are preliminary, scientists with the Crustal Dynamics Project of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration are beginning to discern some pattern to this complex motion.

Dr. David Smith is a scientist with the CDP at Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md. "In California," Smith says, "we're seeing the expected rate of movement between the most westerly and easterly stations on opposite sides of the San Andreas fault. As we move closer to the fault, movements are slower—only an inch or so in some areas."

Recent measurements, taken with an astronomical technique called Very Long Baseline Interferometry, have shown that Vandenberg Air Force Base on the Pacific Coast is moving in relation to stations in the eastern California desert at the full plate tectonic rate of 2 to 2½ inches per year. But stations in Pasadena and Monument Peak, which are both south of Vandenberg and somewhat closer to the San Andreas fault, appear to be moving only 1 inch and 1½ inches, respectively, in relation to sites in eastern California.

"When regions are not moving at the full plate tectonic rate, it indicates that strain is accumulating," Smith says. "The ground and the rock beneath it are being compressed in a way that at some point could lead to an earthquake or other seismic activity."

Using VLBI, scientists can determine the distance between two radio antennas from the slight differences in the time it takes radio signals to travel from quasars, the most distant objects in the universe, to each of the antennas. Usually, the telescopes in a VLBI system are stationary. But in California and neighboring states, mobile radio telescopes are transported across the region by truck, enabling scientists to make repeated observations at two dozen sites.

Combined with data from other measurement techniques, the VLBI results are expected to provide a picture of crustal movement and deformation in the California area that could help indicate where and when future earthquakes might occur.

The VLBI measurements, though exciting, are still preliminary and at times controversial. There is still some disagreement over the rate of crustal movement within the North American plate, for example, with some measurements indicating no statistically significant motion and other measurements indicating motion that could easily produce enough strain to account for the major earthquakes that have shaken the interior of the United States in the past century. Scientists at the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics, among others, are currently analyzing the data and looking for possible sources of the discrepancy.

Free SCSR Seminar Sept. 3 at Martin

September 3, the University of Kentucky Institute for Mining and Minerals Research (IMMR) and the U.S. Department of Labor Mine Safety and Health Administration will be sponsoring a one-day free seminar entitled Self-Contained Self-Rescuer (SCSR) Mine Instructor Training to be held at the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals Training Center in Martin.

This seminar is one of the MSHA Special Emphasis State Grants programs developed to provide critical safety training for the benefit of the Kentucky coal mine operators. The one-day seminar is designed to review use, care and inspection procedures for the self-contained self-rescuer (SCSR). Four SCSR models will be discussed. The participant will have the opportunity to don the SCSR while performing a training exercise.

Instructor Qualification Cards will be updated and Continuing Education Credit (CEU) will be granted upon completion of the seminar.

Attendance is limited. There will be no fee charged, and advanced registration is recommended.

The wedding will take place August 2, at 1 p.m., at the Vogel-Day Methodist Church. The gracious custom of an open wedding will be observed, and a reception will follow at the church.

WEEKEND GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Haywood had as guests during the weekend, their daughter, Miss Rebecca Haywood, of Falmouth, and Craig Hartje and his bride-to-be, Miss Karen Horton, both of Cincinnati.

To Wed July 25

Mr. and Mrs. Greg Stumbo, of Drift, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Belinda Susan, to Mr. Billy Darrell Stumbo, son of Mr. and Mrs. German Stumbo, of McDowell.

Miss Stumbo is a senior at McDowell High School. Mr. Stumbo is a graduate of McDowell High School and is presently employed at the Pace Coal Company at Orkney.

The wedding will be solemnized Friday, July 25, at 6 p.m. at the Drift Pentecostal Church. The gracious custom of open church will be observed.

VISIT IN COLUMBUS

Mr. and Mrs. J.Y. (Sonny) Goble, their daughter, Mrs. Sue Martin, and their granddaughter, Mrs. Paula Ousley, and daughter, Heather, have returned to their homes, here, following a visit with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beavers, formerly of Prestonsburg, at the home of the Beaver's daughter, Mrs. Nancy Stamp, and son, John, in Columbus, Ohio. Mr. Beavers, who recently spent some time as a hospital patient, and Mrs. Beavers were guests of their daughter and grandson in Columbus for a few weeks following his hospitalization, and have now returned to their home in Frankfort, Indiana, where they received a warm "welcome home" by members of their church and neighbors. Many throughout this area remember the Beavers family, and wish them well.

ATTEND WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hereford, their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Hereford, Miss Laura Hereford, and David Hereford, II, all of Prestonsburg, and Michael Billiter, of Pikeville were in Kingsport, Tennessee during the weekend, where they attended the wedding of Dr. John Robert Hereford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hereford, to Miss Sheri Pilgrim. Miss Laura Hereford served as bridesmaid, and David Hereford and David Hereford, II, served as groomsmen.

FLOWERS PLACED IN CHURCH

During Sunday services at the First Presbyterian Church, a flower arrangement was placed in honor of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Osborne. Also recognized were the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Freed, formerly of Prestonsburg, who now reside in Delaware, and the anniversaries of pastor and Mrs. Timothy Jessen, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Ruffing, and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Price. Rosebuds on the pulpit celebrated the births of Brian Wesley to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Osborne (and grandson of the Ernest Osbornes), July 13, and John Kenneth William, to Dr. and Mrs. Keith King, July 14.

Osborne Reunion Scheduled July 27

The 15th annual Osborne family reunion will be held July 27 at the G.F. Johnson Elementary School on Long Fork in Pike county. Registration will begin at 10 a.m., with a short business meeting and dinner following.

For further information, call Doris Osborne, 377-6772, or Ellis Osborne, 874-9896.

Prestonsburg Senior 14-15-Year-Old All-Stars Win Sub-District Tourney

After falling behind 5-0 the Prestonsburg Senior League All-Stars scored four runs in the third inning and two in the fourth to down Martin County 6-5 Wednesday capturing the Inez hosted sub-district tournament.

THE SUB-DISTRICT TROPHY: Prestonsburg's 14-15 year old Senior Little League All-Stars captured the sub-district title with a Wednesday victory over Martin Co.

Olive Hill Ends P'burg's Season

Olive Hill, on the strength of an eight hit attack and nine Prestonsburg surrendered walks, ended the Prestonsburg 14-15 year old Senior Little League All-Star season with a 8-2 victory.

Olive Hill jumped on the boards first when pitcher Chuck Patrick blasted a two run homerun and added what proved to be the game winner in the second as lead off hitter Brent Lewis connected on another Olive Hill longball.

Prestonsburg, due to their inability to mount an offense attack, never really challenged as Olive Hill pulled away with three runs in the fourth and two more in the seventh.

The Prestonsburg All-Stars scored their two runs in the seventh when Todd Justice and Timmy Martin crossed the plate on Darrell Sparks double.

Thomas Nairn suffered the Prestonsburg loss surrendering three runs in his three innings of work. Nairn received relief help in the fourth inning from Tim Trusty who went on to complete the contest.

Prestonsburg could manage only four hits, two coming off the bat of Todd Justice, in support of Nairn.

With the loss Prestonsburg ends its season but along the way did display enough talent to win a sub-district championship. However, in that tournament Prestonsburg suffered a loss to Martin County, a loss they were forced to take with them. Having lost before going to Louisa turned the second tournament into a single elimination one for Prestonsburg.

The Prestonsburg roster included: Estill Collins; Kevin Adams; Tim Martin; Tim Watkins; Erich Blackburn; Christopher Slone; Dan Hamilton; Todd Justice; Tim Trusty; Darrell Sparks; Craig Tucker; Brent Hackworth; Thomas Nairn; and Paul Thompson.

Eugene Blackburn served as manager while Estill Collins took care of the coaching chores.

With both teams already having suffered one loss in the double elimination tournament, Prestonsburg saw their chances grow slimmer in the first inning when Martin County's Derrick Quillen slammed a two out, two run homerun.

Martin County added insult to injury with three additional runs in the third on two hits and two Prestonsburg errors.

Prestonsburg, not be denied, cut into Martin County lead with four runs in the bottom half of the third inning.

Thomas Nairn opened that crucial third inning with a walk, followed by Tim Trusty's single and the second walk of the inning to Todd Justice.

After a Prestonsburg strike out, Kevin Adams ripped a double, plating three and later scored himself to cut the Martin County lead to one.

Nairn, making his presence felt when leading off an inning, got things underway in the fourth with a triple and later scored on Todd Justice's single.

On the very next pitch Ray Collins collected his second hit of the game when he doubled in Justice with the go ahead and eventual winning run.

Over the final four innings Prestonsburg pitching allowed only two hits. Martin County, however, did have runners on in every inning but could manage to get a runner past second in only one frame.

Prestonsburg, on the other hand, banged out a total of nine hits, lead by Ray Collins and Kevin Adams who collected two hits each.

With the victory Prestonsburg captured the sub-district crown and earned a chance to challenge for the district title. (see related story)

HE'S IN THERE: Prestonsburg Little Leaguer Mike Hopson slides in with a run Friday. Hopson later collected three RBIs with a double.

Prestonsburg Defeats Paintsville For Title

Listen children. We must go quietly for the baseball giant sleeps now but if he awakes we shall surely be defeated in this battle.

He is injured now, having already lost one. All we need is a victory to escape this foreign land with our little league title but, oh no, I hear the giant rumbling now.

The baseball giant (the Prestonsburg Little League), realizing the grave circumstances of losing one battle and being down in another, began rumbling in a distinctive aluminum sound.

After suffering a single injury in the initial Thursday frame, the Prestonsburg giant lashed out with three in the second as Jodie Wallen scored an unearned blow.

Scott Stephens displayed patience with foe (Paintsville), drawing a free pass and later was joined by B.J. Osborne who swatted a single injury and both later returned home safely when the opposing pitcher mistakenly threw hard work and baseballs away.

The foe drew blood in the fourth and sixth frames but thanks to Brent Justice's deep driving longball in the fifth, the baseball giant held off enemy attacks to even the score.

The giant remained alive, thanks to the strong arm of Brett Meadows. The talented diamond warrior struck down nine in his successful attempts to establish the giant's strength and stretching the battle one more day.

Friday came and so did extreme heat but the giant seemed to strengthen when the weather got hot, launching two big blows right off the bat.

First it was giant friend Brent Justice blasting one beyond the fence for two while Brett Meadows exactly matched the feat two hitters later.

The giant, for the first time in a long while, found itself in a commanding position. However, it didn't last long.

The enemy launched a counter attack, sending the giant to the rear. With a score in the second and four in the third, the foe once again had the giant backed against the wall.

Never fear though as the giant came back with seven tallies in the fourth and three in the fifth to stave off a challenge that many thought it could not with stand.

The giant walked away with it's head held high, an area two title, and a trip to Ashland for an upcoming district battle.

Bluegrass State Games Scheduled In Frankfort

Frankfort will be the scene of a statewide canoeing/kayaking competition, August 2, as part of the 1986 Bluegrass State Games.

Leslie Klein, one of four Kentuckians who participated in the 1984 Olympics, is chairperson of the event.

The course for the 500-meter races will be between the bridges on Capital Avenue and Bridge Street. The course for the 10,000-meter races will begin and end at the singing bridge, with the course circling the stretch of river between the Broad Street Bridge and the East-West Bypass Bridge. Spectators may view the race from any of the four bridges.

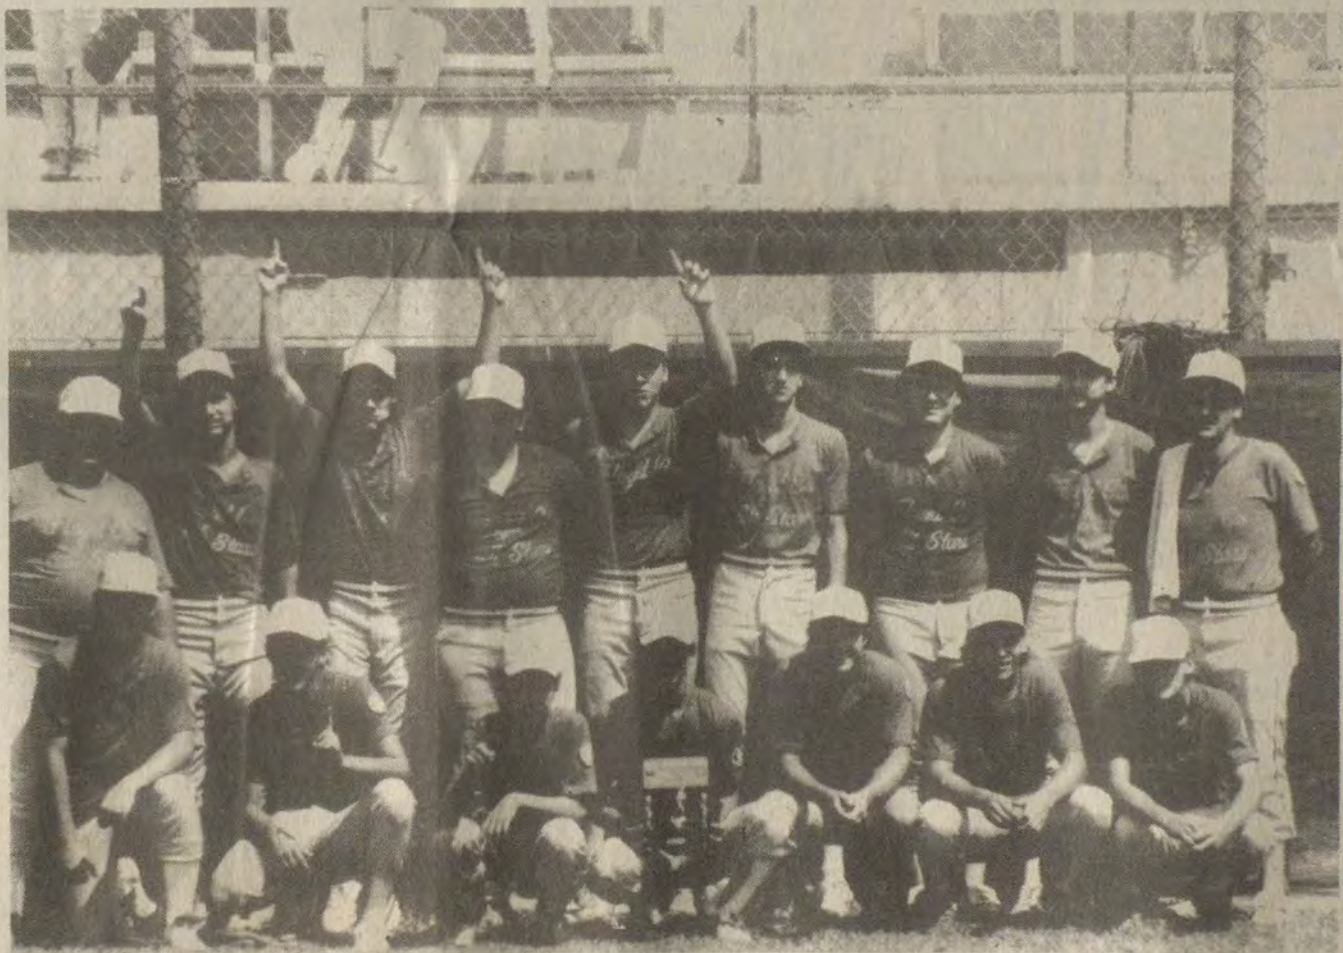

Participants must supply their own canoe or kayak. Klein said that any kind of kayak or canoe will be eligible in one of the classes, and the events will be open to participants of all ages. The deadline for entry is July 18.

Klein, who participated in 1984, praised the Bluegrass State Games as "a grassroots event promoting public awareness toward the national Olympic movement."

The games are Olympic-style amateur competitions that give participants of all ages and athletic skills the opportunity to test their abilities. Begun in 1985 by Gov. Martha Layne Collins, they are the second largest state games in the nation, having drawn over 20,000 competitors last year. Kentucky's games are the only ones to include competition for people with disabilities. This year's games have been expanded from six to 15 events, including track and field, equestrian, bowling, archery, canoeing/kayaking, cycling, diving, gymnastics, shooting, soccer, softball, roller speed skating, swimming, tennis, and volleyball.

For more information on the canoeing/kayaking competition, or on the Bluegrass State Games in general, call 1-800-722-BGSG, or in Frankfort 564-3677.

ASHLAND PROVED TOUGH: These 15 year old Babe Ruth All-Stars found the going tough in the semi-state tournament. Floyd County lost two straight in Ashland to be forced from a shot at the state tournament.

The Sporting Times

By Alton Huff

"Hey Ump. What's wrong with ya? Do you need glasses or something?" "Ah come on. You know that pitch was low." "Hey man, you missed that one. Are you trying to take this one from us?"

Oh yes. Those umpires in the stands!

The people blessed with unbelievable eyesight enabling them to see a close play better from 15 rows up in the bleachers than an umpire standing two feet away from the play.

Many baseball people claim their sport is America's favorite pastime which could very well be true but if baseball is the favorite then shouting nasties at the umpires comes in an immediate second.

I have previously entertained thoughts of trying my hand at calling balls and strikes, he's safe or yer out, but after sitting in the stands during last week's 13 year old tournament I have developed other thoughts that beat those previous ones all to pieces.

Fans were constantly harping at the umpires regardless of how the calls went or whether they were the correct ones or not.

One fan yelled, among many other things, "What's the matter ump? These boys are just 13 years old. Do you want to take the game away from them."

Now, that factor kept running through my mind. It was true about the players being of an early age, a 13 year old impressionable age as a matter of fact. Also an age in which players are learning to play and love the game of baseball.

With all of the harassment the umpiring crew remained poised, continuing their style they had used the entire tournament regardless of who was playing.

One reason why the umpires controlled their actions was a vast working knowledge of the game. One member of the crew has created an excellent reputation as a good umpire during his several years of experience while another enjoys better fortunes as a player for the University of Louisville.

These people handled the situation like pros but, unfortunately for a group of 13 year old boys from Floyd County, the fan actions and reactions weren't as favorable. This talented Floyd County team had been playing solid baseball but under the fan pressure they apparently found themselves falling under the same attitude as their fans, the umpires aren't going to let us win.

One player was overheard yelling to his teammate, saying "come on now. Get a hit. We're not going to let bad calls beat us."

Already they had an excuse, or so they thought, for losing. No one will blame us because our fans know we have been cheated out of this game.

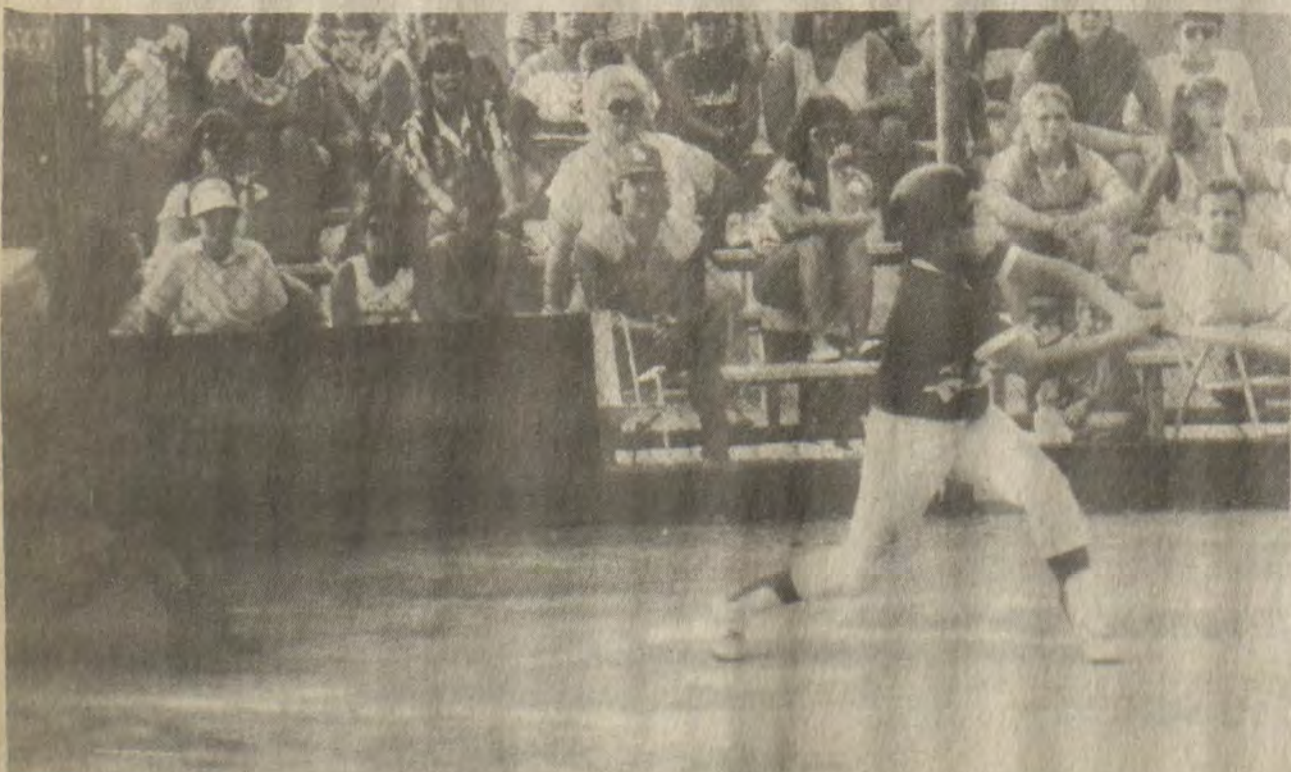

Believe it or not, adverse fans have an adverse effect on young athletes. At this tender age these players should be given the opportunity to learn and grow without the pressure of winning.

Now, criticizing officials is a favorite of mine but it doesn't help anything. In this case it may have cost Floyd County a chance to play in a state tournament, or at least a game.

The players will bounce back because they can play the game but I wonder if their fans will. The game obviously meant more to them or why else would they yell at umpires, opposing players, and even at their own players.

Yelling, screaming, and cheering is common place during a baseball game but when it concerns young people, yell, scream, and cheer for them, not at them.

The biggest salt water fish ever recorded as having been caught with a rod and reel was a 1,560-pound Black Marlin caught in Peru in 1953.

HOMERUN FORM: Brett Meadows shows off his homerun swing during Friday's final game. Meadows hit a two run shot Friday and earned a mound victory Thursday.

SHORT SPORTS

The Cincinnati Bengals will officially open training camp tomorrow with the first practice to be held on Friday.

Rookies and veterans alike are all expected to report on the same day, Thursday, after the Bengals' unsuccessful attempts to sign their draft choices.

Rookie camp had been scheduled to open July 20 but due to lack of agreement between draftees and front office people, the camp was cancelled.

Included in the Bengals draft, which they have signed two of 17, are the cream of the linebacking crop, Joe Kelly from Washington and Tennessee speedy wide receiver Tim McGee.

Cincinnati is beginning their third year under Head Coach Sam Wyche. In the previous two seasons the Bengals have gotten off to 0-5 and 1-4 starts. In both seasons the Bengals have fallen one victory short of a Central Division championship.

If the current injury trend continues the Cincinnati Reds might become the first team to abandon the 24 man major league baseball roster.

Cincinnati has suffered a host of injuries during the season with the latest being starting lefthanded pitcher Chris Welsh.

Welsh, 3-3, was placed on the Reds ever growing disabled last Friday after suffering torn cartilage in his left knee Thursday night.

Welsh joins outfielder Tracy Jones and shortstop Dave Concepcion on the DL while Nick Esasky and Mario Soto returned from the list of the injured.

Esasky made his presence felt with two hits in his first two games back while Soto started his first game Monday night since arm pains struck early in the season.

Morehead State University bound quarterback Chris Swarts came off the bench to throw for 124 yards as the Kentucky football All-Stars defeated Tennessee 24-0 Saturday night.

The Bath County High product earned most valuable player honors while leading his Kentucky team to their first victory over Tennessee since the series began. The record now stands at 3-1 in favor of the Volunteer state.

Lefthanded Golf Tourney Set

The Kentucky Association of Left-Handed Golfers is hosting its second annual state tournament this summer at Griffin Gate Golf Course in Lexington, on the weekend of August 9 and 10. The purpose of this organization is to enjoy competitive golf and meet new friends, while promoting left-handed golf across the state. The tournament will attract left-handed golfers from across the state and from neighboring states. Last year's tournament had 76 participants, representing 7 states.

The Kentucky Association of Left-Handed Golfers is a division of the National Association of Left-Handed Golfers whose headquarters is located at 10149 Hammerly, #714, Houston, Texas. It is a non-profit organization and has been in existence for fifty years, promoting left-handed golf across the nation.

Short Sports

Basketball fans across the United States have been smiling after the U.S. basketball squad defeated the USSR Sunday night to capture the 1986 World Basketball Championships held in Madrid, Spain.

However, no one in America boasts a bigger smile than North Carolina coach Dean Smith. Smith's regular Tar Heel guard Kenny Smith lead the U.S. with 23 points, two of those came with 23 seconds left to raise the U.S. team above the USSR 87-85.

With the victory the United States earned a gold medal and their first World Basketball Championship since 1954 when they downed Brazil.

The United States advanced to the finals of the gold medal round with a 96-80 thrashing of Brazil while the USSR advanced by making up a nine point difference with 49 seconds left, going on to defeat Yugoslavia in overtime.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., July 21—A hot, muggy weekend kept angling activity light across Kentucky, with the most productive and most comfortable fishing early and late in the day or at night during the July 19-20 period covered by this report. The lake-by-lake rundown, as reported by conservation officers or creel clerks at each lake:

KENTUCKY: No report available.

BARKLEY: White bass were taking slab spoons and shallow runners near tributary mouths; black bass were taking plastic worms or crankbaits over drop offs; catfish were taking cut bait 10-30 feet deep over river channels; clear, stable at summer pool and 88 degrees.

BARREN: White bass were in the jumps and were taking small spinner baits cast over mud flats; bluegill were hitting worms and crickets off steep banks in 5-15 feet of water; in the tailwaters, small crappie and trout were being caught; clear, stable at summer pool and 90 degrees.

NOLIN: Black bass were hitting spinner baits and plastic worms at night off steep points and rocky banks; bluegill were located off deep walls and rocky banks; walleye were being caught by trolling deep running crank baits; trout were biting on cheese in the tailwaters; clear, stable at summer pool and 89 degrees.

ROUGH RIVER: Bluegill were hitting crickets off rock walls; black bass were taking plastic worms and crank baits at night off points; clear to murky, stable at summer pool and 90 degrees.

TAYLORSVILLE: Black bass were taking crank baits and plastic worms over drop offs; bluegill were biting worms or crickets over shallow banks; murky, rising, two feet above summer pool and 93 degrees.

HERRINGTON: Hybrid rockfish were hitting spinners; black bass were taking crank baits off steep banks; catfish were hitting cut bait fished on the bottom; clear, rising slowly, 16 feet below summer pool and 83 degrees.

GREEN RIVER: White bass were hitting spinners in the jumps; crappie were located off points and rocky banks 12-15 feet deep; clear, stable at summer pool and 84 degrees.

CUMBERLAND: Bluegill were active around gravel banks and brush piles; bass were hitting deep running crank baits over submerged creek channels; clear, falling, 15 feet below summer pool and 85 degrees.

DALE HOLLOW: Black bass were hitting crank baits and plastic worms around weed beds at night; bluegill were biting worms or crickets off deep rocky banks; clear, stable at summer pool and 88 degrees.

LAUREL: No report available.

CAVE RUN: Crappie were hitting minnows 20-25 feet deep over drop offs; black bass were hitting plastic worms cast along shoreline cover; clear, stable at one-half foot above summer pool and 81 degrees.

PAINTSVILLE: Bluegill were active off rocky banks 4-5 feet deep; crappie were around submerged brush approximately eight feet down; trout were active below the dam; clear, rising, 2-1/2 feet below summer pool and 84 degrees.

BUCKHORN: White bass were hitting medium deep runners trolled over old river channels in the lower lake; bluegill were bedding in 4-8 feet of water; clear to muddy, rising slowly, 3-1/2 feet below summer pool and 85 degrees.

GRAYSON: Bluegill were over submerged cover approximately four feet deep; bass were hitting plastic worms around shoreline cover; murky, stable at one foot above summer pool and 82 degrees.

DEWEY: No report available.

FISHTRAP: Catfish were taking nightcrawlers fished 12-15 feet deep on the bottom; black bass were hitting plastic worms around stickups; in tailwaters, catfish were taking cut bait and trout were hitting cheese; clear to muddy, stable at summer pool and 84 degrees.

Little Leaguer Records Big Strike Outs

The Beaver Creek Little League All Stars defeated the Wheelwright All Stars last Saturday in the double elimination tournament held at Allen Park.

Jody Hancock, the son of Joe Hancock and a regular player for the Wayland Dodgers was the winning pitcher.

Hancock recorded a total of 15 strike outs in bringing his team from behind in the 8-4 victory over Wheelwright.

Basketball-Baseball Boosters To Meet Today

The basketball and baseball boosters meeting will be held at 7 p.m. today (Wednesday) at the Wheelwright High School.

Rabies And Wildlife

When most people hear rabies mentioned, the first thing that comes to their minds is a "mad" dog with a foaming mouth and a less than desirable demeanor.

Although dogs are most closely associated with the dread disease, practically any animal can contract rabies and transmit it to man.

Skunks tend to be one of the more common carriers of rabies, and also are known to not show symptoms of rabies for as long as six months.

These animals can apparently "carry" and transmit the disease during this period of time, and according to wildlife biologists with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, skunks are probably responsible for most of the outbreaks of the disease in the wild.

In 1985, a total of 19 cases of rabies in skunks were reported, compared to 21 cases already reported this year. On May 23 of this year, a raccoon from Bluegrass Ordinance Depot in Madison County was found to have rabies. This is the first confirmed case of rabies in raccoons in Kentucky in three years.

Because of this constant threat of rabies among wild animals, it's important to vaccinate any pets that may come in contact with these creatures and strongly caution children to leave them alone.

It's not a particularly good idea to "adopt" wild animals at all, and the threat of getting rabies and having to suffer a series of painful shots should squelch the idea even more.

Summertime seems to be the time when more animals are susceptible to the disease while it is also obviously the time when more people are outdoors. Often a rabid animal will not exhibit a fear of humans, and will allow itself to be picked up.

Normally, wild creatures are not so at ease around humans and will flee when approached. If an animal is observed acting suspicious or out of character, it should be immediately reported to the proper authorities such as the health department, sheriff's office or an area conservation officer.

These animals should not be approached for any reason—remember, rabies do not have to be passed only by a bite, but can enter the body through an open wound. The virus is carried in the infected animal's saliva.

Anyone bitten by a suspected rabid animal (or any animal, for that matter) or even coming in close contact with one should see a physician immediately. If at all possible, try to capture or kill any animal which attacks a person or pet. Health department officials can make positive determination of rabies and decide whether the individual needs to take the painful series of shots which are the only known preventative. If the animal cannot be located, the victim of a bite must usually undergo the rabies treatment as a precaution, since there is no cure once the disease is contracted.

WHO COULD RESIST A SWIMMING POOL and the chance to cool off, if only temporarily, as the temperature climbed into the 90's and stayed there over the weekend?

State Parks Won't Carp Over Weed Control Measure

An insatiable, exotic fish may hold the key to keeping small state-park lakes clear of excess vegetation that can interfere with swimming, boating and the like.

Meet the grass carp, a voracious vegetarian that doesn't know when to stop eating. The rare native of the Far East boasts an appetite for aquatic plant life that compels it to eat up to three times its own weight every day. And the hardy species keeps up this pig-out pace for five years or more.

The state Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources began earlier this year to issue permits allowing importation of the species to help control nuisance vegetation in ponds and small lakes. To make sure the grass carp doesn't reproduce and begin gobbling up every plant in sight, Fish and Wildlife allows only limited stocking of grass carp that have been genetically altered to be infertile.

June Hudson, commissioner of another Tourism Cabinet agency, the Department of Parks, learned about a Fish and Wildlife pilot project at a lake in Jefferson county and was eager to try it out for several small park lakes.

"We use herbicides to keep vegetation under control, but they're expensive and they have to be applied several times a season," Hudson said. "We see this approach as being more economical."

In early July, the Department of Parks stocked 348 carp at General Butler State Resort Park's lake. If all goes well, the fish will make a noticeable difference in the amount of plant life by the end of the summer season, and will have cleared the pond of most water weeds by the beginning of next summer.

After assessing the success of the General Butler stocking, the Parks Department might stock lakes at John James Audubon State Park and Pennyville Forest State Resort Park, perhaps as early as the spring of 1987.

The Anableps, or four-eyed fish, has only two eyes, according to The World Book Encyclopedia, but they serve a dual purpose. The upper half allows the fish to see for some distance above water and the lower half, different in structure, allows the fish to see under water.

IT'S A RECORD!

"Aerobie" Holds Record For Hand-Thrown Objects: 1,125 Feet

The record for throwing the discus is 235 feet 9 inches; for tossing a frisbee, 456 feet; for javelin throwing, 343 feet 10 inches; for throwing an Aerobie ring, 1,125 feet.

Adler warms up before tossing 12 Aerobies across Thames River in London.

On a Thursday afternoon in April this year, California engineer Alan Adler, 48, stood on a bank of the Thames River in London. At his feet was a pile of four-ounce, 13-inch-diameter orange plastic rings. After a few warmup throws, he tossed 12 of them to the opposite shore, more than 425 feet away—almost the length of six Olympic swimming pools.

That evening, by special invitation, Adler addressed the distinguished Royal Aeronautical Society in London on the unusual design of the "astonishing flying ring" he invented last year, the Aerobie.

Adler's trans-Thames throws broke no distance records. That distinction belongs to California college student and six-time Frisbee world champion Scott Zimmerman. A year ago Zimmerman stood at midfield in the Rose Bowl stadium in Pasadena and tossed 24 Aerobies out into the parking lot. Later, Zimmerman threw several more Aerobies, trying for distance. One traveled a certified 1,125 feet, more than a fifth of a mile! He and the Aerobie are credited in the new Guinness Book of World Records for the longest throw of any heavier-than-air object.

The average person shouldn't be intimidated by such astronomical distances, however, Adler says. He gets thousands of letters from enthusiastic throwers all over the world, ranging from small children to grandmothers. His favorite: "When a Frisbee dreams, it dreams it's an Aerobie," wrote MIT student Peter Weyrauch. And as John Cassidy, author of "The Aerobie Book" put it: "The best thing of all about the Aerobie is that it has brought a quality game of catch within reach of everyone."

Alan Adler, who lives in Palo Alto where he is on the Stanford University engineering school faculty, spent nearly ten years developing his airborne Aerobie, with help from his trusty computer. Last year he formed Superflight, Inc. to manufacture and market them. Over a million have since been sold.

Says Adler: "The first man, woman or child to throw an Aerobie 1,200 feet (verified), will win $1,000 cash." They're sold in sporting goods, toy, gift and campus stores here and abroad.

(Reproduced below is page 3 of the nineteenth issue of The Floyd County Times, published Oct. 21, 1927)

FOR GOVERNOR

Flem D. Sampson

Floyd county voters should vote for him because he is for:

- 1. Free text books for the school children of Kentucky.
- 2. Will appoint a member of the State Highway Commission from the Big Sandy valley, thus assuring them of the early grading and paving of their roads.
- 3. Will urge the Legislature to pass a bill providing for the establishment of a Normal school in the Big Sandy valley.
- 4. The State Federation of Labor has endorsed him, as well as the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, because he has proven himself to be the real friend of labor.
- 5. He is opposed to a tonnage tax on coal, and the coal men have no doubt as to his position in this respect.
- 6. He is a mountain man and knows the needs of the mountain people.

Thus the citizens of Floyd county will be serving their country in the truest sense, by voting for him on November 8.

ROAD WORK PROMISED

County Judge Butcher, Magistrates Jayne and Burgess, and ex-County Judge Beecher Stapleton went to Frankfort Sunday and spent Monday and Tuesday before the State Highway Commission in an effort to straighten out road problems of Johnson county. This they succeeded in doing and Johnson county will fare well in the matter of roads. Some wonderful things were accomplished by the delegation.

The commission will order the contractor today to begin work on surfacing from the C. and O. depot to Dawkins. The road is to be of concrete construction and is to be completed within one month. At the slip in the road which has been the bone of contention, there will be a fill made and covered with crushed stone. The commission will start work of driving large pipes which will be filled with concrete which will make the slip as good as any other part of the road.

Details were worked out for surfacing the Garrett Highway to Salyersville and the contractor ordered to begin work, and they claim the work will be completed by Christmas. Two large rock crushers have been ordered shipped to Paintsville and the work will be under way the coming week.

Positive assurance was received from the commission that the contract on the Martin county road would be let February 1. Johnson county has already paid in full on the road to the Martin county line, likewise its share for paving the road to Salyersville.

Never in the history of the county was the road situation in better condition. The Johnson county delegation said the commission was anxious to have our roads completed, and that 1928 would see the Mayo Trail paved through the county.

$50,000 was set aside for the road to Flat Gap and Red Bush, with indications pointing to its construction next year.

SAMUEL CASSADY DIES

Mr. Samuel Cassady, uncle of Mrs. M. C. Kirk, and a resident of Kenova, W. Va., died at his home last Wednesday morning, October 5, after a lingering illness of several months' duration. Mr. Cassady formerly lived in Martin county, where he was born and reared, but moved to Kenova a few years ago, where he resided till he died. He was taken back to his old home in Martin county, where his remains were interred Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock a. m. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Lotta Cassady, and the following children to mourn his loss:

Mrs. Reuben Crum, Mrs. Wm. A. Ward, Miss Lucretia Cassady, Mrs. W. A. Cumbo, Mrs. George Kirby, Mrs. Pack, Mrs. Gladys Frith, Garfield Cassady, William Cassady, Milton Cassady.

Dr. J. R. Fairchild, Rev. James Booth and Rev. C. C. Cline officiated at the funeral services.

WOULD SUPPLY TOWNS

The Kentucky Electric Development Company, located at Louisville, Ky., intends to supply Salyersville, Oil Springs and Royaltown with electric service, which means that not only these towns but farmers living along the route will be served with electric service for light and power.

Walter C. Fuller, representing the company, is now on the ground making the preliminary arrangements for the new line which will connect with the Kentucky and West Virginia Power Company's line at Paintsville.

PAINTSVILLE WINS

On Saturday, October 8, the well-known Tiger bunch of the Paintsville High School journeyed to Jenkins and took into their den the Jenkins Elks, in a well-played game of football, and did so in a clever manner by the score of 15-6.

MARTIN CITIZENS BENEFIT

Martin county people are now making connection with the trains at White House. The road is graded from the Johnson county line to Inez. Last week the road was repaired from the Martin county line to White House, and cars are now making regular trips to that point.

PERSONALS

Mosley-Williamson Wed

Lenville and Phyllis Mosley, of McDowell, announce the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Mosley to Mr. Michael Williamson, son of Juanita and Billy Williamson of Morehead. Given in marriage by her father in a double ring ceremony June 14, the bride wore a full length gown of white satin and lace. The bridesmaid was Vicky Mosley, of McDowell, sister of the bride, and the brother of the groom, Billy Williamson, of Morehead, served as best man. Flower girl was Amanda Wright, daughter of John and Sherree Wright, of Hunter. Ringbearer was Carlton Mosley, son of Carl and Patsy Mosley, of McDowell.

The ceremony was performed by the Reverend Rodney Mosley at the Pine Grove Baptist Church at Price.

The bride is the granddaughter of Rose and Bailey Mosley, of Emma. The couple are residing at Morehead, where they will attend Morehead State University in the fall.

14th Annual Picnic Slated For Patients

The 14th Annual Mental Health-Mental Retardation, Eastern State Hospital, community picnic will be held at Jenny Wiley State Park, Dewey Dam, Shelter No. 3, July 30, from 10 till 2 o'clock.

Groups from the five-county area served by Mountain Comprehensive Care Center will attend as well as relatives of the Eastern State Hospital patients who are able to be present.

Local church groups, representatives from various agencies and interested citizens participate with staff from MCCC and Eastern State Hospital to hold this annual event.

KIMBLER REUNION

The Kimbler family will have a reunion Sunday, Aug. 3rd, at Chief Logan State Park, shelter #3 across from the old railroad engine, Rt. 10, north of Logan at Henlawson.

Akers Family Reunion Held at Grethel, July 4

The Akers family reunion was held at the home of Berry and Lexie Akers, of Grethel, July 4th weekend. All six of their children and their families attended. They are Hershel and Ann Akers, of Amherst, Ohio; Janice and Bill Connor, of Huron, Ohio; Buddy and Sandi Akers, of Lorain, Ohio; Charles and Vernice Akers, of Berlin Heights, Ohio; Jurlene Hall, of Collins, Ohio, and John M. and Shirley Hamilton, of Grethel.

Everyone enjoyed visiting and talking with each other. Plenty of food was served and enjoyed.

The weather was really hot, and several went swimming to cool off.

Games were played including horse shoes and yard darts. The younger ones played basketball and took turns riding the four wheelers.

After all the food, fun and games, the evening of July 4th was ended with lots of fireworks.

Others attending the reunion were Paul, Alicia and Ryan Kleinfelter, of Kenton, Ohio; Mark Akers, of Amherst, Ohio; Chad and Jennifer Akers, of Lorain, Ohio; Donnie, Brenda and Brandon Hall, of Grethel; Pat, Joey and Michael Ortiz, of Lorain, Ohio; Donna and Joey Csizmedia, of Elyria, Ohio; Dwayne, Ida, Jessica, Megan, Terry, Cheryl, Melissa, Michelle and Jennifer Hall, of Collins, Ohio; Revis and Wanda Carroll, Carmel Lee Akers, Shadrick, Arietta and Michelle Hall, Orville and Josephine Frasure, all of Grethel; Freeman and Josephine Branham, of Honaker; Barbara Clark Newman, of Grethel, and Hubert and Lou Ellen Hall, of Galveston.

All out-of-state relatives spent the weekend with their parents and grandparents, Berry and Lexie Akers.

They returned to their homes Sunday, July 6.

Sears Plays Leading Role In Ky. Economy

As it celebrates its 100th anniversary, Sears, Roebuck and Co. credits much of its success to a healthy balance of trade developed within states like Kentucky.

The company Richard W. Sears started when he sold his first watches from a North Redwood, Minn. railroad station in 1886 has become the world's largest retailer and a major provider of financial, insurance and real estate services.

Sears said its growth reflects its commitment to the cities and communities in which it does business.

"Sears has always realized that it can play an important role in cities and communities nationwide. By helping create strong, vibrant local economies, we can develop a unique balance of trade that not only benefits the community but also our company," said Edward A. Brennan, chairman and chief executive of Sears, Roebuck and Co.

Last year, 90 percent of goods and services sold by Sears Merchandise Group were purchased from U.S. companies. "This encourages the growth of local companies, which in turn provides employment, produces increased consumer purchasing power and leads to increased tax revenues for community services—all of which benefit the manufacturer, community residents and Sears," he said.

In Kentucky, 74 companies provided $443,075,000 worth of merchandise for Sears in 1985.

Sears today is made up of five businesses: Sears Merchandise Group, Allstate Insurance Group, Coldwell Banker Real Estate Group, Dean Witter Financial Services Group and Sears World Trade, Inc. Worldwide the company employs some 466,000, including more than 300,000 in the Sears Merchandise Group in the United States.

In Kentucky last year, Sears employed 3,196 residents, paid $16,081,693 in state and local taxes and operated 171 stores, offices and other facilities.

Kentucky is home to 5,030 shareholders, who owned 1,555,366 shares of Sears stock at the end of 1985. That includes 1,946 members of the company's employee profit sharing fund, who own 503,176 shares of Sears stock.

Allstate handled claims totaling $44,213,000 for Kentucky individuals and businesses for all lines of insurance.

Dean Witter last year helped the state and local governments raise funds for schools, hospitals, transportation and other services by managing or co-managing $12,000,000 worth of bond issues in Kentucky. Nationally, the brokerage firm underwrote $7.9 billion in municipal offerings.

Also, Allstate invested $124,321,000 in municipal bonds issued by the state and local governments here.

In 1985, Coldwell Banker Real Estate Group operated a total of 1,600 offices nationally.

Some 2,700 banks and savings and loans had deposits from Sears business groups in 1985.

Vets Questions & Answers

Q—I served six months of active duty with the National Guard. Am I eligible for VA medical benefits?

A—National Guard members are only entitled to VA medical benefits if they have a disease or injury which was incurred or aggravated in the line of duty while on active training.

Q—I understand there has been a reduction in VA education benefits. Does this apply to my educational assistance allowance?

A—The Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act, which became law in December 1985, has reduced money available to pay educational assistance. As a result the VA has reduced the amounts payable for persons eligible for benefits under the Educational Assistance Allowance Program and the Dependents' Educational Assistance program. The reduced educational assistance applies to training from March 1, 1986 through September 30, 1986.

National Org. Tells Agoraphobia Victims: "You're Not Alone"

Heart racing, butterflies in her stomach, trembling and dizzy, Cindy McP. steps out the front door of her house. Like a caveman confronting a saber tooth tiger, or a soldier going into battle, Cindy is experiencing the normal physiological reactions of fear. But there are no tigers at her doorstep, or enemy army marching down her street. Instead, Cindy is simply going to the grocery store. What can turn an ordinary shopping trip into a cause for major panic?

Agoraphobia is an intense, unrealistic fear of many different places or situations. The person with agoraphobia tries to avoid these situations, and gradually restricts life to "safe" places. Some sufferers have been unable to leave the house for years, since home is the only "safe" place to them. Others can go places only when accompanied by a family member or trusted friend. A crowded place, such as market, church, or theater, is a particularly common site for panic attacks. Thus Cindy is not alone in her fear of grocery shopping. Like many of us with agoraphobia, she feels ashamed of her reactions, and imagines that she is the only person with such a "silly" fear. She is not alone.

It has been estimated that two out of every hundred people have agoraphobia or fear reactions severe enough to restrict their daily lives. Sitting at home by ourselves, with family who have not themselves experienced a panic attack, we begin to feel that we are freaks. Realizing that we are not alone is the first step in overcoming agoraphobia. Hearing about the progress others have made is encouraging and gives hope that there is an escape from our self-imposed isolation.

The National Agoraphobia Network newsletter reports on the latest progress in treating this condition, and provides a communication link with other people with agoraphobia. Membership is $5 a year. For information, please send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to National Agoraphobia Network, Box 1708, Twentynine Palms, Ca., 92277.

FAME

A three-hour documentary that was easy to sell?

By Lynn Hoogenboom

Documentaries, almost anyone in the business will tell you, are among the hardest things to sell to the TV networks.

The culprit is the shrinking American attention span. The networks feel, with some justification, that the public would prefer to take its news in small digestible bites — in five-minute chunks on the evening news or in comfortable 20-minute segments on "magazine" shows, such as "60 Minutes" or "20/20."

A three-hour documentary, such as ABC's "After the Sexual Revolution," which airs Wednesday, July 30, on ABC, is an unusual event. What's even more unusual is that Pamela Hill, vice president and executive producer for the ABC News "Closeup" documentary unit that put together the project, claims that she had no trouble selling it to ABC.

"The news department liked it immediately and bought it immediately," she says. "Then they accepted my recommendation that it be three hours."

She credits the subject matter for the easy sell. "Everybody's so naturally interested in this subject," she says.

The subject, of course, is the unexpected changes that have been wrought by the woman's movement and the sexual revolution. The documentary's conclusion is that economic factors have played a major role in a lot of the changes that have taken place.

"It is our premise that economic gains for women as they entered the work force in a time of expanding economy in the late '50s really set the stage for the women's movement and the drive for sexual liberation," says Hill. "In a revolution, there is always that period of rising expectations. And as women had more earning power, they then began to exert other demands."

Economics also play a major role in the rising number of married women working today. "It takes two incomes to have what you used to earn at an earlier time on one income," Hill says. "A large percentage of women are working to help support their families and are not really on a serious career path."

And it is these women who are still getting the short end of the stick. "Women who have made serious career commitments have made real economic gains," says Hill. "But there's a real gap thing between the women at the top and the broad group of women who are working to support families. They have been some gains, but for the average working woman those gains are offset by the fact that husbands don't help in the house. They're working two jobs."

The more things change, the more they remain the same.

RUTHLESS PEOPLE (R-Touchstone Films) Starring Danny DeVito, Bette Midler, Judge Reinhold. ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

The heroes of "Ruthless People" are two kidnapers, Sandy and Ken Kessler. We root for them. They're ruthless, sure, but they were driven to it by the extreme ruthlessness of others. They're nice kidnapers.

The truly ruthless people are everyone else in the movie. They range from Sam Stone, the spandex miniskirt king who is trying to murder his wife, to his mistress Carol, who is planning to blackmail him after he commits the crime. Along the depraved wayside lay corrupt salesmen, a wandering homicidal maniac and a police commissioner who hires ladies of the evening.

This motley crew brews up a noxious mixture of crime and comedy in as black and broad a farce as has come down the road in quite a while.

Danny DeVito is the nastiest of the villains as the snarling husband to Bette Midler's upscale shrewish wife. It seems he married her for her money — specifically, for the inheritance she would get when her father died. He expected that event to take place within a few months of their marriage, but it has taken 15 long years. Now he's ready to do in his wife, but before he has a chance, she's kidnapped. When the kidnapers call and ask for a ransom, he's delightfully disinterested.

The half-hearted kidnapers are two people DeVito stepped on during his climb to the top, and their bungling is compounded by DeVito's joy at the thought of his wife's demise. It all breaks loose when Midler finds out about his plan and joins forces with the kidnapers in some very funny scenes.

Like all good farces, one good turn deserves another, and there are several along the way. DeVito is fine as the diminutive slimy husband, but when Bette Midler gets cooking as the kidnapped and estranged victim ... well, never underestimate the power of a Midler scorned.

"Ruthless People" is slow to start, but as the situations get more ridiculous, and Midler lets loose, it becomes great high-flying fun.

AFTER THE SEXUAL REVOLUTION

Peter Jennings anchors a three-hour ABC News "Closeup" documentary, "After the Sexual Revolution," which examines the changes that have evolved since the sexual revolution and the women's movement turned the world upside-down. It airs WEDNESDAY, JULY 30.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application
Number 836-6021

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that T & K Mining Company, Box 139, Hippo, Ky. 41637, has filed an application for a permit for a stockpile area, crusher and loading coal processing facility affecting 2.0 acres located 1.0 mile southeast of Bosco in Floyd county.

The proposed facility is approximately 1 1/4 mile north from KY 7's junction with KY 777 and located adjacent to Right Fork of Beaver Creek. The latitude is 37° 29' 29". The longitude is 82° 49' 58". The surface area is owned by Tedco, Inc. and C & O Railway.

The proposed facility is located on the Wayland U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The operation will affect an area within 100' of KY 7. The operation will not involve relocation of the public road.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41643. Written comments, objections or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

NOTICE OF BLASTING SCHEDULE

L & B Mining, P.O. Box 70, Banner, Ky. 41602, shall conduct blasting operations on its 4.10 acre deep mining permit, application number 836-5101. Said operation is located approximately 0.7 miles south of State Route 1929 junction with Hall Fork Road. Latitude is 37° 26' 26". Longitude is 82° 43' 38". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by Barry Stumbo.

Blasting hours will be daily Monday through Saturday from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., and 4:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. Any major change in the hours will be published in the local newspaper. No blasting will be done before sunrise or after sunset unless an emergency exists. Unscheduled blasting may occur in emergency situations where lightning, rain, other atmospheric condition or the safety of the operator or public requires unscheduled detonation. Control of the blasting area will be maintained by blocking access roads to the blasting area ten (10) minutes prior to the blast. Post detonation access to the blasting will be allowed only after an inspection and determination that no hazards exist.

Warning devices will be air blast horns and/or sirens audible over a distance of one half mile. Three long blasts of the air horn/siren will be used as a preliminary warning. After personnel have been cleared from the area and just prior to detonation of explosives, one additional long blast will be sounded. Personnel are to remain in "clear" areas until areas are checked for fired or burning holes. After a satisfactory check, an all clear signal will be given by sounding a series of short blasts on the air horn/siren.

The preceding notice is published pursuant to CRF 715.19, Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Provisions and KRS 350.220 and the regulations relating thereto. Kentucky Permit Number 836-5101

ORDINANCE NO. 1986-002

AN ORDINANCE RELATING TO FLOOD DAMAGE PREVENTION IN WHEELWRIGHT, KENTUCKY.

Be it ordained by the City of Wheelwright, Kentucky, as follows:

This Ordinance provides for the restriction and prohibition of uses of property which would be dangerous to the health, safety or property of persons due to water and/or erosion, and requires that uses which are vulnerable to flooding be protected against flood damage at the time of original construction. The Ordinance further provides for the control of the alteration of natural flood plains, and streams, and has provisions controlling the filling, grading, dredging, or other development in flood plains which may increase erosion or flood damage. Further, the Ordinance prevents and regulates the construction of flood barriers which will unnaturally divert flood waters or may increase flood hazards.

This Ordinance defines the lands to which the Ordinance will apply, and contains provisions concerning penalties for the violation of the Ordinance, which penalties may be fines or imprisonment. The Ordinance provides for how it will be administered, including the establishment of development permits. The Ordinance sets standards in all areas of special flood hazards, and specifies what those standards are.

JOE STEWART, Mayor
Wheelwright, Ky.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application No. 036-5148

(1) In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Mink Branch Coal Co., Inc., Rt. 2, Box 434, Craynor, Kentucky 41614, has filed an application for a major revision to existing permit no. 036-5148. This existing operation affects a surface disturbance of 3.8 acres located 0.5 miles east of Craynor in Floyd County, Kentucky.

(2) The existing operation is located on Mink Branch of Mud Creek approximately 1.0 miles south from the junction of KY 979 and Mink Branch Road. The latitude is 37-26-14. The longitude is 82-39-47.

(3) The existing operation is located on the McDowell U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area disturbed is owned by Mink Branch Coal Co., Inc. No additional disturbance is proposed. The operation does not involve the relocation of a public road.

(4) The purpose of this major revision is to request an approximate original contour variance due to remining and includes a post mining land use change from the pre-mining undeveloped to the post-mining pastureland.

(5) This application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Nuclear Medicine Week

MARY HUDKINS, assistant Technical Director of Radiology, explains the Nuclear Medicine Department to a group of elementary students.

National Nuclear Medicine Week will be observed July 27-August 2 at Highlands Regional Medical Center. The event, backed by a presidential proclamation is being sponsored by the Society of Nuclear Medicine. The goal of the event is to heighten public awareness of the progress made by nuclear medicine in diagnosis and treatment of disease.

Nuclear Medicine, according to Mary Hudkins, assistant technical director of radiology over nuclear medicine at HRMC, is the use of diagnostic amounts of radioactive material for the purpose of imaging organ functions or structure.

This is not a new procedure. It began approximately 40 years ago, but has progressed greatly since the late 60's when NASA began developing the technology for use in the space program. Since that time Nuclear Medicine has been perfected into a safe, accurate type of diagnosis with only a minimum of discomfort.

This testing involves injecting a small amount of Radiation into the patient. This injection can make the operations of certain organs visible with the use of a special camera.

A few of the most common organs tested are the heart, lungs, liver, kidneys and thyroid. The entire test takes a maximum of 60 minutes, during which the patient is required to lie still on a table.

The dose of radiation is so small that it is eliminated from the body in 24 hours by normal bodily waste removal. It is safe for everyone except pregnant women.

Highlands Regional Medical Center is equipped with the most up to date nuclear medical facilities and staff.

The nuclear medical department has been a part of HRMC since 1973.

He was an auxiliary operator with the Yankee Atomic Electric Company, in Rowe, Mass., where he had been employed for the past 12 years. He was the founder of the Berkshire Boiler Workers Energy Efficacy, Inc., in North Adams, Mass., and was president of the corporation at the time of his death. He was also a member of the Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks, Wilmington Del., and the American Legion in Pownal, Vermont.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by two sons, Christopher Gene Newsome, of Ashfield, Mass., and Carl Hampton Newsome, of Clarksburg, Mass.; a sister, Helen Ruth Brabant, of Exeter, N.H.; five brothers, Larry Newsome, of Beaver, Grant Newsome and Daniel Newsome, both of Teaberry, Robert Fletcher, of Northampton, N.H., and Roland Fletcher, of Epping, N.H.

Funeral services were held July 1 at the Flynn and Dagnoli-Montagna Funeral Home with the Rev. Lafayette H. Sprague, Jr., officiating. Burial was made in the Southview cemetery, North Adams, Massachusetts.

Veterans' Counselor Scheduled To Visit

Jack D. Clark, field veterans benefit counselor of the Kentucky Center for Veterans Affairs will be in Prestonsburg, on August 6, in the National Guard Armory, from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of a loving father and grandfather, L.J. Music, who was born July 27, 1907 and who died May 26, 1986.

NEVER GONE

Visions of times with you flash now through my mind.

Your gentle smile I can longer find. Although you have passed away, My memories of you with me shall stay. The time you made me a fishin' pole from a stick and line.

Just so I could pretend to be the fishin' kind.

Seeing you so proud in your garden patch.

Your enthusiasm no one could ever match.

Watching you nurture your flower garden.

Your boasting of their beauty I could always pardon.

Memories of Christmas joy.

You always tried to pick the perfect toy.

Seeing you sitting on the front porch enjoying the rain.

These memories are of pleasure, not pain.

I know that you will forever live, Because these memories to my children I will give.

And as I tell them of my love for you, They will tell their children too.

So in memories you will live on. Never forgotten, never gone.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my beloved husband, Bennie Tackett, a wonderful father and the greatest papa, wed July 26, 1963.

Today would be our anniversary twenty-three years, we wed. It seems like only yesterday the exchange of I do's were said.

Our life together, we were so happy I always thought there would be more, never thinking our days were numbered for me and you, time would close the doors.

I'm so thankful for the time we had but I'm greedy, I wanted more I thought we would grow old together but, this is now that was before.

One year ago we had each other. Oh, how happy we were back then, but, today I walk alone, I loved you so, I love you Ben.

CAN FUNERALS BE ADAPTED?

As funeral directors, we provide and carry out the arrangements for funeral services. Many traditional funerals are very similar to one another. But it is also our responsibility to provide services that allow each bereaved family and group of friends to best express their grief and to honor the deceased.

For example, an atheist or agnostic may request that non-sectarian music be played at his funeral. The deceased may have had a favorite poem, or scriptural passage; this, too, can be included in the services. The funeral is a highly personal ceremony, as individual as the person it honors.

There are important and meaningful differences in rituals among the various religious denominations. These must be respected according to the wishes of you and your clergyman. Veteran and fraternal orders may call for inclusion of their rituals. All these adaptations we respect in providing a truly personal funeral.

We can accommodate your wishes in planning a funeral. It's a matter of sitting down and discussing your plans. Please call us or stop by if you would like more information.

FINANCIAL PLANNING

INSURANCE PREMIUMS (What's Next?)

Insurance premiums are on the rise. There's a lot of finger-pointing by various factions of the business world as to where the problem lies. There isn't much the average person can do to influence the premiums, so what can be done?

You can have your agent shop for an underwriter with lower premiums. This may save you a few dollars, but a specified type of coverage is likely to have a similar price tag even from different companies.

The real money to be saved may be in redesigning the type of coverage you're buying. Increase the deductible on your various policies to reduce the premiums. Increasing the deductibility on your homeowner's policy from $100 to $250 can decrease your premium by as much as 15%. Increasing the waiting period on your disability policy from 30 days to 6 months can cut your premiums almost by half.

Medical insurance policies that have first dollar coverage are more expensive than policies that pay none of the first thousand dollars of expenses. In tailoring your policy coverage to fit your budget, don't put yourself in jeopardy by cancelling coverage on the large dollar items. Most of us can afford to pay for a broken leg but few of us can pay the medical bills associated with a heart attack or cancer treatments.

You might consider dropping insurance on items that would not cause financial hardship in the event of casualty. If you currently carry insurance on jewelry, antiques, and other such personal effects, you will cut your premium dollars by excluding them from your policy.

If you have enough accumulated assets, you may choose to "self-insure." This can be very risky and should only be done with input from your professional advisors. Contact your insurance agent for a review of your policies.

Dotson Graduates

Navy Hospitalman John M. Dotson, whose wife, Trina, is the daughter of James Houston, of Prestonsburg, was graduated from Field Medical Service School.

During the five-week course at Marine Corps Base Camp Lejeune, N.C., Dotson was prepared for duty with Marine Corps combat units as a naval hospital corpsman and dental technician. Dotson studied the fundamentals of battlefield survival, personal protective measures, and received instructions on basic tactics and the use of weapons for self-defense.

He is a 1984 graduate of Prestonsburg High School.

Hopkins Family Reunion
Slated at Allen, Aug. 3

The Hopkins family reunion will be held Aug. 3, in the Convention Center at the Allen Park in Allen, Ky. Registration will begin at 10 a.m. Bring a covered dish dinner and drinks. Plan to spend the day with your relatives; descendants of James Calloway and Mary Elizabeth Hopkins.

For further information, contact Denver Osborne, 377-6772. 7-16-31.

AFTER 44 YEARS HERE, the Thomas Hereford store on First Street will close its doors forever. Manager David Hereford, above, says the store will remain open only until the merchandise now in the store is sold.

Tree Sales Suggested
As Fundraising Idea

Local organizations interested in fund-raising can now sell trees through a program offered by the National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization.

Clubs, churches, school and scout groups, and other organizations can sell trees in their community and make a profit of $1.25 on each tree sold.

The trees available, red maple, black walnut, weeping willow, sugar maple, purpleleaf plum, thornless honeylocust, tuliptree and pin oak, are each 2-3 feet tall and cost the customer $3.50 each.

"Along with being a very profitable fundraiser, selling trees will serve as a valuable community-improvement and beautification project," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director, said. "The Foundation will mail the trees directly to the customer's home address this fall. The local sponsoring organization never has to handle the trees. We will include complete planting instructions and a guarantee that the trees will grow next spring—or we replace them free."

To allow for delivery of trees this fall, organizations should plan their sales promotions for July, August and September.

There is still time to organize sales promotions this summer. All sales materials are provided free of charge by the Foundation. Organization representatives can obtain information about the program, including sample sales materials, by writing to: FUND-RAISING TREES, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410.

Graduates From F.S.U.

Deborah Dawn Hall, daughter of Jerry and Phyllis Hall of Conyers, recently graduated from Florida State University with bachelor of science degrees in communications and economics. She was graduated summa cum laude in both degree programs.

Miss Hall will attend the University of Virginia Law School this fall.

A 1982 graduate of Heritage High School, she was Most Outstanding Student in both communications and business, a member of Kappa Delta Sorority, and she won the Highest GPA Award for her chapter. Other memberships included Phi Kappa Phi honor society, and executive cabinet of the Student Government Association.

She served as public relations chairman for Greek Week at FSU which raised more money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association than any other school in the nation.

Miss Hall spent the fall semester of her senior year studying and traveling in Great Britain and Europe (France, Italy, Switzerland, Austria, West Germany and Wales).

She is the granddaughter of John Graham and Hester Hall, of Banner, and Younger Hunt, of Mouthcard, Ky.

HRMC Diabetes Class

A "Living Well With Diabetes" class is being offered at Highlands Regional Medical Center. The class is scheduled for July 31 at 6:00 p.m. in the Floyd Room. The class is free.

The session will feature the topics of diabetic meal planning, exercise, urine testing, and home blood glucose testing. During the class you will have the opportunity to ask any questions related to diabetes. Experts will discuss diabetic skin, foot and mouth care, medications, complications and how to stay in good control.

To find out more about the program, call Sue Wilkerson, director of food services at Highlands Regional Medical Center, 886-8511 or 789-6548 (ext. 546).

Decorators recommend you always place furniture either on or off a rug, never half on and half off.

July Health Tip...

Grief Needs Time to Heal

By GWEN HALL,
Public Relations Consultant
Our Lady of the Way Hospital

Time alone can't heal the pain, confusion and hurt you feel when a loved one dies. But time is necessary for the healing and renewal the grieving process can bring.

C.M. Parker, a grief therapist, suggests that the pain of grief is the price we have to pay for love.

Father Arnaldo Pangrazzi, a hospital chaplain, says, "No one can take away our pain because no one can take away our love." Pangrazzi says grief's "call to life is to learn to love... again."

Learning to love again is a task Pangrazzi likens to the Hebrews' 40-year journey through the desert. These are the suggestions he offers to help us become "better people" instead of "bitter people."

1) TAKE TIME TO ACCEPT DEATH. Denial is the most normal response to the death of a loved one.

You may feel that it's just a bad dream; you wait for the nightmare to disappear by listening for your loved one's voice. The fantasy is anesthetic-like and funeral arrangements are made numbly.

When reality finally sinks in, you are confronted with your vulnerability and mortality. You may feel guilty and depressed. You learn firsthand what it means to be helpless, lonesome and hurting.

Your loved one is dead; you must go on with life.

2) TAKE TIME TO LET GO. Pangrazzi says "Letting go reminds us that we are not in control of life... often we try to play God because it can be so painful to be human... Letting go occurs when we are able to endure and accept the feelings... that accompany death... when we are able to tolerate the helplessness and insecurity, when we are willing to face the fears, to wait, trust and hope again."

3) TAKE TIME TO MAKE DECISIONS. Wait to make major decisions. Begin with small ones, like scheduling your day. Successful decision-making helps you re-gain control over your life and increases your self-confidence.

4) TAKE TIME TO SHARE. Having someone to share the pain is the bereaved person's greatest need. Well-meaning friends can be insensitive, especially if they are strangers to grief. Children may offer little comfort because they tend to look forward.

In the early stages of grief, the past, not the future, remains the source of comfort. Trusted friends, who can look backward with you and accept you where you are, can be mighty helpful. So can others who are themselves grieving because they enable you to understand that your experience is normal and that there are different ways of coping.

5) TAKE TIME TO BELIEVE. Finding meaning in your suffering enables you to survive and endure it. It also binds you to others who are suffering and deepens your compassion. Grief can shake the very roots of your faith. Religion doesn't take away your grief but, through an awareness of God's presence, helps you live with it.

6) TAKE TIME TO FORGIVE. Owning and expressing anger is necessary, says Pangrazzi, but anger can be destructive and alienating if you neglect to find the strength, through time, to forgive yourself and others, to forgive life for hurting you, and to forgive death for taking your loved one.

7) TAKE TIME TO FEEL GOOD ABOUT YOURSELF. Grief confronts you with your shortcomings, failings and dependencies. Be patient with yourself. Allow time to learn new skills and make mistakes. You will grow beyond the person you used to be and become more confident about your new self.

Work, exploring new interests, developing hobbies, and travel can help you satisfactorily re-invest your energies.

8) TAKE TIME TO MEET NEW FRIENDS. Interaction with others eases loneliness. Old friends offer security and comfort; new friends open opportunities. Dating can be helpful if it reminds you that you are liked and appreciated. But compulsive involvements or remarriage are dangerous if they are efforts to stop the pain and hurting.

9) TAKE TIME TO LAUGH. Laughter helps us survive by helping us to re-enter life. Smile as you remember. Laugh at your mistakes. Learn to accept your limitations and draw hope for the present as the intensity and frequency of tears lessen.

10) TAKE TIME TO GIVE. The loneliness and pain of others can draw you away from your grief. It reminds you that life goes on and that you are needed. It takes you away from self-pity.

Learning to love again takes time, but it's an investment worth the while. That's because love is something not even death can end!

If you have questions about grief or wish a free copy of this article, please contact: Sister Ann Koebel, Chaplain, Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Box 910, Martin, Ky. 41649, 285-5181.

Says: TEST-DRIVE THE ALL NEW 1986 SEVILLE CADILLAC!

Seville—The New Essence of Elegance; a personal statement of success and prestige. 1986 Seville has all the attributes traditionally associated with its name, plus contemporary size, styling, improved handling, ride and responsiveness.

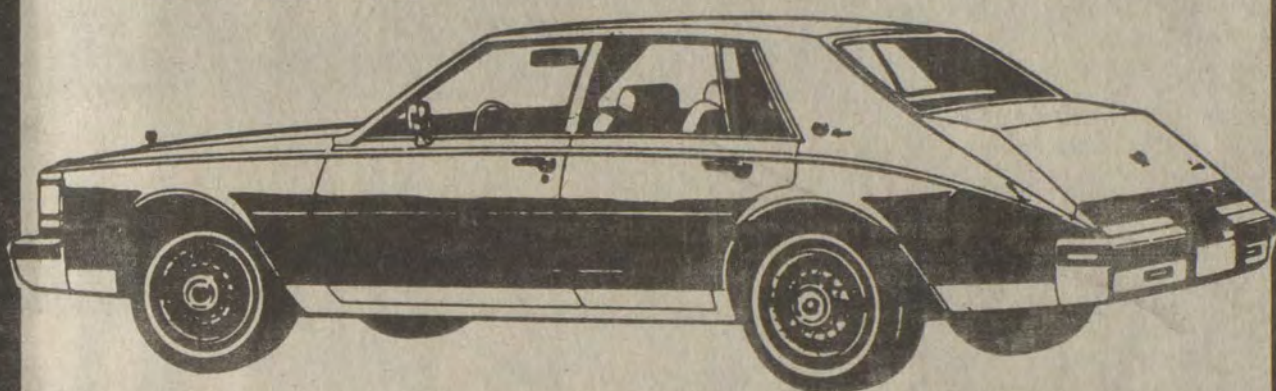

1986 Seville has a clean, functional design with lowered hood, rounded corners and flowing lines. Exclusive exterior panels and ornamentation enhance the distinctive styling.

On the road, the 1986 Seville handles magnificently. It is trim, taut and responsive with the most advanced electronics in Cadillac history. It is also the quietest Cadillac ever.

Highlighting Seville's all-new styling is the high-gloss, high-glamour finish of its clear-coat paint. Inside, Seville has new front bucket seats with Royal Prima Cloth and Sierra Grain leather. The centerpiece of the interior is a front console with fold-down armrest and storage compartments. Genuine American walnut wood adds a finishing touch to the instrument panel, steering wheel and console.

Seville Elegante is the ultimate in Seville luxury and comfort. From the "soft" contour seats to the American walnut wood that enhances even the door panels. And Elegante's driver and front passenger seats have power adjusters, recliners and lumbar support adjusters.

"See Us Today and Experience the Ultimate in Luxury"

1986 Fleetwood Brougham—The Classic Cadillac—an automobile unmistakable in touch with Cadillac traditions. A new competitive pricing strategy, combined with traditional values, results in a strong selling story for Brougham in 1986.

The new 5.0 liter V8 engine produces 140 horsepower (up from 125 horsepower in 1985) for added responsiveness, quick acceleration and passing power. Since Brougham has the longest wheelbase of any production car, it makes cruising hours on the interstate pure luxury.

Fleetwood Brougham Sedan d'Elegance offers heightened appeal for traditional luxury buyers, with additional standard features including Trunk Lid Release, Controlled Cycle Wipers, Adjustable Rear Seat Reading Lamps, Manual Front Seatback Recliner, Six-Way Power Passenger Seat Adjuster and Tufted Multi-Button Seat Trim design.

The Staff and Management of ED WALTERS Motor Car and Truck Co. is proud to announce the addition of
